Rioters ravage Venezuelan cities; 3 dead, hundreds injured

By MARIA TEJERA
Associated Press Writer

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — In riots touched off by bus fare increases, Venezuelans sacked hundreds of stores, set vehicles ablaze and traded gunfire with police in the country's worst street violence in 30 years.

At least three people were reported killed and 326 injured in the rioting, which began when the new fares took effect Monday morning and spread to at least seven cities and towns.

The violence persisted into early today in downtown Caracas, where sirens wailed as authorities put out fires and battled looters in the streets filled with shattered glass.

Independent reports estimated damage nationwide to be in the millions of dollars. On some Caracas streets, virtually every store was looted.

"It is a popular uprising. There are riots everywhere. They are all furious," said Metropolitan Police Inspector Jose Lara Montilla, who commanded a police unit armed with shotguns in downtown Caracas.

Police were sometimes forced to retreat from efforts to quell the violence. There were no official tallies of arrests.

Perhaps the worst violence occurred in Guarenas, a shantytown about 12 miles from the capital where the disturbances began. People there formed human chains and threw rocks at National Guard troops in armored cars after the soldiers began firing birdshot and tear gas at looters.

In Guarenas, a 32-year-old pregnant woman who was not in-involved in the rioting was shot to death and at least 126 people were wounded, said journalist Igor Camacho of the Voz de Guarenas newspaper.

Rioters in the shantytown there emptied dozens of stores and supermarkets and set at least 14 vehicles set ablaze.

The 50 percent increase in bus fares that sparked the protests is part of a reform package announced last week by the month-old government of President Carlos Andres Perez that aims to bring the oil-based economy out of recession.

Weak oil prices have struck a serious blow to the economy of this country that has for decades been one of South America's most stable democracies.

In the capital on Monday, two women were shot to death, one near the Central University of Caracas, the El Nacional newspaper said. A police spokesman said at least 140 people, including five policemen, were injured in Caracas.

In San Agustin del Sur and Catia, poor neighborhoods on the west side of the capital, the police "received a beating," a police commissioner said.

"This is getting ugly ... The well-to-do neighborhoods in the east weren't affected today, but just wait until tomorrow," said the commissioner, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

A woman caught in the cross-fire as she tried to get home complained the looters were criminals taking advantage of what started out as a protest. "They're just criminals, robbing, burning. I've never seen anything this bad," she said, crying.

Major avenues across the city, with buses blazing, looked like movie scenes of hell. Fires in poor neighborhoods in the hills on the outskirts of the city burned through the afternoon and evening.

Residents in San Agustin del Sur took over the Francisco Fajardo highway, the city's main artery, Monday afternoon.

Drivers panicked and abandoned their cars on the highway, aggravating the already monumental traffic problems caused by the violence.

Swedes hope leader's murder is solved by arrest of suspect

By ARTHUR MAX
Associated Press Writer

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — After three frustrating years, Swedes hope the mystery behind the assassination of Prime Minister Olof Palme is finally solved and that his accused killer will soon be tried.

Prosecutors are reported to be worried, however, that their case may not hold up against the man arrested 10 weeks ago on suspicion of gunning down Palme on a Stockholm street on Feb. 28, 1986.

They acknowledge that crucial pieces of evidence are missing. If they have found a motive, they aren't saying.

Legal experts say the case will rest on whether a chain of circumstantial evidence can be established.

"The prosecution is in bad shape if they don't find the murder weapon or present other very strong forensic evidence," said Lena Holmqvist, a lecturer in criminal law at Uppsala University.

Since the shooting, police have dedicated nearly one million man-hours and hundreds of millions of dollars chasing international conspiracy theories centering on Iran or on Kurdish terrorists.

In the end, the suspect they arrested was a Swede, a loner with a previous manslaughter conviction and a history of drug addiction, alcohol abuse and psychiatric treatment.

The arrest Dec. 14 of Christer Pettersson, 41, came as such an anticlimax that one legal commentator wrote in the Dagens Nyheter daily that "the borderline between reality and fiction is being erased."

Pettersson's lawyer says his client has denied any connection with the slaying, which occurred as Palme was walking home from a movie with his wife Lisbet, who was grazed by a second bullet and survived.

Prosecutors have released virtually no information about their case, and Pettersson's name cannot even be published here under Swedish press regulations. But they have made enough headway to persuade a judge five times to extend the two-week detention order against him.

"There has been progress ... but we cannot make any estimate of how long the investigation will go on," chief prosecutor Jorgen Almbliad said two weeks ago.

Published reports say the prosecution's case was built on witnesses who placed the suspect at the scene. Mrs. Palme has identified Pettersson as the gunman, but without absolute certainty, the reports say.

If the case against Pettersson falls apart, the testimony of the few eyewitnesses would be useless against anyone else, virtually destroying any chance of sending Palme's killer to prison.

Pettersson, who was questioned briefly and released shortly after the murder, came under suspicion again after police received a tip that his alibi was phony.

He has a long criminal record, which includes the fatal bayonet stabbing of a man in a street brawl in 1970.

"I think most people were pleased that we finally have found someone and are relieved that it's a Swede," said Ms. Holmqvist. "If it's an ordinary maniac, we can leave the whole story behind us."

Under Swedish law, the case would be heard by the Stockholm district court before a panel of one judge and five laymen, each of whom have equal say on whether to convict. A 4-2 vote is enough for conviction, but a tie means acquittal.

The slaying of Palme, a four-term prime minister who championed international disarmament, jolted Swedes from the idea that they were safe from the viciousness and terrorism that afflict other countries.

But the national trauma is fading. Last year, people stopped putting fresh flowers on the improvised sidewalk monument where Palme fell. Palme's governing Social Democratic party said it planned no ceremony to mark the anniversary.

Counterfeit cash seized in Juarez

JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — A man who jumped parole in Chicago and went to Mexico to make some money was quite good at it, according to officers who seized about $12.6 million in counterfeit U.S. currency in a raid at the man's home.

The U.S. Secret Service said Monday Newton Van Drunen, 60, settled in Zaragoza, Mexico, across the Rio Grande from El Paso, where he installed printing presses and platemaking equipment and made at least $12.6 million in counterfeit U.S. currency.

Chihuahua State Judicial Police, accompanied by Secret Service agents, raided Van Drunen's home in Zaragoza Saturday.

Van Drunen "was standing there at the presses, running off counterfeit money" when officers arrived, according to Bill Driscoll, agent in charge of the Secret Service's El Paso office.

"He had enough paper in there to run off $30 million, $35 million worth," Driscoll said. "This is one of the largest seizures of counterfeit currency in history."

Van Drunen was being held today in CeReSo prison in Ciudad Juarez, Mexico.

Mexican police seized $200,000 worth of printing equipment and $12,615,500 in phony $10, $20 and $50 bills from Van Drunen's home, Driscoll said.

JOINT PROBLEM, MUSCLE PAIN

If you've developed symptoms that make you think you have arthritis, it would be wise to have an examination to see if the muscles in the affected area are out of balance.

Muscles help keep a joint stable and assist it through its normal range of motion. But if the muscles on one side of the joint are weak, this puts a strain on the joint. It may also cause arthritic-like symptoms.

The doctor of Chiropractic will test the muscles to determine their balance and strength. He will also evaluate nerve patterns and may take an x-ray to study the joint structure involved. Perhaps some laboratory procedures will also be needed.

If the problem is in the muscles around the joint, treatment can be given to strengthen and return them to proper balance. Once this is achieved, the arthritic-like pain and discomfort may be greatly relieved or eliminated.

Fort Hood officer honored for achievement by 'Glamour'

By ROBERT CADWALLADER
Waco Tribune-Herald

FORT HOOD (AP) — When Christine Knighton entered college, she planned to major in home economics.

As it turned out, Capt. Knighton, of Fort Hood, has broken new ground for black women during her 9½-year trek through the Army.

She was selected as one of Glamour Magazine's "10 Most Outstanding Young Working Women for 1989" for succeeding in male-dominated fields.

Knighton, only the second black woman ever to graduate from Army helicopter training school, said she chose a traditionally tough career road for women mostly because the challenge was there.

"I initially joined the military out of curiosity," said Knighton, who commands a 21-helicopter aviation regiment of 132 men and six women at the base. "I hadn't seen many females in the military."

Knighton wanted to be a home economics teacher when she entered Alabama's Tuskegee Institute in 1975, a century-old university that had trained black pilots in World War II.

Teaching was what the important people in her hometown of Cuthbert, Ga., did.

"Most of the people who were anybody worked for the public school system," she said. "I guess those were my mentors."

Yet she joined the ROTC program almost upon her arrival at Tuskegee. The school's ROTC Army training program had begun accepting women only a year earlier. It would be 1976 before most military academies around the country opened their doors to women.

"My mother said that when she was young, she had wanted to join the military, but she never did," said the 31-year-old.

"She didn't push me to join. She just said she was interested. But I figured that if something interested my mom, I owed it to myself to find out what it was all about."

To a smattering of snickers from a roomful of men, she raised her hand and chose an aviation specialty during a freshman ROTC class.

Despite the initial indications, her career hasn't been fraught with the obstacles of prejudice and skepticism she had been warned about.

"Throughout my military career, I guess I've been blessed," she said, "because I've heard some horror stories about what a lot of women went through."

She reached captain in May 1979. She was transferred to Fort Hood in September 1985, and then last May she became commander of the Delta company, 227th Aviation Regiment, part of the 1st Cavalry Division.

She said she has never had to pull rank with any more force than any male commander would need to keep his people in line.

"I didn't have any trouble," said Knighton, who flies the helicopters as well as commands the group. "I think there might have been some reservation about what I would be all about as a commander. But I don't think I had to be tough with anybody because I was a woman. I work with a great, great, great group of guys."

Some of the men, who had never had to say "yes, ma'am" to a commander, were skeptical of serving under a woman boss. She quickly earned their respect.

"When they said we were going to have a female, it was kind of strange," said Spec. Humberto Gonzalez.

"But she's OK," Pfc. Luis Ortiz offered. "She's fair, especially to the enlisted ranks." "She can get tough when she wants to, like she did yesterday," said Spec. James Person, referring to her rigid enforcement of her cleanliness standards for the barracks.

She said she hasn't received much ribbing resulting from her award in Glamour Magazine's February issue, but some Fort Hood spokesmen can occasionally be heard to refer to her as "Capt. Glamour."

"Oh, I didn't know that," she laughed. "Nobody's really given me a hard time. Not to my face, anyway."

Knighton, the only black woman on the Top-10 list, was among 2,000 applicants. She survived the cut to a 500-name pool, from which she was chosen as one of the winners.

A military promotions board has approved her for the rank of major, a boost in grade that will not take effect for several months. She's excited at the prospect, but it's not her ultimate goal.

Beyond major, there's lieutenant colonel, colonel, and one-star general all the way up to the highest possible ranking: four-star general.

Not so coincidentally, four-star general is her goal.

"As far as I know," she said, "there are no women four-star generals."

FBI quietly wages war to foil spies in Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Fearing spies are monitoring local technological, medical and energy research, FBI agents are making their foreign intelligence effort a No. 1 priority.

"Our commitment in terms of agents and other resources committed to foreign counterintelligence is far and away greater than what is committed to any other single priority program," FBI spokesman Johnie Joyce said.

Joyce declined to say how many of the bureau's estimated 200 agents work on spy cases, but Andrew J. Duffin, special agent in charge of the Houston office, said the number represents less than 50 percent of the force.

Duffin cited several of Houston's high-profile industries as likely targets of foreign spies. They include NASA, the Texas Medical Center, the oil industry and local universities.

He also pointed to the large number of foreign consultants and the exchange student population as potential sources of foreign agents.

"These make for fertile areas for ... representatives of foreign governments not all that friendly with the United States," Duffin said.

Guarding against secret foreign infiltration of the massive superconductor project at the University of Houston has been one of the agency's efforts, the project's director, Paul Chu, told The Houston Post.

Chu's team is researching new methods of conducting large amounts of energy. The results of the project, which received a $15 million federal grant last year, are being eagerly awaited around the world.

Chu said he has spoken with an FBI agent two or three times in the past year about the potential security risks of the project.

But he said his team has produced few valuable secrets thus far, and may not for at least three more years when it begins to find applications for the work.

Duffin agreed a "spy vs. spy" situation is being played out in Houston.

He said his agency is fighting against known or suspected foreign agents, foreign agents in Houston illegally and, hypothetically, double agents who could be working for both sides.

There has been only one espionage-related indictment in the Houston area in the last several years, according to the U.S. attorney's office. That involved an FBI translator, Douglas S. Tsou, who allegedly gave secrets to Taiwan government officials in 1988.

The case has not yet gone to trial.

Duffin defended the record, saying much of the agency's activity is preventive and isn't designed to produce indictments.

He said many cases cannot be brought to trial because of the fear of exposing secrets. And he said some of the FBI's work produces indictments in other states.

Duffin also said the agency keeps track of about 600 mainland Chinese students at local universities.

He said the agency is not constantly watching the students, but will often talk to certain students, "based on certain criteria," which he did not discuss.

Actors present a scene from 'Twelfth Night.'

Shakespeare fills March calendar

Two lectures, a videotape showing and a play by a national touring company are among the activities scheduled in Pampa in March for the Shakespeare Festival sponsored by the Pampa Fine Arts Association, Lovett Memorial Library and M.K. Brown Civic Auditorium.

Dr. Charmazel Dudt, recently appointed chairman of the English Department at West Texas State University in Canyon, will be giving two lectures on Shakespeare and his times, with emphasis on his play Twelfth Night.

The lectures are scheduled for 7 p.m. Thursday, March 2, and Thursday, March 9, in the Lovett Memorial Library auditorium. She will discuss "Shakespeare and His Last Great Comedy — Twelfth Night" this Thursday and "Further Insights into Twelfth Night" at the March 9 lecture.

The library will be having showings of the videotape of the British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC) production of Twelfth Night during Monday through Thursday, March 6-9, in the library auditorium. Showings will be held daily at 10 a.m., 1 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. Head Librarian Dan Snider suggested people should call the library at 665-3981 if they plan to attend any of the showings, which last about two hours.

The other scheduled event for the Shakespeare Festival is the Monday, March 13, performance of Twelfth Night at M.K. Brown Auditorium. The play will be presented by the National Shakespeare Company of New York. Tickets are $5 and can be purchased at Lovett Library, M.K. Brown Auditorium and the Pampa Area Chamber of Commerce office or from members of the PFFA board of directors.

In addition, cast members of the National Shakespeare Company production will be presenting two workshops at the Pampa High School auditorium on March 13. At 1:30 p.m., the workshop topic will be "Stage Combat." The 2:30 p.m. workshop will be on "Audition Techniques."

People who visit Santa Fe often fall in love with the place: its rich Native American and Spanish heritage, its distinctive adobe architecture, the way homes blend right in with the serenely beautiful desert landscape. Some visitors are so taken with the town they relocate here.

That's not an option for most of us. But it's possible for all of us to capture some of the charm of Santa Fe in the interiors of our homes no matter where we live.

Hard to do? Not really. Interior designers with a nationally known floor covering and home furnishings company, have shown the way.

Designers took a small kitchen, dining room and den, knocked out a few walls and created a spacious kitchen suite whose decor evokes the flavor of the Southwest. The kitchen suite has a cooking area, a lounging area and a dining area in an alcove.

To unify the big space, the designers used the same colors and materials throughout. For example, all the walls have brushed-on "stucco" (from the can) painted bone white. The dining alcove is painted desert glow — the color of a sunset.

Bleached wood grain planks add interest to the ceiling. Available at building supply stores and home centers, the planks, manufactured from wood fibers, are inexpensive and easy to install. Another touch of architectural interest overhead are wooden ceiling beams made by nailing together one by sixes. The beams are purely decorative, not structural.

Another unifying material is the no-way flooring used throughout the entire space. It's white like the walls but features subtle twilight blue accents in a geometric design.

Focal point of the suite is a free-

form hearth dividing the kitchen from the sitting area. Craftsmen fashioned the hearth by covering a standard fire box and flue with wire mesh which they then coated with a heavy layer of real stucco.

Overall the suite has a light, open airy quality. The only dark surfaces are the black smoked-glass fronts of the kitchen appliances and the slate slabs that serve as countertops. The kitchen cabinets are painted to match the white of the rough textured walls. The sinks are a color called Mexican sand. The range top is gleaming stainless steel.

But it's the accessorizing that makes the whole project come together. The accessories are a judicious mix of reproductions of antique Spanish mission-style furniture, Native American artifacts (baskets, pottery bowls and jars), desert plants, and collectibles such as the steer skull mounted on the hearth and the steerhide rug between the hearth and the sofa opposite it. Strings of red chili peppers brighten up the kitchen area.

If you can't live in Santa Fe, a kitchen suite like this is the next best thing.

Con lady's tragic story becomes tawdry farce

DEAR ABBY: The constant rain in Seattle must soften our brains. I, too, was taken in by a sob story from a young woman who told me she had been "beaten and robbed" and was desperate for bus fare.

After seeing her on the streets in the next weeks, conning other people, it became apparent to me that she had other uses for the money she collected.

One day I saw her setting up another sucker near a cash machine and I decided to take action. I got in line and waited. She saw me so she stayed away, but when her victim got in line behind me, I turned to him and recited the story she must have given him, and let him know that she'd already fleeced me and many others. I left him with the information and went about my business.

Twenty minutes later, who should be crossing the street, but the poor

Dear Abby

young lady! She turned to me and said defiantly, "I got my 40 bucks anyway!"

At least now I know there's a bigger fool in Seattle than me.

PHILIP A. HOCKER

DEAR PHILIP: Don't be so quick to buy her story. If she lied about needing bus fare, she could have lied about getting the 40 bucks.

DEAR ABBY: Please help me settle a bet and win a dinner. My mate and I are at odds over the reason for the red flag on our mailbox. She says we should put it up to let the mail carrier know that there is mail in the box to be picked up.

I told her that its original purpose was to let the homeowner know that his mail had been delivered. Can you help me?

U.S. MALE

DEAR MALE: According to Mike Orland, supervisor of the Beverly Hills, Calif., post office: "The flag goes up to signal the mail carrier that there is outgoing mail in the box to be collected." You owe your mate a dinner.

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest the letter regarding the multiplication of pups from one female dog — from one to 4,000 in seven years — and the plea to have them neutered.

I would like to relate this to the equal proliferation of mankind. Starting with 1 billion in 1800, the population doubled in 125 years. From 1925 to 1987, the increase was to 6 billion. The projection at this rate is 14 billion by 2025!

The time has come and gone when we should have begun neutering the irresponsible breeders of the human herd. Our fragile ecology depends on it.

LYLE MOORE, HILO, HAWAII

DEAR MR. MOORE: That's food for thought. But is anybody listening?

PHS students present 'Crimes of the Heart'

Pampa High School Drama students are to present Crimes of the Heart for the general public at 7:30 p.m. March 11 in the high school auditorium. On March 28, the students will perform scenes from the play for UIL competition in Amarillo.

Crimes of the Heart, a Pulitzer prize winning play by Beth Henley, discusses the relationship between three sisters, one of whom has murdered her husband.

Meg McGrath is played by Brenda Lee. Michele Williams portrays Lenny McGrath and Christy Searl is Babe Botrelle.

Three other characters round out the cast for the production: "Chick," the sisters' cousin, is to be played by Kristy King; David Brown will be "Doc" Porter; and Scott Barrett is to play the part of Lloyd Barnett.

Tickets for the community performance of Crimes of the Heart are $2 for adults and $1 for students. Proceeds from ticket sales go to the school's drama activity fund.

Astro-Graph

by bernice bede osol

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There are strong indications that you are likely to fare better today than your competition in situations that are related to your career. Think and act like a winner. PISCES, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Usually you're the person who comes up with the bright ideas and suggestions, but today, if you're a good listener, a friend may present some concepts that you'll personally find useful.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Being of assistance to another today might not yield you the immediate rewards you are hoping for, but accounts will be balanced a bit further down the line.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Getting out and doing something fun and social will have a revitalizing effect on your outlook and attitude. Pick a perky partner who is also eager to escape today's routines.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Today and tomorrow you are likely to perform at your best if you're involved in some type of creative endeavor. Dedicate your efforts to things that challenge your imagination.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The impression you'll make on others today will be very favorable. People who meet you for the first time are likely to consider you for their future guest lists.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Conditions that contribute to your security could take a positive turn today and begin to firm things up more to your liking, even though some of the developments might not be totally visible.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't neglect any pertinent matters today that require written or verbal communication. You'll be quite effective getting your points across either on paper or via the phone.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Something of value you've been wanting could be coming your way shortly under rather pleasant circumstances. Keep your hopes fired up, then think positive.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You should be able to operate more independently today and be able to accomplish things that are of interest to you. Establish desirable objectives and move toward them.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Keep in touch with events today, but don't necessarily try to lead them. You'll be more effective if you pull the strings from behind the scenes.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Conditions in general look rather hopeful for you today, especially in involvements where you work with a friend or friends for a common interests.
