

What Should Public Do When Tornado Warning Is Issued?

By TEX DEWESE

What is John Q. Citizen supposed to do when Pampa is under a tornado warning or tornado watch?

What goes on behind the scenes and how is the public informed when the U.S. Weather Office sends out the first warning of a weather alert or watch for severe thunderstorms?

These and other questions have been uppermost in the minds of Pampans during the past weeks of tornadoes, high winds and severe thunderstorms.

To get some answers we met the other night with city and county officials, the Civil Defense coordinator for Gray County and members of the Citizens Band Radio Club.

The Top O' Texas Citizens Band Radio Club has approximately 48 members to assist governmental agencies in any way possible. In addition they will have four base stations on the air with mobile units in the field according to the need.

Police and sheriff departments, the civil defense coordinator, fire department, city street and sanitation departments, public utilities, radio stations, State Highway Patrol, Citizens Band Radio Club members all work together to keep the watch over threatened areas.

The Police Station is the central coordinating point for information which is to be relayed to the public.

Pampa's two radio stations play a vital role in getting information to the public during an emergency or approaching disaster.

Information compiled at the central information point is immediately transmitted to them.

Police Chief Conner said both Pampa radio stations are equipped with teletypes to receive information from the Amarillo Weather Bureau. Both have police radios in one of their mobile units. Both stations also send out mobile units and report weather and cloud conditions directly to the listening public.

The police stressed that the public in Pampa should learn not to call the police station or the radio stations during weather alerts.

Citizens seeking information, he said, should turn on their home or office radios and listen for reports on what is happening and any probability of disaster.

To call the radio stations or the police station or sheriff's department, he said, only lies up the telephones and causes delay in getting information to the general public via Stations KGRO and KPND.

"It is so important that our telephone lines do not become clogged and tied up," Chief Conner said.

Now, the question: (See Page 3)

Watergate Charges Continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two of President Nixon's most important aides and closest advisers have hired a lawyer to represent them in connection with the Watergate case.

Washington attorney John J. Wilson confirmed Saturday that he represents H.R. Haldeman, chief of staff at the White House, and John D. Ehrlichman, Nixon's chief domestic adviser.

The Washington Star-News, meanwhile, quoted sources as saying plans for the Watergate bugging were personally approved by former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

Mitchell had denied Friday ever approving such plans although he conceded they had been suggested to him during the 1972 presidential campaign he managed for Nixon.

Sources close to Mitchell also confirmed on Saturday reports that Mitchell told a grand jury that he believes people in the campaign went over or around him to get approval of the bugging.

The sources said Mitchell contends the bugging and other espionage was done against his will and without his having been told about it. The sources said information about the incident was kept from Mitchell even after five men were arrested in the act of burglarizing and bugging Democratic party headquarters.

Mitchell told a federal grand jury Friday that he approved funds from Nixon campaign funds for the seven men arrested in the case but that it was only for their legal defense, the sources said.

Wilson said he was hired by Haldeman and Ehrlichman during the past week to advise them in connection with Watergate.

"I was retained to consult with them in regard to things concerning them in the news media," Wilson said.

Asked if this meant the Watergate case, Wilson said, "the things in the media had something to do with the Watergate, didn't they?"

Wilson said, however, that he was only giving advice at this point and that neither man had been summoned to appear before the federal grand jury now probing the political espionage case.

In Key Biscayne, Fla., where President Nixon is spending the Easter weekend, a White House source said Haldeman and Ehrlichman retained an attorney simply because their names have appeared in various news accounts relating to Watergate.

The White House source said that the action was not associated with any wrongdoing.

Haldeman and Ehrlichman, who usually spend holiday weekends with the presidential party and generally take their families, were not in Key Biscayne this weekend. A spokesman said only that they were spending the holiday with their families.

A source close to the Senate investigation of the Watergate case reported last month that convicted Watergate conspirator James W. McCord had said Haldeman had to be aware of the Watergate operation.

And Republican Sen. Lowell P. Weicker of Connecticut, a member of the Senate investigating committee, said in a television panel show April 1 that he believes Haldeman "knew what was going on" in connection with the Watergate burglary and wiretapping.

However, on April 4, committee chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., and ranking Republican member Howard Baker Jr., of Tennessee said "as of this time it has received no evidence of any nature" linking Haldeman to political espionage.

The only reference to Ehrlichman in connection with the bugging and bread-in-at-Democratic-party-headquarters last year came from L. Patrick

Gray III during his unsuccessful quest of Senate confirmation as director of the FBI.

Gray told the Senate Judiciary Committee that he had been "called on the carpet" by Ehrlichman and White House counsel John W. Dean III during last fall's presidential campaign about leaks to the press about the Watergate investigation.

Gantz To Lead PUF Campaign

David Gantz, industrial relations representative for the Cabot Corporation, will direct the Pampa United Fund's 1973-74 fund-raising campaign. PUF officials announced this week.

Gantz, a Pampa native and a 1956 graduate of Pampa High School, received a bachelor of science degree and a teaching certificate from West Texas

State College before taking a position with Cabot in 1961.

Since that time, Gantz has represented his company in the accounting, labor relations and production fields in Texas, Louisiana, Kentucky and Massachusetts.

The new PUF drive chairman has been active in civic and church affairs in every community in which he has lived. At WTSC, he served two years as a class representative in the student government and was resident supervisor of the Episcopal student center.

In Farmington, Mass., where he was employed as employee benefits manager at Cabot's Boston office, Gantz served on the administrative board of the Methodist Church and directed their first stewardship campaign.

In Pampa, Gantz has worked with the Optimist Club's Little League program and the Pampa Youth Center's industrial softball league. At present, he is a member of the Kiwanis Club and attends the First Christian Church.

Having recently returned from his Boston assignment, Gantz, his wife, Robin, and their three children live at 2132 Mary Ellen.

Security Council Condemns Israel

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — With the three super-powers abstaining, the Security Council on Saturday condemned Israel for its commando attacks against Lebanon. The United States and the Soviet Union then clashed on the question of arms deliveries to the Middle East.

Israel disclaimed the vote and promised that it "will continue to protect the people of Israel from Arab murder attacks."

The vote in the 15-nation council was 11 to 0 on a British-French resolution that also condemned "all acts of violence which endanger or take innocent lives," a reference to Palestinian terrorism. Guinea joined the United States, the Soviet Union and China in Abstaining.

The council debated more than a week on a complaint by Lebanon about Israel's commando strike into Beirut on April 10 which killed three Palestinian guerrilla leaders.

After the vote, U.S. Ambassador John A. Scali said he had heard "several distorted and one-sided references to U.S. assistance in meeting Israel's legitimate defense needs."

He said the United States "does not propose to sit idly by while others pour arms into the Middle East for one side, thus tempting some governments that with these new arms they could risk another round of the Mideast war."

Scali apparently referred, among other things, to reports of Soviet deliveries of MIG fighter planes to Syria.

Residents Set Easter Plans

Most Pampa and area residents planned to observe Easter today in various church services and other activities, hopefully brightened by warm spring weather.

Christian churches scheduled special services in celebrating the resurrection of Jesus the Christ.

Families planned picnics and visits to friends and relatives on the holiday.

Many grocery stores and other businesses usually open for trade on Sunday closed to allow their employees to spend the day with family and friends. Normal operations will resume tomorrow.

Weather forecasts called for clear to partly cloudy skies with a high near 70. A cooling trend will appear tonight, but temperatures are expected to drop only slightly with an overnight low in the mid-30s and a high Monday in the mid-60s.

With clear skies, gentle breezes and bright sunshine beaming on the area Saturday, many residents took to the parks or traveled on visits.

Pilgrims Celebrate Easter' Passover

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pilgrims marching through the streets of Jerusalem bucked cold winds, and visitors to Rome saw a rare Easter snowfall as they and others around the world celebrated Christianity's most joyous feast.

Pope Paul VI discarded penitential purple robes and changed to joyous white Saturday to mark the end of the mournful Lenten season and herald the resurrection of Christ.

The pontiff stood on the porch of St. Peter's Basilica and carved a cross, an alpha and an omega — first and last letters of the Greek alphabet — in his tall white Easter candle. The scattered snowflakes that fell across Rome in the morning had melted away by the time he lighted the paschal flame and carried it into the basilica.

"Here is Christ, here is the light," a deacon chanted.

Changed into the white vestments to symbolize the joy of Easter, Pope Paul celebrated the only Easter vigil Mass allowed before sunset in the Roman Catholic Church. He planned to say a second Mass in the open air on Easter morning for Romans and pilgrims in St. Peter's Square.

Pilgrims in Jerusalem were chilled by winds sacking down the narrow streets of the Old City as they walked to Holy Saturday services at the Crusader-era Church of the Holy Sepulchre. The 800-year-old church marks the site where tradition says Jesus suffered, died and lay three days before rising from the dead.

Jewish pilgrims who traveled to the Holy City to wind up the seven-day festival of Passover gathered at the Walling Wall, Judaism's holiest shrine.

They and the Christian pilgrims were protected by units of the Israeli army. Tight security precautions were ordered because of government fears that Palestinian guerrillas might try to disrupt the Easter observances or celebrations of Israel's 25th anniversary set for next week.

The jubilant religious festival also provided the occasion for secular enjoyment in many countries where families traveled to mountain and seashore resorts.

Policy Information Lacking In Quality

WASHINGTON (AP) — A two-year study concludes that much of the foreign policy information the administration is required by law to give Congress—particularly on U.S. military aid—is too little, too late and often incomprehensible.

The 427-page report released Saturday by the House Foreign Affairs Committee and Senate Foreign Relations Committee said, for example,

—A mandatory report on U.S. quarterly spending in Cambodia last spring lists the purpose of $53 million worth of weapons, ammunition, ships, supplies and training with the 11 words: "Upgrade the capabilities of the armed forces of the Khmer Republic."

—The cost of the U.S. air combat operations and transfer of excess American equipment was left out of a similar report on Laos.

Reports on meeting Congress' $2.5 billion ceiling on U.S. military aid to Indochina excluded weapons turned over to allies by withdrawing U.S. forces. The omission "also makes it difficult to determine if U.S. assistance to its allies is being used by them to support the governments of Cambodia and Laos."

K&F Club Ticket Deadline Monday

Deadline is noon, Monday for Knife and Fork Club members to purchase tickets for the last season meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Starlight Room at Coronado Inn.

Speaker for the evening will be Ernest Huntzinger, Jr., a minister of the First Congregational Church at Elmhurst, Ill., who will present a program of songs entitled "America Sings."

Members will also ballot on three new directors and a choice of meeting places. Allan Wise will introduce the speaker, with invocation by Bill Chafin.

Tickets may be purchased at Malone Pharmacy.

Church Hosts Fire Shower

MOBETTIE — First Baptist Church here is sponsoring a household shower at the church at 4 p.m. Monday for the Mickey Mixon family.

The Mixon house burned down Thursday morning and has been declared a total loss.

The church is hosting the shower to help the family get some of the many items they will need to start in a new house.

Success Doesn't Elate Musician

By MARY CAMPBELL AP Newfeatures Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Gato Barbieri, 37-year-old jazz tenor saxophonist who wrote the music for the film, "Last Tango in Paris," is "depressed." The reason, Barbieri explains, is that difficulties with the company he records for have delayed his departure for his native Argentina and he has been sitting around his New York apartment for two or three months, doing nothing and not playing. But, he adds, he usually is depressed anyway. The vast amount of talk and publicity about "Last Tango in Paris," which may bring Barbieri some fame, doesn't further depress him, however, and neither does it cheer him. He expected the film to be noticed but not to the extent that it has been. The public feels it must go to look and listen, he says, to be up on what's going on, whether one enjoys it or not. Barbieri's wife of 13 years, Michelle, worked as a script girl for Bernardo Bertolucci in Parma, Italy. When Bertolucci mentioned that he needed a 30-year-old man for a scene, Michelle called her husband. But he looked about 20, Bertolucci thought, and he rejected Barbieri and got someone else. However, he had Barbieri write a couple of tunes for the film. Bertolucci played one of Barbieri's jazz recordings while writing "Last Tango in Paris" and decided to ask Barbieri to write the music for the picture. The record, which included a tango, was "The Third World," a phrase Barbieri likes, by which he means the common interests of Asia, Africa and Latin America. As an Argentinean, he considers himself part of that. The Barbieris saw the film, then four hours long, before it was cut and edited, in June 1972 in Rome. Then they returned to New York where Barbieri played during July at the Newport Jazz Festival in New York. He wrote the four tangos for the film in New York. Then back to Rome to put music with film, compose some more and record in August and September. Oliver Nelson arrived from Hollywood to arrange and conduct. Musicians were hard to find since it was vacation time but some were brought from other countries. Three bandoneon players, two French and one German, came from Paris. That instrument, which looks like an accordion, is necessary for the tango. They interpreted well," Barbieri says. "There is a difference from Argentina of course but they were good." A sound track record album has been released. Barbieri is eager to get to Argentina — because he wants to get together a group of tango playing musicians and play a combination of avant-garde jazz and tango. He says he doesn't want to try to teach tango to North American jazz musicians, he wants to widen the horizon of South American tango players. "There are a lot of old-fashioned tangos that nobody plays any more. I'd like to take them out and bring them back to life so that people will understand they can still be played. They're not just corny. I'd like to structure music in a way to become a total sound of Latin Third World. And I'd like to record in Buenos Aires, so this music can be heard outside of South America." Barbieri says that Argentineans in general are sad and contemplative. So are people from Paraguay, Bolivia and Chile, the last less so. More cheer and vitality, he says, are found among the people of Colombia, Venezuela, Brazil and Cuba. When he sees happy people, Barbieri says, he just becomes sadder. He envies happy people. When he plays his saxophone, as he did at the Newport Jazz Festival, Barbieri's music sounds joyful. Maybe he feels that, too, he says, but only for the moments he is playing. But he'd like to write music for more movies. "That is an exciting experience. And I love to play with an orchestra, with lots of bass behind. That is exciting."

Kent State wasn't just an incident, it was an historic event.

But Will We Ever Know What Really Happened?

By TOM TIEDE

KENT, Ohio—(NEA)—As mass graves go, the May 4, 1970 killings at Kent State University were not statistically significant: Jittery national guardsmen shot four students dead in a few seconds of confusion. Nonetheless, on the third anniversary of the tragedy the event has for some attained immortality. "It wasn't just an incident that happened," says one student here, "it was an historic event."

has filed away volumes of investigations and a Presidential commission has issued a broadside. Yet for it all, history in the making as it were, no final or acceptable verdict has been forthcoming. Despite the millions of words, the scores of eyewitnesses, the photographic evidence, Americans have a more meaningful grasp of the Boston Massacre than the Kent killings. Any schoolboy knows the Bostonians provoked the British street fire; nothing such is known of Kent.

May 4 has died, perhaps from neglect. Already then, the event has become history and not much more. "It's like something that happened years and years ago," says an 18-year-old Kent student, "everybody feels bad about it but what can we do about it now?"

Indeed, at least six books have been written on the occurrence, one grand jury has rendered an opinion, the FBI

To be sure, many have tried to provoke the answers. For the first two years after the killings, while the war in Vietnam continued, the agony over an outgrowth of that war the Kent killings occurred during student demonstrations over the invasion of Cambodia) was energetic and vengeful.

There are some on campus who feel strongly that nothing should be done. Many administrative and faculty members wonder worriedly about prolonging the unhappiness. Trustees have been known to believe that sagging enrollment (which officially is blamed on natural population fluctuation) is in part the fault of a lingering reluctance among parents to send their children here.

Dr. Glenn Olds, who became university president the year after the event, says that one result of the continuing spotlight is that the school has gotten an undesired reputation as the Berkeley of the Midwest: "We've had some difficult times financially because of a grand jury and suppose they found the National Guard guilty, what would we do then? Hang them?" Even many students believe the fight for a final accountability is unnecessary.

One senior who was at the May 4 incident frankly says he would be worthless as a witness for anybody. "My opinion has been prejudiced by everything I've read about the killings. And actually, except for the noise and the commotion, I don't even remember much else. Besides, I don't remember what happened May 3 or May 5—any lawyer could dismiss me on credibility." Such apathy, however, has not consumed everyone. There remains at Kent and elsewhere a hard-core sentiment for what the adherents call "some kind of justice." Dr. Olds, for one, says he is "absolutely baffled" at the lack of concern from Washington. He talks about "innocent kids shot down on their way to class" and suggests that a democracy is ill-served if it can't address itself to "this kind of terrible thing."

Beyond this, Olds says he is personally disturbed at the failure of Richard Nixon to respond. Olds was a major campaigner for Nixon in 1968, later served the man in the United Nations.

THERE'S NO ALTERNATIVE

Future Holds Increase For Price Of Energy

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD Associated Press Writer

What effect will last week's message by President Nixon outlining a national energy policy have on the consumer and business men? And how soon?

Robert Buschman, president of the 3,500-member Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association, says it will be a while before the consumer notices any changes, assuming Congress follows the President's recommendations.

But he added that he sees a definite increase in prices for energy in the future.

"There is no alternative to prices for energy going up. Unfortunately, we're running short and energy will cost more if we want more. The American consumer can just consider himself blessed that he had low-cost energy in the past."

Buschman said he "definitely sees encouraging signs in the message. We're hopeful that Congress will follow the recommendations Nixon proposed. "He said one big problem in the energy shortage is refinery capacity."

Buschman said in a telephone interview that no new oil refineries have been built in over a year, in part because environmentalists have presented difficulties.

The incentives for oil exploration should spur the building of new refineries, and ultimately help ease the energy shortage, he said.

Nixon on Wednesday proposed a wide range of measures to ease the growing energy crisis showing up in shortages of heating oil and shortages and higher prices for gasoline.

Among these were easing import restrictions, deregulating the price of new natural gas supplies, leasing of more federal oil lands and deep-water ports for oil tankers.

Buschman added he would have liked for Nixon to have extended his recommendation to include current supplies of natural gas.

Doing this would have increased revenues that could be put back into exploration for more gas, he said.

"But in any case it is a step in the right direction that the President has proposed a clear-cut energy policy for the United States," he said.

Travis Petty, vice-president of El Paso Natural Gas Co., agreed.

"He (Nixon) has some very constructive ideas. They won't solve all the problems of the energy crisis but they certainly are a step in the right direction."

Unlike Buschman, Petty said El Paso Natural Gas always has been a proponent of deregulating only new gas discoveries.

What is needed is an incentive in finding new gas. Producers argue that decontrol of flowing gas would release revenues that can be used for exploration, but this would increase prices without a direct benefit towards alleviating the energy shortage.

He also said the cost of energy is inevitably going to rise for several reasons.

Despite any efforts to increase domestic production of oil, he said, this country will necessarily have to import more oil, with a corresponding rise in costs as the dependence increases.

"Natural gas also is in short supply and dwindling, with any new supplies being found at a far greater cost than before," Petty said.

Units Cooperate To Keep Public Aware

What should YOU do when there is a tornado alert or watch?

If a funnel is sighted in a cloud and is headed in the general direction of Pampa, the city warning sirens will be activated on a steady tone for three to five minutes — even though the cloud is several miles from the city.

City Manager Mack Wofford stressed that the sirens will not be activated unless danger is imminent. There will be no sounding of the sirens unless approved by a police department supervisor or the Civil Defense director.

A tornado watch begins locally when the Pampa police department dispatcher is notified from the Amarillo weather office.

The information is then immediately relayed to all local units, and the watch starts. Citizens who turn on their radio when bad weather conditions exist will receive all available information and necessary instructions.

Bill Leonard, the civil defense coordinator, says the tornado season here continues from April through June, although they can occur at any time during the year.

Leonard explained the difference between a Tornado Watch and a Tornado Warning.

A tornado watch, he said, means tornadoes are expected to develop. Citizens should keep a battery-operated radio nearby and listen for weather reports and advisories — even if the sky is blue. You should also have flashlights and spare batteries available.

A tornado warning means a tornado has actually been sighted or indicated by weather radar. You should seek inside shelter (in a storm cellar or reinforced building) and stay away from windows. Curl up so that your head and eyes are protected. Keep your battery-operated radio nearby and listen for further advisories from your local radio station.

In homes, a basement is the best place to go. If you have no basement, take cover in the center part of the house, on the lowest floor, in a small room such as a clothes closet or bathroom, or under sturdy furniture. Keep some windows open but stay away from them.

If you are in an office building, go to an interior hallway on the lowest floor or to a designated shelter area.

In schools, go to an interior hallway on the lowest floor. Stay out of auditoriums, gymnasiums and other structures with wide-free-span roofs.

If you are caught in open country, move away from the tornado's path at right angles. If there is no time to escape, lie flat in the nearest ravine or ditch.

Mobile homes are particularly vulnerable and should be evacuated when strong winds are forecast. Damage can be minimized by securing trailers with cables anchored in concrete.

Leonard said Pampa does not have any approved public tornado shelters. Fallout shelter, of which the city has several, are not approved as tornado shelters, the civil defense coordinator said.

Lloyd Rash, president of the Top O' Texas Citizens Band Radio Club, said the moment threatening conditions arise, whether CBers have been notified or not, there are units that keep on the alert.

The CB Club members spread their mobile units around the city and, if necessary, go as far as Lefors or towards U.S. Hwy. 66, Panhandle, White Deer, Kingsmill, Skellytown, north on Hwy. 70, towards Miami, Moody Farms, etc. There are resident units in White Deer and Skellytown. All important findings by the CB units are reported immediately to the Pampa Police Department for confirmation.

Base stations keep informed as to what is happening and relay their messages to proper authorities.

The club has one base station in the Pampa Police Station and when necessary sends a man there to man the station and relieve some of the load being handled by police.

"We stand ready and willing at all times," club president Rash said, "to assist city police, the sheriff's department, Civil Defense or Highway Patrol whenever they need our communications services whether it be to watch the weather or find a lost child."

Pampa and Gray County residents can rest assured when bad weather conditions occur, scores of persons immediately go on duty in all phases of severe weather detection to keep the public informed — if they will tune to their radio stations and listen for the advisory information in all kinds of situations.

And they all join in this one plea to the public:

DO NOT CALL THE POLICE. DO NOT CALL THE SHERIFF'S DEPARTMENT. DO NOT CALL THE RADIO STATIONS TO SEEK INFORMATION ABOUT WHAT IS HAPPENING.

INSTEAD, TUNE YOUR RADIO TO A LOCAL STATION AND LISTEN. IT'S THE QUICKEST WAY TO LEARN WHAT'S HAPPENING AND WHAT TO DO ABOUT IT.

KEEPING INFORMED — Taking a look at the latest weather bulletin from the police wire service is Carolyn Hood, left, Citizens Band Club member who monitors the base station; Bill Leonard, Civil Defense coordinator, and Pampa Police Lt. John Thomas. The three units cooperate during weather alerts to keep the public informed about weather developments, especially if tornadoes are imminent.

Cheap air conditioning is no bargain.

Servel Gas Air Conditioning is a Bargain.

The bargain comes in smaller utility bills, fewer maintenance calls and the longer life of a Servel system. But you'll never buy one cheap.

The Servel goal has always been "Build it like the Swiss." That's why the precision-made Servel air conditioner contains more stainless steel than any other air conditioner on the market. They're built to last and to perform dependably. This and the economy of natural gas energy saves you every month.

Quality construction is the reason you pay more for Servel initially. Because quality doesn't come cheap. Long, economical operation is the reason you'll save in the long run. Because quality pays off.

Most people can afford quality when they know all the facts. Especially when they're concerned with a cool, restful, healthy home environment — when home has a permanent meaning.

Think long and hard before you invest in central air conditioning. Then install Servel.

THE WORDS OF CHRIST

BY DAVID POLING

But on the first day of the week, at early dawn, they went to the tomb, taking spices which they had prepared. And they found the stone rolled away from the tomb, but when they went in they did not find the body. Now it was Mary Magdalene and Joanna and Mary the mother of James and the other women with them who told this to the apostles, but these words seemed to them an idle tale, and they did not believe them.

Luke 24

The celebrations of Easter have always attracted people in large numbers. Church services are usually packed. The Easter parade in New York is a major event on Fifth Avenue. The stage spectacular at Radio City Music Hall is one of the big shows of the year. Clothing and flowers move by the ton. Easter has become an event.

Yet the first Easter was not shared by a throng but a handful of women, and some unbelieving, apostles. And the real impact of Easter for the Christian is a solitary affair, an encounter with God and a glimpse of eternal dimensions. And such a religious experience does not happen in a supermarket or the corner of Fifth Avenue and Rockefeller Center. It develops in quiet, thoughtful moments—like the first Easter.

The women who came to the tomb in the triumph of the resurrection—the women of Christian belief—As Paul Maier writes in "Easter."

The fact that women were the first witnesses to the resurrection was later something of an embarrassment to the disciples. Not that they were jealous of them for getting the first witness as it were, but women did not have the right to bear witness in Jewish courts; their testimony was deemed unreliable—the initial tradition of the resurrection was understandably one of suspicion and distrust.

As the core of Jesus' following were women, so the first witnesses to the resurrection should be those who had offered care and service.

The important message of Easter is not only the resurrection of Christ but his victory over death—but his promise of a lasting relationship to those who share his trust in God. Read that again slowly, for its simplicity must not hide its truth.

And Easter has a universal influence, in every corner of this world, in every century. More than a decade ago, Winburn Thomas was in Southeast Asia. It was the same war but different armies. He reported to some friends:

"I preached in Hanoi shortly after the French paratroopers had leveled the area surrounding this tiny Vietnamese church building. As the Vietnamese pastor and I entered the pulpit, I inquired what I should preach about. His reply was: 'There is not a single worshipper this morning who has not lost at least one member of his family. Many of them, alone, survive. Give us a message of comfort.' What other message do we have for Vietnam or the United States other than Christ is risen? Let us therefore take up our respective crosses and follow Him."

Easter is a joyous moment and Maier gives us the reasons: It is the only festival that looks in two directions at the same time—back into history to fathom what happened in the week that changed the world, and forward into the future with the assurance that people who die will rise again. Small wonder, says Maier, that it was the earliest festival to be celebrated by the church. Happy Easter!

Freisberg Named Pipeline Foreman

Frederick P. Freisberg has been named foreman of Cities Service Gas Company's 338-mile Pampa pipeline division.

Freisberg had been a meter inspector at Arkansas City, Kan., since August, 1971. Prior to that time he was meter inspector at Ulysses, Kans., and Wakita, Okla.

He joined the natural gas transmission company in June 1962, as a clerk in the pipeline department in Oklahoma City before being named meter inspector in 1966. He had worked for the company one summer while attending Pittsburg State Teachers College, Pittsburg, Kan., where he earned a bachelor of science degree in Industrial Arts Education.

OF GAS SUPPLIES Sharp Struggle Looms Over End Of Control

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP-Oh Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Past history indicates there will be a sharp battle in Congress over President Nixon's request for termination of federal price controls on new natural gas supplies.

The energy crisis could ease the situation but congressional disputes over natural gas decontrol bills of various forms date back to the 1940s.

Decontrol bills were passed in 1950 and 1956 only to be vetoed by Presidents Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Truman said it did not seem wise public policy to remove the Federal Power Commission's authority to regulate. Eisenhower said he agreed with the basic provisions of the 1956 bill but said he vetoed the measure because of "arrogant" lobbying by a small segment of the oil and gas industry.

Numerous proposals have been placed before Congress since the vetoes but few have progressed as far as obtaining committee approval.

An industry-wide gas supply committee has been in operation several years with an objective of obtaining congressional clarification of the FPC's authority to regulate the wellhead prices of natural gas sold into interstate commerce.

The committee has had its problems trying to resolve differences among producers, pipeliners, and distributors.

Also, from the time the committee was formed, there has been pessimism by many in the industry over congressional approval of a decontrol or clarification bill, regardless of its form, without strong support from the White House.

Nixon's proposal is disappointing to many producers. It would decontrol only gas discoveries of the future. Current supplies would remain regulated for the life of existing contracts.

Many oilmen have blamed wellhead gas price controls more than anything else for a prolonged exploration and drilling slump that has been accompanied by declining domestic oil and gas reserves, and at the same time, by spiraling demand for both natural gas and petroleum products.

The domestic industry drilled a record 58,160 wells in 1956, the year of the Eisenhower veto. Only 28,771 wells were drilled last year.

The dispute of more than two decades involves an interpretation of the 1938 Natural Gas Act that gave the FPC jurisdiction over interstate natural gas transportation.

The FPC was asked in 1948 to decide whether gas sold to interstate pipelines by Phillips Petroleum Co. fell under such jurisdiction. The FPC ruled it had no jurisdiction over such sales in that they were a natural part of the production and gathering of gas.

Legal challenges followed and the Supreme Court, with a 5-3 decision in 1954, held that a producer or gatherer is subject to federal regulation in that his sales to an interstate pipeline place him in the flow of interstate commerce.

After attempting to regulate wellhead prices on an individual basis that created a gigantic backlog of cases, the FPC switched to an area formula in 1960. The Supreme Court upheld the area formula in 1963.

The two bills that were vetoed had narrow congressional escapes before reaching the White House.

The Kerr bill that was killed by Truman was designed to head off a possible adverse ruling by the Supreme Court. The bill passed the House, 183-131.

Monday night's Desk and Derrick guest will be Richard F. Cast, senior geologist for Mesa Petroleum Company in Amarillo, who will present a program and slides on coordinating a geological prospect.

Cast received his B.S. degree in geology from the University of Nebraska in 1943. He served as a first lieutenant in the U.S. Army Field Artillery from 1943-46.

Cast began his career in the petroleum industry in 1946 when he joined Phillips Petroleum Company as a geophysical computer and geologist. While in this post, he worked in the Gulf Coast, in West Texas, western Oklahoma and the Texas Panhandle.

In 1952, he became geologist for Northern Natural Gas Company, working in the Anadarko Basin and west Texas. Cast then worked in Tolara, Peru, as senior geologist for International Petroleum Company from 1955-58.

Upon returning from Peru, Cast worked independently in the Anadarko Basin until 1961, at which time he joined Mesa Petroleum.

Desk and Derrick's monthly dinner and program will be at Coronado Inn at 7 p.m. Monday. Anyone interested in the program is invited to attend.

Please call Cheryl Schaub at Schlumberger Well Services, 665-5791, by 10 a.m. Monday for information or reservations.

LPG Meet Set

AUSTIN (AP) — Liquid petroleum gas dealers will meet in an "emergency" session next Thursday to discuss dwindling gas supplies, the executive vice president of their association announced.

Lowry Carpenter said about 80 of the state's nearly 1,000 liquid petroleum dealers "will be out of business within 60 days," leaving "tens of thousands of Texas consumers" without a gas supply.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Sunday, April 22, the 112th day of 1973. There are 253 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1898, the first shot was fired in the Spanish-American War as the USS Nashville captured a Spanish merchant ship off Key West, Fla.

On this date: In 1793, the United States proclaimed its neutrality in a war between France and Britain.

In 1864, the U.S. Congress authorized the motto, "In God We Trust," on American coins.

In 1889, thousands of homesteaders swarmed into the Oklahoma Territory and staked out land.

In 1915, the German army used poison gas for the first time in World War I.

In 1971, President Francois Duvalier of Haiti died, and his son, Jean-Claude, was sworn in as the new president.

Ten years ago: Lester B. Pearson became the 14th prime minister of Canada and pledged that his Liberal government would be dynamic.

Five years ago: In an unprecedented step, the Interstate Commerce Commission moved to force railroads to meet certain standards in passenger train accommodations.

One year ago: Apollo 16 astronauts John W. Young and Charles M. Duke Jr. traveled six miles on a mountain on the moon in their lunar vehicle.

Today's birthdays: Violinist Yehudi Menuhin is 57.

Publication Project Is Lengthy One

COPENHAGEN (AP) — The National Museum has informed Parliament that it will take another 40 years to complete the publication of a work which went into production 40 years ago.

Quoted by Parliament's appropriations committee, Museum Governor P.V. Glob said that by the time the 80-year-project titled "Denmark's Churches" comes to an end in the year 2013 total costs will have run to about $10 million at 1973 prices.

Parliament wanted a progress report after the government asked $55,000 for the project in the new fiscal year to supplement budgeted contributions from private, scientific foundations totalling $64,000.

Professor Glob said the first 40 years produced 15,000 pages in 25 volumes covering the history, architecture and cultural-artistic aspects of all churches in roughly half the nation, geographically speaking.

The museum governor said another 40 years were needed for completion of the work "because of ever-increasing demands for quality and scope in research."

Nobody suggested the project, probably the nation's costliest and longest in terms of time, should be abandoned. But the government told the museum to raise the sales price per volume by 100 per cent.

This will bring the book shop price of the latest volume to $80. About 2,000 copies are printed of each volume.

In 1933, the first volume sold at about 50 cents.

11:30 there is an informal swim time. To exercise the women meet in the gym in slacks or shorts and are led through a series of exercises through recordings.

All women are invited to participate in this exercise and swim time. There are no lessons given during the swim time and no children are allowed in the pool. We do have a babysitter for mothers for a small charge. A membership in the Center is all that is required to join these classes.

Memberships
The Center's participation in its program is through a membership plan which is open to the general public. The memberships are divided into two categories—limited and unlimited.

The limited membership is the regular Youth Center membership that we have been selling for 12 years. This plan entitles you to use of the swimming pool, dressing rooms, gym and recreation hall.

The unlimited plan gives you all of the above features, but allows you to use the new health facility. The health facility houses the exercise machines, handball racquetball courts, weights, reducing machines and sauna.

The individual limited membership is sold to persons who are 8 years of age or older. The cost is $5 for six months or $8 per year. For a family the cost is $12 for six months or $20 a year.

The unlimited membership for an individual is $65 for six months or $118 a year. For a husband-wife combination membership the cost is only $90 for six months and $170 a year.

We do have an installment plan for a six-month membership. For full details call the Health Facility at 665-4381.

1040 U.S. Individual Income Tax Return Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q) I saw a story in the paper giving the average deductions taken by U.S. taxpayers last year. If I keep my deductions below those figures, will it keep me from being audited?

A) No. IRS computers screen all individual returns for error, not just those with higher than average deduction figures. Sophisticated mathematical formulas are used to rank returns by error potential and those having the highest probability of error are selected for audit.

If a deduction on your return is questioned, you must be able to substantiate the item.

Q) When should I report interest earned on my Series E Savings Bonds?

A) You should report interest when the bonds are cashed or report the annual increase each year.

For more information, see IRS Publication 576, "Tax Information on United States Savings Bonds." It's available free by writing your Internal Revenue district office.

Q) I earned over $25,000 last year. Can I still use the short Form 1040A?

A) Yes. You can earn any amount and still use the short Form 1040A. However, all your income must come from wages, salaries, tips and not more than $200 in interest and $200 in dividends. In addition, you may not itemize deductions on the short form.

Q) If you did not receive Form 1040A in the mail and want to use it, a copy may be obtained at any Internal Revenue office, most banks and post offices, or you may use the order blank in may also be deductible. Details can be found in three booklets: IRS Publication 508, "Tax Information on Educational Expenses"; Publication 521, "Tax Information on Moving Expenses"; and Publication 463, "Travel, Entertainment and Gift Expenses."

They're available free by mailing a postcard to your IRS district office.

Remember, you can deduct business related transportation expenses, even if you do not itemize deductions on your return.

Q) My husband and I file a joint return. He wants to designate a dollar of our tax for one political party, while I want my dollar to go to another party. Can we do this?

A) Yes. If you are filing a joint return, you may designate $2 of your tax toward the Presidential Election Campaign Fund. Thus, each of you may designate $1 of your tax to go to a different party or to a non-partisan general account for all eligible candidates.

Q) What transportation expenses are deductible?

A) You may deduct as a charitable contribution unreimbursed out-of-pocket transportation expenses directly attributable to services you render to a charitable organization. If you use your own car, you may use the rate of six cents per mile instead of actual expenses to determine your deductions. Parking fees and tolls are deductible in addition to the six cents per mile.

Q) I saw a story in the paper giving the average deductions taken by U.S. taxpayers last year. If I keep my deductions below those figures, will it keep me from being audited?

DST Approaching Like Galloping Horse

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

That most controversial day of the year is approaching like a galloping horse. It is the day when drive-in movie operators, for instance, shake their fists at the sun and demand that it set earlier.

It even causes one of the Texas Legislature's more conservative members to engage admittedly in civil disobedience.

For on April 29—always the last Sunday in April—most of the nation goes on Daylight Saving Time.

So at this point everyone asks—do you set your clock forward or backward?

The usual story which helps persons with poor memories is this: Imagine that you want to knock down a brick wall with your head.

Thus you spring forward. And brick walls being somewhat stronger than most heads—we do know a few heads that are harder—you fall back.

Thus the rule: Spring forward, fall back.

As any worker will tell you, it's great to get off that first Monday in what seems like the middle of the afternoon—it's as joyous as sneaking off early when the boss isn't looking.

That is, it's a nice feeling unless he is facing an extra hour of yard work when he gets home.

Daylight Saving Time remains in dispute even after all these years.

A drive-in movie operator once said he had to start showing those erotic films because children couldn't stay up late enough for the regular picture fare and he had no customers for them.

It must be hard on farmers, too, if they still arise at 4:30 a.m. and work until sundown. That's an extra hour of labor.

Pros and antis have argued their positions well before various public bodies.

Yet the people who should be at the hearings and sounding off their industries and Daylight Saving are lawn mower and lawn fertilizer manufacturers, hobby shops and fishing and boating-related companies. The extra hour is good for work around the house or outdoor recreation and thus money in the pockets of some people.

A new proposal popped up in Congress this year. This one calls for Daylight Saving Time all year, not just in the summer.

This approach came from Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Calif.

His argument is that year-round DST would help the fuel crisis since all those workers in government buildings would not have to keep the lights on so long.

You could have fooled us. Didn't know government workers labored that long and late.

Another of Rep. Hosmer's arguments is that there will be fewer muggings if people can get home in daylight hours.

This is based on the theory that no respectable mugger would start work until darkness descends.

That may be true in big mugger cities like Washington and New York. However, it would open the banks an hour earlier, in our West, giving bank robbers time to earn their daily wage and be home with the wife and kiddies in time for lunch.

It is surprising that the candlemaking industry hasn't fought Daylight Saving Time tooth, nail and wick.

For instance, suppose you plan a romantic candlelight dinner. Under DST you may have to wait until 10 o'clock at night for the candles to be noticed. By that hour, everyone is ready to forget the whole affair and settle for a bite at the nearest hamburger joint.

The farm animals haven't been very vocal about the matter.

But we can just imagine one: cow turning to another in the early morning darkness Sunday as saying, "That fool farmer set his clock early again and here he is wanting milk at this hour. Well! He's not going to get any from me!"

Or a hen still on the next looking at her neighbor and clucking, "Here's the missus again, an hour early, hunting for eggs. Doesn't she know we work on schedule? No eggs for her."

Perhaps they don't farm that way any more. If a farm job can't be done with a tractor, forget it.

Rep. Hilary B. Doran Jr. of Del Rio is one of the people who don't think much of daylight saving.

He has a bill in the legislature now to place the issue of DST on the 1974 general election ballot, thereby revealing himself as a man willing to face bad odds and take his lumps if he loses.

The Republicans put the issue on their 1972 primary ballot. It was only a straw vote—nothing binding at all.

And Daylight Saving Time won 65,000 to 35,000.

Of course, that was only the Republican viewpoint.

Doran, himself a Democrat, says it might be different if everyone had a chance to face the issue.

When April 29 rolls around, you won't find Rep. Doran re-setting his watch. He keeps on Standard Time all year.

"Just my little form of civil disobedience," he admits.

NEW YORK (AP) — There are times in life when a man should charge forward heedless of the cost.

But there are really very few such occasions.

What a man really needs to know is he wants to live a long and reasonably content life is when he should back away rather than charge. And when is that? The answer to that must be—most times.

The trouble with man is that his common sense is at war with his human nature.

His nature is to try anything new, to agree with any proposal, to accept any invitation. This is because he is born with a curiosity 10 times as big as the one that killed the cat. Only his common sense—that slender reed—warns him: "Hold back."

"Not so fast," "Let's wait and see what happens if we do nothing."

It would be ideal, of course, if these warning elements in man—his curiosity and his common sense—were properly balanced. Alas, such is not the case. Human common sense is usually the loser in a tug of war with human curiosity.

What can be done about it? Well, actually, quite a bit. All you have to do is to replace the unconscious habit of saying "yes" with the conscious habit of saying "no." You want some examples to practice on? Well, you'll add to your safety, peace of mind and probably your longevity if you learn to say "no" to invitations that lead only to disaster such as these:

"If you put $5,000 into this proposition, I can probably double your money in a year. Put in $10,000 and I can practically guarantee to triple it."

"Go ahead and call his bluff. I'll lend you car fare home if you need it."

"Why don't we pool our dough and buy a country place together? Our wives don't get on each other's nerves all that much."

"Won't it help the party get off to a faster start dear, if I put two ounces instead of one in everybody's first drink?"

"Can't you make it a $20 instead of $10? I'll pay you back Friday for sure."

"Why do we need an electrician for a simple job like that? Let's wire it ourselves."

"It doesn't look like a booby trap to me, Joe. Kick it out of the way."

"Oh, go ahead, and spread the picnic blanket here. I know these vines have three leaves, but a lot of vines have three leaves besides poison ivy."

Only a short distance from Golgatha, where Jesus was crucified, is a hole carved into a rock hill. It is possible that this was the tomb of Jesus, as it was a garden tomb during that period in history. This vault fits the description of Joseph's tomb and would be similar.

EASTER APRIL 22, 1973

Matthew 28:1-9 & Mark 16:1-20 from The LIVING BIBLE

Early on Sunday morning, as the new day was dawning, Mary Magdalene and the other Mary went out to Jesus' tomb.

Suddenly there was a great earthquake; for an angel of the Lord came down from heaven and rolled aside the stone and sat on it. His face shone like lightning and his clothing was a brilliant white. The guards shook with fear when they saw him, and fell into a dead faint.

Then the angel spoke to the women. "Don't be frightened!" he said, "I know you are looking for Jesus, who was crucified, but he isn't here! For he has come back to life again, just as he said he would. Come in and see where his body was lying. . . . And now, go quickly and tell his disciples that he has risen from the dead, and that he is going to Galilee to meet them there. That is my message to them."

The women ran from the tomb, badly frightened, but also filled with joy, and rushed to find the disciples to give them the angel's message. And as they were running, suddenly Jesus was there in front of them!

"Good morning!" he said. And they fell to the ground before him, holding his feet and worshipping him.

Still later he appeared to the eleven disciples as they were eating together. He rebuked them for their unbelief—their stubborn refusal to believe those who had seen him alive from the dead.

And then he told them, "You are to go into all the world and preach the Good News to everyone, everywhere. Those who believe and are baptized will be saved. But those who refuse to believe will be condemned."

When the Lord Jesus had finished talking with them, he was taken up into heaven and sat down at God's right hand.

And the disciples went everywhere preaching, and the Lord was with them and confirmed what they said by the miracles that followed their messages.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SUNDAY, APRIL 22

Your birthday today: Opens a year in which your spirit rises. The early months find you transcending limitations and becoming a more effective person. Today's natives tend to be carefree, artistic and strong.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Leave the past behind. Show your true inner feelings and develop stronger links with those you cherish.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Once you've fully expressed your faith, you can look about you—inspiration may be at hand. Be pleasant to all.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Join your friends and loved ones in a great holiday Sunday. Avoid haste and excess. Everybody seems ready to accept you.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Pursue the simple life this Easter, with those you love in high good humor. Reminiscence should be kept at a minimum.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Reconsider who you are before you say what comes first to mind on provocative subjects. It does a great deal for opening the spirit.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Live this holiday as nearly free of material thoughts, as possible. Concentrate on being alive and be sensitive to creativity.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: You'll probably make only slow progress this morning. Remember there's something worthwhile besides swift movement and easy agreements.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: If you'll pray this Easter morning from a limbo of almost trance-like tranquility you'll arise refreshed and directed toward a happier life.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Be open with expressions of love and faith. Make it a festive day, free of bickering. Romance beckons.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Your fine attire should reflect a belief in purity and forgiveness. Your actions speak more clearly than any words.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Social activity comes naturally now. Be open to suggestion. See what comes about spontaneously. Learn!

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: The one thing to avoid this special Sunday is business. All else promises natural emotional reward.

MONDAY, APRIL 23

Your birthday today: Reorganization becomes the main activity of your year. New resources arrive, ongoing contacts and relations become more detailed; require more time and attention. Today's natives have a delicate sense of touch, a knack for secrecy.

ARIES [March 21-April 19]: In a quiet time you say or do something that becomes a furor. Extraordinary care in contracts is essential.

TAURUS [April 20-May 20]: Its mainly a day for diligence—no great resistance is encountered, but you receive no easy breaks or cooperation either.

GEMINI [May 21-June 20]: Borrowing seems easy but is not the solution. If you can't sort things out, put them off while you search for better resources.

CANCER [June 21-July 22]: Secrets come into the open—people you'd never expect to get together do so. Hopefully you've been consistent.

LEO [July 23-Aug. 22]: Communication poses provocation—a letter tells only half the news. A long-promised item arrives but isn't what you expect.

VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Conditions do not favor concentration, but that's most important to achieve. Bring up available reserves early, but remain thrifty.

LIBRA [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Your tendency is to want more than is available and to scatter energy trying to make choices. Settle quickly.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: A useful idea occurs in the midst of dull routine. You'll be glad you took initiative. Relax early with light diversions.

MUSIC HATH CHARM

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Dr. Frank B. Flood, chief of cardiology at St. Joseph's Hospital here, has conducted a three-year study of music as therapy in a cardiac intensive-care unit and concludes that music soothes the ravaged heart.

Dr. Flood prescribed music that was melodious but not sad or somber, that would not evoke wistful reminiscences and that would be bright yet not exciting. The rhythm had to be regular, but not predominant, with enough variation to avoid monotony.

The unit's mortality rate has been 8 to 10 per cent less than the national average. Dr. Flood says.

Trust your ears, not second-hand feedback

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 26-year-old wife and mother of a 3-year-old son. Due to financial circumstances, I am a working mother—but because my husband works nights (he's a baker) he stays with the baby all day. I asked my doctor if the baby would be affected if I worked days, and he said as long as he is with one loving parent there would be no harm.

My problem is that I just found out that my best friend's husband has told others that I am an unfit mother because all children need their mothers with them and that I am selfish to be working.

Also my girl friend didn't say anything, I'm quite hurt that she didn't stick up for me, and frankly don't think our friendship can now last because I'm so angry. What would you suggest?

FIT MOTHER

DEAR FIT: You seem to be getting a lot of second-hand feedback. Why don't you just tell whomever it was who told you what your best friend's husband supposedly told others about you, that there is so much backbiting going on, you never believe a thing unless you hear it with your own ears—which isn't a bad idea.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter, 20, and my son, 18, recently got into a violent argument. Here's the story: My son was recently fitted with contact lenses—and the other night he removed them at the dinner table. My daughter was revolted and said he should have left the dinner table. My son said that since contact lenses serve the same purpose as eyeglasses, it was no more "revolting" to remove them at the dinner table than it would be to remove one's eyeglasses. What do you say?

BROOKLYN FATHER

DEAR FATHER: I say, all the consideration your son has for his fellow diners, he can stick in his eye.

DEAR ABBY: Your column in the Nevada State Journal and the subject of putting a bottle of whisky in the casket reminded me of when my Uncle Pat, an old country Irishman, was dying. His best friend, Jerry, asked Pat if there was anything he could do for him. Pat replied that he had a bottle of fine Irish whisky in the closet, and would Jerry sprinkle it on his grave after he was buried.

Jerry replied, "I'd be glad to, Pat, but you don't mind if I strain it thru me kidneys first, do ya?"

DENNIS IN RENO

DEAR DENNIS: Your Uncle Pat must have had hundreds of nephews—all on the RKO vaudeville circuit.

DEAR ABBY: Your letter about whether it's against the law or not to bury a person with a fifth of bourbon in his casket brings to mind my German grandmother.

She was fond of playing cards and having a "schnapps" with friends, so she left money for her wake and also for brand-new playing cards, sharp pencils, small score pads, and a set-up bar. We buried Grandmother with a deck of cards, pencil and pad, four glasses, and a pint.

When the Day of Reckoning comes she will be ready to start in all over again. Why not prepare for the afterlife now? Wouldn't it be awful if we had to start from scratch as the world once did?

appealing to children Librarians, teachers and book store owners usually are most willing to offer guidance. The specialist continued.

"Make reading to children a fun activity—not a pill before bedtime event or forced quiet-time. Read at a leisurely pace the amount the child seeks," she concluded.

The family life education specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University discussed children and their books.

"Lifetime pleasure in good books comes from the repeated discovery that reading—many kinds of reading—can bring satisfaction," she noted.

Each story, poem or book adds new dimension to the meaning of reading pleasure and strengthens a child's desire to read further.

The specialist admitted that helping a child learn to find books pleasurable and beneficial "may sound like an ivory-tower objective—and in a sense it is." However, certain practical steps bring the goal within the reach of every parent and grandparent, she added.

Know each child—his interests, anxieties, hopes—and help him find books that are related.

If he likes to "do things" give him a scratch-and-sniff book like "Little Bunny Follows His Nose." Miss Taylor suggested.

If he's interested in imaginary or exciting things, other Easter selections could be "The Little White Rabbit Who Wanted Red Wings" by Dorothy Aldis or "The Tale of Peter Rabbit" by Beatrix Potter.

Three additional possibilities are "The Egg Book" by Margaret Brown, "The Egg Free" by Katherine Milhous and "An Egg Is For Wishing" by Helen Kay.

Givers of children's literature should be aware of what is new, available and

East and West were playing one of those fancy club systems in which a two-club opening showed a normal club bid with a good suit.

The combination of this opening plus a barricade preempt by West got actor Omar Sharif to a really bad heart slam. Omar made the best of his horrible situation and made his 12 tricks by an extraordinary series of plays.

It looks impossible, but here is how he worked it out. He ruffed the club; entered dummy with the king of trumps and ruffed a second club. Next came the lead of a spade to dummy's king and the ruff of a third club.

Omar continued by cashing his ace of spades; ruffing a spade with dummy's four of trumps and ruffing dummy's last club with his last small trump.

This left him with just the ace of trumps; two good spades and two diamonds. He cashed his ace of trumps and led another spade.

West was down to three diamonds and the one remaining trump. He could do nothing better than to ruff in and lead a low diamond. Omar played dummy's 10 and was sure of the rest of the tricks irrespective of which diamond East played.

We take this hand with a grain of salt. Somehow or other it looks too good to be true, but Omar is almost as good a bridge player as he is an actor.

YOUTH FESTIVAL MOVES TO SCOTLAND

ABERDEEN, Scotland (AP)—Nearly 1,000 young musicians and dancers from many countries are expected here next August for the International Festival of Youth Orchestras.

This will be the fifth festival, and the first time it has been held in Britain. All the previous events have taken place in Switzerland.

Scouting Scoops

MRS. G.J. BOYD

One of the most diligent and industrious Girl Scout troops in Pampa is Cadette Troop 90. The following report was submitted by their leader, Mrs. Wallace Birkes.

Cadette Scout Troop 90 honored their families with an International Dinner Saturday night, April 7. Special guest was Lakan Mariano, American Field Service student from the Philippines, who played his guitar, sang native and self-composed songs, and told about life in the Philippines.

Tables were decorated with foreign dolls and flags. Foreign dishes included lasagna and a salad bowl from Italy and chocolate creme pie from France. All troop members received the Hostess and Good Grooming badges at a Court of Awards. Jim Stallings, former treasurer of the Quivira Girl Scout Council, was awarded an honorary membership in Troop 90 for his contribution to the Council.

Copies of the troop calendar were circulated. Activities have included: exhibiting in the Pampa Garden Club flower show, a study of gems and minerals, work toward the Child Care and Animal Kingdom badges, participation in the Christmas parade, giving an Easter hunt for children and crafts.

Service projects have included making a bird feeder for the Robert E. Lee outdoor lab, hanging peanut butter-pine cone bird feeders in Aspen Park, making 33 soap bath-tub toys for Headstart students for Christmas and planting at Lee outdoor lab.

Socials have included a September tea for mothers, troop investiture, pizza party, hamburger-movie party, slumber party, Cadette Dip 'n' Trip, Christmas caroling and gift exchange. Future plans include planting and clearing grounds at Highland Hospital on Keep America Beautiful day and a camping trip to Camp Cibola in May.

Members of Troop 90 are Misses: Sara Stallings, DeAnn Gray, Carrie Comer, Mary Gantz, Terrell Harris, Lyssa Malone, Lynn Esson, Jennifer Suttle, Vonda Fellers, Kathryn Morgan and Cheryl Birkes.

Chairman for this two-month period is Mary Gantz. Troop leaders are Mrs. Wallace Birkes and Mrs. Ralph Esson.

A troop schedule was included with the report and checking it found that this troop will have met forty-one times during this school term, with six service projects to their credit, with work being done on five Cadette badges. That, in itself, is quite a feat...ask any Cadette...or Cadette leader.

The report was but a brief resume of troop activities...space limits more. The hours of planning and troop participation goes without saying. An energetic troop and busy civic-minded leaders compliment each other and contribute much to the community and to Girl Scouting.

HOUSTON SYMPHONY AT 60 INTO CARNEGIE

NEW YORK (AP)—The Houston Symphony will present a concert at Carnegie Hall as part of its celebration of its 60th anniversary year.

The Houston Symphony was founded in 1913. Among its music directors have been Ernest Hoffman, Elmer Kurtz, Leopold Stokowski, Sir John Barbirolli and Andre Previn. Lawrence Foster, named music director in 1971, is also chief guest conductor of the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra of London, which he led at Carnegie Hall earlier this season.

CARUSO REMEMBERED

NEW YORK (AP)—The Metropolitan Opera commemorates the 100th anniversary of the birth of Enrico Caruso with a special display on the level of the boxes in the opera house.

Also, at the matinee of "Aida" Feb. 24, the day before Caruso's birthday, Mrs. Gloria Caruso, the tenor's daughter, was guest of honor.

"Aida" has had more performances at the Met than any other opera. It was Caruso who established its popularity. In the 16 years he sang Radames it was given 110 times of which Caruso sang 64. In the 15 years before Caruso came to the Met, "Aida" was given only 46 times.

The display centers on a portrait of Caruso in "Pagliacci" and shows his costume for "Un Ballo in Maschera."

Guide TO Glamour

To recap the last two weeks on skin care, here are a few "never's" to remember: Never scrub your face with a cloth...never use a complexion brush or massage with your fingers...never use extremely hot or cold water, as it is liable to rupture tiny blood vessels. Never rub your face dry, but always pat. Never forget that the neck is part of your face and never neglect to give it the same care. Never follow skin care suitable for others but instead, stick to one suited to yourself. Never grow complacent about your skin...remember, a good complexion is the result of constant care.

All of us at Pampa College wish each of you a very Happy Easter! "THIS IS YOUR PERSONAL INVITATION TO AN EXCITING CAREER".....PAMPA COLLEGE OF HAIR DRESSING teaches students many aspects of beauty with MODERN EQUIPMENT and BEAUTY ACCESSORIES.....NEW STUDENTS WELCOME.....

Plans Wedding

The engagement of Miss Mattie Ruth Giesler and Charles Garrett is being announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M.L. Giesler of Skellytown. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hope Garrett of Dumas. The wedding is being planned for 8 p.m. June 1, in the Skellytown First Baptist Church, with the pastor, Rev. Milton Thompson, officiating. The bride-elect is a graduate of White Deer High School and Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene. She is presently teaching in Sunray. Her fiancé is a graduate of Dumas High School and is attending HSU.

FAREWELL COFFEE
Skellytown — Mrs. Fannie Tosh, a long time resident, who moved recently to Elk City, Okla. to make her home, was honored recently with a Farewell Coffee in the Fellowship Hall of the First Baptist Church. Mrs. Adolph Novotny was hostess.

Attending were Mmes. Ralph Fox Sr., Don Easley, Jackie Cooper, Walt Shair, M.L. Mills, Dellie Grant, Bill Price, Julia Stephenson, J.C. Jarvis, Clarence Kaiser, Pauline Jordan, Myrtle Gould, Bill Thompson, and one guest, Mrs. Cleo Bailey.

LADIES BIBLE CLASS
Skellytown — The Ladies Bible Class of the Church of Christ met for their regular meeting recently in the church. Sadie Lane opened with prayer and the lesson, taught by Mrs. Mary Cousins was a quiz over the lessons that had been taught the past four weeks.

El Progresso Tours Satellite School

El Progresso Club held its regular meeting recently at the First Presbyterian Church with Mrs. R.I. Bray as hostess.

A most interesting program, "Golden Moments with Exceptional Children" was presented by Mrs. Quentin Williams, who is a club member and one of the volunteer workers in the Satellite School.

She stated that for each 1000 population in the United States two are totally blind, three crippled permanently with polio, three and a half are affected with cerebral palsy, seven suffer from rheumatic heart disease, and 30 are mentally retarded. Of the six million persons in the United States classified as mentally retarded two and a half million of these are children under twenty years of age.

There are approximately 90 to 100 mentally retarded persons in Pampa, she stated. Over seventy of these attend the public schools. Presently there are twelve enrolled in the Satellite School housed in two classrooms at the First Presbyterian Church.

Five attend the pre-school class which meets each morning. They range in age from three to eight years. This class was begun in 1968.

In 1969 the post-school class was started and it meets each afternoon. Seven are enrolled and range in age from 21 to 34 years.

Mrs. Williams stated that she had planned for the women to observe the post-school class, however, the students were in Canyon participating in the Panhandle Olympics for the retarded and handicapped. Slides picturing the various activities of both groups were shown. The club members

Baumgardner-Miller Vows Said In Baptist Chapel

MRS. RAYMOND LEE MILLER
nee Miss Joan Baumgardner

The First Baptist Church of Pampa, was the setting Sunday, April 15 at 3 p.m. for the exchange of nuptial vows by Miss Joan Baumgardner and Raymond Lee Miller.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Baumgardner, 1304 Mary Ellen, and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Miller, 405 N. Roberta.

THE CEREMONY
The Rev. Claude Cone, pastor, officiated for the double-ring ceremony before a background flanked with baskets of pink and orchid gladioli. Family pews were marked with pink bows.

Eloise Lane, organist, and Linda Reed, pianist, accompanied Billy Lemmons as he sang "Colour My World" and the theme from "Love Story."

THE BRIDE
The bride, presented in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of bridal satin designed with an empire bodice and featured a high neckline accented with seed pearls and lace. The full sleeves were caught at the wrist by lace cuffs that ended in traditional points above her hands. The skirt featured wide lace/down the front panel and matching lace-trim at the hemline, and extended to a chapel-length train. Her waist-length veil of tulle and lace, fell from a coil of seed pearls and she carried a Charlton bouquet of white cornflowers, purple asters, pixie carnations and starflowers.

For "something old," the bride wore her mother's treasured necklace, a new and blue garter and borrowed earrings. Both the bride and reception was held in the parlor of the church. The serving table was covered with a pink and overlaid with an off-white cloth, and held an antique-glass basket with a floral arrangement of pink and orchid flowers. Antique candelabra holding pink tapers, completed the table setting.

The three-tiered cake, decorated with orchid, grape clusters and silver trim, was topped with love birds.

Connie Richardson served the cake and Angie McGan assisted at the punch bowl. Registering guests was Connie Miller, sister of the bridegroom.

For the wedding trip, the bride wore a peach-colored two-piece suit and white accessories and lifted-the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

AFFILIATIONS
The couple plan to graduate from Pampa High School in the spring. The bridegroom is employed by Culberson Stowers, Inc.

They will make their home at 600 N. Sumner, Pampa.

PRE-NUPTIAL EVENTS
The bride was honored with a shower hosted by Mmes. Dollie Call, Lois Whaley, Jeanne Davis, Inez Powell, Alice Hutchinson, Florence Farriell, Gay Ammeter, Sandra Brewer, Janeen Baumgardner, Pam Howard, Connie Richardson and Debbie Heinritz.

CHAPTER CS PEO
Mrs. Don Cain and Mrs. John Gill were hostesses for Chapter CS, PEO recently.

The program was the exemplification of the Ritual by the new officers. Plans were made for entertaining the senior citizens April 19.

The following members were present: Mmes. W.W. Bailey, D.V. Burton, J.G. Crinklaw, W.R. Harden, P.W. Harvey, Danny King, C.E. Kneale, Ower Lafferty, W.J. Miller, Earl Parsons, Bruce Ruehart, Wesley Simpson, M.R. Specker, W.H. Vaughn, C.W. Walsh, Jr., L.J. Wright, Cain and Gill.

BUMBRY TAKES TWO ROLES IN 'TANNHAUSER'
MUNICH (AP) — St. Louis-born Grace Bumbry, formerly a mezzo-soprano, now is singing mostly soprano roles.

However, she will sing both Venus and Elisabeth here in Wagner's "Tannhauser." The two leading female roles in the opera, representing the hero's conflict between spiritual and sensual love, are customarily taken by two prima donnas. Venus usually is sung by a mezzo and Elisabeth by a dramatic soprano.

Obviously, they do not appear on stage at the same time.

Mrs. Glenn Radcliff will host the April 24 meeting.

Running Out Of Space? Recycle A Room

OLD LIVING ROOM SETS BRIGHT NEW LOOK

Measuring 20 by 16 feet, with a wide bay window at one side and an imposing fireplace on the other, this old living room posed a special decorating challenge. To give it an intimate feeling, as well as to overcome the problem of badly cracked walls, flocked floral wallpaper was used. Mirror squares cover the wall above the pickled pine fireplace mantle, balancing the natural light from the bay window with its sheer draperies and numerous hanging plants.

In the bay are a pair of wicker chairs and a reclaimed pie-crust table in Queen Anne style, its top varnished in a variety of wood tones to suggest an inlay effect. Planned to take advantage of both fireplace and bay window, the main seating area consists of curved loveseats that face each other across a unique cheese table reclaimed to serve as a coffee table.

The room's one unbroken wall is lined with ceiling-high inexpensive spindle and modular shelving system. The shelving and an old grocery ladder that substitutes for library steps are antiqued in gray rose tones to blend with the eleven-foot high ceiling. Copper and brass lamps, toss pillows in various patterns, and a broad assortment of new and antique art objects enhance the room's cozy feeling.

The recycling of materials such as glass and paper has become part of our every-day living. We have learned that recycling of materials is vital to the preservation of natural resources and betterment of our environment.

In the recycling of a century-old house in North Carolina, new uses of shut-off rooms and space were found. For example, an attic, with low, sloping walls and ceiling was recycled to become a children's play room.

Another room, dreary and dark with small-oddly-shaped windows and uneven ceiling was recycled to become a teen girl's bedroom.

In both cases all the "remodeling" was done with wallcoverings, paints, varnishes and floor coverings. There were no structural changes... but instead bright wallcoverings were used to raise ceilings and bring space to the rooms. Wall coverings were also used to hide uneven surfaces and cracks. Recycling of a room often includes finding dual uses for a room. Perhaps your storage room can double as a combination work and storage room. The installation of do-it-yourself shelving and counters (available in sections and unfinished) is something a homemaker can readily do without the need of expensive tools. And, if such a room is lacking in light, you can bring in brightness by the use of cheerful paints and floral wallcoverings.

Decorating experts suggest that you review your needs or the needs of the persons using the room before you do your recycling. Then, plan the colors. Consider the favorite colors of the people using the room... and consider colors that will produce positive results: such as cheerful colors to bring in light and to expand spaces; or dark colors to lower ceiling or hide wall or ceiling blemishes.

Much do-it-yourself decorating can be easily done evenings or on weekends. Try to schedule such work to fit in with your other activities.

LIVELY IDEAS FOR TEEN GIRL'S ROOM

Sparkling bright, with spacious 10-foot wall of storage, this girl's room was once a catch-all, with no closet and one small window. Bright colors have transformed it into an exciting room. A plaid wallcovering in pink and orange has been used to lower the ceiling. The colors are repeated in the floral wallcovering and accessories. The storage unit, built with unfinished uprights and shelves fitted with baskets, is enclosed by bamboo shades.

In addition to providing storage, the unit also conceals the room's oddly shaped window. Carpeting in fresh, grass green tones covers an uneven, rough wood floor. A wicker elephant table, painted white, serves as a night table next to the single bed with its white dotted Swiss spread. Other furnishings include an old vanity-dresser reclaimed and painted white, with pink trim and matching wicker chair, also white.

UNUSED ATTIC CAN BECOME CHILD'S PLAYROOM

Waiting for the fun to begin, Humpty Dumpty is all smiles in this entry to a child's room and play area. The third floor hallway of an old house, this former entry has been brightened by petal blue walls with a Bermuda blue ceiling. Fluffy white clouds (cut from plywood) have been suspended to complete the sky. Decal flowers run along the wall near the baseboards. Both stairs and floor are covered in grass-texture carpeting. The playhouse seen at the end of the hall is also of plywood.

TDA Studies Work Of Artists

Texas Delta Alpha Chapter of Phi Sigma Alpha met in the home of Knoxine Russell for the April business and study meeting.

Club News

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
The Vada Waldron Bible Study Group met in the home of Mrs. Ed Schneider, 612 Red Deer, at 9:30 a.m., Wednesday, April 18.

In the absence of Mrs. H.D. Moran, chairman of the group, Mrs. G.E. Groninger presided at the meeting. She announced that the mission project for the month of April is an offering for the Woody Northcuts, who serve as missionaries in Brookings, South Dakota. The ladies present donated to this cause in a generous manner.

Mrs. G.L. Wilson led the "Call to Prayer". Mrs. Groninger turned the meeting over to Mrs. Schneider, who taught the Bible lesson using the book of Mark for her text.

The next meeting of this group will be May 16, in the home of Mrs. Carl Smith, 2216 N. Wells.

Ladies attending the meeting were: Mmes. Ed Rallsback, Orval Batson, W.R. Bell, Bob Muns, E.A. James, Ed Warford, W.B. Franklin, H.C. Wilkie, A.L. Prigmore, Groninger, Wilson, Smith, and Schneider.

During the business meeting, conducted by Mrs. B.F. Dorman, president, final plans for the field trip to artist Jack Lane's Studio, were detailed. This all day outing will conclude the year long study of art being conducted by this sorority chapter.

Final plans were also made for the spring preferential tea to be held May 6 from 3 to 5 p.m. in the Reddy Room.

The lesson on abstract art was given by Mrs. Fred Symonds. Mrs. Symonds used a series of pictures by the Dutch painter Mondrian.

The pictures showed the development made by Mondrian from nearly representational art early in his career to the totally abstract style peculiarly his own that is now associated with his name.

As she showed a typical, late Mondrian, made up of black delineated rectangles with three squares of primary color on white she quoted Mondrian's own explanation of his style.

She also used some of Picasso's works and a Gauguin to illustrate her talk.

Other members in attendance were Mmes. Bob Baker, Harry Cook, Chester Johnson, Linnie R. Kenney, B. Mitchell, Bernard Organ, Lawrence Paronik, Marvin Silliman, Felton Webb, and J.M. Hahn.

April Showers Bring Rain Fashions

NEW YORK—(NEA)—As sure as there's an April that follows March there will be a fair share of spring rain. An extra umbrella, scarf, or pair of boots may be a last minute pick-up but get ready now with one or two new raincoats. If you let the inevitable showers get the best of you you're bound to feel about as crisp as a wilted daffodil. The alternative could be one or two of the well-worked formulas from the Junior Gallery and Miss Gallery collections.

A good idea is Nat Hirsch's rain jacket for Junior Gallery. He has set a winning track record with his jackets of all kinds during the past year. A rain jacket doubles as an everything jacket and before long becomes one of those wardrobe staples. During spring you'll probably wear it more days than not. For summer it's ideal to have on hand for week-end trips and is sturdy enough to toss in the car in case the weather plays funny tricks.

Hirsch succeeds in underlining his rain jackets with powerful fashion details such as new waistline treatments, simple but effective closures, well-set pockets and more.

Henry Rutman brings a new air to Zepel-finished water repellent raincoats for Miss Gallery. His coats emerge as strong ones for rain, mild or clear weather. More and more people are turning to coats of this ilk as their major spring outerwear. These are the contemporary solution for almost every spring coat need. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Peter Cottontail Turns Poet

COLLEGE STATION—Peter Cottontail may turn poet this Easter.

"Children and poetry are natural friends," according to Dorothy Taylor, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University.

"How quickly they come together—and how long the friendship lasts—will depend, in part, on what happens at home."

She suggested giving the young child a book of poetry—or literature—at Easter time. "Even the two-year old will march to the rhythmic poetry of Mother Goose rhymes," she observed.

"As the child begins to talk, he creates language patterns that are highly poetic. Words are repeated in rhythmic measure. His sing-song phrases, moving slowly at first, then faster, often reflect pleasure or anxiety."

"Added to this repetition and rhythm are the child's word pictures—fresh and poetic in themselves." Miss Taylor noted. "Worn-out clichés of adult speech are unknown to children—they start afresh and create figures of speech as they go."

The specialist cited poems such as "My Dog" by Marchette Chute, "Fog" by Carl Sandburg, "Mary Had a Little Lamb" or "Pippa's Song" by Robert Browning as able to "kindle the imagination or relate love of animals to children."

A few poetry choices for Easter might include Robert Lewis Stevenson's "A Child's Garden of Verse," Marguerite de Angeli's "Book of Nursery," Jane Werner's "The Golden Book of Poetry" or Ogden Nash's "The Moon is Shining Bright As Day."

Also, "Favorite Poems Old and New" by Helen Ferris, "Rainbow in the Sky" by Louis Untermeyer, "The World of Christopher Robin" by A.A. Milne, and "Texas Trains and Trails" by Mary Austin.

Annual Meeting Held For Catholic Women

The Pampa Deanery of the Amarillo Diocesan Council of Catholic Women held its annual spring meeting recently at St. Mary's Hall in Groom, with Mrs. Gregory Raptine, president, presiding.

At the morning session the theme, "Joy of Living" was developed by a panel discussion and a filmstrip entitled, "Right to Life" presented by Mr. and Mrs. Allen Monroe and Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Albracht of Hereford.

Guest speakers for the afternoon session were Rev. Jos. Tash, Sgr. Francis Smyer, Rev. Donald Busch and Bishop Lawrence M. DeFalco, Bishop of Amarillo.

The next meeting will be held in Canadian, in the spring of 1974.

Convention Reports Given To Varietas

Mrs. R.W. Lane presented the program for Varietas Study Club at the home of Mrs. F.A. Cary on April 10. Mrs. N.B. Ellis, club president, presided.

Those who had attended the District Convention in Canyon gave reports of that event. Mrs. Clyde Ellis, official club delegate, spoke first, giving highlights of the meetings and announcing the prizes won by Varietas club members.

Mrs. N.B. Ellis received first place for her cathedral quilt and first place for her hand-made rug. The club received second place for its yearbook. Following the first report, Mrs. W.H. Burden, Mrs. Aubrey Sprawls, and Mrs. N.B. Ellis also discussed the convention.

The afternoon's topic was "Americanism" with the sub-title, "Ye Shall Know the Truth and the Truth Shall Make You Free." Mrs. Lane's special topic was "Selected Bills in Congress," and she gave her audience a synopsis and understanding of the bills now being considered by government.

She said, "We need to realize the news is brought to us through many types of communication. The press gallery in Washington holds representatives of 2200 newspapers, 123 periodicals, 115 TV people, and various other TV sets in the U.S., nearly everybody has access to news almost as soon as it happens."

She spoke of the influence of Chambers of Commerce and of other organizations. She said that bills presently being considered include tax revision, welfare reform, environment, community improvement, revenue sharing, and others.

She then concentrated upon

Sen. William Brock's Bill S-40, whose purpose is to control federal spending in the following ways: (1) by having a joint committee work out national priorities and thus spend where needed; (2) spread the work of the committee over a five-year period; (3) evaluate the priorities every three years; (4) use pilot testing before spending; and (5) have federal expenditures appropriated annually.

She said, "Gallup polls show that only a minority of qualified voters go to the polls. We must remember that every vote counts and that many officials are elected by only a few votes. Each election needs the participation of all of us."

Present at the meeting were Miss Anna Pierce and Mmes. W.A. Bohot, W.H. Burden, F.A. Cary, Clyde Ellis, N.B. Ellis, S.C. Evans, J.E. Gibson, Lee Harrah, J.E. Kirchman, R.W. Lane, Otis Nace, L.B. Penick, Aubrey Sprawls, Ralph Thomas, and Sherman White.

Law Enforcement Explained To Pampa Retired Teachers

Sheriff Rufe Jordan was the guest speaker at a meeting of the Pampa Retired Teachers Association, Monday afternoon, in the Flame Room of Pioneer Natural Gas Company.

"I believe the pendulum is beginning to swing back to law and order," Jordan said, adding that the last four appointments to the Supreme Court have greatly strengthened law enforcement.

He commented, "although rulings of the appellate and higher courts in recent years, particularly those rulings dealing with counsel, warnings, and confessions, have tied the hands of law enforcement officers, they have, perhaps resulted in some good in that they have brought about more careful preparation of cases and more extensive use of laboratory and other enforcement techniques; and although people sometimes feel that the rights of the offender are given precedent over the rights of the offended and cases are tried on technicalities rather than on merits, the laws of our land are still great and deserve our respect and support."

McHenry Lane introduced the speaker, and in the business session presided over by Mrs. J.B. Austin, first vice-president, Lane, brought the group up to date on educational legislation.

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Rufe Jordan, Mrs. Lawson Holmes, and Jack Van Beber. About 40 members were present.

Hostesses were Mmes. J.E. Gibson, Jr., John Rankin, H.H. Hahn, Miss Bernice Larsh, and Willa McDaniels.

The next meeting will be May 14 at 7 p.m. in the Flame Room, honoring the new retirees from the Pampa Public School system.

Culture Club Studies Japan

The Twentieth Century Club held their regular meeting in the home of Mrs. Ross Buzzard with Mrs. G.L. Craddock, co-hostess. Mrs. M.K. Griffith, president, conducted the business meeting.

Mrs. Buzzard, program chairman introduced the program, "Don't Forget Your Passport" which was presented by club members, Mrs. N. Dudley Steele and Mrs. James A. Poole. Four of the club members modeled authentic costumes from the countries discussed by the speakers.

Mrs. Steele introduced her talk by telling where to go, what to pack and what to do when you get there. She then described a recent trip they had made to Japan. She said of Tokyo, the capital of Japan, "It is a very large city indeed and growing all the time. Tokyo has a population of 11 million, 454 thousand people. There are 15 million people in a radius of 20 miles of Tokyo."

The speaker showed slides of the city of Meriba and vicinity. Mrs. Poole concluded her informative talk by showing pictures of the Pyramids in Egypt and comparing them with those of Mexico.

The hostesses served refreshments in the Easter motif to the 16 members present.

Mrs. Griffith gave the thought for today, "The world is a book and he who stays at home reads only one page." by M.K. Freilinghlysen.

The next regular meeting will be April 24 in the home of Mrs. James A. Poole with Mrs. Myron Marx, co-hostess. Mrs. G.L. Craddock will present the program.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Senior Citizen Can't Find Coat That Fits

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—My elderly mother is only five feet tall and weighs less than 100 pounds and recently my sister and I literally combed a city of 115,000 people trying to find a suitable winter coat for her. One saleslady told us she had the same problem. They do not get clothes appropriate for senior citizens. I realize half our nation's population is under 25 but our senior citizens deserve some services they are not getting.—MRS. W. A. R.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—An elderly neighbor of mine spilled ink on her pastel-pink figured rug and does not want to experiment with the spot (3/4-inch by eight inches) that was made by a fountain pen several years ago. I feel sure some reader will have an answer for her.—JEAN

DEAR POLLY and Mrs. K. L. H.—We have had electric baseboard heating units for 13 years and I have experimented with different window curtain lengths. For an informal treatment she could have her curtains stop at the bottom of the window trim and for a more formal one they could come down to the top of the baseboard heater, being sure to clear them by about 3/4 of an inch. No matter what any salesman tells her she should not place draperies over the heaters. The man who installed ours said it was perfectly safe to put floor length draperies in front of the heating units as they would not get hot enough to be dangerous. This is in itself true BUT someone pushed a chair against our wall pushing the drapery tight against the heater. The corner of the curtain became wedged in an opening in the heater and it caught fire. Luckily I was at home and smelled it. Even now I shudder to think of what could have happened. If Mrs. K. L. H.'s heaters have openings (air vents) she will need to caution her children about sticking pencils, fingers and so on in the vents. A crayon can make a mess as it melts and does not smell nice when burning. Also watch out for your animals—our cat laid against the warm heater and her tail became stuck in the vent.—GEORGIA

DEAR READERS—The Electric Comfort Heating Equipment Section of the National Electrical Manufacturers Assn., makes the following recommendations concerning drapery hanging: "Draperies should hang at least one-inch in front of the heater and one-half inch above the carpet and below the ceiling. Material to be suitable for draperies, should not discolor, shrink or stretch even after 1,000 hours exposure to a temperature of 200 degrees-F. For the best heat flow and even distribution, furniture should be at least six inches from baseboard heaters, with at least three inches minimum clearance from the floor. Furniture should be placed away from forced air or radiant heaters, too."—POLLY

SZYERYNG GIVES STRAD TO ISRAEL

JERUSALEM (AP)—Violinist Henryk Szeryng presented his 1734 Stradivarius violin, valued at $60,000, to this city following a concert here on Dec. 24. The violin was presented on behalf of himself and Mexico, of which Szeryng is a naturalized citizen.

The violinist's statement at the time said that, except for very short periods of display in two museums, the violin should be loaned for playing and performing. He named Zubin Mehta, musical adviser of the Israel Philharmonic, as having ultimate decision over who should borrow the violin.

Golden Bear Jack Gets 2-Stroke Tourney Lead

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus emerged from a seasaw battle with Lee Trevino and shot a four-under-par 68 Saturday to surge into the third round lead in the $200,000 M.O.N.Y. Tournament of Champions.

Trevino led on three occasions and they were tied for the lead three other times before Nicklaus pulled away to a two-stroke lead with a 54-hole total of 208, eight under par on the 7,114-yard La Costa Country Club course.

Trevino held a one-stroke lead when play started in bright, warm sunshine but could do no better than a 71 for 210.

That put him two strokes behind Nicklaus and just one in front of Australian veteran Bruce Crampton, who shot a 70 for a 211.

First-round leader Jim Colbert and big J.C. Snead were tied at 212 in this event that brings together pro golf tour winners of the last 12 months. Colbert had a 70 and Snead matched par with a 72.

Disappointed Arnold Palmer, just two strokes out of the lead when play started, shot himself out of it and announced he may be taking an extended break from the game he once dominated. He had a 77 and was 10 strokes away at 218.

Trevino, the current British Open champion and runner-up to Nicklaus on this season's money-winning list, lost his lead when he bogeyed the first hole. He missed the green, chipped to about four feet and missed the putt.

Trevino, playing head to head with Nicklaus in the last two some on the plush, beautifully-conditioned course, regained the top spot with a 12-foot birdie putt on the third hole. Both birdied the sixth and Nicklaus pulled even again with a birdie on the eighth.

Both made birdie-four on the 12th. Nicklaus three-putted the 13th to stake Lee to the lead for the last time. But the Golden

Philadelphia 76ers May Trade Choice

NEW YORK (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers, who previously announced they would select muscular Jim Brewer of the University of Minnesota as the top choice in the National Basketball Association draft have been having second thoughts—and may trade the pick.

"We know that no one player in college ball is going to give us a turnaround situation," said Don DeJardin, 76ers' general manager. "If we thought two players we could get in a trade could effectively give us the same result, we'll trade."

"It's more probable a trade will be made, but we don't know just what we'll do," said Kevin Loughery, Philadelphia coach. There have been reports that the 76ers are interested in forward Bob Dandridge of Milwaukee, and forward Bob Love, center Clifford Ray and guard Norm Van Lier, all of Chicago.

The 76ers need all the help they can get after finishing the 1972-73 season with a 9-73 record—the worst in pro basketball history.

The NBA draft of college players, postponed twice because of the John Brisker case, has been rescheduled for Tuesday. The rival American Basketball Association draft, postponed three times, has been reset for Wednesday.

The Brisker case was settled last Wednesday night after a special nine-hour meeting by the NBA's Board of Governors. Brisker had become Philadelphia's property when the 76ers picked him in the supplementary draft in 1969, but he signed with Pittsburgh of the ABA. When the Pittsburgh franchise disbanded last year, Brisker signed with the Seattle SuperSonics of the NBA.

Last November, NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy took away Seattle's No. 1 draft pick and gave it to the 76ers. He also fined the SuperSonics $10,000. However, a U.S. Federal Court judge ruled that Kennedy was "guilty of misconduct" because he had failed to hold a hearing or consult the board before making his decision.

The governors, at their special meeting, restored Seattle's first round pick, but gave Philadelphia a bonus pick after the opening round.

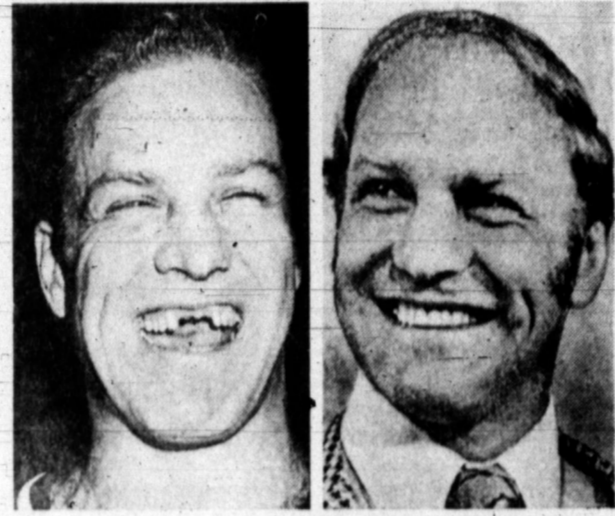

Bear got a share of it again with a 12-foot putt for a dace on the next hole.

He went one stroke in front when Trevino hit a poor second shot on the 13th and three-putted from a great distance, perhaps 50 feet. Trevino had to one-putt the 16th to save par from a bunker.

Nicklaus, seeking his third title of the season and a record fourth T of C championship, stretched his margin to two strokes with a 30-foot birdie putt on the 17th.

Indiana Pacers Beat Utah Stars For Title

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The defending American Basketball Association champion Indiana Pacers, led by George McGinnis with 23 points and Donnie Freeman with 21, won the Western Division playoff series 4-2 with a 107-98 victory over Utah Saturday.

Indiana will play the winner of the Kentucky-Carolina-Eastern Division playoffs for the ABA championship.

Before a national television audience, the Pacers led nearly the entire game, running into difficulty only for a short time in the second quarter. They built their lead to 18 points and coasted to victory. Utah scored the last eight points of the game.

The Stars were led by Willie Wise with 17 points and Cincy Powell with 15.

Indiana went ahead 29-21 at the end of the first quarter as Roger Brown, bothered by a back injury, dropped in a three-point goal just ahead of the buzzer.

Utah stormed out in the second period and tied the game at 35-all as Powell scored 13 of his game points in the first half. The Stars then moved ahead 44-37, their biggest lead.

Indiana, with McGinnis hitting six free throws, came back and tied the game at 51-all. After an exchange of baskets, Brown hit another bucket as time ran out with Indiana ahead for good, 55-53, at the half.

Pacer guard Billy Keller came off the bench in the second half to spark Indiana's winning drive with hot shooting, passing and ball handling. He tossed in 15 points, 13 in the second half, and collected four assists. Starting guard Freddie Lewis had seven assists to go with six points, all in the first quarter.

Secretariat 3rd Angle Light Is First In Wood Memorial Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Angle Light scored a front-running victory in the $114,000 Wood Memorial Saturday as Secretariat, the favorite for the Kentucky Derby, finished a soundly beaten third behind Sham.

Secretariat's defeat was only the second time in a 12-race career that the 1972 Horse of the Year had failed to cross the finish line first.

Angle Light, owned by Edwin Whittaker, ran as an entry with the Meadow Stables' Secretariat because both are trained by Lucien Laurin. But Angle Light has received little attention in the light of Secretariat's past performances.

Secretariat's defeat likely will mean a good-sized field for the May 5 Kentucky Derby now that his aura of invincibility has been badly dented.

The only other time the son of Bold Ruler failed to finish first was in the first start of his career when he was bumped badly leaving the gate.

Laurin said he probably would send Secretariat to Kentucky early next week but did not know yet about Angle Light.

Baseball, Horse Racing Have Serious Declines

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball and horse racing suffered declining interest with the ticket-buying public last year, but most American sports packed in record crowds.

Major league baseball, troubled by a player strike, took a 2,225,149 regular season plunge and the sport absorbed an overall drop of 2,359,666 at the professional level.

Figures were released Monday by Triangle Publications, Inc., which produces horse racing's Daily Racing Form. The attendance survey covered 10 sports.

Thoroughbred racing had a loss of 1,160,615 at the turnstiles and harness events were down 1,778,278. Overall, the horse racing business faltered by 2,338,893.

Still, horse racing ranked as the largest overall draw for the 21st straight year with 74,015,395 prospective gamblers. Auto racing was next with 45 million fans, football drew 43 million, baseball almost 39 million and basketball was at 34.4 million.

Wrestling showed the largest gain of all with 1,529,623 additional customers for a total of 5,421,637. Auto racing was up 1.3 million for its total of 45 million.

Here is a sport-by-sport rundown: FOOTBALL—Colleges, 620 of them, gained 373,360 for a total attendance of 30,828,802. Pro football added 537,129, making the 26-team National Football League to 10,613,164 for the regular season. College and pro post-season games drew 1,583,593, an increase of 76,005, and the overall attendance in the sport was 43,025,559, a gain of 986,494.

BASEBALL—Regular season crowds of 24 major league teams dropped 2,225,149 to a total of 26,968,268. The minor leagues dropped by 302,912 to 11,140,577. World Series and playoffs showed a gain of 168,395 to a 787,634 figure, but baseball's overall total was 38,896,419.

Year had failed to cross the finish line first.

Angle Light, owned by Edwin Whittaker, ran as an entry with the Meadow Stables' Secretariat because both are trained by Lucien Laurin. But Angle Light has received little attention in the light of Secretariat's past performances.

Secretariat's defeat likely will mean a good-sized field for the May 5 Kentucky Derby now that his aura of invincibility has been badly dented.

The only other time the son of Bold Ruler failed to finish first was in the first start of his career when he was bumped badly leaving the gate.

Laurin said he probably would send Secretariat to Kentucky early next week but did not know yet about Angle Light.

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

'Freedom of Choice'

The wheel of change moves on and now the wheel of busing is changing directions and heading back from whence it came.

The idea of busing students from one neighborhood to another to achieve racial integration has been around now about three years, and it seems to be quietly slipping away.

Roy Wilkins, executive director for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said a few days ago: "Our general position has been that there is no sacrifice or racial pride or loss of education if blacks go to school with blacks." He went on to say that if the educational process is equalized, "black children will not suffer by attending an all-black school."

This is more than just a softening of position on the part of the NAACP. It is indicative that the NAACP, and others who have said so before, is inclined to think now that busing simply is not working out, that when you take a child out of his neighborhood and slip him miles across town that you are creating more negative factors than you are positive.

In Atlanta, several months ago, lawyers for the NAACP moved in on the Atlanta school board and demanded even more busing from a school district already hurting from over-busing. Only 22 percent of Atlanta's whites remain in city schools. Busing proponents didn't know when to quit. Yet, they still wanted 18,000 more students bused next year.

Then, it all changed. In a startling switch, the NAACP said it would settle for minimum busing under a plan that leaves some 80 schools nearly all black.

Black students have found problems in forced integration that they didn't know before. Integration alone has not brought on all of the multiple enigmas which the modern school faces, but any school administrator will admit that it has made a difficult situation sometimes unbearable.

Schools prior to the 1954 Supreme Court decision were not equal in their offering — neither to whites nor blacks. Generally, all-black schools suffered by comparison but there were many white schools which were hazardous to enter physically and educationally. Even today, 19 years after the court's decision that struck schools still are not equal and parents tear out their hair knowing that their children are not receiving the same opportunity as others in the same county, even the same city.

And busing does little to correct such a situation. It is educationally unsound, psychologically damaging to any student who is bused and is tactically disastrous.

There is no way on God's green earth to force people to integrate if they don't want to. And the more force is used, the less good results are obtained.

Maybe the day will come when a child can go where he or his parents want him to go — where he will get the best education, where he will feel wanted and respected for what he is and not looked down upon for the color of his skin or, for any other reason. The old phrase "freedom of choice" comes back with a haunting sound.

New Command Policy

This is now the Army, Ms Jones. For the first time, a new Army command policy allows members of the Women's Army Corps to exercise disciplinary authority over men.

The actual change in Army Regulations enables Wacs to be assigned to any command position, except those associated with combat or tactical combat support.

Up until now, women have been permitted to command women and to supervise both men and women, but were not permitted to exercise the disciplinary authority of a commander over men (contrary to what is frequently the case in civilian — er, that is, married — life).

Crossroads Report

Dear Editor:

I see where Mr. Nixon has asked Congress to do away with insanity as a defense by people accused of federal crimes. Probably on the theory that anybody who is smart enough to plead insanity when he gets caught is not crazy.

But the timing of this move may be a little irrational itself. With the Watergate caper being played up by the caperers, some tolerably high caperers may be needing to plead insanity. Or stupidity.

Whether we like it or not, the metric system is coming to the U.S.A. and we will be buying steak at about $5 a kilogram instead of $2 a pound.

Which won't bother the youth class as they grow up with decimal measurements, but us ancients who have lived with the old measures since we were children may undergo some confusion. Like it will always sound more impressive to us when somebody says they are "in a peck of trouble" than if they say they are in 8.809 liters of trouble.

I see where Texas legislators, like nearly everybody else, want higher wages.

One argument often advanced in the case of raise-hungry lawmakers is that if they were paid to match their dignity and their desired life style, they wouldn't have to sell their votes to the lobbyists. And with honesty in government thus insured, we could stop all other forms of criminality by putting all robbers, embezzlers, etc., on federal aid sufficient to buy anything they want.

I see where four over-65 citizens are suing the government for Social Security payments they are not getting because they make too much on new jobs they are working at.

Governmenters, of course, will fight this suit on the grounds that Social Security is compulsory insurance against getting old and poor instead of just getting old.

Next big political money mine may be compulsory fire insurance which won't pay off when your house burns down if you have enough money or credit to build a new one yourself.

At times it seems like the politician class has got some kind of a thing about chickens. Like suggesting that us folks who can't afford both taxes and beefsteak should eat chicken. And 40 years ago people were running for office on promises to prosper folks to where there would be a chicken in every pot.

It took a while, but it looks like the politicians are about to fulfill that old promise and get chicken into everybody's pot except their own.

Really, old-timers can remember when workers in the U.S.A. were proud of their craftsmanship and the world bought our products because they were better.

That was in the old dead days when people got their pay raised or made more profit by doing a better job or offering better service.

Nowadays, workers, from Congressmen to janitors and on up, get paid according to union pressure and/or political clout. But, of course, a lot of us would go hungry these days if we got paid only what we are worth.

Grim Harvest

In the Welfare State, the politicians get well and the taxpayers pay the fare. We are now facing the possibility of runaway inflation and financial ruin. The main cause of such things as skyrocketing meat prices is not the farmer, not the processor, not the grocery store. It is government! Gross mismanagement by our federal government caused the devaluation of the dollar. Criminal misuse of our grain, by giving it to our mortal enemies, brought about higher prices in our stores. We have been plundered by our own leaders. Our greatest menace is not fallout but sellout.

And no leader, even Franklin D. Roosevelt, ever sold us out as diabolically as has Richard Nixon.

Take welfare, for instance, if you can stand it, Nixon's answer to our welfare fiasco, is "guaranteed annual income" and Caspar Weinberger. Appointing Caspar, Weinberger to put HEW in a conservative, business-like basis is like appointing Jane Fonda Secretary of Defense.

Welfare is bleeding us blind. More so day by day. The welfare system our elected crooks have foisted upon us include some 100 odd, and I do mean odd, different "programs". They will cost American taxpayers more than $130 billion in the coming fiscal year. Bear in mind that the total cost of the federal government in 1968 was only $128 billion.

The so-called General Accounting office recently made a study (no telling what this cost) of six "poverty areas", five urban and one rural. Here are some of the findings:

1. Up to 21 percent of welfare families in a certain "Eastern city" are headed by employable males. (I know several counties where that percentage is bound to be over 50 percent!)

2. In all five urban areas, the average tax-free benefits received by families receiving aid from five or more programs was more than the median wage level for a full-time working woman. (So why work?)

3. A 17-year-old mother of two in a "South Atlantic city" was drawing $316 worth of aid from seven different food, housing, health and manpower programs in addition to the $226 she received under Aid to Families with Dependent Children. ($542 a month for breeding and non-working, do make it nice, doesn't it?)

4. Between 60 and 75 percent of welfare households draw benefits from more than one government program, from 10 to 25 percent get help from at least five different programs and some get aid from as many as eleven different programs. Invariably, the bureaucrats are unconcerned with duplications and duplicity, but obsessed with increasing the size, scope and funds for their own bureaucracy.

5. The average "client" served in these multi-benefit "families" ranged from a high of $1,692 to a low of $1,080. Please note that the "low" is more than $1,000 per capita grant which wild man McGovern proposed during his campaign against the "conservative" Richard Nixon.

6. In two anonymous cities, it was reported that average benefits exceeded the $6,500 minimum advocated by the National Welfare Rights Organization.

No wonder thousands of Americans are now refusing to pay income taxes. No wonder food and other prices are going out the roof. No wonder there are repeated runs on the dollar. No wonder we can no longer compete with the world. No wonder we are going bankrupt. No wonder President Nixon doubled his own salary and fantastic expense account.

What's the answer? The answer to the Welfare mess, as with most messes, is to get the federal government completely out of welfare and turn it over to local governments and private charities. Can you imagine local citizens sitting still while a neighbor, breeding for profit, takes their tax money? (Federal money is "somebody else's").

Every able-bodied man with dependents, who refuses to work, should be forcibly placed in a Labor Battalion. People on Welfare should not be allowed to vote. Individual welfare payments, public employees' salaries, expense accounts, and income tax returns should be matters of public record.

The politicians, bureaucrats and deadbeats are destroying our country. We inherited the garden spot of the world; a system of government which had produced the highest standard of living ever achieved in human history and the highest degree of individual freedom ever gained in a civilized society. We have plundered both. A minute island, Japan, it is predicted, will be out-producing us industrially within 20 years. A tiny nation, situated on a rock pile and called Switzerland, enjoys a government, a work ethic, a patriotism which puts us, to shame.

The Selling Of a Vitamin: E

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I read an article in Cosmopolitan, concerning vitamin E. Millions of laymen are saying that vitamin E can possibly cure (or at least relieve) symptoms of such diseases as leishmaniasis. I'd like to know a little about vitamin E, and if it can do all or any of what is claimed.

Dear Reader — I receive an enormous number of letters asking about vitamin E. This is not surprising in view of the very effective advertising campaign used to tout the supposed benefits of vitamin E.

The American Medical Assn. agrees that we need a small amount of vitamin E. But even if we do not get that in our diet, there is no evidence that there is any disturbance in the body's normal function. This is quite different from most other vitamins which have definite roles in the human body, such as vitamin C. If you don't get enough Vitamin C over a long period of time, specific changes can be identified, including the development of scurvy, a well-known disease.

The same can be stated for lack of thiamine and other vitamins. The only evidence in man of a need for vitamin E is in certain conditions in premature infants and a few rare medical conditions.

At the last national meeting of the American Heart Assn., Dr. Robert E. Olson, one of the nationally prominent investigators, reported that after an evaluation of vitamin E there was no evidence that it was beneficial in preventing or curing heart disease. Many lucky individuals who do well after recovery from a heart attack would have done well whether they took vitamin E or not. Some patients get well in spite of their doctors rather than because of us. A discerning doctor learns this.

An article in the January issue of Consumer Reports on vitamin E reports 60 ailments, including emphysema, which are mistakenly touted as having been prevented, or treated by vitamin E. In short, many of the things that vitamin E is touted to cure or prevent are not benefited.

How then do you account for the number of people who claim to have benefits from vitamin E? This is simple. Doctors have known for years that they can give placebos, such as sugar pills and pink water, to their patients and a number of them will feel markedly better. Many quick cures depend upon this response, which is really based on the person's faith in his medicine.

The mind has a curious and powerful influence on how the body responds and how we feel. For this reason competent scientists investigate new treatments, a pill or even a surgical procedure, by carefully designed research methods and statistical analysis. Such methods are planned to eliminate chance, faith healing and coincidence. The doctor's enthusiasm also has an effect on how the patient feels.

Individuals who have responded well to treatment, even if it is pink water, are sold on the treatment and their doctor.

THE PAIN of that April 15 income tax deadline lingers on and on. One reader tells us the pain has been all the more severe this year because he had to borrow money to pay off the North Vietnamese Commies.

And, he added, it goes much deeper because he is being forced to contribute to the rebuilding and rehabilitation of North Vietnam.

"It just doesn't make sense," the man writes, "that I have to borrow money to help rehabilitate someone who has been kicking me in the teeth and still continues to do so. How much of a sucker can the U.S. keep on being?"

The man might have something there.

STILL MORE income tax post mortem:

In the mail comes this postcard from William Goldberg, 752 West End Ave., New York City, N.Y. 10025:

"Editor: "If you build a better mousetrap, the Internal Revenue Service will make a beaten path to your door."

Nice to know the Pampa News is read in New York City and good to hear from Mr. Goldberg.

HERE'S ONE good chuckle and maybe even a belly laugh from farmers and ranchers.

It is a clipping from a Caldwell, Kan. newspaper contributed by Mrs. Earl M. Parsons, 2112 N. Christy, Pampa. It reads like this:

"The farmer always pays extra for everything when he buys a car from the local dealer. So when the car dealer wanted to buy a cow, the farmer gave him the following price breakdown:

Basic cow	$200.00
Two-tone exterior	45.00
Extra stomach	75.00
Storage compartment and dispensing device	60.00
Four spigots $10 each	40.00
Genuine cowhide upholstery	125.00
Dual horn on	15.00
Automatically swatter	35.00
Total list price	$595.00

MORE MAIL:

Editor: "I am seeking information about Mr. Art Names. During the 1930s and 1940s he operated a traveling tent show which I think played in the Pampa area. I am searching for information about him and the show with the ultimate hope of writing his biography."

"I would like to hear from anyone who knew him who would be willing to correspond with me about their memories. I would also like to hear from anyone who might have pictures, letters, poems or other memorabilia about Mr. Names or his troupe."

The letter was signed "Donald W. Whisenut, History Dept., Thiel College, Greenville, Pa. 16125."

HERE'S AN item relating to the recent beef boycott. The following telegram was sent by C.C. Nagle, a feed lot owner in Parmer County, Texas, to Dr.

John Dunlop, Cost of Living Council, Washington, D.C.:

"I offer you my interest in cattle on feed at the Parmer County Feedlot, Bovina, Texas."

"When the government tells me to sell cattle to a non-existent market at a loss, it's time to get out of the cattle business and get a government position. I'll even take a job."

"Please advise what jobs are available in Washington, D.C."

"If I get the job I want you to guarantee me that I can buy my house, car, clothes, utilities, booze, cigarettes, boat, camper, fishing gear, etc., for less than cost, with a 40-hour work week instead of 60-70."

"I should have time to spend all that money and buy my steaks from you at less than cost also. Please advise by return wire."

The above telegram appeared in a news story about Mr. Nagle in last Sunday's Pampa News, but we thought it would bear repetition here.

AND THAT all serves as a reminder of the Monday, April 30, membership luncheon of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce which will consist of steaks and a program saluting the beef industry.

Rex McAnelly, president of the Southwestern T-Bone Club and a vice president of the chamber of commerce, will be the luncheon speaker.

An advance notice says McAnelly will discuss problems confronting the cattle industry and the effect of the recent beef boycotts.

Jerald Sims, chamber president, said wives of chamber members are especially invited to attend the April 30 luncheon.

JACK SKELLY submits us a clipping from the London Daily Mail with a heading, "The Drowning of Teddy Bear."

It is reprinted here without our comment.

The protectively patriarchal figure of Mrs. Rose Kennedy is ensuring that an indiscreet book about her son Teddy will become a best-seller without anyone being able to read it.

"Rose, 83, has been holidaying in the lush Florida resort of Palm Beach and heard that the book, titled 'Teddy Bear' and offering new conclusions on the Chappaquiddick disaster, was on sale.

"Within a short space of time, all copies of the salacious oeuvre had disappeared from local stores and requests for it in other parts of America are being met with blank stares.

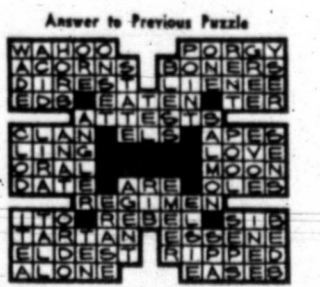

"It is the work of author Zad Rust and has been published by a small company in Belmont, Mass., near the Kennedy homestead.

"In Palm Beach, the local talk is that Mrs. Kennedy has had the offending literature dumped in the local ocean."

The Daily Mail article reports that the Black Market price of the book has zoomed to $50 a copy on the London market and adds that Senator Kennedy can ill afford to have Chappaquiddick brought up again.

Soil Conservation Seen As U.S. Food Insurance

By D.E. CUNNINGHAM
 Area Conservationist

Good soil conservation practice today is the only way an adequate supply of nutritious food can be assured tomorrow. Soil conservation touches everyone, whether it be the farmer, merchant, teacher, lawyer, doctor, banker and the old and the young.

Man's struggle with soil erosion is as old as agriculture itself. Records of his efforts to adjust himself to the land are written on landscapes around the world. Ruined land and starving people show us he failed to care properly for nature's great natural resource. "The Topsoil." If we wish to avoid these mistakes we must study the records and know the reasons for man's failure.

The conservation and development task in years directly ahead is going to be formidable.

For example, the population of the United States will require over twice as much production from its agricultural land by the year 2000. We now use about 350 billion gallons of water daily; by 1980 we will need 600 billion gallons of water per day. Each year more than a million acres of land are taken out of agriculture and used for highways, housing projects and other urban uses.

By the end of the century the demand for recreation will double.

We are still losing some 500,000 acres of land a year as the result of erosion and other damage, both rural and urban.

Soil erosion affects the happiness and the welfare of the individual farmer and his family, and through them, the welfare of the community of which they are a part and the town where they buy and sell. From decreased business in the towns, the influence of soil losses widens and spreads until it is felt by manufacturers and mill workers in distant states.

A trip across almost any state will furnish one the opportunity to observe the relationship of the soil and the well being of people. In areas where conservation has been practiced, one may see good crops, good fences, good buildings, painted and well cared for, a happy and prosperous people living on the land, and thriving towns or cities serving those who live there. In regions where soil conservation has not been practiced one finds poor crops, poor fences, dilapidated buildings, bad roads, poor schools, poor churches and a low level of human well being.

How does erosion affect you? It influences not only the United States, but touches, sometimes quite tangibly, the interests of foreign countries with whom we do business. Soil is the basic source of wealth and no one, however remote from the farm, is entirely unaffected by soil erosion.

FOSTER WHALEY

Agriculturally Speaking

Harold Dunn, formerly head of Shamrock Oil and Gas, has issued a challenge to the 4-H Club boys - girls, and adult leaders of the Panhandle to help him raise $75,000.00 for the purpose of erecting a special dormitory building in the name of the Panhandle 4-H Clubs to be located at the newly proposed state 4-H center at Lake Brownwood.

Dunn has agreed to raise $37,500.00 from area businessmen and has asked the other groups to raise a like amount.

The quota for Gray County has been set at $4,500.00.

Gray County folks are getting behind this project and plan to meet this goal. A special napkin sale committee has been formed and headed by Don Morrison. Four-H members will be selling special decorated napkins - Jimmie Lou Wainwright, CEA, assisted by Audette Vaughn, Asst. CEA, will be the Extension sponsors of this part of the State 4-H money-raising drive.

J. D. Skaggs has formed a "Wheat Bushels for State 4-H Center" committee. Members of this committee are: Earl Smith, Elmer McLaughlin, Richard Bowers, Henry Harnly, Jack Osborne, Ruben Baggerman, Jack Benton, Keith Davis, W. C. Epperson, Paul Eakin, Billy R. Fields, Stan Friend, Bill Gehring, Holly Gray, W. A. Greene, Tom Henderson, Jim Hopkins, John Mackie, Raymond Maddox, James Q. McCracken, J. D. Paris, George Quible, James A. Reeves, Curtis Schaffer, John Spearman, Freddie Vandenberg, Jr., Marvin Webster, Don Morrison, and Jim Greene.

This committee is now soliciting each landowner and operator and asking them to agree to give twenty bushels (more or less) of their 1973 production of wheat. This can be done by advising your elevator or signing an authorization for your elevator to withhold the few bushels of your 1973 wheat production.

In case you should get hailed out or have other type disaster you may withdraw your approval to donate the wheat.

We are looking forward to using this building in the future for Gray County 4-H county camps. The state 4-H center will be used by county delegations as well as state and district events. We anticipate that several counties will be having private county camps at Lake Brownwood concurrently. The facilities are so planned to permit a state 4-H horse pavilion in the plan.

The center will be staffed by Extension personnel.

Many other states have 4-H centers. We are just now getting ours off the drawing board and making it a reality.

There are many others that are not wheat farmers that will want to contribute to this very worthwhile project.

If you should care to contribute, make your check payable to "Gray County State 4-H Center" and call any member of the committee or my number 669-2671 or 669-3251 and we would be happy to pick up your contribution.

Can you think of a better cause? As George Quible said, "4-H work is a method of keeping children busy and occupied. This keeps any kid out of trouble."

Talk to Rufe Jordan and he will tell you he has never had one minute's trouble with an active 4-H boy or girl. Let's get behind this project and put it over the top.

Post Office May Issue Food Stamps

Contracts for selling food coupons in post offices are established individually between the postal service and the state agency which administers the food stamp program.

That is the basic condition of the agreement reached by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the U.S. Postal Service last week.

The agreement sets forth audit responsibility and other procedures, postal service's limit of responsibility for cash and stamps and provides for the use of a standard issuance fee by the postal service.

State agencies have the full responsibility for negotiating the contracts.

States may continue to sell food stamps through welfare agencies, banks, credit unions, poverty agencies and local businesses - Postal service issuance of the coupons is seen as an added supplement effecting greater convenience to food stamp users.

Postal service issuance has been in effect in a number of areas on a trial basis since 1971 and has been termed a success.

Wheat Panel Election Date Set

Gray is one of ten Panhandle counties comprising District 1, Texas Wheat Producers Board and any wheat producer in the county is eligible to vote for a board member from the district.

The balloting will be the first biennial election and is set for May 31, according to Ken Kendrick, Stratford, chairman of the board.

The Texas Wheat Producers Board was formed in 1971 to support wheat research and market development. The terms of three board members elected at that time are expiring.

They include Leo Witkowski, Hereford; Delbert Timmons, Perryton; and John Cogdell, Crowell. These drew two-year terms instead of a normal six-year stint in order to establish a rotating board. Members are eligible for re-election to one additional consecutive term.

Kendrick emphasized that any person qualifying to vote in the election may place his name in nomination for membership on the board by submitting an application to the organization signed by himself and at least ten other persons eligible to vote in the election.

This must be done 30 days before the election date in order to have the name placed on the ballot.

Balloting will be done by mail. Requests for ballots or applications for names to be placed on the ballot should be sent to 600 Bank of the Southwest, Amarillo, 79109, headquarters for the organization.

Three districts made up of 34 counties comprise the geographic scope of the board.

WILDLIFE PROJECT
 A countywide Wildlife Project will kick off Tuesday, May 1, 1973 at 8 a.m. at the Agricultural Annex Building in Pampa.

Buck Williams, Gray County Game Warden, will present the first program on Species of Wildlife in the Plains Area and all of Texas. The Soil Conservation Service in Pampa will be in charge of the second meeting, May 8, 1973 on Wildlife Habitat.

Five classroom-type programs will be presented, and to end the project, a field trip on Saturday is planned.

The project is open to the public, and any non-4-H member.

Bunkum
 Felix Walker, a congressman of the 1820s, became known as "old oil-jug" because of profuse speeches made - as he said - for Buncombe County in his North Carolina district. The words "bunkum" and "debunking" derive from his loquacity.

It Is Time For Planning Deferment
 Rangeland deferment provides a feed reserve for fall and winter grazing and now is the time to plan for it, according to the Soil Conservation Service.

Determining which pastures need a rest is a primary concern in grassland management. All native grassland needs approximately 90 days rest every three years to improve forage conditions.

Panhandle Water

By FELIX W. RYALS
 Senator John L. McClellan of Arkansas's, the current chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, was one of the key speakers for the National Water Resources Congress in Washington, D.C. on April 4, 1973.

Senator McClellan and the late Senator Robert Kerr of Oklahoma were the authors of the legislation that brought about the building of the Arkansas-Verdigris Rivers complex of locks and dams that stretch from the mouth of the Arkansas River to Muskogee in Oklahoma. The dams, some of which were electric power dams, created lakes between each dam. With only a difference in sea level elevation of approximately 600 feet from the mouth of the Arkansas River to Muskogee, Oklahoma, each dam was constructed in such a way to back water up to the next dam above it. This has created a series of beautiful lakes and has permanently harnessed the ravaging waters of the Arkansas River during flood times. The Arkansas River now also serves the entire area from Tulsa to New Orleans by creating a permanent transportation line that ships are now able to use all year round.

McClellan stated that he had worked in this vineyard of endeavor since entering Congress in 1935. He pointed out the progress and benefits to Arkansas, Oklahoma, and the entire nation that has come about since the structures were built. He reiterated that the job is not done and will not be completed in our lifetime. It is our duty and our responsibility to future generations to continue to harness the water resources of the nation for the ultimate use and benefit of all the people. He disagreed with the concept that the direct beneficiaries of water resources projects should pay the entire cost. He further stated that all of the people of the entire nation were the beneficiaries of the benefits, and thus the cost should be borne by the nation as a whole. He was highly critical of the concept of making loans to disaster area people in the flooded Mississippi River basin.

According to McClellan, "It is not a local obligation or a local responsibility to refute the evidence that comes home to us when we have a flood disaster - whose responsibility is it then - we provide disaster, and if the federal government has a duty to provide aid to relieve distress that has occurred by reason of the floods, I think it also has an obligation to provide an ounce of prevention before the floods come. That has been our national policy of our country to provide the necessary assistance needed in any area of the country, and the American people will not tolerate the abandonment of the responsibility to provide the assistance to prevent flood disaster, the washing away of the soil, or the destruction of the property in our cities."

Senator McClellan closed his address by stating, "When I think of these things, I think about the command the Lord gave to Adam and Eve - Go forth, be fruitful, multiply, fill the Earth, and subdue it. We are in the process of replenishing the Earth as in that command, and we are in the process of subduing the raw characteristics of nature to make them amenable to the service of mankind. I shall continue to work in that vineyard so long as I remain in the Senate of the United States."

Senator McClellan was praised highly by other members of the Congress who were present as guests for the dinner address.

During the course of his address, the Senator turned aside in his remarks to declare strongly that he was and would continue to be opposed to amnesty to draft dodgers and deserters and to any aid to North Vietnam. He felt that had North Vietnam heeded the warnings she received, she would not now be in the position of having to request aid to rebuild her destroyed areas.

FRENZIED ACTIVITY

Cable Television Impact Yet To Be Measured

WASHINGTON (AP) — One year into the era of what was billed as communications revolution, the average American has yet to see the impact of cable television.

There has been frenzied activity within the industry since the six-year government freeze on new cable TV systems was lifted last April 1. About 800 applications for new cable TV systems have been filed with the Federal Communications Commission, with 206 approved.

But the big battles are within communities for franchises, with as many as 10 to 20 groups contending for some. And most disturbing to industry leaders is a growing move by local officials seeking to operate their own cable systems rather than franchise them to private firms.

Most of the new systems approved are still under construction, so the number of subscribers to cable TV increased only from six million to seven million, according to the National Cable Television Association.

The Commerce Department has forecast 1.1 million new cable TV subscribers this year for a 14 per cent gain. An increase of 16.5 per cent annually is expected to bring the total to 23.5 million by the end of 1980 if the industry meets the "very substantial capital requirements" and communities do not delay issuing franchises.

Industry leaders are optimistic that the next year will bring a clearer picture of when to expect cable systems to make television sets into what has been described as a "dream machine" in a U.S. News & World Report study of cable TV.

Potential uses, many in advanced experimental stages, include: face-to-face communication over television sets, dialing a computer library for taped entertainment or information; three-dimensional movies on the living room wall; shopping, banking and paying bills at home; facsimile printouts of newspapers; mail delivery by facsimile.

Sol Schildhouse, chief of the FCC's Cable TV Bureau, said most of last year's development was one-way, with "very little two-way" use of cable TV.

However, cable TV has advanced far beyond its original purpose; a mountain-top antenna to pick up TV signals for communities too far away from TV transmitters for rooftop antennae to pick up the signals.

Home viewers in many communities attend city council and PTA meetings and watch local football games and other sports. And some systems originate entertainment.

David Foster, president of the industry's association, said use of the public access channel is spreading from New York to other cities. This is the channel all systems in the top 100 markets eventually will be required to have so citizens can sound off free-of-charge on almost any subject.

FCC Chairman Dean Bruch has summed up cable TV's current status this way:

"Cable television may have a future without limit. Or it may have no future at all. Cable is still an infant, particularly in the major television markets, and it's going to take vast sums of speculative money to get it started."

Schildhouse said that of the 2,200 applications he received last year, 40 per cent were for new systems. Most of the others were for permission to carry non-local stations into the top 100 markets, which was permitted for the first time by the rules that went into effect last April 1.

Each cable TV system must carry all TV signals within a 35-mile radius. A major rule laid down last year designed to spur development in the big markets permits pickup of a limited number of non-local stations.

Of the 206 new systems approved the past year, Schildhouse said, 100 serve areas in the top TV markets.

Both Foster and Schildhouse said the problem in the big cities is the tremendous cost of wiring them.

Looking to the year ahead, both predicted a rapid growth of pay TV on cable.

One big boon for cable TV in the next year, Schildhouse said, will be launching of the domestic satellites which will permit the creation of another network over which cable TV can beam its own programs nationwide.

Schildhouse conceded he's getting many complaints about the backlog of applications in his bureau. But he hopes that will be eased by an increase in his staff and a move to bigger quarters in a couple of weeks.

He said he also has to be prepared for 1975 when the 4,000 systems in operation before the freeze will be required for the first time to file for certificates of compliance with federal requirements.

The biggest problem facing cable TV, Schildhouse and Foster said, is what copyright fees cable systems should pay for programs picked off TV stations, especially non-network stations.

Negotiations between the industry and movie makers began soon after the freeze was lifted but they have been deadlocked since. Congress is being urged to break the deadlock, since cable TV operates under the outdated 1908 Copyright Act.

Another complication, Schildhouse said, is the slowdown of mergers by small systems and takeover of small systems by larger ones as the industry copes with its staggering money problems. The slowdown, he said, was caused by a Justice Department suit filed in December against the acquisition of Cox Cable Communications of Atlanta by American Television and Communications Corp. of Denver.

Schildhouse said the FCC should control cable TV mergers.

One major question the commission is studying, he said, is what limits to place on organizations that own several TV systems. A limit of two million subscribers has been proposed.

Both Schildhouse and Foster expressed concern about the growing number of local officials seeking to operate their own cable systems rather than franchise them to private firms.

A few small cities operating before the freeze are municipally run, but the move is now talked about in the big cities for the first time.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Can you explain the Holy Ghost to children? If not, then use this case! For by analogy to modern television, we can simplify this concept of God's ever present Spirit, even though Deity may meanwhile be at the center of the Cosmic Universe!

CASE W-584: Peter B., age 38, has 3 children. "Dr. Crane," he began, "Mother and I have taken them to Sunday School regularly."

"And we have tried to set a good example before them in our family life."

"But though I have taught the boys baseball and football, and have given them a few rudimentary facts about sex, I have never talked to them to any extensive degree about God."

"Last Sunday the youngest boy, age 11, wanted to know what the Holy Ghost is."

"I floundered around and didn't know how to explain it. So could you please tell us parents what to say?"

HOLY GHOST

The Holy Ghost is God's Spirit here on Earth, no longer fettered to a human machine, as Jesus was prior to His Crucifixion.

Like the warming rays of the Sun, which occupies a geographical place in the center of our solar system, so the Holy Ghost can be looked upon as the beneficent Spirit of Deity that pervades the Cosmic Universe, though God remains at the geographical center.

When Jesus was sent down to this Earth and became housed in a human body, He became limited thereby to mankind's speed of travel.

If He walked on foot, He might thus attain 3 miles per hour.

On an Arabian race horse, then the fastest rate of locomotion, He could have reached about 35 miles per hour.

If He wished to travel 10 miles to Bethlehem, it meant a 4-hour trip afoot.

Jesus was thus chained, as it were, to a slow moving human machine.

But our human "machine" is much like the modern automobile.

For, if our auto is wrecked and we are not severely injured in the crash, we can then step out of the smashed vehicle and ultimately travel in a new car. Remember, the chauffeur of the modern auto is not the automobile itself but merely the operator thereof!

Same is true of your personality (Spirit) that rides through life in your 3-mile-per-hour human machine.

At death, you step out of the body and then your speed is limitless.

For the fastest thing in the universe is not light (186,000 miles per second) but is thought!

By thought you can cross infinite distance in a split second.

And via thought you can be everywhere your attention directs.

When Christ rose from the tomb, His Spirit then was not limited to His previous 3-mile-per-hour walking rate.

Thus, though He trudged along the road to Emmaus with two of His Disciples, He was back in a flash to reappear in the Upper Room before His 11 disconsolate Apostles.

Jesus said "My Father and I are one (Spirit)" so when we mention the Holy Ghost, we refer to that unfettered Spirit of Deity that is available to everybody for the asking.

It is something like the electrical waves of television, which you can tune-in, by dialing upon the proper wave length.

Prayer, said Jesus, immediately puts us in contact with the Holy Ghost, which is the Earthly emanation of God who remains possibly at the physical center of this Cosmic Universe.

And by instant thought waves, Jesus promised "For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there will I be in the midst of them."

Crowd Attractors Facing Regulation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Projects ranging from airports to drive-in theaters could be prevented whenever they, or the traffic they attract, violate clean-air standards, according to a proposed government regulation.

The Environmental Protection Agency wants states to review and control any new construction or facility to make sure the air standards are not violated, either directly, because of emissions from it, or indirectly, because of emissions resulting from mobile source activities associated with it.

Depending on local conditions, EPA said, such projects may have to be modified, moved or prevented.

The regulation was proposed Wednesday to carry out a recent federal court decision.

Federal law and regulations already require all states to achieve nationwide clean-air standards designed to protect public health by 1975, and environment-protecting standards within "a reasonable time."

Following a lawsuit by a citizen environment group called Natural Resources Defense Council (NRDC), an appeals court here ruled last Jan. 31 that the states must make sure the air quality standards are maintained, once they are achieved.

As a result, EPA reviewed all 50 state clean-air plans and concluded that none contained adequate provisions to keep the air clean.

The proposed regulations would direct the states to set up procedures for identifying and reviewing major projects, obtaining information and public comment on their expected air quality impact, and taking necessary action to protect air quality.

To be approved by EPA, each state plan would have to include adequate legal authority for the state to prevent construction of a project if necessary.

The Egg as Art medium may not be to every artist's taste, but it suits perfectly Winifred Cunningham of Pittsburgh, Pa. Mrs. Cunningham became interested in the ancient craft of egg design, especially associated with Easter, several years ago and has developed it into a business. Prices for her creations can run from $1 to $100. She uses goose, chicken, duck and a few (imported from South Africa) ostrich eggs, scratching designs, below, on the hollowed shells and adding natural dyes from onion skin, walnuts and berries. A complicated design may require eight hours of careful work.
