F-14 fires at Iranian

By The Associated Press

A Navy F-14 jet fighter, under orders to protect a U.S. surveillance plane, fired two missiles at a suspected Iranian jet that appeared to be preparing for an attack, administration sources and published reports say.

The sources, who demanded anonymity, said Monday that the incident occurred over the weekend, shortly after U.S. Navy warships began escorting a group of three Kuwaiti oil tankers through the Strait of Hormuz into the Persian Gulf.

The threatening aircraft apparently were not hit, but they broke off their flight pattern and returned to land, the sources added.

Meanwhile, four mines were found today in the offshore Gulf of Oman anchorage where a U.S.-operated supertanker hit a mine one day earlier, and the United States agreed to join an urgent search for the floating hazards, sources said.

The convoy of three reflagged Kuwaiti tankers escorted by U.S. warships reached Kuwait today "with no further incidents," said Robert Sims, chief spokesman at the U.S. Defense Department.

He said in Washington that the tankers were "in Kuwaiti territorial waters ... under escort by Kuwaiti ships."

Administration sources Monday evening said only that the U.S. jet fired "a missile" at the aircraft; but both The New York Times and The Washington Post reported today that two Sparrow air-to-air missiles were fired, with neither hitting a target.

The Pentagon flatly refused to discuss the matter late Monday and the administration sources refused to be more specific about when or where the incident occurred.

The sources said, however, that the Navy F-14 jets had been ordered to protect a P-3 Orion surveillance plane. Those planes are based in Oman and normally operate over the Gulf of Oman and the Strait of Hormuz rather than actually inside the Persian Gulf.

The Times said the P-3 was approached by an Iranian F-4. Administration officials told the Times the Iranian pilot was warned, presumably over a channel all pilots are supposed to monitor when in international air space, to stay away from the American patrol plane.

The Iranian pilot continued to approach the patrol plane, the Times said, and the F-14 pilot launched two missiles. The Iranian veered sharply away, causing the missiles to miss, the two newspapers said.

The missile firing appeared to be the first such incident since the Pentagon disclosed it had ordered all military units in the region to a higher state of alert. The United States warned both Iran and Iraq in May that American military forces would respond to threatening moves rather than wait for any actual attack to be launched.

That warning was issued in the wake of the May 17 attack on the frigate Stark by an Iraqi warplane. Iraq characterized that attack as a case of mistaken identity, an explanation accepted by the United States. The Stark did not take defensive action against the Iraqi warplane, believing it to be friendly.

The gulf convoy earlier was delayed 24 hours on its 550-mile voyage to allow mine-search teams to check its route.

Also today, Britain announced it will send four minesweepers and a support ship to the Persian Gulf, but stressed they will assist

Oil futures decline despite gulf action

NEW YORK (AP) — Oil prices continued to erode early today despite reports that four mines were discovered in the Gulf of Oman.

On Monday the oil futures market also refused to respond in a bullish fashion to news that a U.S.-operated supertanker hit a mine outside the Persian Gulf.

Contracts for September delivery of West Texas Intermediate, the benchmark U.S. crude oil, traded at $20.60 per 42-gallon barrel as of 10 a.m., down 13 cents from Monday's close on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

Prices for refined oil products also headed lower. The September contract for wholesale unleaded gasoline was off 21 cent to 54.10 cents a gallon, while the near-month contract for wholesale No. 2 heating oil was off 16 cent to 53.85 cents a gallon.

The tanker, which was chartered by U.S. energy giant Texaco Inc., had passed out of the gulf through the Strait of Hormuz and was approaching an anchorage in the Gulf of Oman when it hit the mine. The discovery of additional mines in the area has fueled fears that mine attacks are spreading beyond the Persian Gulf itself.

The market typically advances on a threat to oil supplies, but traders said buyers stayed on the sidelines.

"The market activity was surprising, given the fact that the news was basically bullish for oil," said Andrew Lebow, a vice president at Shearson Lehman Brothers Inc. "The mood is quizzical," he said.

Lebow speculated that the market is looking beyond the politics of the Persian Gulf area to oil market fundamentals such as

Kindergarten places kids who cannot leave mama

Parents of children who have not yet been pre-registered or been screened to enter Pampa public school kindergarten classes this year are asked to contact Pampa Independent School District Curriculum Coordinator Arlene Gibson as soon as possible.

Gibson may be reached at the Carver Educational Center at 665-2376 or at home at 669-2958.

"It's necessary that each child be screened to determine his or her developmental level in order to assure proper class placement," Gibson said.

Developmental kindergarten will be offered here for the first time this year.

The Pampa public schools system is piloting the developmental kindergarten program at three schools this fall to help children to be emotionally ready for regular school in later grades.

The pilot program will be conducted at Lamar, Mann and Wilson elementary schools, with incoming kindergarten students being screened before school starts to determine their developmental levels.

Children who score below a 5-year developmental level on the Maturational Assessment Test will be placed in the developmental kindergarten classes.

Gibson said the developmental classes will give children a chance to develop school readiness by placing them in a situation in which they can more easily cope.

Earlier prescreening was held at Mann Elementary in mid-June. Parents who were not able to take their children to those sessions are encouraged now to contact Gibson for the testing before school starts.

Gibson stressed that screening will not involve IQ tests. A child can be bright and yet still not be emotionally ready for school, she explained.

Rather, the tests will be used strictly to determine the developmental level of the child. The tests also will be used to screen for potential learning problems such as dyslexia, she said.

Being ready for school involves a variety of factors separate from intelligence, Gibson said. Students also must learn to cope with such things as sight and sound distractions, rules, bells, taking turns, standing in line and getting on the bus, for example, she explained.

Rescue workers tend to injured passengers in a bus that was struck by a falling boulder Monday near Winter Park, Colo. The huge rock crashed into the moving bus on U.S. 40 near the Berthoud Pass. Seven people were killed and another 15 were injured. See story, Page 5.

Pampa schools list schedule

Students new to the Pampa Independent School District may enroll at their prospective schools between now and Aug. 27.

Immunization records and report cards are required for new students who plan to enroll or transfer into the public schools here.

Following is information on school enrollment and other activities scheduled before classes start on Tuesday, Sept. 1.

■ Pampa High School — Students who are pre-registered and who were in attendance at the end of the last school term in May need not register again. Class schedules should be mailed next week, according to JoAnn Jones, junior-senior counselor.

Freshman orientation for all freshmen students and their parents has been set for Aug. 25 from 7 to 9 p.m. in the high school auditorium. Principal Oran Chappell and freshman-sophomore counselor Barbara Evans will be in charge of the program.

■ Pampa Middle School — Students who attended PMS last year and who will be in the seventh or eighth grade this year are already enrolled for the fall school term. They do not need to register again.

Their schedules will be mailed to them a week before school starts.

Sixth-grade students should report to the middle school auditorium at 8:30 a.m. Thursday, Aug. 27, for classroom assignments and orientation. Immunization records are not required for students who attended a Pampa school last term.

Buses will run at their regular pick-up time and will begin taking students home at 10:30 a.m. on enrollment day, Aug. 27.

■ Elementary school (K-5) — All elementary school students, kindergarten through fifth grade, should report on Thursday, Aug. 27, from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. for classroom assignments. Buses will run at their regular pick-up time and will begin taking students home at 10:30 a.m.

Immunization records and report cards are not required for students who attended a Pampa school last year.

■ Kindergarten — The Pampa school district provides a half-day, full-year kindergarten program, tuition free, with voluntary attendance. Students riding the bus will attend the morning session.

Birth certificates and immunization records are necessary for enrollment. Kindergarten students must be screened prior to registration for developmental placement in classes. (See related article.) Parents should contact Arlene Gibson, curriculum coordinator, for screening procedures.

A child must be 5 years old on or before Sept. 1, 1987, to enroll in

Photos scheduled

Blunck Studio will be at the Pampa High School library classroom Thursday and Friday, Aug. 20 and 21, to take individual senior pictures for The Harvester yearbook.

Seniors who have not had their pictures made may do so between 8:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. Thursday and between 8:30 a.m. and 3 p.m. on Friday.

Students do not have to purchase pictures in order for them to appear in the yearbook, according to Lynda Queen, publications advisor.

McLean district stares at 10-cent tax rate increase

By CATHY SPAULDING
Staff Writer

MCLEAN — School officials say they don't have the heart to pass a 10 percent tax rate increase — but with property values declining by nearly $10 million, they say they have no choice.

School trustees on Monday reviewed and tentatively approved a proposed $1.26 million budget, which is down nearly $10,000 from the 1986-87 budget.

They also reviewed a list of tax rate figures drafted by school Business Manager Shirley Johnson. They didn't look promising.

The current McLean ISD tax rate is $1 per $100 valuation.

With property values dropping to $61 million — because of declining oil and gas values — the school district needs a tax rate of $1.17 to raise the same property tax revenue as in the current year.

"To the average taxpayer, this is a 17 percent increase," Johnson said.

Johnson figured that by reaching into its reserve — which is now approximately $700,000 — the school district can get by with a smaller increase.

According to Johnson, at 96 percent collection, the school can receive $587,717 at its current tax rate, which would require using $202,591 from its reserve;

■ at a $1.10 tax rate, the school can collect $646,489, pulling $143,819 from reserve;

■ at $1.12, the school can collect $658,244, pulling $132,065 from reserve;

■ at $1.15, the school can collect $675,875, pulling $114,433 from its reserve.

Johnson proposed the $1.10 tax rate and added, "this is my heart talking, but not my head."

"We're going to nickel and dime them to death wherever we go," she said.

A worse alternative, however, could be a massive increase next year if oil and gas values don't improve.

Trustee Gwen Henley said a $1.12 tax rate is more practical.

"At $1.10, it will hurt them more if we have to go up again in the future," Henley said.

Johnson agreed, warning trustees not to dip too far into reserve funds. The reserve is needed to carry the district until taxes are collected in January. It is also saved for emergencies or major building projects.

"In the future, we're going to have major building repairs," Johnson said. "The gymnasium is not going to last much longer without repairs."

Johnson was able to cut $10,000 from the budget by snipping away at electric, gas and water bills. She also cut back on contract services, fees and dues.

She added that the $1.26 million budget does not allow for any "unforeseen thing," such as the heating system failing.

School officials also agreed Monday to allocate $2,700 of its leftover 1986-87 budget for a computer system, which the school needs to send personnel information to the Texas Education Agency. The school also agreed to spend about $21,000 of its 1987 budget to buy a 48-passenger bus.

Trustees also accepted the resignation of boys' basketball coach Sam Haynes, who resigned to coach at Pampa Middle School. Haynes, a McLean native, was to have taken the basketball coaching reins from former coach Jack Brewster.

TUESDAY, Aug. 11

Debbie S. Douglas, 34, of 1100 S. Finley was arrested at the residence on warrants for having a dog at large, no rabies vaccinations for a dog, and two failure-to-appear warrants. She was released on bond.

Correction

Pampa City Manager Bob Hart's office said Monday that Schneider House apartment developer Robert Caplan is donating land across from the Schneider Hotel — formerly site of the Pampa Motel — for a park. The McCarley Fund donated $20,000, which was used to build a gazebo. A Thursday story about progress on the senior citizen apartment complex listed Caplan as the gazebo donor.

The Schneider House was to have 52 apartments subsidized by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. But two more apartments have been built, although there is no confirmation yet on whether these two apartments will be subsidized.

Chamber pushes toward accreditation

The Pampa Chamber of Commerce has begun work toward receiving national accreditation, President Norman Knox has announced.

The local chamber will seek accreditation from the United States of Commerce.

Knox said the U.S. Chamber's accreditation program recognizes chambers and their staffs that have defined, reached and maintained superior performance standards and that have contributed to the good of the community and the country.

Out of the 3,500 chambers of commerce that are members of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, only 500 are accredited, with only 36 accredited chambers in Texas.

Lee Waters has been appointed general chairman for the local accreditation program. Six task force chairmen have been appointed to cover the six areas of concern outlined in the national accreditation process.

Serving as task force chairmen are Bill Hallerberg, plant and equipment; Jane McBunch, staff; David Smith, program of action; Roy Sparkman, organization; Brian Vining, communications; and Guy Young, finance.

Some 60 chamber members will be involved in the process through participation in one of the six task forces.

Program Chairman Lee Waters reviews tasks.

Knox stated, "The major reason for the accreditation process is to better address the many aspects of economic development here in Pampa."

The process will take several months to complete. After accreditation is earned, the chamber will have to be re-accredited once every five years.

Plane crashes into McDonald's in Germany; three known dead

MUNICH, West Germany (AP) — A light plane crashed into a McDonald's restaurant near Munich's main airport today, killing at least three people and setting fire to a nearby city bus, police said.

One police spokesman quoted rescue workers as saying the death toll could reach 15.

The spokesman told The Associated Press by telephone that the plane went down at about 3:30 p.m. about a mile southwest of the Munich Reim airport runways. He said the twin-engine Piper Cheyenne was trying to land when it crashed and that authorities believe two people were aboard the aircraft.

The police spokesman said 12 people were injured. He said most of the 12 were on a city bus that burst into flames as a result of the plane crash.

"We know for sure that three people are dead, but some rescue workers have said the number is as high as 15," the police officer said. He spoke on condition of anonymity.

Police initially said the McDonald's restaurant was at the airport. However, police said later the restaurant was about a mile from the airport.

Police said it was not immediately known how many people were in the fast-food restaurant at the time of the crash.

"The plane was coming from Augsburg and dropped like a stone," the police spokesman said. The Bavarian city of Augsburg is located 40 miles northwest of Munich.

After the plane went down, police sealed off the crash area near the airport, which is 9 miles from the center of Munich.

only British and British-registered vessels, and only from the gulf's entrance to Bahrain.

A diplomatic source in the gulf region said the Sultanate of Oman appealed for U.S. help in clearing coastal waters of mines just south of the Strait of Hormuz.

The Americans "have agreed, and are already helping," said the source, who demanded anonymity. He offered no details.

The reported agreement came as a ship anchored offshore near the United Arab Emirates port of Fujairah reported sighting a mine, according to gulf-based shipping sources. Hours earlier, an Oman navy scout helicopter spotted three other mines in the same area.

The 274,347-ton supertanker Texaco Caribbean struck a mine Monday as it was maneuvering to drop anchor eight miles off Fujairah, the first such incident in the coastal area some 30 miles south of the Strait of Hormuz, the gateway to the Persian Gulf.

The voyage of the first U.S.-escorted convoy was marred when a mine near Iran's Farsi Island damaged the tanker Bridgeton last month.

The Reagan administration agreed to reflag 11 Kuwaiti tankers to protect them from Iranian attacks. Tehran charges that Kuwait aids Iraq, Iran's enemy in the 7-year-old gulf war.

Delta jet nearly hits small plane

A Delta jetliner nearly collided with a small plane about 20 miles northwest of Fort Worth, Texas, in one of four airline mishaps reported over the past two days, the Federal Aviation Administration said.

A Boeing 727, flying at 7,000 feet over Rome, came within about 100 feet vertically and 300 feet horizontally of a single-engine

Cessna on Monday afternoon, said FAA spokesman Mitch Barker.

"According to the information we have, the Delta jet took evasive action with a hard right turn to avoid a collision," he said.

No injuries were reported.

Delta spokesman Jim Lundy said he did not know how many people were aboard the jet.

Oil

supply and demand. "And the market is really well supplied," he said.

Petroleum Intelligence Weekly, an industry newsletter, said Monday that overproduction by the 13-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries "shows no signs yet of narrowing" and is casting a shadow over the cartel's hopes of raising official prices later this year.

PIW also cautioned that any extra volume signals inventory buildup rather than increased demand, which could depress oil prices further this fall.

"We've been bullish for a long time," said John O'Dea, manager of the international energy futures group at Dean Witter Reynolds Inc. "Today we're shifting gears."

Despite Iran's declaration Monday that it would turn the gulf waterway into a "killing field for the aggressors," O'Dea downplayed the mine incident. "You don't know who (the mines) belong to — it only underscores the futility of the whole situation there."

Meanwhile, a convoy of three Kuwaiti tankers escorted by U.S. Navy warships resumed its voyage through the Persian Gulf following a 24-hour delay to allow mine-search teams to check its intended route. Barring further delays, the convoy was expected to reach Kuwait later today, shipping sources said, speaking on condition of anonymity.

Analysts said the safe movement of the U.S.-led convoy was another factor holding oil prices back.

New teachers — Teachers new to PISD will participate in orientation Thursday and Friday, Aug. 20-21, from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the Pampa High School library.

New teachers also will be honored by the Pampa Chamber of Commerce with a breakfast at 7 a.m. Wednesday, Aug. 26.

President to address Iran-Contra

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's speech on the Iran-Contra affair will address the "overall questions that are on people's minds" after 11 weeks of often conflicting testimony in congressional hearings, his spokesman says.

Reagan will speak at 8 p.m. Wednesday from the Oval Office in a nationally broadcast address.

Marlin Fitzwater, the White House spokesman, said Reagan worked on the speech Sunday and Monday.

"He produced some original language yesterday, and I think will again today, so the speech is changing all the time, and I suspect will change right up until Wednesday," Fitzwater said.

There have been conflicting reports, based on anonymous sources, about whether Reagan will say he would have rejected the diversion of Iran arms-sale profits if he had known about it in advance.

Fitzwater said "it's a 50-50 chance that he won't say either one of those things."

A White House source, speaking on condition of anonymity, said "there has to be some reference to the diversion" because it was an important element of the story. However, the source said Reagan would not declare that he would have vetoed the idea. The source refused to elaborate.

Fitzwater said Reagan would talk about the Iran-Contra affair "in a personal sense" and that "he'll deal in a general sense with all the questions" that emerged from the hearings.

Indicating that Reagan would not give a detailed response to individual points, Fitzwater said, "I'm sure one can come up with thousands of questions ... but I think he wants to respond to the overall questions that are on people's minds."

However, Fitzwater would not say which questions would be covered. The hearings produced an account of bickering and deceit among Cabinet members, White House cover-up stories, the shredding of documents and the withholding of information from Reagan by his aides.

The address was written by Landon Parvin, a highly-regarded outside speechwriter who also prepared Reagan's March 4 speech responding to the conclusions of the Tower board that investigated the Iran-Contra affair.

After delivering the speech Wednesday night, Reagan will depart Washington for a 25-day California vacation, with a speech-making stop Thursday in North Platte, Neb., as he heads West. He will not return to the White House until Sept. 6.

Prices for North Texas crude hit highest point in 18 months

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — After the recent climb in prices for West Texas intermediate crude oil, the price of its North Texas counterpart hit $20 for the first time in a year and a half.

Despite a dip in the futures markets, Conoco Inc., one of the area's biggest purchasers of crude, announced Monday it was increasing its posted price for North Texas intermediate crude from $19.75 a barrel.

Robert K. Pace, president of the North Texas Oil & Gas Association, said he thinks many of the other 16 major area purchasers, which have been posting $19.75 a barrel, will follow Conoco's lead within a few days.

"This increase will mean quite a lot of money for North Texas," said Gary Gray, senior field representative for Conoco in Wichita Falls. "This action will pump about $100,000 a month into the North Texas economy from Conoco's purchases alone."

Gray said the price increase makes his company's postings for North Texas and West Texas crude equal. Conoco is taking the action to ensure it can provide enough North Texas crude to meet the needs of its Ponca City, Okla. refinery, he said.

The oil and gas industry problems of 1986 after the oil price freefall early in that year has caused a decline of production in North Texas, and as a result Conoco's buying in the region has sagged by 1,700 barrels a day to about 12,500. Conoco buys about one-sixth of all the oil produced in North Texas.

Pace said the price increase will lead to more North Texas producers selling their oil to Conoco, which means the company's Ponca City refinery will get more of the region's oil.

In February 1986, the typical posted prices of North Texas oil fell below $20 a barrel and had remained under that level since. At one point in the summer of 1986 typical prices hovered just above $10 a barrel. In late 1985, the price of area oil neared $28 a barrel.

"The prices are moving in the right direction," said Tom Darling, a vice president of NTOGA. "But we will have to have some stability before we see much action, in my opinion."

District 9 in North Central Texas, which includes Wichita County and 14 other counties, produces about 80-90,000 barrels a day, Gray said.

Labor Day weekend could bring 500 volunteer laborers to aid Saragosa

SARAGOSA (AP) — When about 500 church volunteers arrive on Labor Day weekend to help rebuild this tornado-struck town, they will be performing a type of ministry, the director of the volunteers says.

"Jesus did two things in all of his life on Earth," said John LaNoue, associate director of the Dallas-based Texas Baptist Men. "He met human needs where he found them and he introduced them to God."

Plenty of human needs must be met in Saragosa, a town of 300 that lost 30 residents when a tornado struck May 22. Some victims were children who died when the tornado struck the community center during a kindergarten graduation ceremony. The twister destroyed 61 houses.

On Labor Day weekend, volunteers will work in shifts 24 hours a day to replace the destroyed houses. Floodlights and building materials, bought with money from the American Red Cross and the Federal Emergency Management Agency, are to be on site by Aug. 24.

The workers plan to rebuild the 24 owner-occupied houses that were destroyed. The other houses were not owner-occupied, so tenants were not eligible for building grants, LaNoue said. But grants to build the remaining houses might be forthcoming from the Texas Department of Community Affairs.

"It could be that we are going to build back 61 houses instead of 24," LaNoue said.

Two houses already have been replaced, and two more are being worked on. A group of Kansas Mennonites has built a two-bedroom, 960-square-foot house just across the highway from the community center.

Last week, the Mennonites began work on two one-bedroom houses in Saragosa.

"We feel that we can help our fellow man," said Vern Miller, 47, a Mennonite and carpenter from Hutchinson, Kan. "We can put our faith into action by helping people who are in need. We're not here for any big show or big to-do. We're here to meet the needs of the people."

A group of Baptists built a house in Waco, dismantled it, hauled it to Saragosa and reassembled it there, complete with carpets, paneling and ceiling fans, LaNoue said.

Many of the Texas Baptist Men are retirees. One, 72-year-old Horace West, was preparing electrical boxes last week for mounting on poles. He said the work "gives you a feeling of satisfaction — of doing something for these kids that are going to be grown one day."

Four children die in apartment blaze

ARLINGTON (AP) — Fire officials said a child playing with matches or a lighter was to blame for what they called the deadliest fire in the city's history, killing four children and injuring two others.

A 14-year-old baby sitter, who is six months pregnant, escaped the blaze by jumping out of the burning building with one of the six children, a 5-year-old girl, as the fire moved from the living room to a stairwell, authorities said. The baby sitter, Elizabeth Medina, and the 5-year-old, Diamantina Ybarra, were taken to Arlington Memorial Hospital, where they were treated and released, said spokeswoman Lori McDowell. Ms. Medina's unborn baby was not harmed, said hospital officials.

Patricia Rodriguez, 4, was in good condition at Parkland's burn unit where she was transferred from Arlington Memorial.

Ms. McDowell said 3-year-olds Alejandro Saenz and Carolina Ybarra died at the hospital.

Christal Rodriguez, 13 months, and 6-month-old Amado Hernandez died at Parkland Memorial Hospital, said a field agent for the Dallas County Medical Examiner's office who declined to give his name.

The six children lived at the apartment with their mothers, Theresa Ybarra, 23, and her sister, Julie Saenz, 21. Both women are separated from their husbands.

Firefighters were en route to a station when they passed the burning apartment, said Lt. Gary Pipes, a spokesman for the Arlington Fire Department. They reported the fire at 10:24 a.m. and had it under control about 15 minutes later.

"It was very unusual for us to even be there, because 90 percent of the time, we wouldn't even go down that street," said acting Fire Lt. Don Eubanks.

"I feel like if we hadn't, if they'd waited for somebody to call, it would've been all of them."

Douglas Hall, who lives about a block and a half from the apartment, said he saw black smoke above the tops of trees between his house and the apartment.

At the back of the six-unit apartment complex, Hall said he found a young girl.

"I asked the young lady, 'Is there anyone inside?' and she very hysterically screamed, 'Yes, five children,'" Hall said.

He said he tried three times to reach the apartment by climbing a metal staircase at the back of the apartment, once draped with a towel he soaked in the toilet of a downstairs apartment.

"The flames were just too immense," he said. "After the first time, I should have known. But you just can't stand by."

Hall dragged a young man from the back room of the downstairs apartment and then helped firefighters administer cardiopulmonary resuscitation to one of the children.

Firefighters used a ladder to rescue the other children.

"As they continued bringing the children down, it started looking like a war zone," said Hall, a machinist and Vietnam veteran.

Arlington is between Dallas and Fort Worth.

Experts: Prison crowding a nationwide crisis

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — Even though a huge prison construction boom is under way, it isn't keeping up with the rise in the number of criminals sentenced to jail time, experts say.

"There's no solution in sight. We're still 10 years behind the population curve," said Anthony P. Trivisono, executive director of the American Correctional Association. "Even though the public wants the criminals off the streets, they are reluctant to pay the bills."

RRC adopts hazardous materials rules

AUSTIN (AP) — The Railroad Commission adopted regulations Monday that one commissioner said should help curb rail accidents involving hazardous materials.

The rules would allow the commission to enforce federal standards on hazardous materials in Texas, which last year had almost twice as many rail accidents involving hazardous materials as any other state.

Commissioner John Sharp said Texas had 146 such accidents in 1986 — 90 percent more than Illinois.

Under the new rules, state inspectors will be able to check handling and loading of hazardous materials by railroads. Violators can be fined up to $5,000 per violation.

Local school budgets total $12.2 billion

AUSTIN (AP) — Last year trustees in 1,061 local school districts adopted budgets totaling $12.2 billion and levied $5 billion in property taxes to cover the cost, according to the Texas Research League.

The state provided $4.8 billion in aid, and the remainder was financed by school lunch and other fees, the league said in a report. The tax levy for the average school district was up 8.2 percent from the previous year.

School budgets adopted last year called for spending an average of $3,088 per student for current operations plus $281 for interest and repayment of debt and $464 per student for capital outlay.

TranStar's demise leaves city without a commercial airline

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — The search is on to fill the void left by TranStar Airlines, which flew out of here for the last time, leaving the city without passenger air service.

Ernest Villarreal, acting manager of the Brownsville-South Padre Island International Airport, said it's too quiet without TranStar.

"Well, it's gloomy," Villarreal said of the airport's atmosphere without passengers for TranStar's former two daily flights. "I don't mind telling you that a commercial airline is an asset to the community."

Villarreal estimated that TranStar's demise means a loss of about $100,000 annually in airport revenues, car rental commissions and other business the airline brought to the city.

City officials, he said, are talking to other airlines in an attempt to restore service to Brownsville.

Executives from Continental Airlines visited the city last week, Villarreal said.

"We were victims of airline regulation at the beginning, then deregulation," Villarreal said.

Houston-based TranStar, a wholly owned subsidiary of Southwest Airlines, ceased operations Sunday, citing stiff industry competition and losses of $18 million to $20 million since September 1986.

"We desperately need another airline," said

Mayor Emilio Hernandez.

He and other city officials say the city of more than 90,000 can support an airline with enough traffic at the Brownsville-South Padre Island International Airport.

TranStar had 23,501 emplanements at the airport in 1986, according to preliminary figures from the Federal Aviation Administration.

Hernandez said on frequent business flights to Dallas, when he takes Southwest Airlines from the Rio Grande Valley Regional Airport in Harlingen, about 25 miles away, he usually sees 40-50 people from Brownsville.

"It's been surveyed that anywhere between 35 and 40 percent of the boardings in Harlingen are from this area," Hernandez said.

During the 1930s, he said, the city had one of the largest airports in the nation.

Mayor Hernandez said during the mid-1970s, Brownsville had a chance for service from Southwest, but city officials decided they did not want it to compete with the other companies flying there at the time.

"It was the biggest mistake they ever made," Hernandez said, "but it was before my time."

Now travelers, including executives from the international firms with assembly plants across the Rio Grande in Matamoros, must fly out of Harlingen on commercial flights.

7 die, 15 injured when boulder hits tour bus

WINTER PARK, Colo. (AP)—Gov. Roy Romer says the state accepts responsibility for the deaths of seven sightseers after a one-ton boulder dislodged by a state highway crew tumbled out of the Rockies and smashed into their bus, crushing its right side.

"It's a terrible accident. Quite frankly, it's our responsibility to make it right," the governor said.

The tour bus was carrying 28 people along a Rocky Mountain road.

"It looked like an explosion ripped the side of the bus apart," said Sgt. Larry Tolar of the Colorado State Patrol. He said the boulder "came out of a treeline and bang, there it was."

Six people died at the scene and a seventh person died at a Denver hospital Monday evening. Fifteen others on the bus were injured in the accident 60 miles northwest of Denver. Eight remained hospitalized today, two in critical condition.

"It was just dead eerie, no sound," said Ken Aicardi, a retired Boston policeman visiting Colorado who was the first on the scene. "People who were seriously injured... were sitting there calmly in a state of shock."

A highway crew using a front-end loader dislodged the four-foot boulder while clearing rock above U.S. Highway 40, which runs near the bottom of the 11,314-foot Berthoud Pass, officials said.

The boulder was pushed onto a large flat area, and "the crew was operating under the plan that the rock would hit and stay there," said Dan Hopkins, spokesman for the Colorado Highway Department.

Instead, the boulder tumbled through trees into the side of the bus, which carried American and foreign tourists on a one-day sightseeing tour. The driver had no chance to avoid the rock, Tolar said.

Ivy Shaffer, a nurse aboard one of two helicopters that landed on the narrow, two-lane road about eight miles south of here, said the dead already had been laid alongside the road and covered when she arrived.

"The first words I uttered to myself were, 'Oh my God, there must be more than six people dead,'" she said. "The right-hand side of the bus had been totally filleted open. The seats were crushed, and metal was all over the road."

Blood dripped from the bus and trickled into a stream alongside the road.

The governor declared the accident an emergency, freeing state money to assist victims and their families with hospital costs, counseling and travel expenses. "We moved the rock that hurt those people," the governor said Monday night.

"I am personally accepting responsibility for the state," he said. "We'll let the lawyers catch up with us later."

The Highway Department is investigating the accident, Hopkins said.

Four of the dead were identified as John Killen, 54, Denver; Arlene Johnson, 61, Renville, Minn.; Bill Stewart, in his 60s, Moulton, Ala.; and Gladys Stewart, in her 60s, Moulton, Ala.

Bork says no 'litmus test' applied by Reagan administration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court nominee Robert H. Bork says no one in the Reagan administration asked him about his legal views or his positions on specific issues when he was interviewed for the high court's vacancy.

Responding to a questionnaire from the Senate Judiciary Committee, Bork said he was interviewed by President Reagan, chief of staff Howard Baker and the counsel to the president, A.B. Culvahouse.

Bork's responses, released Monday, also show he was a member of an all-male club in New York City until 1985. Bork said he resigned after a dispute arose over whether the club was practicing sex discrimination.

The Judiciary Committee begins hearings Sept. 15 on Bork's nomination to succeed retired Justice Lewis F. Powell.

The Reagan administration often has been accused of applying a litmus test to judicial candidates by seeking out those who oppose abortion and favor such conservative-backed issues as prayer in the schools. The administration has denied such a test exists.

In Bork's case, however, his positions are well-known through hundreds of articles, speeches, and — since 1982 — his opinions as a judge on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia.

In other answers to the questionnaire, Bork said:

■ As a Yale Law School professor, solicitor general of the United States, and his current position as a U.S. appellate judge in Washington, Bork acknowledged he hired few blacks. Women were mostly in clerical or support jobs.

■ While in private practice from 1954-62, he did not participate in programs for free legal representation of the disadvantaged, because his law firm was not involved in such activities. The American Bar Association's Code of Professional Responsibility calls for "every lawyer, regardless of professional prominence or professional workload, to find some time to participate in serving the disadvantaged."

■ His typical clients while in private practice were business organizations, varying from nationally known companies to small local firms. He specialized in constitutional law and antitrust cases.

■ He tried no cases to verdict or judgment, because his work was almost entirely arguments of legal motions or arguments before appellate courts.

Describing his meetings at the White House, Bork said Baker telephoned him July 1 and asked him to meet with the president.

"At the White House there was a discussion about procedures with Sen. Baker, A.B. Culvahouse and others. No substantive issues were discussed," Bork said.

"I then had a meeting with President Reagan in his office. Sen. Baker and others were present. Again, no substantive issues were discussed."

Bork also was asked whether anyone involved in selecting him discussed any specific case, legal issue or question that could be interpreted as seeking "implied assurances" on his position in future court cases.

"No one involved... has discussed any case, legal issue or question in any way," Bork said.

Business leaders discount effect of nominee's U.S.-Soviet trade views

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retired steel executive C. William Verity Jr.'s outspoken advocacy of closer U.S.-Soviet economic ties should not hamper his chances for quick Senate confirmation as Commerce secretary, say national business leaders.

President Reagan on Monday announced his intention to nominate Verity, 70, to succeed the late Malcolm Baldrige.

"Mac's boots will be tough to fill, but I have every confidence that Bill will ably pursue the policies this administration has developed over the past 6½ years," Reagan said.

Baldrige died July 25 after he was thrown from his horse while practicing for a rodeo on a friend's ranch in northern California.

While Verity declined to answer reporters' questions on specific issues, Reagan said the former head of Armco Inc. "supports ongoing efforts to keep vital technology from falling into the hands of our adversaries."

Verity has been active in efforts to expand trade with the Soviet Union, complaining in the past that U.S. restrictions on East-West commerce have harmed U.S. businesses. He is past co-chairman of the U.S.-U.S.S.R. Trade and Economic Council, a private organization of American and Soviet executives formed to bolster trade.

Verity, who retired as chairman and president of Armco in 1982, drew strong support Monday from the nation's business community.

Richard Leshner, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, said he does not believe Verity's calls for liberalized trade with the Soviets will interfere with his Senate confirmation.

"That's really the policy of this country, opening markets. It's in the best interest of this country," said Leshner. He called Verity "a friend of the chamber and a friend of business."

Verity was chairman of the chamber in 1980-81. Alexander Trowbridge, president of the National Association of Manufacturers and Commerce secretary during the Johnson administration, said Verity is likely to be questioned closely by Senate conservatives on his views on U.S.-Soviet trade.

But Trowbridge added that, given the current mood of easing relations with the Soviets, Verity's views shouldn't cause problems.

"I think his tendency will be to open up markets, not only in the Soviet Union but in other countries that have bNRECESS. Because of that recess, congressional reaction to the nomination was sparse.

Verity, of Middletown, Ohio, declined to answer specific questions, saying "I should answer the Senate first."

However, he said he endorses the administration's trade policies and told Reagan: "I'm looking forward to trying to help you in the job of trying to make this country more competitive."

If confirmed, Verity will take over the 33,000-employee agency amid sensitive negotiations with Congress over a far-reaching trade bill. Baldrige had been the administration's point man in the negotiations.

A House-Senate conference committee is working to reconcile differences between measures that have passed each chamber, but both versions have drawn veto threats from the administration, which considers them overly protectionist.

Spuds MacKenzie is famous, but does the dog sell beer?

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Anheuser-Busch's Spuds MacKenzie has plenty of imitators, but does the dog behind the dark glasses help the company sell more beer?

"He is enormously popular, but there is no scientific way to tell how much impact he has had," said Bill Stolberg, who handles the company's Spuds campaign for Bud Light beer.

Spuds, an English bull terrier seen in commercials in Hawaiian shirts and sunglasses, has been signed for TV and movie deals. Clothing with his likeness is sold in department stores, and unauthorized Spuds look-alikes have appeared at bars and ballparks.

"We refer to them as Spudstitutes," said Stolberg, who travels with the easy-living animal on promotional appearances. "He takes it as a compliment." The Spuds promotion is secondary to Bud's "Give Me a Light" campaign, Stolberg said. Spuds TV ads are aired almost exclusively late at night, when viewership is lower.

The company would not release a dollar figure for the Spuds campaign.

Beer Institute figures list Bud Light as the No. 3-selling light beer, behind Miller Lite and Coors Light. Bud Light sales grew 20 percent in 1985 and 23 percent last year, with similar growth expected in 1987, company officials said.

Spuds, touted by the company as the Perfect Party Animal and a dog with a taste for the good life, has plenty of imitators, Stolberg said.

At a minor-league baseball game in Florida, promoters trotted out a canine imposter to a record "Spuds Night" crowd, Stolberg said.

A St. Louis bar drew a crowd recently after radio advertisements said Spuds would be there. A human in a Spuds costume showed up instead. Spuds was on the West Coast filming a commercial. Some patrons were disappointed.

Iowa couple plead innocent to injuring their month-old baby before he died

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — An Iowa couple whose 1-month-old baby died of head injuries here pleaded innocent to charges that they intentionally harmed the infant.

Gary Dale Elliot Sr., 28, and Tricia Lynn Elliot, 21, entered their innocent pleas Monday before District Judge Jane Brasch.

They were indicted July 22 on charges of injury to a child, a first-degree felony punishable by up to life or 99 years in prison.

Mervyn Mosbacher, assistant county attorney for Cameron County, said the prosecution is pursuing the injury to a child charge because it is easier to prove than a murder charge.

"You don't have to prove that they intentionally caused death," Mosbacher said. "You just have to prove that they intentionally caused bodily injury."

They are accused of injuring 1-month-old Gary Dale Elliot Jr. "by causing the said child's head to strike a blunt object, by a manner and means unknown to the grand jury," according to the indictment.

It also accuses the couple of "failing to provide the said child with timely and adequate medical attention."

An autopsy determined the infant died of head injuries.

The Elliots were at a South Padre Island hotel when the injury is alleged to have occurred, according to investigators.

Mrs. Elliot's court-appointed attorney, James Odabashian, said important evidence in the case is in Iowa, and that an Oct. 12 hearing was set to provide time for discovery.

"There is a lot that has not been presented," Odabashian said.

The child died while at Valley Regional Medical Center in Brownsville on April 25, two days after paramedics brought him in. The ambulance had responded to a call at a South Padre Island hotel, where the baby was reported having difficulty breathing, police said.

Paramedics administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation at the hotel and while en route to the hospital, according to reports.

Police arrested the Elliots at a Des Moines, Iowa, hospital on April 27. They were at the hospital seeking treatment for the deceased child's twin brother, who they said had fallen off a chair, according to police.

Gregory Elliot, the twin, was found to have a broken arm and fractured skull, said South Padre Island police detective Sandra Boyd.

She said police in the resort city of South Padre Island and Des Moines are cooperating in an attempt to resolve unanswered questions in the case, and said there is evidence the surviving twin was injured before the couple arrived at the hotel.

Officials said he and another son, 2-year-old Joey Elliot, have been transferred to state custody in Iowa.

Direct vs. indirect investing

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Do individual investors need a go-between, an adviser, an intermediary in the form of a mutual fund in order to invest successfully?

The notion that they do need help — and that they cannot win without it — has been widely promoted throughout the five-year bull market. The facts don't necessarily support the contention.

Organizations representing individual investors and amateur investment clubs have contended again and again that their members have done very well relying on their own intelligence and initiative.

Still, the growth of such intermediaries as paid financial advisers and mutual funds attests to the inroads that the notion has made. Many of these go-betweens have earned their money, no doubt. But many have not.

Gerald Perritt, individual investor, mathematician, researcher, editor of a mutual fund newsletter and wearer of many other hats, has been one of the most ardent advocates of individual initiative.

A former professor as well, his inclination is to look beneath the perception for the facts that might be hidden. Time after time he finds them, and often reports them in the Journal of the American Association of Individual Investors, on whose advisory board he serves.

In the latest issue, Perritt points out that during 1986 the average mutual fund provided investors with a 14 percent total rate of return, a seemingly impressive performance when you consider that banks pay less than half that.

But, he points out, during the same time the total return of the Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose 18.6 percent, assuming dividends were reinvested. Nearly 75 percent of the common stock funds that proclaim their goal as "growth," which some pursue aggressively, failed to beat the market.

Over the longer term, in this instance the past five years, the average differential is nearly 30 percent. On average, he says, "common stock mutual funds have underperformed the S&P 500 index by more than 5 percent a year."

The problem isn't entirely one of inferior performance by the fund portfolio managers, some of whom have justifiably earned their big reputations. The explanation might lie in the system.

As Perritt points out, mutual funds must hold cash balances for speculative purposes. That is, they always need a reserve of cash to exploit unanticipated market opportunities. And they must hold cash for shareholder redemptions.

Thus, they are never fully invested. They cannot be. For example, says Perritt, during the past five years common stock mutual funds averaged a 9 percent cash position.

Next, the fund incurs expenses. It must pay managers and others whose services it uses. It pays bank fees, printing costs, legal and accounting fees. In all, says Perritt, these total 1.2 percent of assets for common stock mutual funds.

And then there is performance. Every year the records show scores of funds that fail, some consistently, to achieve what reasonable observers would consider respectable records. They not only fail to match the averages, they lose money even in bull markets.

At the other extreme are mutual funds that consistently outperform the market, some of them by generous degrees.

Clashes reported as strike affects dozens of mines

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The black mineworkers' union and management traded accusations of harassment today and both sides said no new negotiations were planned to end the nation's largest legal strike ever.

The National Union of Mineworkers also threatened to expand the strike to the Rand Refinery's gold processing plant, which processes all of South Africa's gold for international markets. The plant has about 190 black workers and a similar number of white workers.

The mineworkers' union said a strike ballot was set for today at the refinery, but the company said negotiations were still under way and a walkout at this stage would be illegal.

The mineworkers' union said Monday that 340,000 workers were on strike and 44 of the 46 targeted gold and coal mines had been shut down since the stay away began late Sunday to press demands for a 30 percent pay increase.

The Chamber of Mines, which represents major mining firms, disputed the union figures, saying about 230,000 of the nation's 600,000 black miners were striking. It said 13 of 55 coal mines under its jurisdiction and 16 of 44 gold mines had been "significantly affected" by the strike.

The chamber unilaterally implemented 15 percent to 23.4 percent wage increases on July 1.

There have been several clashes since the strike began, with more than 30 miners and three mine security officers reported injured. Mine owners accused strikers of intimidating and assaulting miners who wanted to work, while the union said more than a dozen union officials had been arrested and many others harassed.

The union said today that 14 of its workers were injured in clashes with mine security officials on two mines near Secunda in the eastern Transvaal province.

In addition, nine workers were hurt at the Kinross gold mine and five injured at the Bracken mine, said union spokesman Marcel Golding. Both mines are run by Gencor.

Anglo American Corp., which produced 39 percent of South Africa's gold output of 638.2 tons in 1986, said today all its mines were affected.

The company complained of intimidation by union officials, who it claimed were interfering with workers' access to hostels where they live.

Johann Liebenberg, a Chamber of Mines official, said it was too early to assess the strike's impact on production.

About 80 percent of South Africa's exports are derived from mining. The country is the world's leading producer of gold, which provides more than half its foreign currency earnings. For the most part, gold production has escaped the sanctions imposed on many other South African exports.

Unions have moved to the forefront of the anti-apartheid movement in the 14 months since President P.W. Botha declared a state of emergency to quell black unrest.

Scores of labor leaders were among the estimated 25,000 people detained during the emergency. But black unions weathered the crackdown better than many other organizations opposed to the white-led government's system of race separation, or apartheid.

The mineworkers' union confines most of its current contract demands to traditional workplace issues. However, it recently endorsed the political platform of the outlawed African National Congress guerrilla movement, including calls for black majority rule and nationalization of major industries.

Jet fires missile

Two F-14 Tomcat jet fighters fly over the eastern Mediterranean recently. Administration sources said Monday that a U.S. Navy F-14 jet, similar to the ones pictured, fired a missile over the weekend at a suspected Iranian jet fighter that appeared to making "hostile moves" toward an American surveillance plane.

Government threatens crackdown on labor unrest; firm closes

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Hyundai Motor Co. said today that strikes at its 20 parts factories have forced it to shut down indefinitely, part of the widespread labor protests battering the South Korean economy.

The government threatened earlier today to crack down on labor protests if unions failed to negotiate settlements and purge radicals from their ranks.

Hyundai, South Korea's largest automaker and a recent front-runner in the U.S. subcompact market, resumed operations Monday after strikes last week, but said new strikes at parts plants brought its assembly lines in Ulsan to a halt.

Officials at Hyundai, who demanded anonymity, said they feared a great loss in their car exports. Hyundai had planned to ship about 250,000 cars to the United States this year.

Labor Minister Lee Hun-ki said in a special announcement earlier in the day, "Government authorities will be forced to take legal action if rampant labor strikes spread beyond control and threaten the nation's daily life and economy."

Lee's warning followed clashes Monday between police and striking coal miners in eastern Korea.

TENSION HEADACHE

If you're bothered by headache that seems to have its origin at the base of your skull, you may be suffering from tension headache.

Tension headaches can be caused by an irritation of the nerves in the area of the spine immediately under the skull. These are called the suboccipital nerves. They pass through small openings in the spinal column to muscles in the surrounding area. Any abnormal pressure or dysfunction of neck and muscles can irritate the nerves, causing tension.

The tension doesn't cause the headache. To treat this form of headache, attention should be paid to the bone and muscle structures. They should be returned to normal balance so they can function properly again.

Medication is not the answer to tension headaches. Aspirin and other painkillers may give you temporary relief - but they won't solve the problem. Once the source of the problem is found and treated, THEN you can get the relief you need.

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

Verbal invitation doesn't obligate one to give gift

DEAR ABBY: One week before a scheduled wedding and reception, my husband received a telephone call from the father of the bride who apologized for neglecting to include us on the guest list. He said he was mailing an invitation to us immediately with the information we would need — time, place, etc.

My husband decided that we should attend, so he accepted verbally. As luck would have it, a foot injury prevented my going and my husband did not want to go without me, so we had to regret after all. However, because we had accepted verbally, I thought we should send a gift. My husband disagreed. We had never met the bride or groom and knew nothing about their likes and dislikes, which would make buying a wedding gift rather difficult. By the way, we never did receive the invitation.

Personally, I would have had more respect for the parents of the bride had we not been invited at all.

Please comment on their behavior — and ours.

FRUSTRATED IN THE EAST

DEAR FRUSTRATED: Before commenting, I would need to know the relationship between the parents of the bride and you. It appears that you were overlooked, then they reconsidered and hastily invited you with a telephone call, whereupon your husband felt obligated to accept.

Inasmuch as you never did receive the promised invitation, and had never met the couple, a congratulatory card would be appropriate — but not a gift.

You said a "foot injury" prevented you from attending the wedding? Freud, who theorized, "There are no accidents," would have had a field day with this case.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the lady who asked if she should marry a widower who had been married for 40 years and had revolting table manners. (She thought maybe she could "teach" him.) She should run from him! His manners were learned at his mother's knee, and he will not improve. I know.

I've been fighting this for 44 years. I fell in love with a man who was very crude when it came to manners and behavior, but I thought I could change him. Of course, I couldn't. I didn't meet his family until after we were married, and when I did, I nearly dropped dead. His mother was a short, heavyset woman with atrocious manners. If you were in her way, she'd give you a shove! She never closed a door or a drawer — she either kicked or slammed it shut. She interrupted people and shouted them down, and was never wrong about anything.

My husband turned out to be just like her, but when you're in love you either don't notice, or they're on their best behavior. My husband's table manners are gross. He curls his left arm around his plate as if someone were going to steal it. He stabs at his food with his fork and chews with his mouth open. Yes, I've tried to correct him, but he's too lazy and stubborn to learn. Also, he's nearly illiterate and has never read a book. How this man held a job all these years, I'll never know. (This may account for his early retirement.) It's amazing how clever a person can be when he needs to bluff his way through.

He's a good man in other ways, but I never would have married him if I had known then what I learned later.

API awards scholarships

Eleven students have been awarded college scholarships by the Panhandle Chapter of the American Petroleum Institute, including six from Pampa and two from Canadian.

Pampa recipients are Doug White, Chandra Boehmisch, Chris Gustin, Marla Jett, DeAnna Mogus and Tron Rich. The two Canadian recipients are Steven Lusk and Brad Shields.

Others receiving the API scholarships are John Wier of Borger, Cathy Anderwald of San Angelo and Joseph Anderson of Tulsa, Okla.

The scholarship fund was raised by participating members in the annual API Golf Tournament held May 16 at the Pampa Country Club and by other donors.

More than $7,000 was awarded for the scholarships in amounts of $500 to $1,000. White is the top awardee, receiving the maximum scholarship of $1,000.

White is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray White of Pampa. He plans to major in pre-engineering at Amarillo College and then transfer to Texas Tech University at Lubbock in the field of mechanical engineering or design. He hopes to pursue a master's degree in mechanical engineering.

Boehmisch has been accepted at St. Gregory's College in Shawnee, Okla., for a liberal arts degree and then continuing for a bachelor's in business or foreign languages. She is the daughter of John and Mary Ann Boehmisch of Pampa.

Gustin plans to study vocal music at Texas Tech University. He expects to attain a master's in vocal music performance and hopes for a recording career or the teaching profession. He is the son of Gary and Sue Gustin of Pampa.

Jett plans to attend the University of Texas at Arlington to study clinical psychology, with a special interest in treatment and rehabilitation for chemical de-Mogus will attend Texas Tech University to major in international business with a political career in language interpretation. She is the daughter of Sam and Sylvia Porter of Pampa.

Art of eating artichokes is in fingers

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Artichokes are a favorite summer food, but many people aren't sure how to eat this leafy vegetable.

Better Homes and Gardens says the art of eating an artichoke is in your fingers. Once it has been steamed, boiled or microwaved, just pull off a leaf, dunk it into butter or sauce and pull the leaf between your teeth. Eat just the tender part of the leaf and discard the rest.

At the center is the choke, a fuzzy thistle-like substance. Don't eat that or the center leaves. Scrape them off and you've reached the heart. The best way to eat the heart is to cut it into bite-size pieces and dip it into butter.

Appliances get new features

Here are some of the newest features available on today's appliances:

Refrigerators and Freezers: —Touch-pad controls allow consumers to select cubed or crushed ice and to lower temperatures (for rapid ice production or fast-chilling) for up to 24 hours.

—Solid-state monitoring systems diagnose performance and communicate this information through message displays.

—"Wine cellar" units have ideal temperature and humidity levels for storing red and white wines.

—Modular refrigerators and freezers — in counter-high or tall, thin units — can be built into the kitchen for a customized arrangement or clustered together to form one large appliance.

—Trim kits accept custom paneling, black glass or decorator panels to complement kitchen decor.

—Built-in units are available in a wider variety of brands and models.

Ranges and ovens: —Induction cooktops, in black or white glass, use a magnetic field to generate heat. The surrounding surface stays cool so spills won't burn.

—Solid-element cooktops seal the heating elements to a surface of tempered glass, porcelain enameled steel or stainless steel, thus eliminating the need for drip pans.

—Interchangeable cooking-surface units simply plug in and out to provide broiling, grilling, rotisserie cooking, wok cooking and conventional cooking.

—Convection ovens circulate heated air through the oven cavity to cook many foods faster.

—More models of conventional ovens have convection or microwave capabilities.

Microwave Ovens: —New cycles slow-cook food over long periods and hold food at ideal warming temperatures.

—The automatic-start feature programs the oven to begin cooking at a pre-determined time.

—Combination convection-microwave ovens promote browning and crisping.

—Cavity sizes range from full size to subcompact — 1.6 to 0.3 cubic feet.

Red Sox rookie slows Jays' pennant drive

By BILL BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

Sam Horn is using his bat to trumpet his arrival in the American League. "I just try to wait and see the ball, then explode," the 6-foot-5 slugger said after knocking in five runs with a grand slam and two doubles Monday night, powering the Boston Red Sox to a 9-1 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

Since his recall from Pawtucket of the International League on July 23, Horn has six homers, five doubles, 16 RBI and 16 runs scored in 47 at-bats.

The Blue Jays, who maintained their half-game lead over New York in the AL East despite the loss, trailed only 2-1 in the sixth inning when Horn's double set up a run-scoring wild pitch by Jim Clancy, 10-9.

Horn's grand slam and second double did most of the damage as Boston turned the game into a rout in the seventh and eighth innings. Roger Clemens, 12-7, scattered eight hits for his 13th complete game, tops in the majors.

In other AL games:
Royals 10, Yankees 1
New York, which has been outscored 64-25 on its road trip, saw its pitching woes continue as George Brett homered twice and Danny Tartabull and Kevin Seitzer hit one each for Kansas City.

Seitzer and Brett hit consecutive homers in the third inning off rookie Brad Arnsberg, 1-1, who was making his second major-league start. Tartabull had a three-run homer in the fourth, after Brett was intentionally walked, and Brett connected again in the eighth.

Danny Jackson, 6-13, pitched a six-hitter for the victory. The only run he allowed scored on a groundout by Dave Winfield in the first.

Willie Wilson reached base four times with three singles and a walk and he stole three bases in a game for the seventh time in his career.

White Sox 8, Tigers 4
Detroit stayed 1½ games behind Toronto as Harold Baines drove in three runs with a two-run double and a sacrifice fly for Chicago.

Baines and Fred Manrique hit sacrifice flies, Steve Lyons hit a two-run double and Ivan Calderon had an RBI single as the White Sox scored six runs in the first inning off loser Walt Terrell, 9-9.

Richard Dotson, 9-8, who allowed nine hits in seven innings, gave up four runs in the fifth to make it 6-4, but Baines clinched the victory with his two-run double in the sixth.

Brewers 4, Rangers 3

Milwaukee beat Texas for the ninth time in 10 meetings this season when Juan Castillo singled in Glenn Braggs with two outs in the bottom of the 12th inning.

With one out in the 12th, Braggs singled off loser Jeff Russell, 4-2, moved to second on an infield out and scored when Castillo grounded a single to right.

Jay Aldrich, 2-1, was the winner in relief of Teddy Higuera, who pitched the first 11 innings for the Brewers, allowing five hits and striking out eight.

Paul Molitor extended his hitting streak to a club-record 25 games with a single in the third inning when the Brewers scored three runs. Molitor matched Wade Boggs for the longest hitting streak in the majors this season.

Bob Brower homered for Texas.
Athletics 15, Mariners 4

Oakland snapped a four-game losing streak, beating Seattle behind Tony Bernazard's four RBI and Dave Stewart's 15th victory.

Architect looks over golf sites

A Lubbock golf course architect was in Pampa last week to evaluate sites available for the proposed Pampa Public Golf Course.

Bill Cantrell of Cantrell and Associates of Lubbock looked at four sites and rejected two, said Association President Buddy Epperson.

"The architect is being very thorough in this evaluation," Epperson said. "That's something I can really appreciate."

City officials are currently doing feasibility and cost studies on two proposed sites, one north of Pampa and the other south of town on Highway 70.

"The architect will be making recommendations on how the land can best be adapted to a golf course," Epperson said. "He'll be looking at things like water availability and soil conditions."

County residents voted in favor of a public golf course during an April 4 election, but the City Commission has yet to approve the course until further studies are completed.

The Public Golf Association recently raised $2,187 from a benefit golf tournament to help pay for construction of the public course. Other tournaments may be held in the future, Epperson said.

The Association is currently looking for two or three 500-barrel tanks for water storage. Epperson or the city manager's office can be contacted for further details.

Manning the offense

Assistant Coach Ernie Manning plays quarterback during an offensive drill as the Pampa Harvesters opened football workouts Monday. The Harvesters, under new head coach Dennis Cavalier, kick off the 1987 season Sept. 11 against Amarillo High on the home turf. Pampa continues three-day workouts for the remainder of the week.

Clark's homer lifts Giants past Astros

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Will Clark might have reached his power potential with his 25th home run of the season, a killing blow against the Houston Astros.

Candy Maldonado opened the bottom of the ninth inning with a homer, his first since coming off the disabled list on Friday, to tie the score and Clark gave the San Francisco Giants a 6-5 victory three pitches later Monday night.

"That's the longest homer I've ever hit. To hit one like that, you've got to have the adrenalin going and hit it just right. That's the kind of thing you dream of, winning like that in your last at-bat," Clark said.

The San Francisco first baseman, who hit only 11 homers last year as a rookie, swung at a pitch from reliever Dave Meads, 5-3, and took two steps toward first base before stopping. He joined the Giants' ecstatic fans in watching the baseball climb into Candlestick Park's upper deck in right field, then rounded the bases.

He got a big hug from Maldonado after touching home plate for the run which stretched the Giants' winning streak to five games and kept them one game behind first-place Cincinnati in the National League West. Houston, with a fourth straight loss, fell four games behind.

"Before I went up to hit, I said to myself that I had to get on base so they wouldn't be able to pitch around Clark," said Maldonado, who now has 13 homers. "I knew if I got on, I would create a lot of pressure."

He created a tie, instead, and Manager Roger Craig remarked later, "What can I say? Candy is back."

Meads was trying to protect a 5-4 lead the Astros assumed on Billy Hatcher's double and Bill Doran's RBI single in the eighth.

"They both homered on fastballs. I was behind on the count on Clark (2-1) and felt I had to come in with the fastball," Meads said.

Clark's game-winning drive, which probably would have gone 500 feet if the seats hadn't stopped it, was his sixth homer in eight games. The first five helped him win the National League Player of the Week award for the Aug. 3-9 period.

"That was a great honor in itself," Clark said. "But it was something I stopped thinking about once this game started."

Ken Caminiti, the Houston rookie from nearby San Jose, drove in three runs with a double and his third homer as the Astros built an early 4-0 lead.

"I'm happy I did well. I had a lot of people here to watch me tonight," said Caminiti, who reached the big leagues just 3½ weeks ago. "I'm just sorry we lost. Right now we're having some bad luck and we've got to turn things around."

The Giants pulled into a 4-4 tie with a run in the fifth and three in the seventh. Eddie Milner homered in the seventh and Maldonado and Bob Brenly had RBI doubles.

PMS athletes need physicals

Seventh grade boys and girls who plan to play middle school sports during the 1987-88 school year must get their physicals before school starts, according to Coach Dick Dunham.

Physicals will be given at the high school football fieldhouse with the following schedule: 7th grade boys: Thursday, Aug. 13, 1 p.m.; 7th grade girls, Thursday, Aug. 20, 1 p.m.; 9th grade girls, Thursday, Aug. 20, 1 p.m.

New eighth graders who plan on participating in athletics can get their physicals during one of the above-scheduled dates.

If more information is needed, Coach Dunham can be contacted at 689-6722, 665-2921 or 665-6758.

Former Pampa coach now at Kansas college

Former Pampa Middle School Coach John Charles has been appointed Assistant Professor of Health, Physical Education and Recreation at Bethany College in Lindsborg, Kans.

From 1979-82, Charles was an assistant professor of physical education, head track coach and head women's basketball coach at Trakio College.

A crazy season

From Batscam to The Niekro File

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

X-rays and emery boards. Suspensions and silence. While players are hitting balls over the wall at a record pace, baseball has gone off-the-wall.

Joe Niekro and Alan Wiggins were suspended—Niekro for doctoring balls with a nail file, Wiggins for insubordination.

R.J. Reynolds and Tim Raines had their bats confiscated under baseball's new Bat-Ray Rule. The bats were taken in the same game as the managers from Pittsburgh and Montreal played a game of "get-me, get-you." X-rays later showed both bats to be cork-free.

Howard Johnson of the New York Mets already has had two bats taken from him, both of which were later judged legal.

While Commissioner Peter Ueberroth was vocal about "Batscam," he was silent about the Texas Rangers' signing of pitcher Steve Howe, who has been suspended from both the majors and minors for drug use. Privately, however, Ueberroth was said to be outraged that the Rangers promoted Howe.

Perhaps the most bizarre silent treatment, however, was the one accorded New York Yankees Manager Lou Piniella by his boss, George Steinbrenner, for failing to take one of the owner's calls while on a road trip. On Saturday, Steinbrenner issued a two-page statement accusing Piniella of insubordination. Move over, Mr. Wiggins.

Piniella and Steinbrenner apparently also had argued over several player moves, including the one that sent Niekro to Minnesota for catcher Mark Salas. The trade may have saved the Yankees further embarrassment, though.

Niekro, a knuckleball pitcher like his older brother, Phil, was suspended on Wednesday for 10 days, until Aug. 18. After collecting several balls thrown by Niekro in a game against California last Monday night, umpires asked to check Niekro's pockets. They found an emery board and piece of sandpaper. The suspension was upheld in appeal on Saturday.

At Minnesota, fans showed up at the ballpark carrying emery boards with the words imprinted: "Say it ain't so, Joe — The Niekro File." Everybody had a good laugh, except Niekro.

"I'm going to serve my 10 days and come back Aug. 18," he said.

Louganis just misses swim mark in Pan Am Games

Cuba after fifth crown

By FRED GOODALL
AP Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Greg Louganis hasn't forgotten what it's like to be well prepared for a final exam. He had the same kind of feeling heading into the 3-meter springboard championships at the Pan American Games and passed the test with style.

"Coming to the pool I felt good, strong. I felt things could go well," Louganis said Monday night after becoming the first three-time winner of a diving event in Pan Am history and coming within 1.35 points of his world record.

"When you feel like that, it's like taking a final exam in college," he added.

The 27-year-old American won easily, amassing 754.14 points, just short of the record he set in 1983. U.S. teammate Doug Shaffer finished second with 684.39 and Jose Rocha of Mexico was third.

Louganis, who won both the 3-meter and platform dives at the 1979 and 1983 Pan Am Games, will try for a six-medal sweep on Sunday.

Louganis' performance highlighted a day in which the Americans continued to excel in track and field, swimming and basketball, while Cuba extended its domination of weightlifting and won another baseball game in pursuit of its fifth straight Pan Am title.

TRACK AND FIELD

The U.S. won five gold medals in track and field, with Lee McRae of the University of Pittsburgh taking the men's 100-meter dash in the absence of injured American champion Mark Witherspoon; Gail Devers of UCLA winning the women's 100; and Mike Conley of Fayetteville, Ark., capturing the triple jump over world record holder Willie Banks.

Jud Logan won the hammer throw with a Pan Am-record heave of 253 feet, 5 inches, and

Police watch over Cubans after anti-Castro threats. (AP Laserphoto)

Cindy Greiner of Eugene, Ore., set a meet record of 6,184 points in the heptathlon.

SWIMMING

Sixteen-year-old Silvia Poll of Costa Rica and John Witchel of the U.S. became the first double-winners in swimming. Americans Jerry Frentsos and Dorsey Tierney also won gold medals.

Poll, who won the women's 100-freestyle to give her country its first-ever Pan Am gold medal on Sunday, took the 200-freestyle Monday in a personal best 2:00.02.

Witchel, of New York, won his first gold medal Sunday in the 200-freestyle. He got his second on Monday, anchoring the Americans' winning 800-freestyle relay team.

Frentsos, of Cincinnati, won the men's 400-individual medley, beating U.S. teammate Jeff Prior of Philadelphia. Tierney, of Louisville, won the women's 200-breaststroke.

At day's end, the U.S. had extended its lead in total medals to 72-38 over Cuba, including 34 gold to Cuba's 20. Canada was third with 31 medals, only three of them gold.

BASKETBALL

Danny Manning, Rex Chapman and Willie Anderson each scored 11 points as the U.S. pounded Argentina 85-58 to extend its winning streak to 31 games in Pan Am competition. David Robinson added 10 points for the Americans, who broke the game open with a 12-2 spurt early in the second half.

Argentina defeated the U.S. 74-70 in the 1986 World Championships but played without four players from that team because of a monetary dispute.

Brazil crushed Uruguay 110-79, Panama edged Mexico 86-80 and Canada defeated the U.S. Virgin Islands 92-78 in other men's games.

BASEBALL

Cuba, which has won the last four Pan Am baseball titles, improved its record to 2-0 with a 1-0 shutout of Puerto Rico. Left-hander Pablo Abreu pitched a one-hitter and Antonio Pacheco hit a first-inning home run.

Nicaragua beat the Netherlands Antilles 5-0 and Canada defeated Venezuela 8-4 in other games.

WEIGHTLIFTING

Cuba continued its domination of weightlifting as featherweight s Gabriel Ensenat and Julio Loscos each won three gold medals, sharing first-place in the 60-kilogram class because they lifted the same totals and had identical body weights before the competition began.

Raul Mora also won three gold medals in the lightweight classification to hike Cuba's medal harvest in weightlifting to 16 gold, one silver and one bronze.

RHYTHMIC GYMNASTICS

The first gold medal in rhythmic gymnastics, a sport featuring athletes dancing and tumbling while handling small hand equipment, went to Lourdes Medina of Cuba. Medina scored 9.60 on ribbon, her final apparatus, to defeat Diane Simpson of Evanston, Ill.

Mary Fuzesi of Canada won the bronze medal.

Names in the news

NEW YORK (AP)—Mayor Edward I. Koch says he's following doctors' advice to take it easy, but he still managed to wage war on tax cheats, sign papers and meet with seven top aides.

"Not to work would be, for me, death," the 62-year-old Koch said Monday at Gracie Mansion, the mayor's official residence, where he was recuperating from a minor stroke suffered last week.

Koch awakened about 6:45 a.m., an hour later than usual. After reading the newspapers, he gave dictation to his secretary, discussed tax cheats with the finance commissioner, signed mail and a bond sale approval, and met with aides.

He had coffee, two peaches and six cherries for breakfast, and for lunch he had a salad. He is under doctors' orders to bring his weight down to 185 pounds. He weighed in at 213 Monday morning.

ATLANTA (AP)—Yoel Levi, a Romanian-born Israeli conductor, will succeed Robert Shaw as music director of the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra, a newspaper reported today.

The Atlanta Constitution said the symphony board met privately Monday and voted for Levi, then began notifying members of the orchestra. Levi and board members declined immediate comment on the report.

Levi will take over as music director beginning with the 1988-89 season, the newspaper says.

Levi, 36, of Shaker Heights, Ohio, came to the United States in 1978. He has served as conducting assistant and resident conductor of the Cleveland Orchestra.

Levi has guest-conducted numerous major orchestras in the United States as well as the Berlin Philharmonic and the London Philharmonic.

Shaw, 71, has been Atlanta Symphony Orchestra music director and principal conductor since 1967. He will become director emeritus and conductor laureate upon the new director's arrival.

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP)—Gov. James Blanchard has been playing golf for only four years but already has his second hole-in-one.

The governor used a 4-iron Monday to ace the 136-yard third hole at the Grand Hotel Golf Club on this island resort, said Tom Scott, an aide to Blanchard.

"He teed it up high and said, 'Well, here goes a hole-in-one,' before he hit it," Scott said. He said that when the governor realized he had made a hole-in-one, however, "he was quite amazed."

Blanchard shot a hole-in-one on the same hole in 1985. The hole and the course have been redesigned since, Scott said. Blanchard finished with a 79 for 18 holes.
