BUT THEY SAY THEY DO

Companies Don't Enjoy Competition

NEW YORK (AP) — In Ted Cross' opinion, the trouble with free enterprise as practiced is that too many companies don't like competition. "They say they like it but they don't. They don't like to compete."

He feels that almost habitually they thwart competition in order to make life more comfortable for themselves. "They avoid the introduction of new competitive factors," he said in an interview.

"Social issues are a new competitive force," he continued, among them being opportunities for women and blacks, product safety and a healthy environment. "But companies don't want to be rated on these factors," he said.

Unlike many who hold such views, Theodore Cross, 49 Amherst, Harvard, editor of the Harvard Law Review, corporate lawyer and executive, author of the highly regarded "Black Capitalism," presidential adviser on channeling capital to ghettos, editor of the Bankers Magazine and founder of Business and Society Review Innovation, is in a position to do something. Appointed a public governor of the American Stock Exchange last October, Cross now suggests it would be a sound move to require all listed companies to make public their records on how well they implement job equality.

At present, companies file statements with the Equal Opportunity Employment Commission, but the records are denied the public. Cross would insist they be made available for publicizing by social action groups.

"To do so would be to implement the constitutions of both the New York and American exchanges and bylaws of the National Association of Securities Dealers, all of which require just and equal trade and business practices.

Cross insists social factors are sound bases for rating companies—as sound as quality and safety of product and price. How a company treats minorities and the environment, he believes, might even be a financial consideration.

Discrimination costs, Cross maintains. "It is the first thing that Adam Smith would say was wrong. People should be rewarded according to merit and ability. To be truly functional, free enterprise needs that competition."

Test Center Sets Teacher Examination

CANYON—West Texas State University will again serve as a test center for the National Teacher Examinations April 7.

The examinations are given to college seniors preparing to teach and teachers applying for certification or seeking positions in school systems which require the tests, said Dr. Kenneth Waugh, director of the WTSU Testing and Counseling Center.

The NTE are prepared and administered by Educational Testing Service of Princeton, J.J. Registrations for the examinations must reach the Princeton office by March 15, Waugh said. Information and registration forms are available through the WTSU Testing and Counseling Center.

At the one-day test session a candidate may take the Common Examinations, which include tests in professional education and general education.

UNDER 'DEATH SENTENCE'

Former Pampan Suffering From Slow, Rare Disease

By LARRY HOLLIS
A former Pampan now residing in Lawton, Okla., was told he had four to six weeks to live.
That was last June and as of this writing, he is still alive.
Jeff D. Carter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carter, has managed to survive because of his determination.
Carter, who lived in Pampa as a young boy before moving to Borger and later Gainesville, where his mother now lives, before settling in Lawton, is suffering from a rare disease, the same one which killed Lou Gehrig, baseball all-time great.

The technical name is amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS), but it is commonly referred to as "Lou Gehrig's disease."
ALS is a neuromuscular disorder which causes decay of the motor nerves in the spinal cord and brain stem.
Usually the disease is of two kinds: one affecting the speech with a loss of weight, and the other causing some paralysis.
Carter, 38, has both kinds.
He first began to notice a sickness last March, a year ago, when he pulled a neck muscle. Later he noticed a slight slurring of his speech and numbness in his right arm.
He visited a doctor and received treatment for a possible blood clot and then for a pinched nerve.
But he continued to grow weaker. Several weeks later, he went to an Oklahoma City doctor, who suspected ALS.
Carter then underwent a battery of tests, including testing by two specialists and a complicated machine. The verdict was ALS—and impending death.
The disease eventually affects the throat muscles, with the individual having to depend on intravenous feedings in its worst stages, when even swallowing liquids becomes too difficult.
Despite the doctor's warnings that he would lose weight, Carter at first continued to gain weight to get "a reserve to fall back on."
As the disease advanced, Carter continued to be active, although he had to limit the scope of using his energy. With the help of his two girls, Patty and Sandy, he built a picket fence at his Lawton home.
He's upset because he can't do some of the things he used to accomplish, such as washing a car or even fastening his clothes. He can't turn himself over in bed or help himself up when he falls, which has been more common lately.
But otherwise, he tries to continue in as normal a manner as possible.
The Muscular Dystrophy Association includes ALS in its program and is ready to provide any equipment Carter may need.

After diagnosis, death may come within weeks—or within a very few years. Some have lived as long as 10 to 15 years, those with a strong will to survive. Carter has that.
The Carters are not making too many plans for the future, but are busy trying to take care of the present.
His wife, Peggy, had an adopted daughter, Patty, when they were married in 1965. Carter had two boys—Rex and Larry—and a girl, Sandy. His first wife, Barbara, had died when the children were small.
The situation is sometimes harder on the family than it is on Carter. He maintains a good dose of optimism, faith and a will to live.

SBA Workshop Set In Amarillo

AMARILLO—The Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, along with the Amarillo Clearing House Association, is sponsoring a Small Business Administration workshop on Wednesday, March 14, at the Holiday Inn on Interstate 40 and Osage. This is the same workshop that was scheduled for Jan. 10 but canceled because of bad weather.
The workshop will start with registration at 11:30 a.m., with a luncheon at 12 noon, where the featured speaker will be Fred S. Neumann, regional director for Region VI of the SBA. The cost of the workshop will be $5, which includes the noon meal. The workshop will be completed by 4 p.m.
The workshop sessions will involve specialists from the Small Business Administration who will explain the services available through SBA. This will include the financing, management and procurement, community economic development, lease guarantee, surety bonds, loan administration and legal problems involved in closing and servicing SBA guaranteed loans. All Banks and savings and loan associations in the Golden Spread area will be invited to participate. The total group will be divided into small work sessions involving each of the program categories for 30 minute periods.

A Tribute to Girl Scouts!
By BILL DOWNS
When Judy, Jane and Barbara don their Girl Scout uniforms, they are not merely putting on different clothes. They are becoming part of a worldwide crusade for health, mental stimulus and good citizenship which builds character and fine womanhood. So we salute the Girl Scouts of this community and wherever they may be participating in this expertly directed movement. They have fun, bless them, and with it all, they learn to use their hands, their youthful heads... and above all, their innocent hearts. Your girl, too, should be a happy, healthy member of the Girl Scouts!

Girl Scout Week

March 11-17

NEW OFFICIAL GIRL SCOUT — Melvin Kunkel, manager of Southwestern Public Service Co. receives a membership lapel pin from Cadette Mariba Hilton, 13, member of Troop 61 with Mrs. Wayne Jones, leader. Mrs. Mildred Prifce, home service advisor, SWPS, receives a plaque with the revised Promise and Law from Cadette, Penny Miser, 14.

She is a leader. She knows when to be a follower. She is concerned. She is involved. She is a Girl Scout.

This week, March 11-17, Girl Scouts across the land are celebrating 61 years of Girl Scouting. Juliette Gordon Low and the 18 girls who started it all in Savannah, Ga. have grown to a nationwide movement boasting a membership of three and three-quarters million girls.

In the 61 years since the founding of Girl Scouting on March 12, 1912, the movement has kept pace with the times.

In 1912 Girl Scouts learned the names of wild flowers and birds. Today Girl Scouts are intensely involved with all phases of ecology and the protection of a quality environment. Girl Scouts work to keep America Beautiful.

With all the changes some things in Girl Scouting never change. Girl Scouts continue to express themselves such as through the newly revised Promise and Law. Girl Scouting is based on an ethical code with this "Promise and Law," and the lovely new words have true meaning for today.

Girl Scouts share avenues for growing with a nation of girls from every walk of life. These avenues stress citizenship and respect for order, for courage, and for convictions. These same Girl Scouts enjoy campfires and cookouts and fun and friendship.

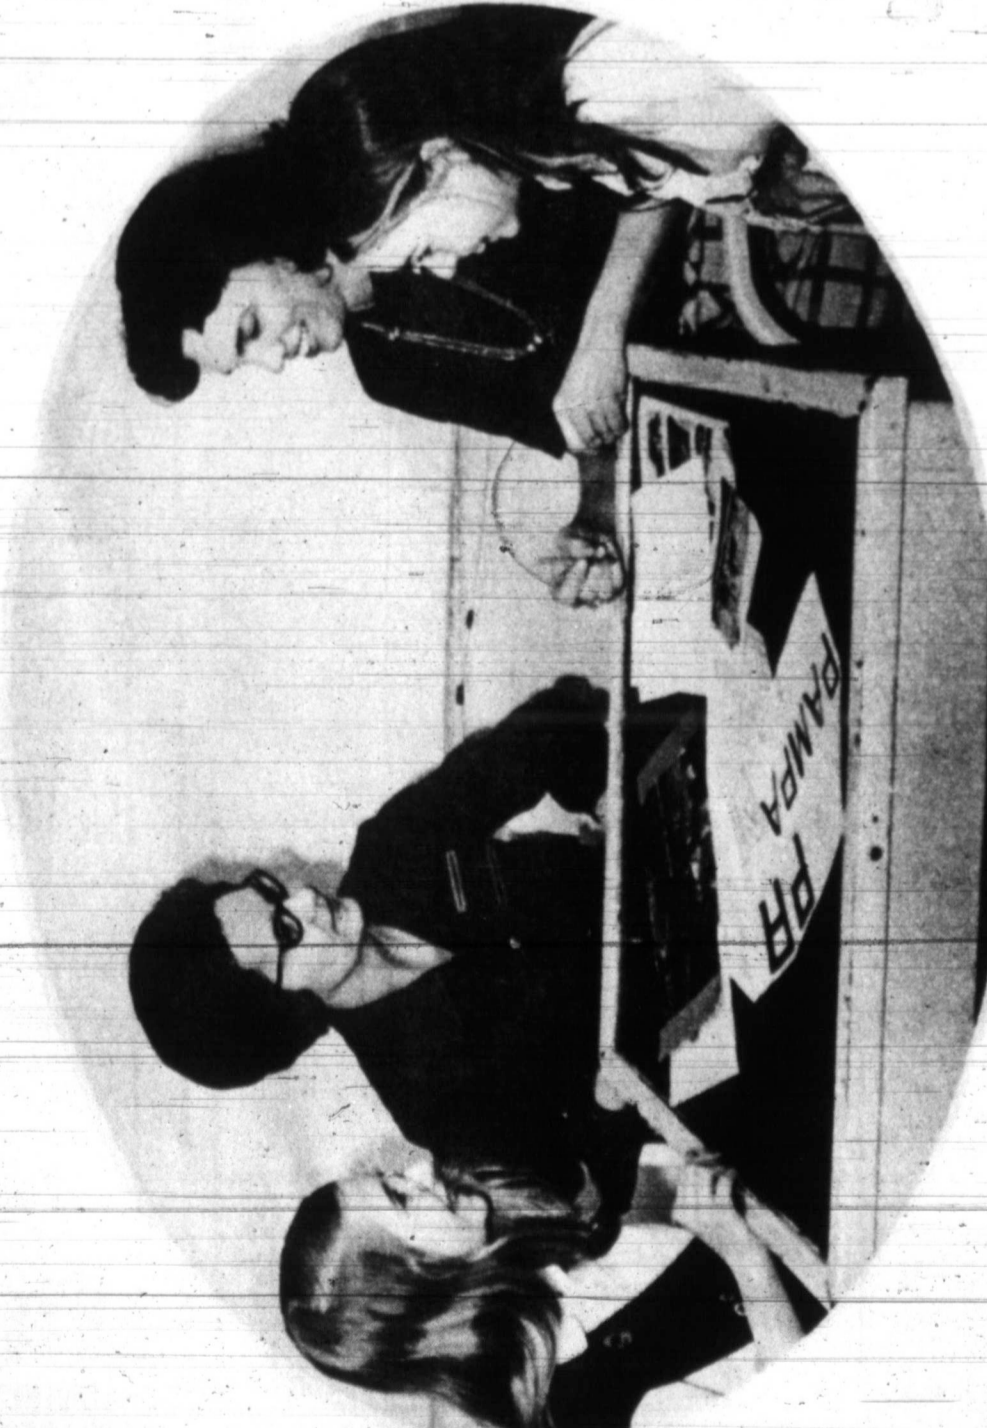

Through a variety of experiences in the arts, the sciences, and the outdoors, Girl Scouts gain insight into today's world and grow in their capacity for tomorrow's vision.

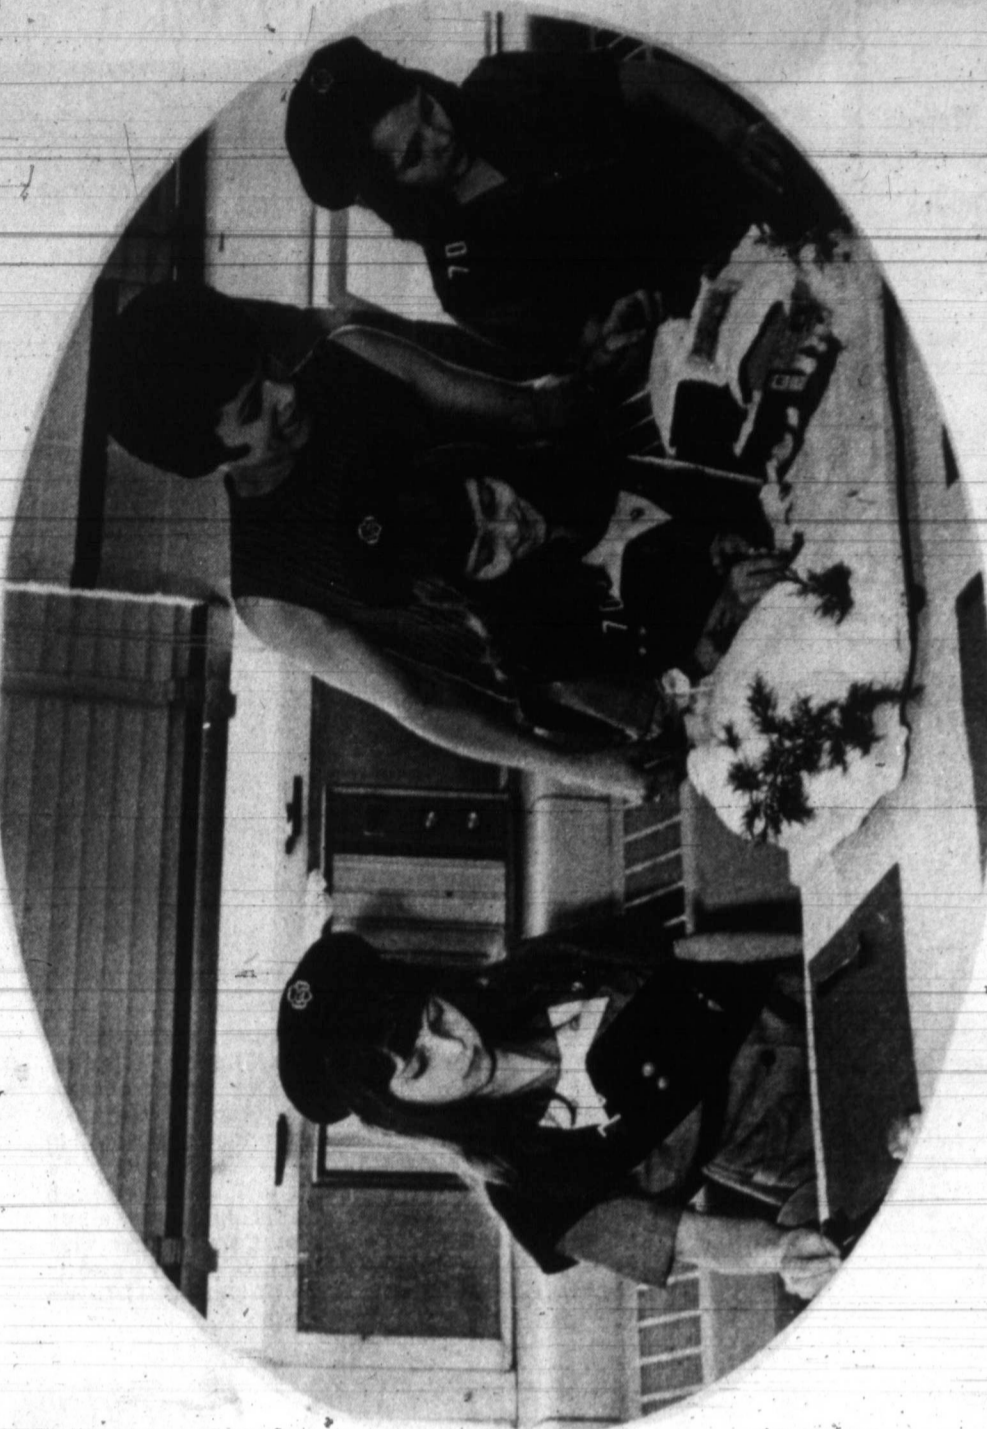

THANK YOU FOR A SAFE TOWN — Baked goodies were presented to Pampa Firemen at Christmas by Junior Troop 9 with Mrs. John Grooters, leader. Scouts also showed their appreciation for the Pampa Police Department by presenting them with cards and refreshments. Thank giving, Citizenship training and a respect for authority are basic to Girl Scouting. Shown left to right are Kayla Coffee, 11, Karen Harris, 11, Captain Al Ferguson, Cindy Park, 11, Julie Hampton, 10, and Mrs. Grooters, troop leader.

FASHION FLAIR — Brownies get the newest look in a mix in match uniforms which can be worn in 12 official combinations. Each girl can select her favorite look and express her own individuality within the troop. Stacy Finkenbinder, 8, left, member of Brownie Troop 71, and Shelia Brock, 8, member of Troop 188, model the new uniforms.

PLANNING BEAUTIFICATION PROJECTS — Discussing the proposed planting of the letters "PAMPA" to mark the city from the air, are from left, Carrie Comer, 13, Mrs. Thelma Bray, chairman, civic beautification committee, Chamber of Commerce, Mrs. Wallace Birkes, leader of Cadette Troop 90, and president of Pampa Garden Club, and Mary Gantz, 12, Troop 90. Ecology and a concern for a quality environment are vital concerns of girl scouting now as in the past.

Chinese Art Is Topic For Forum Club Meeting

Assuring sex of unborn child isn't in the stars

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 28-year-old wife and mother. We have six darling little girls. We kept hoping for a boy, but never had one.

I had my horoscope read last week, and this lady told me if I had another baby it would be a boy! This really got me all excited, and if I could be sure I'd have a boy, I would have another baby. I love my six little daughters dearly, but I wouldn't want another girl.

Do you have any faith in astrology? I am an Aries and my husband is a Libra if that means anything.

WANTS A BOY

DEAR WANTS: I had my horoscope read last year by an expert who did not know who I was. She told me that I had hidden talents and I should try to find some kind of career to fill my idle hours. She also said my husband (who, incidentally has never changed a light bulb) was handy around the house. If you want to gamble go to Las Vegas.

DEAR ABBY: After 23 years of being a virgin I gave myself to a guy I thought I loved. I never had another guy and never wanted one—until now. I've never discussed my sex life with anyone so I really don't know if my case is special or not. My boy-friend calls me a nagging pain-in-the-neck. You see, he doesn't kiss me before or after. He never was overly affectionate but he used to kiss me more before I gave in to him.

Maybe I'm expecting too much, but I feel so cheap having sex with a guy who doesn't even kiss me. This isn't what I expected lovemaking to be like at all. I am a clean and attractive girl, but it seems like my boy-friend wants just one thing, and after he gets it he hardly pays any attention to me. Is there something wrong with me? Or is it him?
FEELING BLUE

DEAR FEELING: First, let's get our definitions straight. "Having sex" and "making love" are two different things. Having sex is grabbing whoever is handy, right now, without tenderness or preliminaries. Making love is caring and sharing and wanting to give pleasure more than getting it. You want someone to make love to you. Your boy-friend wants someone to have sex with.

DEAR ABBY: I am 20 years old and I'm going with this great guy who wants to marry me. Well, I'm 250 pounds, and he's always after me to lose weight, but I'm happy the way I am.

It may sound crazy, but I enjoy making people laugh, and being fat helps a lot. I am not self-conscious about the way I look. In fact, I make jokes about it.

Also, when I walk down the street alone at night I feel safer than a girl with a good figure. Will you please tell my boy-friend, and other guys whose girls are overweight, that it doesn't bother us as much as they think.

OVERWEIGHT IN CLEVELAND

DEAR OVERWEIGHT: Speak for yourself. I've never known a fat girl who didn't desperately want a good figure. Stop rationalizing, and take your boy-friend's advice before you lose a great guy. [P. 8. That myth about fat girls being "safer" than girls with good figures is absurd. In fact, they're not as safe. They can't run as fast.]

DEAR ABBY: Do you think I'm being unfair to my husband for refusing to go to bed with him? He hasn't taken a bath since our son's wedding which was three years ago last June.

In the 30 years we've been married I can count the baths he's taken on my fingers. He says I am too "picky."
PICKY IN NEW ORLEANS

DEAR PICKY: Unfair! Hardly. Tell your man, "No bath, no beddy bye with me, brother!" [P. 8. And a little soft soap wouldn't hurt.]

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69706, L. A., Calif. 90089. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69706, Los Angeles, Cal. 90089.

Twentieth Century Forum met recently at the home of Mrs. Ellis Locke in Miami, Tex. Members were greeted by Mrs. Locke dressed in authentic Chinese silks and jewelry. The Locke collection of fine Chinese and Japanese art objects were on display throughout the home. Found among the collection were "The Lady Warrior," an ivory carving of a legendary Chinese woman, who, rather than leave her lover became a fierce warrior herself; antique porcelain; hand-carved jade; brass and bronze incense burners and an antique room screen carved of teak wood with cantonese panels.

Mrs. David Holt, president, presided during the business meeting during which a contribution to "Friends of Pampa Library" was enacted and club members voted to endorse this organization 100 per cent with individual memberships. Mrs. Locke presented the program, "Chinese Art," beginning, "It would take days to really cover Chinese Art, so I am giving you a glimpse into some segments of their art. The style is so varied, it goes from the very simple style of some pottery to the most ornate carvings. It ranges from the exquisitely beautiful to the most grotesque in form. But even the grotesque pieces have a rare beauty. The Chinese artists were influenced by countries who overran them in early days as well as by the American and European countries who came to trade. Since the Chinese art works started so many centuries ago, the usual 100 year-age to be qualified as an antique does not apply. Nothing Chinese is antique after the year 1820 and sometimes before. There are some export pieces done after 1820 that are well done, but Chinese art has been in a state of decadence since then. Their works may be wonders of technique but lack the inspiring touch of genius and originality." Mrs. Locke selected Jade from the varied art forms and materials to pursue. She stated, "In our minds the very work 'Jade' tends to evoke fascinating images of the fabulous Orient. In the 14th century Marco Polo returned to Europe to tell of the vast number of trinkets and ornamental objects which he had observed in Hine. He described these objects as skillfully carved from some extremely hard stone which was pleasing to the eye because of the variety and delicate loveliness of its colorings. This was probably the first European knowledge of Jade. The first people to import jade were the enterprising Portuguese sailors and merchants who established regular commercial relations with China in the 18th century. The export of Jade was conducted in secrecy and was not devoid of danger. Jade was considered even more precious than gold and believed to have magical and curative powers. The later beliefs brought strict prohibition of its export.

Modern imitations of Jade exported through Hong Kong, usually elegantly carved, statuettes are nothing but a type of alabaster or translucent green flourite which is soft and easily carved and thus has no significant value. There is one classical object in the art of Chinese carvings that, through the ages, maintained a basic identity of form. This is the "PI." It consists of a disc with a large central hole that represents Heaven. We have many examples of "PI" carvings in our museums all over the world," concluded Mrs. Locke. Members present were

"Artist Of The Year" Exhibits Work At Gallery

The Pampa Fine Arts Association annually selects an "Artist of the Year." This honor, in the field of visual arts, is awarded following selection by a committee appointed by Board of Trustees. The Pampa Fine Arts Association sponsors a showing for the artist in the spring of the year and gives recognition at its annual banquet.

Homer D. Johnson was selected last spring as "Artist of the Year" for 1972, and his works of art will be on exhibit March 19-20, from 2 until 5 p.m. at the Pampa Fine Arts Gallery, 516 West Kingsmill. The exhibit is cordially open for public viewing.

He is a Pampa attorney in charge of local Legal Department for Cabot Corporation. He has been painting for almost 10 years and has studied under Dord Fitz and Ben Konis of Amarillo, Harold Roney of San Antonio, Bud Biggs of Dallas and Mary Garrett of Clovis.

His paintings make an orderly, clear and colorful statement leaving no doubt as to Johnson feels grateful for the improved understanding of the world around him that painting has brought and expresses gratitude to Fitz, Konis and the other fine teachers of art, who opened the door.

Guilty, Innocent

THE REGISTER Santa Ana, Calif. The bodies of two slain L.A. County officers were not yet laid to rest before an outcry was raised that we live in a "sick society." We can understand the feelings of men in law enforcement on this point for so much of their working time is spent with the depressive element of humanity. Still, we do not believe it is fair to say that because one mad dog got loose, everybody else has hydrophobia.

Dollars With Feet

Your expenses are going up and your choice of merchandise, if foreign made, faces a sharp limitation in the near future. That is how the imbalance of payments hits the household. But an American observer in Europe, a person of high reputation in the investor community, says the penalty against Americans is unnecessary.

Japanese See Us As Bit 'Lazy'

By RAY CROWLEY WASHINGTON (NEA)—Japanese officials here don't think the United States will greatly narrow or wipe out its big world trade imbalance until it becomes a far better competitor than it is today. Short of that, these officials see this country as almost certain to be involved in one crisis after another in international money markets and the trade field.

Though the attitude of the Japanese I talk to seems characterized by genuine good will, the judgments about America as an economic entity in 1973 are at root quite harsh. In blunt terms, they believe we have slipped badly as efficient, imaginative producers of goods, and that as sellers abroad, we appear to be lazy if not downright indifferent.

Most large trading nations ascribe our continuing difficulties to inflationary trends which stubbornly refuse to abate. Japan's specialists accept this as part of the story, of course, but they relate it to their more basic judgments of U.S. deficiencies as a world trader. For instance, in a speech in Minneapolis a few days ago, Japan's ambassador to the United States, Nobuhiko Ushiba, told a forum of farmers that the current domestic boom in this country—rooted in astonishing demand at home for many products even at rising prices—diminishes America's incentive to export and cut into its trade deficit.

BRUCE BLOSSAT On 'Magic' Spirit That Sustains Us

By BRUCE BLOSSAT WASHINGTON (NEA)—In his new play called "Out Cry," the distinguished playwright Tennessee Williams brings down the final curtain with one of his two characters saying "Magic is a habit. Magic is our existence."

H. L. Hunt Writes

FEDERAL CONTROLS Business today provides jobs for 90 million U.S. citizens. The money our businessmen and their employees earn pays the taxes which sustain the enormous, top-heavy structure of our federal government. All too often the federal government seems determined to choke off the source of all these benefits, and of its own income, by a tightening noose of federal controls.

Your Health Surgery Best For Hernia

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D. Dear Dr. Lamb—is it possible to correct a hernia of the lower abdomen without surgery or hospitalization? A man told me he had a hernia corrected in this manner.

Dear Reader—There are a number of things that are done to people to correct problems in the lower abdomen area which aren't necessarily hernias, such as withdrawal of fluid from a sac in the scrotum. But the only real way to correct a hernia in that area is surgical.

In women there is a structure comparable to the cord which also is associated with a weakening of the lower abdominal wall but it's usually not as much of a problem as in men. The loop of bowel, if it's out, has to be placed back in the abdomen (they usually slide in and out anyway unless they become strangulated) and then the torn and over-stretched ligaments and muscles have to be properly relocated, and sutured in place.

Dear Dr. Lamb—In one of your future articles will you explain the reason you specifically said use fortified skim milk for drinking purposes but use nonfat milk for cooking? Is it because of the better taste of skim milk only?

We have been drinking the dry milk fortified with vitamins A and D for years and would like to continue to do so. However, if something of nutritional value is missing we would switch to skim milk.

PAMPA'S PHIL Cates, our state representative down at Austin, has been the victim of a foul-up in bookkeeping in the state capital accounting office. Cates, you will recall, was accused of overdrawing his expense account and ordered to pay back $1,152 at the rate of $64 per month deduction.

Incidentally, Cates told us he plans to make a thorough investigation of bookkeeping practices in the state accounting office. "If that many things can go wrong in this one instance," Cates said, "I intend to do some back-checking just to make sure."

BZZ-BZZ-BZZ-BZZ-BZZ-BZZ

WHAT AN UGLY RUMOR!

I CAN HARDLY WAIT TO SPREAD IT!

He is truly a good dog.

He is also a loyal friend.

Therefore, I would like to recommend ol' banana nose for Neighborhood Dog of the Year.

HEE HEE HEE HEE HEE HEE HEE!

THERE MUST BE SOMETHING I CAN DO ABOUT THOSE HOSTILE OLD CROCKS!

FIKINK... IT'S A LONG-SHOT, BUT IT'S WORTH A TRY

DO YOU HAVE ANYTHING THAT WILL TURN ON A BOARD OF TRUSTEES?

PERFUME

EASY DUCKS ASIDE AS MELVIN HATCH PLINGS THE SAFE!

AW, COME ON, RITCHIE... JOIN THE FRIENDSHIP CLUB, HUH? WHADDAYA SAY? OKAY?

NO! NO!

I CAN'T STAND ALL THAT BEATING AROUND THE BUSH!

LET ME HAVE ANOTHER CUP OF COFFEE, MONIQUE

SURE

WHAT DO YOU TAKE WITH YOUR COFFEE?

UMBRAGE!

YOU DESERVED TO BE SPANKED, BECAUSE YOU TOLD A LIE!

NEAH? WELL, IT'S ALL YOUR FAULT!

HOW DO YOU FIGURE THAT?

IF YOU HADN'T ASKED ME, I WOULDN'T HAVE LIED!

IT'S AMAZING HOW A SKI DATE WEEKEND CAN SUDDENLY TURN INTO A SINGLES WEEKEND!

THAT'S WHAT I LIKE TO SEE... A LOYAL EMPLOYEE HARD AT WORK!

YOU SAID IT, BOSS!

I JUST LANDED AN ORDER FOR SIX MILLION PAPER CLIPS!

WONDERFUL!

I PRESUME YOU ARE COMPUTING THE COMPANY'S PROFIT ON THE TRANSACTION?

NAW... I'M FIGURIN' MY COMMISSION!

THEN YOU DO KNOW WHERE SKIP IS?

YES—BUT HE MADE ME PROMISE NOT TO TELL HIS FATHER— AND I WON'T BREAK THAT PROMISE!

HELLO, SKIP! I HAVE SOME BAD NEWS! YOUR FATHER HAS SUFFERED A HEART ATTACK— AND HE'S IN THE HOSPITAL!

IT LOOKS SERIOUS! HE SAID HE WANTS TO SEE YOU— BEFORE IT'S TOO LATE!

YOU MEAN I CAN HAVE IT?

MOM, IS IT OKAY IF...

IF I... ER... AH...

CAN I TALK TO YOU IN PRIVATE?

GOOD-BYE, PEGGY... I'LL CALL YOU LATER

YOU SPEND HALF OF YOUR TIME ON THE TELEPHONE

WHAT IF YOU HAD LIVED BACK IN THE DAYS BEFORE YOU WERE INVENTED?

I'D HAVE PHONED MY CONGRESSMAN AND PROTESTED!

I SURE HOPE THOSE BIG GASTROTS COME UP WITH SOME FRESH MEAT FOR US!

WELL, IF THEY DON'T, I THINK WE GOT A PROBLEM ON OUR HANDS, GUZ... LOOK WHAT'S COMIN!

HUH... YOU'RE RIGHT! THOSE FOLKS ARE PROBABLY READY TREAT 'EM BARK OFF A TREE BY THIS TIME!

GOSH, FRED... IT'S TEN AFTER ELEVEN!

SO...

SO... THE PIN-SETTER IS SUPPOSED TO GET OFF AT ELEVEN!

I GUESS THE DAY OF THE LAVISH FLOOR SHOWS IS A THING OF THE PAST, ERNIE

HERE ARE THE PAPERS, MATT!

MATT WEBSTER AN ARTIST WITH UNIQUE FLAIR

ORIGINAL AND REFRESHING WORK OF MATT WEBSTER

THE PORTRAIT OF COUNTS QUINELLA WAS PAINTED WITH COMPLETE ABANDON... AND IN DOING SO, MATT WEBSTER WAS REVEALING A TALENT BORDERING ON GENIUS... THE STROKES ARE BOLD AND YET SENSITIVE.

DETECTIVE HAZARD'S ACTION WAS THE MOST HEROIC I'VE SEEN IN YEARS.

HE MADE THAT RIOTING MOB BACK AWAY WITHOUT USING MACE, TEAR GAS OR ANY OTHER WEAPON.

HOW DID YOU HANDLE SUCH A FEAT, DETECTIVE HAZARD?

FOR LUNCH I HAD GARLIC SALAMI!

YOU ACTUALLY THINK WE'LL GO SHOPLIFTING WITH YOU NEXT WEEK?

WE'VE GOT $200.00 THAT SAYS YOU DO?

WHAT DO YOU MEAN?

THERE'S THAT MUCH LOOT IN THAT ROOM AND YOU KNOW ALL ABOUT HOW IT GOT THERE!

YOU'RE PART OF US NOW!

AND IF WE DON'T SHOW AT SELLER'S TUESDAY?

I HATE TO SAY IT, KIDS, BUT UNTIL YOU SHAPE UP YOU ARE DEAD IN THAT HIGH SCHOOL?
