Science, Medicine Announce New Gains

NEW YORK (AP) - Scientists believe they have isolated the virus that causes infectious hepatitis, the liver ailment transmitted by infected clams and other sources.

This opens the way, they said, to developing a vaccine against the debilitating disease which sometimes is fatal.

The new research, announced Saturday, proves that a virus isolated from marmosets, the small South American primates, is the cause of infectious hepatitis in humans, the scientists said.

The principal researchers are Drs. Maurice R. Hilleman, Philip J. Provost and Oswald L. Ittensohn of the Merck Institute for Therapeutic Research in West Point, Pa., and Drs. Victor M. Villarejos and Jorge A. Argeguas of the Louisiana State University International Training Center for Medical Research and Training in San Jose, Costa Rica.

Infectious hepatitis can be passed from person to person, with the virus, known as hepatitis A virus, harbored in the intestines and in sewage.

Hence, clam beds are sometimes a source of the disease after exposure to human sewage.

The other main type of the liver disease is serum hepatitis.

B. transmitted through blood transfusions or from nonsterile instruments such as hypodermic needles, including those used by drug addicts.

The scientists isolated the virus, named CR326, from marmosets which had developed hepatitis after being injected with blood from a Costa Rican patient with infectious hepatitis. The marmosets developed all the symptoms and pathological changes that infected humans do.

The new work reported in the proceedings of the Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine, cites four experiments which the scientists say prove the CR326 virus causes human infectious hepatitis.

These involved giving groups of marmosets either the virus alone, the virus combined with blood serum from people before their disease was apparent and virus with blood serum after the disease developed, at a time when they could have had antibodies against the virus.

Animals given the latter combination had very much less hepatitis, indicating the antibodies could destroy the virus. Similar experiments using hepatitis B virus showed no such effect.

While a vaccine is a long way off, work now could begin to use cell cultures to grow and harvest virus for such protection, the researchers said.

HOUSTON (AP) - A Tennessee physician said Saturday doctors in Nashville have removed the kidneys of four persons, repaired life threatening artery defects and reimplanted the organs.

Six months later the kidneys still function well, said Dr. Thomas W. Orcutt of Vanderbilt University School of Medicine.

Orcutt addressed a closing session of the Annual Conference of University Surgical Residents.

He said the four patients suffered severe high blood pressure caused by arteriosclerosis, fatty deposits that clogged the arteries which supply blood to the kidneys.

WHERE THE BOYS ARE

Florida Resort City Has Quieter Easters

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) - Things have calmed considerably since the times when a young student's fancy often turned to riotous revelry along the beachfront of this resort city.

Police estimate that roughly 100,000 students still migrate here during April breaks from college. But although some 30,000 may be in town at any given time, today's influx is more subdued than in the past.

Lt. Charles White of the Fort Lauderdale Police Department said this spring's crowd has been one of the quietest in years with "very few arrests."

"We've had our usual problems with panhandlers and guys badmouthing women but those aren't college kids. I don't think we've had any college kids involved in that sort of thing."

Daniel Briskell of Chicago, found working on his tan on the beach, said he'd found Fort Lauderdale peaceful enough but pretty boring.

"I have an uncle who was down here around 1960 and from what he told me things are about the same - not enough bums, too - but we can't let them take over."

A glance down the beach confirmed his lament. Young women were outnumbered at least 20 to 1.

"The cops here are really pretty nice. I heard they were down on kids but I think they're cooler here than the cops back home," he said.

Newly elected Mayor Virginia Shuman Young is still concerned about a minority of the young people, including college students, who she says were foul-mouthed and ill-kept.

"bums" and give the city a bad image.

The beach isn't just "Where The Boys Are," she says, referring to a movie that crystallized the sun, beer and bikini tradition a decade ago. "The beach is for everybody. It's for the bums, too - but we can't let them take over."

Things first got out of hand here in 1961, when a fair chunk of the estimated 50,000 students in town met a goodly number of homebound motorists at a beachfront intersection.

Scholarships Provided by API Chapter

The Panhandle Chapter of the American Petroleum Institute will award two $250 scholarships for the 1973-1974 school year, it was announced Saturday by John B. Rogers, chairman of the Scholarship Committee.

Eligibility for participation in the program is limited to sons and daughters of API Panhandle Chapter members in good standing, Rogers said. Recipients will be chosen on the basis of ability, seriousness of purpose, character and scholarship.

Fathers interested in joining should contact Martin Ludeman at telephone number 669-7437. Membership is a simple matter, Rogers said.

Scholarships may be used at any accredited college or university for any major field of study. Payment will be made to the school registrar.

Requirement for application will consist of a neat letter written about the applicant including, but not limited to, the following information: Full name and address of parent or guardian, description of family and family background, school career including activities, honors, grades and class standing, outside activities and talents, achievements, ambitions and future plans including the college or university applicant plans to attend and plan for enrollment.

Recipient must be enrolled in college for the 1973 Fall Term or the scholarship will go to an alternate.

Letters of application should be sent by May 1 to the American Petroleum Institute, Panhandle Chapter, Attention: API Scholarship Committee, Box 941, Pampa, Texas.

President Thieu Says Trip Is Path to Peace

SAIGON (AP) - President Nguyen Van Thieu returned from a six-nation tour Saturday and declared his two-week journey opens a new path toward peace.

"He said such a peace cannot be realized until North Vietnam withdraws its forces from Cambodia and Laos."

Returning from a visit to the United States and five European and Asian nations, Thieu must decide whether to send South Vietnamese forces into neighboring Cambodia to attempt to alleviate a deteriorating military situation.

A few hours before Thieu arrived to a government-planned welcome by an estimated 70,000 persons, the Viet Cong warned against a military intervention in Cambodia, saying it would lead to "heavier and heavier defeats."

Col Duong Dinh Thao, a senior member of the Viet Cong delegation to the Joint Military Commission in Saigon, told a news conference there is a "very large deployment" of South Vietnamese troops north of Saigon.

He did not pinpoint the area but the region north of Saigon would lead into Cambodia.

"We cannot confirm that Saigon is preparing to send troops to Cambodia but if they do, they will invite upon themselves failure," said Thao.

In response, Lt. Col Le Trung Hien, chief spokesman for the Saigon command, said the deployment of government troops is South Vietnam's own business.

He would not confirm or deny that Saigon troops were massing for an incursion into Cambodia, where Communist forces have cut all but one of Phnom Penh's major supply routes.

Thieu said his trip seeking economic, military and technical aid "opens a new path, which is the path full of confidence, the path to the future, the path that will lead the nation to self-sufficiency, self-reliance and prosperity."

Beef Crisis Becomes "Give-away" Business

VERNON, Tex. (AP) - Housewives who have been struggling to fit steak and roast into their grocery budgets may find sympathetic livestock producers among their friendliest allies if the trend toward "free love feasts" of appreciation continues to spread in the cattle country.

Livestock producers in Vernon, on the route of the last great Longhorn cattle drive and headquarters for one of the nation's largest ranches, apparently will be the second city in Texas to provide free feeds. They will be to show appreciation to housewives who have continued purchases of meat at normal levels despite the nationwide boycott attempt.

Vernon beef producers are planning what they call "free feeding of thousands" at a special Wilbarger County beef appreciation day April 20.

They will prepare beef for at least twice as many people - 6,000 - instead of the 3,000 first anticipated.

Meanwhile, another area producer went right to the top with his "beef" and sent the following telegram to Dr. John Dunlop, head of the Cost of Living Council in the nation's capitol.

"I offer you my interest in cattle on feed. Parmer County feedlot, Bovina, Texas, at my cost. When the government tells me I have to sell cattle to a non-existent market at a loss, it's time to get out of the cattle business and get a government position. I'll even take a job available in Washington D.C. My house, car, clothes, utilities, cigarettes, booze, boat, camper, fishing gear, etc. for less than cost. With a 40-hour work week instead of 60-70 I should have time to spend all that money and buy my steaks from you at less than cost also. Please advise by return wire (signed). An ex-cattle feeder, C.C. Naegle.

The Bovina rancher was protesting the recent visit in Washington that said beef men should be forced to sell their animals, even at a loss.

World Mystery Gone: Bormann Ruled Dead

EDITOR'S NOTE - For 28 years the question was asked around the world: is Martin Bormann dead or alive? There were reports Hitler's deputy, the most powerful man in Germany towards the end of the war, had escaped the Berlin holocaust. But where was he? Finally late last week, West Germany said it. Bormann is dead and has been for 28 years. Here is a report on the Bormann mystery and its conclusion.

By OTTO DOELLING Associated Press Writer

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) - On a cold December day, construction worker Willi Stein struck a hard object with his hydraulic shovel. An old pipe, he figured. He had been digging a waterline trench near a commuter track in West Berlin's Moabit district.

Climbing down to investigate, Stein discovered a human skull. Part of the cranium had been caved in by the shovel.

West Berlin police, who had a special interest in the Moabit construction site, were notified, and careful excavation was resumed the next day under their direction. A second and, for police, more interesting skull was unearthed along with other human bones.

The discovery immediately was reported to Frankfurt's deputy attorney-general, Joachim Richter. He had been waiting nearly eight years for this particular phone call.

To Richter, it could mean one thing: Hitler's deputy, Martin Bormann, finally had come in from the cold of uncertainty.

Richter had long suspected that the sandy soil of Berlin had sheltered the Nazi phantom, so vainly pursued for 28 years from the deserts of North Africa to the jungles of South America.

The problem now confronting Richter was to convert the moldering bones into a convincing flesh and blood picture of the once-feared "gray eminence" of the Third Reich.

Many persons, including Nazi hunter Simon Wiesenthal, believed that Bormann had been smart and resourceful enough to escape the Red army encircling Hitler's bunker in May, 1945.

Shortly before the skeletons were discovered last Dec. 7, 8, Ladislav Farago, a best-selling author and onetime U.S. intelligence agent, caused a sensation with his published contention that Bormann recently had been seen and photographed in Argentina.

But an Argentine school teacher named Rodolfo Nicholas Siri later identified himself as the man in the photograph. Siri is 54. Bormann would be 72 if he were still alive.

Before Siri, a Guatemalan farmer named Juan Falero, Martinez, and a German emigrant to Colombia named Johann Hartmann were among those detained after being falsely identified as Bormann.

The prospect of earning a reward of 100,000 marks - $35,700 - for Bormann's capture spurred interest in the phantom. Thousands of fruitless clues poured into the office of the Frankfurt attorney-general, who headed the West German investigation that was reopened in 1961.

Disagreement over Bormann's fate also arose among those who believed he was dead.

Erich Kempka, Hitler's chauffeur, was in a group of six Nazis who had broken out of Hitler's bunker on the night of May 1, 1945, and had tried to pierce Russian lines behind a German tank. The tank was hit by a Russian shell and Kempka thought Bormann had been killed in the blast.

But Nazi Youth leader Arthur Axmann, another member of the escape group, said Bormann was not wounded by the blast and had tried to escape by another route.

However, in the early morning of May 2, Axmann later testified, he came upon the lifeless bodies of Bormann and Hitler physician Dr. Ludwig Stumpfleger on the Invalidenstrasse railroad bridge. The bodies bore no visible wounds.

Largely on the basis of Axmann's testimony a Berchtesgaden German court declared in 1954 that Bormann had died sometime around midnight May 1, 1945. But the absence of a body kept the Bormann mystery alive.

Eighteen years later, Richter found himself with the remains of two bodies. They were uncovered on a one-time fairground not far from the Invalidenstrasse bridge and in the area where a German postal worker named Albert Krumnow testified that he had buried two bodies on May 8, 1945.

Under Richter's direction, excavation had been unsuccessfully carried out in 1965 just 15 yards from the point where the remains were discovered seven years later.

If one of the skeletons turned out to be from a short man like Bormann and the other from a 6-footer like Stumpfleger, and if glass splinters were found in their teeth, Richter believed he would be on the threshold of solving the Bormann mystery.

The remains were taken to the West Berlin Institute for Forensic Medicine, which ironically is constructing a new building on the site where the skeletons were uncovered. A morgue is already there.

In cleaning the skulls, medical investigators did indeed find minute splinters that evidently stemmed from a 9 millimeter cyanide capsule once produced for Nazi secret agents abroad and later provided to Hitler's associates in his Berlin bunker.

Next, the bones were X-rayed and a collarbone was found to contain a mended fracture. Checking back with two of Bormann's eight children - his sons Martin Jr. and Gerhard - investigators learned that Bormann had broken his right collarbone in a fall from a horse in 1941.

Stumpfleger's dental records were readily available in the Berlin Nazi Document Center. But Bormann's records, including dental X-rays, were lost in the crash of a Nazi plane in April, 1945.

Investigators, however, had a sketch made from memory after the war by Prof. Hugo Johannes Blaschke, Bormann's dentist.

The teeth of one of the skulls were found to fit Blaschke's sketch, except that one bridge was misplaced in the upper jaw.

A dental technician who once worked for Blaschke - Fritz Eichtmann, now 59 - was questioned and identified capped teeth in the skull as the dentist's work. Eichtmann further identified a dental bridge unearthed near the skull as his own handiwork.

Anthropometric studies showed that the skeleton believed to be Bormann's came from a man between 1.68 and 1.71 meters in size. Bormann had listed his size for the Nazi records as 1.70 - about 5 feet 7 - but was believed slightly shorter. The skull form was round conforming with Bormann's melon shaped head.

The other skeleton came from a 6-footer.

Mothers And Daughters Review Fashion Parade

By RAY BAXTER
More than 150 women watched 29 models parade 44 styles Thursday night at the annual mother and daughter banquet at First Christian Church.

Theme of the gala was, of course, Spring Fashions. Garments and accessories were furnished by a local dress shop. Six teenage young ladies of the church acted first as greeting hostesses as mothers, daughters and guests arrived at the door of the fellowship hall.

When all were seated at tables originally decorated with fashion paper doll cut outs done by one of the girls' Sunday School classes, Mrs. Georgia Mack introduced the schedule for the evening.

Mrs. Greg Warden presented a devotional in keeping with the occasion, noting some of the spiritual practices and adornments that aid milady's style appearance in creating beauty.

Fashion notes were narrated by Jimmie Kay Williams as each model made her promenade. Mrs. Williams, aided by Mrs. Norman Allen, planned most of the details of the affair.

Dinner was served buffet style from dishes prepared by ladies of the church. Again, the six young ladies acted as hostesses, helping carry plates of food to the tables.

Dinner music was provided by Athea Wilks, organist, who also accompanied Mrs. Mary McDaniel for three solos during the evening.

Door prizes were presented in a rather novel fashion: paper Easter eggs were taped to the underside of some of the chair bottoms.

Guests simply inspected their chairs and voila! Lovely door prizes also provided by the local fashion shop supplying the fashions. Models entered the stage at center rear, paused, then past to the audience left, then to the right and exited front center, supplying guests at the tables with a closer view of their ensembles.

Don Tinney designed and constructed the stage setting. Dennis Dehn was another man helping with the completely woman show supplying the sound engineering.

The affair concluded with all models on stage for a final panoramic picture.

NEW MANAGER — Joe Glickman, president of Margo's - La Mode of Dallas, new owners of Bentley's, has announced the appointment of Mrs. Jimmie Jordan as manager of the local Bentley's store. Mrs. Jordan is a long-time employe of Bentley's and is well-known in the Pampa area.

LDS Session To Be Seen On Television

A session of the semi-annual world conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) will be broadcast today out of Amarillo.

The complete two-hour session, featuring various of the general authorities of the Church and the voices of the famed Mormon Tabernacle Choir, will be televised from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. over KFDD-TV, Channel 10.

The first hour of the session held in Salt Lake City, Utah, headquarters for the Church, last weekend, will be broadcast from 7 to 8 a.m. today over KGNC-TV, Channel 4, with the second hour broadcast in the same time slot next Sunday.

More than 350 radio and television stations carry the world conference session throughout the world, with translations in several languages.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Sunday, April 15, the 106th day of 1973. There are 260 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1865, President Abraham Lincoln died in a Washington boarding house across the street from Ford's Theater, where he had been shot the night before by John Wilkes Booth.

On this date in 1638, English settlers arrived at what is now New Haven, Conn.

In 1850, San Francisco was incorporated as a city.

In 1861, President Abraham Lincoln called out militia to suppress the southern Confederacy.

In 1940, during World War II, British and French troops landed on the coast of Norway.

In 1945, the body of President Franklin D. Roosevelt was buried at the family home at Hyde Park, N.Y.

In 1959, Cuban Premier Fidel Castro arrived in Washington to begin a goodwill tour of the United States.

Ten years ago, the Soviet Communist party urged Africans to oppose further French nuclear tests in the Sahara Desert and to make Africa an atom-free zone.

Five years ago, two unmanned Soviet Sputniks linked up while orbiting the earth.

One year ago, a joint U.S.-Canadian agreement to clean up pollution in the Great Lakes was signed in Ottawa by President Nixon and Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

Today's birthdays: Artist Thomas Hart Benton is 84 years old. The former president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, A. Philip Randolph, also is 84.

Thought for Today: A friend is one might say, a second self. Cicero, Roman statesman.

THE WORDS OF CHRIST

BY DAVID POLING
"Let not your hearts be troubled; believe in God, believe also in me. In my Father's house are many rooms; if it were not so would I have told you that I go to prepare a place for you? And when I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and will take you to myself, that where I am you may be also."
John 14
There are many people who accept the standards of Christ by Giovanni Bellini

The Christian life, believe in a Creator of the universe, but do not hold any convictions about a personal God. This is sad, for it not only goes against the whole message of the New Testament but denies to them the strength and assurance of such passages as this from John.
The sense of individual identity, the sacredness of the person were upmost in the mind and teaching of Christ. At every turn he lifted up those who thought they were really nothing. Even the sparrow did not fall without the awareness of God.
A crazy concept? Not in the life of Jesus and his resurrection confirmed for his followers the teaching about eternal life. It is what Christianity is all about.

Science Teams with the Psychic

In Search of Lost Atlantis

By DICK KLEINER

LOS ANGELES — (NEA) — Anyone for Atlantis?

A big expedition to search for that lost continent is forming currently here. In July and August, they intend to comb the bottom of the Atlantic, off Cadiz, Spain, in hopes of uncovering evidence that there really was such a place.

There have been expeditions before. What makes this one unique is that it is using a combination of science and the psychic in the attempt.

The motivating force behind the expedition is a Pepperdine University historian, Ms. Maxine Asher. She has long been fascinated with "the common origin of man," but never really thought much about Atlantis until the big earthquake of February, 1971.

In what she chooses to interpret as a psychic sign, only two things fell from her shelves that shaky morning. One was a book on Atlantis. The other was a statue of a Cretan goddess. From that morning on, she's been working steadily toward putting this summer's expedition together.

She believes firmly that "Atlantis isn't a mystery—the mystery is, simply how to find it." She says Russian scientists acknowledge the existence of Atlantis and she hopes to beat them to proving it.

By using a combination of the psychic — Edgar Cayce was a big Atlantean believer, too — and empirical research, she has pinpointed the location of Atlantis in her mind. Plato pinpointed Atlantis, she says, as being "beyond the Pillars of Hercules" (Gibraltar) and that's where her expedition will search.

She's assembled a formidable team for the search. Her co-director is Dr. Julian Nava, a distinguished member of the Los Angeles Board of Education. Then there will be two anthropologists, two geologists, two geographers, two oceanographers, two parapsychologists, three historians, four educators, a linguist, a Biblical scholar, four archaeologists, a paleontologist, a doctor.

Ms. Asher feels that the claim is erroneous, and cites carbon-dating of Galanopoulos' find which proves the Thera city flourished around 1500 B.C. Atlantis, if it did exist, was, she says, considerably earlier than that. She believes that the Thera site is a "Greek effort to attract tourists" and hints that there is a world-famous Greek millionaire behind the effort.

She says that Galanopoulos, far from being positive he has found Atlantis, has made overtures to join her expedition, but she isn't sure whether or not she'll ask him.

There is, she says, much evidence that Atlantis really did exist — such things as similarity of languages without a seeming common origin, megaliths of the same general character in varying locations, and "concentric spirals." This curious design has been found on islands on both sides of the Atlantic, and Plato speaks of Atlantis as "a spiral city."

"I am relatively confident," she says, "that we will at least find the ancient cities of Gades (Cadiz) and Tarshish. And I know for a certainty that the ancient Temple of Hercules is off Sancti Petri, so we'll find that. And I feel pretty good about finding Atlantis, itself."

Red River Schedules Festivals

RED RIVER, N.M. (Sp.) — A special Easter Festival in the Sangre de Cristo Mountains is being held this year in the town of Red River, N.M.

With the good winter snows that the area has had this year, it is expected that there will still be skiing Easter weekend.

Mayor David Stults said in a recent interview.

"Our Easter Festival is going to be highlighted by both winter and spring events," Mayor Stults continued. "We will have special religious services at the Community House Easter morning and the entire weekend will be taken up with such 'fun' things as a fishing contest, snowman building contest, a kite flying contest, bridge and '42' games, bingo, scenic rides in the chairlift, jeep tours, bicycle races, an art show and square dancing."

The fishing season in New Mexico opened on April 1 and will remain open the year around from now on, it was announced by the New Mexico Game and Fish Department.

"The combination of fishing in our Red River and in the lakes around our area has always been good — but this year with fishing starting earlier and the season never being closed again, we will be stocking the river, as will the Game and Fish Department, and we are looking forward to great fishing the year around," Mayor Stults said.

The Easter Festival this year is the first in a series of special events to be held in Red River during 1973. A special Square Dance Festival is to be held May 26 and 27, the annual Fourth of July celebration will be held, as usual, and another fall Square Dance festival is slated for Sept. 28 and 29.

WORRY CLINIC

George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Zoe is wrong in thinking women can do as good a job in the pulpit as men! That "quota" argument is malarky! It is still merit that should count, regardless of sex, ethnic minorities, race or college degrees! Each sex has its own unique advantages!

CASE W-578: Zoe G., aged 23, is a seminary student.

"Dr. Crane," she argued, "don't you think women are just as effective in the pulpit as men?"

"So I think Women's Lib should begin to invade the seminaries, as well as other professional schools."

"Why should most of the pulpits in all the various denominations be occupied by men?"

PASTORS AS SHEPHERDS

How many women have you ever heard about, who were shepherds?

And surveys have usually revealed that women office workers generally dislike working for a female employer. Why?

Is it partly due to the tendency to want a larger leader (taller and heavier)?

That's partly true, but not the entire answer.

For male workers don't object as much to having a male boss who is short and less muscular.

But women as well as men subconsciously expect their leaders to be fighters.

And women are notably the peacemakers whereas men are the warlike sex.

There is an old adage, pertinent here, which states: "It isn't the size of the dog in the fight that counts, but the size of the fight in the dog!"

Even a small man usually has more fight in him than a large woman!

And the heavier male voice likewise carries more influence, which is why men are usually recruited as announcers on TV and radio.

How many newscasters of the female sex could remotely wield the vocal influence of Paul Harvey?

In fact, many viewers grumbled at the use of women announcers at the Democratic and Republican National conventions in Miami Beach.

For their voices are weaker and less authoritative.

Because of this stupid "quota system" the television networks are reducing their effectiveness by thus pushing women into the jobs of announcers and reporters.

How many of your readers would appreciate a rapid-fire radio or TV description of a world heavyweight prize fight?

if the announcer was a woman? Merit, not "quota" system, is still the inexorable yardstick for greatness.

And that holds true in pulpits, for what woman can equal Billy Graham, Oral Roberts, Dr. Peale, Bishop Sheen, Rabbi Samuel Silver et al.?

This is no reflection on the unique talents and charms of women, but it is time this malarky about "equality" of sexes was demolished, once and for all!

The two sexes definitely are NOT equal, either in their chemical make-up, influence or even their longevity!

Women excel men in dealing with children and in being the age-old custodians of music, morality, education and nursing.

Men, however, are ahead in many other realms.

So the two sexes complement each other, like the two halves of a circle.

Sulphuric acid differs greatly from acetic acid, yet they have some chemical elements in common. And both are vital to life on this planet!

But those acids are not equal!

Same goes for the male and female human creatures.

Women also feel safer and happier with men at the helm!

Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Worry Clinic, Hopkins Bldg., Williamstown, Mass. Enclose a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.

Cheap air conditioning is no bargain.

Servel Gas Air Conditioning is a Bargain.

The bargain comes in smaller utility bills, fewer maintenance calls and the longer life of a Servel system.

But you'll never buy one cheap.

The Servel goal has always been: "Build it like the Swiss." That's why the units are precision-made. And that's why they contain more stainless steel than any other air conditioner on the market. They're built to last and to perform dependably. This and the economy of natural gas energy saves you every month.

Quality construction is the reason you pay more for Servel initially. Because quality doesn't come cheap. Long, economical operation is the reason you'll save in the long run. Because quality pays off.

Most people can afford quality when they know all the facts. Especially when they're concerned with a cool, restful, healthy home environment — when home has a permanent meaning.

Think long and hard before you invest in central air conditioning.

Then install Servel.

Extra Effort Required On Local Mail Delivery

Local mail can be posted and delivered without going to the sectional center in Amarillo but it requires an extra effort on the part of the sender.

All other mail, whether placed in drop boxes about the city or picked up at homes by carriers will go to the Amarillo facility for processing even though such mail is addressed locally.

In addition, arrangements are being made to place designated mail receptacle in the post office lobby for out-of-town mail to be postmarked "Pampa," according to Postmaster Carl V. English.

Mail placed in the local mail drop and in the "local" end of the window tray will be postmarked "Pampa" and processed locally.

So, businessmen and other persons wanting fast in-city delivery can have local processing, but such mail must be posted at the office downtown.

In explaining the sectional center sorting and dispatching program, English cited the population growth plus a tremendous increase in posted mail traffic as a prime need for such a pattern of distribution and delivery.

"We have neither the budget nor the space in the Pampa office required to process all out-going mail here," English said. "But, supposing we attempted it, mail dispatch and delivery would be much slower than the sectional center system with its letter-a-second processing capacity."

Mail traffic has increased so much through the Amarillo center since the huge Mark IV machine was installed that another is soon to be placed in operation beside it.

This unit and its attendant "feeder" machinery does process a letter each second. When letters were postmarked by hand, then later fed through the small machines at local offices, they first had to be handled by hand to be sure stamps were in the upper left corner.

Now, the Mark IV postmarks each letter in the proper corner regardless of its position when it goes through the unit.

Remember, mail deposited in the local mail drop or the local end of the collection tray at the post office will be postmarked "Pampa" and processed and delivered locally. Out-of-town mail placed in the lobby receptacle marked for same will be postmarked "Pampa" but will go to the Amarillo center for processing and dispatch.

All other mail posted anywhere in Pampa will be sent to the Amarillo center.

Sunken Old Ships Could Be Reefs

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Old merchant ships could be cheaply sunk off the Texas coast to become artificial reefs, the Texas Council on Marine-Related Affairs was told this week.

A staff report said the salvage value of the ships could offset the cost of towing them out and scuttling them.

The council is considering a plan to use up to 18 old "Liberty" ships in mothballs at Beaumont as artificial reefs. The sunken vessels, sawed off at the second deck, would provide a haven for marine life and sport for divers and fishermen.

If the council decides the reefs would be beneficial, it can make appropriate recommendations to the legislature and state agencies.

Sites considered for the reefs are Galveston, Freeport, Port Arkansas, Port Mansfield and Port Isabel.

Now Calm Down, Honey, It's Not Really That Bad

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks a housewife gets tired of hearing

"You go to the PTA meeting this time I'll go next time."

"All you do is mess around with diapers and dirt all day. What do you know about the world situation?"

"Can't you let me get at least halfway through my Martini before you start telling me what a hard day you've had?"

"Did you meet any interesting door-to-door salesmen today, Honey?"

"Yes, as plumbers we still make emergency house calls. We probably can get a man there by tomorrow afternoon at the latest. Incidentally, I assume you are familiar with our policy of requiring a $25 down payment in cash before we begin work."

"Mommy, our class in civics is adopting an Eskimo village. Can you give me $5, please?"

"Of course, I don't expect you to start taking out the garbage can all the time. But I tell you my back hurts tonight."

"I'm working late tonight. Don't hold dinner. You and the kids eat without me."

"Well, would you like it any better if you were working in an office all day taking orders from 10 men instead of one?"

"Don't start nagging me this morning about asking for more money. We went all through that yesterday and the day before."

"Mommy, the cat next door had kittens, and the lady said I could have two of them. Shall I try to get her to give me three?"

"What is the women's liberation movement all about, anyway? What do they need liberating from? I hope you're not going to start spouting their kind of nonsense."

"Why is it that we always seem to have asparagus and cheese on the nights I'm particularly hungry?"

"Well, if you don't feel that you have anything fit to wear, why don't we just stay home? I didn't want to go anyway."

"Mommy, Tommy sneaked into an X-rated movie. Do you want me to tell you what he said he saw?"

Red Cross News

By LIBBY SHOTWELL

A Multimedia First Aid Class was completed April 10 at Celanese Chemical Plant. Twelve persons received certificates. The instructors who taught the class were James R. King and Roscoe Rounce.

Those receiving certificates were Wanda Lockridge, Joy Hampton, Judy Davis, Ron Wood, Vickie Wood, Bob LaFon, R. L. Smith, Darrel Davis, Wesley Crosier, Sharon Crosier, Arnold Hale and Mavis Hale.

Two young men in our community were guests at the Red Cross Board breakfast Tuesday at 7 a.m. Scott Smith and David Holland were recognized for having finished their 50-mile swim. The young men received their card, pin and patch. Their swim was monitored by Mrs. Ora Carter.

The annual meeting plans are being completed by the Red Cross board. Mark your calendars to May 1 at 7 a.m. at the First United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall. Our speaker for the breakfast will be Norman Sanders, field representative for Safety Services from Ft. Worth. Breakfast tickets will be $1.50. Election of officers will be at this meeting.

There will be a Water Safety Clinic in Amarillo at the Y.W.C.A. pool, 1006 S. Jackson, April 17 at 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. with Norman Sanders instructing all WSI in area. Please bring your bathing suit.

Norman Sanders will hold a Safety Programs Administrative workshop from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Greater Amarillo Chapter House, April 18. Sanders will discuss chapter supplies, supply catalogs, textbooks, instructor training and new methods of teaching. All WSI and F-A instructors are urged to be present. Then on April 19 at Amarillo Chapter House at 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. a Workshop for FAI will be held with special instruction given on "Drugs and their Abuse."

Word has been received that the Aquatic School held at Weatherford, Okla. will begin May 21 to May 31. Enrollment fee will be $80 plus transportation. If you plan to attend an Aquatic School this year, come by the Red Cross office and let us talk with you about the different schools sponsored by the American Red Cross.

Water Safety Instructor school will begin in Pampa April 30 at the Pampa Youth Center with Norman Sanders, instructor trainer, in charge of the class. Pre-requisites for this class are: you must be 17 years of age and have had a current Senior Life Saving certificate and have had Part I taught by an authorized Water Safety Instructor.

Our First Aid Multimedia First Aid Instructor class will begin May 1 and continue through May 2 at 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. both days. Classes will be held in Pampa at the Palm Room, City Hall.

There is no charge for either of these classes. (We heard that one of our school teachers will take this class at her own expense.) That is dedication, isn't it?

It is estimated that the total cost of health care for Americans will be more than $100 billion in 1975. In 1972 the figure was $83.4 billion, — twice as much as it was in 1966.

Bailey Notes Anniversary With Skelly

McLEAN — Vestal G. Bailey, a pumper for Skelly Oil Company here, will celebrate his 25th service anniversary with the company this month. He will receive an engraved wristwatch as a service award.

Bailey joined Skelly's exploration and production department in Pampa April 19, 1948, as a roustabout. He worked as a mechanic's helper and a truck driver before assuming his present post in 1953.

He is a veteran of the Merchant Marines and a member of the First Baptist Church of McLean.

Bailey and his wife, Pat, live at 919 Commerce and have two children, Rodney and Pamela.

Fuel Shortage Slows Down Some Exploration

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — The fuels shortage is slowing down some domestic oil and gas explorations.

There have been cases in which drilling contracts have been unable to obtain sufficient diesel fuel or propane and butane to keep their rigs in operation.

Tenneco Inc. Expects Good Year Ahead

HOUSTON (AP) — The board chairman and chief executive officer of Tenneco Inc. said this week the firm stands a good chance of having its best year ever this year.

Barring some unforeseen economic catastrophe, we believe we will continue to set new revenue and earnings records this year, N. W. Freeman told the company's annual stockholders meeting.

Tenneco set records last year, $3.28 billion in operating revenues, $203 million in net income and earnings per share of $2.50.

Unless the economy falls completely out of bed, we look for a particularly strong second quarter, which should put us well on the road to another record year, Freeman said.

Freeman said Tenneco's 1973 capital and investment expenditures are budgeted at about $500 million, an increase of 30 per cent over 1972. About 70 per cent of the capital required for this program will be generated internally, with the remainder coming from net new debt financing of about $150 million, he said.

The lack of fuel has forced some rigs to suspend operations temporarily, said Warren L. Baker, executive vice president of the International Association of Drilling Contractors.

This situation may become more critical, Baker adds. Suppliers have notified local distributors they will not be able to maintain deliveries, and in some instances distributors have lost their source of supply.

Baker said the fuels shortage is one of the reasons for a larger, than expected decline in drilling rig activity during March.

Weather was a major factor, he says. A good many rigs were not able to move to new drill sites during March because of unusually wet weather extending from the Rocky Mountains, through New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas, portions of Texas, much of Louisiana, Mississippi and Michigan.

Such weather conditions, he says, have continued this month in some areas.

A January average of 1,243 drilling rigs making hole got 1972 off to a fine start but the average dropped to 1,042 in March. Averages for the first two weekly reports in April were even lower, 1,026 and 965.

Even so, March activity exceeded the levels recorded the same month the past three years. Baker sees some encouragement in this despite the seasonal decline having been aggravated by bad weather and shortages of fuel.

Although active rigs fell to a 10-month low, activity was at the highest March level in four years, he said.

Baker says another factor in the sharp decline between the January and March averages was the completion of year-end carry-over drilling work from 1972. This type of work, he says, helped keep rig activity at the high January and February levels.

This type of activity has increased during the last two years following revision of U.S. tax laws to permit allocation of funds in one year for drilling to be performed the following year, Baker says.

Although greater than expected, Baker says the March decrease is not unusual, pointing out that last year's low point in activity was not recorded until April and May.

It is important to bear in mind rig activity invariably dips to a low point during March-April-May and reaches its highest level during December, he says.

The significant measure of comparison is on a month-to-month basis with prior years.

The new March average of 1,042 compares with 1,027 the same month last year, 830 in 1971 and 938 in 1970.

Baker says the outlook for drilling growth was given a setback in early March when the Cost of Living Council imposed a limit on price increases for crude oil and oil products.

This action will discourage the search for new oil and gas production, and thus intensify the nation's oil and gas shortage, he says.

"Throwing a pot" is crazy talk for creating a pot on potting wheel.

MRS. RUTH HARMON

Photos By

Doug Abbott

By BOBBY COMBS
It was the first day of school and the teacher was anxiously awaiting the arrival of her students, when an unexpected empty feeling came over her. She was suddenly very nervous, tension was high, as she wondered what she was doing here. Then, quickly remembering, "Would she possibly have the strength to teach these lovely children?" She whispered a silent prayer for God's help and remembered the following scriptures, "I can do all things through Christ, who strengthens me," and "We are workers together with God."
Now four years later what could be more thrilling than to hear a seven-year-old child develop speech, who upon enrollment at the age of six, could only babble, and whose only intelligent words were "ball" and "mama." A child who was not interested in any of the things the average child of their age enjoys.
Now this child shows eagerness to learn and can operate teaching machines independently, only a few of his achievements.
Another student on a shopping trip had no awareness of self or surroundings, but found that purchasing a candy bar was such fun! At the age of 32, it was her very first purchase of anything!
The same student now enjoys a Sunday school class, loves to hear the church organ and points with pride and says "that's my church!"
This modest teacher, Mrs. Ruth Harmon, was named Pampa's 1973 Woman of the Year by the six chapters of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority. Guests will be invited to a tea in her honor today at 2 p.m. at the First Christian Church.
The basic qualifications for this honor include: family life, civic and community involvement, church affiliation, and work.

Ruth Harmon qualifies on all points, for she is the mother of five children and grandmother of nine grandchildren. She is employed as teacher for the pre and post school classes for the Mentally Retarded Children, located in the educational building of First Presbyterian Church. The school is coordinated by the Amarillo Center for Human Development, with assistance from the Gray County Association for Retarded Children.
A Pampa resident since 1949, Mrs. Harmon resides with her husband, Stanley, in the home they built south of the city, where their five children were reared, with the four youngest attending and graduating from Pampa High School.
Their oldest son, Kermit, is a consulting engineer for William Hall Engineering Firm of Dallas. David is a management trainee for Pioneer Natural Gas Co. in Lubbock, where his wife, Rachel, teaches school. Mrs. Shirley Dawson, Amarillo, is on leave from her position as a first grade teacher to raise her family. Mrs. Isabell Harrison is a Dallas household executive, and Mrs. Desiree Winkle is a second grade school teacher in Amarillo.

They are active members of First Assembly of God Church, where Ruth has been a Sunday school teacher for many years and a member of the choir and Women's Missionary group.
She has always enjoyed cooking and states, "It was such fun to prepare tasty meals for my children and their friends."
Other hobbies include sewing, gardening and preparing food for the freezer and canning. She finds great enjoyment in reading and sharing tidbits of wisdom with the children.

SHOCKED BUT GRACIOUS — With a smile on her face, Mrs. Ruth Harmon, left, learns that she has been chosen by Beta Sigma Phi as Pampa's Woman of the Year. Mrs. Paul Howard, general chairwoman, makes the announcement by presenting her with a single yellow rose. She will be honored at a tea today at 2 p.m. in the First Christian Church.

The Pampa Kappa Alpha Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha, a leadership-service organization for women, selected Mrs. Harmon as one of four nominees for the Distinguished International Academy of Noble Achievements awards in 1970.

When their youngest child left for college, she felt "I must fill my life with something worthwhile. Maybe I could take violin lessons again, or learn to play the piano, or spend more time visiting people in the hospital and so on."

She could think of many things to be accomplished in working with children than anything else. So, when given the opportunity to work with the handicapped, she found herself crying with joy to be given this privilege that was so challenging and so tremendously rewarding.

She told, "I can most sincerely say during the four years of my working with these dear students, I have experienced great satisfaction and genuine happiness."
This humble teacher feels that any degree of success that has been achieved must be credited to the Community support received through a team of volunteers, beginning with the advisory board, to volunteers who bake birthday cakes, to those who serve in the classroom on a weekly basis, giving so many hours a week to assist with students in so many areas of development, spiritual, social, physical, and mental, and to several retired teachers who enjoy the challenge of working patiently with students in teaching, reading, writing and simple number working, depending on levels of learning abilities.

To volunteers who assist with art and craft, bringing out abilities students were unaware of, volunteers who help with bowling or field trips, and workers who have composed a weekly Bible story hour and singing favorite selections, to instill character building into students.

Also a monthly cooking demonstration in class, by a representative of Southwestern Public Service Co. is held and students are given recipes and instructions to prepare foods at home.

Excerpts from the letters nominating Mrs. Harmon state: "Very few people in Pampa realize the wonderful job this great lady is doing for our community. I feel she was chosen by our Lord to serve in this school as she seems to have a special communication with these dear and special children."

Ruth Harmon has "never had a bad day," since she began her program of training for these children. Never have I seen anyone who, each day is always the same person, even-tempered, smiling and joyous with each small bit of progress that a child might make. Her special skill exemplifies a labor of each child. She is an outstanding personality; she is a loving mother, and a gifted teacher, and without doubt, given to us to do this special and rewarding task. She is truly dedicated to her work and acutely attuned to the need of others, which is evident by the many long hours she spends with her students or working for them after school hours and on week-ends. Ruth Harmon is the kind of person we would all like to be, never raising her voice or showing anger, but often firm and always kind. She enjoys people from every walk of life and is genuinely interested in everything they do.
She is Pampa's 1973 Woman of the Year.

Members of the six chapters of Beta Sigma Phi vote by secret ballot for their honoree after hearing letters on outstanding women written by businessmen, clergymen, individual citizens and sorority members. The votes were sealed and returned to the committee to count and make final plans.

Committee representatives from each chapter are Mrs. Richard Dorman, Phi Epsilon Beta; Mrs. Jay Manning, Rho Eta; Mrs. Dennis Wyatt, Epsilon; Mrs. Bill Baten, Xi Beta Chi; Mrs. C.L. Farmer, Xi Theta Iota; Mrs. Ray Jordan, Preceptor Chi; and Mrs. Paul Howard, general chairwoman.
Beta Sigma Phi feels that by being able to honor a special person in the community each year, it gives them an opportunity to say thank you to all citizens of Pampa for their consideration and cooperation on projects and return to the community a portion of The Good: The True and The Beautiful.

First woman of the year was Mrs. Bob Campbell, selected in 1945. Others chosen during the years were: Mrs. Carl Wright, 1946; Mrs. Hulan Laycock, 1948; Mrs. James Massa, 1949; Mrs. Arthur Teed, 1950; Mrs. Dick Hughes, 1951; Mrs. Ruth Jordan, 1952; Mrs. H.H. Hicks, 1953; Mrs. Jack Foster, 1954;

Mrs. Raymond Harrah, 1955; Mrs. A.D. Hillis, 1956; Mrs. Harvey Nensiel, 1957; Mrs. Inez Carter, 1958; Mrs. Ray McKernan, 1959; Mrs. J.T. Cornutt, 1960; Mrs. Frank Shotwell, 1961;

Mrs. Gene Fatheree, 1962; Mrs. Thelma Bray, 1963; Mrs. D.V. Burton, 1964; Mrs. Georgia Mack, 1965; Mrs. M. McDonald, 1966; Mrs. Marian Jameson, 1967;

Mrs. Forrest Hills, 1968; Mrs. W.M. Ledbetter, 1969; Mrs. Richard Stowers, 1970; Mrs. Geraldine Shultz, 1971; and Mrs. George Cree, 1972.

IT'S SHOW TIME — This student puppet performer, who happens to be the teacher's helper, is encouraging fellow classmates to "brush their teeth," which is also a motivation for him to express himself for the art of language development. Each child has his turn with the puppet, thereby encouraging him to put words together to express himself.

FRIDAY'S ARE SPECIAL — Upon enrollment, this student had no self appreciation, no self awareness, now she looks forward to Friday, a special day for her because they are taught special grooming and that's the day Mrs. Harmon shampoos, sets and combs her hair.

OLYMPIC PRACTICE — The group receives special instruction from Mrs. Harmon on their weekly visit to Harvester Bowl. This past week they represented Pampa at the annual Olympics for the Retarded, held in Amarillo, where two students received first and second place ribbons. They also see top entertainment such as "Disney On Parade," "Up With People," make field trips to the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo, and visit the local library to view art shows and check out books.

Sartor-Seitz Vows Read In Amarillo

MRS. ROY DUNCAN SEITZ
nee Miss Sandra Sue Sartor

Vows were solemnized at 7 p.m. Friday, April 13 in Paramount Baptist Chapel in Amarillo by Sandra Sue Sartor and Roy Duncan Seitz.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Sartor of Amarillo. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Annas Seitz and the late Mr. Loy Seitz of Mobeetie.

Dr. Winfred Moore, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiated for the double-ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of silk peau de soie and lace.

Judy Louise Sartor, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Betty Ruth Seitz, sister of the bridegroom was bridesmaid.

Serving as best man was Michael Cockrell of Amarillo and Aubrey Seitz of Mobeetie, was groomsman.

Johnny Rivers of Amarillo and Lark Lamb of Wildorado ushered the guests.

Serving at the reception held in the church parlor were Janet Smoot, Sammie Putts, Sonja Stanley and Kay Cockrell.

The couple plan to reside in White Deer. The bridegroom is employed by Tom Rose Motor Co. in Pampa.

BIRTHDAY PARTY
Julie Lyn Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Smith, was honored recently with a birthday party in her home by her mother in honor of her seventh birthday.

After playing games of "Pin the Tail on the Donkey," "Gossip Game," and "Dropped clothespins into a jar," Julie opened her gifts.

The serving table was covered with a green linen cloth and centered with a yellow floral arrangement, and the large decorated birthday cake with "Happy Birthday Julie" inscribed in green.

Cake and punch were served to the following guests: The honoree, Julie Smith, Amy Bonner, Betinna Horn, Brad Lacker, David Fatheree, Shannon Loter, Lisa Hunter, Lisa Braddock, Reid Sidwell, Mike Coble, Dan Martindale, Cindy Kohler, Tracy Prater, Robin Walker, Shauna Graves, Kari Coffee, Monte Danner, Cory Wilkerson, Don Coble and Mrs. Clifford Coleman, her grandmother.

Teachers Presented Review Of Book

A book review, "Music at the Crossroads" by Abram Chasins, was presented to the Pampa Music-Teachers Association by Morris Kille, minister of music at the First United Methodist Church. The group met recently for their monthly meeting in the studio of Mrs. Lois Fagan, president, who presided at the meeting.

The speaker pointed out the United States government subsidize the arts in the amount of 3¢ of 1 cent for each person, which puts our country way down the ladder when you compare it to such countries as West Germany, Austria and Israel.

In his report, he gave a history of modern day music in the U.S. beginning with jazz and continuing with the 1940's movie musicals, pop, country western, and rock including electronics.

He said, "music teachers must strive to teach their students a well rounded curriculum and should be taught appreciation from everything from Bach and Mozart, to pop music including electronics. Electronics being the music of the future."

He cited the interview with a violin teacher at California University, who said he is telling his pupils, "to learn as much as they can about their main instrument, then learn another instrument, a useful one like a horn, clarinet or drums."

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SUNDAY, APRIL 15
Your birthday today: Underlines the beginning of a year of intellectual stimulation and probable revision or change of vocation. Today's natives have an abiding curiosity, which leads inventive pursuits.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Be alert for the chance to do a good deed. Your share in the Sunday formalities of your community is important.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: From a slow start the day livens up. Romance thrives, but make no long-term promises.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Having seen the way things really are, you're free to cope with them. Morning brings the insight into what to do the rest of the day.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Being pleasant isn't easy today—but it is the only way to proceed. Afternoon is a good time to introduce people.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Inspiration comes easy. Be ready to skip routine in favor of interesting confrontations. Travel offers diversions.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: You have much benefit from this rather normal Sunday. Keep your schedule and your surroundings neat.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: A rising tide in your activity-prosperity cycle begins. Take full advantage of it. Seek endorsements, apply for positions.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: What you learn today leads into much improved earnings, so be open to suggestion.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Now begins improvement in your position, reflecting the work you've put into your career. There's good news later.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Confirmation of personal theories is at hand today. You have much to gain in community activities.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Use your skills to find some general pattern in current events. Wait to see what others do before plunging in singlehanded.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Foolish expenses can be incurred if you are not watchful. Keep track of spending mistakes for future reference. Reconcile social differences.

MONDAY, APRIL 16

Your birthday today: Begins a lively year of surprises. You cannot afford a minute of laziness of mind or spirit. Relationships thrive, altho you overstate your feelings occasionally. Today's natives share only one trait, an element of mystery.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Special efforts to communicate with young strangers are facilitated. Keep business strictly business. Evening promises a surprise contact.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Change comes in career matters. Promote your pet projects. Nothing works as planned. Be willing to rearrange.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Anything you do sets off endless discussion. Concentrate on getting details right. Show the serious side of your nature.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: It's a busy day. Have a friend help you distribute the burden and channel general activity into more productive directions.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: An old friend has something to do with the turn of events. You have too many irons in the fire and are lucky to tend them as well as you do.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Strict budgeting is a primary concern. You are on your own resources; pace work accordingly. Older people are overly sensitive.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: In the midst of bustle and scurry, pursue your more important interests vigorously. It's a great day for research.

Dallas Director Will Speak At Arts Banquet

PAUL BAKER Banquet Speaker

Paul Baker, managing director of the Dallas Theater Center is scheduled as the Keynote Speaker at the annual membership meeting of the Pampa Fine Arts Association. The dinner meeting will be held at the Pampa Country Club at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, April 28. Only members are invited, but memberships purchased now will be good for 1973-74 and new members may attend the dinner.

Paul Baker has been the guiding force in the Dallas Theater Center's development into one of America's leading resident theaters. Rooted in a philosophy of freedom, growth, and individual creative potential, his productions of such plays as "Hamlet," "MacBeth," "Othello," "Journey to Jefferson," "A Different Drummer," and "Of Time and the River" have brought to him and his theaters world acclaim.

For the founders of the Theater Center, he was an ideal choice to assure a dynamic theater for Dallas, and he worked closely with architect Frank Lloyd Wright in the designing and construction of the plant. His work brought him the first Rodgers and Hammerstein Award for the man who has done the most for theater in the Southwest. Baker is one of the nation's major producers of new plays. At the Theater Center some 44 plays have been premiered since 1959, in addition to numerous dark night readings of original scripts. In 1968 he was presented the coveted Margo Jones Award for "daring and continuous new play production," and he serves on the Board of Governors of the American Playwrights Theatre. He was chief of entertainment for the European theater of operations during World War II and received the Legion of Merit for his reorganizational work. He is past president of both the National and Southwest Theater Conferences and has served on the Advisory Council of the Texas Commission on Arts and Humanities and on the board of the American National Theatre and Academy.

Also, he is a counselor on the Texas Institute of Letters and a director of the World Arts Foundation and the Arts Council of Dallas. He has been named as well to the Council on Mass Media of the United Presbyterian Church.

Baker received a Master of Fine Arts degree from Yale University and an honorary Doctorate of Fine Arts degree from Trinity University in San Antonio. He is currently in his tenth year as Chairman of the Department of Speech and Drama at Trinity University, where the Ruth Taylor Theater is the third theater plant constructed under his direction. Trinity Press recently published his new book, "Integration of Abilities: Exercises for Creative Growth," and his acclaimed "Hamlet ESP" is published by Dramatists Play Service.

Tickets for the dinner are $5 per person. Types of memberships available are family, $5; subscribers, $10; contributors $25; patrons $50; and special patrons $100. Checks for membership and banquet tickets may be sent to Pampa Fine Arts Association, Box 818, Pampa.

Guide TO Glamour

More on skin care. This week we will first discuss oily skin. Cleanse the face at least three times daily with oily skin cleanser or wash with tepid water and soap. Work up a good lather, apply with finger tips and gently massage the skin. Use astringent after cleansing. On retiring, apply night-care fluid that discourages oily secretions.

School's Out! Be sure to drive carefully, especially near places children are playing.

Combination skin: This is, of course, the hardest type to care for, as you have to treat each area separately. Never remove cosmetics with soap and water but rather, use a non-oily or liquifying cleanser. At bedtime, cover dry skin areas with dry-skin cream. On shiny areas, apply a layer of calamine lotion. On mar- mal skin areas, wash with gentle soap night and morning, applying light skin oil or baby lotion to face and throat on retiring.

Widow upset about neighbor's advances

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I have been a widow for one year. I have been told often that I'm a nice looking woman and I don't look my age, which is 49.

Yesterday, a neighbor rang my bell as he had done a hundred times while my husband was alive, and asked if the coffeepot was on. He said his wife was shopping.

I made him welcome, but it didn't take me long to figure out he wanted more than coffee. He said: "It's too bad you live next door—the neighbors don't miss a thing. Now, if I could meet you somewhere..."

I looked out the window and said: "Oh, I think your wife just drove up, and she'll need your help with the groceries," then I jumped up and opened the door.

Abby, I like this man's wife very much, but I don't think I can ever be in her company without feeling guilty. I am a terrible actress. Must I move? I really don't think I am up to handling this.

A LADY ALONE

DEAR LADY: Why should you feel guilty? Go about your business as tho it never happened. One of the differences between a man and a woman is the man's ability to forget such a rebuke. He has probably blocked it out already. I suggest you do the same.

DEAR ABBY: I have been dating an attractive gentleman who has a very annoying habit. He keeps looking at his watch every 15 minutes or so. What conclusions would you draw from this annoying habit?

REDHEAD

DEAR RED: I would conclude that he is eager to go somewhere. [Possibly home.]

DEAR ABBY: I am in the 8th grade but I'm very mature for my age. I've got a real big crush on this dude named Johnny who's a senior and hangs around with my older brother.

I am very good at expressing myself in poetry so I wrote six real neat poems telling Johnny how I felt about him, and I mailed them to him. I waited a whole week and never heard anything. I know he got them because I put my name and address on the envelope, and it never came back.

I finally couldn't stand it any more so I wrote Johnny a long letter explaining why I wrote the poems and telling him if he thought I was too young for love, I would settle for friendship but I just had to play some role in his life. I poured out my heart in that letter. I haven't heard a thing since, and now he doesn't even come to the house to see my brother.

I am going out of my mind wondering what he thinks of me. Should I call his mother and take her into my confidence and ask her what to do? I've talked it over with some of my friends but they're no help. I'll do anything you say to get him, Abby. Please help me.

SECRET LOVE

DEAR SECRET: Don't call Johnny's mother. Boys are inclined to avoid aggressive girls, so cool it for a few years. And the next time you feel like pouring your heart out in poetry or prose, go ahead—but don't mail it.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 6700, L. A., Calif. 90008. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 6700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90008.

Washington-Watson Vows Said In Christian Church

The First Christian Church of Pampa, was the setting Saturday, April 14 at 7:30 p.m. for the exchange of nuptial vows by Miss Sherry Elaine Washington and Deon Watson, 1301 N. Charles.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy G. Washington, 1806 N. Faulkner, and Mrs. Alberta Watson, Fargo, Okla., is the mother of the bridegroom.

THE CEREMONY

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ralph Palmer, before a background of two spiral candelabra and two horizontal candelabra, decorated with greenery, and a large arrangement of spring flowers.

Mrs. Danny King of Pampa was organist and accompanied Mrs. Paul Reimer, Spearman, as she sang "A Time For Us," "Lara's Theme," "The Twelfth of Never," and "The Lord's Prayer."

THE BRIDE

The bride, given in marriage by her father, with the "her mother and I avowal," wore a white satin formal gown with organza overlay. The gown was designed with an empire bodice and high neckline, featuring a stand-up scalloped collar.

The long organza sleeves, designed with the layered-look, terminated in satin cuffs, were highlighted with small satin buttons.

Her mantilla of illusion fell from a tiara of organza roses, and she carried a bouquet of white stephanotis with purple stock atop a white Bible, belonging to her grandmother.

The bride wore a blue garter belonging to her great aunt, Mrs. Crook. In her shoe, she placed a birthday penny.

MOTHERS

The mother of the bride wore a pink street-length dress with a matching, long plaid vest. The bridegroom's mother wore an aqua street-length dress with matching long floral vest.

ATTENDANTS

Mrs. Terry Dickey of Perryton was matron of honor and bridesmaid was Mrs. Danny Reed of Canadian. Both wore purple whipcream dotted swiss gowns of empire style featuring long full sleeves. The gowns were designed like the bridal gown. They carried nosegay's of spring flowers.

Dennis Moss of White Deer was best man and Harman Staus of Pampa was groomsmen. Ushers were Terry Washington and Tommy Washington, brother's of the bride, and Jerry Sims, cousin of the bride.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor. The serving table was centered with a spring bouquet and candelabra.

The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with purple and orchid roses and was served by Ann Washington and Pattie Sims, cousins of the bride. Mary Washington, and Teresa Sims, cousins of the bride, assisted at the punch bowl and coffee service. Elaine Holmes registered guests.

MRS. DEON WATSON
Miss Sherry Washington

For the wedding trip to New Mexico, the bride wore a purple double knit pantsuit and lifted the corsage from her, bridal bouquet.

They will make their home at 1301 N. Charles in Pampa.

AFFILIATIONS

The bride is a graduate of West Texas State University and is employed by Pampa Independent School District. The bridegroom is a graduate of Oklahoma State Tech at Okmulgee, and is employed by Cabot Engineering Corp.

PRE-NUPTIAL EVENTS

The bride was honored at a shower hosted by Mmes. Pat Hopkins, Jewel Holmes, Jimmie-Kay Williams, Mardell Gamblin, Vera Williams, Nettie Cole, Joyce Gray, Dorothy Walls and Phyllis Cherry, at the First Christian Church Parlor on March 18.

Another Shower hosted March 31 at Vega by Mmes. Cathy Howard, Melanie Kirkland, Becky Barclay and Cecilia Floyd.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bridegroom and his mother, Mrs. Bert Watson of Fargo, and a buffet dinner was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Sims, 1940 N. Faulkner.

OUT-OF-TOWN GUESTS

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Bert Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hamaker, and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Norman all of Fargo, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Fierce and sons, Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Reimer and daughters, Spearman; Mr. and Mrs. Terry Dickey, Perryton; and Mr. and Mrs. Danny Reed, Canadian.

BRUCKNER CYCLE SET FOR VIENNA

VIENNA (AP)—In honor of the 150th anniversary of the birth of Anton Bruckner on Sept. 4 next year, the 1974 Vienna Festival will offer all his symphonies.

Also planned for September 1974 are three Bruckner memorial concerts: at the Piaristenkirche in Vienna, in the monastery of St. Florian, where Bruckner served as organist, and in the Cathedral of Linz, capital of Upper Austria, the province in which Bruckner was born in the town of Ansfelden.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP OF TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa Daily News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his most capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

New Peril: Rain Theft!

International crises of the future may be set off by environmental aggression, warns Maurice S. Strong, head of the United Nations recently established Environmental Program.

No one with any acquaintance with history will believe that men will shrink from using the new science of weather modification to the disadvantage of their neighbors.

Anybody Want A Bridge?

The city of Rocky River, Ohio has a problem. It wants to demolish and replace the Rocky River Bridge which spans appropriately enough the Rocky River just west of Cleveland.

Even if it is a historic site, argues one Rocky River councilman, chunks of concrete continue to fall off it. The city hopes the federal government will weigh the cost of maintaining the "monument" against the cost of replacing it with a new and serviceable bridge.

U.S. Lacking In 'Teaming' With Friends

By RAY CROMLEY WASHINGTON (NEA) — Ironically, the Nixon administration and the United States of late have been much more successful in dealing with enemies than with friends.

The breakthroughs with China and Russia are history. Relationships with old associates in Japan, Thailand, South Asia, the Arab World, Western Europe and Latin America are stagnating.

In one Latin country after another we have failed to take those small but considerate actions which would hold our close associations. We do not, in reality, deal sensitively with the deep feelings of some of our associates South of the Rio Grande on how far to sea a country's territorial waters extend.

Japanese friends in high places tell me they are desperate for a chance to talk frankly and privately with those American officials who make decisions. They almost passionately want to do this regularly — so that they feel they are in on things and not merely being filled in as a necessary afterthought to keep them from boiling over.

Our national genius Kissinger seems to believe as a bit of yeast in gatherings where other countries take the lead. Here our influence he says can be phenomenal.

... and There's the Little Matter of the Tip!"

BRUCE BIOOSAT Presidents: How Do We See Ahead

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Some scholars of the presidency get annoyed at mere political journalists because they say that we, during a campaign, don't tell the American people enough about how a candidate will act if he wins the office.

Like everybody else, we have our full quota of imperfections. But this particular complaint is unfair on two counts.

In the first place, with all due respect to the scholars, there really is no way to predict specific presidential behavior on the basis of prior performance and known traits of character and personality.

Your Health

By Lawrence E. Lamb M.D. Dear Dr. Lamb — Would you care to comment, in your column, on what may seem a cockeyed subject?

Do medical men, particularly psychiatrists, take any stock in the idea that the phases of the moon have an effect on mentally disturbed people? Our family has such a problem, and one of them — presumably normal — members insists that the full moon has an unfavorable effect on the person concerned.

There is no evidence that the phases of the moon have any effect on a person's mind or other bodily functions.

The body does function in relation to a large number of rhythms, including the simple day-night cycle. Some of these functions are definitely influenced by the hours of daylight and darkness which, of course, change with seasons.

It is well known that a woman's personality and moods shift frequently with the stages of her monthly cycle. It is related to the influence of different female hormones produced by the body and, interestingly enough, the production of hormones is related to the rhythmic organization of the brain. These functions are not so easily separated. A woman's brain rhythm pattern is actually organized during fetal development as a result of the female hormones (or absence of male hormone) in the developing body.

H. L. Hunt Writes

TRUTH COMES OUT

With the release of all known prisoners of war by the North Vietnamese — the official gag imposed on the returning men has ended and they are relating stories of inhuman treatment while they were in captivity.

Severe punishment and not enough food constituted a big part of the stories of the returning POWs. Their treatment demonstrated the bestiality of the communists who disregarded the international conventions governing prisoner confinement.

It was a pretty thoroughly known thing that Mr. Nixon disliked the ordinary give-and-take of political contact, that he was painfully ill at ease in small talk that he hid to contrive his performance at these levels.

Mr. Nixon's interest in politics and government is at a level at least once removed from direct human links. Though he can of course see all those connections, he is happy only when treating problems in their more abstract form. He is a mover of pieces on the board, who leaves to others the translation of his moves into more basic human terms.

Rearview Mirror

By TEX DEWESE Editor Of The News

WEATHER IS always a good conversation piece or discussion topic. Apparently that's what the man on the other end of a long distance call had in mind when he phoned last Saturday evening from Lubbock. It was April 7.

When the telephone operator asked us for identification and made the connection, the voice on the other end said:

"Do you remember what happened 35 years ago today?" The caller was Garnet Reeves, a Lubbock insurance man, who used to be manager of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce. He left here in 1944 and was succeeded by E. O. Wedgeworth, who has been C. O. manager in Pampa since that time.

The reason Reeves called was to point up that he had been listening to weather reports and heard Pampa and the Texas Panhandle was in for a whirling of a blizzard Saturday night a week ago.

That triggered the memory's files — flipping them back to Thursday, April 7, 1938. There was a difference between the blizzards of '38 and '73. In 1938 the blizzard killed cattle, stranded hundreds of motorists and caused hardships for nearly 1,000 Pampans. That year about 12 inches of snow fell across the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandles and five-foot drifts were common in downtown streets. This year Pampa got about 5 inches of snow, the drifting did not tie up traffic and there were few hardships.

Strangely enough someone had removed the April '38 storm story from the file. But on Sunday, April 10, this story appeared on Page One.

stranded between Cordell and Sayre in Oklahoma and after several hours members of the party were rescued by Oklahoma Highway Patrol officers.

The car driven by Reeves and carrying Collins, Aldridge and DeWese was on the missing list until they were able to get out after two nights and two days.

Yes, we told Reeves on the telephone, we remember what happened 35 years ago today. It was also remembered that there was no heat and no food in that abandoned summer tourist cabin. And, baby, it was cold outside — and inside.

AS YOU know there are a couple of new faces on the Pampa City Commission. One of them, Joe Curtis, elected April 3, from Ward 2, got his first baptism as a public official even before he had attended his first council meeting.

It was in the form of an anonymous letter. Unsigned, that is.

We won't go into it here, but if you ask Commissioner Curtis he might tell you about it.

MRS. RICHARD GLENN ELLIS
nee Miss Donna Gail Ullman

Donna Ullman, Richard Ellis Exchange Vows in Kerens

Miss Donna Gail Ullman became the bride of Richard Glenn-Ellis Saturday, April 14 at 4 p. m. in the First Baptist Church of Kerens.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Ullman of Plano, and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn E. Ellis of Houston, and former Pampa residents.

THE CEREMONY

The Rev. Charles Pringle officiated for the afternoon nuptials. Mrs. Barry Walter soloist, accompanied by Mrs. J. L. Whorton organist with traditional wedding music.

THE BRIDE

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a candlelight gown of organza and beaded embroidered Alencon lace. The empire bodice, which was heavily appliqued with lace, featured a narrow mandarin collar edged by a gathered ruffle. The full bishop sleeves were held by long cuffs with ruffled edges. The a-line skirt featured a hemline of deep bordered Alencon lace showing natural lace scallops. The detachable train fell in voluminous folds to chapel length.

The bride's bouffant veil of imported silk illusion fell in tiers from a caplet, giving a contour effect, and was fashioned of alternate loops of Alencon lace and organza. Seed pearls enhanced the caplet. For the bridal bouquet, Miss Ullman chose a nosegay of daisies, roses and baby's breath.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Dainie Ullman was her sister's maid of honor. Mrs. James Malfait of Kerens and Mrs. J. Ronald Hulsay of Houston were bridesmaids. Their gowns were of printed chiffon in blue, pink and yellow. Each was fashioned with short sleeves, scooped neck and empire bodice accented with hot pink satin ribbons. They carried nosegays of multi-colored daisies and baby's breath.

Eric Brand of Houston served as the bridegroom's best man. Groomsmen were Jim Gacace of Columbus, Ohio and Larry Jennings of Wheeler, brother of the bridegroom. Serving as ushers were Larry Burden, Rickety Hilliard and Mark Paschal, all of Kerens.

MOTHERS

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Ullman chose a dress of ivory velvet lace. Mrs. Ellis, mother of the bridegroom, wore a blue knit dress with matching jacket. Both wore corsages of white roses.

RECEPTION

A reception in the church fellowship hall followed the ceremony. Mrs. Michael Hand of Dallas presided at the bride's book.

Miss Kathy Hilliard of Kerens, Mrs. Carlos Leach of Nacogdoches and Mrs. William Price of Galveston served at the bridal table. The bridegroom's table was attended by Miss Linda Moy of Dallas and Mrs. Eric Brand of Houston.

For her wedding trip to Florida the bride chose a pantsuit ensemble of green and white.

The couple will reside at 14309 46th St., Lutz, Fla.

AFFILIATIONS

The bride is a graduate of Navarro Junior College and Baylor University. The bridegroom is a graduate of Texas A&M and is a touring professional golfer.

Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Hogsett, 712 S. Finley St., Pampa, will be honored by their children with a Golden Wedding Anniversary reception on Sunday, April 22 from 2 to 5 p. m. in the parlor of the First Christian Church, 1633 N. Nelson St. Pampa. Their friends are cordially invited to attend.

Frank Hogsett and Miss Helen Fern Jacobs were married on May 1, 1923 in Liberal, Kan. They lived in Beaver County, Okla., where he farmed and taught at the Sand Creek Elementary School near Logan, Okla. Five of their children were born in Beaver County and two were born in Texas.

In 1936 they moved to Spearman, then to their present home in Pampa in 1937. Hogsett retired from the Cities Service Oil Co. in 1961, but has stayed busy working part time as a custodian for the First Christian Church.

Mrs. Hogsett fills her days doing church work, volunteer work at the Highland General Hospital and sewing.

The Hogsetts have seven children: Leola Hon of Clovis, N.M., Derrel Hogsett and Joan Hunt of Pampa, Duane Hogsett of Oklahoma City, Okla., Glenda Gunkel of Taft, Tex., Avanelle Powell of Hazlewood, Mo., and Betty Patchin of Weatherford, Okla., and 30 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

South cashed dummy's ace of clubs and led a club toward his own king. He wasn't worried about a ruff since if East ruffed he would be ruffing a small club, not the king. East followed and now South knew East didn't have more than one trump.

South led his ace of trumps. When East dropped the 10, South was able to lead his jack, finesse against West's queen and make his game contract.

The steady free bidder who likes to bid every time it is his turn has a lot of fun. So do his opponents. They get to double him. Even when he doesn't get doubled the steady free bidder gets into all sorts of trouble.

His partner can never trust him; his partner makes unfortunate opening leads and even when none of that happens, the pointless bid helps declarer plan his play of the dummy.

If West had opened a diamond, South would have had a cinch, but West elected to open a heart and East collected two heart tricks before shifting to a diamond.

South won in dummy and took stock. Surely East had 10 cards in his two red suits. That left him with three in the blacks. If two were

Talkative Children

Talkative children are entertaining — but talking may be a sign of something else.

Miss Jimmie Lou Wainwright, county Extension agent, noted that too much talk and little action may indicate a child is attempting a diversion — trying to avoid using other skills.

He may be afraid of failing at something else — even simple things like working a puzzle, painting or playing a game.

As a result, he tries to talk himself out of it — or around it. The child also may realize that talking usually gains adult approval.

However, excessive talking actually harms the child in the long run. Instead of getting into the action, trying new things or gaining assurance and confidence, he spends all his time talking.

Parents may have difficulty getting a child to try new things after he's found adult attention and approval through talking.

Therefore, they need to help the child in several areas.

—Help him relax. Show him that success isn't demanded at each attempt.

—Try to instill the philosophy that it's fun to "dabble" a bit in many things — just to find out what life is all about. He may like the activity after trying it.

—Give him encouragement and show him he needs to be a "doer" as well as a talker. The agent concluded.

Blancas Ups His Lead To 4 Shots

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Homero Blancas, the leader all the way, stretched his advantage to four strokes with a blazing five under par 66 Saturday in the third round of the $150,000 Monsanto Open Golf Tournament.

"I putted the eyes out of it," the happy hombre from Houston said after posting a 54-hole total of 202, 11 under par on the 6,679-yard Pensacola Country Club course.

Blancas, gaining for a fifth victory in nine years on the pro tour, led by one stroke at the end of the first round, by two after 36 holes and got off and running Saturday when he chipped in for the third time in the tournament for a birdie on the first hole.

Veterans Frank Beard and New Zealand left-hander Bob Charles were tied for second at 206. Charles, a former British Open champion, had a 66 and Beard took a 68 in the bright, warm sunshine.

Lanky tour rookie Andy North followed at 207 after his 67.

Australian veteran Bruce Crampton had a 69 for 206 and the group at 210 included Miller Barber, Doug Sanders, Bob Murphy and Bob Smith.

"I putted just great," said Blancas, who needed only 28 strokes on the greens. "I hit the hole on every putt except one inside of 20 feet."

He notched seven birdies. One of course was that 10-

Jr. High Freshman In Second

Pampa's freshman golf team competed in a tournament yesterday in Canyon and came in second to the Canyon freshman team in the junior high district.

Pampa came in with a 174 for the day, nine strokes behind Canyon's 165. Other scores were Perryton 191, Borger 199, Perryton B 201, Hereford 213, Dumas 216, Pampa B 240 and Borger B 244.

Individual scores for Pampa's A team were Scott White 41, Curt Beck 43, Mike Elm 44, Wylie McIntire 46 and Tim Neslage 53.

Pampa B scores: Danny Kohler 57, Kerry Dawson 58, Mark Polk 60, Patrick O'Conner 65. Only the first four scores from the A team counted toward the total.

There will be two more rounds in district play. The next one will be at Dumas next week, to be followed by an 18-hole round-up in Perryton the following week.

yard chip shot and three others came on putts of 25-35 feet.

"He was just unbelievable," said Beard, who played just in front of the paunchy, swarthy veteran.

Blancas' lead matches the biggest 54-hole advantage on the tour this year.

After chipping in on the opening hole, Blancas made a 35-

Dave Roberts Sets Relays Vault Mark

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Dave Roberts of Rice, battling gusty winds and rains soared to a Texas Relays pole vault record Saturday while Duke and Texas sloshed across the soaked tartan track to new marks in relay events.

Roberts, the NCAA champion, wiped out his 1971 record of 17 feet with a vault of 17 feet one inch, that just beat a heavy rainstorm which drenched a crowd of some 5,000 in Memorial Stadium.

Duke devastated the relays' record in the university four-mile relay by some 11 seconds with a 4:03.8 anchor by Olympian Bob Wheeler. Duke's time of 16:22.09 surpassed Missouri's record of 16:32.55 in 1972. Missouri fell in 16:22.82.

Oklahoma State in 16:23.02 and Kansas State in 16:24.33 also eclipsed the old standard.

Texas put a new record in the books in the 480 hard shuttle-hurdle relay with a time of 57.7 seconds. The old record was 58.9. Texas also won the two-mile relay in a slow 7:31.46 minutes but made a strong bid to become the outstanding university division team with a 15-yard victory in the climatic mile relay in 3:08.74.

Texas also captured the sprint medley relay Friday to give the Longhorns' four-relay victories in two days.

The open 199 yard dash was a disappointment although Willie McGee of Alcorn A&M ran a division record, 9.4 second Olympic silver medalist Robert Taylor scratched from the event.

The Kansas Jayhawks shaved Texas at El Paso in the crowd pleasing 440-yard relay in 40.52 seconds but the poor condition kept the winners from threatening the meet's mark of 39.7.

William Oates of Texas

leaped 6 feet 11 inches to win the high jump medals.

Vance Roland of Eastern Oklahoma cruised the 120-yard high hurdles in 14.20 seconds but a new junior college record wasn't allowed because of a 7.9 mile-per-hour tail wind.

The wind also kept Ricky Stubbs of Louisiana Tech from claiming the university-college high hurdles record. He topped the timber in 13.33 seconds with a 9.9 mph wind at his back. The relay's record is 13.7 set by Rod Milburn, the Olympic gold medal winner who had to scratch because of a pulled muscle.

Charles Dawson of Blinn Jr. College won the junior college 100-in. 9.4 seconds after relays. Junior college record holder, Guy Abrahams of New Mexico Junior College pulled a leg muscle some 25 yards from the wife and finished last. Abrahams set a relays junior college record of 9.39 Friday in the preliminaries.

In all ten records were broken in the 46th Annual Relays attended by a total 9,500 fans.

Kazmierski Leading
PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Joyce Kazmierski, who says she loves the challenge of wind, stretched her lead to four strokes Saturday after three rounds of the blustery, sand-blowing $154,000 Colgate-Dinah Shore Winners Circle Golf Tournament.

Only two of the 49 contestants in this richest event ever on the Ladies' Professional Golf Association tour could boast sub-par scores after 54 holes. Jo Anne Carner matched Miss Kazmierski's third round 71 and trailed the leaders five under-par 211.

The loss made Pampa 1-3 in district play. The next Harvester game will be against Tascosa here April 24 following the spring break.

Pampa went ahead 5-4 in the top of the seventh and final inning when A. J. Brewer singled Rick Musgrave in after Musgrave, the Pampa right fielder, had singled to get on base.

The lead was short-lived, however, when Caprock's Marcum got on after being hit by a pitch and advanced to third on Glass' hit. Glass then stole second base and both men were singled in by Taylor.

Caprock's Smith, who came on in relief in the third inning, struck out six Pampa batters, walked one and gave up six hits in getting the win.

Gary Davis absorbed the loss for the Harvesters. He struck out five, walked four and gave up nine hits.

Pampa went ahead of the Longhorns in the first inning when Brewer, the Harvesters' centerfielder, got on with a base hit and was knocked in by shortstop Toddy Black's home run. That made the score 2-0 in favor of Pampa.

When Caprock came up to bat in the bottom of the inning Glass singled. Taylor got on via the walk and Marcum's double scored both men. Morales then came to bat and doubled, scoring Marcum to make the score 3-2 Longhorns.

In the top of the third, Pampa hurler Davis singled and was knocked in on a single by Brewer to tie the game 3-3.

The fourth inning was scoreless and both teams scored one run in the fifth. Pampa's score came when Musgrave walked and Brewer, again, singled him in. The Longhorns run came after Morales walked and was singled in by Osborne.

Their, were no runs scored in the sixth and it was 4-4 when Pampa came to bat. Musgrave singled and was knocked in by Brewer, who went four for four at the plate for the Harvesters.

That gave Pampa the edge before the Longhorns were able to score two runs in the bottom of the frame to get the win.

There has probably never been a longer, straighter driver in golf than Sam Snead. He believes the tee shot sets up the whole game. It determines your mental approach and strategy for the rest of the hole.

"A man has to turn his attention away from the golf course to find anything more satisfying than a great big, bone-crushing drive. When a golfer perfects his driving to the point where he gets satisfactory hits, his mental approach to the next shot is healthy and confident. A poor drive immediately puts you behind the eight-ball and makes par seem pretty hard to get," says Sam.

"A good drive is almost essential to a par or birdie; a poor drive is a good start toward a bogey."

"Probably the best tip I could give anyone in achieving a solid, square hit with the driver is to always swing within yourself," Snead concludes.

Pampa Sprint Relay Qualifies For State

Pampa High's sprint relay qualified for the state meet yesterday at the Region I meet in Lubbock. Pampa's time of 42.4 was second to San Angelo's 42.2.

None of the rest of the Pampa regional qualifiers will make it to the state meet.

Noel Hansen, Pampa sophomore, placed sixth in the 880-yard dash. Luther Mayes of Hereford won the race with a 1:59.0. David Gasca of El Paso Jefferson was second with a 1:59.6.

In the 220 Marvin Baker of Midland Lee won in 21.5. Borger's Craig Prewitt was second with a 21.6. Harvester Rick McGuire, who qualified for the finals with a 22.3 Friday, was seventh.

Ricky Wheeler of Monterey won the 440 with a 48.6. Ernest Martinez of El Paso Riverside was second. Pampa's Steve Mathis, who made the finals with a 50.4, was seventh.

Pampa's mile relay was fourth in its race with a 3:24.9 after qualifying with a time of 3:23.5. San Angelo won the race with a 3:20.7 and El Paso Austin was second with a 3:20.9.

"Buck" Rogers Gets Collegiate Medalist

HOUSTON (AP) — Bill "Buck" Rogers shot a 10-under-par record-tying total 278 with a two-under-par Saturday to win medalist honors and lead host University of Houston to victory in the 19th Annual All-America Intercollegiate Invitational Golf Tournament.

Rogers, the 1972 Southern Amateur champion, ran in birdies on Nos. 9, 11 and 16 and had only one bogey in Saturday's final round. On 16, Rogers snaked in a 55-footer for his birdie.

The Cougars, defending champions, won the team trophy with a 1,166 total, with Texas winding up second at 1,178. Oklahoma State and Georgia tied for third at 1,180 and Florida, which was second going into Saturday's round, was fourth at 1,181.

"After that putt on 16, I don't think anything in the world could have stopped me," Rogers said. "Honestly, I was just trying to keep it on the green. I was most definitely trying to two-putt."

Texas' Ben Crenshaw, the Masters low amateur the past two years finally tamed the narrow fairways of Atascocita Country Club with a four-under-par 68 for the water-logged final round.

Crenshaw finished in the runner-up spot seven strokes back with a 285. Florida's Woody Blackburn, who started the day in second place, fired a 74 and finished in a tie at 287 with Bill Kratzert of Georgia for third place.

Ted Goins of Oklahoma State finished fifth at 292 and Gary Koch of Florida finished in a three-day tie for sixth with a final round 74 after going three-under-par early in the round. Bubba Major of Alabama, who had the day's best round of 67, and Houston's Bruce Lietzke, who had a 73, were tied with Koch.

Gowdy Wants To Get Rid Of The Dead Spots

CINCINNATI (AP) — Olympic sprint stars as pinch runners in baseball? Less fool in football?

"If it adds more excitement to the game, I'm for it," says television sportscaster Curt Gowdy as he heads into his 30th year of broadcasting.

The Wyoming native, who started on a soapbox in a snowstorm for $25 a week and vaulted to one of his profession's loftiest perches, has suggestions to keep the turnstiles turning.

"Get rid of the dead spots," Gowdy said.

The American League's designated hitter, he said, is a start in the right direction.

"If this puts more men on base, it will add more excitement for the spectators," said the graying National Broadcasting Co. sports broadcaster.

"Hiring Olympics track stars would help the gate and wouldn't hurt the game," Gowdy said. "And football should be football, not some English soccer kicker running out in a tuxedo and kicking three points."

Gowdy would have football's extra point kick abolished and, instead, have the ball put on the three-yard line with the option of running or passing for the PAT.

"And I'd have kickoffs moved back to the 30-yard line so we can see the ball run back. Guys like Jan Stenerud are kicking it into the end zone every time," he said.

The same goes for punt returns. "Linemen shouldn't be able to leave the line of scrimmage until the ball is kicked," he added.

The former basketball stand-out at the University of Wyoming remembers vividly his first solo assignment at the microphone. Fortified by long Johns and seated on an orange crate in a blizzard, he recalls being too embarrassed to identify himself as he called the play-by-play on an obscure six-man football game in Cheyenne, Wyo.

Today, Gowdy's observation points are better furnished. His assignments take him to the World Series, Super Bowl and Olympics.

But, at heart, the 52-year-old Gowdy said, he's still the cattle-country kid who is happiest when waist-deep in his favorite fishing hole, swapping stories with friends.

Gowdy said he believes television has made giant improvements electronically.

"With slow motion and instant replays the greatest additions," he said, "we'll have to be careful we don't overdo it."

Short Iron Shots Require Control

EDITORS: Miss Burfeindt is a participant in the LPGA $50,000 Cinderella Tournament currently being presented in a 13-week-end television series.

By BETTY BURFEINDT
LPGA Circuit Star

Your short iron shots do not require power but demand control, a fact that didn't come through to me for a long time. My suggestion is to use a heavier iron than the shot indicates, but take a shorter swing to control the flight of the ball.

If you use a short iron and hit the ball full-out, you demand maximum performance at the point of contact, and that's asking a lot. I select a longer iron and take half to three quarters backswing. I get the same distance that I would get with a shorter iron and a full swing, but gain tremendously in direction, which is most important.

Many women I have seen fail in love with the wedge. That is the man's game and the man's illusion. The man wants to brag he hit a wedge and made the shot when he should have taken a nine iron. We women don't have to fall for masculine golf vanity.

Anthony Davis Is Still Running Fast

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Anthony Davis lay in his hospital bed, examined the casts on both legs and said "I thought that all the work I'd done would be wasted."

That was three months ago. The two-sport University of Southern California athletic star is back.

"I still had confidence that I'd be back, but that it would just take a little more time," the 20-year-old sophomore said while wearing a Trojan baseball uniform.

As football Coach John McKay said, "The best thing about A.D. is he believes in himself. He isn't a confidence case. You don't have to go in and tell him he's good."

Tailback Davis or center fielder Davis, A.D. has a bright future, said coaches of both sports. McKay and baseball mentor Rod Dedeaux. At this point, though, they're just grateful he has any athletic future at all.

Davis said he fell asleep behind the wheel of his car last Jan. 13. The car was demolished in the crash. A piece of metal slashed one-third through his left Achilles tendon. Tendon fibers in his right knee cap were torn.

"It was a month before I knew I would be able to run as well as before," Davis said.

Davis got the go-ahead to play baseball about three weeks ago, and he said his football success—19 touchdowns for the Trojans' national championship team—means "maybe I'll win the Heisman Trophy."

But at this time, said Davis, the big football season he had means he doesn't have to prove himself on the gridiron. He doesn't have to concern himself with football spring practice, which "gives me an opportunity to bring out my baseball ability."

"I'm happy to see myself playing. The soreness here," he said as he left a small bump above his left ankle, evidence of surgery, "is okay as long as I can run."

English Trials Slated Today

The Alvin Dyer Ranch, six miles south of town on Price Road will be the site today of a relatively new kind of motorcycle contest for this part of the country — Observed English Trials. The trials are sponsored by Explorer Post 202, Luke Garvin and John Carson leaders.

In observed trials, unlike motocross, the bike rider is pitted against his machine and the terrain, not other riders.

The course for the trials is laid out only hours before the contest begins, so there is no way for a rider to familiarize himself with it beforehand.

The course is laid out over very rough terrain — gullies, hills, hogbacks, etc. — and the rider in each class who makes it through with the least number of penalty points wins.

Penalty points are given for such things as putting one foot down — one penalty point, two feet down — two penalty points, killing engine or running off the course — 10 points.

The trials are a test of control and coordination between the rider and his bike, not a test of speed.

Observed English Trials are a good spectator sport as those watching can see all of the action as the riders move from one trap to another on the course.

Those interested in motorcycle competition will find the trials enjoyable and exciting. The contests get under way at 1 p.m. today.

Today, Gowdy's observation points are better furnished. His assignments take him to the World Series, Super Bowl and Olympics.

But, at heart, the 52-year-old Gowdy said, he's still the cattle-country kid who is happiest when waist-deep in his favorite fishing hole, swapping stories with friends.

Gowdy said he believes television has made giant improvements electronically.

"With slow motion and instant replays the greatest additions," he said, "we'll have to be careful we don't overdo it."

Texas Looks Stronger Than Last Year's Team

Editors Note: Here is the first in a series of spring sizeups of Southwest Conference football teams. The first article deals with defending champion Texas, which has won five consecutive titles.

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Can No. 3 Texas be No. 2?

Southern California, the defending national champion in college football, generally is conceded the top spot again, but a national tabloid already has tabbed the Longhorns for second.

"I wish I could buy that," comments Coach Darrell Royal, whose 1963 and 1969 teams won national titles. "I don't think we're any No. 2 team."

Texas whipped Alabama 17-13 in the Cotton Bowl to finish third this past season with a team Royal described last spring as being "as average as every day's wash."

Take note, this year, he says. "We have something more solid offensively than we did last spring."

What he has is two strong, fast sophomore quarterback and possibly the best fullback in college football—Roosevelt Leaks—running from the wishbone-T behind an agile, quick line that averages 230 pounds.

Leaks, a 299-pounder who churned for 1,099 yards as sophomore center and co-captain Bill Wyman, 6-foot-2 and 235, and the co-captain of the defense, linebacker Glen Gaspard, a 223-pounder as fast as many halfbacks, are being touted as all-Americans.

Marty Akins and Mike Presley are a step or two faster than the 1972 quarterback, Alan Lowry, and Royal often points out that Akins was strong enough as a high school senior to throw the 12-pound shot over 60 feet.

In Texas' final spring training intrasquad game, Akins, 6-0 and 195, dashed for 156 yards on 22 carries and scored touchdowns on runs of 10, 10 and 12 yards before bruising his elbow midway of the third quarter. Presley, 6-2 and 200, completed seven of 12 passes for 294 yards, including scoring tosses of 67 and 86 yards to split receiver Jim Moore.

It is a paradox that Texas, which usually throws only on third and long yardage, is so deep at wide receiver that the third teamer, Chris Lemberg, was applauded after three acrobatic catches in the spring training finale.

Texas lost a chunk out of its defense when all-Southwest Conference linebacker Randy Braband, who made the crucial fourth-down stop on Alabama's Wilbur Jackson in the Cotton Bowl, completed his eligibility. His replacement is Wade Johnston, 215, a high school shot put champion, and Royal says it is "pretty apparent the defensive secondary is not stellar."

But eight defensive starters return.

Possibly more revealing than words, however, on the prospect of the '73 Longhorns was Royal's agreement to televise the wrap-up of spring training in five cities.

DKR ain't in the habit of showing off those that don't rate it.

NBA Has Postponed Draft Until Thursday

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Basketball Association has postponed its 1973 collegiate draft until Thursday, so the league's board of governors can determine who will get pick No. 4 in the first round.

The postponement of the draft originally scheduled for Monday was announced late Friday by NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy following a federal court ruling voiding Kennedy's award of Seattle's first-round selection to Philadelphia in compensation for John Brisker.

Kennedy has called a special meeting of the board of governors for Wednesday to take final action on the Philadelphia-Seattle draft dispute.

Brisker was picked by the Philadelphia 76ers in the 1969 supplemental college draft, but he was signed by Pittsburgh of the American Basketball Association.

When the Pittsburgh franchise folded after the 1971-72 season, Brisker was selected by Dallas in the ABA dispersal draft, but he signed an NBA contract with the Seattle SuperSonics.

Because Philadelphia apparently had exclusive negotiating rights to Brisker as a result of the 1969 draft, the NBA governors voted to let Kennedy determine the matter.

Kennedy, in a ruling last November, gave Seattle a first-round selection in the 1973 college draft to Philadelphia, in addition to fixing the SuperSonics' $10,000 but let Brisker remain with Seattle.

All-District Volleyball Announced

The District 3 AAAA coaches all-district team was announced yesterday. One Pampa girl made the first team. She is spiker Debbie Harris.

Joining her on the first team are spikers Myra Millard, Tascosa; Kathy Balingier, Hereford; Dana Bagley, Caprock and Holly Holor, Amarillo. Setters on the first team are Lydia Padilla, Caprock and Camela Balcomb, Amarillo.

Setter Debbie Fortin and spiker Lynn Richardson, both of Pampa, made the district second team. They are joined by setter Stacy Curtis of Tascosa and spikers Karey Williams, Amarillo; Theo Edmond, Palo Duro; Debbie Spence, Tascosa and Willie Jackson of Borger.

The district's sophomore of the year is Debbie Brummett of Tascosa.

John Jenkins Hurt In Crash

John Jenkins, son of Mrs. Iva Jenkins of Amarillo, and former stand-out football player at Pampa High School and letterman at the University of Arkansas, was injured Friday in Fayetteville, Ark. when the car he was driving went out of control and struck a tree.

Jenkins was reported to be in satisfactory condition late Thursday and was discharged from Washington General Hospital Friday.

BEEF BOYCOTT AFTERMATH
 Now that the housewives have their refrigerator cleaned out and the children and the ole man have had all the high-priced fish, the chicken, and the macaroni and cheese they can stand, they are turning back to beef in big droves.

As one housewife stated it so well, "I'm buying beef as usual, I'm tired of suffering for noble causes."

Some objective news reporters are telling the other side of the story. As far as lowering prices (the housewives objective) they fared miserably. They did succeed in driving the price of high-priced fish up to all-time highs. They helped the chicken farmer sell a few more of the usually stale meat-counter chickens and put the price of chicken up. Don't you think the chicken farmer deserved to get more for his chickens? In 1950 he was getting 59.5 cents per pound as compared with 41.6 cents per pound in 1972.

The housewife found out that fish and some of the other meats were even higher than beef in the first place.

While the self-appointed boycott leaders were having their hey-day publicity wise, the farmer and rancher didn't sass back. He just quietly stayed home with his cattle and hogs. There wasn't much said in rebuttal but a host of fine information that made hogs sense finally got into the news near the end of the boycott. Information that never before has been printed in defense of the farmers and the food industry.

It's my opinion that many of the housewives read this and learned some things they won't soon forget.

"Many of the major cattle and hog markets had runs drop in 66 per cent of normal. The man weather also seemed to have turned against the housewife. The weather also discouraged shipping by farmers in addition to their fear of price drops. Prices held steady until the banking committee began its try to roll everything back to Jan. 10. If this should pass and become law, it would break every cattleman from here to Canada and all across the corn."

Early reports show the housewives are rebounding their refrigerators.

Many of the housewives were

Rustling Is Booming

By RAY BAXTER
 Farm Editor

Cattle rustling is a big business in Texas. It always has been but today, it is a different "brand" — 105-thousand different brands in fact and therein lies the trouble.

In the romantic era of range-riding, reatas and roundups, each ranch, a veritable beef empire in itself, had a brand and "jugal justice" with the hangman's knot under the left ear was swift for the hombre caught with cows wearing other than his own brand and he had no bill-of-sale!

In those days, getting the "hang" of rustling meant the thief had reached the "height" of his career — the tall limb of a cottonwood tree!

CROPS: Another Round of Cold, Wet

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Another round of cold, wet weather put the damper on farm activities in many sections of the state last week. Dr. John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said.

Freezing temperatures early in the week damaged fruit and pecan trees in western areas, and hail damaged some vegetable crops in the Winter Garden, he said.

Corn and grain sorghum crops are up to good stands over most of South and Southwest Texas. Hutchison said. However, rootworms damaged some grain sorghum plantings, so that replanting has been necessary.

Corn and grain sorghum planting are about complete in the blackland of Central Texas, and planting has begun to gain momentum in North Central counties. A little corn also has been planted in the High Plains.

Cotton planting has been limited to southern counties although a small amount of acreage has been seeded in Central Texas. Hutchison said. Most cotton farmers are waiting for the soil to warm up and dry before planting.

Farmers in East Texas have about completed watermelon planting, he said. Sweet potato bedding also is active in that area.

Watermelons are making good growth in South Texas, and strawberries are now in good supply in the Winter Garden area.

Live-stock and range conditions are generally good over the state although supplemental feeding remains active in a few areas. Hutchison said.

District Agriculture agents gave these reports:

Panhandle: Wheat is making good growth but prolonged wet conditions are causing some yellowing of the crops in northern counties. Wheat streak mosaic has been found in some wheat fields. Greenbug infestations are still light. Small acreages of corn and sugar beets have been planted. Freezing weather damaged some onion plantings.

South Plains: Wheat is progressing well and is starting to head. Some corn has been planted, but cold weather is delaying emergence. Freezing weather has damaged some fruit trees.

Rolling Plains: Small grains are making excellent growth. A good grain crop is expected. Only a limited amount of cotton remains to be harvested in four counties. Herbicide application and land preparation are active where field conditions permit. Home gardening is gaining momentum.

North Central: Corn planting is near completion in a few counties. Grain sorghum seeding is lagging behind due to wet fields. Cotton planting is just starting. Cowpeas, blackeye peas and vetch are making good progress. Cattle prices have dropped about $4 per hundredweight.

Far West: Low temperatures caused some damage to fruit and pecan trees. Land preparation and preplant irrigation have been active, but cold weather has delayed spring planting over the area. Live-stock are in fair to good condition. Calf and lamb crops are making good progress.

West Central: Only a limited amount of grain sorghum has been seeded. Home gardens are off to a slow start due to adverse weather. Tom Green County had a heavy set of peaches, apricots and plums, but freezing temperatures caused some damage. Live-stock are gaining weight.

Today, it simply means developing a stealing style. Some shoot stock with a tranquilizing gun and butcher on the spot. Some use the owner's own outlying pens to herd a few head at a time into a pickup truck. A real enterprising gang just hi-jacks a semi-trailer full of beef.

—And proving ownership is a sometime thing because of the present state of branding in the state.

There was a time when XIT or Four Sixes or a Rocking-Chair or a Lazy-S or a Running-W was like sterling on silver. Today, a cattleman's brand is good to the county line. Then, somebody across on the other side can register the same brand.

Before the current re-registration drive, there were 280-thousand different brands and then there were the ear notches, tattoos and clamps. These have been the latter day devices of the raiser of fancy cattle who wants the animals marred as little as possible.

Branding has an interesting history. The first known record of it was in ancient Egypt where drawings on the walls of tombs showed brands on the cattle. It has been established that, in this era, brands were reserved for the temple herds of the Pharaoh and for distinguished individuals.

The first recorded cattle rustler was Jacob of Old Testament fame. While working out his seven-year stint for his bride-to-be, his future father-in-law told him he could have all the speckled calves. These were considered inferior to those of solid coloring which went to sons.

The only thing was, back on Jacob's home range a cow was a cow and there were not very many of them.

Sacred scripture says he put up speckled sticks at the watering holes and when the heifers saw them they dropped speckled calves.

This doesn't square with genetics but historians of Jacob's day wasted very little ink writing about genetics. It took most of it, one mark at a time, to count the old patriarch's herds... of speckled cattle!

In the days of the Wild West, in lieu of speckled sticks a branding iron was used and it was just that, iron. At one end of the shaft was a loop for a handle and at the other, like a printer's tape was the matrix of the brand.

Rustlers of that day had a variation on this, a long shaft with a point on the branding end. This was heated and used to trace the desired brand in the hide of the animal as a child would draw it with a crayon.

This was called a "running iron" and getting caught with one was like carrying the scent of the neighbor's wife's perfume... almost instant fatality!

By a resolution in the Texas house of representatives, Agriculture Commissioner John White was appointed to head a committee to study a workable system of brand registration. The measure noted that "the lack of a state-wide coordinated brand registration inspection and enforcement system has caused brand inspection laws to be difficult to enforce, thus making cattle theft much easier and convictions more difficult to obtain."

Another Texas statute giving aid and comfort to the rustler is the current trespass law. Time was when a landowner could rid his property of a trespasser without compunction. This was short shrift of cow thieves with a loud rustle.

Nowadays, the trespasser has to be in a man's home before he can shoot him... and there are very few steers rustled from a front bedroom!

In the meantime, rustling is hustling but... if you're going to rustle, don't take a T-bone, take the whole cow. Stealing a steak, regardless of size or price, is a felony in Texas!

A HERITAGE PRESERVED
DANVERS, Mass. (AP) — GTE Sylvania Inc. has taken it upon itself to preserve one of the nation's little-known historical treasures with the fencing in of the Endicott Pear Tree at its Lighting Center here.

The 342-year-old tree is the last remaining fruit tree brought to the New World by John Endicott in 1630 and planted as a slip in the first tree nursery in America on his farm, Orchard Village, here. Endicott later became first governor of Massachusetts.

Staffans protected the tree from vandals with a sturdy wire fence and in 1972 for the first time in many seasons, the tree responded to the care by producing edible fruit.

Panhandle Water

By Felix W. Ryals

This columnist was in Washington, D.C. last week for the annual Water Resources Congress.

Three national figures in the persons of Sen. John McClellan of Arkansas, Congressman John A. Blatnik of Minnesota, and Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz addressed the Water Congress.

In today's column, we are carrying a portion of the address of the Secretary of Agriculture. In the weeks to come, we will carry portions of the addresses by Senator McClellan and Congressman Blatnik.

The grain sale negotiated with the Soviet Union increased income for U.S. farmers by at least $1 billion for example, and saved our taxpayers a net $200 million in grain storage costs. Of far greater importance however, the trade breakthrough with the Soviets and Mainland Chinese is tapping huge new overseas markets which are certain to make American agriculture a dynamic growth industry for years to come.

We are at a hinge point in the history of U.S. agriculture, and we are at a hinge year in farm legislation. With new programs that gear our farm productivity to growing worldwide demands, all the people in this country — all the consumers in America — will stand to gain. Gains will accrue in rural prosperity, in agriculture's contribution to our balance of trade, and in stepped-up economic activity and employment as we bring our agricultural capacity into maximum production.

To keep the momentum going, we need a balanced approach to new farm programs — programs that gear our agricultural output to growing markets at home and abroad. For 40 years our farm policy went overboard in the direction of caution and withdrawal — programs that treated agriculture like a problem child. They were programs that tied farmers closely to what they had planted in the past — programs that fan-up subsidy costs which have become burdensome to urban taxpayers.

At this moment, as we are working with Congress on legislation to replace the expiring Agricultural Act of 1970, we have a rare opportunity to break with the past, to move away from the old restrictive programs, and to create the kind of agricultural structure farmers need to make the best Resources will primarily be one of coordination — one of resolution in situations where frictions inevitably develop at the inner surfaces within a governmental structure as large and diverse as ours. The general aim is to intercept and resolve problems before they become insoluble, and to engage in policy formulation and articulation in cases where policy cuts across departmental and agency lines. This often happens in the natural resources field, as you know.

My aim also will be to keep a d-m-i-p-s-t-i-a-l-i-o-n and decision-making as close to the level of expertise as possible. In government, the same as in business corporations or public service organizations, the real expertise often will not be found so much in the executive offices as out in the field where the work is done. It's out there staff meets budget meets project.

As Natural Resources Counsellor, my philosophy is that all of us must search ceaselessly for the solid ground between economic interests and environmental concerns. We must try to forge a practical common sense working partnership between man's technology and the ecology of nature.

'Terribles' Are First Family of Fraud

BY TOM TIEDE

CINCINNATI — (NEA) — Every year about this time, when the tulips are fat and the forsythia has yellowed and the Cincinnati Police Department observes yet another annual rite of spring. It issues its annual warning to property owners to beware of the Williamsons — the terrible, terrible, terrible, terrible, terrible, terrible Williamsons.

The Terribles are the city's first family of fraud. Part fact and part fiction, alternately feared and envied, notorious yet wholly unknown, the group is a sort of miniature Mafia, a kind of brotherhood of the ilk, which has allegedly amassed a fortune, not to mention a place in legend, by swindling the nation's many and varied suckers.

Known from Hartford to Honolulu, with perhaps a 50-year history of big-time bamboozling, the Terrible Williamsons operate on the "T. Barman" principle. What they do is promise something for nothing, which turns out to be nothing for something. They sell eggs to cure cancer, peddle "sealskin" coats which are made of plastic, resurface driveways with crankcase oil. Obviously, the Terribles prey on the barely intelligent, but according to best estimates they earn more than $1 million a year from U.S. yokels.

And this is their home, Cincinnati. Even crooks apparently have to have a place to root and rejuvenate. And so for as long as this town remembers the Terrible Williamsons (a clan of several families with various names) have gathered here each spring for a combination reunion and strategy session. Ergo, the annual police warning.

of them come here," says a cop in the criminal investigation bureau, "but the guess is there is at least 2,000 of them operating in the country. If we even get half that many it's cause for concern. These 250,000 people could sell palm trees in Alaska."

Actually, the concern here in recent years has been based more on the Terrible's reputation than on actual activity. According to authorities, the Williamsons no longer fleece Cincinnati as they regularly fleece other towns.

"This is their home," explains George Young of the Better Business Bureau, "maybe they have a little sentiment for it." Besides, Young adds, repeated police and BBB warnings here have educated the population to the point where most people are not only way out on games, they are exaggeratedly so. Young tells of one legitimate businessman in town named Williamson who has pleaded with the BBB for credentials, so that he wouldn't have to suffer guilt by association and the wrath of the community.

Indeed, agitation over the Williamsons sometimes reaches the point of absurdity in Cincinnati. Last year an area motel owner phoned the BBB with the news that he had some guests who "looked like Williamsons," whatever that meant, and wondered with obvious enthusiasm, "if there are any warrants out for them?"

The BBB's Young feels this kind of suspicion is a bit much. In fact, Young personally has grown more than weary concerning the whole subject of the Terrible Williamsons. "Every time I hear about that clan," he sighs, "I want to vomit." Not because they are as terrible as all that but because they may have grown bigger than life, undeserved. Young says there are many thousands of bunco artists around the nation, of which the Williamsons, remember, are only a portion. He doesn't minimize their threat, but wonders if they really are so terrible, terrible, terrible, terrible, any more.

They may not be. At least not like the old days. Time was when "to Williamson" was synonymous with "to defraud." When the clan would drive into a town, set up a fly-by-night shop, and blitz an entire area with such gimmicks as "guaranteed" lightning rods which, in at least one case, was nothing more than a water pipe ripped out of the customer's own basement and nailed to his roof.

Ah, those were the days. "I remember one case," says a national BBB spokesman, "where this woman let the Williamsons fix her roof. It didn't leak, but they talked her into the repairs anyway. After they were through, and she'd given them $750, the damn roof almost caved in at the first rain. Not only did the roof leak, but the water ran down inside the house and ruined her walls. Oh, God, was the lady mad."

The lady was also dumb, of course, she could easily have checked on the repairman's authenticity prior to the disaster. But, alas, there's one born every minute — and this is the cornerstone of the terrible, terrible Williamson's success.

And that success, make no mistake, continues to a degree today. The Williamsons may no longer rip off Cincinnati as once, they may in fact be — as the National Council of the BBB believes — "just a part of the whole fraud picture in America," but they are still the masters.

shysters by an immigrant Scot at the turn of this century, the Terribles have prospered by illegal excellence. Inbred, secretive and fully professional, they have defied all but minor busts despite operating in an almost thumb-at-nose sameness. They have grown rich on the gullibility of human kind. Worse, they have spawned countless imitators who carry the heritage to hundreds of thousands of doorsteps in America every year.

"So it is this spring, as the Terribles reportedly gather again in Cincinnati, to plot out the gold trails ahead, the locals are both apprehensive and amused. It's not such a big thing here as it was in the days when the Williamsons were really terrible, when they came into town in long Cadillac caravans, when they buried all their dead in elaborate ceremony at the Spring Grove Cemetery, when they peeled off rolls of cash-money for goods and supplies.

Still, the legend remains. And one cop has already received a call from a neighbor reporting the "strange" actions of two "very suspicious" workers who turned out to be telephone repairmen drinking Cokes. Of course, most Cincinnatians are too smart to be fooled by the clan. Ha! of course. Only bumpkins could fall for such hoary gyps. But, well, even the vigilant can falter.

The story, unverified, is that one suburban woman was visited last year by strange men who wanted to waterproof her basement. Very keenly she asked them right out if they were Williamsons. They said no. Oh, she replied, then go ahead. Unfortunately, it turned out the men were terrible Williamsons after all.

The crooks told her an outright lie!

HOT DATA
GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — Computers are going to help fight fires here.

Small facsimile printers to be installed this summer in the cabs of 40 fire engines will receive by radio and print out detailed information on floor plans of the burning building and its known fire hazards while the firemen are on their way to battle the blaze. Two Honeywell computers make up the heart of the system which George Cooper, Glasgow's fire-master, believes is the most advanced fire-fighting system of its kind in the world.

The system will ultimately contain data on 10,000 properties including building plans and layouts, known hazardous materials in the buildings and a special file of 1,000 hazardous substances and how to handle them in the case of fire. The city intends eventually to link 400 fire alarm boxes directly to the computer system so that when an alarm is signalled, the computer dispatches the nearest fire crew directly, without human intervention.

Card of Thanks

WARREN H. COPENHAVER
We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our many friends and neighbors for the food, cards and beautiful floral offerings, to the Nurses and Dr. Long, and to Rev. Mooney and Rev. Burns, who were all so kind to us during our bereavement. May God Bless You. The family of Warren H. Copenhaver. "When I must leave you for a little while, Please do not grieve and shed wild tears. And hug your sorrow to you through the years. But start out bravely with a radiant smile. And for my sake and in my name Live on and do all things the same. Feed not your loneliness on empty days. But fill each waking hour in useful ways. Reach out your hand in comfort and in cheer. And I in turn will comfort you near. And never, never be afraid to die. For I am waiting for you in the Sky!"

FISCHER-DIESKAU PICKS UP BATON
LOS ANGELES (AP) — One of the world's great singers, German baritone Dietrich Fischer-Dieskau, will make his American conducting debut, with the Los Angeles Philharmonic.

He will conduct three concerts in 1974, March 21, 22 and 24.

Two weeks later, Fischer-Dieskau will return as soloist with conductor Zubin Mehta and pianist Daniel Barenboim, who also sometimes conducts, for an all-Schumann program. The baritone already has begun to conduct in Europe and has had a recording session in London.

SUMMER-TIME SAVOR RECIPE No. 2

Apricot-Stuffed Pork Chops

6 pork rib chops, cut 1 inch thick      2 tablespoons cooking oil
1 pan (17 oz.) apricot halves            1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/3 cup catsup                                    1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
2 tablespoons chopped onion

Cut pocket in each chop, cutting from fat side almost to bone edge. Drain apricots, reserving 1/2 cup syrup. Put two apricot halves in pocket of each chop. Cut up remaining apricots. Grill chops over medium heat 35 minutes, turning once. Meanwhile, in saucepan, combine catsup, onion, oil, lemon juice, dry mustard, reserved apricot juice and cut-up apricots. Simmer 15 minutes. Cook chops 5 minutes more, brushing often with sauce. Makes 6 servings.
