Hearing Set On Removal Of Abandoned Buildings

By TEX DEWESE
The Pampa City Commission today took first steps toward a planned program for removal of abandoned, dilapidated buildings by setting a public hearing for 8:30 a.m. Tuesday, Feb. 22, on the removal of run-down buildings at 416-418-420 N. West St.

The commission voted to set the hearing after City Manager Mack Wofford told them the owner of the property, Ralph Palmer, 2232 N. Sumner, had been served notice at 8:45 p.m. last Friday that if remodeling or demolition of the buildings was not started within 48 hours, the city would call a public hearing to have them condemned and declared a public nuisance because of health and safety hazards.

The city manager said this morning no word had been received from the owner and neither remodeling nor demolition had been started.

Following a public hearing at today's meeting on proposed annexation of three tracts of land, the commission authorized the drawing of an ordinance to proceed with the annexation. No opposition was voiced at the hearing.

The annexation would take in 59 lots in the Meadow Lark Hills Addition, 32 lots in the Mesilla Park Addition and part of the NW-1/4 Section 115 and SE-1/4 Section 116 of Block 3, I&GN RR Survey.

Houston Lumber Co. of Pampa was awarded low bid contract of $3,840.50 for paint and materials for the renovation of the city's ground water storage tanks.

The E.D. Baker Corp. of Borger was awarded a contract at $45,852 for construction of the parking lot at the M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium site.

The ordinance boosting Pampa's water rates by approximately 10 to 12 per cent was approved on second and final reading.

Federal Sign & Signal Corp., Dallas, was awarded contract for the purchase of disaster warning equipment on a low bid of $1,770.

Awarding a contract for purchase of a year's supply of tires and tubes for city vehicles was held pending further study.

The commission authorized advertising bids to purchase chemicals for water treatment at the city's new water treatment plant. Bids will be received Feb. 22.

Payment of Estimate No. 11 to the J.W. Coopers Construction Co., auditorium contractor, in the amount of $46,620 and payment of Estimate No. 14 in the sum of $65,954 to the A.E. Mitchell Co., water plant contractor, was authorized.

The City Hall staff was authorized to negotiate with the Santa Fe Ry. Co., concerning leasing of a small plot of ground west of the Santa Fe depot for park purposes.

Bills in the amount of $52,468.02 for January were approved for payment.

More Filings Are Expected From Mails

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Fifty-five Democrats have filed as candidates for statewide offices in their party's primary, setting up one of the longest ballots in memory.

Three names were added to the list today as mail-in applications arrived at party headquarters. Another three applications were questioned because of uncertainty about when they were mailed for other reasons.

Ten Republicans have filed as candidates in the GOP primary.

A candidate will be knocked off the ballot if he fails to produce either his $400 filing fee by Feb. 28 or if he chooses not to pay the fee, a petition with the names of 2,500 registered voters by March 6.

It appeared for a while that Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin might go unopposed. But former Secretary of State John Hill of Houston, long reported as a possible contender, walked in to State Democratic headquarters with his filing fee shortly before the 6 p.m. Monday deadline.

Rift Reported Between Thieu And Rogers Over Peace Plan

SAIGON (AP) —A rift was reported today between President Nguyen Van Thieu and the Nixon administration over political aspect of President Nixon's new peace proposals.

Thieu sent word to Washington that South Vietnam's political figure must be negotiated by Saigon and not by the United States.

High-level diplomatic sources said Thieu was angered by Secretary of State William P. Rogers' statement that the U.S. government is "flexible" on the provision of Nixon's eight-point peace proposal calling for Thieu's resignation one month before a new presidential election.

Nixon's plan does not rule out Thieu as a candidate in the election, and observers in Saigon say the longer the time between his resignation and the voting, the more his political strength would weaken.

Sources said Thieu ordered his ambassador to the United States Bui Diem, to consult the State Department about the exact meaning of Rogers' statements at a Washington news conference last Thursday and whether the secretary's remarks indicated a lessening of the Nixon administration's support for Thieu.

'72 Candidates To Campaign Under New Spending Ceiling

WASHINGTON (AP) —The era of the anonymous political financier is ending, and Americans in 1972 will be told more than ever before about the sources and use of the money behind the candidates.

Those candidates, for the White House and for Congress, will campaign under new spending ceilings which will curb escalating television expenditures.

But disclosure of every campaign contribution over $100, and of the way all the money is spent, is likely to be the major 1972 impact of a campaign-spending law signed by President Nixon Monday.

It takes effect in 60 days, providing two months for a final round of fund-raising under the old rules, more loophole than law.

The new law limits to 10 cents for each eligible voter the sum a candidate may spend for campaign advertising in any primary or general election contest. No more than 60 per cent of that amount may be used for television and radio campaigning.

That translates to an advertising ceiling of $13.9 million for each presidential nominee in the final, fall campaign, with no more than $8.4 million of it available for broadcasting.

The final figures will be slightly higher because of what amounts to a provision for cost-of-living increases.

While the spending limits claimed much of the attention during a long congressional controversy over the bill, their impact may not be evident in the 1972 White House campaign.

The measure requires that broadcasters charge political candidates their lowest advertising rate, which is likely to mean there will be at least as much presidential campaign television as there was four years ago.

Orders from Thieu also went out to his chief negotiator at the Paris peace talks, Pham Dang Lam. Sources said he was directed to tell the U.S. delegation chief, Ambassador William J. Porter, that any proposals for a political settlement must be presented by Saigon rather than Washington.

Under Nixon's eight-point peace plan submitted to the North Vietnamese in Paris last October, the chairman of the Senate would head a provisional caretaker government for the month between Thieu's resignation and the presidential election.

U.S. Senate Will Halt Dock Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) —The Senate agreed today to take up legislation to end the West Coast dock strike under a time limitation designed to insure action by the end of the day.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield asked, and received, unanimous consent to bring the bill up at 2 p.m. EST.

The first vote, on a move by Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., to add President Nixon's permanent strike settlement proposals to the dock measure, would come at 4:30 p.m. EST with final action on the bill due an hour later unless other amendments are presented.

Mansfield moved up a plan to bring the bill up in the Senate later in the afternoon after conferring with senators who will manage the bill. He had told a nearly empty chamber shortly after the Senate met today that aides should tell senators the bill would be called between 4 and 5 p.m.

School Board Discuss Vocational School Plan

Members of the Pampa school board met in a called breakfast session this morning to consider some points requiring action since Pampa has been funded for an area vocational-technical school.

Location of the school is the greatest problem. Contrary to the local rumor mill this is not due to any intramember controversy but a careful weighing of all factors in trying to anticipate future growth.

In this spirit the board decided to meet again Thursday morning and view staked-off areas at possible sites.

Some $250,000 in matching funds are available and the board was of one accord that it be judiciously spent. All preliminary phases must be executed and construction ready to begin June 1.

It is the opinion of most school officials that this arbitrary schedule set by the funding agency should be advanced even more locally in order to have the facility ready for the start of school next September. Most feel this not only should be done but can be done.

Nixon Signs $2.74 Billion Assistance Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Calling it "below minimum acceptable levels," President Nixon has signed a $2.74-billion foreign-aid authorization bill—$1.5 billion less than what he wanted for the current fiscal year.

"Viewed against the vital national objectives which our foreign-assistance programs are designed to pursue, this act is a great disappointment," Nixon said as he signed it Monday.

The authorization bill is about $300 million below the level mentioned in separate House and Senate foreign-aid appropriation bills which, when settled in congressional conference, will actually provide the money for this year's foreign aid. Presumably, only $2.74 billion of the $3 billion mentioned in the appropriation bills could be spent.

The bill chops U.S. spending in the United Nations from 31.5 per cent of the total U.N. budget to 25 per cent. It also cuts off aid to the Greek military junta unless Nixon declares the money to be among the "overriding requirements" of U.S. security; limits aid to Cambodia to $341 million, and halts all $510 million for military credit sales on April 30 unless the President releases $2 billion authorized for domestic social programs by then.

30 Candidates Seeking Area And County Posts

The political scene at the area-county level was cluttered—officially—with some 30 candidates: 29 Democratic and one Republican when the deadline fell Monday.

Unofficial seems to be the best word for two reasons: 1) no responsible person for either party had any certainty about the number of candidates at press time today and 2) the rather nebulous pattern of politics in the county came to focus on one printed point, namely that there is still ten days in which to file the lists with the county clerk.

So, said unofficial list shapes up thusly:

County Commissioner, precinct one: Joe K. Clarke and O.L. Parsley.

County Commissioner, precinct three: James (Jimmy) McCracken.

County Commissioner, precinct four: Joe D. Billingsley, Mary Hess Dwyer and Herschel McCarty.

District Attorney: Guy Hardin.

County Sheriff: R.H. (Rufe) Jordan.

Tax Assessor-Collector: Jack Back.

Constable, precinct one: R. Ben White, W.R. Combs and Floyd W. McMinn.

Constable, precinct two: S.B. (Pat) Patterson, Jesse B. Goade, D.N. (Peewee) Walker, R.R. Watson and Guy M. Bowers.

Constable, precinct 5: J.D. Fish, Vernon Turner, Brad Dalton and W.E. (Jack) Matthews.

Justice of the peace, precinct two, place one: G.L. (Nat) Lunsford.

Gray County School Superintendent: Rena Bell Anderson.

County attorney: John W. Warner.

State Senator: Max Sherman.

U.S. Representative: Graham Purcell.

State board of education: Herbert O. Wilburn.

State Representative: Phil Cates and Eddie S. (Ed) Leary.

While the Republicans had no local filings available it was known that Bob Price will run against Graham Purcell in a race created by redistricting. Purcell is from Wichita Falls. Phil Cates' opponent is from Childress.

87 News-Media Representatives To Go To Peking

WASHINGTON (AP) —The White House disclosed Monday the names of 87 news-media representatives who will accompany President Nixon on his Feb. 21-28 trip to China.

In divulging the names, White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler rejected reports that President Nixon had personally involved himself in the selection of the press party from more than 2,000 applicants.

"That's not the case," Ziegler said. "I have to take full responsibility."

The list included six wire-service correspondents, 21 newspaper correspondents, three columnists, 18 radio and television correspondents, six magazine correspondents, eight still photographers or technicians, eight television cameramen and 17 television technicians.

Record Candidates File In Primary In San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A record 116 candidates have filed in the Democratic primary here and Republicans reported the most candidates in recent local GOP history with 25 hopefuls filing.

All three congressional races, all three Texas state Senate races and all 11 state representative posts, plus a twelfth that includes part of Bexar County, were contested in the Democratic primary filings.

U.S. Farm Exports Hit Record In '71

WASHINGTON (AP) —The Agriculture Department is expected to announce soon that U.S. farm exports last year soared to a record $7.7 billion, despite nationwide dock strikes.

The 1971 calendar-year total is $500 million higher than the previous record of $7.2 billion set in 1970.

The 1971 export figures, still closely guarded by the department, are causing some concern among officials who fear they may dampen the Nixon administration's push for emergency congressional action to settle the West Coast dock strike and head off further tieups at Eastern and Gulf Coast ports.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, among others, has spoken out sharply about dock stoppages hurting U.S. farm exports. Department sources say privately the dollar value of shipments last year would have been more than the record $7.7 billion if the stoppages had not occurred.

Butz has also said the United States loses export momentum when stoppages occur, because big foreign customers, such as Japan, start looking elsewhere for future supplies.

WELCOME, TOURISTS!—That was the theme behind a meeting of representatives from Texas Panhandle towns and cities in Coronado Inn here today. They set in motion an organization to be known as the Texas Panhandle Playground Association. Its purpose will be to emphasize and push Top O' Texas area tourist attractions. In the photo, left to right, during a coffee break at today's meeting are Kay Fancher, past president of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce; Bill Whitten, Memphis; Jim Lindsey, manager Hereford chamber, and Wayne Smith, chairman of the Pampa tourist development committee. USDA Authorizes Extension Of Support Loans On Crops Congressman Bob Price of Pampa reported from Washington that he was notified by Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz that the Department has authorized extension of support loans on 1971 crops of wheat and grain sorghum stored in commercial warehouses.

Also approved for continuation under loan was 1970 crop wheat in warehouse storage. Sorghum from the 1970 crop under loan in warehouses will not have the loan period extended.

Selective Service Gives 11,000 Youths Reprieve

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 11,000 young men who have received induction notices but haven't yet reported for duty were given a reprieve today by Selective Service Director Curtis W. Tarr.

Tarr instructed local draft boards to place the men who had received the draft orders, as well as 115,000 members of the 1972 Extended Priority Selection Group, into the less vulnerable Second Priority Selection Group.

The action means they won't be drafted unless there is a national emergency.

Affected are men whose original 1971 induction dates were postponed until the first call of 1972 or until further notice, as well as those whose postponements were scheduled to end on a specific date before April 1.

The 1972 Extended Priority Selection Group consists of men who became eligible for induction in 1971 but did not receive induction notices. These men had to be at least 20 years old and holding I-A classifications on Dec. 31, 1971, with lottery numbers lower than 126.

Marijuana Uncovered; Man Nabbed

Ronnie Blair Campbell, 26, 843 S. Faulkner, is in Gray County jail in lieu of bond awaiting a charge of possession of marijuana.

Assistant Chief George Wallace and Detective J.J. Ryzman of the Pampa police department obtained a search warrant and went to Campbell's residence where the store of "pot" was uncovered.

Campbell was arraigned before Judge E.L. Anderson Monday and his bond was fixed at $5,000 pending formal charges of drug possession.

storage under extended loans, the program provisions are essentially the same as in prior years. By making the announcement of the loan extensions or "renewal," as they are often called, producers can maintain control over their commodities and will have the additional option of marketing their crops in one or two calendar years.

Producers without on-farm storage facilities can continue warehouse loans and have the advantage of free storage during the extended loan period when cost of storage is assumed by Commodity Credit Corp.

Maturity date for 1971 crop grain sorghum loans is April 30, 1972, in South Texas and June 30, 1972, for the rest of Texas.

Congressman Price concluded, "I have urged the Department to make some of these changes that will be beneficial to farmers for a considerable period of time. To me, this announcement shows that the Administration and Secretary Butz are making a determined effort to raise farm prices."

Police Launch Extensive Hunt For Cadillac Thief — An extensive hunt is on for the thief or thieves who took $33 in cash and a 1970 Cadillac automobile sometime Sunday night from the Pina Service station at 1835 N. Hobart.

Entry was gained apparently by reaching through a window already broken before the burglary and unlocking a door.

The intruder apparently knew where the money was cached and that the battery cables had been disconnected from the car though the keys were left in the ignition.

The car was gold in color with a white vinyl top bearing Texas dealer tag P15-867.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the First Baptist Church for C.F. McGinnis, 63, of 1437 E. Francis, who died at 1:25 p.m. Monday in St. Anthony's, Amarillo Hospital.

Rev. Dan B. Cameron will officiate. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery under the direction of Carmichael-Whitley Funeral Directors.

Born April 8, 1906, in Sperry, Okla.; he moved to Lefors in 1932 and to Pampa in 1935. He was employed by Gulf Oil Company before his retirement Feb. 1. He was a member of Pampa Lodge No. 966, AF&AM, Pampa Council No. 361 of R&SM.

Survivors include his wife, Sally; one son, Bobby R. McGinnis of Dallas; one daughter, Mrs. June Stone of Amarillo; one brother, Bill McGinnis of Monahan; six sisters, Mrs. Atha Menefee of Pampa, Mrs. Lottie Mae Fish of Skellytown, Mrs. Wilma Savage of Odessa, Mrs. Helen Dameron of Tulsa, Okla., Mrs. Lucille Miller of Ardmore, Okla., and Mrs. Beverly Pawless of Houston; and four grandchildren.

Funeral services were to be held today in the Olinger Funeral Home Chapel, Denver, Colo., for John M. High, 40, of Littleton, Colo.

He was a 1950 graduate of Pampa High School and a 1954 graduate of Baylor University. He received his law degree from Washburn College, Topeka, Kans., and was employed by the government. He was the son of the late Dr. C.E. High of Pampa.

Survivors include his wife, Mary Ellen, of the home; three sons, John High Jr., Clifton High, and Christopher High, all of the home; one daughter, Mary Ann, of the home; and his mother, Mrs. Ann High of Rhome, Tex.

New York Inmates Ask For Bargaining Agent

NEW YORK (AP) — Inmates at Green Haven Prison in Stormville, N.Y., are pressing for recognition of a labor union to act as their bargaining agent in matters of wages, working conditions, job training and fringe benefits.

More than half of the 1,800 men at the maximum security institution have signed up for membership in the incipient Prisoners Labor Union, sponsors said Monday.

And the Executive Committee of District 65, Distributive Workers of America, which has 30,000 members, has recommended that the union be made an affiliate.

Sponsors said the union, which is expected to undergo ratification votes by both the prisoners and the union rank and file, would become the first in the nation composed exclusively of prisoners.

A State Corrections Department spokesman in Albany declined comment, but Green Haven Supt. John L. Zelker said he opposed formation of the prisoners union.

Zelker said the union might impair the security and well-being of the prison.

The prisoners say they want more than the 25-to-50 cents a day they now earn for the manufacture of clothing, furniture, brushes, mattresses.

Rep. Herman Badillo, D-N.Y., said the reforms promised after riots at Attica state prison and at New York's Tombs city prison had not been put into practice and called the new group "the most hopeful sign that I have seen that we're going to have improvement in the prison system of the state."

Badillo is helping to sponsor the PLU, as are the Urban Coalition, the New Democratic Coalition, and the Legal Aid Society, which helped the prisoners draft membership cards and put them in contact with District 65.

Author Ordered To Give Sample Of Handwriting

NEW YORK (AP)—A U.S. District Court judge has ordered author Clifford Irving to submit a sample of his handwriting to a federal grand jury investigating his Howard Hughes "autobiography."

On the advice of his attorney, the 41-year-old Irving refused to supply the handwriting sample Monday during his first appearance before the grand jury.

Judge Morris E. Lasker ruled later, after a close session with Irving's lawyer and two assistant U.S.

attorneys, that the government's request for the sample was proper.

It was not known what Irving would be asked to write. But one federal authority commented with a smile, "We might ask him to write 'H. R. Hughes' five times to make a comparison."

McGraw-Hill Publishing Co. gave Irving three checks made out to H. R. Hughes for a total of $650,000 to be conveyed to the billionaire industrialist for his cooperation in the book.

But in court affidavits identified as Hughes' handwriting and in a telephone news conference a voice identified as Hughes' denied ever meeting Irving or collaborating in the book.

And Irving subsequently admitted that his Swiss-born wife, Edith, deposited and later withdrew the checks from a Swiss bank account he opened in the name of "Helga R. Hughes."

As Irving was going before the grand jury Monday, the Internal Revenue Service announced it had filed income tax liens totaling $490,111 against Irving and his wife and one for $22,446 against Richard Suskind, who helped research the book.

A spokesman said the liens were based on the $650,000 Irving received for Hughes.

Suskind arrived from his island home on Majorca Monday night but had no comment at Kennedy airport. He was expected to appear before the grand jury today.

So far he is the only person who has corroborated Irving's claim of having met with Hughes.

Proposed Abortion Law Approved By Bar Group

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The American Bar Association has given approval to proposed legislation to legalize abortion, but it refused to endorse liberalized divorce laws which could deprive lawyers of a large portion of their business.

The National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws drew up the proposed legislation on abortion and sought the ABA's support in its drive to have state legislatures throughout the country drop the proposal, which would permit abortion on demand up to 20 weeks of pregnancy.

The ABA's House of Delegates approved it without a word of protest Monday, but later a handful of delegates stipulated that they wanted to be recorded as voting against the measure.

The proposals on marriage and divorce drew heavy criticism.

"We are dealing with whether the family itself will go down the drain," said Ralph J. Bodell of Milwaukee, Wis., head of the family law section of the ABA and leader of the opposition.

Several other delegates said that passage of such legislation would further weaken American family life and increase the number of divorces and family breakups.

The proposal would have created a "no-fault" system of divorce proceedings and eliminated the adversary system in divorce actions.

The proposal was defeated by a vote of 170 to 72. The Philadelphia Bar Association urged passage of a resolution revoking the ABA's approval.

AUSTIN (AP) — Secretary of State Bob Bullock says he has decided against single polling places for Democratic and Republican primaries. He had considered it to save money.

In a notice Monday to all election officials, Bullock said there will be separate Democratic and Republican polling places, as in the past.

Learning To Solo On Skates is nowhere near as easy as some people will tell you—a fact of young life that Pat Crowe II of Hockessin, Del., learns the hard way.

When the going REALLY gets rough, there's a helping hand around. Namely mother, Louise Crowe. But sometimes even mother power isn't enough. Look! Both hands AND feet! Which goes to show that self-reliance has special ups and downs for a six-year-old. And pavement is no soft landing field.

Man Offers His Liberty Or Life In Exchange For Safe Return Of Son Kidnapped To Cuba

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A militant anti-Castro Cuban exile offered his liberty—and perhaps his life—Monday in exchange for the safe return of a son he fears has been kidnaped from his Tampa, Fla., home and taken to Cuba.

"I am sure he was kidnaped in order to make me keep quiet," said Miguel de Leon, who has organized many anti-Castro demonstrations in the United States.

"If they will release my son and send him to the Cuban embassy in Mexico City I will be on the next Cubana Airlines plane for Havana to surrender," De Leon said.

The tall, 55-year-old former Cuban congressman said his son, Miguel Jr., 15, disappeared from the home of De Leon's divorced wife in Tampa about 8 p.m. on Nov. 6.

"The FBI and the police worked very hard looking for him," De Leon added. "They have done everything they can. But I am certain the boy is in Cuba."

"About a month and a half ago I received a telephone call from a contact in Havana. I was told that my son was being held by the security police in a house on 72nd St. and that he was being mistreated.

"My contact said the boy had fought with his guards and was hit in the head with a rifle butt and may have been seriously hurt. I feel certain they kidnaped him to make me stop working for a free Cuba."

De Leon said he feels there is little chance he would be allowed to live if the deal was made. He has, he said, been involved in several serious anti-Castro incidents, including an attempt to assassinate the Cuban Prime Minister and planning operations for the Bay of Pigs invasion.

"My son is a good boy. He is not a hippie and I know he did not leave home on his own. His mother and I are divorced but there is no trouble between us and this is not just a domestic problem. The boy has been kidnaped and taken to Havana."

Dallas Woman Shot To Death In Wild Chase

DALLAS (AP) — A wild movie-style chase through the streets of Dallas ended with a girl being shot to death, another was injured.

Maxine Williams, 20, died Monday, almost eight hours after she was shot in the back in a barrage of police gunfire at Oak Cliff on the city's South Side. Her companion, a girl, 18, was arrested after being wounded in the arm. Two men, 22 and 23, were also taken into custody, police said, while a third woman escaped.

Police said the dramatic crosstown chase began in the Dallas industrial district and reached up to 100 miles per hour on an expressway.

The suspects were first sighted when two patrolmen answered a silent burglary alarm call to a television shop. They arrived to see a car containing five persons speeding away. The officers said they saw a television set beneath the car's raised trunk lid.

After radioing for assistance, the patrolmen sped off in pursuit.

The chase ended when the suspects' car left the freeway and was rammed by another police car.

The two men and three women were trying to escape on foot when Patrolmen R. D. Kuykendall and Lester Martz opened fire.

U.S.-Soviet Spacecraft Link-up During Orbit Proposed By NASA

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — A space agency report proposes that American and Russian spacecraft link up in space and orbit together for two days while spacemen of the two countries exchange visits.

The report, prepared by North American Rockwell for the space agency at a cost of $300,000, calls for an Apollo command and service module with an attached docking module to link up with a Soviet craft during a 14-day earth-orbit mission.

The Russian space ship would include a salyut, or orbiting laboratory, and an attached soyluz, which a Soviet command ship. This combination of spacecraft set the world endurance record of 24 days, but the three cosmonauts were killed during their return to earth.

"A mid-1975 launch date can be met readily with some options accommodated," the report states. "A mid-1974 launch date requires a straight forward minimum flexibility program."

During the two days of the international docking exercise, there would be three two-man visits between the craft of the two countries. The report states that two Soviets could visit in the Apollo command ship at a time, while two Americans are in the Russian craft.

After the docking exercise, the Apollo spacecraft would separate, descend to a lower circular orbit and remain aloft for 11 more days. During this time the astronauts would perform surveys of resources in the United States using sensitive cameras and instruments.

It would begin with the Russian launch of the salyut laboratory. Next, three cosmonauts would be launched in the soyluz spacecraft. The two Russian spacecraft would dock and wait in orbit for the Americans.

The Apollo spacecraft would be launched by a Saturn 1b booster. The docking module would ride into orbit in a compartment beneath the command ship, the space now used to house the lunar module during launch.

Once in orbit, the American astronauts would separate the command ship, turn it around, link up with the docking module and pull it free of the third stage of the booster.

The rest of the first day would be spent in maneuvers bringing the Apollo spacecraft to a rendezvous with the Russian craft.

Twenty-four hours and 10 minutes after launch, the Americans would join a hatch on the docking module with a hatch on the Silyut. The first crew exchange would come about an hour later.

The only major new hardware required for the mission would be the docking module. The space agency said it has no estimate on its cost.

The docking module would serve as a transfer lock for the spacemen moving from one craft to the other.

Transfers from the Soviet craft would require a two-hour, 25-minute "pre-breaking" period in the docking module to acclimate the spacemen to the atmospheric differences in the spacecraft. The Soviet spacecraft have an atmosphere of oxygen and nitrogen at 14 pounds per square inch, very like the air on earth. In the Apollo craft, the atmosphere is 100 per cent oxygen at five pounds per square inch.

State Board Of Health OK's Hospital Projects

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The State Board of Health has approved 14 hospital construction projects to be guaranteed by $23.8 million in federal Hill-Burton funds.

Approved were projects for: —Texas Medical Center Co-op Association, Houston, $2.6 million.

—Scott and White Memorial Hospital, Temple, $2.5 million.

—Henderson Memorial Hospital, Henderson, $1.5 million.

—Eastland Memorial Hospital, Eastland, $1.6 million.

—Freestone County Hospital, Fairfield, $520,000.

—Heart of Texas Memorial Hospital, Brady, $902,000.

—Decatur Hospital Authority, Decatur, $1.3 million.

—Bailey County Hospital District, Muleshoe, $1.5 million.

—Red River County Hospital, Clarksville, $2.5 million.

—Marshall Memorial Hospital, Marshall, $3 million.

—Nocona Memorial Hospital, Nocona, $400,000.

—King's Daughters Hospital, Temple, $3 million.

—Richards Memorial Hospital, Rockdale, $1.2 million.

—St. Anthony Hospital, Amarillo, $1 million.

The projects must be funded by private loans. The federal money is only a guarantee for the loans and the interest.

The 14 projects were among 41 applications for federal loan guarantees that the state board chose from.

Death Penalty

DALLAS (AP) — State Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin said during the State Bar of Texas convention that he will go to Washington in the fall to urge that capital punishment be continued.

"Texas will seek to uphold the death penalty and I will go to the hearings," Martin said.

Dear Abby

A person may fib to hide loneliness

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: There is a woman in our office who tells the most outrageous lies! She claims she has a gentleman friend. (But nobody has ever met him.) She said he gave her a bracelet for Christmas which is too "good" to wear to the office.

She says he lives "out of town," and occasionally on Monday mornings she will report that he was here for the weekend, or she's been "there" to visit him.

This woman is no teen-aged kid. She is in her forties. Is she sick? How can we let her know she isn't kidding anybody?

THE GIRLS AT THE OFFICE

DEAR GIRLS: She's not necessarily sick, but she must be pathetically lonely to fabricate such tales. To let her know she isn't kidding anybody would be very unkind. Why not let her think you believe her? It wouldn't cost you anything.

DEAR ABBY: My ex-husband is coming to visit our children soon. He is now married to the woman who caused our divorce. At the time of our divorce he told me that he loved this woman above everything else in the world.

When he wrote to say that he was coming, he asked me to get him a "date" while he is here. Should I?

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: Yes. With a psychiatrist.

DEAR ABBY: My eldest daughter is being married soon and I am going to give her the nicest wedding I can afford. I am a divorcee with seven other children to raise, so I am on a very tight budget. I sent invitations only to adults because it is costing me $7 a plate, but now I am getting "acceptances" back from people who are including their children. (Mostly on the bridegroom's side.)

Abby, I just can't afford to have any more people. I don't want to make any enemies, but how can I handle this?

NEEDS ADVICE

DEAR NEEDS: Write, or telephone those who have "accepted" for their children, and explain that your budget allows only for adults. They should respect your frankness as well as your determination to stay within your budget. And if they don't, they'll make better enemies than friends.

DEAR ABBY: In answer to "WONDERING," who wanted to know if it was "normal" for a boy in the eighth grade to kiss his mother goodby every morning: I learned the value of the habit of kissing goodby very early in life.

I was 10 when my father, a policeman, went to work one Thanksgiving Eve and never returned. My mother had forgotten to kiss him goodby that day, and it took her years to get over it.

My son is now married and has two children. HE still kisses me hello and goodby, and he is teaching his children to do the same. And if MY husband ever stops kissing me goodby, I shall start.

WONDERING, ALSO

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90009. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90009.

Ruth Gordon Remains Active In Profession

NEW YORK (AP) — When Ruth Gordon came to New York to be an actress many years ago, her New England family wasn't quite horrified but they weren't too happy either — "Why, that's the same as being a prostitute," she says one distraught aunt said. But still, they backed her up.

And now, after a career that spanned the stage and screen and has included writing plays, screen-plays, essays and an autobiography, Miss Gordon's success has paved the wisdom of her family's understanding her when she was young.

In her apartment here, with its stunning view of Central Park, the still-active Miss Gordon didn't mind reminiscing about her first Broadway performance. "It was in 'Peter Pan,' on December 21, 1915," she says. "I played the part of Nibs, and I did the pillow dance. It was a marvelous dance."

Later she appeared in "Seventeen," "The Doll's House," "Serena Blandish," "The Country Wife," and "The Matchmaker." And she made her talking-film debut in 1939, in "Abe Lincoln in Illinois."

After a pause in her film career, Miss Gordon returned to the screen in the 60s for "The Loved One," "Inside Daisy Clover," "Lord Love a Duck," "Rosemary's Baby" and "Where's Poppa?" Her latest film is the recently-released "Harold and Maude." She also wrote the plays, "Years Ago" and "Over 21" and several screenplays in collaboration with her husband, Garson Kanin. Her autobiography is "Myself Among Others."

Dressed in a plaid skirt, dark sweater, her hair pulled back from her face and laced with old jewelry jangling at her wrists, Miss Gordon says she'll never stop working. "You know that old thing about greasepaint being in your blood," she laughs.

Her first love, she says, was the stage, but "I fell in love with films too," she admits. "And I guess the thing of all crazy things I love now is a talk show. You reach people then. You're not a figment of an author's brain. You're you. That contact with the human race is thrilling."

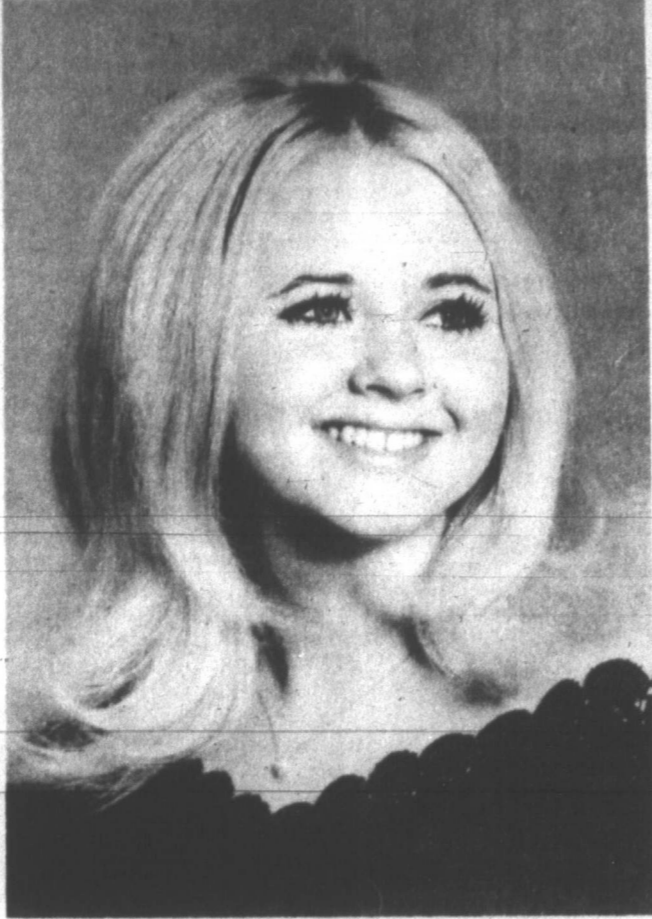

In "Harold and Maude," Miss Gordon plays the part of an 80-year-old woman conducting a romance with a 20-year-old boy, but she says that part of the film shouldn't be lifted out of context. "It's like taking a thread from a beautiful piece of lace, and saying how beautiful the thread is," she says firmly.

And as to whether such a romance could really occur — "You have to say what man and what woman. I'm 16 years older than Garson," she readily admits.

She's pleased with the film because it's "marvelously funny. Jack Benny says one part is the funniest he's ever seen in a movie," she comments. "As a writer myself, and an actress, I know it has to be the written word first, and this is written as an original, as very few movies are."

Combining a writing career with her acting hasn't been so hard, Miss Gordon says, because she's well organized. "I write four hours every morning," she relates. "Then I try to walk three miles. I come back for tea and if I'm really on stream I'll write some more."

Why all the writing? "I've had a fantastic life," she says. "And I guess it's the New Englander coming out in me — I don't want any of it to get lost."

Miss Debbie Lyle, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Lyle, 1827 Grape, Pampa, has been accepted by Bauder College, Arlington, for a double major program in fashion merchandising and professional modeling. Her college activities will include field trips to museums, manufacturers, display or advertising departments in retail stores, fashion and trade shows, modeling trainee assignments, seasonal proms and monthly social activities.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 9

Your birthday today: Continues an auspicious opening of a long buildup in both material and spiritual directions. Day by day living stabilizes into healthy, normal patterns. Today's natives are inclined to exert above average energy, attract many friends.

ARIES [March 21 - April 19]: Concentrate on serious business despite the fun and stimulation of today. An amicable compromise can be very profitable.

TAURUS: [April 20 - May 20]: The bright idea is the thing now. News and people from distant places stir excitement. You may perceive subtle qualities in your mate for the first time.

GEMINI [May 21 - June 20]: Your plans turn out too tight and narrow for the benefits available—raise your sights, reach out for more.

CANCER [June 21 - July 22]: Reality is better than the imagined picture and, for a change, about as accessible. Live the best and most of what is about you.

LEO [July 23 - Aug. 22]: Accept the challenge of competition; speak right up for what you know and what you want. You'll not get it all, but then nothing is likely to come to perfection in a day.

VIRGO [Aug. 23 - Sept. 22]: Focus attention on the novel or unfamiliar wherever there is any chance. Clear your premises for a possible extra acquisition.

LIBRA [Sept. 23 - Oct. 22]: Gadgets appear as part of your scene. Your friends are full of surprises. Share the many little interruptions in high good humor.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23 - Nov. 21]: Financial considerations take priority today. You have a better-than-usual facility for dealing with them.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22 - Dec. 21]: Speak your mind about family affairs. Unorthodox remedies promise to work where not much else does. Look forward rather than back.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22 - Jan. 19]: Divide your time as evenly as you can between work and play. Prefer the technical phases of your work.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20 - Feb. 18]: A change of pace and direction is needed. You tend to press single lines of activity beyond optimum efficiency.

PISCES [Feb. 19 - March 20]: Building good will comes naturally today as you explore the blessings you have in the qualities of the people you love.

VOLUPTOUS LOOK

Emphasis for today's clothes has been the very long, lean body. Longer skirts, suppressed waists all required the trimmer figure with flatter chest. Now fashions are catering again to the more voluptuous figure.

Arms In Evening Dress

By MARY SUE MILLER

The evening dress—undress?—season is upon us. It follows that numerous lovelies ask for ways to improve bony arms and shoulders.

Well, you can finesse it by getting a dress with a high neck and long sleeves. Such designs continue in favor. There's renewed interest, though, in plunging necklines and low backs. Halters come on the scene and the strapless decolletage waits in the wings.

A direct attack on the problem seems the best solution. The following routine gradually builds up thin contours when performed very slowly every day:

Kneel on a carpeted floor with the feet together. Keeping arms rigid, rest the hands on the floor directly beneath the shoulders. Now, by bending the elbows, lower forehead to floor and then push upward until in starting position. Be sure to make the arms do all the work. Repeat 10 times daily for the first week. Thereafter, increase the count gradually until you reach 20.

If you work diligently, the shoulders and arms take on fuller contours in about two months. Meanwhile review your weight. Are you a bit under par? If so, eat up. Not sweets, but substantial foods like eggs, whole grain bread, whole milk and baked potatoes.

Just so, you'll gain for sure—in time to look your best in a holiday evening dress.

Officers Nominated By Council

The Pampa Parent-Teacher Association City Council met recently in Carver Center, with Mrs. C. L. Farmer, president, in charge.

The spiritual thought was given by Mrs. Lacy Lee. Dr. James F. Malone, reporting for the nominating committee, presented the slate for 1972-73. It includes Mrs. C. L. Farmer, president; Mrs. Tommy Hill, vice president; Mrs. Floyd Baxter, secretary; and Mrs. Tom Dunn, treasurer.

Mrs. Farmer announced the district conference will be held April 17-18 at Robert E. Lee Junior High School, Pampa.

Mrs. Wynena Little presented "The PTA Story." It was announced the next meeting, to be open to all PTA members, is slated for March 7, with the program to be entitled, "Language Learning Disabilities Pilot Program."

Governor Gives Partial Credit To High Court On Remap Delay

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith took partial credit Monday for the U.S. Supreme Court's decision to stay a court-ordered congressional redistricting plan.

"If I hadn't taken the firm stand we did on not calling a special session for redistricting, I doubt the courts would have given this stay," Smith told newsmen.

A three-judge federal court in Dallas threw out the congressional redistricting bill passed by the 1971 legislature and substituted a plan written by a Dallas liberal Democrat. But the Supreme Court stayed the lower court order and said this year's elections can proceed under the plan passed by the legislature.

Smith said he still had no information for newsmen on when he might call the mandatory special session this year to appropriate funds for state government for the coming fiscal year.

"I am still hoping a special session won't have to be called on account of filing fees," he said.

Smith said his staff is still working on a million-dollar transfer of state funds for use in financing party primaries. Political parties were left without a source of funds for the primaries when a three-judge court in Dallas held unconstitutional the filing fee system approved by the 1971 legislature.

He said a special session before the primaries "would definitely be a hardship on any of us who are candidates"—including himself and Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, one of his opponents for re-election.

The governor said he planned to contact at least some members of the State Democratic Executive Committee to urge their opposition to proposed party rules that would preserve the "winner take all" system in precinct conventions.

"We surely don't want to be in the position of having our delegation not seated at the national convention. My intentions are to lead the delegation," he said.

Chicanos Ask Smith To Get Food Stamp Program Moving

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A predominantly Mexican-American group from Cameron and Willacy Counties in the Lower Rio Grande Valley asked Gov. Preston Smith to get a food stamp program moving Monday for their areas.

About 50 persons arrived by bus and auto caravan and waited in Smith's reception room while their spokesman, Bill Glenn of San Benito, talked with the governor.

Arthur Garza of Harlingen, another leader of the group, said both their county commissioners courts and the U.S. Department of Agriculture had approved a food stamp program.

But, he said, that was several months ago and the poor in those two counties still are getting surplus commodities, not food stamps.

"We feel a food stamp program is more dignified," Garza said.

Garza said he and Glenn represent a poor people's group called Organizacion Unidas (United Organizations), headquartered in San Benito. As governor, Smith has no direct authority to impose a food stamp program but could intercede for one with the appropriate agencies, including the state welfare department.

Smith said through a spokesman he has instructed his staff to meet at once with the welfare department "and get this problem straightened out."

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Don't be fooled by your instructor's pretty legs, Ron Watkins advises fellow Michigan State University students in his book, "The MSU Professor Rating and Coloring Book."

The 33-page guide offers 387 thumbnail sketches of faculty members.

"She has nice legs ... but should rely more on what's in her head than what's on her lecture notes," he says of one instructor.

Watkins writes another professor "must be a genius—he's over everyone's head," and another "lectures like a used car salesman."

Watkins, 28, a senior majoring in communication, says the sketches were drawn from professor rating forms he distributed to students last fall.

Watkins admits his book "may not be a completely accurate guide, but it should serve its intended purpose—a stimulant to students and teachers."

IOLA, Kan. (AP) — A Kansas National Guard cold weather training exercise has been postponed by cold weather.

Near-zero temperatures froze the Neosho River and postponed for the second straight week the Guard's float trip down the river as a cold weather training exercise.

Officials said the four-day trip will begin the first Friday the river is clear of ice.

Worry Clinic

By George W. Crane, Ph. D., M. D.

Polly has an abnormal fear of insanity, as well as cancer of the womb. She knows why! But has not confessed her sex secret to her dotting husband. So scrapbook this case, for it is a classic in the realm of female psychiatry! And send for the booklet below!

CASE S-583: Polly D., aged 27, has a sex problem.

"Dr. Crane," her worried husband began, "Polly is a beautiful girl and quite talented."

"For she graduated from college with honors and planned on a career in music. 'But I persuaded her to marry, though she still retained hope of gaining fame as a musician."

"Now she seems to have forgotten her career and even her household duties, for she constantly tells me she is losing her mind."

"She cries and claims she is unable to remember things, which is one of the reasons she is sure she must be going crazy."

"Sometimes she also thinks she must have cancer of the womb, but most of the time she frets about loss of her sanity."

"Dr. Crane, what makes Polly act like this?"

GUILT REACTIONS
Polly's case is a classic regarding female sex guilt, so study it carefully!

And I'll compress a lengthy analysis of her problem by reminding you readers that mankind has long associated dramatic ailments with God's form of punishment.

If Polly had been a forger or an embezzler or auto thief or even a counterfeiter, she would have dreaded the police or FBI, instead of the Almighty.

But when people violate what are universally considered to be Divine Laws, they seldom fear the police or even germ diseases such as typhoid or tuberculosis or measles, etc.

For God is linked primarily with ailments that strike down their victim in a sudden manner.

The Almighty is thus regarded as using the lightning type of punishment for sinners.

And such "lightning" ailments are strokes of apoplexy and coronary heart attacks.

Plus insanity! And cancer, especially of the womb.

"I have sinned against God," Polly later confessed to me, "so I just know God is going to punish me!"

That's when Polly began to sprout the symptoms which she felt were linked with insanity, such as forgetfulness.

But occasionally she would dread cancer of the womb. Why?

Well, she had not wanted to become pregnant, for she still cherished a musical career.

But when she found she was going to have a baby, she didn't inform her dotting husband but arranged for a secret abortion.

(Always write to Dr. Crane, Hopkins Bldg., Melott, Indiana 47958 enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

People In The News

LONDON (AP) — Charlie Chaplin and Louise Brat became friends during a flight into London Sunday, and when they landed the 83-year-old motion picture comic challenged the 4-year-old girl to a wheelchair race in the airport corridors.

But the little girl declined, saying, "You'll win because you are bigger than me."

Chaplin and Louise had wheelchairs waiting for them when they stepped off the plane—he because he's not quite as sprightly as he once was and she because she is recovering from flu. The master comic and his wife Oona are in London to launch a season of his classic films.

"You have to fight very hard sometimes to keep some kind of normalcy and privacy in your life," said Mrs. Ronald Reagan in the first of a series of question-and-answer newspaper columns she is writing for The Sacramento Union.

"It seems to be that the trick is to concentrate on the advantages, because to do anything else is self-defeating and negative," she wrote.

"Even though we had a somewhat public life before, it was nothing compared to this. And it can be hurtful at times. It becomes doubly difficult if you have children."

Staubach Won't Cheat But He Wants To Win

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — "Winning is all that matters in pro football," said Roger Staubach, "and I'd do anything I can to win other than cheat."
"But," the quarterback of the world champion Dallas Cowboys added, "that's not a good philosophy for life—where you've got to accept defeat."
Staubach gave his views Monday at a news conference and then in a speech to the 4,300-man brigade of midshipmen at the U.S. Naval Academy—where he was an All-American football player.
"Unfortunately, if you don't win in the pros," he said, "You're not considered successful. It affects your statistics, your career, how much money you make and how long you coach. Winning is what the game is all about."
"As an individual, I hate to lose anything—even ping-pong—but I wouldn't say that's a good philosophy for Little League, for instance. Kids shouldn't feel that much pressure to win."
Staubach, who became 30 last Saturday, joined the Cowboys in 1969 after spending four years in the Navy including a one-year hitch in Vietnam.
In the news conference, Staubach reiterated that he did not regret that the service obligation had delayed his career.

"Football is very important to me right now," he said, "but life is more than football. The academy gave me everything I need to be successful in life, and football was just the frosting on the cake."
Staubach, who talked with some prospective academy athletes Monday before dining with the 1971 team, disputed the observation by those who say Navy football players could never play pro ball.
"The odds are difficult," he said, "but I think I've discovered that."
"The important thing in college is to develop as a man. In any school, you've got to sacrifice and discipline yourself. At the academy, they kind of make you sacrifice."

Dallas won 10 straight decisions after Coach Tom Landry installed Staubach as the team's No. 1 quarterback. The player he beat out, Craig Morton, is expected to announce his future plans at a news conference today.
"I never wanted to be a backup quarterback," Staubach said, "and I'm sure Craig doesn't. But, I'm sure he realizes that if anything happens, he could step in and quarterback a great team."

College Roundup

Associated Press
Duquesne's basketball team has no bench. Literally.
The 20th-ranked Dukes have dwindled to seven iron players after the loss of their No. 6 man.
"This team seems to be able to adjust to anything," said Coach Red Manning after Monday night's 72-66 victory over Murray State of Kentucky.
Yes, but this is ridiculous. The team from Pittsburgh, which has been trying to adjust all season to player departures, was hit again Monday when top reserve Dave Roddy was declared ineligible.
The Eastern College Athletic Conference said that Roddy had violated conference rules by playing in his fourth varsity season, three years at Duquesne and half a season at Miami, Fla. in 1968-9. Under current regulations, a player is only allowed three seasons.

The loss of a player is nothing new to Manning. He started with 14 before opening day and a series of problems dropped the number steadily down. Despite the mini squad, Duquesne has compiled a fancy 15-2 record.

In other games Monday night, third-ranked North Carolina clobbered North Carolina State 101-78; No. 6 Virginia pounded Virginia Tech 107-85; ninth-rated South Carolina whipped DePaul 91-67; No. 13 Southwestern Louisiana beat Eastern New Mexico 75-64; No. 14 Florida State clouted South Alabama 104-81 and 17th-ranked Missouri defeated Iowa State 77-72.

Lionel Billings, Duquesne's leading scorer, led three mates in double figures with 21 points. Ruben Montanez had 16 points and Mike Barr got 15.

College Poll

The names and places may change elsewhere, but it's still UCLA and Marquette on top of the college basketball poll.
The nation's 1-2 teams from the early part of the year continue to ride high, wide and handsome, spreading the rest of the Top Twenty field.
UCLA made a sweep Monday of first-place votes from the nation's sports writers and broadcasters with 44 for a point total of 880. Marquette, with an identical 17-0 record as the Bruins, collected 784 points for No. 2.
After that, things just didn't look the same as last week.
North Carolina replaced Louisville as No. 3 while the Cardinals dropped to No. 4. Penn moved up a spot to No. 5, replacing Long Beach State, which skidded to No. 8. Also moving up this week were No. 6 Virginia and No. 7 Ohio State.

Manning accounted for his lack of depth with a three-pronged defensive system—a 2-2-1 zone press, a zone and a man-to-man. The varied style forced 20 Murray State turnovers in the first half and Duquesne had a runaway 41-20 lead.
Robert McAdoo got 31 points for North Carolina, the most any Tar Heel player has scored this year with its perfectly-balanced offense.
Al Drummond's two field goals ignited a 9-1 spurt that helped pull Virginia out of trouble. Kevin Joyce scored 21 points as South Carolina seized the 39th career victory for Coach Frank McGuire. Dwight Lamar poured in 29 points for Southwestern Louisiana; Ron King scored 23 points for Florida State and Greg Flaker fired in 23 to help Missouri win and move closer to a Big Eight championship.

Pampa Youth Center Schedules Tournament

The Pampa Youth and Community Center is having its eighth annual Top O'Texas Independent Basketball Tournament on February 28-March 3, 1972. Teams from everywhere are invited to enter including church, independent, industrial, club, etc.
The tournament will be held at the Pampa Youth and Community Center at 1005 West Harvester in Pampa Feb. 28-March 3.
Games will be played at night. Definite times will be established after the PYCC receives all entries and scheduling will be so teams coming from out-of-town will be given preference for the late times.
All teams entering are guaranteed to play two games in the tournament. Teams from the same town will not be matched together in the first round of play. This will allow as many teams from one city to enter as wants to do so.
Entry fee per team is $25 due with the entry form. The deadline for the entry fee is Saturday Feb. 19 at 12 noon. All checks for entry fees should be made payable to the Pampa Youth and Community Center.

Each team will be limited to maximum of 12 players and rosters should be turned in when the team plays its first game. Players cannot transfer from one team to another.
All games will be played under the 1971-72 NCAA Official Basketball Rules. Games will be played in 16 minute halves with 10 minutes between halves. A team will be allowed 10 minutes before a scheduled contest will be forfeited. Games will go on at the time scheduled. A player, receiving 2 technical fouls in any one game will be eliminated from the tournament.
There will be trophies for first, second and consolation winners. There also will be a sportsmanship trophy for the team displaying the best sportsmanship during the tournament.
All teams must furnish their own balls and uniforms and jerseys must have numbers on the front and back and must be of the same color.

Harvesters Will Clash With Longhorns Tonight

By STEVE BOHLANDER
News Sports Editor
The Pampa Harvesters will be entering their second half of District competition after ending the first in a tie with the Palo Duro Dons.
The Harvesters have won their last three outings and are hopeful of a repeat performance against the Caprock Longhorns.
Pampa unlike many teams

In their first meeting the Harvesters pounced the Horns with an 80 to 50 defeat despite the fact that league-leading scorer Mike Edgar was sidelined with the flu. The Pampa bench which has been the winning factor in many of the Harvester games came forth with an outstanding show of good play.
Pampa unlike many teams doesn't own what most people could call a starting lineup as the whole team plays as one. This was in evidence in Friday nights 85 to 74 defeat of the Borger Bulldogs when many times a person would be pressed to answer if they were watching the antics of the Harlem Globetrotters or that of the Harvesters against the luckless Borger team.

The Pampa squad used bounce passes, slap passes, between the leg setups and just about every other tactic in the analogs of basketball to defeat the Bulldogs.
Coach Robert McPherson's warm-up drills and dribbling exercises came into full view Friday night as the team gave the capacity crowd the show that had been promised.
Everyone left the Fieldhouse satisfied that they had seen a good basketball game play a good opponent. One of the coaches at High School mentioned, "We try and win, we try and win and make the opponent like losing." This may sound improbable but there is more truth to the statement than first seen.

In many of the district confrontations some question was raised about the quality of officials by coaches and fans. In the Bulldog-Pampa clash the game was called close on both sides but never got out-of-hand. This is a credit to both teams and the officials present.
Game time for tonight's clash is at 8 p.m. for the Harvesters and 6 p.m. for the Shockers. The Shockers are tied with Caprock for the district record with both teams sporting a five-win and one-loss mark in district play.
Both games will be full of action and well worth the trip to Amarillo for avid Basketball fans.

Pampa Golf Team Improves Record

By RICKEY WRIGHT
Staff Writer
The Pampa High School golf team recently returned from the Midland Invitational Tournament to report improvement in the over all team.
There were 16 teams in competition and the contest was played on two courses; Ranchland Country Club and Midland Country Club. Midland Lee took top honors leaving Pampa far behind.
The first day the Harvesters linksters braved cold winds to make fourth place in the tourney.
Doug White led the scoring with 77 strokes trailed by Steve Hopkins with 80. Mike Coulter was next with 83 strokes followed by Leslie Harris who marked up 84. Dick Bailey's score of 93 was dropped from the card. The team score was 324.
The second day revealed Pampa to be as cold as the wind as the leading scorer of the day before, Doug White, had his 90-stroke score dropped from the team card.

Steve Hopkins took the vacated position of White with 83 strokes. Coulter was just behind Hopkins with 86 and he was trailed by the 88 strokes of Leslie Harris. Dick Bailey was not dropped from the card in the second round even though he only lessened his score by four strokes, from 93 to 89.
The second day's score was 346 and the two-day total was 670.
Big Spring will be the next stop for the school boy linksters this weekend, and there is expected to be some tough competition there also.
Most of the teams that were faced at Midland and San Angelo will be there.
"We improved our score 11 strokes since the San Angelo Invitational (which was 681) and I can guarantee we will have a better score than 670 this weekend," commented golf coach, Tom Lindsey.

Sportlight Focus On Pro Golf Tour

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Notes from the pro golf tournament trail:
John Mahaffey, a former national collegiate champion from the University of Houston and a tour rookie, often is referred to as a Ben Hogan protege.
"I'm not so sure about that," the slim, pleasant young man said. "I'm on his staff now and he has helped me."
"But it's more in letting me watch him, watch how he does things, plays a particular shot. I've played a few rounds with him and that's been a great help. It's things like that more than giving me advice or coaching."
Mahaffey, 23, a former assistant at Houston's famed Champions Golf Club, is one of several highly-considered members of this year's rookie crop.

Others include Tom Watson, Australian David Graham, big, strong Bob Zender and former national amateur champions Lanny Wadkins, Steve Melnyk and Bruce Fleisher.
Jack Nicklaus, winner of the year's Walt Disney World Open, wears a Mickey Mouse wristwatch. It's a gift from the Disney tournament sponsors.
With the addition of the $150,000 Greater St. Louis Classic, the pro tour schedule now has a crowded 44-week slate covered by major events.
The only really lengthy break is over the Christmas Holiday season.
"Hey, that's an idea," said a spokesman for a major airline that co-sponsors several events.

Bench Warmer Could Be A Starting Pro

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The kids on the UCLA campus are joking these days that Larry Hollyfield is the only college bench warmer who'll become a starter as a pro.
Even UCLA basketball Coach John Wooden admits that the muscular junior forward is "probably the greatest physical talent on the team" and says "when he gets himself under control, he's an outstanding prospect. And he's coming along very well."
Thus it's hard for Hollyfield, and the UCLA rooting section, to understand why he doesn't start. They feel the record speaks for itself:
Hollyfield is 6 feet 5, weighs 215 pounds and jumps with power and grace. He's built like a football fullback, shoots left-handed jump shots with deadly accuracy and has been compared with UCLA's recent All-American, Sidney Wicks. Wooden says the two are from the same mold.
And since he was a junior in high school, Hollyfield has played in only one losing basketball game, last year's UCLA defeat to Notre Dame, 89-82. His Compton High School team was sectional champ two years in a row and at Compton JC he averaged 22 points a game, helping win a state title and selection to the all-state team.

"Larry has tremendous ability," says Wooden, "but he hasn't really got it under control. He makes too many mistakes and doesn't play consistently. The reason he doesn't start is that I just don't know which Larry Hollyfield will show up when the game starts."
Wooden says the 20-year-old "needs more maturity," adding, "he's better for our team by coming off the bench because he gives us a big lift."
The crowd at Pauley Pavilion loves him.
Saturday night, in 15 minutes of playing time, he hit three scintillating jump shots, leaped for a rooftop-high layin, connected on 6 of 7 shots from the floor for 14 points, grabbed four rebounds, had five assists and generated life into the Bruin attack. UCLA won the game 81-56 over rival Southern California.
"It's kind of discouraging not to start," said Hollyfield, "but I know that (Keith) Wilkes and (Larry) Farmer are going to start. They deserve to. But I'm a little happier now. I got a big kick out of starting the second half against USC."

Golden Haired Crusader Makes Battle Against Avery Brundage

SAPPORO, Japan (AP) — Suzy Chaffee, a golden-haired crusader in ski pants, has descended on the 11th Winter Olympic Games to do battle with Avery Brundage and his International Olympic Committee.
"Brundage has been compromising world athletes for the last two decades," the statuesque, 25-year-old former U.S. Olympic skier from Rutland, Vt., said.
"I was forced to perjure myself by signing the oath in 1968 that I had obeyed all Olympic rules."
Suzy, now a globe-girdling model and designer, is here petitioning athletes, officials and newsmen to support her 10-point program to reconstruct and democratize the IOC.
"We should never have another fiasco such as the Karl Schranz case here last week," she said. "We must rid the Olympics of hypocrisy. We must give the athletes a voice in the Games. If people can't learn to play together, how can they ever learn to live together?" Schranz was banned from the games because of commercialism.

Here is the 10-point plan which Suzy says has the support of John B. Kelley, Jr., former Olympic sculler and now president of the U.S. Amateur Athletic Union, and Nicholas Kounovskiy, former Russian gymnast:
1. A universal definition for sports and athletes, eliminating the terms "amateur" and "professional."
2. Open competition, bringing back the highest standard of athletic excellence.
3. A more democratic IOC organization, with athletes having one third of the voting power.
4. Political neutrality. The IOC should not interfere with the internal affairs of any nation, whether it be Communist Russia or apartheid South Africa.
5. Sports financing, private citizens, industry and government be encouraged to play a more active part in funding Olympic efforts, thus furthering international peace.

6. Foster international good will through exchange of athletes.
7. The athletes and Olympic committees work more closely with local socio-athletic programs, such as the Peace Corps and VISTA.
8. Cultural renaissance. New emphasis on music, science, culture.
9. Olympic awards. Original works of art instead of medals. Winners may not receive cash although bonuses are permitted in other competitions.
10. Revive the Greek translation of "Olympics" meaning "peace" starting with the 1976 Games, all participating nations call a cease fire on all wars and acts of aggression.
Miss Chaffee said she has been working on the current project for two months. She had a personal interview with count Jean de Beaumont, who is slated to succeed Brundage as IOC president.

Ammons To Sign With Texas A&M
Pampa's football fighting-heart award recipient Dale Ammons will be signing a letter of intent this afternoon at 4 p.m. with officials from Texas A&M.
Emmory Ballard will be flying into Perry-Lefors Airfield to finalize Ammons' college football plans.
Ammons quarterbacked the Pampa Harvesters to their first District title in several years. Tascosa's Bucky Sams will be first in line for Ballard's trip into the Panhandle, however, as he will sign his letter of intent at 3 p.m. in Amarillo.
Miss Evert cannot, according to tennis rules, become a pro prior to the year in which her 19th birthday falls. She will be 18 next December, opening the way for her to play in January 1973.

While 99 per cent of the turn-away through cheered for the local favorite, small knots of spectators kept yelling, "Go get her, Billie Jean."
Miss Evert knew the sounds. "Those were fellow tour players clapping for her. They stick together."

King Massacred By 17 Year Old

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Billie Jean King wasn't just beaten, she was massacred. Chris Evert, teenage darling of the "Net Set," saw the old pro was wavering and moved in for the kill.
"My game stunk from the start," said Mrs. King, who won $100,000 on the tennis courts last year. "She could tell it. Chris kept knocking the ball back, waiting for me to make the mistakes. And, baby, I made 'em."
The 17-year-old Miss Evert, the heroine of Forest Hills in 1971 despite getting smashed by Billie Jean in the semifinals, got herself a rematch Monday and it was strictly no contest.
"Let's face it, Billie Jean was never in it," said the ponytailed cutie, who thrilled a hometown crowd of 3,500 in the finals of the $25,000 Women's International.
"After three games, I knew she was in deep trouble."
Chris methodically buried Mrs. King 6-1, 6-0 on a day of pure frustration for the 28-year-old Californian.
"I'm anxious to see what happens to her career after all this attention," said a frazzled-looking Billie Jean. "If she comes out on tour, she'll find out the facts of life."

Why All The Secrecy?

President Nixon's disclosure of the secret plan designed to end American involvement in Vietnam will no doubt bring him much greater popularity.

Certainly it will make his political critics work harder to find issues to defeat him at the ballot box. Nixon has played an ace in revealing that all that stands in the way of peace in Vietnam is an agreement by the Hanoi government to free American prisoners of war.

We believe that an end to the pointless conflict is necessary and we think it is proper for the government of the U.S. to expect to get its soldiers out of the communist prison camps as one of the conditions for withdrawing all American troops.

A weak attempt at criticism of Mr. Nixon was voiced by Sen. Alan Cranston, the California Democrat. "How long do we want to stay in Vietnam and fight and die there until Vietnam is able to defend itself?" Cranston said that was the issue. His remark seems quite hollow and purely political. It ignores the history of American involvement in Vietnam which has never been seriously conducted as a military operation, but has been the creature of politicians.

It has been a no-win expedition in which politicians have sent American youths to their deaths supposedly to oppose the march of communism while the same politicians promote, encourage and feed communism all over the world.

It has destroyed the spirit of the American military. It has shattered the spirit of American youth and has been the most divisive sword that ever pierced the heart of the American people.

It was politically inspired and politically conducted and its only solution must be political, distasteful though it may be to Americans who like to cling to the faith that America's course has always been just.

It is this group of Americans who must work to see that from the ashes of the Vietnam tragedy a new American spirit may rise which will demand an end to secret, despicable conduct which constantly involves the people of this nation in double dealing pacts with political criminals of the world.

The unhappy position we face is that we must applaud efforts of the President to extricate America from the sewer that is Vietnam. That is the immediate objective and must be viewed within the narrow limits of immediacy.

But we cannot applaud the method. Criticism of the Nixon approach is the cloak of secrecy used to campaign for a settlement which more closely touches the American people individually.

Why should the American people have been kept in darkness? If the position of the Nixon administration is pure and noble, then why was it necessary to deal in the dark manner which is the way of politics?

If the American people hope to prolong any resemblance of freedom, there must be a reversal in the attitude that any politician has the license to conduct the people's business in secrecy.

Joke Is On Whom?

Joke patterns run in cycles, says Dr. Jan H. Brunvand, professor of English at the University of Utah. Polack jokes, for example, have outlasted the "sick" jokes, little moron and elephant jokes. But the folklorist says there is no way to predict why some kinds of jokes die and others thrive.

The professor says that most jokes have a fall guy. He may be among the high or the mighty, but the easiest victims are minority groups.

Most minority slur names, he says, are too emotionally loaded to be widely used, but few jokesters actually know a Polack, so that ethnic name draws safe laughs. "It's been a lodestone for at least a decade, although in some parts of the country, the jokes were making the rounds as early as the '30s."

Brunvand says that by collecting and examining jokes the modern folklorist can detect underlying patterns of behavior and thought.

"By making society aware of the attitudes underlying jokes," he says, "the folklorist can become to society what the psychiatrist is to the individual."

Brunvand is kind of a humor accountant. Consider the interesting possibility that somebody may be keeping tabs on the jokes you tell.

VIEWPOINT

JESSE HELMS

He Will Not Depart

Four days before the Congressmen were scheduled to vote in Washington on the school prayer amendment, one of them published a list of what he called "our most eminent" law school deans, law school professors and "constitutional" lawyers. This "most eminent" list of men and women had declared themselves in opposition to permitting children to participate in prayer in the public schools of America.

It was purely a subjective judgment on the Congressman's part, of course, that these 300 lawyers — who happen to agree with the Congressman — are the nation's "most eminent." We readily confess that our own judgment about the list may be equally subjective. We saw very little eminence in the list. Indeed, most of the names that were at all recognizable belonged to professors who have been in the news as the result of their participation, direct or indirect, in militant and sometimes violent campus disorders during the past several years.

But here they were, signatories to a full-blown rhetorical statement declaring it to be America's "most precious heritage" to continue to prevent school children from engaging in prayer.

It is difficult to comment on this issue without the appearance of unseemliness. The nation has spent nearly a decade debating a depressing series of gratuitous Supreme Court decisions that never would have been handed down in the first place. They were judgments that cured no ill. At best, the Court loosed a frivolous assault on the freedom of the majority to exercise the majority's freedom of religion. At worst, the Court gave encouragement to the atheist's claim that it is somehow harmful for children to be exposed to prayer.

But who has presented a child who had been harmed during the long years of American history when it was an accepted and unquestioned part of every school day to have children pause to acknowledge the existence of their Creator? Where is there a child who was forced to pray against his will, or to a God in whom the child or his parents did not believe?

There has been none. Not one! So the argument against prayer in the schools has been purely hypothetical and superficial. Still, the First Amendment has been twisted beyond recognition throughout the past nine years. The First Amendment's language, concerning religious freedom, consists of precisely 16 words: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; — that is all, nothing more is said. But, out of these 16 words, the Supreme Court nearly a decade ago invented a basis for declaring that school prayers were unconstitutional. In retrospect, the Supreme Court rulings become all the more curious inasmuch as the Court's decisions have had the obvious effect of prohibiting the free exercise of religion.

All manner of inconsistency has been injected into the campaign to drive prayer out of the schools, and keep it out. The voices protesting loudest against permitting school children to pray have been often the same voices demanding that communists be given forums on our college campuses to espouse their propaganda. The Earl Warren Supreme Court declared, in fact, that communists have a "right" to jobs as school teachers.

The government cannot force its citizens to believe in God, and should not attempt it. But Abraham Lincoln stated the case quite well on April 30, 1863 when he declared that it was the duty of this nation and its citizens to acknowledge "their dependence upon the overruling power of God."

Within sight of where the Congress sits is the Washington Monument, upon which is carved the sixth verse of the 22nd chapter of Proverbs, which admonishes: "Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it."

All other arguments pale into insignificance when laid beside that one. In which direction is America "training up" her young people? That's the vital question, and it's one that no citizen can avoid — not even those whose names appear on a list of America's "most eminent" professors. — The American Way Features

Lindsay Going for 'Big Money' After Surprise Arizona Showing

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Mayor John Lindsay's surprise second-place showing in Arizona's caucus voting on delegates to the Democratic Presidential convention apparently is going to his head.

Not only has the New Yorker announced intention to electioneer in five more states, but in some respects even more significant, he is telling lieutenants to launch an immediate drive for "more and bigger" campaign contributions.

Lindsay's ambitious goal is $1 million by March 1.

Inner lieutenants and cohorts are being bluntly advised, "Go after the big money. It saves time and effort."

One potential hefty contributor slated for such a "touch" is Stewart Mott, 34-year-old bachelor heir of an $800-million General Motors fortune, who describes himself as an "avant-garde philanthropist."

Mott is a long-time Lindsay contributor, forking over considerably in his two mayoralty races. Lindsay insiders indicate Mott already has put up quite a bit for the mayor's Presidential scramble.

In fact, Mott is credited as the source of a good part of the $35,000 Lindsay admits spending on heavy media advertising and propaganda in Arizona.

Biggest backstage worry in the Lindsay camp is the possible eruption of another reeking scandal in his already corruption-bedraggled regime. Hints of such sensation have been going the rounds for several weeks.

A new sordid mess could have disastrous effect on the mayor's vaulting political aspirations.

Actually, his placing second in the Arizona caucusing is not so impressive as Lindsay's numerous press agents and busy-bee henchmen are loudly tooting. His support at the wide-open meeting came chiefly from students, Indians, blacks, Chicanos and various new left-and-dove elements. Many of them were brought to the gatherings in chartered transportation, as well as being well supplied with snacks, soft drinks and smokes.

Even with all this organizing and spending, Lindsay only narrowly nosed out Sen. George McGovern—23.6 per cent to 20.4 per cent. Sen. Muskie topped them both with 37.8 per cent.

More Hoopla Than Substance

That fanfare "personal financial statement," piously issued by Sen. George McGovern, when examined closely turns out to hide as much as it professedly reveals.

For example: The ultra dove and New Left South Dakotan lists $8,400 income last year from two sources—$4,200 from a "blind trust," and a similar amount from "interest on savings, rents, etc."

Carefully not mentioned in this loudly publicized accounting are any details about these intriguing items. Such as—what the so-called "blind trust" consists of, when it was set up, who runs it. Also, exactly what does "etc." stand for in the second item?

What McGovern's statement startlingly does disclose is how much money he made moonlighting in 1971—$38,200. That is almost as much as his $42,500 Senate salary.

In other words, while drawing $42,500 in pay from taxpayers plus some $250,000 additional in numerous Senatorial perquisites and allowances, McGovern, while hopping about the country campaigning for President, still found ample time to rake in another $38,200 moonlighting.

As the popular saying goes, "It's nice work if you can get it!"

As a lecturer (on Senatorial time), McGovern clearly doesn't let his avid dogoodism stand in the way of demanding lush fees, particularly from student audiences, which he goes in for strong.

His honorariums from these sources range from $1,000 (Miami University) to $2,840 (from the University of the Pacific, Stockton, Cal.). In between there are fees of $1,500, $1,800, $2,000.

The report also reveals that McGovern apparently is in the process of writing a book—or having one ghost-written for him. Listed as moonlighting income is $2,166 as a "book advance" by a Boston publisher.

Declined the South Dakotan unctuously in issuing his financial statement, "The truth is that elections have become events in which voters are forced to take chances. Confidence will be restored only when politicians, public officials...begin exhibiting their own confidence in the democratic system...That means all candidates should disclose their personal finances to avoid any hint of conflict of interest."

Okay, Senator; that's fine. A very honorable stand, indeed. Now when are you going to start doing that—by making public just what is behind those $4,200 items you nebulously list as "income from blind trust" and "etc."?

Honesty, like charity, starts at home—or does it? "Unavoidably Detained" Unlimited and interminable rhetoric is not the only serious problem plaguing and stalling the work and competence of the U.S. Senate.

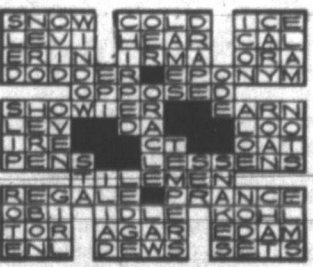

Another is extensive and persistent absenteeism. Particularly guilty of this type of chiseling are the numerous Democratic Senators running for President.

As Sen. McGovern's self-righteous "personal financial statement" disclosed, he was frequently absent last year not only campaigning but lecturing for fancy fees—$38,200 worth. Other Senators also were doing that kind of profitable moonlighting—at taxpayers' expense.

Control efforts last week included fogging spraying along 65 miles of parish roads and treatment of nearly 905,000 square feet of surface water for mosquito larvae.

HOME AWAY FROM HOME for thousands of athletes from more than 100 nations this summer will be the ultra-modern Olympic Village on the outskirts of Munich, West Germany. Low buildings in the foreground are for the women contestants. High-rises behind them will accommodate the men. After the 1972 games are over, the women's residences will be converted into student quarters and the men's into residential apartments.

Group Seeks Legislation To Provide Compensation For Victims Of Crime

EDITOR'S NOTE—There has long been a clamor for society to compensate victims of crime. Seven states now have laws providing compensation to victims of crime or persons injured in aiding victims of crime, and with federal government backing, there may be more on the books soon. A report on the situation.

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Donna M. Morrissey, a young registered nurse, was shot in the left shoulder by an unknown assailant as she got out of a car at a Boston skating rink Dec. 23, 1970.

While Donna was recovering, her father told her about a Massachusetts law which, under certain conditions, provides monetary compensation for victims of a criminal act.

On March 22, 1971, Donna filed a claim for compensation and after a June 14 hearing, the 25-year-old nurse was awarded $765.20. Three months later, Donna received her money.
Massachusetts is one of six states in the nation with laws compensating victims of crime. A seventh, Nevada, compensates persons injured in aiding the victims of crime. A bipartisan group of legislators hopes to encourage other states to enact similar laws and, as a stimulus, is preparing a bill for Senate action under which the federal government would pay 75 per cent of the costs of compensation programs established by the states in accordance with federal standards.

Arguments in favor of such legislation include:
William Brown, attorney general of Ohio: "We do everything we can to rehabilitate the criminal, so it's only fair that we help the victim."
Robert Morris, University of Chicago Law School professor, who helped draft a crime compensation bill pending in Illinois: "It's an extraordinary community which says help your neighbor, but the hell with it if you get hurt."
In addition to Massachusetts, the states already with such victims-of-crime compensation laws are New York, New Jersey, California, Hawaii and Maryland.
The Massachusetts law is fairly typical of the compensation statutes, although the different states have different maximum awards.
It allows the filing of claims for compensation by victims injured in a crime or by certain dependents of victims killed in a crime.
The law provides for compensation of up to $10,000 to victims who have lost more than $100 or two continuous weeks of earnings or support, provided the sum is not covered by public or private insurance. All expenses—including medical costs—are included in the $100 figure which is automatically deducted from any compensation payment.
Donna Morrissey, therefore, actually received $665.20 of her $765.20 award.
Claims are filed in District Court and payments are determined by the court which must decide whether a crime was committed, whether the crime directly resulted in personal injury or death and whether police records show the crime was reported promptly.
The law took effect July 1, 1968 and the state attorney general, Robert F. Quinn, says most of the claims filed since then have resulted from assault and battery cases. The state paid $4,498.58 in fiscal 1968-69, $60,885.76 in 1970 and $27,162.33 for the first four months of 1971—the last period for which figures were available.

The number of claims has been lower than expected, according to a spokesman in the attorney general's office. "Most people don't know about this program," he said. "I've even met lawyers who don't know what it is."
The proposal before Congress, in addition to picking up part of the tab for state compensation programs, also would provide compensation up to $50,000 for victims of violent crimes committed in the District of Columbia, in national parks and forests

An Associated Press sampling showed proposals for such a law pending in a group of states that includes Pennsylvania, Georgia, Illinois, Milwaukee, Michigan, Florida, Missouri and Ohio, Washington, Delaware, Kansas and Arkansas legislators considered such measures in the past and defeated them and there are moves to introduce compensation bills in Colorado and Rhode Island.

Television And Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — With state primaries fast approaching, the Sunday interview programs are the happy hunting grounds of the presidential hopefuls.
NBC's "Meet the Press" was talking to Eugene McCarthy and ABC's "Issue and Answers" was questioning Sen. Henry Jackson. The talk was almost purely political. "Face the Nation" had an interview with Secretary of State William Rogers who was reinforcing a viewpoint stated by President Nixon in an earlier TV talk to the nation.
For the viewer who is not particularly interested in politics, there is not much besides sports to buckle into on Sunday afternoons anymore—golf, basketball, hockey and even a little tennis. NBC is providing a little variety with coverage of the winter Olympic games in Japan—its Sunday hour was primarily concerned with ski events.
The network is having its problems in placing the programs where they will do the least damage to ratings. Last week it pre-empted "Night Gallery" and "The Dean Martin Show." This week it is giving Johnny Carson and company five nights off so it can use the time for the games. This could be playing with fire.

Women are the heaviest viewers of the Carson show. Women are not, as an audience category, the most passionate sports-watchers. ABC's Dick Cavett could wind up the biggest winner in the Olympics.
While the Carson show records about twice as big an audience as Cavett, it is not impervious. When Johnny takes one of his frequent nights off, the ratings drop notably. The extent depends on the substitute host. One reason Joey Bishop turns up so often as a guest host is that experience has shown he holds the "Tonight Show" ratings pretty high.
CBS's "60 Minutes" early Sunday evenings seems to be the only news program that is not kissing off the Howard Hughes-Clifford Irving story with one or two sentences. It added a new deminution to one side of the story this week with a feature about the subject of Irving's earlier book, "Fake," a merry, arrogant art forger named Elmyr de Hory, who specializes in spurious Picassos, Matisse and Modiglianis.
De Hory and Irving told of taking de Hory fakes to respected museum experts who declared they were the real thing.

French Write Rail Success Story

PARIS — (NEA) — Americans may find it hard to believe as their own rail system chugs from bad to much worse, but there is a land where trains run on time, swiftly and comfortably and even threaten to make money.
It is France, where railroad stations are busier than airports and intercity passenger traffic is, miraculously to American experience, more profitable than freight.

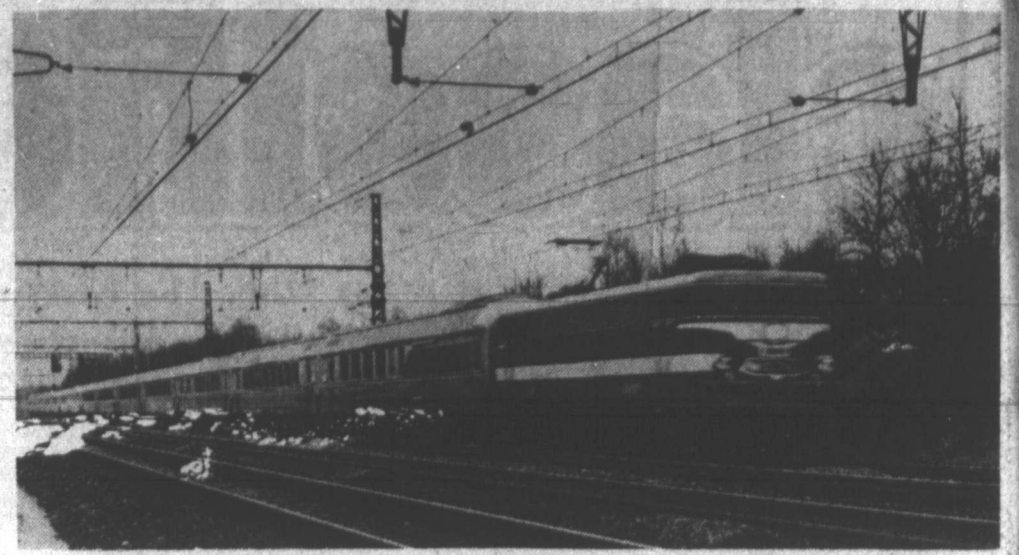

Part of the secret lies in better service and innovation. France has long been a leader in rail transportation. Its trains have reached 207 m.p.h. on trial runs and regularly scheduled passenger trains routinely cruise at 125 m.p.h. France is a magnet for study missions from other nations interested in the SNCF's (the national railway system) innovative operating procedures and equipment.

The latter includes such futuristic experiments as the turbotrain, Europe's first regular commercially operating gas turbine-powered passenger train. The turbo-train flashes through the countryside between Paris and Cherbourg at 112 miles an hour. Its turbojet engine is the same as that used in French aircraft. In fact, in its test run, it outraced an airplane that challenged it part of the way.

Another preview of the future, the Aerotrain, is operating on an experimental basis near Orleans. The French Aerotrain is a 120-mph hover-rail system. The train is held in place by a central guide rail and floats on a cushion of air produced by its own turbines. American firms and cities have expressed interest in the Aero-train for intercity traffic as well as airport transport.

But the future is already here with another French innovation—the TEE, or Trans-Europe Express trains. Visiting Americans often marvel at the long-established TEE system, which competes easily with the airplane on such runs as Paris to Brussels. Amtrak, the fledgling national passenger service in the United States, has copied the super-modern TEE for its Metholiner between New York and Washington.

Another new wrinkle on U.S. railroads—the autotrain—also is borrowed from France, where it was introduced 14 years ago. The train is divided into two sections—one third for passengers and two-thirds to transport cars. Travelers drive onto the train, leave their cars to enjoy the rest of the journey in lounge, dining or sleeping cars and drive off, much fresher, at their destinations.

France's Trans-Europe Express
Cruising at 125 m.p.h.

"It's quite a comfortable business for the railways," notes Roger Hutter, SNCF deputy director-general, and it is increasing at a solid 15 per cent a year with trains booked up months in advance despite constant expansion.

The first U.S. autotrain, modeled on the successful French version, has begun operating between Washington, D.C., and Florida, complete with dome cars, movies and breakfast in bed, if desired.

Another and typically Gallic touch to the SNCF success story is food. A leading chef, Raymond Oliver—television star, best-selling author and owner of a three-star Paris restaurant—was commissioned to carry out a gastronomic revolution on wheels. As a result, French travelers may dine on pintadeau aux cerise (guinea hen with cherries) and jambon de Prague braise au miel (Prague ham braised in honey) if they are inclined toward the gourmet. But if simplicity and economy are their dish, they have the option of a self-service cafeteria.

France is convinced that railroads have a bright future, despite the strong trend in most countries toward private cars and the airplane.
"People begin to be tired with driving, with road conditions, with road congestion, with accidents,

'How To Avoid Psychiatrist' Topic Of K&F Club Speaker

"How To Avoid the Psychiatrist" is the title of an address that will be delivered to members of the Knife & Fork club at their meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Starlight Room of Coronado Inn. The speaker will be Dr. Ron Meredith, whose title comes from a degree awarded him as Doctor of Humanities.

Dr. Meredith, whose home is now on a Kansas ranch near Kingman in the western part of the state, is a combination of personal counselor, businessman and world traveler. His travels have been to Europe, Asia and Africa. Two notable incidents result from his observations when he was invited to the White House by President Eisenhower and to the United Nations by Adlai Stevenson.

It is as a counselor, however, that Meredith achieved prominence. For many months he conducted a TV program over KATE-TV in Wichita, Kan., which was so popular that frequently it outdrew the Tonight Show. In his TV stint Dr. Meredith was the recipient of thousands of telephone calls from persons wanting help in solving their problems.

Ranching apparently has always been a sort of way of life with Meredith. He was born on an Iowa farm, five miles from a schoolhouse to which he trudged daily for his early education.

A popular speaker who has visited practically all the states and addressed hundreds of thousands of persons, Meredith has the knack of putting across a serious message geared to today's living, with just enough humor and inspiration to make the address highly palatable and pleasing as well as informing.

Dinner tickets will be on sale at Malone's Pharmacy until 12 noon Wednesday.
