Meat Boycott Gains Momentum In Nation

By KRIS LILJEHOLM
Associated Press Writer

Consumers appear to be biting into the week-long meat boycott with determination, throwing off meat sales by as much as 80 per cent in scores of supermarkets from coast to coast and slicing some prices 29 cents a pound.

"It's like my meat had some disease. Nobody'll even touch it," complained a meat manager in the New York City area, where a check of supermarkets showed the boycott to be about 80 per cent effective on the first shopping day Monday.

A shopping-cart check in Boise, Idaho, found 22 out of 50 women had bypassed the meat counter. In Albuquerque, N.M., only about a third of the shoppers in one store were taking home meat. A survey of six large Oklahoma City supermarkets turned up no customers at the meat counter in three stores, only one woman at another and meat buying "about normal" in the other two.

While many retailers were saying it was too soon to tell how successful the boycott would be, since most housewives do their weekly shopping in midweek and many had stocked up on meat last week, red meat prices were on the way down in a few stores by as much as 29 cents a pound.

Effects of the boycott showed up every where along the line, from the stockyards to the packing houses.

Cattle were $1 to $2 higher in Kansas City markets, while hogs were down $3 at the National Stockyards in Illinois. Cattle were mostly $1 higher, with hogs $3 to $4 lower.

Stougaard Beef Processors closed their plants temporarily in Fargo, N.D., Omaha, Neb., and Sioux City, Iowa. They said they wanted to determine what effect the boycott would have. Standard Beef Inc. of Detroit, which normally processes 150

200 cattle a day, was handling only 100-125. Meat packers across Michigan reported orders down 25 per cent.

Some 500 butchers were furloughed by Cincinnati packing houses. Thomas Ranshaw, president of the local butcher's union, said he expected 500 more to be laid off by week's end as farmers and ranchers withhold stock and processors buy cautiously.

One dinner table where meat was conspicuously present Monday evening was at the Western White House, where visiting South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu and President Nixon dined on roast prime tenderloin of beef.

The President last Thursday announced a ceiling on beef, pork and lamb prices, allowing retailers to sell the products at their top rate for March but no higher.

Nixon's adviser on consumer affairs, Virginia Knauer, said in San Francisco Monday the boycott would have no long-range effect and urged shoppers instead to be selective in their buying.

Many stores reported a lull on fish and poultry. A Cedar Falls, Iowa, market turned over nearly half its meat counter to fish and found reaction "much better than we expected."

An Iowa turkey farmer, Keith Burbridge of Cedar Falls, said the demand for the holiday bird was the strongest in 25 years. Poultry sales were "out of sight" over the weekend at a chain in Portland, Ore.

New York City's Fulton Fish Market was booming Monday—but one fishmonger said he was boycotting fish. "I wanted $2.50 a pound for yellow-tail flounder," said Louis Kleber of South River, N.J. "That's 70 cents over what I sell it for. I turned it down."

Retail meat price cutbacks were reported in several areas.

The Great Scott chain, with 46 outlets in Michigan, said it was rolling back beef, pork and lamb prices to the lowest everyday price levels charged in March, instead of holding to the highest prices, as allowed by the President's ceiling order.

USDA choice chuck steaks, for instance, 98 cents a pound under the ceiling limits, will be 79 cents, the chain said.

Piggly Wiggly, a chain of 22 stores in Minnesota, rolled back prices on some cuts of beef and pork about 10 cents a pound, Dominick's, a major Chicago area chain, was advertising sirloin at $1.30 a pound, 29 cents below recent prices, and Baltimore's Giant Food Inc. lowered the price of several cuts of beef.

Jane Fuld, Dallas chairman of Fight Inflation Together—the group which originated the meat-ban idea in California—said, "Supermarkets are advertising meat like never before. Prices are down as much as 20 or 30 cents per pound. I don't know if the reductions are permanent or if they're just trying to spoil our boycott."

WITH McCORD No More Secret Sessions Set

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Watergate investigations committee acting to plug a flood of leaked information, said today it will hold no more secret sessions with convicted Watergate spy James W. McCord Jr.

All further interviews with McCord will be conducted by the committee staff at undisclosed times and places with a view to beginning open hearings within 10 days to two weeks, a committee spokesman said.

A secret session scheduled with McCord Wednesday before the full committee was canceled.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., the committee chairman, said his panel does not expect to hold private formal sessions with any other witness.

Ervin told a news conference there are "indications" that either McCord or his attorney, Bernard Fensterwald, may have been the sources of the leaks which triggered newspaper stories on what McCord told the committee in private last Wednesday.

Monday, after yet another news account quoted supposedly secret testimony linking the White House to the spying, President Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, complained of "irresponsible leaks" and called on Ervin to "get his house in order."

Earlier Monday, Ervin, just back from an absence of several days to attend a family funeral, said at a news conference he was worried about the news leaks. "I think that in finite harm can be done to an individual to charge him with complicity in a case of this kind in the absence of any concrete evidence," he said.

The comments came after columnist Jack Anderson said convicted Watergate spy James McCord gave the committee a written memorandum quoting G. Gordon Liddy, a Nixon reelection official also convicted in the case, as saying the wiretapping was planned at a meeting in the office of Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

Anderson supplied The Associated Press with a copy of the alleged McCord memorandum, but it carried no signatures or other identifying marks, and its authenticity could not be determined.

However, a source familiar with the matter said the memo appears to be an authentic copy of one McCord supplied to the committee on March 26.

The memo quoted Liddy as saying "bugging and other related operations" were discussed in February 1972 by Liddy, Mitchell, White House counsel John W. Dean III and Jeb Magruder, another Nixon campaign official.

About 30 days after the February meeting in the A.G.'s office, Liddy told me that the op-

Witnesses Sentenced In Russia

MOSCOW (AP)—A court in Lithuania has sentenced four Jehovah's Witnesses to five years in labor camps and five others to lesser terms.

The Witnesses were accused of building an underground organization, printing and disseminating anti-Soviet literature and urging disobedience of Soviet laws. Sovietskaya Litva—the newspaper of the Lithuanian Communist party, said the sect's literature and theological directives came from the headquarters of the Witnesses in Brooklyn, N.Y., headed by Nathan Homer Knorr. It called him a "reactionary anti-Communist."

The paper said the Witnesses in the Soviet Union are headed by Wiljus Aratus, described as an elderly man. It reported a court in the Baltic port city of Klaipeda sentenced him and two associates to five years in "strict regime" labor camps and another person got five years in a less severe labor camp.

Two more Witnesses got two-year sentences, another got 2½ years, and two others were put on probation for three years.

The paper said Aratus organized secret groups of Witnesses in Lithuania, Latvia and around Leningrad and Kaliningrad.

Sovietskaya Litva said the Witnesses had a tightly organized, "multi-stage" leadership structure throughout the Soviet Union that was highly efficient in arranging secret meetings for Bible readings, smuggling pamphlets into the country and reproducing and distributing them.

eration had been approved—and that the funding for it would be through shortly," the memo said.

"My impression was that the word of this approval came from Dean, although this was not specifically stated by Liddy."

This account is substantially what McCord was reported earlier to have told the Senate committee in person last week.

The memo didn't mention any documents or other evidence in McCord's possession that might back up the charges.

But it said some parts of the account might be verified by two former secretaries to Liddy, identified as Sally Harmon and Sylvia Panarites, or by Robert Reissner, an administrative assistant to Magruder.

SOME POLITICALLY MOTIVATED Argentine Kidnapers Abduct Four In Separate Incidents

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Kidnapers are holding three men and a boy in Argentina. Each was abducted separately.

The victims are Antony R. DaCruz, technical operations manager for Eastman Kodak Co. in Argentina and the first American kidnaped in the country; retired Rear Adm. Francisco Agustín Aleman; Gerardo Scalmazzi, an Argentine branch manager of the First National Bank of Boston; and Angel Fabiani, 16-year-old son of a wealthy Buenos Aires businessman.

DaCruz and Aleman were kidnaped Monday and authorities said leftist political groups were responsible. Fabiani also was kidnaped Monday, but members of his family said his abductors were believed to be common criminals interested only in a big ransom. Scalmazzi was kidnaped last Wednesday in Rosario, but it has not been determined whether his seizure had political overtones.

About six or eight young men ran a pickup truck into DaCruz's car near the Kodak plant in a Buenos Aires suburb, pulled DaCruz out and drove off in another vehicle, witnesses told police. Authorities said the 43-year-old executive may have been hurt.

A Kodak official said the kidnapers telephoned and identified themselves as members of a leftist guerrilla organization but had not made ransom demands yet.

A company spokesman said DaCruz was born in Portugal; got a graduate degree from the University of Minnesota, and has worked for Kodak in Rochester, N.Y., and in various Latin American countries. He is a naturalized U.S. citizen, his wife is a Greek who studied at the University of Minnesota, and they have a son at school in Britain.

Adm. Aleman was seized before dawn at his downtown apartment by three young members of the People's Revolutionary Army who tied up his wife and son. The navy said a nephew of the 50-year-old admiral was among the kidnapers.

The kidnapers painted slogans on the walls of the apartment calling for "popular justice for Trelew," a reference to 16 guerrillas killed last August at the navy prison in Trelew. Authorities said the 16 were killed trying to escape, but guerrilla groups said the prisoners were taken from their cells and murdered.

Snows Miss Area, But Not Showers

So far as Pampa was concerned, yesterday's winter storm watch was a vain vigil with the predicted snow getting as near as Amarillo and stalling.

Weather observers say a low pressure cell held the main system off from this area but Pampa should get what was termed "snow showers" today and tonight with a hard freeze possible by early morning, Wednesday.

What snow might come into the area will be only a backlash from the main front which has moved on eastward.

Winds will be gusting from the north up to 30 miles per hour until late evening.

Pampa received a total of 41 inches of moisture yesterday bringing April's total to 52 and the total for the year to 8.28 inches. This is in contrast to a normal measure of 2.03 inches for this period. Totals for March was 6.40 inches compared to a normal average of 8.1 inch.

Elsewhere over the state, turbulence which generated tornadoes and threatening thunderstorms during the night died down, however, as a cool front stirring up the nasty weather moved through East Texas and the coastal plains in early morning.

The lingering moisture was expected to dry up during the day.

Light Vote Turns Out In Forenoon

Voting was running light shortly before noon today in Pampa's city election to pick a mayor and three city commissioners.

Approximately 300 votes had been cast up until 11 a.m. in the city's four wards.

Heaviest vote registered at that hour was 140 in Ward 2, where electors were casting ballots at the North Fire Station, 117 E. 17th St.

Ward 1 at City Hall was next with 119 votes.

Voting was exceptionally light in Ward 3 with 16 votes and Ward 4 with 18.

The Ward 3 voting place was at the Optimists Boys Club, 601 E. Craven, and Ward 4 voters cast ballots at the South Fire Station, 1010 S. Barnes.

Today's election was scheduled to pick a mayor, R.D. Wilkerson of James B. Mauls, Ward 2 councilman, William Tuke or Joe B. Curtis, and a Ward 3 councilman, Leo Braswell or William T. Broxson.

Polls opened at 8 a.m. and will close at 7 p.m.

Voting was expected to pick up later in the day when stores, close and business, industrial and office workers start for home.

Power Failure Strikes Florida

MIAMI Fla. (AP)—More than 2 million customers of Florida Power & Light Co. in Dade, Broward and Palm Beach counties were without electricity today after four massive generators shut down at a power plant, a company spokesman said.

Due to problems unknown at this point, the four generating units at our Port Everglades plant tripped out of service, spokesman Lory Snipes said.

Apparently, they were responding to signals from our automatic protective devices, which are designed to protect the generators when they sense a problem.

Snipes said the company began restoring service immediately and hoped to have full service restored within two hours. "We don't know exactly yet what the cause is," said Joseph Scott, commercial manager for FP&L in Fort Lauderdale.

Nixon And Thieu To Reaffirm Ties

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP)—President Nixon and Saigon's Nguyen Van Thieu were ready to reaffirm strong ties between their governments today at the windup of their first meeting in nearly four years.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon and the South Vietnamese president were discussing everything from continued U.S. aid to the Thieu regime to Nixon's plans for similar assistance to Hanoi.

"As for Nixon's repeated warnings to North Vietnam that violations of the Paris peace agreement could bring serious consequences, Ziegler said this was another summit topic. The continued American bombing aimed at slowing a Communist advance in Cambodia also was being discussed, he added.

Ziegler was firm in saying "I don't believe it would serve any useful purpose to focus on hypothetical military situations and a possible resumption of U.S. bombing missions over Vietnam if truce violations continue."

The White House spokesman said the two leaders were reaffirming their alliance during their two days of talks. He suggested redeployment aid was a priority item on the agenda.

After a morning conference today, the Nixons were allowing their visitor and Mrs. Thieu the use of the Nixon home to entertain the American summit delegation at a farewell luncheon.

The two presidents promised to end their sessions with oral statements and a joint communique.

Court Decides Against Impoundment

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled that President Nixon acted illegally in impounding federal highway construction funds appropriated by Congress.

The ruling came on Monday as the appeals court upheld a decision by U.S. District Court Judge William Becker of Kansas City that the President could not withhold $89 million in road funds from the Missouri Highway Commission.

In its 2-1 majority opinion, the Court of Appeals said funds appropriated by Congress "are not to be withheld from obligation for purposes totally unrelated to the highway program."

President Nixon has said he intends to curb inflation by holding federal spending at $250 billion. He has impounded some $15 billion appropriated by Congress for federal programs such as housing, rural conservation and highways.

A government attorney who had represented former Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe, told the court in January the President is not obligated by law to spend money appropriated by Congress and that if such spending is to be mandatory, Congress must pass a law to that effect.

Judge Donald P. Lay said in the appeals court's majority opinion, however, that nothing in the 1956 Federal-Aid Highway Act "explicitly or implicitly allows the Secretary of Transportation to withhold approval of construction projects for reasons remote and unrelated to the act."

Concurring in the decision was Judge Gerald W. Heaney of Duluth, Minn. Lay of Omaha, Neb., and Heaney were appointed to the court by former President President Lyndon B. Johnson.

The dissenter was Judge Roy L. Stephenson of Des Moines, Iowa, who was named to the appeals panel by President Nixon.

In his dissenting opinion, Stephenson said his interpretation of the highway act was that Congress "made a deliberate choice to grant to the executive discretion in determining the extent to which appropriated funds will be made available for obligation."

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., and 19 other Democratic Senators had filed a friend of the court brief supporting the

4 Healthy Young Men Lying Flat On Backs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Four healthy young men are being paid $100 a week for lying flat on their backs in bed for nine months.

They are volunteers in a research project on how to maintain healthy bone growth balance in a prolonged space flight, as in a two-year mission to Mars.

Loss of calcium from the skeletal bones is a major health threat from the prolonged weightlessness that space voyagers would encounter, says Dr. Stephen Hulley, project director at the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital here.

Prolonged bed rest helps produce the effects of weightlessness and results in a lag in the body's normal production of new bone tissue.

The loss of essential calcium deposits in the bones produces a condition called osteoporosis. Bones become brittle and weakened. Simple fractures are a serious hazard.

The current four bed volunteers are the latest group in a

Ball Game Postponed

The District 3 AAAA baseball game between Pampa and Tascosa in Amarillo today was called off because of the condition of the field.

That is the second district game for Pampa that has been postponed. The opener, was slated Friday here against Caprock. It was called off as was the make-up game between PHS and The Longhorns yesterday.

The Harvesters have not played a ball game since March 19. Since that date six games have been called off.

The contest against Caprock and Tascosa will have to be re-scheduled since they are district games.

Crude Price Raised

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An increase of 25 cents a barrel in the posted price of North Texas and West Central Texas crude oil was announced Monday by Atlantic Richfield Co.

It said the new price of 40-degree API gravity retroactive to March 21, is $3.81 per barrel.

House To Debate Last Reform Bill

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Texas House members take sides today on the ninth and last of Speaker Price Daniel's reform bills—a measure to regulate political campaign contributions and expenses.

Also on the House agenda for the 1 p.m. session was final consideration of another so-called reform bill, the open meeting law, that has already passed both the House and Senate.

Rep. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, attempted Monday to get House approval of several Senate changes made in the open meetings bill but Rep. DeWitt Hale, D-Corpus Christi, protested and Parker postponed his request until today.

"By and large, this is a substantial improvement in the open meetings law over the existing law," Parker told the House Monday. He said the Senate tightened the definition of meetings by public officials, including those at social gatherings where political matters might be discussed.

The House has already approved eight of Daniel's reform measures. Only two have been considered so far by the Senate—the open meetings bill and a bill the Senate killed on limiting the power of joint conference committees.

The House finally approved Monday 116-24, an optional no-fault car insurance bill and sent it to the Senate. "There is absolutely no fault in this bill," said Rep. Don Davness, D-Austin, an insurance agent. The measure had been backed by the State Bar of Texas.

Representatives also gave tentative approval to a bill providing auto registration plates that would be good for five years at a time. Each year the owner would have to put on a new corner tab—after paying his registration fees.

Ruling On Pipeline Case Delays Legal Showdown

WASHINGTON, (AP)—With the oil-to-a-port on Alaska's southern coast and from there by tanker ships to the U.S. West Coast.

Three environmental groups, the Environmental Defense Fund, Friends of the Earth, and the Wilderness Society, claimed Interior had not submitted an environmental impact assessment of the project, as required by law.

The Supreme Court's action Monday means that the separate issue of the proposed pipeline's environmental impacts, which might have been considered simultaneously if the court had ordered it, now must wait its turn in court until Congress has completed action on the right-of-way question.

Spokesmen for the government, construction industry and environmental groups agreed the decision would cause further delays in the pipeline case, which already has dragged on in the courts for three years.

In 1968, a huge oil field was discovered on Alaska's frozen Arctic shores. A group of oil companies asked the Interior Department in 1969 for permission to build an 800-mile pipeline across the federal government's vast land holdings in Alaska.

The companies, now represented by the Alyeska Pipeline Service Co., want to transport the oil to a port on Alaska's southern coast and from there by tanker ships to the U.S. West Coast.

Jeffrey said the condition of former-POWs was mostly due to efforts "on our part" and that if she wants to look for scars there are plenty of men who have scars on their body from mistreatment.

Jeffrey, 31, who spent seven years in a Vietnam prison camp, dismissed Miss Fonda's statements as a means of justifying her antiwar activities. "Everything I've heard her say rings of communist propaganda and it kind of disgusts me."

Jeffrey participated in a news conference last week in which a fellow ex-POW, Col. Samuel Johnson of Plano called Miss Fonda "the most despicable woman in the world."

Hubert says US Faces New Constitutional Crisis

ABILENE, Tex. (AP)—This country is facing a constitutional crisis, Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., declared Monday.

The one-time Democratic candidate for president aired his views at an afternoon news conference and a night address to students at Abilene Christian College.

He defined constitutional crisis as a situation in which "the executive and legislative branches of government are struggling over who should have the power over spending."

Humphrey was asked at the news conference if he favored aid to north Vietnam, particularly in view of prisoner of war accounts of torture. He said, "I've had serious doubts around aid anyhow, and I said I'd support it on two points only: (1) that the funds not come out of domestic programs and (2) that other countries contribute."

He said the United States should be part of an international group if it gives aid and added, "But we're going to have trouble getting it approved anyway."

Asked to comment on actress Jane Fonda's assertion that the POWs were lying about torture, he said, "Jane Fonda is a fine actress... and she's entitled to her opinion."

Humphrey also was asked to comment on former Texas Gen. John Connally's rumored switch to the Republican party and said, "If he (Connally) becomes a Republican, he could well get the nomination in 1976 if he starts early."

Most of Humphrey's comments, however, centered around the Nixon administration and the presidential impoundment of funds appropriated by Congress.

"The (constitutional) crisis faced today," said the senator, "is a deliberate, conscious and manufactured attempt to concentrate in the executive branch of government power forbidden it by the Constitution."

"Policy impoundment is executive arrogance," Humphrey said. "It encroaches upon the constitutional prerogative of Congress and it violates the separation of powers."

Nixon says he's a law-and-order President, but he continues to break the law.

USDA Rep Gives Rap To Boycott

"The boycott will fizzle," stated Doyle Oliver, supervisor, USDA meat grader, Amarillo district, to local and area ranch wives at the annual monthly luncheon of the Top O' Texas Cowbelles Monday at the Coronado Inn.

"If the housewife doesn't buy meat this week, it's only because she's stocked-up last week or had a good supply of beef in the freezer," he continued.

He told members to check for the grading on cuts of beef for quality in tenderness, juiciness and flavor. The grades are based on nationally uniform Federal standards of quality and are applied by USDA graders.

"Therefore, you can be sure that a USDA Choice rib roast, for example, will provide the same good eating no matter where or when you buy it," he said.

Meat grading is a voluntary service provided by USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service to meat packers and others who request it and pay a fee for the service. So not all meat is graded, although a large percentage of it is, he explained.

Only meat which has first passed a strict inspection for wholesomeness may be graded.

"So you may be sure when you see the grade mark that the meat came from a healthy animal and was processed in a sanitary plant," he said.

The Top O' Texas Cowbelles, organized Sept. 14, 1972, to promote the welfare of the beef industry in this area and to assist the Texas Cowbelles in their activities, will be promoting beef on Amarillo TV, KGNC, Saturday, April 14.

U.S. District Court Judge George A. Hart held up pipeline construction until, more than two years later, Interior produced what it said was a final environmental statement. Hart lifted the injunction.

Returnee Blasts Actress

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Former prisoner of war Maj. Robert Jeffrey of Dallas blasted anti-war activist Jane Fonda Monday, but, at the same time said that he "feels sorry for her."

Miss Fonda, an Academy award-winning actress, last week labeled those POWs who reported they were tortured by their captors "hypocrites and liars."

"If she wants to pursue this she's going to make herself look foolish," said Jeffrey. "This is not something to be lied about."

At the same time, Jeffrey said, Miss Fonda's statements "disgust me... it appears she's talking without thinking."

Miss Fonda said of returning POWs in Burbank, Calif., Saturday that "history will judge them severely. The condition of

Jane Fonda's assertion that the POWs were lying about torture, he said, "Jane Fonda is a fine actress... and she's entitled to her opinion."

Humphrey also was asked to comment on former Texas Gen. John Connally's rumored switch to the Republican party and said, "If he (Connally) becomes a Republican, he could well get the nomination in 1976 if he starts early."

Most of Humphrey's comments, however, centered around the Nixon administration and the presidential impoundment of funds appropriated by Congress.

"The (constitutional) crisis faced today," said the senator, "is a deliberate, conscious and manufactured attempt to concentrate in the executive branch of government power forbidden it by the Constitution."

"Policy impoundment is executive arrogance," Humphrey said. "It encroaches upon the constitutional prerogative of Congress and it violates the separation of powers."

'Nuts' Is Advice In Meat Boycott

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—A Texas A&M University expert on consumer research and nutrition has a word of advice for housewives observing the national meat boycott. The word is "nuts."

Dr. Alice C. Stubbs, an associate professor and head of consumer research at the university, said, "peanuts, walnuts, almonds and cashews used in cooking and as a side dish can add important amounts of protein to meat-free meals."

"Nuts are a good dietary supplement," she said. "They add a fair amount of good protein."

One cup of almonds, cashews, peanuts or walnuts provides more protein than a three-ounce serving of beef, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Dr. Stubbs cautioned, however, that "nuts are high in fats."

The professor said cracked nuts can be served as a topping on casserole dishes or cooked with vegetables. Or, she said, they could be served by themselves in a bowl at the end of a meal.

"Peanut butter," she said, "is also a very good source of protein."

According to the USDA, a three-ounce serving of beef contains about 23 grams of protein. Here are some other foods with as much or more protein:

—Cottage cheese, 12 ounces—46 grams of protein
—Tuna, canned in oil, three ounces—24 grams of protein
—Green peas, canned, three cups—27 grams
—Peanuts, one cup, roasted—37 grams
—Milk, non-fat skim, three cups—27 grams
—Shrimp, canned, three ounces—23 grams
—Red kidney beans, two cups—29.2 grams

Daily protein requirements vary according to age, size, sex, weight and climate but, according to the USDA, an average man requires 70 grams of protein daily, while women need 58 grams.

Celanese Spends Locally

The Pampa plant of Celanese Chemical Co. spent more than $11.7 million on the purchase of supplies and services within the state of Texas during 1972, it was announced today by C.E. Steel, plant manager. Of this amount, more than $10 million—or 85 per cent—was spent within a 50-mile radius of Pampa.

Steel said the local plant's payroll amounted to more than $5.2 million. The Pampa plant also paid more than $434,000 in state and local taxes during 1972.

Celanese Chemical Co., which has four production plants and a technical center within the state of Texas, spent more than $96.9 million for the purchase of supplies and services in the state during 1972. The company's consolidated payrolls at the five Texas locations exceeded $34 million. State and local taxes paid by the five Celanese installations amounted to more than $4 million.

In addition to the Pampa plant, Celanese has chemical plants at Bishop, Bay City and Clear Lake and a Technical Center at Corpus Christi.

Celanese Chemical Co. is an operating division of Celanese Corp., a world-wide producer of chemicals, fibers, plastics, paints and coatings.

Two cases of theft were the only crimes of any magnitude on the police blotter this far this week and police feel the weather has discouraged most wrongdoing in the area.

A 49-year-old man has been arrested pending charges of shoplifting. He allegedly pocketed a container of coffee and attempted to leave a local food store without paying. The owner informed authorities he would file charges in the incident.

Police are investigating the theft of a civilian band radio unit from a work bench at a downtown television and radio repair shop.

No arrests have been made thus far in the case.

Newsmen See a Strange Pattern

By RALPH NOVAK
(Second in a Series)

NEW YORK — (NEA)—Even given the fact that journalists are prone to an exaggerated sense of self-righteousness and feelings of persecution, evidence of oppression has reached a point that makes it worth considering.

Subpoenas since the troubled Democratic Convention in Chicago in 1968, government agencies have more and more often called on reporters to testify in court or supply notes, audio tapes or film about events they have covered. NBC and CBS alone were served with 124 subpoenas in the first two-and-a-half years of the Nixon administration. One reporter, Duane Hall of the Chicago Sun-Times, was ordered to testify in 11 separate cases over 18 months.

being jailed for refusing, for one reason or another, to testify in cases involving people they had reported on.

The government insists journalists should not be able to "obstruct justice" by withholding information. Journalists argue that if they cannot receive information in confidence, few people will be willing to risk talking to them.

Censorship: Things are far from as bad as they were in 1663 England, where printer John Twyn was convicted of publishing a treasonous book and received this sentence: "You shall be hanged by the neck, and

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS: WHO CARES?

The American press has never been monolithic, like that of an authoritarian state. One reason is that there is always important money to be made in journalism by standing up for the underdog (demagogically or honestly, so long as the technique is good). The underdog is numerous and prolific — another name for him is circulation.

Press critic, A. J. Lieblich in "Dartmouth Alumni Magazine," 1947

But the federal government's unsuccessful attempt to prevent publication of the Pentagon Papers in 1971—stopped by the Supreme Court—added to the fears of the press.

The government in that case said it had the right to protect "classified" information while journalists argued the public should be informed about the decision-making process that led to and continued the Vietnam War.

Impostors: The 1972 report by the Twentieth Century Fund, "Press Freedom Under Pressure," listed numerous cases of federal and local law enforcement agents impersonating journalists to gain information.

The government officially forbids use of such impostors but condones it while the press argues that the impostors damage the credibility of legitimate journalists.

Licensing: Since radio and television channels are governed by the Federal the government was trying to control the news.

Whitehead insisted that decentralizing network TV news control would better serve the majority of Americans.

Harassment: Such actions as a decision by the Pennsylvania legislature to move the press section to the rear of its chambers has been cited as a petty way of retaliating against press criticism by members of the press. But most harassing activities have been conducted against the "underground" press, anti-establishment and radical publications whose offices have been raided and whose reporters have been denied official credentials.

Government officials deny there is any harassment. The nationalists suspect something is going on that government officials don't want the public to know.

Co-optation: Owners of news media themselves had on occasion succumbed to hearts while his partner would be declarer at either spades or no-trump, so he passed.

He was a little shocked when he saw the dummy, but not so shocked as to see that there was a play for an over-trick at his silly contract.

He won the club; ruffed a club with dummy's deuce of trumps; cashed the ace of trumps; came to his hand with the ace of diamonds; drew the adverse trumps while discarding three diamonds from dummy; discarded dummy's last diamond on his remaining high club and made the rest of the tricks with spades.

It was an absolute top score. A few pairs reached seven spades; down one; the rest played and made either six spades or six no-trump.

Green Thumb Month Named

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Gov. Dolph Briscoe Monday proclaimed April as "Green Thumb Month" in Texas to focus attention on a rural job training program for low-income men and women 55 or older.

Then last June, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled, 5-4, that reporter Earl Caldwell of the New York Times could not refuse to testify before a grand jury investigating the Black Panther Party, though Caldwell claimed that his relationship with the Panthers should be "privileged," like that of a lawyer to a client. Since then four reporters in various parts of the country have press insists it exists and is being used to "intimidate critics."

And may the Lord have mercy upon your soul.

Suppression of information: Presidential press conferences are rare, members of President Nixon's staff are generally not available to the press and reporters are often refused access to information because it is "classified." Local government bodies hold illegal, unofficial meetings not open to the press.

Government officials say they withhold only information that would be sensitive diplomatically or damaging to innocent individuals. Journalism, broadcasters are especially vulnerable to government pressure. When Clay Whitehead, director of the White House office of Telecommunications Policy, condemned "elitist" gossip in TV network news, broadcasters reacted by saying

WORRY CLINIC

George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

William Buckley is noted for his superb wit and debating skill, so I never miss hearing him if I am in his area. But the weak microphone left hundreds of his audience disappointed. So test your auditoriums in advance!

A similar cardinal axiom of salesmanship states:

"Unless the prospect UNDERSTANDS what you are saying, he will not buy!"

Bill Buckley normally speaks in a low key, conversational vein, as on TV and at roundtable seminars where 25 may be present.

So he expected the microphone and loud speaker system to magnify his voice till everybody in the auditorium (and even, out in the lobby) should have been able to hear him clearly.

This Wabash College theater was a beautiful setting for Buckley and the college, plus townpeople, gave him a vociferous greeting.

Billy Graham, Oral Roberts and other professional orators who speak loudly, could have handled 1,000 people even without an amplifying system. And in my many lectures around the country, I usually try to speak so the crowd can hear, even if the microphone isn't working.

Thus, I prefer to let the engineer turn down the microphone, if need be, for I don't take a chance on inaudibility.

Mrs. Crane and I stood in the back for 15 minutes and never could distinguish a word that Buckley uttered.

So we reluctantly joined many others who turned away and went home.

Colleagues, when you import high priced speakers, singers and other platform artists, be sure you test your halls beforehand!

And send for my booklet "Public Platform Strategy," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

Dear Abby

What 'counseling' is hubby giving?

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 34 years old, and I am 35. We've been married for 12 years. I am a school teacher, and he does counseling. About six months ago he started to buy me some rather expensive presents. At the same time he himself came home with an expensive gold watch, some tailor-made suits, and finally a new expensive automobile.

I knew he couldn't afford all those things on what he made, so I had a long talk with him and he confessed that he has been getting large amounts of money from a woman. He described her as a high-priced call girl. He said he was helping her to work out her problems, that his interest in her was strictly professional and in appreciation for helping her get her head together she kept giving him large amounts of money.

He has been spending a lot of evenings away from home. Does this sound professional to you? SUSPICIOUS

DEAR SUSPICIOUS: Not very. An ethical counselor usually charges a set fee, and doesn't accept "large amounts of money." It's all right for him to help her get her head together as long as he doesn't take too many things apart.

DEAR ABBY: A former neighbor phoned me yesterday and the first thing she asked me was: "How much did you get for your old house?" I told her. Then she asked me what we paid for our new house. I was so shocked at her nerve, I told her.

I mentioned we were trying to adopt some children from Korea or Viet Nam. She said: "Can't you have any of your own?" I told her we felt the world should provide for the children that are here. Then she told me she thought we were out of our minds to "borrow trouble."

Abby, we lost a pair of twin boys when our home caught fire six months ago, and I told her we felt so guilty because we survived and they didn't. She said we were "ridiculous" to feel that way. I told her we had talked to our minister and a psychiatrist and they agreed our feelings of guilt were normal, and only time would erase them. She said all psychiatrists were crazy, and ministers are stupid, and we could get over it if we wanted to.

Then she said: "Bill and I want to see your new house. If you don't want to make a dinner, have us over for cocktails soon, will you?"

I said: "Yes, I will." After I hung up I was angry with myself for letting this nifty woman maneuver me into promising to have her over. Should I just "forget" to invite her over? Or am I committed now? SECOND THOUGHTS

DEAR SECOND: Don't "forget" to invite her. Remember to avoid her.

DEAR ABBY: Forty years ago I fell in love with my first cousin. I was 17, and he was 19. Our parents [wisely?] broke it up.

I am 57 now, and he is 59 and both of us are free to marry. I'm recently widowed, and he's divorced. We would like to marry as we truly love each other. I am thru menopause which means there will be no children.

Can first cousins marry in the state of Arizona, where I live? If not, how about Illinois, where he lives?

WALKING ON AIR

DEAR WALKING: A clergyman or lawyer in your state can quickly give you the yes or the nay.

DEAR ABBY: To the correspondent who said wedding presents were out of style—that they just passed the tray and collected money instead:

Last summer we attended a wedding where the festive dinner was prepared by friends who were members of a gourmet cooking club. Their "gift" was preparing the dinner. Another friend donated his services by painting two rooms in the old house where the bride and groom were going to live.

Soliciting gifts of money would be considered bad form in our circles, and we are by no means the idle rich. Imaginative gifts suitable to the circumstances rate tops.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69706, L. A., Calif. 90009. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

The ceremony was performed before an altar decorated with a massive arrangement of white chrysanthemums, and a large arched candelabra, with cascading garlands of greenery. ringbearer was Bobby Thompson, cousin of the bride. Jerry Brumfield, served as best man and Rick Griens was groomsmen. Martin Brooks and John A. Chesher, brother of the bride, were ushers.

RECEPTION

For the reception in the church parlor, the bride's table was covered with a floor-length satin cloth with a net skirt, and was centered with a white candelabra, which held capri globes surrounding the candles and trimmed with an arrangement of white fugi chrysanthemums.

The Luky Winderm cake with four revolving tiers at the bottom, set off by three tiers, was decorated with blue roses and sweet peas. The seven-tiered cake was topped with feathered white love birds.

Mrs. Richard Cooke, aunt of the bridegroom, served the cake and Mrs. Bill Simon, sister of the bridegroom, assisted at the punch service.

The bridegroom's table was covered with a white lace cloth. Coffee and German chocolate cake, topped with a wedding ornament and arrangements of yellow daisies, were served by Mrs. Roy Dunham and Mrs. Vinson Shaw.

The bride traveled in a light blue pant suit and lifted the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will reside in Columbia, S.C., where the bridegroom is stationed.

MOTHERS

The bride's mother wore a floor-length gown of light blue and the bridegroom's mother wore a floor-length rose gown. Their corsages were cymbidium orchids.

PRE-NUPITAL EVENTS

The bride was honored with a miscellaneous shower in the Hospitality Room of Citizens Bank by Mmes. J.T. Rogers, Leon Daugherty, Alice Forman, Janie Meador, J.D. Skaggs, Frank Daugherty, Don Childers, Ralph Sloan, Willie Burns, and Carl English.

She was honored with a rick bag party, hosted by Mrs. J.T. Rogers.

The bridegroom's parents hosted a buffet rehearsal dinner at the church.

CIVIC CULTURE CLUB Mrs. C.A. Polk, assisted by Mrs. C.V. Forsman were hostesses for the recently held meeting of the Civic Culture Club.

Mrs. F.R. Grantham presided at the business meeting following the pledge of the national and state flags. A donation was made to the cancer fund and the 1973-74 goals were accepted.

The program "Gateway to Conservation" was given by Mrs. A.D. Hills. Slides entitled "America the Beautiful" were shown. These were of different states and how they have practiced soil conservation. "Conservation is our greatest economic bargain. Most farmers realize the value of conservation methods and practice them in their farming, using contour planting and crop rotations to prevent erosion," she stated.

They make lakes or ponds that not only provides water for irrigation but provides recreation and a sanctuary for game birds that are as much a part of the conservation program as any other phase, the speaker told.

"All our food and much of our clothing comes from the soil. With the help of conservation, America becomes a better place to live," she concluded.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Emmett Osborne, south of the city, April 10th.

The following members were present: Mmes. E.L. Anderson, Irvin Cole, A.B. Cross, C.V. Forsman, A.D. Hills, F.R. Grantham, George Neef, Emmett Osborne, J.J. Rance, Carl Smith, Chester Williams, Emmett Gee and Teressa Reed, a new member.

HEY, CULLIGAN MAN — If you are not satisfied with the way your laundry has been coming out, don't throw away your detergent just yet. More than likely the problem isn't in the soap but in your water. For softened water, the very best for laundering and other uses, contact Soft Water Service Co., Culligan's local representative, at 665-5729.

Six Questions About Your Health And Softened Water

1. It's common knowledge that softened water gives improved household washing results. But how does this tie in with health?

A film of soap curd on glassware, dishes, and utensils, and soap curd deposits in fabrics, can interfere with cleanliness and sanitation in dishwashing and laundering. Softened water promotes cleanliness and sanitation since soap curd does not form.

2. Does the water softening process remove minerals important to proper nutrition?

No. First of all, the amount of beneficial minerals contained in almost all of the country's drinking water supplies is insignificant in normal nutrition. Further, the body's need for minerals is largely met through foods, not drinking water, and depends upon a rationally planned food intake.

3. Why is softened water better for bathing and personal grooming?

The skin is smoother and cleaner because none of the soap is converted to soap curd by water hardness.

And hair washed with soap and soft water is cleaner, more manageable, softer, more lustrous and better looking.

4. Can soft water help prevent red, itchy, or dry skin?

Yes. For three reasons. First, because soap cannot be completely rinsed from the skin in hard water, it can cause a feeling of dryness and itching.

Second, hard water minerals can cause dryness and soreness. Third, the insoluble soap curd formed in hard water can be irritating to the skin.

5. Does softened water affect cardiovascular health?

No relationship has been established between water composition and cardiovascular health, although the possibility has been studied.

Either hard, naturally soft or softened water is acceptable according to the Drinking Water Standards of the United States' Public Health Service and the International Standards for Drinking Water of the World Health Organization.

6. Does softening remove desirable fluoride?

No. Ordinary household water softening does not remove fluoride from water.

Tiring Remarks

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that a newspaper columnist gets tired of hearing:

"What else do you do for a living besides write a column?"
"Can you help me get a couple of passes to the hockey game?"
"I'm much too busy myself to read what you write, but my wife says that now and then she likes your stuff."

"I already have trouble enough justifying your salary to the business department. If you want a new swivel chair, you'd better buy it yourself."

"Where do you get most of your ideas, anyway — at clearance sales?"
"Do you call Nixon or does he call you?"

"I suppose whenever they get a big grocery ad, you get thrown out of the paper. Right?"

"I guess with a name like yours — C. Bascom Prunewhip — there isn't much else you could do but write a column. But I think you're a long way from making it a household word."

"Hey, Bascom, look intelligent — the boss is on his way in."

"What makes you such an authority on everything? You never met a payroll in your life."

"When you go to lunch, do you ever pick up your own check?"

Collector's Collection Collects Collectors

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

PARIS — (NEA) — Shortly coming off the presses is "WHO'S WHAT?", a mighty tome, the work of Jean-Claude Baudot.

This, he claims, will be the only directory of its kind of interest to collectors. He has gathered some 17,000 names covering 400 items, as well as 300 clubs or associations, 200 periodicals and again as many small obscure museums, covering altogether 30 countries' worth of collecting information.

It took Baudot—a collector who collects collectors—three years to compile his WHO'S WHAT.

His own particular hobby is ancient toys and games. Now in his late 30s, he started 25 years ago but he declares he wasted time, effort and money getting in touch with people with identical interests. This is what led him to think in terms of a bi-lingual international directory of collectors.

The work is meant to facilitate contacts between private collectors, clubs and associations.

Collectors seem to belong to a special race whose primary quality is perseverance. But they also sometimes are peculiar. It was Balzac who once wrote about the "incomparable joy of collectors."

Outside classic or orthodox collections of stamps, coins, objects of art, paintings, musical instruments — from harps to harmonicas — autographs, antique automobiles, there are those people who collect weird, even morbid things.

Imagination runs riot so far as collectors are concerned. Running from the gentleman whose hobby is the chateaux—he owns 40—to the characters who hunt posters, bidets, elevators, sails, or the type who specializes in death, murder and executions.

Among the latter is a Frenchman who is the proud owner of a bill, written on parchment, listing the cost of public trial and execution of 23 witches at Dax, France, in 1544. It even enumerates the cost of the ropes to tie the victims, the straw, twigs and logs for the stake, sulphur and resin to keep the fires burning, plus the barber's fee for shaving the unfortunate creatures' heads, and finally the trumpeter who heralded the execution on the marketplace.

(Also included in his collection is a "Perfect-Crime Manual" printed circa mid-19th century. One of the simplest ways, apparently, is to feed plants poisonous to man to the common garden snail. They like belladonna, for example. Then the snails can be cooked in garlic butter and served to the unsus-ing victim. Result guaranteed.)

Music boxes, ash trays, buttons, postal and cigarete cards, tin soldiers, laundry irons, matchboxes, lamps, even out-of-date passports are popular, if more banal.

Definitely out of the ordinary however is the Frenchman who collects chamber pots. He recently traveled to East Germany, where he was told of a unique specimen—a double one. Until the advent of modern plumbing, these intimate objects, like bidets and lavatory seats, often were works of art.

They ranged from the most plain and humble to specimens made of the finest porcelain and often decorated by well known artists. Decorated bidets and lavatories were common even in bourgeois homes well into the 1930s. Today they are eagerly snatched up and command high prices.

Jean-Claude Baudot's fifth floor apartment, a stone's throw from the Madeleine, is cluttered with all sorts of things. There is a mini-mechanical piano (his latest find), a scattering of art nouveau knickknacks, while along one wall there are four "5-in-1" slot machines, the ancestors of one-armed bandits, an ancient billiard table. A modern touch—three enormous collapsible floor cushions.

Surprisingly, according to Baudot, 90 per cent of collectors are 90 per cent masculine. He stresses the fact that the hobby is not only fascinating but can be quite lucrative. "A good collection of any interesting line can today easily increase in value by 25 per cent in a year or more." He also quotes Walpole as saying: "The real secret of life is to be deeply interested in a given thing and sufficiently interested in a thousand others."

Disability? Job Hunt Difficult, Not Impossible

By SECRETARY OF LABOR PETER J. BRENNAN

L. W. of Owensboro, Ky., writes: Last year I had a serious back injury, which prevents me from doing heavy work. I have a 20 per cent disability and find that many factories are unwilling to hire me. Is there any place I can go for help in finding a job?

Dear L. W.—The U.S. Employment Service, through its affiliated state employment offices, provides special services to handicapped people who are looking for work. Every public employment office has one or more staff members who are responsible for assuring that help is available to handicapped applicants who need it. When you visit the state employment office, you should ask to talk with the person who serves the handicapped. This staff member knows the employers as well as the employment conditions in your area and can advise you with respect to the question you raise in your letter.

J. R. of Cadillac, Mich., writes: My friend and I were discussing union membership and disagreed on whether or not most union members are factory workers. Could you settle this dispute?

Dear J. R.—For many years most union members were in manufacturing. However, in recent years, as employment in service industries has exceeded that in industrial manufacturing, the composition of the unionized workforce has undergone significant change. In 1970, there were 9.2 million union members in manufacturing. However, there were 9.3 million organized nonmanufacturing workers in private industry and an additional 4.1 million government workers who belonged to unions or employee organizations that bargain collectively.

H. H. of Minneapolis, Minn., writes: Our church group works closely with youngsters from some of the poorer areas of the city. We know the Department of Labor has two programs trying to help poor kids get a good start in life—the Job Corps and the Neighborhood Youth Corps. But we get the two confused. Can you straighten me out?

Dear H. H.—Both the Job Corps and the Neighborhood Youth Corps (NYC) serve disadvantaged youth 16 to 21 years of age. In a nutshell, the Job Corps is an educational and skill-training program, while NYC provides work experience and an opportunity to earn money to stay in school in one's own community. The Job Corps provides a rehabilitation program for disadvantaged youth who may be out of school, out of a job and without skills. Job Corps centers are both residential and nonresidential. The services offered are exactly the same. They include vocational training, basic education, counseling, work experience training, as well as recreational activities.

Beef Boycott's Long Range Effectiveness Is In Question

By JOHN CUNNINGHAP

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—With Internal Revenue Service agents showing more interest than housewives in prices at the meat counter, the effort by consumers to drive down prices is bound to have the appearance of success.

The main reason that prices are likely to fall is that the law of supply and demand really does work. When demand is high and supplies relatively low, prices rise. These are precisely the conditions that led to those $4 steaks.

Per capita yearly beef consumption of about 118 pounds today is more than double what it was as recently as 1951. This alone isn't enough to drive up prices if production keeps pace, and until recently it had. But demand now exceeds supply.

Veal, on the other hand, demonstrates how shrinking supplies also exert upward pressure on prices. In 1954, Americans ate about 10 pounds of veal per person per year, compared with 2.5 now. But production also has fallen.

While there is little question that a boycott can force prices down, there is doubt about the long-range impact. Lower prices most likely will discourage some producers from supplying the market.

If that happens, as Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz warns it could, price pressures later this year could be equally strong.

The dedication of the boycotters will also be a factor. To live without meat in a society that believes meat is a basic requirement for healthy families is apt to produce in the boycotter the feeling that she is sacrificing her youngster's pursuit of a social cause.

These questions also must be considered: Are boycotters like the fat woman who resolves while standing on the scales never to eat another chocolate? Like the inebriate who resolves on New Year's morning never to touch another drop?

While these questions cannot be answered for a few weeks or months, they are simple in comparison to the complex and imponderable question of what government policy will be.

There was little uncertainty about policy during Phase 2. The letter and spirit of the law were understood, and many prices became relatively stable.

Phase 3 is another matter. Supposedly there is a club in the closet that might come down upon the head of any seller who dared endanger the economy through price increases. So far it looks more like a toothpick.

Moreover, great doubts are being expressed that the club ever can be of much use. Businessmen and others note that there are simply too many millions of sellers and products for government to watch all of them.

The average American now eats more than seven pounds of pickles a year.

Guide Tells You Who's Got Pull

By CARLTON SMITH

It is a sad fact, privately admitted by most first-rate dentists, that in hundreds of offices across the country there are dentists who are a disgrace to their profession and a tragedy for their patients (or victims).

In the past several years the practice of dentistry has been virtually revolutionized. Radically new equipment and instruments, a great increase in scientific knowledge and understanding, and the teaching of new procedures make it possible today to save all but a small percentage of the teeth that would have been routinely extracted not too many years ago.

But not all dentists, by any means, practice that kind of dentistry.

There are 118,175 dentists in the United States—and based on available evidence, it can be conservatively estimated that at least 15 per cent are incompetent, dishonest or both. Some have set the figure as high as 50 per cent, says "A Shopper's Guide to Dentistry," just issued by the office of Herbert S. Denenberg, Pennsylvania Insurance Commissioner.

Denenberg, who's attracted wide attention with a series of shopper's guides on various types of insurance and health care problems, views "the incompetent and dishonest" as a comparatively small minority. The patient's problem, he says, is knowing whether he's in the hands of a member of that minority.

For, he complains, the profession itself isn't of much help in this respect. "Dentists are sworn to be kind to each other, not to the patient." A section of the principles of ethics of the American Dental Association, quoted, prohibits members from "referring disparagingly to the services of another dentist, to a member of the public."

But, if another dentist won't tell you who the bad ones are, will he give you the names of some good ones? Yes—if you ask the right dentist.

The Pennsylvania guide proposes 32 rules for selecting a dentist and obtaining good dental care—too many to summarize here. But No. 1, telling you how to find a first-rate dentist, is by itself worth its weight in gold fillings.

(1) Select someone who's on the faculty of a university's school of dentistry. Or ask him to recommend someone. Those associated with dental schools are among the best dentists, and they usually know other top-notch practitioners.

(2) Ask a specialist for the name of a first-rate general practitioner. Dentistry's three main specialties are the orthodontist (he straightens), the periodontist (gum diseases), and the endodontist (root canal work). Make sure, in each case, that he's board certified.

All these specialists are prevention-oriented, and pay attention to which patients, referred to them by which general dentists, are getting good preventive care. Further, they need sound, well-cared-for teeth to work on, or they don't look very good at their specialties. So generally they work with, and get their patients from, the better general practice, or family dentists.

You'd doubtless find the remainder of the 32 rules instructive and profitable; but the Pennsylvania department has found it has to restrict distribution of its guides to residents of the state. Don't bother to write.

However, if you have a cousin who lives there, or know somebody in a company branch office there, don't tell Commissioner Denenberg we said so. But it's worth trying a sneak play-around left end to get a copy.

McRae Revises Swing; Gets 3 Doubles, Single

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Kansas City's Hal McRae tried to send the ball careening into the stands whenever he stepped up to the plate. Unfortunately, his lusty swings were missing the target. Then he shortened his swing. "I hit a couple of balls deep earlier in the spring and I got carried away," McRae recalled. "I guess I lost my head for a while."
McRae was advised to work on regaining his short stroke and he found it in time to wallop three doubles and a single, driving in three runs Monday as the Royals registered a 7-2 exhibition baseball victory Monday over the St. Louis Cardinals.

In other games Monday, Montreal whipped Boston 5-1, the Chicago White Sox defeated Texas 8-4, Pittsburgh beat Philadelphia 6-4, Oakland battered California 8-3, the Chi-

Billy Tohill Is Improving

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Billy Tohill, who was critically injured March 14 in a one-car accident on a Fort Worth freeway, continued to improve today after doctors moved him out of intensive care.
The 31-year-old head football coach at Texas Christian University had his right foot amputated several days after the accident.
He was moved into a private room at John Peter Smith hospital Monday and his condition was declassified from serious to fair.

In the first days after the mishap, in which Tohill sustained numerous broken bones and head injuries, besides a mangled ankle and foot, doctors feared for his life.

A.J. Foyt To Appear

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — A. J. Foyt, one of the top drivers in auto racing history, will make his first appearance at Alabama International Motor Speedway in the $159,160 Winston 500 May 6.
The speedway announced today that Foyt will drive a new Chevrolet over the high-banked 2.6-mile trioval.
The car is maintained by Benjo Matthews and owned by Foyt's car agency in Houston.

On the National Association for Stock Car Racing tour last season, Foyt won two major events and more than $94,000 in six starts. The three-time Indianapolis 500 winner will be among the favorites when pole position qualifying runs start May 2.
Foyt, 38 and the only driver in history with victories in the Daytona 500, Indianapolis 500 and the 24-hour Le Mans, should have little difficulty adjusting to the fast Talladeega layout. He has won three major events at Daytona over a track similar in design and speed.
He will be facing one of the toughest lineups of stock car racing talent of the year in the 60-car Winston 500.

LAW FOR EVERYBODY MASERU, Lesotho (AP)

The era of the all-powerful tribal chief has passed in Africa and in some countries they are disciplined like civil servants. A Lesotho government bulletin reported that Chief Tumo Mafara was recently warned to mend his ways and ensure that he does not commit an act of misconduct or contravention of the Chieftainship Act for a period of 10 months.

cago Cubs clobbered Cleveland 15-2 and San Diego upended Milwaukee 5-3.
Elsewhere, Baltimore beat Atlanta 7-3, the New York Mets blanked the New York Yankees 5-0, Detroit triumphed over Cincinnati 4-1, Minnesota beat Houston 3-0 and San Francisco edged Los Angeles 3-2.

The Cubs smothered the Indians under a 22-hit onslaught but may have lost third baseman Ron Santo who was struck in the wrist by a pitch. Santo was taken to a hospital for X-rays but the results were not immediately known.

Detroit right-hander Joe Coleman and southpaw John Hiller combined for a three-hitter and Al Kaline and Bill Freehan provided the Tigers' offensive punch with two hits each.

Dave Hilton lashed a two-run homer in the first inning that started the Padres en route to victory.

The Orioles scored three runs in the third inning off Gary Gentry, ending the Atlanta's hurler's 19-inning scoreless streak.

Jon Hart hit a two-out single in the bottom of the ninth as the Giants nipped the Dodgers behind pitcher Tom Bradley, who went the distance for Los Angeles.

Joe Decker led a trio of Minnesota pitchers who limited Houston to three singles as the Twins scored in the first on Gary Terrell's double, an error and sacrifice by Dan Monzon and added runs in the seventh and ninth innings.

Dal Maxvill spearheaded an 11-hit Oakland barrage by hitting three consecutive singles and driving in two runs.

John Jeter drove in four runs for the White Sox with two doubles and a sacrifice fly.

Greene Blames Greed

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — The commissioner of the World Boxing Association, Abe J. Greene, said Monday the greed of closed-circuit television has dealt a crippling blow to live boxing matches.
"If the operators of closed circuit television would forsake momentary greed they could be thinking of new bonanzas for the future," Greene said.

"It is high time the closed-circuit television solons gave a thought to helping to build up the talent which will feed their own operations a year hence," he added. "Without making such preparations they'll ultimately find the talent cupboard will be bare."
Greene, who also is New Jersey Athletic Commissioner, challenged closed circuit promoters to pump some of their earnings into small fight clubs so that they can stage quality fights. He said the public gets shortchanged by big paydays for a few headline boxers while the rest of the sport languishes in need.

"Don't you think that closed circuit TV promoters should turn some of their money back into boxing to stimulate boxing development?" Greene asked a luncheon meeting of the New Jersey Boxing Writers' Association. "Don't you think they might set up a fund of, say $1 million which should be allocated for helping stage fights and develop talent?"

Site Selection Occupies Time

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Selection of a site for Super Bowl IX occupied the National Football League club officials today, one day after the group decided to begin steps to expand the 26-member league.
New Orleans, Miami, and Los Angeles were scheduled to make a pitch for the 1975 post-season spectacular between the two conference champions. Insiders indicated New Orleans, with a new stadium to open in 1974, had a slight edge in the selection.

Birmingham, Ala., and Jacksonville, Fla., were scheduled to make presentations for the 1975 Pro Bowl contest. But league officials said a decision on the site was not expected before Wednesday.
Pete Rozelle, league commissioner, who earlier Monday said expansion was being played down, announced later in the day he was forming a four-member committee to proceed "with deliberate speed."
Rozelle, establishing no specific timetable, said owners of the 26 clubs "generally were pro-expansion in a very healthy discussion."
He said the committee, to be named before the week-long meetings are completed, would develop criteria for a market research group and report to club owners at their meeting in New York in June.

Veteran Bob Bailey hit his first homer of the exhibition season and rookie Pepe Maguire cracked his fourth as the Expos took an early lead with single runs in four of the first six innings.

The Pirates' stunned rookie righthander Larry Christenson for six runs and seven hits in the first three innings and then survived a Philadelphia rally highlighted by Greg Luzinski's solo homer.

John Milner and Wayne Garrett hit home runs in support of John Matlack's five-hit pitching as the Mets closed a two-game sweep over the Yankees.

Chi Chi Rodriguez Wins Greater Greensboro Golf

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Little Chi Chi Rodriguez has no illusions about extending his winning streak to two with a victory in the famed Masters this weekend.

Jack Nicklaus will be there, Chi Chi explained. "When Jack takes a week off as he did in the Greater Greensboro Open, it's anybody's tournament," Rodriguez said Monday after his one-stroke victory over Lou Graham and Ken Still.

But Augusta National (the site of the Masters) was made for Jack Nicklaus and Jack Nicklaus was made for Augusta National.
The 37-year-old Rodriguez, down to a wiry 120 pounds, will help me live to be 140 years old," came from two strokes off the pace with a five-under-par 66 in the rain-delayed final and picked-up $42,000 for his seventh tour triumph in 14 years on the pro tour.

America's Chances Zoom With Accord

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's chances against the Soviet Union's basketball team zoomed Monday when the National Collegiate Athletic Association, under prodding by a House subcommittee, agreed to open the way for college players to participate.

The move means the U.S. team could obtain the services of all-American college basketball and other top-notch underclassmen.
Walton's participation, however, still hinges on several factors, including a decision by the UCLA junior to play.

Utah Stars Win More Than Playoff Triumph

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Utah Stars Coach LaDell Andersen feels Monday-night's first-round American Basketball Association victory over San Diego was more than a playoff triumph.
The 1973 conquest was a confirmation of his long-held theory that a fast-breaking team is a winning team.

"Our win was just a case of a fast break and a good defense," the Stars' coach said following his team's first post-season game. "It's a ball-control game."
Veteran Zelmo Beaty did his share of controlling. The agile center pumped in 25 points and pulled down 14 rebounds, all on two of the weakest knees in pro basketball.

Teammate Ron Boone, a reserve guard through most of the season, hit 27 points for the game's scoring honors. Jimmy Jones added 19 for the Western Division champions.
Stew Johnson led the Conquistadors with 22 points and Chuck Williams had 20. Red Robbins dropped in 18 for San Diego.

Volleyball Girls Win District Title

Pampa High School's girls volleyball team beat Caprock 14-7, 15-1 yesterday in Amarillo to win the District 1-AAAA championship. The victory moves Pampa into the state playoffs.

The PHS team tied with Tascosa for the second half title, each had a 5-1 record. Pampa also tied with Amarillo High for the league's first half, thus eliminating the necessity for a playoff.

The championship was the second in two years for Pampa. Last year it ended up the season tied with Caprock and Tascosa.

Since it was the initial year of competition in the district, the winners did not move out of district into the playoffs.

Pampa finished the year with a 16-5 record as well as 10-2 in district play.

Members of this year's varsity are Lynn Richardson, Jean Harvey, Teresa Cloyd, Gretchen Skelly, Debbie Harris, Debbie Gray, Mary Anne Green, Jeanette Doggett and Debbie Fortin. The team is coached by Mrs. Lynn Wolfe.

Pampa's junior varsity finished the season with a 11-11 mark, tying with Tascosa for the unofficial title.

Members of the 1973 junior varsity are Melinda Milican, Kathy Ellis, Stephanie Secrest, Donna Adkins, Donna Doggett, Kim Morrow, Jan Harvey, Peggy Tyrrell, Terry Cox, Tana Perry and Annette Keeton. The manager is Susan Albus.

Pampa's bi-district opponent may be determined tonight. Midland Lee and Midland High are to meet in District 2 action in Midland.

Should Lee win the game tonight, it would force Midland and Snyder into a playoff. If Midland High triumphs tonight, it will take the district title outright and win the right to play Pampa.

The game will be played either Monday or Tuesday of next week at a site to be determined.

Lexington Takes Title

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP) — Lexington gained its first Men's AAU Basketball Championship with a 89-84 victory Monday night over Cincinnati.

Lexington was led by George Bryant, who scored 29 points. He was named the tournament's most valuable player. The former Eastern Kentucky University player averaged 34.2 points per game during the tourney.

The Armed Forces All Stars, champions for the past five years, took third place with a 112-85 victory over Tampa in Monday night's consolation game.

Larry Brown Is Not Sure

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — Young Larry Brown, the American Basketball Association's Coach of the Year for the 1972-73 season, isn't sure he will continue as head coach of the Carolina Cougars.

"I didn't want to be a pro coach," Brown explained Monday after receiving the honor in his first season on the job. "I don't know if I'm in the right area—I always wanted to be a college coach."

The 32-year-old Brown, the youngest coach in pro basketball and in the midst of a multi-year contract with the Cougars, said he would not make a decision on his future until after the ABA playoffs.

Currently, Carolina, the ABA Eastern Division regular-season champion with a 57-27 record, and the New York Nets, fourth-place finishers with a 30-54 mark including only three victories in 11 games against the Cougars, are tied 1-1 in their best-of-seven opening round series. They play game No. 3 tonight at the Nassau Coliseum.

Without NCAA certification, the U.S. team would be composed primarily of college seniors. Already selected for the squad are Steve Downing of Indiana; Ernie DeGregorio of Providence; Mike Edwards, Tennessee; and Doug Collins, Illinois State.

Sanguillen also is expected to catch a few games to relieve the new Pirate No. 1 catcher, Milt May. The 22-year-old May has been Sanguillen's backup since he was voted the outstanding prospect in the International League in 1970 after hitting 21 home runs for the Pirates' Columbus farm club.

As an untried major league catcher and hitter, May could hold one of the keys to the Pirates' success in 1973. And he also may be the critical factor in whether Sanguillen remains in right field.

Rep. John Dellenback, R-Ore., urged the NCAA to act with speed so that underclassmen, now barred from playing against the Russians, will be able to be selected.

HOUSTON (AP) — Second-seeded Roger Taylor of England and five other seeded players were to see first round action today in the 39th annual River Oaks Tennis Tournament.

Taylor was to meet Fred Stolle of Australia in the feature match of the completion of the first round singles competition.

Eight singles matches were played Monday and all the favorites came through as expected.

First seeded Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., defeated Ray Moore of South Africa, 7-6, 6-3 in top match of first day competition.

Riessen had trouble with Moore in the first set which was determined by the tie breaker. He had little trouble in the second set as he broke away to a 4-1 lead and ran out the string to win the match and take the first step toward the $10,000 first place money.

"I've had a lot of trouble lately because I'm a little tired, more mentally than physically," I guess," Riessen said. "And this is our third different court surface in three weeks. We've been indoors, now we're outdoors and next we go back indoors."

'Worker Willies'

The overwhelming majority of workers want to do an honest day's work for a day's pay.

Today's industrial unrest has nothing to do with "narrow" versus "broad" jobs, assembly lines or the new fad of job enrichment.

All the talk about "Blue-Collar Blues" is a lot of academic jazz.

These are the opinions of A. A. Imberman, president of the Chicago management consultant firm of Imberman and DeForest, backed up by a study covering 3,800 workers in a variety of industries.

The study found that from 79 to 88 per cent of assembly-line workers (depending on the plant) liked assembly work, he told a recent United Auto Workers labor-management symposium.

The workers surveyed did not want added responsibilities or added quality requirements or any significant changes in their job content. They did not dislike repetitive work.

But they did have other frustrations, and dissatisfactions.

Far more factory workers suffer not from the Blue-Collar Blues, says Imberman, but from what he calls the "Worker Willies."

The machine is not adjusted right, the tool breaks easily, the lighting is faulty, the ventilation is poor, the fork-lift gears are shot, the candy sticks to the conveyor belt, the parts don't fit, the foremen are abusive and tyrannical.

Groundwork For Peace

In the years immediately following World War II, there were great expectations for international exchange programs in the building of a lasting peace. The idea was that if the world's peoples, particularly the young, got to know each other and understand each other's cultures, there would be less likelihood that they would have to shed each other's blood.

There have been a lot of young world travelers in the years since—and not a little bloodshed—but there's still life in the old idea. The Fulbright and many other government-connected programs are alive and thriving and one U.S. firm is pioneering its own in-house program.

Clark Equipment Company, which does business in 156 countries, is sponsoring an exchange program for teenage children of its employees throughout the world. For the initial year of the program, the firm is providing 10 exchange scholarships for teen-agers from North America, Argentina, Belgium, Brazil, France and Germany.

By Fulbright and other institutional standards, the Clark program is admittedly modest. But every little bit helps.

'Lib' Causing Fuss Among The Women

By PAUL HARVEY
Our country's weakness is its strength, we can't get together on anything. And in a republic, we don't have to.

Ethnic groups stick together in theory but not in practice. The most autonomous religions, in the United States, fractionalize and fragment.

If blacks could get together and stick together, they'd be a decisive force in American politics, but they are a disorganized as the rest of us.

Now women seeking to assert themselves are encountering the most resistance from women.

Early in February there was an event of historic significance in Houston, Texas, the first convention of the National Women's Political Caucus.

Founders hoped for a turnout of perhaps 500, more than 1,000 registered from 42 states.

Liz Carpenter, who was White House press secretary for Lady Bird Johnson, keynoted the convention: "It's time for more women to seek public office."

During the last election, more women sought and won political office, 20 per cent more went to state legislatures, six more went to Congress. This, said Miss Carpenter, shows it can be done.

Enough success so that we like the taste. For long enough we've been working for men candidates. Now it's time to file and run and elect ourselves.

The convention included workshops on lobbying, credit discrimination, rape, sexual privacy, welfare, divorce laws, women in prisons, how to pressure elected and appointed officials—but the primary thrust of the convention was to urge women candidates to run for public office.

Even before the three-day convention concluded there was friction, fussing, hard feelings.

The elected chairperson, "Sissy" Farenthold, conceded that her first challenge would be to keep disgruntled factions from defeating.

Women in industry were at first uncomfortable and frequently unwelcome—as they are today in politics.

Yet women who were less than 29 per cent of our work force 20 years ago comprise 37.4 per cent of it today. Their number has doubled.

Yet for all the progress they have made in business and professions, women working for women compatibly remains rare.

Women hold 37.4 per cent of all jobs, less than 2 per cent of managerial jobs, though industry is virtually forced by law to seek women for such jobs.

Women workers are as segregated, as relegated to subservient jobs in business today as they were 30 years ago.

The President's Council of Economic Advisers advises that women lawyers, women car salesmen, women bosses are rejected by women.

Now might this holdover preference of women to be led by men (and Paul Harvey just kicked a cactus barefoot), might this tradition or whatever, this female reticence to accept the superiority of another female, might this snafu the opportunities for women in politics?

Betty Friedan, who helped launch Women's Lib a decade ago and remains one of its more responsible exponents, says such successors in the movement as Gloria Steinem and Bella Abzug imagine that "man is the enemy." He's not woman's.

There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, What shall we then say to these things? If God be for us, who can be against us? (Romans 8:1-31)

Why Beef Spiral? Factors Are Many

By DON OAKLEY

It would be nice to be able to finger a villain or villains responsible for the recent staggering increase in meat prices, not to mention other foods. Yet there is no simple answer as to why beef prices have risen so sharply.

Latest figures show that the third quarter of 1972 net profit of supermarket chains was 0.6 per cent of sales before taxes (down from 1.5 per cent a year earlier). After taxes, this 0.6 per cent would be halved to 0.3 per cent of sales.

In other words, for every $10 spent by a housewife at a supermarket the profit to the store was 3 cents. The Super Market Institute reports that fully 28 per cent of all supermarket companies operated at a loss in the third quarter of 1972.

Total supply of marketable beef increased by about two per cent in 1972 over 1971. Predictions are that 1973 will show an increase of about 3 per cent.

"Skid Rows," a social phenomenon peculiar to the U.S., began around the Civil War when thousands of persons were left homeless and poverty stricken. Good Integration? Crime Can Kill It

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA)—A large number of American big cities have always had at least a few areas which were "suburban" in some ways—houses with a spacious, green, well-kept setting, more neighborliness, a sense of good living. I have watched one in Chicago go slowly downhill, when it should not have.

It was one of two or three such enclaves on the city's South Side, for long years miles from the decades-old Black Belt which formed the basic core of the black population in Chicago.

As the city's blacks rose in number (a general northern city phenomenon), they ranged further southward, widened their westerly-running zone (where the riots of the mid-1960s occurred), fanned out elsewhere. Even in the 1950s, a city expert told me some blacks lived in 45 of Chicago's 50 wards.

The enclave I have in mind was ultimately surrounded by blacks living in three-story apartments once occupied by middle class whites. These were solidly-built places, a great deal sturdier and roomier than their counterparts today.

Black owners and renters gradually took over a good proportion of the retail shops along the two nearest linear shopping streets, though some still remain in white hands.

Blacks began buying into the enclave itself. I am familiar enough with the situation to know that those who did tended to be good, strong, stable families. The enclave kept its look of well-being.

There was no mad exodus of whites to the suburbs. On the contrary, through an active, neighborhood-conscious community organization, a very determined effort was made to keep the enclave "balanced."

The effort met with real success. As blacks were moving in, new white families also took up residence. Black and white families mingled on the social level, albeit on a somewhat limited basis. A modest neighborhood block party, held annually, was well attended by blacks and whites mixing in evident good-will.

To the extent the black movement into and around the enclave required higher income levels, the change would seem to substantiate the argument just made by authors Richard Seammon and Ben Wattenberg that such gains are being made.

Yet in only the last year or two, the hopeful trend has stopped. The enclave truly looks to the eye as good as ever. But whites have ceased moving into the area. And those still there are, sadly, moving slowly out.

The answers lie in the terrible deterioration of the surrounding apartment and shopping zones, in the increase of crime, and in the growth of fear.

Street robberies and burglaries in those zones are common. Last summer three young men were murdered in an apartment not far from the enclave. Before that, a murder took place in the enclave itself.

Judged by what we eat and wear, the houses we inhabit, our modes of transportation and communication and the amount of leisure we delight in, we have progressed immeasurably. But judged by what we are, our advancement is at a snail's pace.
