Average water bill to increase by $4

By LARRY HOLLIS
News Editor

Despite a few citizens' objections, Pampa city commissioners gave final approval Tuesday night to ordinances that will increase the average residential customer's water and sewer bill by nearly $4 a month.

Ordinance No. 1084 will hike the minimum water rates based on the size of a resident's water pipeline meter. Ordinance No. 1085 increases the minimum sewer charge by $1 per month.

Both ordinances passed unanimously by a quorum of commissioners. Absent were commissioners Clyde Carruth and Joe Reed; both had voted for the ordinances on the first reading Jan. 28.

Minimum water rates for 3,000 gallons or less will rise from the previous $7.45 per month for all residential and commercial customers to varying rates based on meter size.

The minimum water charge for a 3/4-inch meter will be $8.55; a 1-inch meter, $11.12; a 1 1/2-inch meter, $15.39; and 2-inch or larger meter, $20.52. The volume rate for each additional 1,000 gallons or part thereof edges up from $1.25 to $1.28.

About 77 percent of the homes in Pampa have 3/4-inch meters, meaning the minimum monthly water charge to most homes or businesses was raised from $7.45 to $8.55 per month.

The charge for each additional unit for apartments will be $2.30, down from the previous $6.05 set for each unit under the old rates. Apartment complexes will be billed for the first unit at the residential minimum.

Minimum bill sewer rates will jump from $5.45 to $6.45 a month for both residential and commercial users, with 3,000 gallons allotted. Volume charge for each 1,000 gallons or part thereof up to a capacity of 8,000 gallons will be 48 cents, up from 15 cents.

Additional apartment units will be charged $4.19, up from $3.88.

The minimum bill for water and sewer combined will increase by about $1.90 a month. The average residential customer's monthly bill for water and sewer combined, generally exceeding the minimum rates, will increase by about $3.89 a month.

Rates for customers outside the city limits will be 150 percent of the in-city rates.

Apartment owner Ron Hendrick objected to the adjustments for apartment units, saying they would be adverse to the senior citizens occupying his 8-unit apartment building.

"We don't mind paying a fair water bill," Hendrick said, but he said he feels the new ordinance puts too much a burden on those people with fixed incomes. He claimed his new tenants would be paying much higher bills under the new ordinances, suggesting the billing should be based on the apartment having one address instead of eight units.

"We'll agree to a higher water hike," Hendrick said, but added he feels tenants should be charged "only for what is used, not for what is not used."

Commissioner Bob Curry said most apartment dwellers, even after past adjustments, still are really paying less than other residents, disputing Hendrick's figures on the bill increases.

"It's fair," he said of the apartment adjustments. "We've looked at it very thoroughly" to reach a compromise, Curry said. "Units are units, and we have to treat them in an equal manner."

Bill Campaigne, who persuaded commissioners to raise the originally lower proposed adjustments for apartment units last month, said he felt the apartment rates were now more equitable.

But he asked City Manager Bob Hart and commissioners to make billing records available after the rates are in effect to determine that "all are being charged at equal rates."

Hart said the records would be available and would be checked thoroughly during budget planning sessions.

Power outage trips Canadian

CANADIAN — More than 1,400 Canadian residents and businesses were without power for nearly 90 minutes Tuesday afternoon after a truck struck a web of power lines.

According to Canadian police reports, a truck carrying a 500-gallon tank, driven by Jimmy Chaffin of Canadian, was turning onto Panhandle Street from U.S. 83 when the tank hit a cable television wire and snapped a Southwestern Public Service utility pole.

SPS Canadian office manager Joe Jaco explained that when Chaffin's truck struck the wires, it "bounced the wires together."

The short tripped a breaker at the SPS substation and shut off electricity, Jaco said, adding that the breaker switch "operated just like it was supposed to."

The accident knocked out city traffic signals and kept residents and businesses without electricity until power was restored at 5:15 p.m. Jaco said 1,430 customers were affected.

The Hemphill County Jail and Hemphill County Hospital ran on emergency generators during the outage. About 12 residences in WHITE DEER — Former White Deer High School secretary Bertie Gallegly may have left her school job in January, but her link with education isn't severed.

The 63-year-old Gallegly has filed for Place 7 on the White Deer-Skellytown school board, school administrators confirmed Tuesday.

Gallegly, who was high school secretary for 26 1/2 years, is one of four candidates for the position, currently held by Jerry O'Neal. Joining her are Manuel Vigil, 39, Bill Lowe, 35, and Melvin Dennis, 47, all employees at Celanese, according to school board candidacy statements.

Incumbent Place 6 trustee John Kotara, a 44-year-old rancher, faces a re-election challenge from Alderman Charlie Sutterfield, 45, who chose not to seek another term with the city and from ABI employee Jay Smith.

City talks bonds

By LARRY HOLLIS
News Editor

After adopting increases for water and sewer rates, Pampa city commissioners Tuesday evening approved a notice of intention to issue revenue bonds for water and sewer system improvements.

City Manager Bob Hart explained that the commission was approving only the notice of intention, noting it does not bind the commission to the actual issuing of up to $1.4 million in bonds.

The decision on whether to issue the bonds won't be made until the April 28 meeting, he said.

The bonds would be used to pay for improvements and extensions to the city's combined waterworks and sanitary system and would include the acquisition of groundwater rights.

Money to pay off the bonds would come from a portion of the increased revenues resulting from the increased water and sewer rates (see related story).

During the discussion on the rate increases, Tampa Dougless asked how much money would be spent on the groundwater rights.

Hart said that would depend on negotiations with water rights owners. But the bonds have a cap of $1.4 million, he said, adding that he expected the groundwater acquisition to cost much less than that.

Officers grab jumper from overpass.

Officers stop suicide leap

Two Pampa police officers grabbed a 42-year-old Pampa man when he threatened to jump to his death from the Cuyler Street overpass Tuesday night.

The man, currently unemployed, was held for "protection of life" in the city jail overnight and was examined by Pampa psychologist Dr. Bin Gilbert this morning. After Dr. Gilbert's exam, the despondent man was released.

Officers Wayne Williams and Kenneth Hopson were alerted to the attempted suicide after the man walked in to police headquarters shortly after 8 p.m. He told a dispatcher that he planned to kill himself by jumping off the 20-foot railroad bridge, Lt. Jesse Wallace said this morning. The man then walked from the building to the bridge.

Wallace said the man initially didn't say why he intended to leap from the overpass.

He said the man appeared to be intoxicated.

"He had bright colors on, so we could find him if he did (try to jump)," the lieutenant noted.

Hopson and Williams arrived at the bridge, located at 700 S. Cuyler, a few minutes later and found the man on the ledge of the bridge, outside its railing, prepared to jump, reports said.

"Let's talk about it," he yelled to the officers.

As Hopson talked to the man, Williams grabbed the would-be jumper from behind. The officers yanked the man over the railing and took him into custody.

Teen-ager files for mayor's post

By LARRY HOLLIS
News Editor

An 18-year-old man entered the race for city offices Tuesday, saying he wants to fill the mayor's post to bring a new view to the city commission.

Paul Cadena, 18, an employee with Bruce and Sons, filed for the mayor's race, giving announced candidate Gene Finney, employed with a major petroleum company, an opponent for the April 4 elections.

Cadena said he decided to file because "I don't feel the city has much control" over many items, with the City Commission too often making decisions without listening to citizens.

Cadena said he doesn't think his age is a hindrance to his campaign or to serving as mayor if elected.

"I just feel we need a younger look, a younger view" in the commission, he stated. He said youth "offers a new outlook on city life," adding that youth can play "a big part in the city's growth."

Cadena said too many young people have been leaving the city, and that he would like to see some changes to make them want to stay in Pampa.

One way of doing that is to stabilize the local economy, Cadena said. "The economy needs an uplift," he said, with more jobs, businesses and industry. Improvements in the economy would help to keep more people in Pampa and get more back into the city, he added.

Cadena said he would support economic development programs for the city.

He said another of his goals is "to get some of these dirt roads paved." Cadena said too many of the dirt roads are "really hard to get through" when it rains, creating difficulties for people living on those roads.

"You can just see what these people are going through," he said.

Cadena said he also would give serious consideration to the city's reverting to well water use to improve the water quality. "I understand the wells were good before" in providing good water for residents, adding that the wells can bring back good water to Pampa.

The young man said he also supports efforts for city renovation projects and beautification to improve the city's appearance. Cadena said he supports the projects being undertaken by the Main Street Program and the anti-litter efforts of Clean Pampa Inc.

Cadena is now one of four candidates who have indicated they will seek elected city offices. In addition to Cadena and Finney, Ray Hupp is seeking the Ward 1 commissioner post and

Cadena

Joe Reed has indicated he will seek a second term as Ward 3 commissioner.

Incumbents Mayor Sherman Cowan and Ward 1 Commissioner Bob Curry have already stated they will not seek re-election.

Filing deadline for city election candidates is at 5 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 18, one week from today.

Outage

the area where the power line was struck were out of power until 7:45 p.m., Jaco added.

The outage apparently did not delay a 5 p.m. junior varsity basketball game against Wellington at Canadian High School, a CHS spokesperson said today.

SPS Pampa office manager Jim Morris said today that line workers from Miami and Pampa assisted Canadian SPS workers in repairing the lines.

"After the Canadian men untangled the wires, our crewmen cut the wires where the pole was loose... then checked the substation and energized the transformers," Morris explained. "The pole was reset back into place."

Canadian interim City Manager Dean Looper said Chaffin was cited for carrying a load that was too high and too wide.

Crews repair damaged Canadian lines.

Jaco said he is working with Pampa SPS engineers to assess damages to the pole.

He does not anticipate filing charges against the driver. "We'll just send them a bill."

City

Discussions on the purchase of groundwater rights were held during an executive session, but the commission took no action on the matter after reconvening in public session.

In other business, the commission identified and confirmed contracts for City Hall renovation and street and drainage system projects to be paid by certificates of obligation.

Hart explained the total costs for the projects exceeded the amount of approved certificates. But that included additional paving project costs that were paid by property owners' assessments of the costs, he noted.

Hart said the bond attorney was asking that a resolution be adopted to specify exactly what was covered by the certificates.

Commissioners then approved warrants of payment to Wiley Hicks Jr. Inc. for $2,094 and to Wagner and Klein Inc. for $407 for the City Hall renovation project. They also approved warrants of payment to Lewis Construction Co. for $91,276 and to Kelley Engineering for $12,601 for the street projects.

The commission also approved a change order with Lewis Construction on the street project. Hart said property owners on one street had backed out on a paving project, decreasing overall paving projects costs by approximately $10,000.

In other matters, the commission heard an annual report on the Parks and Recreation Advisory Board presented by board Chairman Duane Harp; deferred action on a contract with Rural Metro Corp. (Pampa Medical Services) for lease of property at the Pump Station No. 1 site; and deferred action on an agreement with Amarillo Credit Exchange Inc. for collection of delinquent utility accounts and parking tickets.

In the executive session, the commissioners also discussed personnel matters, including items concerning applicants for the police chief vacancy to be left by the resignation of J.J. Ryzman, which is effective Friday. No action was taken after commissioners reconvened.

Pantex closed in 1985

By The Associated Press

The Pantex nuclear weapons plant near Amarillo was closed by the Energy Department for five days in 1985 due to security lapses that included sex in the guardhouse, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today.

That information was disclosed in congressional hearing transcripts released Tuesday. The transcript said the plant, the final assembly point for the nation's nuclear weapons, was vulnerable to theft of weapons components and that plant security guards had sex in the guard towers, the newspaper said.

The testimony also detailed the simulated theft of bomb parts containing plutonium. The phony theft was planned by federal inspectors who were aided by a plant employee and the use of a pistol with a silencer that was smuggled into Pantex as a security test.

The Pantex plant, located about 20 miles east of Amarillo and about 40 miles west of Pampa, is a complex of bunkers surrounded by a chain-link fence and patrolled by guards with dogs and automatic weapons.

Security problems at the plant were uncovered during a surprise inspection in October 1985 and prompted a review of the entire security system, according to the testimony and comments from congressional sources who reviewed the classified inspection report.

In a 1986 letter to U.S. Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., chairman of the House Energy and Commerce Committee, former national security adviser John Poindexter wrote that such problems at Pantex and other facilities have been corrected.

According to the transcript, Dingell talked about Pantex guards, who were civilians working for a private security company under government contract, having sex in the guard towers.

Water

"Everyone enjoys water," Campaigne said, but he said the commission should be ready to expect complaints when water bills in some places "go up two or three times."

Commissioner David McDaniel, who announced today he would seek the mayor's post, said he has done some of his own figuring, noting he is a large user of water because of his sprinkler system. McDaniel said most bills "will go up some," but he said he doubts that many, if any, will double or triple. The major change is in the minimum billing, he noted.

Curry said the new rates represent the results of a 1 1/2 year study, including lengthy work sessions to analyze the rates.

"It's a very difficult issue," he said, but he feels it is needed to get essential water quality projects under way.

Mayor Sherman Cowan said the increases to raise revenue are aimed at improving water quality for all residents and businesses. Cowan said the improved quality will save on problems with pipelines, among other things, leading to longterm savings.

"I feel it's a great step to ensuring good water quality for 100 to 200 years," Cowan said.

Tampa Dougless disputed Curry's claims that he had made to her that Pampa's water rates were reasonable. She said "rates in Amarillo are cheaper" though there's a much larger population there.

Cowan noted Amarillo has larger sources of water supplies. In addition, the city can purchase meters and other materials in much larger volume at lower per-unit costs than smaller cities like Pampa, he said.

Gene Finney noted that Hart had said at a previous meeting that the city would replace larger meters with smaller ones for customers at no charge. He asked if that was still going to be the policy.

Cowan said the matter had been discussed at work sessions. He said customers wanting to have smaller meters could get that done at no charge. But those wanting to go back to larger meters later would be charged. Curry said standards will be set to fairly apply to everyone.

Walter Shed asked if the increased water and sewer revenues would be placed in the general fund.

Hart said the money would remain in the water and sewer fund. Any accountings of the revenue in the general fund are generally accounting procedures, he explained, to account for overhead and administrative costs for the water department, as is the case with each city department.

"No, we're not increasing the rates to put more funds into the general fund," Hart said.

Hart explained the additional revenue would be used in three main ways: (1) to pay off debts to bring the Pampa Wastewater Plant up to state and federal standards; (2) to pay any debts that might be incurred in purchasing additional groundwater supplies and related pipeline materials; and (3) to fund depreciation losses or to set up a capital reserve fund to pay cash for future capital expenses.

Shed also asked about $2 1/2 million in the 1986-1987 budget for water projects. Hart explained that figure was the top limit for future planning, adding that the actual figure "is likely to be much less," by as much as $1 million.

Vincent Flaherty suggested present wells could be cleaned up and the water made more pure. He offered to present his ideas and plans for staff study. Cowan invited him to bring the plans in for review.

Hobby, Lewis question Clements' proposed budget

AUSTIN (AP) — Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Gib Lewis say a legislative analysis of Gov. Bill Clements' proposed state budget supports their suspicions about the governor's spending plan.

"It's a little short of adding up," Lewis said Tuesday.

Hobby had similar comments, saying Clements' numbers "certainly don't" compute into a palatable solution to the budget woes.

Clements said Tuesday there is room for making changes in his proposal. But the governor repeated his vow to veto any budget that exceeds the $36.9 billion bottom line he set for 1988-89.

"The process is just beginning. There will be a lot of give and take and a lot of ideas put on the table. I have given ... a beginning and an end," Clements said at a news conference.

The comments came a day after the Legislative Budget Board released its analysis of the budget plan offered by Clements to lawmakers last Wednesday.

The analysis said Clements' plan is predicated on cuts that include potential reductions in services for the needy. The governor's proposal would give the Department of Human Services $577.2 million less than needed to maintain current services, according to the LBB analysis.

In addition to potentially cutting services to the poor, the LBB analysis said Clements' proposed budget could put the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation in violation of court-approved agreements to improve services.

The Clements plan includes continuation of the current temporary increases in the state sales and gasoline taxes. Hobby and Lewis are talking about more sweeping changes in state taxes.

It adds up to the sort of legislative deadlock that some lawmakers have predicted will mean several summer special sessions to write the budget.

"I don't know if he is going to back off," Lewis said of Clements. "He'll have a chance to examine some of those proposals and see what's realistic and what isn't. I think it's just a period of time now where he'll have to sit down and say, 'This is what's attainable and this is what's not attainable.'"

"It's going to be very difficult to do some of the things that he proposes because the revenue flow is just not there," Lewis said.

Hobby said Clements' budget would take services from the poor — "no doubt about it."

Bullock talks taxes to Senate committee

AUSTIN (AP) — The easiest way to raise taxes would be to extend temporary sales and gasoline levies, but that would only extend the problem two more years, state Comptroller Bob Bullock says.

Bullock also told the Senate Finance Commission Tuesday he is as opposed as anyone to a state income tax but "you might as well talk about it, you might as well think about it."

Louisiana next year will get about a 28 percent increase in revenue by amending its state income tax law to coincide with the new federal tax law, he said.

"But in Texas, where are we? We don't have that, we don't have a growth tax," Bullock said.

The comptroller appeared before the committee to support his request for an appropriation of nearly $218.4 million in 1988-89. The Senate spending bill proposes a dollar figure that almost matches Bullock's request.

Bullock said as a result of layoffs and job attrition during Texas' recent financial crisis, his office has lost 470 jobs the last two years.

"The one thing that has really hurt is the training program," he said. "You cannot, or I am told you cannot, take a beginning accountant out of school, throw him out into the field and have that beginning accountant audit one of the Fortune 500 or even one of the larger companies in Texas without a pretty extensive training program, which we did have."

"We do have some of it today, but it's very basic, just teaching them the basic tax laws."

Bullock discussed proposals to extend the state sales tax to services, such as those provided by lawyers, and Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, asked, "Isn't that an income tax on lawyers?"

"I know what you're talking about. I know it's got problems," Bullock responded. "I'm just saying, I don't think — first of all there ain't no money anywhere else, folks."

"Let me ask you a question," Bullock said. "Name me some taxes Texas doesn't have."

"Income tax," a committee member responded.

"There you go. Got any others?"

"Corporate profits."

"Right, and if you don't have this, which one of those do you want?"

Long gets death penalty in hatchet slayings

DALLAS (AP) — A man who said he was under satanic influences when he killed three women with a hatchet to quiet their constant haggling has been sentenced to death.

David Martin Long, who said he was possessed by demons but was not insane, was sentenced Tuesday after he previously told the state district court panel he wanted the death penalty and was afraid he would kill again.

Long, 33, was convicted Saturday of capital murder in the Sept. 27 deaths of Donna Sue Jester, 37, Dalpha Lorene Jester, 64, and Laura Lee Owen, 20, in the house they occupied in the Dallas suburb of Lancaster.

During the trial's punishment phase, defense attorneys followed Long's instructions and presented no evidence.

Lancaster police Sgt. Matthew Hunt testified Monday that Long willingly provided details about a 1978 beating of a gas station attendant in California and an arson killing in 1983 of a cable television manager in Matagorda County.

Long was the first person convicted in Dallas County under a provision that provides the death penalty for multiple or serial killings.

During the trial last week, he resisted his attorneys' attempts to build an insanity defense and showed up wearing the same western shirt and blue jeans for six days in a row.

"I'm guilty as hell," he jumped up and shouted at one point during the trial, surprising his attorneys as well as State District Judge Larry W. Baraka.

Constant arguments provoked Long to kill the three women, with whom he had been living for about a week, he told police.

He said he hacked Donna Sue Jester to death with a hatchet first, then used the tool on her elderly cousin, Dalpha Lorene Jester, and murdered Ms. Owen when she returned to the house from work.

"There was a series of complicated reactions and interactions between me and them," Long said after he was arrested in Austin in October. "I just got tired of hearing all the bickering."

Second SPS 'economic summit' set in Lubbock

Area communities will learn the results of an extensive economic development study Tuesday, Feb. 24, at a second gathering of government and business leaders in an "economic summit" sponsored by Southwestern Public Service Co.

Leaders active in economic development from throughout the four-state area served by SPS will meet in Lubbock, chosen as a meeting site because it is in the center of the SPS service territory, said Ken Vaughn, SPS public information supervisor.

The meeting is a follow-up to a similar gathering Oct. 14 at SPS's Tolk Station power plant near Muleshoe. About 200 business, city and chamber of commerce leaders attended the October meeting, including representatives from Pampa and other surrounding cities.

Since the fall meeting, a task force of 13 area civic and business leaders and a professional demographics firm have established a target list of industries suited to the characteristics of the region, Vaughn said.

"Our meeting on Feb. 24 will give communities the results of the target-industry study, which has been under way the past several months," said Bert Balenee, SPS chairman of the board and chief executive officer.

"In addition, they will be helped by preliminary results of a survey of existing industry designed to encourage the growth of firms already here," he added.

"Economic development is never an easy or quick job," Balenee noted. "But after our meeting, many of us will be able to better focus our efforts. Obtaining this information is an important step on the road to economic diversification."

Michael Starke, president of Public Demographics Inc. of Cincinnati, Ohio, will present the study findings and results in the opening morning session.

Members of the task force will present other discussions or participate in workshop sessions. Among the task force members is Vic Raymond, president of IRI International at Pampa, who will participate in a panel discussion on "How You Can Help — The Plant Manager's Point of View."

Boulter to hold credit seminar for farmers

AMARILLO — U.S. Rep. Beau Boulter will host a seminar Friday in Amarillo on the agricultural credit problems facing many farmers and ranchers and the options available to them.

The seminar, to be held in two sessions at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center, 6500 Amarillo Blvd. West, will begin at 8:45 a.m. and conclude at 4 p.m.

Vance L. Clark, administrator of the Farmers Home Administration in Washington, D.C., and Lynn Futch, FmHA state director for Texas, will be present to discuss credit opportunities available through FmHA and to listen to comments and suggestions from agricultural lenders and borrowers.

The two men will specifically address the Guaranteed Loan Program offered by FmHA in cooperation with local commercial banks and production credit associations.

The morning session, running from 8:45 a.m. to noon, is mainly for agricultural lenders. The afternoon session, beginning at 1:15 p.m. and ending at 4 p.m., is for area farmers and ranchers.

"The current problems plaguing farmers in the area of agricultural credit are symptoms of the overall situation facing American agriculture," Boulter said.

"I believe a seminar of this type will foster a better understanding of the problem and help promote possible solutions among lenders and borrowers alike," he added.

The seminar and a panel discussion at both sessions will also feature representatives from a commercial bank involved in agricultural lending, a production credit association, a federal land bank and an agricultural consultant.

Glenn J. Hertzler, FmHA assistant administrator in farmer programs, will discuss the Guaranteed Loan Program.

Panel participants will be Walter Scuddy, farmer programs loan specialist; Carl Ellis, chairman of First National Bank at Perryton; James VanPelt, president of Amarillo PCA; and Jim Schur, agricultural consultant with Schur Management.

Prison system admits new inmates but doors may close

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — The Texas prison system opened its doors after six days, but officials say they may be forced to close again after almost 400 additional inmates were admitted.

About 125 prisoners were released Tuesday, Texas Department of Corrections spokesman David Nunnelee said. But at the same time, about 393 new inmates had been accepted by mid-afternoon, he said.

The prison system opened its doors to new inmates Tuesday after the population fell below a state-mandated limit of 95 percent capacity.

"Today may be the worst day, hopefully," Nunnelee said Tuesday. "Most sheriffs are trying to get rid of their backlog today."

Keith K. Millheim

Guest speaker at engineers meeting

The Society of Petroleum Engineers, Panhandle Section of AIME, will hold its monthly meeting at 6:30 p.m. today in the Starlight Room at Coronado Inn.

Speaker for the SPE Distinguished Lecturer Series will be Keith K. Millheim, manager of the Amoco Critical Drilling Facility in Tulsa with Amoco Production Co.

His topic is "Deep Drilling — Present Technology, Limitations and Future Approaches."

Millheim will describe the products, equipment and technology needed to drill wells between 14,000 and 30,000 feet. He also will examine the deep drilling and the effects of geology, the wellbore, drilling, drilling fluids and the drilling rig.

In addition, he will discuss the impact that new products and equipment have, including new drag bit designs, mud motors and the closed-loop mud and top drive systems.

Cost is $10 per person.

But too many new admissions could push the population past the 95 percent ceiling once again, officials warned.

"We could close as early as Thursday," he said.

As of midnight Monday, the inmate population totaled 38,158, or 94.47 percent of capacity. That number was 215 inmates short of the 95 percent cap.

Prison doors will remain open today because Monday's figures were below the limit, Nunnelee said. Tuesday's population figures will not be available until late this afternoon.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Locate the general and bill him $17,000

It's enough to make a grown taxpayer cry. A Georgia contractor tried to save the federal government $16,000 — and received a $1,200 dun for his efforts.

Here's how it happened. The contractor, Gene Burnett, submitted the low bid — $16,000 — to replace window screens in a Marine base housing project in Virginia. But when he and his foreman inspected the housing, they found nothing wrong with most of the screens. They told the base contracting officer it would be a waste of tax money to replace the screens, that base maintenance personnel probably could repair the few that were damaged for about $200.

The contracting officer acknowledged that new screens weren't needed on most of the houses, but said a general had "ordered" them replaced. Burnett told National Public Radio that he had told the contracting officer "it'd be tantamount to stealing if we did the job."

So, despite pressure from the contracting officer to proceed with the job, Burnett returned his contract unsigned. A less-principled contractor then replaced the perfectly good screens — for $17,200.

But this sad story doesn't end there. When the General Accounting Office learned that the low bidder had backed out of his contract, thus increasing the government's costs by $1,200, it filed a claim for that amount against Burnett. The matter is now in federal court, where Burnett says he expects to lose.

We all lose. Were the GAO serious about recouping the loss on this project and eliminating such wasteful government spending, it would forget about harassing Burnett. Instead, the GAO officials would track down the Marine general who ordered the screens replaced and bill him for the entire $17,000 in wasted funds.

Gramm spans colleagues

It is a frigid morning in Washington and Phil Gramm has donned a windbreaker to ward off the chill in his Senate office, but he is having no trouble warming to his subject, which is the difficulty of getting his colleagues to contain federal spending at a time of large deficits.

Referring to the deficit target for 1988, he says, "You go out on the campaign trail, and you say (here Gramm assumes a pose of immense pride) 'I voted for a $108 billion deficit,' and your opponent says (here Gramm, his voice screeching, feigns shock and outrage), 'He voted for a $108 billion deficit!' You know the expression, 'no guts, no glory'? Now, there's no glory even with guts."

The junior senator from Texas, a Republican, seldom identifies a problem without proposing a solution. "I want to give everybody a chance to vote for a balanced budget," Gramm says. One way is to offer a budget covering four years instead of one, with accounts balanced in the last year. Members would still have to take the heat that comes with spending reductions, but at the same time — not four years later — they would get credit for eliminating the deficit.

That approach may sound outlandish, but so did a certain proposal for balancing the budget, prodding Congress with the threat of automatic cuts, that has since been enacted into a law known as Gramm-Rudman. By exploiting the political pressures felt by members, Gramm has translated controversial ideas into compelling legislation.

Most members of Congress labor in obscurity, at least outside their districts. A few gain fame not as lawmakers but as laws: Smoot-Hawley, Norris-LaGuardia, Taft-Hartley. In his six years in the House and two in the Senate, this former economics professor has pushed through three major bills bearing his name. Gramm-Latta I and II reallocated federal spending along the lines requested by President Reagan, and Gramm-Rudman imposed firm constraints on the deficit.

Gramm is a rebuttal to the bromide that to get along in Congress you have to go along. His brashness affronts the clubby ways of the Senate, but his very willingness to defy tradition has made him impossible to ignore.

With his eyeglasses, thinning gray hair and thick Texas drawl, Gramm doesn't come across as a natural media star, but his skill at taking his case to the public has enabled him to bypass the old routes to power. If many of his colleagues dislike him, it is partly for the same reason that they pay attention to him: He puts them in painful positions where voting with him is the least unattractive option.

Gramm-Rudman, which deprived both Democrats and Republicans of the luxury of lamenting the deficit while doing nothing to reduce it, illustrates that approach. Given the choice of gaining popularity or influence, Gramm chooses the latter.

But he doesn't mind embarrassing members to make a point. In 1985, when the Senate was debating a bill to reduce textile imports, Gramm noted that his colleagues said they didn't want protectionism, only "fair trade." So he suggested granting open access to any country which was open to American goods — which would have exempted Hong Kong, a major textile exporter, from the restrictions. His amendment lost, but it served his purpose.

Gramm is the rare senator who, when his principles clash with his political interests, sticks to his principles. His devotion to free trade extends to opposing an oil import fee, which would be greeted like the Second Coming in the depressed Texas oil industry.

Achievements have not produced contentment in Gramm. He produces legislative ideas the way other senators produce press releases, all reflecting his view that the world's main problem is not insufficient government.

One of his next projects is to promote trade by lowering U.S. import barriers in exchange for similar action elsewhere, and by applying pressure to the recalcitrant. If the Japanese keep out American goods, he says, the U.S. should penalize them not by keeping out Japanese goods (which would impoverish American consumers), but by removing barriers to the imports of their keenest rivals, like South Korea (which would enrich American consumers).

Rest assured, these are not the last trade proposals Gramm will make. "I feel more strongly about the trade issue than I do about the deficit," he declares emphatically, which will be ominous news to congressional protectionists.

But then, it's hard to find any subject on which Gramm doesn't harbor strong feelings. That is one of his differences with most of his colleagues, and one reason he will make more history than friends.

Great Lakes gobble shores

The monster that ate Chicago! It sounds like a horror movie. It's not. A real-life monster is consuming the city in Bunyan bites — and the city has no adequate weapons to repel this intruder.

The Great Lakes — all of them — are presently higher than they have been in the 125 years we've kept records.

And still rising! From Duluth to Buffalo, the Great Lakes are chewing away at their shoreline.

In Chicago, when the wind is out of the northeast, it send waves slamming into high-rise luxury condominiums along the city's north shore — smashing windows, flooding streets and basements, short-circuiting power, turning the lakefront into what it used to be, a swamp. In Michigan a December storm toppled 16 cottages into the lake.

In Wisconsin the city's sewage treatment system is threatened.

In Minnesota engineers are fighting to rescue lakeside Highway 61.

But the menace is most acute on the shoreline of Chicago.

Already — in just the past year — half-a-dozen Chicago beaches have disappeared.

Lakeshore Drive is closed ever more frequently when wind-tossed waves wash over cars — and in winter cars parked half-a-block back from the lake are entombed in ice.

A monster is eating Chicago.

After two decades of wetter-than-normal weather, coupled with colder temperatures and slow evaporation, lake levels are six feet above what they were in 1964.

Why doesn't the city fight back?

Our Great Lakes system is the largest body of fresh water on planet Earth. Spread evenly across the United States we'd all be eight to ten feet under water.

Lake Forest, a north shore suburb of Chicago, at its own expense, built an $8.5 million offshore island to try to protect its beaches.

Army engineers have earmarked $2.6 million for shoreline protection work.

There are five points at which water can be diverted in or out of the lakes — including the Chicago River.

But the total effect is minimal.

If you could increase the flow of the Chicago River by three times — it would take 15 years to drop Lake Michigan two-and-a-half inches. And the lake is likely to rise by another 10 inches this year!

New growth centers around small towns

By Robert Walters

HOUMA, La. (NEA) — "The Bayous of Louisiana," a book published almost half a century ago, aptly describes the southernmost portion of this state as "a land apart, shut away from the rest of the country behind its liquid barriers."

In recent decades, however, Houma, Morgan City, Lafayette and other communities in the midst of Louisiana's coastal wetlands have been growing at an extraordinary pace.

Between 1960 and 1980, Houma's population expanded from 22,500 to 32,600. Following the 1980 census, this city, nearby Thibodaux and other surrounding communities were officially classified by the federal government as a "metropolitan statistical area," a designation that technically gives it urban status.

What has been happening here also has been occurring elsewhere throughout the country, but until recently the phenomenon had not been adequately chronicled.

Now, however, an important new book, "The New Heartland," written by veteran New York Times correspondent John Herbers, describes and explains the unprecedented pattern of growth.

"It is new population and commercial growth of very low density, lower than the sprawling suburbs that were decried for scattering urban populations. It is growth around small towns and metropolitan areas and over rural areas without destroying the essential character of the landscape...."

"Some of it has been mistakenly described as an extension of the suburbs or as a revitalization of small towns. Those who have studied it know it is neither of these, nor is it a repopulation of the farms...."

"The new heartland can be seen on the outer fringes of metropolitan arreas; around small towns far removed from the large cities; along rivers, coastlines and reservoirs; near recreation and retirement areas; on marginal farmland; along country roads; and on remote land that is barren except for its physical beauty."

Among the most notable examples of the development cited by Herbers in "The New Heartland" are the country's smaller state capitals, stretching from Concord, N.H. to Olympia, Wash., that long were stagnant but now are flourishing. Also included in that category are Austin, Texas; Santa Fe, N.M.; Dover, Del.; Annapolis, Md.; Helena, Mont.; Madison, Wis.; Lincoln, Neb.; Montpelier, Vt.; Frankfort, Ky.; Raleigh, N.C.; and Bismarck, N.D.

But state capital status is hardly a prerequisite for "new heartland" development. Among the other communities cited by Herbers are Bullhead City, Ariz.; State College, Pa.; Coeur d'Alene, Idaho; Fort Collins, Colo., and Ann Arbor, Mich.

All of North Carolina, the book suggests, is a "prototype for America's future," embodying on a statewide basis the diffuse development pattern Herbers believes will become even more dominant in coming decades.

Unlike many other states, North Carolina does not have one dominant large city. The state's most populous city is Charlotte, but it has only 350,000 residents.

Scattered elsewhere throughout the state are more than a dozen other small and mid-sized cities, none with a population of more than 200,000, including Asheville, Winston-Salem, High Point, Greensboro, Durham, Wilson, Rocky Mount, Fayetteville and Wilmington.

Herbers suggests that the trend toward decentralized development is generally salutary but notes that it is hardly free of problems, including threats to the environment.

McFarlane receives sympathy, still faces questions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert C. McFarlane's apparent suicide attempt is prompting an outpouring of shock and sympathy, but lawmakers say that after his recovery the president's former national security adviser will still face tough questions over the sale of U.S. arms to Iran.

McFarlane, 49, was visited Tuesday by his wife, Jonda, but did not receive telephone calls at Bethesda Naval Hospital in a Maryland suburb of Washington. He was expected to remain there at least until today, hospital spokesman Lt. Russ Sanford said.

"Tough questions will be asked" about the arms sales, said Rep. Michael DeWine, R-Ohio, a member of the House select committee investigating the sales and possible diversion of funds to Nicaraguan rebels.

The House panel, like a similar special Senate committee, is not expected to begin public hearings in the case until mid-April.

McFarlane remained in good condition Tuesday, the day after police said he took between 25 and 30 tablets of the tranquilizer Valium.

A police source who spoke only on condition of anonymity characterized the pill overdose as an attempted suicide, but officials, authorities said only there was no evidence of foul play.

President Reagan spoke to Mrs. McFarlane by telephone on Tuesday, according to White House spokesman Ben Jarratt. Details of the conversation were not available, he said.

Reagan had not tried to contact his former aide but would likely do so by telephone "when it is appropriate," said presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater.

The overdose came the same day McFarlane was to testify for a second time before a special presidential commission investigating the U.S.-Iran case.

The commission, headed by former Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, is expected to release its findings by Feb. 19.

McFarlane's hospitalization sent shockwaves through the nation's capital.

In a letter to McFarlane, Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, said, "I learned last night of your misfortune and was both deeply troubled and saddened by the news," according to a Hatch aide, Paul Smith.

"It's sad it happened," said Rep. William Broomfield, R-Mich. "He has been under intense pressure and the pressure got to him."

Although associates said McFarlane, who resigned from the national security council in December 1985, had been under great strain because of the U.S.-Iran case, he appeared collected and calm in his frequent public appearances.

"He always seemed 'Mr. Cucumber,'" said Parker Borg, a State Department official.

Once McFarlane has recovered, he is expected to appear before various groups investigating the Iran-Contra case.

Rep. Dante Fascell, D-Fla., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, acknowledged that while some might see the event as casting a shadow on McFarlane's earlier testimony, it would not affect his own judgment of McFarlane's credibility.

McFarlane's previous testimony has raised questions, particularly over his assertion that Reagan verbally gave prior approval for the shipment of U.S. arms to Iran in September 1985. The weapons were sent from existing stocks in Israel.

White House Chief of Staff Donald Regan and others have disputed McFarlane's version.

"There are things that strike me as strange about Mr. McFarlane's testimony," Sen. David Boren, D-Okla., chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee, said in a recent interview.

"His testimony leaves a lot of questions unresolved," Boren said.

U.S. stepping up 'Star War' meetings

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan plans to step up consultations with Congress and U.S. allies on the fast-developing "Star Wars" program to mount a defense in space against Soviet missiles, administration sources say.

Reagan and his senior advisers, meeting privately Tuesday, concluded the "Star Wars" program had reached the point at which stepped-up consultations with members of Congress and the NATO allies should begin, according to the sources, who spoke only on condition of anonymity.

The president may send Edward Rowny, his senior arms control adviser, and Paul H. Nitze, the top adviser on arms issues to Secretary of State George P. Shultz, to Europe to brief Western leaders on the developing technology, two U.S. officials said.

That would indicate that major decisions on whether to deploy the first phase of an anti-missile defense may be pending. But the officials said Rowny and Nitze had not packed their bags yet.

The administration sources said no decisions on deployment were taken at the White House meeting and that none were anticipated perhaps for months.

The agenda included a review of the pace of technology research and how soon deployment in space might be feasible, another U.S. official said.

Summoned to meet with Reagan were Shultz, Secretary of Defense Caspar W. Weinberger, Kenneth L. Adelman, the U.S. arms control director, and other senior advisers.

The meeting was not on Reagan's public schedule, nor on the one distributed for Shultz at the State Department, and its participants were cautioned not to disclose what went on.

Shultz told the Senate Armed Services Committee after a similar session last week that Reagan was unlikely to be faced with a decision this year on whether to deploy the first phase of a space-based missile defense.

He also sought to play down reported differences with Weinberger, who is understood to be more eager to move ahead with the program known officially as the Strategic Defense Initiative.

Marlin Fitzwater, the White House spokesman, said Tuesday "there is no timetable for decision-making and I would not predict a decision or no decision at any meeting."

He said discussions involve the technology of the program and "the pace of the testing and development and how it would impact on the interpretation of the ABM treaty."

Charles E. Redman, the State Department spokesman, said the United States was already consulting with its allies. "There have been lots and lots of consultations on that particular question," he said, "and there will continue to be consultations — in the plural."

Ocean snow

Psychiatrist reports:

Children depressed, but in good health

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Six unkempt children found in a city park with two adults are suffering some depression but generally are healthy and in good spirits, according to a psychiatrist who examined them.

"They all know each other quite well. There is a hierarchy of organization of these six children," said Dr. Nahman Greenberg, a Chicago psychiatrist hired by the Florida Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

Douglas Edward Ammerman, 27, and Michael Houlihan, 28, the adults found with the children Feb. 4, were to be arraigned today on six counts each of misdemeanor child abuse. The charges stem from neglect, said authorities, who found no evidence of sexual abuse.

Ammerman and Houlihan, who authorities believe are associated with the Washington, D.C.-area communal group called the Finders, told police they were taking the youngsters to a school in Mexico for brilliant children.

Authorities from a half-dozen state and federal agencies have unsuccessfully tried to identify the youngsters and find their parents.

Greenberg said Tuesday he did not know if the four boys and two girls, ages 2 to 7, were related.

"There is an older child who seems to be somewhat of a leader and somewhat ... a controller," said Greenberg, adding that their background seemed to involve adults who treated them in a "very domineering, controlling, autocratic, authoritarian manner."

Greenberg said the children were suffering some depression and other psychological traumas, but that he did not know if the problems were long-term and caused by the children's upbringing, or temporary and caused by what they had been through just before being found.

He said there were no signs of recent sexual or physical abuse.

"They, I think, are remarkably verbal," Greenberg said of the children. "One of them seemed almost precociously verbal, which may also be part of the survivalist orientation that they've been faced with."

Meanwhile, a tip that human remains might be buried at a Virginia farm used by the Finders prompted a court-ordered dig Tuesday, but police said no bodies were found.

Charles Vaughan, a spokesman for the Virginia state police, said the Madison County farm was owned by Marion D. Pettie, a retired Air Force master sergeant reputed to be the leader of the Finders.

An affidavit filed in Madison County Circuit Court by county Commonwealth Attorney Caroline Watts said a photo album confiscated at a Washington, D.C., house was among the evidence that prompted the search.

The album included a series of photos titled "The execution of Henrietta and Igor," which showed three children and three robed men killing and mutilating goats. Among the photographs was one of a smiling boy holding a goat fetus, the affidavit said.

Finders spokesman R. Gardner Terrell said the goats were butchered as a learning experience for the children.

Pettie is not being sought by Virginia authorities, and Vaughan said the photographs showed no evidence of criminal wrongdoing.

Reagan heeds advice not to order testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is heeding advice that it would be unlawful for him to order former White House aides Oliver L. North and John M. Poindexter to break their silence and appear before a presidential board investigating the Iran-Contra scandal.

Reagan was to meet today with the three-member panel, headed by former Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, to answer questions for a second time. On the eve of the hour-long session in the Oval Office, board members were allowed to look at — but not keep — typewritten excerpts of Reagan's handwritten notes dealing with the subject.

Reagan personally reviewed his notes and determined what was relevant to the panel's inquiry before sending them to the commission. White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said. A courier picked them up at the White House and took them to the board, waiting to take them back to Reagan, board spokesman Herbert Hetu said.

Meanwhile, a police source said Tuesday that investigators have concluded Reagan's former national security adviser, Robert C. McFarlane, attempted suicide when he took 25 to 30 tablets of the tranquilizer Valium. But a police spokesman said there would be no official finding.

Other developments related to the sale of arms to Iran and the alleged diversion of profits to Nicaragua's Contra rebels:

■ Reagan, speaking to American Legion leaders, denounced Nicaragua's government as a "communist totalitarian state" and vowed to oppose efforts in Congress to cut off U.S. assistance to the Contras fighting the Sandinistas.

"It is both in our national interest and consistent with our traditions as a free people to assist those brave souls who are struggling for freedom and national independence," the president said.

■ The Washington Post today reported that congressional investigators have tallied $10.5 million believed diverted to the Contras from Iranian arms sales money.

New charter

Philippine President Corazon Aquino signs the new constitution as vice president Salvador H. Laurel looks on at Malacanang Palace in Manila Wednesday. Aquino declared the new charter in effect beginning today.

OPEC not to blame for oil market crash, official says

HOUSTON (AP) — OPEC is not the cause for the drastic drop in oil prices last year, according to the governor of the organization that includes 13 oil-producing nations.

"OPEC has been made the scapegoat for all the problems affecting the world economy," Fernando Santos, undersecretary of energy for Ecuador and governor of OPEC, said Tuesday. He said the decline in oil prices from as much as $27 per barrel in December 1985 to as low as $10 per barrel in July 1986 is not OPEC's fault, especially since the organization's combined gross national product is less than half that of Japan.

"Analysts and media have generally argued that the collapse was the outcome of the OPEC's efforts to increase its share in the world oil market by increasing its production of low cost crude oil," Santos said at a dinner sponsored by the Cambridge Energy Research Associates.

The governor — speaking in place of an ailing Javier Espinosa, energy minister of Ecuador and vice chairman of OPEC — said the industry should closely examine the action that the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries took before oil prices fell.

Santos blamed the decline of oil prices on two independent forces.

"The first was the general decline in the demand for oil by the industrial countries," he said. "The second was the steady increase in non-OPEC oil production, including exports by the socialist bloc."

Despite the oil market bust, Santos says the future market looks encouraging.

"This is a better time to be here than last year," he said. "What happened in 1986 was turmoil. No one expected it. Now we have learned a lesson. I think that the worst is over. The dramatic experience of last year will not be repeated."

Santos said the market can expect prices to level off at about $18 per barrel.

He said $18 per barrel is a good price for now because it will help OPEC regain price market sharing.

In an effort to maintain price stability, OPEC has adopted a new production ceiling of 15.8 million barrels per day for the first half of 1987 and has the intention to continue with its policy of production restraint, he said.

"Without fixed prices there can be no stability in the world oil and energy markets, the oil exporting developing countries would lose the basic means of ensuring the balanced development of their national economies," he said.

Authorities break up protest

MOSCOW (AP) — Plainclothes police today broke up a protest by about 20 Soviets demanding the right to emigrate and freedom for a jailed Jewish activist.

The action came one day after the government announced it had freed about 140 jailed dissidents and was considering pardoning about 140 more. Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennady Gerasimov said Tuesday that Josef Begun, whose release the protesters were demanding, was not among those being freed.

The same group was allowed to protest on the busy Arbat shopping mall in central Moscow for about 90 minutes Monday and an hour Tuesday, displaying placards reading, "Let us go to Israel" and "Free Josef Begun."

But plainclothes police today tore down their placards and shoved television cameramen and reporters who attempted to photograph the demonstration. One cut the cable on a TV camera carried by a crew from the ABC news bureau in Moscow.

After about 20 minutes, the protesters were approached by a man who identified himself as a city official and said the demonstration was illegal.

After he left, plainclothesmen and others in the crowd converged on the protesters and shoved them off the Arbat mall and into a side street, where they dispersed.

Uniformed police officers stood nearby during the protest, but made no move to interfere with the demonstration or join the plainclothes officials in herding the protesters away.

Begun was sentenced to seven years in prison in October 1983 under Article 70 of the Russian Federation Criminal Code, which prohibits "anti-Soviet agitation and propaganda."

His son, Boris, and his wife, Inna, were put under house arrest Tuesday to keep them from joining that day's protest.

Lawmen work together against bandit

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A gunman who has pulled a string of more than 40 robberies in eight cities along Interstate 35 is the object of a joint investigation by police from San Antonio and Austin, authorities say.

The man, described as a tall, thin, well-dressed man in his 20s is suspected of pulling more than 30 armed robberies in Austin alone between Sept. 6 and last month when they believe he began a similar spree in San Antonio. Other robberies were reported at New Braunfels, Live Oak, Temple, Belton, Lockhart and Bastrop, all located along or near the interstate.

Robbery detectives from Austin met with their San Antonio counterparts Tuesday in an attempt to compare information and coordinate their efforts.

Kidnappers claim U.S. attack planned, threaten retaliation

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A Moslem extremist group that holds two Americans claimed the United States is planning a rescue effort in collaboration with Israel and vowed "very cruel" retaliation.

The statement signed by the Revolutionary Justice Organization claimed units of Lebanon's Christian-led army also would participate in what it said would be an air-and-sea landing in Beirut.

"We warn America against any foolish action, because the retaliation will be very cruel," said the statement, delivered Tuesday to the Beirut office of a Western news agency. "We have declared a state of maximum alert to reply to any attack against our comrades in struggle."

The extremists, citing "documents in our possession," detailed a meeting it said was held Feb. 2 at the Lebanese Defense Ministry. It claimed Lebanese and U.S. intelligence officers and an Israeli security officer "debated a lightning military operation in Beirut" with European participation.

An Israeli newspaper today reported that Israel and the United States were negotiating a multi-nation deal to free all captives held in Lebanon by pro-Syrian and pro-Iranian groups. The deal would involve Israel's being asked to release 400 Arab prisoners, according to the newspaper, Davar.

The daily, which has close ties to Foreign Minister Shimon Peres' Labor Party, quoted unidentified American and Israeli sources in the United States.

Revolutionary Justice claims to hold Americans Joseph James Cicippio, 56, of the Norristown, Pa., area, who was acting comptroller at the American University of Beirut; and Edward Austin Tracy, 56, formerly of Burlington, Vermont, a writer. It also holds a French television crewman and claims to have killed a kidnapped British journalist, although no body has been found.

Altogether, 26 foreigners, including eight Americans, are missing and believed kidnapped in Lebanon. Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite resumed efforts last month to negotiate the release of hostages, but disappeared Jan. 20 and unconfirmed reports have said he is being held by the kidnappers.

Revolutionary Justice and two other groups holding Americans, Islamic Jihad and Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine, threatened last week to kill their captives if the United States attacked Lebanon. The threats were issued after U.S. warships massed in the eastern Mediterranean.

The United States subsequently sent some of the battle group to the Israeli port of Haifa in an effort to reduce the tension.

Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine, which kidnapped three Americans and an Indian on Jan. 24, was reported Tuesday to be trying to strike a deal with Israel that would free 400 Arab prisoners in exchange for its hostages and a captured Israeli airman.

Israeli officials said they knew of no such deal. The extremists had threatened to kill their four hostages at midnight Monday unless Israel released the Arab prisoners, but postponed the killings at the last minute.

Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine is holding Robert Polhill, 53, of New York City; Allan Steen, 47, a Boston native; Jesse Turner, 39, of Boise, Idaho; and Mithleshwar Singh, 60, a native of India and resident alien of the United States.

University board considers student demands

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The rector of the National University has proposed that a congress be formed to discuss how to end a student strike that has canceled classes for nearly two weeks.

A congress, made up of students, teachers and others, is one of the students' demands. However, the students want the congress to have legal authority, while Rector Jorge Carpizo said decisions on its recommendations would be made by the University Council, an administrative board he heads.

Carpizo spoke Tuesday at a meeting of the council to discuss proposals it has received on resolving the strike.

An organization of students in the huge National Autonomous University of Mexico system called the strike Jan. 29 to pressure for cancellation of a reform program. About half of the university system's 330,000 students are from its college preparatory high schools.

Their main objections are to elimination of an open admissions policy for the university high schools; a requirement that students attend 80 percent of classes; fees for makeup examinations and limits on the number of makeup tests allowed.

Texas Democrats disappointed over party convention choice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas Democrats and Republicans alike expressed dismay at the Democratic National Committee decision to hold its 1988 national convention in Atlanta rather than Houston.

"They've got to be laughing in the White House right now," said former Gov. Mark White. "If raising money has anything to do with electing candidates, then this has been a benefit for the other side."

For months the Texans had intensely lobbied the site selection committee members in Houston's behalf. Most believed they would be successful because many delegates had pledged their support—barring a direct recommendation from DNC Chairman Paul Kirk, said Houston Mayor Kathy Whitmire.

"I think it was clearly his recommendation" that did it for Atlanta, Ms. Whitmire said after the announcement. "We spent a great deal of time talking to committee members who assured us that if they didn't have a recommendation from the chairman that they would want to come to Houston."

The mayor, who spearheaded the campaign along with Houston businessman Joe Russo, said she received a call from Kirk at 8:15 a.m. Tuesday informing her of his decision to support Atlanta.

"It's my understanding that the chairman's decision was based on political reasons and his feeling that Atlanta would be a better representative of the South," Ms. Whitmire said.

"In his words he said, 'Atlanta is usually thought of as the capital of the South.' Now I didn't necessarily know that. I always thought Houston was a southern city as well," Ms. Whitmire said.

Russo, Houston's host committee chairman, reacted angrily upon hearing of Kirk's intentions less than an hour before the chairman told the entire delegation, several of whom had apparently known since last Friday.

"There's a lot of unhappiness, not because of a loss but because of the process that developed," Russo said. "We were told at the beginning it would be very much a democratic process and apparently that wasn't the process. There was just an individual that made the decision."

After the ceremonies, Russo relented, saying that Kirk was a good Democrat who had to make a very difficult decision.

White said even Republicans would agree that Houston is the better choice politically because of the need in the next election to win Texas and because of the state's fundraising capabilities.

"I think I raised about $8 to $10 million just recently in an election almost all of which came from Texas, and most of that came from Houston—during a recession," the former Democratic governor said.

Bentsen raising re-election funds

McALLEN (AP) — The problem with proposed cuts in the U.S. Customs budget is that $17 is made for every dollar spent on the agency, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen said.

Furthermore, Bentsen said Tuesday, the Rio Grande Valley could ill afford slower trade between Texas and Mexico that cuts would bring.

"Anytime you impede trade, you hurt the economy," said Bentsen, D-Texas.

Bentsen was in McAllen Tuesday night to attend a fundraiser for his 1988 re-election campaign. He was to conduct hearings today in Brownsville and Laredo on the president's plan to cut the Customs budget by more than $100 million eliminating 2,000 employees.

"The problem with cutting Customs is that you collect $17 for every $1 spent," Bentsen said. "It really doesn't make sense."

Bentsen, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee since January, pledged before assuming the position that he would ensure adequate funding for the agency.

In addition to reducing the agency's work force by 2,000, $93.7 million would be cut from Custom's drug-fighting budget, and $27 million would be slashed in salaries and expenses.

Bentsen said the cuts would slow traffic between the United States and Mexico, hurting trade and the economies on both sides.

Twin plants, or maquiladoras, along the border would especially suffer if trade is disrupted because of the Customs' cutbacks, Bentsen said.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A misunderstanding with a co-worker should be resolved as quickly as possible today. If the rift isn't patched up quickly, it could get worse.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Speculative situations could be more chancy than usual today. Lady Luck might be off taking a coffee break just when you need her the most.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) An old domestic issue that you thought was resolved might rear its ugly head today. Be careful that it doesn't cause you and your mate to say unkind things to one another.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your powers of observation are very keen today, but unfortunately you might misuse this gift to focus unduly on the negative aspects of life.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Even though your prudent instincts will urge you to do otherwise, you could be too extravagant for your own good today. Put a lid on spending.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you're realistic regarding conditions today, it will help minimize your frustrations. Don't insist on having everything done your way.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Important undertakings must be clearly thought out every step of the way today, or else you'll run the risk of painting yourself into a corner.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't be intimidated into going along with something that your friends are doing today if you feel you really can't afford it. It's your money, not theirs.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're not apt to accomplish your objectives today if you get too involved with people who impose too heavily on your time. Keep mobile.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Usually your hunches are reasonably accurate, but this might not be true today. Don't let your instincts overrule your logic.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be cautious where you place your trust today, especially in business matters. Let people about whom you know little first prove themselves.

Community project

Members of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 1657 have donated "Safety First—Save a Child" signs for placement at the six public elementary schools as a community project. Viewing the sign placed at Austin Elementary School are, from left, Clarence Upton, Commander Don Emmons and Quartermaster Vernon Camp. In another community project, the VFW post has adopted a 2-mile section on Hwy. 152 from the city limits west of Price Road in the state's Adopt-A-Highway anti-litter program.

PKU may cause birth defects

Women who have phenylketonuria (PKU) should bring their condition under dietary control in order to prevent birth defects in their children, according to recent medical studies.

Discovered in 1934, PKU is a genetic disease that, left untreated, causes brain damage in infants and young children. It is a rare, inherited disease in which the body cannot break down a component of protein called phenylalanine. PKU affects one person in 14,000.

In the past, almost all PKU women of childbearing age were mentally retarded and had few children. But, because doctors have been successful in overcoming the effects of PKU through a special diet, PKU females have developed normally in the last 25 years, leading to a potential new problem — pregnancy in women with PKU who are not in dietary control.

Only recently discovered, these problems occur when high levels of phenylalanine cross the placenta to the fetus, causing damage like retardation, microcephaly (abnormally small head), low birthweight and spontaneous abortion. The higher the level of phenylalanine in the mother's bloodstream, the worse the condition of the baby. In the past, most doctors felt PKU children could discard the special diet, so PKU females are approaching their childbearing years with high levels of phenylalanine in their bloodstream.

Bobbie Rouse, M.D., associate professor of pediatrics at the University of Texas Medical Branch (UTMB) at Galveston, is concerned that the new generation of PKU females, having led relatively normal lives, will make a decision about having children unaware of the risks.

UTMB is one of five clinical centers across the U.S. and Canada involved in a seven-year research project to study the effects of maternal PKU on pregnancy outcome. The National Institute of Child Health and Human Development is funding the study. At UTMB, Dr. Rouse is heading the effort of the southeast region to educate PKU women about resuming the special low-phenylalanine diet before getting pregnant in order to provide a better chance of having a healthy baby. Once a woman is pregnant, it may be too late to prevent the problems.

To educate the women, clinic teams all over the U.S. and Canada must find them. Those who were taken off the diet as children might not know they have PKU or even remember being on the diet. Once located, the teams can advise couples about the risks and lay out the options from which they can choose.

A woman who suspects she has PKU should contact the State Health Department for the name of the identified PKU center in her state. If treated as a child, she should contact the center where she originally received treatment or call Dr. Rouse at (409) 761-2355 for the name of the nearest center.

The irony of PKU is that the very medical advances that enabled PKU girls to grow into healthy women also uncovered maternal PKU, which now threatens to become a major cause of new cases of mental retardation. But, as with many health problems, education and early detection are the keys to controlling PKU and maternal PKU.

Fight racism by calling a bigot a bigot

DEAR ABBY: Not long ago, an acquaintance told me that her 5-year-old son had had an accident. She told me that when she took him to the hospital for emergency care she said, "I want a white, American doctor, and don't let my son bleed to death while you're looking for one."

Although I found such a racist remark offensive, I remained silent. It's certain that whatever I might have said would not have altered her views, but I feel that my silence condoned her sentiments. What should I have said?

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

COLOR-BLIND IN W.VA.

DEAR COLOR-BLIND: You should have said exactly what you thought — that she was an ignorant, narrow-minded bigot to believe that a doctor had to be white and American in order to be competent, and you were offended by her racist remark.

Apropos remaining silent when you should have spoken up, I offer this gem of a piece that I have kept for more than 30 years. It was written by the Rev. Martin Niemöller, a German Lutheran pastor who was arrested by the Gestapo in 1938 and sent to Dachau concentration camp until he was freed by the Allied forces in 1945.

I DIDN'T SPEAK UP

"In Germany, the Nazis first came for the communists, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a communist. Then they came for the Jews, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a Jew. Then they came for the trade unionists, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a trade unionist. Then they came for the Catholics, and I didn't speak up because I was a Protestant. Then they came for me, and by that time there was no one left to speak for me."

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I recently had five couples to our home for dinner. It was a lot of work, as an extensive menu had been requested. We spent the entire day preparing the dinner and were busy in the kitchen up until the time we served it. We didn't even have a chance to sit down and converse with our guests.

The dinner was delicious — everyone raved. But immediately after the dessert, one of the guests asked for a newspaper to check the movie listings!

Before we knew it, four couples were putting on their coats and running out the door so they wouldn't be late for the movie. I will say in their defense that they invited my husband and me to join them, but we declined.

I may be old-fashioned or too sensitive, but when people go to someone's home for the kind of meal we prepared, and then run away to a movie immediately afterward, I call that unacceptable behavior.

To add insult to injury, they telephoned us to say they couldn't get into the movie of their first choice, and would we check the listings for their second choice?

What do you think of such people?
TOO SENSITIVE IN N.Y.

DEAR SENSITIVE: The behavior you describe is not only

"unacceptable," it's downright rude! You say the menu had been "requested," which would indicate that your dinner guests came primarily to eat. Well-mannered guests would have remained after dinner to converse. These folks obviously came only to eat, so all you missed was the company of a lot of "oink-oinks" to round out the evening.

DEAR ABBY: I am 13 years old and I need your help. I want a telephone in my bedroom, but my dad says no because he thinks I would spend too much time talking, and my grades would go down.

Do you think I should be able to have my own phone, or is my dad right?

GIRL IN ROGERS, ARK.

DEAR GIRL: If money is not a problem, your father should let you have the phone. If your grades go down, the phone goes out. Get the message?

Valentine's Day began as Roman festival

NEW YORK (AP) — Valentine's Day is thought to have had its origins in a Roman festival called the Lupercalia.

The festival included men wearing the names of the girls who were to be their partners pinned to their sleeves. Thus the expression "...wearing one's heart on one's sleeve."

The exchanging of gifts was customary, with precious oils and jewelry being the most desired. According to the Fred Joaillier firm, this was the start of the tradition of giving jewelry as an expression of love on Valentine's Day.

Fragrant cloves add spice to a Valentine's Day orange layer cake.

Orange layers make lovely cake

Stuck for a sweet for the sweetheart for Valentine's Day? Whip up a simple spice cake made special with creamy orange frosting.

SPICED ORANGE LAYER CAKE

- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 cup all-purpose flour (unsifted)
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon grated orange peel
- 1/2 teaspoon cloves
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 3 eggs (at room temperature)
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon rum extract
- 1 can (11 ounces) mandarin oranges, drained
- Mother's Frosting (recipe below)

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease two 9-inch layer pans; line with waxed paper and grease again; set aside.

In a small saucepan, heat milk until bubbles form around edge of pan; set aside.

Combine flour, baking powder, orange peel, cloves and salt; set aside.

Place eggs in a medium bowl. Beat with mixer at high speed until thick and lemon-colored, about five minutes. Gradually add sugar. Beat at high speed for five minutes. At low speed, blend in flour mixture just until smooth. Add warm milk and rum extract; beat just until combined. Pour into prepared pans. Bake until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean, 25 to 30 minutes.

Let cool for 2 minutes. Invert onto wire racks, remove paper and cool. Frost the tops of cooled cake layers with Mother's Frosting. Stack layer cake fashion. Frost sides of cake and, if desired, decorate top with frosting piped through a pastry bag fitted with a metal tip. Garnish with mandarin oranges. This kitchen-tested recipe makes one 9-inch layer cake, 10 to 12 servings.

MOTHER'S FROSTING

- 1/4 cup all-purpose flour (unsifted)
- 1/4 cups milk
- 1 cup butter or margarine, softened
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon grated orange peel
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves

In a small saucepan combine flour and milk; cook and stir over medium heat until mixture thickens, about 2 minutes. Remove from heat; set aside to cool. In a medium bowl, cream butter. Add sugar, orange peel and cloves. Beat until light and fluffy, about 5 minutes. Add reserved cooled flour mixture 1/4 cup at a time.

Give low-cal treats to dieters

Valentines and Cupid's arrows; red roses and a stolen kiss. February is the month of love. However, if your beloved is struggling with a weight loss problem, don't sabotage his or her efforts with calorie-laden Valentine gifts.

Instead, make these delicious treats for your sweetheart. He or she will never know you prepared these homemade treats with weight control in mind.

If you need help dealing with temptation, take this advice on strengthening your motivation to succeed:

♥ Don't dwell on your "failures"; make a list of your successes. Even though you may have "given in" and had that chocolate caramel, don't let that one slip give way to a frantic binge.

♥ When your motivation starts to ebb, determine the cause. The three most common causes for falling off your program are lack of variety in low-calorie food, which leads to boredom; slow, or no, weight loss, which leads to disappointment; people saying "You've lost enough," which leads to a "why continue" feeling.

PEANUT BUTTER TRUFFLES

- 1 1/4 cups evaporated skimmed milk
- 1/2 cup chunky peanut butter
- 2 tablespoons honey
- 16 honey graham crackers (2 1/2-inch squares), finely crushed
- 1/2 cup minus 1 tablespoon unsweetened cocoa powder

- 2 teaspoons vanilla extract
- 1/4 teaspoon chocolate extract

In medium saucepan, combine first 3 ingredients with 1 tablespoon plus 1/4 teaspoon water. Bring to a boil over medium heat, whisking constantly, until peanut butter is completely dissolved. Stir in graham cracker crumbs and 2 tablespoons of the cocoa until dissolved; cook 2 minutes. Scrape mixture into food processor or blender, add extracts. Process 2 minutes or until perfectly smooth and creamy. Transfer to bowl; cover with plastic wrap and chill at least 4 hours or overnight. Sift the remaining 5 tablespoons cocoa into a shallow bowl. Scoop peanut butter mixture by scant half tablespoons into 48 firm balls; press with fingers into rough "truffles." Roll each truffle in cocoa until completely coated, using all cocoa. Refrigerate until firm.

Makes 16 servings (three truffles each). Per serving: 109 calories, 5 g pro, 6 g fat, 13 g car, 97 mg sod.

MOCHA-COCOA BROWNIES

- 1/2 cup all-purpose flour
- 3 tablespoons unsweetened cocoa powder
- 1 tablespoon instant espresso powder
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1-3 cup reduced-calorie soft (not stick) margarine, melted
- 2 tablespoons plus

- 2 teaspoons margarine, melted
- 3 tablespoons each granulated sugar and firmly packed dark brown sugar
- 2 large eggs, at room temperature
- 2 teaspoons vanilla extract
- 1 teaspoon almond extract
- 1 cup currants
- 1 cup shredded coconut

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Spray an 8-inch square baking pan with nonstick cooking spray. In medium bowl, combine first 5 ingredients; set aside. In another medium bowl, beat together margarine, sugars, eggs and extracts. Stir in flour mixture, currants and 1/2 cup of the coconut. Spread batter evenly into prepared pan. Sprinkle evenly with the remaining 1/2 cup coconut. Bake 25 to 30 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center of brownies comes out clean. While warm, cut into 16 equal-size bars.

Makes 16 servings. Per serving: 122 calories, 2 g pro, 6 g fat, 16 g car, 136 mg sod.

PINEAPPLE-CHOCOLATE FUDGE

- 1/2 cup canned crushed pineapple
- 1-3 cup nonfat dry milk powder
- 2 teaspoons unsweetened cocoa powder
- Granulated sugar substitute to equal 2 teaspoons sugar

In medium bowl, mix all ingredients until well combined. Turn mixture into an individual loaf pan or a 10-ounce custard cup and place in freezer until firm.

Makes 1 serving. Per serving: 173 calories, 11 g pro, 1 g fat, 34 g car, 132 mg sod.

CHOCOLATE-RASPBERRY FONDUE

- 12 ounces milk chocolate, broken into small pieces
- 1/4 cup each whole milk and raspberry liqueur
- 2 medium bananas, peeled and cut into 1/2-inch-thick slices
- 2 cups strawberries, hulled
- 2 medium kiwi fruit, pared and cut into 8 wedges each
- 2 small pears, halved, cored and cut into 8 wedges each
- 2 small oranges, peeled and sectioned

In double boiler heat chocolate over hot (not boiling) water until chocolate is melted, 3 to 5 minutes; using wire whisk, stir to remove any remaining lumps. Add milk and liqueur and stir until thoroughly combined; continue cooking, stirring frequently, until fondue is heated through, 2 to 3 minutes. Pour into small fondue pot and keep warm over low heat. On serving platter decoratively arrange fruit; to serve, let each person spear fruit on long-handled fondue fork and dip into fondue.

Makes 8 servings. Per serving: 329 calories, 5 g pro, 15 g fat, 47 g car, 45 mg sod, 10 mg cho.

Valentine's Day Recipes

Texas citrus is healthy Valentine fare

Texas citrus is a great and healthy way to treat your sweetheart this Valentine's Day. The warm Texas sunshine and rich soil of the Rio Grande Valley produces some of the best citrus in the U.S.

This citrus is known for its high level of sweetness and great taste. The Texas citrus supply is still good and should be available into the late spring.

Texas is known for its grapefruit, especially the Ruby Red grapefruit. Grapefruit is still a great alternative for those sweethearts watching their weight. Pick out a gift basket of Texas Red grapefruit that has the pink color showing through the thin yellow skin. Grapefruit contains an adequate supply of vitamins A and C, and it is virtually sodium free.

Generally, Texas citrus has a thinner peel than out-of-state fruit; this means more actual fruit for the money. Some fruits have blemishes or "beauty marks" on the skin caused by warm winds blowing on the fruit as it matures. These marks assure you that it is a Texas grapefruit, and they don't affect the quality of the fruit.

These beauty marks can also indicate that the fruit is sweet tasting. Texas citrus is known for its sweetness. Texas citrus growers do not pick the fruit until it is ripe. It is all truly tree-ripened.

Store oranges and grapefruit in the vegetable crisper, and they will keep a month or longer. Texas citrus makes excellent sweet juices. Juices can be enjoyed year round and can be made, or purchased frozen or canned.

For more information on Texas citrus or free recipes, write the Texas Department of Agriculture, 3652 N. Dixie, Odessa, 79762.

SUNRISE COMPOTE

- 3 Texas Ruby Red grapefruits, peeled and sectioned
- 1 sliced banana
- 2 Texas oranges, peeled and sliced

Texas citrus is a sweetheart's delight.

- 1 (8-ounce) can pineapple chunks packed in own juice
- 2 limes or lemons
- 1/2 cup apple juice
- 1 tablespoon grenadine syrup (optional)

- 12 lettuce leaves
- 1 (16-ounce) container vanilla yogurt

Combine first four fruits in a refrigerator container. Slice and add 1/2 lime. Juice remaining half of lime to make three tablespoons. Add lime juice, apple juice, and grenadine syrup to fruits. Cover and chill at least 2 hours. To serve, arrange drained mixed fruit on lettuce-lined plates. Top with vanilla yogurt. Serve with crisp crackers or bread sticks. Serves 6.

EASY GRAPEFRUIT PIE

- 3 Texas Ruby Red grapefruit, sectioned
- 1 cup prepared strawberry glaze
- 1 (9-inch) baked pie shell
- Whipped topping (optional)

Remove sections from grapefruit and drain well. Fold sections into strawberry glaze. Pour into pie shell and refrigerate until firm. Top with whipped topping.

BAKED GRAPEFRUIT

- 2 Texas Ruby Red grapefruit
- 2 cups crushed cornflakes
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 cup butter

Combine cornflakes, brown sugar, cinnamon and butter. Cut grapefruits in half, core and loosen sections. Top with cornflake mixture. Bake at 400 degrees F. for 10 to 15 minutes. Serve immediately. Serves 4.

Shake up a snack

Want a snack for after school? It's in the bag. Just put all the ingredients in a sack, shake it up and munch.

SHAKE-A-SACK CRACKER SNACK

- 3 cups small square cheese crackers
- 3 cups oyster crackers
- 2 cups bite-size pretzel nuggets
- 0.4-ounce package buttermilk salad dressing mix
- 1/2 teaspoon dried dillweed or dried oregano, crushed
- 1/4 cup cooking oil

In a medium paper sack or a large plastic bag combine the cheese crackers, oyster crackers, pretzel nuggets, dry salad dressing mix and dillweed. Close the end of the bag and shake well. Pour oil into the sack and shake well again.

Lady Harvesters clinch third place in district

By L.D. STRATE
Sports Editor

DUMAS — Pampa's Lady Harvesters almost had the rug pulled out from under their hopes of clinching third place in the rugged District 1-4A standings. But the Lady Harvesters righted themselves with a strong second quarter to roll over Dumas 58-39 Tuesday night.

In the boys' game, Dumas pulled away from Pampa late in the fourth quarter for a 43-34 win.

The Lady Harvesters had gone winless on the Dumas girls' homecourt in Albert Nichols four-year reign as head coach, and it appeared the jinx would continue as Pampa trailed 15-4 early in the second quarter. However, the Lady Harvesters shook off their ho-hum play to score 10 unanswered points before the first half ended.

Pampa, leading 25-20 at intermission, continued its strong play on both ends of the floor, and were out in front by 10 (41-31) after three quarters.

"We got them into a man to man and were able to score at will against them," Nichol added.

Pampa outscored Dumas 19-8 in the final period and the Lady Harvesters' hustling defense forced the Demonettes into 10 turnovers, 33 for the game.

"We got a lot of turnovers off our press and we were able to convert most of them into points," Nichols added.

The Lady Harvesters missed shot after shot in the first quarter and went three minutes without scoring a point. Pampa trailed 8-4 at the end of the first quarter and the outlook seemed bleak when Dumas scored the first seven points of the second quarter. But after a timeout and a tongue-lashing by Nichols, the Lady Harvesters perked up and went on the 10-point scoring spree. Pampa took the lead for the first time on a pair of foul shots by Jackie Reed, making it 20-18.

"We played about as bad as we could possibly play for a quarter and a half. I called timeout and got things straightened out,"

Nichols said. "I told the girls I was going to the dressing room instead of them. I couldn't bear to watch them. We came alive then and scored 10 straight points."

With the comeback victory, the Lady Harvesters clinched third place in the district race with an 11-4 record and one game remaining...at Lubbock Dunbar Friday night.

Overall, Pampa is 18-7 while Dumas is 10-5 in league play and 9-6 overall.

Landee Cummings was Pampa's top scorer with 17 points, followed by Yolanda Brown with 16, Holly Hoganson 10, Jackie Reid 7, Keitha Clark and Tacy Stoddard 4 each. Reed, a 5-10 senior, also ripped down 10 rebounds for Pampa.

"One of the things I was most pleased with was our foul shooting (20 of 27, for 73 percent) as a team. That's pretty good shooting in anybody's book," Nichols said.

Stephanie Bechtol was top scorer for Dumas with 18 points.

In the boys' game, it was Dumas making the comeback after being down 8-2 in the early going.

Dumas caught up to knot the score at 8-all at the end of the first quarter and then outscored Pampa 11-3 in the second quarter to take a 19-11 halftime advantage.

Pampa never regained the lead, but cut the gap to two (34-32) late in the fourth quarter on a pair of foul shots by Lonnie Mills. Dumas then knocked in two more baskets and Mills scored on a follow shot to make it 38-34 at the one-minute mark. Dumas then put the game out of reach on a goal by Tony Saaverdra and a 3-point play by Steve Guzman.

Dumas avenged an earlier 49-39 loss to Pampa.

Guzman and Saaverdra scored 11 and 10 points respectively to lead the Demons in scoring.

Mills led Pampa with 17 points while Chris Evans was next with 9. Troy Owens and Dustin Miller added 4 points each.

Dumas is now 4-9 in district play and 15-13 in all games. Pampa is now 5-8 and 9-18.

Both Pampa teams play at Lubbock Dunbar Friday night. It will be the final game of the season for the Lady Harvesters.

The Pampa Shockers rolled to a 54-41 win over Dumas JVS in other action Tuesday night. Mark Wood led the Shockers with 18 points and a perfect 12 of 12 from the foul line. Greg Ferguson and Greg Wolcott added 8 points each.

The Shockers are now 14-9 for the season.

Pampa sophomore boys also won 64-32 while the Pampa JV girls lost 42-16.

Pampa netters fall to AHS

Pampa fell to Amarillo High 12-6 in high school tennis matches played Tuesday at the PHS courts.

It was Pampa's first loss after two duel victories.

"The boys had a real strong showing and proved they can hold their own against any other team in the panhandle," said Pampa Coach Jay Barrett.

Pampa boys won four of the six singles matches and two of the three doubles matches. A strong Sandie girls' squad made a clean sweep of Pampa.

"Although the girls lost their matches, they played extremely well. I was pleased with the improvement they made in one night's play," Barrett said.

Aggies close to pulling off big recruiting coup

It's national signing day

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

Defending Southwest Conference champion Texas A&M stands on the verge of pulling off one of its biggest schoolboy football recruiting hauls since Jackie Sherrill became head coach five years ago.

The Aggies are expected to skim off the cream of the recruiting crop during national signing day today.

Should Sherrill win his one-on-one tussle with Texas Coach David McWilliams over blue chip running back Randy Simmons of McKinney, the Aggies could pull off one of the best signing days in SWC history.

Simmons, who decided against going to Oklahoma, said he would likely sign his letter this afternoon.

The Aggies, who also had a verbal commitment from blue chip running back Darren Lewis of Dallas Carter, grabbed the inside track on Simmons, although the Longhorns had Heisman Trophy winner Earl Campbell doing some heavy-duty recruiting.

Simmons, who broke the Class 4A rushing record for a season with 2,557 yards and scored 44 touchdowns last year, has a powerful running style similar to Campbell.

The Aggies got a late commitment from Lufkin offensive lineman Matt McCall, considered the best in the state, after a duel with the Baylor Bears. McCall also is a Parade Magazine All-American.

Under McWilliams, who coached at Texas Tech last year, the Longhorns had a verbal agreement from blue chip receiver

Johnny Walker of San Antonio Holmes, who caught 57 passes for 1,018 yards and 12 touchdowns as a senior.

The Longhorns suffered an apparent blow when Holmes quarterback Wilbur Odum chose Michigan over Texas. But they bounced back by getting a verbal agreement from Beaumont Central linebacker Mical Padgett, considered the finest in the state.

There were the usual raids on Texas talent from north of the border.

Oklahoma State said Dallas Carter lineman Dwayne Phorne, a blue chipper, had decided to join the Cowboys. Oklahoma had a dozen commitments from top Texas footballers, including Port Arthur Austin quarterback Kenny Ford, Perryton running back Mike McKinley, and Houston Sterling defensive back Cedric Davenport.

Record-smashing quarterback Ty Detmer of San Antonio Southwest will go to Brigham Young. Duncanville running back Barry Foster, who gained 1,550 yards last season, has decided on Arkansas.

Texas Christian will only be able to give 10 scholarships because of NCAA probation.

Southern Methodist, in limbo while the NCAA decides whether to give the Mustangs a two-year program suspension for additional violations after its recent probation, will not give out any of its 15 scholarships.

This will be the first signing day for head coaches Jack Pardee at Houston, Spike Dykes at Texas Tech, and McWilliams at Texas.

For the second year, head coaches be barred from traveling on signing day and will direct signing operations from their athletic offices.

Aguirre, Blackman spark Mavs to lopsided victory over Portland

DALLAS (AP) — Mark Aguirre and Rolando Blackman provided most of the offense in Dallas' 135-115 victory over the Portland Trail Blazers, but Mavericks Coach Dick Motta thought his team's defensive effort was the difference.

Kiki Vandeweghe, whom Dallas fans have lustily booed for several years, ever since he refused to sign with the Mavericks after they made him their very first draft choice, historically has scored well against Dallas.

The Mavericks changed strategy Tuesday night and put Blackman on Vandeweghe, even though Blackman is a guard and Vandeweghe is a forward.

"Vandeweghe likes to float a lot. He stays out around the 10-second line, so we thought we would put a guard on him," said Dallas Coach Dick Motta.

"We told Ro to deny him the shot. Ro did a great job on him outside, and Mark cut him off inside. Every shot that Vandeweghe hit, he earned. He had a hand in his face every time," Motta said.

Aguirre scored 34 points and Blackman 28 to lead Dallas, which opened up an early lead.

Screening process for PHS grid post to take a month

FROM THE NOTEPAD: Friday is the announced cutoff date for accepting applications for the head football post at PHS with the screening process due to take a month and the hiring in mid-March...The contract of athletic director John Kendall is scheduled to be extended from its current Feb. 1988 expiration to June 30, 1989 when the school board convenes next Tuesday.

After the big pronouncements by SWC and area colleges that they were going to conduct drug testing of athletes. Have any actually followed through? WTSU better hurry, as the school's athletic season ends in another month.

The Kevin McHale-look-and-play-alike is performing with such great confidence, as is the entire Hustling Harvester team, a credit to Coach Robert Hale's infusion of work, discipline, pride and motivation. And no team in the district is playing tougher defense.

Wheeler girls top century mark against Mobeetie

By CATHY SPAULDING
Staff Writer

MOBEETIE — While the Wheeler Mustangettes tallied a 101-43 win over their hostesses, Wheeler's boys found themselves in a bind before they wriggled to a 69-67 win over the Hornets.

Anchored by a 10-point field goal performance by Waylon Howard and six points by Kent McLaughlin, Mobeetie shot to a 24-12 first-quarter upset. But Mustang Cody Wiggins didn't think too kindly of that and contributed eight of a 20-point second-quarter Wheeler run.

That brought the Mustangs within striking distance, but Mobeetie still led at the half, 38-32. Mobeetie pulled the lead to 52-48 after the third quarter.

Then Wheeler coach Mike Newland decided to switch from a zone defense to a man-to-man game and halted Mobeetie's roll.

"They started out really emotional," Newland said. "They were ready to get at us."

To Hornet coach Paul Yowell, a victory over Wheeler would have been "just like winning district."

Wiggins second-quarter success carried into the second half, as he ultimately tallied 18 for Wheeler. Bubba Smith followed with 14 and Rusty Ellisor with 11, nine of them in the final quarter. Augie Hennard also shot 11 for Wheeler.

Howard led Mobeetie with 18 points, followed by Stephen Batton with 17 and Kent McLaughlin with 16.

In girls' action, coach Jan Newland said she doesn't remember if Wheeler ever shot 101 smackers in a game before, but it's a moment Mustangette fans won't forget as Christine Cornett made the centennial shot from the free throw line with three seconds left in the game.

But Mobeetie Debbie Finsterwald was not amused.

"Why shouldn't they score 100 points," Finsterwald said adding that while Wheeler spent their time pumping in buckets, "we had seven girls who played their guts out. And they didn't quit."

Newland agreed: "They played us much better than the first time we played them."

As expected, Dee Ann Jolly led Wheeler with 22 points and scholarship-bound Marlo Hartman followed with 21. But the two scoring titans shared the spotlight with up-and-coming sophomore Marcie Smith, who shot for 14.

Tammie Harwell led Mobeetie with 14, followed by Jamie Arganbright with 10, Diane Mofett with eight and 4-foot 8 spitfire Korina Rowley with six.

HIGHLAND PARK

HIGHLAND PARK — The Hornets pulled from a tight first half to top White Deer's Bucks 58-53.

Meanwhile, Monica Vigil led the Does' 45-38 run over Highland Park.

The Bucks kept it close, staying 15-17 under Highland Park the first quarter and topping them 27-26 at the half. But the Hornets pulled out in the third quarter.

Bart Thomas led White Deer with 15, followed by Todd Haynes

District play ended Tuesday with Miami, Groom and Claude caught in a three-way second place tie in boys' play and Groom and Miami tied for second in girls'.

The teams met in Lefors today to schedule elimination games.

MIAMI-CLAUDE

MIAMI — Fate was at her most unpredictable when the Warriorettes came dreadfully close to an upset over the undefeated Claude Mustangettes and the Warriors were granted a break into possible post season play with a 68-61 win.

The Warriorettes were walt-shadows with six. Kara Ballard and Melanie Hubbard contributed 20 each for Claude.

The Warriors' luck ran vice-versa as the first three minutes decided the rest of the game, according to boys' coach Currie McWilliams.

"That was the turning point, when we jumped to a 10 point lead and we didn't look back," McWilliams said.

Compared to the frenzy of the girls' game, McWilliams said the boys "did just kind of a businesslike job."

John Locke was the top businessman with 16 points, followed by Jeff Bass with 15, Brett Byrum with 13 and Shane Bridwell with 12. Lance Wood topped Claude with 24.

GROOM-PHILLIPS

PHILLIPS

Fate was cruelest here.

The heretofore winless Lady Blackhawks was the shocker in their 41-39 upset over Groom.

The upset began in the third quarter as Phillips, led by 20-pointer Joella Woods, pulled itself from a 21-12 halftime deficit to a third-quarter 26-point tie.

Karen Bohr and Erin Eschle led Groom with 12 points each.

Vic Lemley and the Blackhawks held all Groom's boys to single digits as they rolled to a 55-41 win.

Lemley pumped in 22 for Phillips while the Groom leader was Daniel Lambert with nine.

with 12. The Hornets' Chris Roemling, Buffer Groomer and Tim Colbert had 13 each.

The Does led comfortably all the way with Vigil leading Doe scoring with 16 and Jill Immel with 10.

CANADIAN-WELLINGTON

CANADIAN — A power outage that greeted the Wellington teams here may have been the best thing to happen to the Skyrockets Tuesday as they fell to the post-season bound Wildcats.

Fate was the victor in the District 2-1A climax Tuesday, putting an end to a season of turnovers, comebacks and Titanic zing to a win over Claude when the clock struck three, five of Miami's eight players hit the bench and undefeated Claude rolled to a 69-57 win.

With three minutes left and the score tied, the Grand Ball turned into the Alamo as Miami's Kristi Klaverweiden, Amy Goodman and Johanna Hinton were left alone against Claude's full court press.

"It was definitely the best game we played this year," said Warriorette coach Brad Coffee. Robin Daugherty held the spotlight dance by pitching 36 points and Gerri Anderson waited in the

Pampa Blue remains unbeaten going into season's final game

Pampa Blue seventh-graders held off Canyon 32-28 Monday night to keep their perfect record intact.

The Blue team is 15-0 overall and 8-0 in district play going into their final game of the season Thursday against Valley Silver. Gametime is at 6 p.m. in the Pampa middle school gym.

Paul Brown hit 7 of 14 field goal attempts for 14 points to lead Pampa's scoring attack against Canyon. Brown also pulled down 6 rebounds and led the team in steals with 4. Randy Nichols was the top rebounder with 8 to go along with his 3 points.

Joe Yurich and Cedrick Wilbon had 8 and 7 points respectively for Pampa. Yurich hit 4 of 5 shots for the field while Wilbon scored on a 3-point play to end the game.

"We almost blew it, but we kept the string going. We were just up and down all night," said Pampa Coach John Charles.

Charles is hoping for a good crowd when Pampa Blue goes for a perfect season Thursday night.

Pampa Red eighth-graders were defeated by Dumas Orange 32-18 Monday night.

Scoring for Pampa were Clay Lyle with 6 points, Patrick Jackson and Larry Reed 4 points each; Steve Hawkins, 2, and Justin Cross and Brian Ellis, 1 each. Pampa Coach Darrell Atkins said Reed played the best defense for Pampa.

It was the final game for the Pampa eighth-grade, which finished 3-5 in the district standings.

MCLEAN — Here, Fate just sat by and watched as the district's other Cinderella team, the Lefors' Lady Pirates, fell to the McLean Tigerettes in a 78-48 clincher.

And McLean's Mark McCarty's 40-point rush pushed the Tigers to their first season win, over Lefors, 60-51.

"I don't think anyone could have beat them the way they played last night," said Lefors' girls' coach Mike Kumor. "We did well offensively, 48 points, but defensively speaking, we played badly."

"The girls just got ready to play," said McLean coach Bill Wilson, praising his girls' team effort.

Just about the whole McLean roster hit the record book: Shandee Rice, 19 points; Misty Magee, 13; Jem Ann Rice, 15 and Shawn Crockett, 10.

Becky Davis led Lefors with 15 points while Carrie Watson followed with 11.

The Lefors boys were led by Jamie Wariner with 17 and Kent Kirbo with 10.

CANADIAN-WELLINGTON

CANADIAN — Canadian walloped Wellington in a District 2-2A doubleheader played Tuesday night.

"We were a little slow getting started, but then we started playing pretty good," said Canadian coach Jackie Burns of his girls' 61-46 win.

Wellington led by one, 30-29, at halftime, but the Lady Wildcats took command in the second half.

Lucinda Dunnam led Canadian in scoring with 19 points, followed by Wendi Burns with 14.

Margo Duncan was top scorer for Wellington with 16 points and Leah Barton had 11.

Canadian rolled to a 77-55 win in the boys' game behind the 27-point performance of Ross Poyner. Luke Thrasher contributed 12 points.

The Wildcats built a 30-18 lead at halftime. Curtis Nash and James McIntosh had 17 and 16 points respectively for the losers.

Canadian boys are now 20-4 for the season while the Canadian girls are 24-1. Both teams have already clinched playoff berths.

In JV action, Canadian boys won over Wellington 40-31 and Wellington girls won 35-27.

Canadian closes out the regular season Friday at Shamrock.

BRISCOE-SAMNORWOOD

BRISCOE — Briscoe boys clinched the District 4-1A championship Tuesday night with a 65-48 win over Samnorwood.

Robert Hall poured in 25 points to lead Briscoe to the one-sided win while Sam Watson and Chad Morgan each had 10 points.

Renney Delvacue topped the losers with 14 points, followed by Craig Brown with 12.

Briscoe ended the regular season with a 22-5 record and 9-1 in district play.

In the girls' game, Briscoe lost a 44-43 squeaker.

Amy Shields was top scorer for Briscoe with 18 points.

Soccer registration nears

Registration for the spring soccer season will be held Feb. 20-21 at the Pampa Mall in front of T-Shirts Plus.

New players or those who didn't register at the fall sign-up need to bring their birth certificates with them to the registration.

Volunteer coaches and referees are also needed for the spring season and interested persons may obtain more information at the registration.

Actor William Dafoe is restrained by other "Platoon" members.

'Platoon,' 'Room with a View' top nominations for Oscars

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—"Platoon," the grim saga of a young soldier's loss of innocence in Vietnam, and "A Room With a View," an elegant comedy of vacationing Britons in Italy, took top honors with eight nominations apiece in the 59th Academy Awards nominations today.

Both were nominated for best picture of 1986, along with "Children of a Lesser God," "Hannah and Her Sisters" and "The Mission."

"Aliens," "Hannah and Her Sisters" and "The Mission" scored seven nominations apiece.

Paul Newman was nominated for the seventh time as best actor for his role as a pool hustler in "The Color of Money." He has never won an acting Oscar but was given an honorary award last year.

Jazz great Dexter Gordon, playing a semi-autobiographical role in "Round Midnight," was a nominee for best actor in his film debut. Other nominees were Bob Hoskins in "Mona Lisa"; William Hurt in "Children of a Lesser God"; and James Woods in "Salvador."

Two-time winner Jane Fonda was nominated for best actress for her role as a faded actress in "The Morning After."

Another Oscar winner, Sissy Spacek, was a nominee for "Crimes of the Heart" along with first-time nominee Marlee Matlin in "Children of a Lesser God"; Kathleen Turner in "Peggy Sue Got Married"; and Sigourney Weaver in "Aliens."

Two actors from "Platoon," Tom Berenger and Willem Dafoe, were named for supporting actor, along with four-time nominee Michael Caine in "Hannah and Her Sisters"; Denholm Elliott in "A Room With a View"; and Dennis Hopper in "Hoosiers."

Maggie Smith, previous winner for both lead acting and support, won another nomination as supporting actress for "A Room With a View." Others in the race are Tess Harper in "Crimes of the Heart"; Piper Laurie in "Children of a Lesser God"; Mary Elizabeth Mastrantonio in "The Color of Money"; and Dianne Wiest in "Hannah and Her Sisters."

"Blue Velvet," the sex-filled story of small-town America which won many critics' prizes, was given only one nomination by the academy voters, but it was an important one: Best direction, by David Lynch. Other director nominees were Woody Allen ("Hannah and Her Sisters"), Roland Joffe ("The Mission"), Oliver Stone ("Platoon"), James Ivory ("A Room With a View").

Two songs nominated for the Oscar: "The Glory of Love," from "The Karate Kid Part II"; "Life in a Looking Glass," from "That's Life"; "Mean, Green Mother from Outer Space," from "The Little Shop of Horrors"; "Somewhere Out There," from "An American Tail"; and "Take My Breath Away," from "Top Gun."

"Crocodile Dundee," the surprise hit of 1986, collected only one nomination, for star Paul Hogan, Ken Shadie and John Cornell in the original screenplay category. Also nominated: Woody Allen ("Hannah and Her Sisters"), Hanif Kureishi ("My Beautiful Laundrette"), Oliver Stone ("Platoon"), and Oliver Stone and Richard Boyle ("Salvador").

Nominees for best screenplay adaptation were Hesper Anderson and Mark Medoff ("Children of a Lesser God"), Richard Price ("The Color of Money"), Beth Henley ("Crimes of the Heart"), Ruth Praver Jhabvala ("A Room With a View") and Raynold Gideon and Bruce A. Evans ("Stand by Me").

The 59th nominations brought a few curiosities. Sigourney Weaver and Paul Newman were nominated for roles they have played before, she as Warrent Officer Ripley in "Alien" and he as Fast Eddie Felson in the 1961 classic "The Hustler."

Oliver Stone's three nominations represent a triumph for the director-writer who made "Salvador" on a shoestring and spent 10 years trying to find a backer for "Platoon." The film, based on his own experiences in Vietnam, was No. 1 at the box office this week.

Austria's "38" and Canada's French-language "The Decline of the American Empire" are the first nominations for those countries in the foreign-language category.

This year's 5:30 a.m. announcement of the nominations was timed to coincide with the last half-hour of the network morning shows, but viewers saw none of the glitter associated with the Academy Awards. The nominations were read on the stage of the Academy's Samuel Goldwyn Theater by president Robert Wise and the incumbent supporting-player winners, Anjelica Huston and Don Ameche.

Country is next door," Uribe said. Sen. John Leedom, R-Dallas, said he was concerned that if the border became a state responsibility, "local enthusiasm" would be lost.

Sen. Roy Blake, D-Nacogdoches, said the Legislature had convened to "scrub the budget and live within our means, and the first thing we do is create a commission that is going to spend nearly $1 million."

Uribe said $400,000 a year is a small price to pay to generate the economy in an area that "right now is not an asset — it's a liability."

Senators also approved and sent to the House Tuesday two measures to encourage the donation of organs for possible life-saving transplants.

By a 29-0 vote, the Senate approved a bill requiring hospitals to establish procedures for asking families about possibly donating organs and tissues of deceased patients for transplants.

Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, said that for every organ available for transplant, three or more people are waiting in line.

Bill co-author Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, identified himself as a possible recipient for a "little ol' heart later on." Truan, 51, has had two heart attacks.

week asked the high court to stay the execution on 12 grounds of appeal.

The appeal included the argument that the death penalty was racially motivated. The victims in the robbery, including Granado's assistant, were not.

The appeal contended people convicted of killing whites are more likely to get the death penalty than those convicted of killing blacks.

Johnson was one of four men convicted in the robbery-slayings. Both Granado and Arturo Melendez were shot in the head at close range after being ordered to lie on the floor.

Johnson also contended in his appeal that Jefferson County prosecutors eliminated all blacks from the jury and that he was denied effective legal counsel.

The reprieve still leaves eight other Texas death row inmates with execution dates, including Fletcher Mann on Feb. 25.

The other seven are scheduled for March.

Air base employee is slain

AUSTIN (AP)—A civilian worker at Bergstrom Air Force Base was beaten, strangled with a belt and may have been sexually assaulted before her body was found in a base parking lot, authorities say.

An Austin Police Department spokeswoman said officers were "not even close" to making an arrest in the slaying of Cynthia Torres, 25, a cashier at the non-commissioned officers' club.

Mrs. Torres was unconscious when found Saturday night outside the club, said Dr. Robert Bayardo, Travis County medical examiner.

Bayardo said an autopsy showed that Mrs. Torres had brain damage from lack of oxygen. "She was clinically dead at the time she was found," he said.

City police and the Air Force Office of Special Investigations have interviewed a lot of people out at Bergstrom, and they're still talking to people, but they don't have any suspects," said police.
