There's no inlaw like an ex-inlaw

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 45-year-old divorcee who is engaged to marry a 53-year-old widower I'll call Sam. Sam has two daughters in college. Sam's wife, Sylvia, died of cancer a year agol Sylvia's mother, a widow, had made her home with Sam and Sylvia for the last 20 years.

Abby, I know this woman only slightly but she has been cool to me. She is understandably heartbroken over the death of her daughter, and when Sam and I told her we were being married, her disappointment was obvious.

Sam plans to sell his large home and move into an apartment after we marry. His daughters want their own apartment. The problem is Sylvia's mother. We surely can't have her living with us: Sam can well afford to provide her with a lovely home elsewhere, but she has grown so dependent on him I doubt that she could live alone. She never learned to drive, and since her widowhood she's spent her life raising Sylvia's daughters and running Sylvia's home. She has no other family.

Sam and I have discussed it and he thinks I should tell her that our plans do not include her. I think he should tell her. [He insists he can't do it.] What do you think? TOUCHY PROBLEM

DEAR TOUCHY: She shouldn't have to be told, but if she does, Sam should tell her. It would be an act of kindness if you made a real effort to be friendly with this heavy-hearted woman. Investigate senior citizens' residences and try to help her relocate in the most pleasant and happy surroundings. If she rejects your friendship, you will have at least tried.

DEAR ABBY: When I started going with Henry-he used to show up so drunk he could hardly walk, so I'd let him sack out on my couch. It happened so often we finally started living together. After two years we decided to get married

He buys two quarts of vodka on Saturday, and by Monday it's all gone. That's in addition to three cases of beer. Henry drinks every night, but goes to work in the morning, comes home at 5 p. m. and starts drinking again. I knew he was an alcoholic when I married him so I can't complain

I work and draw good money. I wish you would tell me why I stick with this guy. I support myself. Our sex life is zero, and I know I'd be better off without him. NEEDED

DEAR NEEDED: Your answer is your signature. Some people have a need to be needed. You could be one of those

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate has approved a compromise rural electrification and telephone loan bill.

The bill's floor manager, Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., and Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., said after its passage 93-3 Wednes-day that they were certain President Nixon would sign it. Nixon abruptly halted last December the program that permitted rural co-ops to borrow money at 2 per cent interest for electrification and telephone projects.

Under terms of the compromise measure, a limited number of 2 per cent loans would be made available, but most of the loans would carry 5 per cent interest rates.

The bill would make $758 million in insured loans available annually. $618 million for electrification projects and $140 for telephones. Of this amount, $105 million would be for 2 per cent loans in needy cases, and the rest at 5 per cent

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Watergate: Iceberg Tip

Commentators and editorial writers across the country who confine their examinations of human action to expediency and symptom are having a field day demanding justice and 'clean sweep' in the Watergate. Case

President Nixon acknowledged the responsibility for wrongdoing in the Watergate case must be placed at the door of the Presidency In a sense perhaps he is correct. After all, generals of armies' are held responsible for actions of their troops even though the deeds may have been far removed from the general's sight unauthorized and without the general's knowledge. A Japanese general was executed as a war criminal after World War IL-under such circumstances

So if 'justice seeking' commentators are consistent. they should go along with the idea of Nixon's responsibility and seek a measure of punishment

But The News views all this indignation is an exercise in futility unless there is a recognition of the root cause of the problem-

Political government, as we have stated for years, indeed for decades, has grown to unmanageable proportions, has too much power over the affairs of individuals and has too many operations by bureaucrats who escape accountability to the tax pavers

Watergate is but the tip of an iceberg, and it is by no means the only scandal the American people have had to endure -

If there is any good to come of this it perhaps will help tax payers become aware of the truth of our admonitions over the years

Guilty persons can be brought to justice. fined and or imprisoned and removed from government service.

All well and good and the integrity of the White House can be restored, right? Maybe not There will be lingering doubts which may never be erased.

But what is more important here is that we recognize the highly probable situation in which the President has been misinformed about a great many other things.

If there can be misinformation about a criminal involvement of high placed persons, what about activities of less explosive nature? Certainly we must expect an extremely close inquiry of Presidential advisors about matters which could be highly embarrassing to the President

But the President has a great many advisors on many matters which affect individual lives, matters far more important to the individual than the guilt or innocence of persons in a bugging caper.

And a President makes his, final decisions based on the information supplied by advisors. Is the President misinformed on environmental problems? Is he misinformed on housing, poverty. transportation? Is the Food and Drug Administration misleading the President about medical therapy?

What should be coming into focus for the American people today is that the political government of our land has involved itself in too many matters

It cannot be managed and it cannot be administered without recurring scandals such as Wat gate and more available in very importantly without great college educations offered injustice and hardship being in this country today." forced upon the tax payers. Big Brother Decides To Go Private

Why send your child to a private school? That's a tough one to answer in this era of skyrocketing tuition. The only reply, really, is found in another question: Does the school offer something, that public school does not? Unless you can say a hearty "Yes!", you may as well put your hard-earned money back into the bank Time was when the answer was always yes; private schools existed to impart special values often religious that simply weren't part of the public school system. But now, in an age of Federal and State bit - with subtle strings attached - lots of private schools have lost their individual characters. Certainly the religious ones have!

There are still exceptions to the rule, however, and one of them is Hillsdale College in Hillsdale, Michigan. Its President, Dr. George C. Roche, III, is often called one of the youngest Presidents of one of the oldest private colleges in the country. Here are some of the comments Dr ---Roche made when he appeared as a guest on a recent Manion Forum radio. program

"Probably out principal claim to fame has been that in our nearly 129 years of history we have neither solicited nor accepted state or Federal political funding for any purpose on campus. BRUCE BIOSSAT McGovern a 'Plot' Victor? Pooh-Pooh! By BRUCE BIOSSAT WASHINGTON (NEA) -

Reports that men linked to the Watergate plottings set out to assure that the Democrats in 1972 picked the weakest possible presidential nominee to oppose President Nixon should be viewed with care.

The game, of course, wassupposed to be to use dirty tricks to defeat the presumably strong Sen: Edmund Muskie and by other devices to promote the candidacy of Sen George McGovern, perceived by early polling evidence as eminently crushable

Tricks clearly were employed against Muskie, he faded early as the Democrats' front-runner and McGovern did win his party's nomination.

To a good many political viewers, and especially to those men said to have been trying to engineer such an outcome, that may look persuasively like

Some Editorial Views On the Tax Revolution

The California Mining Journal comments on the tax revolt as follows: "The IRS version of the 7th Amendment is that they can assess you anything they feel like, and if you want to challenge it you can by paying them what they demand - and then suing them in court - to see if you can win.

"This would be like the government telling a man accused of a crime: 'Plead guilty and serve a jail sentence, and when you get out we'll give you a trial to. see if you can prove you were innocent'.' The analogy drawn by the California Mining Journal appears to be borne out in a report by the Taxpayers Légal Defense Fund on the case of John Grismore, which they report as follows:

On September 20, 1971, the IRS came to Grismore's home, and Agent E. Calvin Pond said: "We will take anything we can get our hands on" Although the amount in dispute exceeded $20, the IRS had never taken John to court to prove their allegation that he owed any money. (7th Amendment). John refused to let them take his car without a valid court order for seizure, and so on September 23 he was arrested for "Assaulting" an IRS agent and forcibly recovering a "seized" vehicle. There were three IRS agents on John's property, two of them with, guns. John made no threats verbally or physical. He demanded they stop trespassing on his property until they returned with a valid court order for seizing specified property. The car was never seized and the IRS agents testified that no physical act occurred.

The Grand Jury was not allowed to hear testimony from John. Testimony came only from IRS agents. John was never allowed Counsel of his choice, and he was not allowed to mention the Constitution in the court room during trial. Judge Aldon Anderson, at the conclusion of the trial, told

The California Mining Journal asks: "Are Internal Revenue agents walking legislatures and courts? If not, why do they have the power to arbitrarily assess, allow and disallow, accuse .and seize and sell without court determinations?

There are criminal statutes providing up to ten years in prison and a $10,000 fine for those who deprive, or conspire to deprive, a citizen of his Constitutional rights. Can IRS agents longer escape punishment under the statute title 18, section 241 and 242 U.S. criminal code?"

It continues to appear. that the best defense against the IRS is the failure to complete and to turn in the tax form." The Mining Journal says:, "We cannot, under the 5th Amendment be compelled to-be a witness against ourselves How then, can we be forced to fill out a 1040 confession sheet? Can the Supreme Court judges say that we have a right not to be witnesses against ourselves. except when we are forced to be witnesses against ourselves?" TAX REBEL WINS

Federal Judge M. C. Crocker ruled in Fresno. California against the IRS in a lawsuit they had brought against Jack E. Scales, because Scales refused to turn his tax records over to the Internal Revenue Service. The IRS demanded the records for an audit of Scales 1971 tax return.

The judge said that the action requested by the IRS would have forced Scales to be a witness against himself in violation of the 5th Amendment

Numerous cases are beginning to establish that the IRS is without power to requisition the records. The story was printed in the Los Angeles Times February 15, 1973.

H. L. Hunt Writes

SCHOOL BUSING Senator James Eastland of

Mississippi has called for a Senate hearing on the problem of school busing. His announced aim is a Constitutional amendment that would outlaw the busing of school children to accomplish racial balance This is something that should have been done long ago by the Congress. School busing for the purposes of racial balance has proved a failure. It has led to violence in the classrooms and it has brought economic blight to some of our major cities." It does not accomplish or implement the Supreme Court ruling of 1954 which called for the desegration of schools. The present administration in-Washington paid lip service to the idea of abandoning school busing simply for the goal of racial balancing but nothing actually has been done to correct this tragic situation. North and South, black and white make it clear in public opinion polls that school busing is not acceptable. Still, nothing has been done to halt it. Lower courts have encouraged school busing through edict and even set themselves up as administrators of school busing Thus they have destroyed one of the basic concepts of our way of life. Locally elected school boards should make the decisions and administer the affairs of our public schools. It is to be hoped that Senator Eastland's committee will get to the heart of the matter and come up with an amendment that will correct the wrongs that are being done to the nation through school busing. It should be remembered that black children and their parents don't like the idea of busing for racial balance any more than the whites. If you don't believe it, ask the professional pollsters.

But, well before that letter surfaced. Muskie men in New Hampshire told me and others that their tiger was in trouble. that he wasn't in the state often enough and wasn't scoring when he came. Father Kuhn Makes Well Over 100 Speeches a Year

Pampa, Texas

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) -The Rev. Benjamin Kuhn possesses a virtuoso voice. which can sound senatorial at one moment and lapse into. high pitched giggling the next. Last year, a convention of liquor dealers in Albany heard that resonant voice, as did a group of bankers at Lake Placid. an assembly of farmers near Oneonta: NY, and a fraternal order of black Roman Catholics in Washington, D.C. Father Kuhn makes well over 100 speeches each year in a dizzying schedule of public appearances

Indeed. the 57-year-old priest has a standing bet - or boast that he can travel anywhere in the eastern United States and, in a matter of minutes, make contact with someone who knows him.

Father Kuhn - or Father Ben as he is called at Siena Coffege in nearby Loudonville - is easy to recognize. With his pink face, sparse white hair and his body swaddled in a brown habit, he looks like a modern Friar Tuck.

Father Ben, the youngest of 10 children born to a tanger in Olean, came to Siena with six other Franciscans when the school was founded in 1937. He watched it grow from a tiny community housed in an eld farmhouse to a college with 2.000 students.

At St. Bonaventure, from which he graduated, and later at Siena. Father Ben taught everything from general chemistry to Hebrew poetry. Siena students nicknamed him "the happy friar" and prized him for his easygoing manner and offbeat humor

Father Ben believes millions of persons have heard him speak over the years on such topics as automation, integration. "The Egyptian Onion" and Tricks For Which in the Middle Ages You Would Have Been Beheaded He prefers the personal approach rather than television evangelism "I can look a man straight in the eve when I'm speaking to him," he says, "and I can tell if he's saying to himself. 'I like that guy.' My goal is to have audiences realize that if I'm so happy and fun-loving, maybe Catholicism has something good to offer them too?"

Father Ben retired from teaching five years ago, but he keeps busy mailing family prayer cards all over the world (a practice he began during World War II), hearing -conlessions and doing "dry swim

It's Time to Rethink

The Meaning of Sex

Friday, May 11, 1973

By REV. DAVID POLING Mother's Day and Christian Family Week again bring to the attention of church members the radical upheaval in personal, social and sexual ethics.

Various religious groups have sought to bring insight and direction to the concerns of parents and young people. One article by Letha and John Scanzoni (in the May 4 issue of The Church Herald) adds a whole new dimension to the theme.

They observed, "Early in church history, Christian leader's strayed from biblical teachings on sex, women, marriage, and the human body. A negative ascetic attitude emerged which denied the Creator's goodness in each of these areas. Instead, attitudes of fear, revulsion, and shame developed.

This Indiana couple, authors of nearly a half-dozen books on sex and the Christian family, see definite opportunities within the new arena of social change and the personal choices which accompany it.

· First, we can be thankful for the new honesty regarding sex. Note the Scanzonis, "The Bible condemns hypocrisy, even more strongly than modern young people do

Pretense to give the impression that all is well in adult sexual relations; denial of our own embarrassment, concerns, even ignorance about human sexuality-these are matters that cannot be corrected until they are faced and the new sexual climate may force us to do that.

• We can rejoice (rather than despair) over the new openness about sex. "The Scriptures certainly discuss the subject with candor ... No longer stifled by the prevailing hush-hush attitude, the Christian can feel free to explore scripture and its teachings on sexual matters and openly share them with young people who are searching for ideals and direction.

• As we study the Scriptures, we can be encouraged by the fact that the Bible speaks directly to the very questions and criticisms that are being raised today. "The younger generation objects to the old notion that sex is "dirty." The Bible rejects that notion, too. After all, it was God who created sex and called it "very good" (Gen. 1:27-33) Sex is held in high esteem in Scripture. In Proverbs 30:19, the "way of a man with a maiden" is singled out not as a thing of shame but as something so wonderful it's beyond understanding. "The tremendous joy and ecstasy of the marital embrace is vividly described in Proverbs 5:18-19. At the same time, there are warnings about abusing God's good gift of sex through fornication and adultery (Proverbs 5, Hebrews 13:4, and I Cor. 6:13). Why? Because these misuses of sex are less than God's best for us and they harm our relationship with him and with others." The Scanzonis tackle the lustful notions of our society, the slavery that has engulfed so many in their sexual pursuits.
