SPORTS ON PARADE

By CURTIS BISHOP

Young Kid Whittington is wondering at how boxing decisions are reached. So, it might be added, is this writer.

Friday evening Whittington fought Red McGinly, the two-fisted Snyder boy. There were three judges. Two of them gave the fight to Whittington by a clear margin. One voted four rounds for McGinly, two for Whittington, and two a draw. The referee marked the rounds for Whitt, one for McGinly, and one a draw.

Somehow a draw decision resulted out of the mixup. The vote stood 3 to 1 in favor of Whittington. The rounds stood 19 to 9 in favor of the Wellington scrapper in four draws. Perhaps Red had his hands.

Ray Simmons' announcement concerning the decision given in the preliminary and semi-final events would be announced in Sunday Herald requires some explanation. The decision referred to amount to nothing more than the opinion of the newspaperman covering the event. The fight was professional nature, and barring knockouts no decisions are rendered. There is nothing at all official about the statement that "Alabama Cuthbert won over Monk Prichard and such."

This afternoon The Herald's club team will meet the club brought together by one Red Hutchison of Colorado and Boone Cramer of Pecos. Every one of the players selected as members of the all-star lineup will be given a chance to prove the wisdom of the selection of fifty-one Howard County fans. Manager Edith McCormick intimates. Madison himself will not be able to play.

Starting for the all-stars will be Bill Brown, the Coahoma right hander. Brown secured 42 votes out of 51 in the polls. Pop Payne, the Tiger ace, will relieve Brown before the game is over, and if Payne is unable to be on hand, as expected, Shorty Walden of Forsan will take up the hurling burden.

This afternoon the Sand Belt Golf Association will be the guests of the Big Spring Country Club. The local linksmen will close their season against the Odessa brassie busters, and have in mind second place in the "Sand Belt" tournament. Colorado goes against Lamesa in the outstanding match of the day with an eighteen point advantage, which means that Bob Scott and Co. have almost a lead pipe chance to take the championship.

Incidentally Scott seems destined to win.

Harry Kane, Veteran Texas Umpire, Dies

DALLAS—Harry Kane, 50, of Oklahoma City, veteran umpire in the Pacific coast baseball league, died at his hotel here Friday night from a heart attack. He was found dead in his room when his partner, Eddie McLoughlin, returned to the hotel after the San Francisco-Portland game.

Kane was stricken in the seventh inning of a game he was working Tuesday night. He apparently was recovering yesterday, McLoughlin said.

He is survived by his widow of Oakland.

DALLAS—Harry Kane, who died at Portland, Ore., Friday night, is remembered as one of the most colorful umpires ever to work in the Texas league, a little man with a mighty voice, who played at the stumps and then laughed at them. He was probably the most unpopular of all trades but the fans and players alike were his friends.

Kane served 11 years as a Texas league umpire. At the end of the 1921 campaign, he was sold to the Pacific coast league. He umpired in the Texas league in 1927. He returned in 1921 to umpire five consecutive years. He was out of the league in 1928, but returned in 1927 to umpire until his sale in 1931.

Kane was of frail build but he had a thunderous voice. He would make his thumb out, start a low sweep of his hand together with a curve of his body and at the peak of the swing would follow the call of strike, turn to the crowd to see if his decision pleased, and then return to his work. He was an excellent umpire and a superior showman who knew how to please. Of a kindly nature, he was stern with umpires. The funny are the Texas league umpires have been shown to the showers for protesting his decisions.

Replying to a request by C. T. Watson, Chamber of Commerce manager, to compile data and forward information concerning potentialities of Houston and San Antonio to American Airways, Inc., a number of prominent executives in both cities declined to do so for the present. Watson was working in the interest of a favorable reception from La Mette Cobb, president of the airways, to extend the southern loop of the line.

However, managers in both cities expressed an interest in the project proposed by Watson, but were of the opinion that it would be useless to go through with such work until after the general election in November.

Fred Townsend Stars In First Practice Game

First complete practice game between regulars and reserves on the Big Spring high school football team produced a potential back field star in Fred Townsend, playing his first year in a Steer uniform. Townsend was a shining light in the 21-0 victory by regulars.

Three times the amunitive half back broke loose and sprinted across the goal. He was shifted from the quarterback position on the second team to a half back on the regulars by Coach Bristow Friday. He played with Ben Daniels Devitt last season.

Howard Schfarzenbach continued to call signals and converted himself into a blocking back. Schwarzenbach confesses a dislike for carrying the ball anyhow, saying he had rather block. Richardson and Koberg demonstrated ability as backs during the contest.

Two Original Members Of Church Survive 50 Years

Mrs. Barrett, I. D. Eddins Residing Here

Pioneer Mother Worked Day And Night But Helped Church

Only two charter members of the First Christian church are living today to participate in the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the church—and that is one more than any other church in town can claim.

They are Mrs. I. D. Barrett and Mrs. I. D. Eddins.

The two original members show how hard it was for pioneer mothers to find any time at all to give to church affairs. Mrs. Barrett said she did not remember much except that she was too busy to do a lot of church work.

"How busy?"

Well, she worked until 2:30 a. m. and then got up at 4 o'clock to fix breakfast for fifteen boarders.

The sewing machine was set between the flaps of two quilts. One quilt was the kitchen and dining room and the other was her bedroom where Mrs. Barrett and her husband and three children lived.

She had only three washing machines in town and these were times when he had as much as orders from one family on hand to wash.

Taught Class

In spite of this terrific pressure Mrs. Barrett found time to teach a Sunday School of little tots for 12 years. The class met on Sunday afternoons. She willingly gave up her time during the week.

Among the men and women of today whom she taught are the following: Earl Read, Dan and Jim Tamsett, Fred and Winnie Blaine, Fozelle, Roy H. and Laura Eddins, Roy and Madge Sutton and her own two daughters, May and Julia.

Because not everyone in town was kind to the struggling church of which Mrs. Barrett was a member, she remembers with particular vividness a time when Mrs. Barrett was mother of Mrs. Barrett. She was the daughter of a man who had unfinished home services. The house was on the corner that Blunk's Grocery No. 2 now occupies. It did not have the windows in, but it was floored. Being unimproved, it provided more room than usual. Mrs. Barrett's neighbors that began and the crowd as another woman would describe a hard house.

Mrs. Barrett brought her family in the church and gave them all the benefit to be had from it.

Today the sets before them the example that she has set up for fifty years. She attends Sunday school regularly as do her health and many young people regularly. Her interest is just as keen and her faculties sharp as ever, even though her memory may not be so clear as of yore.

To her and to Mr. Eddins the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary will mean more than to any other people in the church.

REV. D. R. LINDLEY, above, pastor of the local church, has made much preparation for the Golden Jubilee revival of his church, opening Sunday morning.

Local Pastor In Third Year With Church

D. R. Lindley One Of Most Successful Young Ministers

Rev. D. R. Lindley, the present pastor of the local church, has been called here from the Central Christian church at Weatherford early in 1930.

Upon entering into an agreement with the local church, Rev. Lindley was presented with a letter by the Weatherford church asking him to reconsider and remain with them and a number of the officers of the Weatherford church journeyed to Big Spring seeking his release. Believing in the future of Big Spring however, he assumed his work here April 1, 1930.

Since taking charge of the local work, Rev. Lindley has organized 183 new members into his flock, of which the church almost half of the present membership having come in during his ministry.

Mr. Lindley also began stressing the teaching task of the church, especially emphasizing leadership training. Young People's Conference work and the Dallas Baptist Bible school. He is himself an excellent organ and instructor in the Disciples Department of Religious education and has taught more than 150 leadership training credits to the workers of the church during his ministry. Last summer in conjunction with the Presbyterian church, he and his workers conducted a Daily Vacation Bible school with an enrollment of more than 150 pupils. Each summer he serves on the faculty of the Disciples Young People's Summer Conference near Kerrville, Texas, and has built up a local conference of 12 members who have attended Conference.

During his ministry in Big Spring, Mr. Lindley has been active in civic as well as church affairs, being active in Boy Scout and Hi-Y work and having served as one of the directing members of the local Community Chest. He is called upon frequently to address local service clubs, and is an active member of the local Lions Club. At the present time he is serving his third year as chairman of the local Pastor's association.

Rev. Lindley began preaching at the age of 18 and is now in his tenth year of ministry. Prior to taking charge of the local work he served the church at Chickasha, Okla., as county evangelist.

Mr. Lindley received his preparation for the ministry in three of the most prominent educational institutions of the Christian church, having had his training at Johnson Bible College, Kumbier Heights, Tenn., transferred to Phillips University, where he received his A. B. degree and later taking more than two years of degree work in the

Hardships And Persecutions, Are Recounted

I. D. Eddins Built Baptistery In Back Yard—Twice Faced Locked Doors

The story of the rise of the First Christian church in Big Spring is a not at all of smooth sailing out to use a more western expression—one of ups and downs.

Although Big Spring was notorious for its saloons and gambling, it had no dislike for churches as such. If opposition came from the Christians being new to one of the few who were victims of whatever persecutions there were along this line. The result was to strengthen the faith of the members and to give the denomination a sturdy endurance.

Four men, members of this denomination, were the organizers, I. D. Eddins, who is still living was the most active. J. B. D. Boyd, who served as church treasurer for many years was another who believed sufficiently in their own doctrine to form their own organization. At first they met in the home of the members on Sunday afternoon for Sunday school services and preaching, when any one could be found to preach.

Growth

Their numbers grew and they needed a larger building. The school-house was not used on Sunday and was then a small frame building on the corner of the Women's clubhouse now occupies. They met there for a short time.

One morning they went to service to find the doors and windows nailed up by order of Judge Walthall, a man whose memory has survived by that deed alone. The judge was a well known free thinker and the strictness of the Christians was not good for the community in his eyes because he regarded them as a public nuisance. He decided to prevent them using any public buildings.

They went back to meetings in their homes.

But little two and three room houses of that day were not large enough to accommodate all of the flock and its friends. One day, when a preacher had promised to come to town and hold a protracted meeting, they asked one of the churches of the use in the evening, which it was not otherwise occupied.

Permission was given and one of the members carried five gallons of汽油 to the church that morning for the service.

Doors Locked

That evening when the preacher and his flock went to the church they found the door locked. Whether Judge Walthall had exerted his influence on the denomination had decided not to encourage the growth of the Christian church in their town. They had to give up their protracted meeting and they never got back their keys.

No so very long after that Mr. Eddins called the men together and talked over the matter of building a church home.

"We can't build a church house," they answered, "we're poor folks." Nothing daunted, Mr. Eddins resolved in his mind to build one. Everything a man could do in his home for the church, he had built a reservoir in his back yard especially for the purpose of baptizing the converts; he lined it with wood and caulked the seams and on cool fall mornings the members heated bricks and took off the chill of the water. Clay Read was baptised there so was Mrs. John Birdwell and Mrs. Mary Tzeell, to name only a few.

At last Mr. Eddins went to see one of the lumber yards. The proprietor was friendly and said that in the congregation there was only one man whose name he would not accept on notes for the lumber; later he accepted this name.

Build Home

So the Christians built themselves a home on Gregg street, just north of the old Central Ward school lot, a church with a nice baptismal pool.

The women pitched in and helped. When the building was almost finished—only the ceiling to be put on—they gave a supper. The men made seats out of lumber and improvised tables and the town was deluged with invitations. They made $300 that night, a sum that no church supper could realize to day.

During the supper a well-known gambler in the city came to the door but would not enter. He told Mr. Eddins that he wanted to give something to these "brave" people who refused to be daunted and he slipped a ten dollar gold piece into his hand. Mr. Eddins told the women and they heaped a plate with the best things they had to eat and sent it down to the gambler's home.

Gambler's Gift

The man brought back the plate and said the gambler had cried while he ate; it was nothing out of the ordinary for a gambler or a saloon man to contribute to the cause of the church, but it was seldom that he got such direct results in a manner he could so heartily appreciate.

In spite of being poor folks none of the men had any trouble paying the notes, although the church building was as good as any in

Movement For Unity Inaugurated In America Century Ago

BY D. R. LINDLEY

Maintaining that all Christian bodies should unite into one body and that this union can be attained only upon the basis of the New Testament scriptures, the Christian church or Disciples of Christ has made phenomenal strides forward during the past century. Beginning with a small group early in the nineteenth century which sought to soften the intolerant spirit then prevailing among the churches of America, the movement has been marked by a phenomenal growth which at the end of a hundred years has placed it as the fifth largest religious group in America, numbering more than two million communicants. Probably the greatest success of the movement has been in its organic growth, but in its success with which it has turned the keenest thinking minds in all the large religious bodies to a study of the problem of Christian Unity.

The movement had its inception at the beginning of the nineteenth century with the work of one like Thomas Campbell, Alexander Campbell, Barton W. Stone, who definitely set themselves to the task of breaking down the exclusive and intolerant walls which had been reared between the denominations of that day.

Disappointed in his efforts to effect a union of the Burgher and Anti-Burgher Presbyterian churches of Scotland, in 1807, Thomas Campbell migrated to America both because of impaired health and because of a more tolerant religious spirit. The religious situation in America, however, was no less confusing than it was in Ireland. The Congregational church was the established church of New England, the Anglican church was the established church of the southern colonies, and there was a mixture of denominations in the middle colonies. The Dutch Reformed church led in New York, the Lutheran church was the most important in Delaware; the Quakers were prominent in New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Assigned

The Baptists and Presbyterians were scattered throughout the middle colonies and were assigned by the Thomas Campbell brought his credentials from the Seceder branch of the Presbyterian church in Scotland, and was assigned by the "Parties Presbyteries" to a group of scattered churches in Washington County. His breadth of thought and scholarship soon won for himself a place of recognition in the New World, but his liberal spirit toward Christians of other religious bodies soon resulted in charges being preferred against him before the Presbyteries. The chief occasion of controversy was services, he would express regret at the divided condition of the church, and would invite all who were prepared, regardless of party affiliation, to enjoy the privilege of the communion which was offered.

Mr. Campbell's defense before the Presbyteries precipitated a movement for one united church among a group who, like Campbell, deplored the intolerance of their day. In his defense, Mr. Campbell stated that he did not think it right to teach "anything as a matter of faith or duty that what is already expressly taught and enjoined by the Holy Authority." He further declared that he regarded as "inadmissible and schismatic, the introduction of human opinions and human inventions into the faith and worship of the church." At this

Educational Program Of Church Greatly Widens Usefulness With Special Attention To Young Folk

Texas Membership Of Church Amounts To Above 80,000

Largely as a result of work done through the Texas Christian Missionary society, with headquarters located at Texas Christian University, Ft. Worth, Christian churches have been established all over Texas, with a present membership of slightly more than 80,000. Among the pioneer preachers of Texas are those of J. C. Mason, Addison and Randolph Clark, W. K. Homan, and Chalmers McPherson. The last named led in the organization of the Texas Christian Missionary Society at Austin in 1886. Since that time, A. J. Bush, B. B. Sanders, J. W. Holsapple, J. C. Mason, A. D. Rogers, J. E. Holmes, and Arthur Long have served as state superintendents of the organization. At the present time the society is under the leadership of Patrick Hendry, who formerly led in fine pastorates at Wichita Falls and San Antonio.

Along with the growth of Texas churches, the Texas Christian Missionary Society, there must be mentioned the Christian Courier.

Successful Preacher To Lead Church

Fifty Years Of Service In Community Observed By Congregation

In celebration of its fifty years of service at Big Spring, the First Christian church is launching a two weeks' Golden Jubilee Revival today, with Irye L. Townsend, pastor of the First Christian church at Sweetwater serving as the evangelist. Services will be held twice each day, with morning services at 8 o'clock and evening services at 7 o'clock.

The church was organized in the home of J. D. Eddins in the fall of 1882, with eight charter members. Of these, only two are still living, Mr. Eddins, and Mrs. M. E. Barrett. The church now has a membership of 335.

The revival will close on October 2, with a special Golden Jubilee service dedicated to the charter members and former members of the church. An invitation is being extended to former members and pastors to be present on this occasion.

According to Rev. D. R. Lindley, the pastor, Mr. Townsend, the evangelist, is a preacher of exceptional spiritual power. He is well known both as a successful evangelist and pastor. His ministry has been marked by its high spiritual plane. He announced as some of the themes to be discussed during "The Cross," "The Holy Spirit," "Secret Power," "Spiritual Prosperity," "Bible Types and Shadows," and "The New Birth." Other sermons will be on "God's Last Chance," "Evidences," "Still Unconquered," and "Spiritual Counterfeits." The general theme given to the entire series of messages will be "The Rainbow." One of the outstanding features of Mr. Townsend's ministry has been the "Rainbow Revivals" which he has made famous.

Mrs. Clarke Goes To Austin

Mrs. John Clarke received notice from her nephew, Dr. J. W. McLaughlin, Friday night last that Mrs. H. G. Askew, mother of Mrs. J. W. McLaughlin, who is a frequent visitor here, fell and broke her hip. Mrs. Clarke left Saturday afternoon for Austin to be gone definitely. Mrs. Askew is 74 years of age and Mrs. Clarke fears the injury may be serious.

Choir Is Important Church Organization

One of the best known organizations of the First Christian church and what is expected to be one of the most outstanding features of the revival is the church choir, under the direction of Mrs. Omar Pittman, as director and manager. Besides the singing given by the choir, members are constantly giving a variety of special musical numbers in solos, duets and quartets. The entire choir is quarterly called upon to participate in neighboring churches, especially during conventions and revivals. About twice a year the choir gives on a sacred cantata which always draws a large and attentive audience.

'Million-Dollar Cast' Is No Empty Phrase In Describing 'Grand Hotel' Film Version

Greta Garbo As Ballerina, John Barrymore As Baron, Joan Crawford As Stenographer, Lionel Barrymore As Clerk

The closest approximation of a genuine "million dollar" cast is offered by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in bringing to the talking screen Vicki Baum's sensational novel and stage hit, "Grand Hotel," which will lead the program at the R & R Ritz theater for two days.

Although definite figures are not available, it is known that Director Edmund Goulding had under his supervision the greatest aggregation of major stars ever assembled before a motion picture camera as a picture cast. What they totalled in salaries cannot be learned, but unofficial estimates agree they outweigh any other talent outlay on record.

As Grusinajaya the Russian ballerina, there is Greta Garbo, whose last picture, "Mata Hari," broke box-office records throughout the country. Paired with her as Baron von Gaielsen, who enters her room to steal jewels but remains to fall in love, is John Barrymore, recognized as the foremost romantic actor of the American stage and screen.

For Sex Appeal Jean Crawford, another breaker of box office records, is cast as stenographer. She finds that happiness and tragedy often go hand in hand. Wallace, Boxy, essays the most dramatic role of the entire cast, the millionaire industrialist who is disgraced with his own son's aid and disappears with his wife.

Lionel Barrymore, awarded last year's acting trophy from the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, has the grand entrance of "Grand Hotel" in a humorous scene which will be shown at the Grand Hotel to enjoy a brief period of splendor before the film. This is his second appearance with his brother, John, with whom he recently played in "Arsene Lupin."

Some as Director Lewis Stone as the chief shocked doctor and Jean Harlow as the mother who is anxious about the birth of his baby, head the large supporting cast, which includes Robert Montgomery, Pauline Goddard, Gertrude Ely, Mersean Wallace, Sally Murray, Frank Conroy, Murray, Kirby and Edwin Maxwell. In all, some seventy individual parts are in the picture of the play, all of them important parts.

Drawn Given Fighters Here

McGinty Takes Offensive, Whittington Lands Many Blows

Red McGinty, the two-fisted Snyder Express, and Kid Whittington, swarthy Wellington middleweight, battled to a draw in the eight round main event at the Casino Monday evening.

At least that was the final decision given from the ring after a few minutes of argument. Only one judge, however, gave McGinty an edge. The Herald scorecard checked with Referee Glenn Holcomb in awarding six rounds to Whittington, one to McGinty and one a draw while a third judge reported five rounds for the Wellington and three for the Snyder.

McGinty did make some scoring taking the offensive through the fight. Whittington, however, landed the edge with his punches and came through every McGinty outburst of violence unscathed.

Coming out of his corner with a rush the Snyder Express earned an even break in the first round. He showered punches to Whitt's arms and shoulders and landed several stinging swings to the head, but the clean jab of the Wellington batter led him to gain at least an even break.

The second round was Whittington's by a clear margin. McGinty was down for a count of six as a result of a jab to the jaw and another time was plainly staggered.

In the third McGinty recovered somewhat, but still Whittington held a slight edge. In the fourth round he was even, and judges differed in awarding the rounds. McGinty's savage onrushes kept handkerchief for low.

Lovely refreshments were served to the following members: Mary Louise Miller, president; Elizabeth Vick, secretary and treasurer; Florence Robinson, reporter; Virginia Frances and Josephine Dabney; and to the guests, Mary and Estelle Hill, and Louise Wilson of Fort Stockton.

Virginia Frances will be the next hostess.

Wholesalers' Week Plans Are Dropped For Autumn Season

The Merchants' Wholesalers' Week, which had been planned by the local Chamber of Commerce, has been abandoned for the fall season.

Reason for dropping the project, the president was that the 22 leading wholesalers, branched on the subject reported that they were unable at this time to obtain merchandise rapidly enough to fill orders and hence would not obtain a profitable margin.

The wholesale dealers declared they would be interested in such a plan at another season.

The plan was to have wholesalers show their wares here and to have local retailers and those of neighboring towns come here to inspect it and place orders rather than being forced to go to Dallas to do their buying.
