Congress OKs record spending

By ALAN FRAM Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress today sent a deficit-reduction package to President Reagan for his expected signature, a pair of spending and tax measures forged after Wall Street's Black Monday by lawmakers and a president who fought over its contents to the end.

Shortly before 1 a.m. EST, the Senate voted 61-28 to approve a $17.6 billion parcel of taxes, benefit reductions and other savings. The House had passed the measure late Monday, 237-181.

At about 2:30 a.m., the House approved, 209-208 a record-setting $600 billion spending bill that would keep federal agencies functioning for fiscal 1988 and contained $7.6 billion in reductions from expected levels of growth

At about 3:30 a.m., the Senate passed the spend ing measure, 59-30, and sent it to the White House.

'I'm convinced that time will tell us this is a major victory for the American people and the nation's economy," Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, told his colleagues

But others were less certain that the bills showed investors that the government could get its finan cial house in order

Opponents' criticisms ranged from opposition to the $23 billion in new taxes, including $9 billion this year, to accusations that the deficit reduction did not go far enough.

Combined, the two bills would slash more than $32 billion from the projected deficit in fiscal 1988 which began Oct. 1. That would more than satisfy the budget accord reached Nov. 20 between Reagan and congressional leaders, which called for a $76 billion reduction over two years, including $30.2 billion this year.

As the legislators debated into the early morning today, a temporary measure providing money for agencies to operate expired at 12:01 a.m., leaving the government technically out of business.

Government officials said federal employees should report to work as usual. Lawmakers said they might pass another short-term spending bill to keep the government operating while Reagan studies the legislation.

Congress' late night of business was fueled by another factor: knowledge that once both measures were enacted, lawmakers would be leaving for a Christmas recess that would keep them at home until late January. Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., came to work Monday wearing a bright red vest and a blue tie with large red and white stars, which he referred to as his 'adjournment'' outfit.

A final potential stumbling block was cleared away Monday evening when House lawmakers agreed to remove a provision from the spending bill that would have enacted the fairness doctrine for broadcasters into law. Reagan had threatened to veto the entire measure if it included the doctrine, which required radio and television stations to air all sides of contentious issues until the government stopped enforcing the regulation this

Another fight ended Sunday when congressional and White House negotiators agreed to an $8.1 million package of non-weapons aid to the Contra rebels of Nicaragua. The president had promised to See BILL, Page 2

3 white teens convicted in death of black man in racial encounter

white teen-agers who chased a black man to his death on a highway in Howard Beach, opening racial wounds that still afflict America's largest city, were convicted of manslaughter a year and one day later The three youths also were convicted Monday of assaulting another of the three black men who wandered into the mostly white Queens neighborhood after their car broke down and who were attacked in the early hours of Dec. 20, 1986

In a raucous, emotional courtroom session in which three people were arrested, the three teens were acquitted of various other charges, including murder, attempted murder and riot. A fourth youth was acquitted of all

'There are no words really to express the thanks I feel in my heart," said Cedric Sandiford, who was beaten with tree limbs and a baseball bat in the attack.

"In my heart, I am pleased, added Jean Griffith, Sandiford's fiancee and the mother of Michael Griffith, 23, the man who died in the attack.

As the jury announced 18-yearold Michael Pirone's innocent verdict, the last to be read, several people jumped up shouting, Murderers! Murderers! Three were carried out by court officers

The verdict followed an eightweek trial and 12 days of deliberations by the racially mixed

Several black activists who attended the state Supreme Court proceedings in Queens were absent for the verdict because they had been arrested earlier in the day at demonstrations that briefly shut down the Brooklyn Bridge and several subway lines.

Defense attorney Ronald Rubinstein blamed the political climate surrounding the case for the convictions

"The only prejudice here was against young white boys," Rubinstein said. "These young men are scapegoats of a society that has done nothing for minor-

Two of the youths, Scott Kern, 18, and Jason Ladone, 17, were released on bail of $150,000 and $50,000, respectively. The third, Jon Lester, 18, was remanded to the Riker's Island jail, where he is serving a one- to three-year term on an unrelated felony weapons charge

All three face maximum sentences of five to 15 years each for manslaughter and assault. Lester and Kern also were convicted of conspiracy, a charge carrying a maximum one-year sentence.

Justice Thomas Demakos scheduled sentencing for Jan. 25 for Ladone and Kern, who are eligible for a lighter sentence as youthful offenders. Lester, in-See TEENS, Page 2

Jackson denies Hart's in front

By MIKE GLOVER Associated Press Writer

NEWTON, Iowa (AP) — Jesse Jackson says the news media is using "perverse logic" in calling Gary Hart the Democratic presidential front runner, a status Jackson says he has been denied for months in the face of similar polling evidence.

Jackson raised the issue of racial bias in the coverage of his campaign with a reporter on Monday when he said "editorial injections and slanting" have "contributed to the cultural lag" that a black candidate for president must overcome 'It's the race question,'' Jackson told The Associ-

People have been wrestling with that question. not in a hostile sense — we've endured no hostility but in the sense of anxiety that grows out of the many years of division in our country ... with code words like 'electability

'The media has been a factor in sustaining that, by saying 'the people came, the people responded, but he can't win,' " Jackson said

The media has not said that of any other candidate, no matter how poor they have done or how long

Opinion polls taken since Hart rejoined the race last week have shown him atop the Democratic field. But prior to Hart's reentry, polls taken among registered Democrats nationally showed Jackson leading all formally declared candidates

Despite polls throughout the summer and fall that showed him in first place, Jackson said, he has been dismissed as not electable. It's interesting how many media people who, for the last seven months, wouldn't say I was No. 1, now say I'm No. 2," Jackson said.

"Their logic, interestingly enough, is they are saying Hart, at this point, is No. 1, not because people know what his ideas are, but they are saying because of his name recognition. "If my No. 1, based on name recognition, was illegitimate, why is his number one, based on name recognition, legitimate?" Jackson said.

"The media has itself become twisted in rather perverse logic trying to explain the phenomenon of this campaign," Jackson said.

During the interview, Jackson talked at length about the "culture shock" facing voters considering the possibility of supporting a black man's presiden-

People who plan to claim dependents their 1987 federal income tax return must show a Social Security number for each dependent older than 5, Larry Mayo branch manager of the Pampa Social Security office,

Anyone 18 years old and above must apply in person, Mayo said. A parent applying on behalf of a child must provide evidence of his or her identity

For a person born in the United States, a birth certificate can provide evidence of both birth and medical, day care or similar documents also can be used to establish identity

Only original documents or copies certified by the issuing agency can be used, Mayo said. He added that photocopies and notarized copies aren't accept-reject the bill without the assistance, but liberal Democrats were bitterly opposed to the money.

The spending bill is an amalgam of the 13 appropriations bills Congress is supposed to pass annually before each fiscal year, a habit lawmakers have abandoned.

It would allow the resumption of aid to Pakistan, despite its reluctance to allow visits to its nuclear weapons development facilities, and the sale of about 70 Stinger anti-aircraft missiles to the Persian Gulf nation of Bahrain.

It also bans smoking on airline flights of two hours or less, provides $425 million for work on a space station, postpones penalties against about 60 communities for violating federal air pollution standards, funnels $905 million into the fight against AIDS and bars members of Congress from receiving their third pay raise of the year

The measure also raises $7.5 billion by allowing foreign countries to privately refinance their loans for purchasing U.S. military equipment, and rural telephone and electric cooperatives to refinance their federal loans Most taxes in the companion legislation were levied on corporations and wealthy individuals. An extension of the 3 percent tax on telephone calls, however, would be felt by average consumers.

The tax bill also reduced spending by $2 billion on the Medicare health care program for the elderly and disabled and cut $1 billion from agriculture

Even with the savings from both bills, this year's deficit is expected to be greater than the $148 billion in red ink the government registered in fiscal That was because the government took in one-time revenues last year as a result of the tax revision law and because forecasters expect the economy to worsen.

With enactment of the two bills, the $23 billion in spending slashes automatically instituted under the Gramm-Rudman law would be rescinded. CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

McAnelly runs for county post

Rex H. McAnelly, a resident of Gray County for 30 years, has announced his candidacy for the position of Precinct 1 Gray County commissioner.

McAnelly, who has paid his filing fee, will run in the March 8 Democrat primary in an effort to seek to replace the seat currently held by O.L. Presley. Presley has already said he does not plan to seek another term.

A graduate of Texas A&M University, McAnelly has almost 40 years of agribusiness experience. He worked for 5 years as a farm manager for the Saudi Arabia government and for 3 years for a commercial farming operation in the Rio Grande Valley. Both jobs entailed extensive land clearing, leveling and installing irrigation systems.

McAnelly has been manager of Moody Farms east of Pampa since 1957 and has farming interests in Gray and Wheeler McAnelly He has previously served on the

Texas savings and loans continue to have losses

DALLAS (AP) — Texas thrifts lost $1.6 billion in 1987's third quarter, bringing the combined net losses for the first nine months to $4.4 billion, federal

That compares to a $3.2 billion loss for all of 1986, Federal Home Loan Bank of Dallas president George M. Barclay said Monday

Those figures were included in a third-quarter report on the FHLB's 9th District released Monday that showed a $1.8 billion aggregate net loss by thrifts in Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi, Louisiana and New Mexico. That was down slightly from the $1.9 billion loss during the second quarter.

Thrift financial performance in those 9th District states continued to be affected by weakness in the Southwest's energy, trade and real estate sectors, Barclay said.

At the end of October, the combined net worth of the 281 Texas savings and loans was negative $5.1 billion, which compares with negative $4.6 billion at the end of September, negative $2.9 billion at mid-year and $1 billion for the third quarter of 1986.

Arkansas was the only other state in the district whose institutions had a combined negative net worth - minus $209 million — at the end of October.

Net operating losses increased to $916 million during the quarter from $657 million during the second quarter. Nonoperating losses, which include writedowns from bad loans, decreased to $862 million from $1.3 billion during the second quarter.

"I think the majority of the big hits have been taken," said Mike Edgar, chief economist for the FHLB-Dallas, referring to writedowns

Another positive indicator was that net new deposits at Texas S&Ls increased by $472 million during October. That followed net outflows of deposits in both August and September.

District regulatory capital fell $2 billion during the third quarter to a negative $3.7 billion, or minus 2.71 percent of

AUSTIN (AP) - Attorney General Jim Mattox has given prosecutors information he said could show that crimes were committed in the Southern Methodist University football scandal

Mattox also said Monday he was pleased that SMU trustees decided last week to raise money to cover the school's pay-for-play debt. Mattox added that would have preferred to sue the school's former board members for the

The National Collegiate Athletic Association suspended SMU's football program for a year for improper payments to players. The school then canceled its 1988 season as well.

Mattox and his staff have been investigating the SMU situation for several months, including whether there have been any violations of state law concerning expenditures by trusts.

We found information that would lead us to believe that there was possible criminal activity that took place within this overall university setting,' Mattox said at a news confer-

On Friday, the SMU board approved a resolution calling for $1.7 million in donations, from board members and other SMU supporters, to cover expenses associated with the scandal. About $1.1 million will pay for legal fees, investigative costs and other expenses.

Mattox called the board action ' a step in the right direction in an effort to try to see to it that the SMU foundation ... is not hurt any more than it has been.

"We believe it was necessary that the moneys that were lost to the foundation as a result of the inappropriate actions on the part of the (former) board needed to be replaced. We felt they could either be replaced by taking action directly against the former board or in some other manner They chose to carry that out by raising the money rather than taking action against the former board members," Mattox said.

Colonia annexed by Pharr

PHARR (AP) — The lower Rio Grande Valley's best known "colonia" is part of a city now, but an advocate for the area's impoverished residents said it's not good news.

Pharr's City Commission on Saturday annexed a 634-acre section of the area known as Las Milpas. The colonia has gained national attention for the lack of basic services, such as sewer systems, running water and paved streets. 'We never wanted to be annexed,'' said Carmen Anaya, a Las Milpas resident who has worked through the Valley Interfaith organization to bring colonia conditions to the attention of elected offi-

Colonias are usually rural, substandard subdivisions. More than 100,000 people are believed to live in colonias in the Valley, with varying degrees of services. Many in Las Milpas are migrant farmworkers.

"My greatest concern is that the people here won't be able to pay their taxes and they'll lose their lots and houses," said Mrs. Anaya, who added that being part of a city will not solve the problem of unemployment. "There are areas inside the city that are just as poor as this," she said Monday while traveling along a rutted, unpayed Las Milpas street where the homes have outdoor toilets "We call them 'casitas'" she said of the out-

Last December, the city annexed a 460-acre section of Las Milpas. Saturday's annexation brings collection of 21 colonia communities.

Pharr's city manager says the area stands to gain from being a part of the city.

'In my mind, the city has taken on a big responsibility in annexing them," said City Manager Be-

The weekend's annexation added 8,000 residents to the Hidalgo County city in far South Texas, bringing its population up to about 35,000, Lopez

He said the city will start planning ways to finance capital improvements, including streets, drainage and sewer lines.

The area probably will bring to the city about $250,000 annually in franchise and property taxes, making it possible to hire more police and other officials, he said.

Las Milpas, while bleak in many places, is actually better off than some of the Valley's other colonias. A few streets are paved, many of the approximately 1,300 houses have water and about one-fourth have sewer service.

Last summer, the Texas Water Development Board approved $3.98 million in loans to Pharr to be used for water and sewer projects in Las Milpas and another colonia section known as Lopezville. Mrs. Anaya said Valley Interfaith, a coalition of 34 churches in the Valley, was instrumental in obtaining the loans and attention from state and federal officials.

She said residents plan to work with the city, but "we don't have any choice."

Santa hands out candy and residency cards

HARLINGEN (AP) — A bilingual Santa Claus made a stop at the Immigration and Naturalization Service's legalization center and handed out candy and a few residency cards.

"I don't know if it will help business, but it sure is helping the morale of the people here who are waiting," Charlie Perez, the center's chief legalization officer, said Monday. He said Santa also would be there today.

"Hi," 6-year-old Nancy Campos said for about the fourth time to Santa, who some people said reminded them of INS amnesty adjudicator Bobby Martinez. The girl was with her parents having their legalization papers processed

'This is one of my repeat customers," the man in the Santa

The legalization center for the lower Rio Grande Valley opened in May as part of the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986. Under the law's amnesty provisions, people who can prove they lived in the United States illegally for five years are eligible for legal residency, and eventually citizenship.

Agricultural workers must prove they were here as farm employees for 90 days during the one-year period ending May 1,

"What do you want for Christmas?" Santa asked Nancy in En-

"No se (I don't know). Barbie," she replied.

The feds said they had checked into old St. Nick's background. Pinned to his red suit was an official, laminated INS "Employment Authorization" photo card, listing his name as "Claus, Santa" and country of birth as "No. Pole.

Santa Claus, his Christmas tree and a tape of holiday music are part of an effort to make aliens feel at ease at the center, said INS spokeswoman Virginia Kice.

Some immigration attorneys and immigrant rights groups have criticized the agency and accused it of putting up unnecessary barriers to amnesty applicants. Traditional mistrust of the agency that seeks out illegals for deportation also is believed to keep some potential amnesty applicants away.

The INS origially estimated that 40,000 aliens in the lower Rio Grande Valley would apply for amnesty during the one-year period for non-agricultural workers, but has revised that estimate down to 27,000.

More than 16,000 have applied at the Harlingen center since it opened May 5.

General Dynamics expected to win aircraft contract

DALLAS (AP) - A longawaited contract for a nextgeneration combat aircraft is expected to be awarded by the U.S. Navy to a defense industry team headed by General Dynamics, Pentagon and industry officials

'The decision's been made,'' a well-placed Navy official told the Dallas Morning News Monday.

Speaking on condition of anony mity, the official said the contract, with a potential worth of between $25 billion and $100 billion, will be awarded to a team of General Dynamics and McDonnell Douglas Corp, both headquartered in St. Louis.

The two firms were competing for the contract against a team of LTV Corp. of Dallas, Northrop Corp. of Los Angeles and Grumman Corpo. of Bethpage, N.Y.

The firms that build the plane will likely produce as many as 450 planes, enough to put 30 on each of 15 aircraft carriers. The prototype is expected to be flying in the early 1990s.

If the contract is awarded to the General Dynamics-McDonnell Douglas team, some of the work would be done at the GD plant in Fort Worth, where the F-16 fighter is built.

The Fort Worth plant is also working on key components of prototypes of the Air Force's next-generation combat plane, the Advanced Tactical Fighter.

Some analysts told the newspaper that that they don't think the contract would trigger a hiring spree at the Fort Worth plant.

General Dynamics, with about 26,000 workers, is Tarrant County's largest employer.

The program is so secret that the Navy has ordered contractors not to even acknowledge that they are bidding for the contract. Plans call for the plane to use radar-evading "stealth" and other advanced technologies.

into the city the entire Las Milpas area, actually a Man free after 14 months in jail for robbery

DALLAS (AP) — A man who spent about 14 months in jail for a robbery authorities now say he did not commit has been freed because of new evidence, officials say

In the nine months since a jury sentenced Randy Ty Senegar, 19, to 60 years in prison for aggravated robbery, authorities have located two men they believe committed the crime.

Senegar was exonerated by a polygraph test that indicated he was not involved in the incident, lawyers say

The charges stemmed from an Oct. 19, 1986, incident in which two knife-wielding men wearing Halloween masks broke into the home of a 28-year-old Grand Prairie woman and raped her before fleeing with

The men also locked the woman's children in a closet during the hour-long attack, court documents indicate.

State District Judge Gerry Meier dismissed the robbery charge against Senegar on Monday. He had spent the past 14 months behind bars, including nearly five months in state prison, and was released Monday night from Lew Sterrett Justice Center.

"I'm very thankful. I'm ready to go home and see my son and my family," Senegar told the Dallas Times Herald Monday night. "I have a son I've never seen because I was in jail when he was born.

Senegar, a Grand Prairie resident who grew up in Corsicana, said he was on probation for an auto burglary at the time of his arrest and got involved "in the wrong

"I plan on starting my life over and giving my life to the Lord," he said.

The Fifth District Court of Appeals in Dallas paved the way for Senegar's freedom by ordering the case sent back to her court, where Senegar was tried and convicted in March 1986.

Meier reopened the case and then dismissed it at the request of defense attorneys and the Dallas County district attorney's office. Senegar also had been charged with aggravated sexual assault in connection with the incident, but that charge was dismissed in June when the case against him began to un-

"Further investigation of the case revealed other evidence which gave us reason to believe that possibly this man was not guilty," prosecutor Norm Kinne said. "When he passed the polygraph, that started things in

Roger Joyner and Peter Lesser, lawyers who handled the appeal of the robbery conviction, located two women who had overheard a conversation shortly after the attack in which one man and a youth were bragging about committing the crime.

"These witnesses were given polygraphs about the conversation, and they passed," Kinne said. Their statements led authorities to the man, who was in prison on an unrelated robbery conviction, and the juvenile, he said.

Kinne said the juvenile was given a poly graph test that implicated him in the Grand Prairie attack.

Senegar was convicted on the testimony of the Grand Prairie woman, who identified him in a photo lineup and in court as one of the assailants. The attackers were wearing masks, but the woman based her identification on the man's haircut and a scar on his neck. Kinne said.

Defense lawyers credited the district attorney's office with investigating the case.

Board director: lying more goes

GRAPEVINE (AP) — The big increase in international junkets by the new director of the Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport board was needed to get the job done, she says. Since Erma Johnson became board director in February, she has traveled 56 days — more than other board member in the air-port's 19-year history "We are certainly aware of how it looks to the public," Ms. Johnson said Monday. "But let me assure you these trips are no vacations. I have had such a full intinerary on all of them that it was good to get home so I could rest.

Other airport board members have also traveled more than ever before in 1987 — to seek the business of foreign airlines, attend aviation industry conventions and conduct public relations for the airport.

The cost of board travel this year is at least $37,800, compared to less than $15,000 in previous years. Ms. Johnson's travels, which cost more than $16,000, included trips to Japan, Tahiti, New Zealand, Ireland, Atlanta and New York.

Most of the trips are paid for through money that comes from airline passengers through air fares and the 8-percent federal tax on tickets.

Ms. Johnson, a Fort Worth resident who is vice chancellor of human affairs for Tarrant County Junior College, said she made some of the trips because they were expected of her.

Her tenure as board director will end in January while she is on a trip to Taiwan. All of Ms. Johnson's travel was done with airport Director Oris Dunham, the Fort Worth Star-

Telegram reported Monday. "I was extremely proud to have her with me," Dunham said.

Dunham said he stresses the importance of board travel because it shows potential foreign customers that the airport means

Opinion

There's wasteland in public TV, too

When public television first set up shop, everyone predicted it would be a boom for education. Working class families in Keokuk, Iowa, and Bismarck, N.D., would sit home evenings avidly watching televised lessons on Sanskrit and non-Eucliden geometry. The erudition of the average American would soar to previously unknown heights. We would produce a nation of Einsteins and Shakespeares.

The reality has proved different, as one might expect from any project undertaken by the government. Though educational programs still are offered; usually reruns of British productions (Anglophilia grips public-TV-land), the general fare remains but a bad imitation of commercial TV.

This season's new crop of bombs is indicative. For example, the show Frontline will feature reports on John Lennon's killer and Jim and Tammy Bakker. Do we need more worshipful stories about the late rock crooner and his killer? And haven't the commercial TV stations given us enough lurid telegossip about Jim and Tammy?

Instead of more of the same, why not give us a show about an honest, devoted, Godfearing preacher and his wife? Similar shows could be run about other good minister, priests and rabbis. But the liberals who run government TV, at your expense, would never run shows that portray religion in a positive light.

Another feature will be The Trial of Bernhard Goetz. Government TV apparently chooses its topics by picking stories featured on the front page of New York City tabloids. Goetz, who shot four teen-age hoodlums in self-defense on a New York subway, doesn't need to be hounded by government TV, paid for by his own tax dollars. It isn't enough that a jury found him innocent of murder. The country's liberal elite wants to punish him anyway. And since it controls the government's very own TV network, what better way than to keep dragging his name across a muddy TV screen?

Also running is an eight-part series, Television, on the history of the boob tube. Just what we need from public TV; a show that will largely tell the story of private TV. Is this really the best way to spend the tax dollars of the poor and middle class?

Then there's Voices & Visions, about American poets. Wouldn't it be better to just flash a signal that read: "Turn off your TV, and go and read some good American poetry?" At the very least, such a feature would have cost less than the actual series, and would have reduced the tax burden carried by contemporary American poets — freeing them a bit more from their non-poetic jobs and giving them more time to write new American poetry It should be obvious by now that public TV is a large waste of your tax dollars. Especially in this age of cable TV, with hundreds of private stations available, including several devoted to the finer arts, the government has no business running it own TV stations. It produces either bad imitations of private TV shows, or liberal propaganda. It's time we sell off — or give away — every public TV station, and the federal Public Broadcasting System itself. If some viewers still want to watch such shows, they can support them fully on their own, through pledge weeks and other fundraising schemes. The rest of us want a refund.

Nice way to meet the girls

In the aftermath of Gary Hart's decision to renew his presidential campaign, his motives have been dissected at length. But everyone has overlooked the simplest explanation: It's a great way to meet girls.

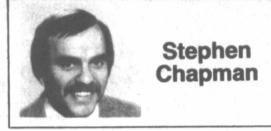

With each passing week, it becomes harder to ignore the accumulating evidence that this campaign has been choreographed by David Letterman's joke writers, for the sole purpose of maximizing the national output of one-liners. You've heard of banana republics? Ours has become a banana peel republic, all pratfalls and belly laughs.

It will be hard to top this latest development short of a military coup installing Oliver North as Supreme Generalissimo and Fawn Hall as Minister of Defense. But apparently there is no truth to the rumor that Hart's new speechwriter is a guy named Biden Hart brings to mind the complaint, made by a TV producer during last week's summit, that one group of experts was a "bunch of 'neverwozzers' masquerading as 'has-beens.' " Three years ago he was a runner-up to one of the weakest Democratic presidential nominees in history, having won an underwhelming 31 percent of the convention delegates. Given every opportunity to put him at the head of its ticket, his party chose not to. Now, all of a sudden, he has become the indispensable man.

One theory is that Hart became a candidate only to collect federal matching funds for money raised before, which would pay off some of his campaign debts. But why humiliate himself purely for the enrichment of his creditors, who have little choice but to swallow the loss? Did someone tell him that the Republicans had brought back debtors' prisons?

Hart is a national joke apparently determined most pathetic of figures: a politician who has no future in politics and can find no alternative to politics. Hart is running because he doesn't know what else to do.

The former senator doubtless hopes to be regarded as a brave romantic battling for what he believes. In fact, his decision to reenter the race only reconfirms the worst of what Americans had concluded: that Hart is so obsessed with power, so absorbed in his grandiose and imaginary destiny, and so certain of his exemption from the normal rules of public life that he has become deaf to the sound of public opinion, hearing only what he dreams is there.

Americans like adventure, but the chance of seeing Donna Rice or some other blond model becoming First Lady, or merely First Wench, is probably more excitement than they want.

Hart offers himself as the thinking citizen's candidate. He decided to run "because I have a sense of new direction and a set of new ideas that no one else represents." These ideas, the politician-scholar declared, are "the product of some of the most creative minds in this country." He said he can win because of the "power of ideas."

to become a worldwide laughingstock. He is that cite anything that distinguishes his thinking president would be a catastrophe from that of his rivals? Can Hart himself? Here is a man who was a U.S. senator for 12 years and a presidential candidate for four. And yet. beyond a generic Democratic alarm about the economy and a distrust of military force, he is not associated in the public mind with any set of policies. These are freshmen members of Congress whose political identity is more firmly established than Hart's.

Granted, he has styled himself as a daring advocate of military reform, but without generating much interest. In any case, military reformers can count on a full hearing from any democratic administration.

His announcement speech was a cloud of vapor that did nothing to explain his purpose. Setting out on a bold crusade, Hart tried to rally his followers with a ringing call for policies that 'can be summarized in three words: invest, reform and engage." This is going to take the place of an organized campaign? This is supposed to represent a different approach than the other Democratic contenders offer? In fact, the words could have been delivered without alteration by Dukakis, Bruce Babbitt, Paul Simon or Richard Gephardt. Only minor changes would have been needed to suit Al Gore or Jesse Jackson. Hart offers the reverse of Barry Goldwater's 1964 campaign - an echo, not a choice. His race is an exercise in vanity and an affront to the public's judgment. It will demean the campaign, not elevate it.

The British statesman Benjamin Disraeli, asked the difference between a misfortune and a catastrophe, replied: If Gladstone fell into a river, that would be a misfortune. If someone pulled him out, that would be a catastrophe. For Gary Hart to be forced out of the race last May Ideas? What ideas? Can anyone besides Hart was a misfortune; for him to be nominated for

They have a 'sneakier plan'

So now we have a treaty with the Russians. Great. But what are we going to do about the Japanese?

Our trade imbalance with them was enough of a problem, but now the Japanese have come up with a new plan that's even sneakier than what they did on the Day of Infamy.

They're trying to buy our country. All of it. They started off with golf resorts. The Japanese are striking at the very backbone of this great nation by buying up all the golf re-

There are not enough golf courses to go around for all the golfers in Japan. Joining a golf club in Japan requires a down payment of all your yen and then some, and you call the pro shop for tee times years in advance.

Ever play behind Japanese golfers? I have. They're slower than Gladys and Bernice who hit it 3 feet and won't pick up their ball if it takes them 30 shots to get it in the hole.

I heard a story about Japanese golfers. It was a Saturday at an American course and suddenly play came to a complete stop.

The ranger went out to find the problem and came upon a Japanese foursome. The problem was the Japanese had lost all but one ball.

Each player would hit the last ball, get in the cart, go out and mark it, and then return the ball for the next hitter. They were hanged on a makeshift gallows near the practice tee. They're taking over our golf courses, and now they're after our airports. A group of Japanese have offered to buy Atlanta's Hartsfield Airport, which runs neck and neck with Chicago's O'Hare as the world's

And Andy Young, the mayor of Atlanta, said, "I think I ought to at least listen to their offer." Andy, have you lost your mind? The Japanese get their hands on Altanta's airport and they're in easy striking distance of Fort McPherson Army Base, Dobbins Air Force Base, and the Varsity Atlanta might make it without the two military bases, but nobody wants to go into the Varsity and order two chili dogs and have them topped with rice instead of onions. Plus, I can't imagine a Japanese to say those magic, hallowed Varsity words, "Wadda ya have? Wadda ya have?'

Let's say we are stupid enough to sell the Japanese Atlanta's airport. What will they come after next?

They buy Nashville and take over country music. Instead of Willie Nelson you'll be listening to Tex Wang singing, "I may be a Nip, but I shoot from the hip, come a ty ri ri, rippy rippy

Country music goes down, then Kroger stores and K marts are next

If John Wayne were still alive, he'd know what to do to the Japanese investors — take a seven iron and run them and their checkbooks back home before it's too late and Vanna White has to learn 8-zillion character signs in the Japanese alphabet to keep her job.

Corporations are playing Scrooge's role

By ROBERT WALTERS

CANOGA PARK, Calif. (NEA) Christmas is coming to California and it's not a very pretty sight.

The Salvation Army's bell-ringing solicitors have been banished from shopping malls throughout the state by landlords more concerned about their potential legal liabilities than helping the needy during the holiday

One of the state's largest corporations, Chevron USA, probably cap-tured Scrooge-of-the-Year honors when it attempted to prevent a group of handicapped youngsters from selling Christmas trees next to its gasoline stations

Isolated examples of insensitivity invariably surface around the country at this time of year, but a disturbing pattern of institutionalized selfishness has emerged in recent weeks in this trend-setting state. First, there are the problems of the Salvation Army, which notes that its long and distinguished recording of helping the needy has "earned (it) the privilege" of requesting contributions from holiday shoppers.

The Salvation Army's kettles long have been a pre-Christmas fixture on public sidewalks outside department stores in most cities. But much of the country's shopping is now done in sub-urban malls, whose operators prohibit all soliciting on their private property.

Their "Christmas spirit" is illustrated by their explanations for banning the Salvation Army from shopping centers in the San Fernando Valley, a sprawling suburb of Los Angeles. "If you let one organization solicit, you have to let all of the rest do the same," says a representative of the company that owns Topanga Plaza in Canoga Park.

Students of bureaucratic behavior will instantly recognize that as a variation of the favorite excuse of those unwilling or unable to distinguish among various alternatives: "I'd love to help you, but then I'd have to do it for everyone else too."

Even less justifiable is the explanation offered by a marketing executive at the Northridge Fashion Center in the neighboring community of Northridge: "We don't want shopping to be a turnoff. We want it to be a pleasant Translation: wouldn't want people intent upon spending big bucks at our stores distracted by thoughts of the sick, the handicapped and the impoverished. If the concept of charity has somehow survived as an element of the Christmas season, it's not our job to remind people of it."

Next, there's the case of San Francisco-based Chevron and the physically and/or mentally handicapped Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts from Florida who hoped to use the money they earned from Christmas tree sales to pay for summer camp.

The 50 youngsters set up a sales lo-cation next to a Florida Chevron service station and got the station operators' permission to erect a large yellow tent to protect the trees — but that didn't satisfy the corporation's area marketing manager.

Arguing that the tent blocked the station's sign, he not only demanded that the scouts remove it but also threatened to revoke the lease held by the generous station operators if his orders were not followed.

Chevron eventually backed down - after being confronted by both public indignation and a site survey conducted by municipal officials that showed both the scouts' tent and the Chevron sign were on public rather than private land.

That experience suggests that a principled stand made by those who care may be the most effective means of neutralizing the callousness of those who don't.

When shopping mall operators in the San Francisco area sought to banish Salvation Army solicitors, area church leaders joined together and urged their parishoners to boycott those shopping centers. Several of the malls promptly changed their policy.

'During the past 15 years there has been steady and significant progress in managing the rapid introduction of large numbers of women" into the service, Navy Secretary James H. Webb said Monday

"Notwithstanding this progress ... more remains to be done.

Citing an internal study that found widespread complaints of sexual harassment among Navy women,

Webb said he was ordering more frequent and better focused training sessions for male sailors and issuing strong directives to commanders attempting to sensitize them to the

The secretary said he also was ordering the Navy's inspector general to pay more attention to reviewing the problem during base inspections; requiring base commanders to appoint a qualified counselor to help deal with harassment complaints, and directing a new publicity campaign to let female sailors know they could lodge harassment complaints through the Fraud, Waste and Abuse Hotline if local commanders didn't address their grievances.

And in a bid to improve the career prospects for female sailors and officers, Webb said the Navy would soon begin expanding the number of combat support jobs open to them. While it will take "several years" to implement, the new policy will almost triple the number of sea-going jobs open to women to a new total of almost 15,000, he said.

The new career policy will have as its foundation what Webb called the first clear, concise definition of "combat missions" within his service. Unless a ship or aircraft has as its primary objective the goal "to seek out, reconnoiter and engage the enemy," the jobs on that ship or aircraft should be open to women, Webb said.

"I would say that this represents to me, in naval terms, as far as you can go" unless Congress removes legal restrictions on women serving in combat jobs, the secretary added.

Webb announced the new initiatives after releasing an internal study he ordered last September in the wake of a scathing report by an outside advisory

The official Navy study concluded the service's personnel management system for enlisted females "severely limits women's access to ratings (jobs) available to them"; that careerenhancing assignments for both enlisted women and female officers are limited, breeding serious frustration; and "sexual harassment exists in the Navy and is exacerbated by inadequacies in leadership and educational systems.

'Over half of the 1,400 Navy women interviewed in 10 worldwide locations indicated they had been victims of some form of sexual harassment in the Navy: nearly all those interviewed reported observing some form of sexual harassment," the study added.

Virtually all of the harassment reported in the study was verbal in nature. Webb said.

There are currently about 54,000 women on active-duty in the Navy, or about 9 percent of the force.

Holidays everywhere

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Holidays are here, the Holidays are there, the Holidays are, in fact, nearly everywhere.

America must love its holidays, at least judging by the files of the federal government, since the nation has no fewer than 110 places called Holiday

From Holiday Hills, Ark., to Holiday Acres, Del., and from Holiday Shores, Mo., to Holiday Resort, Tenn., these festive appellations sprinkle the land.

And that's not all. A look at the U.S. Geological Survey's Geographic Names Information System shows 89 Christmases across the country, along with seven places called Santa Claus, three Yules (all in Colorado) and even one poinsettia — Poinsettia Park in Polk County, Fla.

The U.S.G.S. names information system, which has collected more than 2 million names of places and geographic features for use in federal mapping and data programs, shows Texas is tops in Christmas country with 10 places using that name, while there are three Christmases in Florida and seven each in Arizona and California.

There's Christmas Knob in Oneida County, N.Y., and Christmas Cove in Maine; Christmas Camp Lake in Louisiana and Christmas Landing in Alabama.

Presiding over Christmas are the seven Santa Clauses, including the community of Santa Claus in Toombs County, Ga.

Others include Santa Claus churches in Alaska and Indiana; locations called Santa Claus in Arizona, Indiana and Minnesota; Santa Claus Spring in Nevada and Santa Claus Rock in Utah.

There are 1,229 stars among the place names, and 889 Bethlehems for them to shine upon — mostly churches. Texas leads the list with 88 stars, many of them included in the name Lone Star.

For the decorative, there are 542 spots nationwide called holly, more than enough to decorate the lone wreath: Wreath Hill in Campbell County, Wyo.

Workers suspended after wearing Santa Hats, stage rally at plant

NORTH BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) - Ed Reilly, an employee in the shipping department of The Okonite Co., says he wore a hat to work nearly every day with no problems — until he wore a Santa Claus hat.

'I wear a hat the whole year in here, and this is the only hat I'm suspended for," said Reilly, who was suspended along with about 120 other workers by the electrical cable company for wearing the holiday headgear.

Some of the suspended workers sang "Jingle Bells" at a rally Monday in front of the big central New Jersey plant.

But the company refused to bend, saying the red hats with white trim were "carnival-like" and inappropriate "for a business environment." The company threatened to fire employees who

Electrical Workers, which represents the 230 workers at the plant, and company officials begin negotiations on a new contract in about a month. 'Maybe this has something to do with it,' said

Lenny Zabiegalski, president of the local. At the rally, workers carried signs that said "Welcome Okonite, Humbug" and "IBEW Local 1992 Supports Santa.'' One employee dressed up as Santa Claus, and another carried an inflatable St.

Robert Wiget, a testing department worker whose indefinite suspension on Thursday began the hat flap, said he has worn a Santa hat during the holidays for the past five years without a

"I think it's a lot of hogwash. Christmas is very important to these guys," Wiget said as he stood among the demonstrators

A second worker was suspended Thursday, then a third on Friday, before about 20 employees showed up Saturday wearing Santa hats. All have been suspended for times ranging from two to three days

On Monday, about 80 people on the first shift and 20 others on the second shift were suspended, said Tony Molski, a member of Local 1992's executive Thomas Scanlon, vice president of employee relations for Okonite, said in a statement that the workers were suspended for "refusal to follow a reasonable directive of their supervisors.

The statement said the suspensions came after senior executives visited the plant and saw the

Braniff to submit wage concession plan to Pan Am

NEW YORK (AP) — Braniff New York Stock Exchange Inc., in its quest to take over major elements of Pan Am Corp., is proposing a plan to obtain $200 million a year in wage concessions from Pan Am unions.

Pan Am gave Dallas-based Braniff until today to submit the plan, according to sources at the two companies.

The unions, in exchange for the concessions, are looking for assurances that Pan Am will be kept intact if acquired by Braniff. That has led Braniff to enlarge its initial takeover bid for the company's Pan American World Airways unit to include Pan Am's profitable Northeast shuttle service and its commuter airline, the sources said.

Both the shuttle service, which operates between New York, Boston and Washington in competition with Eastern Airlines, and the Pan Am Express commuter airline are viewed widely as fairly profitable operations for a company with an otherwise bleak financial outlook.

Analysts estimate the Pan Am shuttle and commuter airline together are worth about $200

Pan American World Airways, the company's main airline unit which operates chiefly between the United States and foreign cities, suffers from a lack of lucrative domestic routes. The airline lost $29.3 million in the first nine months of this year. compared with a loss of $283.6 million in the same period of 1986. Its revenue rose to $2.2 billion Julius Maldutis, an airline analyst for Salomon Brothers Inc., expects Pan Am Corp. to report a net loss of around $70 million for the fourth quarter.

Dinah Howard, Nancy Coffee,

Peggy Baker, Nancy Harvill.

Pan Am stock fell 50 cents to close at $3 a share Monday on the

The coalition of four Pan Am unions negotiating with Braniff Chairman Jay Pritzker includes the Teamsters; flight attendants; pilots; flight engineers, mechanics and other workers. A fifth union representing the transport workers is not included in the talks. The labor group has been trying to find an investor or buyer for Pan American World Airways for about a year.

The parent company had around $952 million in debt as of Sept. 30. Pan Am has already sold off some assets, including its hotel chain, its office building in New York City and its Pacific route system.

Pritzker, whose family owns 94 percent of Braniff's voting stock and also controls the Hyatt hotel chain, reportedly has been seeking the wage concessions in exchange for a 20 percent stake in Pan American World Airways.

Pritzker's original plan called for the airline to be spun off from the parent company and merged with Braniff. Pan Am shareholders would have received stock in a new company and non-voting shares in Braniff, while Pan Am employees would have gotten a 20 percent stake in the new company in exchange for the contract concessions

The plan recently was approved by Pan Am's board of directors. Last mont, the board rejected a takeover offer from Los Angeles financier Kirk Kerkorian, who had been solifor the airline.

Under the new enlarged bid, Braniff probably would take a smaller proportion of the stock in the new company to pay for the shuttle and the commuter line, airline analysts suggested.

ontras attack strategic road; peace talks halt

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) - After launching a huge offensive in the nation's mining region, U.S.-backed Contra rebels attacked Sandinista forces along a strategic road used to transport weapons received from the Soviet

In the Dominican Republic early today, the Contras broke off indirect peace talks with the leftist Sandinistas. and demanded that government officials be added to the foreign advisers on the Sandinista negotiating team.

Most of the fighting Monday appeared to occur in central Nicaraguan towns on the Rama Road linking Managua with Bluefields, the Caribbean port that unloads most of the arms the Soviets ship to the leftist Sandinista

It was not clear whether the fighting extended into today.

Neither side released casualty figures from the fighting in central Nicaragua.

On Sunday, the Contras launched an assault in eastern Nicaragua's goldand-silver mining region.

Nicaragua's Defense Ministry said 53 civilians were wounded, and 24 rebels and 23 Sandinistas were killed in battles around the mining towns. The Contras claimed 100 Sandinista casualties Sunday and 70 Monday in the mining attacks. They did not say how many died and said nothing about rebel casualties.

The assaults, which occurred 150 miles apart, appeared to be the biggest and most sophisticated Contra opera-

The Sandinista government charged on Monday that the attacks were launched to influence a U.S. congressional debate on aid to the rebel group.

The debate ended Monday with an agreement to keep arms and food flowing to the rebels although Congress put off any decisive action over the aid issue.

The congressional package gave the Contras about $8 million to buy "humanitarian" supplies and transport weapons.

In Nicaragua, Lt. Col. Roberto Calderon, commander of the 5th Military Region in eastern Nicaragua, said late Monday that rebel forces had attacked several villages in central Chontales province, which lie near the Rama Speaking with reporters in San Miguelito, Calderon said the fighting 125 miles from Managua was as 'heavy." He supplied no casualty report.

In October, 800 Contras tried but failed to hold a 40-mile stretch of the road. Dozens were killed on both sides during the fighting.

In their first strike early Sunday, the rebels attacked three mining towns in northern Zelaya province and fighting continued late Monday.

Speaking from the headquarters of the rebel Nicaraguan Resistance in Miami, Contra spokeswoman Marta Sacasa called that operation a success.

She said the rebels in Siuna overran and destroyed the headquarters of the 366th Sandinista Brigade. They also destroyed the offices of several Eastern bloc advisors and captured a large stockpile of weapons, she said. Seven warehouses were destroyed and a ton of food in one of them was distributed to villagers, Ms. Sacasa

She said that fighting was still going on Monday night in six towns in Zelaya province. But a Defense Ministry spokesman said peace and the Sandinistas had returned to the towns.

The Defense Ministry claimed the plane was shot down Monday by the Contras using a U.S.-made surface-toair missile. It said the four crew members were wounded.

But reports in Costa Rica said it was probably due to mechanical failure.

Three Palestinians are killed and 26 wounded by Israelis

JERUSALEM (AP) - Riots and confrontations between Arabs and Israeli security forces spread from the occupied territories to Israel during one of the bloodiest days in two weeks of violence

Israeli troops killed three Palestinians and wounded at least 26 Monday in the occupied West Bank which, along with the Gaza Strip, has been the scene of violence since Dec. 8. Another Palestinian died of wounds received Dec. 10.

Monday's deaths brought the confirmed death toll to 19 and the unofficial number to 23 since Dec. 8 when riots began in the occupied lands. Israel took the West Bank and Gaza Strip from Jordan and Egypt in the 1967 Middle East war.

Also Monday, stone-throwing and tire-burning were reported in Jerusalem as thousands of Israel's 750,000 Arab citizens held a general strike in sympathy with the 1.5 million Palestinians living in the occupied lands.

About 25 policemen were injured, one seriously, in rioting inside Israel, Israel television said. Only police and paramilitary border police were deployed to control violence there.

Five of the policemen were injured in the Arab village of Shfaram as they forcibly evicted 10 members of the radical anti-Arab Kach Movement from a Jewish synagogue, the television said.

Violence came for the first time to Nazareth, other Arab towns in Israel and even the Tel Aviv sub-

The Arab-run Palestine Press Service said 346 Arabs had been wounded by gunfire and 473 injured by beating in two weeks. Nearly 1,000 had been detained, it said. The army said about 100 Arabs had been wounded and fewer than 200 arrested since

Iraq resumes blitz, attacks tankers

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) - Iraqi warplanes today bombed and set ablaze three supertankers, including the world's largest, in a long-range raid on Iran's Larak island oil terminal in the Strait of Hormuz.

Persian Gulf-based shipping executives and the London-based Lloyd's Shipping Intelligence Unit said three "mother ships," including the world's largest oil tanker, Seawise Giant, were hit in the

The other two tankers were identified as the 392,985-ton Cypriot-flag White Rose and the 411,508-ton World Petrobras.

Shipping executives, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the three tankers sustained extensive damage and unspecified casualties in the early afternoon attacks.

It was the second attack on the 564,739-ton Seawise Giant, which flies the Liberian flag. The Giant was hit by the Iraqis last October in another long-range raid on Larak.

"The Iraqi aircraft traveled 1,200 kilometers (720 miles), stabbed through Iranian defenses and unleashed the wrath of their shells on floating oil storage tanks," the Iraqi High Command said in a communique broadcast by Baghdad radio, monitored in Bahrain

It said the Iraqi "bombs fell directly on these floating tankers and ravaged them, set them on fire, and left them under thick clouds of smoke.'

The long-range bombing raids followed a threeday lull in the so-called tanker war in the Persian Gulf, for which Hormuz is the lone entry

Iran said Monday it retook a strip of Iranian land and killed or wounded 1,000 Iraqis who counterattacked. Iraq said it crushed the attack, killing more than 1,200 Iranians.

Iraq rarely sends it warplanes to attack Iranian terminals in the Hormuz are because the distance requires refueling in flight.

About 430 ships have been hit or attacked by both belligerents since the outbreak of hostilities. Nineteen tankers and freighters have been hit in the first 19 days of this month by the two warring sides in the worst phase of the tanker war.

The explosion Monday hurled the lone survivor onto the oil rig's deck and burned his clothes from his body, said Dabney Forestall, a worker who saw the crash and resulting fire.

"For some reason the Lord was just looking after him," Forestall said. "When the (rig) hands got around to him, which was probably 15 or 20 seconds, he was crawling on the deck.

"Most of the bodies were all laying here and there," Forestall

Anthony Fann, 23, of Destrehan, La., was flown by helicopter 100 miles south to West Jefferson Medical Center in suburban New Orleans, where he was in critical condition today with burns over 95 percent of his body, a hospital spokesman said.

Authorities said dental records would probably have to be used to positively identify the bodies of the 12 other Penrod Drilling Co. and two pilots of the Petroleum Helicopters Inc. aircraft.

The fire from the crash was quickly controlled before it spread, said Edward L. Villarreal, division manager of Forest Oil Corp., which operates the rig.

The accident's cause was not immediately known. There will be a joint investigation by the Coast Guard, the Federal Aviation Administration and the National Transportation Safety Board, said Glenn S. Lamont, a Coast Guard spokesman in New

Villarreal said the helicopter, carrying 13 workers scheduled to shift, was landing on the rig's heliport around 11 a.m. when apparently "it hit one of the legs on the rig and crashed onto the Winds at the time were blowing from the northeast at about 15 mph, seas were two to three feet and fog limited visibility from a quarter-mile to a mile, the Coast Guard said.

'They came in here, made a half-circle of the rig and came in with the wind hitting in front like it should have been," said Forestall. "It looked like he tried to touch down on the heliport and .. he skidded off the heliport and hit

"It looked like the tail section possibly hit the leg and he fell off the heliport and fell on the deck,' he said

Killed in the crash were the pilot, Frederick T. Wibbelsman, 48, of Austin, Texas, and co-pilot Richard Leroy Wagner, 38, of Lafayette. Wibbelsman had worked at the helicopter company for 23 years, Wagner for 10 years, officials said.

Penrod spokesman David Viviano said all of the dead Penrod employees were from Louisiana and Mississippi.

Viviano identified the seven dead Penrod employees from Louisiana as John B. Hollier and Louis J. Quick Jr., both of Abbeville; Brian Glen Davis of Alexandria, Sam Alfred Jr. of Fordoche, Johnny R. Blackwell of Olla, Allen G. McCullough of Forest Hill and Glen J. Price Sr. of Lake Arthur.

He said the five Mississippians killed were Frederick Magee of Hattiesburg, Glen E. Saucier of Lumberton, James F. Andrews of Magee, Billy Joe Schultz of Biloxi and Ulmer L. Palmer Jr. of ### Icahn ups Texaco stake; what is next?

NEW YORK (AP) - Financier Carl Icahn its multibillion-dollar legal dispute with has bought another large stake in Texaco Inc., leaving him in control of 12.3 percent of Texaco's outstanding shares and once again raising questions about his intentions for the Trans World Airlines Inc. said Monday it had joined with ACF Industries Inc. to buy the remainder of a 24 million-share block owned by Australian financier Robert Holmes a Court for $37 a share, or $447.5 mil-

Icahn, who controls TWA and ACF, acquired voting control over the entire block last month when he bought half of Holmes a Court's Texaco holding for $29 a share, or $348 million.

But under the terms of the first deal, Icahn would have lost the voting rights to the remaining shares by turning down Holmes a Court's offer to sell him rest of the block.

Icahn also controls 5.8 million Texaco shares that TWA bought on the open market for $193.2 million, or an average of more than

The latest purchase came as Wall Street reacted to Texaco's weekend settlement of Pennzoil Co. by sending the stocks of both companies lower. Texaco closed at $37.50 a share, down $1, and Pennzoil was down $1.871/2, at $77.50 per share in New York Stock Exchange composite trading.

Analysts speculated that Icahn's latest move was another way of putting heat on Texaco's management either to take steps to raise the company's share price or risk a takeover attempt. But whether he could succeed was another matter, some said.

Last week, Icahn declared he had no interest forcing management's hand, although he is seeking permission to increase his Texaco stake to more than 25 percent.

Icahn was unavailable for comment Monday, a secretary said.

Texaco on Monday filed a reorganization plan to emerge from federal bankruptcy protection from creditors.

Texaco had filed for bankruptcy protection in April rather than post a ruinous security bond needed to pursue appeals of the jury verdict that it had wrongly interfered with Pennzoil's 1984 attempt to acquire part of

Under the plan announced Saturday, Texaco would pay Pennzoil $3 billion and Pennzoil would drop the $10.3 billion damage judgment it won from the Texas jury against the White Plains, N.Y.-based oil company.

The restructuring also would streamline Texaco, help finance the $3 billion payment to Pennzoil and attempt to increase Texaco shareholder value. Texaco President James W. Kinnear said Saturday that some asset sales would occur as the company restructured its operations under the reorganization. Analysts generally agree it would take major asset sales to move Texaco's stock much higher than about $40 a share.

Although Texaco must come up with the money to pay for the reorganization, analysts said they were not sure how much of a restructuring the company really had in mind -

Bruce Lazier, an analyst at the Prescott, Ball & Turben Inc. securities firm, said Wall Street and Icahn would love Texaco to sell its 50 percent interest in the Caltex group of companies in Asia, as well as its European operations and 78 percent stake in Texaco

Oil futures prices mixed; January contract expires wildly

NEW YORK (AP) — Crude oil futures have turned mixed, with the near-month contract tumbling sharply on its final trading day.

On the last day of trading of the January contract for West Texas Intermediate, the benchmark U.S. crude, the price fell 42 cents to close at $15.16 a barrel Monday on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

During the day, the price of the expiring crude oil contract swung widely as it traded about 40 cents a barrel higher than Friday's close early in the day before diving in the

Meanwhile, the February contract, which began trading today, finished unchanged at $15.40 a barrel. "It was almost two different markets," said Robert Baker, senior energy analyst for Prudential-Bache Securities Inc.

He said trading on the last day of a futures contract often ends up as "a test of wills to see who has the strongest financial pocketbook." Baker said trading in the January contract was not representative of the overall oil market's performance, which he characterized as indecisive.

Nonetheless, Mary T. Bergonia, vice president at ED&F Man International Futures Inc., said the decline in the January contract

"is giving the impression that the market has some room on the downside. Crude oil prices fell sharply last week as analysts concluded that the latest OPEC agreement on production for the first half of 1988 would do little to reduce the world's oversupply of crude.

Arts center makes debut in Florida

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — As the curtain rises at the Tampa Bay Performing Arts Center, sounds of Mozart, Puccini, Joplin, Monk and Sousa add a new dimension to this city in the spotlight.

The $57 million three-theater complex, the largest south of the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C., is the culmination of an eight-year effort begun by Gov. Bob Martinez when he was mayor of Tampa.

TBPAC made its debut recently with a two-day gala to show off Festival Hall, a four-level theater that seats nearly 2,500; the Playhouse, a three-tier theater seating 960; and Jaeb Theater, a flexible, open-space hall where seating for 300 can be rearranged to build a cabaret for jazz or a recording studio.

The dream of bringing an arts hall to this Gulf Coast city took seed 20 years ago but ran a rocky course until 1979 when a commitment was made and a committee was appointed. November 1982 brought another setback when voters turned down a referendum on a one-cent sales tax hike.

Arts supporters, determined this time, pushed ahead and found financial backing in the private and corporate sectors, which contributed more than $11 million. The city put up the rest.

Economic impact on Tampa is projected at $50 million annually in the early years of operation with proceeds from ticket sales, restaurant tabs, hotel rooms, gift shops and incidentals from the influx of performers

David Midland, executive director, talked about plans for the center from his office where a hard hat rests atop a file cabinet and a cushion in a bookcase displays the motto: "The Road to Success is Always under Construction.

'The center is to be a smorgasbord," he said, "a buffet to offer different things for different tastes and different interests."

Events being planned include classical, popular, jazz, concert, theater, opera, musical comedy, ballet, modern dance.

The biggest challenge will be to bring in those who think it's not for them. I want to get them in here just once and make them feel comfortable," said Midland, Milwaukee native who came to Tampa from Artpark in Lewiston, N.Y., five years ago to head up the TBPAC project.

As the house lights came on for the ambitious gala, that's just what he did, exposing 2,200 Tampans to a five-hour program of Mozart and Wagner played by the Florida Orchestra; Puccini's "La Boheme," Act 2, performed by the New York City Opera; a portrait of writer D.H. Lawrence in readings by members of the Royal Shakespeare Company; jazz, including some Thelonious Monk by the Billy Taylor Trio; highlights from Broadway-bound "Teddy & Alice," with a score based on the music of John Philip

Sousa, and the National Ballet of Canada doing a syncopated rag-from Scott Joplin.

"And there were businessmen who saw ballet for the first time and told me they enjoyed it," said Midland.

Festival Hall, an 11-story theater, has a 42-ton oak curtain, eight inches thick, which serves as an acoustical backwall for the orchestra. Over the orchestra section, a large canopy of hextime program with selections agonal wooden pieces can be moved up and down and tilted toward and away from the stage to maximize sound projection.

There are reverberation chambers along the wall beneath the ceiling to help create rich, full sound — a state-of-the-art fea-ture. The wood and bricktextured theater is done in red and the stage measures 120 feet wide by 65 feet deep.

What followed, as Jewitt recounts in a gripping journal now republished in a special annotated edition, was a bloody adventure that makes Robinson Crusoe seem like a fairy tale.

Three weeks after the U.S. trading ship, Boston, sailed into Nootka Sound on the west coast of Canada's Vancouver Island, native Indians angered by insults staged a massacre of the crew, gruesomely lining the deck with 25 severed heads.

The only survivors were Jewitt, who suffered a gashed forehead, and a sailmaker who secreted himself in the hold during the m lee.

The two were to remain slaves of the local Indian chief, Maquinna, for more than two years before another ship came to their

Magazine draws cartoons from all over globe

NORTH WALES, Pa. (AP) - The characters in the latest issue of WittyWorld wear gas masks and helmets, wield hatchets and hammers and bring to mind Big Brother or the Grim Reaper.

With contributions by artists around the globe, the new, international cartoon magazine offers biting, irreverent sketches on everything from AIDS to terrorism.

A taste of the humor: In the autumn issue focusing on the environment, a Filipino artist depicts a car-choked intersection, where pedestrians obey a stoplight flashing 'Breathe' and "Don't Breathe. A Czechoslovakian cartoonist depicts a distraught man with a noose around his neck wandering in a thicket of tree stumps, finding no place to hang himself.

Other cartoons are pure whimsy, about Valentine's Day, a snail parade and an elephant tied by his snout outside a saloon. Besides cartoons, there are features, interviews, columns, reviews, a cartoon laboratory and a calendar of international competi-

Launched in May, the magazine has been hailed by The National Cartoonist Society Newsletter in New York City as the Newsweek of the cartooning world.

Editors for 36 countries have signed on to submit cartoons and copy.

The magazine's founder, editor and publisher, Hungarian exile Joseph Szabo, is relishing the acclaim, won after years of uncertainty and unemployment.

Even now, after working 16-hour days in his small home in this Philadelphia suburb, Szabo, 37, makes ends meet with free-lance work. But he says his editorial independence makes the struggle worthwhile

"I'd rather be poor in America than rich in Hungary," he said.

As a former graphics editor for Hungary's largest magazine and for its most respected newspaper, the Hungarian Nation, Szabo had a large house in Budapest, a sizable salary, a car and a commanding position within Hungary's rigidly structured society.

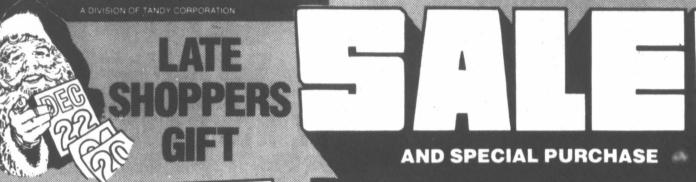

But he felt trapped. Each editorial decision and every utterance had to the the Communist Party line

French love affair with neighborhood cinema stale

PARIS (AP) — The French people's long love affair with the neighborhood cinema has gone

In a country where going to the movies has been a national passion, recent studies show the French are abandoning movie houses en masse and are staying home to watch films on televi-

The National Cinema Commission says box-office receipts are down nearly 20 percent from 1986, forcing the closure of 150 movie theaters since the beginning of the year. Experts predict the disappearance of an additional 300 theaters in the coming months.

Everyone blames television. Six rival channels compete for viewers by beaming feature films in prime-time slots, 8:30-10:30 p.m., five days a week. Twenty-six movies were shown during one week in September.

"The little screen," as the French call it, seems to satisfy the public's appetite for movies at a fraction of the cost of going

'Before I was married, I'd go to the movies four or five times a week," says Brigitte Hildenbrand, 35, the manager of a clothing boutique.

"By the time we park the car and have a coffee, it's just too expensive for me, my husband and son to go to movies. We stay home and watch them on TV

Movie theater tickets cost about $6. Luxury theaters, with thick-cushioned seats and the latest in high-tech screens and sound systems, cost even more.

There was a time in France when 5,000 theaters catered to 55 million inhabitants. Attendance peaked in the 1950s, stabilized in the 1960s and began to decline in the late 1970s

Fleet training exercise due in Gulf of Mexico

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — Gunfire will resound throughout in the Port of Corpus Christi while Navy minesweepers and helicopters ply the Gulf of Mexico during a February fleet training exercise, officials

"We'll be working on contingency plans in the event of wartime," Coast Guard Capt. Tony Alejandro said.

About 100 Coast Guard reservists from Corpus Christi and the Port Isabel and Brownsville areas will be joined by 100 active duty Coast Guardsmen, and Navy personnel may boost the number of participants to more than 500, said Alejandro, captain of the Port of Corpus Christi and coordinator of the exer-

Simulated gunfire will be used with military weapons firing blanks and discharging a laser pulse. Participants will be equipped with devices, which will register a hit if struck by the laser, Alejandro said.

"The whole purpose of this is to test our mobilization with the reservists in a wartime scenario," he said.

At least six Coast Guard patrol boats will participate, and the Coast Guard auxiliary will provide pleasure vessels to act as the aggressors, or "bad guys," Alejandro said.

Temporary

NEW YORK (AP) — Is there any truth to the belief that retirees aren't being respected or appreciated for their experience and wisdom?

Not according to the American Association of Retired Persons, which reports that business managers are welcoming retired people back to the workplace in increasing numbers.

There are three factors fueling the return of retirees to the workforce as temporary employees, notes John Hart of Senior Employment Services at AARP:

— Unemployment is dropping and employers are finding it harder to recruit permanent employees.

— Due to low birth rates in the late '60s and early '70s, there is a continuing decline of entry-level labor in the 18-24 age group.

— Labor Department figures show an accelerating trend toward early retirement, with employees

EAGLE POINT, Ore. (AP) — When Peter Crandall quit working with moon rocks at North American Rockwell in 1972, he started working with century-old millstones instead.

Crandall, an engineer without previous business experience, and his wife, Cora, took a chance and purchased the 100-year-old Butte Creek Mill in Eagle Point for $50,000.

Along with the shell of the building, water rights and 1½ acres of land came the 1872 grist mill the Putham family had run for 40 years. George Putham had paid $600 for the mill in 1932. His 71-year-old son, Frank, agreed to stay on during the first months to pass on his father's knowledge.

The mill since has become the last operating water-powered mill in the West, says Crandall.

The business included a profitable frozen locker rental, but centered on a feed store and a meatcutting operation, both in decline. A small amount of meal was ground.

Over the next 15 years, the couple parlayed that initial investment into a food processing firm, which Crandall says generated $250,000 in gross sales last year. Two months ago, the mortgage was paid off and tucked into a drawer without fanfare, he says.

The meat-packing operation was the first to go, within months of the takeover, eventually followed by the high labor but low profit feed store. The frozen lockers, with their economical waterpowered compressors, remain the only public freezers in the area.

But the Crandalls focused their efforts on the small milling operation, which grew to be the heart of their food processing and retailing operation.

"Our goal was to go into the whole grain business," says Crandall.

That goal happily coincided with a growing interest in high-fiber diets. With rising public concern about new artificial colors and other additives in the 1970s, Crandall says, customers found traditional stone-ground products comforting. After all, people had consumed the stone-ground products of water-driven milks since Roman days.

"Identity is important," notes Crandall. "People love our labels. I tried to give them an oldfashioned look."

Along with the look, he put the Butte Creek Mill address on every package of meal, cereal or flour, to encourage mail-order sales. He has prepared "a modest catalog" for the company's first direct-mail campaign. Tourists who star their names in the guest-book in his store at the mill receive a catalog. Customers gain free admission to the antique museum Crandall operates next door.

The mill's status on the National Historic Register has provided a tax windfall.

work promising area for retirees

55 and over leaving their jobs in ever greater numbers

To alleviate the serious labor supply shortage, employers are asking temporary personnel companies to provide retirees to fill entry level as well as more advanced positions. People with general and automated office skills are in high demand, as well as personnel for the hospitality, retailing, communications and many manufacturing industries.

"Managers are truly appreciative of mature persons' efficiency and productivity," says John Fanning, president of Uniforce Temporary Services. "They say retired persons have less turnover and absenteeisn and are more reliable than other personnel.

"Also, many retirees 55 and over are eager to return to the workplace as temporaries. They have job experiences that are valuable and the flexibility of a second career in temporary employment allows them to combine work with the joys of travel and leisure time."

Although people are retiring earlier today, they still want to be active and involved, he points out, adding that they enjoy the option of choosing when and where they want to work.

"For retirees who temp, there are two kinds of income — financial and psychic," Fanning says. "New goals and a continuing sense of accomplishment enhance the retirees' feeling of purpose and self-worth. And, of course, today's entry level pay rates for temps hardly resemble the starting pay of days gone by. Today's temporaries make anywhere from $4 to $15 an hour, depending on skill levels."

At Opti-Ray in Farmingdale, N.Y., a distributor of eyeglasses, Salvatore Gualtieri, a temporary employed as a production line supervisor, said,

"After retirement, I was home for 19 months and felt my mind just stagnating. I wanted to go back to work."

Gualtieri's supervisor, John Balazy, a production manager at the firm, said, "I'm new to middle management, but Sal is not. He has seen it all and knows what to expect. The things Sal tells me, you can't learn in a textbook or in the classroom."

In terms of keeping track of Social Security retirement benefit limits, each Uniforce paycheck, for example, lists income to date. Retirees simply stop accepting temp assignments as their earnings limits are reached. When retirees reach age 70, there is no longer a limit on earnings, and Social Security benefits remain unaffected regardless of income.

"With temp services, age is never a barrier and in the case of older employees, it is a definite plus," Fanning says.

Children are both naturally giving and naturally selfish, and Dr. Benjamin Spock says this holiday season and all year parents can help children grow up generous - right from infancy.

William Billings Jr., 30, Mr. Missouri from

St. Charles, Mo., is congratulated by Cathy

Real generosity is more than just polite sharing of playthings, Spock wrote in the current issue of Redbook. It springs from love. But even the most loving child needs some parental guidance along the way.

Even a very young baby has the impulse to give. Well before age 1, a baby chewing a bread crust will offer the soggy end to his mother with a loving smile. At just over a year old, he will survey a visitor warily, then perhaps offer one of his toys. But he won't let go, because giving up personal possessions is still beyond him Spock said a mother could encourage a baby's giving impulse by pretending to enjoy the soggy crust, smiling and smacking her

"If a toy is offered but the baby doesn't want to let go, don't try to pull it away from him — that will only bring out his possessiveness," Spock wrote. "Instead, lay your hand on the toy, smile and say thank you.

That shows him his impulse was a good one.

By age 2, children will try to be helpful to parents, but they do not share toys or play cooperatively.

"Mine," and yank toys away when another child tries to use them

'I wouldn't try to persuade them to share their playthings with others," Spock wrote. "They are far too possessive and selfish to accept the idea of sharing, and think that playmates who use their toys won't give them back.

Instead of focusing on his selfishness, encourage his demonstrations of helpfulness.

The 3- to 5-year-old still likes being helpful and is better at it. 'Playtime for children at this age becomes more sophisticated. They enjoy a variety of cooperative activities, building block structures, taking turns pulling the wagon and then riding in it, playing house or doctor or pretending to be the driver and then a passenger on a busy bus,"

Spock wrote. 'Though the 2-year-old will staunchly hold onto his toys and insist on having his own way, the 3-year-old begins to make the transition from selfishness to generosity, cooperation and com-

By encouraging cooperative play and household helpfulness, parents teach children about giving and getting.

After age 6, children become peer-oriented and sometimes intolerant of those who seem diffe-

"Teaching children about tolerance of others is important,' Spock said, "because I consider tolerance to be a vital aspect of a generous nature.

In Paris, during the last two weeks of December, there is the traditional illumination of the Champs-Elysees, Place Vendome and other major sites in the city, as well as the display of creches at the churches of St. Roch, St. Eustache, and St.

Closer to home, Southern California is promoting its annual Rose Parade, set for Jan. 1, 1988, at 8:20 a.m., followed by the Rose Bowl football classic, at 2 p.m. It's all part of the 99th Tournament of Roses in Pasadena, Calif., with this year's theme, "Thanks to Communications." Publicists set the lure of sunny California when much of the nation is bundling up for the cold: 'The mountains support a blue canopy in the distance as sunshine sparkles on the polished instruments of the bands and silver saddles of the equestrians.' They also note there are popular amusement parks nearby, as well as Rodeo Drive shopping (or, at least, window shopping), and exhibits at the Museum of Contemporary Art and the Los Angeles County Art Museum.

"If we didn't pass much, then they would just be keying on the run," the freshman quarterback said Monday after the Mountaineers' first practice at the Sun Bowl. "It's hard to run the ball when they're keying on it." Harris ran about an equal number of rushing and passing plays in Monday's 21/2-hour practice, the first of four before Friday's Sun Bowl game against the Cow-

"I think they'll see a team that'll do a lot of different things: run a little, pass a little," Coach Don Nehlen said of Oklahoma

The Cowboys, ranked 11th and carrying a 9-2 record, take on the unranked Mountaineers, 6-5, in the Christmas Day afternoon game. West Virginia insists the team is better than its record indicates.

"The second half of the year, we started passing better when Major improved," running back Harvey Smith said.

Nehlen said Harris improved dramatically after the fourth game, a 6-3 loss to Pitt.

'I think we do a lot of good things throwing the football," he said. "We have been very, very productive in the passing game. Major's a good player. (Fans) will like him, even if they don't like our team, because he's exciting."

West Virginia's cold weather and final exams have made practices infrequent since the last regular-season game Nov. 21, Nehlen said, adding that the players seemed sluggish Monday.

"They looked soft to me today," he said. "I didn't see anybody that looked very tough." But he said he expects the team to hit its peak on game day. "I think we're about three practices away from being ready to play and I think we maybe we played the fourth today, so I think we're on schedule," Nehlen said.

To put them into shape, Nehlen made his players run a bit more

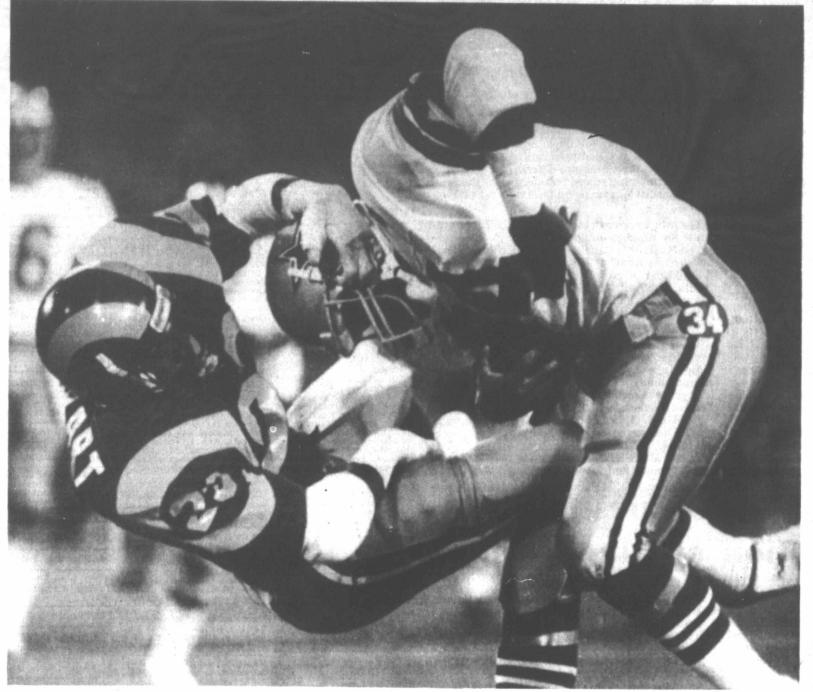

"They probably are trying to figure out why they had to work so hard, because this is supposed to be such a great time," he said.

Cowboys snap losing streak

By KEN PETERS AP Sports Writer

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) - In a mostly forgettable season for the Dallas Cowboys, they put together a memorable game against the Los Angeles Rams.

"We had a terrific effort," a pleased Tom Landry said after his Cowboys snapped a four-game losing streak with a 29-21 victory over the Los Angeles Rams on Monday night. 'We needed a terrific effort, as well as the Rams have been playing. owner Bum Bright for some of his coaching in order to win. decisions, added, "It's really good to win, to come in and play well.

"We needed a win. This will help us going into next year.

The victory, which gave the Cowboys a 6-8 record heading into their season-closing game with St. Louis next Sunday, also put the Rams at 6-8 and ended what might have been a most amazing comeback for Los Angeles. After a 1-7 start, the Rams reeled off five straight victories and were in contention for a playoff spot until the Cowboys beat them. The final NFC wild-card berth now will go to either the Minnesota Vikings or St. Louis Cardinals.

Los Angeles Coach John Robinson, who had taken the Rams to the playoffs in each of his four previous seasons, said Dallas simply outplayed his team

"They came out and put together one of their finest games," he said. "Their offensive effort was almost perfect."

Roger Ruzek kicked a Dallas record five field goals, and the Cowboys played an allround solid game.

Herschel Walker led the offense and Michael Downs and Ed "Too Tall" Jones turned in fine defensive performances Walker gained 108 yards on 23 carries and also had six receptions for 54 yards. "Herschel Walker played like a great football player." Robinson said. "He ran the foot-

Landry, criticized recently by Cowboys ball at us, he did the things a runner has to to obviously the dominant player on the field.

Meanwhile, the Cowboys' defense held Charles White, the NFL rushing leader, to just 66 yards on 26 carries.

'Our goal was to keep White inside and not let him get outside," Landry said. "We had the chances to keep him inside and we did.'

Ruzek, breaking the team record he shared with three other former Cowboy kickers, hit field goals of 24, 42, 44, 47 and 37 yards, without a miss. The Dallas touchdowns came on a 1-yard run by Walker and a 27-yard pass from Steve Pelluer to Doug Cosbie.

The Rams, who trailed 26-7 midway through the third quarter, made it interesting with a 1-yard touchdown run by Jim Everett later in that period and a 15-yard scoring throw from Steve Dils to Kevin House in the final quarter.

Dils came on after Everett went down with an ankle injury.

Doctors said after the game that Everett had suffered a chipped bone in his ankle, so he won't be able to play next weekend against the San Francisco 49ers.

The Rams also lost starting fullback Mike Guman for the final game, with a foot injury. The Cowboys, hit with injuries to their line-backing corps this season, lost another when Jesse Penn suffered a fractured leg. Pelluer, given the nod over Danny White as the season winds down, completed 15 of 30 for 183 yards, with no interceptions The Cowboys also didn't lose any fumbles

'I think it was a key that we didn't turn the ball over," Pelluer said. "I thought the most encouraging thing was we moved the ball consistently

'I thought I proved I could do the job. My attitude is just go out and play as hard as I can and I hope someday I am the quarterback for the Cowboys.

The Rams' White, meanwhile, said Los Angeles hadn't even been thinking about the possibility of making it to the playoffs, commenting, "We know we came a long way back and it was a great turnaround (from the horrible start).

"But all we can do now is get ready for San Francisco. No regrets.

Lawyer refutes charges against ex-Buffs' coach

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — An attorney for former West Texas State basketball coach Gary Moss says the NCAA has damaged his client's reputation with false allegations of misconduct.

'We think we can explain them all (the allegations) and that there's nothing to this," Amarillo attorney Philip Russ said Monday. The NCAA has "jumped on the man and they're trying to ruin his career.'

The NCAA last week issued an official inquiry to WTSU that listed 18 allegations of misconduct, several of them involving Moss, now head coach at Sam Houston State.

The allegations against the Division II school included recruiting violations and providing players with free airplane travel, free use of telephone credit cards and cash payments

The NCAA said that in a meeting with its enforcement officials, Moss provided "false and misleading information concerning his involvement in and knowledge of" the allegations.

But Russ said Moss, who left WTSU at the end of last season, went out of his way to cooperate with enforcement officials and has not been treated in kind. 'They've not yet told us what the exact charges were," said Russ, adding his only knowledge of the allegations have come from newspaper accounts. "I think the charges are ridiculous. I think the NCAA is the KGB of college sports.

The NCAA charged that airline tickets and automobile transportation for personal travel were arranged for players by Moss and two of his assistants. The probe stemmed from an $18,000 telephone credit card abuse that occurred from August 1984 to August 1986. The NCAA said members of WTSU's coaching staff allowed team members to make free long-distance calls, but Russ said Moss himself reported the abuses to the NCAA after he discovered them and believed the players obtained the code numbers without the coaches' knowledge. Meanwhile, a WTSU booster named in the NCAA allegations as having given cash payments to players said he didn't know he was breaking NCAA rules.

Ronnie Mankin, an Amarillo insurance agent and former WTSU assistant football coach, said he merely gave a loan to player Eric Carmen, believing he was no longer on scholarship.

Mankin said Monday that Carmen, who had been injured and did not play the previous season, was having car trouble in the middle of the summer.

"I loaned him $250 so he could get home," Mankin said. "I didn't know I broke a rule.'

A few weeks later, Carmen was notified he was no longer on scho-

ougars win tourney crown

By The Associated Press

One Southwest Conference basketball team captured a tournament championship, another advanced in a tournament, but in non-tournament games, the conference didn't fare as well, losing two of the three games.

Houston captured the championship of the Spindletop Blowout Tournament in Beaumont by defeating host Lamar, 71-67, Monday night.

Texas A&M advanced in the Met Life Classic in San Francisco by defeated Iona, 78-73.

In non-tournament action, Southern Methodist defeated Santa Clara, 78-70, Tennessee-Chattanooga edged Texas, 71-70, and Georgetown blasted Rice, 90 - 63

Texas A&M will continue playing the Met Life Classic tonight. In non-tournament games, Texas Tech will visit Purdue and Coppin State visits Baylor.

Tom Grant scored 19 points to lead Houston to the victory in the Beaumont tournament.

Three other Cougars scored in double digits. Horace Chaney and Rolando Ferreira contributed 13 apiece and Richard Hollis, who was named tournament MVP, scored 12.

Lamar, 4-3, led briefly in the first half, going up by three to 26-23. But Houston, 5-2, led 39-35 by halftime and pulled further ahead throughout the second half. The Cardinals were led by James Gulley's 23 points and Brian Bolden's 19.

Guard Freddie Ricks hit a three-point shot with 1:18 left in overtime to give the Texas A&M Aggies a 78-73 victory over the Iona Gaels.

Ricks hit the shot that broke a 73-all tie. He also added a breakaway goal with one second left in the Iona, trailing 67-59 with 6:29 left in the game, outscored the Aggies 8-0 to tie the game 67-67 with 2:36 remaining. The Gaels' defense allowed Texas A&M

The Aggies, 6-4, were led in scoring by Paul Crawford with 18, Donald Thompson with 18 and guard Keron Graves with 16. The Gaels, 4-3, were led by Jeff Wilder with 19.

Perry McDonald scored 19 points and grabbed 14 rebounds as Georgetown took advantage of 17 Rice turnovers in a 90-63 victory.

The Owls managed to shoot only 39 per cent from Rice, which lost its fifth straight after opening the season with two victories, got 15 points from David Willie and 13 from Ronald Robertson. "I thought we were capable of making it a very close game, but we fell down in the second half," Owls Coach Scott Thompson said. "We had a lot of trouble with their pressure defense.

Kato Armstrong scored 24 points to lead the South ern Methodist Mustangs to a 78-70 victory over Santa

The win improved the Mustangs' record to 8-1, while the Broncos dropped to 4-4.

The Mustangs built a 15-point lead in the first half, but slackened during the second half as the Broncos' methodical offense narrowed the deficit to six points, 64-58, with just 4:20 remaining.

Armstrong and senior Carlton McKinney combined to bring the Mustangs out of their funk and preserve the victory. McKinney finished with 21.

The Broncos were led by Dan Weiss and Osei Appiah, who each had 12.

Morris Lyons sank a 14-foot jump shot early in the second half to give Tennessee-Chattanooga its first lead of the game en route to a 71-70 victory over the Texas Longhorns.

The Mocs, of the Southern Conference, improved to 6-2. The Longhorns, of the Southwest Conference, Travis Mays led the scoring for the Longhorns, only two points in the final 6:29 seconds of regula- with 20 points, and Russell Green had 13 points.

Longhorns' coach hopes to start winning tradition at Bluebonnet

By JACK KEEVER Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Coach David McWilliams says he hopes the New Year's Eve Bluebonnet Bowl match against Pittsburgh will halt the Longhorns' recent losing record in post-season games and start a winning tradition.

Texas has not won a lot of bowl games lately, and I think it's important that we start a record of trying to do better in the bowl games," McWilliams told a news conference Monday.

Although Texas has been thought of for years as a football power, the Longhorns are 15-15-2 in bowl games and have not won one since Jan. 1, 1982, when they defeated Alabama 14-12 in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas.

Since then, Texas has lost to North Carolina, Georgia, Iowa and Air Force. Last year, the Longhorns staved home with a 5-6 record.

McWilliams said the 29th annual Bluebonnet matching Pittsburgh and Texas for the first time in football could be a preview of next year's Heisman Trophy race.

He said Pittsburgh running back Craig "Ironhead" Heyward is a legitimate candidate for the national award, and he also hopes Texas tailback Eric Metcalf will be considered.

Heyward at 260 pounds was the No. 2 rusher in college football during the past season with 1.655 yards. Metcalf, 175, was the No. 3 all-purpose runner with 1,925 yards — 1,161 rushing, 238 receiving and 526 yards on punt and kickoff returns.

(a top candidate), because of the fact that he received votes this year. ... He's got to go in as a

Eric does."

Kickoff for the game in Houston's Astrodome is 7:08 p.m. CST. Capacity is 55,155.

Texas, 6-5 this season, is 2-2-1 in the Bluebonnet. Pittsburgh, 8-3, is 7-9 in bowls and is making its first post-season appearance since 1984.

The key to the game is Heyward, according to McWilliams. "He will not only run over you — and he will do that but he also can run around you. Very seldom do you play someone in the backfield who's bigger than your defensive linemen," he said. Defensively, McWilliams noted that Pittsburgh has allowed only 233 total yards and 10.4 points a game, ranking fourth nationally in both categories. Texas defensive tackle Ken Hackemack and offensive guard Omar Saleh will miss the bowl game with injuries, McWilliams said. Defensive tackles Steve Llewellyn and Roger Fritcher are expected to play but will have shoulder operations after the Texas quarterback Bret Stafford has had a sore elbow but should be healthy by game time. McWilliams indicated. Offensive tackle Brian Nielsen will return after missing the Texas A&M game on Thanksgiving with a sprained ankle.

A&M won that game, 20-13, sending the Aggies not Texas - to the Cotton Bowl as Southwest Conference champions.

McWilliams said there is no question his team would rather be in Dallas, but added, "I think the players ... are very happy to be going (to Houston). "I don't think there's any question that Heyward is They feel good about going to this game. We've had good practices, spirited practices. We haven't had to beat them with a whip to get them to work, and I definite possibility next year. And we certainly hope don't hear any griping.

MONDAY DECEMBER 28. . . . . . . . . . THURS. DEC. 24, 12 W

"He was a perfect gentleman when they were beating us every year," Glanville said Monday. "Last year they beat us twice, and (Noll) said I was doing a great coaching job. When you get beat, different frustrations come into place. He's a very intense coach.'

Noll refused to discuss his postgame lecture to Glanville, saying, "Anything I have to say about it I'll say to the league. It's not going to help ebating it right now ... but sometimes you're forced to police your own game.'

Noll, who is 55 and played seven years as an offensive guard for the Cleveland Browns, told Oilers' cornerback Steve Brown during the game, "Tell your coach to meet me in the middle of the field. ... Who do you think would win?'

"You would, coach," Brown reportedly said. Noll also complained to NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle that Oilers' nose tackle Charles Martin speared running back Earnest Jackson during Houston's 23-3 victory at Pittsburgh Nov. 15. Jackson suffered a bruised back and wound up missing nearly four weeks of play.

Nance top player

NEW YORK (AP) - Phoenix forward Larry Nance, who averaged 32.7 points, 11.7 rebounds and three blocked shots last week, was named NBA Player of the Week.

Nance scored a career-high 45 points, grabbed 15 rebounds and blocked seven shots as the Suns beat Sacramento 120-109 Sunday. On Friday, he had 26 points and 14 rebounds in a 129-114 loss to Portland. He also scored 27 points in a 122-97 loss to the Los Angeles Lakers on Tuesday. Nance, who shot .655 from the field during the week, missed the first 10 games of the season with a broken hand. He leads the Suns in scoring (26.9), rebounding (9.4), and blocked shots (2.1) per game.
