Blandon: CIA gave Noriega classified reports

WASHINGTON (AP) - Two senators said today that, despite CIA denials, they believe a former Panamanian official's testimony that the spy agency routinely sent Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega classified reports on U.S. lawmakers

Sen. John Kerry, D-Mass., one of the alleged subjects, and Sen. Alfonse D'Amato, R-N.Y., said they don't doubt the veracity of former Panamanian diplomat Jose I. Blandon's assertions about the man who runs Panama's government.

Blandon is "a diplomat. He has never been accused of being involved in any illicit activities. ... So if you examine all of those things and his motives, I have to say that he is an extraordinarily credible witness who has no motive for saying this other than telling the truth," Kerry said on NBC-TV's Today show.

Blandon, testifying under oath, told the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on terrorism, narcotics and international communications Tuesday that Noriega often received reports on senators' political views and personal lives in advance of visits by congressional delegations to the Central American nation.

'Jose Blandon has demonstrated great credibility insight," D'Amato said on the NBC program. "We do know that Noriega has been a paid CIA operative for many, many years — highly paid — so I think the story is consistent.

After Blandon's testimony, the CIA denied that it had supplied Noriega with information on U.S. lawmakers.

The CIA categorically denies Blandon's assertions that the agency furnished any such information regarding U.S. senators or their staffers to the government of Panama," said Sharon Foster, a CIA spokes-

Blandon was slated for a second round of questioning today on the CIA claims, as well as Noriega's alleged involvement in sheltering narcotics traffickers and allowing Panamanian banks to be used as conduits for hundreds of millions of dollars in drug-sale profits.

Blandon also told the subcommittee Tuesday that Noriega actively assisted international drug traffickers, accumulated a personal fortune of more than $200 million, and essentially "turned Panama into a gigantic machine for all sorts of criminal activities and enterprises.

Noriega was indicted last week in Miami for allegedly accepting $4.6 million to provide a safe haven for narcotics and money-laundering operations.

Blandon's testimony appalled senators, especially those whose private lives and political stances were allegedly detailed in CIA dossiers given to Noriega.

Comer gives his comments

By LARRY HOLLIS Managing Editor

Assistant District Attorney Harold Comer, in a telephone conversation Tuesday afternoon with The Pampa News, said he had become aware of anonymous phone calls being made to area news media Tuesday concerning the city's finances and an attorney general's investigation.

Comer said he ordinarily does not comment publicly on these kinds of matters, but he felt the issue was getting out of Comer said his office became involved when "a couple of people" — he did not divulge their names — came to his office to express concerns about the way the city finances were being handled.

The two people and Comer felt that the district attorney's office did not have the personnel or expertise to thoroughly See COMER, Page 2

City counters accusations on finances

By LARRY HOLLIS Managing Editor

A state attorney general's field investigation into alleged wrongdoings in the handling of city finances became a public issue at the City Commission Tuesday evening night after anonymous telephone calls were placed to area news media Tuesday.

Though the attorney general's field investigator said the complaints were "totally unfounded" and cleared the city and staff of any mishandling of finances, Mary Denman, a police lieutenant's wife, claimed she had initiated the investigation "to do what I think is right for Pampa.

At the opening of the citizens request period, Mayor David McDaniel said he wanted to make a statement in light of the phone calls that had been placed to the media 'We have had a group of citizens who have been after Bob Hart for some time," McDaniel

"In their efforts to discredit the work that he has done for the city, some citizens approached the attorney general's office and made accusations about problems with city funds," he stated.

McDaniel said the attorney general sent an investigator to review the city's finance records.

The investigator "concluded that the city had an outstanding budget, an excellent financial system and an excellent internal control system," McDaniel said.

The mayor said the investigator also said "the city staff was doing an outstanding job" in handling the finances of the city and suggested that the staff continue "with the fine management work that they are doing.

When he reviewed his findings with the city staff, the investigator told the staff that they should continue their present system because nothing the investigator could say to this group (that initiated the investigation) would sway the group," McDaniel said.

McDaniel also said Assistant District Attorney Harold Comer "has received a verbal OK" to release the preliminary results of the attorney general's investigation, adding that the report will be available when it is completed later this month. (See related story.)

The mayor said that to his knowledge "I, and at least three other commissioners," were not the ones to initiate the investiga-

"We stand firmly committed to standing behind Bob Hart, McDaniel stated

Commissioner Ray Hupp said that he feels the investigation has been "a crying shame ... very detrimental" because of the cost in staff time and the taxpayers money that was spent on an unnecessary investigation

Mrs. Denman, wife of Police Department Lt. Roy Denman, admitted she and others had initiated the investigation.

'We have had all the harrassment that can possibly be handed out to a citizen" and yet still be willing "to stand up and speak out," she said.

She referred to her husband's demotion from captain to lieutenant in a reorganization of the Police Department in late 1986, a subsequent disciplinary suspension for three days in March 1987 for leaving his command call post during the blizzard and a recent 40-day suspension with pay "for psychological evaluation.

'All these incidents led me and others" to initiate the investigation, Mrs. Denman said, adding that it took not days or weeks but months in the process to reach the point where the attorney general's office sent the investi-

She said it took a lot of work 'trying to do what you see is right.

Mrs. Denman rejected the awards the city has won for its budget in the past three years (see related story), saying that she and others had paid money "to professional" certified public accountants to review the budget.

She claimed that the CPAs which her group paid felt there See CITY, Page 2

By LARRY HOLLIS Managing Editor

In his remarks at the opening of the citizens request period in the City Commission Tuesday evening, Mayor David McDaniel announced that the city has received its third consecutive award for its annual operating budget.

The city of Pampa's 1987-1988 budget has been designated as a Distinguished Budget Presentation for the current fiscal year by the Government Finance Officers Association of the United States and Canada, headquartered in Chicago, Ill.

State representative, senator candidates speak at forum Promises of budget cuts made Education issues a major topic

By PAUL PINKHAM Senior Staff Writer

Education issues dominated a candidate forum Tuesday night involving the four candidates for 84th District state representative.

The forum, hosted by the Pampa Area Chamber of Commerce, also featured candidates for state senator (see related story). Each candidate was given five minutes to speak, then fielded questions from the audience.

The four state representative candidates — two Republicans and two Democrats — are hoping to replace retiring Rep. Foster Whaley, D-Pampa. Their first hurdle will be the March 8 primary. All four disagreed somewhat with Texas education reform legislation. But they also disagreed with each other about how much change is needed.

Republican Gary Ivey called House Bill 72 — the state's sweeping education reform bill enacted four years ago - a "fiasco." He said the teacher career ladder, in which teachers are appraised and then rewarded based on Although "some things need to merit, is "demoralizing."

Ivey's primary opponent, former state Rep. Tom Christian of Claude, said the career ladder has failed because it uses "different yardsticks for different (teachers)." The merit pay system has not been well received in education circles, he noted.

"I don't see how we can salvage it" from the appraisal end, Christian said.

Pampa Chamber of Commerce President Warren Chisum, a Democrat, agreed that the career ladder is demoralizing. Chisum said the problem is legislators trying to control local school districts

"You elect a school board to run your schools," Chisum said.

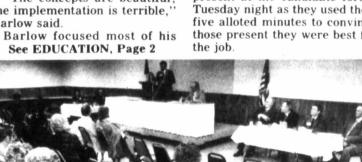

Chisum's primary opponent, Patton Springs school Superintendent J.J. Barlow, said the problem with the career ladder is that it forces teachers to compete with each other. If teachers deserve more pay, give it to them; if not, get rid of them, Barlow, of Afton, said.

"Don't make it competitive," be tossed out — the career ladder for one Barlow defended House Bill 72 overall, saying it has erased some of the complacency about education that had existed around the state.

'The concepts are beautiful: the implementation is terrible. Barlow said.

Promises of budget cuts, legislative and education reform and effective leadership flowed from the state senate hopefuls present at the candidate forum Tuesday night as they used their five alloted minutes to convince those present they were best for present - Brian Pott, Teel Bivins and Ron Slover. Nancy Garms and Mel Phillips were represented by Helen Botsonis and Becky Phillips respectively, who said both absent candidates had speaking commitments in Borger While the majority of the senatorial candidates spent their five minutes giving biographical information, Ron Slover of Amarillo described himself as a conservative Republican and plunged into his philosophy for healing the ailing Texas eco-

"Oil and gas are sick. Agriculture is sick. We have serious budget problems and the people are not ready for any tax increase," Slover told the approximately 40 Pampans attending the forum.

'This last tax bill has hamstrung the state's economy, particularly the small businessman," he said. "And it's destroying the climate to do business. I believe it is grossly wrong to handicap the small business-

Three candidates to the 31st man with such taxes, turning him District senate seat were actual- into a tax collector and bookeeper in order to do it. And then have the gall to charge him $25 to do Slover said if elected he would 'cause an environment to allow the production of oil and gas at lower prices." Low-cost gas would benefit winter homeowners and farmers who would profit from inexpensive fuel to power their irrigation wells, he said.

Lower taxes and an inexpensive fuel supply would also attract new industries to Texas, further developing the state's economy. Slover added.

Brian Poff of Canyon proposed that if elected he would control state spending, reduce the state sales tax and support active control of the state's economy

"I don't want to go meddlin' in your affairs," Poff, a former district judge, responded when asked if he was going to go to Austin to make more laws. "I'm going to see that they are spending your taxes right and to stimulate the economy.

GOP candidates Gilbreath, Buffum bring campaigns here

By PAUL PINKHAM Senior Staff Writer

Two Republican candidates who hope to be in Washington by this time next year campaigned Tuesday in Pampa and spoke out against an oil import fee and government waste.

Houston businessman Wes Gilbreath and Wichita Falls City Councilman Ron Buffum both said they oppose the fee as a way to solve Texas' oil woes Gilbreath, 59, is one of four Republicans hoping to face incumbent Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, a Democrat, while Buffum is one of a half dozen gunning for the Republican nod to succeed Rep. Beau Boulter, R-Amarillo, one of Gilbreath's opponents in the Senate

Gilbreath said he is counting on grass roots support in his statewide race, and pointed out that he is the only Republican candidate who has been to Gray County. Sen. Bentsen is scheduled to campaign in Pampa on Thursday. Admitting that he doesn't have the high visibility of Boulter or former state Rep. Milton Fox of Houston, Gilbreath said he expects to get his fair share of votes in the metropolitan areas of the state and will win the election based on support from rural areas Gilbreath said he is "the only businessman in the race," which, he noted, includes two engineers and a lawyer. 'Running our government should be done by a businessman," he said. Calling himself a conservative, Gilbreath said he fears the country is on the verge of a taxpayer revolt because of government irresponsibility. He said he has handled millions of dollars in business, qualifying him to handle billions in government.

'I like to think I'm a good steward of my money, and I'd like to be a good steward of your money if I get up there," he said. "Debt does not pay debt, and this is what Lloyd Bentsen's been putting on us for 18 years, and I'm sick of Gilbreath also said the government has taxed U.S. oilmen out of competing on the international market.

He said U.S. allies should share in the cost of protecting Gulf oil Kuwait should pay for American protection, just like an insurance policy, he added,

"We're spending millions of dollars over there protecting our competitors in the world market," he said. "We're not receiving anything from our allies in the free world for this protection.

Buffum, a Wichita Falls oilman, called oil production an important part of U.S. defense policy but said he can't support an oil import fee because it would stifle creativity and hurt small business, farmers and the petrochemical industry. He said he also fears the government could use the fee against Texas oil producers whenever oil prices rise.

'I just have a gut feeling that I'd wind up with the same $16.50 oil that I'm stuck with now," Buffum, 42, said.

Instead of an oil import fee,

Buffum said he favors incentives for producers, such as restoring the oil depletion allowance to $27. Buffum said job creation is a key to solving the nation's economic woes and added that Texas needs a better-educated work

Buffum

"Let's raise the education levels so that we can provide the people that are able to do the work," Buffum said.

Another key, he said, is removing trade barriers and other restrictions on small businessmen.

"We've got to let (their) creativity loose," he said. 'We've got to get the federal government out of our back pocket.

Buffum said all areas of federal spending, including the military, can be cut if Congress looks for inefficient management across the board and tears down Washington's entrenched bureaucracy.

The nation needs to rid itself of the attitude that every problem merits a new committee in Washington. "I've always looked at government as a self-fulfilling prophecy," he said. "If it wants to get bigger, it just gets bigger."

Buffum said his crowded, sixman race will be decided by the candidate who best articulates his ideas to the voters. He said Gray County will be a key because of the high number of Republican voters in the county.

School to discuss drug dogs

Discussions about using drug dogs in the fight against drugs in the schools will continue when school trustees meet at 6 p.m. Thursday in Carver Educational Center, 321 W. Albert St.

The board has talked about the possibility of drug dogs during its last two meetings, and most trustees have responded favorably to the idea.

Superintendent Harry Griffith said the dogs would be used to find drugs in school lockers and cars in an effort to remove the problem from school property. The dogs would not sniff out individual students for narcotics, Griffith said.

Griffith said the district would take the approach of trying to help students battle a drug problem rather than simply report them to authorities.

'We want to rid our schools of drugs and help any student who needs help," Griffith said.

"We can't tax ourselves into prosperity," said Phillips, speaking for her husband. "We can't increase state taxes or state income. We must cut out the waste and inefficiency in state government," she said.

"If you send me to Austin, I will sponsor a Constitutional amendment to ban a state income tax," said Teel Bivins, an Amarillo rancher and businessman. "I am irrevocably opposed to a state income tax. Texas is one of four states in the United States without a corporate or personal income tax.

The jury also ruled in an inquest Tuesday that the death of Loyal Garner Jr., a 34-year-old father of six, two days after his Christmas arrest on a drunken driving charge in Hemphill, was due to head injuries.

Will Smith, a black Church of Christ minister from Hemphill who has protested Garner's death, praised the Hemphill Police Chief Thomas Ladner, 40, county sheriff's deputies Bill Horton, 58, and James Hyden, 34, already have been charged with violating Garner's civil rights by beating him and denying him medical treatment.

If convicted of the state charges, they face maximum sentences of life imprisonment. The officers are free on $25,000 bond each and have been suspended from their jobs with pay. A trial has not

Justice of the Peace William B Beaird, who presided at the inquest, said additional state charges could be filed in Sabine County, or Smith County, where Garner died.

Smith County District Attorney Jack Skeen said he would review the ruling in about three weeks to determine whether to file murder charges. Sabine County District Attorney Bill

Martin did not attend the inquest and was away from his home and was not available for comment Tuesday night. Ladner's defense attorney, John Seale, said the inquest ruling won't make a difference in the criminal civil rights case or a civil suit filed by Garner's widow, Corrinne, against the town of Hemphill. He said the ruling cannot be entered as evidence in those trials.

Garner family members showed no reaction when the ruling was announced, and refused to comment

Garner was arrested Dec. 25 for investigation of driving while intoxicated as he and two black friends, Alton Maxie and Maxie's brother Johnnie, drove through Hemphill.

Garner was taken to Sabine County Hospital the next day and transferred to a Tyler hospital, where he died Dec. 27. An autopsy showed that although there were no skull injuries, there were several internal contusions, some penetrating to the deepest part of the brain, Dr. V.V. Gonzalez testified.

He said Garner must have been hit with an object that had a smooth surface and that injuries caused by a "slapjack," a weighted leather weapon used by police, are "compatible with the injury that was sustained by Mr.; Garner.

Alton Maxie testified that after the men banged on the cell door and asked to phone their families, Ladner and Hyden entered the cell and Hyden struck Garner with a slapjack.

"I heard Loyal saying all he wanted; to do was make a phone call. I could hear a muzzled slap and I could hear. him (Garner) moaning," Maxie testi-

He said Garner was returned to the cell. "I looked at Loyal and tried to bring him arond," Maxie said. "He was just laying there with his eyes open and he wasn't talking."

that she has a brand-new green card, 98-year-old Clara Escobedo de Martinez is ready to go on TV to urge other aliens who qualify for amnesty not to miss the chance of a lifetime.

Mrs. Escobedo, a greatgrandmother and the nation's oldest applicant under the new immigration law, received the permanent resident card Tuesday, along with an application for citizenship more than six years sooner than most normally would be eligible to become a citizen.

Immigration officials speeded up the process for Mrs. Escobedo because she once had legal status, said Stephen Martin, the Immigration and Naturalization Service's regional commissioner.

'What we're doing now is we're putting things back in their proper order," Martin

Mrs. Escobedo, who received the green card during a ceremony that drew about 50 people, plans to make television commercials for the INS without pay because she enjoys the attention.

Under the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, a one-year amnesty period began last May 5 for undocumented aliens able to show they had lived in the United States illegally before Jan. 1, 1982.

A study issued Tuesday in Washington urged the INS to conduct a major marketing effort to attract applicants because the amnesty program is in danger of falling below its original estimate of covering 2 million people.

Most aliens are not able to apply for citizenship until five years after obtaining permanent legal status. Permanent status also was granted to Mrs. Escobedo more than a year ahead of schedule.

'I'm very thankful for this and for all of the things the Lord has done for me without deserving them," she said in Spanish on Tuesday during a ceremony in which she was given a Valentine's Day card and a party.

She never learned how to speak English.

Mrs. Escobedo, who said her husband was killed by Pancho Villa's men in 1914 during the Mexican revolution, first came to the United States from Mexico in 1927.

She lived here legally for 35 years, beginning in 1927.

Then, in 1962, as she was returning from a visit to Mexico, immigration officials at the international bridge in the border city of Brownsville canceled her legal status, because they thought she had been living in Mexico.

They sent her back to Mexico, but she returned to stay as an illegal alien in 1979, and lives in Brownsville with her daughter and granddaughter.

What we did was go back to the time her card was taken and nullify that action because it was not a right and correct action, which gives her legal status in this country since 1927," said Martin.

"I think she'll probably aggressively pursue the (citizenship) application pretty quickly.

Remember that old cliche - "one man's junk is another man's treasure?" Well, there's a great big flea market in Amarillo that I haven't yet decided whether it's a treasure palace or a junkyard.

Treasures often under your nose

Maybe it's a good bit of both. I visited that place this weekend out of curiosity. I've passed by I don't know how many times and could hear it calling me. "Come look, come look," the siren sang. What untold mysteries it held. Surely some item I've always wanted would be there at a price too ridiculously low to pass up. So I made a special effort to visit ... finally. Guess what I saw first? A glow-in-the-dark velvet painting of The Hulk flexing his muscles in a paroxysm of rage for only $4. Couldn't you just see that hanging in the living room? It could light the way when husband Vic took off on a midnight jaunt to the kitchen for a bowl of cereal. Or I could get that matching pair of dented coffee mugs with the legend, "I got smashed in Texas." Of course, I could build a wardrobe with selections from the myriad black T-shirts proclaiming "God rides a Harley!" or a photo of some hard rock group whose names are not fit to be repeated in mixed company.

Don't get me wrong. Like I said, what's junk to some is treasure to others.

Some of the treasures I found included three pairs of 100-year-old button-up shoes in almost perfect condition. Nearby was a mint condition Fannie Farmer Cookbook. Old-fashioned wooden ironing boards stood up in the corners of many booths. My mother-in-law Phyllis explained that she had discovered through experience that wooden ironing boards have a way of folding up when least expected, usually depositing a hot iron on the foot of the unsuspecting person ironing. So they're better to look at than to use, I would imagine, since I treasure my toes. Mine aren't long enough to risk losing any part of them.

One booth featured ceramic items. I fell in love with the art deco masks trailing multi-colored ribbons. Phyllis chuckled over the happy pigs. My kids stopped to beg by every booth featuring either toys or jewelry. Vic looked at anything that had to do with car parts, tools, or locks and keys.

Just because it comes from a flea market does not guarantee a bargain. We saw a used vise there for $65 that was exactly like one we had just seen at a wholesale warehouse in Amarillo for $49.95. But there again, one booth had a rack of brand-new, forest-green, all-weather coats with a take-out lining for $5.

I thought that was a great buy. In fact, I thought it was such a good buy I was going to get one until Vic made a snide remark about the color. My treasure was junk to him.

Watching the people mill around was almost as fun as going to the airport on a Saturday night. Every kind of character you could imagine was there. Booth owners chatted away amiably with neighboring booths or with prospective customers. One toddler, sitting in a play pen, had the makings of an excellent salesman. He couldn't talk, but he was already pointing out merchandise to the pas-

We probably spent the better part of two hours in the place and I never found that special treasure I knew would be there.

Do you know where my treasure was? In White Deer, waiting for me at a little bargain store at the city limits. A round lace table cloth for $3.

Which goes to show - search the world for that special treasure and you'll likely find it right here under your nose.

Judge closes day-care center

AUSTIN (AP) - A day-care center with a history of medical emergencies, including the death of a 16-month-old, has been closed by a state judge who said he is still not sure whether there was child abuse at the center.

State District Judge Pete Lowry on Tuesday granted a temporary injunction against Lou's Day Care. The action was sought by the Texas Department of Human Services, which alleged that owner Mary Lou Gardner caused medical emergencies at the center, possibly by suffocation.

Under Lowry's order, Lou's will remain closed until a full trial of the case, which could be held in about six months. The center had been temporarily closed since the DHS filed its lawsuit in January.

"The evidence has been conflicting," Lowry said. "I don't know if there has been child abuse or not.

But he said there was evidence of an unusual string of medical emergencies among children at

"The whole purpose of this proceeding has been to represent those children," he said.

Parents who had sent their kids to Lou's, including the mother of the boy who died, testified in Mrs. Gardner's behalf, calling her a loving woman who was loved by the children.

Earlier in the trial, three doctors testified for the state that as many as 15 medical emergencies involving small children at the home have occurred since 1982. They said the children were victims of Munchausen's Syndrome by proxy, which they said is diagnosed when a caregiver causes medical emergencies in children.

Dr. Kent Anthony, a physician hired by the defense to examine Mrs. Gardner and review the medical records, said he saw no evidence of child abuse. He said there were sound medical reasons for each emergency.

"I see no reason to believe she is a danger. I think the children are in good care when they are with her," Anthony testified. Joe Stokes, Mrs. Gardner's

President risking all-out trade war

President Reagan enjoys the reputation of being a strong advocate of free trade. And he recently signed an important new liberalized trade agreement with Canada. But in general he has imposed more trade restrictions than any president since the Depression. Now he is planning to strip four Asian nations — Hong Kong, Singapore, Taiwan, and South Korea — of their supposedly "special" trade preferences with the US, though a final decision has not yet been made.

Presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater announced, "The preferences are designed to help emerging economies ... and we are considering taking them out of this category and letting them compete with others. It's a graduation." Some graduation. It's like a high school football player graduating to college with chains on his legs.

The new restrictions - which is what they are would go into effect next January. They are wrong for several reasons. First, they would constitute a tax increase on the American people. New duties to the tune of $5 billion would be imposed on the four countries' imports, the money to be paid for by the Yankee consumer and deposited in the federal treasury. As with all new taxes, the money would be used to bankroll more wasteful federal spending. And didn't Reagan say he would never increase our Second, the new duties would fan the fires of inflation. Thanks to the Reagan administration's devaluation of the US dollar, imports last year shot up in price an alarming 14 percent. The new duties on the four Asian nations would push that figure up even higher. Of course, administration officials say that the devaluation also means that Americanmade products will cost less, so we'll export more. But let's be honest. What we're talking about here is a backdoor initiation of a trade war. Yet as America continues in the sixth year of the longest peacetime expansion in our history, do we want to risk an all-out, hara-kiri trade war?

Third, the four nations are more developed than he world, and are approach the US, Japan and Western Europe, but the Asian countries also have many problems the larger industrial nations lack. In particular, the four lands face national security dilemmas. Hong Kong doesn't know what will happen after 1997, when it comes under Red Chinese sovereignty. Taiwan is also claimed as territory by the Chinese Communists. South Korea faces a belligerent, aggressive opponent to the north; North Korea has at least 750,000 heavily armed troops poised for an invasion. And Singapore faced ethnic difficulties.

These countries have performed amazing feats of development and except for Hong Kong have built up strong national defenses. But everything rests on trade, particularly with the US. The best way we can keep these allies free is to keep our trade with them as free as possible.

What should then be done? President Reagan should counter his advisers' bad advice and cancel this plan. Further, he should drop all remaining trade restrictions with these countries. Will Japan and Western Europe continue to be treated unfairly? Then there's a simple solution: Remove all trade restraints from them, too.

Congress crippled Contras

WASHINGTON - So be it. The House of Representatives spoke Feb. 3 on the matter of further aid to the freedom fighters in Nicaragua. As of March 1, there will be no further aid to the freedom fighters - at least there will be no further aid that matters.

The vote was close — 219-211 — but coming close is not enough. By the decision of the House, the United States now has abandoned thousands of brave men and women who were fighting to gain a chance at freedom from communist rule. Yes, there is talk of a sometime package of "humanitarian aid," but such aid would serve largely to relieve the Sandinista regime of an obligation of government. The House has opted for appeasement, and appeasement never

Let us place the blame - or as you will, the credit — for this wretched action squarely where it belongs, on the heads of Speaker Jim Wright and such Democratic colleagues as Dick Gephardt of Missouri, Tony Coelho of California and Lee Hamilton of Indiana. They were the

These Democratic liberals won the vote with a plea "to give peace a chance." Their naive idea, bless their bleeding hearts, is that with the Contra pressure effectively removed, the Sandinista regime somehow will get religion. It will be born again. It will renounce its evil ways. It will welcome the Contras into a "pluralistic" new administration — into an era of free elections, free press, amnesty for all, and an end to ties to the Soviet Union. Hallelujah!

What twaddle! The realities, if we may judge the future from the past, are quite the opposite. In the past 70 years, has any communist regime up, Mr. Speaker! Tell us about the fate of civil and human rights in Eastern Europe, in Angola, in Cuba, in Vietnam. This would be a most fascinating tale to hear.

Nicaragua's President Ortega, with this decision, has been handed everything his heart desires. Relieved of military pressure, he becomes free to stall, to delay, to make further temporary and cosmetic gestures calculated to lull the Wrights and Gephardts to dreamy slumber. Then, six months or a year hence, with the Contra forces effectively disarmed and rendered impotent, let us see what develops.

Under the Arias peace plan, the Sandinistas are supposed to turn their backs upon military aid from the Soviet Union. That is a splendid supposition. Do cats turn their backs upon cream? Moscow has poured hundreds of millions of dollars into creating in Nicaragua the largest military force in the whole of Central America. Toward what end? To defend poor defenseless Nicaragua from invasion by mighty Costa Rica?

Better answers instantly suggest themselves.

a time, opposition newspapers and radio stations will speak up. For a time, the church will suffer little oppression. It will be glasnost with a Spanish accent. The Contra forces, disarmed, will pose no threat.

Then the hammer will strike and the sickle will reap. The promise of genuinely free elec-tions somehow will be put off. La Prensa's allotment of newsprint somehow will dwindle. By one means or another, the Sandinistas' aid to Marxist rebels in El Salvador will be resumed. After a further while, we may expect the return of Cuban, East German and Soviet "advisers" to the streets of Managua. And after that?

This is the infernal mischief of the Wednesday night vote. It absolutely defuses the only force that might have compelled genuine reforms. Let us be certain on this point: Once the Contras have been crippled, they cannot be made whole again. You cannot amputate a man's legs, apologize for the surgery, and then tell him to get back in the race. Dr. Wright and Dr. Gephardt mean no harm; they have nothing but the best intentions; they certainly do not desire to see a Soviet naval and air base in our hemisphere. The Contras deserved better doctors.

Let the record show that President Reagan did everything in his power to keep the Contra cause alive and breathing. His final proposal gave the House every opportunity that reasonably could have been asked: The puny $3.7 million in military aid would have been kept in escrow, to be dispatched only with further congressional approval. Reagan would have sheathed a sword, not scrapped it.

It is time to send umbrellas to 207 Democrats and 12 Republicans in the House. When the rain comes - and it will come - it will fall first of all on them.

Japanese planning sea cities

Japan has a big idea.

While the rest of us focus our resources on colonizing the Moon or, perhaps, Mars

The Japanese are contemplating colonizing the bottom of the sea.

Japan, an island nation, is most comfortable thinking in terms of "islands." The Japanese own 32 hotels in Hawaii. Much of the $3 billion Japan has invested in U.S. property is in

Beyond this, one of Japan's biggest civil engineering firms, Shimizu Construction, is planning now for a city resting high and dry on the bottom of the sea. The city, tentatively called "Marinnation," would be bigger than Tokyo ... enclosed by a circular dam 18 miles in diameter. The outer wall would be of steel, the inner wall of Land prices in Tokyo have risen to such heights that the Japanese have searched everywhere for a suitable "second island.

"We have done all the calculations and it is feasible," say the engineers. The huge circular dam of steel and concrete would be anchored on the ocean bottom and extend a "suitable distance" above the surface. Then 500 pumps would draw the seawater from within the area and therein and thereon would be built the city of "Marinnation."

somewhere in the Pacific Ocean."

While other "sea cities" have been suggested over the years, cost was always a discouraging factor. Shimizu engineers believe that with new technology they can reduce contemplated costs to one-seventh of previous guesstimates.

That should make property available in "Marinnation" at a per-square-foot cost competitive with today's land costs in Tokyo.

Reagan's taking us back to 'The Jungle'

By ROBERT WALTERS

LOS ANGELES (NEA) - Big trucks rumble through the streets. Abandoned industrial equipment rusts in rubble-strewn vacant lots. On warm days, the odor of animal slaughtering, rendering and processing is inescapable.

That's a portrait of Vernon, a community 31/2 miles southeast of downtown Los Angeles that appears to have nothing in common with the city's sparkling glass and chrome cen-tral business district.

There is, however, a connection: Vernon, the West's largest meatpacking center, produces the beef for those who live or work not only downtown but also in Hollywood, Beverly Hills and countless other, less glamorous communities. The purity of the beef, pork, veal and chicken consumed throughout the country is supposed to be assured by inspections administered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture - but USDA employees say that protection has been severely compromised during President Reagan's tenure.

"The flies have been getting meaner, the roaches fatter and the rats bolder" at processing plants, says a USDA inspector from Long Beach, Calif. "My advice to the public is not to eat meat," says a former USDA inspector from Rosemead, Calif.

A former USDA poultry grader from Missouri tells of being pressured to certify "Grade A" chickens with sores, scabs, broken bones, exposed flesh, breast blisters, pus, fecal matter, tumors and grease.

The meat packing companies in Vernon have been the subject of scandals in earlier years. Now they are again being probed by the Govern-ment Accountability Project, a Washington, D.C., public interest organization that specializes in identifying and protecting the whistle-blowers among mployees of the federal government. In the mid-1980s, USDA inspectors working with GAP provided testimo-ny and evidence that packing plant executives exerted improper pressure — ranging from proffered bribes to physical intimidation — to approve tainted meat in violation of federal standards.

Harvey

Five of the worst plants in Vernon and elsewhere in the Los Angeles area were closed and others were placed on probation. But serious problems at many other facilities were ignored, and most of the USDA's whistle-blowers were harassed by their own superiors for being too honest.

The Reagan administration has pressed for widespread adoption of "total quality control," a concept whose name obscures its intent to shift much of the responsibility for inspection from government industry

During Reagan's tenure, USDA employees have warned of allegedly de-teriorating inspection standards not only in California but also in New York, New Jersey, Arkansas, Oklaho-ma, Missouri and elsewhere.

In the worst of the plants, the food destined for human consumption is contaminated not only by fecal mat-ter from the animals being processed but also by grease, hair, rust and

USDA admits that 37 percent of the 4 billion chickens that its inspectors approve for marketing every year are contaminated by salmonella bacteria but GAP says 90 percent is a more reliable figure.

The problems aren't new. Novelist Upton Sinclair's 1906 book, "The Jungle," shocked the nation by describing the dreadful practices in Chicago meat-packing plants, including the slaughter of dead, diseased and crippled cattle.

In subsequent years, presidents generally have understood the need to shield the public from those hazards - but Reagan entered office with almost no confidence in government to perform any task and with unshakeable faith in private industry to regulate itself.

"Under the Reagan administra-tion," says GAP Executive Director Louis Clark, "the USDA is slowly and quietly abandoning its statutory re-sponsibility to protect the public from the risks of contaminated meat."

New private Contra aid plan revives Iran-Contra fears

WASHINGTON (AP) - House Democratic leaders say a plan by Nicaragua's Contra rebels to solicit private donations for their war against the Sandinista government smacks of the private foreign policy that led to the Iran-Contra affair.

The House leaders also criticized the Contras' failure to resume cease-fire talks today with the Managua government, saying the delay calls into question whether the rebels want a negotiated settlement or insist on a military solution.

"I'm disappointed that they seem to give no priority whatsoever to continuing the peace talks," House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, said Tuesday. "That casts serious doubts on their inten-

Wright said he will continue efforts to draw up a package of purely "humanitarian" aid for the rebels — with or without administration help — to replace the White House proposal that included military aid. President Reagan's plan was killed in the House last week.

Wright said he hoped to have the alternative ready by the week of Feb. 22.

House Majority Whip Tony Coelho, D-Calif., accused the Contras and the administration of trying to "privatize" U.S. foreign policy despite the lessons of the Iran-Contra affair, and destroy a fivenation Central American peace accord.

'Before, it was an international embarrassment for the United States," Coelho said in a reference to the elaborate covert network that sent profits from arms sales to Iran to aid the Contras majority of the American public opposed to the policy of arming the Contras to overthrow the Sandinista regime

"But the administration is saying we are going to circumvent the Congress and tell the American people to go to hell," Coelho said. "They're trying to do publicly what they tried to do privately before. I think there's a deliberate attempt by the administration to stop the peace process.

At a news conference in Miami on Monday, Contra leaders said they were establishing two taxfree funds to receive donations from private Americans to buy supplies. They said they were doing this publicly to avoid the taint of scandal that came in the Iran-Contra affair.

The rebels also said they planned to solicit military aid from foreign countries.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said Reagan has not contributed to the private aid account and he does not know whether the president plans to do so. GOP presidential contender

Bob Dole already has given $500. Fitzwater added, however, that the president has made it clear "through the decision-making network here at the White House," including the National Security Council, that the administration 'will not be involved in private support to the Con-

Coelho said that in their humanitarian aid package, Democrats will likely seek to include provisions banning third-party fund raising.

'Lake Wobegon' tests: Students above average

WASHINGTON (AP) — Parents and children alike are being misled by achievement tests with a "Lake Wobegon effect" in which most students' scores are declared above average, a top Education Department official

Chester E. Finn Jr., the assistant secretary for educational research and improvement, likens such test results to the Lake Wobegon invented by author and radio personality Garrison Keillor. David Deffley, general manager of CTB-McGraw Hill, which markets both the California Achievment Test and the Comprehensive Test of Basic Skills, denied Cannell's allegations and said there was not "a scintilla of truth" to the allegation that 'they'll give us money if we make them look good.'

"The tests serve a very fine purpose," including pointing out which children need remediation, said Deffley. "For one $3-achild testing, you get a multiplicity of purposes ... all designed to improve education in that school district.

The experts say the average American consumes over 11 pounds of chocolate each year. And when they choose to indulge, they go all out. As a result, gourmet chocolates have become very popular.

We're experiencing a fine chocolate revolution," says Gary Foote, director of marketing Ferrero U.S.A., makers of Mon Cheri fine imported chocolate.

It was the Spanish explorer Cortez who brought home from Mexico a drink made from cocoa beans and red pepper. Europeans began adding sugar, refining the process and adding other ingredients, including milk, vanilla and nuts.

In 1828, a Dutchman, Conrad van Houten, came up with a method of pressing the oil, or cocoa butter, from the cocoa bean, creating a new product, cocoa powder, which eventually led to a chocolate that could absorb large amounts of sugar.

In 1847, the English firm of Fry and Sons began producing "eating chocolate," launching fine dark chocolate in the solid form that we know today

Girl has doubts about abusive boyfriend

DEAR ABBY: I'm 19 years old and have dated this one guy for three years. Since that time, we've done nothing but fight over stupid things. I'm naturally very outgoing and I enjoy being around people, but in the last two years, all that's changed. My boyfriend is four years older than me and he hates to be around people. He's jealous and forbids me even to look at other guys in public. He accuses me of seeing other guys behind his back, even though we're together seven nights a week. He gets mad if I wear clothes that show my legs because he doesn't want any other guys to see them except him

He doesn't have any friends, and doesn't want any. He has bruised my arms, torn my clothes and called me every dirty name in the book. When he gets upset about anything, he takes it out on me, but for some crazy reason, I love him.

We are supposed to get married in March, but my friends tell me I'll make the biggest mistake of my life if I marry this guy. What do you

'TEXAS' auditions to be Feb. 21 in Canyon

CANYON - Auditions for the musical drama "TEXAS," presented each summer in Palo Duro Canyon, will be held from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 21, with dancers at 4 p.m., in the Art Department Lecture Hall, Room No. 189, in Northen Hall at West Texas State University

The 23rd season of "TEXAS" is scheduled to begin June 15 and play at 8:30 p.m. nightly except Sundays through Aug. 27. Rehearsals begin May 22.

The musical drama offers 140 positions for singers, dancers and musicians. Anyone 18 years of age or older may try out. Actors, singers, dancers, technicians, musicians and hospitality crews are needed.

To audition, men and women must bring a picture, and dancers should wear appropriate workout clothing.

All voice ranges are required, and singers

should bring one prepared number of their choice. An accompanist will be furnished, or a singer may bring his own.

Since singers all fill minor speaking roles, each should also prepare a one- to two-minute memorized scene or monologue.

Actors and actresses are required to memorize any scene, not to exceed three minutes, that will accentuate outdoor voice and presence and also perform a short vocal

Men and women with ballet or modern dance training are desired.

Musicians are needed who are experienced in string bass, standard guitar, banjo, accordion and with concert training in violin.

"TEXAS" is a combination of breathtaking background, a colorful historical story, spectacular sound and light, hundreds of unusual props and the talent of 80 performers.

Indians perch on rocks, a real train crosses the prairie, a surrey brings guests to a dance and cowboys ride their horses in the background. A realistic storm sends shivers through the audience as thunder roars and lightning strikes.

Noted for its highest average attendance of any outdoor drama in the United States, "TEXAS" filled the theatre in 1987 with average nightly crowds of 1,600.

Nearly 100,000 persons from all 50 states and 84 foreign countries attended in 1987, and over 1,780,000 have enjoyed the production since its beginning in 1966.

Written by Pulitzer Prize winning author Paul Green, the show is directed by Neil

Cater to your sweetheart's sweet tooth with chocolate

NEW YORK (AP) - As Valentine's Day approaches, thoughts naturally turn to chocolate.

When Spain's Maria Theresa became engaged to Louis XIV of France, she expressed her affection to her betrothed by sending him an elegant chest filled with chocolates. This may have been the very first chocolate Valen-

The experts say the average American consumes over 11 pounds of chocolate each year. And when they choose to indulge, they go all out. As a result, gourmet chocolates have become very popular.

We're experiencing a fine chocolate revolution," says Gary Foote, director of marketing, Ferrero U.S.A., makers of Mon Cheri fine imported chocolate.

Joan Steuer, president of Chocolate Marketing Inc., a New York-based consulting firm, agrees. "Thanks to the many imports on the market today, people are more discerning about choco-

"They want richer taste and smoother chocolates with excitab ing inclusions such as hazelnuts, wafers and macadamia nuts. Fine chocolate is the fastest growing category in the candy market today.

It was the Spanish explorer Cortez who brought home from Mexico a drink made from cocoa beans and red pepper. Europeans began adding sugar, refining the process and adding other ingredients, including milk, vanilla

In 1828, a Dutchman, Conrad van Houten, came up with a method of pressing the oil, or cocoa butter, from the cocoa bean, creating a new product, cocoa powder, which eventually led to a chocolate that could absorb large amounts of sugar.

In 1847, the English firm of Fry and Sons began producing "eating chocolate," launching fine dark chocolate in the solid form that we know today.

Girl has doubts about abusive boyfriend

DEAR ABBY: I'm 19 years old and have dated this one guy for three years. Since that time, we've done nothing but fight over stupid things. I'm naturally very outgoing and I enjoy being around people, but in the last two years, all that's changed. My boyfriend is four years older than me and he hates to be around people. He's jealous and forbids me even to look at other guys in public. He accuses me of seeing other guys behind his back, even though we're together seven nights a week. He gets mad if I wear clothes that show my legs because he doesn't want any other guys to see them except him.

He doesn't have any friends, and doesn't want any. He has bruised my arms, torn my clothes and called me every dirty name in the book. When he gets upset about anything, he takes it out on me, but for some crazy reason, I love him.

We are supposed to get married in March, but my friends tell me I'll make the biggest mistake of my life if I marry this guy. What do you

DEAR SECOND THOUGHTS: You are wise to have second thoughts. And you'd be wiser still to have third and fourth thoughts. Please read the letter wrote to me, then ask yourself how you define "love."

The guy you "love" is abusive, possessive, jealous without cause, controlling and selfish. Is this the man you want to spend the rest of your life with? Think about it.

DEAR ABBY: Last spring, a classmate of mine from high school (30 years ago) called to tell me that his wife had died. I had only seen him once since we were in high school, and that was five years ago

When he phoned, he said he had been thinking about me, and would love to get together. I said, "That would be nice; my husband and I would enjoy seeing you again." (I emphasized "my husband.")

I told my husband and grown son, and they both think this man is coming on to me. What do you think? Would you say he is being too pushy? All we have in common is having been classmates 30 years

DEAR ABBY: I know you will not believe your eyes, but I am sending you a photocopy of my telephone bill in the amount of 1 cent. I was informed by the telephone company that I had to send it a check in this

DEAR MR. WOOLDRIGE: I realize that the telephone company must keep accurate books, but for it to have spent 22 cents in postage to collect 1 cent which cost you 22 cents to remit seems ridiculous.

It would have made more sense for the telephone company to have added the 1 cent to your next month's telephone

auditions to be Feb. 21 in Canyon

CANYON - Auditions for the musical drama "TEXAS," presented each summer in Palo Duro Canyon, will be held from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 21, with dancers at 4 p.m., in the Art Department Lecture Hall, Room No. 189, in Northen Hall at West Texas State University.

The 23rd season of "TEXAS" is scheduled to begin June 15 and play at 8:30 p.m. nightly except Sundays through Aug. 27. Rehearsals begin May 22.

The musical drama offers 140 positions for singers, dancers and musicians. Anyone 18 years of age or older may try out. Actors, singers, dancers, technicians, musicians and hospitality crews are needed.

To audition, men and women must bring a picture, and dancers should wear appropriate workout clothing.

All voice ranges are required, and singers

should bring one prepared number of their choice. An accompanist will be furnished, or a singer may bring his own.

Since singers all fill minor speaking roles, each should also prepare a one-to two-minute memorized scene or monologue.

Actors and actresses are required to memorize any scene, not to exceed three minutes, that will accentuate outdoor voice and presence and also perform a short vocal number

Men and women with ballet or modern dance training are desired.

Musicians are needed who are experienced in string bass, standard guitar, banjo, accordion and with concert training in violin.

The Pampa Harvesters didn't exactly beat Dumas into submission in the first quarter of Tuesday night's District 1-4A game. But an 18-4 first-quarter run sure didn't hurt and, in fact, the flurry of points was probably the main difference between a win and a

The Demons came back and outscored the Harvesters in each of the final three quarters, but that first-quarter jump start did the trick as Pampa notched a 63-53 win during Parents Night at McNeely Fieldhouse.

We came out ready to play. We felt like we were bigger and quicker than Dumas and had more to play for than they did," said Pampa coach Robert Hale.

How right Hale was as Canyon's 67-65 loss to Borger last night left the Harvesters and Eagles tied for second place in the district standings with 8-5 re-

Levelled downed Lubbock Dunbar 62-59 last night and the Loboes (11-1) need only one more win to clinch the district title.

In the girls' game, Pampa's defense shut down Dumas and the Lady Harvesters snapped a three-game losing streak with a 50-31 win.

The Harvesters, led by Dustin Miller's 30 points, used a press and a height advantage to manhandle Dumas in the first quarter, jumping out to a 10-0 bulge. The Harvesters hit 9 of 11 field goal attempts - mostly of the short-range variety — in the first quarter and wound up with a sizzling 66.6 shooting percentage (26 of 39) for the game.

Dumas recovered by combining the 3-point shot and some accurate foul shooting to cut the gap to 5 in the second quarter and seven in the fourth quarter, but Pampa's inside power was just too much. Everytime the Demons would sneak close, the Harvesters would erupt for more points by going to the 6-4 Miller underneath.

For example, when Dumas' Dallas Smith hit a pair of free throws to trim Pampa's lead to 8 (49-41) with 5:27 to go, the Harvesters countered with a pair of close-in goals by Miller and two foul shots by Derek Ryan to widened the gap once again.

Pampa, now 17-11 overall, led by a dozen (32-20) at halftime.

Jason Farmer added 14 points to Pampa's scoring attack, fol-lowed by Ryan with 7, Greg Fergerson and Ryan Teague, 4 points each; Jimmy Massick and David Doke, 2 each. Smith topped Dumas with 20 points while James Tyler contributed 17, including three 3pointers.

Dumas drops to 2-11 and 11-13 for the season.

For the Lady Harvesters, 5-11 junior Yolanda Brown and 5-9 senior Melisa Redeemer did extensive defensive damage to visiting Dumas last night.

Brown and Redeemer teamed up to shut down Dumas' big girls -5-9 Stephanie Barker and April Garrett — to avenge an earlier 64-56 loss to the Demonettes.

Brown also scored 22 points and pulled down 17 rebounds while Redeemer blocked four shots and scored twice on offensive rebounds in the third quarter to help Pampa pull away to a 14point bulge, 36-22.

"Yolanda and Melisa really did a job on their big people. They intimidated them and made them force their shots," said Pampa coach Albert Nichols.

Nichols said guards Tacy Stoddard and Keitha Clark did an out-

"These two girls are both seniors and they really came to the front for us," added Nichols. Stoddard tossed in 11 points, including 7 in the second half when the Lady Harvesters started piling up a comfortable lead. Redeemer and Clark scored 8 and 7 points respectively while Tara Hamby added 2.

'Tara came in and did a terrific job for us. She played real hard," Nichols said. Amy Jowell was top scorer for

Dumas with 12 points while April Garrett had 9. The Lady Harvesters are now

7-8 in district play and 16-11 Dumas (9-6, 15-11) held onto third place in the district standings despite the loss. Levelland and Canyon have already clinched the two playoffs spots. "We finish the season here Friday night against Dunbar and we'd sure like to have a good crowd out to help us wrap things up," Nichols said. The girls' game tips off at 6:30 p.m. Friday night, followed by

UIL receives realignment appeals

AUSTIN (AP) — At least 26 high schools have appealed the new district alignments announced last month by the University Interscholastic League

According to the UIL, the schools include Austin Westlake, Bandera, Baytown Lee, Baytown Sterling, Celeste, Cisco, Columbus, Deer Park, DeSoto, Dodd City, Duncanville, Eagle Pass, Eastland, Floresville, Friendswood, Grand Prairie, Granger, Hondo, Kermit, Medina Valley, Santa Fe, Sherman, Stanton, Weatherford, Whitney

outside, where bare trees poke starkly out of the snow and the temperature dips to 10 degrees below zero, and too close to the start of the Games for wild parties. So the athletes train and shop, jam the arcade and dance.

"You bump into everybody," says British bobsledder Dave Armstrong, who thinks one of the best aspects of the Olympics is the opportunity to meet athletes from other countries.

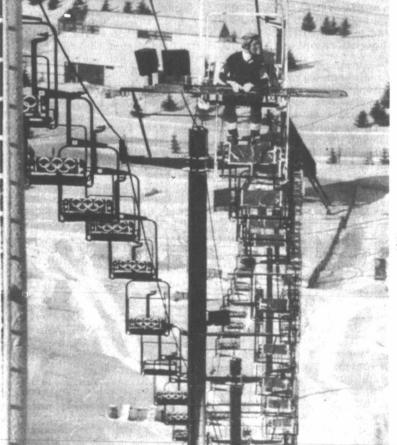

Among the athletes you can bump into most often at the video game arcade are Soviets. Eight of them quietly and very seriously worked the beeping, flashing machines Tuesday night while others waited their turn.

Canadian Robert Niven, the mayor of the village, says life there, however bizarre, "exemplifies what the Olympic movement is all about.

His only regret, he says, is that the popular video game room isn't three times larger.

While the competition is going on in the other venues, the village is just the opposite," he says. "It is where there is mingling in a friendly environment, where the athletes can share experiences and set out on what can be lifelong relationships.

Some relationships, though, are rather strained. Take Willie Gault and the American bobsled team. Please. This feud is shaping up as an Olympic-size soap opera.

"I feel cheated." cried Don LaVigne, who postponed his senior year at Harvard to compete for the team, only to be dumped when Gault was given a spot. "I have taken the risks and made the sacrifices and commitments, and presumably had qual-

LaVigne, speaking from his home in Albany, N.Y., apparently presumed too much. Gault, a wide receiver for the Chicago Bears and a former track star, joined bobsled training in January after the Bears were eliminated from the NFL playoffs. He was named as a side-pusher on an alternate four-man bobsled team, although LaVigne said the times with him helping to push the sled were slightly faster than with Gault.

"It wouldn't surprise me if a deal was made between Gault and (the U.S. bobsled) federation to seek maximum exposure for the sport," LaVigne said.

Several members of the team sided with LaVigne and said they were considering not participat ing if Gault joined the team. But they later reconsidered and said they would take part in the

Gault, who has been criticized before by his Chicago teammates for promoting himself, shrugged off the controversy.

"It's no big deal," he told ABC-TV at the Olympic Village. "It's not a matter of life and death. Playing for the Chicago Bears prepares you for anything.

The Italians came up with a surprise of their own.

Two-time gold medal luge racer Paul Hildgartner says he has been secretly practicing on a "revolutionary sled" that may help him win his third gold.

"We have been testing it for months and I expect great times," he said at the start of the first luge training runs. He disclosed only that the sled has a new body to improve aerodynamics, plus a change in the position of the blades. Hildgartner won't show the sled to anyone until Friday, the last day of training, because he is afraid other competitors will copy it.

McLean wins close encounters

Area roundup By JIMMY PATTERSON

LEFORS — Talk about yer barn burners.

As if a one one-point game isn't enough, the Highway 273 matchups offered two sit-on-the-edgeof-your-seat, nail-biting games Tuesday night.

In the boys game, McLean came out ahead 45-44. Just before that, it took the playoff-bound McLean Lady Tigers two overtimes to wrap up the Lefors Lady Pirates, 61-60. McLean's Shandee Rice hit five overtime points to lead the Lady Tigers to the win.

Before Tuesday's game, McLean had already clinched the runner-up spot in District 2-1A and will play Vega, the 1-1A champion, Monday at 7 p.m. at Pampa's McNeely Fieldhouse.

Lefors was led by Becky Davis' 22 points. Davis finished the night shooting 1-of-3 in OT, but what was even more amazing was that she finished the night at all.

Davis, in attempting to retrieve an errant pass down the left sideline, jumped into the stands and ended up in the third row. Later in the fourth quarter, she was knocked to the floor while battling for a rebound. Stunned for a moment, she was unable to get up until McLean had the ball at the opposite end

McLean had taken what appeared to be a sizable 52-46 lead with just 3:24 left in the fourth quarter after Misty Magee's six straight points. But Davis would have nothing to do with the thought of a loss at that point, countering with six points to bring the Lady Pirates back to Down 44-42 with 29 seconds in the fourth, Brass connected on an inside jumper for the tie. He was fouled in the process and went to the line for what would be the game clincher, a shot he nailed to put the Tigers ahead lead 45-44.

Brass' final rebound of the night came with three seconds remaining after Lefor's Kevin Mayfield missed what could have been the go-ahead bucket for the Pirates.

Also pacing McLean was Kyle Woods 10 point effort; with 13 points, Dusty Roberson was the only other Pirate in double figures. Roberson's point total was aided by his 3-for-4 effort from three-point range.

McLean finishes the season at 5-3 in district — one victory shy of making the playoffs. The Tigers finish with an overall record of 11 - 12

Lefors went winless in district action, 0-8, and 3-16 overall.

Pressure mounting for Waldheim to resign

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — President Kurt Waldheim is facing mounting pressure to resign after an international panel of historians criticized his role as a lieutenant in the German army under Adolf Hitler.

"A president must be absolutely spotless," Simon Wiesenthal, a Vienna-based Nazi hunter, said Tuesday, in his first call for Waldheim to step down since the controversy began in 1986. Wiesenthal predicted Austria would "face hard times" if Waldheim sticks by his refusal to step down.

Among those calling for his resignation were former Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky and Heinz Galinski, the head of West Berlin's Jewish com-

The calls came as Waldheim, a former U.N. secretary-general, was expecting the first state visit since assuming office. King Hussein of Jordan, who hosted Waldheim in Amman last summer, was expected to arrive in Vienna today. Austria's small, enviornmentalist Greens Party called Waldheim's refusal to resign "a slap in the face" for the republic.

In today's early editions, the Kurier tabloid of Vienna said "the coalition (government) missed breaking by a hair on account of Waldheim.' Waldheim, 69, has maintained he is innocent of any wrongdoing. Austrian and U.S. news reports disclosed Waldheim's wartime past in March 1986, during his successful presidentia campaign. The reports included allegations that Waldheim helped deport Jews to Nazi death camps.

Since then, the United States has barred him from entering the country and Israel has withdrawn its ambassador to Vienna.

A 202-page report released Tuesday by a sixmember panel of historians documented Waldheim's actions as a German army lieutenant from 1942 to 1945.

The report concluded Waldheim had been in "close proximity" to criminal actions and said the question of whether he is guilty of any crime remains open. It also documented Waldheim's intimate knowledge of Nazi atrocities in the Balkans, where he served during a brutal campaign in World War II.

Panel member Yehuda Wallach of Israel decried newspaper headlines which said the report had exonerated Waldheim.

"That simply isn't in our report," Wallach told a news conference. "That stands in starkest contrast to our findings.'

Wallach did not name any newspapers, but such claims were on the front pages of many Austrian dailies on Tuesday.

The newspaper, a Waldheim supporter, said in a front-page headline: "Historians Found No Personal Guilt on Waldheim's Part." It underlined in red the word "no."

Wallach suggested the commission's report on Waldheim could serve as the basis for legal action against the Austrian president.

During the 90-minute news conference by the historians Tuesday evening, it became clear they had argued until the last minute about whether to say Waldheim had moral guilt for his role in the
