PRIZE ROOKIES ARE HELD BY CUBS, CARDS, GIANTS Forsan Wins Thrilling Game From Herd After Two Extra Periods

FRESHMEN GO OVER IN A BIG WAY

By GEORGE KIRKSEY United Press Staff Correspondent NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (UP)—The outstanding rookies coming up to the National League this year appear to have been landed by the three top teams—the Cubs, Cardinals and Giants.

Last year the Cubs came up with two of the year's prize recruits in Phil Cavaretta, 18-year old first baseman, and Jimmy O'Des, 22-year old catcher. Cavaretta proved a revelation to critics who thought that first base would be one of the weak spots in the Chicago team.

The Giants and Cardinals each had one freshman make good. Clyde Castleman, young pitcher, who won 15 games and lost 6, proved a valuable addition to the Giants.

This spring the Cubs will count heavily upon Gene Lillard, third baseman from the Los Angeles Pacific Coast league club, and Johnny Gill, outfielder from the Minneapolis American association club.

Defeat Carr In Moore Tournament Thursday, 23 To 10

MOORE, Jan. 17.—The Highway Travelers, with a deadly eye for the basket and a defense that did not allow one ball, moved into the favored spot of the Moore Invitational cage tournament here Thursday afternoon by swamping the Moore B quintet in the opening game, 55-3.

The Big Spring Calves, also a strong contender for championship honors, had trouble with Carr during the first half but went to town after the rest period, scoring 13 points to defeat the enemy, 23-10.

Other schools to advance were Klondike boys, who defeated the Moore "A" quint, 24-17, and Elbow cagers, who won out over Coahoma, 22-11.

In an exhibition game the Howard county teachers defeated Brown in a free scoring affair, 46-18.

Texas Drills On Ball Handling

AUSTIN, Jan. 17. (Sp)—Generally worried over the narrow escape his Longhorn captives had against Baylor last week at Waco, Coach Mary Karow is concentrating drills this week on more careful handling of the ball.

The contest Saturday will be the last Southwest conference game for the Longhorns until final exams are concluded Feb. 1.

"A one-point victory is no indication of superiority," observed Coach Karow. "Baylor has an experienced team and we have a young one. They will be out for revenge after having lost to us and Rice by only a few points. We were lucky last time."

Jack Kearns Keeps On Hunting

By TOM FAPECKI Associated Press Sports Writer Late arrivals at boxing matches in the near future will be asking, "What's the score?" if a plan advanced by Frank Gatto, Kansas City matchmaker, gets the reception he believes it merits.

Gatto's idea on the surface appears as sound as the dollar once was, and is so simple it is in the "Why didn't I think of that?" class. It makes boxing a match game, the same as football or baseball, and as in those games the boxing fans will know at all times who is winning.

The plan calls for a big board to be placed at a spot in the arena visible to all spectators. The board is divided into squares, a square for each round for each fighter.

At the end of each round the scoring records of the two judges and the referee are collected and given to the operator of the board, who posts the total, and as the fight progresses also posts the cumulative total.

Just for Example For instance, Joe Louis is fighting Max Schmeling. One judge gives the first round to Louis, 6 to 5. The other judge makes it 5 to 5, and the referee also calls it even.

The figures on the board would read 14 points for Louis and 14 points for Schmeling. The procedure in the second round, if any, and succeeding rounds is the same, only in addition to the score only the totals for the preceding rounds also are posted.

In this manner the fans may follow the progress of the fight the same as they would a football or basketball game. A football game in which the fans didn't know the score would lose much of its interest, Gatto points out, and where

STANTON TEAMS LOSE TWO GAMES TO MIDLAND

STANTON, Jan. 17. (Sp)—Playing their opening games of the season away from the home court, Coach Henderson's Stanton high school basketball teams lost two games at Midland yesterday.

The Midlanders romped away with the decision in the first game, 25 to 15, and beat out the invaders in the junior game, 8 to 6.

First team line-ups: Midland—Forwards: Thomas, Wright, Graham, guards: Reed, Dodson and Adams; center: Wolford, Stanton—Forwards: Donelson, Hennessey; guards: Hamner, Britlow, Wilkinson; center: Poe.

Second team line-ups: Midland—Forwards: Bowlin, Leach; guards: Cowan and Norman; center: Miller. Stanton—Forwards: Wilkinson and Mintz; guards: Hill, Rae and Smith; center: Poe.

STANTON is scheduled to enter a tournament at Courtney Saturday and may play a tourney at Garden City the latter part of this month. Midland plays here Monday night.

TALLY WAS CLOSE ALL THE WAY

By HANK HART In a thrilling encounter—probably the most closely contested ball game of the season—the Forsan Buffaloes edged out the Big Spring Steers, 31 to 26, Thursday night in a game that went two extra periods before the visitors won the decision.

Until that final Buff spurge, when Liles and Parker tacked up six points in less than two minutes, there was never more than two-point difference in the score.

The locals were, if anything, ever so anxious and at times looked high scoring honors for the game with 12 points while Parker led the visitors' attack with five field goals and a free toss.

Box score: FORT WORTH (31)—fg ft pf in Liles, f. 4 2 1 10, Adams, f. 0 1 2 1, Parker, f. 5 1 0 11, Chambers, c. 1 1 2 3, Loper, g. 1 1 0 3, Scudday, g. 1 1 0 3. Totals 12 7 5 31. TUG FOR THE FARMER BOYS

Northwestern U. Man Would Help Country Boys URBANA, Ill., Jan. 17. (AP)—The "forgotten men" of 1936, says Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson, director of athletics at Northwestern University, are the boys on the farm, in dire need of a planned recreational program.

Here to address the farm and home week of the college of agriculture of the University of Illinois, Wilson said a planned program in agricultural communities would cost little, would pay great dividends.

"In my estimation," he says, "there is nothing that will tend more to keep the boy living on the farm contented at home than an opportunity to indulge in attractive games and contests."

It takes more than the hard work and physical exertion of life on the farm to make a boy happy, says Wilson.

"I have the impression that farm work without an opportunity to play tends to make boys heavy muscled, clumsy and imbued with only one ambition—to get away from home in order to escape this drudgery," he says.

For the average farm community, Wilson suggests a program of baseball, soft ball, tennis, wrestling, basketball and similar sports.

The country boy has every bit as much right as the city youth to have opportunities to enjoy him-

THESE FACTS ABOUT BRAN HAVE BEEN PROVED BY TESTS

Supplies Gently Acting "Bulk" to Aid Regular Habits

Now and then, in talking with your friends, the subject of bran comes up. So that real facts might replace unsupported opinions, the Kellogg Company has aided for some years research in leading nutrition laboratories.

Studies made on a group of healthy women showed that two tablespoonfuls of bran daily continued to relieve constipation over a period of months. How different from cathartics—where dosage often must be increased.

Another series of tests on men indicated that, with some people, the "bulk" in bran was much more effective than that found in fruits and vegetables.

Further tests showed that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provided vitamin B and iron as well as "bulk." This "bulk" absorbs moisture, and gently exercises and cleanses the system—the right way to correct constipation.

Serve ALL-BRAN regularly for regularity. Either as a cereal, with milk or cream, or in cooked dishes. It is a natural laxative food. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

*Constipation due to insufficient "bulk."

PLAY PONIES HERE TONIGHT

After losing a whirlwind extra period affair to the Forsan Buffs here last night, Steer cagers will be out to make good tonight when they take the local court against Coach Aycock's Sweetwater Mustangs.

The Mustangs put up a strong battle before losing out in the recent Colorado tournament.

Ship returned late yesterday from Austin where they appeared before the executive committee of the Texas Interscholastic league.

The Big Spring school officials argued against plans to place Big Spring in the Panhandle district and left their arguments in writing for the committee to study.

The league granted the schoolmen until next Monday to submit further evidence and present their arguments in writing.

Gentry stated that there was a large number of school officials in Austin to protest the new redistricting arrangement. Only five of the nine committeemen were present, and they asked for additional time to study the evidence submitted to them.

Gentry said he believed that Henderson was doing what he thought was right, but he failed to agree with the league head when he tried to show that it would be profitable for Big Spring to be placed in the Panhandle sector.

AGGIES INVADE N. TEX. COURTS

COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 17.—Facing the pressure of having to pull from behind from the very start, having dropped two tilts to Arkansas, Texas Aggie cagers will make their annual invasion of North Texas Saturday and Monday nights, Jan. 18 and 20. They will face Southern Methodist at Dallas in the first tilt and Texas Christian at Fort Worth in the second.

The Aggies haven't swept a North Texas invasion since 1930, when John Reid was in his first six years as an Aggie cager mentor. That year they turned back SMU 24-19 at Dallas and TCU 28-17 at Fort Worth. This year finds a new coach, "Hub" McQuillan, in his first year at the Aggie cager helm.

Although defeated twice, the Aggies showed both aggressiveness and defensive ability against the lengthy Razorbacks who are favorites to win the Southwest conference title. This week their practice emphasis has been placed on offense, seeking both to gain better co-ordination of plays and development of looping shots to help spread the opponents' defenses.

The Aggies' probable lineup for the SMU and TCU tilts includes Ed Lee, Houston, and Clyde Jones, Lufkin, at forward; Pety Dowling, Houston, at center, and Captain Monte Carmichael, Lamkin, and Taylor Wilkins, Franklin, at guard. Carmichael and Wilkins are lettermen, Lee and Jones are squadmen and Dowling is playing his first year on the varsity. The Aggie squad of about eleven players will leave here Friday afternoon.

---Menus Of The Day---

Banana Kringles (For January Teas)
1/2 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 6 bananas, peeled and cut in halves crosswise, 2 tepsa lemon juice, Rich pastry (made with about 2 1/2 cups flour) rolled 1-4 inch thick.
Mix sugar and cinnamon. Roll banana halves in lemon juice, then in sugar and cinnamon mixture. Place each half on a square of the pie crust large enough to cover it. Roll so that pie-crust completely encloses the banana. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) for 30 minutes or until browned. Serve hot with hard sauce or sweetened and flavored whipped cream.

Gingerbread Men!
Gingerbread men, of course! Use the now prepared gingerbread based on Mary Washingtons recipe; add just enough water to mix to make batter thick enough to roll lightly; cut into shapes and bake in a slow oven. Of course, serve chunks of the gingerbread if you like--its an old German custom! New too is the fruit cake made with gingerbread! If you prefer, have a traditional fruit cake by using the mix, adding egg, liquid and baking. Or make Gingerbread Fruit Cake this way: Combine a package of the gingerbread mix and a package of mixed fruits (cherries, citron, fruit peel, etc.); add 1-2 cup water, stir, add another 1-2 cup water. Pour into greased, floured muffin tins or cake pan and bake in moderate oven 30 minutes. Serve with whipped cream.

Mini Drop Cookies (Keep Fresh for Days)
1 1/4 cups flour, 1 1/4 tepsa baking powder, 1/2 cup walnut meats chopped, 1/4 cup butter, 1/4 tepsa salt, 1/2 tepsa cinnamon, 2 eggs, 1/4 cup cocoa, 1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed, 1 cup cooked rice.
Sift flour, measure and sift again with cocoa, baking powder, salt and cinnamon. Cream butter, add sugar gradually, and cream well. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add rice, walnuts, and then flour. Mix until well blended. Drop by teaspoonfuls on lightly greased baking sheet, and bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 12 to 15 minutes, or until done. Three dozen cookies.

Modern Mince Meat
2 lbs. apples, 1/2 lb. suet, 1/2 lb. raisins, 1/2 lb. currants, 2 tepsa sliced citron, 1 lb. brown sugar, 1/2 cup brandy or sherry, 3/4 cup almonds (blanched), 1 tepsa salt, 1 qt. cider, 1 tepsa cinnamon, 1 tepsa mace or nutmeg, Juice and rind 1 lemon.
Chop apples--Baldwins, Greenings, or Spies are good; chop suet and raisins. Put in large saucepan with currants, citron, sugar, salt and cider. Simmer 1-2 hours. Add spices, lemon and cook slowly until thick. Remove from heat, add almonds and win. Seal in jars.

Pum Pudding
3 lb. seeded raisins, 1 cup chopped figs, 2 tepsa preserved ginger or watermelon rind (chopped), 2/3 cup grated raw carrot, 1/2 cup white beans, 1/2 cup sliced citron, 2/3 cup fine dry bread crumbs, 3/4 cup finely chopped suet, 4 tepsa sugar, 2 eggs, well beaten, 1-3 tepsa soda, 1 1/4 cups flour, 3/4 tepsa salt, 1 1/2 tepsa mixed cake and pastry spices.
Cut raisins in pieces, and mix all ingredients, except dry materials. Add flour, salt, soda and spices through a sifter. Blend well, steam in greased, covered pudding mould for 4 hours. Serve with hard sauce or lemon pudding sauce.

Lyric Presents Ken Maynard in Western Drama

Ken Maynard streaks across the range to new adventures in "Western Range," playing at the Lyric Friday and Saturday. The western star will be seen again in gun fights, riding his wonder-horse and generally living up to his title as an ace of the cowboys.

Ken appears as foreman of a dude ranch. A girl from the East, visiting the place, is kidnaped, and the action starts as Ken goes to rescue her. He succeeds, under hazardous circumstances, and gives plenty of thrills in so doing. Ken's leading lady is Geneva Mitchell. Others in the cast are

Have Principal Roles In 'Special Agent,' Which Opens Today

A new angle on the workings of the various government departments is presented in the Warner Bros. production, "Special Agent," which plays at the Ritz Friday and Saturday. The same company that made "G Men" in which the department of justice agents were portrayed, brings this picture to tell of how the income tax men do their work.

In this film, in which it is shown how the special agents use the tax laws to track down the arch criminal, is added a stirring romance with Boris Davis and George Brent as the principals. The two have played together in other pictures.

Brent, in the role of a newspaper reporter, falls in love with Miss Davis, who plays the part of a confidential secretary of a super-crook, and between them they finally get the evidence which finds the criminal behind the bars.

Ricardo Cortez, noted for his "heavy" roles, is again the villain. The supporting cast also includes Henry O'Neill, Joseph Crehan, Robert Barrat, Jack LaRue, Robert Strangé, and J. Carroll Nash.

Buckner Talks At Abilene Meeting

Pascal Buckner, coordinator of Ward Bond, Charles French and Betty Blythe.

HARRY CAREY STAR OF FILM AT THE QUEEN
Riding, fighting and acting with the vigor that has marked his other roles, Harry Carey, long a popular western star, plays in "Wagon Trail," a frontier film which is at the Queen theatre Friday and Saturday.

Harry appears in the role of a sheriff who, fighting a band of outlaws, is handed a setback when his young son becomes involved with the gang. The sheriff finally clears his son and traps the desperado, but not before many battles that provide excitement. In the cast are Gertrude Messinger, Ed Norris, Earl Dwire and Roger Williams.

SAVING HUMAN LIVES

A speaker before the Society of Automotive Engineers the other day pointed out the engineer's task toward making highways safer. He said that eventually these improvements must be made: complete physical separation of traffic moving in opposite directions; segregation of passenger cars and trucks; grade crossing elimination for all intersecting traffic; and similar engineering developments.

This may be brought about some day, but it will be a long and costly program. And while such engineering tasks are being mapped, and safety organizations mobilize efforts to preach safe driving, the highway accidents occur.

And in this respect, the American Red Cross is adopting a commendable program in its undertaking to establish first aid stations along the highways to be of service in reducing the death toll when accidents do occur.

The margin of minutes sometimes is the margin between life and death when a person has been injured. Accidents occur far from hospitals, ambulance and medical centers, and the time element becomes of paramount importance.

Then, too, there are always persons reaching the scene of an accident who, although anxious to be of service, have no knowledge of how to render emergency aid.

These things the Red Cross hopes to remedy with its first aid stations. The stations would, first of all, be in charge of persons who have had thorough and expert training in life saving methods. These people know how to assist the injured, how to reach the doctor, the ambulance and the hospital.

They also would have the medical supplies and equipment at hand to render preliminary assistance to the injured.

The highway mishap death toll has become so appalling that it must be met on all fronts—from the engineering standpoint, from the safer-driving campaigns, from strict traffic law enforcement, and also from the first aid service. The last-named won't stop accidents, but it can mean fewer deaths from injuries; and the saving of human lives is the ultimate goal.

★ Man About Manhattan ★

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—An artist in New York plucks this letter from the dossier of mail that is delivered each morning to his studio and passes it along. It is from an attorney whose son has his heart set on an art career in the metropolis. I think it is a letter such as Polonius might have written had his son wanted to come to New York, and so I am presenting it for other embryo artists and writers, who have the same idea:

"One of my five boys has a notion he wants to study art. He is 19 years old, somewhat behind schedule in school (due to long illness), and a good, clean, well-disciplined youngster."

"The fact that he has not acquired the standard pedagogic courses does not worry me to any extent. It has gradually dawned on me during these past 56 years that no man uses more than 5 per cent of the things he studied."

"These same 56 years have brought me other grains of knowledge. I have learned that a comfortable income does much to make the world a pleasant place to live in. And, conversely, an empty pocket holds many woes."

"Hence, my main thought being an intense desire to see all my boys happy through life, the possibilities of comfortable financial return from the work they select is pretty important to me."

"I do not desire to encourage or discourage any trend a boy may have. I would probably be wrong whichever I did. But I know that every young man sees only the glamorous side of the profession he thinks he fancies. Perhaps if he could see the other side of the picture his judgment would amount to more."

"If a boy, attracted to an art career, knows in advance all the drudgery, all the disillusionment, all the unfairness connected with progress, the uncertainties, the over-crowding of the field, as well as the pleasant side, and still persists in his desire, I would be satisfied to do all in my power to help him."

"Here's where you can be of great assistance to me and to the boy. Let him call on you and have a talk on the subject of art, treating the poor old man with all the searching familiarity of a village gossip. Tell him the good parts on the bad, neither discouraging nor encouraging him. Incidentally, look into the matter of his capabilities. Desires never made an artist. If a man hasn't card sense he would be foolish to take up poker as a livelihood. If this boy merely has a flair for drawing a few well curved lines, perhaps much tragedy would be averted by making the discovery now rather than letting the customers do it later. Much talk clears the air. If he could have the advantage of a discussion with you and with Fred Cooper and possibly some other art man you may care to send him to, both he and I will be benefited and grateful."

"Presuming on your good nature, I have told him to write you for an appointment. Maybe, when you have talked with him, you will find time to write me what you think. In doing so, please talk as one lawyer to another. There is no need to pull your punches nor sugar-coat your reactions. If the New Year brings you all I hope for, it will be too much."

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW FEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Confidential reports received by the state department from Italy indicate a much more desperate condition than has leaked out through censored press dispatches.

Not only have Italian troops in East Africa been defeated, but there has been increasing restlessness at home. Strikes have taken place in several Italian munitions plants. There has been disaffection among the Alpine troops, pride of the Italian army, with the result that some of them are being transferred to the Abyssinian front.

Finally, an underground communist organization is reported to be gaining ground throughout Italy.

All of these situations have contributed to a secret Franco-British plan to intervene with a new peace plan to save Italy.

While they dislike and distrust Mussolini, the French and British cannot afford to have him crack up. This especially is the view of the French. Mussolini, as a checkmate against Hitler's Austrian ambitions, is worth far more to the French than any altruism in Abyssinia.

The new peace plan will not go as far as the Hoare-Laval agreement. Also the French and British, this time, will try first to get the official stamp of the league. It will be put forward as a league plan.

"What the British frankly fear is that Mussolini, facing defeat in East Africa, will try to save face by persuading his people that they are being attacked by Europe, and become the mad dog of the Mediterranean. This would precipitate general war."

Jack and Jill
Two reddish brown Irish setters named Jack and Jill frequently compete with Mrs. Roosevelt at her weekly press conferences. Explaining their presence, Mrs. Roosevelt says:

"Strictly speaking they belong to Anna (Boettiger). But since her apartment in New York is not conducive to exercising two large Irish setters, they are spending the winter with me."

"They are house guests. They seem quite contented. They are very contented with me when nobody else is around, but whenever the children come, they immediately return to their first loves."

"Jack and Jill are brother and sister. They are very friendly, but they do not get much exercise. They bark a lot, but when they are exercised they are too tired to bark."

Now that the plan of revamping the AAA is completed, Henry Wallace is almost of the opinion that the overhauling may have done some good after all.

Reason is that when Wallace first became secretary of agriculture, one thing he wanted to accomplish was an all-embracing system of soil conservation, whereby the government could help rebuild the land on every man's farm.

However, even in the days of the brain trust, this was considered too radical a goal. It was marked down as something to aim at within the next few years.

But now, under the revamped AAA, this goal virtually has been attained. Its provision whereby a farmer sets aside a certain acreage each year also gives the government the right to tell him how to plant—legumes, grasses, etc., according to chemical analysis of the soil.

This is virtually what Wallace originally wanted.

Senate Democratic Floor Leader Joe Robinson was holding a press conference in his office and during the course of the discussion rested his hands before his face. He might have been in an attitude of prayer. As he did so a photographer clicked his camera.

"Joe bolted upright, snapped: 'Here you, mummy that plate. I don't want my picture appearing in the papers of the country in a prayerful attitude.'"

Unafraid
Verner W. Main hopes he won't die in office, but he is ready for anything fate has in store for him. He is the new congressman from Michigan's third district. The last five congressmen representing that district have died in office.

"I'm not superstitious," says Main, "but I'm something of a fatalist. If fate has ordained that I must die before my time, why worry about it? There is a demy that shapes our ends, rough how they though we may."

In fatalist order, the following five died before their term expired: William H. Frankhauser, who committed suicide in 1921; John M. C. Smith, who died in 1922 after serving 21 months; Arthur B. Williams, who died after an operation in 1925; Joseph L. Hooper, who died of a heart attack in 1934; Harry M. Kimball, who died last October after 11 months in office.

But Main is not disturbed. He says it helps to be a fatalist. He smiles from a round, dimpled face, and exclaims the optimism of a man who has been a Presbyterian elder, a Kiwanis president, and a leader of the Boy Scouts of America.

The fact is, however, that Main took out extra-life insurance before stepping into the shoes of the five dead men.

Landon Formally Enters Contest

NEW YORK, Jan. 17. (UP)—Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas definitely placed his name on the list of candidates for the Republican presidential nomination today through a statement issued by Albert Ottinger, former attorney general and republican candidate for governor of New York in 1928.

The statement said Landon would accept the nomination. It added Ottinger was ready to organize a "Landon for President" committee in New York state.

NEVER MIND THE LADY

by David Garth

Chapter 26
PUFF AGAIN
Willlet went up to his room, opened the door, and stepped on the girl.

"You're a swell kid. Put it down giti was sitting in the chair. It is dumbness and let's head in another direction." "Lancelot," she sighed. "I dub thee Galahad—for the nonce." She where he was staying in New York.

"Hello, Louise," she greeted. "Louise?" "Uh huh. You're Louise Marra-way whom I'm visiting in New York. Dear Louise."

Terry shut the door behind him and looked at her thoughtfully. She lounged nonchalantly in the chair, attractive in her soft cadet blue wool sports suit, light fox collar and smart little felt hat with nose veil.

"How," he inquired, "did you get here?" "Alas, what a welcome," she sighed. "Puff, my child, you picked a durb to chase. Terry, it was very simple. Examine my sleeves at your leisure and look no more for mirrors."

"I waited a long time for you last night and when you didn't come I called the West house to inquire your whereabouts and was told that a Mr. Willlet had called and left long ago since. So I took a chance, departed thither, and by judicious use of several pictures of Abraham Lincoln, against a background of green, contrived to be let into your room."

She smiled at him. "It was so much pleasanter waiting here than in the lobby." She gestured toward a tray of White Rock, glasses, cracked ice and a large square bottle.

"I even arranged it so that the party starts off right." "Oh, we're going to have a party?" "So I hope, and so I've planned. I told you I knew this town like the palm of my hand. We're going lots of places and see lots of things. Just take my hand, Lancelot."

Well, why not? Better than sitting around alone. Looked as though that color had spun both ways. Step on the gas and catch the lights as you go along.

They had a drink together. Puff was already a couple up on him. "It's so much nicer being here with you. My steatman father is giving a speech today. I nearly got hooked into attending, but Louise came to my rescue. Dear Louise, what a welcome."

"I'd like to hear the speech you father would give if he knew where you were." "Couldn't be worse than the one he's putting a few assorted senators to sleep with. It's about sugar-beets."

"Or sweet potatoes, or something. Who cares?" She yanked off her hat, flung herself on the divan, and gave a deep sigh of relief.

"Who cares?" she repeated. "You had a lousy time last night, didn't you?" Willlet frowned at his glass.

"I'm forgetting last night." "What were you looking for particularly?" "I don't think you'd understand if I told you."

"No? What makes you think so?" She clasped her hands behind her dark head and stretched herself comfortably. "Come on over and sit down, darling."

She liked to play games and her idea of life was one long good time, but Willlet, as he looked at her just then, felt that this nonchalant girl filled a queer need in his life. He'd lost the only person in the world he'd cared anything about. Puff was very pretty and very intriguing and there was no reason why he shouldn't flow along with the stream.

She gave him a slow mocking glance from those heavily lashed violet eyes.

"Afraid of finding something you were looking for?" He didn't say anything, but went over and sat down beside her.

She stretched out her arms and clasped her hands behind his neck. A bracelet slid down one tanned young arm. Her mouth was very red and there was an air of coquetry about her; but there was also the intriguing slow curves of her words and a trick of invitation in those eyes of hers.

"Well, Terry Willlet?" she said. "This isn't heading right, Puff." "Don't be silly," she requested. "Darling, you're such a little boy."

"Oh, hell!" He made an impatient move, but her hands tightened.

"Little boy," she repeated provocatively. "Little boy Joe!" In a department store and yelling for his mother. Tall and strong, and straight, but you feel lost. I can tell, darling. Why worry? The world wasn't made to worry about. Do you know that you haven't missed me yet?"

"I know that," said Terry. "Don't you think you'd care to try it?"

Willlet tried it. She didn't want to let him go, but he gently engaged her hands. What was the matter with him, he wondered.

Was he about to turn his collar around, or something, or did he seem to feel the ironic mockery of two dark eyes as he lended with Willlet didn't care—he just flowed along with the stream of her enthusiasm. Time enough for struggle in the days to come.

They landed in some night club far uptown where light's grinning jungle ecstasy was rampant in the spectacular avanga blaze of a colored jazz band.

Lights flashed in darkness, a master of ceremonies introduced lots of people, a chorus of garishly decked girls pounded the floor with the sharp staccato of dancing heels and raised their voices in thny song.

A dusky prima donna sang a throaty haunting refrain about winds and her men, or something. A blonde girl at a table near them giggled over the antics of her escort.

Suspect Admits Seven Robberies

FORT WORTH, Jan. 17. (UP)—Dwight Beard, suspect in numerous Dallas and Fort Worth robberies, needed weekly today to officers as he admitted at least seven Fort Worth robberies. The 30-year-old former football player and wrestler said he turned to crime when he could not get a job. He was pictured by local officers as a dangerous gunman who changed clothes and made a round of the night clubs after a robbery. Nine victims identified him as the stern-voiced bandit who visited their places of business here with in the past six weeks. Officers said robbery charges would be filed against Beard but said he would be returned to Dallas for removal to the North Carolina prison from which he escaped while serving a life sentence.

Church Plans District Meet In San Angelo

Many Local Episcopalians Will Drive There Sunday

So great a number of Episcopalians have planned to attend the annual convocation to be held in San Angelo Sunday that church services for that day will not be held. Both Sunday school and morning prayer have been called off. Members of the vestry that will attend as delegates include Carl Blomsheld, Edmund Notestine, V. Van Gleason and H. S. Faw. The woman's auxiliary will send Mrs. E. V. Spence and Mrs. Blomsheld as delegates.

The 26th annual convocation District of North Texas will assemble in San Angelo Saturday evening, January 18, and be in session through the 19th and 20th. Bishop E. C. Seaman will preside and Rev. Philip K. Kemp of Emmanuel church is in charge of local arrangements.

Guest Preacher A newspaper executive for twenty-five years, and now in charge of publicity for the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal church, the Rev. G. Warfield Hobbs, D.D., will take part in important events in the Episcopal church next week.

At the invitation of Bishop Capers of West Texas and Bishop Seaman of North Texas, Dr. Hobbs is to address their respective annual conventions, going from San Angelo to San Antonio, Rev. Dr. Hobbs will preach in San Angelo Sunday night.

Dr. Hobbs' experience in the newspaper world includes work as Spanish-American war correspondent for the Baltimore American; city editor, Washington correspondent and managing editor of the Philadelphia Public Ledger, and editor of the Baltimore Sunday Sun.

Abandoning secular work for the ministry, he was ordained by the late Presiding Bishop and Bishop of Maryland, John Gardner Murray, in 1923, soon afterwards entering the service of the national church organization as editor of its monthly magazine, The Spirit of Missions, later becoming executive secretary of the department of publicity of the national council, in charge of all publications and publicity for that body.

Dr. Hobbs is the author of the Japan-Russia War, and the Geology of the San Francisco District. He served for a time as chaplain of the 107th Infantry, New York national guard. He is a graduate of Baltimore City College, and in 1924 received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from the University of the South, Sewanee, Tennessee, in recognition of his distinguished services in the development of publicity and printed matter.

Bishop Seaman says that Dr. Hobbs is one of the most eloquent, attractive and effective speakers of all those connected with the national staff of the Episcopal church, and the Bishop feels that the district is specially fortunate in getting him.

Woman's Meeting Meeting simultaneously with convocation is the annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to the

Kellogg Samples Distributed Here

In connection with a special sales campaign on the product, the Kellogg company this week has offered samples of Kellogg's All-Bran cereal in homes of Big Spring. Distributed with the sample packages were Kellogg recipe books.

A crew under direction of T. A. Pierson, district manager for the company, canvassed the city West-nesday and Thursday, leaving samples and recipe books. Considerable interest was shown in the sales campaign, Kellogg is running a series of advertisements in The Herald.

National Council. It is the one organization of Episcopal women officially connected with the Protestant Episcopal church. Mrs. Lawrence W. Hollis, Jr., of Abilene, is the district president and will be in charge of the San Angelo women's meeting.

Miss Helen Lyles of Stamford will be introduced at San Angelo as the newly appointed Director of Religious Education and College Student Advisor of the Episcopal church in this district. She has just taken up residence in the Little House of Fellowship in Canyon.

Miss Lyles did her college work at the university of Texas and California, having her A.B. degree from the latter. Her special training for Episcopal church work was done at St. Margaret's Training school in Berkeley, California, under Deaconess Anna G. Newell. Miss Lyles will address the district assembly of the Young People's Service League in San Angelo Sunday afternoon.

BLACK-DRAUGHT

Next Time You Need a Laxative

For constipation, take a dose of Black-Draught as soon as you realize the condition you are in. "If I am bilious, have headache or a cold, I take a dose of Black-Draught at night," writes Mrs. R. D. Thaxton, of Lexington, Ga. "If I have a bad feeling after meals, I take just a pinch of Black-Draught. It relieves me. I recommend it very highly—a good family medicine. I give my children Syrup of Black-Draught. I find both good." Black-Draught paves the way for the relief of many such symptoms as those mentioned above, when constipation is at the bottom of the trouble. Just try it! Follow the directions carefully and you'll probably learn why Black-Draught is so popular, adv.

The tent will be located at Read's show grounds on West Third street. The appearance here will be under auspices of the VFW post. Opening play, to start at 8 p. m. Monday, will be a comedy, "The Pajama Bride." The company presents many of the favorites seen before, including Mrs. Bonnie Brunk, and Ted Edlin. Susie and Willie Green are new comedians with the troupe. The show is under the personal management of Fred G. Brunk. The company carries its own musical organization and vaudeville performers. A quartet is one of the featured acts of the vaudeville this season.

Markets Firm On Friday's Trading

Markets held firm on a 2,000,000-share turnover Friday and cotton ranged up about 10 points on the close. An opinion attributed to Senator Pat Harrison, Miss., that the bonus bill could be passed without the president's signature injected a bullish element into trading. Expiration of cotton loans the first of next month is expected to drop the market for lint.

Wanted: Several boys with bicycles for El Paso Times route in Big Spring. See Shepard at Douglas Hotel—adv.

Easier Reading.. Writing with Glareless Light

Good lighting is needed wherever eyes are used for prolonged seeing tasks. At the writing desk, for reading, sewing or studying, the right amount of glareless light is a protection against eye fatigue and the troubles that are caused by straining the eyes to see under a poor light.

Too often this strain isn't attributed to the lighting. Some people think that because they have enough light to see by, they have enough light. But scientific tests have revealed that the human eye is a poor judge of what is enough light. Only a careful check by someone trained to make lighting tests will show accurately whether you have proper lighting in your home.
