Space Station Crippled By Heat, Shield Flaws

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The crippled Skylab space station developed a new problem today when temperatures of 100 degrees were recorded inside the laboratory. The space agency called it a serious problem but still hoped to launch three astronauts to link up with the station on Sunday.

"It's too early to tell if we're in an unmanageable situation," reported flight director Neil Hutchinson. "But the Skylab cluster is hot and it's a problem that we'll have to be able to solve if the mission is to continue."

Hutchinson also reported a problem with a stabilizing gyroscope in the spaceship control system.

These add to the difficulties of space agency experts who are trying to salvage three manned missions from America's first space station.

The laboratory was launched unmanned into a perfect 272-mile high orbit Monday, but suffered a severe blow when two of six solar panels failed to extend properly.

The panels are designed to convert the sun's energy to electrical power. With two panels inoperative, the power supply of the Skylab was cut in half.

Skylab 1 astronauts Charles Conrad Jr., Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz were to have ridden another rocket into space today to link up with the station for a 28-day space adventure.

But the space agency late Monday postponed the astronauts' liftoff until Sunday to give experts a chance to work out a new flight plan adapted to the reduced power supply.

The failure of the two solar panels to deploy was traced to a mishap 63 seconds after launching of the Saturn 5 rocket when an aluminum micrometeorite shield ripped away from the side of Skylab, damaging or jamming the wing-like devices.

Hutchinson said the absence of the shield, only six-hundredths of an inch thick, apparently is responsible for the heat problems aboard the spaceship.

"It's like Houston on a hot, humid day in there," said the flight director, who was speaking at a news conference at the Johnson Space Center near Houston.

He said temperatures of 100 degrees had been recorded in the center of the 85-ton workshop. Normal temperatures would be in the 60s or 70s, he said.

Air-conditioning units are aboard the craft, but to operate them now would be a serious drain on an already depleted power supply.

Hutchinson said that although "we have a serious anomaly and don't know yet how to cope with it," he was hopeful engineers would come up with a solution in the next two or three days, in time to launch the astronauts on Sunday.

He said the gyroscope problem was not as serious as the electrical-heat problems.

Asked to assess the possibility of a launch Sunday, Hutchinson said: "I've not seen a show stopper yet."

Skylab Project Director William C. Schneider was optimistic at a Monday night news conference that all three planned Skylab missions could be salvaged. But that was before the latest problems cropped up.

"We still have high hopes that they can stay up 28 days, but during the last few days their activity will have to be curtailed because of the power shortage," he said.

Everybody seems to be holding a post-mortem on Skylab," he said. "But we think we can achieve a lot of our objectives."

And he said there is still a possibility that the Skylab 2 and 3 flights, each scheduled for 56 days later in the year, might be fulfilled. He said that assessment probably can't be made until after the Skylab 1 voyage.

The laboratory, as large as a three-bedroom house, was lofted into a perfect 272-mile-high orbit Monday by a Saturn 5 rocket. Everything was going so well during the first orbit that a flight control official called it a "superbird."

But trouble began even before the Skylab reached orbit. Just 63 seconds after liftoff, a paper-thin aluminum overcoat designed to protect the lab from micrometeorite hits apparently was ripped from the side of the spacecraft. Schneider reported. This failure apparently damaged two winglike solar panels that were to have extended from the sides of the spaceship to convert the sun's rays to electrical power.

The two 30-foot panels deployed only partially and are useless. Efforts to dislodge them by radio command failed.

FOR ASTRONAUTS Panel Problem Provides Trap

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — If an astronaut tried a space walk to repair the problem that has delayed the first Skylab mission, it would be like a mouse trying to trip a trap to get some cheese.

A mighty Saturn 5 rocket was thundering past 40,000 feet at 1,000 miles an hour Monday when an aluminum micrometeorite shield was ripped from the side of the spacecraft, officials at the Kennedy Space Center said.

This apparently jammed two solar power panels, so they failed to open fully when ordered to unfold from their accordion storage position, the officials said.

The panels were to have converted solar energy to electrical energy to power many of the experiments astronauts Charles Conrad Jr., Paul J. Weitz and Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin would perform during their planned 28-day mission.

The astronauts were to blast into orbit and board Skylab today, but the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced Monday night that the manned launch had been postponed until Sunday.

Many people wondered why an astronaut just couldn't step into space and free the solar panels manually.

NASA officials replied that the crew hadn't been trained for such a space walk, the umbilical cord that carries their oxygen and power wouldn't reach the panels comfortably and there was danger that sharp metal from the torn cover could slice through a space suit.

DEPUTY DIRECTOR CLAIMS

Aides Sought CIA Help On Coverup

WASHINGTON (AP) — The No. 2 man in the Central Intelligence Agency reportedly has accused former White House aides H. R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman and John W. Dean III of trying to enlist CIA help in a Watergate coverup.

CIA Deputy Director Vernon A. Walters testified in secret Monday before the Senate Armed Services Committee. Later Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., said Walters had testified that Haldeman, Ehrlichman and Dean were "heavily involved" in efforts to mislead the CIA. Another source said one effort had been a Watergate coverup.

The account dovetails with statements by former acting FBI chief L. Patrick Gray III. He testified before Senate Watergate investigators last week and The Associated Press has obtained an official written digest of his remarks.

With the start of hearings by the special Senate Watergate investigating committee two days away, Chairman Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., announced the committee voted to ask "use immunity for Dean and Roy H. Shoppard."

Sources told The Associated Press Shoppard is the man said to have removed eight cartons of documents, including Watergate bugging plans, from the White House complex shortly after the June 17 break-in of Democratic headquarters.

An attorney, Peter H. Wolf, claimed April 19 in court papers that a client, then unnamed, entered the Executive Office building with a pass waiting for him at a guard gate. The documents were returned later to the Nixon campaign committee. Wolf, who sought and failed to keep his client's name secret before the grand jury, had identified him as a low-level campaign staffer.

Ervin said the committee also agreed that none of its members or staff had information to indicate President Nixon's San Clemente, Calif., was purchased with 1968 Nixon campaign funds. Ervin said he was making the announcement because a newspaper had carried a story saying the matter was being investigated by Ervin's committee.

The story was reported Sunday by the Santa Ana Register, a sister newspaper of The Pampa Daily News.

Gray said Walters got the FBI to postpone interviews with two Watergate witnesses last year on grounds the CIA had "some interest" in them.

Richardson Considering Prosecutor 'Candidates'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen.-designate Elliott L. Richardson says he might be able to announce his selection of a special Watergate prosecutor today.

In testimony Monday to a Senate committee holding hearings on his nomination, Richardson also disclosed the identities of four persons he has under final consideration for the post.

Senate sources indicated they expect the job to go to one of the four. U.S. District Court Judge Harold R. Tyler Jr. of New York. But Tyler would have to resign from the bench to accept the appointment.

Judge Tyler announced later in New York that he had withdrawn from consideration from the post because he was "reluctant to resign as an active judge."

The other three named by Richardson were:

- Warren M. Christopher, 47, a Los Angeles lawyer who was deputy attorney general in 1967-69 under both Nicholas DeB. Katzenbach and Ramsey Clark in the Johnson administration.
- William H. Erickson, 49 of Denver, a Colorado Supreme Court Justice.

—David W. Peck, 70, a former justice of the New York appellate division and now a senior partner in a Wall Street law firm.

Richardson told the Senate Judiciary Committee he regards all four as highly qualified and said that was the reaction of committee members whom he consulted privately.

He previously had testified that if the committee, and the Senate as a whole, did not approve of his choice he would make another selection.

Richardson said that a judge would have to resign to become special prosecutor and could not expect to receive any future judicial appointment from the present administration—even reappointment to the court post he gave up.

Tyler, on whom an FBI check was begun over the weekend, was an assistant attorney general for civil rights in the Justice Department in 1960-61. He turned 51 Monday.

Richardson said that more than 100 names had been suggested to him for appointment as special prosecutor. One was recommended by Army Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., recently named Nixon's chief of staff, and another by Leonard Garment, now acting counsel to the President.

Fishermen Facing Livelihood Trouble

GLOUCESTER, Mass. (AP) — American fishermen who live off the waters of the North Atlantic say their livelihood may be dead within a few years, the victim of foreign competition.

Haddock, the lifeblood of Boston fishermen, have been all but wiped out by foreign fleets which fish outside the 17-mile international limit. And many other commercial species, including flounder, perch and herring, have been dangerously depleted in the once-rich waters stretching from Cape Hatteras, S.C. to Maine.

Unless the federal government persuades foreigners to take less fish or seizes control of the fishing off its shores, industry people say commercial fishing will cease in the North Atlantic, possibly within three years.

"The foreign fleets are rapping our waters," says Jack Donegan, president of a local of the Seafood Workers Union.

"If we don't move by next year, three years from now we're going to be kissing the industry good-bye," Donegan said. "Everyone is saying the same thing — management, labor, scientists and government. We're all in the same boat."

It's inevitable," said Commissioner Frank Grice of the Massachusetts Division of Marine Fisheries. He predicted that other species will follow the way haddock are headed and become commercially extinct.

"It only takes a couple of years of really concentrated effort to do the job," Grice said. "Solutions advanced by state officials and industry spokesmen center on having the federal government extend the international boundary to 200 miles from the coast. If the government won't do that, the local officials want to see at least an American takeover of the supervision and control of North Atlantic fishing."

Neither proposal is likely to win much support in Washington.

ton where officials point to the obvious diplomatic problems such actions would create.

American fishermen are bitter and blunt about seeing foreigners take over coastal waters that 25 years ago were theirs alone.

Last month 312 foreign vessels, 190 of them Soviet, plied the North Atlantic coast, the National Marine Fisheries Service reports.

The foreign ships fly the flags of about 17 nations. While Americans fish with small trawlers which are no more than 130 feet long, the government-supported Europeans work with fleets of large trawlers that feed their catches to 600-foot factory ships.

"It isn't going to be a very nice situation for Americans as long as they are fishing like that," said Russell T. Norris, regional director of the fisheries service. "It's not a bright future."

Wanna Buy Overpass?

Wanna buy a railroad overpass?

H. G. Brooks, former Pampa man now with the Fort Worth & Denver Railway Co. Industrial Development and Real Estate Department, will sell you one cheap.

It's located right here in Pampa out on S. Barnes.

Removal of the overpass structure by the Fort Worth & Denver is being sought by the city.

It must come down to permit the widening of Hwy. 273 south through the city," City Manager Mack Wofford said today.

Brooks, in a letter received by the city manager today, said the railway has tried every avenue to dispose of the facility and is still trying.

He stated the railway had tried to sell it to scrap dealers, to the Lone Star Steel Co., to the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Ry. and had advertised in area newspapers — all to no avail.

The structure contains much steel, Wofford said.

In closing his letter to the city manager, Brooks wrote: "If you have any suggestions, we will appreciate hearing from you."

Cain To Attend Juvenile Meet

Gray County Judge Don Cain will attend a two-day meeting of juvenile judges in Lubbock beginning tomorrow.

The meeting is for the purpose of discussing problems involving finding a juvenile to be delinquent. It will not deal with deprivation or underprivilege.

It will be sponsored by the Texas Center for the Judiciary and the state bar association.

"Certain decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court have changed the complexion of juvenile procedure," Judge Cain said. "While the Texas Constitution considers this a civil procedure, the Supreme Court has introduced more of a criminal aspect."

Judge Cain went on to explain that juveniles now have to be informed of their rights as well as adults, and that a judge's decision on the delinquency of a juvenile must be based on guilt beyond the shadow of a doubt rather than on a preponderance of evidence.

He said he felt a great amount of information and help can come from this conference.

Historical Group Slates Luncheon

Members of the Gray County Historical Survey Committee will have a luncheon meeting in McLean tomorrow with Judge Don Cain and county commissioners as guests.

The meeting is billed as an important event for the work of the committee, but no fixed agenda has been announced.

The lunch will be served in the Hospitality Room of the bank at McLean.

One-Acts Canceled

Performances of one-act plays at Pampa High School have been canceled due to other conflicts. The plays were originally to be presented tonight.

Board Slates Early Meeting

Members of the Pampa school board will conduct a breakfast session at 7 a.m. Wednesday at Coronado Inn.

Scheduled is a discussion of personnel relating to the coming school year.

The board will also consider a request to use Harvester Field for a non-denominational religious meeting.

—And there will be a continuing discussion of the tentative budget.

This is an open meeting. The panel is resorting to breakfast sessions in an attempt to cut down the length of the regular monthly meetings, particularly now that they are into that period wherein plans and decisions regarding the next school year are being made.

Board Holds Tax Hearing

Shortly before noon today 19 persons had registered at a public hearing of the City Equalization Board's public hearing on revised property valuations for tax purposes.

The hearing, conducted in the City Commission Room at City Hall, was for the purpose of hearing any protests to valuation increases and answer questions about revisions.

Some valuations have been hiked, most remain the same and some have been reduced, according to Aubrey L. Jones, City tax assessor-collector.

Because of the small number of persons appearing, the hearing was expected to be concluded today.

Members of the Board of Equalization conducting the hearing were R. M. Samples, R. A. Baker and James A. McCune.

City Continues Clean-Up Drive

Pampa's annual clean-up campaign was in its second day in Ward 2 today.

City trucks will continue their pick-ups in Ward 2, north of E. Foster and east of Mary Ellen, through Friday.

R. B. Cooke, public works director, said a total of 84 loads of rubbish were hauled from Ward 1 during the first week of the drive.

Eighteen loads were collected yesterday on the first day in Ward 2.

The drive will continue through June 2, moving into Ward 3 next Monday and into Ward 4 on Tuesday, May 29.

The annual cleanup is sponsored jointly by the City and Chamber of Commerce.

Loose Grass Needs Bags

City Manager Mack Wofford said today the city has received some complaints about city trash collection trucks not picking up loose grass clippings.

"If property owners will put the clippings in boxes or bags they will be picked up," Wofford said.

He added that the city is not equipped to shovel or fork loose grass into the pick-up trucks.

Gold Price Jumps

LONDON (AP) — The price of gold jumped more than $5 an ounce on European bullion markets today, and the U.S. dollar weakened sharply. Dealers said another international monetary crisis may be developing.

The dealers reported the rush to buy gold was depressing the dollar, and the sale of dollars was driving up the price of gold. Market sources cited a number of reasons for the wave of dollar selling and gold buying, among them:

—Belief that the Watergate scandals will weaken President Nixon's hand in fighting inflation, in liberalizing trade and in working to reform the international monetary system.

—International corporations are protecting their funds by switching from dollars to safer gold.

—Speculative gold buying from the Middle East as a hedge against inflation, monetary turmoil and the threat of more trouble in Lebanon. Some reports said Middle East oil interests negotiating for compensation to offset the recent dollar devaluation are helping to drive gold up and the dollar down to reinforce their case.

—Speculation that Soviet Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev and Nixon will discuss new gold price arrangements when Brezhnev visits Washington next month. The Soviet Union is a major producer of gold.

Gold opened in Zurich at $100 an ounce, up $5.50 from the closing price Monday, when the metal topped $100 an ounce for the first time in history.

The U.S. dollar in the first hour of trading dropped from 2.7990 marks to 2.7675 in Frankfurt, from 4.49 French francs to 4.4575 in Paris, and from 3.2160 Swiss francs to 3.1537 in Zurich. The British pound rose from $2.5390 to $2.5597, an 11-month high.

Botulism toxin in commercially canned food was relatively rare until 1971, when a New York man died after eating a can of Vichyssoise. Of the 10 deaths from botulism in the last ten years, all except that one have been caused by home-canned foods.

In the first four months of this year, the FDA already has supervised the recall of four products which it said contained botulism poison.

Three recalls involved mushrooms or products made from the mushrooms: The fourth involved canned peppers which hospitalized six persons after a family dinner last week in Wheeling, W. Va.

The new FDA regulations were first proposed shortly after the Bon Vivant soup incident by the National Canners Association, the trade association whose members account for 90 per cent of nation's canned goods.

The regulations are substantially the same as those proposed by the canners.

The new regulations are aimed at making sure canned foods are adequately cooked in the future. The canner must submit its proposed canning process for approval and keep records to show the process is followed.

Everyone who operates the retort which cooks canned food and everyone who inspects cans to make sure they are adequately sealed must be under the supervision of someone who has graduated from a government-approved course.

If any company doesn't comply with the regulations or produces contaminated canned goods, the FDA will require the company to obtain an emergency operating permit. Without the permit, the canner must shut down.

Arms 'Twisted' On School Bill

AUSTIN (AP) — Aides of Gov. Dolph Briscoe reportedly twisted legislative arms Monday night in an effort to get the House to change its mind today on a comprehensive public school finance bill.

Rep. Dan Kubiak, D-Rockdale, co-sponsor of the measure, said the aides worked on members who voted to defeat an amendment that would have limited the bill to the next two school years.

Kubiak told a reporter Briscoe's veto power might scare some of those members, who still have legislative programs subject to that gubernatorial axe, into switching their votes.

The amendment was sponsored by Rep. Charles Evans, D-Arlington. It was defeated, 72-68.

Kubiak neglected to move to reconsider and table the vote by which the Evans amendment lost. Had he done so—and it is a motion frequently made after close votes—a two-thirds vote would be needed to reconsider. As it is, a simple majority now can call for reconsideration.

Twenty proposed amendments remained to be debated today.

Briscoe's own two-year stop-gap solution to the dollars and cents poverty of many Texas public schools was set for hearing today by the House Education Committee, which Kubiak heads.

Kubiak's bill, co-sponsored by Rep. Dewitt Hale, D-Corpus Christi, is much more ambitious. It provides a complete change in the school finance system, plus massive new amounts of state aid, phased in over six years. State school aid would be based on the market value of real estate and certain other property in a school district. The higher the property values, the less aid a district would receive.

The governor's bill would give the 113 poorest school districts a $39 million emergency grant in the 1974-75 school year, while he prepares recommendations to the 1975 legislature for a total revision of the school finance system.

A move by Rep. John Poerner, D-Hondo, to table the Kubiak-Hale bill failed, 63-78.

Evans then made his move to change the Kubiak-Hale bill from a six-year to a two-year measure.

Amendments by Rep. Billy Williamson, D-Tyler, to strike out increased state aid for routing operating allowances and a new compensatory education program for educationally handicapped children failed by nearly 40 votes.

Some indication of the emotional quality of the debate came when Rep. W. S. Healy, D-Paducah, ostensibly on a matter of "personal privilege," lit out after the bill.

He cited statistics from Corpus Christi, Hale's home town, showing only a tenth of 1 percent of the bank deposits were taxed for school purposes. By contrast, he said, cattlemen such as those in his district were being taxed on their livestock.

"The people who are wanting this (bill) are the people who are evading taxes in the state of Texas," Healy said.

We hereby proclaim the establishment of the Jewish State in Palestine, to be called Medinat Yisrael.
Provisional State Council of Israel, the 5th of Iyar, 5708, the 14th of May, 1948.

In November of 1947 in a building which once housed an ice rink in Flushing Meadow, New York, the delegates of the United Nations General Assembly decided the future of a sliver of land on the eastern rim of the Mediterranean Sea. Before the Assembly was a proposal to partition Palestine into separate Arab and Jewish States and to internationalize the City of Jerusalem.

The plan was approved by a two-thirds vote, was immediately accepted by the Palestinian Jews and immediately rejected by the Arabs. The Zionists made plans to declare a state as soon as possible, perhaps to thwart the civil war already developing in Palestine.

Within hours after Israeli leaders proudly raised the Star of David flag and launched the Jewish state on May 14, 1948, military units from Jordan, Syria, Egypt, Lebanon and Iraq began an open assault upon Israel. After some initial Arab successes, the Israeli forces rallied, broke the siege of Jewish West Jerusalem and occupied substantial areas in the north of Palestine and in the south which had been assigned to Arab control under the U.N. partition plan. Israel wound up holding a third more territory than it would have held had the Arabs accepted the original plan.

Although a series of armistice agreements terminated hostilities in 1949, peace did not come. The defeated Arabs were not yet prepared to accept the existence of Israel and the Israelis found no way to persuade the Arabs to change their attitudes. Organized fighting was replaced by a propaganda war that has never ceased—and by uncounted acts of terror and counter-terror.

The Palestinian Arab state called for in the U.N. plan was never created. Instead, Jordan annexed the West Bank territory, including the Western sector of Jerusalem; Egypt assumed a protectorate control over the Gaza Strip, and Israel absorbed Jewish West Jerusalem, the Negev and parts of Galilee.

What was the Arab reaction to the establishment of Israel? "One of bitterness, frustration and a sense of humiliated impotence," reported the American Friends Service Committee. "Their chief satisfaction for a long-time has come in a war of propaganda rarely matched in passion and vituperation and in a kind of mystical faith that in time, somehow, the Arabs would achieve the military power with which to destroy Israel. But they have believed that their cause was just and that it would prevail in the end."

And the victorious Israelis went about the business of nation-building. A parliament, called the Knesset, was established. Dr. Chaim Weizmann was elected president, David Ben-Gurion was named prime minister. In 1950, the Knesset passed an extraordinary document, the Law of Return, which states, simply, that "every Jew has the right to immigrate to Israel." This assured the development of a nation from within: the peril came from beyond the borders.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A few persons in the aerospace industry say things these days like: "Give them 25.4 millimeters and they'll take 1.6093 kilometers."
Such language reveals them to be metrication enthusiasts—people who want the United States to adopt the metric system.
When referring to the blabbermouth who bungles, they are apt to say, "He puts his 30.48 centimeters in his mouth."
They've changed the lyrics of familiar old songs to "I love you 35.239 liters and 8.81 liters," and "Roll out 57.97 liters, we'll have 57.97 liters of beer."
And "1.524 meters 50.8 millimeters, eyes of blue, has anybody seen my gal?"
A "conversion project group" established by the Aerospace Industries Association (AIA) has injected this bit of humor into the briefings it gives to industry groups on the problems and benefits of converting to the metric system.

Safety Engineers To Conduct Seminar

The members of the Panhandle Chapter of the American Society of Safety Engineers are finalizing plans for their "Safer '73 Seminar" to be held at the Villa Inn Thursday and Friday.

C. W. Ezell, seminar chairman, said that advance registrations are beginning to filter in and that at least 300 participants are expected to attend.

Thursday's seminar agenda centers around the two-year old Occupational Safety and Health Act, which Ezell terms as one of the most pervasive bills that American industry has ever faced.

He stated that while many changes had taken place in hopes of perfecting both the standard compliance provisions and administration of the act, the changes have not kept pace with ever-mounting confusion in the minds of business owners, supervisors, managers, and even safety professionals.

"If we can help to clear up some of this confusion, we will have had a successful seminar," Ezell said.

Mayor Ray Vahue, of Amarillo will welcome the group on Thursday morning. Following the mayor, Max Comer, personnel and safety supervisor for Southwestern Public Service Co. will set the tenor of the day's session with a presentation entitled "What Are We Here For?"

Walter Martin, director of the Division of Occupational Safety and Texas State Safety Engineer, will talk on the question of "State vs Federal Control" of safety legislation—a much talked about subject of

of the American Red Cross. He currently serves as president, National Safety Management Society. He is listed in Engineers of Distinction published by the Engineers Joint Council.

Bird has addressed hundreds of management conferences around the world. In 1971 he was awarded the British Safety Council safety award—the third American so honored. He has written many articles on safety and is co-author of the book "Damage Control."

Ezell said the general public is invited. Fees are being held to $25 for both days or $15 for one day, including luncheons. Registration begins at 8:30 a.m. Thursday at the Villa Inn.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Heed Mr. Murray's report of his visit to Red China! When irate minorities try to downgrade the U.S.A., ask them to cite the superiority of ANY other nation. If they know of a better paradise on this globe, ask them why they don't emigrate! Make 'em put up or shut up!

CASE X-508: J. E. Murray recently toured Red China as a member of a group of American newspapermen.

"I kept trying to guess," he said, "why the people seemed so patient, even satisfied with their lot."

"An obvious reason is that there is enough food, probably for the first time in China's long history."

Actually, our huge shipments of American grain the past few months, both to Red China and Russia, are what is preventing a disastrous famine in both of those countries!

"There is no advertising," Mr Murray continues, "and no pressure to keep up with the Wangs (Joneses) through consumption."

"Clothes and personal adornment are muted."

When my son, U.S. Congressman Philip M. Crane, visited Hong Kong a year ago, he went to the beaches to interview the escaping swimmers that were dragging out of the water after a 5-mile trip from Red China.

And they described the dreary life behind the Bamboo Curtain.

"Our total yearly earnings," they admitted, "came to 200 Chinese dollars—$70 in American money."

"But it requires that amount to purchase just the minimum daily food calories to survive."

"So we had nothing for shoes, clothing or any other purchases."

Try to contrast that drab, dictatorial type of living with the exciting and luxurious advantages enjoyed in America, even by our so-called poor.

"Our welfare cases enjoy TV, electric lights, flush toilets and far better winter heat than the charcoal braziers of China."

So did you ever wonder why we lead the world in our superb standard of living?

It isn't our vast amount of natural resources or moderate climate, for China and Russia possess them.

No siree!

It is the fact that we are a Republic, with rights of vital concern to industry.

A terrace luncheon is offered at noon for which there will be no additional charge. Luncheon entertainment will be provided by "The Philtones," a group of men and women sponsored by Phillips Petroleum Co., who will sing modern arrangements of old favorite songs. The Philtones have appeared on national television and will entertain at the National Safety Conference in Chicago next October.

Following the luncheon, Anthony Mazoehi, director, Citizenship Legislative

Department of the Oil, Chemical, and Atomic Workers International Union, will present "The Trade Union View of OSHA."

Bill Caruth of the American Opinion Speakers Bureau will deliver a talk followed by a question and answer session on "OSHA, A Threat to Free Enterprise."

Caruth indicated his presentation may be of vital information to those who might wish to support an organized effort now underway to repeal the Occupational Safety and Health Act.

Thursday's sessions will be concluded with a presentation by Dr. H.J. Kolodner, Director of Corporate Safety and Plant Protection for Celanese Corp. Dr. Kolodner, an accomplished author of many published technical papers and recipient of several Coveted Awards and honors for work in his field, will speak on the future of OSHA and the future of the industrial safety movement.

An eight-hour conference will commence 8:30 a.m. Friday. The conference will be conducted by Frank E. Bird, Jr., director of the International Safety Academy.

According to Ezell, the conference is a first of its kind in this area and is designed to afford the opportunity for managers, supervisors, small and large business owners and safety professionals to profit from practical, professional teaching and to obtain the best possible guidance in establishing and perpetuating safety programs.

"Safety training is a must for management if we are to meet our obligations and accountability for the safer '70's," Ezell said.

Subject matter for the course includes current influences on the safety movement; principles of safety management; modern principles of loss prevention and control; measurement and analysis of efforts and total loss control.

Bird, director of the academy and assistant secretary, INA, has over 20 years of experience in the safety field. He is a director, Inter-American Safety Council; serves on the Board of Governors, Philadelphia Safety Council; and is executive secretary, Chester County Safety Council, and a member of the American Industrial Hygiene Association.

He is also a member of American Iron and Steel Engineers; Metals Sections, National Safety Council; and the Instructor Training Board

How Inflation Gnaws at Money

By CARLTON SMITH

Effective financial planning for the family or individual requires some understanding of the mathematics of inflation. Today's dollar is not tomorrow's dollar. Fail to take that into account when you buy insurance, set your savings or investment goals, or make any decision concerning future dollars, and you're simply feeding wrong numbers into your calculations, and getting wrong answers.

Having to live with those wrong answers can be inconvenient, to say the least. Let's say you devote a good deal of thought to the matter of retirement income and conclude that $600 a month would be the minimum you'd need. That is, your circumstances 20 years from now should be such that if you suddenly found yourself in them today, you could get along — just on — $600 a month.

But you're thinking in terms of today's $600. How many 20-year-from-now dollars does that equal?

Well, the people in charge of such things are talking about getting inflation down to around 3 per cent. Some economists believe more inflation, rather than less, may be in the cards the next two or three years — but let's assume an average of 3 per cent.

Does that give you the figures for an easy answer to our question — 3 per cent times 20 years equals a 60 per cent increase in the cost of things?

Sorry, no. Although a 60 per cent price rise sounds scary enough, it's even worse than that, because yearly inflation results in a compounded increase. Just as your money earns compounded interest in a savings account, so it loses value at a compounded rate through inflation.

At 3 per cent, an item costing $100 today would cost $103 next year, $106.09 in two years, $109.27 in three years — and in 20 years, not $160 (a 60 per cent increase), but $180.61.

So the bad news is that, given 3 per cent inflation, the style of living covered by $600 a month in 1973 would require $1,084 a month, 20 years from today.

The other insidious feature of inflation is that twice as much inflation is not merely twice as bad, but more than twice as bad. You might guess that if 3 per cent inflation raised the price to $180 in 20 years, a rate of 6 per cent would add another $80, for an end-price of $260. Actually, it's $320.

Here's how various rates of inflation would raise a $100 price, at five-year intervals, using figures rounded to the nearest dollar:

Rate%	5	10	15	20
2	$110	$122	$135	$149
3	$116	$134	$156	$181
4	$122	$148	$180	$219
5	$128	$163	$208	$265
6	$134	$179	$240	$321

That illustrates how the compounded arithmetic of inflation exercises an even more pernicious influence on our financial futures than many people realize — and when doing financial planning.

HAIR, SKIN PROBLEMS? — The problem is probably not in the type of shampoo or skin cleanser you're using. The water from your tap is more than likely too hard. For information on how you can get softened water at your home, contact local Culligan representative Soft Water Service Co., at 665-5729, or go by 314 S. Starkweather.

Water Plays Important Role In Skin Care, Hair Grooming

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Water is the most important single item in the good care of skin and hair. Dr. Jay G. Barnett, a member of the famed Orentreich Group of dermatologists in New York, told the recent International Water Quality Symposium meeting here.

"However," he said, "water in four out of five American homes isn't of the best quality for the job it's too hard."

Dr. Barnett offered the following seven tips for achieving smoother, blemish-free skin and lustrous, more beautiful hair.

1. Use soft or softened water. It is much harder for soap to be completely rinsed from the skin when using hard water, as compared to soft water. This is due to the insoluble salts that are formed.

This film (the same substance that makes a gummy ring around the bathtub) can cause redness, itchiness and excessive dryness. It also traps bacteria which can produce infections.

When the skin is rinsed with hard water, the natural silky or smooth feel rapidly changes to a sticky feeling because of the precipitated soap curd which adheres to the skin. In soft water, the skin remains smooth, as none of the soap is converted to curd.

2. Avoid scrubbing with strong soaps. Such scrubbing can cause excessive degreasing of the skin and subsequent dryness, chapping and itching.

3. Don't massage soap into the skin unless advised to do so by a physician for a specific reason. Also, don't use medicated soaps unless advised to do so by your physician. Water-washing your face a few times daily is very often better than cream cleansing. When you use soap, be sure to rinse it away completely.

If your skin becomes dry, red and irritated, especially in the wintertime, the adverse effects are from the soaps used while bathing and not from the water itself.

4. Wash hair daily if you prefer, but use soft or softened water. Frequent shampooing doesn't cause hair loss. The slight increased number of lost scalp hairs seen during washing result from hairs previously lost but still entangled among the other scalp hairs, or from hairs about to fall out naturally, anyway.

5. Don't comb or brush hair when it is wet. Wet hair is weaker and breaks more easily when combed or brushed, than dry hair.

6. Prevent hair odor by regular shampooing with soft or softened water. Bacteria routinely break down non-odorless sweat and oil gland secretions into malodorous products. Washing removes these accumulated glandular secretions and their objectionable breakdown products as well as many bacteria.

7. Avoid acne by proper washing of skin. Proper washing is of prime importance in removing accumulated oils, dirt and epithelial debris. This helps unblock the pores and lessens the formation of acne lesions.

If you do suffer from a disorder, water is the most important part of the cure. Applied to the skin, water acts to clean, deodorize and detoxify. It reduces redness, swelling, itching and pain. To paraphrase an old medical expression, it dries up most lesions and moistens dry ones.

The symposium at which Dr. Barnett spoke is an educational forum sponsored as a public service by leading manufacturers of water conditioning equipment, among them, Culligan International Co. Culligan is represented locally by Soft Water Service Co., 314 S. Starkweather, 665-5729.

Power Source — The falling water of the world's rivers could yield enough hydroelectric power to meet 80 per cent of man's total energy needs. Only 1 to 2 per cent of man's energy now comes from hydroelectric sources.

Cool House — The best way to cool a house for comfort is not only to lower the temperature, but to reduce the amount of water vapor in the air. The less humidity, the easier for perspiration to evaporate — and evaporation is a cooling process.

American colonists found lobsters so abundant they plowed them under to fertilize wheat and corn fields.

Onion Growers And Buyers Weep Over Growing Prices

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Heavy rain in New York state in the wake of Hurricane Agnes, hail, rain and snow in Texas, a freeze in Idaho and cool weather in California's Imperial Valley, have combined to leave American onion growers and buyers weeping.

Ed Mallett, president of the National Onion Association, said the run of inclement weather made it necessary for the United States this year to import onions for the first time in 25 years.

"We brought them in from New Zealand Australia," Mallett said.

The shortage caused the price of onions to skyrocket over a six-week period ending in late April, from about $2.50 to as much as $22 per 50-pound sack. Producers said this was the highest the prices had reached in at least 20 years.

Retail prices, which peaked at nearly 50 cents apiece for some premium onions, hovered at between 25 to 50 cents a pound, compared to the 10 to 15 cents per pound prevailing in recent years.

"It was a wild market," Mallett said in a recent interview. "Nobody in the industry really wanted prices to get as high as they did."

DEAR ABBY: Would it be out of line to include the following note on a birthday card for my 12-year-old grandson?

"Dear Bobby, since you couldn't find time to thank me for my Christmas present, I couldn't find time to buy you a birthday present. Maybe next year? Have a happy birthday. Love, Grandma"

Bobby's mother [my daughter-in-law] defends Bobby's sullen, ungracious behavior, and my son has little influence. The boy is bright but very selfish and spoiled.

I spend a lot of time, money, and thought on gifts for my only grandchild—not because I want his thanks, but because I love him dearly. But Abby, surely someone has to teach manners to children. Am I old fashioned? You may use this letter if you wish. Many grandparents are in the same boat.

DEAR GRANDMA: You say you give your grandson gifts because you "dearly love" him not because you want thanks. But if you don't receive thanks you withhold the presents. This is "loving dearly"?

It's true, acknowledging gifts is a sign of good manners. But good manners have been known to cloak the absence of deeper feelings. Skip the gifts [and cards, too] and in a more loving and less punitive way, try to stress the importance of saying "thank you." If he's bright, he'll get the message.

DEAR ABBY: After 33 years of marriage, I believe I have discovered a cure for the common scold—sometimes known as the nagging wife. Tho I doubt that it ever has been tried, the best way to get a woman to shut her mouth is to cover it with kisses.

DEAR HARRY: While your suggested cure is undoubtedly effective, it's extremely hazardous. It could lead to overpopulation.

DEAR ABBY: In answer to the airline pilot whose love life was suffering because his kids came home for lunch, etc., and seemed to be around at the wrong time. Tell him to try the following:

Buy a roll of pennies. Come home, and if the kids are there, take one penny out of the roll and keep it. Go out on the front lawn and scatter the rest of the pennies around and tell the kids not to come in the house until they find all 50 pennies. It's sneaky but effective. Sign me

WEDNESDAY, MAY 16
 Your birthday today: Whatever you have sown in the past now blossoms. Errors also come to attention and must be corrected. Relationships are lively, and include moments of crisis. Today's natives have keen analytic powers, often deal accurately with complex subjects.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Today you get your comeuppance—practically everybody has commented on your recent actions. Listen and respond gently.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Romance holds your attention. It's just as well, for this is not a day for business. Avoid hazardous conditions.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Be sure you keep all appointments. Purchases lack satisfaction; hold them to a minimum. Have patience with delayed communications.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Keep your distance from restless acquaintances. Avoid needless provocation. Let friends defend themselves against gossip.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: If you are in charge, strive for fair dealing. If you are not, be patient with authority although you may disagree.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Do not take out any tensions on your friends. Close relatives who know your qualities are able to help.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: You are apt to find yourself doing something unfamiliar, without benefit of others' experience. Celebrate partial success tonight.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Pragmatic success comes, without any complex reason. No need to imagine mysteries beneath the surface.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: What seems a short cut is the longest way. Overconfidence or reliance on casual suggestions is confusing.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: People are not too well organized by your standards. Forgive them and pitch in to be helpful.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Persistence at work is important. Home affairs detract from business. Special efforts to express your tender feelings are in order.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Be alert for strange conditions. You make the difference. Extras tip the balance—you'll be glad you thought of alternatives.

Indianapolis Speedway Is House That Tony Rebuilt

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Indianapolis 500-mile auto race will run the 57th time May 28 with another colorful show drawing more than 250,000 persons and heard and seen by millions more around the world. But it hasn't always been so. In 1945, when Anton "Tony" Hulman of Terry Haute, Ind., bought the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, it was in disrepair. Interest in the Memorial Day classic had diminished after the track was closed four years during World War II.

The Speedway, which was built in 1909 as a proving ground for automobiles, is now known in some racing circles as "the house that Tony rebuilt."

The 2½-mile asphalt track is the focal point of the Speedway on the city's far west side, but isn't the only attraction of the 539-acre property.

Hulman has replaced the ancient wooden grandstand that nearly circled the track with steel and concrete grandstands. There is now an estimated seating capacity of 235,000 and room for an additional 100,000 persons in the track infield.

Hulman has supervised construction of a more-than-100-room motel, a 27-hole golf course with nine holes in the infield and an office-museum building as well as press and hospitality quarters.

Speedway officials never announced attendance figures, but an estimated 60,000 persons watched the 500 in 1946 and prize money totaled $75,000 after a prewar high of $96,250.

Hulman, whose great wealth comes from varied business and real estate interests, has made the Indy race the richest in the world of auto racing.

For the third straight year prize money this year will total more than $1 million.

His newest improvement at the Speedway is an addition to the motel to house VIP suites which rent for $10,000 a year on the second floor and $20,000 for the third floor. There are six suites on each floor. The rooms, which overlook the track, were all rented long before the addition was completed, most of them by large companies involved in racing.

For race day, tickets for reserved seats sell from $10 to $40, and it costs $5 a person to watch the race from the infield in the midst of one of the world's largest picnics.

Gasoline Alley, the strip of concrete that connects the garage area with the pits, provides one of the few places in major sports where fans can mingle with their heroes. In fact, drivers, owners and mechanics often have to push their way through the crowd, signing autographs and talking with excited people.

The museum of 500 and Speedway relics is free and open year-round. There is even the opportunity to ride around the track in a Speedway bus for 50 cents, except in May.

But it's the race cars, the speeds and personalities that draw most people here. Racing has changed tremendously since the first Indy 500 in 1911.

Ray Harroun won the first race in a Marmon Wasp at an average speed of 74.59 miles an hour.

Mark Donahue, last year's winner, averaged a record 162.962 m.p.h. in a winged McLaren-Offenhauser.

Wigham Leads

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Rusty Wigham of San Antonio started early and missed much of the high-winds en route to a steady two-under-par 69 to grab a one-stroke lead in the first round Monday of this week's Professional Golf and Management tournament.

Wigham was ahead of Dean Overturn of Dallas, who shot a 70 in early play. As the day progressed, scores soared.

Frank Conner of San Antonio was alone in third place with an even-par 71 over the 7,000-yard Pecan Valley Golf Club, going into Tuesday's 18-hole wrapup of the $25,000 event.

Last week's PG&M winner, Ron Lettlier of Holyoke, Mass., fashioned a one-over-par 72 to be the only player in fourth place in Monday's action, which initiated the seventh of 10 weekly PG&M events.

Crampton Still Leads

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Weiskopf improved his position on the Professional Golf Association's money-winning list 21 places by backing into the $30,000 first prize in the Colonial National Invitation Tournament.

Weiskopf's one-shot victory, achieved as tournament front-runner Bruce Crampton took a double-bogey six on the final hole, raised his 1973 earnings to $64,722 from $34,722. Weiskopf, previously 29th in the cash rankings, now stands eighth.

Crampton, although failing in a bid for his fourth victory of the year, increased his lead over Jack Nicklaus in the money race to $21,487. He has won $167,551 on the year to $146,064 for the Golden Bear.

Lee Trevino holds down third spot on the list with $126,288, followed by Lanny Wadkins at $91,573, Chi Chi Rodriguez, $72,705; Bob Dickson, $68,679; Ron Funseth, $67,434; Weiskopf, Johnny Miller, $63,388; and Homero Blancas, $59,229.

While Potkin spent 232 minutes in the penalty box this season, he scored 35 goals and 88 assists.

Trainer Named

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League named Ken Locker of North Texas State University as an assistant trainer today.

Dale Fletcher of Junction City, Kan., will captain Army's 1973 cross-country team.

Boston Beats Baltimore In Bottom Of Tenth, 1-0

By The Associated Press
Good pitching is supposed to defeat good hitting, except in Boston.

In Boston, there's a ballpark named Fenway with an inviting left-field wall, a scant 315 feet from the hungry batter, that is known to chew up baseballs and baseball axioms alike.

But Monday night, "The Monster" as the wall is less than affectionately known to moundsmen, kept its distance and the Red Sox and Orioles engaged in an old-fashioned pitchers' duel.

Baltimore's Doyle Alexander pitched 10 innings of four-hit, shutout ball and Boston's Bill Lee countered with five-hit, scoreless pitching over nine innings, but needed relief help in the ninth from Tom Hilgendorf and Jerry Johnson to defeat the Brewers.

"A game like this when two guys come in and do a job can turn everything around," said Cleveland Manager Ken Aspromonte.

Pinch hitter Tom McCraw singled home Jim Spencer in the 10th to give California and Bill Singer the victory over Kansas City. It was Singer's sixth triumph in seven decisions.

Oakland's Ken Holtzman, staked to an early lead on Reggie Jackson's first-inning, three-run homer, stopped the Chicago White Sox on four hits to record his seventh victory against two losses.

Joe Coleman raised his record to 7-2 as he tossed a six-hitter at the New York Yankees. Along the way, Coleman struck out eight while walking four.

In the first game of a twilight doubleheader in Arlington, Toby Harrah picked two outs in the bottom of the ninth as the time to hit his first homer of the season and give the Rangers a come-from-behind victory over the Twins.

Minnesota's Bobby Darwin provided the late-inning heroics in the second game, hitting his fourth home run of the season in the 11th inning to break a 4-4 tie and help the Twins to the victory.

neither hurler was around when designated hitter Orlando Cepeda's single in the 11th scored rookie Mario Guerrero for the evening's only run and a 1-0 Boston victory.

In other American League action, Detroit shut out the New York Yankees 8-0, California outlasted Kansas City 3-2 in 10 innings, Minnesota needed 11 innings to defeat Texas 6-4 in the second game after dropping the opener 7-6. Oakland beat Chicago 5-1 and Cleveland edged Milwaukee 2-1.

In the National League, Philadelphia topped St. Louis 10-5. Montreal nipped Pittsburgh 3-2 in 10 innings, while Atlanta stopped Houston and San Diego halted San Francisco by identical 7-1 scores.

The game between the New York Mets and the Chicago Cubs was postponed by cold weather.

Alexander, a young right-hander, and Lee, a veteran southpaw, matched zeroes through regulation, forcing the first scoreless extra-inning game in Boston in two years.

The scoreless duel over nine innings was even more surprising since both pitchers are normally relievers.

"It was unbelievable, just unbelievable," said Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver. "But I've learned to expect the unbelievable in this game."

At Milwaukee, Dick Tidrow hurled a three-hitter over eight innings, but needed relief help in the ninth from Tom Hilgendorf and Jerry Johnson to defeat the Brewers.

"A game like this when two guys come in and do a job can turn everything around," said Cleveland Manager Ken Aspromonte.

Golf Tips from the Old Masters

CONCENTRATION VITAL, BOLT EXPLAINS

It is as necessary for amateur golfers to concentrate as it is for professionals, according to Tommy Bolt. Bolt has this explanation of what concentration is:

"You must think of nothing but the next shot. You should picture exactly what you want that shot to do. If your mind's eye runs that next shot across your brain, it makes it easier to carry it out with your swing."

"You have to do this from the moment you tee the ball in the ground, and carry it through with the iron shots and each and every putt. Often when you see a top player taking time before his shot, he is only waiting until he has this mental picture of the shot firmly planted in his mind."

Riggs-Evert Match Distinct Possibility

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Bobby Riggs made a fuss about giving up 25 years to Margaret Court in their celebrated tennis match Sunday. He now has to ponder whether to give up 37 years and play Chris Evert.

Fort Lauderdale promoter George Liddy announced Monday he was willing to put up $30,000 for a confrontation between Riggs, 55, and Miss Evert, 18, here Sept. 22.

"The women's lib movement in tennis is working quickly to match me with someone who might be tougher than Mrs. Court," said Riggs.

"He smashed Mrs. Court, the leading money winner on the Virginia Slims circuit, 6-2, 6-1."

"Chris would be the toughest one they could come up with," said Riggs by telephone from San Diego. He has already expressed a desire to accept a challenge next from defending Wimbledon champion Billie Jean King.

"I don't know if I want her on clay," said Riggs of the advantage Miss Evert would have on playing on the clay surface.

Lived in Harmony
Maryland's earliest colonists settled in Saint Mary's City in 1634 and practiced religious toleration in the New World. Catholics, Episcopalians, Quakers, Puritans and a Jew lived there in harmony.

During the wild days of the Klondike Gold Rush, up to 700 Mounties kept order in the Yukon. They served as doctors, firefighters and mailmen as well as enforcing the law. Mail delivery to scattered mining camps added 64,000 miles to their patrols in one year.

Without Summer
In American history, the year 1816 is popularly known as the year without a summer because in the northern states there were frosts and snows in practically every month of the year.
