WHAT NOW? — With John Connally, left, announcing his departure from the Democratic Party to join the Republicans, questions arise as to what his future plans include. President Nixon, right, doesn't seem to be worried by queries as he welcomes Connally to the fold.

GOOD TIMING

Connally Switch Comes As No Great Surprise

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
John B. Connally's switch to the Republican line came as no great surprise to some political observers, and the effect of the move was up for speculation today.

Democratic Party Chairman Robert Strauss said Connally, in effect, already had become a Republican by working in President Nixon's cabinet and heading a "Democrats-for-Nixon" effort in last year's campaign.

Former Texas Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, an avowed Democrat, called Connally's move "good timing."
"It wasn't a complete surprise to me," he said. "I don't think it was politically motivated. John Connally has always had good timing, but I don't think he looked at it from a political point of view."

Silbert Listens To Aides

WASHINGTON (AP) — Outgoing White House aide H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman visited chief Watergate prosecutor Earl Silbert today.

Lebanese Troops Battle Guerrillas

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Lebanese army tanks battled Palestinian guerrillas in and around this shell-torn capital today, amid indications that the fighting was spreading.

Tank cannons pounded high-rise apartment buildings occupied by guerrillas, machine-gun fire sprayed city streets, guerrilla snipers staged hit-and-run attacks and bazookas were fired from speeding cars.

Explosions and shellfire mingled with the wail of ambulances as President Suleiman Franjeh vowed he would not tolerate a Palestinian "occupation army" in Lebanon.

Attempts by leaders of both sides to enforce a cease-fire failed.

A group of 500 guerrillas was reported battling massed army troops at a Palestinian refugee camp at Dbayeh, five miles north of Beirut.

Attempts to enforce a shaky cease-fire, negotiated before dawn and announced again at noon, appeared unsuccessful.

Relations became increasingly strained after the Israeli raid on Beirut three weeks ago in which three guerrilla leaders were assassinated in their apartments.

Some 300,000 Palestinians live in this nation of 2½ million persons, which has a security force of 25,000 troops and police.

Gasoline Stations Raise Prices At Local Pumps

By RAY BAXTER
Six months ago, many scoffed at the idea of dollar-a-gallon gasoline by vacation time, but as of Wednesday morning Pampans were nearly halfway there.

Motorists who use the premium fuel of a certain brand found a posted price of 40.9 cents a gallon at their friendly neighborhood gas pump yesterday.

Rabies Clinics Set Up

Rabies vaccination clinics for cats and dogs will be set up at two places in Pampa Saturday, May 5, through Saturday, May 12.

Bombing Blocks Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — An effort to block $150 million in spending for Cambodia bombing and other Indochina operations was rejected 31 to 14 today by the House Appropriations Committee.

The committee also rejected, by voice vote, a proposed prohibition in a supplemental bill against use of any of its funds for American combat operations over Cambodia.

Rep. Joseph P. Addabbo, D-N.Y., said his amendment against the war spending authority in a supplemental money bill would not cut off money for Cambodia, but would deny approval of it by Congress.

French Tests Making Waves

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The next French nuclear tests over the South Pacific, planned for May or June, are making political waves in some countries, but others around the area are keeping quiet for a change.

last year's French test came down on the descendants of the Bounty mutineers on Pitcairn Island.

The tests will go ahead as planned, Foreign Minister Michel Jobert said he was astonished at "orchestrated campaigns" to stir up public opinion in Australia and New Zealand.

The French claim the tests at the Mururoa Atoll endanger no one including the populations of the Pacific Basin countries.

IN SOUTH PACIFIC

Tugboats in Australia won't tug French boats. Fishermen in Peru demand that the tests be scrapped.

Tickle a Boa But Duck the King Cobra

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—The call sheet told part of the story. Under the heading of "Properties," this listing: "One king cobra, reports 8 a.m."

But that was only part of the story. The king cobra did report, dutifully, at 8 a.m. He was ready for action, his slithering 15 feet nicely cleaned, his hood waiting to be spread and his fangs intact.

And the man who would try to taunt him into striking was there, too. His name was Ray Folsom and he's a leading herpetologist and snake importer. Everything else was ready, too. The ambulance was there, the doctors and nurses, and there even was a brace of motorcycle cops, to give the ambulance a police escort.

The only thing that wasn't ready was the item which you can't list on the call sheet. And that's mood. The problem developed slowly during the day—the cobra wasn't in an acting mood.

All this was for a scene in a movie called, with sibilant simplicity, "Sssssss." (They are very specific about that title—eight Ss, no more, no lessssssss.) It's a terror tale, about a mad scientist who is a snake expert and transforms a young man into a king cobra.

They've built a spotless lab for the scientist, who is played by that fine actor and delightful man, Strother Martin. Outside the lab, populated with an assortment of reptiles, is a sign: "WARNING! DANGER! SSSSSSS-SET CLOSED TO ALL! VENOMOUS SNAKES HOUSED HERE! NO UNAUTHORIZED EMPLOYEES OR VISITORS PERMITTED IN THIS AREA. SPECIAL SECURITY PASS NECESSARY FOR ADMISSION. 24-HOUR GUARD ON DUTY."

I got in anyhow and cringed my way from cage to cage—observing the boas and cobras and rattlers and mambas and fer de lances. On each cage was a neat card, a feeding report, and the handlers had written in, day by day, either the word "mouse" or the word "gun."

Mouse was self-explanatory. There were cages of mice, which would wind up as part of the snakes' box lunch. But "gun" took some explaining.

It seems for variety's sake they sometimes feed the snakes by a forced food gun, which shoves a mixture of bone meal and chicken blood down the snakes' throats or whatever it is they have. "The chicken blood," Folsom said, "is for flavor."

This obviously assumes that snakes have taste buds which, considering that they eat mice, is doubtful.

One snake was out of its cage, coiled prettily around the neck and shoulders of a hefty young lady. This reptile was introduced as Harry, a boa constrictor by trade, who is the set pet.

"Harry has a personality," the young lady said. "He likes to be tickled under the chin. Go ahead, tickle him."

Tickling a boa under its chin is not exactly in the line of reportorial duty, so I passed on to the director, Bernard Kowalski, who was out of his cage, too.

"We're dealing in terror in this film," Kowalski said. "We're trying to be in the classic mold of Frankenstein—with some reality thrown in."

Strother Martin is not a mad scientist. Obviously since he turns a man into a snake he's a little around the bend, but he's not mad.

It seems like a moot point but there it was. Then the time had come for the big moment. Strother Martin was supposed to give a demonstration of milking a king cobra of its venom, at the roadside snake farm he operates. Folsom was to double for him.

There was a wire enclosure outside and spectators ringed it and cameras were placed strategically. Folsom wore a camera helmet himself, for a picture of the snake killing him as it struck.

Folsom, knows all about reptile bites. He's been bitten four times—twice by rattlers, once by a cobra ("not a king, though, because a king cobra's bite kills in five minutes") and once by a gila monster.

This king cobra he was using is a new one. He had just imported it, at a cost of $1,000, from Bangkok. It was 15 feet long. Folsom says the recorded record for king cobras is 18 feet and he believes this one is the longest currently in captivity in the United States.

The snake came out of the door and Folsom used a hook-like instrument to drag it into the center of the enclosure. Then, with all cameras turning, he tried to get it to raise up and open its hood and strike. It looked at him with its beady eyes.

Eventually he even leaned over and patted it on the head, but all it did was stare. The doctors and the nurses and the motorcycle cops yawned. The spectators tried to keep up an air of interest. Folsom looked like he was ready to give the snake a kick in the ribs, or somewhere. But the king cobra played it very cool.

Strother Martin said that he has come to like snakes. From this film.

"But I'm not going to buy one," he said. "We've got cats at home."

Nutritionists Study Bread

By C.C. MINICLIER
CAIRO (AP)—Man may not live by bread alone, but many Egyptians eat little else.

To make matters worse, a recent survey found much of the bread is under the legal weight, is of poor quality and may contain bran, stone dust, or pebbles.

Egyptians eat some 620 grams of bread a day, compared to 137 grams daily for Europeans, 120 for Africans and 67 grams for Americans, according to Dr. Ismail Abdou, director of the nutrition institute.

The dependency on bread underlines the weakness of the nutrition and economic levels, observers say.

Abdou says bread provides some 70 per cent of the energy and protein needs of the average Egyptian and may provide as much as 93 per cent for the poorer persons who can afford little else.

But he says this vital commodity has lost its nutritive value as recipes for flour and baked bread are increasingly violated. The difference means a loaf of bread may provide only 9 per cent of the protein requirements, instead of 24.6 per cent, he says.

He favors following the lead of Europe and the United States and introducing vitamin enriched bread.

Mustafa Kamal Mourad, a member of Parliament's Economic Committee, says Cairo's 6 million inhabitants consume some 20 million loaves of bread a day, most of it in the form of bigger than dinner plate size hollow pancakes weighing some 145 grams each.

The government spends some $46 million annually to keep the price of this type of bread to half a piastre—or one U.S. penny.

Egypt, which produces about 700,000 tons of wheat annually, must import about 2.3 million tons each year.

But the owner of a bakery in Cairo says the flour used to make bread now days is the worst available in the 20 years since Gamal Abdul Nasser overthrew the monarchy. He describes the flour as dark, too soft and not able to absorb water.

Because the mills deliver the flour hot and not properly aired it loses weight, and the bakeries are forced to make up the loss, he says.

The head of a bakery company told a newsmen statistics show that 65 per cent of the bread produced by Egypt's 2,000 plus bakeries violate health standards. He predicted quality would not improve as long as the age-old milling and bakery methods predominate.

Most of the country's mills still crush and separate the wheat with heavy, long-used stones, making quality control impossible, he says.

ON OPENING NIGHT 'Texas' Slates Contest For Windmill Articles

CANYON—"Texas," the musical drama of Texas history which plays in the Palo Duro Canyon on the high plains near Amarillo and Canyon, will open its eighth season on Thursday evening, June 21.

In its first seven seasons, "Texas" has played to crowded houses and during the opening night ceremonies of 1973, the 242nd person to enter will be given special recognition as the 500,000 member of the audience to see the production.

The opening night of each season is a Gala Festival, emphasizing some phase of Panhandle life. The theme this year will be "Windmills."

These giants of the plains made life possible in this dry country and are described in the script of the show, so the Board of Directors of the Heritage Foundation is bringing together equipment for the pumping of water in the early days, and is sponsoring a competition for the best paintings, drawings, photographs, and three dimensional figures depicting windmills. The winners of the contest will display their creations on opening night.

Anyone who wishes to enter may write for the conditions and instructions to "Windmills," Box 268, Canyon, Texas 79015. Those who enter will be asked to send slides or photographs of their work for consideration first.

They should note that because of limitations of space, only photographs of works (prints or slides) will be accepted for the first stage. These prints should be 8x10 or less. The judges will study the reproductions and then ask the winning ten in each class to bring their original work on opening night to be judged for the awards.

All entries must be brought to the theatre on June 21 after 5 p.m. and taken home after the production that evening. The names of the finalists will be listed in the opening night program and the best-of-show award will be given from the stage.

"Texas" will play from June 21 through Aug. 25, nightly except Sundays, this summer. For tickets write "Texas," Box 268, Canyon, Texas 79015.

The Farmer's Almanac predicts the hottest summer in years east of the Rockies for 1973 and the beginnings of a severe drought in the fall.

Uncle Sam Pays Vets For Vocational Training

By RAY CROMLEY
(Fourth in a Series.)

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — If you are an eligible Vietnam era veteran, Uncle Sam is now prepared to pay you 48 per cent more than in the past to take the vocational training you need to prepare for the job you want.

You may take on-the-job training under the GI program and be paid both by the VA and your employer if you are learning a new occupation or a new specialty in your present work. You may not take on-the-job training to improve your present skills in an occupation at which you are already working or qualified to work.

WHAT YOU'VE GOT COMING IN BENEFITS FOR VETERANS

Occupation of a new specialty in your present work. You may not take on-the-job training to improve your present skills in an occupation at which you are already working or qualified to work.

Your on-the-job training must be full-time. For apprenticeship training, the place you work must meet standards set by the U.S. Department of Labor and be approved by an agency of the state in which the program operates.

If you are a beginner in an on-the-job program, your employer must pay you at least half the going wage for your work. Your wages must be gradually increased to 85 per cent of the regular wage for your job before the training ends. An on-the-job program (except for apprentices) must be completed within two years. VA allowances are in addition to what the employer pays.

With no dependents, the VA will pay you as an on-the-job trainee $160 a month the first half year, $120 a month the second half year, $81 a month the third six-month period and $40 a month in the fourth. If you have one dependent, the starting rate is $179 a month with two dependents, $196 a month with three dependents. These payments are reduced by $40 a month each six-month period.

VA will pay you $177 a month if single, $208 a month with one dependent and $236 a month with two, for enrolling in a cooperative full-time education program consisting of school courses and alternative phases of training in a business or industrial establishment if the training is strictly supplemental to the school part of the program.

If you are underemployed or unemployed and cannot reasonably be expected to secure appropriate full-time employment without training, you will be given priority at state employment service offices for vocational training programs.

But you must first register at a local office of your state, city or county public employment service and you must make yourself available for counseling, personal interviews and for any occupational tests which may be required.

You can get this state training in schools or on-the-job. Training allowances may be paid to eligible trainees who are unemployed and who have had one year of gainful employment, including military service.

The regular training allowance is generally equivalent to the weekly rate of unemployment compensation in your state plus subsistence and travel expense, where necessary.

If you have a service-connected disability you may be entitled to up to four years or more of vocational rehabilitation. But if you are rated at less than 30 per cent disabled, you must show that rehabilitation is necessary to overcome your handicap. Under this program, tuition and fees are paid in full. In addition, a single veteran without dependents will receive $170 a month full time while training and for two months after rehabilitation.

Longshoreman Is A Philosopher

By PHIL THOMAS
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP)

Tall and powerfully built, his light jacket bulging at the shoulders as he hunches his big body forward, Eric Hoffer looks more like a longshoreman than a philosopher.

Which isn't strange since he was a worker on the docks for 25 years and before that a migrant crop picker, gold prospector, construction worker and lumberjack. He also is a well-educated philosopher who has published seven books, the latest being "Reflections on the Human Condition," a collection of aphorisms and philosophical comment.

There is a lifetime in that book, Hoffer says in his booming voice. "There are thoughts in it that God alone knows when they started."

He explains. "I was a placer miner. I never found a big piece of gold. I panned for flakes. You got to catch every flake by sluicing or you can't make a living. My mind is like a sluice box and I have to catch the flakes as they come through. The same way I panned for gold, I sluice my life and as the thoughts come I put them down."

Then he laughs and says, "I have gotten letters from a number of people who read that book and they told me what things they liked best. And you know, even though I have never met these people, I can tell what they are like by the thoughts they selected."

For example, the man who liked an empty head is not really empty, it is stuffed with rubbish. Hence the difficulty of forcing anything into an empty head is witty. An individual who would pick that thought must have wit.

Hoffer, who is now past 70, says he left his New York City home when he was 18 and went on the road. "I went to California. I had to know I was going to be poor, and I also knew that in California I would be able to sleep outside."

After working at his variety of jobs, Hoffer became a longshoreman when he was 41 and I did that for 25 years and then I retired. I still live in San Francisco because I have a very great passion for the waterfront. It gives me what I need.

You see, being a working man who writes books is my style. If I had been formally educated I probably would not have written my books. That's my style, too.

"I started my writing because I thought I had a talent. A talent is like an appetite, it takes you by the neck and drowns you. I had nightmares while I was trying to learn to write because my talent kept driving me. It was like trying to write with no arms.

Hoffer says he follows no routine in his writing. "I write in longhand and I write slowly. I have found that if I write a little every day that in two years something comes together — a little book."

You see, I haven't got that much to say. Actually, there isn't that much to say that hasn't been said before. My writing is about such things as honor, faith, hope, desire. I tell you about what is right there under your nose but you don't know anything about it.

I tell you about it because I think I know about it.

Paying More Is Good for You?

By CARLTON SMITH

Everybody, young and old alike, will be digging deeper into their pockets to pay Medicare costs in the months ahead, if the administration can push its present plans past Congress and — one would think — a few million outraged elder citizens.

Wage earners already are paying double what they did last year into funds earmarked for Medicare, through increased Social Security taxes — euphemistically referred to by some as "contributions."

And in the coming fiscal year, the 65-and-over will be asked to help shore up the federal budget — by paying more than twice as much in out-of-pocket hospital costs.

That's because Medicare payments would be reduced by some $1 billion a year, under the President's recently proposed budget — requiring, of course, Medicare beneficiaries to make up the $1-billion saving out of their own pockets.

Already out of pocket, since Jan. 1, are all the wage and income earners covered by Social Security. The portion of the tax allocated to Medicare exactly doubled in 1973 — from $54 to $108 — for those earning $10,800 or more. For others, it's 1 per cent of their earnings.

Medicare beneficiaries, who already have received the news of an increase in the monthly premium they pay for "Part B" supplementary medical coverage, would in addition be paying $200 of the costs of an average hospital stay, as compared to the present $72.

This latter feature of the President's budget, however, requires congressional approval. Strong opposition is expected from organized senior citizen groups, and many members of Congress.

One of the promises on which President Nixon campaigned — a plan for reducing the property tax burdens of retirees — did not appear in the budget.

Some Washington officials are quoted as seeing in the budget a plot to "raid" the Social Security trust funds — by fattening the funds, which could then be pumped into the federal coffers for general expenditures. Administration spokesmen deny this.

Taxes for each of the Social Security programs, including Medicare, go into individual trust funds, which by law can be tapped only to pay out benefits in that particular program — but such legal niceties haven't deterred the handling of funds in Washington recently.

In his news conference shortly after release of the budget, the President said: "The general interest of this country, whether it be rich or poor or old, is don't break the family budget by raising the taxes or raising prices."

I will not be for programs that put a bigger burden on the already overburdened American taxpayer.

On the other hand, it's apparently thought that a little overburdening, in some cases, might be a good thing. On the point of the sharp increases in costs to be borne by some 23-million Medicare beneficiaries, administration officials argued that "increases in out-of-pocket expenses will make recipients of Medicare benefits cost-conscious."

That it certainly would do.

Supreme Court Rejects Attack On Hospitals

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court rejected today a Howard County man's attack on the constitutionality of the law allowing the establishment of county hospital districts.

Ray Thomas filed suit against the creation of the Howard County Hospital Authority, which was set up by an order of the commissioners court.

Thomas protested that the law fails to place upon the authority "required duties and responsibilities." He also objected that the law allows the hospital district to be exempted from property taxes.

The Eastland Court of Civil Appeals dismissed Thomas' suit because, the court said, he had not filed his appeal within 20 days of the trial court ruling. But the appeals court went ahead and ruled on the constitutional question, anyway, denying Thomas' suit.

The Supreme Court upheld the lower court without writing its own opinion.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Heed Dr. Flint's sage suggestions. And note the sound advice of Larry Wineland re making chronic welfare recipients of the pelicans! Clip this column and mail a copy to your Congressmen, for Welfarism is ruining this Republic!

CASE W-594: Dr. Cort Flint is a famous theologian and former Baptist pastor of a 4,500-member church at Anderson, South Carolina.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I was much interested in your comment that Jesus didn't continue with free picnics after feeding the 5,000 with the lad's loaves and fishes."

"Maybe it was due to his keen understanding of human nature."

"For down in Florida there is a tiny bird refuge, named Pelican Island."

"It supports a colony of 1,000 brown pelicans."

"Larry Wineland is manager of this bird sanctuary, which in winter may contain 10,000 pelicans and other wild fowl."

"Since the food supply then grows scarce, Larry was asked why uncle Sam doesn't furnish bags of fish for the pelicans."

"And Larry replied, 'Pelicans are like people! Start giving them a handout, and they'll quit work; then merely line up to get their free fish.'"

"Dr. Crane could this be the reason why Christ didn't set up a free food dispensary for the poor?"

WELFARE EVILS

Undoubtedly Christ knew that people inevitably grow weak and lose their resourcefulness when habituated to free medicine or free food.

That may explain, too, why Jesus stopped his experiment in "socialized medicine," after healing the 10 lepers.

For they took his free cures for granted and 9 of the 10 didn't even say "Thank you," though they were miraculously liberated from a sure death sentence.

Moreover, no Gospel writer says any of those 10 healed lepers even offered Jesus a sandwich nor invited him home to dinner!

Even in medicine, we find that cripples tend to rely too long on their crutches, so we medics must encourage them to stand alone and learn to bear weight on their formerly injured foot or leg.

On the west coast of Florida, too, the shrimp fishermen used to clean their catch and throw the scraps to the sea gulls daily.

But when the shrimp beds grew scarcer, and the fishermen had to move westward, as to Louisiana, those former "welfare" gulls began to starve.

For they had lost their ability to fend for themselves!

"Though their grandparents had flown hundreds of miles to rustle up their own food, these pampered descendants had learned to rely lazily on free handouts from the shrimp boats."

So they became weaklings! And, if transformed into human shape, would immediately have voted for any political candidate that offered renewed welfare handouts!

The Mormon Church is noted for its stress on self-reliance, for it hasn't gone maudlin about the "weak and poor," as have many other churches that confuse pulp sociology with Christ's superb Applied Psychology.

Charity is supposed to be a voluntary act, not a matter of coercion via forced taxes, doled out by political jobholders!

Our American Republic is now threatened by the invasion of "free will" church philanthropy by Uncle Sam, who employs our forced taxes as a form of political bribery to corral the voters-of-the-chronic-welfare population!

So send for my booklet "How to Save Our Republic," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents, and get it into all high schools!

Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Worry Clinic, Hopkins Bldg., Methodist Hospital, 4780 S. Encino, Encino, California 91436. Enclose a long stamped, return envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you read for one of his booklets.

Registration for the Pampa Men's City Golf Tournament, to be conducted on two weekends in June (9-10 and 16-17), has been relatively slow up until now, but should pick up in the near future.

Although the event is over a month away, those golfers who wait until the last minute to register may end up being disappointed. As of now, only five flights are slated.

If more than 80 golfers show some interest in playing in the tourney, more flights might be added.

But, the officials in charge of the tournament probably won't want to add a couple of flights the day before the tourney is to begin. So if you want to play, hurry up and register.

The tournament will be played at the Pam-Cel course and the entry fee is only $6. For that a golfer is assured of at least three rounds of play in the match play affair. You can't beat that anywhere.

Registration for the tourney may be made at the Chamber of Commerce office. Championship flight players must qualify during the practice rounds June 4-6. All other flights will be determined by handicaps cards.

Jeff Hogan, Pampa High's superb pitcher last spring, is now throwing for the University of Texas at El Paso and has compiled a 4-1 win-loss record for the Miners as a freshman. Jeff's second win was over Lubbock Christian College in which he threw a five-hitter as the Miners won 2-1.

He came on in relief in the eighth inning of a game with New Mexico Highlands with UTEP trailing 2-1. The Miners got two runs in the bottom of the 11th to win 3-2 and make Jeff's record 3-0.

His fourth win was against

New Mexico when he came in and pitched 7 2/3 innings of one-hit relief. UTEP won the game 5-4.

Hogan's only loss this season has been at the hands of Arizona State, the top-ranked team in the nation this year and a perennial college powerhouse.

Capt. Royce Harnsberger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Harnsberger, 1917 N. Christy, is in his second year as head tennis coach at the Air Force Academy. The team had a 16-6 record in his first year, 1972. That was the best season mark ever by a Falcon tennis squad.

Pampa baseball fans will remember Harnsberger as a member of the Pampa Colts, semi-pro baseball team back in the early '60's.

Harnsberger graduated from Wayland Baptist College and earned a master's degree from Baylor in physical education.

Mary B. Puckett, 500 N. Warren, recently caught a record-breaking Northern Pike at Greenbelt Lake. The fish weighed 15 lbs., breaking the old weight of 13 1/2 lbs.

The circumstances under which she caught the fish are unusual to say the least. Dale Cornelius of Hereford, who was fishing near Mrs. Puckett, made a cast and then for some reason put his pole down and walked away from it for a minute. When he came back - no pole.

Shortly afterwards, Mrs. Puckett got a strike and when she got the fish landed, you guessed it, there was Cornelius' hook in the fish's mouth. He recovered the pole.

Mrs. Puckett, an accomplished "fisherman", caught the pike on an eight-lb. test line. Mrs. Louise Sailor of Pampa was fishing with Mrs. Puckett. (See picture this page).

GETTING THIRD — Pampa's A.J. Brewer was in safe at third on this steal in yesterday's 10-1 loss to District 3-AAAA champion Tascosa at Optimist Park. Seconds later Brewer scored as the ball went off Rebel third baseman Greg Temple's glove and went out into left field. Brewer's run was the only Pampa bright spot of the day.

Sprint Relay Travels

Pampa's 440-yard relay team, which finished second at the regional track meet in Lubbock last month, is on its way to Austin for the Class AAAA state meet Saturday.

The foursome (Alan Keeton, Steve Mathis, Rick McGuire and Richard McCampbell) will be accompanied by coach Ed Lehnick.

The team had a season best of 42.4, achieved at the regional meet. This marks the second year in a row that the Harvester sprint relay team qualified for the state meet.

The foursome last year won the regional meet with a time of 41.4 and finished fifth in Austin in 42.4.

McGuire and McCampbell, Pampa's third and fourth relay legs this year, ran the same positions on last year's team.

Americans Win Game Over Russians Easily

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — "They allow maybe out there," Coach Bob Cousy said Wednesday night after his U.S. team easily whipped Russia 83-67 to take a 2-1 lead in their six-game exhibition basketball series.

Cousy obviously was pleased with the victory, but his Russian counterpart, Vladimir Kondrashin, was not. The coach refused to talk to the press after the game and refused to allow his players to.

Cousy's use of the term may hem was considerable understatement to most observers of the rugged game. Elbows and hips flew abundantly, and there were nearly 10 fouls when tempers flared.

UCLA's Swen Nater, who was called a "dirty player" by Kondrashin earlier in the week, nearly tangled twice with Ivan Dvorni.

Each took exception to the other's conduct toward smaller players. Nater is 7 feet tall and weighs 250 pounds. Dvorni is 6-9 and weighs 242.

Referee Maruti Huhtamaki of Finland warned each player about his conduct several times. Aleksei Shukshin had a bloody nose in the first half and was taken out of the game with a leg injury after Nater knocked him down late in the second half. Salnikov was temporarily blinded after Jim Oxley of the U.S. Army stuck a finger in his eye.

Cousy said the highly publicized game drew more than 15,000 contributed to the victory. "It's tough for the Russians to play before crowds like that."

Tascosa Bombs Harvesters, 10-1

Pampa High's baseball team dropped a 10-1 decision to District 3-AAAA champion Tascosa yesterday at Optimist Park. The loss made Pampa 4-5 in league play and 9-9 for the year.

The Rebels are 9-0 in district and 16-2 for the year. Jon Bannister threw a five-hitter in getting the win for Tascosa.

Roy Morris, who was relieved by Steve Lockett after one and two-thirds innings, sustained the loss for Pampa.

Morris walked the first three Tascosa batters in the top of the first inning and the Rebels were able to get two runs in that frame on first baseman Greg Jenkins' single.

Tascosa scored twice more in the second after Morris walked three more Rebel batters. With the two runs scored, Lockett came on in and relief and retired the last batter.

Tascosa scored six runs off Lockett in the fifth inning when 10 Rebel hitters went to bat. The winner got five hits in that frame including doubles by Bannister and leftfielder Gary Jennings.

The Harvesters were held hitless in the game until first sacker Terry Moore got a single down the first base line with two out in the fourth.

Pampa's sole run came in the sixth inning. A.J. Brewer got a single to lead the inning off and advanced to second on Ricky Bigham's one-base hit.

Brewer attempted to steal third when Todd Black was at bat for the Harvesters and appeared to have made it in safely when Rebel catcher Carroll Goodwin threw the ball to third baseman Greg Temple.

The ball went off Temple's glove and skittered into left and Brewer went across home plate.

Rick Musgrave was Pampa's leading hitter in the game as he went two for three.

Pampa will close-out its season Friday against Amarillo High in Amarillo.

Golf Tips from the Old Masters

WHEN PUTTING WAVES CHANGE STANCE, NOT STRIKE

Julius Boros is one of the finest instinctive putters golf has known. Putting, as Boros exemplifies so largely a matter of feel. When his putting falters, however, Boros makes a critical change that helps him under pressure. He does not change his putting stroke; he changes his stance.

"Most of the time I put with my feet fairly close together," Boros explains. "But if the short putt's starting to go off-life, I widen my stance."

"Changing my stance like changing putters is a form of blaming the bad putts on something other than myself. It's easier to blame my stance, even though that may not be the real reason for bad putting. But I find the new stance gives me a fresh outlook, and pretty soon I'm putting as well as ever."

Baseball Roundup

By The Associated Press
Anywhere Orlando Cepeda hangs his bat is home.

Long a muscleman in the National League, the "Baby Bull" has found a home—and a new life—in the American League as a designated hitter with the Boston Red Sox.

Cepeda continued to flourish in his new surroundings with his sixth home run of the year, a grand slam job, that helped the Red Sox whip the Texas Rangers 6-2 Wednesday night.

"Every homer feels good," said Cepeda about his dramatic shot that capped a five-run third inning. "But home runs don't mean anything unless you win."

In the other American League games, the Kansas City Royals trimmed the New York Yankees 4-3. The California Angels defeated the Detroit Tigers 5-3. The Oakland A's bested the Milwaukee Brewers 7-3 in 10 innings, the Cleveland Indians turned back the Minnesota Twins 8-4 in 10 innings and the Chicago White Sox blanked the Baltimore Orioles 4-0.

National League scores Pittsburgh 2, San Francisco 1, Houston 9, Philadelphia 4, Cincinnati 6, New York 1, Montreal 3, Atlanta 2, Los Angeles 4, Chicago 1 and St. Louis 5, San Diego 4.

Cepeda has not only been hitting homers for Boston, he's been hitting for average, too. The brawny Cepeda, also known as "Cha Cha," for his love of bouncy music, is hitting at a hot 347 clip with 25 hits, four of them doubles. Cepeda has knocked in 17 runs and scored 12.

Ed Kirkpatrick drove in two runs with a sixth-inning double as Kansas City ended New York's four-game winning streak behind the pitching of Paul Splittorf and Gene Garber.

Art Kusnyer doubled home the tie-breaking run in the 12th inning and then scored on Sandy Alomar's sacrifice fly as California defeated slumping Detroit. The Tigers have dropped seven of their last nine games.

Gene Tenace completed a four-run uprising in the 10th inning with a three-run homer as Oakland trimmed Milwaukee. Prior to Tenace's smash, Reggie Jackson had knocked in the go-ahead run with a fielders-choice bouncer.

"I'm not a home run hitter," insisted Tenace, although the figures belie his statement. He's had seven so far this season.

Leo Cardenas, a former Minnesota shortstop, delivered a tie-breaking, two-run single as Cleveland scored four times in the 10th inning and handed Minnesota its fifth straight defeat.

Wilbur Wood pitched his third straight shutout with a six-hitter and became the major league's first six-game winner as Chicago beat Baltimore. Wood, 6-2, extended his scoreless inning streak to 28.

Words like persons have the power to attract or repel. Some words are appealing and some are appalling. Words that repel us may be repulsive for one or more of three reasons: (a) because the word is repulsive in and of itself; (b) because of that to which it refers; (c) because it is associated in our experience with something that is objectionable.

Inside Washington Rap Arabian Knights in U.S. Senate By Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON - It may have been a coincidence, but if so, it was passing strange! At the height of the recent special meeting of the UN Security Council, when tempers and tensions were inflamed and Russia was openly fomenting an Arab demand for expulsion of Israel, two Senators took the Senate floor and delivered pre-arranged speeches patently designed to aid the Arab Cause.

They were clearly surprised and delighted by this unexpected senatorial demonstration in their behalf. Not surprisingly, they did not bother to get copies of another speech later that day by Sen. Robert Taft, R-Ohio, politely but pointedly rapping Abourezk's and Hatfield's knuckles.

Liberty is the only thing you cannot have unless you are willing to give it to others. - William Allen White, American Journalist.

'A Splendid Little War' (10)

By Don Oakley and Ed Kudlaty

To Admiral Pascual Cervera y Topete, commanding six outclassed, wooden-decked warships bottled up in Santiago Harbor since May, a sortie against the waiting Americans "would be positively certain destruction."

To Madrid, however, loss of the fleet in battle was better than its capture or scuttling. Thus on Sunday morning, July 3, 1898, the cruisers Injanta Maria Teresa, Vizcaya, Oquendo, Cristobal Colon and two torpedo boats got up steam and headed toward the sea.

It was a lucky moment for Commodore Winfield Schley aboard the Brooklyn when the first Spaniard passed Morro Castle and turned west. In the distance, the flagship New York carrying Admiral William Sampson, who had been jumped in rank over Schley at the beginning of the war, was heading east to Siboney and a scheduled meeting with General Shafter.

By the time the New York was able to turn around and reach the scene, much of the destruction Cervera had foretold had been accomplished. His flagship Teresa was a burning wreck on the beach. The blazing Oquendo had also gone aground.

The Vizcaya met her fate next, but for a time the speedy Colon seemed to be escaping. Not until she had put 75 miles between herself and Morro Castle, as American shells bracketed her, did the Colon's captain turn her into shore. The requirements of honor had been satisfied.

Again it was a one-sided victory for the Navy. The Spanish lost more than 500 officers and men; U.S. casualties: one dead and 10 wounded.

Cost of the ammunition expended: $85,000.

"The fleet under my command offers the nation as a Fourth of July present the whole of Cervera's fleet," Sampson cabled to President McKinley. But already a controversy had begun between the partisans of Sampson and Schley over who deserved credit for the victory.

The war, at least as far as the Cuban theater was concerned, was over. On July 17, the Americans entered Santiago. The next day, Spain asked for armistice terms.

The expansionists in Congress and McKinley's cabinet were now confronted with the alarming possibility that peace might come before the United States could secure the Philippines.

WITH SWIFT GROWTH

Pension Plans Provide Great Economic Power

NEW YORK (AP)—American workers now have at least $137 billion in private pension assets. Of at least 30 million workers covered, 4.7 million are receiving annual benefits that exceed $4 billion a year.

These figures all are minimums, because they were compiled in 1970. Growth since then has been swift in many respects, and assets by 1980 are projected to exceed $250 billion. In 1940 they totaled $2.4 billion.

The consequences grow too, not only for workers covered but for the entire economy of the nation. Even in a trillion-dollar economy—a sum in the billions carries great power.

Banks depend upon it, the stock market needs it, corporations rely on it as a source of capital financing. Thousands of bankers, lawyers, trustees and other professionals and many times that number of ancillary workers, earn their living from it.

And there is still another great consequence, perhaps more potential than real. That is the possibility of fraud, conspiracy or other misuse of funds by those who manage them.

In a comprehensive pension study—just released, Bankers Trust describes how "the man on Main Street probably imagines a perpetual series of conspiracies for the control of corporations."

The ingredients of the "plot" are that billions of dollars of stock are held by pension funds, which are managed by banks. Other institutions, like investment trusts and insurers, hold billions more.

Now add to this recipe the fact that "the directors of these institutions know one another and work within the narrow radius of the lower Manhattan" and you have the makings of problems.

Despite these major national considerations it is the personal stake in pensions that concerns most workers and their families. And yet many workers know very little of their rights and expectations.

It is for reasons such as these that various congressional committees are studying many proposals to set standards for fiduciary responsibilities, vesting, disclosure of information and funding.

While the complexity of the subject matter and the many varieties of pension plans is slowing action, prospects are bright that Congress will be able to reach agreement on provisions this year and probably pass a bill in 1974.

So far the focus of three main proposals is on vesting. A bill submitted by Sens. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., proposes that after eight years of service a pension be 30 per cent vested.

That means a worker would have a nonforfeitable right to 30 per cent of benefits accrued under terms of the plan, even if he ceased to be an employee. The benefits would be paid on retirement.

Each year thereafter vesting would increase by 10 per cent until, after 15 years, the employee would be 100 per cent vested.

Rep. John Dent, D-Pa., proposes that after 10 years of service an employee be 100 per cent vested.

The Nixon administration proposes the rule of 50. When age and service add up to 50, a person becomes 50 per cent vested; that is, entitled to one-half the pension rights accrued under the particular plan.

Vesting would increase 10 per cent a year after the rule of 50 applied, so that rights to a full pension would be reached in another five years.

Old Fashioned Dishes Still Family Favorites

A retired professional cook, Mrs. Hazel Buckley, 107 N. Warren, now cooks as a hobby. Although her recipe file contains hundreds of elaborate recipes, her family still prefers the old fashioned dishes.

By ALETHA DAVIS
Visiting in the home of "The Cook of This Week" usually culminates in a "gathering around the dining room table." Mrs. Hazel Buckley, 107 N. Warren, affectionately called "Granny" by 12 grandchildren and numerous nieces, nephews and grandnieces and grandnephews, is a retired restaurant owner and former

"chef." Her public cooking career included the Pampa Country Club, the old Pampa

Hotel, "every cafe in town," and her own cafe for a time in the 1950's. Cooking is a past time now (from which family members benefit). Even though many elaborate recipes are tucked away in files and cook books at Granny's, family favorites are the old-fashioned dishes she made years ago by what she terms the "pinch and feel" method.

Some of today's recipes have been handed down for years without a formal recording, thus Mrs. Buckley stated, "it took some time to get them down on paper."

The Basic Layer Cake noted here is excellent for use as shortcake with berries, delicious when sliced into thin layers and filled with pudding, tasty when toasted in thin slices topped with butter, cinnamon and powdered sugar, or as the base for any "hurry-up" dessert concoction.

Granny freezes the bony parts of chickens until a day when she isn't particularly busy in her flower garden (she is also a flower buff) and decides to "cook-off" a little energy, before tackling the noodle project. With stewed chicken and noodles simmering, she calls family members to come over and pick up "a little something for supper." Of course she always sends homemade rolls along with the dish, so it's plain to see why her cooking hobby delights her sons, Jerry and Billy Davis' families as well as her daughter Mrs. Bill Thomas and family of Perryton.

EGG NOODLES
Sift together in medium bowl:
2 cups flour
1 tsp. salt
Make a well and add:
4 eggs

BASIC YELLOW CAKE
2 cups flour
3/4 tsp. baking powder

1 tsp. vanilla
Cream butter and sugar. Add well-beaten eggs. Mix baking powder and salt with sifted flour, then sift again and add alternately with milk. Add the flouring and beat batter vigorously until thoroughly mixed. Pour in a well-greased and floured pan, (a 13"x9" layer pan or sheet pan will be satisfactory). Bake at 350 degrees 45 to 50 min. When cool cut into slices and use with sauce, berries, pudding, or serve warm with one of the following sauces.

BUTTERSCOTCH SAUCE:
1/2 c. brown sugar
1/2 c. white corn syrup
1/2 c. medium cream
4 Tbs. butter or oleo
1/2 tsp. vanilla
Mix sugar, syrup and butter and boil until soft ball stage (236 degrees). Add cream, cool and add vanilla.

SOUTHERN BREAD PUDDING
1 1/2 c. toasted bread cut into 1-in squares
3 c. milk, scalded
one-third c. sugar
2 eggs
Pinch of salt
Flavor with 1 tsp. vanilla or 1/2 tsp. nutmeg or both
Pour scalded milk over toasted bread, let set until bread is soft, add sugar, slightly beaten eggs, salt and flavoring. Bake at 350 degrees until firm. Raisins may be added to the pudding, or it may be spread with jelly when almost done. Top with meringue and put back into the oven to brown meringue. Baking time about 45 min.

FUDGE SAUCE
1 cup sugar
4 Tbs. flour
1/2 cup milk
Pinch of salt
2 Tbs. butter or margarine
1/2 tsp. vanilla
Mix sugar, cocoa and flour. Add milk and bring to boiling point, stirring constantly. Boil for two minutes. Add salt, butter and vanilla.

1/2 c. brown sugar
1/2 c. white corn syrup
1/2 c. medium cream
4 Tbs. butter or oleo
1/2 tsp. vanilla
Mix sugar, syrup and butter and boil until soft ball stage (236 degrees). Add cream, cool and add vanilla.

SOUTHERN BREAD PUDDING
1 1/2 c. toasted bread cut into 1-in squares
3 c. milk, scalded
one-third c. sugar
2 eggs
Pinch of salt
Flavor with 1 tsp. vanilla or 1/2 tsp. nutmeg or both Pour scalded milk over toast bread, let set until bread is soft, add sugar, slightly beaten eggs, salt and flavoring. Bake at 350 degrees until firm. Raisins may be added to the pudding, or it may be spread with jelly when almost done. Top with meringue and put back into the oven to brown meringue. Baking time about 45 min.

BUTTER ROLLS
NOTE: Butter should be used for this dessert.
Crust for rolls:
2 c. flour
1 tsp. salt
1 Tbs. sugar
1/2 c. Crisco
Enough ice water to make crust from into a ball.

Place on a well floured board and knead a few times. Divide dough into four or six parts and roll to 1/2" thickness. Spread softened butter and sprinkle liberally with cinnamon and sugar with a small dash of nutmeg. Roll each part as for a jelly roll and place side by side in long utility baking dish. Cover with milk and bake in a 350 degree oven for 25 to 30 min. or until lightly browned.

NEW YORK, N.Y. (ED) — The hostess who really wants to win culinary honors knows "you have to leave them smiling." And, that means ending the meal with a grand finale — a special dessert. (After all, by the time the coffee is served, most people can't even remember the appetizer.) To leave a truly lasting impression, bake a Japanese Mandarin Orange Bundt Cake.
