Watergate Case Brings Rebounding Allegations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst today announced he has disqualified himself from participating in the administration's Watergate investigation because it involves people with whom "I have had personal and professional relationships."
Meanwhile, President

Nixon's official counsel, John W. Dean III, responded to news reports implicating him in the affair, by saying he will not be made a scapegoat.

The Washington Post reported that Jeb S. Magruder, formerly the No. 2 man in the Nixon campaign, has told federal prosecutors that Dean and former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell helped plan the Watergate bugging last year, and later arranged payoffs to buy silence from defendants in the case.

Mitchell told newsmen outside his New York City apartment this morning that the report was "nonsense."

Magruder himself was absent from his home and his office in the Commerce Department.

Dean, who has maintained a stony silence about past allegations linking him to the case, today took the unusual step of issuing a statement directly to the news media through his White House office. He by-passed press secretary Ronald Ziegler.

He said he wouldn't comment again in the future, but said he hopes people "will be careful in drawing any conclusions as to the guilt or involvement of any persons until all the facts are known and until each person has had an opportunity to testify."

"Finally, some may hope or think that I will become a scapegoat in the Watergate case. Anyone who believes this does not know me, know the true facts nor understand our system of justice."

Kleindienst said he withdrew from the Watergate probe last Sunday, the day he met with President Nixon and Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen to discuss the case.

Kleindienst, who had served under Mitchell at the Justice Department, said he withdrew from the investigation because of information which relates to persons with whom I have had personal or professional relationships.

Kleindienst, in a three-paragraph statement issued at the Justice Department, said Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry Petersen will take over full control of the administration's Watergate probe, reporting only to President Nixon.

Magruder was absent from his home in suburban Maryland this morning. His lawyer said late Wednesday night that he would testify voluntarily when called before a federal grand jury. The Post said that would be today.

Mitchell, a former U.S. attorney general and chief of President Nixon's re-election campaign, called the Post story "nonsense."

"This is a little sillier as it goes along, doesn't it," he said to a newsman as he left his New York City apartment.

Dean, who is counsel to President Nixon, could not be reached.

At the White House, deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren said: "The White House is not prepared to react to a story based on sources. At a time when the rights of individuals would not be jeopardized by a comment, an appropriate comment will be made."

DeVan L. Shumway, spokesman for the Committee for the Re-Election of the President, said he had no knowledge of the matter.

The Post quoted sources in the executive branch as saying Dean might soon resign from the White House staff, and that presidential chief of staff H. R. Haldeman might follow suit. The newspaper quoted sources as saying there is "no known evidence" linking Haldeman to criminal involvement in the Watergate affair.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers today warned Hanoi that unless it lives up to the Vietnam cease-fire agreement, the Nixon administration will drop its plans to provide economic assistance.

"Obviously, we have no intention of asking Congress for assistance to North Vietnam unless that peace agreement is fully implemented," Roger's spokesman said.

The secretary said he realized it is "unrealistic to expect peaceful habits to come easily to an area engaged in warfare for so long."

Economy Shows Rapid Advance With Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government today reported the economy advanced at a rapid rate of 14.3 per cent during the first quarter of the year, with inflation soaring at a rate of 6 per cent.

The Commerce Department said the country's gross national product rose $40.6 billion from January through March to reach a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $1,235 trillion.

The increase compares with a GNP advance in the fourth quarter of last year $30.9 billion or 11 per cent at an annual rate.

The gross national product is the value of the nation's output of goods and services and is the broadest indication of the economy's performance.

Without the rate of inflation of 6 per cent, the real output during the first quarter was 7.9 per cent, compared with real growth of 8 per cent in the fourth quarter of 1972.

But the rate of inflation of 6 per cent during the period was bad news for the economy. It was the biggest quarterly jump since the fourth quarter of 1970 when it was 6.3 per cent.

Consumer expenditures accounted for a major portion of the first-quarter increase. They were up $28 billion in the first quarter, compared with $17.1 billion in the fourth quarter last year.

Purchases of durable goods increased $9.3 billion compared with the increase of $2.2 billion in the previous quarter, and purchases of autos and related equipment were up $4.8 billion.

New car sales reached 12.5 million units at an annual rate.

New City Golf Tourney Plans Finalized Today

At a meeting this morning in the offices of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, plans were finalized for the initiation of a new Pampa Men's City Golf Tournament.

The tourney will be sponsored by Celanese Chemical Co. and the chamber. Bill Ellis, representing Celanese, and the sports committee of the chamber met at 10:30 a.m. to discuss the matter and make plans for the event.

The tournament will be conducted on two successive weekends (June 9-10 and June 16-17) at the Celanese golf course.

hopefuls must qualify; all other flights will be done by handicaps. Losers in the first round will move into the consolation bracket.

Practice rounds have been scheduled for June 4-6. Championship qualifying will be conducted on those days also.

The entry fee for the tournament will be $6. That will entitle every entrant to at least three rounds of golf.

Winds Hit Pampa, Panhandle Areas

By RAY BAXTER
Weather?

Would you believe a hurricane? In the Panhandle? Weather observers call it a wind warning and are just as sincere about the seriousness of it as they are about tornadoes.

Residents of the Panhandle and a wide area of west Texas were warned to be extremely careful to avoid flying objects since winds are expected to reach velocity considered hurricane force.

At 10 a.m. today a citizen band contact reported winds reaching an official 100 miles per hour at Amarillo.

A roof of a warehouse at the corner of Rider and Alcock Sts. was partially blown off. A tree in the 500 Block of Starkweather had been knocked over, as had a traffic signal at the corner of Foster and Hobart Sts.

A canopy at the Dairy Queen on North Hobart reportedly had been damaged by the winds, with other reports of similar damage to other structures throughout the city.

At least one person had been blown down by the wind with minor cuts and torn clothes.

Weather during the night, with a tornado watch being issued until 2 a.m. for surrounding areas.

The severe weather dropped 2.7-inch of rain during a heavy shower accompanied by up to marble-sized hail.

Tornado watches were also issued for Lubbock and Plainview areas. Plainview had been hit by a tornado early Sunday morning.

ON HIGHWAY FUNDS VOTE

Senate Kills Transit Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House today rejected a 215-to-190 Senate-passed amendment that would have permitted cities to spend their share of federal highway trust funds for mass transit projects.

The vote was subject to final approval of a $25.6-billion highway bill to which the amendment for the authority was proposed.

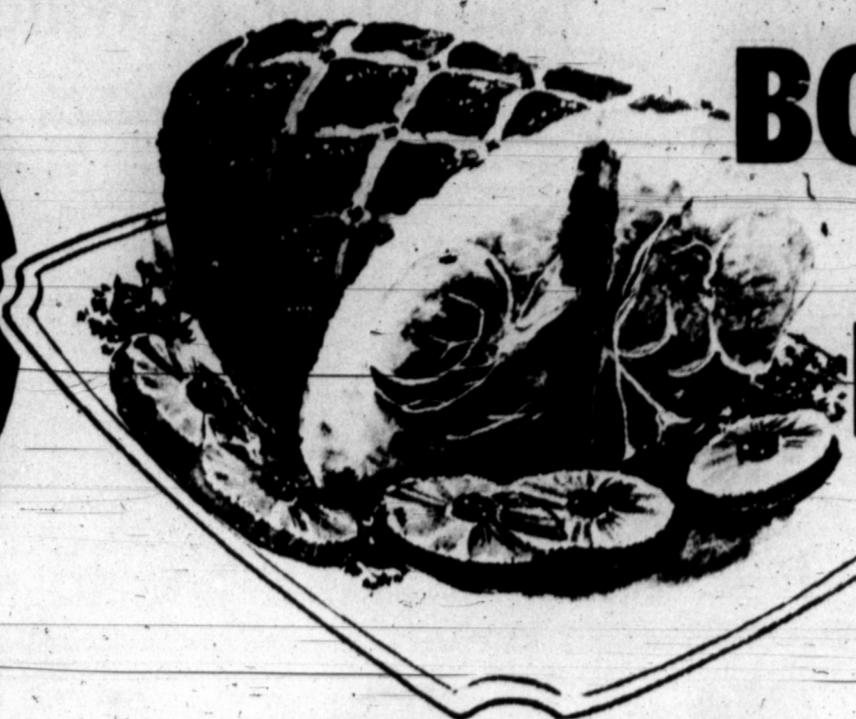

Highway supporters, including Rep. William H. Harsha, R-Ohio, contended the action would bankrupt the highway trust fund. He said the fund does not have enough money for both highways and mass transit.

Rep. John B. Anderson, R-Ill., quoted President Nixon as telling congressional leaders Wednesday that the role of the automobile must be re-examined if the nation is to solve its energy crisis.

Mass transit forces enlisted governors and mayors across the country as well as one of President Nixon's top aides in a lobbying drive for the vote and claimed before they lost that they thought they were going to win.

"It's going to be a squeaker," said Republican floor leader John B. Anderson of Illinois. "But I think we have the votes."

Pioneer Re-Elects Directors

AMARILLO — Stockholders of Pioneer Natural Gas Co. at their annual meeting here reelected the present nine directors of the company.

Company officials discussed operations and pointed out Pioneer's accelerated activities in the areas of natural gas and uranium exploration.

In a meeting of the board held immediately after the annual meeting directors declared a quarterly dividend of 21 cents per share on the outstanding common stock payable June 1, 1973, to stockholders of record on May 10, 1973. In additional action the board reelected the current board of officers.

It was announced at the board meeting that Burton P. Smith, president and chief executive officer of the company, would take early retirement on June 1, 1973. Smith will continue on the board and serve as chairman of the executive committee, a position he now holds.

Smith, who joined Pioneer in 1955 as vice president and financial officer, was named to the board of the company in 1966 and in 1969 was named president and chief executive officer. He will take up residence in Gunnison, Colo. upon his retirement.

The directors elected K. Bert (Tex) Watson to the office of president and chief executive officer of Pioneer effective June 1, 1973.

Directors returned to the board are A.F. Cox, J. Harvey Herd, Laurence R. Jones, Jr., M.E. Purnell, Jr., Burton P. Smith, A.C. Verner, W.E. Walker, Jr., C.I. Wall and K. Bert (Tex) Watson.

Judges Fined

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — Six Spaniards have been fined $3,500 each for judging a poetry contest outside Spain in which the top prizes were named for foes of Generalissimo Francisco Franco in the Civil War, the Catholic news agency Logos reported today.

The fines were approved by Franco and his cabinet on April 6, the agency said.

US Diplomats Have Meeting In Bangladesh

DACCA, Bangladesh (AP) — U.S. Deputy Secretary of State Kenneth Rush and Joseph Sisco, the assistant secretary for Near Eastern and South Asian affairs, met for 40 minutes Wednesday with Prime Minister Mujibur Rahman.

A spokesman for Rahman called the meeting "important" but gave no details.

Rush called the offer by India and Bangladesh Tuesday to exchange nearly all of the 90,000 Pakistani prisoners from the December 1971 war "a step toward reconciliation which was welcomed by the United States." There has been no response from Pakistan.

Goldwater Provides Phone Service

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Family voices with reassuring hometown news or excited birth announcements flowed to South Vietnam during the war through an amateur radio station operated by Sen. Barry Goldwater. Now the station links servicemen in Thailand and the Philippines with their homes.

The station carried three-minute broadcast-telephone calls from South Vietnam until all stations there were closed as troops were withdrawn.

More than 132,000 telephone calls have passed through the amateur radio transmitters operated by the Arizona Republican since the facility became a Military Affiliate Radio Station in August 1967. Under the system, a serviceman places his call through an overseas transmitter. It is relayed through Goldwater's station into the telephone system.

Thirty-two amateur radio operators work in shifts at the station in the basement of Goldwater's home in northeast Phoenix. They are members of a club called "Bash Hal Ne Ae," Navajo for "metal that talks."

"He runs it himself, when he's available," said an operator about Goldwater, the unsuccessful Republican candidate for president in 1964.

"Goldwater pays for all Arizona calls, no matter where they are," said Robert Chamberlain, one of the operators. Persons receiving calls outside Arizona pay only the telephone tolls from Phoenix to their homes.

Chamberlain said the station has handled as many as 150 calls a day in a radio room marked by the Arizona senator's two-star general plaque. Goldwater is a member of the Air Force Reserve.

So far this year, the station has handled over 6,000 calls.

"When we're running patches, the telephone company assigns an operator to us," Chamberlain said. "When one call is finished, the operator puts another on, so its continuous."

Chamberlain said most people are unaware that their messages are being relayed through Goldwater's equipment.

He said the senator has asked the operators not to publicize it. But he added that the word leaked out and the senator has received numerous letters of appreciation.

British Warships

Anglo-Saxon King Alfred built the first English warships at Portsmouth, home port of the British navy, in 897. A contemporary chronicler wrote that the 60-oared galleys "were of a peculiar build, higher, swifter and steeper than those of the Danes or the Frisians."

Holiday Camps
SUVA, Fiji (AP) - The Fijian Senate, which last year restored hanging for capital crimes, described the island's jails today as "luxurious holiday camps" and unanimously urged more corporal punishment to curb the rising crime rate.
Some senators said that life inside jail is better than outside for many Fijians. They claimed islanders were deliberately committing crimes to be sent to prison.

Ratings Produce Cancellations Of TV Shows

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - When a television network cancels a show, you can usually look for the reason in the ratings.
A show that can't pull in at least a third of the audience is not only in trouble, it's a money loser. It is difficult to sell to advertisers and usually pulls down the ratings of the shows that precede or follow it.
That brings up the case of CBS' "Bridget Loves Bernie." Here was a show that started off in the top five of the ratings and was regularly in the top 10. Yet when the networks recently announced next fall's schedules, "Bridget" was not listed.
In this case the ratings were deceiving. "Bridget" was slotted directly behind "All in the Family," the No. 1 show of the season. Even a test pattern immediately following "All in the Family" would get a high rating.

The show, about the intermarriage of a Jewish man and a Catholic woman, drew protest from both Jewish and Catholic groups, and one eminent rabbi said, "The program treats intermarriage in a cavalier, cute, condoning fashion, and deals with its inevitable problems as though they're instantly, easily solvable."
Nevertheless, that reportedly is not the real reason the show was canceled.
As the season progressed, it became evident "Bridget" was not holding its own and was buoyed to its lofty ratings only because of the audience overflow from "All in the Family."

More important, it was not able to hold onto that audience and was hurting the highly regarded "Mary Tyler Moore Show" that followed.
Altogether, the three networks canceled 15 other shows. In all cases, it was due to anemic ratings.
"Laugh-In," a onetime ratings champion and the show that probably changed television more than any other, was among the victims.
"Laugh-In" stayed at the top only as long as it was fresh and the material good. When the freshness departed and the material became predictable and repetitious, it faded in the ratings. In its final year it ran third to "Gunsmoke" and "The Rookies."

After five years, Doris Day wanted out. In the early years, her show underwent annual format changes. She started as a farm girl and ended up a chic career woman, a sort of pale carbon of the roles she used to play in the movies. Her show also had dropped in the ratings and apparently there was mutual agreement to end it.
"Mod Squad" had been a trend setter in its day. Last year, the prime-time access rule went into effect on Tuesday night. This year the show moved to Thursday. There it was trounced by Flip Wilson and "The Waltons."

In addition, Clarence Williams III and Peggy Lipton wanted out, and only Michael Cole agreed to stay. It was decided to audition performers for all three leads, but in the end ABC decided the show had outlived its usefulness and new stars would not revive it.
"Mission: Impossible" is another show that died of old age. When the show first came on it was a sensation, but the complicated plots became old-hat after seven years.
The other victims were all new shows that never got off the ground.

Paul Lynde, for example, was unable to capitalize on his wide popularity as the most frequent guest on other people's TV shows.
Flight Delayed
WIESBADEN, Germany (AP) - The U.S. Air Force said Wednesday it canceled a supply flight for the American Embassy in Moscow because the Soviet Union denied permission for it. No reason was given for the Soviet action.
The plane had been scheduled to fly from Wiesbaden to Moscow via Copenhagen on Tuesday.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Larry's criticism should challenge all coeds who wish to gain a wedding ring. For girls should focus on the "customer" and find what he prefers! Mascara and eye shadow symbolize sex playmates but not the girls who get wedding rings!

CASE W-582: Larry Z., aged 20, is a university senior.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "why do coeds act like silly sheep and try to ape all the freakish fads in the realm of cosmetics?"

"For example, I have noticed that it is usually the girls from the small towns who are more likely to go to excess in their use of eye shadow, mascara, false eyelashes and excessive lipstick."

"And they also stampede to smoke cigarettes, as well as take alcoholic drinks instead of a cola beverage."

"Most men look on mascara as the evidence of a girl who wants to make people think she is a potential Hollywood starlet."

"Yet the men I know are turned off by the sickly blue eye shadow and especially by false eyelashes and beady mascara that oozes on your shirt collar."

"If girls would spend more time learning how to carry on jolly conversation and if they'd apply your 'Compliment Club' strategy, they'd be much more popular with men."

FEARFUL COEDS

Girls from smaller towns are often afflicted with a social inferiority complex.

For they grossly overrate the knowledge of their city sisters. It requires courage and self-confidence to resist the stampede tendency of sheep and, alas, most girls are 2-legged ewes.

So they try to flee into the anonymity of the crowd and meld with what they think are the social pace-setters.

The cigarette advertisers thus would depict a coed strolling in an apple orchard in Spring, with a gallant escort beside her.

When the boy would proffer her a cigarette, she would take it and accept the flame he held to its far end.

Then she'd soon snort smoke out of both nostrils, thus looking like the old locomotive smokestack of the days when trains were stoked with soft coal.

Most girls in America really didn't enjoy smoking, but they wanted to mimic their sophisticated sisters, so they'd choke and splutter and get sick as they became initiated into this social habit.

The cigarette manufacturers first stamped girls into the use of cigarettes while I was stationed at Smith College in Northampton, Massachusetts.

And we men of the town had difficulty finding a suitable restaurant thereafter, for the girls would try to smoke at the tables, holding the cigarette with one hand while trying to other. They'd also leave the tables strewn with ashes and even contaminate the sugar bowls likewise.

So we men had to dine in a downtown hotel to get away from such stampeding fillies.

Larry is quite right in saying men are rebuffed by many of the smeary fads in cosmetics. "Then why are the girls so frantic in adopting them?" you may ask.

Well, girls dress primarily to mimic their female fashion pace-setters, and only secondarily consider their main targets, namely, M-E-N.

Of the 50,000 male applicants to our famous Scientific Marriage Foundation, only ONE ever asked us to introduce him to a girl who smoked or drank liquor!

But that fact doesn't register with girls, for if they see a cigarette ad depicting a coed sucking on a cigarette, they stampede after their coed pace setter, though alienating men.

Fat, elephantine girls with thighs as thick as tree trunks would also don the most abbreviated mini-skirts (as would the bowlegged and knock-kneed females) just because fashion leaders did so, though they appeared doubly ridiculous to men!

Homosexual men are often the designers of female fashions and women then stampede to look just alike!

So Why Is A Widower Just Messing Around?

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks a widower gets tired of hearing.

"You'll love to meet her, Joe—she's just your type."

"You've got to quit thinking of the past. After all, you're still a young man—comparatively speaking, anyway."

"Why don't you come eat with us tonight, Joe? Me and the missus aren't speaking, and maybe you could help break the deadlock."

"Listen, old pal, will you do a buddy a favor? How about me borrowing your apartment tonight? You could go to the movies or something."

"How's your love life, kid? A guy with his own salary to spend—I'll bet you have to beat them away with a baseball bat."

"You'll thank me later for introducing you to her, Joe. She sews her own clothes and likes opera."

"This is the second time you've had us up here this month, sir. Don't you know you're not supposed to try to flush hot grease and paper towels down the toilet simply because your sink is full of dishes?"

"Did you ever think you might be too particular, Joe? You know you're not getting any younger, and beggars can't be choosers."

"I'd like to go to the poker game with you tonight, Joe, but I can't. My wife and I are celebrating our 20th wedding anniversary."

"You're not the only one who misses her, Mr. Joe. It's so lonely now when I come to clean your apartment. Every minute I still keep expecting to hear her call from another room. She was a real lady."

"I don't blame you for not rushing into another marriage, Joe. I rushed into three of them—and I'll probably die in alimony jail."

All in the Family Cymbal Making

By RODNEY PRIDER
ISTANBUL (AP) — What do the Grenadier Guards, Armenian churches, jazz bands and Carnegie Hall have in common? They all use cymbals made in Istanbul by a family which has been making them since the early 17th century.

The Zilcan family has been at work since 1623 producing ILLINOIS TESTS DRIVERS AT NIGHT (CHICAGO AP) — High-level lighting systems at three driver test centers here have accomplished two beneficial results — efficiency of the stations is up and irritation associated with having a student driver in the family is down.

The systems, consisting of 1,000-watt Metalarc lamps, in Acres of Late fixtures, made it possible for the state of Illinois to extend driver tests beyond daylight hours. Both the lamps and the massive fixtures, which spread an average of 5 foot-candles of light per acre of ground, are produced by GFE, Sylvania Inc.

The lights were installed to make it easier for working parents who found it inconvenient to accompany their student drivers to test centers during normal working hours. The longer operational hours also greatly increased the testing capacity of the centers. About 43 per cent of all tests are performed under lights.

Every year some 7.6 million television sets are tossed on garbage heaps throughout the United States.

nothing but the finest cymbals, from a formula handed down from father to son and still kept a solemn secret. They make their own alloy, cast their own molds, and hammer, batter, scrape and polish them into the final product, which they treat as tenderly as hi-fi fans treat their most cherished records.

The end product, they say, is the best in the world, and the list of customers is impressive. Some 2,000 to 3,000 pairs are exported each year, most of them to America, at prices ranging from $20 to $100.

The Zilcans, an Armenian family, have only a small share of the world cymbal market, and the American branch of the family, established at Weymouth, Mass., for the past 50 years, produces many more than are made here.

The Zilcans attribute the quality of their instruments to their secret formula, and the fact that all the stages, including mixing the alloy of copper and tin, are done in the same workshop.

The workshop is a one-room, high-roofed shed in the slums outside the 4th century city walls of Istanbul where it stands cheek by jowl with live animal traders, auto repair shops and fitters and turners.

Inside nine workmen, some Turks and some Armenians, hammer and hone and burnish and polish. The noise they create makes conversation below a whisper impossible.

This finer tuning is done at the end of the day when the noise stops, shouted Keropé Zilcan, 60, the cousin of the present owner Mikhail, 65.

The cymbals come in four thicknesses — paper-thin, thin, medium, and medium-thick and in any number of diameters, from 10 inches to 24 inches, depending on the specification of the buyer. The paper-thin and thin cymbals are used by dance bands, the medium by symphony orchestras, and the thick by military bands such as that of the Grenadier Guards.

The firm of Toledo Brothers handles the orders and the exporting, and their representative calls each night at the workshop to collect the 20 or so cymbals produced during the day.

These have to be picked up gingerly by the edges — touch one and the perspiration has to be immediately rubbed off with a rag or the tone will be spoiled, Keropé Zilcan said.

Cymbals have been in use as musical instruments since the Bronze Age, and are probably the oldest musical instruments man has. Primitive tribes in New Guinea and Australia use a wide variety of objects — stones, shells, and sticks to clash together to maintain the rhythm for their songs, and these certainly pre-date primitive wind instruments made from hollow branches and the much later stringed instruments made from animal sinews.

The Zilcan family cannot trace their origins back to pre-history, but they still have records to show they were producing cymbals for the Meh-tar bands of the Ottoman army's Janissary corps, which terrified the armies of Europe with their shrill pipes and clashing cymbals. More peacefully, they still provide the Armenian Patriarchal church here with the cymbals used to accompany the choir at the Liturgy.

MUSIC MAKERS. — The Zilcan family in Istanbul has been making cymbals since 1623. The formula they use is handed down from father to son and still is kept a solemn secret. In the two pictures above, a workman is shown working on a cymbal and holding the finished product.

Cymbals, it seems, wear out in time, and there is a constantly growing demand from newly-formed orchestras, especially school orchestras, which keeps the trade going.

The present owner of the factory has no son to carry on the trade, but a nephew, also called Mikhail, who is currently studying in Paris, is to take over the business.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Repetition is a major factor in teaching so photographic fundamentals must often be repeated for thorough understanding. To experienced hobbyists, a lesson that is repeated is a chance to review and confirm information, for beginners, it's something to digest and start to apply.

One basic message, which you've heard before, is: strive for photographic simplicity.

It sounds simple but thinking photographers will find it takes extra effort, extra thought, extra steps and sometimes extra equipment to take simpler pictures. But they are generally more effective.

To do without the branches sprouting out of a person's head, he'd change the camera angle. He could aim up, down or to either side in order to avoid a merger with the background. He could also come in closer and concentrate on filling the picture frame with only the vital elements of a single picture idea. Photographs often contain more than one center of interest and each one demands attention. By making each the center of interest of individual pictures, each photo gains strength through simplification.

There's another way to come closer to a subject when it's not possible to walk nearer because of some sort of barrier. The solution is to use a telephoto lens to bridge the distance. A simple background is often the key factor in achieving photographic simplicity. A background, by the way, is that part of the picture that camera fans usually never see until it shows up in a print or slide or movie — and then it's too late to change.

It's almost impossible to get pleasing photos of people when the pictures are victims of messy backgrounds. If it's an outdoors setting, aiming the camera up produces nature's simplest, most natural background — the sky. It's a perfect setting for monuments, buildings, flowers, pets — almost anything — as well as people.

At other times, aiming the camera down from a high vantage point results in all-over backgrounds of sand or grass, water or snow, wood floors or concrete courtyards, etc. And again, subjects against simple backgrounds like these make easier-to-see, stronger photographs.

Indoors, the careful cameraman will select a plain wall or uncluttered background to shoot against so there will be no visual competition with the subject in whatever pose or situation develops.

So remember, each time you take a picture, it takes a conscious effort to study the background as well as the subject and make sure they are compatible. If they aren't, improve the background by simplification.

Still another way to separate the principal subject from a messy background — or foreground — is by a shooting technique called "selective focus."

It's done by focusing sharply on the subject only and shooting with the lens wide open and at the speed necessary for proper exposure.

With the lens at full open aperture, and the focus set at the subject distance only, the background becomes an indistinguishable blur. This technique works best when the subject is fairly close (up to about eight feet away) and the background is at infinity (trees or buildings more than 50 feet away), or when the close-up foreground (and the background) are out of focus because the camera is focused sharply at the subject about 15 feet away. If the lens aperture were closed down, the range of focus would extend to the foreground and background and defeat this technique.

Finally, one more way for camera fans to simplify pictures is by making use of special lighting. When photos are shot by sidelighting and backlighting, the tonal elements in the picture are reduced as the shadow areas become darker. This method of simplifying pictures often makes them more dramatic. Sunrise and sunset pictures can be extreme examples of simplification because all details are usually lost and only silhouette outlines remain. They, too, make exciting pictures.

If you make good grades at school

You're the one we want (especially if you plan to go to college)

We've noticed it. Our best carriers all seem to be above-average students. Perhaps it's because in the daily management of their routes, they apply the lessons they learn in the classroom. Like arithmetic in making change and in keeping a record of their profits. Or, maybe it's because newspaper route management is just one of those things a good student can do well. In any case, if your grades are A's and B's and you plan to go to college, we want to hear from you. We can show you how to build a savings account that can be a help when you get there. Why not get started today... by calling us. There may be a route available in your neighborhood.
