Mitchell Denies Wiretap Link

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell denied today what he called "slanderous and false statements" that he approved plans to wiretap the Democratic national headquarters.

The Washington Post said in its Thursday edition that James W. McCord Jr., a convicted Watergate conspirator, told a Senate subcommittee Wednesday that his information concerning Mitchell came from G. Gordon Liddy, a former White House aide.

Mitchell denied the accusation in a statement issued through the committee for the Re-election of President Nixon. Mitchell, a former chairman of the committee said in his statement:

"I deeply resent the slanderous and false statements about me concerning the Watergate matter reported as being based on hearsay and leaked out of the Ervin committee.

"I have previously denied any prior knowledge of, or involvement in, the Watergate affair and I again reaffirm such denials."

The special Senate committee that heard McCord's testimony behind closed doors Wednesday is headed by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C.

The Post, quoting Senate sources, said McCord testified that Liddy told him Mitchell approved plans and budget for the Watergate operation in February 1972 while he was still at attorney general.

Liddy, who has been described as chief engineer of the wiretap, has been convicted for his part in the Watergate incident and sentenced up to 20 years in prison and fined $40,000.

A spokesman for the Senate committee would say only that McCord gave "a great deal of information on a wide range of subjects."

The Post story said: "According to the sources, McCord indicated that he knew of additional illegal wiretaps but would not discuss them with the Senate Watergate committee unless he is granted immunity from further prosecution."

"McCord also said that he had been told by Liddy and former White House consultant E. Howard Hunt Jr., another conspirator, that presidential Counsel John W. Dean III and former White House assistant Jeb Stuart Magruder had advance knowledge of the bugging operation, according to the sources."

The Post quoted the same sources as saying McCord told of receiving second-hand information that Charles W. Colson, at the time a special counsel to President Nixon, had advance knowledge of the burglary-wiretapping operation.

Spokesmen for Mitchell, Dean, Magruder and Colson have denied in the past that any of the four had any advance knowledge about the Watergate case.

While McCord was testifying before the Senate committee, Hunt, with immunity from further prosecution, was meeting with a federal grand jury. Hunt was called back today for a third day of testimony.

The grand jury and the committee are after similar information: the circumstances surrounding the bugging of Democratic headquarters and other political espionage, if any, during last year's presidential campaign.

Hunt, McCord and four Cubans who pleaded guilty in the bugging and burglary await sentencing. The seventh defendant, Liddy, was sentenced to at least six years and eight months in prison.

In his grand jury appearance Wednesday, Hunt refused to answer six questions on grounds of possible self-incrimination. He was taken before U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica and ordered to testify—gaining immunity in the process.

Cambodia Bombing Defended

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Elliot L. Richardson, contending President Nixon is acting within his constitutional powers, indicates U.S. warplanes will pound Communist targets in Cambodia until a cease-fire is declared there.

Richardson accused the Communist side Wednesday of failing to carry out provisions of the Paris agreement requiring withdrawal of all foreign forces from Cambodia.

"I would certainly not be in a position to put any terminal date on it (U.S. bombing) at this time," Richardson told newsmen after testifying before the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Asst. Secretary of State Marshall Green told the House Asia subcommittee the bombing "is related to our desire to see a cease-fire brought about."

"It takes a combination of a clenched fist on one hand and an open palm on the other to bring about negotiations with these characters in these areas," Green said. "This is the mentality we are dealing with."

Green also told the subcommittee that State Department lawyers are drafting a statement on Nixon's authority to conduct the bombing.

U.S. warplanes have been bombing Communist troops in Cambodia for three weeks.

The bombers were withheld from Cambodian skies for about 10 days after the Vietnam cease-fire went into effect in late January, but they were sent back when the unilateral cease-fire declared by the Cambodian government was ignored.

BECAUSE OF FALLING PRICES

Farmers Union Urges Withholding Livestock

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The National Farmers Organization has told its members to withhold hogs, cattle and lambs from the market starting today because of a record drop in hog prices and a decline in cattle prices.

The influential farm group took the action Wednesday night because "the price drop on hogs has been so drastic that it requires immediate action."

NFO President Oren Lee Staley said in Corning, Iowa. The NFO also called for farmers' meetings in 15 cities Friday to determine future action.

The falling prices came as plans for a nationwide meat boycott next week gained support. In San Francisco Wednesday, some 200 persons paraded at the Federal Building plaza and shouted pledges not to eat meat next week and on Tuesdays and Thursdays thereafter.

"We want to see the meat rotting in the packing house lockers and maybe we'll get action," said Ray Alper of the Consumer Federation of California.

The decline in hog prices was blamed on "panic selling and a lack of confidence in what the market will be tomorrow or next week" by a spokesman for the hog market in Des Moines, Iowa.

"This has to be the impact of what they call consumer resistance," said Ron Jarvis, president of Oppenheimer Industries of Kansas City. Oppenheimer operates one of the biggest cattle herds in the nation.

Jarvis and other cattlemen expressed doubt that they could withhold herds even from a declining market. "The cost of holding them gets too prohibitive. And I don't know anybody that isn't trying to raise as much beef as they can," said cattle producer Phil Arnold, of Ashland, Kan.

In Iowa Wednesday, hog prices closed down $3 to $4 per hundredweight from Tuesday's sliding prices. A San Diego, Calif., meat packer said area packing houses were processing 10 to 20 per cent less beef than normal.

Metropolitan New York meat packers were also feeling the effects of the threatened boycott. At the Bronx Terminal Meat Market, wholesalers reported cutting their work forces by as much as 50 per cent.

Groups claiming to represent the housewife were forging ahead with their boycott plans today. In New York City, 200 civic and consumer groups have been invited to a boycott meeting called by State Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenblat, one of the unofficial organizers of the nationwide boycott.

In Sandusky, Ohio, a statewide chain of 35 restaurants said it would remove all meat dishes from its menus on Friday, as it did last Friday.

That was the picture painted by weather observers at noon today.

The current front is stacked up behind one that passed through earlier and stretches north and south almost the length of the state, pushing the mercury down to 28 at Marfa compared with an overnight low of 40 degrees in Pampa.

Tonight will be another story, according to the weather man, with a predicted low of 30 here tonight.

Rain is forecast for mid-afternoon today with snow mixed in tonight and Friday morning. Slow clearing is seen for late Friday, setting up conditions for an early Saturday morning low of 25 and putting budding growth in the city to its severest test.

Elsewhere about the state, weather ranged from thick fog to rain to flash-flooding around San Antonio and Del Rio.

Little change for any of the state was seen by weather observers before Monday.

Last Prisoners Flown To Clark

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — North Vietnam freed its last 67 U.S. prisoners of war today, and two giant C141 transports brought them to Clark Air Base for their first stop on the way home.

The release of the 67 cleared the Communist-prisoners-in-Indochina of the 587 Americans Hanoi had reported were captives at the signing of the cease-fire agreement two months ago. But the Viet Cong turned up another man who will be freed this weekend.

The first C141 from Hanoi landed 40 men early tonight in a drizzle that failed to dampen the enthusiasm of a cheering crowd of 600 Americans.

The second C141 touched down 42 minutes later with the other 27.

"This is a day of joy and pride," the senior man on the first flight, Air Force Lt. Col. James W. O'Neill, 42, of Las Vegas, Nev., told the exuberant crowd. "What could be more joyous than to be delivered from your enemies and return to your friends."

The pride we have in our nation and our government could not be greater. And this day justifies our faith. POWs never have a nice day, but we get one great day. Each of us thanks all of you for this unforgettable day."

All the men on the first flight appeared healthy and smiled broadly, but several had been injured and treated with their left hands. One of them, Air Force Capt. Keith H. Lewis, 33, of Goldsboro, N.C., was on crutches.

Security was more relaxed, and a number of teen-age girls were allowed to rush up to the prisoners and hand them bracelets bearing their names.

Another 82 POWs released Tuesday and Wednesday in the final phase of the prisoner repatriation were already at Clark.

Military officials said they would begin leaving for home Friday, with 27 military men and five civilians freed by the Viet Cong to depart first.

Although Hanoi said earlier that the men freed today were the last American POWs held by the Communists, the Viet Cong announced that one more American, Capt. Robert White of Newport News, Va., would be freed on Sunday or Monday.

White, whose name had not been on any earlier POW lists, was expected to be turned over in the Mekong Delta South of Saigon, where he reportedly was captured in 1969 after his airplane was shot down.

"It's one hell of a surprise," said his wife in Williamsburg, Va.

White will be the 588th American POW freed since the Vietnam cease-fire on Jan. 28. About 1,300 more Americans are listed as missing in action, and international teams are to move out across Vietnam to search for traces of them, a job that is expected to take years.

The 82 prisoners released earlier this week were reported moving quickly through their medical and administrative procedures at Clark Field's 270-bed hospital.

Among the 27 men leaving on Friday will be Lt. Cmdr. Philip Kientzler, 32, of Poway, Calif., the last American pilot shot down before the cease-fire. His jet was downed a few hours before the peace agreement was signed Jan. 27 in Paris.

Nixon Slates Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will make a major radio-television address at 8 p.m. CST tonight on America's post-Vietnam role in the world and on the economy at home, the White House announced.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, in reporting that Nixon had asked for and received radio and television time, refused to give details on what the President planned to discuss.

The national address comes on the day that the United States officially ends its decade of involvement in Vietnam with the return of the last U.S. prisoners of war and the withdrawal of the last American forces.

It also comes at a time when the administration faces pressure from consumer and labor groups to take steps to curb soaring food prices.

The address will be broadcast live from the President's Oval Office and probably will last less than 15 minutes, Ziegler said.

He specifically ruled out the Watergate controversy as one of the domestic issues to be discussed. The case, involving the bugging of Democratic national headquarters, is under investigation by a Senate committee which, according to some news accounts, heard testimony Wednesday that Nixon confidante John Mitchell was linked to the bugging plans—a charge Mitchell heatedly denied.

Administration officials have ruled out in the past a freeze on retail food prices and controls on raw agricultural products. They have said such steps would be counter-productive to efforts to bring down prices by increasing supplies.

Emergency Phone Number Reviewed

An emergency telephone number, "911," to receive all emergency calls in Pampa looked as a possibility today.

City Manager Mack Wofford said this forenoon he will confer with local Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. officials and study details of the "911" emergency project which is being adopted in many cities throughout the United States.

If installed here, the "911" emergency calls probably would be established at a central point such as the Pampa Police Department, Wofford said.

Other public agencies such as Ambulance Service, Fire Department, and Sheriff's Office would be tied in with the central station.

The system would enable the "911" dispatcher at police headquarters to answer emergency calls and direct them to any of the safety or law enforcement agencies within the system.

All calls would be recorded and would be traceable to the origination Pampa telephone number.

Use of the "911" plan would involve a nation-wide reporting telephone numbering plan designed to assist the public in contacting community safety agencies with as little delay as possible.

The new number, supporters of the project say, is short and easy to remember and would shift the burden from the public to a trained attendant in the Police Department of knowing which agency to call and its number.

Any residence or business or business telephone that has a Pampa telephone number would be able to use the emergency reporting system by simply dialing "911."

City Manager Wofford said he was aware of the "911" emergency phone plan and would pursue the matter to learn details and aim for a determination as to whether it would be feasible for installation in Pampa.

Gary Stevens, local manager for Southwestern Bell, said the project would have to be initiated by the city.

The "911" number, it was explained, ultimately is intended to provide a means for any person anywhere in the United States having an emergency need for police, fire or ambulance service to dial the three-digit number and get help as quickly as possible.

It is planned for the "911" telephone number to eventually be uniform throughout the United States, Stevens said.

Cabot To Provide Exhibit In Moscow

Cabot Corporation of Pampa will be an exhibitor in the first U.S. oil and gas exposition to be held in the Soviet Union.

The show, called Nefta-Gaz Expo '73, is scheduled in Moscow for Oct. 23-31. It will be the largest American trade exposition ever brought to Moscow.

The event has been organized for U.S. companies which supply products and services to the petroleum industry. To date, nearly 100 U.S. companies, including Cabot, have signed contracts as exhibitors.

Nefta-Gaz Expo '73 is being assembled at the invitation of those U.S.S.R. ministries involved in oil, gas and petrochemical production, and related construction activity. The show has been endorsed by the U.S. State and Commerce Departments.

Nearly 25,000 visitors are expected to attend the exposition. They will be engineers and technicians from the U.S.S.R., Poland, Bulgaria, Rumania, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia who have the authority to specify and purchase the products on display.

The Soviet government is seeking U.S. technological assistance to develop its natural resources, such as its huge reserves of oil and natural gas.

IN NEW PROJECT High School Education Available For Adults

Tonight is "O" night... opportunity for any adult 16-years and older who did not finish high school to do so without charge.

From 7-9:30 p.m. at Baker Elementary School enrollment will be conducted in Continuing Adult Education Classes offered without charge to those wishing to complete their education.

The classes, which will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays through May 31, are primarily for those with no more than an eighth grade education but open to all who have not completed work for a high school diploma.

Classes will meet 7-9:30 p.m. on those nights. Teachers will be Mrs. Jake Spencer, Mrs. Kay Hood, Mrs. Ruthie Morgan and Mrs. Jeaneane Thornberg.

Mrs. Ruby Morgan will be a teacher-aid.

There will be a nursery during class periods. There also will be a counseling service available and instruction for those who cannot speak, read or write English.

Mrs. Margie Gaut and Don Nelson, school personnel concerned with continuing education in Pampa, emphasize that these classes are free... there is no cost to those enrolling.

Floyd Sackett, Baker principal, will supervise the project.

The program is funded by the Texas Education Agency, which has appointed the Pampa Independent School District the fiscal agent for TEA in instituting similar programs in Wellington and Shamrock.

IN OIL, GAS INDUSTRY

Heavy Machinery Needed For Work

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the third of three articles by Pampa industrialists dealing with Oil and Gas Appreciation Week being observed nationally this week to point up the energy crisis, particularly petroleum based energy. Today's final article is by Victor T. Raymond, general manager of the Cabot Corporation Machinery Division.

machinery needs of this industry. With headquarters and plant in Pampa, the Machinery Division employs about 500 people.

More than half of the effort at this location goes into products used directly by the oil and gas industry. These products include machinery and steel forgings sold domestically and throughout the world.

A major product line includes mobile drilling rigs and well servicing and workover rigs. To Cabot, "mobile" means putting the rigs on wheels for fast economic moves. As equipment size demands increase, Cabot has had to meet new design challenges to maintain this mobility.

Mobile drilling rigs, an expanding business at Cabot, are produced in sizes to drill production wells from 5,000 feet deep to 13,000 feet. A new mobile rig concept with a 127-foot mast capable of lifting 550,000-pounds of pipe weight has just completed its first well near Corpus Christi.

In addition to the drilling rigs, Franks workover and servicing rigs for completing and maintaining wells already drilled are a basic need in the oil and gas industry. The machinery Division produces these rigs at the rate of about one per week. They range in size from 60,000 pounds to 120,000-pounds and from 150 to 650-horsepower.

The equipment is maintained and serviced in the United States by six service centers, employing about 100 people. These are located in Casper, Wyoming; Lindsay, Okla.

Hobbs, N.M.; Houston, Odessa, and Pampa, Texas.

Customized arrangements of the Cabot drilling, workover and servicing rigs are used for offshore oil and gas production work on platforms from the Gulf of Mexico to the Bass Straits in Australia.

The international scope of Cabot rig usage has greatly increased in the last two years. Rigs of all types produced in Pampa are operating worldwide, including West Germany, Mexico, Saudi Arabia, Indonesia and throughout South America.

Also directly supplying the oil and gas industry is the steel production facility at Cabot. Raw steel is made and formed by forging and machining to produce drill collar blanks above ten inches in diameter, reamer bodies, stabilizers and subs used in drill strings making holes far below the earth's surface.

This Pampa-made steel is able to meet the high quality demands of the oil and gas industry through use of tight metallurgical control, electric furnace melting, vacuum degassing processes and heat treating.

The Machinery Division, a part of Cabot's Engineered Products Group, is but one segment of Cabot Corp. Cabot is intensely involved with the oil and gas industry in its Energy Group as an explorer, producer and distributor of oil and gas. The Cabot Performance Chemicals Group is a major consumer of oil and gas in its role as a world leader in carbon black production.

"It's Fun To Cook For Her Boys"

MRS. CLIFFORD MARTINDALE
...Bakes Daily

By BOBBYE COMBS

Most of us are faced with the daily question, what to eat and what will we cook today?

Mrs. Clifford (Mollie) Martindale, 700 E. 15th St., has a file full of recipes and has consented to share her favorite's with our readers today.

She stays very busy preparing three meals a day for her family of boys, who are her husband, Clifford, an installer for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., and their three sons, Mike, 12, a sixth grader; Jackie, 10, a fourth grader; and Dan, 6, a first grader. They attend Stephen F. Austin School.

Mollie says, "it takes quite a lot of food, especially for the older boys."

She enjoys teaching a Sunday school class of three and four year olds and this year has served as assistant den mother and is home room mother for the sixth grade.

She is presently secretary-treasurer of Women's Missionary Council and plays the organ for Bethel Assembly of God Church.

We hope that you will enjoy Mollie's recipes, which are listed, and will add them to your collection today.

Now, what will we serve tomorrow?

Easier Gardening Ideas

By Sheila and Allan Swenson
NEA Garden Columnists

Gardening gets easier every year. Innovations and products available today take the work out and increase your prospects for success.

For beginners or accomplished green thumbs alike, these new ideas are a big help. To beat spring by starting indoors often means cutting milk cartons, a variety of window sill containers, much messy work.

Park's Sure Fire seed starter kit is a welcome new package. It includes Jiffy flats, milled sphagnum moss, a soil heating cable to help seeds germinate faster. Labels and Jiffy pots also are included along with a useful handbook. Cost is only $4.65.

A Gro-Pak goes a few steps forward. It includes more pots, planting trays, flats plus sphagnum moss and a 52-inch Gro-Lux Lamp with TWIN Gro-Lux tubes. The sphagnum moss is sterile so you eliminate damping off disease. The lights are the new type with balanced rays to match the sun's growth-giving power. The peat pots and trays let you set seedlings right and then plunge into the soil outdoors when the time is right. Roots grow right through the peat pots so there is no setback at transplanting time from damaged roots.

Tiny seed often caused problems of poor germination, wrong placement, over-planting that required thinning. Now there's pelleted seed. It is easier to handle, space and better yet, the coating furnishes plant food and disease protection to seedlings.

In fact you don't even have to cover seeds. Merely press the pelleted seeds into the surface and they sprout well.

Fertile cubes offer an easy way to start individual plants like tomatoes, broccoli, lettuce, cabbage. Each cube is a blend of mosses, plant food, perlite and vermiculite with a small depression in which to plant seeds.

When it's time to transplant, bury the pot and seedling in the garden and roots keep growing.

For house plants, an Automatic Plant Caretaker is a round pad of water-conducting foam impregnated with time-release nutrients. You place the pad in any container, add water, then set the potted plant on the pad. Roots draw up the right amount of nutrient and water.

Sophomores Move To Varsity Relays

By CLAY LIVELY
Three sophomore tracksters on the Pampa High School squad have their work cut out for them this weekend as the Harvesters travel to the two-day Amarillo Relays.

The three are Noel Hanson, Rick Leverich and Tim Thornburg. Only Hanson has competed on the varsity thus far this year.

For the other two, the debut will be demanding to say the least. All three will run on the mile relay team and Thornburg and Leverich will handle legs on the sprint relay.

Injuries to runners Larry Marlar, Chuck Reeves and Steve Mathis forced Harvesters coach Ed Lehnick to move Thornburg and Leverich up from the B team.

Although it has been nearly two weeks since Marlar and Reeves pulled hamstring muscles in their legs and a week since Mathis similarly injured his, none of the three has progressed sufficiently enough to run. Especially not with the district meet only one week away.

Leverich and Thornburg are both promising runners, but not having the injured three available has weakened the Harvesters immensely—not only in the relays but in individual races as well. For example; Pampa will have only one man entered in seven of the 11 individual events.

Marlar and Mathis would have been considered threats to finish 1-2 in the 440-yard dash—not necessarily in that order. They both would also have been entered in the mile relay and Mathis was slated to run on the sprint relay.

Reeves had a 9.56 clocking in the 100-yard dash last year as a sophomore (at the Amarillo Relays). He also would have been entered in the 220 and would have led off the sprint relay.

Lehnick is hopeful that the three key athletes will be ready for the district meet. But injuries to the hamstring muscles don't respond to treatment like other muscle pulls. What a pulled hamstring requires is time—and there just isn't much of that left.

There has been another change made for the meet. Freddy Wilbon, who has competed exclusively in the jumping events up until this week will be entered in the 120-yard high hurdles in Amarillo.

PAMPA ENTRIES IN THE MEET:
440-yard relay—Thornburg, Leverich, Rick McGuire and Richard McCampbell.
880—Hanson.
120-yard high hurdles—Carson Watt and Wilbon.
100—McCampbell and Leverich.
440—Thornburg.
330-yard intermediate hurdles—Watt.
220—McGuire and McCampbell.
Mile relay—Hanson, Thornburg, Leverich and McGuire.
Mile—Leon Garza.
Shot put and discus—Billy Lemons.
High jump—Wilbon.
Broad jump—Wilbon and McGuire.
Pole vault—Kim Lindsey.

PAMPA B-TEAM ENTRIES:
440-yard relay—Robert Yeager, Joe Curtis, Mark Klepper and Lewis Dinkins.
880—Deane Lewis, Don Campbell and Brent Brunting.
120-yard high hurdles—Howie Lewis and Mike Taylor.
100—Yeager and Dinkins.
440—Johnny Cook and Klepper.

NEW REEF PAYS OFF
MARCO ISLAND, Fla. (AP) — The new Marco Island artificial fishing reef is paying off with big fish. Jerry Batjes of Hudsonville, Mich., fishing with charter boat captain Ray Page, boated a 24-pound redfish. The 38-inch red was boated two miles off shore in 20 feet of water. Florida west coast redfish usually weigh five pounds or less.

The reef consists of about 24,000 old automobile and truck tires. They were compacted and bundled and dropped there in March, 1972 by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company. Another such reef has been approved by the Army Corps of Engineers. It will be built five miles off shore by the Deltona Corporation.

Basketball Roundup

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Everybody always knew Julius Erving could score and rebound, but Wednesday night he showed he could coach, too.

With Virginia Coach Al Bianchi in Greensboro, N.C. to scout the game between Carolina and Kentucky, Erving, the American Basketball Association scoring champion, got the assignment to coach the Squires in their regular season finale against the New York Nets.

The Squires twice fell behind by as much as 13 points in the first period, but got going in the second half and pulled away to a 121-106 decision over the Nets.

Guard Bernie Williams scored 11 consecutive points for Virginia in the final three minutes to decide the issue and give Erving, the Squires' young all-star forward, a victory in his coaching debut.

In other ABA regular season final games, Kentucky defeated Carolina 118-97. Memphis beat Dallas 130-125 and Utah edged Indiana 138-136.

In the National Basketball Association, Boston beat Baltimore 120-101. Houston topped Buffalo 138-122. Detroit defeated Cleveland 131-119 in overtime. Los Angeles beat Golden State 96-89 and Phoenix nipped Seattle 127-125.

Rookie George Gervin, who joined the team in mid-season, took scoring honors for the Squires with 26 points, a high for his brief pro career. Williams finished with 19 points while center Billy Paultz led New York's scoring with 24.

Bianchi, scouting Kentucky, saw an eye-full as the Colonels ripped the Cougars behind 27 points by Rick Mount and 23 by Dan Issel. Kentucky shot 53.5 per cent from the field and led Carolina in assists 24-13.

Johnny Neumann scored 18 points and added 22 assists—one short of the ABA record—to pace Memphis, which had no fight off a rally by Dallas in the final period.

Ali's Poetry Beats George
SAN DIEGO (AP) — Muhammad Ali isn't much of a poet, but next to George Foreman he sounds like T. S. Eliot.

The heavyweight champion, in town to receive an award, got into the act Wednesday as Ali took a day off from training for his 12-round fight with Ken Norton Saturday.

One of Foreman's efforts went: "The world's greatest, Muhammad Ali, ha ha ha, hee hee hee."

After Ali brought out a flock of grade-school girls to lead cheers for him, Foreman countered with: "Two, four, six, eight, Ken Norton is really great."

Later, Foreman performed an old variation of Ali's lamthe-greatest routine. Asked how he thought Saturday's fight would go, the champion said straight-faced: "I hope they both lose because they both can beat me."

Billings Lost
POMPAHO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Texas Rangers lost catcher Rich Billings for a week Wednesday then turned around and dropped an exhibition game.

Billings was sharpening his spikes with a scalpel and the blade slipped and sliced the upper joint of his thumb. It took seven stitches to close the wound.

Golfers, Netters To Play
Pampa High's boys' golf team and the Harvester tennis squad will compete this weekend in tournaments held in conjunction with the Amarillo Relays.

The varsity golfers will play tomorrow at the Amarillo Country Club while the B squad plays its round at the Southwest Course.

Only the first six finishers in each division tomorrow will advance to Saturday's final round. Pampa golf coach Dick Woldi said that it took a four-man total of 319 last year to go into the Saturday round.

The PHS girls' golf team will compete in a tournament at Berger tomorrow.

Training Camp Issues Revolve Around Seaver

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The New Mets' pitching staff revolves around Tom Seaver and one of the issues in their spring training camp also revolves around Tom Seaver.

The issue: Should Seaver pitch as much as possible, despite the unhappy feelings of others?

"I'm going to pitch whenever the pitching coach and the manager put my name in the lineup," says Seaver.

Seaver pitched six innings of two-hit ball Wednesday as the Mets beat the Cincinnati Reds 8-0, but his brilliance didn't overshadow the issue recently brought to the surface by Jerry Kosman.

Kosman, the No. 4 starter on the staff, had complained about Seaver receiving preferential treatment.

Bob Schefling, the Mets' general manager, stepped into the discussion rather forcefully Wednesday.

"Tom is going to pitch whenever he's ready," exclaimed Schefling.

In the other exhibition games, the Oakland A's ripped the Chicago Cubs 13-3; the Chicago White Sox slugged the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-0; the Boston Red Sox trimmed the St. Louis Cardinals 3-0; the Los Angeles Dodgers topped the Montreal Expos 5-3; the Philadelphia Phillies nipped the Atlanta Braves 2-1; the Kansas City Royals downed the Texas Rangers 8-2; the Milwaukee Brewers beat the San Diego Padres 9-4; the Houston Astros whipped the Detroit Tigers 4-2; the San Francisco Giants tripped the California Angels 3-2 in 11 innings; and the Baltimore Orioles defeated the New York Yankees 4-3.

After Seaver pitched the first six innings, Phil Hennigan wrapped up the shutout with three scoreless frames. Cleon Jones walloped a three-run homer for the Mets.

Vida Blue made his first start since signing his 1973 baseball contract last Monday, but didn't stick around long enough to get the decision as Oakland walloped Chicago.

Wilbur Wood pitched seven scoreless innings, his longest stretch of the spring, as the Chicago White Sox whipped the Pirates. Rick Reichardt knocked in two runs for the winners.

Marty Pattin scattered five singles over seven innings and Boston capitalized on Bob Gibson's wildness to beat St. Louis.

Manny Mota and Lee Lacy collected three hits apiece and knocked in a total of three runs to lead the Dodgers over the Expos. Mota had three singles while Lacy collected a triple and two singles.

Bill Robinson, spoiling an intentional walk, swung at the fourth pitch and drove in the winning run with an eighth-inning single as Philadelphia nipped Atlanta.

Kansas City downed Texas as Ed Kirkpatrick and Amos Otis hit home runs; Don Money's three-run triple keyed a five-run third inning for Milwaukee that carried the Brewers past San Diego; Doug Rader hit a homer to help Houston beat Detroit; Ken Berry dropped a fly ball with two out in the 11th inning, allowing the winning run to score as San Francisco defeated California and Mike Cuellar and Doyle Alexander combined to pitch Baltimore over the Yankees.

Hansen Is Head Coach
OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Paul Hansen, an assistant coach for 18 years, now is the No. 1 man in athletics at Oklahoma City University.

Hansen was named head basketball coach and athletic director Wednesday by President Dolphus Whitten. He succeeds Abe Lemmons, who has accepted the head coaching job at Pan American University in Edinburg, Tex.

"It will be a terrific pleasure for me to undertake this challenge," said Hansen. "I know there will be lots of trials and tribulations for me and my family in the coming months."

Girls Play Last Home Game Today
The Harvester volleyball team plays its last home match of the year tonight at Harvester Fieldhouse against the Palo Duro Dons.

The volleyballers are now 3-1 in the district's second half. Should they win tonight and in the season finale Monday against Caprock in Amarillo, they will win District I-AAAA outright.

Tascosa has a 4-1 record thus far in the second half, but Pampa tied with Amarillo High for the first half title. AHS is out of the running for the second half crown.

If Pampa and the Rebels wind up this half with 5-1 records, the Harvesters will win the league crown by dint of sharing each half's title.

The junior varsity plays at 6:30 p.m. today with the varsity contest getting underway 20 minutes after the end of that match.

Lakers And Milwaukee Bucks Tied 60-22 In Season's Play

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

By beating Golden State 96-89 in their regular season finale Wednesday night, the Los Angeles Lakers made their long National Basketball Association season one game longer.

Or did they? The victory gave Los Angeles, the defending NBA champions, a 60-22 record for the regular season, the same mark as Milwaukee.

Under the revised NBA playoff rules, the team with the best record in each conference plays the team with the fourthbest record, while No. 2 plays No. 3. The NBA had announced that in the event of a tie, Los Angeles and Milwaukee would meet in a one-game playoff Friday in Milwaukee to determine who finishes No. 1 and gets to play Golden State and who is No. 2 and draws Chicago.

But following Wednesday night's game, doubt was cast as to whether the playoff would be played.

After a 15-minute team meeting, Lakers' player representative Keith Erickson said he had consulted with Larry Fleischer, attorney for the NBA Players Association, and been told that the league could not require them to play the extra game.

Fleischer is going to poll the players," Erickson explained. "The ultimate decision on what to do will be made by two people, Fleischer and (NBA Commissioner) Walter Kennedy."

Erickson noted that instead of playing an extra game, a coin toss could determine the playoff pairing and the teams could split the $10,000 involved.

In other NBA regular season finales, Boston whipped Baltimore 120-101, Houston beat Buffalo 138-122, Detroit defeated Cleveland 131-119 in overtime and Phoenix edged Seattle 127-125.

In the American Basketball Association, Virginia topped the New York Nets 121-106, Kentucky beat Carolina 118-97, Memphis defeated Dallas 130-125 and Utah edged Indiana 138-136.

Gail Goodrich scored 13 of his game-high 26 points in the third quarter, when Los Angeles outscored Golden State 29-16 to erase a seven-point halftime deficit.

Lakers center Wilt Chamberlain took only one shot against the Warriors—after not taking a single shot against Milwaukee Tuesday night—and finished the regular season with a record 72 per cent shooting mark from the field, the first man ever to better 70.

Dave Cowens scored 13 of his 23 points in the third period as Boston overcame a 10-point halftime deficit to beat Baltimore.

Boston played without two regulars, Paul Silas and Don Chaney, both sidelined with injuries. Silas is expected to be ready for the playoffs but Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn called Chaney "doubtful."

A basket by Detroit's Dave Bing sent that game into overtime, and the Pistons decided the issue by scoring 22 points in the five-minute extra period.

Calvin Murphy scored 31 points to spark Houston to victory, but Buffalo's Bob McAdoo closed out his rookie season by taking scoring honors with 45 points.

Clem Haskins' 25-footer with seven seconds showing on the clock lifted Phoenix to victory. John Brisker had 39 points and Spencer Haywood 37 for Seattle.

Belmont Park racetrack has stable accommodations for 2,100 horses and living quarters for 800 backstretch employees.

THE HAIR IS a little longer and the brows are a little furrowed. But the veteran professional basketball stars below are just as vital to their teams as they were way back when they were college All Americans, above. The players—from left, Rick Barry, Wilt Chamberlain, Oscar Robertson and John Havlicek—all will be playing pivotal roles in their teams' performance in the upcoming National Basketball Association playoffs.

Reyes, Danny Matthews Head AA Dream Team

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)— Juan Reyes, the high-scoring gunner from Zapata, and LaFeria's Danny Matthews were the top point producers on the 1973 Class 2A All-State basketball team selected today by the Texas Sportswriters Association.

Reyes, a 6-3 senior, riddled the nets for a 30.9 average while Matthews, a 6-0 senior, gunned from long range for a 28.0 average per game. The pair join Bobby Rixon of Anahuac, Ronnie Moreland of Grand Saline and Jimmy Harvey of Morton on the first team. All are seniors.

Rixon, 6-4, led Anahuac with a 24.5 average while Moreland's 18.2 average was a key factor in Grand Saline, gaining the state tournament. Moreland, 6-4, Rixon and Reyes were the inside men while Matthews, 6-0, and Harvey, 6-0, were named at guard. Harvey was on Morton's 1972 state championship team and had a 17.0 scoring average as a senior.

State tourney entry San Augustine landed a pair on the second team with soph Robert Barnes, 6-4, on the inside and 6-2 senior Charlie Harris tying for a spot inside with Mathis' Kim Hennig and Bowie's Steve Gibbs.

Barnes, who averaged 19.1 points per outing, teams with teammate Harris (13.0), 6-5 Hennig (21.7) and Gibbs, 6-4, (21.5) at the inside spots. Poth's 6-5 guard Greg Uhlig, who was a first team All-Stater in Conference A in 72, teams with Friona's Johnny Bandy, 6-2, at the guards. Uhlig averaged 21.0 per game while Bandy averaged 21.6.

The third unit was headed by a pair of big inside men—6-7 Dick Rogers of Abernathy and 6-6 Gary Hetherington of Lindero-Kildare. The other post spot went to 6-0 soph John Waggoner of Comanche. Rogers averaged 18.1 points per outing while Hetherington hit at an 18.2 clip. Waggoner, despite his size inside, hit at a 24.5 clip.

The guards on the third unit were 5-10 senior Roy Wheeler of Anahuac and 6-3 senior Milton Jones of Hamlin. Wheeler scored at a 20.8 pace while Jones' average was 19.0.

Two sophomores—Barnes and Waggoner along with juniors Hennig and Gibbs were the only underclassmen on the three teams.

Day Of Upsets At Vancouver Tourney

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP)— It was a day of upsets in the $50,000 International Tennis Tournament Wednesday, with Seattle's Tom Gorman and Pierre Barthes of France leading the way.

Gorman, seeded No. 11, dumped fifth-seeded Arthur Ashe of New York 6-1, 4-6, 6-4 in a second-round singles match. Ashe fought back in the deciding set from 2-5 to 4-5 before Gorman came on with a strong service in game 10 to take the decision.

The unseeded Barthes also went to three sets as he spilled fourth-seeded Mark Cox of Britain 5-7, 7-5, 6-1.

The second round of the doubles also produced a major upset as unseeded Ismail El Shafie of Egypt and Brian Fairlie of New Zealand sidelined third-seeded Australians Ken Rosewall and Fred Stolle 6-4, 6-1.

Connally Biding Time In Switching To GOPs

NEW YORK (AP) — John B. Connally was on the brink of switching to the Republican party last week but stopped short due to the growing furor over possible White House involvement in the Watergate break-in, sources said Wednesday.

The former Texas governor reportedly is still uncertain as to whether he wants to run for President in 1976 but apparently has no doubts remaining about his inclination to forsake his life-long allegiance to the Democratic party.

Sources said he was primed to make the switch last week or, at the latest, this week, but was stymied by the uncertainties arising from the Republicansubsidized raid of Democratic party headquarters in the Watergate office building in Washington.

"Obviously, this wasn't any time to be joining the Republican party," the source told a reporter.

Connally was the only Democrat in Nixon's cabinet in Nixon's first four years in the White House, serving as treasury secretary during the tumultuous period when Nixon imposed wage-price freezes and also took dramatic new actions in the international monetary and diplomatic fields.

During last year's presidential campaign, Connally headed the successful Democrats for Nixon organization and rumors of his imminent switch to the GOP have been prevalent ever since.

Interviewed before speaking to the Wharton Graduate Business School Club of New York, Connally said he had not spoke to Nixon lately.

Asked what was holding him back from making his decision about switching parties, Connally replied: "I'm working... I've been working very hard."

He did not deny that he had talked to Republicans such as Presidential Counselor Anne Armstrong of Texas about his plans. But he refused to elaborate on any timetable or to reveal any current leanings one way or another.

"I have nothing to say about my future plans... I don't have any," Connally said. "I'm busy at representing my clients—I just might do it for some time."

Asked if he might continue pursuing his law practice through 1974 or 1976, without making a bid for the presidency, Connally laughed and refused to commit himself either way.

While he is marking time, Connally is accumulating more admirers among influential New York businessmen and financiers who could form the nucleus of any campaign he might mount for the presidency.

Monday night he met with Herbert Brownell, former attorney general in President Dwight D. Eisenhower's cabinet and a mentor to numerous GOP politicians.

He ate breakfast Tuesday with Charles Bluhdorn, president of Gulf & Western Industries, Inc.

Early Tuesday afternoon he met with his close friend, Dr. Armand Hammer, head of Occidental Petroleum.

Later in the afternoon he addressed the Calvin Bullock Forum, a group of old-line Wall Street bankers.

He was the keynote speaker Tuesday night at the Wharton Business Statesman Award Dinner, which honored one of Nixon's largest contributors, Donald M. Dendall, chairman of the board of PepsiCo, Inc.

Connally told the hundreds of businessmen that Nixon had "won peace with honor in Vietnam. Now let's win prosperity with honor."

He said that whether businessmen like it or not, they have to accept the fact that they have reached the end of the 27-year postwar era, during which the United States was indisputably supreme in international trade.

He said the United States has to be more hard-nosed in bargaining for equality with nations such as Japan, Canada and the Common Market bloc.

Canada was the only Allied country that did not require financial aid from the United States after the Second World War.

Despite Government Act, Nation Needs Less Wildernesses

By C.R. BATTEN
Two important resolutions were passed in February by the Wyoming state legislature with little fanfare, and with little attention from the Press.
One was "A JOINT RESOLUTION, requesting the cooperation of the Congress of the United States in the continuation of the original purpose for the creation of Grand Teton National Park and Yellowstone National Park."
It points out that the two great national parks were created and preserved for the use, benefit, and enjoyment of the people.
The resolution was apparently prompted by the Wyoming people's concern that recent trends and proposals in park management may indicate a movement away from parks for people, and toward parks for parks—with no regard for the needs of the people or for the use of the parks by people.

The second was "A JOINT RESOLUTION, the cooperation of requesting the cooperation of the Congress of the United States in refraining from the creation of additional wilderness areas within the national forests within the boundaries of the State of Wyoming."
The message in the title comes through loud and clear.

The Wilderness Act directs the Forest Service, the National Park Service, and other federal agencies to study certain lands under their administration for possible classification as Wilderness.
Lands owned by these agencies are public lands that have been designated by Congress and the Administration for the benefit of "all the people."
Wyoming is typical of many of the western states, with large areas of public lands. Fourteen per cent (8,674,534 acres) of the lands in the state are in the National Forests. Nearly two million acres, or 23 per cent of the national forest lands are already classified as Wilderness.

Existing Primitive Areas will be included in the Wilderness System when Congress acts on them. Historically, Congress has enlarged the area of the new Wildernesses that have resulted from the Primitive Area studies.
Another four per cent of the national forest lands are undeveloped, and lie adjacent to the Primitive Areas, and therefore are being studied along with the Primitive Areas for their Wilderness potential. But the story does not end here. Without direction from the Wilderness Act, the Forest Service has reviewed all undeveloped national forest lands in the nation. Out of that review, has come a list of nine per cent more of the national forest lands of Wyoming that the Forest Service proposes to study for their Wilderness potential sometime during the next 11 years.

If we put all these areas together, we come up with a whopping 3,500,000 acres—more than 40 per cent of all the national forest lands in Wyoming—that are either in Wilderness, or are undeveloped, inaccessible by motorized methods of transportation, and under study for potential Wilderness classification.

All those lands under study will be protected as though they already were Wilderness, until Congress acts on any proposals that might result from the studies.
Now, if we throw in the nearly 2,200,000 acres of National Park Service lands—94 per cent of which the Park Service has reported should be classified as Wilderness, we find that the two agencies have dedicated 51 per cent of all their lands in Wyoming to Wilderness use—a use which can benefit only a few.

Imagine, if you can, building a fence around a piece of Wyoming that is almost as large as Massachusetts and Rhode Island combined (or one-third of the Texas Panhandle), and closing it to entry to at least 95 per cent of the people. This, in effect, is what has happened to Wyoming.
Perhaps there is need for 51 per cent of the national forest and national park lands in Wyoming to be in Wilderness. But as long as we rely on the political processes of public pressures, how can we know?
Those who demand that Wilderness be established and maintained by the force of government have little faith in their own convictions that Wilderness is necessary, or they would seek Wilderness by voluntary action.

If the democratic process as we know it is valid, and the elected legislators of the state of Wyoming truly represent the view of the majority of the people of Wyoming, then clearly the people of Wyoming have had their bellies of Wilderness, and want no more.

Is 69¢ a good price for pineapple?

Of course not! It's an outrageous price if you're talking about Mexican or Puerto Rican pineapples. But we're talking about Jumbo Royal Hawaiian Pineapple — the king of 'em all. And for that, it's a fantastic price. Why?

Well, look. We sell Mexican pineapples sometimes ourselves. For 39¢ apiece. And they're pretty good. But, let's face it — 39¢ pineapple just ain't Jumbo Royal Hawaiian Pineapple. Plucked from the pineapple plant only when it's fully ripe. Individually selected. Individually hand-packed in damage-proof containers. Every four-pound beauty just bursting with honey-sweet juices — with as much as one pound more delicious eating than in the 39¢ kind. Of course 69¢ is not an ordinary price for pineapple. Would you expect to pay hamburger prices for porterhouse steak? After all, we brought these in only for those who deserve an extravagant treat. Live a little!

- SWEETER FRUIT — and juicier, too. Because they're grown in rich volcanic soil and plucked at the peak of ripeness.
- SMALLER CORE — up to a pound more good fruit than you get in other varieties.
- THINNER SKIN — it means more juicy eating!

Commodity Market Requires Discipline

NEW YORK (AP) — If you are one of an estimated 500,000 people who trade or speculate in commodity futures, or one of the 2.5 million more who are forecast to join the market by 1980, you are or should be aware of the basic rules.

A good trader needs risk capital he can afford to lose, a plan of operation, and the discipline to follow the plan without emotion or vacillation.

If he has the capital, the plan, the qualities of temperament and the proper information from government reports, newspapers, brokers and observation, he might with luck and still another skill turn himself into a winner.

The other skill is the ability to translate all these elements into an informed estimate of what prices for such things as pork bellies and silver and wool and cotton will be anywhere from a month to a year in advance.

The rewards could be enormous. A well-known broker notes in an advertisement that an $800 commitment made last October in cotton for March delivery could have resulted in a profit — or loss — of $6,000 by mid-February.

This would have been impossible, of course, without the capital. All other considerations are academic in the absence of money, but an absence of money is the precise condition in which a trader finds himself by violating the other rules.

Commodities are very volatile markets. Since only 5 or 10 or 15 per cent of the total purchase price must be placed on the table, you have tremendous leverage. You can earn 1,000 per cent — or lose it, if you aren't careful.

It is very easy to lose in futures. In fact, most speculators lose far more often than they win, but they limit their losses by never bucking the trend. In contrast, when they have a winner they soar with the trend.

This is not a simple accomplishment, and potential traders often find they aren't equal to the psychological demands made. After three straight losses they may find confidence to stick with their big winner.

Leo Melamed, chairman of the International Monetary Mart, which trades foreign currency futures — designed in part to take the guesswork out of floating currencies warns speculators to study themselves before researching the market.

"In futures trading, more so than perhaps in any other field of endeavor," he states, "one's psychological makeup is put to its hardest test and thus it is crucial to know what kind of person you are before it can be determined if you can succeed."

He suggests that before speculating, the wise person will ask himself:

Can I admit error in the face of defeat? Can I allow for unprejudiced interpretation of facts after I have entered the market? Will I have the strength to remain in the market, although at a loss, when I am certain my calculations are correct?

"At another time," he continues, "will you have the courage to quickly liquidate your losing position to minimize the loss and yet know that in either case you are being dictated not by fear ... but by cold factual interpretation?"

Conversely, "Do you have the temperament to allow your profits to pyramid when you are right, irrespective of their impressive sums, and yet, in some other situation, have the prudence to take your profit ...? Do you learn from mistakes or do you repeat them? Are you one who can, following a heavy loss, approach the next morning's market refreshed in mind and spirit?" Did you answer all questions affirmatively? You did? Sir, you are either unaware of your limitations or destined to make a grand fortune in speculation. Before you plunge, think about it.

The big commodity exchanges, primarily the Chicago Board of Trade and the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, which account for the bulk of trading, provide educational materials that often are distributed free through brokers.

And brokers themselves often offer free trial subscriptions of commodity market letters for up to eight weeks at a time.

CLEAN UP COST
TORONTO (AP) — Pollution control in Canada will cost the federal government and private industry between $1.5 billion and $2 billion annually, said Ontario Marketing Productions Ltd., in a recent report.

The growth of the manufacturing of pollution abatement equipment is the result of a combination of growing public pressure, government legislation and industrial awareness, the report said.

WORRY CLINIC

Tony is learning the truth of Christ's famous statement about "professional jealousy." Many of the world's greatest pioneers were hounded even to their death, though later honored with monuments. History helps you understand psychology!

CASE W-564: Tony B., aged 24, is a graduate student in psychology.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I've been analyzing American psychologists of the 20th century.

"And also observing the change in the way they slant their textbooks.

"For example, I find that the texts in your special field were almost always titled 'Applied Psychology.'

"That's how Poffenberger of Columbia headed his, and so did Hepler at Syracuse, as well as Moss at George Washington University, etc.

"Then you came out with your textbook — but, titled — it 'Psychology Applied,' thus injecting more dynamic appeal.

"Hepler must have appreciated that fact, too, for he immediately got out his revised edition and employed your dramatic reversal of those two words.

"Even Ruch, who wrote the widely used text in Introductory Psychology, also imitated your change, and even followed your pattern of using many pertinent pictures and Rating Scales in the book.

"Yet many psychologists still claim you 'sensationalize' psychology.

"But why do they then try to adopt your innovations?"

PITY THE PIONEERS

Pioneers are usually attacked by their own colleagues.

You readers can usually guess their basic envy, though it is often camouflaged under a lot of "rationalization."

Louis Pasteur was thus violently opposed by the medics of France.

In fact, they tried to have him ostracized from France and dropped from the Academy of Science.

Fortunately, enough chemists and physicists belonged thereto, so they outvoted the physicians.

Simmelweis exposed the high death rate in child birth cases by showing that the physicians infected their patients with contaminated instruments and germ-laden fingers.

He proved his point conclusively.

Did his medical colleagues laud him for his pioneering and great life-saving discovery? Not at all!

They hounded him out of his native Vienna and ultimately drove him into an insane asylum.

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Then, many years later, they erected a monument to him!

In 1955, I "broke" the biochemical facts about trace chemicals via this newspaper column.

The Food and Drug Administration immediately belittled the idea and even made the following asinine statement in print:

"There is nothing of any medical value in the oceans." Yet every water-soluble chemical element on this Earth is therein!

And now the FDA is belatedly claiming merit for many of those chemicals, such as iodine, copper, iron, calcium, lithium, cobalt, etc.

When my "Psychology Applied" was first adopted at the University of Wisconsin, the professor wrote to our leading professional psychology magazine, demanding that Wisconsin's name be dropped from the list of users, saying my text had NEVER been employed there.

Yet this same professor was the one who had adopted it for his entire class!

So Christ's advice is still pertinent, wherein He stated: "A prophet is not without honor, save in his own country and in his own house."

Mates Can Bring Adultery Suit

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A husband has the right to bring suit for money damages against a man who has had sexual intercourse with his wife, the Texas Supreme Court ruled Wednesday.

Wives have a similar right to sue their husbands' mistresses or other women with whom they have had relations, the court said.

The court split 5-4 on the issue. The dissenters said such suits could serve no useful purpose and might further endanger an already shaky marriage.

In the majority opinion, the court said Texas had adopted the "tort of criminal conversation" along with the rest of the common law.

The decision sent back to a Longview district court for trial Billy Wayne McMillan's suit against Daniel I. Felsenthal, which the lower court had thrown out.

"The aggrieved spouse is surely injured whether or not the affections of the conversing (adulterous) spouse have been alienated," said the majority opinion by Chief Justice Joe Greenhill.

Greenhill said "the mental anguish and other injuries to the offended spouse may be quite real."

"We have found no court which has abolished the tort or refused to recognize it as part of the common law, and we decline to do so. If the legislature, which is now in session, desires to act in the matter, that, of course, is its prerogative," the opinion said.

Associate Justice Zollie Steakley wrote the dissenting opinion.

He quoted Mrs. McMillan as saying she had had relations on one occasion with Felsenthal, but Felsenthal denied it. Mrs. McMillan stated in a deposition that she still loved her husband and wanted to stay with him, Steakley said.

Steakley said such a suit "has no place in our legal system."

"While the innocent spouse as well as the marriage suffer from an act of infidelity, an award of damages will neither alleviate emotional distress nor strengthen marital ties. After the vent, any effort by the husband to recover damages from the wrongdoer, whether successful or unsuccessful, whether undertaken covertly or in open court, could endanger, and certainly will not serve to sustain or restore the marriage," Steakley said.

China Urges Development Of Seabeds

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — China has called for development of resources beneath the oceans' floors by an international agency and for a ban on nuclear submarines in international waters.

The proposals were made Tuesday in a U.N. working group that is making preparations for an international conference on law of the sea.

Chinese delegate Sha Pu said the proposed international seabed agency should be "empowered to engage in the direct exploitation of resources and not just handle registration, license-issuing and collection of fees or just supervise and coordinate matters relating to seabed resources."

China appears to be the first government to propose international exploitation of seabed resources. The United States has proposed a treaty establishing an International Seabed Resource Authority, but it would license governments and firms to mine the seabed. Some of the payments to the authority would be used to help developing countries.

Dear Abby

She doesn't want raving beauty in wedding party

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am 22 and am planning my wedding. I want sorority sisters and cousins about my age in my wedding party as I have no sisters. My fiancé has one sister, 15, and she is my problem. I hardly know her because she lives in another state, but I have seen her and she is a raving beauty. Please don't think I am a terrible person, but every bride wants to be the star of her own wedding, and if this 15-year-old knockout is in the wedding party, she will make me look like a dog.

I can't begin to describe this girl's beauty. She has a beautiful figure, long blonde hair, and big blue eyes. She does some professional fashion modeling. When she walks down the street, heads turn.

I could use the excuse that she's too young, but she doesn't look young. I want to do the right thing, but I don't want to spoil my own wedding by inviting this kind of competition. Please help me decide.

JEALOUS DOWN SOUTH

DEAR JEALOUS: No matter how beautiful others in the wedding party are, the bride's glow of happiness comes shining thru, giving her a radiance no professional model can match. Remember this, then make a decision you can live with.

DEAR ABBY: Between you and me, the people who write to you are either morons, or they're just plain stupid.

HARRY IN ST. LOUIS

DEAR HARRY: Which are YOU?

DEAR ABBY: My husband of four years has just announced he plans to attend his first wife's funeral. (She is nearing the end of a terminal illness.)

My husband divorced this woman to marry me. So far I have been too stunned to talk about it, but I would like to know what you think of the idea, and what I should do if he expects me to attend?

SECOND TIME AROUND

DEAR SECOND: I think the fact that he plans to attend her funeral is to his credit. Since he divorced her to marry you, he probably will not expect you to attend. But if he does, if you think your presence there will compound the sorrow for her family and friends, stay home.

DEAR ABBY: Our family likes to get together once a year for a reunion.

Since I'm the one with the largest house, I always have it at my place. This year a nephew called and asked if he could bring his wife's parents and also some of her other relatives. They live right in town. I said I was sorry but this is a family reunion and those people are strangers to me. I also considered how out of hand it could get if everybody started including THEIR relatives by marriage.

Well, this nephew said, "Gee, what am I going to do? I already invited them."

I told him he could make me the heavy. To simply tell them that he invited them before clearing it with me, and I said no.

The day of the reunion this nephew and his wife called and canceled out.

Don't you think this nephew was out of line? Or was I wrong?

AUNTIE

DEAR AUNTIE: He was out of line—and you were not wrong.

Swings in the IMP matches aren't always the result of luck. Sometimes the experts make mistakes.

The bidding in the box shows how one team arrived at six diamonds. The bidding was rather elegant although we feel that almost any fairly good pair would be able to bid that contract on some sequence or other. However, at the second table the expert pair just got to five.

The play at six diamonds would also be fairly simple for an average player. It would take some atrocious breaks to beat it and the expert player made quite a production out of his play. He won the heart lead and studied the dummy for several minutes before leading to trick two. Then he cashed a second high heart.

After this start he carefully ruffed a heart with dummy's eight of trumps; cashed the ace and king of clubs to discard two spades; ruffed a club; ruffed his last heart with dummy's king of trumps; led a trump to his ace and conceded a trick to the queen of trumps.

Preparation. The less clothing you wear the better. Painting is always hot, unless you're doing a cold barn. Sneakers, definitely. A hat or bandanna, a Mother Hubbard-type shift, shorts or jeans and a shirt serve splendidly for uncaught drippings and unthinking hand wipe-offs.

Hopefully, before you're standing there with paint on your brush, you've done any hole and crack filling, and sanding thereof. Loose paint should be chipped out or scraped off, then either sanded close to even with the wall or spackled in and sanded.

If you face an old paint blister or a curling crack where the paint has semi-lifted, hit it with the handle of your putty knife. Knock the paint off, back to where it is solid to the surface, then fill and/or sand.

For glossy painted walls that haven't the wear of the ages, it's best to wash them down with a strong mixture of vinegar water. For really greasy or dirty surfaces, a quick wipe-down with a strong mixture of detergent and water is a must.

Painting a Room. I almost always paint the parts first that I hate the most. For some strange reason this coincides with how you're supposed to do it. Imagine! The ceiling, then the walls, doors, windows and baseboards come last.

The Ceiling. Clear and cover an area with a painter's cloth or newspapers so you can work across the width of the room. Unless you have ape arms, figure to cover about four to five feet before you'll have to move the ladder. Don't brush the paint on unless it's a small ceiling. Use extension handles for rollers, but extreme length of the handle adds a curious lack of touch that makes the operation rather unwieldy.

When painting the ceiling, paint down onto the wall about an inch or two, even if you're painting the wall a different color. In fact, more so if there is a color switch. This rounding of the bend down onto the wall means you don't have to do an extra-steady hand act trying to keep the paint off the ceiling.

Unless the ceilings are really hopelessly dirty, you can get away with one coat most of the time. If you find thin or show-through spots, don't be ashamed at all to double-coat those and forget the rest.

If you can, try to stay with it long enough to complete the whole ceiling. But, despite the warnings of experts, with water-soluble paint and your own uncritical eyes, stop if you really poop out. It's better than falling off the ladder. WALLS go much faster. Could be gravity, but something speeds up the action when you're on the vertical. Again, try not to stop in the middle of a wall. However, if you get a sudden dinner invitation, go! With walls you have more natural stopping places, than on ceilings and you can usually make it to an edge or a corner.

All That Other—Doors, Windows, Baseboards. Most home experts devote pages to the exact step-by-step don't-you-dare-do-it-differently way to paint doors and windows. I don't know. I just paint them. Use a roller or pad for any flat, wide parts. For the other squiggly places and narrow spots, use a brush before or after the

Skirt Variety
The skirt is back with great variety and many styles. There are pleats, A-lines, or long, straight skirts that button down the front or in the back.

Foot Exposure
There's lots of foot exposure with narrow-banded sandals with cut-outs all over the place. Look for even higher heels, platform soles and unusual color combinations.

roller. Have patience. Remember to sand, scrape, fill or putty wherever needed before you start painting.

Watch out for drips and runs in the corners if the door has panels. On windows, comparable danger spots are the cross bar moldings and corners.

With double-hung windows, I usually paint the top of the upper sash first, pulling it clear of the main frame. Then pull the top sash down within a couple of inches of the sill and push the bottom one up out of the way. Paint what you couldn't reach before, then push this sash back up, still clear of the frame. Paint the bottom sash and then the frame and the sill.

Floors. One good thing about floors, the paint won't drip on you. But clearing a large area can be difficult. Usually it's better to do only half the floor at a time. There are special, tough, wear-resistant paints for floors. Choose accordingly for cement, linoleum or wood.

Mechanical 'Brains'

A while back one of the worst and seemingly inexplicable air crashes happened when a jumbo Eastern Air Lines jet plowed into the Everglades swamp 18 miles from Miami. The massive Lockheed L1011 "TriStar" was supposed to have been in a holding pattern while its crew figured out what was wrong with the landing gear on the nose. It was supposed to fly at 2,000 feet above the earth, held there reliably by the auto pilot. But the computer "auto" pilot was either inadvertently turned off, or it malfunctioned, according to preliminary findings by investigators. It is known that the crew thought the plane was flying 2,000 feet above the earth minutes after it had dropped to a level only a few feet above the marshy swamp. The soft mud and water of the swamp are credited with saving lives. The plane shredded into thousands of pieces. Of the 176 persons aboard, 100 were killed.

Perhaps if the auto pilot had had a warning system for malfunctions, the crew might have been alerted. If the auto pilot was inadvertently turned off, how could it not have been noticed? Perhaps we rely too much on the reliability of our machines. It appears that at least two human errors were involved in the tragedy. The first was relying totally on a machine with a mechanical "brain." The second was not assigning a human brain to keep check on the auto pilot to see, at least, that it continued to function. Air crashes claim far more lives than air hijackings. Vast sums of money have gone into anti-hijacking measures. Let us hope an equally vast amount has gone into the cockpit, to safeguard air passengers as they fly. If they could speak, we're sure the 100 dead would have it so.

Overdone Consumerism

The razor is but one good example of how free, private, competitive American enterprise can solve safety problems—freely, economically and constructively to everyone's advantage writes Kessler Kahn of Chicago. Not too long ago more men were suffering cuts from straight razors than from any other accident; however, because it was a free country in those days, nobody even thought of demanding that straight razors be banned. Instead, on their own, inventors and businessmen went to work developing, manufacturing and marketing safety razors. Competition brought improvement upon improvement, until consumers had a wide choice of low-priced safety razors that would give a good shave with seldom a nick. But because free, private competitive enterprise is never satisfied, it went on to develop the electric razors that shave but don't cut; and it was competition and not government requirements that brought us approved, electric razors. That's why Americans are still free when it comes to razors—able to buy any kind they want or need, including straight razors, safety razors, or fully safe electric razors. Under the Commissars of Consumerism and Safety, this never could have been. Just think of the monstrosities they would have come up with, the high prices we'd have had to pay to get a shave after they'd banned straight razors and imposed their requirements. Overdone safety can be dangerous; overdone consumerism will hurt consumers; consumers can't be served better than by free, private, competitive economies.

Trimming The Yankee

One of editorial associates was chuckling over a comment from Pat Buttram, the actor. "You know what foreign aid is?" Pat asked. "That's when you send money to a country to buy paint and lumber and then they take the paint and lumber and put up signs that read 'Yankee, go home!'" "That should be put to rhyme," we said. Immediately our associate's typewriter began to clack. Following is the result:

FOREIGN AID SIMPLY EXPLAINED
Money U.S. sends away
To countries that use it to pay
For lumber, paint, tin trim or chrome
For signs that say, "Yankee, go home!"
You don't have to be good at fractions to count your blessings.

Honor Also Goes Along With Profit

By MARILYN MANION

Four-letter words aren't dirty anymore. What's dirty are words that used to cannot good things: Today, "motherhood" aggravates the population explosion and threatens the whooping crane with extinction; "apple pie" induces obesity and heart attacks. "Profit" was never up there with motherhood and apple pie, but it's held in lower esteem today than ever before. Why is that so? What is profit, and is it good, bad or indifferent? Mr. Lawrence T. Harbeck has answers to these questions. A professional business consultant and analyst, Harbeck spoke over a Manion Forum Radio broadcast and discussed ideas like these: "Profit is the backbone of our success. You can't expand an enterprise, you can't grow and provide more jobs — and more welfare, for that matter — unless we have profits. "Yet I find intelligent and fairly well-educated businessmen who are confused about the word. I think there has been a campaign of confusion in the academic world, and in much of the media, against profit. I believe much of it reflects a poor foundation in education. "It's amusing, in an academic way, I suppose, to compare economic textbooks because all of their authors do agree that our free enterprise system falls far short of whatever perfection, whatever utopia, they have in mind. They also go on to say that it has more profits than any other system. Then they turn around and define profit as being something evil. Let me take that back; they don't say it's evil, but they cast aspersions on the concept of profit. "Our system is profitable because — we recognize human beings for what they are. The strength of our free enterprise system is that it encourages people to try to improve themselves, and allows them to benefit from it at the same time. "A man will certainly work hard for himself. He will work hard for his family. A man will pay a reasonable share of taxes to help poor people. But there's a limit to how far you can push a man on this. "In this country, by not pushing too far — at least in the past — by enabling the individual to enjoy his own profits, the miracle has occurred. His total success is so great that the small percentages he is willing to give up is greater per person than what can be taken by force from folks in other countries, who don't have the freedom to benefit from their own productivity. "Take the guy in the shop or plant, he's getting wages. At the end of the day he can go home. He has earned enough money to eat lunch, buy breakfast and dinner, and he's paying the rent or the mortgage. He made a profit which enabled him not to work most of the day. He made a lot more than he needs just to stay alive. The excess he spends on automobiles, housing, clothing, and so on. And, one reason he is so successful, compared to other workers throughout the world, is that if he lives in the United States, he is working for a successful company. "That company — maybe it's huge like GM, maybe it's a small auto repair shop — but if it makes a profit, it can buy the equipment, it can build a new building when it is needed, it can get in the new tools that this man needs for his job. "Yes, the worker can make a profit, and he does make a profit."

Good Government? Well, It All Depends On You

Politicians not allowed!" proclaims a sign on the outskirts of the small Turkish town of Tashkale. The 1,300 villagers have reason for their frustration. During each election campaign, candidates solemnly pledge to solve local water and pasture problems and promise to build new roads. But after every election, the winners are never seen or heard from again. In retaliation, villagers have posted the sign declaring Tashkale off limits. Citizens in many a town and city in the U.S. must occasionally have a similar urge. But such a proclamation would do nothing to establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessing of liberty to ourselves and our posterity. (U.S. Constitution, Preamble)

UPHOLD THE PUBLIC GOOD

More than 20 centuries ago, the youth of Athens took this oath: "We will never bring disgrace to this our city by any act of dishonesty or cowardice. We will fight for our ideals and the sacred things of the city both alone and with many. "We will reverence and obey the city's laws and do our best to incite a like respect and reverence in those about us. We will strive unceasingly to quicken the public's sense of civic duty. In all these ways we will strive to transmit this city to others not less but greater, better and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us." On September 17, 1787, the final draft of the Constitution was agreed upon at Independence Hall, Philadelphia. A little later, a woman asked Benjamin Franklin: "What have we got, Doctor Franklin?" "Madame," he replied, "we have a republic, if we can keep it!" We can "keep it" and strengthen it, with God's help, we make government our business. It's up to you!

CALL FOR THE MISSING MILLIONS

A marine traveled 1,800 miles from California to Iowa to vote in the last Presidential election — only to find he was not eligible. Arriving in Des Moines, he learned to his dismay that his absentee ballot had mistakenly been sent overseas, where he had previously been serving. "It makes me mad," the disappointed man said. "I've been pretty critical of the government in the past, and I feel that if I don't vote, I have no right to criticize." An examination of the 1968 election by the Gallup Poll reveals that, out of 44 million eligible Americans who did not vote, 15 million were registered but were disinterested or did not like the candidates; 10 million could have registered but did not; 7 million were sick or disabled; 5 million were prevented from voting by residence requirements; 3 million were away from home; and 1 million did not obtain absentee ballots. Many non-voters were prevented from exercising this right through no fault of their own. Some could not vote. Overly strict residence requirements, complicated procedures for absentee ballots and non-cooperation of some registration officials —

'LOOK, DEAR! IT'S BEAUTIFUL! SPRING IS BUSTIN' OUT ALL OVER!'

Your Health

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Rheumatic Fever Can Reappear

Dear Dr. Lamb—I am 21 years old, single and female. When I was 11 I had a disease the doctor called rheumatic fever. I would like to know, is it possible that this may be coming back because I'm experiencing shortness of breath and pain? At night I just about sleep sitting up instead of lying down. Also, when I walk even a short distance I get short of breath and have some pain. This also happens when I get upset, nervous, excited, and scared. It's getting on my nerves because I like to walk and ride my bicycle. I started noticing this problem a week ago while riding a bike to town and back. Is it possible for rheumatic fever to come back after 10 years and is this serious enough for me to see a doctor? It is not in my head and I'm so tired of this I could scream. Also, I'm scared to death. Dear Reader — Yes, it's possible for rheumatic fever to recur. This is why the American Heart Assn. has long recommended that individuals who have had known episodes of rheumatic fever should be on prophylactic penicillin medicine at least until after they are mature adults. It's also possible that if you did have rheumatic fever as a child that the old rheumatic process has gradually caused changes inside the heart valve that is characterized by shortness of breath. Basically what can happen is one of the valves (mitral valve) gradually becomes scarred and finally gets so small that it's difficult for blood to pass normally through the heart. This can lead to shortness of breath. There is only one way that this condition can be properly diagnosed, however, and that is by careful medical examination. Incidentally, if that is the problem, modern surgical procedures can correct it. Sometimes there is a difference in opinion as to how soon surgery is required and of course you're a long way from that kind of discussion until it's actually determined what's causing your problem. There are a number of other things that can cause shortness of breath besides heart disease. But, particularly in view of your past history, your story is significant enough that it's important for you to see a doctor for good evaluation. Dear Dr. Lamb — What's the difference between cholesterol and fat? Does sugar hold fat in the blood like salt holds water? Is it necessary to cut out sugar along with animal fat to get rid of fat in the blood or arteries? Dear Reader — Elevated cholesterol in the blood is usually an indication of an increased number of fat particles. The cholesterol is tied to the fat particles. The fatty particle, including cholesterol, then deposits in arteries to cause atherosclerosis.

Inside Washington

Subpena Threat Recalls Truman 1948 Precedent By ROBERT S. ALLEN

Recomputation hearings linked to Stennis recovery WASHINGTON—Two leading Republican members of the Senate Armed Services Committee unequivocally predict that hearings will be held on legislation to recompute military retired pay. Sens. John Tower, Tex., and Barry Goldwater, Ariz., firmly expressed such assurance in answer to the following question by the correspondent: "In view of Sen. Stennis's long absence due to being shot in a holdup, do you think hearings will be held on recomputation as he promised last year?" Their replies were: Tower: "Absolutely. I haven't any doubt about it. Sen. Stennis is a man of his word, and when he said he would hold hearings, he meant just that. Happily, he is on the road to recovery, and when he gets back on the job, in the near future we fervently hope, I have every confidence he will set a date for the promised hearings." Goldwater was equally positive: "Yes, I am sure there will be hearings. Chairman Stennis said there would be, and if he hadn't been laid low by those murderous thugs, it's very possible the hearings would be going on now. I haven't the slightest doubt Stennis will order hearings as soon as he gets back." There is no positive information when it is likely to be. One knowledgeable source indicated Stennis will be released from the Army's Walter Reed Hospital "in a few weeks" to complete recuperation at home. The same source voiced the opinion that once Stennis is out of the hospital, he would resume direction of the committee's affairs. "This activity will be necessarily limited at first," said this authority. "But the chairman is anxious to get into the swing of things again. He's champing at the bit to do that, and only the doctors' stern restraints are holding him back. He is well aware he promised recomputation hearings and has every intention of making good on that. "My hunch is he will appoint a subcommittee to conduct these hearings. That would be the logical procedure." Stennis' Commitment Certain to be in the forefront of the anticipated recomputation hearings is the "compromise" bill sponsored by Sen. Tower and four other Senators—Robert Dole, Kans., former Republican National Committee member, Henry Bellmon, R.-Okla., Wallace Bennett, R.-Utah, and Sam Nunn, D.-Ga. The measure, which falls well within the $360 million item earmarked for recomputation in President Nixon's budget, in effect sets up two recomputation categories: (1) Immediate recomputation for retirees before 1958; (2) recomputation for retirees after that date when they reach the age of 60. Sen. Stennis made his promise to hold hearings in this Congress last October, when a House-Senate conference committee discarded a recomputation amendment, sponsored by Sen. Vance Hartke, D.-Ind., chairman of the Veterans Committee, that the Senate approved by the overwhelming vote of 82 to 4.

Economic Q And A

This column of questions on the President's Economic Stabilization Program is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service.

Q. Are restaurants subject to mandatory price controls?

A. Yes. Food service operations, such as restaurants, delicatessens, caterers and vending machines are subject to mandatory controls if they derive 20 per cent or more of $50 million or more of their annual sales or revenues from the sale of food. However, these firms are not subject to the renotification rules.

Q. What about food sales by companies which derive less than 20 per cent and less than $50 million in sales and revenues from food sales—are they exempt?

A. No. They are covered by the same voluntary, self-administered standards applicable to most of the rest of the economy.

Q. Are repurification, voluntary compliance and compromise settlements agreed to before Jan. 11, 1973, still in effect?

A. Yes. Prices subject to a Price Commission decision and order must conform to the decision and order.

Q. Are rollback orders which were to become effective after Jan. 10, 1973, or which were to continue in effect after that date still effective?

A. Yes. Prices subject to a Price Commission decision and order must conform to the decision and order.

Q. How is construction treated in Phase III and what rules apply to it?

A. Construction is treated in basically the same way in Phase III as in Phase II. On the wage side, the Construction Industry Stabilization Committee will continue to review collective bargaining agreements in the construction industry. Non-union wage settlements will be reviewed by the Pay Division of the Cost of Living Council.

On the price side, final payments under any construction contract on which any part of the work is performed by workers whose wages are subject to review shall be renegotiated to fairly reflect the amount of any reduction in scheduled wage and salary increments ordered under the program.

Manufacturers of construction materials, for example lumber producers or cement producers, are not considered part of the construction industry. They are in the sector subject to voluntary self-administered wage and price standards. They may be subject to the reporting and record-keeping requirements of Phase III, depending upon the size of their annual sales or revenues.

Q. Are the wages of employees in the food transportation sector covered by the special rules applicable to the food industry?

A. Yes. If they are employed by a manufacturer, service organization, wholesaler or retailer which is covered by the mandatory price controls and if they are in either one of the following two situations:

First, if they are part of an employe unit in which 50 per cent of the employes, or more, are engaged in food operations, or second, if they are engaged in food operations and they are members of an employe unit in which 50 or more employes are engaged in food operations.

Raise Helps Couple Maintain Living Standards

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A recent $2,000 raise has enabled the Marvin Menzels to maintain last year's standard of living.

"That should tell you something right there," said Menzel, about his raise and promotion to a product manager at Honeywell Inc., the electronics and computer firm.

"Very few people have that good fortune and if it takes that drastic an increase to maintain your standard of living then I think the situation is pretty serious." His increase comes to about 13 per cent.

Menzel, his wife Dawn and two children live modestly if not frugally on his new gross income of $17,000. While the Menzels haven't had to make any major cutbacks, except for buying less expensive cuts of meat, neither can remember ever being so conscious of money and prices.

Menzel is planning to replace his 1969 Ford — she has a 1971 Pinto — but not before he does some serious comparison shopping.

"I can't remember when I've been so deliberate about buying a car," said Menzel, 29. "It will probably be a trauma."

Last summer they planted a small vegetable garden for the children to play with. This year they plan to raise vegetables.

Recently they tallied their canceled checks for food from Jan. 1 through March 15 of last year and came up with $299. This year the figure was $380.38.

"But we aren't exactly eating like we were eating last year," said Mrs. Menzel, 25. "You watch more closely. You go from hamburger to the roast. You try to figure out where is the most waste by shrinkage or by bone."

Sirloin steak is now a company-only treat and a weekly menu more than likely will include spaghetti, hash, pork and chile. Sometimes she shops several times in one week because, she said, she can't face spending a large sum of money all at once.

A year ago she shopped at only one grocery store. Now it's two and recently, when she wanted to fill her freezer, she went to three.

For that shopping trip Mrs. Menzel scrutinized four full-page newspaper ads, clipped coupons and made three shopping lists. Before it was all over the excursion took two hours and cost $50.17 for 10 bags of groceries.

Bananas were 10 cents a pound where she bought them; 12 cents elsewhere. The beef steak she bought was 99 cents a pound; $1.59 at another store. She got turkey for 49 cents a pound instead of 59 cents and 79 cents at two other markets.

The Menzels do not keep a formal budget but their joint checking account, which they balance carefully, serves that purpose.

She writes a check for everything, even 72 cents to the newsboy.

Both cars are paid for. In fact, she paid cash for the Pinto and insisted that the car dealer remove the white sidewall tires and radio in order to bring down the cost. Menzel makes all the car repairs.

Their decisions to buy are made carefully. They almost always pay cash and always buy sale items. When they bought their Mediterranean bedroom and living room furniture on sale, they persuaded the store to give them a cut on a color television and stereo console, too.

Their only installment payment is on the 25-year, 7 1/4 per cent mortgage on their $32,000, three-bedroom home on the outskirts of Edina, a prosperous suburb of Minneapolis. Though they could have gotten more house for less money in another suburb, they chose this one in what she calls the "poor man's end of Edina" so the children could go to the area's good schools.

The Menzels have a simple lifestyle, centered around the Lutheran church and their family. They do not drink or smoke.

She has no ambition to have a large house, a swimming pool or membership in the country club, not far from their home. Her most expensive dress cost $40, a purchase she feels guilty about but she rationalizes that she has worn it frequently.

He needs a new suit, a $150 expenditure, and possibly he would like a pool table for their basement recreation room. He will buy the suit. The pool table he can do without.

They do most of the repairs on their home. They remodeled the kitchen for about $1,000, which included the purchase price of a garbage disposal and dishwasher. They had the linoleum floor laid professionally, though they took up the old carpet and did the sanding themselves.

Kristine, 5, attends a morning nursery school which costs $21 a month but so far most of the children's expenses are small. Swimming lessons for Scott, 7, at a municipal pool are only $3 for a course.

However, Mrs. Menzel feels the prices of children's clothes are outrageous. Kristine recently spotted a rain jacket in a store for $23. They didn't buy it.

One thing she refuses to compromise on is shoes. Scott's cost $17. Kristine's, $15.

Garage sales are big business on the street of pastel-colored ranch-style homes and Mrs. Menzel often buys clothes for the children from neighbors. A winter coat for Scott cost $4. She also got an eight-year-old sewing machine for $50 and she makes some of the children's clothes on it.

She tries to convey good spending habits to the children. When Kristine wants to pick out four packages of candy for her birthday party, she makes her choose only three. She resists the temptation to let the children add items to the grocery cart.

Even Scott recently exclaimed about the increase in prices when the tooth fairy left him 25 cents for a molar, instead of the usual 15 cents.

"I guess the tooth fairy is doing all right," said Mrs. Menzel.

For entertainment, the Menzels go to a movie about once every two months at $2.75 per ticket. This year they have gone to several hockey games on a friend's season tickets. At Christmas they saw the play, "I Do, I Do," at a dinner theater for $8 each. She goes to a ceramics class on Tuesdays which costs $1.50; and to Bible class on Wednesday which costs nothing. Baby sitters are $1 an hour when a neighbor is not available.

Menzel saves through a stock option plan which allows him to buy up to 12 per cent of his salary in Honeywell stock at a reduction. When the stock goes up in price, he sells it and uses that money for major cash expenditures, such as insurance premiums. Each month he also automatically buys a $25 savings bond for the children's education.

By the end of the year, they may have $1,000 left in savings, not counting the savings bonds.

On last year's vacation they went to visit her parents in Louisville, Ky. This year when Menzel has a business trip to California he plans to take the family to Disneyland.

A deeply religious couple, the Menzels give close to 10 per cent of their income to the church or the various causes that come to their attention. Two weeks ago, a man in church took up a collection for the Indians at Wounded Knee. S.D. Menzel gave $8, every penny in his pocket.

All things considered the Menzels think the cost of living increase may have come along at a time to make them think twice about their spending habits.

"It's probably been a good side effect on the cost of living increase — an increased awareness of how you are spending your money," Menzel said. "We are fortunate in not having to make any major adjustments, to some one as fortunate as we are it could be a blessing. For someone who is on a not-too-much lower income level than we are, I see nothing but disadvantages..."

GOING TOO FAR WITH GOODWILL

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Goodwill Industries Inc. of Indianapolis complains its collection boxes have become depositories for people's unwanted junk.

A Goodwill spokesman said about $75,000 per year is being spent in disposing of donated junk.

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — (NEA)—Rhonda Fleming is back in the acting wars and there's not a dodder to be seen.

Gorgeous Rhonda has been away about eight years. She says that producers today, when they hear her name, figure she must be an old lady.

"They expect me to dodder," she says.

Those in the Broadway orbit soon can judge for themselves whether she is doddering. Rhonda is slated to make her New York stage debut with some of her contemporaries in the classic "The Women." This revival of Clare Boothe Luce's satiric look at the female state is scheduled to open in late April, also starring Kim Hunter, Dorothy Loudon, Myrna Loy and Alexis Smith. Back in the '30s, the bitter, brittle comedy was a sensation and immediately earned the author a place in American letters with its bitchy, open look at women's relationships to each other and to men—although no men are in the cast. The 1939 movie version starring Norma Shearer, Joan Crawford and Rosalind Russell, holds up well on TV.

In a way the interplay of well-heeled, well-married women touched by divorce or the threat of divorce in "The Women" is very close to Rhonda at this point in her life.

Far from being ancient at 51, Rhonda looks great. Raquel Welch and Ann-Margret should look so good. She says the explanation is that she started very young. Even though she's been a household name for many years she isn't really very old.

Eight years ago she married producer Hall Bartlett, able to have a career, too. In her case, apparently, she didn't even come in second—

VISITOR TRAFFIC UP TO NOVA SCOTIA
HALIFAX (AP) — More than 1.4 million tourists visited Nova Scotia during the 1972 season, an increase of 8.1 per cent over the volume of traffic in 1971.

U.S. visitors made up the bulk of those who brought non-resident vehicles into Nova Scotia. U.S. traffic increased 8.9 per cent.

Recycling is a must since the U.S. produces 360 million tons of waste annually in urban areas.

Does an Actress Ever Quit?

Rhonda Fleming

The woman behind the man.

she and her career were also-rans.

The marriage broke up and possibly that career business had something to do with it. It must have rankled, with a girl who had been as active who is now making "Jonathan Livingston Seagull." Bartlett didn't want her to work at all.

"I became the woman behind the man," Rhonda says. She says she doesn't object to a husband's career coming first in a marriage but thinks the wife should be and who has the talent that Rhonda has.

Apparently, the breakup was somewhat on the traumatic side. Rhonda says it took her six months "to get it all together" and she realized that she had not been a full woman during the time she was Mrs. Hall Bartlett.

So she has poured herself into reviving her career. It hasn't been easy. To begin with, she had to lose 22 pounds.

"It was like starting all over again," she says. Hollywood is like that. No matter how high up the ladder someone is, let him (or her) be away for a few years and he (or she) is forgotten. Out of sight, out of contract.

"Besides," she says, "I had that other thing to battle—the age thing. Most of the producers knew my name but figured I must be pretty old by now. I had to show them I wasn't."

She began with an appearance with Merv Griffin and followed that with a short on NBC's Search, in which she played a top Washington hostess. On both of these, the evidence was clear—she is still a beautiful creature.

"It was great getting back on a studio sound stage," she says. "The crews remembered me and even the cop at the studio gate remembered me."

Now it's full career ahead. She feels her Broadway appearance would make a splash and splashes are always a good way to show the world you're back.

She's also taking singing lessons, to get her voice back in shape—and, all in all, she's going to give it the old college try.

It's good to have her back with us—and there's not a dodder to be seen.
