250 Due For Banquet To Fete Williams

All Members Of Highway Commission Will Attend Event

Upwards of 250 West Texans are due to converge here Monday at 8 p. m. to honor Reuben Williams, new highway commissioner and West Texas representative on the board, at a banquet in the Settles hotel.

Also honor guests along with the new commissioner, who is a former Big Spring resident, will be Brady P. Gentry, chairman of the commission, R. L. Bobbitt, other member, and DeWitt C. Greig, state highway engineer.

Saturday evening reservations for the affair stood at 214 and there were many tentative requests besides. Local people, holding back to give visitors an opportunity to attend, were due to come in, in sizeable numbers Monday.

Williams' mother and sister, Mrs. A. Williams and Ruth Williams, were due to come from Fort Worth to attend the banquet.

Representatives from a score of West Texas cities had requested tickets for the affair. Latest were Eastland, Fort Worth and Vernon, and Odessa increased its reservations by 10.

The affair here will be the first given in honor of the new commissioner and is being staged in his "old home town."

Many Concerns Asked To Aid Tourist School

Representation from every concern and agency in the city which have any dealing with visitors was being sought Saturday for the tourist trade and merchants institute opening for a two-day stand here Tuesday.

Lloyd P. Bloodworth, executive secretary of the El Paso chamber of commerce, will direct the institute, stressing means for developing this phase of business. He is considered one of the Southwest's leading experts in the field.

Jake Douglas, chairman of the tourist development committee, was to enlist support of various business firms in insuring a large attendance for the school which will be held in the Crawford hotel. Chamber of commerce officials said that interest seemed to be high in the event, especially among service stations and cafes.

Eight Pass Pilot Ground Tests

Final examinations were held Friday evening in the ground school class of the civilian pilot training program, with eight students passing.

These students were awarded flight scholarships to begin June 5 at the Big Spring airport. They will receive 35 hours of flight instruction, after which they will be rated as private pilots.

Those passing were Seth James Boynton, Jr., Emily Virginia Stalcup, Winston Odell Harper, Quentin Vance Lebkowsky, Marion John Worby, Wallace Howard Fowler, Hershel Ethridge Fowler and Lawrence Wesley Pearce.

Colorful Horse Show Near Climax, Final Event Today

MANY MAJOR STABLES IN STATE REPRESENTED IN PROGRAM HERE

Colorful and zestful, the Big Spring Charity horse show moved toward its climax this afternoon, with a final program due to start at the rodeo grounds at 2:30 with events culminating fast-moving events of Friday and Saturday night.

The highly trained American bred saddle horses competed in various classes to the delight of West Texans who still are on altogether familiar with the intricacies of gaits; and the western friends—Palominos, Thoroughbreds and Quarterhorses—were lined up, too, for ribbons and trophies in what was admittedly hot competition.

Dr. E. C. Walter of Mayfield, Ky., is judging the gaited classes, while Dr. F. G. Harbough of Texas Tech judged the halter divisions.

The show is expected to build toward a colorful climax this afternoon, with a high-paying stakes on the program and finals in the exciting Pony Express race, Friday and Saturday night crowds, numbering but a few hundred on each occasion, have been disappointing to Rotarians sponsoring the show, but they are hopeful of a large turnout today. Proceeds from the event will go to the Rotarians' crippled children's fund.

Many major stables of the state were represented in the first two shows. The Joe D. Hughes stables of Houston, operated by a veteran dealer in fine animals, had come off with the major share of prizes, Hughes entries taking six first places, a second, two thirds and a fourth. The Diamond M Ranch of Snyder had three firsts, two seconds, two thirds, a fourth and a fifth, and Frank H. Kelley of Colorado City, West Texas specialist in training and showing young horses, piled up a large number of places to put his entries high in interest. Rockwood Stables of Fort Worth, N. P. Nelson of Amarillo, Tibbetts and Rogers of Fort Worth, Pickens Burton of Dallas, P. K. Mackey of Colorado City and Mrs. E. I. Barfield of Amarillo were among the other winners.

Drying Up Of Drug Store Saloons Near

Actual "drying up" of drug store saloons in dry counties of Texas appeared likely Saturday after Governor W. Lee O'Daniel had declared he would sign Monday a new law limiting liquor prescriptions.

Billy McIlroy, district liquor control board supervisor, said here yesterday afternoon that he would take several days for enforcement of the law to become effective, although it goes into effect immediately upon signing by the governor.

The law provides that physicians shall write liquor prescriptions on forms provided by the liquor board, and that only 100 of these will be issued to any one doctor each 90 days.

Since it will take several days for these prescription blanks to be printed, there probably will be no attempt at enforcement of the new law until they are obtained.

Drug stores will be required to have no more than 10 gallons of liquor on stock at any one time. Of course, those who now have more than that on hand will be given a reasonable length of time to dispose of it.

Physicians must have a permit to write liquor prescriptions issued by the liquor board. This can be revoked if used illegally by the physician. But these too are not available yet.

Halter Class Champions All Named

Champions have been named in all divisions of the halter classes of the Big Spring Charity horse show, the winners in final classes to be presented to this afternoon's crowd at the rodeo grounds.

In the Palomino division, champion horse was Lane Hudson's Sobro, a four-year-old stallion which has won grand champion honors at shows in Mineral Wells and Abilene. Champion mare was Jolinda, owned and shown by Mrs. D. L. Haralson of San Angelo.

In the quarterhorse division, Red Jacket, owned and shown by Roy Spires of Roscoe, was adjudged top horse, while champion among mares was Gracie, owned by Curtis and E. P. Driver of Big Spring. Gracie was a winner at Garden City earlier in the year.

Congo Chief, owned and shown by Ray Hightower of Garden City, took the purple ribbon as champion horse in the Thoroughbred division, while top mare honors were won by Frivolous Sal, owned by Mrs. Ray Lawrence of Big Spring.

These winners were named from a large field by Dr. F. G. Harbough of the Texas Tech animal husbandry department, who judged all halter classes.

The halter classes included Palominos, Thoroughbreds and quarterhorses, and in numbers far surpassed those shown here a year ago. Horse lovers from a wide area were here Saturday afternoon to view the final judging.

Honors in the various divisions were as follows: (listed in order of judge's ranking, with name of owner immediately following):

PALOMINOS
Fillies under one year old—Miss Randerbrook, Spade Ranch, Colorado City; Patricia, Carl Hightower, Garden City.
Fillies under two years old—Play Mate, Roy C. Davis, Sterling City.

Mares over two years old—Jolinda, Mrs. D. L. Haralson, San Angelo; Pah-Seta, Gloria Strom, Big Spring; Mexicali Rose, Roy C. Davis, Sterling City.
Geldings, all ages—Lindy, L. Seven Ranch, Midland; Anacho Silver, P. K. Mackey, Colorado City; Frosty, T. C. Pierce, Brownfield.

Stallions under one year old—El Rey, Mrs. Roy C. Davis, Sterling City.
Stallions over two years old—Daniel Boone, D. L. Haralson, San Angelo; Frosty, Jess Slaughter, Jr., Big Spring.

Fillies over two years old—Sobro, Lane Hudson; El Limon Del Sur, Roy C. Davis.

THOROUGHBREDS
Fillies under one year old—Frivolous Sal, Mrs. Dorothy Lawrence, Big Spring; Gypsy Rag, Jay Floyd, Midland.
Geldings, all ages—Anton, Carl Merrick, Big Spring; Ranger, Butler Hurley, Midland; Andro, V. A. Merrick, Big Spring.
Stallions over one year old—Congo Chief, Ray Hightower, Garden City; Ragged Runner, Jay Sur, Big Spring.

Compromise Reached On Runway Type

Compromise of differences over type of runway paving for the Big Spring municipal airport project appeared to have been effected Saturday, E. V. Sence, city manager, said on his return from a conference with CAA officials in Washington.

CAA agreed to a flexible pre-mix, an arrangement satisfactory to the city. The agency had specified hot or cold pre-mix and the city wanted inverted asphalt penetration.

It was learned also that the Big Spring Lumber Co. was successful bidder on 4124 sacks of cement—3,812.104 pounds—to be used in the construction of hangar flooring and aprons around the terminal building for the port. The order, amounting to around 50 car loads, will be delivered as needed. Placed by WPA, it was reported to have been one of the largest cement orders ever given by that unit in Texas.

Although there appeared to be no hitch in the continuation of the project already launched, status of CAA's certification of additional units to the port project was not clear. The project was set up at around $768,000 for seven runways and other improvements, more extensive than the original CAA plan. Currently, 400 additional acres of the port are being cleared and fenced preparatory to the improvement program.

Senators Ask That US Take French Isles

Fear Results Of French-German Collaboration

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—Four democrats on the senate foreign relations committee—Clark of Missouri, Reynolds of North Carolina, Pepper of Florida and Murray of Montana—suggested today that the United States take over French island possessions in this hemisphere.

While differing on other foreign policies, the four agreed in separate interviews with reporters, that this country should assume control of the French possessions in view of Marshal Petain's talk of collaboration with Berlin.

The bon constricor is tightening his coils around us," Pepper said. "If we do not establish ourselves in positions where it can not crush us we will have a terrible fight later on."

"If we hold the outposts, they can't get at us. If we have to take the outposts after they have them there will be much bloodshed."

French islands in the western hemisphere include Martinique, a keystone spot in the belt of islands eastward of the Panama canal; Guadeloupe also in the eastern Caribbean; Miquelon and St. Pierre off the coast of Newfoundland; and Clipperton in the Pacific off the Mexican coast.

Pepper, Murray and Reynolds agreed that any step regarding French Guiana, on the mainland of South America, should be a topic of discussion among all the American republics.

Although the senators urged direct United States action, they believed that this government would take no step except in collaboration with the other American republics. The pact of Havana provided for joint action in event the status of foreign possessions in the western hemisphere was threatened by developments of the war.

In that connection, it was reported authoritatively that the 21 American republics were ready to establish "provisional administration" over the French colonies if French-German collaboration should extend to this hemisphere.

VICHY, France, May 17—French-American relations, which reached the point of tension yesterday after statements by President Roosevelt and Marshal Petain, seemed tonight to have relaxed, at least from the French standpoint, as the result of a series of semi-official French explanations.

Former Egyptian Official Sought

CAIRO, Egypt, Sunday, May 18 (AP)—The Egyptian government today sought the arrest of a former chief of staff of the Egyptian army, General Aziz El Maari Pasha, known here for his pro-axis sympathies, after the general and two Egyptian air force members attempted unsuccessfully to flee Cairo in an Egyptian military plane.

The government offered a reward of 1,000 pounds ($4,000). The general and his two companions were accused of committing an act coming under "crimes injuring the security of the kingdom."

Aliens Rounded Up On East Coast

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—A nation-wide roundup of aliens known to be in the country illegally was launched suddenly tonight by the justice department. The campaign centered in eight seacoast cities and was aimed principally at Nazi seamen who have overstayed their leave.

Lemuel B. Schofield, special assistant attorney general in charge of the immigration division, said immigration agents and police were seeking a number of aliens shown by files to have entered the country irregularly or to have remained illegally.

Program Today Will Honor 'First Voters' Of Area

First voters will be singled out for honor at 8 p. m. today when the Lions club stages its "I Am an American Day" program at the city park amphitheatre.

They will be seated on the stage of the stone bowl, which seats 5,000, during the program which features an inspirational, patriotic address by Judge Cecil Collins.

The municipal high school band, under direction of Dan Conley, will play and E. W. Ogden will lead in singing. The program is due to be less than an hour in length so as not to conflict with church services.

RAF Fights Luftwaffe For Iraq Oil Treasure

Nazi Occupation Of Dakar Rumored

By The Associated Press

Britain's RAF and Adolf Hitler's luftwaffe roared over ancient battlefields of the Near East yesterday in the preliminary stages of the newest phase of the conflict that has spread from northern Ireland to Iraq in 21 months—this time with the oil rich lands of Iraq and possibly land and air routes to India as immediate objectives.

British planes machine-gunned German bombers from Mosul airfield in the heart of Iraq's eastern oil fields while the gave them a good base for submarine or surface raiders attacking south Atlantic or African trade routes.

On Iran's northern border loomed the armed might of Soviet Russia, but Moscow's intentions in this new phase of the war remained Joseph Stalin's secret. A delayed report from Moscow that some of the ablest soviet generals had been shifted from Far Eastern posts to the west aroused interest, but shed little light on the Kremlin's attitude.

Turkey, practically isolated from her British ally, clung to her non-belligerency, and a British report from Rumania said German troops were steaming through the Bosphorus, presumably enroute to Syria.

In north Africa British and axis armored forces battled for control of the desert gateway to Egypt, with both sides claiming the upper hand.

Strike Called In Hard Coal Fields

By The Associated Press

A work stoppage on Monday by the 10,000 miners in the nation's hard coal industry was ordered yesterday by the United Mine Workers (UMW), and the possibility grew that production of soft coal might be stopped again.

The UMW ordered their men out of the anthracite mines in northeastern Pennsylvania because the union and the operators had failed to agree on a new contract to replace one which expired on May 1. The union asked that the basic daily wage of $4.62 be increased $1 and the pay of contract workers 20 per cent. Operators offered a two-year extension of the old contract.

Both the union and management said negotiations would continue even after the miners left the pits.

While defense officials were not so concerned over the shutdown of the 1943 convention will be held in Midland, and a movement is underway to change the meeting time from May to October.

At New York, William H. Davis, vice chairman of the defense mediation board, called representatives of southern soft coal operators and of the UMW into a session last night, saying that the board felt "some uneasiness" over the possibility of another stoppage of production of fuel vital to defense industries.

His announcement came after both sides had agreed that a deadlock had developed in negotiations which started last Monday. John L. Lewis, UMW president, had asserted previously that unless an agreement was reached to eliminate a wage differential for southern operators, 330,000 miners in the eight-state Appalachian area would leave their jobs on Wednesday—the same workers involved in the previous strike.

President Speaks On World Trade

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—President Roosevelt, asserting that international trade in a world "dominated by totalitarianism" would be merely a weapon for aggression, declared tonight that United States must defend democratic principles and "continue its leadership in the preservation and promotion of liberal economic policies."

"Only through that leadership" the chief executive said in a statement on national foreign trade week, "can this country fulfill its responsibility in the rebuilding of a world economy from the chaos into which it has been plunged by destructive trade restrictions, born largely of greed and unreasoning fear, and by ruthless aggression."

Mayor Grover Dunham issued a similar proclamation, urging upon local people participation in the day's activity, and particularly the program at the amphitheatre.

Boy Scouts, too, were asked to be seated in a special section at the amphitheatre during the program.

Other observations here included a radio talk at 9:15 a. m. over KBST by Malcolm Bridges and a radio sketch at 7:15 p. m. over the same station. During the day NBC is carrying programs at 10 a. m. and at 4:05 p. m. over the blue network.

O'Daniel To Tell Senate Plans Monday

By The Associated Press

Governor W. Lee O'Daniel, who entered Texas politics a very few years ago as a rank amateur, stood the state on its ears again Saturday with a cryptic announcement he would discuss the senatorial race in a statewide broadcast Monday at 8 p. m.

He did not say he would run. He did not say he would not run.

While other candidates of major and minor rank drummed steadily over the state for votes, O'Daniel's brief statement stole the show. No one was more interested than the 19 men currently in the scramble for the senatorial seat left vacant by the death of Morris Sheppard.

Secretary of State William J. Lawson announced at Austin that names of senatorial candidates would be certified to county clerks May 28. Many political guessers were of the opinion that ballot in the June 25 special election would again put the name of O'Daniel before the voters of Texas.

Some took the position, however, that his announcement of the radio speech could mean he plans to throw his support to one of the candidates already in the field. Hal H. Collins, Mineral Wells business man who has always been regarded as a close friend of O'Daniel, has been campaigning for ten days with a blackface team and a string band.

O'Daniel himself was not saying, until Monday.

REVIEWING THE BIG SPRING WEEK

BY JOE PICKLE

This ought to be a sportsman's paradise today. A marvelous array of fine horses will be going through their last paces at the Rotary club's concluding show at 2:30 p. m. and the Bombers engage Burger in a double header. Both are rare treats, indeed.

Surprising to this corner is the lack of big crowds at the horse show in view of the quality of the show. As some one observed, you could never have seen a horse and still thrill at the exhibition of gait, harness and halter classes. In short, those horses are things of beauty, both in conformity and motion.

Last week the city commission raised the city speed limit to 30 miles an hour, an increase of 10 miles. Promptly, many drivers raised their rate to 40mph. By Saturday, 19 persons had been given tickets for speeding. In case you are interested, the fee is $5. It might pay you to slow down a bit.

One of our favorite topics is to be about general apathy on the part of most Big Spring people toward significant things. A case in point is the Salvation Army Citadel cornerstones laying Friday when less than 50 turned out to bear Brig. Giles, state commander, dedicate the $12,000 plant. Two widows put up the money to build the structure, and only a few could give enough time to see it dedicated. Shame! Shame! Shame!

In the same vein, we hope more are proud of their heritage as citizens to turn out for the "I Am an American Day" program at the amphitheatre at 8 p. m. today.

These people who insist on fishing in Moss Creek lake in violation of rules fixed to give fish time to develop remind us of the class who steals green peaches when a farmer promises to give all you can eat when they get ripe.

Police have a kick, and a good one. Their experience in returning lost children is that the parent invariably says: "If you do this again that man (the officer) will get you." In other words, the officer's reward for helping is a sense of fear of the benefactor. He becomes a bugaboo—and a friend.

Back from a directors' meeting of the IPA, B. F. Robbins reports that oil men are generally most optimistic and anticipate price raises to stay in line with other price increases. The feeling, he says, is best in three or four years. Our tardy and red-faced apologies to the city. Commenting on a bad hole on the Broadway of Abilene (U.S. 6), we had failed to notice the place had been fixed the previous afternoon.

Rector of the St. Mary's Episcopal church in Big Spring is the Rev. Robert J. Snell, above, formerly of Pampa. The Rev. Mr. Snell will begin his service at the local church today, and will also serve Midland and Odessa churches. He and his wife and two children have moved into the parsonage adjoining the church on Runnels street.

Elected president of the West Texas chamber of commerce for the coming year is Dean J. Thomas Davis of John Tarleton college, Stephenville. The 1941 convention will be held in Midland, and a movement is underway to change the meeting time from May to October.

Tuneful Melodies Background For Romance Of Radio, 'Great American Broadcast'

Against a background of tuneful melodies, "The Great American Broadcast" unfolds the gay, fascinating story of the courageous, talented people who first filled the air waves with song and laughter.

From the same studio which produced "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "Tina Pan Alley," and others, the film "The Great American Broadcast," starring Alice Faye, John Payne, Jack Oakie, and Cesar Romero, is at the Ritz today and Monday.

Mindful of the fact that it is more difficult to reproduce the recent past on the screen to the satisfaction of all potential moviegoers, one year of research was spent before a single line of script was written. People familiar with the styles, customs and trends of 1919 and the years immediately following, will find "The Great American Broadcast," historically accurate, but in a most gay, entertaining way.

Those were the days of the crystal set, no every available crystal set west of the Rockies was purchased, and in addition, others were built to supplement these.

Celluloid collars, and high, wide and hard straw hats were other items necessary for the accurate reconstruction of the recent past. The collars were supplied by a midwestern dealer who thought he had been stuck with an over-supply—and stuck he was until 20th Century-Fox bought his entire stock at a fancy price. On the night of the straw hats, the studio was more fortunate. Several years ago the purchasing department picked up 200 of these snappy head pieces at a bargain price, and now they are not only used in 20th Century-Fox films, but also rented other studios often enough to have covered the original investment five-fold.

The songs sung by Alice Faye in "The Great American Broadcast" were written by those master tunesmiths Mack Gordon and Harry Warren. For "The Great American Broadcast" they prepared "Long Ago Last Night," "Run Little Run Run Run," "I Take To You," "I've Got A Bone To Pick With You," "The Great American Broadcast," "Where You Are," and "It's All In A Lifetime." The featured cast includes Mary Beth Hughes and many other outstanding performers.

Chan Battles With Pirates And Ghosts

More Super-Sleuthing In Queen Film, 'Dead Men Tell'

The screen's ace detective, Charlie Chan, has ample opportunity to exercise his Oriental sagacity in his latest thriller, "Dead Men Tell," which plays today and Monday at the Queen theatre.

20th Century-Fox once more gives Sidney Toler an exacting vehicle for his skillful and impressive interpretation of Charlie Chan. Against a background of a treasure hunt-bound boat, and a bathosphere which becomes a killer's coffin, Chan meets his most desperate adversary—a ghost!

The audience as well as Charlie Chan is baffled by the mysterious murder of a descendant of the 18th century pirate chief, "Black Hook" Nodbury, who left $80,000,000 worth of loot. And the appearance of his ghost doesn't make things easier. For a while it looks as if supernaturalism is going to be too much for the abilities of the Chinese sleuth and cut short his unusual career.

With Sen Yung, Chan's son, walking a plank in true pirate fashion, and his father stalked by a desperate cold-blooded killer, the atmosphere becomes tense and breathless as the picture surges to its unexpected climax.

When Sheila Ryan and Robert Weldon, who provide the romance in the film, are arrested for the death of an escaped killer, it looks as if the mystery is solved. But as far as Charlie is concerned, it has only just begun.

Also featured in the outstanding Chan film, "Dead Men Tell," are Don Douglas and Katharine Aldridge.

'Convoy' Tells Of Warfare's Heroisms

English-Made Drama Offered Today And Monday At Lyric

Personal drama brilliantly presented against a vivid background of high seas action in the current World War is to be seen in the sensational feature adventure film, "Convoy," which has now reached these shores and which plays today and Monday at the Lyric.

Starring Clive Brook, long a favorite of Americans, with John Clements bracketed, "Convoy" was produced with special British navy cooperation for its action scenes in war-infested waters, while other scenes were produced at Ealing Studio near London by Michael Balcon. With straight entertainment as its purpose, the picture carries a romantic story involving a heart triangle enacted by Brook, Clements and Judy Campbell as the truant wife of Brook. It is the vivid and convincing panorama of sea warfare and heroism that lift the production out of the conventional status of romantic drama.

The engrossing story of "Convoy" depicts the arrival in port of a flagship, the crew of which are eagerly awaiting leave. They are, however, ordered to sea again without a breathing space, to convoy an assortment of merchantmen.

On the flagship the captain is disconcerted to find the admiralty have appointed as his lieutenant the man who had eloped with his wife. She, incidentally, is on a refugee ship which soon finds itself in difficulties with a U-Boat. The captain of the flagship ignores her SOS, but he himself the vessel he is escorting, but the lieutenant dispatches a plane to the refugee ship, only to have it shot down by the enemy. From then on, grim, powerful warfare is the order of the day. Eventually, the captain's wife is rescued but the flagship finds itself confronted by the "Deutschland" and is forced to engage the pocket battleship single-handedly before a capital ship of the Grand Fleet arrives and chase the badly battered attacker away.

In the cast, Clive Brook and John Clements are outstanding, the former as the finely matter-of-fact commander of the flagship and the latter as his rival officer who proves himself a hero before dying by action. Other portrayals are given by Edward Chapman, as the hard-bitten master of the refugee ship, and by Miss Campbell as the woman in the case.

Canadian Newspaper Man Tells About War Effort

Leslie Roberts, who writes a series of five articles on our Canadian neighbors in a well-known Canadian newspaper man and author. As a constant visitor to the United States and a contributor to such magazines as Saturday Evening Post, Collier's, Harper's and many others, he is in a position to judge of the relationships between his people and ours and has been an apostle of closer accord between Uncle Sam and Jack Canuck for many years.

FIRST ARTICLE FOUR CANADIAN NEIGHBORS By LESLIE ROBERTS

Two nations, the United States and Canada, share the North American continent fifty-fifty. One has a population in excess of 130,000,000 people, the other a scant 1,000,000, most of whom live within a hundred miles of the United States border. One is the greatest industrial nation the world has ever known; the other is primarily a country of great natural resources which specializes in agriculture; in forest products as paper, pulp and lumber; in mining, smelting and refining its minerals; in fishing and in all those things which stem from the gifts of Nature.

While the United States are composed of people of a hundred racial stocks and strains, merged into one through the use of a common language, Canada is made up of two major race-groups, English and French-Canadian. About one-third of the total population is French-speaking. In one Province (Quebec) French-Canadian culture predominates.

As a result, Canada has two official languages, English and French, each of which is heard in the debates of the Federal Parliament, while English is seldom spoken in the Quebec Provincial legislature, a law-making body comparable to that of an American state. The Parliament at Ottawa carries out functions almost identical with those of the Congress at Washington.

All Hollywood to the contrary, the Canadian population is not composed of Mounties, Indians, Eskimos, prospectors, hairy trappers and fur-capped traders (to Canadians of course, Texans are represented in the films as Rangers, vigilantes, smothered cowgirls and singing cowboys). The habits of Americans and English-Canadians, as a matter of fact, are almost identical. They read the same books, go to the same movies, listen to the same radio programs. Their newspapers carry the same round-ups of world news at the same hours each day. They consume the same nationally-advertised products. They talk the same slang. Their business methods are one. Their women follow the same dictates of style, keep house according to the same domestic standards, employ their leisure hours in much the same ways. In general outlook Texans and English-Canadian probably have more in common than, say, Pennsylvania and Texas, due to the fact that each lives in a land of broad horizons and great open spaces.

The French-Canadians are less American-minded than their English-speaking fellow-citizens. They cling to Old World cultural standards, emphasize the importance of the family as the basic unit of human self-government, center their lives about the parish churches which are the dominating edifices of the Quebec landscape, honor the past rather than the present and look with distrust on many developments of the industrial age. They are, without a doubt, a people who give to Canada a cosmopolitan quality that it at once a delight to fellow-citizen and visitor. He is a good Canadian and a good North American. More realistic than his English-speaking cousin, he is less inclined to quarrel with the Yanks next door over trivial matters than is the Anglo-Canadian.

The purpose of these articles is to introduce Canadians to their neighbors who have never laid eyes on the Dominion or its people. There is no secret about the object. It is to help us know each other better. Never in the history of our continent has the need to understand one another been as great as it is in the Here and Now. Everything in which these two peoples believe, the whole structure of our way of living, is threatened by external forces which each of us detests. We seem to be agreed that they must be liquidated if democracy is to survive even in our own hemisphere. Even though we may not be completely agreed concerning the best ways and means to that end, we are one in our determination to defend our mutual continent. Hence we are partners in a mutual defense pact. We exchange freely the vital things of war and our armaments are rapidly becoming standardized and interchangeable. In pre-war days each was the other's best customer. In the days beyond the war nothing is surer than the certainty that our two economies will be more closely intertwined than ever before. We are almost alike as two peas in a pod. At only one point in our association does there seem to be any difference between us: the United States' independence of other nations and Canada's voluntary alliance as a member of the British Empire. Even there we draw closer.

No matter the labels you have read on the package, Canada is an independent nation, nobody's colony. She is at war because her people chose to go to war, not only because they felt it a duty and privilege to "aid Britain" but because they realized that their own survival was at stake. To that end Canada's Parliament met in special session several days after Hitler invaded Poland and voted almost unanimously to declare war on Germany as Canada. If Canadians had wanted to remain neutral they could have done so. This Canada, though a member of the British Empire, is nevertheless an independent nation, completely self-governing, bound by no strings excepting those she ties herself, a country as free as the United States and as intrinsically as North American in outlook. It is of importance that this be made clear.

In the articles which follow the attempt will be made to unravel Canadian riddles for the reader who has never visited the Dominion and who may have been confused by differences in terminology covering identical ways of living and outlook. They will be titled: "How Canada is Governed and By Whom," "Why Canada is British, yet American," "Canada at War," "Canada and Uncle Sam."

If the result is to help good neighbors to a better understanding, the cause of American partnership will have been well served.

(This is the First of a Series of Articles by Mr. Roberts. The second will appear next Sunday.)

Farmers Sink Money Into Land, Investing In 1941 Crop Hopes

Ranchers Plan Lice Control

George Barnes, A. and M. extension service specialist, met with a group of Howard county ranchers and County Agent O. F. Griffin Friday afternoon to plan a cattle louse control program.

He told the ranchers that a new type of louse — along with older species — was now found in West Texas. This is the short-nose ox-louse, which has spread down from the north, and ordinary sulphur dip will not kill it.

Barnes recommended a mixture of Rotenone in the cattle dip to control this louse. This non-poisonous insect killer is so powerful that 1-160 of one per cent of it will kill all lice when used in a dip. It is cheaper and safer than arsenic.

Griffin plans to obtain blueprints of dipping vats for use by ranchers in this section.

Two dipping demonstrations, with Barnes' help, have been planned. One will be on the I. E. Auble ranch and the other on the E. T. O'Daniel ranch. Tentative date is the first week in October.

FORMER RESIDENT DIES

Word was received here Saturday of the death of Mrs. Willie Weaver in Sherman Friday. Mrs. Weaver, who was a former Big Spring resident, had one time owned a dress and hat shop here. Funeral services were scheduled for Garland, Tex., Sunday.

Thomas Gainsborough painted his famous "Blue Boy" to disprove a statement that blue should not be massed together in a picture.

Farmers Sink Money Into Land, Investing In 1941 Crop Hopes

Farmers of West Texas are sinking a sizeable amount of money into the ground these days, making an investment in what they believe will be a good crop.

In Howard county, farmers are planting about 60,000 acres of cotton, the AAA office estimates. Many of them are planting certified cottonseed, costing $2 per bushel, at the rate of a third of a bushel per acre.

Fifty thousand acres or more are going into grain sorghums, but the seed cost is small here. Certified and treated maize seed may be had for three cents per pound and three pounds plants an acre.

But the investment in labor of man and beast or machine is high. Besides depreciation and upkeep, the tractor costs three fourths of a gallon of gasoline on the average for an acre of planting. Already the same amount of work was expended in listing the land. And five trips over the crops with a cultivator will be made, with gasoline consumption a little lower in this case.

Greenland is the only country in the world producing the important mineral cryolite in large commercial quantities.

Rural Schools Classified In Howard County

The county school board has classified all but four rural schools for the 1941-42 year, County Superintendent Anne Martin said Saturday.

All will teach eight elementary grades, said Miss Martin. This brings about a transformation from the 11 to the 12 grade system.

Teaching only the eight elementary grades will be the following schools. The figure following each is the number of teachers it will have:

Morris 1, Gay Hill 2, Center Point 3, Midway 4, Elbow 4, Cautie 2, Moore 4, Hartwells 1, Lomax 2, Chalk 5, Vealmoor 2.

Teaching eight grades of elementary work and four high school grades will be Forsan, Coahoma and Garner.

Not yet classified are Vincent-Morgan, Fairview, and Richland.

The board has appointed G. B. McAllen to fill the unexpired term of Walter Fry, resigned, as trustee at Chalk. Filling the unexpired term of R. P. Hargrove, resigned, at Chalk will be E. K. Sawdy.

At Richland, John Kilpatrick was named to finish the term of W. D. Puckett, resigned.

Radio Drama Tells How Youth Becomes American

Head-strong Jack Mueller becomes an American.

The story of how it happens will be unfolded in a radio sketch to be presented at 7:15 p. m. today over KBST, under sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce. The play was written by Mrs. Don Seale for presentation here during "I Am An American Day" and bears that title.

Those taking parts in it are R. H. Weaver, Virginia Douglas, Martin Dehlinger, Eloise Haley, Mrs. Charles White, John Gary, Odell Woods, Bill Dyer, Paul Kasch, Harold P. Steck and Leonard Johnson.

Dr. F. W. Malone will preface the program with an explanation of the occasion and history of the day, originated last year by President Roosevelt. He also will introduce other parts of the program. Arnold Marshall, accompanied by Helen Duley, will sing the theme, the song "I Am an American" at a few lots bringing up to 47 cents.

The other grades of fleeces were quiet with quotations steady but largely nominal at 42-43 cents, in the grease, for fine delaine and at 43-45 cents, in the grease, for half bloods.

How to make horsepower out of Thin Air!

Buick SPECIAL 6-passenger Sedan, $1006. White sidewall tires extra.*

JUST consider these plain facts about the engines in this 1941 Buick SPECIAL:

The engine that regularly powers this Series develops 115 horsepower and turns up 20.1 miles per gallon at a steady 30 miles an hour in Proving Ground economy tests.

But add Compound Carburetion,† and the same engine in the same model develops 125 horsepower and goes 21.5 miles per gallon by exactly the same tests!

There's more from less gasoline — and it comes, literally, out of thin air.

Because the two carburetors in this exclusive Buick feature handle a larger air volume than can be provided efficiently by a single mixer.

We'll let you figure out what extra power and extra mileage mean in extra fun, extra thrills, extra satisfaction.

We'll let you size up, too, how nice it is to travel farther more pleasantly — on as much as 10% to 15% less gasoline than former Buicks used.

But for the whole picture, just go get actual, local, delivered prices on a Buick.

You'll find that nowhere else can you buy the same size, the same style, the same power, the same comfort at the same low bargain Buick figures.

†Available at slight extra cost on some Buick SPECIAL models, standard on all other Series.

City Golf Meet's Qualifying Tilts Wind Up Today

Big Spring's first annual city golf tournament, sponsored by the local golf association, swings into matched play Monday, following completion of qualifying rounds today. The Mummy divotting fracas holds its championship final match June 1, with contestants playing off their matches between Monday and closing date at their own convenience.

Although there is now a scarcity of completed cards, Harold Akoy, Mummy golf pro, said Saturday that he expected a heavy round today plus the turning in of all cards that have yet to be submitted and listed. So far, the field pace-makers are Jack Morgan and Herman Stewart, both holders of one-under course par cards, 72's.

Akoy announced that the book is to be made up as soon as all cards are in in order that the rounds can be rolled off without too much delay. According to the rules of the meet, each player may compete as is most convenient for him, but each contestant is urged

Lobos Paste Borger, 14-7 In Friday Tilt

LAMESA, May 17.—After going on a hitting spree Friday night to mark the beginning of the Borger Gassers' skid, Lamesa's Lobos were given a reversal by losing out to Pampa's Oilers, 14 to 7, in the opening of a three-game series to be finished today by the double header route.

In the clash with Borger, Lamesa handed its visitors the same count it received Saturday, 14 to 7. Borger was smothered by a Lobo slugger, scoring in every inning but two. The Lobos handed the Borger crew two losses in succession the first time such has happened to the ex loop leaders thus far in the circuit roundtrips.

Softballers Lose Game At Abilene, 4-2

ABILENE, May 17 (Sp)—An epidemic of passed balls and errors, coupled with a brace of hits, cost W. D. Berry's Cities Service team of Big Spring a softball game here tonight.

Abilene took the seven inning tussle 4-2. The host club scored first on a passed ball and picked up its winning margin on a three run outburst in the sixth off two passed balls, an error and two hits.

Big Spring scored its runs in the third on Betty's single, a double by Heavel and Berry's single. Cunningham, on the ground for Big Spring, whiffed nine batters, and Wood and Hays struck out eight for Abilene.

Score by innings:
Big Spring ... 002 000 0-3 6 1
Abilene ... 010 003 2-4 4 0
Batteries — Cunningham and Smith; Wood, Hays and Brown.

Mexican Plaza Midgets Defeat ABC Park, 12-9

Mexican Plaza Midgets defeated ABC Park 12-9, despite the heads-up ball turned in by ABC's Orville Davis, Donald Wood, George Weinkauf and Andy Dayland, the Midgets continued their sweep through the WPA recreation circuit.

ABC Park youngsters bested A. Curley's nine from South Side Wednesday, romping away with a top-heavy 29 to 2 count. Noel Hull, Robert Long, N. H. Boyett, Demand Barnes and Thomas Anderson, led the ABC lads in their parade across the plate.

The Mexican Plaza junior girls outscored ABC's lassies in a softball game Monday at City Park, marking up a 19 to 2 score. Freida Kilgough and Ollie Anderson took leading roles in the game. In a return game Tuesday at Mexican Plaza the ABC Park team defeated the Plaza girls, 22 to 6, with Erodene Durham, Lorain Allan and Gypsis Smallwood giving outstanding performances.

Bombers Trip Gassers, 7 To 1, To Take WT-NM Loop Lead

Indians Beat Red Sox 12-9

BOSTON, May 17 (Sp)—Bob Feller was anything but his usual self today, but he didn't have to be as the levelled Indians led loose with four homers to give their pitching ace his seventh victory of the campaign—a 2 to 9 triumph over the Boston Red Sox.

In making a clean sweep of the three-game Boston series, the league-leading Indians ran to five their latest string of consecutive victories and made it five in a row over the Red Sox this season.

Chicago, Yanks 5
NEW YORK, May 17 (Sp)—John Duncan Rigney held the Yankees to five hits today as the Chicago White Sox wound up their series with the New Yorkers with a 3-2 victory. Myril Hoag paced the Sox attack with three singles that drove in two runs.

PHILADELPHIA, May 17 (Sp)—The Detroit Tigers paid their share of tribute to Connie Mack today and then proceeded to beat his Athletics 3 to 5 for their third victory in a row and a sweep of the series.

WASHINGTON, May 17 (Sp)—The Senators won a free-swinging ball game from the St. Louis Browns today, 2 to 7, with each side using four pitchers. A six-run spurt in the sixth put the Nats ahead to take the series 2 to 1.

The loss of insured turkeys during the midwestern blizzard last fall was so great that some companies no longer will insure them.

Risk Margin Today In Doubleheader

Riding on the crest delivered by Bob Kohout's six-hit, nine strikeout pitching, Big Spring's Bombers moved to the head of the West Texas-New Mexico baseball league class here last night by administering a 7 to 1 lopping to Borger's Gassers.

This afternoon at 2:30 the Bombers again entertain the Gassers at Roberts Field, putting up their slim lead as the stakes in a scheduled doubleheader. Willard Ramsdell takes the opening assignment on the mound. Saturday night Manager Jodie Tate said he had not yet picked his night-pitcher.

What appeared to be the start of a strictly hurlers' duel developed as a scoring spree by the Bombers when Borger's Garland hit an erratic streak and let the Big Springers start strolling baseward in the third inning. Hayden Greer and his potent bat lined out a drive to score Al Zieglerman and J. L. Haney and the race was on. When the side was retired, Borger had a trio of runs chalked against it.

In the fourth, Pete Zimirovich got a walk to first and advancing on a combination of errors, stolen base and passed ball, romped across for a tally.

Greer and Stevens each grabbed two-base hits in the seventh, Haney, on base by error, going across the plate on Steven's wallop and then ditting when Greer nicked Garland.

Borger, following up its defeat at the hands of Lamesa's Lobos Friday and Thursday, was unable to bring the pressure to bear on the Big Spring club at any time during the evening.

At the close of this week's Classic bowling league affairs, three clubs were deadlocked for first place with a 16 won, 11 lost showing. Of this trio, two, Cosden and Lester's, landed on top of the heap in Thursday night's competition, while Douglas was rapped by Hanson's.

Cosden bowed R&R Showmen twice out of the three-game series, with the final count standing at 2,605 to 2,400. The margin of victory was an edgy second round, when Cosden downed the opposition, 861 to 848.

Lester's failed to encounter too much difficulty in routing Big Spring Motor, 2,787 to 2,488, winning the full series while so doing. The top team dropped below a 900-pin level only once and that in the first round, but nudged by the Motorman, 880 to 834. The Lester score took high ribbons for the night.

Hanson cleaned up on Douglas over the complete route, rolling 2,586 to 2,407. Douglas, hitting an off night did not give the Hanson crew a threat throughout.

In the scoring department, Lester's Pierson grabbed honors with a 640 total. Remainder of the top five included Zack (Hanson's) 620, Wheeler (Lester's) 584, Lacy (R&R) 578, Holleran (Big Spring Motor) 542.

Local Women Defeat Dallas Bowling Team

Big Spring women bowlers, playing under the Douglass hotel colors, defended the home front Friday night by outscoring the visiting Morton's team from Dallas, three games for a final count of 2745 to 2611. Only close contest of the series came in the second round when the local legions edged out their visitors 854 to 863. Big Spring's Mrs. Pat Howes took high total honors for the evening, scoring 198-193-199 over the route for 519 pins. Laverne Lowette shot 175-185-199 for a 470-pin total to lead the Dallas team. Scores: Douglass-Howes—519, F. Walls—429, I. Knauer—398, E. Vineyard—430, A. LeBlanc—496, L. Eason—483; Morton's, Lowette—470, L. Hastings—454, R. Twelvetree—389, E. Thrash—414, B. Hastings—387, E. Hoos—447.

17-Year-Old Goes To Golf Finals

Braves Sock Cards 6-3

ST. LOUIS, May 17 (AP)—The New York Yankees let a good man go when they shipped Babe Dahlgren to the Boston Braves. Babe batted the Braves to a 6 to 3 victory over St. Louis Cardinals today, driving in one run with a single and then smacking a homer with two men on base in the twelfth inning to win the game.

Always a Fancy Dan in the field, Dahlgren handled 21 putouts, 18 of them coming in succession in one stretch.

Phillies 2, Reds 1
CINCINNATI, May 17 (AP)—Rookie John Podgajny outpitched Bucky Walters today to give the Philadelphia Phillies their fourth straight victory of the year over the Cincinnati Reds. The score of the world champions' sixth consecutive defeat was 2 to 1.

Giants 3, Cubs 0
CHICAGO, May 17 (AP)—The New York Giants, backing up southpaw Cliff Melton's five-hit pitching, pounded four Cub hurriers for thirteen safeties this afternoon and a 3-0 victory. Mel Ott drove in three runs with a pair of doubles, while Joe Orango and Babe Young got three hits each.

SWEETWATER, May 17 (AP)—Bobby Davidson, 17 year old Sweetwater high school boy, today won his way to the West Texas golf championship finals by defeating Bill Horton, Abilene city champion, 1 up.

In tomorrow's 36-hole finals he meets J. T. Hammett, Philpeco veteran, who defeated Corporal Fred Bedford of Brownwood, 3 and 2, in the other semi-final bracket. Davidson's medal score was 73, Horton's 74.

Davidson barely survived the tournament's first round with a 20-hole victory over Tom Bucy of Philpeco. He then took out Jack Johnson of Abilene and Clay Underwood of Wichita Falls, 1 up and 2 up, respectively.

Hammett reached the semi-finals with victories over Jake Morgan of Big Spring, 4 and 3, Harold Stevenson of Sweetwater, 4 and 3, Jimmie Phillips of Ranger, 2 and 1.

All Big Spring golfers fell by the wayside in the first and second rounds of the tournament. Obie Bristol beat Larry Priddy 1 up in the first round, but was sidetracked by Bill Horton of Abilene in the next round.

Ivey Martin was one over par in putting out Herman Stewart of Big Spring, 3-2, Friday afternoon, and J. T. Hammett, Philpeco veteran, ousted Jake Morgan of Big Spring 4-3, later going to the finals.

Martin was also responsible for Shirley Robbins' falling from play by scoring a course record of 63 in beating the Big Spring man Friday.

Lookin 'em Over

With Jack Douglas

Phillips' Treemen are girding themselves for an all-out attempt to oust Citier's Servicemen from the top spot they now share. With the nod going in Citier's favor, partly because of the first-class brand of pitching produced by L. D. Cunningham, Manager W. D. Berry's ace in the hole, the resulting fracas when Citier and Phillips finally meet on the city park diamond is scheduled to be one for the books.

Because of business reasons, R. E. Bridwell decided to give up his position as the helm of Phillips' softball efforts, although he will continue in the playing department. J. W. Patton is filling the job vacated by Bridwell, and, if indications can be used as a definite yard stick, Patton is due to handle the club in a manner that might work to the Servicemen's undoing.

Somewhat worried over the prospect of losing his star, Cunningham, Berry is hopeful that the possibility of San Angelo calling the Citier's hurler will not become a reality. Saturday afternoon he said he now figured Cunningham would decide to remain in Big Spring, although he was not sure by any means.

Larry Drake, the Bombers' whirlwind hitter, picked a bad time to go to the hospital—but Larry couldn't help it. He was sick with an attack of pneumonia poisoning on the eve of the crucial series with Berger. Although he is showing rapid improvement, he is certain to be out for a few days.

Larry has been playing in hard luck in this respect. Trying out with Dallas in the spring, he got a touch of malaria and shipping him to Arkansas didn't help. He was just beginning to feel like himself when along came the food poisoning.

Jodie Tate and Tink Riviere, manager and president, respectively, of the Big Spring baseball club, got the foul ball hitters sometimes while playing here. Reason is that loss of baseball averages about six to the game. Everytime one falls to come back, it's like three customers staying at home. In fact, it's a little more than a dollar and a quarter gone over the fence.

Staking Of New Wildcats In Area Top Oil News

Staking of wildcats near the Martin-Midland line and in Mitchell county southeast of the old Westbrook pool stood out in oil developments of this area during the past week. Lockhart, Dockery, Robbins and Willbanks Bros. were to spud their No. 1 Carrie Brown Monday on a 100-acre tract in Mitchell county. Scheduled to go 3,000 feet, the well will try for the Westbrook and other pays. Location is 900 feet from the north and 467 feet from the east lines of section 45-27-12, T&P. It is a mile and a half northeast of a test drilled 17 years ago and which had shows from 2,765 to 3,010. It is six miles southwest of the Dockery and Robbins pool, and seven miles northeast of the East Howard pool. Willbanks Bros. are contracting on a 50-50 basis.

Three and a half miles to the east and south, Casebolt, et al No. 1 Franklin drilled to 2,998 after encountering a show of gas at 2,865 along with a rainbow oil show, and another show at 2,940. Operators believe structure still gives a chance at the Westbrook horizon. F. N. Wiggins, Jr., and C. E. Hyde of Fort Worth staked a test on the Margaret Stinson and Elizabeth Burley land 1,320 feet from the south and west lines of section 4-36-12, T&P, about five and a half miles northeast of Midland and a mile over the line in Martin county. Contract depth is for a 5,000-foot rotary test, and it is on a 20,000-acre block. Saturday the American Machine Co. No. 2 Crawford, in the southwest corner of the southeast quarter of subdivision 12, George Raiger survey, Mitchell county, shot with 520 quarts at 1,740 feet. Heavily tamped, the shot did not come out but the test has been turning up a better sample of dolomite lime and is watched closely.

F. W. Merrick No. 1 Mills, 25 feet from the south and west lines of subdivision 18, C. H. McGinnis survey, in the same area, was below 1,000 feet, making 100 feet to the lower with rotary. Walker No. 1 Jim Baggett, 230 feet from the north and east lines of section 81-97, H&C, was at 1,700 feet. It is one of four tests a Cicco firm has contracted.

Guy Anderson No. 1 Doe Simpson, 2,310 feet from the south and east lines of section 65-97, H&C, resumed drilling at 100 feet in red beds for another Dockery & Robbins pool activity in Mitchell county. Hilburn No. 1 B. Jackson, 25 feet from the north and 2,310 feet from the west lines of section 82-97, H&C, was below 900 feet.

COTTON WEEK Comes to the Nation and Southwest Texas

We of the Southwest know, better than the smaller cotton producing sections of the U. S., the full worth of the fleecy staple and its products to this nation as a whole . . . So, realizing as we do its importance to this country's economic set-up, let's do everything we can to promote the sale of cotton products this week, next week and every week in every year.

Your increased demands for King Cotton better the market for this backbone of the Southwest . . . and when this is accomplished, we all prosper.

Romantic—Quilted organza, very sheer, is the stuff of which this romantic black hat is made. The heart-shaped silhouette is dear to the heart of G. Howard Hodge, the designer, who believes a woman should always wear hats men admire. Trimmed with a self-rossette of set green taffeta and black organza, which means it would blend nicely with a black dress, a green dress, a white dress, a pink dress, or what have you.

Clubwomen Told How To Begin County Library

Miss Dorothy Journey of Austin, field representative for the Library and Historical commission, was guest speaker on "How to Procure a Howard County Library" at the Howard County Federation Luncheon Saturday noon at the Moore school house.

Mrs. W. C. Rogers presided, and introduced Mrs. R. L. Beale, chairman of the library committee, who in turn introduced the guest speaker.

Miss Journey pointed out that the first effort of the county should be to obtain money for books. She suggested that 2000 books were needed according to the population of the county for establishing a Howard county library.

She then pointed out the need of obtaining a qualified librarian who would run the library on a business basis.

County commissioners were guests at the luncheon that was served by the Moore Parent-Teacher association. There were 55 persons attending. In the event of the establishment of a county library, the commissioners court would govern the board and hire the librarian.

Clinic Slated By Baptists In Territory

Church leaders in the eastern half of the Big Spring Baptist association will hold a vacation Bible school clinic at the First Baptist church here Tuesday, said the Rev. R. Elmer Dunham, regional director.

At the same time, it was announced that pastors of four churches had committed themselves to a simultaneous vacation Bible school of two weeks duration beginning on June 9.

Participating churches are the First Baptist, First Christian, First Methodist and East Fourth Baptist. The First Presbyterian church possibly will join, but a decision is pending the arrival of the new pastor.

The Methodists have had the clinic such as Baptists of Martin and Howard counties will hold Tuesday when speakers will be the Rev. M. W. Pitts, Coahoma, the Rev. C. E. Lancaster, Big Spring, and Irby Cox, Big Spring. Departmental conferences will be led by the Rev. A. E. Lightfoot, Smith chapel, intermediate; Mrs. R. E. Dunham, Big Spring, junior; Mrs. J. E. Miles, Big Spring, primary; and Mrs. Vernon Logan, Big Spring, beginners. Stress will be laid upon the mission and evangelistic spirit in the schools.

An added feature of the cooperative undertaking of the churches will be a combined parade of students who enroll in the hour following 1 p. m. on June 7.

Other church news included "The Dramatic Story of Two Deacons" as the subject topic of the Rev. H. W. Halslip at the First Christian church Sunday morning. Mrs. Byron Housewright will sing at that hour. Elders and deacons will be honored at the service. Rev. Halslip will speak on "The Bible and Capital Punishment" in the evening.

The Rev. Alvin Maul of Lamesa will preach at 11 o'clock this morning at the Church of the Nazarene. Only 18 years of age, Maul is to graduate from Lamesa high school this month.

The revival meeting which has been in progress the past week at the Fundamental Baptist tabernacle will continue, said the Rev. W. Eugene Davis, pastor. He reports a successful meeting, thus far.

Cosden Chatter--

By JUNE SHEFFARD

Cosden boasts quite a few athletes. We have a bowling team, quite a few baseball players, and are participating in a golf tournament. Many have their own horses, and are going in for horseback riding in a big way.

Mrs. C. D. Brown, Willa Nell Rogers, Bob Ward and Fred Stittsell in their tennis playing are a good bet for anybody's money.

Mrs. Jack X. Smith is visiting her mother in Sweetwater.

Glynn Jordan plans on being in El Paso this Sunday. There's an army camp there, Glynn. Got room for an extra passenger?

Mrs. Douglas Orme, who is constantly either going or coming, is on her way to Fort Worth to bring back her cousin from Chicago, Miss Mary Jane Elfborg, for an extended visit here. Mrs. C. E. Edmonds accompanied her on the trip.

All the general office employees were introduced to and shook hands with Congressman Martin Dies when he came out to the office this past week.

Helen Duley and family have a new delicious-looking, cream-puff colored car. Looks good enough to eat—well, drive anyway.

The John Collinses have a new addition to their family—a frisky, spindle-legged colt. At least you won't have to walk the floor with it—sh, John?

Along the same line—Stoney Henry has nine new little pink pigs down at his little red barn.

Ferry Daughtry, the quiet little man in the big green car, accompanied by his demure wife, frequents the airport—waiting for his ship to come in, or maybe he just likes to sit and smell the flowers.

Fort Worth Bound
W. F. Julliff, Jr., Mrs. W. F. Julliff Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Lee Harris and little daughter, Caroline, and Miss Alma Borders.

Heard tell that J. B. Tidwell, who was employed by Cosden as a welder, left this week for Puerto Rico to work on a government construction job.

Eva Nell Darron has returned to her home here from Keene, where she has spent some time.

Pioneer Club Meets In Phillips Home

FORBAN, May 17 (Sp1)—Mrs. Harvey Smith and Mrs. M. M. Hines won high scores when Mrs. Hart Phillips entertained the Pioneer Club Thursday afternoon.

Bingo awards went to Mrs. J. E. Galt, Mrs. I. L. Watkins, and Mrs. Lloyd Burkhardt.

Refreshments were served and others present were: Mrs. J. D. Leonard, Mrs. B. E. Loper, Mrs. Harry Miller, Mrs. Claude Collins, Mrs. C. M. Adams, Mrs. Burt M. Nallen and Mrs. Paul Johnson.

WHY IS HYDRA-MATIC DIFFERENT?

AS SIMPLE AS

FLUID COUPLING FULLY AUTOMATIC TRANSMISSION

Fluid coupling alone can do much to make driving easier. But it can't eliminate all manual shifting. Only Hydra-Matic is completely automatic. (Prices and Specifications Subject to Change Without Notice.)

Built and backed by General Motors—offered in Oldsmobile

Fluid coupling is just one part of Hydra-Matic Drive. Hydra-Matic includes also a fully automatic four-speed transmission. It's the combination of the two that permits elimination of the clutch pedal and all manual shifting of gears. Both are necessary to give you the stepped-up performance and the completely automatic operation that you get only in Hydra-Matic Drive. Come in and try the one drive that goes all the way to make driving simpler, easier and safer!

Are You A Good American?

This is "I Am An American Day." When we pause to think, most of us say: "I am an American, and I might as well be." It is because America is the best land in the world.

Certainly it is the best land. But we're afraid it is largely due to our efforts. We are blessed with rich resources, a good constitution that our forefathers left us free of charge, and a geographical stronghold that gives a degree of protection from European "isms."

We have these things by virtue of inheritance. But what are we doing to improve things, or even to keep them as good as they are? What are YOU doing to make America great?

Are you taking an active interest in the responsibility of governing our land? Did you pay your poll tax? Do you try to wield your little bit of influence in government? Or do you say: "Politics is rotten; I want no part of it" and ignore the responsibility of government?

Are you doing your part for national defense, or merely popping off about it? Some of our most flowery speakers are doing least of all for the cause of liberty. Are you paying Uncle Sam all the taxes out of every cent you can? Are you contributing to your church in its campaign to improve religious conditions around army camps? Only young men may serve in the army; older men may serve in many ways besides the making of meaningless speeches. (And we're afraid too many are doing that.)

And, most important, are you doing your little bit every day to defend the treasured liberties Americans are endowed with? Are you slow to criticize the fellow who has different political ideas from your own? Remember, the fellows at Valley Forge died to give every man the right to speak his piece, and some of our boys may die again before this year is over to defend that right.

Are you a good citizen? No? Then you can't be a good American; and there's no use being proud of being an American unless you are a good one.

Man About Manhattan—Vichy, France, Wasn't Always So Famous

NEW YORK — Vichy, France, with its melancholy implication of defeat and disillusionment, is a front page name today. But a few years ago it wasn't so well known—not to the general public anyway. I remembered it because of an incident that happened there about a year ago. I ran across the item among some old clippings today and I want to reprint it, just for rosmery. It went like this:

"The American soldiers who were quartered in the military hospital at Vichy, France, will be glad to learn that their old pal, Sherkot, is doing well, indeed, for himself. In fact, he is a star in the new Cochran revue in London."

"During the war Sherkot was a diminutive and funny French lad who wandered around the hospital giving amateur performances for the wounded. He learned the words of songs in English as taught him by his Yankee buddies, and he sang them with a trifle of a trifle, but Sherkot never knew why the Americans laughed so much.

"These comic antics of his almost transformed him into an American. A troop of New Yorkers adopted him as mascot. He was provided with a miniature uniform and, although lacking a passport, was shipped to New York with his buddies after the war. The French consul met him on his arrival and hustled him back to his native land."

All this was 22 years ago. And this piece was written some seven years ago. I wonder where Sherkot is today.

Library note: A strange book has just come off the Harvard University press, strange because there isn't anything like it anywhere. . . . Lawyers will like it and students of the War Between the States will like it because it is a history of the judicial system of the Confederate states. . . . No one until now has ever written the story of the structure and business of the states, federal, military and judicial courts of the southern states.

The name of this book is "Justice in Grey." It was written by Wm. Robinson, Jr. . . . It is packed with a ton of indescribably fascinating detail. . . . For instance, today the public is very high on the Department of Justice because of G-man exploits, but the U.S. never had a Department of Justice until it adopted the idea from the Confederate states. . . . There never was such a department anywhere in the world, not even in England, says the volume, until the Confederates formed it. Now take the case of Arkansas. . . . When the state was invaded and Little Rock taken by the enemy there were no more penitentiaries, so all sentences were abolished and if you were guilty of felonies or crimes of any nature you were either hanged or flogged. The law stipulated that no white man should receive more than 39 lashes on the bare back. That was frontier justice and seems a trifle rough, but then those were rough days. . . . In this book all the states and the districts pass in review, and with them all the great legal minds and the gallant blockheads who were a part of the scene. I know little about Mr. Robinson himself but I can tell you he has done a monumental thing, and in the "Corn Pone and Jeff Davis" section of my own library "Justice in Grey" is going to occupy a prominent place.

Someday I'll Find You

CHAPTER 11
NEW YORK HEARS

Eileen first stared, then laughed. "You mean—you mean that woman, frightened little Mr. Weigand, who adores Martha so that when she isn't here he holds any other hand?"

"That's what I mean. He adores her just that way. Any other hand, yours, mine."

"Good heavens. He's no temptation."

"Not to me. But Martin sees him like that."

Eileen said, even while she dug in her trunk, which, draped in a Spanish shawl, stood against one wall and wasn't unlike a seat if covered, they hoped, "Molly, that's too impossible."

"All right. Anyway, put up the photographs. If you don't want to keep a rose under the handstand, I'll do it myself."

Eileen set them out—there was no lack of them, girls and men, groups and singles, and she looked at the one of her husband, smiling at her, and she thought, "This is he." Molly said solemnly, and thereupon dug a Woolworth spray of daisies and a small glass vase from her own possessions and set them before Jordan Estill's picture.

Eileen forgot all about it, for she was very busy. That is, sometimes, seeing the daisies gathering dust under Jordan's well-held chin, she laughed, diving in and out of the sunny cement-walled room.

For got it so completely, that when Mr. Weigand slipped his hand mechanically into hers if they happened to be near each other, half the time she left it. He looked so hurt when she took it away that she felt like somebody being rude to a child.

The thing which was most important to her blotted everything out for a while. The cable to Martin. She had used, flippantly, like everybody else, a phrase about being "all burned up." She knew now what it meant. She was burned up about the cable.

Her palms were hot and she went down rehearsal to work in a painful state of tension and expectancy. She tried not to show it to Molly, but Molly, shrewd-eyed, and herself peering on Eastern made with frank excitement, knew that, at least, there was someone, something, not Jordan Estill, whom Eileen waited to hear from.

And there was no answer.

She said to Molly finally, after a fortnight of waiting, "What happens when there isn't anybody to take a cable? Don't the company tell you they couldn't deliver it or something?"

"It isn't delivered."

"That was true. It had been delivered. Naturally, Martin was on the boat. But he hadn't wired again."

Of course he hadn't. . . . and yet

he still might. . . .

So it was an Eileen with seven eighths of her mind on something far removed from singing, records, anything in the world but her own affairs, who strayed into the recording room in response to a message about one of her songs. "Some thing important," the messenger told her.

Little Mr. Weigand was fusing with the phonograph in a corner. "I want you to listen to a couple of your own recordings," he said.

"What for?"

He smiled mysteriously. "I'll tell you later, or Martha will," he said. "We're both all excited about it."

She sat back. She listened. There didn't seem to be much point to hearing herself sing: "Just Away," "You Are My Lucky Star." They sounded all right; that is, they sounded like somebody else's voice with occasional touches of familiarity.

Casanova

Mr. Weigand took them off and came over to her, beaming.

"We got a wire from one of the big New York studios today," he named it.

Eileen sat up, all her indifference gone.

"You know, we send them recordings from time to time, to keep them interested. You never know," she nodded.

"Well, my dear, they wire that they'd like to rent these two recordings!"

He beamed with innocent joy.

"Yes, I knew you'd be glad to hear it."

She waited, but that was all.

"But—Mr. Weigand—don't I get any royalty from that?"

Mr. Weigand cleared his throat.

"Well now, my dear—you know how we are fixed here. It takes all we have to carry the station. And Martha and I take it for granted that you young people are as interested in the cause of art as we are. We try to choose only real enthusiasts."

"In other words," Eileen said, "you pay me what is less than a living wage for singing over your station, on the pretext that it will lead to something more, and when it does lead to something more you hold out on me."

She was suddenly furious. He seemed blinking at her in what seemed honest surprise.

"But Eileen—the honor of singing here—"

The door behind them opened quietly.

"I don't know whether you know that I am staying on here, in spite of an offer to tie up with the best agent in Denver," Eileen said quietly. "You should. I told your wife about it."

"But, my dear. We did know. We thought it was so beautiful of you."

She gave the arm a quick jerk, and turned on him angrily.

"Then it seems to me it ought to work both ways. I think—"

She got no chance to go any further. Martha Weigand, from the door, said, "I thought so!" There was a fury in her voice.

Eileen faced round on her, still not taking in the situation.

"Just what did you think?" she demanded, staring at the woman's snapping black eyes and the shaking stout body in its beads and batiks. Mrs. Weigand was undoubtedly as angry as Eileen. But Eileen was unprepared for the cause of her anger.

"I thought you were staying on here because you were making a play for my husband! And you fall me after that, you little love another, that I haven't a right to use you for my art? Holding his hand, coming off here along with him—"

"This is idiotic as well as outrageous," Eileen said, suddenly cool. The two people were such contented freaks. It was all grotesque.

"Your husband was trying to tell me that he hadn't any right to royalties on records of my own voice. And when I objected, apparently he was under the impression that a little petting would make up for it."

"You brazen little thing!" Mrs. Weigand said. "Don't you suppose that I know why you came here—why girls come out here? Naturally I put up with it, if they will be such fools. But beyond a certain point I protect my husband from them. And that point's come with you."

The Break

It was all nearly insane, Eileen felt as if she was in a world standing on its head.

"That you suppose that funny little man is so attractive that girls my age can fall for him—and that you are willing to use it?"

Someone else clattered in.

"Eileen—" Molly called. "Been looking for you everywhere. Message." She waved it. "What's the matter?"

"The matter is, you were right and I was wrong," Eileen said. "This dreadful little old man thinks I'm crazy over him. And his wife thinks I am, too—and singing here—"

Eileen began to laugh—"for love of him!"

"My husband admitted to me that he was interested—" Mrs. Weigand shouted.

"But you showed me you cared"

Hollywood Sights And Sounds—Dick Powell and Joan Blondell Decide To Settle Down At Home

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Dick Powell and Joan Blondell are giving up (says Dick) any claims they may have as Hollywood's moviest couple. They've found what they want in the way of a house. They're settling down. This (says Dick) is it.

"This" is the new one they're building at Balboa, the beach community about an hour's drive from the studio. "This" is the little house—three bedrooms, no guest room—they're building for a permanent, year-around home. The cost is $7,000—met by Dick's royalties from a recording of "He's My Uncle."

"We spent last summer down there," says Dick, "and never had a better time. Bill Cagney's building on the next lot, and another neighbor is Walter McEwen. We get privacy, the kids love it, and I can step out into my boat any time."

The boat is a 29-foot fishing vessel, speedy, with a cabin that sleeps two. Boating is an enthusiasm shared by Dick and the youngsters—Norman, 6, and Ellen, 12—but not by Joan, who gets seasick.

So the Powells are getting away from it all, and they've plenty, in a real estate manner of speaking, to get away from. In the four years they've been married, they've sampled many a brand of housing and location.

First there was Dick's bachelor establishment at Toluca Lake. They never lived there, as he sold it the day they were married. Joan didn't like the valley.

They bought a place in Beverly Hills—four bedrooms and some of the trimmings. They redecorated, and after rattling around in it awhile they bought in Bel-Air, where people pay to be "exclusive." So they sold, and bought an estate in Coldwater Canyon—a swimming pool, tennis court, etc. But they never lived there. Dick sold before they could move in.

Meanwhile there were the three acres in Brentwood, where they contemplated building. They never did, as Frank Capra came along with an offer. The same thing happened with their one-acre in Bel-Air, only Harry Warner was the buyer. Now, awaiting completion of the beach home, they're in the place in Hollywood bought from Fay Wray—a big house and grounds which they've fenced for privacy. The staff, including night watchman, totals seven.

"It's always so easy to get a place a little bit larger each time you change," says Dick, "and you can get so involved it's no fun. It took us this long to find out what we really want—a little house. We're family people—don't do much entertaining, don't need a lot of rooms. So this is it."

For how long? He thinks for good—but I'm a horse-trader, and I guess I'll sell anything.

The Powell realty deals include not only residences but several business squares—tenanted by grocery stores, drugstores, ready-to-wear shops and the like. On the whole, he's made them pay.

After several films in which he put his song specialty in mothballs to act, Dick is singing again with Abbott and Costello in "In the Navy." The boy's shrewd there, too.

"I haven't been in a real smash picture lately," he says, "and I have you seen what those boys did in 'Buck Privates?'"

Aloop And Kintner—Lyndon Johnson Seeks Senate Seat From Texas At President's Request

By ALBIO and KINTNER

WASHINGTON, May 17. — Although overburdened with the huge war effort and facing the gravest decision in this country's history, the president still takes a personal interest in the campaign of his protégé, Representative Lyndon B. Johnson, in the special senatorial election in Texas. Intimates disclose that the president and his small group of advisers are receiving regular reports on the campaign and that the president has lost none of his determination to give Johnson every aid.

Perhaps, this is as it should be, for, while the fact is not generally known, Johnson is a senatorial candidate more from the president's encouragement than from his own willingness.

Johnson, an able and enterprising Texan, only 32 years old, has had a meteoric career even for Washington, where the new deal has pushed into the national spotlight a great many young men. Only four years ago, Johnson was a newly elected and comparatively unknown congressman with vague administration connections.

Yet by last year, Johnson was the president's personal representative in an informal organization created to help re-elect a democratic house. And today Johnson has an easy entrance to the White House, and is held in very high esteem by the president.

Johnson entered the campaign for the senatorial place formerly held by the late Morris Sheppard, only after several long talks, first with Harry L. Hopkins, the president's closest adviser, and then with the president himself. After the death of Sheppard, a great many younger new dealers, both in Texas and Washington, urged Johnson to be a candidate. Their importunings increased with the announcement of the candidacy of Representative Martin Dies, who is as little liked by the president as any member of congress.

Johnson was reluctant to run, and said so with frankness to his close friends. He pointed out that he was still a young man with "plenty of time," that Dies and the others would make a strong race and that as a friend, he would not want to embarrass the president by possibly decreasing White House prestige through his own defeat.

In short, Johnson said, he was happy in the house and he had neither the funds nor the organization to conduct a state-wide campaign against a strong field.

The young congressman was persuaded to visit Hopkins, to whom he said exactly what he had told his other friends. Hopkins relayed his position to the president, and several talks with the president followed.

The president made no secret about his feelings. He told Johnson quite frankly that the times were difficult and the administration needed every vote in the senate on matters of foreign policy. He said that he had no doubts as to Johnson's beliefs and loyalty. And he ended by urging him to make the race and promising every aid.

The president kept his promise that same afternoon at a press conference where he gave Johnson his benediction, subject only to the natural qualification "that Texas chooses its own senator." As much as any candidate in recent years Johnson is running under the White House banner.

It is natural that the president would want Johnson to be a senator from Texas. Not only is the young man a firm believer in the president's foreign policy, but he is an extremely well-informed and well-liked member of congress, and one of the closest friends and allies of Speaker Sam Rayburn, also a Texan.

As a neophyte in congress Johnson came to Rayburn for advice and counsel, and unlike many new representatives he accepted the advice. Rayburn found that Johnson was a hard worker, willing to do any sort of job and had good judgment.

Therefore, when the national election in 1940 came around and Rayburn found that the congressional campaign was being neglected, he turned to Johnson for help in creating an informal committee to aid in the reelection of a democratic congress.

Rayburn, Johnson and one or two others, always in close touch with the president, set up headquarters in Washington, raised some money, and after canvassing the field, went to work in behalf of a group of democratic house members in close districts whose reelection was being threatened by the large resources of the republicans. Their efforts were rewarded. The great majority of the congressmen they helped were re-elected. Since then, Johnson has been as close to Speaker Rayburn as any member of the house. And it is generally understood that Rayburn joined the president in urging Johnson to make the race.

Whether or not Johnson will emerge as a senator is difficult to say. As he has said on many occasions, the candidates against him are well-known Texans, resourceful and skilled in the arts of campaigning, with large personal followings.

Then, too, his opponents will try to avoid the issue on which the president counts to get Johnson elected—the administration's foreign policy. But whether he wins or not, this much can be said with safety. With all the burdens of his office during the gravest crisis in our history, the president has not forgotten his promise to Johnson. And before election time on June 28 the president is expected to give added evidence of his support.

Story

Mr. Weigand began, still piteously. Molly Flanagan put an arm around her friend's waist.

"Come along, kid. Same old game. It happens regularly once a season. Martha has to believe she owns the tops in glamour boys, and Welgy just sort of keeps himself and her fooled about it, I guess that's all. Last year it was a waitress, fortunately."

"Looks here, Welgands—" Molly turned on the couple, bare eyes as flaming as her hair—"Don't you think you're pretty dumb to pick on your fans' pet radio singer? Not to speak of she's engaged to one of the profs in the university, and a girl with lots of backing and position? What goes on, anyhow, that you got crazy with the desert heat and didn't make it a dishwasher—or even a wash-woman's child like me? Pipe down!"

Mrs. Welgand, unbelievably, did pipe down.

"If Eileen is engaged," she said, going back to her accustomed staidness, "I can forgive and understand. We were all a little excited, dear. Shall we forgive and forget?"

She beamed kindly at Eileen. Eileen took two steps toward the pile of records on the phonograph. She picked up the recordings, and carefully threw them on the floor and stamped on them.

"I certainly shan't," she said. "In fact, you will have to have to find somebody else for the evening song hour. I'm going back to Denver tonight, if I can hire anybody's car to take me."

The Welgands began to argue together and at once, Eileen turned to leave the room. Mrs. Welgand darted after her, screaming in her ear.

"You can't do anything of the sort! You have a contract!" "What about the recordings?" Eileen demanded.

"We'll add something to the contract for them," Mrs. Welgand begged.

"Don't bother. I'm going." TO BE CONTINUED

Garden City PTA Has Last Meeting

GARDEN CITY, May 17 (Sp1)—The P.T.A. met for the last session of the year at the school Wednesday with Mrs. N. P. Taylor in charge of singing. Mrs. H. A. Haynes presided. Mrs. B. M. Keathley read the minutes and Keith Appleby gave the treasurer's report.

Mrs. L. G. Byerley, district president of Midland, installed new officers. These included Mrs. Charley Cox, president, Mrs. Bud Hanson, vice president, Mrs. B. M. Keathley, secretary, and Howard Martin, treasurer.

Shine Phillips introduced Mrs. Ira Thurman of Big Spring who reviewed the book, "I Paul," by Rex Miller. Mrs. Taylor talked on National Music Week. Special music was furnished by a quartet. The ninth, 10th and 11th grade room representatives had charge of the social activities.

The first American trade association was formed in 1785 when 30 New York merchants agreed to cooperate in promoting their businesses.

Cornerstone Laid For New Salvation Army Citadel Here

Organization's State Chief Makes Talk

Big Spring's Salvation Army citadel was dedicated before a small audience Friday evening by Brig. William George Gilks, state Salvation Army commander, "first to glory of God and to the service of humanity."

Brig. Gilks spoke briefly at a ceremony interrupted by a thunder-shower.

In his remarks prior to laying the cornerstone of the $12,000 brick and tile structure, Brig. Gilks paid tribute to Mrs. Dora Roberts and Mrs. Cora Holmes, whose gifts made possible the building.

"We could not possibly build this citadel without dedicating the very brick and mortar to the glory of God," said the brigadier.

In keeping with the Salvation Army program, the building was being raised first of all for spiritual purposes, he explained, for "if we seek first to elevate the spiritual level of the individual, all other things will work out in order."

Cliff Wiley, of the advisory board, introduced the main speaker and observed that it was significant that "we are engaged in construction rather than destruction." He lauded those who gave service in time and money to "build a home for those less fortunate than we."

Behind the cornerstone, donated and cut by the builder, J. M. Morgan, was placed a zinc box containing the names of Mrs. Roberts, Mrs. Holmes, members of the advisory committee, a newspaper, coils of the realm, a program and a brief history of the Salvation Army's activities in Big Spring.

The audience, numbering less than 50, joined in a hymn, the Rev. J. O. Haymes of the First Methodist offered the invocation and Mrs. G. J. Canning, accompanied by her husband, Capt. Canning, gave a vocal solo. Mrs. Roberts and Mrs. Holmes were seated near the rostrum of the building, located at 4th and Ayford streets.

Wages Raised For No Reason
WAPPINGERS FALLS, N. Y. — When the Dutches Bleachery, Inc., raised wages of 800 employees 10 per cent, Superintendent James S. Evans explained: "The raise is for no particular reason. We try to go along with the other increases in the textile industry. But we try to pay a little bit better."

Land Use Planning Committee Talks Food And Feed Program For Defense

Howard county land use planning committee met Saturday to plan a program of food and feed production to aid the national defense program.

One of the major results of the meeting was that the subcommittee for organization of a frozen food locker cooperative had its life prolonged and received a new assignment.

The building of a locker plant here now virtually assured, the committee will now devote its efforts to the education of the public on the use of frozen food lockers.

New members of the soil and water conservation subcommittee are George White and H. T. Hale.

Recruits Grow Steadily
SALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—Preliminary surveys at the Salt Lake City selective service reception center have established one thing—recruits may not get rich in the army, but the majority are getting heavier. Six boys, chosen at random, had an average weight boost of 15 pounds each in four months of service.

More Tourists Visit Forests
SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH.—Utah National forest officials reveal that Americans apparently are taking advantage of war restrictions on travel to visit scenic points in the United States. Winter visitors to the Wasatch national forest increased by nearly 15,000 persons over the previous season.

The ancient Etruscans invented dental restoration and false teeth by fitting artificial teeth in bronze bands or "bridges."

In attacks on European cities the majority of bombs dropped have not exceeded 250 pounds in weight.

Aircraft makers now consume about 70 per cent of the magnesium alloys available in the United States.

owner in parentheses), were as follows:

Here 'n There

Confidentially, to relieve this confusion among the old timers, this "racking" gait at the horse show is really the singlefoot. Many who knew a singlefoot when they saw and who were uninitiated in fine horse terms, were bewildered by it.

Among those here for the show was a good delegation from Amarillo, including Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Garner, who were joined Saturday by their son, C. R. Garner, Jr., of Austin; Mrs. Ben Manning and Peggy, Mr. and Mrs. B. I. Barfield, Mr. and Mrs. Garner were accompanied by Robert Campbell, a young trainer they brought back after a recent and extensive tour through Tennessee to acquire walking horses. A heady young man plenty horse-wise is Campbell.

Back in town Saturday for a brief visit was Norman Priest, Howard county's first volunteer for selective service. Norman has been stationed at Fort Bliss, is now a first class private and is looking good. He was on furlough to go to San Antonio to take his licensed embalmer examination.

R. E. Black, with the S. P. Jones Lumber Co., is carrying his arm in a sling these days. Last week, while erecting a sign, he stepped into a posthole, fell and broke his arm. He was dismissed following treatment at the Cowper Clinic.

Gey Hill P.T. A. sponsored a program at that school Friday evening, and the novelty of it was that those attending witnessed in from their cars.

W. A. Hancock, alias J. H. Davis, has been lodged in Howard county jail to await trial on an indictment of felony swindling by bogus check, Deputy Sheriff Denver Dunn said Saturday. He was brought here by Sheriff Buck Bennett of Lamesa, after receiving a five year prison sentence in a similar case there.
