DESIGNING WOMAN Furniture Should Fit Person More Than Room

By ELIZABETH HILLIER Teen-agers have their own kind of clothes and their own kind of activities, but their rooms are usually caught half way between outgrown nursery and grown-up furnishings that don't suit them too well. Furniture is made for infants and small children, but once the child grows so big, almost nothing is planned for him. Certainly it's more important that furniture suit the person than that it fit the room, so what about the teen-ager and his in-between-age requirements? Pen Hargrove noted the far-reaching interests of his own growing-up son and designed a bobby desk for him, a three level, roomy piece of furniture at which airplane models can be made and where hobby and school equipment can be stored away. The work table surface has a masonite top which can't be battered or marred with spilled paste or paint spatter. A top deck, which can be removed, shows off models in work or finished and tucks away books. The new hobby desk was introduced in Grand Rapids at the furniture previews and is on its way to fall showings in stores.

Canadians Seeking Answer To Mystery Of Sunspots

OTTAWA, Ont. (AP) — Canada is making a new try at unlocking the mystery of sunspots, a subject that has fascinated and puzzled the people of the earth for centuries.

The dark patches on the blazing face of the sun are known to stir up various influences on this planet 90 million miles away. But scientists have never figured just how much they are responsible for such things as weather and insect plagues.

Long-range studies now being launched by the Dominion Observatory may produce new evidence.

Astronomers at the observatory on Ottawa's outskirts will turn their 80-foot solar telescope on the superheated "flares" that leap out momentarily from the sunspot areas. The flares bombard the earth with ultraviolet light and electrically charged particles that throw many terrestrial activities out of normal.

Without a mechanical watch, nothing much can be done to record the flares, which last only a few minutes. They are relatively small by comparison with the dark sunspot areas, which sometimes extend 150,000 miles across.

The flares have come in for attention comparatively recently.

The more visible sunspots have been an absorbing topic for ages.

A Chinese observer, Ma Twa Lin, reported in 188 A.D. the appearance of a "bird shaped" fleck on the sun, apparently a cluster of spots. The ancient Chinese had more than 100 records of them, relating them to deaths of emperors and other important personages.

More modern observers link the spots with a wide range of phenomena. Charts kept over a long period show a relationship between their cycles of roughly 11 years and such things as storms, rainfall, lake and river levels, tree growth, disease cycles and the cycles of animal and insect life.

Some have gone so far as to hook them up with stock market variations and the marriage rate.

Dr. Ralph E. DeLury, former assistant dominion astronomer in charge of solar physics, made a long study of these relationships and concluded the spots do exert a "profound influence on terrestrial affairs."

Because of the way they hit physical and organic things, he reasoned, they must also affect economic conditions. An 85-year study of commodity prices in the United Kingdom showed a "response" to the spot cycle.

"Economic fluctuations," Dr. DeLury added, "must surely be a factor in variations of marriage rates."

Italy Starts Modest Atom Program On A Shoestring

By LUCIANO FERRARI
MILAN (AP)—Italy has started its research for an experimental atomic stockpile in mostly basement quarters next to a "room for rent" sign.

It is a modest beginning—with "home made" heavy water, a tiny quantity of locally obtained mineral uranium, eight professors, some 20 student research assistants and about $100,000.

Unlike the great secret American atomic cities, visitors need no special passes and there are no gun-bristling guards at the doors of the CISE (Centro Informazioni Studi Esperienze) laboratories, the organization for Italian atomic study.

The center is financed by a dozen of Italy's major industries. Professors directing the work say that the $100,000 is about one one-hundredth of what they need for really advanced experiments. But they take hope from increasing government interest at Rome where late in July the research was placed under control of a government agency on nuclear energy.

Minister Pietro Campilli of commerce and industry announced that Italy expects to receive financial aid from the United States to help with the studies.

Goal of the research center is to establish a sufficient atomic stockpile to permit experiment and studies. Directors said they already have set up the necessary equipment to get the stockpile started.

Essential "heavy water" is being made electrically. Metallic uranium is being extracted from uranium-bearing ores which are found in Italy but in quantity sufficient to justify normal mining.

Aid Plan Adopted

NEW YORK (AP)—The Zionist Organization of America adopted yesterday a privately financed economic aid program for Israel.

Through the program, American business and professional men, technicians and scientists will aid in Israel's economic development.

Suspension Due For Eight State School Districts

AUSTIN, Aug. 26 (U)—Eight school districts face loss of accreditation and 35 school administrators and teachers may have certificates suspended or placed on probation because they kept improper attendance records last year.

The disciplinary action was announced yesterday by State Education Commissioner J. W. Edgar. He told the State Board of Education the school people involved would have the right of appeal and a full hearing.

He said a checkup showed the schools had kept improper records on average daily attendance. He told reporters a fattening of attendance records would qualify a school to receive more than its fair share of state aid.

Facing cancellation of their administrators' certificates are Supt. D. E. Brooks of Mineola; Negro Principal James L. Stanley of St. Paul School District, Hunt County; and Supt. Homer Wilson of Douglas School District, Nacogdoches County.

Cancellation of teacher's certificates has been initiated for Negro Principal Lucy Mae McDonald of Ferris, Ellis County; Supt. Walter Moon of Minden, Rusk County; and Negro Principal W. H. Palmer of Farrisville School District, Newton County.

Probation of certificates is in prospect for the following school administrators: Supt. S. T. Bule, New Diana School District, Upshur County; Principal G. E. Green, Mineola, Wood County; Principal J. W. Hassell, Mineola; Supt. Foster L. Kirven, Grove Island School District, Freestone County; Principal W. H. Prim, Mineola; Principal Ernest L. Roberts, Pine Springs School District, Smith County; and Principal Edgar A. Thomas, Italy, Ellis County.

Probation of certificates is faced by the following teachers, by districts:

Garland School District, Bowie County—Lella A. K. Brown; Gwendolyn Ghaspie, Ione Green, Kermit Greer, and Lemonia Richardson.

Mount Fall School District, Washington County—Mrs. P. V. Barber, Mrs. B. E. Wells, and Mrs. Prudie A. Whiting.

Farrisville School District, Newton County—Effie Adams, Wendolyn Cato, Luckie Franklin, Olive Palmer, Pearl Peacock, Darretta Strong, and Ernestine Watts.

St. Paul School District, Hunt County—Mrs. L. C. Catlin, Mrs. C. J. Stanley, Lillian M. Traynor, Lesley P. Waters, and Lola D. Wilkerson.

Probation of certificate also is faced by Principal Ernest E. Ford of the New Diana School District, Upshur County, and by Principal A. D. Sanders of Quitman, Wood County.

Edgar said he was notifying the boards of trustees of the following school districts he is suspending accreditation of their school systems until they institute and maintain an attendance accounting policy in accordance with sound accounting principles, state regulations, and state law.

Douglas School District, Nacogdoches County; Farrisville School District, Newton County; Ferris Independent School District, Ellis County; Grove Island School District, Freestone County; New Diana School District, Upshur County; Quitman Independent School District, Wood County; St. Paul School District, Hunt County; and Zavalla School District, Angelina County.

Edgar said Farrisville, Grove Island and St. Paul are exclusively Negro school districts. Both Negro and white schools are involved in the other districts.

Stevenson Set For N. Y. Vote Bid, Tour Of Western States

By DON WHITEHEAD
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (U)—Gov. Adlai Stevenson was all set today to make a bold bid for votes in New York and then swing into a nine-state Western tour early next month on his presidential campaign.

The Democratic presidential nominee will address the American Legion Convention at Madison Square Garden tomorrow. After that he plunges into a round of politicking that has all the earmarks of a major campaign effort.

His Labor Day speech in Detroit will launch his formal campaign—but the New York City trip was developing as the real opening campaign barrage in fact if not in name.

Stevenson was due to see a few callers today to discuss farm and rural electrification problems. The visitors included Clyde H. Seybold, president of the National Rural Electric Co-operative Association; Roy J. Turner, chairman of the Democratic National Committee's Agricultural Division; and Herschel D. Newsom, master of the National Grange.

But most of the day was set aside for polishing up his New York City speeches, which his lieutenants hope will touch off a Stevenson boom in the East. Later this fall, Stevenson will return to New York for campaign tour through the state.

The Western tour began to shape up as a jam-packed 10 days of plane-hopping into the Northwest, and then circling down the Pacific Coast into the Southwest.

Unofficial reports indicated the tour would open Sept. 5 with a television speech in Denver, Colo., and conferences with Democratic political leaders from 11 Western states.

Other speeches were said to be tentatively scheduled for: Des Moines, Ia.; Casper, Wyo.; Billings, Mont.; Seattle, Wash.; Spokane, Wash.; Portland, Ore.; San Francisco and Los Angeles; Phoenix, Ariz. and Albuquerque, N. M.

This schedule could be changed again to arrange for Stevenson to appear at the Kasson, Minn., National Plowing Contest Sept. 6—the same day Eisenhower is due to speak there.

Stevenson had accepted one invitation to speak there—and then the plans were changed when contest officials voted against both candidates appearing on the same day. But last night the invitation was extended for a second time, after contest officials received protests against their action closing the date to Stevenson.

Wilson Wyatt, Stevenson's personal campaign manager, said the Kasson invitation would be considered even though a tentative speech already has been scheduled for Sept. 6. This tentative date was believed to be Des Moines.

Stevenson's Labor Day speech in Detroit is expected to dwell at length on his views regarding the Taft-Hartley Law and labor-management relations in general.

Walter Reuther, president of the CIO United Automobile Workers, told reporters yesterday he thought Stevenson would stand on the Democratic platform which calls for repeal of the Taft-Hartley Law. And he said he was willing to "take my chances" on the labor legislation Stevenson would approve if elected President.

Reuther said Stevenson had courage, integrity, and a "sense of social responsibility" which would lead him to the right decisions.

As for GOP presidential nominee Dwight D. Eisenhower, Reuther said his specialized military training did not fit him for the White House job. He said Eisenhower was an able and honorable man but that he didn't have Stevenson's background and training for the presidency.

"When you need a doctor you don't call a plumber," Reuther told reporters. And then he added he thought Eisenhower was "working in the wrong job classification" as presidential candidate.

There was considerable speculation here about a visit with Stevenson by Phil Perlman of Baltimore, who resigned recently as President Truman's solicitor-general.

Perlman was with Stevenson for several hours yesterday but his name was kept off the visitors' list. Perlman said he talked to the governor about the tidelands oil case and "other issues." Perlman said he would like to take some part in Stevenson's campaign—but he didn't know what his role might be.

Legion Gets Chance To Strut Up B'way

NEW YORK (U)—This is the day they've been waiting for—the big chance for American Legionnaires to strut their stuff, the time for New Yorkers to watch a parade. And it is some parade, running for 14 to 16 hours and causing a wholesale rerouting of traffic in busy midtown Manhattan.

It is a highpoint of the 34th annual American Legion Convention. Starting at 9 a.m., some 75,000 marchers will parade up Fifth Avenue from 34th Street to 72nd Street. An estimated 100,000 Legionnaires and their families are here for the four-day convention.

The parade is the only convention activity today. The fun is the breather between the seriousness of yesterday's address by Republican presidential nominee Dwight D. Eisenhower and tomorrow's speech by his Democratic opponent, Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson.

Erie Coeke Jr., of Dawson, Ga., former national commander, is grand marshal of the parade.

On the marching list are bands galore, a unit of West Point cadets, delegations from most Legion posts, U. S. military units plus flights of Air Force planes, and members of the Legion's fun-loving 40 and 8 organization.

New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Major Vince R. Impellitteri and other civilian and military dignitaries had places in the reviewing stand.

The parade follows a busy opening day yesterday during which Eisenhower received an ovation at Madison Square Garden as he told the Legionnaires that the United States must tell the Kremlin that "we can never rest" until the Russian-dominated nations of Eastern Europe and Asia have been freed to choose their own destiny.

Among other speakers yesterday were Dewey, AFL President William Green, Acting Defense Mobilization Director John R. Steelman and Legion National Commander Donald R. Wilson.

Late yesterday the Legion approved the report of its Committee on Americanism. Included in the report was a resolution calling for government investigations of the American Civil Liberties Union to determine if it is a "Communist or Communist front organization."

Moments later, the 32-year-old ACLU called the Legion action "a grave disservice to Americanism" and said, "The suggestion that the ACLU is a Communist or Communist front organization is preposterous."

It exists as a private organization solely to defend civil liberties, the ACLU said, and has been praised by President Truman, Dewey, Gen. Douglas MacArthur and others.

Several other resolutions were in the report. Among them were appeals for elementary school programs of flag-saluting and pledges of allegiance, for efforts to prevent employment by the United Nations of any U. S. citizens whose loyalty to the U. S. is "questioned," and for vigorous enforcement of the Security Act of 1950.

IT'S SURE BEEN HOT!

"This summer, I have put in a great many extra hours of work for my customers every day.

"Air conditioners, attic fans, evaporative coolers, and portable fans have been going full blast around the clock—24 hours a day practically every day. High temperatures and lack of rainfall have combined to make it an exceptionally hot summer. Electric refrigerators have had to call on their reserve power to keep food fresh and wholesome at constant temperatures under 40 degrees and to maintain ready supplies of ice cubes and cooling beverages.

"Some electric bills may be higher during such extreme hot weather because of this extra work, but now—when you're able to stay cool and comfortable in spite of the heat—is when your electric service really proves to be the biggest bargain in your home."

Manila Flooded By 10 Inches In 15 Hours

By HENRY HARTZENBUSCH
MANILA (AP) — Ten inches of rain in 15 hours flooded 90 per cent of this capital yesterday and today. As the one to three-foot-deep waters receded, at least eight dead were counted. Six bodies were recovered from flooded Manila streets. Two persons drowned in the provinces. The sudden tropical storm whipped by heavy winds, injured 14 others. Three were missing.

Threatening clouds hung low over the sea-level city. The Weather Bureau said the 15-hour storm was caused by a low pressure area which hit Manila without warning. The disturbance had moved 250 miles west-northwest of Manila by mid-afternoon. The Weather Bureau said it was headed for the South China mainland in the vicinity of Hainan. During the height of the storm, strong winds whipped water over the sea wall protecting the city. All outgoing domestic airline flights from Manila International Airport were canceled yesterday. Three inbound planes from Tokyo, Hong Kong, and Bangkok landed at Clark Field, 40 miles north of Manila.

Ike Says His Election Can Open Up New Political Era

FAR HILLS, N. J., Aug. 26 (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said today his election as President would "open the way to a new era of American history."

In a telegram to State Senator Malcolm S. Forbes the general said he expects "millions of political amateurs" to join in his campaign for the presidency. The telegram added: "I know that you will enlist thousands in an active and unceasing drive for sure progress in a world at peace, for honest government and for an urgently needed change in Washington from a party too long in power."

These are among the goals to which I am irrevocably pledged, and which a Republican administration will bring to our nation. "This cause is too big for any of us in all of us. It will require the best of millions of political amateurs who will join us because of their deep concern with the future of our nation."

THE GRUB LINE

With Franklin Reynolds

A LETTER
 Clarence J. McCormick, Esq.
 Under Secretary of Agriculture
 Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir:
 We feel it should be more particularly called to your attention that one of the greatest and most urgent needs of the Southwest as a drought disaster relief measure is the matter of cover crops for our cultivated lands. On hundreds of thousands of acres of these bare lands there are no crops this year. Last winter and spring, as we think the records in your Department will attest, we had the worst blowing this country has ever known. We also believe that the technicians of the Soil Conservation Service will tell you they believe the blowing this coming winter and spring will be far worse than last year, and that the agricultural production of this area is running the risk of a great and permanent damage.

Much of this land will have to be cultivated with FHA loans in 1953. Cultivation next year will be easier and much less expensive if this land is protected this winter with a cover crop. It will be economically sound, therefore, for the FHA or PMA to aid with cover crop assistance. In addition to this advantage there will be the distinct advantage of having the land enriched with the residue from such cover crops.

The farmers themselves, do not have the money in a great majority of these cases to plant these cover crops without PMA or FHA assistance. We understand that outright grants are possible from the President's emergency fund "to prevent loss of life and destruction of property."

In this connection we submit that West Texas top soil is very valuable property, and we further submit that based upon the studied opinions of the conservationists it is going to be destroyed if it is not protected with a cover crop.

We believe the situation here is sufficiently critical to justify any necessary action to provide these West Texas farmers with seed for the cover crops so sorely needed. We believe, too, that the farmers would prefer having the seed to having the money with which to purchase the seed, provided the USDA will buy for them seed of the same high-germinating quality as they would buy for themselves if they had the money.

Can 1953 PMA cover crops funds be made available if the needed money is not available from other sources?
 True enough, there is not enough moisture in much of this area to plant today, but this is a season in which we may reasonably and normally expect sufficient rainfall, and we believe that this year plantings may be made as late as October 31.

As to what crops should be planted for cover, your specialists in the SCS have a better idea than anybody else. We would like to most respectfully request, therefore, that this most urgent matter be given your most earnest consideration.

 Sincerely yours,
FRANKLIN REYNOLDS

Don't forget the 7th annual World's Champion Junior Rodeo will be held here Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, this week, starting at 8 p.m. in the new Rodeo Bowl.

Lewis, Hard Coal Industry Resume Contract Talks

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — The hard coal industry and John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers resume their interrupted contract talks today here in the heart of America's anthracite coal region.

Lewis, who remained away from negotiations last week in New York, spent the night in a hotel in nearby Hazleton, home of UMW Vice President Thomas Kennedy.

Neither Lewis nor Kennedy would comment on the union chief's presence in Pennsylvania but it was presumed he was en route here for the discussions on the new contract.

Meanwhile, the 75,000 hard coal miners, 90 per cent of whom are centered in this Eastern Pennsylvania area, are staying home this week carrying out Lewis' proclamation of a "memorial" holiday honoring the victims of mine disasters.

The halt became effective last Saturday and will continue through Labor Day, Sept. 1.

Record Religious Affiliations Noted

NEW YORK (AP) — Some 88,673,000 Americans — more than ever before in the history of the nation — belonged to a church or other religious body at the end of 1951, says the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. A.

The council reported yesterday that the figures represented an increase of 1,842,515 over 1950, a growth of 2 per cent compared with an estimated population increase of 1.7 per cent.

Nurserymen Consider State Reorganization

DALLAS, Aug. 26 (AP) — Members of the Texas Association of Nurserymen are considering a reorganization of the state-wide group.

President James Fitzpatrick, Sherman, said yesterday the association must hire an executive secretary and reorganize in other ways to operate more effectively. Frank Cornelius, Houston, outlined a detailed plan calling for increased dues and subdividing the association throughout the state.

Two British Papers Alarmed By Ike Talk

LONDON, Aug. 26 (AP) — Two influential British newspapers expressed alarm today over Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's tough talk to Russia in his New York speech to the American Legion.

The independent-liberal Manchester Guardian declared:

"A good many of us would like our governments to talk to the Kremlin 'with cold finality,' telling it that 'the tidal mud of aggressive Communism' had better recede."

"A good many of us, also, would like to haunt the Kremlin with nightmares of punishment to be visited on Russia should it violate peace."

"Privately, at least, we should like to do and say these things, but in public we are not accustomed to putting them quite so bluntly."

"Partly, perhaps, that is because we are not so sure who wields the bigger stick."

The mass circulation tabloid Mirror took a similar line. Describing the Republican presidential candidate's address as a "shock speech," the Mirror said:

"It remains to be seen whether these tactics will win the general votes or harm him by frightening moderate opinion."

"One thing, however, is certain. Russia and China are going to make the most of the propaganda gift that the general has given them."

"And from Europe to India and beyond, people are going to worry about what the general meant, if he meant anything new at all."

"The presidential campaign is going to warm up, but we hope that the contenders will consider the effect of their oratory beyond American borders."

The conservative Daily Graphic, however, applauded the speech. "The preparedness which Eisenhower again stressed as essential is the surest safeguard of peace," said the Graphic.

"His forthright assertion that America will not recognize Russian rule in the satellite countries as permanent will not affect Soviet policy."

"Moscow does not recognize the freedom of any free nation as permanent. It is not influenced by soft words; it watches always the facts of power."

London's Communist Daily Worker asserted:

"Never have the aggressive aims of United States big business been put with more brutal frankness."

"And this is no speech of some loud-mouthed politician who doesn't count. It is a major, considered statement of a man who was commander in chief of the Atlantic Pact armies and now is Republican candidate for the U. S. Presidency."

"It is the speech of a man who is prepared to throw the whole of humanity into war in a mad effort to win the world for American profit."

30-Year Man

R. E. Smith, left, assistant manager of the Big Spring VA Hospital, receives his 30-year service pin and congratulatory letter from Manager L. B. Andrew during an incentive awards program held at the hospital Monday afternoon. Dr. Andrew, himself an 18-year man, also received an award. Ten, 20 and 30-year pins went to 34 hospital staffers.

Service Awards Go To 34 VA Staffers

More than 450 years of service to who will qualify for the various awards in the next few months, he recognized at the local VA Hospital Monday afternoon when 10, 20 and 30-year service awards were presented to 34 staff members.

Dean of the honored group was R. E. Smith, assistant manager of the hospital, only one to receive a 30-year service pin.

Twenty-year awards went to four persons and 29 received their 10-year buttons. Aggregate of the group's service was 451 years.

Dr. L. B. Andrew, hospital manager who received a 10-year pin for his 18 years of work for the VA, presented lapel buttons and pins to the staffers. Personnel Manager Wilford H. Bacus presided during a brief program and explained the VA's new policy of recognizing service of employees.

A similar program probably will be held in December for persons

Father Slays Daughter In Mercy Killing

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A retired grocer stabbed his 15-year-old invalid daughter to death with a butcher knife yesterday and later explained to police: "I couldn't stand to see her suffer any more."

Police called the slaying of Adela Moskalko a "mercy killing." Detective Charles Sapp said John Moskalko led officers to the body of his daughter in the bathroom of their apartment and said: "My girl is all right now."

The detective said Moskalko related that while his wife Mary was out shopping, he led the girl into the bathroom and plunged the knife twice into her breast.

"Before my baby's birth," Sapp quoted the 57-year-old father, "my wife injured herself by falling against the corner of a counter. The baby was never normal."

"There was a soft spot in her head and the doctors said something about a nerve not protected and every time it made contact with other parts of the brain it drove her crazy."

"This nerve made contact 15 or 20 times an hour, all her life. My wife and I couldn't stand to see her that way. We sent her to specialists but they told us she would never be any better."

Sapp said Moskalko told him: "I won't be around much longer and I did not want my wife to bear the burden alone."

Moskalko said it was necessary for his wife and him to bathe and feed their daughter, that the girl was never able to do anything for herself.

"I stabbed her once," the detective further quoted Moskalko, "but it did not bring death and I had to do it again. I wanted to help my daughter and my wife. I think I did the right thing."

Sapp said the father went on: "I felt I would suffer the consequences for doing it, but no matter what happens, it doesn't matter. My girl is all right now."

Moskalko, the son of a Polish farmer, came to the United States in 1913 and later settled in Newark, N. J. He recently purchased an apartment building here.

Sapp said Moskalko was being held for investigation of murder.

Movie Appropriate In Korea Weather

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—U. S. security personnel at the Panmunjom truce site had weather problems today.

A rain-flooded stream forced them out of their campsite. Troops waded through waist-deep water and moved 11 tents and equipment to high ground near the armistice conference tent.

A colored balloon marking the neutral zone broke loose from its moorings. Five soldiers braved the swirling waters, grabbed the cable and lashed it down.

Help from the main U. N. camp at Munsan had to be flown in. The road was closed by high water.

Here in Munsan the movie tonight was titled: "Singing in the Rain."

GROUND WILL BE BROKEN IN OCTOBER

New 'Little Inch' Pipeline To Be Constructed Shortly

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP)—Ground will be broken in October for a postwar version of "Little Inch"—a new, 40-million-dollar pipeline which will carry fuel oil, gasoline and other petroleum products from Texas and Louisiana refineries to the densely populated Middle and North Atlantic States.

Aim of the new pipeline, its promoters say, is to ease the fuel oil pinch in the Northeast and to provide for the contingency of enemy submarine attacks on coastal tankers.

To be built by U. S. Pipeline Co., of New York, the new carrier will be the only major pipeline carrying refined oil products from the Texas-Louisiana area to the North Atlantic Seaboard, officials of the company emphasize. It will start at Beaumont, Tex., and terminate 1,045 miles away at Newark, N. J.

The new pipeline will be able to deliver up to a half a million barrels of refined product a day, according to Paul Ryan, president of U. S. Pipeline.

"It will link the nation's greatest concentration of refining facilities with one of the largest consuming markets in the world," he declared. "It will serve a rapidly expanding area which now depends on tanker transport for its petroleum requirements."

The idea of a Texas-Northeast oil pipeline was revived after earlier war-built overland carriers, such as Little Inch, had been converted to natural gas transmission.

"This will be like Little Inch, but with a major difference," Ryan asserted. "Little Inch was built in a hurry, when German subs were sinking our tankers. This one will be built in time of peace, by private enterprise."

Money for the project will be raised privately. Present plans are to place debt and equity securities with one or more big insurance companies whose identity the company declines to make public. No securities will be offered for public sale. Financing will be handled by two Wall St. investment houses, Dillon, Read & Co. and Gore, Fox & Co.

The pipeline will be divided into two major parts. A 50-mile stretch of 24-inch pipe will be laid between Beaumont, Tex., and Jackson, Tenn. A 22-inch line will extend

1,045 miles from Jackson through Columbus and Pittsburgh to Newark. The project will also include a 14-inch spur, which will branch off the main line at Jackson and terminate 120 miles away at Paducah. The pipeline is scheduled for completion in September, 1953. The project has already been approved by the Petroleum Administration for Defense and steel priorities have been granted.

The pipeline will carry diesel fuel, light home heating oils, automobile and aviation gasoline, kerosene and solvents. Its promoters insist it will provide cheaper transportation costs. High tanker transportation rates have been a major factor in threatened fuel oil shortages along the Eastern Seaboard, they contend.

"The new line will result in a better balance of winter vs. summer distribution," Ryan stated. "The Northeast consumes much more in the way of petroleum products during the winter heating months than in the summer time, when automobile gasoline accounts for most of the consumption. This means tankers have to be laid off in the summer. With the pipeline you won't have that difficulty; within limits, you can ship as much or as little as you please."

The project is intended initially to serve the coastal area from Norfolk, Va., to New Haven, Conn., Ryan said, but petroleum products can be transhipped by barge from the pipeline terminal in Newark to Boston and other New England points.

EXPLORERS CAN PROVE IT
Legends Of Death Have Foundation

EDMONTON, Alta. (U) — Three men have come out of Nahanni Valley alive to prove that legends of death stalking those who brave that Far North wilderness have some foundation, but that the dangers are not from supernatural forces.

The three explorers who barely won out in their hazardous trek through the mysterious valley are R. M. Shamp, young chemical engineer from Washington, D. C.; writer - photographer Norman Thomas of Albuquerque, N. M.; and botanist Howie Martin of Yale University.

"If trappers and prospectors have failed to return from the valley it's because they were not as fortunate as we were," says Shamp. "There is good reason for their failure to return. It's the kind of country where one mistake can mean your life."

They financed the trip by a commission from the U. S. Defense Department to test a new food ration pack, and an assignment to write scientific reports on some of their findings.

The trio motored from Washington to Watson Lake in the Yukon. Dalziel picked them up for the 150-mile flight to their base camp at Glacier Lake, some 180 miles upstream from the mouth of the Nahanni River. The river is in the northwest territories and about 700 miles northwest of Edmonton.

They started from Glacier Lake because much of the Nahanni Valley had been covered by prospectors and trappers, and they wanted to go through a region less likely to have been seen previously.

When they got going on foot, each carried a 75-pound pack with a rifle and other equipment. Shamp cracked a knee-cap and fractured a shoulder-blade soon after the start, but continued with the others.

A few days later one rifle was damaged beyond repair on rocks, and the two others were put out of commission by continual dampness, leaving the explorers without arms to kill game for food.

On the whole trek they saw the sun only three days.

In 25 days they walked 150 miles through tortuous country, but were only 50 miles from their starting point. With rations getting short, they decided to return to camp as fast as possible. On his way back they built rafts on three occasions, suffered a spill in glacier-fed wa-

BOMBER CRASHES

Rocket Is Fired By Mistake; Eight Die

COL. ARTHUR R. DEBOLT, 39, of Columbus, O., apparently mistook the B-17 "mother" plane for a radio-controlled drone. The drone was following about a mile and a half behind.

Col. Debolt, a World War II veteran recalled to active duty, was overcome with grief at the tragic error. He was unable to explain how it happened.

He saw the hit plainly on his radar screen and figured it was scored on the drone.

"The first I knew it was a mistake I heard a voice on the radio from one of the other planes accompanying us saying, 'Watch for chutes. He got the wrong plane.'"

Debolt told military interviewers "I just can't believe I hit the wrong plane. I don't know how it happened."

Another B-17 "mother" plane escaped being hit and guided the drone back to the base.

Members of the Flying Fortress crew were not identified pending notification of next of kin.

The Air Force has been testing the 650-mile-an-hour F86 for several months here. Debolt had been out on several training missions with the plane previously, and had made several successful passes on the target yesterday morning.

An Air Force spokesman said the F86 operates automatically to the extent that once a target comes within range of its radar the electronic equipment locks on to the target and guides the fighter in to the attack.

The pilot retains control of the firing mechanism, however, and can refrain from firing his rockets until he has positively identified the target, the spokesman said.

A life raft was tossed out to the one survivor spotted a few minutes before the storm struck.

L. L. J. Wickenheiser, pilot of a F1Y flying boat out of Curry Field, Pensacola, said he flew just above the water and saw the survivor smiling up at him while he bobbed about in his life jacket.

"A heavy squall line 30 miles wide came roaring down upon us then," Wickenheiser said. "When it passed we couldn't find him. I don't know if he got the raft."

Spinister Taken After Eluding Cops 3 Years

SALISBURY, Md. (U) — An agile, middle-aged spinister who has eluded summons servers 50 times during the last three years was finally outdistanced yesterday by a speedy state trooper as she sprinted toward the woods from her farm home near here.

The three-year battle of wits between 55-year-old Miss Viola Miriam Goslee and Wicomico County officials came to an end in a field just short of the woods.

Sheriff Jesse M. Pollitt handed her an arrest warrant for contempt of court as the trooper and a deputy held her in the field.

Pollitt said he and members of his office had tried "more than 50 times" to serve papers on Miss Goslee to get her into court for a settlement of the estate of her father, F. Grant Goslee, a state's attorney from 1924 to 1928.

Miss Goslee's brother-in-law, Earle S. Horsey, charged in a petition to get her into court that she "hides behind locked doors or runs into the fields to avoid service."

Previously, nobody had been able to catch the slightly built farm woman.

She won't accept registered mail and on at least one occasion, according to Horsey's petition, "law officers have been threatened with lethal weapons."

Horsey took over from his sister-in-law as administrator of the estates of her parents in 1948. He charges in petitions that she refused to turn over the unadministered portion of the estates to the new administrator.

The estates center about the farm property on which Miss Goslee lives and involve several thousand dollars.

New Mexico Denies Compact Violations As Texas Charges

SANTA FE, Aug. 26 (U) — New Mexico says it has not violated the Rio Grande water compact and wants a suit filed by Texas thrown out of court.

Texas has asked an injunction barring New Mexico from using any Rio Grande water allocated to and due Texas under the compact between the two states.

In answer to the complaint New Mexico asked yesterday that the U. S. Supreme Court dismiss the suit.

The answer claimed that the suit was really one by private individuals or entities against the State of New Mexico. It also held that the federal government was a party to the suit because of Indians living in the watershed area.

Newest S&H Green Stamp Store Opens For Service Wednesday

The newest and most modern of 200 S. & H. Stamp redemption stores will open here Wednesday at 905 1/2 Johnson.

Because of the anticipated crowds starting with the opening at 1 p.m., there will be no actual redemption of stamps until Thursday morning. From that time forward, however, shoppers will be able to find just about anything they can imagine for their homes.

With the opening of the store here, Frank Smith, Fort Worth, district merchandise manager, pointed out, several new designs and display plans are being tried out locally. The Sperry & Hutchinson Company has spared no expense in engineering the store, both in fixtures and in colors, to give it maximum comfort and attractiveness.

During open house from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Wednesday, baby orchids will be given to the first 1,000 women to visit the store. Mrs. Omar Pitman will be at the organ to furnish music for the occasion.

Several national and district personalities will be here. These include Emil Corona, assistant personnel manager, and John Belser, assistant distribution manager, both from the national headquarters in New York City; Frank Smith, Fort Worth, district merchandise manager; Rescoe Hopper, Fort Worth, branch manager; David Stamps, Big Spring, sales representative.

In charge of the store here will be Mrs. Joe B. Masters. Assisting in the operation will be Mrs. Ethel Casey and Mrs. Frances Cook. Harold Hardy is serving as stock-boy.

The store here, in addition to its special fixtures, walls, hat modern types of illumination. It also is cooled with refrigerated air. It takes its place along with West Texas stores in Abilene, Sweetwater, Midland, San Angelo, Lubbock, and soon one in Odessa.

S&H is the only stamp company national in the scope of its operations which date back to 1896. Only nationally advertised brands are stocked in the redemption store under such names as Sunbeam, Westinghouse, Sonosonite, General Electric, International Silver, etc. Between 1,000 and 1,200 useful household items will be available for patrons.

This means that books of S & H stamps can be exchanged on the spot without necessity to send off for catalogued merchandise.

They're Yours

Typical of many of the useful household items—more than 1,000 of them—on display at the new S. & H. Green Stamp store opening here Wednesday is this grouping above. A few of the types of table and wall lamps available are shown along with a piece of Samsonite luggage, hassocks, a blonde oak coffee table, and rocking chair. The wall and curtain, and picture show how the S. & H. Company has spared no expense in displaying merchandise attractively for benefit of all who save S. & H. stamps. A number of new ideas in design and facilities are being tried in this, the newest of some 200 stores located strategically over the nation.

Local Stores Offer Stamps

While many cities in this area have offered S&H stamps for many years (Abilene has one store which has given them for 27 years), bulk of the co-operating firms here have maintained their Green Stamp connections for about three years.

Among the firms that issue S. & H. Green Stamps with purchases are Newsom Super-Markets (at W. 3rd and Bell and at Edwards and Gregg), Piggly Wiggly, Mead & Deal, Inc., Collins Bros. Drug, Collins Bros. Walgreen, Mort Denton Pharmacy, Western Auto Stores, Men's Store, Deluxe Cleaners, Cook Appliance, Cecil's Package, John Griffin Service Store, Cosden No. 5 (Eleventh Place & State), Cosden No. 7 (Fourth and Gregg), Albert & Son Phillips Service, Cecil Highway Shell Service, Grady Harland Mobile Service.

Way Should Be Provided So That Votes Will Go Where Intended

Following their conference Saturday, Gov. Adlai Stevenson stated his views on the tideland question and Gov. Alan Shivers his position on the Democratic nominees. Gov. Stevenson said he could not go along with complete state control of the tidelands; that he sided with the supreme court ruling of paramount federal rights; that he recognized a legislative impasse and therefore thought some sort of compromise could and should be effected on this point.

With equal candor, Gov. Shivers, on his return to Texas, elaborated on his statement that he couldn't concur with Gov. Stevenson. He said in view of Stevenson's stand he couldn't vote for the national Democratic nominees. Gov. Stevenson's stand on this issue, while it may be admitted for its frankness in view of the potential cost, nevertheless will cost him considerable support.

Allied Aviation Appears To Be Keeping Pace In Korea Conflict

For the first 22 days of August U. S. Sabre jet pilots shot down 26 Russian-built jets in aerial battles over Korea, but lost only one U. S. plane in these fights. In addition, the Fifth Air Force damaged 29 MIGs for the same period. An Air Force spokesman called this "probably the most clean-cut victory of the Korean War."

poils and war industries—as a way of emphasizing that while the Reds stall the truce talks, they cannot expect to enjoy immunity from punishment. That this campaign against their war potential is paying off is witnessed by the loud cries emitted by the Red radio against "Truman's butchers" and against General Mark Clark, "the American executioner." The Reds call it "murderous American bombing of civilians," but all raids on war industries and depots are preceded by warnings to civilians to get out of the way, delivered in the form of pamphlets dropped by Allied planes.

Atomic Energy Brings New Tools For Use By Research Scientists

er impact upon our lives. These will be computerlike machines capable of processing all sorts of information. In particular, they will take over much routine bookkeeping and inventory operations, realizing considerable economies in government and business.

One of these influences is the availability of new tools for research and therapy in the form of radioactive materials. For example, radioactive sugars have been synthesized recently which have contributed to advances in the development of artificial blood plasma and the understanding of basic processes in blood circulation. Radioactive cobalt has been made available, permitting an expansion in radiological therapy which has been restricted in the past by the limited availability of radium.

Most of these developments—as well as many others—have the following feature in common: they represent the application of known knowledge to specific problems. Radically new principles of science are not involved. The story of atomic energy illustrates this. The development of the atomic bomb was an application of nuclear physics. That development would have been impossible without first, some 50 years of basic work in atomic, nuclear, and electron physics which preceded it and, second, without the unprecedented concentration of talent and facilities which compressed many years of necessary additional research and development into a few. Yet major areas of nuclear physics still remain unknown or poorly understood, calling for additional research.

Ike Must Offer Own Substitute For Foreign Policy During The Campaign

WASHINGTON (U. S. P.)—Gen. Eisenhower, discontented with the foreign policy of the Truman administration, is confronted with the problem of offering a substitute of his own. He told a group of Midwestern Republicans last week he doesn't know what this government has been trying to do beyond the "containment of communism."

The Republican party's first step, if it is taken in November, should be to "abandon the so-called policy of containment of communism Containment is a policy which means in effect that we will be willing to call its quits with the Russians if they will be satisfied with 600 million captives, and let us alone." But Harriman, who sought the Democratic presidential nomination, disputed the word "containment." He said: "The President has never used the word, and neither has the secretary of state."

Film Epics Make Life In Old Days Glamorous

NEW YORK (U. S. P.)—Ever pine to live in the days of old, when knights were bold, and the telephone was not invented? Those times seem glamorous and adventurous, as portrayed by Hollywood in such film epics as "Ivanhoe," based on Sir Walter Scott's famous tale.

Those times seem glamorous and adventurous, as portrayed by Hollywood in such film epics as "Ivanhoe," based on Sir Walter Scott's famous tale. But a 20th century man, suddenly removed to the heyday of this 12th-century, metal-plated Hoppalong Cassidy, would find the going a little rough for his tastes. The modern girl would miss a few comforts, too.

Carrier Pigeon Is Returned In A Box

WITH 1ST CORPS, Korea (U. S. P.)—An Army carrier pigeon returned recently to the 1st Corps signal battalion—in a box. The pigeon named Joe, was missing for 10 days after a training flight. Soldiers at a forward division found him sitting on the ground, lost and bewildered. They boxed him up and sent him back by truck.

You think taxes are tough today. And as for Emily Post...Shudder..Shudder. There were no such niceties as present day forks and spoons. You hacked off slabs of meat with crude knives and ate by hand. Utensils were rarely washed. A husband coming home from the grocery store today is no such beast of burden as a knight faring forth to battle. His combat gear weighed 120 pounds, eight times the weight of the plastic body armor a Marine now wears in Korea. And buying a horse and suit of armor then was more expensive than it is now to purchase a Rolls Royce and a tailored sport jacket. A coat-of-mail—made by hand of tiny mesh rings—took one man four to five months to complete. And you only got one fitting. It was no job for a juvenile delinquent. A knight found guilty of dishonorable conduct received no second chance. He sat on a raised platform, while six priests on each side intoned the "vigil of the dead." After each psalm a herald stripped away a piece of armor. Then a bucket of filthy water was poured over the ex-knight's head, and he was publicly executed.

This Day In Texas

Founded on this day in 1849, under very unusual conditions, was the colorful Texas town of Boerne, 30 miles from Fredericksburg. It was named for Ludwig Boerne, one of the five founders. The young Germans, ardent disciples of Bettina Von Arnim, had come to Texas to establish a socialistic colony and to live far apart from the troubles of the world. They first settled a few miles from Boerne, naming their farm "Tusculum" for Cicero's country home. Two years later they moved to the site of the present town. The claim of pioneers that Colonel Robert E. Lee had temporary headquarters there is repeated here without guaranty of accuracy. Lee's tenure in Texas was too brief for him to have stopped in as many places as Texans claim. But definitely and closely linked with Boerne's story was George Wilkins Kendall, the first noted war correspondent, founder of the New Orleans "Times-Picayune," and ranchman. Most of what is now Kendall County was at one time his ranch. Narrow windows, outside stairways and small front yards still reflect an Old World atmosphere. Boerne was also a stopping point on the stagecoach line and the old station is still standing.

Here's A Jackrabbit Who Played Running Game With A Youngster

Anybody who knows the coyote should be well acquainted with the fact that this crafty scoundrel has as keen and original a sense of humor as anything with red blood in its veins, human beings and mule colts not excepted. For pure, doubly-distilled and unadulterated mischievousness, however the mule colt is without a peer. Frequently too, these non-reproducing hybrids carry this sense of making merry mischief right on into a venerable old age, just like men who have never grown up. The Jackrabbit is also frequently a fun-loving animal, and one that takes great delight in playing games.

er I had tangled with some hornets, and one eye was about closed with swelling, and I wasn't quite as comfortable in other spots as I might have been standing up, I hit this prairie and forgot about my friend the rabbit. Then I heard him making that peculiar screeching-screaming sound they make when they're shot and not killed, and looking down with that one good eye, where he was hopping along beside my horse, not ten feet away and looking up as if to say: "Well, where's that carbine?" I reached for the butt of it and away he went, and as usual I got in about five shots before he was out of sight. In time he got to playing the game with other horsemen who had heard about him, and people came for miles to see him. Then one day along came an old cowboy who was a pretty good shot with a sixgun and who didn't know it was just a game, and my friend Senor Jackrabbit became but a memory. After that I broke out a new trail to town and I've never seen that little patch of open ground since. But some day I'd like to go there again if I could be sure I could find it still range as it was and not land plowed up by some farmer. I'd like to take my daughter there on horseback and come in upon it along the same cow path I used to follow, and for the ten thousandth time tell her the story of that jackrabbit. And as we'd sit there in our saddles and I'd tell her the story I know, I'd see something she couldn't see no matter how dramatic I might be able to tell it—I'd see the ghost of that whimsical jackrabbit bounding away through the grass, looking back smiling and headed for the woods on the other side. After that I know I'd never want to see that patch of prairie again.

Matter Of Fact—Stewart And Joseph Alsop

Desperate Need Of Nation Today Is Leadership For The People

WASHINGTON—As one of these reporters leaves Washington to cover the campaign, it is perhaps permissible to take stock of this campaign's true meaning. Maybe it's heretical to say so, but this meaning is emphatically not conveyed by any of the current slogans—"It's time for a change"—"Don't let them take it away"—and so on. Halting bureaucratic encroachment, clearing up the mess in Washington, conserving social gains and the other things candidates talk about in campaign time, are no doubt very important. But they are not nearly as important as the survival of this Republic, which will be the chief problem of the next President of the United States.

Such are the choices, nonetheless, which will unavoidably confront the next President. This alone gives quite sufficient meaning to this truly portentous campaign and to the election which will be its climax. But this is far from being all of this campaign's meaning.

Take, for instance, the problem of Korea, or "Truman's war," as some of the Republicans call it. If we had not answered the aggressive challenge in Korea, the whole of the Far East and a good part of Europe as well would undoubtedly be in Communist hands today. But although this horrible alternative has been avoided, the alternatives which now confront us are far from attractive. We cannot resume the offensive in Korea, because our national strength is not sufficient. We cannot build greater national strength without going on a full-war basis. We cannot expect the enemy to sign a truce unless punishment makes it worth his while to do so. And we cannot sign a truce of surrender ourselves. Hence, we are reduced for the present to such expedients as taking the prisoner-of-war issue into the United Nations, in hopes of getting some help from world opinion. This is not the kind of equation that any President is likely to enjoy solving.

Leadership, leadership and more leadership is therefore the central need of this country—leadership to acquaint the members of the American society with their true situation; leadership to point the best way out; leadership to organize the ensuing effort. The meaning of this campaign is that it will determine what leadership America will have.

Uncle Ray's Corner Japanese Training Cormorants

The cormorant (pronounced KOB-moh-rant) is one of the world's famous fishing birds. It is related to the darter, of which I spoke yesterday, but has a shorter neck and shorter beak. Also the hooked beak differs from the darter's straight beak. Cormorants are found in various parts of the Northern half of the globe. Some of them spend winters south of the equator, but the majority stay north of that dividing line. Many are content with winters in Southern Canada or northern parts of the United States. Europe and Asia also have cormorants as year-around residents. In Japan and China, there are fishermen who train cormorants to fish for them. They say that the birds bring in more fish than could be obtained with hook and line. After sunset you may see Japanese fishermen go out in a small boat on an inlet of the sea. Perhaps there will be two men in the boat, and they may have the help of half a dozen cormorants. Hanging near the front end of the boat there is likely to be a basket, made of wire or strips of iron. A fire is kept up in the basket, and this tends to bring fish to the surface. Some cormorants have rings around their necks. The rings keep them from swallowing the fish which they capture.

The fishermen put such rings in place as part of the training of the birds. A well-trained cormorant may be allowed to fly about without any ring around its neck. If it has fallen into the custom of taking fish to the boat and dropping them there, it can be trusted. As a reward for bringing enough fish, the tame cormorants are given free periods during which they can eat as many fish as they catch. At such times, the rings are taken off the necks of all the birds. In Canada and the United States, many persons speak of cormorants as "ahags." These birds make nests from Nova Scotia to British Columbia, from Oregon to the Florida Keys. They are seen at their work of fishing on the Seal Rocks near San Francisco, and on islands off the coast of Maine. For MATURE section of your scrap-book. Tomorrow: Elephant Seals.
