County officials to visit jails

By DEE DEE LARAMORE Staff Writer

Gray County commissioners Thursday narrowed their search to four building and architectural firms, each seeking a contract to build the proposed county jail. Commissioners also set up visits to jails which represent the work these firms can do.

Firms to be considered for the project include Patrick Associates, A&S Builders, Jail Planners Inc., and Baker & Smith Builders.

Commissioners Jim Greene and Ted Simmons and Gray County Judge Carl Kennedy are to tour the Hemphill County Jail in Canadian on July 12. Hemphill County Jail was a design/build project by Jail Planners Inc. of Greene, Simmons, Gerald Wright and Kennedy are scheduled to visit the Hutchison County Jail, also built by Jail Planners, on July 19. They'll be joined earlier in the day by Sheriff Jim Free and Commissioner Joe Wheeley for a tour of the Potter County Jail which represents work by both Jail Planners Inc. and A&S Builders.

County officials plan to visit the 36-bed female detention center for Potter County, built by Baker & Smith, at this time also. Former Potter County Sheriff T.L. Baker is one of the owners of this firm that submitted a written proposal.

Patrick Associates, an architectural firm, has completed a 76-bed minimum security unit in Lubbock that commissioners also plan to see, but have not set a definite date for the

"I was very, very impressed," Simmons said. "It was the prettiest, cleanest, nicestrun jail I've ever seen.' Simmons said he was also impressed with the quietness, ease of operation and security incorporated in the jail's design. This jail is the one that uses plastic-glass walls instead of the traditional bars, he added. "I'd like you all to see it," he said. "Whoever we use, I'd like that concept.' "I believe after looking at those we'll be able to make a decision," Wright commented after the commission agreed on the jails to

Overall, the commission appeared to prefer the design/ build concept, but are still considering hiring an architect as a construction manager.

"I think if we could get someone to do the whole thing, it would be easier on us and we'd still get what we need," Greene commented. Simmons added that he thought design/ build would be cheaper and "probably" easier. "You need an architect for this, but in the design/build, they have their own architects that they're used to working for them. Greene said.

'I like those Jail Planners," Simmons said. "They have a lot of experience. Their jails are well-built. That's the only thing they build. And they're more specifically jail people. Bob Frisby has a lot of experience. He's learned a lot and he's advanced a lot.'

Sheriff Free reported he had talked to Potter County Sheriff Jimmy Don Boydston about the Potter County Jail. Boydston told Free they had had to shut down half of the jail because it took too many people to operate it. "He said he could tell us what not to do,

Free commented. No official action was taken at the specialcalled meeting Thursday

"We're here to discuss proposals and decide what ones we want to go visit," Kennedy explained. "After we go see (the jails), we may decide on a different one. Commissioners discussed the size of the proposed jail and considered the possibility of combining city and county jail facilities. Sheriff Free said he would prefer a 75 to

"We could look at a 60-bed jail with a minimum security unit outside the city limits,' Simmons countered. "I'd hate to see us overbuild and then not need it. I'd rather see us underbuild and add on if we need to.

Kemp cancels HUD's elderly housing funds

By JOHN KING Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Housing Secretary Jack Kemp is suspending a program designed to provide apartments for low- and moderate-income elderly people, the third program canceled or frozen at the Department of Housing and Urban Develop

Kemp's decision Thursday fol lows a highly critical audit of the program by HUD's inspector general that said many of the projects were approved despite warnings by agency analysts that they were unnecessary or too large. The program already has cost the government $119 million in direct payments to cover defaults on HUD-insured mortgages, Kemp said. The cost is likely to grow, he said, because defaults now total $250 million and are expected to continue

Kemp also said the program was not serving those it was created to help, citing a HUD-backed project in Palm Harbor, Fla., that he said charged $2,100 a month rent for a two-bedroom apartment

He promised to revive the Retirement Service Center Program after rewriting its guidelines to target resources to low-income elderly

'Insured housing programs administered by HUD must by their nature take risks," Kemp said. "With this program costing $120 million to date, I would rather take these risks by targeting resources ... to lower-income

Kemp is reviewing HUD programs as Congress and law enforcement officials investigate allegations of widespread mismanagement during the Reagan administration.

The congressional investigation has focused largely on three programs: HUD's acquisition and sale of single-family property, its funding for rehabilitation of rental properties and its coinsuring of mortgages for certain housing developments.

A dozen private closing agents contracted for the single-family program are under investigation for allegedly bilking the agency of $20 million or more.

Kemp has suspended the rehabilitation program and canceled another program in which HUD backed loans for such projects as a golf course-residential complex. Both involved lobbying by prominent Republicans.

The five-year-old elderly housing venture involved 150 developments. Kemp said he suspended it because 30 percent of the projects whose mortgages were fully backed by HUD and another 12 percent of those in which HUD guaranteed 80 percent of the loan were in default.

The program was designed to provide housing to people over age 70 who can live on their own and afford market rents.

An audit of 24 retirement centers in the Midwest found six were in default or had their mortgages assigned to HUD, and six were considered financially troubled.

In most of those cases, HUD field offices approved the number of apartments sought by developers although agency economists warned the local housing market could not support the full

Bush proposes 25% pay hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some percent increases, but none was key specialists would see their salaries tripled while other top career government employees would receive 25 percent pay raises under a proposal by President Bush reported in today's editions of The Washington Post.

The percentage increase would match the increase Bush endorsed earlier this year for federal judges.

Presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater, asked about the newspaper report Thursday night, said he was unable to confirm the figure. Fitzwater did say the White House expects to announce the president's decisions today Several senior officials said earlier Thursday they had heard the president would call for 25 in a position to confirm the amount. G. Jerry Shaw, counsel to the Senior Executives Association, said he had also heard the president's proposal would be for 25 percent but had not received definitive word on that point. "We strongly support the raise." Shaw said.

The association, however, has opposed larger increases for key specialists such as physicians the government is having trouble recruiting and training.

The newspaper said Bush had decided not to change his previously announced proposals for Congress to decide its own pay increase and for a ban on honoraria, the fees members of Congress get for making speeches.

Senate OKs crime victims law repeal

Senate has sent the House a bill to specific manner' during the 1991 repeal a three-week-old law that allows police to withhold the names of felony victims.

Senators quickly approved the bill Thursday on a 24-0 vote.

The repeal measure now goes to the chamber where the new law originated during the regular legislative session under the Open Records Act to allow ausponsorship of Rep. Fred Blair, D-Dallas. Blair said the law was aimed at protecting crime victims from "harassment," whether by the media or others.

Sen. John Leedom, R-Dallas, sponsored the repeal measure after guiding the original proposal through the Senate. He said the intent of the law was to protect felony victims from solicitations from security companies.

Leedom said he believes Blair will carry the repeal bill to a House committee on Monday

Leedom also said there was not enough time in the special legislative session to refine the law, but there would be attempts "to

But Rep. Pat Haggerty, who opposed the measure by Rep. Robert Junell, D-San Angelo, questioned the wisdom of permitting a city to "give all kinds of goodies" to attract business.

"Now the city of San Angelo can sell these bonds. You can go into another community where an established business is there — paying taxes, paying for its own building, paying for its own land," said Haggerty, R-El Paso.

"You can go in and say, 'Move to San Angelo. We'll make it tax free. We'll buy the land. We'll build your buildings,' '' he said. "What you're going to start is a bidding war among the cities of cipating in a yacht race to Mexico was arrested and thrown in jail there after being accused of gunrunning — a charge he denied.

Bill White, 43, said he did have guns aboard his vessel, but he added that he had declared and surrendered them to Mexican authorities as required.

The Houston businessman's ordeal began during the 560-mile Regata del Mayab race from Galveston to Progreso, Mexico, which started June 9 with more than 40 sailboats. But the fleet encountered strong headwinds and high seas, and only about half reached the finish line.

White's 51-foot ketch, Black Coral, had engine problems and two sails were rendered useless. 'We started trying to get help," White told The Houston Post in a telephone interview from Merida, Mexico. A Mexican Navy vessel found the boat about 200 miles from Progreso. White and his crew reached Progreso eight days after the race began. When Mexican customs officials in Progreso asked if they had anything to declare, White told them about the three semiautomatic rifles, two pistols, a shotgun and an air rifle that were aboard. White, president of Sport Divers of Houston Inc., is a licensed federal firearms dealer. He noted he had heard about the recent disappearance in the southern Gulf of Mexico of a yacht with several wealthy Mexicans aboard.

Authorities impounded the guns, a practice followed in many countries, promising to return them when the boat left. But White was arrested when he went to reclaim the weapons in

Senate to take up workers' comp p By SCOTT ROTHSCHILD

Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Senate today was scheduled to take up a proposed overhaul of the state workers' compensation system, but a key senator said the votes aren't there to approve the bill.

Sen. Kent Caperton, D-Bryan, said Thursday he believed there were enough votes to block Senate approval of a House plan.

If the House plan is not adopted, the bill would go to a conference committee where House and Senate members would hammer out the differences in the two plans.

Gov. Bill Clements said changes to the workers' comp system, along with a number of other issues, may necessitate a fall special legislative session.

Lawmakers are currently in special session after having failed to reach a compromise on the method of compensating workers who are injured in on-the-job accidents.

Clements met with Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and House Speaker Gib Lewis briefly during the Senate session to discuss another possible special session.

Clements said Hobby told him he was "reasonably optimistic that we'll have a (workers' comp) bill reported out at this time next week.'

But Clements also said, "I'm not sure if the workers' comp thing is going to get settled. We'll just have to wait and see.

Lewis, D-Fort Worth, has said if a conference committee is needed, lawmakers would not have enough time to resolve their differences during the special session that expires

The major dispute between the House and Senate is over jury trial review of disputed workers' compensation claims.

The House, backed by business, has been trying to eliminate jury review of workers' comp disputes, claiming litigation costs have driven up the price of employer-paid workers' comp insurance.

But the Senate, supported by labor and trial lawyers who represent injured workers says jury trials are a fundamental right and are needed to offset what could be an unfair

The House version would allow jury trial review of workers' comp disputes concerning death benefits, severe injuries, and whether the injury was incurred during the course of employment. Caperton, D-Bryan, described the proposed limitations on jury trials as "an absolute farce." He said that few of those cases are actually ever contested.

In related action, the Senate on Thursday approved a bill that would allow political subdivisions, such as cities, counties and school districts, to allow their employees to supplement their workers' comp benefits with accrued sick leave.

Weekly workers' comp benefits are twothirds of an employees' salary with a maximum of $238.

The bill by Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, was sent to the House on a 22-0 vote.

Abortion debate possible in fall

AUSTIN (AP) - Abortion opponents say they are encouraged by Gov. Bill Clements' comments that an abortion bill might be placed on the agenda if another special legislative session is called later this year.

Clements, who opposes most abortions and controls the agenda for any special session, said Thursday he won't add abortion to the agenda of the current session, which began June 20 to address workers' compensation reforms But the governor also said abortion could be included if another special session is called later this year.

sions to be made, court opinions to be rendered. I think until all that's cleared up it would be very foolish to run out and try to introduce some type of abortion bill. I just think it would be very unwise," he said.

Clements acknowledged that concern, saying, "There are some pros and cons and differences of opinion ... We haven't made our mind up."

Lewis earlier said he thought the next regular session of the Legislature, in 1991, would be the time to consider any abortion me-

The Supreme Court this week upheld a Missouri abortion law, a ruling that gives state legislatures added powers to regulate abortions.

Texas' abortion laws require annual reporting of abortions to the state health department and disallow abortions during the last three months of pregnancy unless the mother's life is in danger, according to the attorney general's office.

Clements has said he opposes all abortions, except in cases of rape, incest or when the mother's life is endangered.

The Legislature is in special session until July 20 trying to reform the state's workers' compensation system.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

There's a reason for bearing arms

The crisis in China should remind us of the importance of the right to keep and bear arms to the creation and maintenance of a free society. It's nice to have the freedom to own weapons for hunting and recreation, but the real reason for the Second Amendment was as a deterrent to tyranny.

The scale of the recent Chinese student protests and the overt support the students received from diverse sectors of Chinese society suggested to many that the government in Beijing had lost whatever legitimacy it may once have commanded. But the hard-line faction of the Communist Party had guns, and the people (victims of strict gun-control laws for decades) didn't. So the government felt little compunction or fear of reprisal over slaughtering several thousands peaceful, unarmed citizens in a random fashion that resembled a terrorist action.

The Chinese government hesitated for weeks before moving to disperse a peaceful crowd of unarmed citizens in Tiananmen Square. Had even a minority of those citizens had access to weapons, would it have been able to use wholesale slaughter to protect its tyrannical regime? Or would it have been impelled to make some accomodation, in the form of peaceful reforms, long ago?

In The Federalist, James Madison wrote that "the advantage of being armed, which the Americans possess over the people of almost every other nation." provides them with an almost "insurmountable" barrier to tyranny. Government at all levels is larger, more ambitious, more arbitrary than the founders dreamed it would become, and is always probing for new ways to acquire power. Can anyone doubt that it would be more extensive, closer yet to an outright tyranny, had it found a way to disarm the American people?

When the United States formed a constitutional government, its people did not relinquish the right. as outlined in the Declaration of Independence, to "alter or abolish" that government if it became oppressive or subversive of liberty. The Chinese people would like to exercise that universal human right, but they have been deprived of the means of doing so. Their rulers may have repudiated part of the legacy of Mao Tse-tung, but they have not forgotten his dictum that "political power grows out of a barrel of a gun. Recent laws limiting ownership of some brands of semi-automatic weapons arbitrarily designated as 'assault rifles' do not amount to the disarming of the American people. Wholesale confiscation of weapons is unlikely. But the arguments used to justify these laws have done much to undermine the real character of the Second Amendment. We have come close to declaring that the only "legitimate" reason for owning weapons is hunting and plinking — private fun. The relationship of the right to own weapons to civic responsibility and the defense of liberty has been forgotten or ignored by both sides to the debate.

It all begins with a little nose

WASHINGTON — Once upon a time, so the fable goes, a nomad family took pity upon a camel. A fearsome sandstorm was brewing outside. The camel asked pathetically if he could just put his nose in the tent. The family agreed, and you know the rest.

Recently the Senate let in a most appealing camel: It approved a child-care bill.

This is an idea, apparently, whose time has come. The question no longer is whether the federal government should launch a new entitlement program. We are asked only to fix the who, when and how much. Later this year the House will pass its version. The president will demand some tailoring to suit his own desires, and pretty soon it will be Christmas for the bureaucrats. They will have something in the neighborhood of $5 billion to spread around.

That is for the first year. The Senate bill authorizes thereafter "such sums as may be necessary," and you may confidently bet your bottom dollar that the sums will be vast.

Majority Leader George Mitchell became the principal sponsor of the measure that passed on a voice vote on June 22. This much may be said: Mitchell's bill is a heap better than the Dodd-Hatch bill, known as the ABC Bill, that won committee approval in March. Dodd-Hatch represented the whole camel, hump and all. Mitchells' substitute is the nose

The measure runs to 49 columns of fine type in the Congressional Record. It defies easy summary. The bill opens with finding of obvious fact — that many working families need day care for their children, that many families are unable to the situation, the bill would set in motion a new entitlement program.

One trouble is that none of the witnesses who have testified in support of the program seems to have any clear idea of how many "eligible" children would be covered. There are lots of them. From one-fourth to one-third of children afford high-quality care, and so on. To remedy now in day care are thought to be in churchrelated facilities.

This program would extend benefits to eligi- or might not survive constitutional challenge.

The only case cited by proponents in support of the vouchers is Mueller v. Allen (1983), in which the Supreme Court upheld a Minnesota plan of tax deductions for the parents of children attending parochial schools. That was a 5-4 decision and is not really in point.

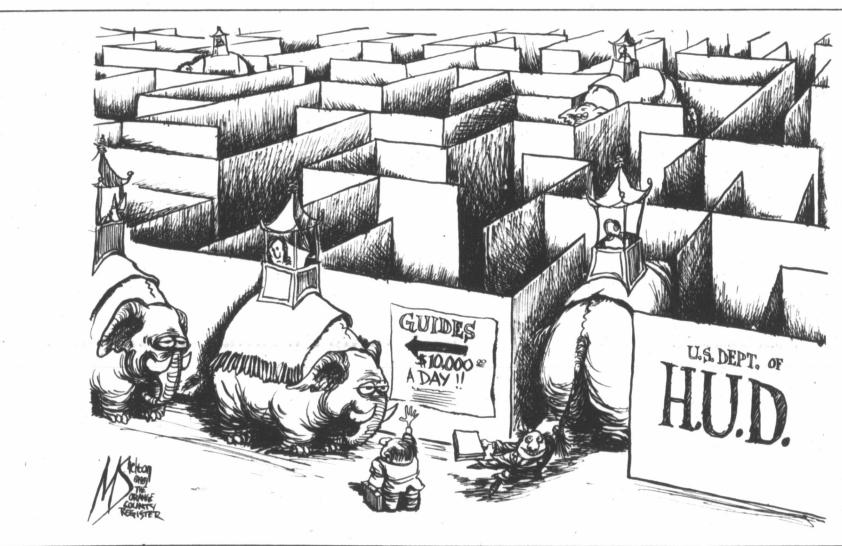

Under the original Dodd-Hatch proposal, the states would have had to accept mandatory federal standards. That provision has been scrapped, but only more or less.

Mitchell's substitute creates a National Advisory Committee on Recommended Child ble children under the age of 16 whose family Care Standards. The same mother-knows-best requirements are laid upon mandatory local committees. Such Democrats as Mitchell leave as little as possible to state and local decisions.

There is much more. A lengthy and incomprehensible Title II deals with tax credits, health insurance, and only the sponsors can say what else. This is a young camel — only a $5 billion baby camel — that wants into the entitlement tent. Be assured that as time goes by, and the The proposed certificates, or vouchers, might rules on eligibility progressively are liberalized, the baby will grow.

hina in a burning house?

Some lessons we learn only by experience. I'd heard for years from firemen friends the sometimes strange behavior patterns of people trapped by fire but I had to experience it before I could fully appreciate it. My work begins in the predawn dark in Chicago and my route to work takes me through a sprawling residential neighborhood of the west

One morning — this was a while ago — my attention was drawn to a tower of black smoke off to the left of my route. Quickly I circled back and pulled up near the burning trilevel frame building, the tar-paper siding of which was making the billowing black smoke.

I ran around to the back of the house where a woman — standing by the alley garage — was sobbing and shouting that Mrs. somebody was still in there! "Up there! "She was pointing to the second floor.

I called out to her to summon firemen — "Call 911." I shouted — and then I started climbing the rickety outside switch-back stairway.

At the second floor level I was getting no response to my cries, "Anybody in there?" But I flung open a porch door to see the silhouette of a rather bulky woman in the smoke-filled room.

I shouted, "Come with me! There is a fire!" I shouted repeatedly but the woman in her nightgown was at the huge dresser removing us generally into three categories: clothing from one drawer and placing it in another drawer.

Very obviously it was neither an attempt to rescue nor to retrieve anything. She was merely busying herself — methodically moving folded garments back and forth, drawer to drawer.

Eventually I coaxed her out of the room and down the stairs. By now fire engines had converged so, having done all I could do, I returned home, changed from my soiled, sooty clothing, and drove back to work

The woman in question spoke halting English, if any. That could have been a factor in her reluctance to follow my entreaties.

Yet, firemen have since explained that such behavior is not at all uncommon. Now I hear from Detroit that the residents of a burning home were reluctant to leave. One man, 90, refused to leave before putting on his pants. His sister-in-law was equally reluctant when neighbors tried to coax her out. Even the family dog — safely outside — ran

And what fate does Hong Kong face?

By WILLIAM A. RUSHER

It was in far palmier days, at the apogee of the British empire toward the close of the 19th century, that Britain negotiated with the crumbling Manchu dynasty the lease, for 99 years, of the New Territories of Hong Kong. Together with Hong Kong Island and the Kowloon peninsula, over which imperial Britain asserted absolute sovereignty, the leased areas comprised a comfortable foothold for British economic and military power in the Far East. As the British Crown Colony of Hong Kong, the enclave proceeded to become a bastion of unfettered free enterprise. And since the end of World War II (during which, of course, it was occupied by the Japanese) it has blossomed into a unique and wonderfully beautiful tourist destination as well, where Westerners can sample the delights of the Orient amid the familiar comforts of British civilization.

Paternally, Britain gave its Hong Kong subjects British passports. They were encouraged to regard themselves as British citizens, and those who could afford it traveled freely to and from London.

But winds of change were blowing across Asia, and as 1997 (the expiration date of the New Territories lease) drew near, Communist China let it be known that it expected Hong Kong to be returned on schedule. In fairness, Britain — far weaker now than a century ago — had no choice but to agree. China could take the colony militarily in an afternoon or starve it for water in a week. Nor was there any point in making a separate issue of Hong Kong Island and the Kowloon peninsula, which could not possibly survive without the hinterland of the far larger New Territories. So Britain yielded, managing only to exact a pledge from Deng Xiaoping that Peking would respect Hong Kong's capitalist economic system for at least 50 years after 1997.

One can imagine, therefore, how residents of Hong Kong must view the recent political crackdown and mass slaughter in China. If Deng's pledge was ever worth anything, what is it worth now? Many of the 3.25 million Chinese who hold those British passports are busy making conditional plans to leave Hong Kong forever, if that should prove necessary.

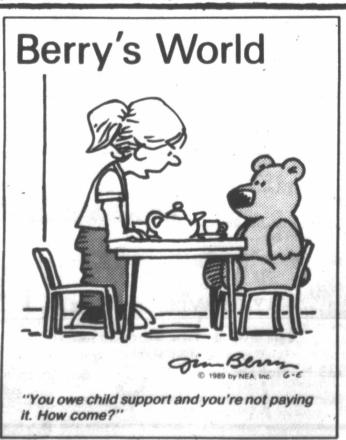

But just at this point Mrs. Thatcher's government has declared that it cannot possibly permit the influx of so many Chinese into an island where unemployment is already in the double digits. Britain has already experienced the unsettling consequences of admitting substantial numbers of Indian, Pakistani, Jamaican and other holders of British passports to that tight little island. Mrs. Thatcher's Tory supporters, not to mention her Labour opponents (whose constituents fear the economic competition of the Chinese), are understandably uneasy about throwing open the doors to their frightened fellow-citizens in faraway Hong Kong.

The dilemma, however, probably isn't quite so severe as it seems. In the eight years between now and 1997 quite a lot may happen to the bloodstained gerontocracy that presently rules in Beijing. And it is, in any case, quite sure that far fewer than 3.25 million people would actually try to avail themselves of refuge in Britain, even if worst came to worst

Finally, Britain would almost certainly benefit, in the long run, from an influx of several hundred thousand smart, hard-working, English-speaking Chinese. We Americans, after all, have ourselves in recent years seen the children of refugee Orientals outstripping all competitors in many fields of activity here at home. They make splendid, highly productive

But the bottom line for Britain, surely, is its moral obligation. The last act of her dying empire cannot, must not, be a double-cross. Let Britain rise once again to the level of the aspirations that made her great, and show the world how a truly royal nation behaves.

U.S. unemployment rate up slightly

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's unemployment rate edged up a notch to 5.3 percent in June as businesses created a modest 180,000 new jobs, the government said today in yet another sign that the economy is slowing.

The civilian jobless rate was up from May's 5.2 percent, the Labor Department said.

The report said the bulk of the 180,000 new nonfarm jobs added last month came in the service sector, and the government revised its May jobgrowth total to 205,000, more than double the total given in a preliminary report last month.

There were clear signs in the report of a slowing economy and an indication as well of an easing of wage inflation that has troubled some analysts.

The Labor Department said the average factory work week slipped 0.1 of an hour to 40.9 hours last month, the first time this indicator has fallen below 41 hours since September 1987.

Average hourly earnings of production and supervisory workers were essentially unchanged. For the first five months of the year, hourly wages had grown on average by 0.3 percent.

Many economists had expected an upward revision of the May payroll expansion totals, but the 180.000 figure for June was below most predictions. Still, it was likely not low enough to raise fears that the economy has slowed to the verge of recession.

For the past four months business added an average of just below 200,000 jobs a month, well below the average monthly gain of the past year.

The June unemployment report — the first comprehensive look at economic activity last month showed that the service sector continues as the source of the overwhelming number of new jobs while manufacturing continues to struggle.

Service-producing industries added 231,000 new jobs last month, with business and health services and wholesale and retail trade all posting modest gains. Some of that growth was offset, however, by a decline of 31,000 manufacturing jobs and 8,000 construction jobs despite the summer weather.

Those figures are gleaned from the Labor Department's monthly survey of businesses.

The department's separate household survey, used to set the unemployment rate, found that the civilian labor force grew by 492,000 people from May to June, to a total of 124.1 million. Of that group, 117.5 million held jobs and 6.5 million were looking for work but could not find it.

Among most demographic groups, the unemployment rate was unchanged or up just slightly, although increases in joblessness were reported for teen-agers in general and black female teenagers in particular. The rate for the latter group shot up from 28 percent in May to more than 40 percent last month.

Among all teen-agers the unemployment rate rose from 15.2 percent to 15.6 percent. That came as the labor force for that age group grew by more than 100,000, apparently due to an influx of students into the summer labor market. The government said blacks made up the bulk of the new teen-agers in the labor force. In contrast to young black women, male black teen-agers had some success in finding jobs. In a separate calculation of unemployment that includes military personnel based in the United States, the jobless rate climbed to 5.2 percent in June from 5.1 percent in May.

CHICAGO (AP) - About 60 million Americans 20 and older more than one-third of the nation's adults - face the risk of coronary disease because they have high blood cholesterol levels, a study has found.

"What's especially disconcerting is that high cholesterol levels are often seen in association with other risk factors - hypertension, smoking, or being overweight," says Christopher Sempos, one of eight authors of the study published in today's Journal of the American Medical

"And for many people, most of the desired changes could be achieved through a change in routines like diet and exercise,' Sempos, a nutritionist and epidemiologist with the National Center for Health Statistics in Hyattsville, Md., said in a telephone interview Thursday.

"Even though we've made great strides in alerting the public to the dangers of cholesterol and heart disease, there's still too large a segment that is putting itself unnecessarily at risk."

The federal center lists coron ary disease as the nation's leading killer, claiming 521,000 lives in 1986, the last full year for which statistics are available.

In the study, researchers examined data from 11,864 adults 20 to 74 years old who participated in the Second National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey from 1976 to 1980.

The average blood cholesterol level for an American adult woman was 215 milligrams per deciliter. For men, it was 211.

Cholesterol is a steroidlike compound that is produced both by the body and contained in fats that make up part of the diet. It is circulated in the blood and is important for normal functioning of the cells.

But too much cholesterol can cause deposits to build up on the arterial walls, restricting the flow of blood to the heart muscle and contributing substantially to heart disease.

Fruits, vegetables, whole grains and beans are known to lower cholesterol, and nutritionists say lean meat, fish and poultry in small portions are acceptable for a healthy diet.

Foods cited as high in cholesterol include fatty meats such as spare ribs and highly marbled steak, ice cream and most other dairy products, egg yolks, pies, cakes and cookies.

For the study's purposes, participants with a blood cholesterol level of 240 or higher were considered to be in need of medical advice and intervention to lower

The same was true for any participant whose cholesterol level was 200 or higher if they had at least two other risk factors for coronary heart disease: high blood pressure, diabetes, previous heart disease or stroke, excess weight or smoking 10 cigarettes or more daily.

Those two groups constituted 36 percent of the participants in the survey — a percentage researchers used to arrive at the estimated 60 million American

One doctor found some reason for optimism in the study's findings because the average cholesterol levels have been on the decline.

CORRECTIONAL FACILITY PROJECT SURVEY

The Pampa Chamber of Commerce and the Pampa Industrial Foundation, with the City of Pampa and Gray County, are considering whether or not to submit a bid to the State of Texas to seek placement of a state prison in Gray, County.

In order for a bid to be considered, the bidders must offer at least 300 acres of land and other site improvements as an inducement to the state. It is estimated that the site improvements could cost between $3-$4 million, which would require issuance of bonds. Local taxes might have to be increased to pay off the bonds as well as other direct and indirect expenses related to the prision.

The benefits include a multi-million dollar investment by the state, including jobs during construction and up to 800 permanent jobs for the operation of the prison.

All residents of Gray County are asked to respond to this survey on or before July 14, 1989 by indicating whether you are for or against having a state prison in Gray County.

If you have any questions, please contact the Pampa Chamber of Commerce Director Bruce Barton at 669-3241, City Manager Jack Chaney at 665-8481, or any County or City Commissioner.

GOOD FRUITS

"The wisdom that is from above is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, and easy to be entreated, full of mercy and GOOD FRUITS."

There are two forces at work in this world, evil and good. We have the freedom to choose between these two things.

"O taste and see that the Lord is good:

blessed is the man that trusteth in him."

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Shreveport Boychoir to be in Pampa

The Shreveport Boychoir from Shreveport, La., will perform at 6:30 p.m. Sunday at First United Methodist Church in Pampa.

The Shreveport Boychoir, now in its 14th year, provides a unique cultural opportunity for the boys in the Shreveport-Bossier City area. In the summer of 1987, the choir participated in a study tour of the Pacific Northwest, including workshops on Orcas Island with Anthony Crossland, choirmaster/organist at the Wells Cathedral in England.

Most recently, a group from the boy's choir performed as the street urchins chorus in Bizet's Carmen produced by the Shreveport Opera. The Shreveport Boychoir has also been featured with the Shreveport Symphony Orchestra in its annual Christmas concert.

The choir hosts and entertains at Edwardian gala dinners each Christmas season, in addition to singing for many private and public events throughout the year. The choir traveled to Dallas in June to perform a concert with the Dallas Boys' Choir and members of the Turtle Creek Chorale at the Sammons Center for the

Its current tour includes performances at Polk Street United Methodist Church in Amarillo and First United Methodist Church in Wichita Falls, as well as the First United Methodist Church in Pampa. The members will also attend a performance of Texas in Palo Duro Canyon.

Suzanne Cate, director, holds a bachelor of music degree from Texas Tech University and a master of music degree from the University of Colorado. She is a certified director of music in the United Methodist Church and is currently serving at Noel Memorial United Methodist Church in Shreveport.

A 1966 graduate of Pampa High School, she is the daughter of Jane K. Benton and the late Jack Becky Gerardy, accompanist, serves as assistant organist at Noel Memorial United Methodist Church. She is also accompanist for the Shreveport Chamber Singers and the Shreveport/Bossier Choral Ensemble. In addition, she is musical director for the Peter Pan Players, a children's theater group. Gerardy was iormerly the accompanist Centenary College Choir.

The Shreveport Boychoir Association is a non-profit organization established for the encouragement, promotion and advancement of the centuries-old boychoir art. Hundreds of choristers have been provided opportunities for musical training and performance. The association is financed by donations, and no fee is required of the boys for mem-

The public is invited to attend the free concert. Tapes of the choir will be available.

His Touch

Scripture: But now that you know God — or rather are known by God — how is it that you are turning back to those weak and miserable principles? Do you wish to be enslaved by them all over again? (Galations 4:9 NIV)

While I was playing in the yard with my toddler nephew, he spotted a kite high in the sky. He was delighted and squealed for me to look. We watched it for some time until someone interruped us.

When my nephew again tried to find the kite, he looked in the wrong direction and couldn't find it anywhere. I tried to point it out to him, but I couldn't get him to look where I was pointing.

I even tried to turn his little face in the direction of the kite, but he kept his eyes cut the other way. He never did get his eyes positioned to see the kite again.

Christians discover the grace of Christ with excitement and joy. We celebrate his goodness and our newfound freedom of spirit.

We keep our sights on Jesus, maintain our enthusiasm and urge others to "look" — that is. until we become distracted by our former selves.

Too often, we lose sight of our Lord for so long we no longer know where to look to find him. No matter how persistently the Spirit tries to point us in the right direction, our heart vision looks away.

We maunder along, wondering why we no longer feel Christ's grace and vaguely knowing we're overlooking;

All along, all we have to do is reposition our hearts in righteousness to find our Jesus in all his glory, awaiting our attention.

By EMILY JAUREGUI El Paso Times

EL PASO (AP) - Symbols of Christ and his Apostles on vivid stained-glass windows at the Congregational Church of Hope have been the targets of bullets, baseball bats and stones.

The Protestant church, with roots reaching back to the Pilgrims, is battered by rumors that its windows depict satanic symbols and it does the devil's work.

"Someone is spreading rumors - lies — about us," said the Rev. Arlin Larson, minister of the East Side church at 2400 George Dieter. "Someone is damaging our reputation and slandering one of God's churches. Consequently, some people have done damage to our building because they believe these lies.

For three years, the rumors have grown and spread through the neighborhood. Most neighbors are familiar with the gossip.

"Isn't that the church where they sacrifice the dogs and cats?" 15-year-old Danny Molina asked.

'I really cannot explain the vandalism other than the fact it is based on the ignorance on the part of the people.

Lilly Rios said: "The windows — with their weird drawings and the fact that the church is usually unoccupied and quiet makes you wonder. Some of the things people told me made me a little curious and even a little scared and cautious. Some people have told me that they kidnap and kill babies.

"But nothing out of the ordinary has taken place. I'm starting to think that the rumors of that being a Satan-worshiping church are overly exaggerated," Ms. Rios said.

The Rev. Mike Hamilton, chairman of the Eastside Clergy Association and pastor of St. Timothy Lutheran Church, said he inspected the windows after hearing the rumors — and concluded the rumors are absurd.

"With 12 Christian symbols (on the windows) and a cross out front, you certainly can't be a satanic church," Hamilton said.

The church at one time mailed 12,000 fliers to neighbors explaining the nature of its Protestant beliefs. And it published booklets explaining the origin and meaning of the windows.

A red-winged ox on one of the windows, rumored to have occult significance, has been broken several times. Hazel Wingo said she donated that window to the church in memory of her son, Daniel, who was killed 10 years ago. The ox is the symbol of Luke, one of the Gospel-writers.

Larson, 44, said the church's front window, which depicts the "Lamb of God" as the symbol of Christ, is another source of

"Some people say it appears to them to be a goat and that Satan worshipers worship goats. I really don't know about that," he

All of the church's 19 stainedglass windows were donated by church members. They cost $500 to $2,000 each.

Larson said all of the windows have been vandalized at "some point or another." They've been covered with a plastic coating to keep them fromm shattering.

The last broken window was in March, when someone broke into the church. A bullet went through a window last fall.

The church has insurance, but church members are afraid their policy will be canceled or their rates increased.

The windows were designed and made by the Griffin Stained Glass Studio, in El Paso.

Owner Willis Griffin said: "The windows are modeled after Christian symbols that have been used for 12 centuries and are directly out of the Bible. I really cannot explain the vandalism other than the fact it is based on the ignorance on the part of the people who have decided that it is satanic, but it is based on ignorance and superstition.

The church is about 10 years old and the windows were installed about five years ago. Larson said the vandalism began about three years ago when the neighborhood around the church became set-made over the phone. People call to ask what we are, and we try to tell them that we are a Congregational church and often they don't know what that is," Larson said. "So, we explain to them that, for example, the Pilgrims (who fled religious persecution to help settle the New World) were Congre-

Methodists. 'Basically, we tell them we don't know anything about satan-gationalist, and that we are much like the Presbyterians and the ism or anything like that." About 70 people, ranging from senior citizens to young families, attend the church on a typical

Sunday. The church conducts Bible study, choir practice and other typical church activities, including egg hunts on Easter. It is also a polling place during elec-

Larson said anyone is welcome to visit the church.

Church members are saddened that children who used to play around the church are prohibited by their parents from coming near the building.

"That's really sad," Mrs. Wingo said, "because we even call the parents to try to explain about our church and some don't even want to listen.

Public invited to view hospital's new catheterization lab michand Kamnani, M.D. are hosting an open house for the Heart Catheterization Lab on the second floor of Coronado Hospital Sunday afternoon, July 9, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

The lab, which is the only one outside of Amarillo in the Texas Panhandle, is probably Pampa's most high tech piece of medical equipment, according to hospital officials. Housed in a remodeled patient area, the Philips Poly C c-arm image intensifier is one of the latest models.

Extensive work was done on the area to accommodate the extremely heavy x-ray equipment. Since the lab is located on the second floor, extensive structural reinforcements were made, and the room was lined with lead to protect the rest of the area from radiation.

The room also features an Eigin Replay system, which allows the physician to video tape the procedure in addition to filming the catheterization. The video tape lets the physician rewind the tape to double check any part of the procedure as the catheterization is in progress.

The lab actually opened May 4, and 22 procedures have been done by the trained staff which consists of board-certified cardiologist, Dr. Kamani; two registered nurses, Jimmie Ivy RN, assistant director of nursing, and Grace Rita Domingo RN; and two radiology technicians, Chuck Tanner AART, director of radiology and Rod Helms AART. The hospital personnel also received extensive special training in the procedure before the lab opened.

Cardiac catheterization is the insertion of a long, narrow, flexible tube through the blood vessel into the heart. The technique makes it possible to explore within the heart to find out precisely how well the heart and coronoary arteries are working.

reasons for cardiac catheterization is the need to see the blood flow through the heart and coronary arteries. A contract medium is injected through the catheter and the resulting x-ray pictures show the heart's blood flow clearly.

During the procedure the patient is given a local anesthetic where the catheter is to go in. Once the anesthetic has taken effect, the catheter is inserted in a blood vessel in the groin. X-ray cameras allow the physician to position the catheter within the

At Coronado Hospital, one family member is allowed to watch the procedure behind a lead glass window, according to Tanner. "It makes the patient more relaxed to know that a loved one is close," he said.

The catheterization lab is another step in providing a full line of cardiology services to

One of the most important Pampa and the eastern panhandle, according to Norman Knox, administrator. "We can now take care of all the patient's cardiac needs except open heart surgery," Knox said.

In addition to cath lab, Coronado Hospital has cardiac testing with a state-of-the-art stress testing machine, the latest echocardiograph machine, and the stress thallium testing equipment in the nuclear medicine lab.

Quilter's alert for '91 festival

NEW YORK (AP) — It's none too soon to start thinking about entries for three quilters' contests — all on the theme "Discover America" - with fall 1990 closing dates. The contests are part of The Great American Quilt Festival 3 being organized by the Museum of American Folk Art and the City of New York for April 1991. It will be one of the first of many events to celebrate the 500th anniversary of Christopher Columbus' arrival in America — hence the theme.

The contests:

— Discover America. Open to all living quilt makers worldwide. Each entry should be the work of one person only. Quilts completed and slides submitted by Sept. 5, 1990.

- Friends Sharing America. Open to all living quilt makers worldwide. Each quilt must be the work of three or more people. Oct. 2, 1990, deadline.

— Young People's American Fabric Drawing Contest. For children worldwide ages 8-12. Each entry must be the work of one child only. Nov. 1, 1990,

SMALL TOWN IN OHIO

DEAR SMALL TOWN: Call the deputy sheriff and tell him that perhaps his wife was not aware that Bonnie had lost her ring last winter on their property during an accident. Then advise him that Bonnie had seen Mrs. Jones wearing the ring — and name the place and time.

After that, I doubt if Bonnie's ring will be "missing" much longer.

DEAR ABBY: It happened today. And it will happen again and again and again.

When a mother has lost a child in death — whether it was yesterday, last year or many years ago - if someone asks her how many children she has, what should she say?

If she includes the child she's lost, there are more questions to answer — then the person who has inquired looks as though she is sorry she asked. If the mother doesn't include the child she lost, was his or her life of no consequence - and not worth mentioning?

So how should the mother answer that question?

FAITHFUL READER IN FLINT, MICH.

DEAR FAITHFUL READER: Obviously, only those who don't know the mother very well would ask how many children she has, so unless the mother is fully prepared to answer some follow-up questions about her tragic loss, she should count only those children who are living.

Neglecting to mention the child or children she has lost in death in no way diminishes their importance.

DEAR ABBY: Several years ago, my 10-year-old daughter, our collie named Ruff and I visited a very old town outside of Denver. As we stopped at a little church to listen to minister, we were invited in. I pointed to my dog, and the minister announced loudly, "All God's creatures are welcome in God's house.'

We went in and sat close to a wall so we wouldn't bother anybody. When the people prayed, Ruff put his head down between his paws; when the people sang, Ruff "sang" louder than anybody.

The minister devoted the last half of the sermon to "God's four-legged creatures." As we were leaving the church, many parishioners stopped to shake Ruff's paw or give him a hug. So, who says children dressed in pajamas don't belong in church. Abby? Aren't they God's creatures, WIMBLEDON, England — It's the third edition of the ultimate showdown. Whatever happens this time, it will make tennis his-

"I want it badly and Steffi wants it badly," Martina Navratilova said Thursday. "This is what you live for. It should be a great match."

"It" is the women's singles title at Wimbledon, something Steffi Graf holds and Navratilova wants back.

After Chris Evert's probable farewell to Wimbledon's ivycovered walls and six rounds of toil and sweat, the goal is in sight for Navratilova and Graf.

The men's finalists were to be decided today.

John McEnroe, in the last four for the first time since 1984, takes on defending champion Stefan Edberg in the first semifinal. Then comes a rematch of last year's semifinal between twotime titlist Boris Becker and Ivan left shoulder into the match. He received laser, ultrasound and muscle stimulation treatment for a tear in the posterior rotator cuff of his left shoulder Thursday. Trainer Bill Norris said the injury would hinder McEnroe in his semifinal match against defending champion Stefan Edberg.

McEnroe carried a damaged

Navratilova, a 32-year-old from the United States, and Graf, just turned 20 from West Germany, have split the last two women's singles titles here. Last year, Graf won 5-7, 6-2, 6-1.

When they meet again on Saturday, it will be the first time since 1921 that the same women have met for the championship three years in a row.

Navratilova is aiming for an even greater landmark.

If she beats Graf, Navratilova will become the winningest Wimbledon singles champion of all time, beating the eight titles she shares with Helen Wills

Both had straight-set semifinals victories Thursday, Navratilova 7-6, 6-2 over unseeded Swede Catarina Lindqvist and Graf 6-2. 6-1 over three-time champion Evert in what the American said was "90 percent" certain to be her last appearance here.

Evert got trounced on Centre Court and then waved goodbye.

"I'd be really shocked if I came back next year," Evert said. "It would take a transplant or something ... a couple of different parts

With the Centre Court dripping with sentimentality and searing heat, Evert made one final effort to win the grass-court title for a fourth time.

But Graf, upset in the final of the French Open by 17-year-old Arantxa Sanchez after five straight Grand Slam tournament titles, was in no mood for nostalgia. She made her intentions clear from the start as she dropped only one point in the first two Evert had six break points in the match but couldn't convert any of them, and wilted under Graf's fearsome forehand.

"There were a lot of close games but I always managed to win the big points," Graf said. "That used to be Chris' strength. Now it's mine.

Evert, the winningest player in Wimbledon history with 96 singles victories, said that if Thursday's match turned out to be her last here, she was pleased Graf was her opponent.

Chris Evert returns a shot to Steffi Graf.

Four Rangers make All-Star team

DALLAS (AP) — Julio Franco's selection to the starting lineup in next week's All-Star game was sweetened by the announcement that he won't be the Lone Ranger at the midsummer classic in Anaheim, Joining Franco will be sidekick Ruben Sierra, one of the game's brightest young stars, and pitchers Nolan Ryan and Jeff Russell, who have starred in their respective roles for the new-look Rangers.

The announcement of AL pitchers and reserves Thursday by Oakland Athletics manager Tony La Russa ended an eight-year spell in which the Rangers received only the mandatory one representative at the All-Star game.

The A's and Rangers will each send four players to the All-Star Game, while St. Louis and Los Angeles head the National League with four players each.

The last time the Rangers had more than one player selected was in 1981 when Al Oliver and Buddy Bell were chosen as reserves. They've never had more than two players picked. Franco is the first Ranger chosen as a starter since outfielder Richie Zisk in

But as many as three Rangers have a shot at starting Tuesday's game.

Franco will start at second base. There's a strong possibility that Ryan could be selected over Oakland's Dave Stewart as the AL's starting pitcher. And Sierra is expected to replace Oakland outfielder Jose Canseco, who was chosen a starter by fans but hasn't played a game all year because of a wrist injury and won't be activated for the All-

Collins let go

CHICAGO (AP) - Doug Collins lost his job, and although the Chicago Bulls won't say exactly why, the unexpected move has led to plenty of speculation.

The 47-year-old Collins, who in the third season of his first head coaching assignment led the Chicago Bulls to the NBA Eastern Conference finals last season, was fired Thursday. The team cited "philosophical differences.

"We know this will be an unpopular decision, but we truly believe this will be in the best interests of all parties," team owner Jerry Reinsdorf said in a statement released by the club.

The club quickly moved to squelch speculation that superstar Michael Jordan, who had locked horns off and on with Collins, was behind the decision, a scene reminiscent of Magic Johnson's role in the firing of Los Angeles Lakers coach Paul Westhead.

"There is totally no truth to that. Michael has had nothing to do with our decision regarding Doug's position. I want to firmly put that to rest," general manager Jerry Krause told reporters Thursday evening.

Jordan, interviewed at a basketball clinic in his native North Carolina, said he and Collins "were getting closer and closer as time went on.'

"Doug and I were great friends. I'm in the dark as much as anyone," said Jordan, NBA scoring champion the past three season's and the league's most valuable player in 1988.

Collins also had run-ins with other players, as well as with Krause and Reinsdorf.

"Doug and I had our differences," forward Horace Grant said, "but there's no other coach I'd love to be playing under."

Magazine causes football fever to rise little early to begin thinking of tootball, what with two-a-day workouts still over a month away. But for those who need a break from the mindless All-Star baseball balloting, a comprehensive look at the upcoming grid season is there for the asking in Dave Campbell's just-released Texas Football magazine.

I casually picked up a copy at the neighborhood news stand, then realized hours later that I had been turning its pages without pause. Surprising how quickly the fever can strike after six months without a football fix.

For Campbell, sports editor and columnist at the Waco Tribune-Herald, the 1989 summer edition is something of a landmark. Thirty years ago, in July of 1960, the first issue of Texas Football — all 96 pages of it — rolled off the presses. It featured coverage of the college football scene as well as a team-by-team breakdown of all the high schools across the state.

The publication has since grown to 228 pages, complete with in-depth analysis and preseason predictions by Campbell and his staff of sports writers from around the state. Top to bottom, no stone is left unturned, from the Southwest Conference to six-man and private high schools.

According to Campbell's high school editor, the district races for teams in the Pampa News circulation area shape up like this: District 1-4A 1. Lubbock Estacado Mata-

- dors.
- 2. Hereford Whitefaces. 3. Levelland Lobos
- 4. Wolfforth Frenship Tigers. 5. Lubbock Dunbar Panthers.
- 6. Borger Bulldogs. 7. Pampa Harvesters.
- 8. Canyon Randall Raiders. 9. Dumas Demons.

NOTES: Texas Football rates Pampa's defense as its strong suit behind the duo of DT Heath Summers and LB Mike Cagle, who combined for 329 tackles last season. Cagle is third in the state among returning tacklers in Class 4A, while Summers is sixth.

Quarterback James Bybee is cited as a cornerstone of coach Dennis Cavalier's I-formation, although seasoned blockers may be hard to come by with only one returning starter, center John Mann, on the offensive line.

Pampa returns 11 lettermen, including four offensive and three defensive starters from last year's 4-6 team. Pampa lost 23 letterwinners to graduation.

Because of Class 4A's unpredictability this year, pollsters felt obliged to expand the Top 10 list to include the Top 20. Katy Mayde

In Stride

Sonny Bohanan

Creek, a regional finalist in 1988, gets the early nod for No. 1.

- District 2-2A 1. Quanah Indians.
- 2. Canadian Wildcats. 3. Wellington Skyrockets.
- 4. Memphis Cyclones
- Shamrock Irish. 6. Clarendon Bronchos.

NOTES: If Wellington and Memphis switched places on the list, we'd have the exact finish of last year's district race.

Quanah, which was defeated 35-14 by Corrigan-Camden in the state title game last season, is once again favored head and shoulders above the remainder of the crowd, even with the loss of All-State running back Setrick Dickens.

Canadian pulled off a couple of major upsets last season to make the playoffs in defiance of the preseason polls, which may account for the Wildcats' second-place spot in this year's lineup. With seven returning starters, Canadian will have to mature quickly, especially on offense. Quarterback Shane Lloyd and running back Ty Hardin top the Wildcats' offensive chart, while Matt Martin and Jim Boy Hash hold things down on the defensive line. Linebackers Brent Shields and Joe Brewster and defensive back Seth Crouch also return from last year's squad.

Only four of last year's preseason Top 10 made it again this year, including Corrigan-Camden, Groveton, Refugio and Cooper. Groveton, which bowed out in the regional finals in 1988, is Texas Football's early favorite to win the 2A state championship.

District 1-1A 1. White Deer Bucks.

- 2. Gruver Greyhounds.
- Wheeler Mustangs. 4. Sunray Bobcats.
- 5. Follett Panthers (recently
- moved to six-man ranks). 6. Booker Kiowas. 7. Claude Mustangs.

NOTES: The loss of All-Staters Bart Thomas and Brady Burns will slow White Deer's offensive momentum, although Troy Cummins, who will replace Thomas at quarterback, and running back Tim Davis were key components of last year's state championship

Defensively, the Bucks return linebacker Zach Thomas, whose are no Top 10 teams from District 1-1A, which has produced the past District 2 Six-Man

- Higgins Coyotes.
- 2. McLean Tigers.
- 3. Silverton Owls. 4. Miami Warriors.
- 5. Lefors Pirates. 6. Groom Tigers.

NOTES: Truly the Higgins Covotes live a charmed life. They captured the No. 1 playoffs seeds in both football and baseball last season by a coin toss, and here they are picked No. 1 again.

McLean is getting some respect after winning the district co-championship in its first sixman season, but the Tigers still missed the playoffs and may well be the hungriest team around. Watch out, Higgins.

It's hard to say what might happen in Miami, Lefors and Groom. Each finished with 3-7 records last year. Lefors and Miami, short on seniors in 1988, return experienced squads this season and could turn things around in a big way. Groom probably faces the toughest rebuilding of all the six teams after losing a strong senior class. There was a clear division between the top three and the bottom three teams in District 2 last year. Look for Lefors and Miami to close that gap in 1989. I'd even venture to say that Lefors will finish at least two places higher than Texas Football predicts.

While admitting the futility of trying to make educated guesses about six-man football, the editors favor Fort Hancock to repeat as state champions. A little closer to home, Lazbuddie checks in at No. 5, while Bovina garnered the

Funeral is Saturday for ex-Pampa coach

Funeral services for former Pampa High football coach Odus Mitchell are scheduled Saturday in Denton.

Mitchell died Wednesday in Denton. He had celebrated his 90th birthday June 26

Mitchell graduated from West Texas State in 1952 and moved to a head coaching position at the high school level. He compiled a 21-year prep record of 165-44-8 as head coach at Pampa, Post, Slaton, Childress and Marshall.

The Killeen native took over coaching duties at the University of North Texas in 1946. His tenure there also covered 21 years with a record of 122-85-9, including three bowl appearances and 10 conference championships.

The 42-year career record of 433-287-17 brought Mitchell countless honors, the most recent being inducted into the Texas Sports Hall of Fame in

On the eve of his 90th birthday, former players and associates began a drive for the Odus Mitchell Scholarship Fund at UNT.

Scores of former Mitchell players went into the pro ranks, beginning with New York Giants' quarterback Y.A. Tittle, who played at Marshall High. From UNT, Mitchell sent such stars as Ray Renfro, Lawrence Strickland, Abner Haynes, Royce Womble, Cedrick Hardman, Spider Lockhart and Joe Greene to the pros. Mitchell was an all-around athlete at WT, earning 18 letters in football, baseball, basketball and track.

He served on the West team staff during the 1967 All-America College game in Atlanta.

Services will be held at 11 a.m. in St. Andrews Presbyterian Church.

Mitchell is survived by two daughters, Marilon Smith of Dallas and Margaret Cole of Denton; two sons, Shields of Marshall and Joe of Cleburne; 10 grandchildren and four great grandchildren. The family requests that memorials be made to the Mitchell Scholarship Fund
