At left, new Precinct 1 Commissioner Joe Wheeley raises his arm to take the oath from District Judge Don Cain. Other county officials being sworn in Monday included Tax Assessor/Collector Margie Gray, Precinct 3 Commissioner Gerald Wright, County Auditor A.C. Malone and Constables Jerry Dean Williams, Herman H. Kieth, N.L. "Buddy" Roland and Jim McDonald. Gray County Attorney Robert McPherson and District Attorney Harold Comer were to be sworn in this morning.

Area county officials sworn in

By DEE DEE LARAMORE Staff Writer

Most area officials received their respective oaths of office in swearing-in ceremonies today, with the exception of Wheeler County officeholders who were sworn in Monday

Wheeler County Precinct 1 Constable Joe Montgomery broke a century-old domination by the Democratic Party in the county when he became the first Republican to hold an office in Wheeler County in its 110-year history, officials from the county clerk's office confirmed today.

Other Wheeler County officials taking the oath from County Judge Wendall Morgan in the district courtroom Monday included Jerry Dan Hefley, county treasurer; and M. Kent Sims, county attorney. Also taking their oaths in Wheeler were Sheriff Jimmy W. Adams, who began his term early after Sheriff Lonnie Miller died in a traffic accident this summer; Precinct 1 commissioner Elmer Ray Harrison; Bryan Close, comBob Jernigan, constable Precinct Carson County Judge Jay Roselius swore in the following county officials in ceremonies in the county commissioners' courtroom early today: Jerry Strong, commissioner Precinct 3; Mike Britten, commissioner Precinct 1: Terry Timmons, newlyelected Carson County sheriff who defeated veteran sheriff. Connie Reed, in primary elections last April; Lloyd Sterling, tax assessor/collector; and Ed Henshaw, county attorney.

After a recount of votes from the November election, followed by a special called election, incumbent Precinct 3 commissioner for Hemphill County, Leonard Powledge, was finally able to take his oath of office early today from County Judge Bob Gober.

Because of the closeness of the November election in which Powledge appeared to have been edged out by Republican challenger Pat Walker by one vote, Powledge asked for a recount which missioner Precinct 3; and Jerry left the two candidates with a tie vote. Walker then asked for a runoff election set for Dec. 13. After the votes were tallied, Powledge emerged the winner, 206 to 166.

> Also sworn to office in ceremonies in the Hemphill County commissioners' courtroom today were Kenneth Osborne, Precinct 1 commissioner: Charles Kessie, county attorney; Gladene Woodside, tax assessor/collector; Bob Ed Culver Jr., constable Precinct 1: and Hemphill County Sheriff Billy V. Bowen.

> In Roberts County, all county officials whose terms expired in 1988 were re-elected to office in the November elections. Officeholders recited their oaths early today in the county commissioner's court room.

They are William H. Clark, commissioner Precinct 1; Don Morrison, commissioner Precinct 3, who has recovered from injuries suffered in a serious car accident last year; Carol Sue Billingsley, county tax assessor/collector; and Sheriff Lando Brown.

101st Congress opens under new leadership Bush pledged repeatedly during the campaign

By STEVEN KOMAROW Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 101st Congress opens with the nation's legislature still firmly in Democratic control but with important changes in the leadership that will confront such crucial issues as the federal budget deficit, the environment, health care and ethics

New and re-elected members of the House and Senate were being sworn in today, and then the two chambers were set to carry out organizational chores for two days. Among them: a joint session Wednesday to count the electoral votes for presi-

Congress will then adjourn until Jan. 20 although hearings could start before then on some of President-elect Bush's nominations. No bills will be considered until later in the month, but plenty will be talked about as lawmakers await Bush's legislative proposals.

Possibly the most controversial decision members will have to make early in the session is whether to approve a pay raise for themselves. A presidential commission has recommended a 50 percent hike, a dicey issue, but especially so this year with so much attention being focused on the federal deficit.

President Reagan sends his final budget to Congress Jan. 9, and Bush is expected to submit his own ideas after taking office. Before fiscal 1990 begins Oct. 1, Congress and the new president must agree on how to cut more than $25 billion in spending, or to raise taxes, in order to meet the goals of the Gramm-Rudman budget balancing law.

Awaiting Bush's proposals before offering their own are House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, and the Senate's new majority leader, George Mitchell of Maine. Mitchell succeeds Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., who will also play a key fiscal role as he moves over to the chairmanship of the Appropriations Committee

he would not support any new taxes, but many Democrats are openly skeptical he can keep that

Among the doubters are the chairmen of the House and Senate Budget committees — both new to those posts — Rep. Leon Panetta, D-Calif., and Sen. Jim Sasser, D-Tenn. Sasser has publicly predicted Bush would be coming to Congress within two years asking for a tax increase.

Even Bob Michel, R-Ill., who returns as the House minority leader, said he suspects some new taxes might have to be combined with spending cuts for the deficit goals to be achieved.

"I suspect down the road a piece that may be part of the answer," Michel said in a television interview last weekend.

Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas, re-elected Senate Republican leader, said he hasn't seen any indications Bush is softening his anti-tax position. But he warned demands on the federal till are increasing, including tens of billions of dolgars needed to bail out failing savings institutions and to reopen the nation's nuclear weapons plants, which have been plagued by safety problems.

Environmental legislation, including a clean air bill that died late in the last session, is expected to rank high on the agenda of the 101st Congress. Mitchell, a strong environmentalist, is sure to help push such bills in his new role.

Congress faces increasing demands for more federally subsidized health care, especially for the elderly. But at the same time, the elderly are objecting to paying increased premiums for the new catastrophic illness coverage approved last year.

Ethics legislation is another holdover from the last Congress, where, in the closing days, Reagan killed bills aimed at restricting lobbying by former government officials and at protecting federal employees who blow the whistle on wrongdoing in

Bush aides aiming to push non-budget legislative issues

By RITA BEAMISH Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Now that President-elect Bush has nearly filled his Cabinet, his next major challenge is to fashion a legislative package that he can push through a Democratic-controlled Congress. The problem of the nation's budget deficit looms as the overriding test for Bush, but his aides also are looking to move legislation on issues that Bush stressed during his campaign, including childcare, education, the environment and ethics.

The Bush team has said the budget deficit will take priority, and much of his legislative program will depend on the fiscal package he is able to work out with Congress.

'We'd have to have the framework first for dealing with the budget," said Craig Fuller, the Bush transition co-director.

But he said Bush will still pursue commitments he made during his campaign. That would mean legislative proposals in such areas as environment, childcare and education.

In the area of government ethics, where President Reagan vetoed a package from Capitol Hill last fall, Bush said recently that he will send an ethics bill to Congress "very, very early."

In his proposals on lobbying by government officials after they've left office, Bush applies the same standards to Congress as to executive branch workers, said Boyden Gray, who will serve as Bush's White House legal counsel

Much of the "serious policy analysis" on the Bush legislative package is expected to occur early in January, said Robert Teeter, co-director of Bush's transition team.

The early proposals are expected to center on a domestic agenda, stressing the "kinder, gentler" approach to government that Bush discussed during the campaign.

Spending proposals — such as his plan to expand Medicaid coverage — ultimately will hinge on how the budget negotiations turn out. For instance, Bush's commitment to the tough antidrug stance he took during the campaign could be tested in talks on financing the massive new anti-drug legislation Congress passed this fall.

The bill calls for $2.7 billion in new spending, but Congress initially appropriated only $976 mil-

Bush

But other items, such as the ethics package, don't have a significant pricetag One idea is to stress presidential leadership on projects that don't involve large sums of money, such as an international conference Bush has proposed to deal with the problem of global warming of the atmosphere from carbon dioxide.

Bush wants a revised clean-air bill, and said in the campaign the nation must have "a clear commitment to emissions reductions on a clear timetable.

On one of the acid-rain sticking points, Bush proposes burden sharing of the costs among ratepayers nationwide rather than just in the polluting regions.

The Clean Air Act has been up for renewal every year this decade, but Congress has been unable to agree on the provision dealing with acid rain.

On offshore oil drilling, Bush, a former oilman, has shied away from blanket bans of the kind Congress has imposed on the California coast when passing appropriations for the Interior Department each year. Bush has said he will look at the drilling situation on a tract-by-tract basis

Bush also emphasized education issues during the campaign. His proposals include a $500 million merit schools program, $50 million for magnet schools, and $50 million for programs in teaching reform and innovation.

He also promised to push for a big increase in Head Start funding, to extend it to all eligible 4year-olds, and he pledged a childcare plan, to include a government refund for childcare expenses for the poor, with a $1,000 tax credit per child under age 4.

Government considers $81 billion nuclear complex clean-up

By BARTON REPPERT Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Energy Department is proposing an $81 billion, 20-year program to clean up and modernize the nation's troubled nuclear weapons production complex. "The cost of modernization and environmental restoration will require a significant increase in funding for the next two decades," said an Energy

Department report for delivery to Congress. The $81 billion total includes $52 billion to modernize outdated facilities, some of which are more than 30 years old, while $29 billion would go toward efforts to deal with radioactive and chemical contamination at many sites throughout the weapons complex. The long-range plan would involve building new facilities in South Carolina and Idaho as well as phasing out weapons production activities in Washington state, Colorado and Ohio.

The Energy Department has refused to release any portions of the classified document, known as the "2010 Report" because it looks ahead as far as the 2010 fiscal year. Gail Bradshaw, deputy chief spokesman for the department, said this week the department could not release the report's unclassified executive summary until it had received permission to do so from the National Security Council.

A copy of the summary was obtained by Morris News Service and made available to The Associated Press. Energy Secretary John S. Herrington said Dec. 22 the next administration faces "hard choices" in dealing with the problems of the nuclear weapons

He told a National Press Club audience that cannibalization of some warheads to build or upgrade others is something "we must look at to keep our options open." But Herrington added, "I do not anticipate the need" to resort to such methods.

The possibility of cannibalizing warheads was raised after safety and equipment problems closed the nation's three reactors for producing tritium, a radioactive isotope of hydrogen. Because tritium, decays at a rate of 5.5 percent a year, it needs to be regularly replenished to keep warheads at peak explosive power. Herrington has said it will be spring or summer before any of the three reactors at the Savannah River Plant near Aiken, S.C., can be restarted. The 2010 Report raises questions about whether the Savannah River reactors can be brought back to efficient production of tritium. It noted that "all three reactors are shut down for safety system improvements and are not expected to be fully operational until late 1989. Despite these improvements and increasingly extensive maintenance, the reactors may not be able to achieve acceptable production efficiencies." Other key findings of the report:

■ The nuclear weapons complex must be modernized so nuclear deterrence can continue to be a vital element of U.S. security policy. Operations of the complex will require environmental, safety and health remedial actions and a program to ensure that its operations comply with applicable laws, standards and regulations. m Much of the nuclear weapons complex was constructed more than 30 years ago, and many facilities are approaching the end of their useful lives. # Full funding for the modernization and environmental clean-up effort will probably be difficult to achieve. The report said that while the budget for fiscal 1990 will be "generally consistent" with the plan, accomplishing all recommendations on schedule probably will require more resources than are now expected to be available in subsequent years.

Police believe teen killed by drug supplier

DALLAS (AP) - A 14-year-old boy was shot to death and a 16ar-old critically wounded and left partly paralyzed in an attack olice believe was retaliation by the teen-agers' drug suppliers. Dallas police detectives said they believe the two youths had been selling "crack" - a cocaine derivative. Investigators think the youths' drug supplier shot the tot because they believed the youths had shortchanged them. At about 12:50 a.m. Monday, police found Toma Enrico Brown, 14, dead of gunshot wounds in the lot. Police, found the 16-year-old lying face up in a puddle of water 30 feet from Brown's body. He had been shot several times, run over by a car and left to die, police said. Before an ambulance took the teen-ager to the hospital, he told police the man who shot him was his drug supplier — a Jamaican known as "Killer," said homicide Detective Bobby Hammer. Police searched for the man

Monday and for several others believed involved in the attack. Hammer said the search is complicated by the fact that "nobody will tell us who 'Killer' is nobody knows his real name."

Texas Supreme Court justices take oath

By PEGGY FIKAC Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Two newly sworn justices on the Texas Supreme Court — one Democrat and one Republican — say they look forward to serving on a court that works together.

"I want to be part of a Supreme Court that is the pride of Texas and an example to others across the country," said Republican Justice Nathan Hecht, a former Dallas appeals judge.

Democratic Justice Lloyd Doggett, also elected in November, said, "I believe that what this court will be about is gaining renewed respect from our people by the way that we interpret and handle the decisions that we have to hand down.'

Hecht and Doggett — an Austin attorney and former state senator who said he lost a coin toss and so takes the court seat lowest in seniority — were among five justices sworn in Monday by Justice Anthony Kennedy of the U.S. Supreme Court.

The ceremony before a crowd in the Capitol's House chamber marked the first time in Texas history the oaths have been administered by a U.S. Supreme Court justice, according to the state court.

Sworn in was Chief Justice Thomas Phillips, a former Harris County district judge who in November became the first Republican elected to the court's top job since Reconstruction. Justice Eugene Cook, a Houston attorney who also was given the oath, and Hecht were the first elected Republican jus-

Phillips and Cook won seats they were appointed to by Republican Gov. Bill Clements after Democratic judges resigned.

Democratic Justice Raul Gonzalez, who in 1986 became the first Hispanic to win statewide office, also was sworn in. Gonzalez was appointed to the court in 1984 after serving as state appeals judge in Corpus Christi and district judge in Cameron County.

The oath first was given jointly to the three incumbents, then to the new justices. Tributes also were read for Justices Ted Robertson and William Kilgarlin, who are leaving the court. Robertson lost to Phillips for chief justice, and Kilgarlin lost to Hecht Clements, who has cheered the election of GOP court members, praised the new court after the swearing-in ceremony.

We in Texas have received significant criticism for some of the actions of our Texas Supreme Court, and I think that this will be a vast improvement over what we've had in the past," Clements said.

The court was criticized after refusing to hear an appeal of the $11 billion judgment against Texaco Inc. and after national news reports about large political contributions to some justices.

Democratic Justice Jack Hightower, a former North Texas congressman, also was elected to the Supreme Court in November. Hightower was sworn in last month to replace Justice Barbara Culver Clack, a Republican who had been appointed by the governor to fill an unexpired term.

Earlier Monday, justices elected to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals were sworn in at the House chamber.

Presiding Judge Michael McCormick, a Democrat who moved up from the job of judge, was sworn in by John Onion Jr., who retired as presiding judge.

McCormick swore in Judges Charles Campbell and Chuck Miller, also Democrats, who were re-elected.

U.S. District Judge James Nowlin swore in Judge David Berchelmann Jr., a former state district judge from Bexar County. Berchelmann, a Republican who ran against McCormick for the court's top position, was appointed by the governor to fill McCormick's unexpired term as judge on the court.

Disabled teachers find students more receptive than parents

By PHILLIP L. HAMILTON Plainview Daily Herald

PLAINVIEW (AP) — When it comes to accepting the disabled, students probably could teach their parents a thing or two.

Plainview teachers Sam Kendall and Dan Brown say young people are more willing to accept handicaps than their parents. And the educators should know. Despite crippling disabilities, they are in their classrooms every day teaching students.

"Kids don't wear masks," says Kendall, a dean at Estacado Junior High School. "They accept a lot of things that some adults cannot accept.

"Generally students are very receptive." he said. "They forget about my physical problems, so I forget about them.

Born with cerebral palsy, Kendall has had to learn how to live with his disability. He has adjusted his lifestyle to make the most of his physical problems.

While Kendall has been teaching at Estacado for 23 years, Brown is in his first year at Plainview High School

"I thought there might be some problems with my handicap, but there haven't been any problems at all," Brown said. "You have less acknowledgment of a handicap among kids than you do adults. Kids come forward quicker than adults and they can see through things better.

Brown contracted polio when he was less than 2 years old. With the assistance of a brace on his left leg, the technology systems teacher walks with a limp down the halls of Plainview High Brown, who moved here from southwest Oklahoma, believes local students are more tolerant of all kinds of differences including disabilities, ethnic backgrounds and income levels.

"One thing that I think may have helped is the amount of racial tolerance among the kids," Brown said. "They seem to accept differences in people here better than in some places."

Both men say their disabilities have given them an advantage in their classrooms. By overcoming handicaps to lead normal lives, the educators have become role models for students who may be disadvantaged physically, emotionally, economically or academically.

"I think it gives me an advantage in working with kids that may not have everything some of the other kids have," Brown said. 'There are all kinds of handicaps. Students see that even if they don't have all the breaks they can still make it."

"I think we are role models for handicapped kids," Kendall said.

"These kids are self-conscious of their handicaps whether they be physical or speech or whatever. If they see a handicapped adult functioning within the community as a positive role model, hopefully this has a positive effect on their outlook."

The teachers also are role models for advantaged students, according to the administrators who work with them.

"Sam Kendall has a very warm feeling for the kids and they in turn have that same feeling for him," said Wendell Dunlap, principal at Estacado Junior High School. He has worked with Kendall for nine years.

"He's one of the good ones,"

Dunlap said. "He is a very fine individual and an excellent teacher. His rapport with the students is just super."

Brown draws the same kind of praise from Jerry Don George, principal at Plainview High School.

"He's done a super job with the young people this year," George said. "He's gained the students" confidence and his rapport is growing. He's an excellent teacher. I don't think they look at him as being handicapped."

Having grown up with their physcial disabilities, neither educator thinks of himself as handicapped.

At least 31 people died on Texas roads during the 78-hour holiday, with most killed in accidents that occurred on New Year's Day, the Texas Department of Public

The 78-hour DPS counting period began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight Monday.

The DPS predicted 34 people would die in accidents during the holiday period. During the long Christmas weekend, 36 people died in traffic accidents — four more than officials had estimated.

A 17-year-old Spring Branch youth, David Ashley Hall, died in a two-vehicle accident Monday, DPS spokesman Mike Cox said. Cox said Hall wasn't wearing his seat belt when the accident occurred about 8:50 a.m. on FM 306 about 7 miles northwest of Canyon City in Comal County.

Also Monday, the DPS reported that Jesus Cervantes Lopez, 40, of Austin died late Sunday of injuries he received Friday while attempting to cross an Austin street. Cox said Lopez was struck by a southbound vehicle.

Dolores Burget Haynes, 35, died at 1 p.m. Monday of injuries she suffered in a traffic accident Friday night in Clay County, he said.

Cox also said Rodney Steven Perdue, 35, of Houston, was killed in an auto-bicycle accident New Year's Day in Houston, and an unidentified man believed to be in his early 20s died in Harris County early Monday morning while fleeing in what officials believed to be a stolen car.

Two brothers were killed in an accident in Amarillo. Michael Nowlin, 17, of Waco died shortly after the accident, which was reported at 11:58 p.m. Sunday. His 21-year-old brother, Christopher Nowlin of Canyon, died about 9 p.m. Monday at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo, nursing supervisor Monte Stiles said.

The DPS originally had reported Christopher Nowlin's death Monday morning, but hospital officials issued a statement saying the man was alive and in critical condition. Stiles said Christopher Nowlin died of head and other injuries suffered in the

Monica Martinez, 14, of Staf-

J.T. Criddle, 69, of Fresno, was driving the other vehicle involved in the collision that killed Ms. Martinez. Another victim was Ethel Leeman, 73, of Fresno, who was riding in the Criddle vehicle, Jesus L. Arrendondo, 53, of Houston, was killed when the car he was driving went out of control and struck a telephone pole at 12:40 p.m. Saturday, in Houston, said Cox.

Stanley Monroe Riley, 32, of Houston, died when the motorcycle he was operating went out of control and struck a fence and a lightpole, he said. The accident happened at 1:05 a.m. on New Year's Day in Houston.

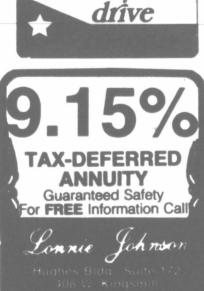

Xuan Thi Doung, 22, of Houston, was the driver of a car involved in an unrelated twovehicle accident in Houston, which also happened at 1:05 a.m.

Teachers prefer to do less TEAMS teaching

DALLAS (AP) — Elementary school students are being deprived of complete educations because administrators push teachers to boost students' scores on the state-mandated minimum basic skills test, Texas teachers

Some educators say they have been ordered by administrators to teach only items that will help students do well on the Texas Educational Assessment of Minimum Skills, ignoring the daily curriculum and other subjects not covered by the test, such as social studies and science.

"The test becomes the almighty thing," said Bob Baker, president of Classroom Teachers of Dallas. "You're teaching to a specific test, which is, by nature, Dallas Independent School District officials deny issuing such orders, the Dallas Times Herald reported.

State education officials, who have taken note of such complaints in Dallas and other Texas school districts, agree that some overzealous schools might be compromising the test's original purpose, and the state plans to change the exam because of that.

The test was introduced in fall 1985 as part of the sweeping. education reforms. It was designed to pinpoint students' weaker areas so districts could correct them, but was not designed to measure the quality of the focus of months of class work,

That, however, has been the re-

"We're going to change the test because of these kinds of things," said Keith Cruse, director of the Texas Education Agency's student assessment division. "It's become clear to us that there is a different use being made of it."

The plans include testing during the fall, rather than spring, to reduce the amount of time teachers can spend on pretest drills. Also, questions would be selected from a broader range of material, forcing teachers to cover the complete curriculum to prepare students. Cruse said the new tests should begin in the 1990-91 school year.

The test measures mastery of basic skills and contains three sections — reading, writing and math — with about 50 questions each.

The test costs almost $5 million annually to design, administer and grade. It is developed by an out-of-state contractor from specifications provided by the state.

At one Dallas elementary school, teachers say substitutes have been brought in to teach classes while the more experienced teachers tutor borderline students for the test in another room for several hours each day.

The arrangement hurts the students who remain in the class and those who are being coached both miss essential lessons, said education in a district or become a teacher who asked to remain anonymous.

SHOOTING PAINS

If you're a victim of sciatica, you know what "shooting pains" are all about. The sometimes excrutiating pain of sciatica frequently affects the hip, thigh and back of the leg. The ankle and foot are sometimes affected, too. But that's not where the problem is.

The sciatic nerve, the largest nerve in the body, extends from the lower spine to the back of the thigh and knee. Then it divides. One nerve goes down the front of the lower leg, and other goes down the back of the leg.

It's the inflammation of the sciatic nerve that causes the pain. This can be triggered by an irritated nerve root. What causes the irritation? The cause may be traced to a misalignment of the spinal column that's putting abnormal pressure on the roots of the sciatic nerves as they pass between the vertebrae.

Through x-rays and other procedures the doctor of chiropractic can locate the misaligned vertebrae. Using a gentle adjustment, he can align it properly again to help eliminate the cause and the pain.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Bush should use the image-makers

Given the nature of today's media-saturated world, President-elect George Bush should be turning to the image-makers themselves to run his administration. Some suggestions:

Secretary of State. One reason George Shultz has not done too well is that most of the world, having watched hundreds of reruns of Hogan's Heroes, confuses him with Sgt. Shultz, the bumbling German prison camp NCO. When Sgt. — er, Secretary — Shultz says "I see nooooothing, I know nooooothing" to Soviet violations of arms-control treaties, the perception is confirmed. Bush's choice for the post, old pal Jim Baker, looks like children's television personality Mister Rogers, hardly the kind of image we want to project to the world's threatening thugs, terrorists and ayatollahs.

Bush instead should appoint Sylvester Stallone. His Rambo movies have been even more popular throughout the world than at home, and bootleg copies are popular in the Soviet bloc. During a crisis, Secretary of State Stallone would only have to grunt "Yo, Gorbachev, I'm your worst nightmare!"

and the crisis would end.

Secretary of Treasury. Bush has reappointed

Nicholas Brady, another old friend, but that won't do. It's easy to confuse him with the Brady Bunch. No wonder the dollar is weak and interest rates are soaring. Bush should instead appoint Larry Hagman, known to foreigners as the scheming capitalist, J.R. Ewing, on Dallas. They wouldn't dare pull a fast one on him, for fear it would backfire to his advantage.

Energy Secretary. It would best go to Buddy Ebson, known to the world as Jed Clampett, the millionaire oil bumpkin who loaded up the truck and moved to Beverly Hills. Smooth Middle Eastern oil potentates will be taken in by Jed's simple ways, forgetting that Uncle Jed, Granny, Jethro and Ellie May always outwitted the city slickers in the end.

Other appointments should include Peter Graves of the old and new Mission Impossible as CIA director; George C. Scott of Patton as secretary of Defense; Bill Cosby as surgeon general; Arnold Schwarzenegger as UN ambassador; Eva Gabor of Green Acres as Agriculture secretary; Burt Reynolds as Transportation secretary; and Cheech and Chong as joint drug czars.

Much as the French under Louis XIV, the Sun King, spread their culture throughout the world, so today American TV culture is spreading everywhere. George Bush would be wise to make utmost use of this unique national resource.

Need a good book to read?

This has been a bad year for political oratory — "read my lips" was the most memorable phrase of the presidential campaign, but memorable only the sense that the "ring around the collar" commercial was memorable.

It's been a bad year for the dollar, which has sunk so often it ought to be resting on the ocean floor by now. It has been a bad year for the National Football League, where only the smallest degrees of ineptitude separate the cellar occupants from the play-off teams.

Fortunately, though, it has not been a bad year for books, which remain a dependable refuge from the collapse of civilization. What follow are some of the best I've run across in the last 12 months.

Military history is back in vogue, and one reason is the talents of such writers as British journalist Max Hastings, whose book, The Korean War is a briskly paced, pungently opinionated account of a costly but forgotten conflict.

It is also an appalling tale of how the American military machine that contributed so much to winning World War II fell into such disrepair that its forces could be pushed nearly off the Korean peninsula in a few weeks. For those tempted by Mikhail Gorbachev's peaceful overtures, Hastings' book is a bracing warning of the risks of not being ready for war.

Two illuminating public policy books come from authors associated with the Manhattan Institute, a New York-based think tank. Charles Murray's In Pursuit combines a meditation on the requirements for happiness with a searching examination of how government can advance that human goal.

He notes that most parents, if they were about to die, would rather place their children with a poor, honest, hardworking family than with wealthy ne'er-do-wells.

Why would you condemn your child to poverty? Because, he writes, "you want your child to be happy. You are trying to choose guardians who will best enable your child to pursue happiness. And, forced to a choice, material resources come very low on your list of priorities."

Murray concludes that the very government programs intended to improve people's lives — by assuring them food, clothing, shelter and the like — undermine the self-respect that is crucial to happiness. Readers won't find his arguments easy to dismiss.

Peter Huber's Liability confronts a narrower issue — the liability insurance problem, which has shut down city services, fostered early retirement among doctors, forced needed products off the market and made insurance for some industries almost impossible to get. His lucid, witty book shows how our system of compensating people for harm has gone astray.

Expanding the liability of those who provide goods and services was supposed to make the world less hazardous, but it has had the perverse effect of stifling advances that enhance safety. American research on contraceptives and vaccines, for example, has slowed to a trickle, simply because the legal risks of such products generally eclipse the likely profits.

"The lay mind is accustomed to equate familiarity with safety, but newer, more often than not, is in fact safer than older," writes Huber. "Innovation remains the most vital, long-term promoter of safety that we know."

This has not been a good year for fiction, at least judging from my sampling. In fact, I can't remember a year when I tossed aside more novels halfway through out of disgust — including several critically acclaimed ones.

The only new novel I can recommend is British writer Doris Lessing's The Fifth Child, a bleak tale of how a family is destroyed by a child so strange and violent that he literally seems to be of another species.

The book can be taken as a fable about the folly of Margaret Thatcher's policies, as some critics have suggested, but it can just as easily be read as an indictment of the welfare state. Lessing says such interpretations are silly, but they'll provide plenty of material for arguments over your dinner table. And if you prefer your fiction free of politics, fine: Purely as a wrenching domestic story, this novel is a fine achievement.

Finally, if the violence and tedaium of the NFL playoffs and the college bowl games plunge you into a holiday funk, there is Roger Angell's latest collection of his baseball reportage for the New Yorker magazine, Season Ticket. This time of year, the thinking fan's sport is a great change of pace. And if you take your time, this book could keep you pleasantly occupied until the start of spring training.

Today in history

By The Associated Press Today is Tuesday, Jan. 3, the third day of 1989. There are 362

Today's Highlight in History:
On Jan. 3, 1959, President
Dwight D. Eisenhower signed a proclamation admitting Alaska to the Union as the 49th state.

On this date:

In 1521, Martin Luther was excommunicated from the Roman Catholic Church.
In 1777, George Washington's army routed the British in the Battle of Princeton, N.J.

In 1833, Britain seized control of the Falkland Islands in the South Atlantic. Almost 150 years later, Argentina seized the islands from the British, but Britain took them back after a 74-day war.)

In 1871, Henry W. Bradley of Binghamton, N.Y., received a patent for oleomargarine.

In 1938, the March of Dimes campaign to fight polio was organized.

In 1946, William Joyce, known as "Lord Haw Haw" for his pro-Nazi radio broadcasts from Germany, was hanged in London. Although American-born, Joyce held a British passport.

In 1967, Jack Ruby, the man who shot presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald on live television, died in a Dallas hospital.

If Jim Bakker is convicted of all he's been accused of, he could be fined millions of dollars and sentenced to as many as 120 years in prison.

If Jim Bakker is convicted of all he's been accused by the sentence of the sen accused of, I don't think the aforementioned penalties are harsh enough.

There are several reasons why I think that.

Jim Baker is a bloodsucking weasel. There will never be a full accounting of all the money he bilked out of old people, and ignorant people, by making them think a donation to him and his PTL club was a donation to the Lord.

It would be easy to say that anybody who sent money to such a jerk had it coming, but old folks

It would be easy to say that anybody who sent money to such a jerk had it coming, but old folks want to make reservations in heaven, and the ignorant can't help it, so there.

If it had not been for Jim Bakker the world would never have known Tammy Faye.
Jim Bakker, judging from his alleged sexual escapades, has the morals of a drunken Roman cavorting under the Colisseum spans.

OK, so let's say Jim Bakker is found guilty and fined a few million dollars. No problem.

There's probably still enough fish out there who would send in their cash to help him pay if he sent out the word.

And so he is convicted and sentenced to prison for 120 years. You know what they say about what happens in prisons.

No, no. A creep like Jim Bakker ought to get some special punishment. I spent some time thinking of some examples.

1. He should be sent to a deserted island from where there can be no escape. His only companion would be his wife, and she wouldn't be allowed to take along any makeup. Every night for Jim Bakker would be a Night of the Living Dead.

2. He should be forced to make a pass at Mike Tyson by walking up next to him in a bar and hissing him in the car saving "Hi slugger" kissing him in the ear, saying, "Hi, slugger."

3. He should be made to run naked in the woods with a pair of antlers on his head on the opening day of deer season.

4. He should be forced to undergo an operation in which doctors would cut here and snip there and cause him to be severely constipated for the rest of his life.

5. With apologies to Hank Williams Jr., who thought of this line first, if Jim Bakker goes to prison and there's a clean-up detail, they ought to use his head for a mop and his butt for a broom.

6. He should have his hands tied behind his back and a pork chop tied around his neck and be put into a room with four hungry female pit bulls suffering from extreme cases of PMS.

7. Fill in this one for yourself, I don't want to hog all the fun.

Memory needs better retrieval system

By SARAH OVERSTREET

I visited one of my friends for his 80th birthday the other day and he, his wife, the other guest (my age) and I all lost my car keys.

It took all four of us to lose them: I had them when I came in the door, and all of us watched the birthday boy take my coat, my gloves, my earmuffs and the gift I brought him, and none of us paid any attention to what happened to my car keys. When it was time to go, we combed the house several times, retraced my steps; we did everything you always do when you've lost something.

"Now, let's see, you were standing here and then you went to the phone to answer your pager," (walk, walk, point, point, re-enact, re-enact). Next, we tried to recreate thought processes. "Now, maybe you thought you would put your keys in your coat pocket ... maybe I was thinking I would put your keys on the bed with your coat, and then maybe I stopped off to put the Irish Cream in the refrigerator ... MAYBE I PUT YOUR KEYS IN THE REFRIGERATOR!" We looked. He hadn't.

We peered through the locked, dark car with a flashlight, on one hand not wanting to see them because that would mean we'd have to call a locksmith, but hoping on the other hand that we WOULD see them, so we'd know we hadn't all just walked into the "Twilight Zone" where keys disappear down black holes and it's 1958

We looked all over the yard, we put on our coats and lay on our bellies and looked under the car. We finally found the Devil Keys in a soft chair, sort of nestled between the arm and the cushion, where Cheetos and peanuts rest just before they disappear forever. It was the chair no one had sat in. My friend felt bad and KNEW it

My friend felt bad and KNEW it had to be his fault because he's 80 and must be losing his memory. I hate to spoil his dirge, but age doesn't give him any corner on forgetfulness. There's no affliction in my life that's cost me more in time, money and wrinkles during the past year than my memory. If I could have back the time I've spent looking for things I've misplaced the last year, I could research and write a best-seller entitled "How To Improve Your Memory," and retire.

And my friend and I are in good company. Recently I watched a TV program about Yuppies who believe they're developing Alzheimer's disease because of their forgetfulness, and are going to their doctors by the hordes to have tests for it. Turns out they're not suffering from Alzheimer's, they're just not remembering.

Personally, I'm convinced it doesn't have anything to do with age, or early Alzheimer's, or even faulty memory; I think, first, we just have a lot to do, and second, we're not paying very close attention.

I think the mind, like a computer, will hold X number of bytes to play back to us. However, you can't just say "Oh, yoo hoo, Mr. Computer, I'd like to have that manuscript I was working on yesterday." You have to have a system for finding that information: directories to scan, and commands to get at the stuff once it's stored. We're putting the stuff into our minds, haphazardly, and relying on it to be there when we want it. We have no way to locate it. My own system is so faulty, I go to look for something and I don't even get a blip on my monitor screen. A month later, the system purges everything.

So, this New Year, my resolution is to program my memory — my cerebral computer — better. I say one resolution only, because I'm having a tough enough time remembering to take the garbage out, much less a long list of self-improvements I'm supposed to be making. With memory problems, less is more. Or something like that.

Premarital tests find few AIDS cases in brides, grooms

By TERRI COLBY Associated Press Writer

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) - In making their wedding plans, Rhonda Hufford and Todd Kellermann chose musicians, pink dresses and gray tuxedos.

And they were tested for AIDS under a year-old law some officials say isn't worth the cost.

The nation's only premarital AIDS testing law may not be a law much longer, primarily because, like the Kellermanns, the overwhelming majority of those tested have shown no signs of the virus that causes acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

Illinois' mandatory testing program took effect Jan. 1, 1988. But only 23 of the 150,000 people tested in the first 11 months were found to be infected with the virus, the state Department of Public Health said.

That's about one in 6,500 tested.

The cost of the AIDS test in Illinois, including the doctor's visit, ranges from $25 to $125 per person, said state Health Department spokesman Tom Schafer.

Based on a "conservative" $35 per test average, the cost of finding each of the 23 infected people came to more than $228,000, he Still to receive a marriage license for their June wedding, Kellermann and Ms. Hufford, a nursing student, had to show the Macon County Clerk's office a certificate verifying they had been tested.

"I'm easygoing about it," said Kellerman, a 22-year-old Springfield computer analyst. "As long as they make it a law, there's not much you can do about it."

But the law has resulted in a 25 percent drop in the number of marriage license applications in Illinois, state Public Health Director Bernard Turnock said.

President Reagan confirmed Monday that United States representatives have discussed possible PLO assistance in investigating the airliner bombing over Scotland that took 270 lives.

President Reagan says he would be happy to receive any information that PLO chairman Yasser Arafat might offer to help solve the mystery of Pan American Flight 103, which crash Dec. 21 en route from London to New York.

Arafat has condemned the bombing.

An administration official, speaking on condition he not be identified, said the United States stopped short of formally requesting Palestine Liberation Organization assist-

Deputy White House Press Secretary Roman Popadiuk said Monday that Robert Pelletreau, the U.S. ambassador to Tunisia, met

Saturday at the U.S. Embassy in Tunis with Hakam Balaoui, the PLO represetative in Tunis

Popadiuk said the meeting was requested by Balaoui to introduce himself to Pelletreau. He said it was not a continuation of the contacts, which the United States calls a dialogue, which began with a meeting Dec. 16 between Pelletreau and three members of the PLO executive committee.

"The discussion centered on Middle East issues," Popadiuk said. "The ambassador took the opportunity to mention that the United States would welcome any information the PLO is able to develop concerning the Pan Am tragedy."

"This is in line with what we have already publicly stated, and is true for the PLO as well as anyone else who may have information on the bombing," he said.

The administration official who spoke anonymously said, "This was not a request for assistance from the PLO.'

The official said Balaoui took note of Pelletreau's comments and told the ambassador he would relay them to Arafat.

Earlier Monday, Reagan was asked about reports that Arafat had offered his assistance in the investigation.

"We've not heard from him," the president. "We will be happy to hear from him. If he has anything to tell us, I'm sure he'll tell

The exchange took place as Reagan stepped off Air Force One at Los Angeles International Airport after spending New Year's weekend in the Palm Springs area.

He and his wife, Nancy, were then driven to the brick, ranch-style home in the expensive Bel Air section of Los Angeles where they will live after they leave the White House Jan. 20.

AIDS test," said Janet Hudacek of the Lake County, Ind., clerk's office, which has seen a six-fold increase in the number of Illinois residents seeking marriage licenses. "Mostly it's the cost."

To the north, in Kenosha County, Wis., officials are selling more marriage licenses to Illinoisans than to Wisconsin residents.

Through Dec. 8, they said, 1,073 Illinois couples got married in Kenosha County — 51 percent of all licenses issued. The previous year, 58 Illinois couples were married there of 1,021 licenses issued, said Michelle Riley, a clerk in the county offices.

Because the number of people with AIDS infections detected through premarital testing is so low and the cost so high, Turnock plans to recommend to Republi-

Democratic state Rep. Grace Mary Stern, who was rebuffed this spring in efforts to dump the testing law, has filed legislation for this session to end the testing.

But Republican Rep. Penny Pullen said repealing the law would send a message that Illinois no longer sees AIDS as a serious problem.

"This program is giving thousands of Illinois couples the good news that they are not infected," she said. "In this society, with its current mores, that can be very good news indeed, and yet it's very unlikely that couples would demand the test of each other if the state did not de-

Illinois is the only state with a premarital AIDS testing law. Louisiana repealed its version of the law last year.

Bakker blames the devil

PINEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Jim Bakker returned to the TV pulpit with his wife for the first time in two years and blamed his downfall and subsequent indictment on Satan, not on PTL's sex-and-money scandal.

"I believe the devil said, 'I have to smash Jim and Tammy Bakker,' "he told viewers Monday.

The broadcast originated in the living room of the Bakkers' borrowed home and was sent by satellite to a half-dozen stations, mostly cable, in California, Ohio, New York, Pennsylvanïa and Louisiana, Bakker

"Jim, I think this is probably the happiest day of my life,' Mrs. Bakker said as the show began. Sporting her trademark heavy eye makeup, she broke into tears two minutes into the hourlong

Bakker and a former top associate were indicted last month on charges of diverting $4 million in PTL money for their benefit.

The Bakkers had not preached together on television since January 1987. Two months later, allegations surfaced of his 1980 sexual encounter with church secretary Jessica Hahn.

Bakker said his last television show at PTL featured the groundbreaking for the Cryscourt last month approved the sale of Heritage USA to a Canadian businessman.

Bakker, however, holding a drawing of the glass church, said he had not given up.

"I believe that someday we will still build it," Bakker said. "I believe that was the last straw for Satan. I think the devil was mad that something so beautiful was being built."

Bakker, 49, thanked a supporter who had donated the money to put him back on television but made no direct appeal for donations. Callers to a "prayer line" telephone number — not tollfree — were asked to give their name and prayer request. Bakker frequently referred to the family's recent experi-"You can make it," he said.

"If Jim and Tammy can survive their holocaust of two years, I know God will help you to survive. There's times when I did not want to live. There's times when I prayed to die. But I know this: God was always there."

China sentences African student to jail without any trial

BEIJING (AP) — An African student from Benin has been summarily sentenced to 15 days in prison following a bloody Christmas Eve brawl between Chinese and Africans in Nanking, an African diplomat said Monday.

It was the first report that a second African had been formally arrested in connection with the brawl that left 11 Chinese and two Africans iniured.

The diplomat, Benin's first secretary, Gobo Bio Mamah, also quoted African students as saying that Chinese police stripped and tortured two students from Benin when they attacked 140 mostly African students at a guest house outside Nanking on Saturday.

"We have heard that they were made to walk almost naked in the cold as police poked them with electric cattle prods," Mamah said. "They were doing this to make them talk. It appears to be torture.

The brawl at Nanking's Hehai University sparked five days of anti-black protests and resulted in most of the city's African students being forced by police to the guest house on Dec. 26.

The students had wanted to flee the east-central city for Beijing, but were stopped by police at Nanking's railway station.

African students said about 400 Chinese police attacked them Saturday in the guest house and removed about half of them, returning some to their universities and sending others to another

The student witnesses said Chinese police beat and detained seven or eight of their classmates. One witness said police charged the students as loudspeakers broadcast platitudes about China's great friendship with African nations.

Another said he saw about seven police beating one student from the Congo.

Chinese news reports said only that a student from Ghana, Alex Dzabaku Dosoo, had been arrested and three other students held for questioning. No mention was made of a student from

But Mamah said officials from the Public Security Department in Beijing told him Sunday that student Ludovic Dossoumon had been sentenced without trial to 15 days in prison as "punishment."

Chinese authorities in Beijing refused to specify Dossoumon's alleged crimes, he said.

"They told me the authorities in Nanking were the only ones who could say anything," Mamah said. "This action is unacceptable."

Chinese authorities at the Ministry of Public Security said they were "not clear" about the

A Ghanian diplomat said China had broken an agreement to keep the students at the guest house until a delegation representing nine African countries returned to Nanking.

The delegation came to Nanking last Tuesday for negotiations, returned to Beijing and was planning to go again to Nanking later this week.

Police say they will seek homicide charges in boat sinking

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) Police said they would seek homicide charges against two cruise officials and two port guards in the New Year's Eve capsizing of a sightseeing boat in which at least 51 people drowned.

Authorities also said Monday they were investigating allegations that the guards were paid to let the boat sail overloaded into choppy waters. It was still not clear how many passengers were missing because cruise operators said the passenger list went down with the 100-foot flat-bottomed craft. Estimates of those on board ranged from 130 to 150, but it was not known how many were rescued by nearby boats.

Tables, chairs and a broken wooden staircase on the sunken boat blocked an underwater search Monday, said Col. Jefferson Cardoso de Bem, who heads the Fire Department's Maritime Group.

Captain charged

GUATEMALA CITY (AP) -Authorities charged a 22-year-old ferry captain with negligent homicide after the boat, overcrowded with New Year's travelers, sank off the Caribbean coast. Sixty-seven people drowned and 14 were missing.

Officials said 46 people survived the sinking of the ferry Justo Rufino Barrios II in Amatique Bay on Guatemala's east coast Sunday.

Juan Pablo Ezquibel was arrested after authorities determined that about 120 people were aboard the 30-ton ferry, which was authorized to carry 90, said Capt. Anibal Giron Arreola, second-in-command at the Puerto Barrios naval base.

'Lazy Way' to Lose Weight Already Sweeping U.S.

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special)— An amazing new weight loss pill called "fat-magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" you steady fat loss and calorie reduction by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

The U.S. government has just approved the doctors claims for a hard-to-get patent that confirms "there has never been anything like their fat-bonding pill process before." It is a totally new major scientific breakthrough and is revolutionizing the weight loss industry.

You Can "Eat Normally"
Best of all, "you can continue to eat your favorite foods and you don't have to change your normal eating habits. You can start losing fat and reduce calories from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight you desire without exercising Flushes Fat Out of Body The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pill because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in undigested fat particles. Then, all the trapped fat and calories are naturally "flushed" right out of your body because they cannot be absorbed.

Within 2 days you should notice a change in the color of your stool, caused by the fat particles being eliminated.
"Automatically" Lose Fat

According to one of the inventors, Dr. William Shell, heart specialist and associate professor of medicine at UCLA medical school, "the new fatbonding process is a "lazy way" to lose weight because the pills alone 'automatically' reduce calories by eliminating dietary fat. It is 100% safe and not a drug.

The fat-magnet pills are already sweeping the country with glowing reports of weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slimmer, trimmer and

Cattle brands tell story of early area ranches

U-U (U Bar U) — In 1878, Nick Eaton brought a herd from the Fort Griffin area and established the U Bar U Ranch 25 miles west of present Wheeler. Eaton was a charter member of the Panhandle Stock Association, formed in Mobeetie in 1880.

The U Bar U, which included one-third of Gray County, had headquarters on Hackberry Creek, a tributary of McClellan Creek. This was 6 miles northwest of present McLean near the North Fork of Red River. Eaton ran 3,000 head of cattle.

Eaton's U Bar U was one of the first ranches to close after the unusually severe winter of 1885-86 when many cattle froze to death. Ranchers referred to this period as "the big die-up."

It is believed that Eaton went to Kansas City after he sold his remaining cattle.

Z-Z (Z Bar Z) — The brand was recorded by C.E. (Tobe) Oden (or Odom) at Mobeetie in 1882. However, some sources refer to this ranch as T-T (T Bar T).

Oden's ranch was on the North Fork of the Red River and McClellan Creek, straddling the Gray and Wheeler County line. The headquarters was in the area of the future town of Lefors. The ranch was managed by George Henry Saunders, who came to the Panhandle in 1875. In 1884, Oden brought 10,000 "dogie" steers from South Texas. By the spring of 1887, he had only 1,500 head. This was the result of drought and "the big die-up." It is thought that, in 1887, Oden sold his remaining cattle and any land claim he might have had to a larger adjoining ranch. (RO) - Afred Rowe was an Englishman who arrived in Donley County in 1879. The next year, through the purchase of script, he began his ranch north of Skillet

His first headquarters was a two-room adobe house, and his first herd consisted of Longhorns trailed up from South Texas. Charles Goodnight helped him choose his first cattle, and one of Goodnight's men was loaned to be Rowe's first foreman. The RO was located below the Caprock on rolling prairie land watered by the Salt Fork of the Red River and its tributaries. It extended from east of the Rockledge switch in Gray County through the present town of

Mrs. Rowe's diary showed that, in 1900, the ranch covered 100,000 acres and ran 10,000 head

A town was named for Rowe but was moved and renamed Hedley when the Fort Worth and Denver Railroad came through Donley County in 1887. About the beginning of the 20th century, Rowe built the town of McLean.

Alfred Rowe died when the Titanic sank in April 1912. His widow sold the ranch in 1917 to W.J. Lewis

Bow and Arrow Cross — In 1880, the first and only horse ranch in Gray County was established on McClellan Creek by S.V. Barton and Jesse Wynne. The first headquarters was in a dugout; later a rock house was Barton, who had made surveys for the state in 1873 and following years, had received nine sections of land at 30 cents an acre in preference to pay of $3 a day.

Wynne, who helped herd Barton's 1.000 head of horses, was paid $45 per month, including room and board; he furnished his

In 1883, Frank Houston purchased the Rockwall school grant, a block of about 20,000 acres in southern Gray County. This bordered the Barton ranch which controlled much of McClellan Creek. Houston bought Barton out and stocked his range with a herd he branded with a bow and Quarter Circle Heart — Lewis Henry Carhart, who came to the Panhandle in 1878, was the founder of the Christian colony which became Clarendon (called 'Saint's Roost" by derisive cowboys). Like most newcomers to the Texas Panhandle, Carhart invested in a few hundred head of cattle which he branded with a Quarter Circle Heart, a heart topped by the upper quarter of a

With the financial help of his brother-in-law, Alfred Sully, Carhart formed the Clarendon Land and Investment Company. In 1884, this company purchased the entire holdings of Frank Houston. By this purchase, the Quarter Circle Heart extended north into Gray County for 11 miles to McClellan Creek. The Quarter Circle Heart was another of the early ranches to close in 1886.

⋄F (Diamond F) — This brand was filed in October 1882, soon after the organization of the Francklyn Land and Cattle Company. Managed by B.B. and H.T. Groom, the ranch consisted of 631,000 acres in Hutchinson, Carson, Gray and Roberts Counties.

In 1886, the Francklyn company was unable to pay bonds due and was reorganized as White Deer Lands. The Francklyn cattle were sold to Alfred Sully, who owned the Clarendon Cattle Com-

N-N (N Bar N) — William F. and Frederick W. Niedringhaus of St. Louis were two brothers, originally from Germany, who made a fortune by the manufacturing of gray speckled graniteware. They invested their profits in cattle ranching in Montana and New Mexico.

From 1888 to 1892, the Niedringhaus brothers leased a range in Carson and neighboring counties from White Deer Lands. The headquarters of the N Bar N was about 2 miles southeast of present White Deer

The first successful water well on the High Plains was drilled near the ranch headquarters in 1887. Previously, B.B. Groom had drilled unsuccessfully in 1886.

The N Bar N left White Deer Lands in 1892 because the land company wanted the range cleared of large herds. From April to September, 100 cowboys drove 10 herds, each with 2,500 cattle, or a total of 25,000 beeves, to Montana.

This was the last great cattle drive from the Texas Panhandle. A state historical marker commemorating the event is on the south side of Highway 60 about 1 mile east of White Deer.

Flying V — The Matador Cattle

Company was established in Motley County in 1879. Three years later, the company was sold to a group of stockholders from Dundee, Scotland, and the name was changed to the Matador Land and Cattle Company. The new company adopted the Flying V brand.

After a period of drought in 1892, the Matador company leased 348,000 acres in Carson and Gray Counties from White Deer Lands. During the period from July 1, 1893 to July 1, 1805, more than 10,000 Matador steers were kept on White Deer grass. When the lease expired, no effort was made to renew it since good rains and fine grass on the home range made leasing unneces-

In 1897, a new law threw open to settlement all the lands within the Matador range. Again, from 1899 to 1902, the Matador herds occupied a portion of the White Deer pasture.

Although the Matador company attempted to renew the lease when it expired in 1902, the White Deer company was unwilling to renew. The refusal was due to the fact that the owners of White Deer Lands had decided to start a town at Pampa and to reserve all the land around Pampa to sell to settlers.

David Somerville, for whom Somerville Street in Pampa was named, was the manager of the Matador lease on White Deer Lands from 1899 to 1902. The headquarters was in the White Deer Lands boardinghouse built by George Tyng in 1891-92. This was approximately the location of the gazebo in MacCarley Park

Remembrances of lost child soothe pain of parents' grief

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to "Bereaving, Too," who wondered whether to acknowledge the birthday of her sister's son who had committed suicide. I had to write because I was in very much the same position. Millie - had a beautiful teen age date of their loved one. I am a "stillago, karen died of a rare mother, blood disease. Every year since name. Karen's death, a few of Millie's close friends remember Karen's birthday by sending a donation to Karen's school. We then visit Millie with flowers and a card saying, "We remember Karen and miss her, and are thinking of you and her today."

Millie's relatives have never acknowledged Karen's birthday since her death. I know they think they are being kind, but they are mistaken. "Remembering" Karen would please her mother.

Abby, please continue to tell people that when a young person dies, the grieving parents and siblings are left to cope with the loss. Failing to mention their loved one is like saying that their child never existed.

All one needs to say is, "I remember, and I care." BEEN THERE

DEAR BEEN THERE: Many others who have "been there" wrote to say essentially what you have said. I thank you all for writing. Perhaps thousands will learn from it. I did.

DEAR ABBY: I just read "Bereaving's" letter asking whether she should send her sister and her husband a nice card or call them on their dead son's birthday. (He committed suicide.) I'm glad you told her not to just ignore the day, as so many people are inclined to do because they are afraid of "stirring up emotions."

I speak from experience, Abby. We lost the eldest of our three sons nearly two years ago when he fell from the roof of a building. Keith was only 21 years old. Sometimes I wonder if everyone he knew has forgotten him because his name is never mentioned. I suppose they think they're being kind and don't want to upset me by reminding me that Keith is dead. Abby, believe me, there is never a minute of the day that I am not aware that my son is dead. No one needs to be afraid of "reminding" me. How I would love to talk about the son I lost with someone who knew

Please keep advising people to send a card or call those who are My best friend — I'll call her grieving on the birthday or death daughter I'll call Karen. Three grieving-but-getting-on-with-her-life

> CAROLE EDWARDS, ORMAND BEACH, FLA.

DEAR CAROLE: My heart goes out to you. Perhaps some of Keith's friends will see this, and now, knowing how you feel, they will visit you and reminisce about Keith. I hope

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for telling "Bereaving" to send a simple note saying, "Thinking of you with love." It was a perfect answer. I

I lost my beloved husband over a year ago, and when his birthday came around, not a soul mentioned it to me. I spent the day alone weeping because nobody wanted to risk "stirring up my emotions." It hurt me more wondering if everyone who had known him had forgotten that he had ever lived. Or perhaps they didn't know how much he meant to me. A grieving person wants to talk about the one he or she lost. So what if it does bring on a flood of tears? The tears are there anyway, waiting to be shed.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please tell me how old a person is supposed to be before he's considered a "senior citizen"? I was in a health food store paying for my purchases when the check-out man asked me if I was entitled to a senior citizen's discount. I am 55 and did not consider myself a senior citizen, so I asked him how old must I be to get one. He replied, "55." I was surprised, but gladly took the discount. I always believed 65 was the age! HAPPILY 55

DEAR HAPPILY: Senior citizenship can be anywhere from 50 on up. When in doubt, ask!

Irish capture undisputed national title

AP Sports Writer

TEMPE, Ariz. — It was only a rumor that the clouds over the Fiesta Bowl looked like Knute Rockne's face, and that he smiled watching Notre Dame reclaim the national championship.

If Rockne's visage wasn't in the air, though, his spirit surely was on a day of glory for America's team at the end of a perfect 12-0 season

The Fighting Irish spirit was alive in the current coach, Lou Holtz, who has hummed the Notre Dame Victory March since childhood.

It was alive in Tony Rice, the best rushing quarterback in Notre Dame history and now, surprisingly, a slick passer in a 34-21 victory over No. 3 West Vir-

Holtz and Rice christened a new football era and joined an old tradition by winning Notre Dame's first national title in 12

They also stirred nostalgia for the days of Rockne, Frank Leahy, Ara Parseghian and Dan Devine, who won 13 titles among

"I think Knute Rockne would be proud of this football team," Holtz said in a raspy but firm voice moments after the game. "I think this football team is what Notre Dame's spirit is all about."

Holtz heard the Notre Dame victory song through his youth when it was played at his school, run by the Sisters of Notre Dame. He has been a success nearly everywhere he's worked, but ren't for us, Southern California, yard, seven-play drive.

never more than this year for the Miami and West Virginia would team he's always dreamed of coaching.

This year's Fighting Irish were a scrappy, ornery bunch who earned every bit of Monday's 11 penalties and caused injuries to several key West Virginia players in the first quarter, including quarterback Major Harris.

Harris, a righthanded passer, hurt his left shoulder when he ran on the third play and played more cautiously afterward.

"It definitely affected my scrambling," said Harris, who ran for only 11 yards and passed for 166. "I think on certain plays, was thinking about my shoulder. Every time I landed on it, I could feel the pain."

Meanwhile, Rice, selected the offensive player of the game, was a cool general and a one-man

Rice threw standing still, on the run and jumping like a basketball player, which he also is, and finished with a career-high 213 yards and two touchdowns. He also rushed for 75 of Notre Dame's 242 yards on the ground.

Notre Dame's defense kept the high-scoring Mountaineers to 282 net yards by sacking Harris three times and pressuring him most of the rest of the time.

Holtz, who has been hesitant about calling his team the best in the country, claimed it for his players now after beating the second, third and fourth ranked teams this season.

'They deserve the national championship for their continued hard work," he said. "If it weall still be undefeated."

The national title, officially conferred today when results of the final Associated Press poll of the season are released, is coming to Holtz in his third season as coach — just as it did for Leahy, Parseghian and Devine.

Leahy won in 1943, 1946, 1947 and 1949, Parseghian in 1966 and 1973 and Devine in 1977.

Rockne won six other national titles before The Associated Press poll began in 1936.

West Virginia coach Don Nehlen had hoped for his first national championship, but left with memories of "a great season" only slightly marred by this

"We didn't play very well," he said. "Major was hurt the first half but Notre Dame is a better football team than we are. They beat us up front. They deserved to win. They are better than we

The Mountaineers trailed 26-13 and had a chance to get back in the game when cornerback Willie Edwards intercepted a Rice pass and returned it 14 yards to the Irish 26 with 2:45 left in the third period

But Notre Dame's hard-hitting defense rose to the occasion. Harris lost two yards, threw an incomplete pass and then was sacked by All-American end Frank Stams, voted the defensive player of the game, and linebacker Arnold Ale for a 12-yard loss that put the Mountaineers out of field

Miami rolls over Nebraska

MIAMI — After proving themselves better than Nebraska, the Miami Hurricanes claimed they're better than No. 1 Notre Dame.

The Hurricanes thumped Nebraska 23-3 in Monday night's Orange Bowl game to ensure retention of their No. 2 ranking in the final Associated Press poll. Miami's only loss in 12 games was a 31-30 decision at Notre Dame in October.

"We might not be number one, but at this time we are the best football team in the country," Miami coach Jimmy Johnson said.

"Notre Dame has a great football team, and they beat us up in South Bend. But we've come a long way since then. and we're not the inexperienced team now that we were at that time."

The Fighting Irish beat West Virginia 34-21 Monday afternoon in the Fiesta Bowl to end Miami's hopes of a second straight national championship. Most of the Hurricanes learned that Notre Dame had won voien the score was announced over the public address system midway through the Orange Bowl

"We were a little upset, and it got us a little fired up," quarterback Steve Walsh said. "We wanted to show the country that we were the best team in the country, maybe not in the polls but on the field."

Miami definitely was the No. 1 team in the Orange Bowl. The Hurricanes rolled to a 20-0 halftime lead thanks to two touchdown passes from Walsh to Leonard Conley and a defense that allowed only two first downs.

"They're the best team we've faced this season," Nebraska coach Tom Osborne said. "I'm sure that Notre Dame will be number one, but I don't think there are many teams that would come into the Orange Bowl and be favored to beat Miami."

Sixth-ranked Nebraska, 11-2, finished with 80 yards rushing, its lowest total in a bowl game since the 1941 Rose Bowl. I-back Ken Clark, who rushed for 1,497 yards during the regular season, was held to a season-low 36 yards in 14 car-

"The defense pretty well had them zeroed in with everything that they did," Johnson said. "I think that we dominated the line of scrimmage more than anything else."

Nebraska's Steve Taylor completed only eight of 21 passes for 55 yards and ran 17 times for 12 yards. He suffered six sacks, including two by defensive end Greg Mark.

"We practiced containing Taylor all week long, because we felt that was the key," Mark said. "Our defense just got off the ball real quick and beat the Nebraska line to the punch.

The Hurricanes had a big advantage in total yards, 354-

"I'm proud of ourselves, Mark said. "Even though Notre Dame did win, our team showed a lot of character by not giving up and not pouting."

The game's only touchdowns came on Walsh passes of 22 and 42 yards to Conley. The latter score included a dazzling effort by the running back, who caught a swing pass at the 38-yard line and weaved down the left sideline with the help of blocks by three teammates.

Miami's Carlos Huerta added field goals of 18, 37 and 37 yards. One of the kicks followed a blocked punt by Bubba McDowell, the 10th of his Nebraska's Gregg Barrios kicked a 50-yard field goal in the third quarter.

Walsh, named the game's most valuable player, passed for 277 yards and set Orange Bowl records with 21 completions in 44 attempts. The old marks were 20 completions by Alabama's Steve Sloan in 1966 and 37 attempts by Alabama's Joe Namath in 1965

UCLAikman overwhelms Hogs

By CHARLES RICHARDS Associated Press Writer

DALLAS — Arkansas Coach Ken Hatfield said it was not as much what UCLA quarterback Troy Aikman did but the fear of what he might do that made for a long day for the Razorback defense

"Their offense is more of a runthe-ball and short passing game, but the thing that scares you is that Aikman has such a tremendous arm and you have to stop the long pass," Hatfield said Monday after UCLA defeated Arkansas 17-3 in the Cotton Bowl

"You're aware of the potential every down that if you don't cover deep that he can open up the game," Hatfield said.

The Southwest Conference champions were geared to prevent Aikman from beating them with the big play, but UCLA put together drives built around the running of two young backs and Aikman's short- and mediumrange passing.

The Dallas Cowboys have the first pick in the 1989 NFL draft and are expected to use it to take

Cowboys personnel director Gil Brandt was waiting for Aikman at the edge of the field after the game and congratulated him on the victory "I thought he played well, real well," Brandt said. "Coach Landry will be the one who makes the final decision, but I would be shocked if we don't

'The key was the physical play of our football team," said UCLA nose tackle Jim Wahler.

'We stuffed them. I was shocked. I didn't think we could stuff Arkansas that much. I was very proud of our entire effort," Wahler added.

UCLA senior cornerback Darryl Henley said: "Anytime you put together that kind of statistics — three or four first downs, 42 yards rushing, only two or three passes completed against you that's something you have to attribute directly to the coaching

Hatfield said no other team has dominated Arkansas like UCLA did Monday. His team won its first 10 games before losing to Miami 18-16 in its regular-season

"We seemed to be three plays and out, while they took a pretty long time with the ball and kept our defense on the field. Sportswriters voted Aikman the game's outstanding offensive player and Arkansas linebacker LaSalle Harper the outstanding defensive player.

AP Sports Writer PASADENA, Calif. — Bo Schembechler knew in his bionic heart that Michigan could win the Rose Bowl if it could stop Southern California's powerful running attack.

He also knew he'd need some surprises for USC coach Larry Smith, who broke into football in the 1960's as Schembechler's assistant.

Schembechler, who suffered a heart attack in 1970 and underwent quadruple bypass surgery a little over a year ago, concocted a plan that worked to perfection Monday as the Wolverines beat the Trojans 22-14, giving the Big Ten successive victories over the Pacific-10 Conference.

"I've said all week the most important thing was to stop their running," said Schembechler, whose personal record now is 2-7 in Rose Bowl games and 5-11 in all bowls. "(Southern Cal quarterback) Rodney Peete can beat you himself. If you let those big backs run, Rodney Peete's going to have a field day.

"We did a good job stopping the run in the second half. That made all the difference." The Wolverines:

- Rushed for 208 yards, 142 by Leroy Hoard who earned MVP

- Held USC to 138 net yards rushing, just 31 in the second half. Surprised the Trojans by throwing the ball 24 times, three more passes than Peete threw.

"I told the team before the game to expect the unexpected," Schembechler said. "I was going to do whatever it took to win this "I also told the defense to expect to be in some funny field The victory enabled No. 11 Michigan to finish the season 9-2-1 and almost assured the Wolverines a Top Ten finish in the final The fifth-ranked Trojans, who lost to Michigan State last season in Smith's first Rose Bowl, finished 10-2. "We're just a good 10-2 team, that's all," an angry Smith said. "Michigan's a fine team. I don't know where they'll finish, but they're one of the top five teams in my opinion and I hope we get to play them again next year.'

Smith accused the Trojans, who led 14-3 at halftime, of sloppy tackling and failing to play four solid quarters of football.

"I'm not disappointed. I'm just darned angry, that's all," Smith said. "It just seemed like we thought maybe we had the game won. We just couldn't get the entum because we couldn't get our defense off the field." Peete, playing his final game for USC, had touchdown runs of one and four yards in the second quarter. Little did the Trojans know that was all they would get.

"We've been a fourth-quarter football team all year long," said Peete, who completed 15 of 21 passes for 158 yards with two interceptions. "We'd come out in the fourth quarter and dominate, dominate, dominate and come back. We had a good halftime talk. I don't know what hap-

Part of the answer was turnovers. When the Trojans lose, turnovers generally are the reason. They turned the ball over four times in the season-ending showdown with Notre Dame and suffered five more turnovers against Michigan.

The Trojans had driven to the Michigan 32 when Peete was intercepted by John Milligan with 50 seconds remaining, sending many in the crowd of 101,688 heading for the exits.

Demetrius Brown, who completed 11 of 24 passes for 144 yards, started the Wolverines' comeback with a 6-yard touchdown toss to Chris Calloway in the third quarter.

Hoard broke a 32-yard run to key a nine-play, 92-yard drive that put Michigan ahead 15-14 on his 1-yard sweep around right end on the first play of the fourth

College Bowl Roundup

Syracuse downs LSU

By FRED GOODALL AP Sports Writer

TAMPA, Fla. — Syracuse seems always to be trying to prove they belong among the nation's college football elite.

Coach Dick MacPherson's team talked as good a game as they played Monday after humbling Louisiana State 23-10 in the Hall of Fame Bowl, answering skeptics who felt LSU would win because it was co-champion of the rugged Southeastern Conference.

"LSU probably did have a tougher schedule than we had. I won't take that away from them," Syracuse quarterback Todd Philcox said. "But we both played some great teams, some of them the same. The bottom line is that they won eight games and we won nine.

Make that 10 victories for Syracuse after the Hall of Fame destruction. The Orangemen rushed for 208 vards and intercepted Tommy Hodson three times to finish 10-2, with losses to Ohio State. which also beat LSU, and West Virginia

"I think the SEC, from teams one through seven, is the strongest conference in America," said MacPherson, whose squad tied league member Auburn in last year's Sugar Bowl. "We've lost our measuring stick in the East, since Penn State won't play us any more, so I think this makes a good measuring stick for us.

Robert Drummond, voted the game's most valuable player, rushed for 122 yards and two touchdowns and Philcox threw for 130 yards and one touchdown to lead Syracuse, which got one interception from All-American safety Markus Paul and two by cornerback David Holmes.

The Orangemen, wearing special armbands in remembrance of Syracuse students who died in the crash of Pan Am Flight 103, pulled away from a 10-10 tie on Drummond's 1-yard dive with 5:53 left in the third quarter and Philcox's 4-yard TD pass to Deval Glover six minutes later.

"We didn't do anything right today — throw, pass, block, tackle, anything," LSU coach Mike Archer said. "When you don't do those little things, the big things don't work either."

The SEC co-champs finished with an 8-4 record and lost for the fourth time in their fifth consecutive bowl appearance.

Seminoles stop Tigers

By AUSTIN WILSON AP Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS—What began as something less the the best of weeks for Florida State's "Neon" Deion Sanders became a "Prime Time" hit starring the All-America cornerback in a game-saving situation at the Sugar Bowl.

Twice in the fourth quarter fourth-ranked Florida State stopped No. 7 Auburn with big defensive plays, the second time with 12 seconds left in the game Monday.

On fourth down at the Florida State 9-yard line with 7:58 left in the game, Howard Dinkins broke through and caused Auburn quarterback Reggie Slack to draw a penalty for intentional grounding.

Then, after Auburn drove from its own 4-yard line to the Florida State 22 in the final minutes. Sanders outwrestled Auburn's Lawyer Tillman to come up with the game-saving interception — the fifth Auburn turnover of the game.

It preserved a 13-7 victory in a game in which all the scoring occurred in the first half.

Sanders, known as "Neon Deion-yard line, tight end Walter Reeves caught a pass at the 3-yard line and dragged Sanders into the end zone.

"The ending to the game was a storybook ending," Sanders said. "All week in my mind I visualized what would happen in this game and how it would end.'

The week began badly for Sanders. On Christmas Eve, he was arrested after a scuffle at a gift shop in his hometown of Fort Myers, Fla.

Florida State, noted for its wide open passing offense and trick plays, used a bruising running game and a sturdy defense to force five turnovers. "People usually out-tough us. We are usually more of a finesse team," Florida State Coach Bobby Bowden said. "But that didn't happen tonight.'

Sammie Smith, named the game's outstanding player, rushed for 116 yards, the first time in more than two years that a back gained over a hundred yards against Auburn. Auburn led the nation in scoring defense this season, giving up an average of 7.2 points a Dayne Williams scored Florida State's touchdown on a 2-yard run, and Bill Mason kicked field goals of 35 yards and 31 yards to cap short drives after Auburn turnovers.

Williams leads Clemson past Oklahoma

By OWEN CANFIELD AP Sports Writer

ORLANDO, Fla. — Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer says that not only was No. 13 Clemson the better team in the Citrus Bowl, but the Tigers also had more motivation than his 10th-ranked Sooners.

"We were coming in as a loser. They were coming as a winner. That's obviously a motivating factor." Switzer said after Monday's 13-6 loss.

"When you work two weeks, with one week of two-a-days. you ought to be better preone week of one-a-days," he said. "They prepared like they were playing for a national championship.

Clemson coach Danny Ford wouldn't go that far, although he admitted playing the Sooners guaranteed his team would have no problem getting emotional.

"Just playing Oklahoma is great for our program, but beating them is even more of a plum," Ford said. "Our youngsters played awfully hard against a team that has a football reputation every year, not just every now and then.'

The game-winning score came with 10:28 remaining in the fourth quarter when Terry Allen scored on a 4-yard sweep to cap a 15-play, 80-yard drive. Allen, with 53 yards rushing and 47 receiving, was named the game's most valuable

Both the Pampa boys and girls teams host Lubbock Dunbar at 6:30 p.m. Friday night.

For, while San Francisco has won two Super Bowls in Bill Walsh's 10-year coaching regime and made the playoffs six straight seasons and seven of the last eight, the 49ers have lost their last four road playoff All were played in cold weather, although maybe not as cold as expected at Chicago Sunday. San Francisco lost 17-3 and 49-3 to the

New York Giants in 1985 and 1986, and 24-21 at Washington in the

1983 NFC championship game. And the home team has won the NFC title game the last eight

"The thing that counts in the remaining games is not the elements and not the team's health." said Roger Craig, who ran for 135 yards, including an 80yard touchdown run, against the Vikings on Sunday. "It's how much your heart wants it. We just have to keep turning it up another notch.

Because both Buffalo and Cincinnati are at home in the cold, the weather will probably play a smaller role in the AFC title game at Cincinnati. But the home field will be a factor — Buffalo and Cincinnati are the only unbeaten teams at home, both 9-0, and the Bengals beat the Bills 35-21 on Nov. 27 at Riverfront Sta-

Injuries may also be a factor, with both teams missing starting offensive tackles, Joe Walter for Cincinnati and Tim Vogler for the Shane Conlan, Buffalo's Pro Bowl inside linebacker, missed the first game against the Bengals as well as the next four because of a severely bruised instep. He's considered 50-50 to play Sunday, and he'll be needed. Ickey Woods ran for 129 yards and James Brooks for 93 as the Bengals rushed for 232 and passed for 223 in by far the worst performance of the season by a Buffalo defense that was ranked No. 1 in the AFC.

The Bills, who haven't been in a championship game since losing 31-7 to Kansas City 22 years ago in the game that decided the AFL's first entrant in the Super Bowl, vow the defense won't be embarrassed again.

"I can't wait," nose tackle Fred Smerlas said after Sunday's 17-10 victory over Houston that put the Bills into the title game. 'It's a classic matchup. The two best teams in the AFC matching up for the AFC title. No wildcards here.

Houston quarterback Warren Moon paid tribute to the Buffalo defense when he said: "How many guys were they rushing? 10? 15? They were really switching their defenses."

The San Francisco-Chicago game is also a rematch. The Bears won 10-9 in a Monday night contest on Oct. 24. This time, Chicago will be without Richard Dent, who pressured Joe Montana throughout on a night when the 49ers quarterback completed just 13 of 29 passes for 168 yards.

Chicago is banged up at quarterback. As the Bears left for Suwanee, Ga. Monday to train. Coach Mike Ditka said it would be later in the week before he would decide on a starter, either Mike Tomczak or Jim McMahon. gineer.

Glanville stands by call

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON — The option play that had worked so well for the Houston Oilers in the regular season failed them in the playoffs, Oiler Coach Jerry Glanville said.

"We scored eight touchdowns this year on the same play, which is our No. 1 touchdown play," Glanville said Monday of the play initiated by quarterback Warren Moon. But it failed the Oilers in the third quarter Sunday and the Bills went on to beat the Oilers 17-10, eliminating the Oilers from the NFL playoffs. Glanville said the option was the right play to call after the Oilers reached the Bills 2-yard line in the third quarter. Moon started to his right and then attempted to pitch the ball to running back Mike Rozier but the pitch rolled out of bounds for a 12-yard loss. Then Tony Zendejas rushed a field goal attempt and the Oilers came away with no points after getting the ball on an interception by Tracey Eaton at the Buffalo 47.

"We got zero points on a biged several times this season for running the option and exposing Moon to being hit. Glanville says that's not a valid criticism.

"He's hit harder on passing than the option," Glanville said. "No one so far has asked me to stop throwing. I don't believe he's been hit all year on the option.' The Oilers exited the playoffs in the second round for the second straight year. They had a 10-6 regular season record and beat Cleveland in the wild card game. The Oilers reached the playoffs for the first time since 1980 last season. They beat Seattle in overtime in the wild card game and then lost to Denver, 34-10 in the second round. Glanville called a controversial "Stagger Lee" play early in the Denver playoff game, setting the stage for the Broncos' runaway victory. The option shouldn't be compared to the "Stag-ger Lee," Moon said. "That play (option) was good to other way that took a defensive back out of the play. "But you have to execute it and I made a bad

The Oilers final chance at tying the game was erased when Curtis Duncan fumbled a punt with 1:48 left in the game.

Duncan was supposed to fair catch the ball but he tried to run and was stripped of the ball by former Oilers Steve Tasker. Buffalo ran out the clock.

Hometown fans cheer Aikman

DALLAS (AP) — About 130 Oklahomans made the three-hour trek to the Cotton Bowl to sit in a sea of Arkansas University red and cheer on the quarterback of the UCLA Bruins.

The residents of Henryetta, Okla. had watched the golden boy play baseball in the eighth grade, taught him lessons in Sunday school, sold him clothing and played football with him for the Henryetta Hens

And their hometown boy, Troy Aikman, didn't let them down, leading UCLA to a 17-3 victory over Arkansas.

"It's like having a movie star from your home town," said Aikman's high school football teammate Daren Lesley.

The 7,000 or so souls of Henryetta, 200 miles north of Dallas, have been atwitter over Aikman and still savor his triumphs on the high school football field and basketball court.

They've named a street after him and the Chamber of Commerce scheduled a February banquet in his honor.

"Oh, God, we are very proud," Sue Ann Sellers told the Dallas Times Herald. "They'll probably rename the town for him. We just don't have that many famous people from Henryetta."

People from Henryetta have been basking in Aikman's fame this year as sportswriters named him the best quarterback in the land and a sure No. 1 pick in the professional football draft.

"Kids say, 'You know Troy Aikman, can I get your autograph sometime?' To think, he will be making a million dollars this time next year," said Stan Swyden, a high school teammate of Aikman's. "He's my best friend," said Renae Skimbo, who spent $200 to install and $75 a month to rent a satellite receiver so she could watch each of Aikman's games. "I'm the envy of every girl in America." The fans from Henryetta huddled together Monday, occasionally chanting "Go Troy, go" and wondering where the quarterback's mother, who works at the town's newspaper, was sitting. The townsfolk hid their heads in their hands when Aikman threw a first-quarter interception, muttered about dropped passes and beamed over his touchdown pass at the end of the second quarter. When action on the field stopped, the fans studied the mini-TVs they had brought to follow the University of Oklahoma's progress in the Citrus Bowl. And they told Troy Aikman stories. Many recalled the agony they shared when Aikman broke his ankle in 1985 when he was playing for OU. The injury ended his football career in his home state, and he transferred to UCLA.

But the people of Henryetta didn't lose their fondness for him

"We love Troy Aikman," said Sari Reingold, who runs a gift shop in Henrvetta.

Many admitted having Aikman scrapbooks at home. Others said they have borrowed money to fly to California to watch him play. Their Aikman expenses should be smaller next season because it seems likely he will be playing for the Dallas Cowboys.

The Cowboys, who finished with the worst record in the National Football League, have the first draft pick. "He's definitely going to sell some tickets," said Alan Shaw, a former Henryetta resident who is a Texas Instruments en-
