Serving The Top O' Texas 67 Years

WEATHER

Partly cloudy, windy and cool today, with northerly winds gusting to 25 mph, diminishing tonight. Sunny and warm tomorrow. High today, 67. Low tonight, 42. High Tuesday, 72.

Although in recent years not more than one boy in one hundred has been educated in the private schools of the United States, those schools have educated approximately as many leaders as all the public schools combined.

Richardson To Appoint Independent Prosecutor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elliot L. Richardson promised today he will name a special, independent prosecutor to head the Watergate investigation and said he will ask the Senate to express its confidence in the man.

Richardson said he'll make the appointment once he is confirmed as attorney general. He said he has not yet found the right man to head the probe.

Acknowledging worries over how the Watergate investigation would be pursued, Richardson said, "After much careful thought about how best to respond to these concerns, I have decided that I will, if confirmed, appoint a special prosecutor and give all the independence, authority, and staff support needed to carry out tasks entrusted to him."

River Convoy Arrives

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — The first Mekong River convoy to reach Phnom Penh in two weeks arrived today after losing a tanker to Communist fire.

Meanwhile, reports reached Phnom Penh that Cambodian insurgents overran a post 34 miles northwest of the capital last Friday, captured about 100 troops and slaughtered them.

Port authorities said the convoy of three tankers, three freighters and three munitions barges from South Vietnam came under heavy attack from shore fire 26 miles from Phnom Penh. One of the tankers carrying petroleum was sunk and two of the freighters were set ablaze by rocket fire. But the freighter crews put out the fires.

The crew of the tanker Vera No. 1 reportedly jumped overboard before she sank and government gunboats escorting the convoy picked all of them up.

The convoy traveled the 60 miles from the South Vietnamese border to the outskirts of the capital under an umbrella of American and Cambodian jet fighters dropping 500-pound bombs along both banks of the river. The jets could be seen from Phnom Penh swooping in low for attacks on suspected Communist positions 12 miles downriver.

The convoy was the first to brave the Mekong since April 23 and brought sorely needed fuel and other supplies. The Cambodian insurgents have occupied long stretches along the Mekong for the last three months, and within the last month only five small convoys have made it to Phnom Penh. The government has had to ration fuel, and on an American airlift is supplying it with aviation fuel.

The government post overran Friday was at the village of Kampong Tralach. One of the garrisons who made it back to Phnom Penh said 30 of the defenders escaped, but the insurgents herded the rest to the bank of the Tonle Sap river and killed them. This is the usual fate of prisoners taken by the Cambodian Army.

Richardson said he'll make the appointment once he is confirmed as attorney general. He said he has not yet found the right man to head the probe. Acknowledging worries over how the Watergate investigation would be pursued, Richardson said, "After much careful thought about how best to respond to these concerns, I have decided that I will, if confirmed, appoint a special prosecutor and give all the independence, authority, and staff support needed to carry out tasks entrusted to him."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even though the House has its "impossible" dream and the House is pursuing one now—an effort to modernize its committee jurisdictions to reflect present-day concerns. The effort was begun last week under a select 10-member committee headed by Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., who has long served in and studied the House, and knows what he's up against.

This is an "impossible" task with "impossible" in quotes," he told the House last January when it set up the committee and gave it $1.5 million for the two-year job.

What Bolling meant was that, like other congressional reforms that seemed impossible at first but were finally achieved, this one has everything against it right now but still might come off.

The committee system is the vital structure of Congress. All legislation proceeds through committees to the House floor, and each committee's jurisdiction is its sole purpose for existing.

For this reason, any attempt to change or realign jurisdictions goes to the fundamental organization of the House, the power of every member—especially the committee chairmen—and the concern of every vested interest in the nation.

One thing the Bolling committee has going for it is a wide acceptance, by House members of the fact that something has to be done to make Congress a more effective institution.

It has been 25 years since Congress looked at its committee structure and during that time there have been vast shifts in public policies and national interests. Attempts to deal with them through existing committees involve strenuous contortions.

The environment, energy, urban problems, health, population growth—all matters of consuming present-day interest—have to be dealt with piecemeal by many committees.

In the area of transportation, for example, air travel is a matter for the Commerce Committee, highways are under the Public Works Committee, and mass transit is the concern of the Banking and Currency Committee.

There is too much obsolescence, too much structural decay, too many cross-jurisdictions and overlaps, too much erosion by time in our committees," said Rep. John C. Culver, I-Iowa, in a letter to his House colleagues last December that helped get the current study underway.

Culver is one of five Democrats on the Bolling committee. The others, in addition to Bolling, are Reps. Robert G. Stephens, Ga.; Lloyd Meeds, Wash.; and Paul S. Sarbanes, Md. The Republican members are Dave Martin, Neb.; Peter H.B. Frelinghuysen, N.J.; Charles E. Wiggins, Calif.; William A. Steiger, Wis.; and Bill Young, Fla.

Also favoring the committee's effort is the solid support of the House leadership, both Republican and Democratic. Speaker Carl Albert, breaking a century-old tradition against a speaker testifying before a House committee, was the first witness when the hearings opened, and Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford was the second.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower. He is a former U.S. District Court judge and a member of a New York law firm.

Another is Judge Irving R. Kaufman, in line to become chief judge of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 2nd Circuit.

Richardson said he'll make the appointment once he is confirmed as attorney general. He said he has not yet found the right man to head the probe.

Acknowledging worries over how the Watergate investigation would be pursued, Richardson said, "After much careful thought about how best to respond to these concerns, I have decided that I will, if confirmed, appoint a special prosecutor and give all the independence, authority, and staff support needed to carry out tasks entrusted to him."

With special emphasis, Richardson said the special prosecutor would report only to him as attorney general. This seemed to imply that President Nixon would have no direct hand in the investigation.

The nation's two largest news weeklies say ousted White House Counsel John W. Dean III is prepared to testify that Nixon personally congratulated him last September for covering up administration involvement in the Watergate incident.

Time and Newsweek gave slightly different accounts, but both said Nixon's purported remarks came in a meeting among the President, Dean and another top White House aide.

Richardson, currently the secretary of defense, was chosen by Nixon last Monday to become the new attorney general and take personal responsibility for the Watergate investigation.

"I would welcome, in addition, an expression by the Senate as a whole of its confidence in him," Richardson said.

There have been numerous calls in the Senate for someone of the caliber of a Supreme Court justice with no ties to the Nixon administration, to personally investigate the Watergate scandal.

"I have taken into account the fact that, because I have held office in this administration, my objectivity may be questioned," Richardson told a Pentagon news conference.

Richardson appears before the Judiciary Committee on his nomination as attorney general on Wednesday. Because he has yet to be confirmed by the Senate for that job, Richardson declined to answer questions after reading a three-page statement.

Of the search for a special prosecutor, Richardson said, "It may take some time to find the right person." He made no estimate of how long that might be.

A number of prominent names have been mentioned as likely choices.

One is Lawrence E. Walsh, a deputy attorney general under President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Another is Judge Irving R. Kaufman, in line to become chief judge of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 2nd Circuit.

AT WOUNDED KNEE

Indians Sign Agreement On Disarmament Plans

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (AP) — Negotiators for the government and Indian militants are optimistic the 69-day occupation of Wounded Knee will end this week now that a disarmament agreement has been signed.

But spokesmen for the two sides traded warnings about future takeovers and the way the government would react.

Negotiators announced on Sunday the signing of a disarmament pact that calls for weapons to be surrendered and nonresidents to leave the village at 8 a.m. CDT Wednesday.

That is to be followed by implementation of an April 5 agreement that calls for an investigation of civil rights complaints and an audit of Oglala Sioux tribal funds on the Pine Ridge Reservation. The earlier pact was to have ended the occupation of Wounded Knee but never was put into effect because of a dispute over laying down arms.

The confrontation began when American Indian Movement (AIM) forces took over the village Feb. 27 and has resulted in the deaths of two of the Indian occupiers.

AIM lawyer Ramon Houbi-deaux, a Sioux, said in a statement: "I think the government should realize that the type of governments on reservations is a failure. Something must be done to replace it."

If not, there will be more Wounded Knees. These oppressed people are not going to live under these repressive governments."

AIM has contended that traditional chiefs and headmen, not the elected officials, should rule reservations.

Richard Hellstern, deputy assistant U.S. attorney general in charge of negotiations for the government, said the government has "learned many things" during the 10-week siege.

"I don't think the pattern of patience, negotiation and renegotiation necessarily would be the same if there were another Wounded Knee," he said. "Persons contemplating another Wounded Knee might anticipate a different action on the part of the government."

Under the agreement, Indians will evacuate their bunkers and turn over their weapons to Community Relations Service personnel of the Justice Department. Legal weapons will be returned to their owners, but all other guns will be seized.

Most of those released were young people accused of bombings, bank robberies, shootings and subversion. Some had been held since 1971 without trial.

The kidnappers, a revolutionary guerrilla group called the Armed Revolutionary Forces of the People, also demanded nationwide publicity for all communiques they issued.

Prayers for peace were held in synagogues before 2,000 troops and more than 160 tanks and artillery guns moved past Premier Golda Meir, government and military leaders and David Ben-Gurion, the 86-year-old founding father of Israel led by five jets spewing blue and white smoke and helicopters towing flags, the Israeli air force provided a roaring umbrella for the festivities.

Israeli-built jets spelled out the Hebrew letters for 25 years, 108 American Skyhawk bombers and 80 Phantoms shrieked behind and 24 French Mirages recalled the spearhead of the 1967 War.

Hundreds more planes — old Stratocruiser and Dakota transports, flimsy Piper Cubs, paratroop carriers, helicopters, sleek super Mysteres and 10 trios of Phantoms with glowing afterburners — flew the length and breadth of Israel, taking the message of warning to the Jewish nation's Arab neighbors from the Red Sea desert to the Lebanese border and the cease-fire line with Syria.

The parade was the object of much criticism, at home as well as abroad. The United States asked that it be cancelled because part of its route lay through Arab East Jerusalem, recaptured from Jordan in the 1967 war, and that would anger the Arab nations. Many Israelis contended that the $4.7 million being spent on the parade should be used for social welfare. Others felt it contributed to an undesirable warlike image.

The government rejected all objections.

Independence celebrations began Sunday night after a memorial day for the nation's war dead. The celebrating kept up until dawn.

Visitors from all over the nation camped in the parks of Jerusalem and noisily wandered the streets of Tel Aviv and Haifa.

Fireworks displays throughout the country lit the skies.

In Tel Aviv, bands played from street corner bandstands, and dancing young people jammed blocked off streets.

In the territories north, east and south of Jerusalem that Israel occupied in 1967, the joyful mood was replaced by indifference tinged with bitterness.

"The Israelis are the winners, and we are the losers, and this is a celebration of the winners," said Elias Shehada, a 27-year-old Arab hotelman.

Premier Golda Meir in an anniversary television interview said Sunday that she had proposed secret peace talks to President Anwar Sadat of Egypt through several intermediaries but had received no answer.

Mrs. Meir said she assured Sadat that "we really want peace," that the talks would "remain secret for as long as he desires" and that they could be carried on by representatives of the two countries rather than by the leaders themselves.

Kidnapers Plan More Demands

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (AP) — The kidnapers of U.S. Consul-General Terrance G. Leonhardy were reported making more demands today following the transfer to Cuba of 30 prisoners whose freedom had been demanded in exchange for the American diplomat.

The situation has become extremely complicated. There are new demands, said Gov. Alberto Orozco Romero of Jalisco state Sunday. "We just have to wait now. It could be hours or days."

He did not say what the demands were.

Shortly before the governor received a note from Leonhardy saying he was being treated well and his kidnapers promised to release him "at the proper moment."

City Clean-Up Drive Underway

Pampa's annual Clean-Up campaign got underway this forenoon in Ward 1, west of Cuyler and Mary Ellen and north of W. Foster and Rham streets.

The pickups will be made in the area all of this week through Friday.

Next Monday the campaign will move into Ward 2, east of Cuyler and Mary Ellen and north of E. Foster.

FOR 25TH ANNIVERSARY

Israeli Parade Displays Military Might

JERUSALEM (AP) — More than 400 warplanes roared across the land of the Bible today as Israel celebrated its 25th anniversary with prayers and a three-hour display of military hardware ever seen at one time in the Middle East.

Some 300,000 cheering spectators jammed the decorated streets of Arab and Jewish Jerusalem for the parade. But the birthday was more festive than warlike despite the biggest armed display in the Middle East since the 1967 War.

Troops and police guarded the parade route against guerrilla sabotage and reserve troops were mobilized for security. But there were no disruptions.

Prayers for peace were held in synagogues before 2,000 troops and more than 160 tanks and artillery guns moved past Premier Golda Meir, government and military leaders and David Ben-Gurion, the 86-year-old founding father of Israel led by five jets spewing blue and white smoke and helicopters towing flags, the Israeli air force provided a roaring umbrella for the festivities.

That organization had recommended Good Friday and the week following Easter Sunday. This was set aside in the interest of parents who work and of early completion of the classroom work for the school year.

Mrs. Smith and the parents who signed the letter she submitted to school authorities, contended students need a vacation "away from teachers in the spring."

The second Tuesday is the regular meeting date for the board. The session, open to the public, will be at Carver Center beginning at 7:30.

The meeting may be the occasion for the birth of a tradition and considerable sentiment when names for the new seventh grade "middle" school and for junior high school are discussed.

The Easter vacation thing has become an unofficial tug of war between parents who work and parents who do not. In between is the Pampa Classroom Teachers Association hoping to move some in-service training days away from summer.

Satanic 'High Priest' Charged With Murder

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A South Carolina teenager wearing an emblem identifying him as "His Majesty the Devil" was accused Sunday of officiating as "high priest" at a human sacrifice by Satan worshippers police said.

Otis Hester, 17, of Greenville, S.C., was charged with first-degree murder in the torture death of Ross Cochran, 17, of Fresno, Calif., April 27.

Palmer said Hester was identified "as the priest, practicing and leading others in witchcraft and satanism."

Hospital Thanks Pampan

By JUDITH AUWEN
During this time of National Hospital Week, the employees of our nation's more than 7,000 hospitals are honored. The theme of this week chosen by the American Hospital Association is:

Your Hospital... A Caring Community. Your Health... Our Common Concern.

While the nation is paying tribute to our employees, we at Highland General Hospital want to pay tribute to our caring community - Pampa.

Many organizations in Pampa have a caring attitude toward our hospital. The Red Cross Volunteers, the Auxiliary and the Junior Auxiliary, all play a daily role in caring for our patients at Highland General. We want to give them special recognition for the great work they perform throughout the year.

On April 28 in connection with "Keep America Beautiful Day," Girl Scout Cadet Troop 90, under the leadership of Mrs. Wallace Burk, and junior troop led by Mrs. David Livingston pulled weeds, cleaned up trash and planted flowers in our hospital yard. This is only the beginning of Highland General Hospital's beautification program.

Members of the Top of Texas Kiwanis Club, whose aims and purposes are centered on civic duties and improvements for the community, are beginning an extensive park project in the area to the east of the hospital.

After cleaning the area of trash, mowing and reseeding the grass, the Kiwanians are going to place picnic tables in the area for outpatients, ambulatory patients and hospital employees to use. The men are going to maintain this park area as one of their many good will projects.

Your Hospital... A Caring Community... yes... and also PAMPA... A Caring Community!

Tuesday 2:30 p.m. services were set in Carmichael-Whitley Colonial Chapel for Edd Lee Hassell, 55, a longtime Pampa resident, who was dead on arrival at Memorial Hospital in McPherson, Kan., at 12:15 p.m. Saturday of an apparent heart attack.

Officiating will be the Rev. Bill Wilson, pastor of Harrah United Methodist Church. Burial will be in Memory Gardens Cemetery.

He was born Sept. 23, 1917 in Childress and was employed by Brodie Construction Co. He was a veteran of World War II.

Survivors include two sons, W.L., Honolulu, Hawaii, and R.D., Clovis, N.M.; a daughter, Mrs. Mable Davis, Fayetteville, N.C.; three sisters, Mrs. R.W. Shannon, Pampa; Mrs. A.I. Fisher, Oklahoma City, and Mrs. E.C. Smith, Franklin, La.; a brother.

Car Accidents Mar Weekend

A rash of auto accidents was about all that characterized police activity over the weekend, with injuries resulting from one of them.

Billy Jack Lam, 48, driver of the pickup involved in an accident at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, was issued a citation by the investigating officer in that mishap. Both Lam and the driver of the other vehicle, Michael Ledford, 20, Skellytown, were hospitalized.

Police are still investigating the destruction of a utility pole in the 300 Block of North Rider St. A hit-and-run driver struck the pole and pulled it down, damaging two parked vehicles. The pole was some distance from the street.

The weekend flurry of auto crashes ended with a rear-end collision in the 1400 Block of North Hobart, Sunday morning. One car, waiting to make a left turn, was struck from behind by another.

There were no injuries in any of the other accidents over the weekend.

Travelers Carrying Epidemic Typhoid

CHICAGO (AP) — A strain of typhoid fever that is resistant to commonly used drugs is being brought to the United States by travelers returning from Mexico, say three California researchers.

The type of typhoid currently is epidemic in northern and central Mexico, the researchers reported in the May 7 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The coincidence of large numbers of American tourists and epidemic typhoid fever in Mexico virtually assures the continued occurrence of imported typhoid, particularly in the border states, the researchers wrote.

At least seven cases of typhoid fever caused by a strain resistant to chloramphenicol, a drug generally used to treat the disease, have been imported to the United States.

Local Chapter Set For Retired Group

A steering committee will be selected tomorrow to formulate plans for opening a chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons here.

Interested persons will meet at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday at Lovett Memorial Library with Mrs. Witt Springer, assistant to the state director for Northwest Texas, of Amarillo.

The new chapter will promote programs and services designed to involve older citizens in the affairs of their community, state and nation, Mrs. Springer said.

AARP is the nation's largest organization of older persons committed to achieving retirement lives of dignity, independence and purpose, she added.

All persons 55 years of age or older, retired or not, are eligible for membership in the local chapter by joining AARP. An organizational meeting has been tentatively set for May 25, after prior work by the steering committee.

An annual membership fee of $2 provides subscriptions to the bi-monthly Modern Maturity and the monthly AARP Bulletin, as well as the opportunity to use income stretching services operated for Association members.

Included among these services are recommended health, life and automobile insurance programs, a world-wide travel service, pharmacies offering prescription medicines at reduced prices, a temporary employment service and a continuing education program.

The AARP currently has about five million members in 1500 chapters in the United States. It is a sister organization to Retired Teachers Association, both were founded by Dr. Ethel Percy Andrus.

The Association is a volunteer organization on a national level, Mrs. Springer said. It is non-profit, non-sectarian and non-political.

Seeks Decontrol Oil, Gas Group

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Oil and gas producers have reorganized a gas supply committee that has had a seven-year objective of limiting or abolishing the authority of the Federal Power Commission to control interstate gas prices.

The 300-member producer committee is headed by Collis P. Chandler Jr., a Denver, Colo., independent operator. "Our emphasis now is to deregulate wellhead prices and to coordinate a single action program through all producer associations," Chandler said.

Chandler and W.C. Senter, the committee's executive vice president from Washington, outlined the reorganization Sunday before the natural gas policy committee of the Independent Petroleum Association of America.

"Our problem is one of not only going for positive, corrective legislation but, at the same time, of fighting those who want stronger regulation, such as federal control of interstate gas prices," Senter said.

Key Club To Install Officers

Pampa High School Key Club will conduct its annual installation of officers at a banquet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the First United Methodist Church.

The Key Clubber of the Year, the Student Leader of the Year and the recipient of the Sandy Nininger Award will be announced during the banquet activities.

Officers to be installed are Bert Casey, president, David Hampton, vice president, Steve Wilson, secretary, Steve Weatherly, treasurer, Terry Neslage, senior director, and Willis Price, junior director.

Guest speaker will be Gray County Judge Don Can.

Dane Rassmussen, newly-elected lieutenant governor of Texas - Oklahoma Division 6, Key Club, will install the officers. He is a member of the Pampa club.

Twelve Key Club members and four supervisors from the sponsoring Kiwanis clubs attended the district convention April 27-29 at Houston. About 2200 members and advisors from Texas and Oklahoma attended the convention.

Mainly About People

The Gray County Association for Retarded Children will meet at 7:30 p.m. today at First Presbyterian Church, Speaker and program for the evening, "Camp Wigwag," will be presented by Mr. Brock.

Chapter CS P.E.O. will meet Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. at 1120 N. Somerville. Mrs. Hupp Clark will be hostess.

City Manager Back At Desk

City Manager Mack Wofford returned to his desk in City Hall today after several days of tests in High Plains Hospital, Amarillo, to determine cause of a slight impairment of vision.

The cause was located, the city manager said, and remedial procedures currently are being followed.

The doctors told me everything should be normal within a few weeks, Wofford said.

Abilene Youth Obtains Region Speaking Honor

Charles Bradford, a senior from Abilene High School, won first place in the Knights of Pythias Region One public speaking contest at Pampa Lodge No. 480 Hall, Sunday evening.

Bradford, representing Abilene Lodge No. 42, will compete in the state contest in

What The Free Enterprise System Means. Judges for the contest were Mrs. Pat Sargent, English teacher at Pampa High School, Mrs. Jane Wiens, speech teacher at Pampa High, and Mrs. Margaret Phillips, speech teacher at Pampa Junior High School.

Wilson S. Howell, chancellor commander of Pampa Lodge, welcomed the members and guests. Mrs. Phillips gave the invocation, pledge to the flag was led by Donald Hicks, master at arms, and E. Handy Phillips was master of ceremonies. Timekeepers were Jack Back and Robert Elliott and tellers were G.R. Fugate and Don Thompson.

B.B. Altman, Jr., chairman of the Region One youth program, presented awards to the two winners.

Out-of-town guests included Raymond L. Brown, Jr., Abilene, Grand Chancellor of Texas Pythian Lodges, Dave Sherrad, chairman of Abilene Lodge youth program, Willis Moore, secretary of Abilene lodge, and Mr. and Mrs. L.A. Sparks, Panhandle.

Local guests included Mrs. Bernice Keen, 1937 N. Faulkner, Grand Chief of Pythian Sisters Temples of Texas, Miss Cindy Elliott, Mrs. Jack Back, Mrs. Minnie Erwin and Carla and Calvin Gee. Members of Pampa Temple No. 41, prepared and served refreshments after the meeting.

ISRAEL: A Flame Rekindled

70 A.D.
The destruction of the Second Temple.

Now the Lord had said unto Abraham, get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and from thy father's house, unto a land I will show thee. —Genesis 12:1

Some 1600 years before the Christian era, the fringe of land between the Arabian desert and the Mediterranean was peopled by many races. Mostly pagans, the Assyrians, Amorites, Hittites, Canaanites and Egyptians battled over small tracts of land ruled by local chieftains. From the plains of Mesopotamia came a stream of Aramean immigrants who wished to establish themselves in what was generally called the Land of Canaan. They were called Ibrim, or Hebrews, which derives from either their legendary descent from a man, Eber, or rather more likely because they came from Eber ha-Nahar ("Beyond the Great River," the Euphrates).

The Bible identifies one of these men, Abraham, as the first Hebrew. Abraham, now revered as the patriarch by Moslems, Christians and Jews, introduced the concept of monotheism, or the worship of a single god. In return for this firm belief, the Bible recounts that the Lord would make Abraham's people his "children" and that the land of Canaan would be theirs. Moslems, incidentally, trace their descent to a son of Abraham and this belief has through the centuries continued the argument over to whom "the Promised Land" was promised.

The early Hebrews began to establish a culture and spirit in Canaan, yet an organized nation did not take hold. The people lived with war and bondage interspersed with short flights of freedom. In 587 B.C., the Babylonian king, Nebuchadnezzar, destroyed Solomon's temple and put the land to the torch, fulfilling the prophecy of Jeremiah, "Behold... saith the Lord... I will make the cities of Judah a desolation without inhabitant." Six hundred and fifty years after the children of Israel set foot on the Promised Land, there was not one of their descendants still in it.

And yet they returned. They were always to return. During a period of relative peace, this time established by the Roman conquerors, an event took place which was to radically alter the course of history, not only in the Middle East, but throughout the world. This was the birth, in about 7 B.C., of Jesus Christ. Some 600 years later, Muhammad was to establish still another great religion in this desert crucible and the three, Christianity, Islam and Judaism; have since been inextricably intertwined.

The Jews chafed under the Romans and the various "kings of the Jews" named by the Romans. Three times they rebelled and three times they were nearly able to throw off the massive yoke of Imperial Rome. Finally, in the year 135 A.D., the forces of General Bar Kochba surrendered and the Jews who could not escape were slaughtered. For 1900 years Palestine was conquered and reconquered by Persians, Byzantines, Turks, Crusaders and the British Empire. But not by the Jews who, though scattered throughout the civilized world, kept alive their traditions and their dream: to return to the Promised Land.

Constant Revision Needed To Keep Road Maps Current

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) —

Both roads and road maps have changed significantly in the 30 years since Paul T. Tidens started dealing with them as surveyor, cartographer and aerial photographer during World War II.

The creation of the Interstate Highway System has been a major development in the nation's road network, says Tidens, now the senior editor of Rand McNally's Road Atlas, who went to work for the company in 1945 after serving with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

On the technical side he has seen map production grow from a one-man operation where the cartographer "did everything" to an assembly-line effort involving such specialists as designers, researchers, cartographer-draftsmen, cameramen, lithographers and printers.

Original road maps were in black and white until about 1932, when they went to two colors, says Tidens. "They're getting more complex all the time and in 1960 we began putting out four-color maps on which we could put twice as much material and still have it legible."

"We have to keep the information the motorist needs clear," he goes on. "The basic idea is to help someone get from where he is to where he is going as easily as possible, providing safety, enjoyment of the trip and saving him gasoline."

Opening of new sections of roads, connections and bridges, as well as changing of highway numbers, annexation of territory by towns, and updating of population figures make constant revisions necessary. There were 18,000 changes in maps and information from 1972 to 1973 in the Atlas, which covers all 50 states, Canada and Mexico. The company, which also produces oil company road maps, revises them twice a year.

In fall we get the bulk of revisions because highway departments have been working like mad all summer," Tidens says. "But they're doing some work all year and when a major connection to a highway or a new bridge opens we want to get the information out to the public as soon as possible. If we know a road will be closed for six months we put that on the map."

Researchers are in close touch with city engineers and with every state highway department and get regular detour bulletins showing construction in the state. A research car is constantly in operation, sometimes actually clocking mileage, at other times checking highway conditions and arranging for contacts in various areas — people who report on local changes.

"The index includes population figures and we have our own census system to keep up to date," Tidens points out. "We send out 26,000 queries every year to postmasters asking how many they serve in their area. We want to know the relative importance of a place in its locality. A town of 500 might make it on the map in Arizona but not in a population center like New Jersey."

The first road "maps," which appeared in the late 19th century, were merely verbal descriptions of the road, later accompanied by photographs of junctions and landmarks, Tidens says. Early maps were bulky and expensive items sold by hotels. About 1917 map makers were using symbols such as a circle for a certain road and actually going out and nailing Tidens suggests that in using a road map the motorist check the copyright date to make sure it is current. Mark the intended route with grease pencil and keep it for a souvenir, he advises.

But he has no advice on how to fold a road map. "I can't manage to do it either," he admits.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Monday, May 7, the 127th day of 1973. There are 238 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1945, at the end of World War II in Europe, the Germans signed unconditional surrender terms at Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's temporary headquarters at Rheims, France.

On his date: In 1789, the first presidential inaugural ball was held in New York in honor of President and Mrs. George Washington.

In 1833, the German composer, Johannes Brahms, was born.

In 1915, the British liner Lusitania was torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine off Ireland, with a loss of 1,100 lives.

In 1939, the military and political alliance known as the Rome-Berlin Axis was announced by Germany and Italy.

In 1943, Allied forces in World War II won a major victory in North Africa as Tunis and Bizerte were liberated.

In 1960, it was announced by Moscow that an American pilot shot down over the Soviet Union, Francis Gary Powers, would be put on trial as a spy.

Ten years ago: Police and firemen in Birmingham, Ala., drove hundreds of rioting blacks off the streets, and there were injuries on both sides.

Five years ago: Democratic presidential contender Robert F. Kennedy swept to a solid victory in a primary election in Indiana.

One year ago: The United States pledged $100 million to support the army in Thailand.

Today's birthdays: Poet Archibald MacLeish is 81 years old. Actress Anne Baxter is 50.

Thought for today: No nation was ever ruined by trade — Benjamin Franklin, 1706-1790.

DESPITE AGENCY'S WORK Industrial Poisons Kill Number Of Workers

Editor's Note: The government says there are 13,340 industrial poisons. The following, second in a series from The AP Special Assignment Team, discusses their dangers.

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer
Your job may make you sick with anything from a skin rash to lung cancer.

While some labor unions show increasing concern over this age-old problem, the Nixon administration is trimming the staff size of the tiny agency assigned to solve it.

The workplace is full of industrial poisons. Consider:

—Dust from cotton, coal, silica or other substances can clog or scar your lungs. Asbestos does that and studies show that workers who breathe asbestos fibers have higher rates of lung cancer.

—Fumes from benzene, a common solvent and chemical compound, can send you into convulsions. Printing pressmen, who breathe fumes from benzene ink solvent, suffer an excessive rate of leukemia.

—Certain dye ingredients and some emissions from steel industry coke ovens are proven causes of cancer.

So far the government has counted 13,340 industrial poisons, and the list is growing as efforts to improve safety and health conditions in the workplace increase.

Since the era of sweatshops ended early in this century, little prolonged attention was paid to job health. Unions concentrated mainly on raising wages. Polio, cancer and heart researchers were more in the limelight than public-health officials. Safety officials, the public and government worried more about auto accidents.

But, by one rough government estimate, 100,000 workers die before their time each year because of occupational illnesses. That's nearly double the yearly highway slaughter for all persons.

Lately a new attitude seems to be emerging toward job health. The rubber workers union has written a safety-and-health clause into its latest contract. A printers union is pressuring newspapers to protect workers from noise, dust and fumes around presses. The AFL-CIO, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union is striking nine refineries and chemical plants of Shell Oil Co., which refuses to accept a safety-and-health clause already adopted by most other big oil companies.

The Labor Department's 550 job-safety inspectors devote their primary attentions to cutting accidents in such high-risk industries as logging and longshoring. But they also give some attention to sniffing out five well-known industrial poisons: asbestos, lead, silica, cotton dust and carbon monoxide.

Meanwhile, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare is spending less for research into job health than it spends for dental or eye research. And it plans to cut back sharply on training new industrial health specialists, despite an admitted national shortage of them.

The explosion of technology in this century has brought its own poisons, some of them especially dangerous because their toxic properties aren't found until workers have been sickened.

The space-age metal beryllium, for example, was thought to be non-toxic as recently as 30 years ago. Now it's known that inhaling beryllium dust can cause disabling lung disease.

Researchers are turning up unexpected new problems in some old and widespread job hazards. —Noise, long known as a threat to hearing, is now thought by some researchers to cause heart strain, contraction of blood vessels, headaches, nervousness and sleeplessness. There is new evidence that carbon monoxide, deadly in high doses, can cause brain and heart damage after long exposure to lower doses.

Federal studies now are trying to find why dentists seem to commit suicide more often than other people, why hairdressers seem to have more lung and bladder cancer and why surgical nurses seem to have more miscarriages.

This research is carried out by the two-year-old National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health, NIOSH, which was set up within HEW by the job-safety act.

NIOSH occupies a low priority in the Nixon administration. Its budget for next year is $26.8 million, less than half what the government spends on the Smithsonian Institution.

WRITING TO DONNY IS FUN

MANCHESTER, England (AP) — Teacher Godfrey Allen, 41, came up with the answer to the problem of "reluctant writers" at Miles Platting Secondary Modern School. He got the 11 and 12 year olds to write to their pop idols instead of doing essays.

Said Allen: "Writing to someone like Donny Osmond is much more exciting for them than being given a conventional school subject to work on."

Most of the youngsters addressed their letters to Donny

Own a Cadillac? Of course you can!

Right now, you could be very, very close to the special pleasures of Cadillac ownership.

Because right now there exists a very special set of circumstances favoring the person who longs to be a Cadillac owner.

It begins with the beautiful new 1973 Cadillacs themselves. These cars are the finest ever built by Cadillac—reflected by the fact that the '73 Sedan de Ville, shown above, has already established itself as the single most popular luxury car in automotive history.

There are nine great '73 Cadillacs from which to choose. And, right now, your Cadillac dealer can probably supply just the model you want... just the way you want it!

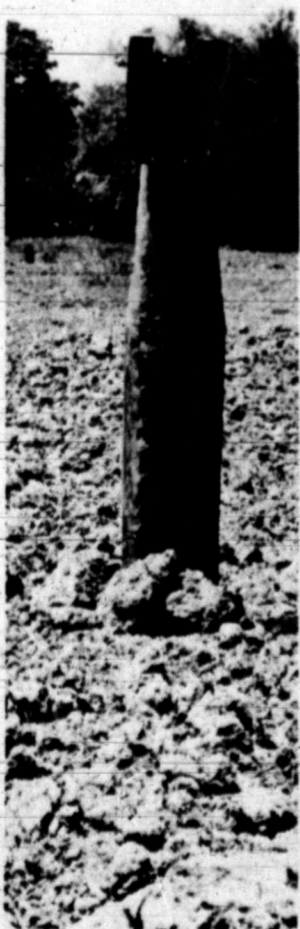

If a new Cadillac is not yet in your plans, consider the pleasure of driving a Cadillac of another year.

The great demand for new Cadillacs has made a number of beautiful previously-owned cars available. Like the 1971 Eldorado or 1969 Coupe de Ville, shown above.

It's true. A Cadillac of any recent year will likely have more luxury, more convenience features, more power equipment than you'll find on many of today's new cars.

For a lot of reasons, there couldn't be a better time to visit your authorized Cadillac dealer than right now.

First choose Cadillac... then choose the year.

His fear of nudity leaves wife in the dark

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a Catholic widow married to a good Catholic widower. The problem is he won't let me into our bedroom while he's dressing or undressing. And if he's in the room while I'm undressing, he turns his head. He acts as if it's sinful for us to see each other undressed.

I thought maybe time would improve the situation, but it has been years, and he's still the same.

I must admit that our sex life is wonderful—in the dark. This may not seem like much of a problem but it makes me feel less of a wife, and I am hurt.

What is the official Catholic position on nudity, Abby? Perhaps the reason for my husband's attitude can be found there.

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: There is no Catholic doctrine on nudity. Nudity is the natural state and is so regarded in matrimonial affairs. You can't blame your husband's inhibited attitude on his religious upbringing. Leave well enough alone, lady. You're doing well where it counts.

DEAR ABBY: We're a couple of old goats. My husband is 72 and I'm 70. We're not in the best of health, but we're not feeble or senile (I hope), and the Lord willing, we will celebrate our 50th wedding anniversary in June.

We want to give a dinner party ourselves and invite our friends, relatives and a few neighbors, but our married daughter and son won't hear of it. THEY want to give the party and foot the bill.

Abby, we appreciate what the kids want to do, but they both have families and need their money. We want printed invitations with a line on the bottom, "No gifts, please." The kids are having a fit and say, "You just don't do that." [Abby, we don't need anything!] We don't want to make jackasses of ourselves, but at our stage in life we don't want more things. Help, please. MIDWEST READER

DEAR READER: Let the kids give the party, and don't suggest, "no gifts."

DEAR ABBY: My problem is so personal I cannot discuss it with anyone. I am 67 years old. I lost my husband two years ago, and at the same time I lost my hearing. It is amazing how your friends will desert you when you've lost your hearing, so I took up lip-reading and sign language.

Last summer I met a 36-year-old man who is also deaf, and we have been having a wonderful romance. [I am discreet and do not flaunt it.]

My husband was impotent the last 10 years of his life due to illness, but I remained faithful to him even tho the desire for sex was still in me. It still is, and this young man has made me feel like a new person.

My friends have criticized me terribly for going with him. After being denied sexual pleasure for 10 years I feel I am entitled to a little enjoyment for as many years as I have left.

I have no intentions of marrying the young man because if I did, I would lose all my benefits. Please let me know what you think. I will abide by your decision.

ANONYMOUS IN ARIZONA

DEAR ANON: As an adult, you may make your own decisions without concerning yourself with what your so-called friends say. I advise you to do just that.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WAITING TO GET EVEN" IN HUNTSVILLE, ALA.: Of all the virtues, being able to forgive and forget will do the most for you.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Oswald: "Artificial conventions are essential to good bridge. You should play some as a matter of course. Blackwood as a starter. On the other hand, you don't whip a good horse to death. You don't need to use Blackwood in all your slam bidding."

Jim: "The first thing to learn about Blackwood is that it is primarily a method of keeping out of slams. Take the South hand as an example. South is interested in a slam the moment his partner opens the bidding. When his partner's second bid is a jump raise in hearts, South knows that the material is there for a slam. All that matters is the number of aces held by his partner."

Oswald: "Our example is a classic Blackwood hand. South has 16 points in high cards, plus a lot of distributional points. He knows the total partnership zone to be in the grand-slam zone. More important, he knows that he can set the final contract the moment his partner tells him how many aces he holds."

Jim: "He is mighty disappointed when the best North can do is to bid five hearts in response to the Blackwood call. Not that North doesn't have a sound three-heart bid, rather, that South expected North to show up with three or even four aces for his bid. He is also happy that Blackwood has kept him out of trouble."

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

TUESDAY, MAY 8
Your birthday today! Inaugurates a campaign for a better life, intuition leading the way. Emotional ties deepen by sharing activity in both vocation and hobbies. Today's natives progress thru many levels of development, often live to achieve wisdom beyond their time.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Financial maneuvers are best left to experts—with their money. In any creative endeavor an unstructured approach works best.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: You may be getting less than you deserve from the resources at hand. Home affairs require immediate attention.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Cut costs. Most of the day's incidents puzzle you because you're looking for complicated explanations to ordinary matters.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Make use of a brief chance to correct an error. Investigation shows you interesting details about somebody you cherish.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: You must produce or let somebody else do it. Any pretenses you've made will be tested. Your special attention at home is appreciated.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: The tall story sweeps all ranks. See that you add nothing to it, be skeptical.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Finally, you have a good one to share with your friends—note who is helping, and who is out frolicking.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: See how practically you can deal with partners and home situations. Put in applications, formal announcements, but make sure you express emotional dedication.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Nothing seems securely fastened at the moment. Check your interests early, stay at it. Loose ends can be secured by simple, direct methods.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Main efforts are to be devoted to essentials. Collaboration may involve some inconvenience with you meeting others more than halfway.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Tempers are volatile, yours included, and there's no place for letting go yet. Let everyone speak for himself.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Speculation includes wishful thinking. Be moderate, pursue details and routines, standard safety practices.

Cotillion Names Officers

The Twentieth Century Cotillion Study Club met recently for its annual Spring Luncheon at the Tampa Country Club with Mrs. Gene Hanks and Mrs. Ed Maglaughlin in charge of arrangements and decorations. Mrs. S. Gene Hall installed officers for the 1973-74 year. Mrs. Jim Hughes will serve as president of the organization with Mrs. Glenn Fleming as vice-president. Mrs. R. T. Dunigan will be secretary and Mrs. Alfred Smith, treasurer. Mrs. Ed Maglaughlin will be chairman of the Antique Show with Mrs. Hanks as publicity chairman. "What's New" was chosen as the subject of study for the year. Twenty-two members were present for the meeting.

Culture Club Studies Thoughts For Living

An inspirational program, "Thoughts for Living," presented by Mrs. A.E. Berry and Mrs. G.L. Craddock, highlighted a recent meeting of Twentieth Century Culture Club.

Mrs. James A. Poole was hostess for the event, assisted by Mrs. Myron Marx.

Mrs. M.K. Griffin conducted the business meeting and pointed out plans for a scholarship presentation to a deserving student. The club's annual installation luncheon plans were completed. Mrs. Milo Carlson will be hostess for the event, assisted by Mrs. E.E. Shelhammer, Ross Buzzard and Paul Turner.

Mrs. J.R. Donaldson introduced the speakers for the meeting.

Mrs. Berry observed, "The subject we have to today—'Thoughts for Living'—is so important because we all seek to enrich the quality of life for everyone, and first of all, we turn to the Bible." She then outlined and discussed the meaning and inspiration found in the 300 proverbs of the Bible written in a great part by Solomon. She also discussed the New Testament teachings of Jesus and His many thoughts for a better life. In conclusion, the speaker quoted interesting bits of philosophy from great Americans such as Lincoln, Eisenhower, Emerson, etc.

Mrs. Craddock proceeded with the subject, "Thoughts for Living," by giving a short review of the book, "The Best of Words to Live By," edited by William Nichols. She introduced her talk with a chapter by John Steinbeck, "Liking Yourself," in which the writer pointed out, "Liking one's self releases one from the prison of self-contempt so he can more fully appreciate and like others." Among others, Mrs. Craddock quoted from the informative book, was the great actress Ethel Barrymore who said, "You must learn day by day, year by year, to broaden your horizon. The more things you love, the more you are interested in." The speaker read several thoughts by authors quoted in the book, including "A Letter to a Little Girl" by F. Scott Fitzgerald in which he worded advice to his own daughter in an understanding and cheerful manner.

Refreshments were served the 17 attending members by the hostess.

Ear Interest

With hairdos getting shorter, earrings are getting larger. Bright plastic or wooden button earrings are perfect for matching with your other colorful and inexpensive accessories. And the plain gold loop, an old favorite, is still around.

Pastel Accents

Solid pastels become a rainbow of color when colorful accents are added. Big beads, in lucite or wood, are colorful as necklaces and bracelets that can be matched or contrasted with button earrings.

Hearings Please Constitution Architects

Editor's Note: What is all this recent business of hearings held across the state by the Constitutional Revision Commission? Associated Press Correspondent Mike Cochran attended some of the sessions and then questioned commission members. A situationer and interpretive.

By MIKE COCHRAN Associated Press Writer

It is an exercise in patience and psychology, sometimes frustrating, but the architects of a revised Texas constitution say it is working.

They become by choice a nomadic group, roving the state, taking the pulse of the people in a series of public hearings.

They want to know what the people want as their basic law, the instrument that determines the system under which they live.

This group, 37 strong, the Texas Constitutional Revision Commission (CRC), will draw up the basic document that, in some form, will be submitted to the voters next year.

The CRC is headed by Robert Calvert of Austin, the former chief justice of the Texas Supreme Court, and he is indeed the moving force.

He is the one who comforts and cajoles the speakers, who silences the irrelevant. And he is a master at the task.

"My name is Wren," said a nervous youngster. "W-r-e-n, as in bird."

"My name is Calvert. That's C-a-l-v-e-r-t, as in whisky," said the smiling chairman.

Calvert is, when it puts a witness at ease, a father, a grandfather with gout, a man who says he would enjoy farming or ranching or teaching or whatever.

He is all things to all people and he does it with flair. He presides over what he calls his "road show circuit," a statewide fact-finding tour that so far has visited Amarillo, Lubbock, El Paso, Midland and San Antonio.

Five down, 13 to go. Is it working? Are the people responsive? Are there any surprises? What is being learned? What is the assessment of this mission after two weeks?

This is what commissioners say.

Robert Calvert: "I'm pleased with these meetings. They indicate a genuine interest on the part of a large number of our citizens."

"There are certain constitutional provisions which occupy the attention of most of those who have appeared."

"These include: annual sessions of the legislature, adequate salaries for its members, more power in executive government, judicial reform, taxation and land use."

"There is some interest in other matters but these are the primary areas where people are expressing themselves."

"I think maybe we have or will get the information as such and we're getting it evaluated at these conferences."

"We know, for example, that there is a problem of land use outside the cities, in rural areas. But we need to know what the people think about the problem and how they would solve it."

Beeman Fisher, Fort Worth: "We feel good about the response the people have shown. People have come to express themselves on state government, some with much knowledge of the constitution."

"This is exactly what we'd hoped to get from these public meetings."

"The knowledge that the youngsters have shown have been a revelation, really, to some of the members. No telling how much study these youngsters have made of this subject."

Mrs. Sybil Hamilton, Dallas: "I've been more than pleased with the interest of the citizens in each of these areas. We've had great turnouts and many diverse opinions on what should be retained in the Constitution and what should be written, and maybe some complete new additions to the Constitution."

"We've had all these views expressed on both sides; it's been extremely educational to hear what the person not actively involved in legislation or the political process thinks about his Constitution."

"The only way we can come up with some sort of a final document that will make sense to the people is by going out and listening to the people."

Jim Weatherby, Kerrville: "I've been especially interested in our youth at the high school level and those out a short time—their interests, their approach, their thoughts, their typical concern for the best interests of Texas. I do not always agree with their principles but I think that they've devoted a lot of time to studying these provisions. I will say this—we are going to have to have the young people to be able to pass the constitution after it comes up from the Constitutional Convention."

"We're getting a generally good approach. There are some features that we can't control, but we're trying to listen to all the people of Texas to find out what they want."

Mrs. Mary Beth Brient, El Paso: "I think that this may not be the only way to formulate a constitution, but it is probably the easiest way for citizens to get into our work and for us to give them an opportunity to have a say."

"I certainly think there are many other ways, but it's easier than for the commissioners to read stacks of materials. Also, we have the opportunity to ask questions which we wouldn't if we were seeing written material."

"I think it's important to know what citizens feel. I think we could write a constitution without knowing that, but I think that would be a mistake."

THE INVESTIGATION in Washington seems to be ignoring the message of the small sign on the lawn of one of the city's better known business complexes.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Helen is heartbroken at the change in her new husband. He seems to love John Barleycorn far more than his new bride. But Helen is responsible for his tragic change in personality, though she doesn't even dream she is at fault. Study this case carefully!

CASE X-501: Helen D., aged 32, lost her husband 3 years ago. "Dr. Crane," she began, "I had been a school teacher and married the football coach of the high school. "He was a wonderful man and full of vitality. "But he got struck by a drunkard driver and was killed instantly. "Though it was a terrible shock, I gradually reorganized my life. "About a year ago, I began to date a science teacher at the same school. "He was gallant, and kind, so we finally fell in love and I married him 3 months ago. "But he soon began to drink heavily, though I had never known that he ever touched liquor. "Now he is becoming a drunkard and I fear he will lose his teaching position, for I can't cover up for him entirely. "Dr. Crane, he is really a wonderful man so I am heart sick at this tragic turn of events. "What can I do to help him break off his addiction to alcohol?"

EGO CAMOUFLAGE

When people begin to swill down alcohol to excess, beware! They are usually trying to run away from serious inner deflation of their ego. In psychiatry, we call alcoholism a "fire escape" from an inner "burn" that is destroying the victim's ego! What is the "burn" that would make a science teacher suddenly flee into alcoholism? Fear is often at the root of such drunkenness! John Barleycorn's victims thus may dread the police, if they have embezzled or killed or forged documents, so they try to hide in an alcoholic stupor. Others may likewise be terrified of death from cancer. Many women who have submitted to abortions, also are scared lest God will strike them down with insanity or a heart attack or especially cancer of the womb, so they use liquor as of anesthesia for their conscience. Stage fright often starts many teen-agers, as well as actors, into the use of liquor, for they mistakenly think alcohol gives you courage. Alas, it merely gives your brain so you no longer appreciate the seriousness of the situation. Thus, you react like children, for your I.Q. is actually lower when you have alcoholized your brain. Some childless wives also take to liquor to anesthetize their conscience so they can enter into illicit affairs. But widows and divorced wives must always be doubly on guard against unwittingly causing good men like Helen's mate to seek the whiskey flask. Later this week I shall give you the actual confession of this science teacher, but keep in mind that second husbands usually worry about a "ghost." And that ghost is the former husband of their present wife. For they make a mistaken diagnosis of the usual woman's lack of boudoir ardor and thus think they must be sexually inferior to the former husband! This mental conflict of her second husband may be totally unsuspected by the wife, but it can render a normally ardent male platonic, even before the honeymoon is over. One of the basic causes of divorce in second marriages such as Helen's, is this secret sexual inferiority complex that develops in the second husband. So send for my booklet "How to Prevent Platonic Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents. For a seductive wife is better than a psychiatrist in this type of case!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Medical Benefits to Rise; New Bill Awaits Approval

By RAY CROMLEY (Seventh in a Series.)

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — A bill now before Congress would markedly increase some medical benefits for veterans and some dependents. Watch your newspaper for action on this measure.

If passed in its present form, this bill would:

- Extend eligibility for hospital, nursing home and (ambulatory) outpatient medical care to wives and children of veterans with service-connected total and permanent disability. Also eligible: widows and children of veterans who died of such disability.
- Authorize outpatient care of any ailment for veterans 80 per cent disabled from a service-connected cause.
- Provide for (ambulatory) outpatient services for veterans not 80 per cent he received while hospitalized.

- Provide for VA reimbursement of emergency medical treatment you may receive from a private physician, hospital or clinic for a service-connected disability or for disabilities associated with a service-connected disability, if approved by a VA doctor—provided VA and other federal services are not feasibly available.
- Apparently emergency is to be rather broadly treated—to include extreme inconvenience or hardship.
- Travel expenses for such emergency treatment are also reimbursable.
- Provide for a VA program of screening, counseling and treatment of sickle cell anemia.
- Allow direct admission to community nursing homes at VA expense for veterans requiring this care for service-connected disabilities.
- Authorize the VA to contract for scarce medical specialist services at VA facilities.

Injuries Plague Chicago's Loss

Associated Press Sports Writer
Pete Reiser used to crash into walls as a player and now he's crashing into people as coach.

Reiser, famous for getting knocked unconscious while chasing fly balls for the old Brooklyn Dodgers, was one of the casualties Sunday in a fight-filled baseball game at Candlestick Park.

Before the relatively sane second game was won 4-3 by the Giants, Reiser was carried from the field on a stretcher after getting belted in the head during a fourth-inning brawl in the opener.

He wasn't the only one the Cubs lost, however. Third baseman Ron Santo was earlier struck by a pitch and had to make a fast departure for hospital x-rays. In addition, Chicago played the first game after the fourth inning without Manager Whitey Lockman, coach Hank Aguirre and pitcher Jim Barr, who also had to be taken to the hospital for precautionary x-rays.

All x-rays eventually proved negative.

In the National League's other games, the Atlanta Braves beat the Philadelphia Phillies 3-1; the Houston Astros walloped the New York Mets 14-8; the Cincinnati Reds turned back the Montreal Expos 6-1; the San Diego Padres tripped the Pittsburgh Pirates 8-0 and the Los Angeles Dodgers blanked the St. Louis Cardinals 3-0.

Russians Lose 3rd In Series

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Ernie "D" turned the tide and won the hearts in an 83-75 victory by the U.S. national basketball team over the Russian national team.

Six-foot-one Ernie DiGregorio of Providence personally pulled the Americans together after a slow start Saturday night and led them to their third victory in four games with the Russians on their American tour.

The aggressive whirling dervish scored 20 points and handed out eight assists, some of them of the ultra-spectacular variety.

However, as spectacular as DiGregorio was, the entire game was played under a shadow that has plagued the entire series—the roughness allowed under international rules.

In all, 86 fouls were whistled against each team, and six Russians and four Americans fouled out of the game. There was also an undercurrent of general hostility that came near explosion several times.

In the worst of these, American assistant coach Draft Young punched one of the official statisticians in the head during the second half after running down the floor and apparently losing his temper when asked to sit down.

What's Wrong, Mickey Lolich?

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
What's wrong with Mickey Lolich?

Nothing, says Billy Martin. Maybe, says Whitey Herzog.

The left-handed ace of the Detroit Tigers, who pitched 703 innings and won 47 games over the past two seasons, is having his troubles in 1973. Following Sunday's 7-2 loss to the Texas Rangers, in which he also walked six—and all seven runs in 5 2/3 innings, Lolich shows a 1-4 record and a 4.15 earned run average.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Chicago White Sox mauled the New York Yankees 11-2. Oakland thumped Cleveland twice 12-0 and 7-3. Baltimore blanked California 5-0. Milwaukee edged Kansas City 3-2 and Minnesota hammered Boston 10-3.

In the National League, San Francisco took two from Chicago 11-9 in 12 innings and 4-3. Houston trounced New York 14-8. Cincinnati trimmed Montreal 6-1. San Diego checked Pittsburgh 8-0. Los Angeles downed St. Louis 3-0 and Atlanta shaded Philadelphia 3-1.

The Rangers hopped on Lolich for three runs in the opening inning on the first of Dave Nelson's four hits, a passed ball, Toby Harrah's single and Alex Johnson's home run in the sixth, a single by Elliott Maddox and a pair of walks preceded Harrah's three-run triple. Harrah then scored on a single by Johnson.

This was the first game he hasn't been sharp even when he was losing, said Manager Martin. "The other times he pitched pretty well. I guess he's entitled to a bad one."

The Rangers beat Lolich 2-1 two weeks ago and Manager Herzog said Lolich "threw a lot better against us in Arlington. When he had to reach back and get 'em, he could do it."

The White Sox ran their winning streak to nine games—five of them against the Yankees—as Wilbur Wood became the majors' first seven-game winner and Bill Melton drove in four runs. Wood had a 28-inning scoreless skein snapped in the first inning on Matty Alou's triple and Bobby Murcer's single, but the Sox forged ahead with three in their half, including a two-run single by Melton.

The A's pounded out 18 hits in their opener against Cleveland, including a home run by Joe Rudi, in support of Ken Holtzman's five-hit pitching.

Vida Blue, who had been sidelined more than two weeks with a strained knee ligament, scattered six hits in the nightcap and the A's got homers from Deron Johnson, Gene Tenace and Sal Bando.

Jim Palmer halted Baltimore's five-game losing streak by shacking California on five hits and outpitching Nolan Ryan, who was victimized by Wildness and errors.

Pearson Wins
TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — David Pearson, Joe Frasson and Ramo Stott were among the lucky ones in Sunday's Winston 500-mile stock car race that wound up as a $1 million junkyard.

Pearson, 38, kept his cool and won the race—his fifth straight on the Grand National circuit and his fourth at 500 miles this year. He also will bank $26,095 to go with the $61,735 he already had won.

cent, in his view. Sugar Ray Robinson, he said, was a grand stylist, and one who would never hit a "coup bas"—below the belt. And Joe Louis, though plodding, had the air of "a sovereign."

Muhammad Ali, at his best, is the epitome of athletic artistry for Marceau.

"He is cool," said Marceau, who requested a 4 a.m. hotel wake-up call in Hamburg, Germany, to watch the Ali-Joe Frazier title bout.

"He has an elegance of line, a supreme confidence and a profound concentration.

"He seemed to have complete control of himself in that fight. He was graceful and strong. Never gave a feeling of effort. The greatest artists keep a cool. There is little muscular sweat. They sweat because the concentration is so big or the arena is hot. It is the same with the great violinist. Or the tight-rope walker. They

He did not respect the way Bobby Fischer ruthlessly destroyed his opponent. Fischer is a chess artist. But what he did was not beautiful."

The Harlem Globe Trotters, though, have his admiration: "It is an act, of course, the way they fool very much the reflexes of their opponent. But the timing and the control is the greatest virtuosity."

"Weight-lifting," he says, "is monstrous. I admire the men but it is terrible to look at."

NY Knicks Lick LA Lakers

NEW YORK (AP) — Willis Reed and Earl Monroe are happy—and Jerry West is hurting.

With Reed playing "my most important game," Monroe proving he's king of the playgrounds and West not having a healthy leg to stand on in the fourth quarter, the New York Knicks beat Los Angeles 87-83 Sunday afternoon to take a 2-1 lead over the Lakers in their National Basketball Association championship series.

"I don't know if it was my best game since the injury back in 1970, but it certainly was my most important one," said Reed, New York's solid man in the middle who scored 22 points and grabbed 10 rebounds against Los Angeles' Will Chamberlain.

"Sure I'm happy," he said, smiling. "This was a good one to win, because it keeps us in the driver's seat. Now there are just two games to go."

The Madison Square Garden crowd of 19,694—including the touring Russian basketball squad—and a national television audience saw a rather sloppy game in which the Knicks were outscored 15-2 in seven minutes of the second period, came back to trail just 47-44 at the half, moved in front with seven unanswered points in the third period and stayed one stride ahead of the defending champion Lakers throughout the fourth quarter.

"It was a strange game," said West, the Lakers' superstar who sat out the entire fourth quarter with pulled hamstring muscles in both his legs. "There was no pattern to it, no flow. It was like a playground game."

And a playground game means a Monroe kind of game.

"I enjoyed it today," said the Pearl, who scored 21 points and came off the bench in the middle of the second period to put an end to the Lakers' 15-2 spurt. "Our offense was just stagnating. I asserted myself at the proper time."

Monroe scored six of his points in the third quarter and nine in the fourth, including an off-balance one-hander that gave the Knicks an 85-79 lead with 1:50 to go. Reserve Keith Erickson hit two baskets to bring LA to 85-83 in the final minute, but missed a baseline shot with 22 seconds left that would have tied it. Reed grabbed the rebound, then Walt Frazier sank a pair of free throws with two seconds to go for the final margin.

"Monroe was the only guy not intimidated by Chamberlain," observed West.

El Paso, Arkansas Leading

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
El Paso and Arkansas continue to open daylight between themselves and their respective Texas League divisions.

The Sun Kings, leaders in the West, beat San Antonio 7-1 Sunday, while the East-leading Travelers swamped Memphis 9-2. In other games Sunday, Midland outslugged Amarillo 9-7 and Alexandria edged Shreveport 3-2 for its fourth victory in 17 games.

El Paso's victory over San Antonio was highlighted by a five-run third inning climaxed by a bases-loaded triple by Gilberto Flores. David Chorley's double also knocked in a run.

Arkansas exploded for six runs in the first inning and coasted thereafter to beat Memphis. The Travelers managed only three hits in the inning, but four other Arkansas players walked and another Arkansas was hit by a pitch. Steve Broege, who pitched a one-hitter in his last start, permitted only two hits Sunday until being relieved in the ninth inning. Broege, who survived two runs on four walks in the first inning, is now 3-0.

The Arkansas triumph capped its lead to 2 1/2 games over Shreveport in the East while the El Paso victory gave the Sun Kings a three-game margin over San Antonio in the West.

Alexandria overcame a 2-1 deficit with a two-run seventh inning highlighted by a bases-loaded walk to Uly Wilson and an RBI single by Bill Hall. Steve Graczyk picked up his first victory for the Aces on a three-hitter. One of the hits was a two-run homer in the fifth inning by Shreveport's Sixto Lescano.

Midland won its slugfest with Amarillo by collecting 16 hits to the Giants' 14. Midland's Rob Sperring had three hits and two RBIs, while teammates Ron Matney had two RBIs and Ron Dunn blasted a two-run triple in the sixth. Al Smith of Amarillo had four hits, including a solo homer. Many of the game's 30 hits were windblown popups, as players fought off winds of up to 40 miles per hour.

Tonight's only TI contest is San Antonio at Shreveport, followed Tuesday night by a full slate of interdivision games.

Crampton Gains Top At Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — "I told you earlier this year," Bruce Crampton said. "The best is yet to come."

"The good things are just getting started," Crampton had just polished off a one-stroke victory—led by three to five most of the final round and it got close only at the end—in the Houston Open Golf tournament Sunday, his third pro triumph of the year.

"Nothing has changed from what I said at Orlando, Fla. The best is yet to come for Bruce Crampton," he said.

With three victories—only Jack Nicklaus can match that total—and a season's leading $153,678 in earnings to his credit, the statement could only stand as a warning to the rest of the pro tourists that the curly-haired Australian is ready to assume a dominant position in pro golf. He won it with a par 72 in the final round on the 6,905-yard Quail Valley Golf Club course for a 277 total, 11 under par. Former PGA champion Dave Stockton took second with a charging finish. He birdied three of the last four holes for a 69 and 278.

The current Masters titleholder, Tommy Aaron, wasn't a factor. He had a final 79 for 298.

It got close only at the end. Crampton had guilt a four stroke lead with rounds of 66 and 67 Friday and Saturday and never really was threatened.

West Texas Fields Top Track Teams

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — West Texas has proved it fields the prime track teams in a state that leads the nation with 790 junior and senior high school track units.

Four of the five division trophies up for grabs last Friday and Saturday in the 63rd University Interscholastic League track and field carnival went to teams from West Texas.

Only Galveston Bay, a powerful Gulf Coast entry, kept it from being a clean sweep by muscling to victory in the Class 4A division.

El Paso's victory over San Antonio was highlighted by a five-run third inning climaxed by a bases-loaded triple by Gilberto Flores. David Chorley's double also knocked in a run.

stocking cap and high socks. He buzzed around the track in the 880 in 1:51.1—the fastest in the nation this year.

While Crenshaw was the darling of the Memorial Stadium crowd, another contestant, who will remain nameless, brought embarrassment on himself and his team by slamming his second place medal to the ground after receiving it at the winners' stand in obvious disgust for reasons known only to him.

Despite rain on the final day, 8,000 fans turned out. And for a year at least, it was an all-West Texas show.

Marcel Marceau: The Mime Speaks Of Sports and Art

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK (NEA) — Marcel Marceau, the sublime and poignant mime, sees the Olympic events like this:

The javelin thrower thrusts back and gets his spear stuck in the mud.

The weight-lifter, oppressed by his upraised burden, slowly sinks into a split.

The poised and crouched 100-meter dash man's first step crunches his finger.

The shot-putter's ball falls on his foot.

The hip-wobbling walker runs out of steam, like a wind-up toy, and crumbles.

Originally, the organizers of the Munich Olympics had wanted Marceau to make a film pantomiming the various athletic events. The organizers would surely have agreed with a recent review of Marceau's wordless-but-stirring one-man show. "Marceau imitates life with an honesty that gives life a new dimension," wrote Clive Barnes in the New York Times.

But the film was never made. Olympic committee members, believing that Marceau's satiric portrayals would pluck too sensitive a chord in the light of the Olympic Village murders.

On stage, Marceau is white-faced and primarily a comedian, but one who demonstrates marvelous athletic skills such as impossibly tilting his body as he leans on an invisible cafe counter. Like most comedians, however, he is serious, and captures along with the foibles, the grace, the tragedy and the delight in life. The decision not to film Marceau's unique views of athletes and athletics was uninspired. It is an artistic deprivation not to share his insights into the world of muscle.

In Marceau's Plaza Hotel suite one morning, the silent mime spoke eloquently of sports and art.

He found the Olympic events dramatic, as well as surreally funny.

"The athlete," said the French mime, "must spend four years to prepare. But he must not overtrain. He must leave a moment to surpass himself, to go beyond his own limits."

"He must be relieved from fear. Anxiety can kill possibility. There must be no thought of defeat. The skills, the beauty of line, the concentration can move me, even to tears."

"I remember seeing one Olympic gymnast who fractured his foot. But he continued to give his team points. He had to jump from the bar to execute his finale. He landed and received himself very well, straight-and proud. Then he collapsed. It was heroic."

Marceau's favorite sports to observe are figure skating, gymnastics and diving. "These I love," he said. "It is not just to win but how you win, the form, that counts. It is complete art."

He admires the Brazilian soccer players. "They are like jugglers," he said. "The ball never is on the floor." And of Pele, their star: "He is always noble. He is very orthodox, pure and never compromises. He would never do anything unfair just to be victorious."

He did not respect the way Bobby Fischer ruthlessly destroyed his opponent. Fischer is a chess artist. But what he did was not beautiful."

The Harlem Globe Trotters, though, have his admiration: "It is an act, of course, the way they fool very much the reflexes of their opponent. But the timing and the control is the greatest virtuosity."

"Weight-lifting," he says, "is monstrous. I admire the men but it is terrible to look at."

Air Bag Gets O.K.

Automobile air bags, designed to inflate and deflate in milliseconds while cushioning drivers and front seat passengers in a crash, have received a lot of publicity. A lot of it, based on early test failures, has been bad. Proponents of the devices have had to spend an inordinate amount of time defending them against claims that they might go off accidentally or deteriorate with age or harm the hearing when they inflate explosively.

Easier To Go In Debt

There's good news of sorts on the inflation front. The cost of going into debt is lower than it has been in the recent past. According to Eugene H. Adams, president of the American Bankers Association, while the "prime rate" has risen 1 1/2 points in the past 14 months, rates on most consumer loans have actually decreased.

Nixon Had Warning On Associates

By RAY CROMLEY WASHINGTON (NEA) —For the past two years, President Nixon has been quietly but vigorously warned by close friends and associates about key figures in his intimate White House hierarchy. It is known that former Defense Secretary Melvin Laird, Secretary of State William Rogers, National Security Adviser Henry Kissinger, Republican party bigwigs Rogers Morton and Bob Wilson, New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, former Treasury Secretary Walter Hickel at one time or another, directly or indirectly, personally told or sent word to Mr. Nixon that he had surrounded himself with men they did not trust and whose judgment they feared.

Several years ago a violent group, claiming to act in the name of all Indians, took over Alcatraz Island in San Francisco Bay.

World Almanac Facts

Passengers using Japanese railways reportedly left about $3,600,000 in lost money aboard trains during 1971. The Japanese railroads, however, failed to convert this sum into a major asset because all but $300,000 was claimed and collected by the passengers.

Panama Party to Arab Scheme To Control World Oil Trade? By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — The Panama Canal would become directly embroiled in the tensely explosive Middle East tinderbox — if the virulently anti-U.S. radical rulers of Panama have their way. They are apparently seeking funds from oil-rich Libya to construct a sea-level canal — in direct competition with the waterway built and controlled by the U.S.

77th SALVAGE DRIVE
NEW YORK (AP) — The Volunteers of America is on its 77th annual Salvage Drive. Americans are asked to donate used furniture, appliances and other household goods plus clothing, by telephoning the local VOA post and asking for a truck to pick up the donation. The items will be sorted, cleaned and repaired and redistributed to people in need through neighborhood outlets.

JACKET PROCLAIMS ITS OWNER
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The person who took John B. Bayles' jacket from a city restaurant won't be wearing it much in public. Bayles is a motorcycle policeman and the black leather jacket bears his badge 626. The jacket was taken from a coat rack while Bayles was on a supper break.

For Some, Nationhood Is Still a New Idea, Others Have Known Nothing Else

ISRAEL: The First Twenty-Five Years

"Twenty-five years are but a brief moment for a nation with a memory more than thirty-five centuries long."

By TOM TIEDE

ZOVA KIBBUTZ, Israel—(NEA)—The Prime Minister of Israel is still getting used to the idea of nationhood, even after a quarter of a century.

At 75, Mrs. Meir lived most of her life before Israel was fact. Two-thirds of her total experience predates May 14, 1948. She spent her youth nurturing a dream of ages. Thus it is for her, and others of Israel's senior generation, that they cannot talk of what is now without remembering what was yesterday.

But this is not the norm here on the silver anniversary of a tiny, tucked off, but remarkably significant Middle Eastern state. The lament of Jewish history is being heard less and less in a country which has simply become too young to be so sentimental. Jews under 30 now account for 57 per cent of the population. Jews 25 and under, born shortly before or after the proclamation of statehood, whose experience is Israel as fact, now form nearly half of the citizenry. For these young people, the first Jewish generation in 19 centuries to have a place and government of its own, the length of Israel's memory is not so important as the breadth of its future.

At 25, Michael Livne and his country share the same age. He does not waste much of his young life quoting the Torah, conjuring up the bromides of the prophets, or rocking away the hours musing about a Jewish history which, as Arthur Miller once wrote, has been "packing bundles and getting away."

Livne's hours are too precious for such melancholy. He has a family to look after. The orchard apples need picking. There are textbooks to be read. "I learned about Jewish history in the Old Testament," says Livne, a bit surprised anyone would ask, "now I only worry about today and tomorrow."

"Work hard!"
And tomorrow?
"Work hard, too."

The work ethic indicated here is, of course, not unusual for Jews of any age or period. Yet, the philosophy behind it is. Unlike many Israelis his senior, Mike Livne does not thank God, Moses, Isaiah, David, Ben Gurion and Moshe Dayan for his daily toil. He does not rise daily and mumble gracious prayers to the powers that allowed him a Return To The Land. His outlook is more contemporary than historic. He believes in the now, and he feels as an Israeli citizen, of 25 years duration, he deserves good work, the chance to succeed and the opportunity to live his life as he wishes.

And how else could it be for him or the others of his age here? Born 3,300 years after the exodus from Egypt, 2,400 years after the destruction of Solomon's Temple, even three years after the Nazi holocaust in Europe, Livne has little of the historic feeling of Jewish agony. His life, to be sure, has not been absolutely serene. He was born shortly before the first Arab-Israeli war in 1948, was a teen-ager during the second war in 1958, and carried arms himself as a soldier in the Six Day War of 1967. Yet neither he nor his family have ever been scratched by battle, injured by social ostracism or defeated in oppressive societies.

"Some distant relatives were Nazi victims during World War II," he says, "but I didn't know them. Since I wasn't there I can't know how they felt. I have been lucky, I guess."

Indeed, lucky—a beneficiary, as others here of his years, of that Jewish miracle, the modern state. Actually, Livne was born when the nation was still under the British mandate and called Palestine, but he did not suffer from the transition. As an infant, he slept while Zionism triumphed. It is not surprising then that today Zionism is a nice thought to Mike Livne, but nothing so urgent or so ultimate as it still is to his seniors.

"When I was in my early 20s," he says, "I went to France with an Israeli youth movement. It was the only time I encountered any anti-Semitism in my life. I was at a tobacco shop one day with friends and I decided to buy a pipe. The shopkeeper knew we were Jews because we were speaking Hebrew. Anyway, the merchant said the pipe was ten pounds (Israeli), and by mistake I gave him a five-pound note. He looked at it, then at me, like

I was trying to cheat him—and then he said: 'You dirty Jew.'"

One moment of anti-Semitism. In 25 years, Livne says the incident greatly affected him. He learned then that "Israel is the only place for Jews to live." Yet, Zionism? The sufferings of time long past? To Mike Livne's age group, these are things for the old people. The young prefer to concentrate on the present and the positive.

There is no doubt that for all their history, Jews have progressed more in the last two-and-a-half decades than they did in previous centuries combined. "We have," says Israeli President Zalman Shazar, "witnessed a sequence of wonders."

The statistics tell some of it. In 25 years, as the prophet Amos foresaw, Israel has "restored the fortunes of its people." More than 450 towns and villages have been created in the nation since state proclamation. More than 1.5 million immigrants have been resettled.

Economic output has increased sevenfold in the past two decades. The payroll is three times the size of 1950. Where once the nation had to rely on imports for day-to-day subsistence, it now exports $2 billion worth of goods annually (30 times the 1950 figure). Factory production is up by 12, electricity use has jumped by a factor of 30, cultivated land area has multiplied by three, irrigated areas have increased sixfold. The gross national product has gone from 259 million (Israeli pounds) in 1948 to 21.6 billion last year.

"And I don't know if it's a sign of progress or what," grins a government spokesman, "but nearly everybody in Israel now owns his own television set."

This is not to say that all that glitters on the occasion of Israel's 25th anniversary is necessarily silver. Remarks one Tel Aviv educator: "It has never been, nor will it ever be, easy to be a Jew."

Currently the nation is suffering from what Foreign Minister Abba Eban categorizes as "outbursts of evil spirits." Call it, for short, extreme nationalism. Hard-core militants have threatened the Arab population in Israel with expulsion. The same bullies have intimidated Christian missionaries who try to convert Jews to Jesus. Palestinian Arabs have been killed or brutally beaten for such offenses as having sexual relations with Jewish women. The national greeting is "shalom" (peace), but there are monuments everywhere to war and to bloodshed and, especially, to victory.

Even moderates acknowledge one justification for Israeli jingoism: survival. Just continuing to exist, as Mrs. Meir says, "has been the major effort of our lives." Today, as 25 years ago, Israel's central concern is still the endless war with its Arab neighbors. Three million Jews vs. more than 100 million Arabs.

Survival is the be-all and end-all of Israeli life. Israelis spend up to 40 per cent of their tax dollars on defense. Last year the nation paid out $850 million for foreign munitions alone. No western nation uses so much of its capital for objects that merely explode. And there is no sign that any reduction of vigilance can be forthcoming.

Every year the population of Israel's most immediate Arab enemies grows by one million. Palestine refugee guerrillas have all but gone mad in their war of terrorism against Jews.

"The situation," says a government officer, "is one of hate breeding hate. People are reacting desperately to endless fear. It's small wonder we have so many idiots cropping up."

Peace, then, as Abba Eban says, may be the answer to everything wrong in Israel: kooks, hard heads and tension.

"In 25 years," to quote him, "Israel and the Arab States have spent more than $25 billion for military purposes. If one-tenth of that sum had been invested in a refugee solution (for exiled Palestinians), the problem would have been solved long ago."

About the only time Mike Livne thinks about peace is once a year when he's summoned by government for 30 days of reserve military duty. All healthy Israeli males remain in the reserves until age 55 and few especially enjoy the annual duty. Peace, therefore, might bring about a change in the mandate. But, Well, Shrug.

Says Livne: "One time I was called to the Suez Canal for a month. The Egyptians shot some shells at us. I didn't appreciate that. But if it came to it, I wouldn't hesitate to go to war again. Look over there, right over those mountains. That's Jordan. My home here is only a few miles from the border. If anything happens, I'd be fighting for my home as well as my country."

Livne's home is well worth fighting for. Like this young man, the Zova kibbutz is 25 years old, feisty, gently irreverent, and convinced of its right to existence. The kibbutz (communal farm), a neat complex of small homes and large barns, is situated in the hills west of Jerusalem and is surrounded by cotton fields and apple orchards. Sixty families—350 people—live here in collective security.

Livne joined the kibbutz after the Six Day War. He says his traditionalist parents objected to the strict socialism of kibbutz life (no one here can own property, have a private bank account or eat meals in their own homes), but it made no difference.

"I didn't want to be a clerk like my father," he says, "I wanted to farm. Also I wanted to live a meaningful life. In the city people live for the TV and the automobile. Here on the kibbutz we live to create things. It is better."

Livne married shortly into his 20s. He and his wife, Hava, live in a one-room apartment provided by the kibbutz ("Our regular home is being built"). They have one child, Ailon, 2½, who lives with other children in a nursery.

Says Livne: "The original idea of the children living together was to release the mothers for work in the field. Now the mothers no longer work in the fields here, but they do work. My wife works in one of the nurseries. So it's still better the children live away. Better for everyone. We can bring our boy into the apartment for a visit, of course, anytime we want. We still look after him."

Besides raising their child, the Zova kibbutz provides the Livnes with most other provisions and services—from daily meals in a dining hall to annual, all-expenses-paid (seven-day) vacations. In return Hava Livne works in the nursery and Mike Livne goes to college. The college, too, is paid for by the collective system. The kibbutz considers it a good investment. Livne is studying agriculture engineering; the expectation is he will on graduation become one of the leaders—"brains help" of the farm.

Livne sees the kibbutz as the real Israel. "I have an uncle who moved to New York. He left Israel for economic reasons. Well, I object to that. I object to him doing that. In the first place I don't think he's better off financially in New York than he was here. More important, I think the Jews' place is in Israel. Not because of Zionism, but because this is the place for us—the place where we can help each other."

For Mike and Hava Livne, and many of their "independent independence generation," this is reason enough to justify living in Israel. Reason enough to justify being Israeli.

Israel. Twenty-five years old and lessening younger. And the lesson is clear: A quarter of a century is long enough for people here—and everywhere to get used to the idea that Jews have more of a future than they do a past.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)
Hampton, Va., settled in 1610, is the oldest town founded by the English still in existence in the United States.

Communal living for children, the nursery where Hava Livne, right, works is still a feature of kibbutz life even though no longer needed to release mothers for work in the fields.
