IN PENTAGON PAPERS CASE Ellsberg's Attorneys End Arguments

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Attorneys for Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo contend government activities uncovered by the judge's two-week probe of the matter have shown that the defendants' rights to a fair trial were violated.

Prosecutor Choice Slows Nomination

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee appears unlikely to act on Eliot L. Richardson's nomination to be attorney general until he announces his choice as special Watergate prosecutor.

One of the Republican members, Sen. Marlow Cook of Kentucky, said Wednesday "that seems to be the sense of the committee."

The panel continues its questioning of Richardson today.

Richardson, now secretary of defense, told the committee he could name a Watergate prosecutor.

But Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, also a committee member, said he expects Richardson's choice will be made known before a vote is taken on his nomination.

At the windup of the committee's first day of hearings, the subject had shifted to the break-in at the Los Angeles office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist. Ellsberg is on trial in Los Angeles for releasing the Pentagon papers.

Under questioning by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., Richardson testified that President Nixon never suggested to him that the Justice Department not provide information about the break-in to the California court.

Pampan Gets Top Award

Mrs. Otto Mangold, Pampa teacher, will be honored Saturday night as the outstanding conservation teacher in Texas.

Mrs. Mangold, science teacher at Robert E. Lee Junior High School, progressed through the various levels of the state-wide competition to reach the top.

She will be presented the traditional award at ceremonies in the student center ballroom at Texas Christian University, Fort Worth.

House To Decide Fate Of Cambodia Bombing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House decides today whether to authorize money for U.S. bombing of Cambodia. President Nixon's supporters said the showdown could result in the first House antiwar vote of the Indochina conflict.

Rep. Joe D. Waggoner, D-La., a leader of Southern Democrats who in the past have joined Republicans in support of presidents' war policies, said the coalition favoring the Nixon stand was about five votes short late Wednesday.

"If we were voting right now I think we'd lose," Waggoner said.

The vote was on Nixon's request in a $2.8-billion supplemental-money bill for authority to transfer $430 million for military spending, including $150 million for the bombing and other Indochina activities.

Secretary of Defense Elliot L. Richardson said Monday the bombing will continue in an effort to force a Cambodia cease-fire even if Congress rejects the transfer authority.

Democratic leaders of the House and Senate pressed for its rejection anyway, contending it could be construed as approval, not only of the Cambodian bombing but of future U.S. steps to try to force a cease-fire.

"I don't want to declare another war with ambiguous language in an appropriation bill,"

Guns Stolen In Burglary

Additional loss has been reported in the burglary of a garage in the 600 Block of N. Banks St.

Two guns, a rifle and a pistol were taken from the locked trunk of a car in the garage at the time.

This is the word of the father of the two who reported the break-in Tuesday night. The man had been hospitalized when the theft occurred.

Officers have numbers from the guns and are conducting an additional investigation of the car for clues.

Woman Reports Missing Money

A Pampa woman reported loss of some $350 from a money sack at some point between a ride from a local lounge to a residence where she was invited for coffee.

Police said she told them she decided to recount the money while drinking a cup of coffee after arriving at the home where she visited.

Officers contacted the people with whom she had ridden but found no clues to the missing currency.

Southwestern Bell Expecting Busy Mother's Day Schedule

Every Mother's Day, Southwestern Bell officials scratch their heads and wonder about the so-called generation gap, according to Gary Stevens, Pampa manager for the telephone company.

This year, Stevens says, the nation's mothers will generate an average of 25 long distance telephone calls per second across the U.S. on May 13.

That figure includes calls from Pampa on Mother's Day. All possible long distance circuits will be available for One-Plus (direct dialed) calls on Mother's Day, plus operators will be on duty to handle any calls which require operator assistance, Stevens said.

"Mother's Day is neck-and-neck with Christmas in the race for the nation's biggest calling day of the year," the manager said. Last year Christmas won with 9.1 million calls, a lead of only 56,000 over 1972 Mother's Day.

Direct dialing rates are cheaper, the manager said.

Conditions needed for producing a diamond out of pure carbon — a million pounds of pressure per square inch and temperatures above 2,500 degrees F. — exist in nature only at depths of at least 150 miles.

House Considering Legislative Salaries

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — One more vote was all that was needed today to send the voters a proposed constitutional change raising legislators' pay while making them work harder.

The House also was expected to take final action on Senate bills that would:

- Increase maximum workmen's compensation benefits from $49 to $70 a week.
- Allow the use of tuition to pay off $40 million in bonds to build the University of Houston campus at Clear Lake City and $7.5 million to construct buildings at Texas A&M's maritime facilities on the Gulf Coast.

House members voted 103-34 Wednesday for a Senate measure setting legislative salaries at $15,000 a year and requiring annual lawmaking sessions.

Senators were expected to approve an amendment added by the House, clearly stating on the ballot that the measure includes higher salaries for the legislature.

Once that is done, the measure will go on a Nov. 6, 1973, special election ballot.

Legislators now make $4,800 a year and meet for 140 days every two years, plus additional 30-day special sessions at the governor's call.

The proposal would require 180-day sessions in odd-numbered years and 60-day meetings, limited to appropriations and tax matters, in even-numbered years. The governor could extend these sessions an additional 30 days.

Voters rejected a pay raise to $8,400 last year and refused in 1971 to create a state ethics commission with power to set legislative salaries. Amendments requiring yearly sessions also have failed in past elections.

Rep. Gene Jones, D-Houston, the House sponsor, said the time is ripe to get such a measure approved.

"This is the time to submit this to a vote of the people," he said. "This is the hardest work-

The House also approved and sent to the voters a constitutional amendment that would allow local governments along the coast to issue bonds to finance seawalls with approval of a simple majority, instead of two-thirds, of those voting in a bond election.

After making minor changes, the House approved a constitutional amendment giving unmarried people the same $3,000 homestead exemption from state property taxes that married couples enjoy.

If the Senate approves the changes, it will go on the 1973 special election ballot.

SAFETY CLINIC, CONTEST Explorers Plan Bicycle Events

Bicycle Week is a colorful event in Pampa this year.

—And some talented cyclist will supply the winning color.

Police Explorer Troop 82 is combining a coloring contest with their bike inspection clinic Sunday.

A riding contest will also be a part of the afternoon program for bicyclists from age five and up.

Members of the police explorer troop will be on the parking lot of M.K. Brown Civic Center beginning at 1:30 p.m. Sunday to conduct bicycle inspections and, possibly, to assist with minor repairs where such involve no replacement parts or dismantling of the bicycle.

Serial numbers of all bikes inspected will be recorded and kept on file in the event some wheels are stolen in the future.

Following this inspection period, a safety course in bicycle handling will be conducted. Pampa police detective J.J. Ryzman pointed out that many cyclists — not all of them young people — do not know Texas and local rules of traffic for bikes.

A striking example of this is the number of riders motorists encounter on the wrong side of

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Thursday, May 10, the 130th day of 1973. There are 235 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1869, a golden spike was driven at Ogden, Utah, marking the completion of the first railroad across the United States.

On this date—

In 1479, the Italian navigator, Amerigo Vespucci, sailed on his first voyage to the new world.

In 1775, Ethan Allen and a company of Vermont militiamen — the Green Mountain Boys — captured Ft. Ticonderoga, in New York, from the British.

In 1865, during the Civil War, Union forces captured Confederate President Jefferson Davis at Irwinville, Ga.

In 1871, France ceded Alsace-Lorraine to Germany after the Franco-Prussian War.

In 1940, during World War II, German forces invaded Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

In 1941, the Nazi leader, Rudolf Hess, parachuted into Scotland in a private attempt to make peace in World War II.

Ten years ago Pope John XXIII accepted the Balzan Peace Prize. It was the first time that a Roman Catholic pontiff had received a peace award.

Right-To-Work Supporters Fail

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — For the third time, backers of a measure to freeze the so-called "right-to-work" law in the Texas Constitution have failed to get the votes to introduce it in the Texas House.

The vote was 90-36 Wednesday, far short of the four-fifths vote required.

Sponsors of the measure also failed Tuesday and last week.

Rep. Frank Calhoun, D-Abilene, made Wednesday's motion. Previous attempts had been made by Reps. Ray Hutchinson, R-Dallas, and Ed Howard, D-Texasarkana.

Texas already has a "right-to-work" law, but Calhoun, Hutchinson and Howard want it in the Constitution, which is harder to change than the statute books.

Yes, There Is A Great Pumpkin

By Sheila & Allan Swenson
NEA Garden Columnists

There really is a great, a gigantic, a colossal pumpkin. It's called Big Max and averages over 100 pounds.

Our son Peter grew a patch last year. They sold for more than $5 each, the biggest up to $20.

Secret of success is good, rich, deep soil around the roots and lots of room to spread. If you don't have extra garden space interplant to give ample moisture to each hill of pumpkins. An overhead sprinkler works well. So does soaking with a bucket a day per hill.

You may snip off several blossoms along each vine so nutrients and moisture go into the remaining pumpkins. This helps increase their size. Keep mulch on the ground to conserve moisture and keep down weeds that steal water and nutrients.

Our latest book, "Practical Book of Organic Gardening," with corn. Better yet, let the vines roam over nearby weedy areas, a side field, part of a poor lawn that needs redoing this fall.

Try a Great Pumpkin Patch. It's fun and can be profitable for youngsters.

Prepare the soil two to three feet in diameter by digging down 12 inches or so. Mix compost, rotted manure, rich humus into the topsoil. Here's where recycling leaves, old mulch, grass clippings into compost pays off.

Plant half the seeds in peat pots several weeks before you can plant outdoors. You beat frost this way. Plant the other half in prepared hills, eight to 10 feet apart. The prestarted plants can fill in if frost comes late this fall.

Fertilize with composted humus and manure and mulch well with grass clippings, leaves or best, more compost as the plants sprout higher.

Throughout the season, keep watering each week. In dry periods, especially when fruit begins to form, be sure gives many other tips to make your garden more productive, too. Basic to all is feeding the soil, improving its condition, so it in turn feeds your plants better.

Come September, with help from nature, you can have the biggest pumpkins on the block.

If you don't approve of North's jump to four spades, we must report that our old friend Y was sitting North and his partner Z South.

Y had watched Z make so many difficult hands for West, Whitehead Lenz and Foster back in the days of auction that he automatically raised him with any excuse whatsoever.

West made the best opening lead of a small diamond. East ruffed and returned a trump.

This isn't the sort of hand they used to give me to play 50 years ago," said Z. "But I think justice may triumph.

He let the spade come around to his 10. Then he played dummy's ace of diamonds. East trumped and Z overruled. Then he ruffed a club in dummy and led another diamond.

East discarded a heart and Z ruffed again. Now he ruffed a second club in dummy and another diamond in his own hand. East discarded a second heart on that fourth diamond, but it did him no good.

Z simply played his king of clubs. West took two club tricks, but then had to lead a heart. Z went up with dummy's queen and collected the rest of the tricks.

"You get better as you get older," beamed Y. "Could they have found a defense to beat you?"

"No," said Z. "It is a most interesting hand."

Good Things Go Into Real Hungarian Recipes

By BOBBYE COMBS

Any day is a good day to bake Hungarian dishes and our cook today is sharing some of her most popular recipes which she brought to America almost four years ago.

Erika Nagy is the wife of Imre Nagy, and they reside at 2144 N. Faulkner. He is employed in the engineering division of the Cabot Corporation.

Both were born in Hungary, as was their oldest daughter, Angela, who is six years old and attends William B. Travis elementary school. Another daughter, Marina, three, was born in Pampa.

Mrs. Nagy says, "We like to live in Pampa and I enjoy cooking more than ever before, because, now I have the time to be a housewife. I improved my cooking knowledge with lots of American recipes, but I still like to cook my favorite Hungarian dishes." Erika was a school teacher in her native homeland.

By ERIKA NAGY
HUNGARIAN GOULASH
(4 servings)

- 1/4 cup cooking oil
- 1 large onion, chopped
- 2 pounds beef chuck, cut into 1 1/2 inch cubes
- 3/4 cup hot beef stock or bouillon
- 2 teaspoons paprika salt and pepper to taste
- 1 cup diced raw potatoes
- 1 cup diced raw carrots
- 1/4 cup tomato juice
- 1 package (8 oz.) wide egg noodles

Heat the cooking oil in frypan to 350 degrees. Sauté the onion until soft and transparent, but not browned. Add beef cubes and brown. Add stock, paprika, salt and pepper to taste. Cover, reduce heat to 250 degrees and simmer one hour. Add potatoes, carrots and tomato juice; simmer 30 minutes longer or until beef is tender and vegetables cooked. Meanwhile, cook noodles according to package directions. Serve goulash over noodles.

Try it this way: Omit tomato juice. When beef is tender and vegetables cooked, stir in 1/2 cup sour cream. Heat thoroughly but do not boil. Correct seasoning. Serve with fresh lettuce salad.

CHICKEN HUNGARIAN

- (6 to 8 servings)
- 1/2 cup flour
- 2 tablespoons hot paprika
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon oregano
- 2 1/2- to 3 lbs. broiler-fryers, cut into serving pieces
- 3/4 cup cooking oil
- 1 cup chopped onions
- 1 cup sliced mushrooms
- 1 cup dry white wine
- 3 chicken bouillon cubes
- 2 cups sour cream

Combine flour, paprika, salt, pepper and oregano in a large paper bag. Add a few chicken pieces and shake to coat evenly. Repeat with remaining chicken pieces. Preheat frypan to 340 degrees. Heat oil and cook chicken pieces, browning on all sides, about 15 minutes. Fry in two batches, if necessary. Remove chicken. Reduce heat to 300 degrees. Add onion and mushrooms. Sauté until just golden. Add wine and bouillon cubes and stir until dissolved. Return chicken to frypan. Cover and reduce heat to simmer. Cook until chicken is tender, about 40 minutes. Remove chicken and place on a hot serving platter. Stir sour cream into drippings in pan, heat thoroughly, but do not boil. Pour over chicken. Serve with hot cooked rice or noodles if desired.

REAL HUNGARIAN STUFFED CABBAGE

Take 1 fairly large head of cabbage (be certain the leaves are not torn), loosen the leaves with a knife, wash them and place in a large pan. Pour boiling water over the leaves, cover and let steam to soften. FILLING: 1 pound ground round 1 small onion, diced

DOBOS TORTE

(Ritz), high-powered and delicious, great for the holidays! Beat until light and lemon colored:

- 5 egg yolks
- Beat in gradually:
- 1/2 cup sugar and beat five minutes at medium speed on electric mixer.
- Add 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- Sift before measuring:
- 1/2 cup cake flour
- Resift 4 times with 1/4 teaspoon salt
- Beat in the sifted ingredients gradually. Whip until stiff but not dry.
- 5 egg whites
- Fold them into the batter.
- Bake the cake in 9 layers using well-greased 7 1/2 or 8 inch layer cake pans in a moderate oven, 375 degrees for about 5 to 8 minutes. Work rapidly. Spread between the layers the following filling:

FILLING
Place in a double boiler:
1/2 cup sugar
4 large eggs
1 inch vanilla bean (or 1 teaspoonful of vanilla extract) after the filling has cooled.
Beat until the eggs begin to thicken. Cool the filling slightly. Cut into pieces and dissolve:
1/4 lb. bittersweet chocolate in 2 tablespoons boiling water
Keep this warm. Cream until light, 1/4 cup cutter (1 1/4 sticks)
Add the chocolate mixture. Beat this into egg mixture. This filling may also be spread over the top and sides. The best looking layer is reserved for the top and a caramel glaze crowns the chef d'oeuvre.
Melt and brown in a skillet: 3 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup uncooked rice, soaked for 1/2 hour in cold water
2 ozs. tomato juice or tomato sauce thinned with water
salt and pepper to taste
Mix all ingredients well.
For the cooking utensil: 1 onion sliced, 1 medium can of sauerkraut, 1 tablespoon shortening, brown sugar and one small can of tomato sauce.
Make into cabbage rolls, line bottom of pan with onion and cover with a layer of sauerkraut. Sprinkle with a little brown sugar, salt and shortening. Place a layer of rolls in the utensil and add some tomato sauce. Repeat this procedure, except shortening, until all ingredients are used. Cover with water and cook covered over low heat for two hours. This is delicious after it has been frozen.

Try Minigardens

By Sheila & Allan Swenson
NEA Garden Columnists

If you have a basket, pail, windowbox, redwood tub or similar, suitable planter, you can have a mini vegetable garden. You can even go organic if you like.

Minigardens can be placed anywhere there is a day's worth of sun, water available and a bit of room to grow. Patios, terraces, windowsills, balcony, even doorsteps are likely spots.

in the bottom of the container is helpful, even if you have drainage holes in the bottom. Most plants can't stand soggy bottoms.

Mix or buy your soil. A combination of one part humus, one part topsoil, one part peat moss is good. However, you can even use a mix of peat moss, vermiculite and feed it with fertilizer to sustain plant growth.

Lettuce grows fast and well in a windowbox, without much sunlight or heat since it is a cool weather crop. Several pots of radishes, parsley, chives, bunching onions, beets make a good combination for tasty eating.

Regular fertilizing is vital when plants are grown in restricted space. Plan to apply one level teaspoon of 5-10-5 per square foot of soil every three weeks. Mix it into the top half inch of soil and water thoroughly.

Our "Practical Book of Organic Gardening" even points out how to grow rhubarb and other tasty crops in boxes and tubs. Wherever you live, there's bound to be some space for a minigarden. Try your hand at one. It's fun and tasty too.

Regular fertilizing is vital when plants are grown in restricted space. Plan to apply one level teaspoon of 5-10-5 per square foot of soil every three weeks. Mix it into the top half inch of soil and water thoroughly.

First step, the container. Plastic or clay pot, old pail, wooden box, hanging basket anything that can hold soil will do. Size and number of containers can vary with your space and what you want to do.

Now think about the plants. Radishes, onions, miniature tomatoes like Tiny Tim or Pixie, all can be grown successfully in 10-inch pots.

Plan for drainage. Gravel

Johnny Bench Is Alive And Well In Philadelphia

By The Associated Press
Johnny Bench is alive and well in Philadelphia, of all places.
"Maybe now this will remove all doubts about my operation," the Cincinnati strongboy said Wednesday night after driving in seven runs as he blasted three homers off Cy Young Award winner Steve Carlton and counting a homer his last time at bat Tuesday night, equaled the major league record of four in a row.
"Personally," he added, "I don't pay any attention to it any more."
The 25-year-old catcher, twice the National League's Most Valuable Player, underwent lung surgery last December for removal of a benign lesion.
Despite his record-matching slugging Wednesday night, the Reds needed a tie-breaking two-run homer by Dave Concepcion in the ninth inning to beat the Phillies 9-7.
Elsewhere, St. Louis defeated San Francisco 3-1, Los Angeles held off Pittsburgh 8-5, the Chicago Cubs whipped San Diego 9-2 and the New York Mets trounced Atlanta 8-1. The Houston-Montreal game was rained out.
American League scores: Oakland 4, Baltimore 3 in 10 innings, Detroit 4, Kansas City 1, Milwaukee 5, Texas 4, Cleveland 10, California 3, New York 2, Minnesota 0, Boston and Chicago were not scheduled.
It was the second three-homer, seven RBI game in Bench's career. The other time came on July 26, 1970 against St. Louis and Carlton, then with the Cardinals, was the victim that time, too.

"I got him good tonight," said Bench, who homered to center field with a man aboard in the first inning, walked in the third, hit a three-run homer to right field in the fifth and a two-run shot to left in the seventh.
"But he's got me easy a lot of days. He's a good pitcher. They don't have to worry about him. Remember, he's under a lot of pressure to have another good year."
Rookie Ken Reitz socked his first major league home run as St. Louis ended its latest losing streak at a mere four games by shading San Francisco. It was only the sixth victory in 26 starts for the low-flying Cardinals.
Willie Crawford doubled in two runs to highlight a five-run fifth inning as Los Angeles defeated Pittsburgh. The Pirates pounded out 14 hits against Claude Osteen. George Culver and Jim Brewer, including two-run homers by Manny Sanguillen and Bob Robertson, giving the Bucs 10 in the three-game set with the Dodgers. The loss was still Pittsburgh's 10th in the last 14 games.

Rick Monday hit a three-run homer and Billy Williams and Randy Hundley slammed two-run shots to power the Cubs over San Diego and into first place in the NL East by one game over Pittsburgh. Burt Hooton scattered six San Diego hits, including a home run by Fred Hilton.
Unbeaten Jerry Kosman fired a five-hitter for his fifth triumph and Rusty Staub homered as the Mets chased Carl Morton with four runs in the first two innings and beat Atlanta. Kosman held the Braves hitless until Oscar Brown doubled with two out in the sixth. Cincinnati's Jack Billingham is the league's only other five-game winner.

Bill Sharman Says Lakers Have Got It

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Coach Bill Sharman of the Los Angeles Lakers maintains his National Basketball Association club has the ability to crack the odds barrier and overcome the New York Knicks starting tonight.
The odds are against him since the Knickerbockers of the East go into the sellout contest of the Forum with a 3-1 edge in the best-of-7 final playoff series and need only one more victory to take the crown from the 1972 champions.
"This team is capable of winning the next three games," Sharman says of his Lakers, who took the measure of New York 4-1 a year ago.
"But we must minimize our mistakes and turnovers and do better on the boards," Sharman has his prayer and hopefully he'll also have Jerry West—although the All-Star guard aggravated a right hamstring strain in the Tuesday night 103-98 loss at New York in the fourth game.

Both of West's hamstrings ache but he vows to be ready to start in the Lakers' do-or-die contest.
"I go crazy just sitting around," he said. "I'm not that kind of guy. I've got to be doing something. If I'm not, I'll be climbing the walls."
He's also anxious to continue his assault on the $1 million plateau. Trevino is within $14,695 of joining Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper as the game's only million-dollar winners.
If he is unable to play this week, Trevino is almost certain to try it again next week in the Danny Thomas-Memphis Open. He's the defending champion.
With Trevino listed as a doubtful starter, the favorite's role went to Australian Bruce Crampton, who scored his third victory of the year last week in the Houston Open.
Other standouts include defending champion Jerry Heard, Masters title-holder Tommy Aaron, Casper, Gay Brewer,

Americans Lose Last Basketball Game, 72-64

BALTIMORE (AP) — Bob Cousy sat on a storage locker and shook his head.
"That was the weirdest basketball game I've ever seen," lamented the U.S. coach after his squad lost to Russia 72-64 in the final game of a six-city American tour Wednesday.
"You might say they out-matched us."
The series, won by the United States 4-2, was characterized by rugged, elbow swinging play, and the finale followed that pattern.
The referees whistled 41 personal fouls against the Soviets, 40 against the Americans Wednesday. Three U.S. players and six Russians fouled out, including the visitors' Aleksandr Shalnev, who picked up his fifth personal with 6:02 remaining in the first half.

In addition, Swen Nater, the backup center from UCLA, was ejected from the game late in the second half for striking a Russian player.
"I don't think that's basketball we played out there tonight," Ron Behagen, the Minnesota forward who was himself thrown out of an earlier game for fighting, said in the locker room. "It may be their game, but it's not ours. Somebody could get hurt out there if they're not careful."
"I can't explain it, and I'm not saying that facetiously," Cousy said of the rough play and numerous fouls. "I've tried talking to the referees and it does absolutely no good."
The Russians jumped in front 16-7 in the opening minutes, led by as many as 10 points in the first half and were ahead 40-36 at intermission.
Alzhen Zharmukhamedov crammed eight of his team-high 16 points into the early stages of the second half as the Soviets, making judicious use of international rules which allow free throws only when a player is fouled in the act of shooting, increased their lead to 55-42 with 14:35 remaining.
Despite the frantic cries of the sellout crowd of 12,248 at the Civic Center, the Americans could pull no closer than seven points the rest of the way.
Ernie DiGregorio, the flashy guard who had keyed the American team, did not start as Cousy tried to put some life in his team from the opening tip.
"A situation like that is so so for me," said DiGregorio, who finished with a game-high 22 points before fouling out. "It tough for me to come off the bench."

For Draft Choices Oilers Get Parks, Smith From Dallas

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oilers general manager Sid Gilman says he doesn't see a lot of quality players coming up in next year's professional football draft so Wednesday he dealt off two big draft picks for Billy Parks and Tody Smith of the Dallas Cowboys.
Gilman gave the Cowboys a first and third draft choice for defensive end Smith and wide receiver Parks, both players who have said they were weary of the Dallas clubhouse.
Part of a continuing trading pattern Gilman has now bartered away no less than four of Houston's college-picks next year.
"The scouts tell me next year will be a very poor one in the draft and I've got to go along with what they tell me," Gilman said Wednesday. "You just can't pick up a Parks or a Tody Smith in the draft. I couldn't even tell you if our No. 1 was for Parks or Smith, but it doesn't matter. In my opinion, they're both worth our first choice."
Neither Smith nor Parks, both of whom live in Los Angeles, could be found to comment about the trade from the successful Cowboys to the 1-13 Oilers, but regardless of how they take the trade, it's final.
The Cowboys get the draft choices regardless of what happens.
"I don't anticipate any problems with Billy at all," Gilman said of Parks who left the Chargers training camp three years ago and didn't play the entire season. "I talked with him not too long ago and he said he wasn't happy in Dallas."
Parks, 6-1, 185 pounds, who went to Dallas in that ill-fated San Diego trade for Duane Thomas, was sidelined for much of last year with an injury.
Smith, the Cowboys' No. 1 pick in 1970, is a strapping 6-

245, but was sidelined in 1972 with mononucleosis.
"Billy's one of the finest ends in the game," Gilman, who was a coach for Dallas last year, said. "I've never coached anybody with the talent he's got."

Two Reassigned

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — The Galveston school superintendent has reassigned two coaches accused of altering transcripts of football players to non-teaching duties, it was learned Wednesday.
Joe Woolley, head football coach at Ball High, and Lynn Nix, an assistant, have been accused of altering records at the school to match similar alterations made on the transcripts of two Ball High players who attend the University of Oklahoma.
Discovering of the alterations—which raised grades enough so the two pupils could enroll at Oklahoma—caused the school to forfeit eight regular season games and its Sugar Bowl victory last year.
Woolley is now in the district's maintenance department, Supt. Eli Douglas said, and Nix has been reassigned to checking textbooks. Both assignments are temporary, he said, and a reassessment of the situation will be made next month.

Golf Tips from the Old Masters

HOW TO AVOID CHOKING
Choking is a dread disease in any sport, in golf it is fatal. One of many who has experienced his share of "the wobbles" is Tommy Bolt, who offers herewith some helpful hints on overcoming it.
"In my mind, choking comes from lack of two things—concentration and confidence," Bolt says. "I've heard a lot of remedies for it, but the best one I know is prevention. Go back to the practice tee and get yourself a swing that will take more heat. Learn how to concentrate a little harder. Did I say 'a little harder'? Make that a helluva lot harder."
"Or you can try Jimmy Demaret's cure. He used to walk down the fairway shaking his arms furiously. He was trying to get the blood circulating. It's true, when you choke, that the muscles seem to cut off the blood from your hands."

Less cash, more carry.

Consider the Jim Beam half gallon:
(1) The World's Finest Bourbon Since 1795 costs less per drink.
(2) There's a handle on it. Easy to carry, easy to pour.
(3) There's less chance of running out; less need to run out for more. A sensible way to enjoy the Bourbon that has been a family art since 1795.

NEW INMATES AT KIDS ZOO

NEW YORK (AP)—Tamanias, ferrets and hawks have gained roles in a children's zoo that is better known as the place for youngsters to pet gentle and familiar creatures like rabbits, sheep and ducks.

Opening its children's zoo for the 33rd summer season, the Bronx zoo has introduced new exhibits and some unfamiliar animals.

One new exhibit permits children to peer inside a real, working beehive.

Attendants will carry around ferrets, hawks, owls and snakes for children to inspect and touch.

A most unusual animal there is the tamandua, an anteater from Central America that has a prehensile tail that can grasp as a monkey's tail does.

Don't take a vote to evade responsibility

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My mother has been a very sick woman for a year and a half. Her doctor says she could last another year, or die tomorrow. Half the time she doesn't even know me.

My husband and I have put off taking any kind of vacation ever since mother's illness, and we really must get away. My question: Should we go? I'm afraid if we go, mother might die, and we'll have to turn around and rush home.

I've asked our minister and he said we should go—but not too far, I've asked my mother in law, and she said we shouldn't go at all. My best friend, who's a registered nurse, said we should go and take our chances. The doctor refuses to give me a yes or no. My husband says it's up to me.

What do you say, Abby? HAVE A PROBLEM

DEAR HAVE: You have another problem: You want someone else to make the decision and accept the responsibility for it. So far you've polled the doctor, your minister, your mother in law, your best friend, your husband—and now me. Make your own decision, and accept full responsibility for it.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going around with this man for 6½ years. At one time we talked of marriage, but he asked that we postpone it because his mother was going thru a divorce and he was quite upset about it. Now, he tells me he thinks he is also in love with someone he met at work. He says he has never gone out with her, but they've had coffee a few times.

I love this man and want to marry him, but I can't think clearly now. How do you figure this? CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: I figure that 6½ years is long enough for him to make up his mind about marrying you. And if he could fall in love with a girl he's only had coffee with a few times, I'd like to know what kind of coffee it was. Tell him to get lost before he tells you to, which is probably what he has in mind.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 24-year-old college student. I'm also an alcoholic.

I just want to let kids know that they don't have to be over 30 and on skid row to qualify as an alcoholic. Alcoholism is a disease that makes no distinctions in a person's age.

If teen-agers or young adults think they have a drinking problem and want to help themselves, please tell them to contact Alcoholics Anonymous. It is a wonderful organization of marvelous, understanding people who try to help each other.

Since I became a member two years ago it has helped me tremendously. Not only am I sober, I have been able to help others. It has been a lifesaving experience for me. Thank you for letting me share this. YOUNG ALCOHOLIC

DEAR YOUNG: And thanks for wanting to.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MY READERS: Remember your mother next Sunday with a bouquet of flowers. [And if you're adopted, send her TWO bouquets.] ABBY

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

BETTY CANARY

You Can Escape Sports—Just Lie!

By BETTY CANARY

It was a cold and snowy day when I came upon a solution. I figured out how to escape from the Summer Sports.

It was only a month ago. We'd had a late blizzard and I was fending off a friend who wanted me to play golf (her cart has a snow plow) when inspiration struck.

For years I've been evading summer sports with excuses and little lies. Now I tell big lies.

I began my personal campaign by ordering a surfboard. It is now beside my front door. On it is inscribed, "Congratulations—University of Miami."

When I am invited to go surfing or water-skiing, all I have to do now is glance at the board, sigh a little sigh, point to my knee and say, "Look, dear, let's not talk about it. O.K.?"

I lovingly fondle a tennis racquet. I lounge in my wicker chair. I drink iced tea. Once in awhile I touch my elbow and wince painfully. Sooner or later, somebody asks to look at the racquet and they ooh and ahh in delight at the engraving. It says, "With sincere appreciation, Gussie M." They don't ask me to play. They respect a wounded champ.

I played the golf game by buying a set of clubs at a pawnshop, then giving them a permanent home in our family room. When somebody asks, "Why don't I ever see you at the club, Betty?" I smile sweetly and say, "Actually, ever since the day both Ike and Dick borrowed my mashie at Burning Tree, well, I sort of keep my clubs as a little shrine."

When it comes to swimming, I'm the kind who gets queasy when I pull the plug in the bathtub. But nobody bothers asking me to go for a dip any more. Not after I tell them, "The doctor won't allow it—not after that last deep dive off the Mexican coast."

Donna Flesher, Dale Morgan Exchange Vows In Hereford

The marriage of Miss Donna Jean Flesher and Dale Morgan, both of Hereford, was solemnized at 4 p.m. Saturday, April 14, in the Avenue Baptist Church of Hereford.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leland E. Flesher of Hereford and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Noel, 945 Malone, Pampa.

THE CEREMONY

The Rev. Roger D. Wheeler, pastor of the Foursquare Gospel Church of Amarillo, officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Miss Diana York, organist, accompanied Ben Gollehon as he sang "Twelfth of Never," "More Than a Miracle," and "We've Only Just Begun."

An arch of greenery and white carnations with white wedding bells centered at the top of the arch formed the background for the ceremony. Candelabra placed on either side of the arch, with palm trees on each side, completed the setting. White satin ribbons marked the parents' and grandparents' pews.

THE BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of Angelmist peau de soie and re-embroidered Venice lace over bridal taffeta designed with a high neckline, empire waist, long Camelot sleeves and semi A-line silhouette with full back. Inserts of matching lace enhanced the neckline, bodice, sleeves and skirt of the gown. The full back ended in a sweeping chapel length train. The veil of imported illusion fell from a lace Juliet cap.

She carried a cascade of white sweetheart roses, white carnations, baby's breath and English ivy. She also carried a lace handkerchief made by her maternal great-grandmother and a necklace, a gift of the bridegroom.

ATTENDANTS

Mrs. Lee Roy Good, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Becky Noel, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Archie Dwyer and Mrs. Harold Shea. They were attired in floor length gowns of lace bonded taffeta, each of a different rainbow color, styled with an empire waist and A-line skirts. The gowns were designed with a scoop neckline and slightly belled full-length sleeves. Each attendant wore a picture-frame hat matching the color of her gown. They carried white baskets of spring flowers in rainbow colors.

Dale Krows served as best man and M.H. Ritchie, John Plaster and Jack Wade were groomsmen. Ushers were Gary Victor, Clyde Whitaker and Lee Roy Good.

RECEPTION

For the reception in fellowship hall of the church, the bride's table was covered with white satin and held a centerpiece of spring flowers in rainbow colors.

MRS. DALE MORGAN nee Miss Donna Jean Flesher

rainbow colors arranged around a silver, four-point candelabra.

The four-tiered wedding cake was decorated with columnated arches, sugar bells, white roses, and rainbow colored butterflies, and topped with the traditional miniature bride and bridegroom figures beneath an arch.

Mrs. Larry Bain and Mrs. Dean Crofford served the cake and Mrs. A.W. Rogers and Mrs. Don Aycock assisted at the punch service. Guests were registered by Mrs. Dale Krows. Other members of the houseparty were Meses Bill Miller, Ray Watson, Ray Bain, Earl Cuthner and Ken Wiley. For the wedding trip, the bride wore a Jacquard-patterned pantsuit of coral and white and lifted the white sweetheart roses from her bridal bouquet.

AFFILIATIONS

The bride is a graduate of Hereford High School and Draughton's Business College in Amarillo. She is presently employed by Holly Sugar Corp. in Hereford.

Her husband is a graduate of Pampa High School, attended the University of Texas at Arlington and is employed by Armour and Company in Hereford.

RECEPTION SUNDAY — The children of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Gray, 1831 N. Sumner, are hosting a 50th Anniversary reception Sunday, May 13 from 2 until 5 p.m. in the Flame Room Pioneer Natural Gas Building. Relatives and friends of the couple are invited to attend the event.

Sew It Yourself
Long bare-back halter dresses, so versatile for summer traveling, entertaining or lounging, are simple to sew even for beginners. Choose a colorful cotton print to give a designer's look.

White and Tan
To go with deep tans it's the dazzling whites, both in clothing and jewelry. White enamel mixed with silver plate is a nice contrast against sunned skin for bangles, rings and earrings.

Private Schools Increase In The United States

Non-public schools and private schools have increased in the United States. People are interested in the important, if not essential, role of God centered education.

Among the Christian churches, excluding Catholic, they have gone from 2,000 schools in 1937 to 5,700 as of now. A Christian background completes the individual. That is the purpose of St. Vincent's School.

Pre-Registration for Kindergarten through sixth grade will be held May 10th and 11th from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Small classes, plus individual programming mark the quality teaching. The accredited staff works in specialized departmental teaching. An outstanding reading laboratory under a teacher who handles only that subject adds to the fine program.

Most important, prayers of each individual are part of the daily curriculum.

Come, visit St. Vincent's at 23rd and Hobart during the school hours, or call 665-5665 or 669-3826.

Jim (and millions of other good husbands) have been driven into alcoholism, drugs, gambling or even desertion of their wives. Just because their wives weren't briefed in the sexual psychology of the second husband! You can stop such tragedies easily!

CASE X-503: Jim D., aged 34, is the teacher who suddenly became a drunkard after marrying the attractive widow named Helen.

She had asked me to try to salvage him before he lost his position as science teacher in the local high school.

"Dr. Crane," he confessed, "Helen is a wonderful girl and I fell completely in love with her."

"But I was a bachelor and she had been married for 6 years to a virile athletic coach at our school."

"So when he was killed and I later started dating Helen, I was secretly afraid I might not compare favorably with her first husband in the boudoir."

"Naturally, I never told Helen about this inner dread but I watched her for any evidence that I wasn't satisfactory in our physical union."

"Well, she never showed the great ardor or wild passion that Dr. Kinsey and other writers have insisted are typical of women."

"So I began to feel inferior to her former mate."

"That's when I began to grow platonically."

"Oh, she was affectionate to the point of being receptive and she would seem fond of me when she'd kiss me goodbye as I left for school each morning."

"But I lapsed into total impotence within a few weeks!"

"To hide my secret from Helen, and also gain a little temporary relief from my worry, I began to indulge in alcohol."

"After I'd sober up from a weekend spree, I'd grow even more panicky, for when I'd look at my unshaven face in the mirror and my own bloodshot eyes, I would figure she couldn't possibly feel romantic about me."

"So I'd start drinking on week days, too, until now my teaching position is in jeopardy."

"Dr. Crane, what can I do, for I love Helen and hate the taste of liquor, but keep using it just to escape from my real problem?"

WIVES, WAKE UP

Every man who weds a woman who has previously been married, will secretly feel the competition of that "ghost" husband in the bedroom.

Wives, here's how to demolish such erroneous and tragic fears:

(1) Women are NOT passionate creatures, despite some statements by sensational modern medics and Dr. Kinsey's books.

They haven't as much erectile tissue as men so they were apparently created to be 75 percent maternal and only 25 percent erotic.

Men, however, were designed to be about 75 percent erotic and only 25 percent paternal!

So the usual wife, who isn't sterile or otherwise suffering from a sexual inferiority complex that goads her into nymphomania, is relatively passive as a boudoir partner and seldom craves marital orgasm oftener than 2 or 3 times per month!

(2) Thus, second wives must feign more ardor and express extra delight in the erotic advances of their new mates, to banish this "ghost" that causes millions of unhappy second marriages!

(3) If you wives will thus seduce your frightened second mates, and restore their erotic ego, they'll rush home to you, instead of hiding in taverns till the wee hours.

For alluring wives are far more attractive than John Barleycorn.

So quit nagging! And become seductively aggressive, using diaphanous nighties, new perfume or hairdos and a nymphomaniac's boudoir cheesecake!

Send for my booklet "How to Prevent Platonic Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Worry Clinic, Hopkins Bldg., Helms, Indiana 47524. Enclose a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of my booklets.)

Television And Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Advertising Federation, whose members include national advertisers and ad agencies, thinks CBS News gave the business of TV commercials a bad image—and right on television, too.

So now it's asking the network to "consider an appropriate vehicle in which to present points of view that balance those expressed" April 26 in a CBS-TV documentary called "You and the Commercial."

The AAF made the request in a two-page letter to its president, Howard Bell, sent to Richard Salant, president of CBS News.

In the letter, the AAF said there was a "lack of fairness and objectivity" in the show's study of TV commercials, it also complained that the "general treatment and emphasis of the program was to portray advertising as a con game."

It said that although advertising spokesmen were interviewed on the show, "there was no opportunity to respond to the one-sided opinions expressed by others on such critical matters as counter-advertising, social impact and economic value."

Salant, who said he got the letter Monday, declined to publicly comment right now on its charges. He said he felt that Bell, "as an old friend of mine, is entitled to first word of my reply."

He said he would write Bell this week and respond both to the letter's complaints and requests.

Senate Blocks Long Filibuster

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted Wednesday to break a month-long Southern-conservative bloc filibuster, paving the way for action on a postcard voter registration bill.

It was the third attempt at cutting off debate, with supporters of the bill losing earlier tests by two and four votes. Two-thirds of the senators present were needed, and the vote was 67 to 32.

The measure would allow registration by postcard for federal elections. Provisions in the bill would encourage postcard registration for state and local balloting.

Opponents said the measure would promote voting fraud, and that registration is not difficult as it is.

Supporters contend the registration process is often time-consuming and difficult, tending to work against minorities, the elderly and the handicapped.

The U.S. Gives Job Aid To Vietnam Era Veterans

By RAY CROMLEY
 (Last in a Series.)
 WASHINGTON—(NEA)—If you are a Vietnam era veteran you have a special government-backed chance at getting a job.
 You have this right even if you have never been in or near Vietnam.
 The law says this. The President affirms it. And a list full of private organizations have said they will help. But whether you get that special chance or not may depend a lot on you and how much push, imagination and persistence you are willing to put in to get this benefit.
 You are entitled to priority in information on job openings in your city, town or county and to first choice in State vocational training programs.
 Check to see if your county has a Veterans Service Office, probably at the county seat. His job is to help you find a job (and to provide you with other assistance as well). He can, if he is on the ball, be especially helpful in informing you on veterans preference in county and city jobs in your vicinity and in getting you in touch with the right people at the state employment service offices.
 Write your State Veterans Agency for the name, address and phone number of the nearest regional representative of that agency. Like the county man, this official is probably a vet himself. He should know the ins and outs of job preferences and be helpful in introducing you to people who can help you get a job.
 Look in your phone book for the local office of the State Employment Service, then telephone for the name of the veterans employment representative in that office. Most businessmen with government contracts are required to list their job openings with these offices. Government openings are filled here. The federal government is attempting to get all employers to list openings with these bureaus.
 Officially, this is where you as a veteran should register to take advantage of your veterans preference rights. But don't walk in and deal with the first man or woman you see. Be certain you get the veterans employment representative. It is likely he will be a veteran and have a good understanding of your needs.
 You will note that much effort is aimed at getting job openings and job applications channeled through these state-run local employment officials. This sounds efficient, but it frequently isn't. There are at least 2,000 of these offices. And 2,000 different degrees of efficiency and interest in your problems. Some states and some localities run tight, imaginative shops which take a great deal of interest in men and women looking for work. But too many are bureaucratic, unresponsive and inefficient. They send applicants out on wild goose chases — to jobs for which they're obviously not fitted or to posts which have been filled for weeks. Worse yet, veterans say, some of these bureaucrats don't seem to care.
 But experienced government officials say that even within those seemingly ineffective offices are people who want to help you—but you must look for them.
 A note of advice. Before you go to a State Employment Service office or a Veterans Assistance Center or other government office, first meet with a local representative of one of the major veterans service organizations, the AFL-CIO Human Resources Development Institute or other private agencies specializing in helping veterans. These men can perform a most valuable service. Any one of them can and will make a phone call introducing you to the local employment man.
 There are Human Resources Development Institute representatives at the Central Labor Council Offices (AFL-CIO) in 80 major cities.
 The American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans, Red Cross, Amvets and other veterans service organizations will go all out to give you aid and information—and will fight your battles with the bureaucracy or with private industry in an attempt to land you a job. The services are free.

National Hospital Week

Leaders in the health care field established in 1921 a National Hospital Day to encourage public appreciation of the people working in hospitals. The day chosen was May 12, the birthday of hospital pioneer, Florence Nightingale. By 1953, the day was expanded to National Hospital Week, recognizing the tremendous growth in hospital services in this country.

The theme of National Hospital Week 1973, sponsored nationally by the American Hospital Association and celebrated by the nation's more than 7,000 hospitals in their local communities, is "Your Hospital — A Caring Community — Your Health — Our Common Concern."

With mounting public concern about the effectiveness of our health care system and the rising costs of health care, our hospitals are being subjected to some sharp criticism and demands for change.

While in sympathy with the demands of the American public for improvements in the delivery and quality of health care, and for containment of health care costs, we suggest that National Hospital Week is an appropriate time to express our appreciation to the more than 3 million people working in our nation's hospitals.

Not so long ago, our first hospitals were simple shelters where people went to die. Today, they are complex healing, educational and research institutions, where lives are saved, the causes and cure of disease sought, and future health professionals educated and trained. Hospital employees represent an incredible diversity of skills and talents, working in some 200 different types of jobs, ranging from housekeepers to top level administrators, from plant engineers to registered nurses. However, they have one goal in common: a working life dedicated to caring for the ill and injured. Modern technology and rapid scientific advances have made possible saving of lives and prevention or curing of disease. But the human hands and hearts are still essential to the healing arts.

So, during this National Hospital Week, we salute the hands and hearts in our hospitals whose concern is our health.

The Great Swap Meet

If a person had time, he could learn to make all the things he needs. The problem is time. And men have learned to solve it. The solution consists in each man's learning to do a few things well. In economics, this is called division of labor. After each man has done his thing, all get together in a big swap meet. In economics, that is called the marketplace. When two fellows trade products at the swap meet, each gives up something that he wants less and gets something that he wants more. In economics, the gain that each believes he made is called profit.

Sometimes it happens that two persons wish to trade, but the trouble is that one of the two does not have what the other fellow wants. Men have learned to overcome this trouble in a number of ways. One method is for Chap A to give Chap B an IOU. Another is for A to give B some other commodity which B knows he can readily trade to someone else for something that he may want later on. In economics, the IOU is called credit and the "other commodity" is called money. Credit can be either the personal credit of the buyer, or it can be the credit of some other person or group, such as the government. In either case, it is an IOU, worth exactly the paper that it is written on unless the source stands willing and able to back it with some useful commodity.

Sometimes a policeman comes into the swap meet. His job is to look for stolen articles and to keep the crooks and thieves from bothering the swappers. In economics, the policeman is called the government. As the record shows, the policeman has been known to forget what his real job is and commences to take part in the bargaining between peacefully negotiating parties. In economics, that is called intervention.

It has been known that the policeman will tell A or B what they can charge for their goods. In economics, that is called price control. Sometimes the officer will make A or B give up some of their profit to Cor D. In economics, that is called welfare. At regular intervals, the policeman will reach into a commodity sack and stuff part of the contents into his own pocket. In economics, that is called taxes.

Economics uses fancy words to describe real happenings. We would all understand one another better if we would use so many fancy words and paid more attention how to run a better swap meet. A big question is, do you want the policeman to perform his real job or do you want him to butt in to your deals?

The difference between a boutique and an ordinary shop is about $5 per price tag on the high side. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Where Did Extremists Disappear?

By PAUL HARVEY
Look in the mirror: the rash is gone!

Look quickly, it can't last. At this moment in history we are bedeviled by less "extremism" than ever—ever. Where'd the extremists go? Innovative ideas of each decade have a way of getting distorted, perverted by disciples with more ardor than candor.

In the Thirties the New Deal under F.D.R. employed emergency measures to meet an economic emergency. Some benefactors took that philosophy and jumped overboard until, in the end, the well-intentioned Henry Wallaces had been taken over by the fanatics, wrung out and used up.

In the late Forties it was a reaction from the right which rallied support for Joe McCarthy until his valid objectives were obscured and his purpose demeaned. Until he, personally, overfed on the narcotic of applause, became intemperate, irresponsible and prematurely dead.

We also had Robert Welch and his John Birchers. In the Fifties, Arthur Schlesinger was the "golden boy" of the intemperate radicals. In the Sixties, another Wallace was a catalyst for conservatives and an irresistible magnet for extremists.

It is now the decade of the Seventies.

From my grandstand view of the passing parade I see less divisiveness, less polarization, less extremism than ever in half a hundred years.

As I suggested earlier, look quickly. It mightn't last long. Indeed, the well-intentioned "rights" movements are menaced by some misleaders. Blacks are discovering who their friends are. The several Indian tribes haven't yet

And the Women's Lib women are fragmented and fussing because the good ideas of pioneer Betty Friedan—equal opportunities in employment and equal rights under the law—are in jeopardy because the man-haters and the lesbians prefer sex-war.

The Equal Rights Amendment is stilled with only two-thirds enough states supporting it at least partly because its purposes have been muddled.

The worst enemies of women's equality are women—the militants who fuel old fires of animosity with ideological nonsense. But they, unlike earlier incendiaries, are not hiding behind our Constitution while seeking to set fire to it.

Whatever residual issues divide us—left-right, Black-white, labor-management, male-female—most proponents are more responsible, less fanatical, more reasonable and less combative.

So much is this so that we newsmen are having to build some mountain-size molehills these days just to have something to talk about.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The blue whale is the largest animal in the world, reaching a length of 100 feet and weighing as much as 150 tons. The World Almanac says the whale has no teeth and feeds by swimming, with its mouth open, through masses of minute organisms called plankton. When it closes its jaws the tongue forces the water out through a whale-bone sieve, leaving the food behind.

The police officer deserves support. One way to do it is through the program of Law-Aid. Tell him he is doing a good job. Support his community activities, such as police athletic leagues. Give him tips on suspicious automobiles and persons. The information might prove useful. Aid him physically if he is under attack. There are many ways that we can let the men of the first line of defense know that we do appreciate them and are proud of their activities on our behalf.

There are many detractors of the police forces in our nation. True, some people have legitimate complaints, most of them of a minor nature. The real enemies, however, are those extreme leftists who would destroy us from within by breaking the spirit of the policeman.

Rare Rarick

One of the few honest, God-fearing, courageous, patriotic, constitutional statesman in our Congress is Louisiana's Congressman John R. Rarick.

A few days ago I wrote him asking what federal tax program he would advocate to stem inflation, retire the debt, return to the Constitution, re-affirm capitalism, and help save our once-free Republic from bankruptcy, revolution and dictatorship.

Here is his reply:
Dear Tom:
I checked with Ways and Means. They advise that to their knowledge there have been no bills introduced permitting an income tax of 20% with no exemptions.

Inflation is pulling a nasty tax booster by consistently increasing the amount of money to where income falls in higher tax brackets. I have about 50 bills in different fields which would grant working and producing Americans a tax deduction on everything from automobile casualty insurance premiums to adoption fees—the idea being to try to keep taxable income down and keep the money away from the Washington bureaucrats. I also reintroduced H.J. Res. 23 to abolish all federal income taxes or as I call it true revenue sharing. Those who feel that a country can't run itself without taxing its producing people need only look at nearby Bermuda where there are no income taxes—everyone who works is allowed to keep his earnings free from income tax.

There are those who would abolish capital gains. Capital gains is in some quarters considered synonymous with capitalism and profit making, both of which are immoral as crimes against Communism. There are not enough anti-capital gains people on Ways and Means to make the full switch. But when the matter comes before the full house under an open rule—courtesy of John Gardner's Common Cause—we can expect a roll-call nose count as to who in Congress still believes in the right to profit.

You ask what tax revolution I advocate? I have a bill pending to declare a moratorium on the payment of all interest on our national debt and applying the some $20 billion annually to the national debt until paid. Certainly since our country is bankrupt our creditors should understand that we are a poor credit risk and realize that a $20 billion a year interest free loan to their government is advantageous rather than the country going out of business. Further, if we cut off the interest payment we could stop deficit spending because few of our creditors would loan us more money. It would be good for the masses of the country as against the small number who clip the coupons on government bonds.

RETURN CONTROL TO THE PEOPLE

I am firmly convinced that the best tax revolution is to work to remove all taxes from the sugar daddies in Washington and let the people that earn be able to use their money for whatever they want. If the working people of America have control of their money, socialism around the world would rapidly come to an end.

Good to hear from you, with sincere best wishes, I remain,
Very truly yours,
John R. Rarick

Your Health

By Lawrence E. Lamb M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I am a woman of 70. I have had hernia of the stomach for several years, which causes acid. I have been put on a diet by my doctor and have been allowed to drink milk. I have a cup of coffee once in a great while. Now here is this piece in the paper that milk is more dangerous than smoking cigarettes. Some doctor says he wants the federal government to clamp down on milk drinking, that it is national suicide. Please can you tell me if milk is really dangerous. I really don't know what a person can eat or drink any more.

Dear Dr. Sackett—I am familiar with Dr. Walter W. Sackett's campaign for proper labeling of milk and other foods. As the news clipping that you sent stated, he is a member of the Florida State Legislature.

I agree that all food should be properly labeled. A person has the right to know what he is eating, and then make his own decision whether to eat it or not. I just don't believe in deceiving the public, and you can do this by omission as well as commission.

I am not sure that the news report that you furnished me accurately expresses Dr. Sackett's point of view. But you can quit worrying about skim milk, fortified skim milk or even one per cent low fat fortified milk. Fortified skim milk contains very little fat and no really significant amounts of cholesterol. I believe that skim milk is particularly important for women in their middle years and beyond to help prevent the incidence of bone degeneration very common in those years.

What Dr. Sackett is talking about is the problem of saturated fats and cholesterol in the diets. Most investigators agree that this needs to be limited and I have discussed this many times in my columns. But this doesn't mean that you need to avoid drinking fortified skim milk, or using non-fat milk powders or uncreamed cottage cheese. The dairy industry has done an excellent job in marketing these products, which are very low in cholesterol as compared to meats and many of our other food products. I think that we should make a bigger effort to acquaint the public with these products that have been developed so that those who need them can use them rather than eliminating milk entirely from our diet.

Not only is milk an excellent source of calcium, and one of the few, but it is also a good source of complete proteins. I do not agree with the idea that milk is more dangerous than smoking cigarettes, and according to the news release you sent me, Dr. Sackett smokes two to three packs of cigarettes a day. Almost all reputable scientists who have studied the problem of cigarettes, including the U.S. Surgeon General, will tell you that it is one of the greatest health hazards that we have in our society.

Inside Washington

Nixon Urged to Appoint
Maggie Smith to Defense
By Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON—“The perfect choice for Secretary of Defense.”

That is the very apt characterization being applied to former Sen. Margaret Chase Smith—by congressional and other leaders urging President Nixon to appoint her to that key Cabinet post.

It is authoritatively understood Mrs. Smith's name is high on the list of those under consideration.

The President is being told by longtime Senate colleagues of Mrs. Smith, “You can't go wrong in selecting her. She would be a great credit to the Defense Department and your administration.”

An impressive array of exceptional qualifications is cited in support of this view.

—A 32-year congressional veteran with several decades' service on the powerful Senate Armed Services Committee, a number of years as senior Republican member, Mrs. Smith is without peer as a civilian authority on the armed services. Her information and knowledge about the military forces is comprehensive and detailed.

—Not only is she unusually knowledgeable about every aspect of the Defense establishment, but she personally knows all the important civilian and military officials, foremost among them the Joint Chiefs of Staff and their assistants. Also during her many years' service on the Senate Armed Services Committee, Mrs. Smith visited numerous military bases and installations throughout the U.S. and abroad.

—A onetime-schoolteacher and business executive, she was noted throughout her long congressional career as a tireless and conscientious worker who “always did her homework” and never missed a vote in the Senate.

More Reasons
Two other highly favorable factors are being strongly stressed.

—Mrs. Smith's appointment as Secretary of Defense would put a woman in the Nixon cabinet and fill a glaring deficiency which has long been a political embarrassment to the Republicans. While not a militant feminist, she is a quiet but forceful exponent of her sex. As a top member of the Armed Services Committee, she vigorously pressed the armed forces to expand opportunities for women.

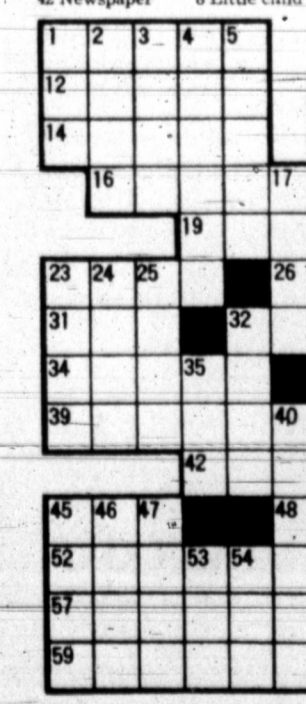

—Her confirmation by the Senate would be speedy and overwhelming. One enthusiastic supporter says flatly, “It would be instantaneous and unanimous. Everybody in the Senate, regardless of party, warmly admires and respects Maggie Smith. This is one appointment the President would be sure to have no trouble with.”

Another major plus being pointedly emphasized is that bringing Mrs. Smith into the administration at this time would go far in both restoring public confidence and morale in the GOP.

“It would be a tremendous shot in the arm all the way around,” enthused one congressional leader. “It would be good for the country, good for the Defense Department, and good for the party. The President couldn't miss with such an appointment; it's just what is needed.”

Significantly, there are top military leaders in the Pentagon who think so, too.

“Spirit of '76”
President Nixon is getting most of what he wants in a reorganization of the long-bumbling American Revolution Bicentennial Commission.

A single administrator in place of the present 50-member commission has been agreed on by the House Judiciary subcommittee considering the President's recommendations. But the panel is balking at giving this official complete authority.

It favors setting up two auxiliary bodies — an 11-member executive board with supervisory authority over the administrator, and a 25-member advisory board.

The administrator would be paid $40,000 a year, and there would be an assistant administrator at $35,000. Both would be appointed by the President. Similarly, he would name the members of the executive and advisory boards.

The President recommended that the administrator be directly responsible to him. But committee chairman Harold Donohue, D-Mass., says his panel felt it was desirable the administrator should function immediately under an executive board.

Last year, Congress was so disgusted with the commission's aimless and fruitless record that it voted funds to continue it only until Feb. 15. When that date arrived, the agency found itself without money and its employees facing payless paydays.

Eventually, a continuing resolution was passed providing the commission with sufficient funds until June 30.

More Boodle
It was done quietly and circuitously — but every member of the House now has an additional $20,000 allowance for staff salaries. They now can spend $185,000 a year for that purpose. That's an increase of nearly $40,000 in 16 months.

There was no public vote or discussion of this latest boodle grab. It was done in committee — by the House Administration Committee voting, in executive session, to increase the staff payroll allowance of every Congressman by $20,000.

As this additional money comes from House contingency funds, it doesn't have to be passed on by the full chamber — a very neat and adroit way of deftly fattening the kitty at taxpayers' expense.

As the old saying goes, “Them as has gets.”

For less than a penny, the Federal Reserve Bank can issue a $10,000 note, and you have to make up the difference.”

Educational System Needs Competition

By C.R. BATTEN
"Any concern that can force the public to be customers and competitors to be supporters enjoys a monopolistic position," wrote Robert D. Love, a businessman who lives in Wichita, Kan. Then he pointed out this is exactly what public schools do.
"Any monopoly institution, public or private," Love continued, "is destined to grow insensitive to the needs of the people. As there is no need to worry about patronage, the monopoly need not be accountable to its patrons."
This is the reason for the well documented failure of many public schools to achieve their primary purpose of educating our children.
The one sure way we can improve education in America is by making the educational system competitive, with parents and students able to do "comparison shopping," says Love.

He was one of a group of concerned parents who decided to make "comparison shopping" possible in Wichita. He described their experiences in a book entitled "How to Start Your Own School: A Guide for the Radical Right, the Radical Left, and Everybody In-Between Who's Fed Up with Public Education" (The Macmillan Company, New York, N.Y., $5.95).
With humor and understanding, Love tells of the problems Wichita Collegiate School has had with accreditation, dealing with public education officials, and finding the best type of organization.
But what comes through most is the sense of pride and accomplishment those parents achieved in founding a school whose students have gone on to some of the best colleges and universities.

From the beginning, the school's philosophy has been that tuition must pay the full costs of education. The trustees also voted that at least 10 per cent of each year's tuition income be set aside for a scholarship fund. In return for scholarship assistance, students and parents are asked to do some work for the school.
College-educated mothers operate the library, with student help. Mothers drive school buses, and students clean up the classrooms. Older students tutor younger students. Teachers, on the other hand, know that their incomes depend on their own successful performance in education.

The student's parents insist that teachers be well schooled in the subjects they teach—not in teaching methods courses required for teaching certification. "Certification," says Love, "is unmistakably a threat to academic quality."
The Kansas State Department of Public Instruction admits that "Collegiate's faculty had better college grade averages and a broader academic background than it required of certified teachers. Yet the same teachers, as well as the headmaster, were not eligible for certification. Collegiate's people EXCEEDED the average qualifications of teachers in Kansas, but did not MEET the state requirements," wrote Love (emphasis his).
Love believes that the federal government will soon take total responsibility for the nation's education costs, and will establish national standards of school accreditation for private schools alike—using tax-exemptions and subsidies to force all schools to comply.
