War Board News

A weekly column contributed by members of the Howard county USDA War Board.

Tomato Growth Is Necessary This Year

Tree fruits will be scarce this year and every effort should be made to grow tomatoes to supply the fruit vitamins needed in the diet.

The three best varieties for West Texas are Bounty, Bison and Porter. These three varieties all produced good crops in the hot weather of last summer as reported by West Texas experiment stations. But seed of some or all of these varieties may not be available. If you can't get these seeds, then plant Marglobe, Pritchard, Rutgers or June Pink.

At this season seed may be planted at any place where the plants can be covered in case there is danger of frost. It is important to have plenty of sunshine on your tomatoes. Sow the seed thinly and allow the plants to get rather large before transplanting. If they are too thick transplant to another bed and then to the field when they are about 6 inches high.

In this area, in transplanting tomatoes they should be set deep in the ground. If set between beds on listed ground the dirt can be worked to them later.

Tomatoes that are watered should receive about 1 inch of water each week applied all at one time. As soon as the ground is dry enough it should be mulched two or three inches deep. This is important to keep them from shedding the blooms in hot weather. Never water twice without mulching (digging up the surface to produce a dust mulch) until some fruit is set. After the vines get large and full of fruit the mulching can be left off.

Now about pruning: You can have earlier fruit and a little better fruit by staking and pruning a few vines. But as a rule pruning will not pay.

Give your tomatoes plenty of distance. If you have plenty of space the rows should be 6 or 7 feet apart with the plants 2 1/2 to 3 feet apart in the row. In irrigated gardens they can be set in wide rows and a row or two of some quick crop planted between, but keep that wide middle well cultivated.

Nearly every gardener has had the experience of growing large vines and seeing them shed their blooms until fall of the year. The reason tomatoes shed the blooms is because the soil solution that the tomatoes take up is too hot. Setting them deeper in the ground helps to prevent shedding and so does cultivation after each rain or following each watering. Once you have some fruit started, they set more without much work on your part.

Tomatoes respond well to fertilizer. If manure is used it should be mixed very thoroughly with the soil. This is also true if commercial fertilizer is used.

It will not pay to plant tomatoes where they will be shaded more than one fourth of the day.

Avoid planting on land that grew tomatoes last year. Many old garden spots have become contaminated with nematodes. This causes knots on the roots of your tomatoes and kill them when the weather gets hot. Be careful where you buy plants, they sometime have nematodes in the soil that will get them started in your garden.

The following paragraph on Disease Control is from Victory Garden Reminders by J. F. Rosborough, extension horticulturist, A. and M. College:

"Most any tomato disease control program is most essential during wet seasons than dry. Bacterial spot (nail head rust) and early blight are the chief disease troubles in most parts of the state. Symptoms include yellowing and defoliation of leaves and small to large white and brown spots on the fruit. To control these troubles, spray thoroughly once a week for three consecutive sprayings, beginning when first fruits are about 1-4 inch in diameter. Spray with 2 lbs. basis copper sulphate to 50 gals. water (or 2 oz. basis copper sulphate to 3 gals. water). If tomato fruit worm is damaging fruits, add 2 lbs. calcium arsenate to above mixture. Omit arsenicals in spray at least ten days before fruit harvest. A copper-containing dust should be satisfactory for practical disease control if thoroughly applied under favorable dusting conditions. Using a dust mixture of 14 per cent copper dust, 20 per cent calcium arsenate and 66 per cent dusting sulphur is proving very satisfactory in the East Texas tomato area. Systematic use of fungicides pays big dividends."

Now that the freeze has killed all of the fruit, there is but one way that Howard county people can produce fruit and that is by growing tomatoes.

Farmers Have More Leeway On Filing Of Estimated Returns

O. P. GRIFFIN
Co. Agent Extension Service

Residents of the United States who are married and receiving a gross income of $1,200 or more yearly must file an income tax declaration for 1944 on or before April 15. Unmarried persons receiving $500 or more gross income must do likewise. Everyone will start paying his expected tax bill at that time.

Farmers, however, are in a favored group. They may file on April 15, or if they choose, any time up to December 15. But for convenience in paying the tax, Tyrus R. Timm of the A. and M. College Extension Service suggests that it will be best to file the declaration as soon as the net income can be estimated fairly correctly. In this way a longer period is allowed in which to complete payment of the 1944 tax bill.

For instance, if the declaration is made on or before June 15, only one-third of the tax has to be paid. Remaining payments will come in the last two quarters. If filing is delayed until September 15... the third quarter... then one-half of the bill must be paid. Errors in declaration filled early may, if desired, be adjusted in each tax quarter of the year.

The treasury department is particular about the definition of "a farmer." To qualify for tax purposes at least 80 percent of a farmer's gross income must come from his business of farming. Even though he lives on a farm and raises crops and livestock he may not qualify as a farmer if he also receives income from another job. In such case it is well to check with the treasury department. If he does not qualify he must file a declaration on April 15 according to regulations for other than farm families.

Gross farm income includes all cash from livestock and crops raised, from breeding fees and the like. In case of livestock and other items bought by farmers for resale, the purchase price, less depreciation if any, may be deducted from the sale price in establishing gross farm income in a cash basis.

Sugar Supplies Are To Be Down Slightly

By RHEBA MERLE BOYLES
County HD Agent

Maybe you've heard rumors that there is a surplus of sugar in the country. OPA says it isn't true... that we have in sight, six per cent less sugar than we ate last year. The WFA says one-sixth of the national supply must be used for making industrial alcohol. It's explosives and less icing on the cake.

For home canning it is possible to get five pounds of sugar on stamp No. 40. If more—up to 25 pounds per person — if needed, application may be made to the ration board. Emphasis should be on canning and not preserving.

Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District News

A mixture of little blue stem, seed oats and blue panic grass seed was planted on the Wilson Bros. ranch northeast of Gay Hill school last week. The seed was planted in rows with a regular cotton plate using a 30 inch flat sweep. The planting was made in an area of solid red grama in an effort to determine whether it is practical to re-establish good grasses in areas where poor grasses predominate.

C. H. Deaney is planting sudan grass on an area where he plans to plant alfalfa this fall. He is going to keep the sudan cut down during the summer in order to build up a much on top of the soil to protect the seedling alfalfa plants.

The District Board of Supervisors met last week in their regular monthly meeting. Eight conservation plans were approved by the board. Several applications for assistance in planning was also approved.

A stock tank was completed on the Ed Martin place north of Coahoma last week.

D. F. Bigony and R. L. Warren are making good progress building terraces with small farm equipment. Warren is using a disc plow mounted on the side of his tractor and Bigony is using a small grader.

Wickard Warns Against Inflated Land Values

Following the report by the Bureau of Agriculture Economics on "Current Developments in the Farm Real Estate Market," issued late in March, Secretary of Agriculture Wickard renewed his warnings as to the imminent danger of a destructive land boom. He said:

"The behavior of land values now is very similar to what it was in the last boom. Since this war started, farm values for the United States as a whole have risen at almost exactly the same rate as they did during the last boom period. Values now stand at almost two fifths above the average immediately before the war. To say that we are not on the road to highly inflated land prices now would be to deny that we had a boom before. Then, as now, purchasers just refused to believe that land prices were inflated, because they thought they would always have a market for their products at high prices. Two million farm foreclosures told the tragic story."

Victory Gardens Did Job Well In 1943

If it had not been for the Victory Gardens of 1943 there would have been a definite shortage of vegetables, said County Agent O. P. Griffin Wednesday. Victory Gardeners accounted for nearly half the vegetables produced for fresh consumption in 1943.

Already, canners have been asked to set aside for war uses 40 percent of this year's pack of canned fruits and vegetables as compared with 25 percent last year. Victory Gardens last year did actually make more of a contribution to the food supply than had been hoped. Food plans for the coming year have been made on the assumption that there will be more gardens and more productive gardens in 1944.

There should be no slackening in Victory Gardening this year, says the WFA. On the contrary! This is no time to "let George do it" on the food front. George is overworked now, and he may be drafted.

Use More Eggs Now While Abundant

Reason for the surplus of eggs is that there are a record number of layers on farms which got off to an earlier start and which are doing a better job than before.

The average person should be more interested however in utilizing these eggs. They contain important minerals, are high in protein content, have at least five vitamins and the yolks are an excellent source of iron. Eggs also are rich in calcium and phosphorus. Color of yolks have nothing to do with food value, says Rhea Merle Boyles, county home demonstration agent, who urged extensive use of them as food now that they are plentiful.

Farm Families Urged To Check Sanitation To Retard Diseases

COLLEGE STATION, April 13—Incidence of diseases generally associated with poor sanitation is extremely high in Texas this spring, according to reports received by the Texas A. and M. College extension service from the state department of health.

During one recent week, 145 cases of dysentery were reported in Texas, and this is 100 more than the figure given for this particular week in the seven year median. One hundred and five cases of malaria were reported, in comparison with 81 for the seven-year median, and increases were shown for polio and typhus.

Rural people can help prevent this spread of disease by taking a few precautions, says Mrs. Berlice Claytor, specialist in home improvement for the extension service. She suggests a thorough spring house cleaning, repair of house screens, and proper means of garbage and waste disposal as preliminary steps toward good sanitation.

Dawson Farmers Find Plainsman Best Type

COLLEGE STATION, April 13 Dawson county farmers have found that Martin's milo matures a little earlier than other combine-type grain sorghums, but the production of Plainsman surpasses other varieties in their vicinity.

Lee R. Pool, Dawson county agricultural agent, says these combine-type feeds average about 1,500 pounds of grain per acre, and farmers like the ease with which they can be harvested and produced. On the basis of farm tests, the big reddish-orange colored Plainsman seems to be first choice. Martin's Milo, second, and Wheatland third in Dawson county.

Judge Changes Their Minds

TOLEDO, O. — Classified "I-A" for jury duty here, 23 Toledo men attempted to appeal their status and escape service as venemen. However, a short pep talk by Common Pleas Judge Herman A. Judge Kreuger told them that if soldiers are willing to give three years to their country, the 23 should be willing to give three weeks to their country.

COOK'S TOUR OF SLAV KITCHEN

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
AP Food Editor

While you're racking your brain, trying to figure out how to get variety into your family's meals despite rationing and shortages, has it ever occurred to you to try secrets of your American neighbors of foreign origin? It's well worth the try. They are many—and good. Here are some suggestions from the Slavic countries.

RUSSIA
Russians always have had elaborate hors d'oeuvres. Less variety than they serve as a first course would make a complete, satisfying meal for most Americans. Illustrated is a cold supper of this sort which offers royal entertainment for guests. Recipes for all the dishes appear in the Russian

Cook Book for American Homes, a translation of Russian recipes for American homes by a group of American food editors. There's a sturgeon ring, surrounded by pirozhki (those delicious little meat-filled pastries so often served with borscht). At the left of the center platter is a dish of herring, pickled in sour cream. There's also a liver loaf and a dish of calves brains in chives.

Russians are fond of kasha (whole kernel buckwheat).

Brown kasha in skillet (dry). Let cool, mix in raw egg and salt to taste. In another skillet fry the onion until brown in a little fat. Add kasha and mix well. Leave skillet on fire and add cold water gradually until kasha swells up and becomes soft—about 20 minutes. Then place in a greased casserole and bake in 375 degree oven 40 minutes. Serve with margarine with meat and vegetables—or "as is" with borscht.

Farm Food Supply Is Most Important

Next to the military forces on the fighting fronts, there is no more important thing to be done in winning this war than the production of food. In the period following hostilities and even before that time the food supply will play a more important role than anything else. I know that when skilled farm workers are being taken from the farms to render military service or to work in factories, it appears that some must undoubtedly see it otherwise still is true that the longer this war continues the more important food production will become.

We were saying a year ago that food would be scarce, but the farmers of America, broke all records in food production. In this they were favored by weather conditions which cannot be expected every year. And with the exception of a few items of relatively small importance we do not now have a surplus.

In this fight for Freedom, the most important thing is that every farm produce enough food of the kinds needed to feed the people who live on it. Next that is to produce food of the kind that can be most profitably grown for sale. But this farm home food supply has more than an economic value. It means health and stamina to do your part in the war effort.

The Executive Committee of Howard County Victory Council met last Saturday and outlined some matters pertaining to food production campaign. It has to do with the home food supply. They suggested that the campaign be organized in the form of a contest in which every farm in the county would receive a rating in home production of an adequate supply of milk and butter, meat, eggs and poultry and vegetables needed on the farm, family's table.

In connection with this contest a food exhibit would be provided in late summer or fall, where each community could compete for honors for their best farm, and for the community's record in producing food. Standards are to be set up for judging the food production on each farm, and for the contest between communities. This contest will not call for any extra work beyond that to produce an adequate food supply for the home, and the community that does its best will win.

Intercity Bus Traffic Rises
CHICAGO — Ivan Bowen, general counsel of the National Association of Motor Bus Operators, said that highway buses now are carrying more than half of all intercity passengers. He said that intercity buses would continue to offer lower tariffs than other carriers. From 1932 through 1941, he said, intercity bus fares declined 40 per cent from an average of 24 cents to 14 cents per mile.

The request was discussed yesterday with federal airways officials.

The Civil Aeronautics Board approved an application of Continental to establish service between Hobbs, N. M., and San Antonio, Tex., via San Angelo but the army air forces rejected the proposed San Angelo stop, saying it would interfere with its training program in that area.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR. — NEW YORK, April 13 (AP)—Although there's nothing in the wording of the new draft ruling regarding men over 26 that even hints at the status of baseball players, some baseball men who have their ears tuned to Washington wavelenghts insist that it means their athletes won't be called. "The army doesn't want 'em and they won't try to force ball players into war jobs," said one. "It's like the limited service men. They told us down there, there's only one place for those fellows and that's right on your ball clubs." An Oklahoma man who figures that anonymity is the better part of valor, forwards the report that medical discharges in the army these days are accompanied by Tulsa U. football posters. But if Coach Henry Frnka really has the army dees organized that much, it probably was to keep the Giants from signing 'em all as baseball players.

Big Spring Locale For Rodeo, Described In A Magazine For French Soldiers

The rodeo, a favorite entertainment for many Texans and indeed the western half of the United States, has been aptly pictured in an article written by Sous-Lt. R. Ricou, French air force, who recently graduated from the Big Spring Bombarrier school.

While stationed here, 2nd Lt. Ricou and other members of the French detachment were guests at the Big Spring Roping club on Dr. M. H. Bennett's place immediately south of the city. The young officer wrote an account of the experience for F-Mail, French soldier magazine and entitled it "The Rodeo—A Texas Specialty." Here are some highlights from the article as translated by Lt. Frank D. Little:

On their way to the grounds, boy's football team in Morrilstown, N. J. . . . "I stole the plays but the team did all right," she admits.

The Frenchmen ask many questions, and are moved to exclaim: "At last! We're going to see some real cowboys—not those of the drug store variety, but cowboys on horseback—straight from the prairie."

The chaffeurs meantime "had time to wind around two or three little hills, to lose their way a few times, to ride over private property, to ask for directions, to open a gate, to bog down in a narrow, muddy lane and finally pull up in a sort of farmyard as muddy as could be. . . . We have to look up a bit to see near a railing a small group of cowboys, majestically astride their mounts who, without saying a word, are calmly giving us the once over."

One could detect a note of disappointment over the horses, for Frenchmen found them "thick-set, short-legged." Indeed that is the good quarter horse. Ricou also noted that cowboys were "shod in a fancy, low boot with a high heel. . . . These boots as well as bowlegs, are responsible for that odd gait so peculiar to cowboys." He also was impressed by the lariat, the highly tooled saddles but had to explain that there were no pistols—that being a Hollywood monopoly now.

As Dr. Bennett came up with outstretched hands, the Frenchmen managed a cheery: "How are you, Doc?" He introduced them around, then directed them "200 meters distant (to) the corral on the plateau where the fun is to take place."

"Here we are; a rectangular piece of ground about 100x40, fenced in by wooden railing, on each of the longer sides there is a pen. The cattle are in one of these at this very moment; a score of six months old calves seem to know the rules of the game for they are all trying to run out the narrow wooden exit which allows passage of only one at a time."

"If among the cowboys now gathered in the corral we can recognize the authentic farm boys, we can also tell . . . city folks come to practice their favorite sport—roping."

"Near the cattle pen he (Dr. Bennett) draws up his horse behind a rope stretched between a post and a cowboy. The latter drops the rope just as the young calf is pushed into the arena by a fat negro with a thundering voice. Immediately the horse is hot after the animal which runs as fast as possible toward the other end of the corral where he knows is a second pen. If he makes it he'll have peace and tranquility. But the cowboy doctor leaned forward in the saddle, urges on his horse and holds the lasso in his right hand."

"Ho. It's no longer there. The whistling loop encircles the neck of the poor calf and he is stopped dead in his tracks. Because of the sudden stop of the horse, trained so that at the first sign of the whistling lasso in front of him, he immediately stops and braces himself on his four hooves, while the cowboy, already on the ground, runs toward the calf, seizes, turns him over and ties with one motion the two hind feet and one fore-foot with a rope previously attached to his belt. And that's that."

And that's a pretty fair description of the procedure, too, Lt. Ricou! Among other things which amazed the Frenchmen was the stick which the negro held, for it seemed "nothing less than magical. Scarcely does the end of the stick brush against the calf than it runs off at full speed, absolutely crazy. Explanation: The stick is hollow and contains a little battery which, when energized, awakens in the best all the latent instincts of a sprinter."

Rodriguez Is Safe And Sound

LOS ANGELES, April 13 (AP)—Twice reported lost in overseas combat, the son of a former president of Mexico went about his business today as a test pilot here, jocularly assuring his friends there is no basis for the report that he is dead.

It was all "a huge mistake," Abelardo Luis Rodriguez, Jr., 25, said with a grin last night when informed by the Associated Press of a dispatch from London which proclaimed him missing after participating in an air raid over Germany with the U.S. Eighth Air Force.

Rodriguez, whose father is now governor of Sonora, Mex., said his mother was notified about a month ago that he had been killed in action in Europe. That report, he added, probably referred to the same person mentioned in yesterday's London dispatch.

A test pilot for North American Aviation Co., Rodriguez has never served in the United States Army, he stated. Other test pilots and officials at North American, as well as Mexican Vice-Consul Carlos Grimm, declared they were certain of Rodriguez' identity.

The man listed in the London dispatch as missing was named Abelardo L. Rodriguez, a 22-year-old staff sergeant serving as radio operator and gunner, who entered the army here July 7, 1942.

The Mexican ex-president's son was a captain in the RAF ferrying command until joining North American Aviation seven months ago.

Women bowlers sponsored by Club cafe climbed into a three-way tie for conference leadership Wednesday night by winning two games from the Swartz sponsor.

Hester's also found themselves in first slot after walloping the Schlitz aggregation three times. Cosden, formally the leading team, dropped two to Texas Electric to make the trio lead possible.

Club Cafe shot both high game and high series with 753 and 2063. Olan Lea of Swartz rolled high individual game with 178 and Margaret Howle of the Club cafe team had high series with 2063.

Poultry Increase In Price Looms

WASHINGTON, April 13 (AP)—A spokesman for the Office of Price Administration says the OPA plans to announce in the next few days an average increase of about two cents a pound in ceiling prices for all live and dressed poultry sold in the remainder of April and during May and June.

The proposed hikes, effective at producer through retail levels, have been approved by Fred M. Vinson, stabilization director. OPA has not completed details of the new schedule but current plans call for an increase of one and eight-tenths cents a pound in April, two and two-tenths cents in May and a cent in June.

Calisthenics Ruled Out By Manager Of The Cubs

By CHIP ROYAL AP Features Sports Editor

FRENCH LICK, Ind. — Manager Jimmy Wilson of the Chicago Cubs doesn't believe in leg-kicking, arm waving calisthenics or rube-downs. He thinks rookies should prove their worth before any salary demands are met.

He thinks the players should work out twice a day and have their meals in a regular schedule. These are only a few of Wilson's ideas about a ball club which came out in the course of a fanning bee here involving the Bruin's leader and Andy Lotshaw, their trainer.

Any rookie who works under the Bruin's manager is lucky. Jimmy is all for the newcomer and will do everything in his power to help him make the big league grade — as long as the rookie helps himself.

Takes Movies Of Players For instance, Wilson reveals that he takes movies of his players at bat and in the field. When he thinks a stance should be corrected, or a fielding fault remedied, he calls the player to his room.

"Some times they'll argue with me that they don't do a certain thing," smiles Jimmy. "Then I bring out the movie, show them where they are wrong, and try to help them."

"If anyone can help a player, it's Jimmy," chimes Lotshaw. "I've known a lot of managers, but I haven't seen any who study their players and know all about them as much as Wilson."

"Do you know that after the championship season starts, you can come into the clubhouse any day or any time, and Jim can tell you the batting and fielding averages of all the players?" queried Andy.

Jim laughed it off by saying it is his business to know those things but there were a few things about Lotshaw that should be publicized, too.

"I don't think there is a trainer in baseball who handles his equipment any better than Andy," says Wilson. "He never loses a thing. On top of that, the guy's a demon for work."

"You wouldn't know it to look at the old so-and-so but he's 64 years old and the liveliest guy we've got in the clubhouse or on the field. I needed a batting practice catcher recently and Andy was the first to volunteer."

"No matter what we need done, mowing the grass on the field, or hitting fungoes, it's always Lotshaw who is the first to do it."

All Very Simple Getting back to Wilson's training ideas, the Bruin's leader says it is all very simple.

"We're here to get into shape to play baseball," insists Jimmy. "The only way to do it is to either play baseball or do the little things that are art of the game until the time comes when you can play."

"Calisthenics don't condition ball players. A man goes through all those monotonous drills, and when he gets through, he's sore all over. He has exercised muscles he never knew he had, muscles that won't help him one bit when he's out there in a game."

There are only three important things to condition ball players. A man goes through all those monotonous drills, and when he gets through, he's sore all over. He has exercised muscles he never knew he had, muscles that won't help him one bit when he's out there in a game.

tant things to drill a player in before he is able to work on a diamond. First, loosen up the legs by jogging and running. Second, take the kinks out of the arms by throwing. Third, sharpen the eye and body reflexes by pepper games."

As for rookies who hold out at the start of the season, they don't deserve a major league chance in the opinion of Wilson.

"It's a much bigger jump to the big time than most rookies realize," warns Jimmy. "When they get the chance they should be the first ones in camp and get the benefit of all the early training. They need it."

Speaking of rookies, Jimmy is high on Ed Sauer, the Southern Association batting champ trying for an outfield berth. Don Johnson from Milwaukee, and Tony York, also of the Brewers, and catcher Roy Easterwood from the Portland club.

Gun-Shy Dogs Tested By Science For Answer To Shell Shock Cure

WAR NERVES—Dr. Arthur J. Jensen, Cornell scientist, has discovered this gun-shy hunting dog has almost identical symptoms to people suffering nervous breakdowns.

By LINDSLEY H. CROCKER
AP Features
ITHACA, N. Y. — Gun-shy dogs really are neurotic and their ailment is similar to war neurosis in human beings, in the opinion of Cornell university scientists who have worked with 13 of the timid canines since the fall of 1922.

Dr. Arthur J. Jensen, psychologist, and prof. O. D. Anderson, seeking to discover the causes of war-induced nervous breakdowns and similar neuroses among human beings, reported these findings:
On arrival, all of the 13 gun-shy dogs were extremely fearful. Tested time and again, their pulse rates, breathing and general behavior always proved abnormal.

Prospects Bright For Machinery

On the whole, the farm machinery and equipment prospects for 1944 are the brightest since the war began, a representative of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service was advised at a recent conference with War Food Administration and USDA officials in Atlanta.
"Dark spots" in the materials program include containers such as baskets, boxes, and crates, truck parts and tires, and rubber. WFA officials say there is currently no shortage of steel, but of components. This is resulting from the enormous landing barge building program. Currently, lumber presents the most serious shortage.

"Bright spots" in the picture are the prospects for combines and other large labor-saving equipment. About 20,000 tractors are being produced each month, and experts are looking for an increase in tractors during the latter part of 1944. Storage batteries will continue tight, because of the demand of these for tanks and walkie-talkie radios.

There will be plenty of bales and barbed wire, but poultry netting will remain short for large amounts are required for camouflage. Binder twine and rope will be plentiful, but of inferior quality, and the same can be said of paints for interior and exterior use.

Twelve million tons of fertilizer will be available for war crops in 1944, in comparison with 8 million tons used in 1939. The insecticide picture is also favorable. Supplies of calcium arsenate in dealers hands now are so great the trade hopes to move quantities to farmers early in the Extension Service was advised.

WFA officials say once a wartime shortage is licked, it rarely crops up a second time.

Liquor Control Not Violated By Regulations

AUSTIN, April 13 (AP)—Texas anti-trust and liquor control laws are not violated by the national emergency price control regulations for the sale of whisky and beer, the attorney general said in specific opinions requested by liquor Administrator Bert Ford.
One opinion related to a proposed agreement between a distiller and Texas wholesale liquor dealer, with provisions designed to suppress black market operations in the sale of whisky.

The other referred to a proposed statement of policy from the Texas Brewer Institute, aimed at keeping beer prices within ceilings set by the OPA.
Assistant Attorney General Elbert Hooper noted: "The proposed statement of the Brewers Institute is, upon its face, both an agreement to obey and not to violate the laws of Texas and the United States."

"It must be borne in mind, however, that the proposed agreement would not be valid under our laws except for the exercise of the emergency war powers of the federal government. When, and if those emergency war powers expire or are repealed, the anti-trust laws of Texas will operate again to prohibit the concerted action proposed."

Plans Formulated For Long Pipeline

WASHINGTON, April 13 (AP)—The chemicals bureau of the War Production Board says plans are being studied for construction of a 60-mile pipeline to carry natural gas to plants producing carbon black, a raw material needed for synthetic rubber, in the Texas Panhandle.
It was estimated the pipeline would furnish about 80,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily from West Texas fields and would make possible an additional 30,000,000 pounds of carbon black annually.

Exact route of the proposed line was not disclosed.
The added production would be enough to fill the 1944 requirements of the rubber program but officials said 100,000 pounds of additional carbon black would be needed for the first quarter of 1945. To supply this, it would be necessary to expand present plants or build new ones.
Wax candles are probably of Phoenician origin.

We Are Failing Miserably

If waste paper is as short as the government tells us it is—and we believe that this information is conservative if anything—then we ought to be doing a whole lot more about it in Big Spring.

The Boy Scouts, as has been said before, have been doing the only work toward this highly important campaign. If any adult, outside of scout leaders and the householders who regularly bundle up their scrap paper, has done anything about the collection, then we are unaware of it.

It is beyond us. The government is crying, pleading and resorting to all means to get in salvage paper. Response right here in our own city is such that one is driven to the conclusion that we either cannot comprehend these simple utterances, or we don't care, or we are too lazy to do anything about them.

The nation has a quota of 667,000 tons of salvaged paper monthly. That figures out roughly 9.4 pounds per capita. We venture that in the past month Big Spring has sacrificed contributed as much as two pounds per capita.

If we could organize scrap metal drives, if we could get in the aluminum and the rubber, then why can't we get this paper which is so vital in the making of boxes and wrappers for blood plasma, sulfa drugs, first aid kits, X-ray films, surgical dressings, ammunition, emergency rations, bomb crates, food containers, and thousands of others? Other places have even enlisted army aid in the collection of waste paper. So far as we know, that is one possibility which has not even been explored here. At the rate we are going, it probably won't. And we probably won't do what is expected of us in this campaign, either.

Making Housing Go Further

The housing worry seems to have established itself as an equal with death, taxes and the water situation as an inevitable problem here.

There is, frankly, no hope for real relief here. There is no reason to suppose that we will get more housing from any source. The only possible approach is to make better use of what we have. As we have suggested before, it accomplishes nothing to lecture that wives and families of servicemen ought to stay home. They don't, and that's that. Our girls follow their husbands wherever they go and they face similar housing problems elsewhere.

Wherefore, doing to others as we would want them to do unto us, there is no other course except to make extra quarters available to our temporary residents. That means a bedroom, better still a bedroom with kitchen privileges, or if possible, a small apartment. Finally, if a house or apartment is to be temporarily vacated, why not sub-let it for that space of time? Servicemen who have apartments, homes, etc. can help their brethren as well as regular residents in this manner.

Washington—

Production Communiques Issued

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—There's a little bit of publicized activity of the Maritime Commission here that is worth more than passing comment. Many months ago, the War Production Board and its predecessors discovered a tremendous morale factor in letting the men who build the instruments of war know how their material performs in battle.

"Production communiques" were issued on ships, planes, guns, parachutes and almost everything else that goes into modern warfare.

When all this was happening, Robert Horton was publicity director for WPB. Later, he became public relations chief for R. Adm. Emory S. Land, Maritime Commission chairman and War Shipping administrator.

He discovered there one of the most amazing "progress reports" of this war from the masters of freighters and tankers supplying the fighting fronts under Lend-Lease.

These reports, he found, were staccato outlines of some of the most dramatic struggles to keep the flow of supplies uninterrupted, although invariably the dangers were underrated. It dawned on Horton that many families would like to know what their men had been through—even more than war plant workers would like to know how their weapons had stood up under fire.

He started sending these "masters' reports" to the "next of kin"—not of men who had been killed or missing—but of men who were still going strong but restricted by censorship in letter-writing, or who, refused, on leave, to brag about their experiences.

The response has been terrific. Apparently one of the psychological hurdles that all "next of kin" have to clear is that they can't share in the dangers their men endure. It's the "unknown" that causes fear and worries.

These matter-of-fact "masters' reports" tell a gripping story. Here's one:

The War Today

by DeWitt Mackenzie
 Associated Press War Analyst

Old King Vittorio Emanuele's promise of retirement may presage the end of monarchy for Italy.

Of course that's not what the aged sovereign has in mind when he says he will turn the rule over to Crown Prince Umberto as soon as Allied troops enter Rome. Emanuele hopes to continue the dynasty through his son, but whatever may be the outcome there's no doubt that the Italian throne is rocking dangerously.

Officially the question of whether the monarchy should continue hasn't arisen, excepting in that it's been agreed the Italian people shall choose their own form of government after the war—providing it's democratic. That doesn't bar a monarchy. However, there's a trend towards the left in Italy and one of the strong elements is communism—an interesting circumstance, inasmuch as Mussolini established his dictatorship on the strength of his claim that the country was in dire danger from communism.

Emanuele's promise to retire has eased a tense situation, since there has been heavy pressure on him to abdicate, especially by the Italian communists. It's expected that his action will permit the formation of a new cabinet which will include communist representation.

Allied representatives say the only part their governments had in the development was to assure Emanuele they had no objection to his making this move. However, the Allied representatives themselves expressed approval of the action.

While Britain apparently favors Emanuele's retirement, it's hard to believe she would welcome the abolishment of the monarchy. Her policy has been to support European thrones as calculated to lend strength to the monarchical form of government to which she herself subscribes. However, she is of course wedded to democracy.

As things stand, the present Italian government will continue until the war is over. Then there will be a plebiscite to determine the form of government desired. If the nation returns to normal quickly after peace comes, it may be one of the first to register self-determination.

The average woman breathes more rapidly than the average man.

Napoleon Bonaparte originated the idea of odd and even house numbers for different sides of the street.

"Sept. 13, 1445 (that's military time for 2:45 p. m.) low level attack by two Messerschmitt 109E's. Two bombs dropped 250 yards to port; one within 75 yards.

"Sept. 15, 1803, low level attack by eight planes strafing and dropping several bombs that missed vessel.

"Sept. 16, 0730, low level attack by nine Messerschmitt 109E's, bombs dropping on all sides of vessel.

The ship was under almost constant attack for eight days, but the payoff comes in the final paragraphs.

"During these attacks, we observed 13 enemy planes shot down, of which our gun crews received during these attacks and no damaged credit for three and partial credit for two more. . . .

"I am pleased to report that there were no casualties aboard age to the ship."

Anne Revere Already Has A Job

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The head of a Winshire district draft board recently singled out the best of his volunteer workers for a paid job. Her efficiency and faithful service had qualified her to fill a post paying more than $100 a month.

Anne Revere had declined with thanks. "I'm afraid I wouldn't be dependable," she said. "You see, I already have a job."

Miss Revere's job is acting, and she gave a splendid exhibition of it as the mother in "The Song of Bernadette." The draft board chairman was not the first to "discover" her, nor was William Perleberg, the "Bernadette" producer. All of it has happened before, and Anne Revere can still walk down a street without attracting stares like many picture people.

One day recently, out walking, Miss Revere noticed that the driver of a slowly cruising, expensive car seemed to recognize her. He looked vaguely familiar to her, too, but neither spoke. After a while the car stopped, the driver hadn't-we-meet-somewhere routine. "No," said Miss Revere, wondering if she had.

"It's funny," he said, "but I was almost sure. Somewhere. . . ."

"I do work in pictures," she volunteered finally, to end it.

"Yeah? What's your name?" Anne Revere? No, I don't know it.

Assault To Murder Filled Against Man

WAXAHACHIE, April 13 (AP)—District Attorney C. C. Randle said two charges of assault to murder have been filed against Mitchell J. Carter, 27, of Arlington, Texas, in the shooting Sunday of two Ellis county sheriffs, Davis Ferris and Bill Gibson.

Ferris and Gibson were shot and seriously wounded at Maypearl, Texas, as they attempted to arrest a man. They were reported recovering.

Carter, likewise charged with car theft in connection with the theft of an automobile from Mrs. E. C. Halsell, Arlington, received a minor gunshot wound at the time the officers were shot.

How To Torture Your Husband

You'd Be Surprised— War Casualty: Brewers' Bock Beer

By GEORGE STIMPSON

Upon the request of Uncle Sam, the U. S. Brewing association has asked its members to quit making bock beer for the duration.

It is an economy move. Bock beer requires more malt than ordinary beer and also requires special bottle caps and different labels.

This springtime brew is traditionally brewed in the fall and aged through until spring. Ordinarily the bock-beer season lasts only a few weeks.

"Bock beer" is our rendering of German "Bockbier."

One of the earliest beers to win wide popularity, it was first made at Einbeck, near Hamburg, in Germany.

That was way back in the 13th century.

This first Einbeck beer consisted of two-thirds barley and one-third wheat malt and was brewed only in winter and hopped strongly for consumption in the following spring.

It became so popular in Europe that it was exported from Einbeck to all parts of the continent, and even to England and the Near East.

"Einbeck," the label it bore, sounded so much like "ein bock" (one goat) that it was eventually dubbed "Bockbier" or "bock beer."

This game in turn suggested the picture or figure of a goat (Bock) as the emblem or symbol of the beverage.

There is a legend that the ancient Teutons made a practice of toasting the goddess of fertility in bock beer every spring just before planting and sowing time.

American bock beer, popularly associated with the return of spring, has traditionally been made with specially selected malts. Caramel and high dried malts were added to impart the dark color and special flavor associated with the springtime brew.

Since it is a heavier beer and aged considerably longer than ordinary beer, bock is generally regarded as too rich for general use.

Accordingly it came to be accepted as a seasonal beer for consumption only during three or four weeks in the early spring.

Today And Tomorrow

Encore For Hull's Accounting

By WALTER LIPPMANN

The highest praise one can give to Mr. Hull's speech is to say that there would be little serious criticism, and much less to criticize, if at reasonably regular intervals he had given such a public accounting.

On Sunday evening he came down from the pedestal of his general principles and talked, not as a moral lawgiver to mankind but as the American Secretary of State. The effect was persuasive and reassuring, and if Mr. Hull will continue to render a confident support among the people, he will earn it not by fine words but because the Administration will make many less mistakes that are difficult to explain if it knows that it is going to have to explain them.

That is an important reason why democracy is a good form of government.

Foreign policy has been under fire from three directions. It has been charged that the Administration is reactionary, and that in Spain, France and Italy it appeases and prefers to support reactionary Fascist elements. In the last analysis it was not true that the President and Mr. Hull ever intended to do that, but a confused administration of diplomacy often lent color to the charge. It has also been charged that they were defaulting on their moral principles and were not getting on with the work of establishing the international organization promised at Moscow and approved in the Connally and Fulbright resolutions.

What Mr. Hull had to say about the Atlantic Charter and about the process of reaching agreement at home with Congress and abroad with our allies was, it seemed to me, a wise and true account of the problem and how to proceed with it.

The criticism which Mr. Hull did not deal with is that the practical conduct and administration of our foreign affairs is not coherent and efficient. Yet that is where the real trouble lies. We have just had a vivid example.

At his press conference on Friday morning of last week, having read and approved what Mr. Hull was going to say on Sunday about France, the President himself talked about France. A casuist could, I suppose, reconcile the two statements. But to the ordinary man here and abroad the President seemed to be going in one direction whereas his Secretary of State went in a very different direction. This is inconherence in the conduct of diplomacy.

What Mr. Hull said was that we would do "advanced planning" with the French Committee of National Liberation so that it could establish "swiftly" the civil administration of liberated France. It would be subject to the supervision of General Eisenhower, but Mr. Hull defined this supervision exactly by saying that General Eisenhower would be interested only in those affairs "which are necessary for military operations against the enemy." The committee, while not a "government," would be the civil authority in France which made the arrangements for elections and the like by which the French nation could establish a constitutional government.

If this policy had been announced and adopted many weeks ago when the War Department, the State Department, the military commanders, the British government and all the other United Nations had agreed that it was the right policy, the whole confusion about American policy in France would have been dissolved. What Mr. Hull said on Sunday evening was the whole substance of what the serious critics were asking for.

Assault To Murder Filled Against Man

WAXAHACHIE, April 13 (AP)—District Attorney C. C. Randle said two charges of assault to murder have been filed against Mitchell J. Carter, 27, of Arlington, Texas, in the shooting Sunday of two Ellis county sheriffs, Davis Ferris and Bill Gibson.

Ferris and Gibson were shot and seriously wounded at Maypearl, Texas, as they attempted to arrest a man. They were reported recovering.

Carter, likewise charged with car theft in connection with the theft of an automobile from Mrs. E. C. Halsell, Arlington, received a minor gunshot wound at the time the officers were shot.

Now the President's remarks on Friday expressed a long-standing attitude of his own which has had most unfortunate practical consequences abroad. It was well known that he did not wish to accept the policy which Mr. Hull has announced. We were told that the President wanted General Eisenhower to pick and choose the Frenchmen with whom he would deal when he got to France.

This incredibly dangerous proposal has had its repercussions in the new quarrel between General de Gaulle and General Giraud. The reasoning of the French at Algiers is self-evident. x x x This means that General Giraud will do the picking and choosing x x x If French civil affairs are to be determined by military men, then let the military man be General Charles de Gaulle, the president of the national committee.

Thus Mr. Roosevelt's desire to thwart General de Gaulle has led to the destruction of General Giraud and new divisions rather than greater unity among the French. This is inefficiency in the conduct of diplomacy.

It seems a pity to have to dwell upon a matter of this sort when one's every impulse is to applaud Mr. Hull's speech. It is a very good speech. But the good effect of it will be temporary unless the actual conduct of our diplomacy becomes much more coherent and much more efficient. We might hope that it will become so if the President and Mr. Hull make it their duty henceforth to render an accounting. They will think more lucidly themselves if they know that they cannot rest on general principles and military secrecy but are going to have to explain what they are doing.

Thirteen Held In Seditious Plot

MEXICO CITY, April 13 (AP)—Thirteen persons, two of them women, were held today by police investigating what they described as "a seditious plot" to kill President Manuel Avila Camacho, his brother Gen. Maximino Avila Camacho, and former Presidents Plutarco Elias Calles and Lazaro Cardenas.

Attorney General Jose Aguilar Y Maya said the conspiracy was of "no importance," and not connected with the attempt on President Avila Camacho's life Monday by Lt. Antonio De La Lanza Rojas, 31-year-old army officer who died yesterday. Lama Rojas was shot when he broke away from guards.

The 13, five of them persons over 60, were held after reports of suspicious meetings in a carpentry shop. One was a man of 78. Some of the group were said to have been engaged in making bombs.

Meanwhile the chief of military justice, Gen. Roberto T. Bonilla, said investigations showed Lama Rojas' assassination attempt to be "an isolated personal case, the product of a mental abnormality."

A bullet fired point-blank by the lieutenant passed through Avila Camacho's coat. The lieutenant's family sent the president a message expressing regret for his action.

Retired Minister Is Death Victim

ABILENE, April 13 (AP)—William Sewell, 99, a retired minister who was a member of a family prominent in the ministry of the Church of Christ for over a century, died yesterday at his home in San Antonio and was to be buried here today.

Survivors include his widow, who is 94; a son, Jesse P. Sewell, minister of the Grove Avenue Church of Christ at San Antonio and president of Abilene Christian college from 1912 to 1924; and a grandson, Jesse Mack Sewell, El Paso.

Services were held at San Antonio yesterday for Sewell, a native of Tennessee.

Much of his career was spent in Tennessee as an evangelist and he had also served as minister in Corinth and Abilene churches.

Research In A Pig's Eye

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE AP Science Editor

NEW YORK — At Duke university the periodic disorders of women are being placed in animals' eyes where they can be seen more clearly.

This technique of studying the progress of human ills is old, but the application is new. The work is projected at Duke university by Dr. J. E. Markee, in the school of medicine.

A bit of living tissue is transplanted to an animal's eye. It grows there independently and unchanged. It can be seen at all times.

Visible also are the effects of drugs, gland extracts and hormones upon this transplanted tissue. This sort of study answers questions about what goes on during an illness.

This work is not, however, confined to diseased conditions. It is often just as important for a physician to know how healthy tissue reacts.

All this is strictly animal experimentation. The tissues used are those of animals.

Mexican Actors Appeal To Camacho

MEXICO CITY, April 13 (AP)—A delegation of Mexican motion picture actors called on President Avila Camacho to solicit his support in an intra-union dispute that threatens to paralyze the film production industry.

The actors, headed by the comedian Cantinflas as president, "succeeded" from the union of other motion picture employees, creating differences that resulted in a decision by producers to suspend production pending settlement.

The actors told the president that the Mexican workers' confederation, of which both groups are members, has upheld the division.

Nazi Propaganda Reaches Fantasy

LONDON, April 12 (AP)—The Germans came up today with a new story about the "secret weapon" they are saving for use against the Allies. This time it is a projectile containing a chemical which freezes everything within a radius of 500 yards by a temperature of 332 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit.

"Radio National," the German station purporting to operate from Britain, said the effect of the projectile is to "kill every living creature within range and make steel and concrete structures so brittle they collapse at a touch."

The broadcast declares that the British had been mystified recently by the sudden appearance of large icebergs in the channel and North Sea between the Thames estuary and the Dutch coast, and said they had been created by the new "weapon."

This assertion brought a derisive chuckle from British naval officials, one of whom asserted: "There hasn't been an iceberg seen in the channel or that part of the North Sea since the ice age."

Garage Wrecked By Butane Explosion

MADISONVILLE, April 13 (AP)—Explosion of a truckload of Butane gas in a garage here resulted in several persons being burned, one critically, and caused damage estimated unofficially at $100,000.

Three automobiles were lost and the motor company and an adjacent building destroyed.

Ervin Park, foreman of the firm's garages, who fled to safety through flames, said a truck carrying a tank of Butane gas had been stored in the garage overnight and that gas apparently had leaked out. When the truck was started, it backfired and flames raced around the building.

Joe Goffney, a negro employee in the truck cab at the time, was critically burned before he could escape through the leaping fire.

LONDON, April 13 (AP)—Effectiveness of the Allied blockade against Axis Europe was emphasized today by an air ministry announcement that more than 1,000,000 tons of enemy shipping have been sunk by mines laid by British planes since the spring of 1940 along the European coast from the Bay of Biscay to the Gulf of Danzig.

The air ministry said the coal and iron ore traffic between Germany and Sweden "has been seriously interrupted" by the mine-laying offensive.
