

TIGHT FIT—Mrs. Foster gives an assist, but Dee Foster's old World War I uniform has shrunk just a little too much for comfort. Oh, well, the canteen still fits perfectly.

WAR SOUVENIR—Fred Eaker shows Mrs. Eaker a German rifle he found on the battlefield of St. Mihiel, while Mrs. Eaker holds a 1916 Army issue pistol. Eaker was with the 38th Provisional Ordnance Depot, has been "adopted" by the local Company D.

35 Years Ago.....

Come Wednesday, and the famed Armistice of Nov. 11, 1918, which ended hostilities of World War I, will be remembered on its 35th anniversary. The date is of real significance to a large group of Big Springers, those who formed the "local" Company D, 117th Supply Train, Rainbow Division, under leadership of the late Capt. Jas. T. Brooks. Here are some of those doughboys who have hauled out the relics of a great historic warfare, in which they participated. The World War I veterans have been asked to be special guests at an Armistice Day program at the VA Hospital at 11 a.m. Wednesday. (Staff photos by Keith McMullin).

THAT'S ME—John W. Miller singles out himself from a picture of his old Company D, 117th Supply Train, Rainbow Division. He maintains to Mrs. Miller that he hasn't changed.

TOP EQUIPMENT—Allen Hull models, for his wife, the helmet and gas mask of World War I. They might not be too effective in today's high-powered warfare, but they were considered top equipment then.

MRS. CLYDE THOMAS JR.

DRESS PARADE

Tailored clothes are the choice of trim Mrs. Clyde Thomas Jr. At a recent bridge she wore a basic grey loose-weave flannel dress perked up with a crisp white faille dickey. The skirt was slim and fashioned with side pockets. A close fitting cap of red velvet with pearl trim was a good contrast and red was repeated with a small red leather handbag. Her gloves and shoes were black.

Mrs. Thomas is the busy young mother of three daughters and does a maximum of club work so she finds the simpler clothes with no frills are the most versatile.

Mrs. J. O. McCrary was hostess at bridge in an aqua knit suit. Brown was her accent color—she wore brown lizard pumps and a brown velvet belt. Her jewelry was a pearl choker.

Some lovely formals were worn at the recent Epsilon Sigma Alpha dance. Mrs. Earl Bryant's was a romantic full length white net worn over a hoop. New ruffling outlined the off-shoulder bodice and was used in scallops midway around the skirt. A rhinestone choker added glitter.

Joyce Davenport was seen in a ballerina length mauve net over taffeta. It was strapless with a matching stole and the skirt was made in a draped apron effect caught with a flower. She wore matching slippers and rhinestone jewelry.

Mrs. Henry J. Fisher presided at the recent Officers Wives Club meeting in a handsome brown tweed suit with bronze beading outlining the collar and cuffs and matching the beading on her brown felt hat. Her cluster earrings were also bronze.

White kid collar and cuffs with rhinestone trim was the interesting trim on Mrs. Harold K. McComb's taupe faille dress. Her white felt shawl hat sparkled with rhinestones.

Mrs. Sam Wilkinson Named Head Of Hospital Auxiliary

STANTON—Mrs. Sam Wilkinson was elected to head the newly organized Woman's Auxiliary of the Martin County Memorial Hospital at its initial meeting Friday.

Other officers elected were Mrs. George Dawson, vice president; Mrs. Bob Whitaker, secretary and Mrs. Glenn W. Brown, treasurer. Committee chairmen include Mrs. Ollie Morphey, telephone; Mrs. Cecil Bridges, ways and means, and Mrs. Whitaker, publicity.

The group voted to hold its regular meeting on the second Tuesday of each month at 1:30 p.m. at the hospital.

Linda Saunders received a prize for drawing the best map showing directions to her home.

Nancy Johnson served refreshments to the nine girls attending.

Eleven delegates representing the three Beta Sigma Phi sorority chapters attended the closing sessions of the two day West Texas Area Council meeting in Midland.

The senior class presented the school with five desks for the study hall "Seniors of '54" will be burned on the backs of the desks.

Eager Beavers Plan Thanksgiving Meal

A Thanksgiving dinner was planned for Nov. 24 by the Eager Beaver Sewing Club at a meeting Friday in the home of Mrs. H. D. Bruton.

This dinner will be at the Girl Scout Little House. Mrs. Louis Howell was a guest at the meeting. Ten members attended. The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Neal Bryant, 1107 Lloyd.

Home Life Is Like 'Life Among Savages'

"When we moved into it we had two children and about 5,000 books; I expect that when we finally overflow and move out again we will have perhaps 30 children and easily half a million books" writes Shirley Jackson in "Life Among the Savages," which will be reviewed Thursday at 3 p.m. in Howard County Junior College Auditorium by Mrs. Gaylon Cothran.

Writing with sophisticated humor Miss Jackson presents a picture of how her family survives the chaos and the crises of day-to-day living in an "old and noisy house."

She brings to life the joys and terrors of childhood as they are woven into the pattern of family life.

The "savages" of Miss Jackson's book are, of course, her children. In private life Miss Jackson is Mrs. Stanley Edgar Hyman and

Girls Begin Workouts For Basketball

COAHOMA (Sp) — Workouts for the girls' basketball team have begun. The 30 girls trying out for the team are being coached by Grady Tindal.

The FFA has elected officers for the year. They are Grady Barr, president; Dudley Arnett, vice president; Paul Thomas, secretary; David Hodnett, treasurer; Jack Morrison, reporter; Norman Spears, sentinel, and Bob Garrett, song leader.

Mrs. Oscar Jenkins led a Bible study on "Women of Destiny of the New Testament" at the meeting of the WNU Monday. Mrs. W. C. Hutchins presided. Mrs. W. C. Hutchins, secretary; Mrs. G. C. Coates and Mrs. Chester Coffman offered prayers.

Paul West was ordained at the Baptist Church. He will be pastor of the Sand Springs Baptist Church.

Stanton Garden Club Sees Films

STANTON—James Eiland showed movies on Mexico City and Guatemala as part of the program on foreign gardens at a recent meeting of the Stanton Garden Club. Mrs. S. Arthur Wilson was in charge.

Mrs. Edmund Tom was hostess. Mrs. S. W. Wheeler, Mrs. J. C. Greenshaw and Mrs. Glen Cox were welcomed into the club as new members.

Thirteen attended. Mrs. Dawson was a guest.

Mrs. Marguerite Hauber left recently for Dallas where she entered Baylor University Hospital for a course in anesthesia.

Mrs. Billy Mills was hostess when the Courtney Home Demonstration Club met in her home. Mrs. Mildred Eiland, agent, gave a demonstration on making kid gloves. Fifteen members attended.

The "savages" are two boys and two girls, ranging from ten to one. The author has been called a historian of household comedy and her entertaining book has been sub-titled "An Uneasy Chronicle."

She is also the author of a story, "The Lottery." The review is sponsored by the Woman's Forum. Individual tickets may be purchased Thursday at the door for 60 cents.

PAULA RUSSELL

Paula Russell Is FFA Area Sweetheart

Paula Russell of Stanton is the new FFA sweetheart of El Rancho district. She was chosen recently at a banquet in Stanton. Miss Russell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Ray Russell. She will compete for the area sweetheart title in Alpine next spring.

A senior at Stanton High School, she was recently a nominee for Halloween queen. She is a former FFA member and is a Rainbow Girl. Her plans for the future include being a missionary and she hopes to attend Howard County Junior College and Baylor University.

Other candidates for FFA district sweetheart were Charlene Williams, Coahoma; Kay Mitchell, Garden City; Sue Barnes, Big Spring; Nell Hogg, Courtney and Latayne Wallace, Odessa.

Residents Of Forsan Have Guests

FORSAN (Spl) — Rueline Stinson of Snyder is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Earl Beeson, Vicky and Wanda.

Attending a funeral in Amarillo were R. A. Chambers, Fred Lonsford, M. M. Hines and Rayford Lile.

J. T. Huff and J. R. Tippett, instructor at McMurry College, recently spoke at the Methodist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Grant recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lawson of Odessa.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Andrews and sons of Sprabery have been guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Sewell.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jacobs and Carol Ann of Brownfield visited Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Henry and sons.

Mrs. Belle Overton is visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Tyre in Ballinger.

1953 Hyperion Elects Delegate

Mrs. John Berkey was appointed delegate to the City Federation at a meeting Wednesday of the 1953 Hyperion Club in the home of Mrs. James Duncan, 108 Jefferson. Mrs. R. H. Weaver was co-hostess.

Mrs. John Currie reported on the ways and means committee and ways were discussed to earn money for the club. It was voted to sell subscriptions to the "Reader's Digest" in order to raise money for the federation club house.

Two new members were elected to the club. The December meeting will be with Mrs. John Taylor as hostess at 705 W. 17th.

Women's Driving Habits Discussed

The average housewife may drive more than 50 miles a week and not even leave the city limits. George Oldham of the Citizen's Traffic Commission told Modern Woman's Forum members Thursday at the Wagon Wheel.

He explained the organization, purpose and function of the commission. A traffic safety film, "And Then There Were Four," was shown.

Mrs. H. Keith introduced the speaker. Mrs. W. A. Laswell and Mrs. F. W. Bettle participated in the program. Twenty-two attended.

City Hostess Takes Over New Duties

New City Hostess is Mrs. Maurine McCright, who has acquired this city welcoming service from Edith Gay. Mrs. McCright already has started making her rounds to call on newcomers to the city.

Serving as a "greeter" with sponsorship of some two-score local firms, the City Hostess acquaints new families in the city with the various commercial services and city activities to be found in Big Spring, and gives them general information on the city and its facilities. Souvenir booklets and gift coupons from some merchants are presented to the newcomers.

Mrs. McCright, a life-long resident of Big Spring, resides at 711 East 15th, and may be reached for Hostess services at 4-2644. The City Hostess program has been operating here for eight years.

HI--TALK

By Libby Jones

Saturday morning, Mr. Del McComb, high school speech teacher and debate instructor, took five prospective debaters to Abilene Christian College to hear a debate tournament. The students took notes on the debate question of the year, "Resolved: That the President of the United States should be elected directly by the people."

Those making the trip with Mr. McComb were Alvin Baker, Tom Guin, Judy Douglass, Charles Saunders and Libby Jones.

The D. E. Club had a picnic Thursday night at the City Park. Besides the local students and their sponsor, Miss Mary Herring, 12 students from Snyder attended the picnic.

Smiths' Horse Didn't Bother To Knock

Having a few horses around is just fine until one of them gets to be so friendly he comes in the house through the back door, a former homemaker teacher, Mrs. C. H. Smith, decided once.

And that's why Mr. Smith now has only one horse instead of several—despite the fact he's still a "horse lover."

The Smiths have been living in Big Spring for about two months but both have jobs that require a good deal of traveling.

Mrs. Smith works with homemaker teachers in 41 West Texas counties and Mr. Smith is often out of town on oil business.

She is now area supervisor of Home and Family Life Education for the Texas Education Agency. In Monahans, where the Smiths lived before coming to Big Spring, she was a homemaker teacher.

She was graduated from West Texas State College and has done post graduate work at Colorado A&M and Texas Tech.

Mr. Smith, after 17 years in the banking business in Abilene, Brady and Monahans, joined an independent partnership in a petroleum enterprise about a year ago.

China and textile painting and making jewelry and ceramics keep Mrs. Smith's artistic tendencies in tow. She also collects antique glassware, a hobby she no doubt pursues more avidly now that she doesn't have any uninvited four-legged guests.

Mrs. C. H. Smith created her own design for this length of material and is going to make it into a blouse when she finishes the free hand touches to the block print design. Mr. Smith looks on while she demonstrates her textile painting technique.

Bells Wed At Carlsbad

The Big Room at Carlsbad Caverns, N. M., was the scene of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Roy F. Bell on Oct. 31.

Mrs. Bell is the former Mary Jane Martin of Brownfield. Mr. Bell is a resident of Big Spring.

The wedding ceremony was read by Probate Judge Ed H. Gentry. Attending the bride was Mrs. Mary Cole of Brownfield. Also present for the ceremony was Supt. R. Taylor Hoskins of the U. S. Park Service.

For the ceremony the bride chose a navy crepe dress with black accessories. Her corsage was of red roses.

Mrs. Bell's parents are Sgt. and Mrs. Robert R. Caldwell of Japan. Mr. Bell is the brother of Mrs. Ruby Bell Hillings of Big Spring. The couple will reside at 112 E. 17th.

Fairview HD Club Names Committees

Committees for 1954 were appointed by Mrs. Shirley Fryar at a meeting of the Fairview Home Demonstration Club Wednesday in the home of Mrs. L. A. Griffith.

They include: yearbook committee, Mrs. W. H. Ward, Mrs. A. J. McClinton and Mrs. Jim Smith; finance, Mrs. C. E. Suggs, Mrs. J. W. Wooten and Mrs. T. M. Bailey; exhibit committee, Mrs. Griffith, Mrs. W. E. Buckner and Mrs. D. F. Bigony; education and expansion committee, Mrs. O. D. Engle, Mrs. W. A. Langley and Mrs. Frank Wilson.

On the consumer education committee will be Mrs. G. W. Webb and Mrs. E. A. Williams. Mrs. John Sutherland will be in charge of recreation. The 4-H committee will be made up of Mrs. J. F. Skalky, Mrs. J. F. Sellers and Mrs. J. G. Hammack Sr. In charge of personal service will be Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Skalky.

Mrs. Fryar gave a demonstration on floor coverings. Mrs. Webb gave the devotion and Mrs. Sutherland gave the council report.

The club voted to have a demonstration at the field day held by Howard County Junior College. The booth will be on Christmas wrapping, candles and centerpieces made from material gathered from fields.

Next meeting will be on Nov. 24 at 10 a.m. in the home of Mrs. Sutherland. A covered dish luncheon will follow at noon.

Eleven members and two visitors were present. The visitors were Mrs. J. D. Shultz and Mrs. L. N. Brooks Jr.

NCO Wives Club

The NCO Wives Club will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the lounge of the NCO Open Mess for a business meeting.

Joyce Cole Says Vows With Charles Grizzard

Joyce Cole and Charles Grizzard exchanged nuptial vows before a setting of pink gladioli Friday night in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Cole, 1109 Austin.

The bridegroom is the son of Charlie Grizzard of Bowden, Ga., and the late Mrs. Grizzard.

The Rev. E. G. Newcomer, pastor of the Mt. Zion Missionary Baptist Church, read the double ring ceremony. Preceding the ceremony, Annette Parrish sang "Awards," accompanied by Mrs. Minnie Anderson, who played the Wedding March from Lohengrin by Wagner.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a tailored suit of navy with accessories of gunmetal grey. She carried a spray of white carnations with white satin streamers on a white Bibbe. Her "something old" was a rhinestone necklace and earrings and "something borrowed" a blue garter.

Eva Ann Newcomer was maid of honor. She wore a beige dress with black accessories and a corsage of red carnations. Jim Grizzard, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

The bride's mother wore a navy blue dress with pink carnation corsage.

The bride's table at the reception was laid with a lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink gladioli and mums. White candles in crystal holders completed the decorations. The three-tiered cake was adorned with a miniature bride and groom.

Mrs. Emory Parrish, Mrs. Jim Grizzard, Mrs. Ted Pachall, Mrs. Tommy Cole, Mrs. Nile Cole and Mrs. L. C. Cole assisted in serving. Mrs. Parrish registered guests.

The bride is a senior at Big Spring High School and the bridegroom is a graduate of Bowden

MRS. CHARLES GRIZZARD

High School, Bowden, Ga. He is an Army private, stationed at Fort Sill, Okla., where he will return after a short wedding trip. The bride will join him there in January.

Panel Discussion To Be Presented

A panel discussion on "Education for What?" will be presented at the meeting of the Washington Place P-TA Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the school.

On the panel will be Trinidad Cano, Dr. W. A. Hunt and Howard County Junior College students. Nursery facilities will be available. An executive board meeting will be at 7 p.m.

Approximately $300 was cleared on the chicken spaghetti dinner sponsored by the P-TA Thursday at the High School cafeteria. Almost 600 people were served. Mrs. James L. Johnson Jr., finance chairman, was assisted in planning the event by Mrs. Bill Horne, Mrs. Toots Mansfield and Mrs. Earl Cooper.

Menu For A Day

Got the menu-planning blues? Try this for one day.

BREAKFAST: grapefruit, oatmeal with brown sugar and cream, biscuits, bacon, butter, honey, milk and coffee.

DINNER: roast beef, buttered onions, green beans, tossed salad with garlic dressing, bread, sweet potato pie and coffee.

SUPPER: potato soup, carrot sticks, pickles, crackers, cookies, fruit and milk.

Chili Flavored Rice

Rice rings are just made for pretty buffet service—you can put any sort of creamed filling in the center. Sometime when you are using chicken or shrimp add a little chili powder to the rice before packing it into the mold. An easy way to do it is to add it to the melted butter and then toss it gently with the cooked rice. It's delightful with creamed mushrooms, too.

Bacon In Sandwiches

Bacon is in demand for sandwich making. Panbroil slices until crisp, drain, then chop and combine with liver sausage, with chopped hard-cooked egg, peanut butter or marmalade.

Quick Coffee Cake Made From Mix

For baking on a busy day, this recipe for five-minute coffee cake is about as quick as baking can get. The secret is in using a biscuit mix for the batter.
FIVE-MINUTE COFFEE CAKE
Ingredients:
 1 cup cooked prunes or apricots
 2 cups biscuit mix
 1-3 cup granulated sugar
 1 egg
 1/4 cup milk
Topping:
 1-3 cup brown sugar (packed)
 3 tablespoons biscuit mix
 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
Method:
 Pit prunes and cut into halves. Combine biscuit mix and granulated sugar. Beat egg lightly. Add milk and stir into dry mixture, mixing well. Turn into greased 8-inch square pan and top with prune halves. Stir together topping ingredients and sprinkle over prunes. Bake in moderately hot oven 375 degrees F. about 35 minutes. Cut into squares and serve hot. Makes nine 2 1/2-inch squares.

American Designer's Pattern

by Biki

COUTURIER TOUCH Intricate-Looking Collar Drape Gives Good Line

Biki is one of that van load of Italian designers who are taking the fashion world by storm. Especially known for prowess in creating graceful and pretty party dresses, Biki proves the right to this reputation by designing today's dress for you to make.
 As is always the case with custom designers, she instills a definite feeling of chic with an overlay of well-bred restraint. The bodice has an intricate-looking but easy to handle collar drape, a typical couturier touch.
 Actually is a collar run through drapery that adds a good line to the bust. The skirt is flared, but not too full, just full enough to move beautifully. Make it in taffeta or other stiff silk for now-in linen for resort or next summer.
 Size 10, Bust 34, waist 24, hips 35 inches; size 12, bust 35, waist 25, hips 36 inches; size 14, bust 36 1/2, waist 26 1/2, hips 37 1/2; size 16, bust 38, waist 28, hips 39; size 18, bust 39 1/2, waist 29 1/2, hips 40 1/2 inches.
 Size 12 requires 5 1/2 yards of 39 inch material.
 To order Pattern No. 1162, address Spadea Syndicate, Inc., P. O. Box 535, Dept 164, G. P. O., New York 1, N. Y. State size. Send $1.00. Airmail 25 cents extra. Pattern Booklet No. 9, including over 100 designs, available at 15 cents.

Course For Scout Leaders Planned

REPORT TO PARENTS

Handicapped Children Are Taught To Be Independent

By DR. MARTHA ELIOT
 A physical disability is an inconvenience, but it does not have to be an insurmountable obstacle. That is what children between the ages of three and 21 are learning at the Massachusetts Hospital School.
 There, 150 children, a third of whom are paraplegics, are going to school in nursery school and kindergarten, and in grades one through 12, while a resident staff of doctors, therapists, hygienists and nurses help each to achieve the maximum possible in rehabilitation of his physical handicap.
 To be admitted to the school, a child must be a Massachusetts resident, have an orthopedic disability and a normal mentality. While there, he gets special work in arts, crafts and music; in the upper grades, he may specialize in a vocational course, such as watch and clock repairing, printing, drafting, nutrition. Or he may get training in a commercial course, in a college preparatory or general course.
 Recreational facilities include clubs, scout groups, basketball teams, square dancing and glee clubs.
 The hospital school provides complete laboratory, X-ray and dental services. Many students have daily therapy treatment in the physical or occupational therapy department. As a part of the physical therapy department, there is an ambulation program which teaches daily activities so important to the physically handicapped child.
 One of the aims of the school is that its graduates be able to use equipment found in the average home, apartment, or hotel, rather than have to rely on special equipment to perform his daily functions of living.
 The school is located south of Boston and operates its own farm. The whole environment of the school is as homelike as possible. Its administrators say the subject of the school-hospital program is to "make every student an independent self supporting citizen—a taxpayer and not a tax recipient". In all facets of its program, those at the school try to eliminate self pity among students, build character and teach "that a physical disability is an inconvenience but it is one to be overcome."
 The program seems to be a very constructive approach to the problem which every state faces of giving children with physical handicaps opportunities to develop their own skills and personalities as nearly as possible like children who are without physical handicaps.
Family Fun Discussed By Forum
 How families can have fun as a group by planning an evening together once a week was discussed by Mrs. W. E. Gibson Jr. at the meeting of the Woman's Forum Friday in the home of Mrs. L. B. Maudlin.
 Mrs. Elvis McCrary was co-hostess.
 Each family should decide on what they like to do best, something that is fun for all, exciting and different, Mrs. Gibson said.
 Mrs. Clyde Johnston, speaking on the importance of family worship, said that in the hurry of modern living we often ignore family devotion. She suggested having regular prayer at the family table and attending church as a group.
 Mrs. J. D. Elliott gave pointers on parliamentary procedure and Mrs. Lucian Jones was welcomed as a new member. The club decided to organize a Junior Woman's Forum after the first of 1954. Fourteen attended.
DeMolay Mothers
 DeMolay Mothers Club will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Dick Simpson, 519 Hillside Drive. All mothers are urged to attend.

Betty Hutton's Vigor Result Of Planning

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD — Before Betty Hutton left for New York and an engagement at the Palace Theatre, I had tea with her in her charming house in Brentwood. She was wearing a blue cashmere with a matching skirt and a jeweled trimmed scarf. I had never seen her look so slender nor so pretty and I told her so.

Betty smiled. "I've never been happier and I've never felt prettier before. But Charles (her husband, Charles O'Curran) keeps telling me that I am and it does make a difference. I used to feel, because I wasn't glamorous, that I had to be the life of the party and whoop things up, but," Betty added, "This was a cover-up and not my real nature."

We chatted about Betty's sensational nightclub act and I told her that everyone who had seen her in Las Vegas had raved about her but wondered where she got all her energy.

"It comes from great care," Betty said quietly. "I guard my energy like a surgeon guards his hands. My success is my vitality — my whole career depends on my feeling well. When I am working I don't drink, I never smoke, and I sleep at least nine hours a night. For perfect health you must abide by all the rules."

I was fascinated by Betty's preoccupation with vitality and asked to hear about it in more detail.

Betty curled her feet under her and leaned back against a mass of chintz covered cushions. "When I was making pictures at Paramount I had a problem with my weight so that most of the time I followed a diet of eggs, stewed tomatoes, chops and steak. I've learned the hard way how bad it is to overdo unbalanced menus. I developed allergies, became ill and couldn't work."

"I went to see a doctor," Betty continued, "He told me that health depends on food and with a good diet I was well and back at work in a short time."

"I am so enthusiastic about the

"Is that all you do for your energy?" I asked.

"There's more to it than that," Betty explained.

"Tell me more."

"A MUST with my doctor is two cakes of yeast in milk the first thing every morning. Later I have a yolk of egg beaten up in orange juice. I drink lots of fresh juice. One of our favorite punches is made from raw carrots, beets, celery, apple juice and honey.

bles cooked with plenty of butter, and fresh fruit," Betty explained. As the sun came in and lit up Betty's soft gold hair, I asked, "Are you a natural blond?"

"Nobody believes it," Betty said as she bent her head over to uncover the roots, "but I've always been blond. I've never had any trouble keeping it light though I used to have trouble making it grow. But since I now brush it dry, and soak my hair in oil the night before my shampoo, it's been very healthy."

In the bright afternoon sun I could see Betty's clear skin and I asked if she always wore so little make-up.

"I used to go in for heavy make-up in order to conceal my freckles," Betty confided, "but after I was in 'Annie Get Your Gun,' I discovered that the less make-up I wore the better I looked. It was a surprise to everyone how well I photographed with just suntan and freckles."

"As a kid I was very unhappy about freckles," Betty continued. "I used to try everything to get rid of them. I bathed in buttermilk for weeks. I even got up in time to wash my face in early morning dew. But now I'm letting them show." Betty philosophized.

"Freckles are part of me, my fans write that they like them, so now I do too."

"If a girl has freckles she should accept them as part of her personality," Betty explained. "You'll find that they are generally accompanied by a good disposition and a perky nature."

New Process Makes Paint Dry Quickly

CHICAGO — Quick-drying of fresh paint without the aid of heat is science's newest contribution to industry.

A new chemical process has been designed by two Illinois Institute of Technology chemical engineers. It enables inks, paints and varnishes to dry in from 5 to 20 seconds.

It is the patented invention of Clarke Thorpe and Layton Kinney of Armour Research Foundation of I. I. T. The process is called Chem-Dry by the sponsor, the Meyercood Co. of Chicago.

Thorpe and Kinney say the technique is based on a chemical reaction between the applied coatings and the sulphur dichloride vapor instead of the former slow method of oxidation by drying.

The process is simple. The sulphur dichloride is vaporized by a carburetor. Painted objects are placed on an endless belt which moves through the vapor enclosed in a chamber. Exhausted air from the system is washed with a dilute caustic soda solution to remove any remaining vapor.

The Chem-Dry process is expected to provide a new economic punch in the fields of printing, wood finishing, wire paper, and fabric coating and metal decorating. It will permit quicker handling and packing of finished pieces.

No Relaxing But Renewed Effort Indicated For Fourth Street Job

Because of previous entreaties on the subject to the point of bordering on boredom to some and perhaps offense to others, it is with some trepidation that we return to the Fourth Street project. Since we last talked about it in these columns, substantial progress has been made. But more than two months have elapsed, and completion of the task is not in sight. Last week, the County Commissioners Court was told by the district highway engineer that the project could be included in the January lettings provided the City and County meet with requirements. This is four months later than the state wanted to tackle this job. Surely we can meet this date and with a month to spare. The county has suspended its right-of-way negotiations many weeks back because it had outstripped the city and was then in danger of being caught on a financial limb. Since then, however, the city has gone so far that there can be no turning back for either. Recognition of this simple fact, we believe, should remove any reasons for letting the matter drag. Both agencies should obtain the best possible trades, and failing in this attempt, should not look back in condemning. We have said repeatedly that too much is at stake. Certainly the prospect of a new paved artery the width of the city for the price of curb and gutter is enough to contemplate. This is a secondary consideration when you stop to consider that the provision of a wide paved thoroughfare from the junction of Third and Fourth Streets westward past the airport hinges upon materialization of plans for Third and Fourth. More than this, the system of traffic fusion and the freeway across Howard County also are held in abeyance pending the outcome of the Fourth Street program. If this plan should fail to develop, the Highway Department would have little recourse except to shove forward immediately its ultimate plan for looping the city. Of course the latter is coming in time, as it ought to come, but undue delay now might bring it about before property owners and business operators have had time to adjust to it. So we hope that both City and County will not relax for one moment in their effort to acquire the necessary right-of-way and post the curb and gutter work, but will attack the problem with renewed emphasis in order to have the job ready in advance of the January letting. If they do, we might be using these improved facilities next summer.

Confident Living—Norman Vincent Peale Positive Attitude Often Helps In Healing When Illness Comes

A positive and creative attitude toward illness is important in stimulating the forces of healing. It is easy to become pessimistic and discouraged when sickness comes, and optimism about illness takes faith and courage. But it is a powerful aid to getting well; when you think of health, think in terms of revitalization. When I go into a hospital or home to visit a sick person, even if I am told that the medical indications are hopeless, I refuse to offer any prayer but one for healing. As a minister I fight death to the last. I believe that it is my duty, even as it is my privilege to offer comfort if I lose the last great battle of life. Of course, God has said "No" to my prayers many times. When He does, I have learned to take His answer humbly, with the recognition that His will is best. Of course, there are laws of prayer and healing I do not understand. It may also be that if we pray sincerely enough, think positively enough, believe earnestly enough, new areas of truth will be opened to us that will bring about new healing powers. But there are many times when I have seen the prayers of faith help heal the sick. A minister I know was called to see a girl in a hospital late one night. Her family did not want to tell him that she was hopelessly ill; they just said that she was filled with fear. So, when he went in to see her, he was not handicapped by a negative conviction that all was lost. She took his hand, pitifully. "I'm afraid," she said. "I'm going to die." "Oh, no," he told her. "You're not going to die. You're just frightened here in this hospital. You're all right. You're going to get well."

"I don't know what you did when you saw that girl, but a miracle has happened. Why, we didn't expect her to last the night." "She was just frightened, wasn't she?" she asked. "Oh, no," the doctor replied. "She had been having a series of convulsions. But she did not have another after you left. She has now turned the corner and will get well." My friend was shocked by the realization that if he had known about those convulsions and the doctor's fears before he went into that room, he might have transmitted an image of death and hopelessness to the girl and so lost her. But, not having the knowledge which would have made him negative, his positive faith had helped him turn the tide. Obviously, it is more difficult to maintain this positive attitude when you know and allow yourself to be affected by discouraging factors. The major point is, do not visualize people as unhealthy; see them rather as being in the flow of God's health and vitality. Help them to believe so that through faith they may draw health from God. God is filled with all the positive energy in the world, and from Him they may draw re-creative force that can add years of health to their lives. Help them to utilize all of God's therapeutic agents: his servants, the doctors, practitioners of science; and his servants, the ministers, practitioners of faith. A positive attitude represents healthy thinking. And healthy thinking tends to produce healthy feeling. So take a positive attitude toward illness.

Uncle Ray's Corner A Letter Concerning Pigeons

A letter about pigeons has come to me from Mr. John Mullen, who writes: "Your column is the first thing I read when I pick up the paper. It covers nearly all phases of life, but I have never noticed any article concerning tame pigeons. This seems strange to me, since they are extraordinary birds. I have been a pigeon fancier for years. There isn't one person in a hundred who knows that a pigeon, or dove, is the only bird in the world that pumps a milky substance from its crop in order to feed its young. From this comes the term 'pigeon's milk.'" "More than 200 breeds of pigeons exist, and the largest of them is called the Runt. That's a peculiar name for a pigeon which sometimes weighs four pounds or more! Many pigeon fanciers have tried to change the name, but without success. "Another peculiar pigeon is the pouter. It has legs which are almost as long as the bird's body. The name came from a large pouch in front of the chest. When the pouter coos, this pouch is filled with air and sometimes bulges out so much that it hides the pigeon's head!" "Thank you, Mr. Mullen, for those notes. I agree that tame pigeons are highly interesting birds, and the time will come when I shall write more about them. During the past summer I did write about the wild passenger pigeons which became extinct early in the present century. Several years ago, I wrote about tame pigeons, especially homing pigeons. Homing pigeons have carried messages for long distances, sometimes for hundreds of miles. I want to do justice to pigeons, but I have a bit of a grudge against them! Perhaps I am playful when I say that, but let me tell what happened. One night several pigeons robbed me of a good deal of sleep! I was in New York City and retired at about midnight. I had slept only a few hours when I was awakened by cooing noises outside a window of my hotel room. The pigeons were on a high ledge and it seemed that they never would stop cooing. I changed my hotel the next day.

Lots Of Coal

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Since the first trainload of coal was brought from the mines to Hampton Roads ports 70 years ago more than 878 millions tons of the black stuff have been dumped at Norfolk and Newport News piers. Coal hauling railroads serving the ports are the Norfolk & Western, the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Virginian. Intensive exploration for oil along the Gulf Coast paid off handsomely when the first well in the Old Ocean Field in Brazoria County came in on this day in 1934. Discovery of the Conroe field in 1931 had focused the attention of major companies and independent alike on the Gulf area. Within the next seven years the men in khaki with their seismographs and torsion balances swarmed over every likely looking structure they could find. And they reaped a rich harvest—57 oil, gas and distillate fields.

Enough To Rattle Any Golfer

Business Outlook - J. A. Livingston President's Message To Congress Next Jan. 6 Expected To Signal 'Reflation'

WASHINGTON — Thanksgiving turkeys are on their last feedings, merchants are soberly hopeful about Christmas sales, and Washington is afflicted with Congressional fever—a fever which wasn't abated by the recent "skirmishes" at the polls. The President's advisers and aides are already at work on his State-of-the-Union message, to be delivered at the opening of Congress, January 6. Within 15 days after that, the budget message is due. And this budget message, if present Treasury plans mature, will be something different.

slipped to 95 per cent, are now down to 83 per cent. They are headed lower. Jones & Laughlin Corp., fourth largest in the industry, has announced a 9 per cent cutback in operations because of "market conditions." Youngstown Sheet & Tube has reduced production to "liquidate investments." Bethlehem's plant at West Seattle, Washington, is down to 75 per cent of capacity, idling 250 of 1,400 employees. Beyond that, retail sales have been enigmatic. During October, department stores reported a decline of 4 per cent from last year. That's partly because October, 1952 was an extraordinarily good month. But sales weren't much better than on October, 1951, which was far from exceptional. Department store executives blame the weather. Men and women don't buy topcoats or heavy suits when it's warmer outside than in. Perhaps the critical reason is that payrolls are shrinking, that housewives are canner in their shopping. True, so far, unemployment has been nominal. It is moderately heavy around Detroit. And as auto companies go in for changeovers to new models, it may increase further. But most companies have tried to spread the work, and they've eliminated overtime. Result: Not many workers have been badly hurt, but take-home pay has dropped. That's what merchants and Washington are feeling.

The signs multiply that the country's to be put on economic K-rations—after Keynes. That means easy money, deficit spending, and if the business declines lasts, public works. That's the formula of the late John Maynard Keynes, great British economist, for reversing an economic downturn. The kind word for it is "reflation." The nation is already on easy-money rations. Back in June, the Federal Reserve Board and the Treasury decided that a little credit stringency was too much. The Reserve pumped money into the banks. A bear market in bonds suddenly became a bull market. Bond prices are up 5 per cent—quite a gain for bonds in four months. So it costs less to borrow money. Example: The Treasury had to pay 2.33 per cent for 90-day money in June; today the price is 1.3 per cent. And the nation is already on a deficit ration. Expenditures, as the administration has discovered in its first year, are easy to cut in conversation but deucedly difficult in reality. Therefore, to approach a balanced budget, receipts have to be raised. That means more taxes. Yet, lower taxes fit the K-formula, and are expedient in an election year. Indeed, Rep. Daniel A. Reed (Rep-N.Y.), attributes the Republican election losses to the Eisenhower tax policy. Reed fought to cut personal income taxes and the excess profits tax at the last session of Congress. The State-of-the-Union message, the budget, and the report of the Council of Economic Advisers, which is due about the same time, will disclose to what extent the administration considers it necessary to go in for public works. That will "smoke out" the administration on whether we're in for a depression, recession, or readjustment. Even more important, it will indicate what the President and his advisors plan to do about it.

This Day In Texas By CURTIS BISHOP Intensive exploration for oil along the Gulf Coast paid off handsomely when the first well in the Old Ocean Field in Brazoria County came in on this day in 1934. Discovery of the Conroe field in 1931 had focused the attention of major companies and independent alike on the Gulf area. Within the next seven years the men in khaki with their seismographs and torsion balances swarmed over every likely looking structure they could find. And they reaped a rich harvest—57 oil, gas and distillate fields. At its discovery Old Ocean's first well produced 500 barrels a day at 8,451 feet. Improvement in rigs and equipment since the days of Spindletop and Sour Lake made deeper exploration possible, however; drillers at Old Ocean in later years found seven additional oil zones as deep as 10,600 feet. The field was eventually listed among the nation's top producers. At the town of Old Ocean in the center of the field the J. S. Abercrombie Company and Magnolia Petroleum Company operate a recycling and extraction plant.

Bible Words to Live by PSALM 37:3-4 - "Trust in the Lord, and do good... Delight thyself also in the Lord; and he will give thee the desire of thine heart." Confidence in a benefactor's power and good will is one of the great blessings of the soul. To realize that there is a God of love and mercy is one of the comforts of the human heart that gives peace and strength. The power of God's love "shed abroad in thy heart" creates a desire to do good works in gratitude and in the joy of sharing blessings with others. The source of our confidence and devotion brings a holy, humble pleasure that we call delight. It is a gratification of a deep desire for the realized presence of God. Confidence, righteous living, helpfulness for others will control the "desire of the heart" to bring it into conformity with the will of God, who will assuredly bless and grant the wishes of the soul. Dr. W. A. Tyson First Methodist Church Biloxi, Miss.

Around The Rim - The Herald Staff Armistice, Says Uncle Wobbly, Should Be Made To 'Stay Put'

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald—Editor's Note. If you kids would quit a-runnin' and a-yappin', I might tell you a birthday story. "Oh, Uncle Wobbly, would it be a sure enough one, and not one of those you make up?" "Sure, it would be true. Did I ever tell you anything else? Crawl up on my lap here, and let me tell you about the birthday of the ar-miss-tis. This ar-miss-tis has a 35th birthday coming up this week. Lot of people getting to where they forget this, but it's pretty important. "What's an armistice, Uncle Wobbly?" "Well, it's where the armies say they'll quit shooting. They stop the fighting until the heads of the countries can decide that peace can be agreed on. This one I'm a-tellin' you about happened long 'fore you was born and when I wasn't much more'n a tad myself. "Is that like a truce?" "We-l, yes, but quit asking so many questions. They call it an ar-miss-tis in one war and a truce in the next, just to make things sound different. Fact is, neither one of them ever held much water, far as I can see. This one I'm a-tellin' you about was when our boys was a-fightin' the Germans. Not like the Nazi Germans, but what you might call the Imperial Germans. Feller name of Kaiser Bill was their top whoop-oo. He had his people a-thinkin' they should rule the world, and it got clean out of hand until we sent some fellers called doughboys over across the waters to put a stop to such things. These doughboys clobbered their way through such places as the Argonne and St. Mehel and Belleau Wood, until they had these Germans on the run. Then this Kaiser Bill, to save his own hide, ups and hollers for an ar-miss-tis. Bein' easy-like, like we allus are, we give it to him. It sure seemed grand at the time. The word spread 'round the country—rightly, it spread 'round a couple of days early—and people jumped and screamed with joy, and staged parades, and blew the whistles and rang the bells, and hung Kaiser Bill in effigy—" "What's effigy, Uncle Wobbly?" "I said quit interrupting me. Effigy is—effigy is, well, effigy is like a dummy. You make up a scarecrow to look like the Kaiser, then you string it up. "Did that help, Uncle Wobbly?" "Well, we thought so. Anyhow, this here ar-miss-tis was supposed to make the world safe for democracy, and don't be asking me what is democracy. It's just something like you don't know any other way of living but in a democracy. Democracy is the kind of country where you fight the fellers that try to run the world, then you sit back and let up on 'em when the fightin' is over, when you shouldn't. This deal of 35 years ago wasn't the last time, I can tell you. Come just seven or eight years ago, we had these other Germans, the Nazi ones, whipped, and while we didn't fall for no ar-miss-tis, we let some other fellers, Reds they was, take over while we backed off. This brought on another scrap here a couple of years ago, and it winds up as a truce, which, like I said, is just an ar-miss-tis, only it don't seem to stick, either. We're still in this one, and how it's gonna end, not even your Uncle Wobbly can tell you. Maybe democracy will smarten up this time, or maybe it'll just let her slide again until we get to fight all over again. It's been two kind of Germans and some Reds, and no tellin' what name it will be next time, only it'll be another kinpin tryin' to run the world. So, if anybody else tries to tell you about this ar-miss-tis business, you tell 'em that your Uncle Wobbly said that an ar-miss-tis is something that ought to be screwed down tight, so's it'll stay put. Now get on with your studyin'." —BOB WHIPKEY

Washington Calling - Marquis Childs Leaders Admit Privately That GOP Margin Is Facing Danger

WASHINGTON — Only one conclusion is possible as a result of the elections just held. If the Congressional contest were this November instead of a year from now, the Republicans would have lost the House by an overwhelming margin and they might also have lost the Senate. In private the Republican managers concede this to be true even as they point publicly to special circumstances that influenced the outcome. But the meaning is so clear that the blindest partisan will find it difficult to assume the pose of the ostrich. Certainly, there were special circumstances in the two Congressional districts—Wisconsin's Ninth and New Jersey's Sixth—where defeat was most meaningful for the Republicans. The Democrat Lester R. Johnson—who won for the first time in history in the Wisconsin district had been a LaFollette Progressive. That, in the view of some staunch Republicans, explains away the Republican loss. In New Jersey the Congressional seat had been held by former Representative Clifford Case, a Republican, had had the backing of organized labor, including the CIO in his last campaign. The Democrat who won on Tuesday, Harrison A. Williams Jr., told the voters he would follow Case's example if he were elected. But in both instances the important point is this: a Republican could not win election with the votes of old-line Republicans alone. To win, a Republican candidate must attract the support of the 20 to 25 per cent of the voters who consider themselves independent of both parties. That is the fact in the great majority of the Congressional districts throughout the country. A John Taber can win in his rock-ribbed Republican district in northern New York as long as he cares to run. But in most districts in most states there are simply not enough old-line Republican votes. The leadership of the Republican party seems incapable of learning this lesson. They delude themselves, as well they may do again in the face of this latest demonstration, with the myth that Republicans do not work hard enough and, therefore, fail to get out the straight Republican vote. This contention will not stand a candid examination. The great delusion has persisted in the face of what happened a year ago. President Eisenhower was elected by Republicans, Democrats and Independent voters. Even with his great personal popularity and the overwhelming vote he rolled up, the total Republican congressional vote was less than the total for the Democrats. The President seemed to understand this when he said he intended to be President of all the people. It is unfortunate that he let the professionals in his party nudge him into staking his prestige on the outcome in New Jersey. One more election is to come, in California's 24th Congressional District. The Republicans seem there to be making the same mistakes. The organization is backing State Assemblyman Glenard P. Lipscomb. A second Republican candidate in this "sudden death" election is State Assemblyman John L. E. Collier. Lipscomb first moved to withdraw in the interests of "party harmony" but was persuaded to stay in the race by the faction made up Vice President Nixon. Lipscomb is charged with obeying in the Assembly the orders of Artie Samish, the lobbyist whom former Governor Earl Warren called the most powerful man in the state. He is backed by the interests that fought Warren on almost every issue. These interests would turn the clock back so far that William McKinley would look like a dangerous radical. The leading Democratic candidate is 32-

TFWC Election To End Convention In Austin.

WORTHAM (Sp) — Election of officers for the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs will climax the 58th annual convention at Austin Monday through Thursday.

Representing clubs in Big Spring will be the following delegates: Mrs. O. Bristow, 1905 Hyperton Club; Mrs. Hayes Stripling, 1948 Hyperton Club; Mrs. Willard Hendricks, Woman's Forum; Mrs. H. M. Rowe, Modern Woman's Forum. Mrs. Norman Read will be Mrs. Bristow's alternate.

Installation Thursday night will end the tenure of Mrs. Van Hook Stubbs of Wortham as president. Mrs. E. Lee Ozbirn of Oklahoma City, General Federation recording secretary, will install the officers elected for the 1953-1955 term.

Mrs. L. E. Dudley of Abilene is the only candidate for president of the organization of 100,000 women. Others on the unopposed slate of candidates are Mrs. A. J. House of Yoakum, vice president; Mrs. Howard W. Gardner of Beaumont, Mrs. Harry Griffiths of Austin and Mrs. D. L. C. Kinard of Memphis for regional vice presidents; Mrs. A. Foy Curry Jr. of Fort Worth for secretary; and Mrs. J. M. Crews of Childers for treasurer.

Major resolutions up for decision at the convention include approval of a 25 per cent limit on income tax, opposition to a national sales tax, endorsement of lowering from 65 the age for women wage earners to qualify for Social Security benefits and approval of raising funds for the Texas Commission on Alcoholism from the liquor industry.

A fine arts program will be presented Monday, Tuesday a panel of Texas industrialists will speak for a "Free Enterprise" day program.

Programs on Wednesday and Thursday will include Dr. Lola Walker, Baylor speech department; a mental health workshop on the Federation's new emphasis in that field, given by Dr. Bernice Moore and Dr. Robert Sutherland of the Hogg Foundation; J. Frank Doherty, Houston, Jr., representative from McAllen; Mrs. Roe Cloud of Portland, Ore., GFWC Indian affairs chairman; Everett Dawson of the Texas Game and Fish Commission; Martha Binford and Rosalee Jordan of the American Petroleum Institute; William R. Daragh of the National Manufacturers' Association; Kathryn Hamner of Celanese; Helen Livingston of Trans-World Airways; and Mrs. Lyndon Johnson and Mrs. Price Daniel.

Panama's First Lady Sincere Over People's Welfare

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—They liked Senora de Remon, sultry, goodlooking first lady of Panama. "I believe she's really sincere," said one.

"There were real tears in her eyes when she spoke of the needs of her people," said another. A local newspaper headlined "Senora de Remon Interested in Welfare."

Members of the Washington press are sometimes skeptical. They're used to people who have an axe to grind, a vote to get, a deep-freeze to give away or a treaty to sign. Senora de Remon and her husband, spent the night at the White House as official guests of the government and were subject to a rigorous and formal round of entertaining. Senora de Remon, however, set aside an hour for the newsmen, talked to them forthrightly about herself—even told them her age, 37—showed them color films of her work in remote primitive areas of her country with volunteer teams of medical and dental specialists. The films showed her in blue jeans, colorful cotton shirt and big-brimmed straw sombrero "to keep me from getting all freckles."

"I hear you're interested in my work with my people, so I'm showing these," she explained. "Please excuse my English and errors in pronunciation."

She first became acquainted with the problems of the people in the isolated areas when she accompanied her husband on his camp last year. "I saw all the misery, all the hardships, and I made myself a promise that if I ever were in a position to help I'd do it," she said. "We are trying to give them the opportunity to better themselves to assume their rightful self respect and dignity."

Wallpaper Painting Problems Are Soluble

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER

How to paint wallpaper is becoming quite a universal problem in this do-it-yourself age. Our women folks are now so fastidious they give us a glassy stare when we suggest that we just go ahead and paint and see what happens.

Well, thanks to the ladies, we realize this could be an expensive experiment, especially if we have to call in a professional to undo any damage. Wallpaper can be tricky. It can blister, bulge, curl or fade through some paints.

Also, so many houses have been built with gypsum wallboard, which itself is covered with paper, that redecorating is even trickier.

It seems that one of the short cuts (or "trade secrets") of some builders (or their subcontractors) has been to apply wallpaper directly to paper-covered wallboard with no stain or special paste to permit the wallpaper to be removed without destroying the wallboard. Painting the wallpaper therefore becomes about the only economical redecoration.

Faced with such a problem, this writer has sifted the advice of several authorities. One expert, a paint manufacturer, reduces the job to a fairly simple operation, provided the wallpaper is tight. Another authority, the Gypsum Association, warns of proper application and proper treatment of dry wall construction in the first place. A third, a contractor, emphasizes the amount of work involved in a satisfactory job.

First we asked Douglas C. Arnold, president of Keystone Paint & Varnish. He said:

"Paper that has bulges, bubbles or blisters will not hold paint properly and will give an uneven finish. It is fairly simple to determine whether your paper is tight. Run your hand over every area. Check whether the paper is loose.

"Then be certain your paint will cover the pattern. Red and orange often bleed through because the ink in the pattern may be oil soluble under oil paint.

"Select a corner which is inconspicuous for a test. Let it dry for several hours. If there is no trace of pattern you can proceed."

To prevent wallpaper ink from striking through paint, Arnold suggests a coat of shellac or aluminum primer to seal the surface. Then paint is applied with sweeping fan-like strokes to prevent the paint from running.

Gypsum wallboard manufacturers, however, contend that shellac or ordinary glue size, used on bare wallboard before applying wallpaper, can prove too brittle. Peeling can be a hazard.

The correct sealer for gypsum wallboard is considered to be a good pigmented varnish primer or a lime-locking cold water primer. These are rated as suitable for oil paint, casein paint, lacquer, enamel or resin emulsion paint.

Manufacturers of rubber (latex) base paints say no sizing is required. Of course, careful concealment of all joints and nail-heads is taken for granted in all cases.

"Wallpaper should never be applied to gypsum wallboard without first priming the surface," says the Gypsum Association. "Sizing varnish or high gloss varnish are recommended. Special sealers specified by the wallboard manufacturers will protect the wallboard when removal of wallpaper becomes necessary."

The spreading preference for painting wallpaper can be readily understood when the problems of removal are weighed. Our contractor friend took a look at one fair-sized bedroom and said, "$200 without cost of new paper." The reason? Steaming off the old paper.

Painting seems to be a simple way out.

Mrs. Hobby's Aide's Job Affects All

By ANNETTE DAVIS

WASHINGTON—The general welfare of each individual citizen is the primary concern of Mrs. Jane Morrow Spaulding. An assistant to Secretary Oveta Culp Hobby of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, her job touches the lives of everyone in the country. She is the first Negro to be appointed to a high post in the Eisenhower administration.

"I have many projects going," she told me, "but I would rather discuss them after I have really accomplished something."

One of her main interests is medical research. "Medicine has changed," she said. "We must find new ways of coping with disease."

Mrs. Spaulding came into direct contact with medical and sanitation problems when her late husband, Dr. A. L. Spaulding, was assistant health commissioner for the city of Charleston, W. Va. They have one son who is a practicing physician in Chicago.

She is interested also in the problems of juvenile delinquency. She feels it is better to make certain a child has a decent place to live and play before he becomes a delinquent than to try and rehabilitate him afterward. One of her chief contributions was founding a day nursery and child shelter for dependent and neglected Negro children in West Virginia. It is the only private institution of its kind in the state.

Mrs. Spaulding, who attended Fisk University in Nashville, Tenn., is in great demand as a speaker. She told me she has always been a Republican but campaigned on a national scale for the first time in 1952. Active in women's organizations, she is on the executive board of the National Council of Negro Women.

DATE DATA

By Beverly Brandow

Love Or Line?

Take one moon, add a sky full of stars, a warm breeze and season with the drone of sweet nothings. This is the concoction of which romance is made.

Yet such evenings must end and the moon must give way to the reign of the blaring sun. Then it is that a girl wonders, "Was it the enchantment of the moment?—Or did he really mean it?" In other words, is it really love or a plished line?

If it's real, time will prove that there's more to it than pretty words that pet your ego. There will be action. "I love you" is a pretty clause, but don't take it seriously if there is not so much as a card on your birthday nor a remembrance on Christmas.

If you know he can well afford an expensive gift and yet you receive something that's downright cheap, better wake up to the fact that you've fallen for a line. When an important party comes along you won't be home alone because he's visiting a sick friend. He'll call frequently and when he has a date with you, he'll take you somewhere you'll enjoy going and he won't act as though it's going to land him in the poor house. (This is, of course, assuming that you really aren't a gold digger.)

He won't overdo the business of parking either or insist on special petting privileges because "this is love." On the contrary if he really is in love, he will be particularly eager not to shock or displease you. When it's love and not a line, your "NO" will be his command.

He will want to see you often and will go out of his way to do favors for you. If he goes on a vacation, he'll write. Not only this, but his appearance and his manners will be such that you can be proud of him.

Remember, words are cheap; it's actions that speak! (Got a problem? Write Beverly Brandow in care of The Herald.)

From Shimmy To Opera
"So This Is Love," film based on the life of the late Grace Moore, deals with her rise from the chorus line to starring in opera. Shown above is Kathryn Grayson, who plays Miss Moore, doing "The Shimmy," one of Miss Moore's earlier numbers. The picture shows Wednesday and Thursday at the State Theatre.

Bob Hope seems to be showing more devotion to Marilyn Maxwell than to his duty as a military policeman in this scene from "Off Limits," which shows today and Monday at the Ritz. Anyway that's what Mickey Rooney seems to think.

Hope, Rooney Star In 'Off Limits' Film

Bob Hope and Mickey Rooney are teamed in "Off Limits," the Paramount comedy which shows today and Monday at the Ritz Theatre. Adding a little spice to the story is Marilyn Maxwell, who plays, of all things, Rooney's aunt.

Ritz To Show Color Western Thursday, Friday

"The Stand at Apache River," is the Ritz film for Thursday and Friday. Beseiged in an inn on the bank of the Apache River in Arizona are an unusual assortment of characters. They include Sheriff Lane Dakota, played by Stephen McNally; his prisoner, Russell Johnson, charged with murder; a young woman who was en route to marry a rancher, Julia Adams; an Army officer, Hugh Marlowe; the grizzled operator of the river ferry, Forrest Lewis; the owner of the inn, Hugh O'Brien; his wife, Jacqueline Greene; and a guest at the inn with interests in the innkeeper's wife, Jack Kelly.

'So This Is Love' Is Full Of Melody

The ragtime-to-riches story of the late Grace Moore is presented on the screen in Technicolor in "So This Is Love," which is to show Wednesday and Thursday at the State Theatre. Kathryn Grayson has the part of the small town Tennessee girl who rose from a church choir to Broadway musicals to Hollywood films to the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House, used as a basis for the story in Miss Moore's autobiography, "You're Only Human Once."

Success Deserves A Kiss
Struggling playwright Victor Mature shows his model-wife, Jean Simmons, the contract for production of his new play in this scene from "Affair With A Stranger." The film shows today, Monday and Tuesday at the State Theatre.

Mature, Simmons Stars Of 'Affair With Stranger'

Showing today, Monday and Tuesday at the State Theatre is RKO's "Affair With A Stranger," which stars Victor Mature and Jean Simmons. Mature is a playwright and Miss Simmons plays his wife. The two meet in the abandon of New Year's Eve on Times Square when both are a little down on the world. She's successful but lonely as a model and he's broke but determined. Soon after their marriage, Mature becomes successful with the sale of one of his plays to Hollywood. More successes follow, but they bring a rocky time for the marriage with them. Mature is thrown into close contact with Monica Lewis, who plays the luscious singing star of his latest play, Miss Simmons scents a rival and goes into action to save her marriage. This drama of marriage and morals has as supporting actors, Jane Darwell, Mary Jo Tarola, Dabbs Greer, Wally Vernon, Nicholas

'The Hitch-Hiker' Is Due This Week At State Theatre

"The Hitch-Hiker," which has a Halloween showing at the Ritz, has its regular run here Friday and Saturday at the State Theatre. Edmond O'Brien and Frank Lovejoy are the motorists unlucky enough to be riding with the hitchhiker, played by William Talman. They are two peaceful citizens on a fishing trip to Mexico who offer a ride to the hitch-hiker before they realize that he is a murderer fleeing from the police. Suspense mounts as the two men try to outwit the desperate maniac before he reaches his destination and their death.

'So This Is Love' Is Full Of Melody

The ragtime-to-riches story of the late Grace Moore is presented on the screen in Technicolor in "So This Is Love," which is to show Wednesday and Thursday at the State Theatre. Kathryn Grayson has the part of the small town Tennessee girl who rose from a church choir to Broadway musicals to Hollywood films to the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House, used as a basis for the story in Miss Moore's autobiography, "You're Only Human Once."

Popular Network Programs Will Get Spotlight Today
"How Much More Shall Your Father Give," the inspiring story of a Galilean merchant who loses all his worldly goods and finds unremembered treasure in the love of his children, will be told on today's Greatest Story Ever Told. This ABC feature is heard on KBST at 4:30 p.m. This episode from "the greatest life ever lived" is based on a teaching from the Sermon on the Mount in the Gospel according to St. Matthew.
CORLISS ARCHER
Corliss and Dexter are standing on the outside looking on the inside at the school picnic. This is because Dexter spent the money on a new carburetor. Another amusing episode thus is presented on Meet Corliss Archer. KBST presents the ABC show this evening at 8:30.
OZZIE AND HARRIET
Chivalry is not dead, but Ozzie begins to wish that he were, when a generous gesture unconsciously generates a major project involving the other husbands in town. Ozzie finds he somehow "volunteered" to paint the woman's club building. However, when other husbands also are forced to "volunteer", Ozzie becomes their logical contender for the "man they'd most like to see walk the last mile."
This episode in the Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet is heard on KBST this evening at 9:30.

Mary Margaret
McBRIDE SAYS

"Mama's crying," my small brother announced in a awe-struck whisper. And when I rushed to see for myself, lo and behold, it was true. Mama, the imperturbable, she who solved her children's problems with such ease, was unpacking the ragged, buttonless, rumped garments I'd brought home from boarding school and tears were streaming down her cheeks.

When she saw me she cried even harder and it was quite awhile before she could speak to reproach me but she made her point by holding up to my guilty gaze the damning evidence. I began to cry right along with her and made anguished promises which I truly believe I have kept in spirit if not absolutely to the letter.

Mama's tears seem also to have set up in me an active prejudice against disorder in others. Take smokers. I don't smoke but I should have no objection to my associates doing it if only they wouldn't be so thoughtless, inconsiderate and mess-making.

For instance, why can't a smoker confine himself to a single ash container? Why must he perpetually ash-tray-hop, tapping a few ashes here, a few there, so that by the end of an hour every receptacle in the room including flower pots, piano tops and bonbon dishes bears evidences of his ruthless presence? Even then, if he would clean up his unwholesome debris I could forgive him. Instead, he goes blithely away, leaving the unsavory job to me.

A non-smoking hostess and I often commiserate with each other. The other day she told me of an experience with a mutual friend of ours who habitually lights one cigarette off another.

"Please give me something to do," pleaded this woman during a weekend visit. But when the chore of cleaning ashtrays was proposed, she refused, protesting, "That's such a DIRTY job."

If I seem to dwell overlong on unmannerly smokers, it's because I've just gone through a weekend with one. I can be just as vocal about other destroyers of my peace of mind, as, for instance, the obnoxious creature who invariably beats me to the Sunday newspapers. Nothing, except maybe a March wind, can produce such a scene of confusion as a Sunday newspaper in ruffian hands. Then there are the people who eat apples and leave the discarded skin and core in the fruit dish for me to deal with.

Just as enraging is the noisy nutcracker who scatters shells over my only Oriental rug and another cheerful barbarian who sets down wet glasses to leave ineradicable rings on my best rosewood table. Although I love them, I look forward with dread to the visits of two sisters I know who throw their coats, hats and scarves on all the available chairs, kick off their shoes and generally make my living room look as though a tornado had struck it, no matter who else is there.

Still, you never know. One of
