Congress takes fast lane on road bill

By DAVID ESPO
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Congressional Democrats, victorious in a veto battle with the White House, say enactment of an $88 billion bill to build roads and raise the speed limit was not a "make or break" referendum on President Reagan's leadership for the remainder of his term.

"This was not a referendum on the president's popularity," Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said Thursday on the Senate, on a 67-33 vote, joined the House in enacting the massive authorization measure into law over Reagan's objections.

"President Reagan has nothing to be concerned about in terms of the effect of this vote on his leadership," Kennedy added.

Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., said, "This isn't going to make or break the president of the United States."

The new law permits states to raise the speed limit to 65 mph on roughly three-quarters of the nation's 43,000-mile interstate highway system. It also allocates federal highway and mass transit aid for the next five years. The Federal Highway Administration immediately began releasing $11 billion to states.

The measure also provides money for more than 100 "highway demonstration projects" that were tailor-made for individual members of Congress. Reagan called it a budget-buster and staked his prestige in the fight.

There was no dispute that the vote was a stinging defeat for the president, who made an extraordinary, last-ditch appeal for support in a hurried trip to the Capitol a few hours before the vote. But he was unable to enlist the aid of the 13 Republicans who were voting against him.

If Democrats refrained from claiming a major political victory, Republicans sought to shield Reagan from lasting damage.

"I don't think that any president's stature or prestige rides on a single issue or a single vote," said Sen. Pete Wilson, R-Calif., one of 13 Republicans who sided with Democrats in voting to override the veto.

Senate Republican leader Bob Dole of Kansas sought to turn the day's events to the advantage of the president, who had been criticized for a "hands-off" management style that contributed to his difficulties in the Iran-Contra affair.

Dole said Reagan spoke to Republican senators for 20 minutes without notes, adding, "It's money in the bank. . . He came up here, he went into the lion's den and he conducted himself as he should. He made it a little easier for the next time."

At the White House, spokesman Martin Fitzwater denied the defeat would be damaging to Reagan's ability to govern for the next 21 months, saying he thought the president would benefit from having demonstrated his willingness to fight.

Fitzwater quoted Reagan as reciting the verse of an old Scottish ballad as he met with Republicans before the vote, "I am wounded but not slain. I will rest awhile but I will rise and fight again. It's time for all of us to fight again."

In a written statement after the vote, Reagan said, "I am deeply disappointed by today's vote. I knew in advance that the battle would be tough and the odds were long. But we cannot retreat from our commitment to a responsible budget."

"My efforts to control spending are not diminished and I remain firm in my pledge to the American taxpayers to speak out against such budgetary excesses," Reagan added.

Sales tax proposal on ballot Area races hard-fought

By CATHY SPAULDING

Even though they lack a choice for city council members, Groom voters will decide Saturday whether they want to replace part of their property taxes with a half-cent sales tax increase.

The tax proposal and three mayor's races are among issues confronting area voters in Saturday's city and school election.

According to Groom City Secretary Pat Ashford, the city is proposing a half-cent per dollar sales tax increase, with the revenue going to the city's general fund. If passed, the sales tax increase will be offset by a proportionate decrease in property taxes, city officials contend.

"Some people feel this is a fairer tax because everyone pays a sales tax, not just landowners," Ashford said. "The drawback is that you don't collect the property tax."

The city collected $20,000 last year and $22,000 in 1985 on the current 1-cent sales tax, Ashford said. If collections keep up, the increase would amount to $10,000, she noted.

The sales tax increase would offset a 3 percent decrease in city property tax levies, Ashford reported.

"Not much has been said about it," Ashford said. "I haven't heard anyone express an opinion, and people haven't asked about it."

Ashford hasn't seen any organized support or opposition to the measure.

"I feel most people won't know until they get to the polls, but I might be surprised," she said.

There are no opposed Groom city races. Mayor Alfred Homer and council members Jerry

Setting Clocks Ahead

At 2 a.m. Sunday, April 5, most of the nation will switch to daylight-saving time by moving clocks ahead one hour.

Spring forward Sunday morning

By The Associated Press

Most of the nation will switch to daylight-saving time by moving clocks forward an hour at 2 a.m. Sunday.

Daylight-saving time goes into effect on the first Sunday of April this year, rather than the last Sunday in the month as in prior years.

Congress ordered the extra three weeks of daylight-saving time at the bidding of people who prefer a later sunset for such activities as sports and cookouts.

Daylight-saving time opponents prefer to keep that hour of light in the morning. Rural residents complain about sending their children to school bus stops in the dark and of being forced to begin farm chores before sunrise.

Proponents of daylight-saving time also wanted it extended in the fall, but Congress left the ending date at the last Sunday in October.

The time change, begun in 1918, was originally designed to reduce the need for lights in the evening, allowing fuel to be diverted to the American effort in World War I.

Farmers market sets Aug. 1 harvest

By CATHY SPAULDING
Staff Writer

Efforts to establish a Pampa farmers market are taking root now that a farmers market steering committee has selected a name and elected a board of directors.

The proposed market, which organizers hope to open by Aug. 1, was officially dubbed the Top o' Texas Farmers Market at a Thursday meeting of the committee.

Pampa farmer Gary Epperson, who oversaw the Thursday gathering, was elected chairman of the board. Bernard McClellan of McLean was elected vice chairman and Edgar Flynt of Pampa was chosen as secretary-treasurer.

Also chosen as board directors were John

Tripplehorn of Pampa and Hedley's Henry Hasty. Tripplehorn was not able to attend the meeting.

Since it was formed in early March, the steering committee has set up a set of rules and bylaws for the market. Committee members also visited with area farmers and markets in Amarillo and other communities to see how their markets operate.

Organizers hope to operate the market Wednesdays and Saturdays beginning Aug. 1. They suggested that the market open at 8 a.m. and close when the produce has been sold.

After touring potential market sites, committee members agreed to a proposal by Pampa City Manager Bob Hart to set the market up at the M.K. Brown Auditorium parking lot.

Epperson said the parking lot is one block east of Hobart Street, one of Pampa's most heavily traveled roads, and is close to the Coronado Shopping Center.

He added that Hart will allow the farmers to set up portable toilet facilities when the market is open.

Epperson said the market can obtain liability insurance through the Farm Bureau for $300 per year, plus a $25 membership fee.

The steering committee also adopted a set of rules and membership fees for the market. According to the rules, any farmers who are members of the Top o' Texas Farmers Market Association may sell produce they

Pampa voters to fill 7 spots

Pampa voters will cast ballots Saturday in three separate elections for mayor and city commissioner members, school trustees and a golf course referendum.

All polling places will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Four candidates are running for the two-year term in the office of mayor of Pampa. They are Paul Cadena, 18, 2100 W. Montagu, an employee of Bruce and Sons; Gene Finney, 42, 1035 S. Hobart, a Phillips Petroleum Co. employee; David McDaniel, 40, 2384 Chestnut, owner of Hi-Land Fashions Inc.; and Jerry Mullanax, 35, 929 Duncan, a Meers Oil Co. employee.

Mayor Sherman Cowan decided not to seek a second term.

Three ward commissioner posts are up for election this year, including a special called election for Ward 2 to fill the unexpired term of McDaniel, who resigned to run for mayor.

Ward 1 candidates seeking a two-year term are Ken Elliott, 47, 2234 Lynn, owner of Elliott's Glass and Home Center, and Ray Hupp, 46, 1817 Lea, a vice president of IRI International Inc. Commissioner Bob Curry opted not to run for another term.

Four candidates are hoping to fill the one year remaining in the vacant Ward 2 post. They are Dwight Fiveash, 43, 2501 Beech, a purchasing-stores agent at the Hoechst Celanese Chemical Co. Pampa Plant; W.A. Morgan, 72, 1938 Evergreen, a retired Celanese official; Richard Peet, 44, 2230 Duncan, a government instructor at Pampa High School and Clarendon College - Pampa Center; and Austin Sutton, 37, 706 E. 15th, owner of Sutton's of Pampa photography studio and an ordained minister.

Drummer Buddy Rich dies
LOS ANGELES (AP) - Hard-bitten, hot-tempered jazzman Buddy Rich, a self-taught drummer with "the fastest hands in the world," has died after a career spanning vaudeville, the Big Band era and decades on the road. He was 69.
Rich died Thursday at UCLA Medical Center, where he was undergoing outpatient chemotherapy for a brain tumor.
Rich got his start as a song-and-dance prodigy in curly locks at 1 1/2 years old, was earning $1,000 a week at age 15, and played with Big Band leaders Artie Shaw and Tommy Dorsey before starting his own band after World War II.
He stayed on the road into his late 60s, even after open-heart surgery in 1983.
Asked once who was the best drummer in history, the cocky and gregarious Rich didn't skip a beat.

Soviet denies 15,000 deaths
MOSCOW (AP) - Soviet scientist Leonid Ilyin branded as "a 100 percent lie" a Western report that 15,000 people died following the Chernobyl nuclear power plant disaster, Radio Moscow said today.
Ilyin, chairman of the Soviet National Commission for Radiation Protection, also said most of those who became ill as a result of the April 26, 1986, accident recovered and are back at work, the radio said.
By official Soviet account, 31 people died as a result of the reactor fire and explosion and resulting cloud of radioactivity released from the nuclear plant in the Ukraine. The radioactive cloud circled the Earth.
More than 200 people suffered from radiation sickness, Soviet officials say.
Igor Gerashchenko, the husband of Irina Ratushinskaya, a dissident poet from the Ukraine who recently was allowed to emigrate, gave the 15,000 figure in Washington on Tuesday.
Gerashchenko, a former Soviet factory worker,

Soviet denies 15,000 deaths

told the Commission on Security and Cooperation in Europe that "as far as I know from my friends who work in the largest Kiev hospitals, 15,000 individuals died in five months in those hospitals alone."
Radio Moscow quoted Ilyin as telling a news conference that the number was wildly inaccurate and "a 100 percent lie." He also was quoted as saying the Soviet government "has not been silent about the number of victims."
"Measures were taken then and continue to be taken today to eliminate the aftermath of the accident as soon as possible," Ilyin was quoted as saying.
U.S. government nuclear experts who recently visited Kiev and the damaged Chernobyl plant said in Washington on Wednesday they saw no evidence to support Gerashchenko's claim of 15,000 deaths.
Ilyin is a member of the presidium of the Soviet Academy of Medical Sciences and director of the State Biophysics Institute, which does research in cellular immunology, radiology and space medicine.

Grain silos blasted by explosion

BURLINGTON, Iowa (AP) - A huge grain elevator on the Mississippi River exploded today, blasting the tops off six silos and splitting two open. Witnesses said at least four people were injured.
"It blew the lid right off," said Charles Gates, managing editor of the Burlington Hawk Eye newspaper.
The newspaper offices are located 350 yards from the downtown Archer Daniels Midland elevator, used to store grain for shipment by railroad and by river barge, Gates said.
Jerry Ostendorf, operations manager for the state Office of Disaster Services, called it a major explosion.
"We believe it was caused by grain dust, although we don't have any confirmation," he said.
Four people were taken to hospitals, Gates said. Gates said the blast "was like a 2,000-pound bomb going off" and shattered windows in businesses within a 400-yard radius.

The top three-fourths of six 10- to 15-story grain silos at the facility were blown off in the 10:40 a.m. explosion, and the remaining two silos were split down the side, witnesses said.
"Huge flames are billowing out of the elevators and black smoke is pouring across the railroad tracks south along the edge of the river," Gates said shortly after the blast. "Some of the debris from the explosion landed on the roof of the Hawk Eye. We've got people up there extinguishing the burning debris."
"One eyewitness report had a man coming out of a tavern when the blast occurred and literally being blown down the street," said Steve Staebell, of Burlington radio station KBUR.
Authorities evacuated businesses in the area when tank cars containing anhydrous ammonia were found in a nearby Burlington Northern Railroad switching yard in this southeastern Iowa city of 30,000. Authorities said they feared a possible explosion would release the hazardous fumes into the atmosphere.

He and Tammy were just friends

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Songwriter and record producer Gary S. Paxton says his relationship with the Rev. Jim Bakker's wife was proper despite reports it may have pushed the TV evangelist into a tryst with another woman.
Published reports have said Paxton, 48, developed a close relationship with Tammy Faye Baker as her gospel record producer in the late 1970s.
"A lot of things have been said," Paxton said

Thursday in a telephone interview with The Associated Press. "I've outlived this for a long time. There wasn't anything bad in the first place."
The Washington Post reported Thursday that Bakker and others grew concerned about the relationship between Mrs. Baker and Paxton. The paper quoted Paxton's former wife, Karen, as saying Mrs. Bakker was in love with Paxton or at least thought she was.

School bus safety, prison bills clear Senate

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate has approved a bill that would require school buses bought or leased after Jan. 1 to be equipped with safety belts and special seats.

The Senate Thursday also accepted accepted House amendments to a bill that would allow private companies to build and operate prisons.

Senate approval of the so-called privatization bill set up a possible veto by Gov. Bill Clements.

Senate sponsor Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, said he thinks the Senate would override a veto.

Clements said he has not decided whether he will sign the bill.

Sen. Gene Green's seat belt bill was sent to the House on a 19-5 vote.

The bill would require seats with padded backs 28 inches high, 4 inches higher than those required by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration for all buses built after 1977.

Although the bill would require school buses to be equipped with safety belts, local school districts would decide whether to make students use them.

Green, D-Houston, estimated the belts and higher seats would add over $300 to the cost of a bus. The Legislative Budget Board estimated the extra cost at $4,000, or approximately $7 million a year statewide starting next year.

Buses currently in use would not have to have the additional equipment.

Sen. Bill Sarpalius, a former school bus driver, said that the safety belts could be dangerous because children might sling them around.

"And if you get an eye or teeth knocked out, the school district is going to be liable, especially since you are not mandating that they wear the seat belts," said Sarpalius, D-Amarillo.

The private prison bill was first approved by the Senate Feb. 19. After the House rejected an amendment that would have given the governor final say in private-prison contracts, the Senate appointed a conference committee, presumably to respond to the governor's concerns.

However, the House failed to appoint a negotiating committee and the Senate Thursday approved three House amendments to the bill, 22-0, sending it to the governor.

The governor and his chief of staff, Hilary Doran, blamed Rep. Clint Hackney, D-Houston, for refusing to work out a compromise on the prison bill.

"He's not willing to compromise. It's just that simple," Doran said.

Hackney said he did not ask that the committee be appointed because he did not want to make the House vote again on a measure that was sure to be defeated.

The proposal would authorize the Texas Department of Corrections to contract private companies, or counties, to design, build and operate prisons for up to 500 minimum- or medium-risk inmates.

A contract could not be signed unless it would mean a savings of at least 10 percent of the cost of a similar state facility.

In other action Thursday, the Senate approved and sent to the House bills that would:

- Transfer to the U.S. Department of the Interior the assets of the Alabama

Coushatta and Tigua Indian tribes, which would make the tribes eligible for federal benefits.

- Extend the life of the Texas Youth Commission to 1999.

- Allow courts to enforce property settlements in divorce cases by any method of enforcement available to the court, including contempt.

- Extend the life of the Texas Conservation Foundation to 1993.

- Create a state council to develop better wastewater treatment facilities.

- Raise the fee for "hot checks" from $15 to $25, payable to the county.

- Authorize the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation to obtain criminal conviction records of employees who have direct contact with patients in residential facilities.

- Regulate X-ray operators.

Texas given breathing room

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements says state government eluded "a terrible problem" when the attorney general said the Legislature may carry this year's $1 billion budget deficit into the next two-year spending period.

"If we had had to address that $1 billion shortfall between now and Aug. 31 ... I don't know what we would have done," Clements said after Attorney General Jim Mattox issued his ruling Thursday.

Had Mattox ruled that the deficit must be paid off by the end of the fiscal biennium, lawmakers would have been forced to raise $1 billion in taxes in only a few months or see state government grind to a halt.

But Mattox's decision only postponed things, officials said.

"Jim Mattox's decision ... turns the heat down on the pressure cooker, but we must not think that the goose isn't still cooking," said Treasurer Ann Richards.

House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, said Mattox offered good and bad news, since the $1 billion debt still must be paid off during the 1988-89 fiscal period.

"It gives us a little breathing room. That's about the only thing you can say," Lewis said.

"The good news is, we're not going to have to cut back in education spending, (prison construction or social programs)," Lewis said. And, government won't be "at a standstill, which would have happened if the attorney general's ruling had been otherwise."

"The bad news is ... we're $1 billion short. We're going to have to either make up that $1 billion or we're going to have to make $1 billion cuts," Lewis said.

Mattox's legal opinion was in response to questions from State Comptroller Bob Bullock, who wondered whether carrying the $1 billion debt from 1986-87 into the 1988-89 budget period would violate the Texas Constitution's pay-as-you-go provisions.

Mattox said although it might violate the spirit of the constitution, such a scheme is legal.

"In our opinion, there is no constitutional provision which forbids carrying an expected deficit forward to the next fiscal period," Mattox said.

But the Legislature must find a way to make up the $1 billion shortage during 1988-89, or the comptroller can't certify that budget as balanced, which is required by the constitution, Mattox said.

Mattox chided the Legislature for following the federal government's red-ink example.

"While I may be powerless to prevent this deficit financing, I feel it is my duty not to yield our constitutional heritage of a balanced budget without registering my protest," Mattox said.

The attorney general said Bullock has done his duty by telling the Legislature and governor of the anticipated deficit, and it now is up to lawmakers to live up to the constitution's balanced-budget requirements.

"The Texas Constitution imposes upon each member of the Legislature a duty to refrain from engaging in deficit financing," Mattox's legal opinion said.

"Failure of the Legislature to prevent deficit financing could cause the kinds of financial problems that the people spoke out against with the passage of (the balanced budget provisions)," he said.

Tony Proffitt, spokesman for the comptroller, said Bullock would follow Mattox's ruling.

The House Appropriations Committee gave up this week on its first try at writing a two-year spending plan that falls within Clements' $36.9 billion ceiling, a limit that includes $2.9 billion in sales and motor fuel tax increases.

Mattox gives his deficit spending opinion.

Judge says lawsuit seeking to bar shelter will be heard in state court

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — A state district judge has rejected arguments that a lawsuit seeking to bar a shelter for Central American refugees from Cameron County should be heard in federal court.

Darrell Hester decided Thursday he will hear arguments in the case, despite claims by defense attorney David Garza the lawsuit belongs in U.S. District Court because it raises a federal issue.

Opponents of Casa Oscar Romero contend the Catholic Diocese of Brownsville, which runs the shelter, is violating federal immigration laws by harboring illegal aliens.

Lee Zieger, one of four Brownsville businessmen who filed the lawsuit, said he would wait to ask for further hearings in the case until after Casa Romero relocates from its home in San Benito to a six-acre site east of here.

The lawsuit alleges the shelter will lower property values and create a nuisance in their neighborhood. Public pressure against the shelter prompted the San Benito City Commission last year to order the shelter to leave the city. The church is paying a fine for failing to meet a deadline to move out.

The lawsuit against the diocese, Bishop John Fitzpatrick and the Cameron County Commission claims the shelter "will result in 'people pollution' and will result in harm suffered by the plaintiffs and other persons living at or near the immediate area of the Casa Romero site."

Hester earlier had ruled that the diocese needed to obtain a mobile home park permit to relocate to Brownsville. But to avoid delay, the diocese instead obtained building permits to construct a dormitory and kitchen on the land.

County Attorney Brian Janis said the county, with its limited zoning authority, had no choice but to grant the building permits.

Motorists will exceed speed limit

Off Beat

By Jimmy Patterson

As the old saying goes, "Bad news travels like wildfire."

On Thursday, the news on the radio quickly proclaimed, "Senate overrides Reagan's veto on highway bill."

What that means to you and me is that we will soon be able to drive 65 m.p.h. on some rural highways.

Driving back from Amarillo to Pampa Thursday afternoon, I noticed that travelers immediately took the announcement to heart.

As many as 16 vehicles passed me by, and I drove 55 all the way from Amarillo to Pampa.

As amazing as it may seem, one of those vehicles was a bus with a "Phillips (High School) Black-hawks" insignia on the side.

And, here's another interesting point I noticed: As I drove out of Amarillo, Panhandle, and White Deer, the speed limit signs still loudly shouted "Speed Limit: 55."

But still, cars passed me by and by.

It's not that I'm completely against the 65 m.p.h. speed limit. If all drivers would legitimately drive 65, then, I guess, that would be acceptable.

What I'm against are those drivers who feel that "65" means 80 and 90 m.p.h.

To a lot of drivers, "55" means 70 or 80.

With a 10 m.p.h. increase in the limit, it follows that a lot of drivers will feel that "65" means 80 or 90.

I'm not saying that I'm a saint. Many times I, too, exceed the posted limit.

But, with the posted limit at 55, I do not drive 65. My maximum speed on the highways is 58. And, still I am passed.

And, I'm not buying what I heard on the news the other night.

One driver told a reporter, "55 is dangerous. Because if we drive at 55, we fall asleep."

Come on, people, wake up!

Face it, the 55 m.p.h. speed limit is the best thing to ever happen to this country in terms of saving lives on the highways.

Statistics show that lives have been saved because of the lower speed limit.

But our senators and congressmen are damning the lifesaving legislation enacted by President Ford.

President Reagan tried. Oh, how he tried.

Reagan knows what an increase in the speed limit will mean, but both branches of congress indicated he didn't know what he was talking about.

Why can't we put a governing device on all vehicles that would prevent drivers from driving over 65, except in cases of extreme emergencies?

And, if this 65 m.p.h. speed limit is to be enacted, then why can't we outlaw radar devices?

It seems if the radar detectors were banned, then more drivers would feel squeamish about driving over the posted limit.

And I'm tired of truckers saying a higher speed limit will mean more money in their pockets.

Bunk!

It may mean a marginal amount of profit to them, but when you think of the increase in fatalities, it probably evens out, I'm sorry to say.

I suppose I'll have to abide by the new law when it officially takes effect. Because, if I continue to drive 55 m.p.h., I immediately become a traffic hazard.

And, you do, too.

Imagine yourself driving 45 m.p.h. when the limit is 55. How quickly do the cars pass you by?

Remember, though, you cannot legally drive 65 until the speed limit signs say you can.

You've seen that bumper sticker: "Speed on brother, hell ain't half full. Oh, how that saying has come to life. Or death."

And, you've seen the saying: "55 Saves Lives."

But never will you read a bumper sticker that reads, "65 Saves Lives."

Closed doors continue at Texas prisons

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — The Texas Department of Corrections remains closed today with a near record number of inmates in the 26-unit prison system, officials said.

The department closed its doors to new admissions after the system was deluged with new convicts earlier this week, putting the inmate population over a state-mandated 95 percent capacity.

Figures at midnight Wednesday and released Thursday showed 38,855 inmates, or 96.14 percent of capacity — 461 prisoners more than the 95 percent limit allowed by state law, prison spokesman Charles Brown said.

Only 92 inmates were released on parole Thursday, he said.

The prison system, the nation's third-largest behind California and New York, is regularly closed to new admissions and releases on weekends.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Opinion

Wright leads way to red-ink policies

Since he became speaker of the House several months ago, Jim Wright has fulfilled his promise to make waves on Capitol Hill. The Texas Democrat wasted no time in urging Congress to postpone the president's tax reform plan as a means of reducing the ever-growing budget deficit. When Mr. Wright's trial balloon was quickly deflated by wary Democrats, he called for a $20 billion tax increase as the best way to meet the Gramm-Rudman target of $108 billion for reducing the 1988 fiscal deficit.

Actually, an additional $42 billion in revenue increases and spending cuts would be required to reach the $108 billion target mandated by the 1985 law. Mindful of its dilemma, Congress is already talking about coming close to — rather than hitting — the target. Indeed, Democratic chairmen of the House and Senate budget committees suggested the other day that they could live with a $130 billion budget deficit when the new fiscal year begins Oct. 1. That, of course, would require Congress to pass another law raising the Gramm-Rudman targets.

Speaker Wright wants to raise taxes another $20 billion next year, while his colleagues raise the deficit ceiling by $22 billion. This legislative sleight of hand would enable Congress to pick the pockets of taxpayers to pay for enhanced spending programs. So much for the fiction that the new-and-improved Democratic Party has abandoned its discredited philosophy of "tax and tax; spend and spend; elect and elect."

It is obvious Mr. Wright and his cohorts are proposing a clear violation of both the spirit and the intent of the balanced budget act, a violation President Reagan is duty bound to oppose as he has done consistently since he entered the White House.

Mr. Wright interprets his new leadership to serve as a catalyst for the Democrats, who have generally recoiled from a tax confrontation with the president.

Meantime, Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd is being cagey and cautious. And with good reason. The West Virginia Democrat knows full well that a tax increase is hardly possible without Mr. Reagan's concurrence. Moreover, Sen. Byrd is reluctant to pick a fight with the president that would place the Democrats on the defensive and perhaps even jeopardize their regaining the White House in 1988.

Still, the pressure is on congressional Democrats to do something about the budget deficit.

Little wonder rivers of red ink flood on unchecked out of Washington.

Union distorts trade issue

It is the year 2007. A thin, gray-haired man sits huddled under a blanket in a bare room. "Sure, I remember," he says. "It was back in '87. Washington had promised to do something about the trade problem. We were losing our factories, our jobs, our ability to produce. Corporations just kept going where wages were cheapest. Farmers kept going under. We could have done something in 1987, before we lost it all." He pauses, his face said. "Such a shame."

The United Auto Workers have seen the future, and it doesn't work. This television commercial is part of a nationwide campaign to build support for "a trade bill with some teeth in it." What the UAW wants is Rep. Richard Gephardt's trade amendment, which would restrict imports from any nation running a big trade surplus with the U.S. It would shut out imports and protect politically powerful American industries — with no regard from consumers, other industries or the health of the general economy.

But the picture it draws is a fraud. The ads promote several glib propositions: That manufacturing is disappearing, that free trade is impoverishing workers and everyone else, that the real villain is "unfair trade" by other countries. Each is false.

Take the plight of manufacturing. Despite the decline of a few industries, this sector has been conspicuous for its stability. In 1960, manufacturing produced 20.3 percent of the nation's output. In 1984 it accounted for 21.8 percent. Total employment also has grown slightly. In 1975, the U.S. had 19.5 million people working at manufacturing jobs; in 1985, the number was 21 million.

In fact, producers of durable goods have shown unheralded vitality. Since 1981, manufacturing productivity has risen by 4.1 percent a year, more than four times as fast as in the preceding four years. Those sorts of gains make American goods more competitive in the world market.

Envious trading partners like Japan have not done any better. The number of people employed in manufacturing grew at a slower rate in Japan than here between 1975 and 1985, and it is expected to fall over the next 15 years. As a share of national output, Japan's manufacturing has declined by a tenth since 1960.

An economy that has added 12 million new jobs in less than five years is hard to square with the UAW's bleak vision. Perhaps the problem lies in the quality of the employment? Actually, no. Contrary to popular myth, most of these are not low-paying, dead-end jobs.

Under the Reagan administration, as columnist Warren Brookes noted recently in The Wall Street Journal, only 6 percent of the new jobs have been low-paid. Under Jimmy Carter, 42 percent were. Real after-tax income per capita has risen by 11 percent in the past six years — or 1 1/2 times as much as in the previous eight years. Some impoverishment.

Claiming that our trade deficit grows out of unfair trade practices is a useful rhetorical device, but it isn't something protectionists really believe. What matters is not fairness or unfairness but American jobs. In last year's bill to restrict textile imports, vetoed by the president, Congress elected to punish Hong Kong, which has probably the most open economy in the world. Gephardt's bill likewise targets any country that runs too big a trade surplus with the U.S., whether it's achieved fairly or unfairly.

Among the many facts that the UAW ads omit is the high cost of import barriers. In the case of the "voluntary" quotas on Japanese auto sales in the U.S., each American job saved cost about $240,000. In the case of the textile quotas, each job saved would cost about $6,000. In both cases, the cost to consumers would be several times greater than the earnings of the worker whose job is preserved.

The ads also overlook the track record of U.S. protectionism, which is an almost complete failure. For every Harley-Davidson, a manufacturer restored to vigor by a respite from competition, there are dozens of companies that have shrunk or closed down despite all the government's efforts to keep them alive — in steel, autos, textiles, shoes and more. Instead of reversing competitive trends, protectionism usually only delays them, at a huge cost.

Costs like that are a drain on the economy and an obstacle to higher living standards. As the ad warns, we may all end up poor and hungry, huddled under blankets in bare rooms — but only if we adopt the UAW's trade policy.

Students learn about babies

In Selah, Wash., Mary Ann Johnson teaches high school.

She believes that high school students should be learning a fourth "R."

After reading, writing and arithmetic — responsibility.

She organized a class in "parenting." As part of the school's vocational department, "parenting" is offered two trimesters, each session 12 weeks.

Students learn about prenatal care, pregnancy, childbirth and infant care.

So far her classes are not unlike "sex education" classes in many schools — most of which have had only limited effectiveness in accomplishing the objective of self-discipline.

So Johnson introduced something new. Each of her female students is required to adopt a flour-sack baby for one week. The student signs an adoption contract. The make-believe flour-sack baby weighs five pounds.

The student must keep a daily log proving that the "baby" has been provided with a proper crib, car seat and feeding schedule.

The student is allowed to enlist help from parents or to employ baby-sitters only if the student pays the sitter out of her own funds.

The first day is fun, with friends making jokes about "Why are you carrying around that flour sack?" and "Who's the father?"

But by the third day the fun's over.

Now the feeding schedule, including nightly interruptions when the alarm clock goes off at prescribed hours, becomes burdensome. Parents become less willing. Sitters become more expensive.

The required schedule of feeding, diapering and holding "baby" grows more and more tedious and confining.

Student Shaoatil Hernadoa says, "Babies take a lot of time; I had no idea."

Johnson explains that this is "light parent duty" — minus the crying and diaper washing and colic — so the make-believe mothers are not allowed to neglect other duties.

Should a student parent not care for her baby properly she is liable to be brought up on charges of child neglect, subject to "prosecution."

And the student parent can never go anywhere outside her own home without providing for the newborn.

Even to school!
Parenting, they learn, is a 24-hour-a-day job. Sharree Edinger, one of the student parents, says, "Guys should take this class, too."

After experiencing the rigors of parenting — even "light parenting," even for one week — most of the 16- to 18-year-old students say they are not yet ready to become mothers.

Prisoner of conscience violated the law

By Vincent Carroll

It isn't hard to locate deserving prisoners of conscience — men and women jailed for their religious, political or other unpopular beliefs.

They languish in despicable solitude from Afghanistan to Zaire, often tortured and sometimes killed without even the formal cover of a government-rigged trial.

So guess who Amnesty International is pounding the drums for these days? Who do you suppose is the sympathetic subject of thousands of letters written in the Netherlands, West Germany and France and sent to the offending government's officials?

Why, Stacey Lynn Merkt, an American woman serving a mere 179 days in federal lockup for conspiracy to transport Salvadorans illegally in this country.

You might think Amnesty International would have more urgent cases to worry about, and of course it does.

Yet such is its anxiety to appear politically neutral that it strains to find human-rights violations even where they are most rare, which is to say in Western democracies.

Merkt wasn't imprisoned because of her convictions. She acted upon them, certainly, but in doing so she also broke an unremarkable law meant to help control the flow of people across U.S. borders. Virtually every country on the planet regulates immigration. If anything, few manage the task as clumsily as the United States.

For Amnesty International, the pivotal fact in the Merkt case is the nationality of the aliens.

"We believe she is a prisoner of conscience because when she assisted the Salvadoran refugees, they would have been in danger of human rights violations of concern to the organization if returned to the country," an Amnesty spokesman said from London.

The trouble with this argument is that it's purely speculative. Hundreds of thousands of Salvadorans, perhaps as many as 10 percent of the country's population, live in the United States. Surely it's obvious that most were motivated to come here by something other than direct threats or looming persecution.

Even careful efforts to track deported Salvadorans have failed to prove the existence of a special risk, despite occasional claims to the contrary.

Naturally it's dangerous to live in a country embroiled in civil war — dangerous for everyone. Does that mean the United States should throw open its doors to refugees from any nation in upheaval? If so, half of the world would soon be living next door.

To be fair, the Merkt case is hardly the sole priority of Amnesty International. The group's thousands of committed members have taken many other prisoners under their wing, in countries ringing the globe. And to a degree rare among international groups these days, Amnesty refrains from anti-Western cant.

Still, the Merkt case ruffles. A similar jailing in almost any other nation would have passed with hardly a murmur.

This is a woman, after all, who can communicate easily with her friends during her short six months in prison. There will be doctors to treat her if she comes down ill. Her release won't be delayed by arbitrary government action. No guard will lay a hand on her in political vengeance.

Tell that to the wretched victims of oppression in the dungeons of Indonesia, Sri Lanka, Chile, the Congo, Iran and Iraq.

And then explain to them why an organization with so noble a purpose — and generally so noble a practice — as Amnesty International would expend its energy on a prisoner like Stacey Lynn Merkt.

Pampa

Seeking the two-year Ward 3 post are Robert W. Dixon, 54, 1005 Darby, senior field representative for Equifax Inc., and incumbent Joe Reed, 27, 419 Carr, owner of Sir Plus surplus store and associate with Tex-O-Kan Transportation.

Voters in the Pampa Independent School District will fill three vacancies on the school board Saturday as incumbents Wallace Birkes in Place 1, Darville Orr in Place 2 and Dr. Robert Lyle in Place 3 all are stepping down.

In Place 1, Pampa dentist Dr. Keith Teague, 39, 2525 Beech, is running unopposed.

Place 2 features a three-way race — and the possibility of a run-off election if no candidate garners more than 50 percent of the vote — between Dwight Crocker, 33, 429 Doyle, an equipment operator for Pampa Concrete Co.; Jack Gindorf, 35, 2339 Cherokee, an insurance agent; and Lonnie Richardson, 63, 1819 Evergreen, a retired Celenese employee.

In Place 3, where Dr. Lyle first filed and then decided to drop out of the race, Four R Industrial Supply Co. Vice President John S. Curry, 39, 721 N. Russell, is facing Perfix Chemical Co. salesman Steve Phillips, 36, 2220 N. Christy.

But city and school races won't be all that's on the minds of voters Saturday.

Residents of Gray County will also vote on whether county taxpayers should help the city of Pampa construct a public golf course. Golf course votes will be cast at the same locations as school board elections in the county's five school districts.

The golf referendum asks county voters if they support or oppose contracting with the city of Pampa to help build a public golf course. If approved, the county will provide personnel and equipment plus up to $300,000 toward construction.

"The costs to the county may increase county taxes," the referendum reads.

Under the proposal, put forth by the Pampa Public Golf Association, the city of Pampa would own and operate the course at one of two locations, north or south of Pampa. The association has pledged to kick in about $100,000 in donations received for the project.

The first nine holes would be constructed first, with the back nine to be completed as funds become available.

County Clerk Wanda Carter said today that 440 people voted absentee on the golf course referendum, saying the absentee vote forecast a heavy turnout in Saturday's election.

News Editor Larry Hollis and Senior Staff Writer Paul Pinkham contributed to this report.

POLLING PLACES

Voters in Pampa and Gray County go to the polls between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. Saturday to cast ballots in mayor and city commission races, school trustee elections and a public golf course referendum.

Complicating the voting this year is trying to decide where to go to vote, since there is no one central voting place for all three elections — not in Pampa, anyway. People wanting to vote for all three must go to at least two polling places here.

Voters in Pampa city races must cast ballots in the polling place for their ward.

Ward 1 residents vote at Travis Elementary School, 2300 Primrose; Ward 2 at the North Fire Station, 321 E. 17th; Ward 3 at Lovett Memorial Library, 111 N. Houston; and Ward 4 at the South Fire Station, 1010 S. Barnes.

The Ward 3 polling place was changed this year from the Pampa Optimist Club Building to the library.

Balloting for Pampa Independent School District trustees will be at a central location, the Choir Room in the Pampa High School Music Building, 111 E. Harvester.

In Lefors, city election voting will be held in the Lefors Civic Center, with school voting at Lefors High School Library.

In McLean, residents vote for both city and school races at Lovett Library there.

After that, it starts getting a little more complex.

Those casting ballots in the Gray County public golf course referendum generally will vote at the same location as the school trustee elections.

In addition to the above-mentioned school trustee polling places, Grandview-Hopkins Independent School District residents will vote for trustees and the golf referendum at the school auditorium. Alanreed Independent School District residents, who do not have to worry about any city elections, can cast school and golf ballots in the school cafeteria.

But Laketon area voters, who also do not have any city elections, will have to come to Pampa to the PHS Choir Room to cast ballots for the golf course referendum.

Residents who need transportation Saturday to the polls in Pampa can call the Tri-County Democrat Club at 665-2691. The club is offering the rides as a public service. City and school elections are not conducted on a political party basis, so the service is being provided as a non-partisan activity.

Ballot

Thornton and Jerry Fields are seeking re-election.

The Groom school race, however, is packed with five candidates seeking two spots: Charles Fields, Janice Weinheimer, Phyllis Jackson, Joe L. Homer and Bobby Pool.

Groom voters go to the Groom school administrative offices for both elections.

White Deer residents will choose from an abundance of candidates in city and school races when they vote at the new White Deer gym.

Six candidates seeking three city positions are Lloyd Collis, Dean Wyatt, David Harrah, Darrell Cathey, Bill Abbott and Randy Barret.

Charlie Sutterfield gave up his White Deer council position to run in the White Deer-Skellytown school race, where he is joined by incumbent Trustee John Kotara and Jay Smith for the Place 6 position. Place 7 candidates are Bertie Gallegly, Manuel Vigil, Melvin Dennis and Bill Lowe.

Shamrock voters also have heavy dual slates. Five candidates area seeking two school positions: Dennis Pasley, Steven Awbrey, Alan Rae, Kenneth Campbell and Patsy Williams. Seven candidates seek three city posts: Jackie Campbell, Charles Shields, Jerry O'Neal, Jerry Burton, Frank Sturgeon, James Renney and Mark Thomas.

City voters vote at the City Hall annex. School voters go to the junior high school gym.

Wheeler races also are crowded. Six candidates seek two school positions. For Place 1, Jim Wright battles Patty McNeil. For the Place 2 seat, Betty Hennard, Melvin Coate, Jimmy Helton and Laura Underwood square off. Donald Ellisor is unopposed for Place 3.

In Wheeler city races, Bobby VanPool battles Zedell Swift in Place 1. Bernice Hall and Eddy Richardson go for Place 3, while Mark Frankenberg, Eddy Hughes and Jess Sheets wage war in Place 5.

All voters cast ballots at the Wheeler school.

Lefors voters have their choice of seven candidates for two school positions: Garrel Robertson, Larry Gilbreath, Barry Jackson, Virginia Archer, Chester Hill, Karen Lake and Larry Daniels. City candidates Larry Daniels, Derl Boyd and R.B. White are unopposed for their three seats. Voters in city elections go to the civic center; the Lefors school polling place is at school library.

Mobeetie voters choose from four candidates for two school positions: James Batton, Aaron Laverty, Greg Estes and Kevin Frankenberg. Mayor Leona House is unopposed in her re-election bid, as are City Council candidates Roy Stribling and Dennis Hilburn. Voters cast ballots at the school foyer.

Canadian voters choose between incumbent Therese Abraham and Carl Hornbeck for mayor and Tommy Gibbs Jr., Wyvonne McDaniel, Jim Waterfield, Roger Wainwright and Kathy Fuson for two council seats. Elise Krehbiel is running unopposed for an unexpired one-year term on the City Council. Five candidates seeking two two-year terms are John Ramp, J. Mitchel Ashley, Jay Godwin, Frank Carver and Dan Cornett.

Voters go to the Canadian High School foyer.

Miami voters go to the city-county building to vote. They must choose between Tom Stribling and Herb Carson for mayor. Incumbent council members Joe Bill Seuhns and Royce Bailey are unopposed. Three candidates for two school spots are Charles Byrum, Tom Henderson and Ken Gill.

McLean voters must choose between George Green and Bill Thomas for mayor. Joe Don Cook and John Z. Bible are battling for a one-year unexpired term on the City Council. Candidates for two full terms are Mike Harkins, Louise Turner, Gerald Reynolds and Dale Glass.

School trustees Jake Hess and James Hefley are unopposed. Voters go to the Lovett Library for the city and school elections and the golf referendum.

No dancin' in Anson; prom moves to Abilene

ANSON (AP) — They won't be dancing in Anson tonight, but the Anson High School prom will be held at Abilene where the students can dance.

In fact, no one will be dancing in Anson anytime soon since there's a city ordinance against public dancing.

The students moved their prom to Abilene, 26 miles to the south, so they can evade a 54-year-old ban against dancing and ignore strenuous objections from fundamentalist preachers.

Proms in past years at Anson have been seated banquet affairs with no one permitted to wander out on the dance floor. Last year, the prom was held in Abilene, but when the students started to dance to recorded music, a teacher-chaperone quickly put a stop to it.

This year, an agreement has been worked out so that when the school-organized gathering ends at an Abilene hotel, the students can attend a dance party sponsored by Footloose, an Anson group pushing for an end to the ban. The party will be attended by high school juniors and seniors, said Joan Sandoval, vice president of Footloose.

Unemployment at lowest rate in seven years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civilian unemployment fell slightly to 6.6 percent in March — the lowest rate in seven years — as a decline in the nation's labor force more than made up for a slowing in the rate of new job creation, the government said today.

The number of Americans at work or seeking jobs fell by 127,000 last month, the Labor Department said.

Meanwhile, the number of those listed as unemployed 113,000 to 7,854,000. It was the first time that number had sunk below 7.9 million since April 1980.

The jobless rate had been at 6.7 percent for three months, with the number of jobless hovering around 8 million. The rate has not risen since September.

Different Labor Department surveys produced contradictory estimates of job growth in the economy. A survey of households showed employment declining by 14,000 last month, to 111,368,000.

But a survey of industrial payrolls showed 165,000 new jobs were created. Some 35,000 of those jobs were in retail trade; 73,000 were in health and business services.

The explanation for the seeming disparity is this: A person with two jobs is counted only once in the household survey, while each payroll is logged in the other calculation.

"As has been the case during the entire current recovery, the service-producing industries continued to show strong growth ... with about 230,000 over the month," said Janet L. Norwood, the department's commissioner of labor statistics. "The goods-producing sector did not fare so well."

Manufacturing employment declined by 24,000, the payroll survey showed. Construction employment fell by 47,000.

"In March, as winter recedes and good weather sets in, employment generally increases," Ms. Norwood said in testimony to the congressional Joint Economic Committee. "However, the seasonal gains in construction may have been dampened in March because of improvement earlier in the year," which would not normally be true.

The department's calculations are seasonally adjusted in an attempt to remove the effects of routine, periodic factors.

Is AWOL soldier reported defector?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union says it has accepted an American soldier who defected, but Pentagon officials are still not saying who he is.

The Pentagon said Thursday it is investigating whether Wade Evan Roberts who went AWOL in West Germany last month is the William E. Roberts the Russians say has joined them.

Roberts disappeared from his field artillery unit at Giessen, West Germany, on March 2, and was declared a deserter on Thursday.

On the same day, the Kremlin announced that an American soldier and his West German wife had defected to the Soviet Union and been granted asylum because they feared political persecution.

New flood threat in Maine; snow moves South

By The Associated Press

Floodwaters remained at rooftop levels in Maine today after destroying bridges and homes, carrying off an 18th century British stockade and driving hundreds from their homes, while a storm over the East produced snow almost to the Gulf of Mexico.

A state of emergency remained in effect in Maine, where state officials said water levels were too high to estimate the damage, but Guilford town manager Robert Littlefield said losses in his community alone were in the millions.

"I think we lost everything," said a weeping Rolande Poirier of Augusta, who clutched her dog and gazed at her flooded home. She vowed to move back "as soon as I can go in and clean it up."

Snow fell early today as far south as Hattiesburg, Miss., about 70 miles from the Gulf, and bridges were being sanded in Jackson. Snow also fell in Michigan's northeastern Lower Peninsula.

The forecast called for heavy snow today over the central and southern Appalachians, with up to 6 inches possible in the mountains of northwestern North Carolina and up to 4 inches in northeastern Tennessee.

Maine's most destructive flooding in memory began Wednesday when heavy rain and melting snow swelled New England rivers and streams. In Nashua, N.H., witnesses said a person fell into the flooding Nashua River on Wednesday and was believed drowned.

Maine's Kennebec and Androscoggin rivers ripped out bridges, swept houses downstream and drowned livestock. Hundreds of residents were evacuated from their homes, some taken to shelters by state and National Guard helicopters.

Residents braced for more flooding today along the Penobscot River, which was expected to crest at Eddington at 6 feet above flood stage. The St. John River also continued rising.

In Winslow, the Kennebec tore three homes from their foundations and swept away the Fort Halifax stockade, the oldest wooden fortification in the country.

House panel slashes 'Star Wars' budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's "Star Wars" budget request was reduced sharply in the first test vote of the new Congress for his research program to find a shield against Soviet nuclear attack, congressional sources say.

A House subcommittee voted Thursday to cut $2 billion from Reagan's request for $5.8 billion for Star Wars spending in the fiscal year starting Oct. 1, the sources said.

The decision was taken as the subcommittees of the Democratic-controlled House Armed Services Committee met to write a budget authorizing the Pentagon's budget for the next fiscal year.

The Star Wars vote came in the research and development subcommittee, according to the sources, who spoke only on condition of anonymity.

The full committee will meet next week to vote on the defense budget before sending it to the House for floor action later in the spring. A similar process will be followed in the Senate, and the differing versions that pass the chambers will be reconciled by a House-Senate conference committee.

Reagan wanted $312 billion for the Pentagon next year, which would be a 3 percent hike beyond inflation. Both Republicans and Democrats agree he is unlikely to win that amount, but the committee is writing its version of the defense budget based on the $312 billion figure. The president sought $5.8 billion for the Strategic Defense Initiative, as Star Wars is known formally. That would have included $5.2 billion in Pentagon spending and another $600 million in the budget of the Energy Department, which oversees some SDI research.

Currently, the SDI budget is $3.6 billion, a reduction by Congress from the original request of $5.3 billion.

The research subcommittee staff recommended the $2 billion cut, the sources said. Rep. Frank McCloskey, D-Ind., lost 12-6 when he moved to reduce the SDI figure to $2.85 billion, the sources said.

Then, Rep. Jim Courter, R-N.J., was beaten, 13-4, on his proposal to approve Reagan's original request, according to the sources. That was followed by 10-8 defeat of a proposal by Rep. Duncan Hunter, R-Calif., to provide $4 billion for the program.

In another decision, the subcommittee voted to give the Air Force more than $300 million the service wants to fix the new B-1B bombers, but rejected a proposal to make the Air Force find that money by cutting other programs.

The panel also voted to eliminate $600 million from the bill for the rail version of the controversial MX nuclear missile. The Pentagon wanted the money to build 50 of the giant missiles and put them on trains.

Bank offering 'no-risk' investment speculation

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Some call it a bold, innovative idea and a great deal for savers and investors. Others say it is ill-advised, abusive, even dangerous. Nobody seems to be neutral about a new type of certificate of deposit being offered by Chase Manhattan Corp., combining a play on the stock market with the protection of federal deposit insurance.

Chase calls its brainchild "Market Index Investment" — a series of CDs with maturities ranging from 3 months to one year, which were introduced to considerable fanfare a couple of weeks ago.

The interest paid on the CDs is pegged to the performance of Standard & Poor's 500-stock composite index from the date the CD is purchased to the date when it matures.

Example: You buy a 12-month CD, opting for no guaranteed interest. Next spring, when the CD matures, Chase promises to pay you interest based on 70 percent of the increase in the S&P 500 between now and then.

Potential profit: Unlimited! Potential risk? "No risk at all. None," says James Grant in his newsletter Grant's Interest Rate Observer.

In the worst case — if the stock market goes nowhere or declines — Chase says it will pay depositors back their principal at maturity.

There is what economists call an "opportunity cost" here. If your bet on the stock market doesn't pay off, you will have missed out on interest of 6 percent to 6.5 percent you could have earned in a conventional CD.

As Grant points out, however, you pay that same opportunity cost in most kinds of stock-market speculations. And, he suggests, it is a small price for a guarantee against loss.

For its part, Chase presumably can protect itself from financial harm. But even if its strategy should somehow go awry, that's not the depositors' worry. They are covered, up to $100,000 worth, by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Movable feast

(AP Laserphoto)

Workers float the former Edwards restaurant building to a safe mooring place after it was lifted from its foundation near the Kennebec River in downtown Augusta, Maine, by floodwaters Thursday. The flooding was described by the National Weather Service as an event that could take place an average of only once in 500 years.

Alcohol allowed on TWU campus

DENTON, Texas (AP) — After an 86-year dry spell, students at Texas Women's University will now be allowed to have alcohol on campus, officials say.

The change was approved Wednesday by the TWU Board of Regents, said Dr. Glenda Simmons, vice president for student life.

Beth Costa, president of the Student Government Association, said the ban on alcohol, which had been in effect since the school was founded, made it seem "like we're being chastised because we are living on campus."

She said the ban on alcohol didn't stop students drinking because they were able to get it elsewhere.

The new policy permits alcoholic drinks at the clubhouse of the TWU golf course and in dormitory rooms of students who are at least 21, she said.

Faculty groups also may serve alcohol in a "private club environment" on campus, Ms. Simmons said.

El Paso mayor seeks 4th term

EL PASO (AP) — The mayor of this mostly Hispanic city is a well-heeled Connecticut Yankee who has held court here for six years and is expected to make another strong showing in this year's elections.

Jonathan Rogers also has gained fame for his efforts to combat stuffed shirts, each summer terrorizing tie-wearing bureaucrats with his scissors to enforce his hot-weather ban on ties.

"I believe that I'm an El Pasoan and that the citizens of El Paso will re-elect me," said Rogers, who has made his home here for the last 30 years.

Rogers, 58, was first elected in 1981 and is seeking a fourth consecutive term Saturday, his last by city charter rules. The only other mayor who led El Paso for eight years in a row was J.E. Anderson, from 1939 to 1947.

Contenders for the two-year term are Joe Mendoza, a physician and former chairman of the El Paso County Democratic Party; and Richard G. Wagner, a high school teacher who served one term on City Council in the late 1970s.

Chuy de la O, a picturesque character who frequents downtown government buildings, is a write-in candidate.

Rogers is by far the leader, although he said "there's always a chance" he may not be re-elected.

The retired mortgage banker has ruled City Hall with a strong hand and a sharp nose for business. He's also been criticized for a personality as smooth as sandpaper and a net personal worth he doesn't care to discuss.

"I'm well-off, not wealthy," Rogers insists. Besides, he says, his being well-off just means "nobody's going to influence my vote."

Rogers was born in New Haven, Conn., and earned an industrial administration degree from Yale in 1950.

The couple had two girls and two boys, built a mansion off a scenic road hugging El Paso's Mount Franklin and Rogers proceeded to build a mortgage investment company that was among the 75 largest in the nation before he sold it in 1984.

Gay candidate to get equal time on religious stations

DALLAS (AP)—A homosexual City Council candidate has been granted air time on three area UHF television stations that feature religious programming so that he can respond to broadcast comments by evangelist James Robison.

On a show broadcast Tuesday, Robison questioned how candidate Bill Nelson could "honorably" take an oath of office to uphold city and state laws, including the sodomy law, said William Waybourn, Nelson's campaign manager.

Federal Communications Commission officials said Nelson was not specifically named, but identified through his role as president of the Dallas Gay Alliance and candidacy in the District 9 at-large council race.

"Robison... attacked me as one of the immoral elements attempting to take control of the city by running for the City Council, and gave me the right to ask for equal time on the airwaves," Nelson told The Dallas Morning News.

Waybourn said similar comments about the political influence of homosexuals were made by Dallas developer Jim Williams Jr., who serves as president of Citizens for Dallas, a group promoting traditional values.

Williams, who supports a candidate opposing Nelson, said he discussed a broad range of issues, "including crime and public decency and public health."

Williams said he thought "it would be real interesting" to see a gay viewpoint "on a Christian TV station."

Nelson will appear on two of the stations Friday.

"We're going to give him a half hour at 6 a.m.," said Jim McKay, president of station KDFI.

Nelson campaign workers said their candidate will appear at 9 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Friday on station KLTJ, immediately following Robison's regularly scheduled shows.

Time granted by KDTX was still under discussion Wednesday.

Amy Zoslov, staff attorney with the FCC, said agreements with the stations were reached by telephone Wednesday, because the formal complaint process would make it impossible to do provide time before Saturday's election.

Classics have their own appeal for drivers

By GARY CHANDLER
Kerrville Daily Times

KERRVILLE (AP)—They still drive like a dream on the highway and the doors close with a solid "thunk."

When they rolled off the assembly line, America was the undisputed king of the road and foreign competition meant Japanese flip-flop sandals at the five and dime.

"They" are America's classic road cars. Drivers who are devoted to their '30s, '40s or '50s vintage vehicles are quick to admit that the time, money and elbow grease needed to keep old cars on the road is considerable. The reward, they say, is the feeling that comes behind the wheel—a feeling today's cars just don't deliver.

Kerrvilles' Dave Sweaney gets that feeling behind the wheel of his 1939 Ford V-8.

A counselor at Kerrville State Hospital, Sweaney said he bought the Ford from a Bruceville woman two years ago. The woman inherited the old car as part of a divorce settlement and was eager to sell, he said.

Sweaney's decision to buy the old Ford signaled the end of his "hot rod" days, he said. He would have preferred something a little sportier but the Ford had a room for the three foster children he and his wife were keeping at the time, he said.

Since selling his pickup truck last summer, the Ford has become the family's second car, Sweaney said. Driving it is a "definite psychological experience," he added.

"I like to drive it. My wife hates it," Sweaney says.

"Original old cars like this aren't what you'd call completely trustworthy. It's also a little ornery about starting on some of these 20 degree winter mornings—no heater either."

Larry Klewer, owner of Kerr Auto Sales, has been a "rag top" man for four years and loves all types of old cars, he says.

One of his favorites is a 1951 Kaiser Dragon that has been sitting at his Broadway Drive car lot for several years.

Similar to the once-popular Kaiser-Frazier, the Dragon was so named because of its artificial alligator-hide seat covers, Klewer said. Kaiser was the first company to drop running boards and introduced vinyl tops and other automobile innovations years before the big three car manufacturers, he said.

Being too innovative was partly what led Kaiser to financial ruin in the mid-1950s, he added.

"Kaiser had a lot of good ideas," Klewer said. "They were the first car with a padded dash."

"They offered all kinds of different upholstery. I remember they had one model that had a bamboo roof on it."

By comparison, new car models are dull, Klewer says. "You can't tell a Buick from a Chevrolet. They all copied Mercedes I think."

Gary Mears, principal of Tom Daniels Elementary School, is a longtime T-bird man.

Mears' latest love is a canary yellow 1956 Thunderbird. The car as almost a total loss when Mears bought it from a Uvalde teenager four years ago, he said.

It took two years of hard work and a small fortune to restore the car to its former glory.

Mears said his wife went along with expense on the premise that the Thunderbird is an investment toward their son's college education. A 1955 Thunderbird Mears owned was sold for college tuition money when their eldest son graduated from high school, he said.

A 1957 T-bird already is being restored as a replacement when the canary yellow model is sold, he added.

On the road, the T-bird's automatic transmission and power brakes made it drive much like a "typical" car, Mears said. The real T-bird feel doesn't come through until the car's hardtop is removed, he said.

"The thrill of it really is being able to take the top off and let your hair blow," he said.

Sullivan said he already had two fully-restored 1957 Corvettes when a man from Wichita, Kan., called him about the 1954 model a couple of years ago.

"He asked me if I wanted to do some trading and being greedy, I knew the '54 model was worth more than the '57, so I said 'yeah,'" Sullivan said.

"I hated it when I bought it: the lines aren't the same as the '57's. But it's a car that sort of grows on you."

The "popemobile" carries Pope John Paul II through a sea of people as he departs Valparaiso, Chile, Thursday. (AP Laserphoto)

Pope urges Chileans at rally to fight 'evil in all its forms'

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Pope John Paul II called on Chileans to fight "evil in all its forms" during a rally of about 80,000 people where student speakers denounced the military rule of President Augusto Pinochet.

Also Thursday, John Paul told a conference of bishops that the Roman Catholic Church favors a return to democracy in Chile. The pope has previously said Pinochet runs a dictatorial government.

In his first full day in Chile, the pope's presence sparked violent anti-government demonstrations by a small number of the hundreds of thousands of people who turned out in the streets and at mass gatherings to greet him.

Police and army troops fired shots to disperse about 300 homeless people who tried to seize a vacant piece of land in northern Santiago. One person suffered gunshot wounds and 14 others also were injured, the government news agency ORBE said without giving details. It said nearly 100 people were arrested.

The national police said that since the pope's arrival, 42 police had been injured, one seriously, in clashes with "delinquents who do not understand the meaning of the papal visit." The statement did not mention civilian casualties.

The pope's itinerary today called for a visit to a church-run shelter for the poor and sick, meetings with opposition politicians and Mass at a large Santiago park where he was to beatify a young Chilean nun, Sister Teresa, who died in 1920 and is credited with several miracles. Beatification is the last formal step before sainthood.

Student orators departed from their prepared addresses at a rally Thursday night at Santiago's national stadium where authorities held thousands of leftists — and allegedly tortured and killed many — after Pinochet seized power in 1973.

"How happy we would be to smash inequality, to smash the repression by death and terror," Freddy Ormeno declared as cheers and applause filled the open-air stadium.

The pontiff said in his address: "Now, in this stadium, a place of sporting events, but also of pain and suffering in past eras, I want to repeat to young Chileans: assume your responsibility."

"Fight boldly against sin, against the forces of evil in all its forms," the pope said, drawing loud cheers. "Fight the good fight for the dignity of man, for the dignity of life, for a noble life."

The state-run television station cut off sound and switched to crowd views when the students addressed the pope.

University pleads that Steen be hospitalized

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—The university where American hostage Alann Steen taught pleaded with his Moslem captors today to have him hospitalized, after a fellow hostage said in a videotape that Steen was so sick he could die at any moment.

"We plead with the kidnapers to move professor Alann Steen to a hospital immediately so he could be placed under intensive care," the management of Beirut University College said in a statement.

Moslem extremists released videotape Thursday in which captive Jesse Turner said Steen was in "pitiful" health and could die at any moment.

"We feel that his life will be over in a few hours," said Turner in the videotape delivered at 9 p.m. (2 p.m. EST) to the independent Beirut newspaper

An-Nahar. Steen, Turner and two other teachers were kidnapped from BUC Jan. 24.

The university statement called for the release of all four teachers "on religious and humanitarian grounds," and urged "all religious leaders to plead with the kidnapers to release the four professors."

Turner appealed to the United States to pressure Israel to release 400 Arab prisoners, as demanded previously by the Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine, which claimed responsibility for kidnapping the four teachers.

Israel and the United States have rejected exchanging Israeli-held Arab prisoners for the four educators.

Sales hit record at auction filled with romance, history

GENEVA (AP)—Buyers from around the world bid a record $30 million for the late Duchess of Windsor's jewels on the first night of a glittering two-day auction that evoked the romance of a love affair that King Edward VIII gave up his throne to keep.

With the 10 percent buyer's fee, the 95 lots sold Thursday brought a total of $33.5 million — more than four times the previous record for a single-owner collection of jewelry.

The top lot, a 31-carat diamond ring bought for the duchess in 1950, fetched $2.9 million, almost three times the estimate. It went to Tokyo jeweler Tsuneo Takago who said he would keep it in his personal collection.

Elizabeth Taylor picked up a poolside phone in Los Angeles to join mostly anonymous bidders from 24 countries in the sale by Sotheby's, which had estimated the auction would bring in $8 million. Miss Taylor paid $565,000 for the Prince of Wales feathers brooch, a diamond clip bought in 1935 when the celebrated Windsor romance was still a closely guarded secret.

Sotheby's top jewel expert, John Block, said Miss Taylor and her late former husband, the actor Richard Burton, were friends of the duke and duchess and had admired the brooch for years.

"She also said that this is the most important jewel she ever purchased for herself," Block told about 200 reporters at the end of the four-hour first session early today.

The opening night of the sale, held in a red-and-white striped tent on the banks of Lake Geneva, drew 1,950 people, plus another 450 watching the auction in New York via a satellite hookup.

King Edward VIII abdicated the British throne in December 1936 to marry Wallis Warfield Simpson, a twice-divorced American. They became the Duke and Duchess of Windsor and lived in Paris. The duke died in 1972.

The auction's proceeds go to the Pasteur Institute in Paris, which will use the funds for research into cancer and AIDS.

That arrangement is in accordance with the will of the childless duchess.

There's more to their music than rock 'n' roll

By CATHY CORMAN
Brownsville Herald

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Tacked onto a bulletin board in the band room at Oliveira Intermediate School is a hand-drawn map of San Antonio's Beethoven Hall. The masking tape which holds it up has curled, and the edges are worn.

Paul Flinchbaugh, Oliveira's band director, and Stacey Dunn, his assistant, made the map. They brought airplane tickets and flew to San Antonio, because they wanted to make sure they knew exactly where to place the musicians for a command performance as Texas State Honor Band last month.

They drew their map, came back home, and marked off the band room floor so that the band members could practice knowing exactly where they would walk and sit. That's how important planning and getting it right are to Flinchbaugh and Dunn.

And that is how, in a five-year period, the Oliveira Dolphin Band came to beat out 3,000 other intermediate school bands last summer to become the best in the state.

Flinchbaugh and Ms. Dunn made a tape of the '85-'86 band in concert, and this tape was singled out by the Texas Bandmasters Association last August. Accepting the award, the '86-'87 band went to San Antonio last month to show off the talent that won them the award.

Flinchbaugh came to Oliveira Intermediate School, one of five intermediate schools in Brown-sville, in 1982. A year later, Dunn joined him. Together they have built a band program that involves nearly 200 students, 20 of whom make up a fifth of the All-Valley Band.

The students, for the most part, had never played a musical instrument before the sixth grade. All were tested in fifth grade for musical aptitude, and they were deemed good enough to begin taking group lessons the next year.

That means that nearly all of the youngsters in the 1988-87 Texas State Honor Band have had just 2½ years of musical training.

Dunn, large and gregarious with sandy hair, coaches the seventh grade concert band. He emphasizes style, spacing and technical proficiency. Flinchbaugh, dark, compact and intensely focused, conducts the eighth grade symphonic band.

He adds polish to the musicians' performances.

But the youngsters do their part. They practice, on average, four hours a day. Between 7:30 a.m. and 8:30 a.m., the musicians arrive at school and warm up before classes. They give up a chunk of their lunch period, and from 12:30 to 2 p.m., they rehearse together. Once a week, their orchestral sections meet, and they take group lessons from 4 to 6 p.m. They are encouraged to sign up for private lessons once a week, which means that some students don't go home until 8:30 or 9 p.m.

Under the state's no pass-no play rule, the students know that they have to do well academically in order to be in the band. Dunn says that so far they've only lost three students. Most make As and Bs, he says, and if anything, are more motivated to do their school work.

Two men in 50s return to college dorm life

By BRENDA TELLO
The Daily Texan

AUSTIN (AP) — The thousands of faces of Jester dormitory residents at the University of Texas tend to blend together into one youthful image.

Bob Ferry and Tom Warren are the exceptions.

Ferry, 56, and Warren, 57, may be the oldest students living in the dormitory, but to them, age is irrelevant when it comes to pursuing a higher education.

"I don't look upon age as an unusual thing," Ferry said. "I think there are a whole lot of older people out there — what are we going to do with them — retire them and put them in a wheel chair? Shucks, I'm just starting."

Warren called returning to college "an opportunity of a lifetime — to explore intellectually."

"I'm not ever going to retire. I'm having a ball," said Warren, a grandfather.

Although Ferry's and Warren's career backgrounds are different, they have both ended up in the College of Education.

Ferry, a doctoral student in science education, is a former commercial airline pilot and a retired major in the Air Force.

But for the past three years, Ferry has been doing what he loves most — teaching.

He taught science to high school students in South Texas from 1983 to 1986 and hopes eventually to teach at a small college.

"If something happens to the biological clock where I can only tick for another 20 years — that's 20 productive years," Ferry said. "How much influence can I have on the next generation in 20 years?"

As a teaching assistant in biology, Ferry has a reputation as an industrious worker when it comes to helping students.

Bethany Fitch, an education sophomore who was in Ferry's biology class last semester, said Ferry is as devoted to his students as he is to education.

"He is very dedicated," Ms. Fitch said. "He had classes to attend as well, but he would spend time with students when he needed to be studying."

When he does study, Ferry goes to his College of Education Building office, which is packed with dozens of relics, including a mastodon tusk and a 1896 Mother Goose book.

"My roommate and I often study here," he said. "The atmosphere is generally quiet."

Join Us In Worship IN THE CHURCH OF YOUR CHOICE

Book of Life

When all has been said and tried about philosophies of life, how to be happy, or how to be a success, mankind unfulfilled elsewhere will still turn back to this book. Here indeed are the words of life. Here is a guide to your footsteps and a lamp for your path. No man needs to stumble through life as if blind; God has provided a light and it shines through this book. Go where the Book is treasured and understood, to the Church, and hear The Word for your life.

Is something wrong with your life — an inner restlessness, dissatisfaction? The answer to every human problem comes only from God our Maker. He alone can forgive and restore. Through the church God has committed the provision and proclamation of His forgiveness and redeeming love. Without a church relation no one is securely related to God. Everyone should be in the Church and the Church should be in everyone.

His Touch

By Charlotte Barbaree

Scripture: So then, just as you received Christ Jesus as Lord, continue to live in him, rooted and built up in him, strengthened in the faith as you were taught, and overflowing with thankfulness. (Colossians 2:6-7 NIV)

As I was walking along a dry creek bed, I happened across a tree with such character I stopped and took several photographs. It was a garden-variety elm which grew out and up from a very steep slope of the creek bank. The tree top looked haggard from the beating of the hot wind, the lack of adequate moisture and the starvation for sunlight.

However, the root system was well developed, sturdy and determined. The creek bank was deeply ditched by wind and water erosion. The earth at the base of the tree had long since washed away, leaving much of the complex of twisted, knotted roots exposed.

As if by levitation, the tree hovered above the soil, held and fed by a mass of hairlike roots imbedded in the almost vertical creek bank. Anchored in the life-giving soil, the tree tenaciously stretched and reached for the sun.

The Christian movement is currently under a roaring flood of troubled waters. I turned on a news broadcast today that started the morning with a deluge of disappointing scoops concerning famous leaders of evangelistic television.

And no end to the rain is in sight. Unarmed with all the facts, we of the audience have neither the responsibility nor the right to determine the truth or justice of the situation.

However, the human fallibility factor is scouring Christians everywhere until it hurts. Disappointment is eroding our spiritual joy and leaving us feeling exposed, defensive and vulnerable to attack.

But, blessedly, we are not grounded in the shifting substance of mortal infidels. We are firmly rooted in an infallible, victorious Lord.

Fed by His power, we draw the strength to rise above worldly disillusion, and we acquire the spiritual character to tenaciously stretch and reach toward the Christian individuals He wants us to be.

Universalists to hear author

AMARILLO - Grace Mojtabai, author of the book Blessed Assurance: At Home With the Bomb in Amarillo, Texas, will speak Sunday morning at the Amarillo Unitarian Universalist Fellowship.

The 11 a.m. program will be held in the Fellowship building at 4901 Cornell in Amarillo.

There will be children's classes and a nursery during the service. Mojtabai lives in Amarillo and teaches at the University of Tulsa. Previously she has taught at Harvard University and other eastern schools.

Blessed Assurance, the most recent of her many books, discusses the varied feelings and reactions which people in the Amarillo area have about the activities at the Pantex plant east of Amarillo.

The public is invited to hear Mojtabai's talk on Sunday.

Freewill Baptist to have revival

The Freewill Baptist Church, 326 N. Rider, will be in revival Sunday through Friday, with services starting at 7 p.m. daily.

"We invite everyone to come and enjoy the good singing and the special singing," said Rev. L.C. Lynch, pastor.

Rev. Lynch said "powerful Bible preaching" will be provided by the evangelist, Brother Eldon Bagwell, of Springdale, Ark.

Bagwell is strong in the Lord's work in Arkansas and has been in the ministry since an early age. "Come help us make this a joyful week in the Lord," Lynch said.

Religion Roundup

NEW YORK (AP) - Church relief organizations are sending food, clothing and cash to help the thousands left homeless by a series of earthquakes in Ecuador that resulted in mudslides and floods in which many are reported dead or missing.

Catholic Relief Service said it is sending $75,000 in emergency funds for relief workers, and $104,000 worth of food.

From Memphis, the Southern Baptist Brotherhood sent a Boeing 707 loaded with food and clothing.

Buddhists bring life to new temple at Port Arthur

By TIM HALLEY
Beaumont Enterprise

PORT ARTHUR (AP) — The Rev. Thich Huyen-Viet huddles over a short piece of wood that braces a large wooden frame.

Meanwhile, workers busily hammer supporting boards into the frame, forming the skeleton of what will be the bell tower of the Buumon Buddhist temple.

Local residents may not recognize an old Baptist church on Procter Street when the city's Vietnamese Buddhist community gets through with it this summer. The congregation has been working hard to turn the once-vacant church into a pagoda-style Buddhist temple.

Huyen-Viet, the temple's abbot, points to the church's old, shabby bell tower. He notes the workers will have to dismantle it and build a new one with the familiar multi-tiered Oriental roof.

The delicately built Huyen-Viet wears the traditional orange robes of a Buddhist Monk. But on this chilly afternoon he wears a brown sweater and a knit cap to keep his shaven head warm.

Inside the sanctuary, he proudly shows the platform and the four-tiered altar his congregation constructed in the old building. A statue of Buddha, the "Enlightened One," sits atop the highest level surrounded by candles and flowers.

But much remains to be done before the temple is complete. As Huyen-Viet speaks, the frequent pounding of hammers outside and the occasional whine of a power saw shatter the sanctuary's contemplative calm.

In 1979, several Buddhist families in Southeast Texas joined to form the community. They chose the name "Buumon," meaning "priceless gate," because it sounded like "Beaumont," Huyen-Viet says.

The congregation first met in Beaumont, then moved to Orange. But that location also proved inconvenient because most members lived in Port Arthur.

After raising $45,000, the community bought the old Procter Street church from two Vietnamese Catholics.

The congregation already has spent $35,000 for remodeling and probably will spend at least another $35,000, Huyen-Viet says. It can keep renovation costs down because members of the temple do all the work themselves.

The community suffered a setback late this past year when a nearby house caught fire. The flames spread to a temple structure behind the main building, collapsing the roof and forcing demolition of the smaller building.

The temple serves 150 to 200 Buddhist families who otherwise would have to travel to Houston for religious celebrations, Huyen-Viet says.

About 30 percent of Port Arthur's Vietnamese community is Buddhist, he says. The rest are mostly Roman Catholic.

Relations between the two religious communities are very close, Huyen-Viet says. Ministers from the temple and Queen of Vietnamese Martyrs Catholic Church frequently attend each other's services.

Most of the families originally came from central Vietnam near the city of Da Nang and the provinces of Nha Trang and Qui Nhon. Almost all have fled from the communist country within the past five years.

Huyen-Viet says he escaped five years ago along with 58 other people in a small fishing boat.

"After three days on the ocean, the boat met with a storm. The rough seas rocked the boat and water got inside," the monk recalls. "Many of the passengers cried. They made a prayer to God and Buddha.

"A Thai fishing boat saved us. We were very lucky," he adds.

Making the transition from Southeast Asia to Southeast Texas can take its toll, he says.

"This is a new society and some feel lonely. They feel the changes. We try to educate them that this is a wonderful country to live in and that they should try to live a good life and they should be strong," he says.

The recent violence associated with gangs of young Vietnamese concerns Huyen-Viet. He and other Vietnamese community leaders have met with the police department to discuss ways of dealing with the problem.

"We really try to help the police keep the peace in the community," he says. "I believe the police will help keep these bad people from our community."

Once the Buddhist community finishes remodeling the temple, it hopes to offer special programs of interest to the entire community, Huyen-Viet says. The temple plans to include classes on Buddhist teaching, meditation and martial arts.

In many of its religious practices, Buddhism differs from Christianity, Huyen-Viet says.

For example, while Christians believe in one God, Buddhists believe in many gods. Buddhists pray to these gods for worldly benefits such as success or good health. For more spiritual benefits, they turn to Buddha for enlightenment, he says.

Despite the many differences, Huyen-Viet believes both religions share the same essential values.

"Jesus Christ and Buddha taught us the same things. We must not be selfish. We must try to help other people," he says.

"I don't want to convert anyone to a different religion. We just want to introduce to people to the practice and teaching of Buddha. Then they can choose what parts of this wonderful teaching they want to put into practice.

"Buddhism finds it easy to live in harmony with everybody else. It has no forms to get attached with," he says. "Buddha was the greatest teacher, but he was not a god. If you don't believe he is a god, then you don't have to change your religion."

Rev. Thich Huyen-Viet stands in the entrance to a former Baptist church, now the Buumon Buddhist Temple in Port Arthur.

Religion Roundup

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Half of the 10 men picked in a new Gallup poll as most admired by Americans are churchmen, described as an unprecedentedly large proportion.

They are Pope John Paul II, Baptist minister-politician Jesse Jackson, evangelist Billy Graham, South African Anglican Archbishop Desmond Tutu and Anglican hostage-negotiator Terry Waite.

In the rankings, President Reagan and Chrysler head Lee Iacocca topped the list, followed by the pope; Jackson; Graham; former President Jimmy Carter; Tutu; Waite; Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.; and Vice President Bush.

Opposition to Contra aid sharpens

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Major religious bodies, which steadily have opposed outside military infusions into Central America, are stepping up pressures against further U.S. arms supplies to Contra rebels in Nicaragua.

With the issue simmering in Congress and in investigations into the administration's arms deals with Iran that funded battle gear for the Contras, a broad ecumenical coalition has launched an intensive drive against such aid.

Called "Lenten Witness for Justice and Peace in Central America," the special effort was to run through Lent's 40 days of penitence before Easter and include events in the nation's capital and in cities across the country.

Both Roman Catholic and Protestant leaders were spearheading the effort, with local churches urged to hold special services, prayers, study and weekly vigils in front of federal buildings.

Administration policies in Central America are a "betrayal of the American heritage," says the Rev. Arie Brouwer, general secretary of the National Council of Churches, including most major Protestant and Orthodox denominations.

It is participating in the Lenten coalition's drive of mainline Protestant denominations and national Roman Catholic organizations, such as the leadership conferences of men's and women's Catholic religious orders.

The U.S. Catholic Conference, action arm for Catholic bishops, last week reiterated their consistent opposition to U.S. military aid in Central America, and specifically to the Contras.

The Lenten drive, to include weekly demonstrations on the Capitol steps in Washington and lobbying visits with Congress members, began on Ash Wednesday, March 4, when five religious leaders were arrested in the Capitol rotunda.

The process is continuing each Wednesday through April 15, with a turnout of Lutherans and Presbyterians this week in Washington.

The arrests take on a familiar pattern as occurred with the original group of Protestants and Catholics. Refusing police orders to leave, they instead knelt in prayer, carrying crosses bearing names of civilians killed by the Contras in Nicaragua.

This "nation continues to prosecute a war and pursue a policy that brings us shame," said the Rev. Avery Post, president of the United Church of Christ, one of those arrested.

Unity Church schedules seminar

AMARILLO - The Unity Church of Amarillo, 24th Street at South Taylor, will have a special speaker and a seminar Sunday.

Dr. Ronald Wallen will be the guest speaker at the 10:45 a.m. worship service.

His message entitled "Peak Performer's Paradise" will highlight positive ways of helping people unlock hidden potential and discover ways to excel in both their personal and professional lives.

Wallen also will have a seminar from 2 to 5 p.m. on "Living Without Limits." He will present proven methods of overcoming barriers and reaching higher levels of performance and productivity, with more details arising from his morning worship service topic.

Wallen is chairman of Farmax Corp. and president of Performance Success, a motivation, sales and management consulting firm.

He holds a doctoral degree from Boston University and has advised corporate clients such as Kraft Foods, CBS-Fox Video, the Chevron Corp., Pacific Bell, Federal National Mortgage Association, Aging in America Inc., Essilor International and others.

Wallen has led seminars at the University of California School of Medicine at Stanford and most recently at Harvard University, where he was invited to serve as guest lecturer on the subjects of leadership and peak performance for the master of business administration program.

He has addressed national conventions ranging from the National Newspaper Publishers Association to the National Association of Executive Secretaries.

His seminars include "The Winner's Attitude," "Decisions That Put You at the Top," "How to Take Charge of Your Own Life," "Greater Imagination-ability," "Achieving Success Over Failure," "Self Confidence in Every Situation," "Laughter and a Healing Sense of Humor," "Better Friendships and Lasting Love" and others.

Cost for the seminar is $10. Registration information is available by calling 1-376-9746.

Church of God sets homecoming service

Rev. O.C. Gilbert of Sherman will be the featured speaker for the annual homecoming services at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. services Sunday at the Church of God, Gwendolen and Sumner streets.

Rev. Gilbert formerly served as pastor of the church from 1955 to 1957.

Friends of the church and the public are urged to attend the special services and share in a potluck lunch at the church, Pastor T.L. Henderson said.

Astro-Graph

by bernice bede osol

Saturday, April 4, 1987

Make the most of your creative gifts in the year ahead, because your talents have profitable possibilities. There are markets for things that you conceive.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It could later prove rather embarrassing if you prematurely boast about something that you haven't yet accomplished. Wait until the results are in. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) An opportunity may slip past you today because you won't attach enough importance to it due to its source. Be smart, not smug.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your generous instincts may be aroused today by a person who might not be worthy of what he or she will ask of you. Think before making a commitment.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Avoid passing on information today unless you are absolutely certain of the facts. If you're wrong, it could hurt your image.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You won't win any brownie points today if you promise to do something for another, then look for ways to put off what you assured this person you'd do.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's best not to introduce betting into sociable competitive involvements today. Look for a way to make money elsewhere.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you are too wishy-washy or indecisive today it will have an abrasive effect on your companions. Make up your mind and stick to it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It will cause complications for you down the line if you waste funds today that you have budgeted for essentials. Be prudent.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There's a difference between genuine optimism and wishful thinking. An inability to distinguish the variables is asking for problems.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Disappointment is likely today if you expect more from others than you would do yourself if the circumstances were reversed. Try to be objective regarding your requests.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Everything is relative, so don't be envious today of someone you think has more than you. Instead, be grateful that you're better off than most.

Easter bunny is soft sculpture

by APRIL BAIL
I'll never forget my youngest daughter's reaction to her first chocolate Easter bunny. She burst into tears.

Needless to say, that was the last chocolate bunny that ever appeared in her Easter basket. Instead, I made her a small, soft-sculpted bunny that lasts from year to year. She loves it, and it doesn't cause tooth decay!

The bunny is the perfect size for a basket, and it also makes a cute table centerpiece surrounded by brightly colored eggs. It is extremely easy to make from materials you may have on hand.

If you'd like to have step-by-step instructions, you can order our plans. They include a materials list and full-size patterns. To order the plans, specify Project No. 1326 and send $4.95. Include $2.95 if you'd like a copy of our latest catalog.

Mail your order to: Kid's Stuff, Dept. 79065, P.O. Box 1000, Bixby, Okla. 74008-1000.

To make the bunny, cut the foot from a nurse's white stocking, about 8 inches above the ankle. Cut a 4-inch slit down the center of the toe. Pull apart the two sections to form the ears, and trim into a gentle curve. Whipstitch the edges.

Turn right side out and stuff the ears lightly. Continue to stuff the hose below the ears to form the head and body. Tie the hose in a knot at the bottom.

Soft-sculpt eye indentations, a little round nose, and a mouth line. Draw eye details with a black marker, or glue on small black beads. Cut and glue on pink felt eyelashes. Color the bottom of the nose and the mouth outline with a pink marker.

Brush cosmetic cheek blusher along the front of each ear. Wrap the ribbon tightly around the bunny's neck and tie in a bow, to separate the head and body portions.

To make the bunny's front paws, sew a circle of running stitches about 1 1/2 inches in diameter, just below the neck ribbon. Pull the thread and lift fiberfill within the circle to form a small ball.

Take a vertical stitch to separate the ball into two paws, and take tiny stitches to define the toes. Sew and pull up another circle at the center back to form the tail.

Cut two large feet from white cardboard and from white felt. Glue the felt piece to the cardboard and glue the bunny to the feet. Draw toe lines with a pink marker.

To give the bunny a real touch of spring, tuck a tiny bunch of artificial flowers into the neck ribbon.

Girl of the Year

Dustie Quisenberry, age 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Quisenberry of Pampa, was crowned Girl of the Year recently in the Girl of the Year Pageant in Borger. She received highest total points in interview, party dress, sportswear and talent in the 3- to 6-year-old division. She is eligible to compete in the national pageant at Oklahoma City in August.

Husband wants wife to be sparkler instead of a dud

DEAR ABBY: My wife is the best friend I've ever had. I love her and wouldn't hurt her for the world, but she's a dud in bed. We would never have sex if I didn't ask for it. She "accommodates" me without much enthusiasm — as though she's doing me a favor.

I recently had an affair with a lovely woman. We had a wonderful time, doing everything a man and woman can do together, and she absolutely loved it! I finally experienced something I've wanted all my life — to be touched sexually by someone who knew how.

This leaves me with a difficult choice: continue having affairs with women who enjoy sex, or remain frustrated and bitter toward my wife.

I'm not interested in your opinion of me. I would like to know how I can influence my wife to become a Cleopatra so I can share these feelings with her instead of someone else.

DEAR WASHINGTONIAN: Tell your wife you love her dearly, but her lack of enthusiasm in the bedroom has left you feeling frustrated and deprived.

A mutually satisfying sexual relationship is the result of a joint effort, and professional help is available. In addition to marriage counseling, there are certified sex therapists who work in teams. Check with your local hospital or the medical college of your nearest university for referrals in your area. Forget "affairs." Adultery is not only immoral and illegal — these days it can be fatal.

DEAR ABBY: Since my grandmother's death, family members have made me feel guilty because I asked for the return of gifts I had given her through the years. They say those things now belong to my mother, who may dispose of them as she sees fit. (My mother took care of Grandma in her declining years.)

I disagree. Many times in the last five years, my grandmother TOLD me that she wanted me to have the gifts I had given to her. Nothing was very expensive, but several things had sentimental value.

My question: Was I wrong to ask for the things I wanted returned to me? I was offered nothing of hers even after I offered to pay for certain items. In case you can't read between the lines, I am the black sheep of the family.

BLACK SHEEP
DEAR BLACK SHEEP: You were not "wrong" to have asked that the gifts you had given your grandmother be returned to you because of their sentimental value. But unless your grandmother made specific provisions in writing for you to have them, your chances for getting them are small.

Gena on Genealogy

By GENA WALLS
The Confession of a Suicide, author unknown:

I married a widow with a grown daughter. My father fell in love with my stepdaughter and married her, thus becoming my son-in-law. My stepdaughter became my mother because she was my father's wife.

My wife gave birth to a son who was, of course, my father's brother-in-law and my uncle, for he was the brother of my stepmother.

My father's wife became the mother of a son. He was, of course, my brother and also my grandchild, for he was the son of my stepdaughter.

Accordingly, my wife was my grandmother because she was my mother's mother...I was my wife's husband and grandchild at the same time...and as the husband of a person's grandmother is his grandfather — I AM MY OWN GRANDFATHER!

Pampa battles league leader

Both Pampa and Hereford have bridged a huge gap this baseball season.

At this time a year ago, both teams had dismal records and were close to being finished in the District 1-4A race.

This season, however, Hereford has jumped on top of a wild scramble for first place with a 4-0 record.

Pampa has improved to a 3-1 district mark and is tied for second with Dumas and Canyon.

The Harvesters have a chance to knock the Whitefaces off the top and grab a share of the lead when the two teams meet at 4 p.m. Saturday at the PHS baseball field.

Both teams have used solid pitching, strong defense and timely hitting to bolster winning records, but Hereford Coach T.R. Sartor said his team would probably crumble if it weren't for the mound success of the strong-armed duo of Bobby Medina and Keith Anderson.

Medina (4-0) locks up with another unbeaten hurler in Pampa's Troy Owens (3-0), who is tentatively scheduled to pitch Saturday. Anderson is 5-1, his only loss a 1-0 decision against Odessa Permian.

"We're in pretty good shape when these two guys are on the mound," Sartor said. "They're good at holding the hitters down and when that happens, we've got a good chance of winning."

Hereford's hitting attack is sparked by Keith Herera at .461. Pampa counters with Jon Roe, who is hitting at a .394 clip after his homer and single helped lead the Harvesters to a 4-1 win over Borger Tuesday.

Pampa also has three other players who are swinging hot bats. Bret Mitchell is hitting .331 in addition to his 4-3 mound record. Grant Gamblin carries a .321 average and leads the team in walks with 16 and runs scored 14. Chris Martinez is hitting .308. Roe is the team RBI leader with 10.

Even players who don't have a batting average are contributing to Pampa's success. Like Torrey Gardner, who is batting .000, but leads the team in stolen bases with 9. Owens is hitting only .200, but has knocked in 8 runs and has scored 9 times. Owens and Roe have the team's only four-baggers. Kenny Steward has a .277 average, but was hitting over .300 going into Tuesday's game with Borger. Steward has crossed the plate 11 times.

Pampa's only district loss was a 7-1 setback to Canyon. Wins have come over Levelland and Lubbock Estacado.

Hereford is 11-3 overall while Pampa sports a 7-4 mark.

"We've got a lot of experience on this team. We're starting six seniors, plus we've got our entire pitching staff back," Sartor said.

Both teams have closed the gap considerably. Hereford was 8-8 a year ago while Pampa was 5-20.

'Little guys' get basketball league

By BILL BARNARD
AP Basketball Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Basketball fans weary of the pound-it-inside strategy and 7-footers whose only shot is a dunk have a hope on the horizon.

Bob Cousy, the prototype performer of the behind-the-back dribble and pass as a star with the Boston Celtics, is planning the International Basketball Association. IBA players will be no taller than 6-foot-4 and the superstars will be the little guys in the backcourt. "This league is designed for the Tyrone Bogues-Billy Donovan type," Cousy said. "In fact, if we were starting now, we would immediately put an offer on the table to attract Bogues and Donovan, who are big names right now."

The 5-3 Bogues was a sensation at Wake Forest and last year's World Championship tournament in Spain, while the 5-11 Donovan sparked Providence to the NCAA basketball tournament's Final Four last month. Neither is believed to have much of a future in the NBA because of their size.

"Every major college team has that jitterbug guard," the 6-1 Cousy said. "There are an abundance of those types of guards every year and they basically have no place to play. We want to keep the major-league dreams alive for thousands of kids who aren't big enough for the NBA."

The IBA hopes to begin play in May 1988 and run a summer league through September each year.

Special olympics dash added to Pampa Invite

A special olympics 100-meter dash is scheduled during the Pampa Invitational track and field meet Saturday at Harvester Field.

The event starts at 2 p.m. and special olympians in Pampa and the surrounding area are invited to compete. Ribbons will be awarded.

"This should be a good event. There's some good runners out there," said Pampa Coach Gary Cornelsen.

The invitational begins at 9:30 a.m. with the preliminaries. Finals start at 2 p.m. Five boys' teams and eight girls' teams are entered.

Pampa, which has won three of four meets this season, is favored in the girls' division, but Tascosa could give the Lady Harvesters trouble, said Gary Cornelsen.

"Tascosa is really strong, especially in the distance races," Cornelsen said. "They're strong where everyone else is weak."

"Admittedly, Cornelsen has been surprised with the Lady Harvesters' success as far as winning team titles.

"We have five events where we don't have any entries and to have a good team you usually have to score in every event," Cornelsen said.

The loss of sophomore Yolanda Brown to a leg injury has hurt the Pampa girls.

"Yolanda may not compete for the rest of the year. She hasn't competed in the last two meets," Cornelsen said. "She was one of the top runners and jumpers in district last season."

Tanya Lidy in the 200 and long jump and Andrea Hopkins in the shot and discus have been dominating figures in every meet for Pampa. Lidy, a junior, has yet to lose a 200-meter race, while Hopkins has been unbeaten in both the shot and discus. Lidy has won the long jump three times and the triple jump once.

The Harvesters have competed in four meets with one victory in the Borger Invitational two weeks ago.

Pampa finished sixth in the Canyon Relays last week.

"The boys are having trouble in the field events this season, but we've got a young team," added Cornelsen.

The Harvesters' main bright spot is distance runner Willie Jacobs, who has been a consistent winner in both the 3200 and 1600. Jacobs, who holds the school record in the 3200 at 10:21, has won that event three times this season, and has been victorious in the 1600 twice.

Mark Williams in the intermediate hurdles, Robert Perez, 800, Shawn Greene, discus and Bill Butler, pole vault, could also capture ribbons for the Harvesters.

Cornelsen said Canyon is a heavy favorite to win the boys' division.

Davies leads Shore tourney

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP)—British golfer Laura Davies, who's already conquered Europe, is setting her sights on America.

The native of Coventry, England, shot a 6-under-par 66 Thursday to take the first-round lead in the LPGA's most prestigious golf tournament, the $500,000 Dinah Shore.

Davies, who got into the select tournament only via a sponsor's invitation, held a two-shot lead over established LPGA stars Amy Alcott and Betsy King heading into today's second round at Mission Hills Country Club.

"When I first turned professional, the first thing I thought of was the LPGA," said the 23-year-old Davies, in her third year as a pro.

"It's a dream just to come out here. I hope to qualify (for the LPGA tour) this fall, although it's expensive just to come over here and try to qualify."

Leonard keeping strategy secret

By TIM DAHLBERG
AP Sports Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Goody Petronelli, one of Marvellous Marvin Hagler's trainers, couldn't resist posing the question to Angelo Dundee, trainer of Sugar Ray Leonard.

"How is Ray going to fight Marvin Hagler?" Petronelli wanted to know during a news conference held Thursday by Dundee.

"We don't give away trade secrets," answered Dundee, who pointed to Petronelli while telling the assembled media: "This guy's been out in the sun too long."

Hagler has been working out in a tiny downtown gym since arriving in Las Vegas on Tuesday and has no plans to open it to either the press or public.

"We've got something up our sleeves a little bit," the champion said. "I'm still putting the final touches on it."

Leonard's training, on the other hand, was opened briefly to the press both Tuesday and Wednesday before being closed for final fight preparations.

On Wednesday, Leonard sparred three rounds with a young southpaw middleweight who had had four professional fights: Leonard got hit repeatedly with a right jab and some boxing observers said they thought Leonard, with his newfound bulk, looked slow and overtrained.

"Gyms are a liar," countered Dundee, who trained Muhammad Ali the majority of his boxing career. "Some guys are gym fighters, some aren't. That wasn't what you're going to see April 6."

Baseball signups set for next week

Tryouts for the Babe Ruth and Bambino baseball teams are scheduled for April 7-9 at the Pampa Optimist Club, 601 East Craven.

Registration fee for the Babe Ruth League (13 through 15 years of age) is $20 and players must attend at least two of the three tryouts. Tryout times are from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. each day.

Players already on a team are urged to come to the Optimist Club during one of the tryout dates to pay the registration fee. All new players must bring birth certificates with them to the tryouts. The registration fee will also cover insurance and players will be issued uniforms when they make the team.

Players must be 13 years old before July 31 to compete in the league. Players who turn 16 before July 31 are ineligible.

League president Maurice Cross can be contacted at 665-0547 for more information.

Tryout times for the American and National Bambino Leagues are from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. and players must attend two of the three tryouts.

Players need to furnish their own gloves.

Registration fee is $18, which also includes a free barbecue pass. Players may keep their caps and uniform tops, but no pants will be furnished.

Youngsters already on a team are urged to pay their registration fee during one of the tryout dates.

The Bambino Leagues are for youngsters 10 through 12 years of age. Players must be 10 years old before July 1 to compete in the league. Players who turn 13 before July 1 are ineligible.

For more information, call National League president Jack Gindorf at 665-6996 or American League president Dean Larue at 665-3480.

DATE: April 1, 1987
FROM: Mayor Sherman Cowan

I have received a letter from Gene Finney, Candidate for Mayor, concerning what I consider to be an attack on the integrity of this Commission, City Staff and city government. Specifically, he states that according to our budget $7.4 million including interest has been borrowed within the last three years without voter approval. Apparently, Mr. Finney has not learned to read a budget document, in the fact that this Commission has issued debt in the amount of $1,800,000 for the improvements to Somerville Street, Crawford Street, North Hobart, Albert Street and other street improvements and the renovation of City Hall to make the facility accessible to the elderly and handicapped, a primary cost of which was the installation of an elevator.

Additionally, the City Commission issued $775,000 in revenue bonds payable solely from revenues from the water and sewer system to bring the Wastewater Treatment Plant into compliance with federal mandates. Furthermore, the improvements to this facility is an enhancement to Pampa's ability to attract new industry and an encouragement for our local industry to expand. Therefore, it is a cornerstone of our economic development policy.

The sum total then, over the past three years, of efforts by the City Commission to upgrade this community totals $2,575,000 which is a far cry from the erroneous figures promoted by Mr. Finney. Mr. Finney continues his mis-statements concerning the Wal-Mart Warehouse. The truth is that Wal-Mart officials have publicly stated many times that it is their intent to have the facility located between the Amarillo and Lubbock area to serve not only West Texas, but the South Plains and Eastern New Mexico as well. Pampa was not considered as a possible site because of location and because at the time the initial review was done in early 1980, the Pampa economy was extremely strong and the labor force was not available for the distribution center. This Commission recognized early on that economic development was a primary issue — not in this campaign — but 2½ years ago when a new City Manager was hired and the goals were set. That is the reason why Pampa was selected as a Main Street City two years ago, why we began participating in the TEXCEL Program 1½ years ago, and improvements were made to our financial base 2½ years ago to improve our ability to respond to potential economic development issues. Mr. Finney's recognition 2½ years later hardly provides the leadership that is needed in the Mayor's office. Certainly, we applaud him for at least recognizing the issue 2½ years late. Mr. Finney continues to stray from the truth when he discusses grievance procedures, while in fact, this City Commission recognized (again, 1½ years ago) that personnel policies and procedures needed to be updated. The policies and procedures were updated in mid 1985 only after including employees on a review committee to learn what their interest and concerns were. There is an excellent grievance procedure outlined and the policies are set up to keep politics out of employment practices. We are certainly not wanting to go back to the stone ages when the spoil system was rampant in abuse and political patronage. In fact, our Home Rule Charter and the introduction of the Council/Manager form of Government was designed to prevent exactly what Mr. Finney advocates and is in place to protect public employees from political abuse.

And, finally, Mr. Finney seems to forget about the meeting he promoted for the H.E.L.P. group when he stated that they wanted to move away from the City Manager form of Government into a General Law form of Government. Obviously Mr. Finney's memory fails him on this case as it has in the other three issues.

White Deer Invite boasts tough field

By JIMMY PATTERSON
Sports Writer

It's not exactly a Hagler-Leonard bout, but the competition at this weekend's White Deer Invitational might be just as tough.

As many as 20 area high school track and field teams will be in competition, with Dalhart and Panhandle the favorites in the girls' bracket.

The White Deer Does and Groom Tigerettes will provide some interesting competition in several events.

In the 100-meter dash, Groom's Karen Bohr and White Deer's Jennifer Germany will be featured.

Bohr has the second best time (12.4 seconds) among all Panhandle area runners in the event. Germany's best time is 13.22.

The 400 should have a neck-and-neck finish if Monica Vigil and Erin Eschle run their hardest.

White Deer's Vigil (61.97) and Tigerette Eschle (62.0) have almost identical best times this year.

The girls' 400-meter relay is also too close to call between the two squads.

The White Deer team ran a 52.54 race at the Shamrock Relays two weeks ago, and Groom's best time is 51.5.

The 1600-relay, while not as close in compared times is also an event to watch.

The Groom girls' time of 4:14.9 is tops in the Panhandle.

The Tigerette mile relay team is made up of Suzanne Smith, Jowannah Ruthardt, Bohr and Eschle.

Five girls from the two schools have good marks in the triple jump.

From White Deer, Vigil (33 feet, 2 inches), Casey Beck (31-4) and Ruth Hinds (30-11) finished among the top six at the Shamrock event.

From Groom, Bohr (32-3) and Eschle (32-11½) finished 1-2 at the Sunray Invitational two weeks ago.

In the boys' bracket, White Deer's Joe Don Brown has the Panhandle's best leap in the high jump (6-8).

Brown has finished first in the high jump at every meet he has competed in this year.

The Bucks' Mike Snyder should finish high in the long jump. His mark of 21-10½ is one of the best in the area. Tulia's jumpers, though, could provide Snyder with some tough competition in that event.

Preliminaries in the White Deer Invitational are today, with the finals lasting most of the day Saturday.

Pampa rodeo team ties for fifth

Pampa High rodeo teams struggled through snowfall and cold, windy weather in a recent Tri-State Rodeo at Clovis, N.M.

Pampa girls finished in a tie for fifth with 12 points.

Leslie Leggett placed in two events for the Pampa girls. She was third in goat tying (11.48) and fourth in poles (22.33).

Amy Cockrell was eighth in poles with a time of 26.10.

Wheeler teams also competed at Clovis.

Drew Thomas placed fifth in calf roping (12.61) and fourth in ribbon roping (8.21). He teamed with Ladd Brashears to place fourth in team roping with a 9.23.

Darren York was seventh in calf roping with a 15.16 time while Shane Goad was seventh in ribbon roping at 9.01.

Larry Trimble and George Harlan placed third in team roping with a 7.85 and sixth with a 9.60.

In the girls' division, Anita Bentley placed seventh in poles with a 26.02.

"He never had any knee problems in his entire life," said White Sox trainer Herm Schneider. "His knee has never given out so when things happen like that, it's a new experience to him."

Schneider said Baines' knee bothered him at the plate in his only at-bat.

Override frees funds, may raise Texas limit by summer

DALLAS (AP) — Texans may be able to drive 65 mph on some roads as early as this summer now that the Senate has overridden President Reagan's veto of a highway bill, state officials say.

Thursday's override also freed $850 million in federal funds for use in Texas this year, which will support about 20,145 jobs in construction and related activities, State Department of Highways spokeswoman Marcy Goodfleisch said.

The bill allows states to raise the speed limit from 55 to 65 mph on most stretches of interstate highways and includes more than 100 highway demonstration projects tailor-made for individual lawmakers.

"Reaction in the whole department has been very positive because we know we can go to work on projects that are now needed," Ms. Goodfleisch said.

She said an estimated 23.7 jobs are created with every million dollars spent on highway projects. The department will begin letting contracts almost immediately.

"We have been postponing projects for a while now and as early as December started using some major state dollars for these projects that would have been let by federal dollars," she said, citing the new bridge in Baytown in Southeast Texas as an example.

The state is free to raise the limit to 65 mph on 2,422 miles of interstate highways, but not on 704 more-urban miles. Trucks would be allowed to drive only 60 mph during the day and 55 mph at night, Ms. Goodfleisch said.

Legislative action is not required for raising the limit, but the state highway commission must wait for the new regulations on the bill and set a public hearing before it can vote to raise the speed limit on some highways, she said.

That should be taken care of by summer, she said.

U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm and U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas voted on opposing sides, with Republican Gramm voting to sustain the veto, while Bentsen joined fellow Democrats in favor of the override.

Gov. Bill Clements, meanwhile, said he was pleased by the vote.

"I think that's just fine," he said. "I sent President Reagan a telegram asking him to sign the bill."

The House voted 350-73 Tuesday to override the veto Reagan made last week.

Water director asked to step down

DALLAS (AP) — The executive director of the Texas Water Commission has been asked to step down after complaints he did not keep the commission informed about his actions and those of his staff.

Ralph Roming, one of the three commission members, wrote a letter to Larry Soward asking for his immediate resignation, the Dallas Morning News reported.

Soward, who has been executive director since September 1985, could not be reached for comment Thursday.

In a letter dated Wednesday, Roming wrote,

"You and I have discussed on many occasions the absolute necessity of my being completely informed." He said, "Your refusal to cooperate is nothing less than insubordination. I have been embarrassed and made to look like a fool in the past by your actions along these lines."

But commission chairman Paul Hopkins said he opposes removing Soward, defending him as a "great public servant who deserves better treatment than this."

"He'll do more in 24 hours than Commissioner Roming will do in 10 years," Hopkins said.

IT'S TIME FOR THE FACTS

MY OPPONENT SAID:

"When Wal-Mart wanted to establish a regional warehouse in Pampa...our city commission did not make a proposal...and Plainview now has the warehouse"

Source: Advertisement Pampa News
Sunday 3/29/87

THE FACT IS:

"After doing a complete demographic analysis, we restricted our search to the area between Lubbock and Amarillo. It was for this reason Pampa was not chosen..."

Source: Letter from Wal-mart
Thomas P. Seay VP. 9/18/86

This same opponent blames the City Commission for rising unemployment and declining sales tax revenues. WHAT NEXT---THE BLIZZARD???
