Nixon Asks Congress For Election Reforms

WASHINGTON (AP)—Spurred by Watergate revelations, President Nixon asked Congress today to create a special nonpartisan commission to conduct "a complete re-examination of our system of elections and campaign practices."

In a special message, Nixon said "recent disclosures of widespread abuses during the presidential campaign of 1972" make reform an urgent and essential priority item to help "restore the faith of the American people in the integrity of their political processes."

While not once mentioning the word Watergate in his message or in a companion address prepared for radio broadcast, Nixon said many more disc-closures of 1972 campaign misdeeds "will doubtless soon be made."

The President submitted a proposed joint resolution that would create a 17-member Nonpartisan Commission on Election Reform that would be called on to submit a final report by Dec. 1.

The commission's mandate would be as broad as the federal election process itself, Nixon said. "Nothing would be excluded."

Nixon specifically urged that the commission consider the wisdom of a constitutional amendment that would limit a president to a single six-year term and double the tenure of House members to four years.

While expressing no personal opinion on presidential tenure, Nixon said: "Personally, I have long favored the four-year term for members of the House, with half of the members elected every two years."

Here's how the membership of the commission would be selected: Congress would appoint four Democrats and four Republicans, two each from the Senate and House. The chairman of the Democratic and Republican National Committees automatically would serve. The President would choose seven members, no more than four from the same political party, "for their experience, knowledge and perspective in this field."

Commission members would elect their own chairman and vice chairman to further ensure the commission's complete independence.

Nixon, in his radio talk, said the panel would be "in no way competitive with the Senate's Ervin committee" which will begin televised hearings on the Watergate scandal on Thursday. Rather, he said, "the new commission will draw on information being developed by the Ervin committee, and also on other studies of past campaign abuses."

In his address, Nixon listed these examples of the types of reform he felt certain the commission would consider:

- Strict limits on the size of individual campaign contributions.
- Strict limits on the size of campaign contributions or the amount of campaign assistance that can be given by business, labor or professional organizations.
- Strict limits on cash contributions.
- Tightened control over the activities of multiple organizations working for the same candidate.
- Shorter election campaigns.
- New disclosure rules that would simplify not only the filing of reports, but also the public discovery of what was important in those reports.
- Reducing the cost of reaching the public, as, for example, by making free radio and television time available to candidates, or by revision of the equal time requirements that now restrict broadcasters in their campaign coverage.
- New federal laws that would make illegal, practices that are now only unethical, and
- Establishment of an independent Federal Elections Commission with its own enforcement powers.

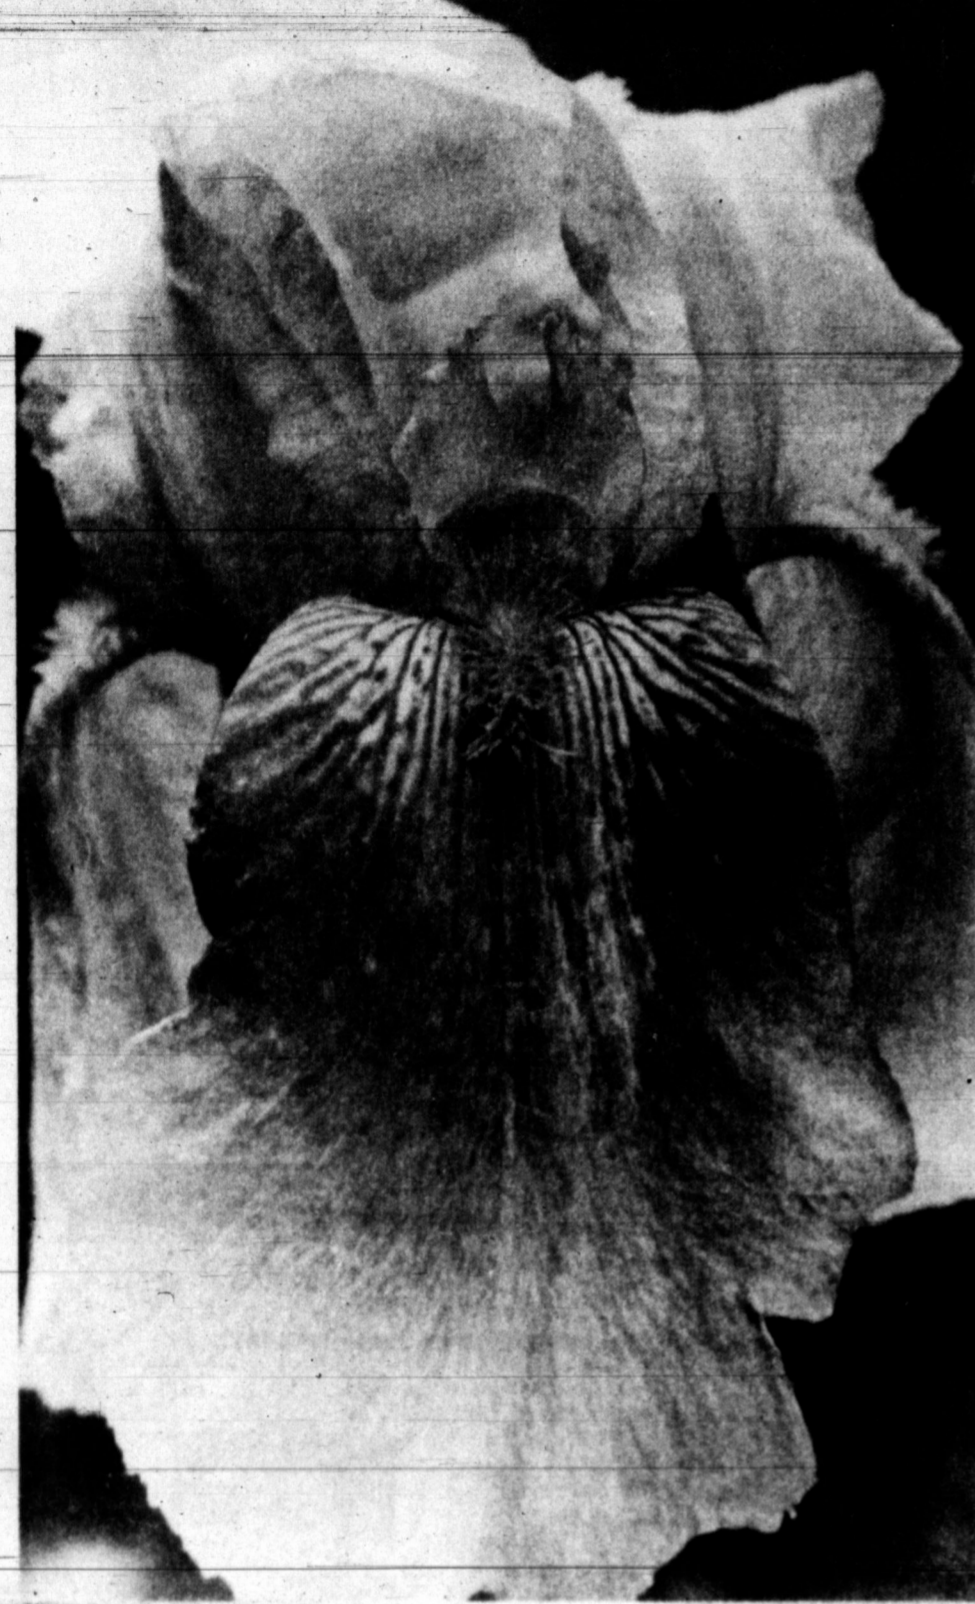

At an advance briefing session for congressional leaders of both parties Tuesday, Nixon suggested the proposed constitutional amendment to limit presidents to a single six-year term and give House members four-year terms.

The President emphasized he was not endorsing any specific ideas but believes the commission, which would be created by congressional resolution, should have a free hand to make recommendations on any subject related to the electoral process.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield termed Nixon's call for a commission "a step in the right direction." In outlining for congressional leaders the content of a special message formally presenting the proposal, Nixon was reported by Mansfield to have said other election reforms need not be delayed pending a commission study.

Mansfield, Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and others said Nixon cited potential reforms that included:

- A federal clean-elections commission armed with subpoena powers and the power to enforce campaign rules.
- A new disclosure requirement for political contributions and limits on campaign spending.
- A shorter campaign season that would, in itself, curtail outlays that last year reached record highs.
- Free television and radio time for candidates and repeal of the equal-time amendment to the Federal Communications Act in order to encourage the granting of free use of the airwaves to major-party candidates.
- The 17-member commission would submit a final report and recommendations by Dec. 1, filing its findings simultaneously with the White House and Congress.

As to mark that observation, the sun was shining brightly this morning with the temperature heading into the 70s.

STRESSES RESPONSIBILITY

Goldwater Urges Nixon To Restore Leadership

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater urged President Nixon today to start making moves in the direction of leadership, and Sen. Stuart Symington charged Nixon's chief aides "tried to obstruct justice" by hiding the Watergate affair under a CIA umbrella.

Testimony before the Senate Armed Services committee indicates the ploy didn't work because the CIA refused to go along. But convicted conspirator James W. McCord Jr. says he believes the White House tried to use the cover anyway.

"It is not easy for me to say this about my country or my President," said Goldwater, the 1964 Republican presidential nominee, "but I think the time has come when someone must say to both of them, 'let's get going.'"

Goldwater said "we are witnessing the loss of confidence in America's ability to govern. We are watching the price of gold go to disastrous heights having an equally bad effect upon our stock market."

"We have a far greater responsibility to our children and I might say to ourselves than to allow the sordid Watergate to wash out all other concepts of responsibility," the Arizonan continued in a statement.

"I mean responsibility to the world, to our own people and particularly that responsibility which is ours as a world leader to continue to lead it is to this end that I urge my President to start moves in the direction of leadership which have suffered from lack of an understandable concern about Watergate."

Nixon announced one move today in asking Congress to create a special 17-member nonpartisan commission to completely re-examine the system of elections and campaign practices.

His special message said "recent disclosures of 1972 campaign misdeeds" will doubtless soon "restore the faith of the American people in the integrity of their political processes."

He made no mention of Watergate but said more disclosures "will doubtless soon be made."

City Begins Budget Plans
Preliminary work on Pampa's operating budget for fiscal 1973-74 was started today, according to City Manager Mack Wofford.

Forms for budget requirements will be handed to city department heads Friday with a request to prepare detailed financial needs to run each department.

Wofford said July 3 has been set as a tentative date to review the requests of all departments.

Department heads, he stated, will be asked to study requests carefully and economize on operational costs wherever possible.

Following the annual review a public hearing will be held to give taxpayers a chance to examine the proposed budget figures.

Dates for the public hearing and filing of the budget will be set later, the city manager said.

The new fiscal year will start next Oct. 1.

In U.S. district court, Chief Judge John J. Sirica signed an order compelling Watergate conspirator G. Gordon Liddy to testify before the Senate Watergate committee which starts public televised hearings Thursday. The order, granted over protests by Liddy's attorney, gives Liddy immunity from prosecution for anything he might say.

Sirica had granted similar immunity to Liddy for his grand jury testimony but the former counsel for the re-election committee still refused to testify, and was sentenced to up to 18 months for contempt.

ON CAMBODIA BOMBING

Nixon Supporters Turn Against Him

WASHINGTON (AP)—Longtime Senate supporters of President Nixon's Indochina war policy have turned against him on the continued U.S. bombing of Cambodia.

Eleven Republicans joined 13 Democrats in a 24-0 vote in the Senate Appropriations Committee Tuesday to shut off all funds for any further U.S. combat activity in Cambodia and Laos.

The administration managed a slight victory, however, by persuading Republicans to move to delay a full Senate vote on the bombing until after Paris negotiations between Henry Kissinger and North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho. Their meeting to discuss peace-agreement violations begins Thursday.

Sen. Norris Cotton of New Hampshire, chairman of the Senate Republican Conference, saw the key vote as "a warning to the administration that Congress is not in a frame of mind to permit hostilities to continue and get us drawn back into war."

Cotton told newsmen that for four years under President Lyndon B. Johnson and four more under President Nixon, he had consistently voted to back up the president and U.S. fighting men in Vietnam.

"Now, I consider it a new ball game," he said. "We have brought all our men home I hope we have gotten all our prisoners back. As far as I am concerned, I want to get the hell out of there as soon as possible and I don't want to fool around until they capture more prisoners."

Cotton voted for a supplemental appropriations bill amendment that would bar use of any appropriated funds to support any combat activity by U.S. forces in, over, or from the shores of Cambodia or in or over Laos. The amendment was proposed to the committee by Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo.

The House voted last week to forbid use of any money in the supplemental appropriation bill for U.S. hostilities in Cambodia, but Secretary of Defense Elliot L. Richardson said other funds could be found to continue the bombing.

Sen. Hiram L. Fong, R-Hawaii, another consistent administration supporter, said he voted for the amendment because "the bombing is more or less useless."

"It's hard to justify this bombing, especially when you get into a no-win type of war," Fong said.

High Temperature Hampering Skylab

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—One temperature reading inside the troubled Skylab space station shot to 150 degrees today as the space agency pondered whether to rocket three astronauts up to the lab to unroll a curtain-like device to shield the craft from the searing rays of the sun.

At least one of the astronauts would have to take a space walk to install the aluminized curtain, which would be about 12 feet by 40 feet in size. Training required for the tricky task could delay the planned Sunday launch of the Skylab 1 astronauts.

The sun shade is the option receiving the most attention from experts who are coping with what to do about the high temperatures that presently make the orbiting laboratory uninhabitable.

They say the high readings, which have risen steadily since the craft was launched Monday, are the main barrier to sending astronauts Charles Conrad Jr., Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz into space Sunday to link up with the 85-ton lab.

Mission Control reported today that throughout the night radio commands frequently shifted the attitude of the Skylab so that different areas were exposed to the sun.

This helped stabilize the average temperature in the main workshop cabin at about 110 degrees, a spokesman said. But one sensor in a scientific airlock section sent a reading of 150 degrees.

Temperatures on the outside sunlit surface "remained at a rather high 250 to 300 degrees," the spokesman reported.

SkyLab To Shine In Skies

If the nighttime sky is clear and you look real closely, the unmanned Skylab and the second stage of the Saturn 5 rocket that boosted it into orbit can be seen over Pampa and the Panhandle for the next ten days or so.

The Associated Press reports that Skylab will be a steady bright light and the rocket booster will twinkle as it tumbles through space.

The two can be seen at the same time with one appearing to be trailing the other.

According to AP, best sighting times (Pampa time) with direction of movement, maximum distance above the horizon and distance in statute miles from that point will be:

Tonight — 8:50 p.m. northwest to southwest, 280 miles. Thursday night — 9:46 p.m., west to southwest, 12 miles, and Friday night — 9:01 p.m., west to south, 712 miles.

The problem reported when protective thermal paint was stripped from the spacecraft during a launching mishap.

Specialists considered an abbreviated inspection mission that would involve a fly-around of the station to photograph and evaluate problem areas, followed possibly by a docking and brief onboard inspection.

But officials are now more inclined to take the sun shield up and install it if possible. If not, the fly-around mission would be an alternative, and the astronauts would attempt to determine what fixes could be made for the later Skylab 2 and 3 crews.

If the decision is made to carry the shield aloft, officials said the launch might be delayed from Sunday until Friday, May 25, to allow for training in the space walk and other procedures.

A decision on what to do, and when and if to launch, may not come until Saturday, reported William C. Schneider, Skylab program director. The countdown of the astronauts' Saturn 1B rocket continued on schedule in case the green light is given for Sunday.

Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz are involved in the decisionmaking process.

"If we could cover 30 to 40 percent of the affected spacecraft area on the side facing the sun, it would solve the problem," flight controller Don Luddy told newsmen Tuesday night.

School Board Considers Probable Budget Deficit

Commenting on the current administration proposal to use country funds — if they are available — to wipe out the threat of the deficit, Sturgeon reminded those present that these were specifically earmarked for other purposes for which the school closing project was to protect.

Dr. James Malone, superintendent of schools, noted the deficit picture would probably change before the final document was presented. Malone explained the only reason it was brought up at this time was to try to arrive at salary figures for teachers who have been rehired but not presented contracts as yet.

In that area of school finance, he noted the local system's $500 dollar-over-state scale could be eliminated and teachers would have essentially the same amount for next year that they drew this year.

No action was taken and a tentative date was set for another meeting before the close of May to tackle the problem again.

The stadium use for a religious rally this summer was conditionally approved pending approval by the local ministerial group and proof of insurance responsibility insulating the school system from any liability.

Following a general report by Dr. Malone outlining personnel needs and possible re-alignments to meet those needs, the board went into executive session to discuss personnel.

In that meeting nine teachers were hired and two coaching positions eliminated. Members of the board emphasized the consideration of these employed today was not a matter of personalities but consideration of the best "slot" for them in the light of finances versus teaching subject needs for next year.

School Board Considers Probable Budget Deficit

By RAY BAXTER
Members of the Pampa school board concerned themselves — literally — with the prospects of a deficit in the budget for next year at a breakfast meeting this morning at 7 at Coronado Inn.

Other items pertaining to personnel and use of the stadium were on the agenda of the open session, but the budget drew first attention.

Panel President Ben Sturgeon sharply questioned the growing size of the speculated deficit, then told the board he felt it should take steps to completely solve the problem rather than live with an annual crisis situation.

He reviewed the fact that Pampa Junior High School was closed for the explicit purpose of avoiding a deficit.

School Choirs Plan Festival

All Pampa public school choirs will combine for the annual Choral Spring Festival at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Harvester Field House.

Approximately 800 students in the elementary, junior high and high school choirs will be participating in the event.

The elementary choirs met in the Field House today to practice their numbers. They will join the junior high and high school choirs tomorrow for a final practice session.

All choirs will combine for three mass numbers: "I Believe in Music," "Hymn for Our Time" and "Stand Up and Cheer."

Other numbers will be performed separately by the combined elementary choirs, the junior high choirs and the various high school choirs.

Dr. James Malone, school superintendent, will serve as master of ceremonies for the festival. The public is invited to attend the free concert.

Chamber Sets Tourist Theme

Making Pampa attractive to tourists will be the theme of a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Tourist Development Committee when it convenes at 10 a.m. Thursday in the chamber conference room.

Warren Mayo, committee chairman, said details of content for four billboard signs at highway entrances to the city will be discussed among other things.

The TD committee also will conduct a Tourist Seminar at the Coronado Inn May 31 with sessions at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m.

Purpose of the seminar will be to help owners and managers of Pampa businesses dealing with tourists to better serve and accommodate them.

The seminar will open to proprietors of hotels, motels, restaurants, service stations and other businesses where tourists stop.

Gold Falling Back From High Levels

LONDON (AP) — Gold fell back from record prices in Europe today for the first time since early last week, then steadied for perhaps another climb. But the U.S. dollar began to improve.

Gold opened in Zurich at $104.50 an ounce, down $6 from Tuesday's close.

In London, the metal brought only $107.50 in early trades, down $3 on overnight levels. But in the daily morning fixing, the five leading button dealers agreed on a fixing price of $111, or 50 cents above Tuesday's close.

School Sets Enrollment For Summer Term

Enrollment for summer classes taught at Pampa High School will be from 9 a.m. to noon May 30.

School officials have scheduled summer courses in 19 subjects, with a total of 712 credits available for instruction.

Classes will begin June 1 and conclude July 14. July 2 will be the only holiday for summer term.

Pre-enrollment is required for driver education and a $5 fee must be paid with pre-enrollment, with the balance of $20 due on enrollment day.

All other courses will cost $20 each with the exception of summer homemaking for which there is no charge.

Courses include English, history, economics, government, math at four levels, typing, health, physical education, tennis, general business, summer homemaking, driver education and physical science.

Classes will meet six days a week with periods 7:45 a.m.-8:55 a.m. and 11:05 a.m.-12:55 p.m.

A maximum load of one and one-half units will be allowed for each student.

This price, which the five dealers agree on each morning as the level they think the market will reach, indicated they believe the market still is trending upward, but much more gradually than in the past two days. At Tuesday's fixing, for example, they raised the price nearly $5 an ounce.

The metal reached $100 an ounce for the first time Monday and kept climbing to new records over the next two sessions, helping to weaken the dollar on money markets. By late Tuesday, however, dealers were openly saying the market had overreacted and a turnaround had been generally expected.

In Frankfurt, the dollar opened stronger on the foreign exchange market at 2.7840 West German marks. It had closed there Tuesday at 2.7750. Dollar weakness in Germany late last week helped trigger dollar selling elsewhere, and any sustained dollar recovery there would be likely to help the U.S. currency in other centers.

The dollar also gained in early trading in London, Paris and Zurich.

It was not clear yet whether the drop in the gold price and the improvement in the dollar were brief technical adjustments in market patterns or the beginning of a period of steadier trading. Financial markets usually move in spurts, and it is possible that later this week gold will soar again and the dollar plunge.

City Officials Attend Meeting

Pampa's public works director, R.B. Cooke, and Allan Vickery, sanitation department superintendent, were in El Paso today attending a Spring conference of the American Public Works Association.

The conference, which opened this morning, will run through Friday.

Rogers Visiting In Peru

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers confers with Peru's leftist military leaders today about some of the toughest problems facing the United States in Latin America.

The issues include nationalization of American business interests and restrictions on U.S. tuna fishermen.

Last week, Gen. Juan Velasco Alvarado's government nationalized the ailing fishmeal industry. Once a $400 million-a-year operation, it is undergoing hard times, eased only slightly by a good catch in January.

The U.S. government is ready to accept the expropriation but is concerned about compensation to U.S. interests that are estimated to own about a third of the industry.

Washington also is preparing for the possibility that the Peruvian government eventually may nationalize the lead, zinc, tungsten, tin and silver mines, many of them operated by U.S. firms.

Rogers has very much in mind the seizure in 1968 of the International Petroleum Co., a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey. Peru says it is willing to pay compensation, but not until the company pays more than $690 million the Peruvians claim for oil they contend was extracted illegally from 1924 to 1968. The subject may come up today, although Peruvian officials consider the case closed.

There was certain to be discussion of the claim by Peru and the other countries on the western coast of South America that their territorial waters extend 200 miles into the Pacific.

The Peruvians seized 22 American tuna boats in December and January for being in these waters, and the United States paid $750,000 in fines. There have been no seizures since.

IN OAKLAND

Seale Loses Bid For Major Post

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Black Panther cofounder Bobby Seale lost his bid to become mayor of California's fifth largest city. But he pledges, "We haven't stopped yet."

Businessman John Reading captured his third term as mayor by an almost 2-1 margin Tuesday and lauded the Panthers' movement into the political arena.

"I would hope they will continue to work in the democratic process," Reading said after his victory was assured. "I'm much more pleased with this than with the militant and confrontational type of approach the Panthers were doing four to five years ago."

With all 436 precincts reporting, Reading had 77,476 votes to 43,719 for Seale. There was a 71 per cent turnout of the 174,900 registered voters in this city of 361,500.

In a nine-candidate primary April 17 which saw a 63 per cent turnout, Reading had 43,719 votes to 43,719 for Seale.

Woman Dies From Injuries
PANHANDLE — Debbie Wimberly, 20, died Tuesday in an Amarillo hospital from injuries received in an auto accident Saturday at a city intersection.

Miss Wimberly was the second victim of the collision of two cars at an intersection in the northeast sector of town about 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

She was first taken to Highland General Hospital at Pampa where emergency treatment was administered and critical injuries diagnosed.

She was transferred to Northwest Texas Hospital, Amarillo, where efforts to save her life failed.

turnout. Reading collected 55,434 votes to 21,329 for Seale.

Seale called his campaign aimed primarily at the 34 per cent black and 20 per cent Spanish-surnamed population—a "significant foundation for the people in the future to solve the issues and problems of the community."

Harold Lloyd's Mansion Opening To Public Tour

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Beginning May 25, the public will be able to see a $2 million relic of the elegant era when movie stars lived like movie stars.

The grandest of all the Hollywood mansions — Harold Lloyd's — is now undergoing preview tours and next month will be open to the general public via group visits by bus.

The visitors will see luxury that none of today's film personalities can afford. For instance, a Versailles-like formal garden with doll houses that are completely livable.

A huge living room with built-in pipe organ.

Two 1924 Rolls-Royces and a 1935 Packard.

A hanging staircase of oak, reputedly the only one in Southern California.

Centuries-old rugs and tapestries, including a Flemish wall-hanging that was the gift of Mary Pickford — "because I can't stand that bare wall."

The most popular attraction is likely to be the Lloyd Christmas tree. The comedian spent weeks hanging the huge indoor tree with hundreds of hand-crafted ornaments gathered from around the world.

The shy, bespectacled Lloyd died of cancer two years ago, a month short of his 78th birthday. His will left the house and 18 acres to a nonprofit foundation with the design that the place be opened to the public.

Student Buys 'The Ultimate Comic Book'

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The "ultimate comic book" has changed hands here with an 18-year-old-high school student paying $1,800 for it.

Mitchell Mehdy said he had to sell part of his collection of more than 2,000 comics to pay for his latest acquisition — one of only nine remaining copies of the first "Superman" comic book, issued in 1938.

Mehdy says he bought the vintage comic from Theodore Holstein, 26, also of Sacramento.

"It's an artifact of nostalgic value that beckons the heart," said Mehdy. "Let's put it this way: Action Comic No. 1 is the ultimate comic book."

The book is "priceless," Mehdy said, but he might be willing to sell it — for nothing less than $10,000.

"The only way I'd sell it is to a museum," he said. "I want the world to see it, to see what it's really like."

Cuba is known as the "Pearl of the Antilles" because it is the largest and richest of all the West Indian islands.

Nixon Still Owes Money On Property

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said Tuesday President Nixon still owes $630,000 on his property in San Clemente, Calif.

The statement by presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler came as he again heatedly denied a report indicating campaign funds had been used to purchase the California estate.

Ziegler, while mentioning that the balance due is $630,000, gave no other details — promising that a fuller statement on the President's land transactions would be made in a day or so.

The Santa Ana Register reported that Senate investigators believe Nixon may have used $1 million in unreported campaign funds left over from his 1968 presidential race for the purchase of the San Clemente property.

Chairman Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., of the special Senate committee investigating the Watergate affair said: "I never heard about it before you mentioned it." Staff lawyers said they have no such report.

Ziegler strenuously denied the news account Monday and repeated at a news briefing today that "any reference, any suggestion, any inference" that campaign funds were "used in any way by the President to purchase property anywhere is a total hoax and fabrication."

Radio & TV News

NEW YORK (AP) — All three networks are stopping their daytime fun and games at 9 a.m. CDT Thursday to televise the long-awaited start of public hearings by the Senate Select Committee investigating the Watergate scandal.

It will be the first time since November 1970 that any network has halted its daytime soap operas, game shows and reruns for live coverage of Senate committee proceedings. NBC did it that year during a Senate inquiry into the unsuccessful Son Tay prison raid in North Vietnam.

A major witness in Thursday's Watergate hearings will be James W. McCord Jr., according to an aide to Sen. Sam Ervin Jr., D-N.C., head of the Senate Select Committee.

McCord, 48, is the former security chief for President Nixon's campaign committee, the Committee to Reelect the President. He is among those convicted in last June's break-in at the Watergate offices of the Democratic National Committee.

Eight days of hearings have been scheduled by Ervin's committee, including a Friday session. The other days are May 22 through 24 and June 12 through 14.

It isn't known yet how many of the hearings after Thursday will be carried live by the CBS, NBC and ABC television networks. Spokesmen for their news departments say that will be decided and announced on a day-to-day basis.

The hearings also will be broadcast live from start to finish on the 28-station Eastern Educational Network of public TV stations and taped in full for evening broadcast by the Public Broadcasting Service.

The commercial networks' live coverage of at least Thursday's session continues a tradition — albeit erratic — that began in 1951 with the televising of Senate hearings into organized crime in the U.S.

Three years later, the big Senate show on TV was the Army-McCarthy hearings in which millions of viewers saw the dramatic confrontation between Joseph Welch, a courtly Boston lawyer, and the abrasive, Communist-hunting Sen. Joseph McCarthy.

In 1966, the live TV coverage focused on Senate hearings into the escalating Vietnam war. Among other things, it resulted in one angry, high-level resignation — at one of the networks.

Fred Friendly, CBS News' abruptly quit when his network elected to broadcast reruns of "I Love Lucy" instead of continuing its coverage of the Senate hearings.

Ironically, those were the last Senate hearings televised live by CBS News, according to a network spokesman, until CBS announced plans to cover the Watergate hearings starting Thursday.

Friendly, now a television consultant at the Ford Foundation and a journalism professor at Columbia University, says the Watergate hearings far out-rank in importance any of those previously televised.

For that matter, he says, "I think it's the most important hearing since 1868 and the attempt then to impeach President Andrew Johnson."

"This is not because it (the Watergate hearings) is a 'show,' but because it's the way this country goes about correcting the mistakes of our process. It's certainly more important than Teapot Dome."

"Here you have a whole Executive department on trial," Friendly, 57, declined to assess what effect his angry resignation from CBS seven years ago had on the live broadcast of major news events. However, he was optimistic about CBS coverage of the coming hearings.

Even if the network doesn't cover them live each day, he said, "I'm sure the decision is going to be based on news judgment. And that's all I ever wanted."

Marriage becomes picture of unhappiness

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married two months. My husband is 44, and I am 41. For years he lived alone, ate plain meals, and didn't have a very exciting life.

He loves photography, takes good pictures, and wants to become a professional.

In the short time we've been together I have booked him for an exhibit at a good gallery, I got some of his pictures published, and I've set up a future exhibit at a museum. I'm presently working on getting us a free trip to Europe with a group of professional photographers.

I am his wife, agent, cook, mentor, and lover. So tonight I prepared a really jazzy meal with candles and the works. When we sat down, I asked him: "Are you happy?"

Well, I didn't expect Robert Browning's sonnets. A simple "yes" would have sufficed. You can imagine my shock when the dirty dog says: "Well, I'm not too unhappy."

That really turned me off. I mean, I couldn't get excited over him again for the next 100 years.

Please tell me where I went wrong. Maybe if I did nothing like some wives he'd appreciate me more. What now?

DISGUSTED WITH HIM

DEAR DISGUSTED: A helpmate can do too much to help. He'd probably prefer eating baked beans in the dark with a woman for whom HE put the beans on the table. Give him a chance to see what he can do for himself—and you.

DEAR ABBY: Joe Blow and I were married and had three children. Then Joe Blow and I were divorced. I then married John Doe. Now I learn that John Doe had several wives before he married me—none of whom he bothered to divorce.

Question One: Am I still legally Mrs. Joe Blow? I certainly can't be Mrs. John Doe if he is a bigamist, can I?

Question Two: Is there a central United States bureau or agency where ALL divorces are recorded so a person can find out who is legally divorced?

WHO AM I?

DEAR WHO: Answer One: You are still Mrs. Joe Blow—in name only if John Doe is a bigamist. Answer Two: There is NO central bureau or agency where all divorces are recorded.

DEAR ABBY: Our 22-year-old son, Erik, is marrying Heather, who is 21. Erik asked his father to be his best man, and naturally his father was flattered and delighted.

When Heather heard about it she said she had asked her 21-year-old girl friend to be her maid of honor, and it will look ridiculous for a 47-year-old man to stand up for the groom when a 21-year-old girl is standing up for the bride. Heather has asked Erik to reconsider.

Do you think it will look ridiculous? And how should this sticky problem be handled?

ERIK'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I see nothing ridiculous about it. Heather should be told that the best man and maid of honor do not necessarily have to be the same age.

Haynes-Klemp Vows Are Exchanged In Colorado

The First United Methodist Church of Golden, Colo. was the scene of the Saturday, May 5 wedding at 2 p.m. of Miss Jane Ann Haynes and Eric-Karl Klemp.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Edward Williamson of Blair, Okla., and Russell H. Haynes of Pampa. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marlyn S. Wheeler of Golden.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. John McKenry III. Traditional organ music was played for the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a floor-length gown of pale yellow chiffon with a matching veil. She carried a cascade of white and yellow carnations.

Miss Kathy Rice, Golden, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of avocado organza with yellow trim and carried a colonial bouquet of yellow carnations.

Mary Clare and Christopher Sullivan, Wheat Ridge, served as flower girl and ring bearer. Miss Clare wore a yellow and white daisy-print pinafore over her avocado dress and carried a basket of yellow and white carnations.

Douglas Wheeler of Golden, cousin of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Jack Wheeler, brother of the bridegroom and David Wheeler, cousin of the bridegroom, also of Golden.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor and later, a buffet dinner was served at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Free and Norene Russell, all of Pampa.

Following a trip to Vail, Colo., the couple will be at home at 613 24th St., Golden, where the bridegroom is employed at A&K Trailer Sales.

When Jimmy Maier died in 1942 he was only 32 years old, but had already established himself as one of the three or four best players in the world.

Now, suppose you are Jimmy and sitting East. Your partner leads out the ace, king and queen of diamonds. What do you discard and why?

Jimmy discarded the nine of spades! He wasn't trying to fool declarer. He just felt certain of beating the contract if he could persuade his partner to shift to a spade.

West did just that. South won in dummy and led the 10 of trumps. It held and he continued with the eight which also held. South saw he needed to shorten himself twice. He started out fine by ruffing his last diamond while Jimmy got rid of his last spade.

South entered dummy with a club; discarded his ace of spades on a second high club; ruffed a club to get down to two trumps; and tried to enter dummy with a second spade. Unfortunately for his purposes, Jimmy was now out of spades and able to ruff.

If Jimmy had discarded a low spade West would almost surely have led his fourth high diamond. South might still have gone down but he could have worked out East's distribution and found a play to make his contract.

Miss Ney Scandalized Austin

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

Persons who visit the State Cemetery on the fringes of the Capitol complex in Austin probably will be most struck with the grave of Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston.

It is covered with a full-length sculpture of the general reclining in death.

If it is raining and you don't care to roam the cemetery, you can go to the Elisabet Ney Museum and see the original—the cemetery version is an authorized marble one, commissioned and paid for by the State of Texas.

Who was Elisabet Ney?

Well, it's surprising that the women's liberation movement hasn't put her on a pedestal as a symbol of the emancipated sex.

For in the 1800s and early 1900s, she insisted that she was an individual and not just an appendage to some man.

It is highly probable that if you begin discussing her in some circles in Austin that lips will tighten and she will be referred to still as that "scandalous woman."

Walk into the front entrance of the Capitol and you are struck by a pair of heroic statues by Miss Ney. One is of Sam Houston and the other of Stephen F. Austin.

Look at the toes of both these statues. Small boys, surrendering to an impulse to touch, have worn the toes of both heroes.

Miss Ney was brought to mind by a recent story by Dick Roberts of the Travel and Information Division of the Texas Highway Department. It appeared in the department's official magazine, Texas Highways.

Roberts seems of the same opinion that Miss Ney should receive some recognition from women's liberation.

Miss Ney stormed the gates of the art schools of Germany against all the traditions forbidding women to become sculptors.

She was brilliant and soon was doing portraits of some of the great of Germany.

She married a Dr. Edmund D. Montgomery but do you think she became Mrs. Dr. Edmund D. Montgomery? Not on your life.

She insisted that she still be called Miss Ney.

The couple came to the New World in 1870 and bought a plantation called Liendo near Hempstead. It had been established in 1853.

You can't imagine the scandal in that atmosphere.

She never referred to Dr. Montgomery as her husband. She identified him to her neighbors as "my friend."

Well, that set tongues wagging, you can bet. Living in sin like that!

Few if any took the trouble to discover that in an apparent moment of concession to custom the Montgomerys had recorded their marriage certificate in the Waller County Courthouse.

Dr. Montgomery selected Texas as their home—or perhaps Miss Ney did—because he hoped the Texas climate would cure his tuberculosis.

For nearly 20 years, Miss Ney and her husband—notice how a study of her life turns the reference around from "Dr. Montgomery and his wife"—tried to make a living of farming with only moderate success.

Miss Ney and Montgomery then moved to Austin and she resumed her sculpting.

It is quite surprising that she picked the residence she did, for the angular stone edifice at 304 East 44th St. is rather ugly.

But the house was comfortable inside and well-arranged for her studio work.

She scandalized even sophisticated Austin, although her life style apparently did not prevent her from obtaining many commissions, largely from the state.

She upset the dowagers in many ways. For one thing, she wore trousers instead of a skirt. And she cut her hair short.

Persons who know anything at all about Miss Ney even now are inclined to repeat a disturbing story.

As we recall it, the yarn is that she had a stillborn child and cremated the body in her own fireplace.

This isn't true, says Roberts. Instead, it was a tragedy of a different sort.

Roberts relates that her elder son died and the attending physician, fearing an epidemic, insisted on immediate cremation.

Dr. Montgomery was out of town on business, so the strong-willed woman forced herself to perform the act.

Her younger son eventually became estranged from his mother. Roberts says this was because he was a conformist and could not agree with his mother's way of life.

Miss Ney died in 1907. She did not believe in the high cost of funerals. Her body was taken by wagon and train to the plantation and she was buried beside Dr. Montgomery without ceremony.

The Ney home now is a museum.

Haven't seen anything extensive written recently about Miss Ney other than Roberts' article. The same is true of Gen. Johnston, although any Texas history book must mention him frequently.

Johnston, a professional soldier, was secretary of war when Texas was a republic.

His chief job was to try to subdue the Indians, and today we would not agree with his methods. For he supported President Mirabeau B. Lamar who sought to solve the Indian problem—as it then was called—by driving the red men out of Texas or eradicating them by gunfire.

Johnston died a hero at the Battle of Shiloh and his death is considered a major blow to the cause of the Confederacy.

Today is Wednesday, May 16, the 136th day of 1973. There are 229 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date—

In 1639, New Port, R.I., was founded.

In 1770, Marie Antoinette was married to King Louis XVI of France.

In 1775, the first state constitution in the United States was adopted by Massachusetts.

In 1871, British Columbia became a province of the Dominion of Canada.

In 1927, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that bootleggers must file income tax returns.

In 1962, U.S. Marines began arriving in Thailand to help defend that country against a Communist threat from neighboring Laos.

The years ago: Astronaut L. Gordon Cooper Jr. made a safe splashdown in the Pacific after making 22 orbits of the earth.

Five years ago: Six miners who were believed dead came out alive from a flooded coal mine at Hominy Falls, W. Va., after being trapped nine days.

One year ago: U.S. Treasury Secretary John B. Connally resigned, and President Nixon picked George Shultz to replace him.

Thought for today: Hope should be classed as a virtue with faith and charity — John Lubbock, English astronomer, 1803-1865.

Canoeists Plan Trip On Ocean

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—When Shirley Haycock, now 40, was in high school at Spring Glen, Utah, the coach told her it was impossible to have a girl on the football team.

She ended up playing center.

Now the Coast Guard has told her it would be foolhardy for her to try to cross the Atlantic in a 16-foot canoe.

She and a widower friend from Manti, Utah, Bob Geedy, 38, started out for Portugal Monday in the canoe, which has an outrigger and 90 feet of sail.

A small crowd of well-wishers, nearly outnumbered by newsmen, saw them leave nearby Wrightsville Beach at mid-afternoon.

Mrs. Haycock, now from Price, Utah, and Geedy had postponed their trip from Friday because they needed to obtain more gear for the ocean voyage, which they estimate will last a month. However, they say they have provisions for two months.

The canoe is named "The Senior Citizens Ark" because of Mrs. Haycock's interest in the welfare of older persons. It has a canvas cover that can be zipped over the top against bad weather.

The voyagers took 110 pounds of dehydrated food, 22 gallons of fresh water, a radio that emits a distress signal for an emergency, a sextant and a navigational chart, plus odds and ends such as fishing poles, a camera and some books.

She married a Dr. Edmund D. Montgomery but do you think she became Mrs. Dr. Edmund D. Montgomery? Not on your life.

Former Student Claims Hair Decision Irrelevant

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — "It was absurd at the time and it's irrelevant now," says Bobby Hutchinson, 21, a key figure in the 1970 Tyler Junior College long hair hassle.

"Quite frankly, I thought he was right in the first place," said his mother.

"No comment," said his father.

"As a teacher," said June Thompson, "I personally felt the micro-miniskirts worn by the girls were a much more distracting element."

"Disappointing," admitted school officials.

Such were the reactions this week after the U.S. Supreme Court formally buried the case, a stormy issue in 1970 that brought big headlines and much abuse to the figures and family involved.

The high tribunal refused to review a lower court ruling that in effect prohibited college officials from enforcing hair length and style regulations.

"I expected that," said young Hutchinson, who was in Austin "putting together" a musical group. "The Supreme Court hasn't got the time for something that stupid."

U.S. District Court Judge William Wayne Justice issued a permanent injunction against the junior college's haircut code after Hutchinson and two young companions were not permitted to enroll for the 1970 fall semester.

Justice called the dress code "humiliating and demeaning." An appellate court apparently agreed in upholding the decision. The school sought a review of the case. The high court spurned the request.

Edwin E. Fowler, an administrative assistant, and other junior college officials called the action "disappointing."

"Our students were pretty clean-cut kids until the injunction came along," Fowler said. "Then they began to deteriorate... but now I think it is going back the other way. I think they are getting cleaned up again."

There was no campus response to the Supreme Court action. All but a handful of students took final exams last week and headed home.

Across the street from the attractive campus, Mrs. Thompson explained that she got "fed up" with the conservatism of the college and abandoned teaching two years ago to open a book store.

"Anywhere else in the world but Tyler," she smiled, "I would be considered very conservative."

A non-drinker or smoker, she taught English at the time of the hassle and, in the face of academic and other opposition, she sided with the Hutchinson trio.

"These particular boys were good students who made good grades, and this gave more credibility to their position," she said. "I felt like the students considered this a symbol; that someone was taking away a right they thought they had."

Mrs. Hutchinson, the mother, said she was more concerned about the "short hair pushers, rednecks and beer drinkers" than the long hair cult and added, "I never could understand how my son's hair could be as distracting as those miniskirts."

The elder Hutchinson, in refusing comment, said, "The quicker this matter is forgotten, the better."

Mother, son and teacher said they felt Hutchinson's reticence stemmed from the abuse, mostly in anonymous telephone calls and letters, directed at the family in 1970.

The East Texas town of Tyler, population 60,000, lies about midway between Dallas and Shreveport, La., and calls itself the rose capitol of the world.

Things We Really Do Not Mind Missing

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Things we could all do without:

- Tunnels without a light at the end of them.
- Female chauvinism.
- Arrogance in people under 40.
- Self-pity in people over 40.
- The smugness that all Martini drinkers have after downing the third one.
- The master key to Watergate.
- The task of writing our own epitaphs.
- The task of picking the first female face that should be carved on Mt. Rushmore.
- Having to look for sympathy when you're the last guy in your block to come down with the flu.
- Getting elected historian of your local PTA chapter.
- Listening to a first-year student of the violin trying to tune

- his instrument the morning after you stayed three hours too long at a cocktail party.
- Being the runt of your class in kindergarten.
- Getting kissed by a red-haired girl at a birthday party who did so only because her mother told her that if she didn't nobody would get any ice cream.
- Getting favorably mentioned in the last will and testament of a guy who had nothing on earth left to leave anybody but good will.
- Enemies who praise you behind your back.
- Weeks with seven Mondays in them.
- The memory of lost Aprils that can never come again.
- Bosses who, when they give you a $5 merit raise, manage to leave you with the guilty feel-

- ing that your selfish greed may plunge the firm into bankruptcy.
- Anybody who either likes or dislikes you for the wrong reasons.
- Doors that are opened by someone other than the one your heart hopes will.
- Looking back at an action you'd like to undo but know you never can.
- Looking forward to something you think you need more than breath itself — and knowing you will never have it.
- A house with a yard too small to pitch horseshoes in.
- The sight of a blind beggar with an old dog shuffling down

- an empty street on a rainy day.
- Pretzels without salt.
- An after-dinner speaker with nothing to say and too much time to say it.
- Guys who think they should have a higher seat in heaven because they always drink their coffee black.

People who are more eager to provide you with good advice than a good example.

Spec Richardson, Leo Blame Loss On Umpires

By The Associated Press
Phil Niekro's five-hit pitching wasn't what bothered Houston General Manager Spec Richardson and Manager Leo Durocher.

Not was it Dusty Baker's three-run homer, which provided the batting support for the Atlanta Braves' 4-1 victory over the Astros Tuesday night.

It was the umpiring. "I'm fed up with them," was Richardson's comment about the umpiring. "I'm tired of my ball club being beaten by umpires."

League, the Chicago Cubs beat the New York Mets 4-3, Pittsburgh nipped Montreal 9-8 in 11 innings, St. Louis defeated Philadelphia 8-4, Cincinnati beat Los Angeles 4-1 and San Francisco topped San Diego 4-2.

The play that irked Richardson, Durocher and the Astros came in the ninth inning. With one out and Atlanta ahead 3-1, Baker singled and Mike Lum walked.

Dave Johnson then hit into what looked like a double-play grounder, but second base umpire Bruce Froemming ruled that second baseman Tommy Helms did not touch the bag.

First baseman Lee May, thinking the double play had ended the game, flipped the ball to first base umpire Paul Pryor—and Baker scampered home with the Braves' fourth run.

Durocher then announced he was playing the game under protest, claiming Pryor did not let the Astros make a play on Baker at the plate.

"Pryor had the ball in his hands," Durocher said. "As soon as he saw the man (Baker) running home and the signal (by Froemming), he threw the ball to the ground."

"If May has the ball he throws the man out. But there's no way you can throw a man out if you do not have the ball. And that's why we protested."

Second baseman Glenn Beckert's sparkling fielding play in the ninth inning saved the Cubs' victory.

With Chicago ahead 4-2, the Mets got one run in the ninth and loaded the bases.

Speedy Bud Harrelson slapped a grounder up the middle against a drawn-in Cub infield, but Beckert darted to his left, glove the ball, leaped and threw home, barely nailing sliding Ed Kranepool.

John Milner then grounded out to end the game.

Prize Announced
LONDON (AP)—A British golf promoter is launching a new prize of $20,750 for the 1973 "Grand Master of Golf"—and Jack Nicklaus currently is favored to win it.
The prize will go to the golfer with the best 288-hole aggregate from four tournaments—the U.S. Masters, U.S. Open, British Open and the John Player Classic at Turnberry, Scotland in September.

Montreal Manager Gene Mauch tried a five-man infield—taking out his center fielder and substituting a second shortstop, Tim Foli—but Pittsburgh's Dave Cash responded by lining a one-out, bases-loaded single over third baseman Coco Laboy's head to drive home the winning run in the 11th inning.

Tony Perez clubbed two home runs, giving him five for the season, as the Reds beat the Dodgers, Don Gullett, 4-2, was the winner.

Golf Tips from the Old Masters

THE HANDS CAN MAKE OR BREAK GOLF SHOTS

Much is written today about the role of the legs and body in the golf swing. The master golfers, almost without exception, feel that the key to accurate striking depends on how a golfer uses his hands. Here is what Julius Boros says about hands: "If my hands work correctly, everything else falls into place. While I cannot see my hands at all times in the swing, I can feel what they are doing much more easily than I can feel, say, my left shoulder or hip.

"The ultimate result of any shot in golf is determined when the clubhead is in an area extending from about two feet behind the ball on the downswing until the point at which the ball rebounds off the clubface. It is in this critical area that the hands make or break the shot."

Seeds Beat

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The $150,000 Alan King-Caesars Palace Tennis Classic moved into the second round today with the top two seeds ousted as the victims of upsets in their first matches.

No. 1 ranked Stan Smith lost in straight sets to South African Ray Moore and Rod Laver fell to fellow Australian Dick Crealy in their opening matches Tuesday.

Third-seeded Ken Rosewall and Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., seeded fifth, both posted victories Tuesday to join defending champion John Newcombe, the fourth seed who won Monday, in the second round.

Ryan's First No-Hitter Not His Greatest Thrill?

By The Associated Press
"I was terrible warming up," said Nolan Ryan—but a warm Nolan Ryan is nothing like a hot one.

And the California Angels' flamethrower was once again his usual searing self Tuesday night, hurling the American League's second no-hitter of the baseball season, a dazzling, remarkably easy 12-strikeout performance.

It was the first no-hitter for the 26-year-old right-hander, who has spent the past few seasons coming off, so close to achieving that feat.

Having finally made it, did he think it was his most thrilling moment in baseball?

Obviously, you say.
Wrong, he replies.
"Coming into a World Series game was a greater thrill," Ryan insisted. "That was it!"

That was when he was a member of New York's Miracle Mets in 1969, when he pitched 2-1-3 innings of scoreless, three-strikeout relief to preserve a victory over Baltimore.

In Tuesday night's other American League games, Milwaukee outlasted Cleveland 2-1 in 17 innings, Minnesota mauled Texas 9-5 and the Chicago White Sox edged Oakland 6-5 in 12 innings. The Baltimore Orioles and Detroit at New York Yankees games were rained out.

Ryan likely was not even thinking of a no-hitter—not after what happened to him last Friday in his last start. He lasted a scant one-third of an inning against the White Sox, who drove him from the mound with a five-run, four-hit barrage.

But of such misfortunes stars are made.
"I think that shelling helped me bear down," said Ryan, last year's major league strikeout leader with 329 who raised his major league-leading total to 82 with his dozen against the Royals—the 35th time in his career he's fanned 10 or more in a game.

"Something like that," he said of the White Sox' shellacking, "makes you wake up and bear down."

And bear down he did, fanning the side in the first inning, in three walks. Inning after inning went by. By the seventh, it would seem, the 12,205 Kansas City fans would be in an uproar. After all, they knew what no-hitters were all about. Their own Steve Busby had thrown one at Detroit less than three weeks ago.

But the fans were surprisingly quiet, almost funereal, as Ryan set down batter after batter. Only when the Royals appeared on the verge of breaking the spell did they come alive.

So Ryan toiled in silence—until the eighth inning, when pinch-hitter Gail Hopkins stepped up with two out.

It was Hopkins who, last year in Anaheim, stepped up in the eighth inning and wrecked Ryan's no-hit bid with a single.

He nearly did it again, punching a looping liner over second and into short center field. But shortstop Rudy Meoli dashed out and backhanded the ball. It was, until the last pitch of the game, as close as the Royals would come to getting a hit.

"Being a fastball pitcher," Ryan said, "you have a tendency to overthrow more than control pitchers do. Somebody with a fastball gets away with bad pitches and that's where I've been hurt. It's taken time to realize this."

So now it was the ninth. He disposed of Fred Patek on a pop foul off first base, then fanned Steve Rowley. That left it up to Amos Ott. The Kansas City slugger came within a few feet of shattering the dream.

He slammed a shot out toward the right field fence. Ken Berry took off after it. Berry had taken over for Bob Oliver in the seventh inning as a defensive replacement. Oliver, after all, had done his job on offense, drilling a home run and a single to knock in two of the Angels' runs.

The ball and Berry arrived at the wall almost simultaneously. Berry snared it with his back about a foot from the fence and Ryan had his niche in the record book.

In Milwaukee Dave May jumped on a Brent Strom pitch with one out in the 17th inning and crashed his 10th homer of the season, tying him for the major league lead and boosting the Brewers into first place in the East Division.

Bert Blyleven gave Texas just one hit through the last seven innings and Harmon Killebrew hit his second homer of the season to break a 5-5 tie in the seventh and pave the way to the Twins' triumph.

Pat Kelly's double with two out in the 12th inning lifted the White Sox to a two-game West Division lead. It came after John Jeter had singled and stolen second.

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Celtics just won't look the same next season. Tom "Satch" Sanders is retiring to the collegiate coaching ranks.

The Celtics' senior citizen quit after 13 National Basketball Association campaigns Tuesday to become head basketball coach at Harvard.

"I could see the handwriting on the wall," the 34-year-old Satch said. "I felt that my days as a pro ballplayer were limited. I was interested in playing at least two more years, but the opportunity to coach at an institution like Harvard is something not to be overlooked."

Army's 1973 lightweight football team will be captained by quarterback Gene Richardson of Waxahatchie, Texas.

MONTREAL (AP)—Wilt Chamberlain, the National Basketball Association's all-time leading scorer, will try his hand at volleyball beginning June 3.

Chamberlain, the Los Angeles Lakers' 7-foot-1 center, is part of a pick-up team that will play a Quebec squad in Montreal in a best-of-five series. His teammates include Japanese star Toshi Toyoyuki and former U.S. Olympic volleyball team member Rudy Suwara.

KINGS POINT, N.Y. (AP)—Midshipman Kurt Yost, co-captain of the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy swim team, has been named winner of the 1973 Siedman Trophy for academic and athletic achievement.

Yost, a senior from Sandusky, Ohio, led the team to an 8-3 season and earned All-American honors in four events of the 1973 National Collegiate Athletic Association college division championships.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Johnny Rodgers of Nebraska has been offered a multi-year contract at more than $100,000 annually by Montreal of the Canadian Football League, his agent said Tuesday.

Steve Perram, vice president of World Sports Management, which represents the Heisman Trophy winner, said, however, the negotiating team would entertain a counteroffer from the San Diego Chargers of the National Football League, who picked Rodgers in the first round of the pro draft.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Harry Litwack, one of the most respected coaches in college basketball, who retired last season from Temple University after 21 years, was honored at a dinner Tuesday night.

Litwack, who had a 373-193 won-lost record during his tenure at Temple, led the team to 14 straight winning seasons, including 13 postseason tournament berths and the 1969 National Invitation Tournament.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Washington Redskins have gone into the trading market to bolster a weak spot, swapping five players to the Houston Oilers for strong safety Ken Houston and what coach George Allen called "a medium draft choice."

Going to Houston Tuesday were tight end Mack Alston, defensive end Mike Fauci, wide receiver Clifton McNeil, defensive back Jeff Severson and tackle Jim Snowden.

"When you get a chance to get an all-pro like Ken Houston, who I think is the best strong safety in pro football, you have to give up a lot," Allen said.

Hank Aaron Is Happy He Doesn't Open Mail

HOUSTON (AP) — There's one good thing about going on the road for Atlanta Braves home run slugger, Hank Aaron—he doesn't have to open his mail.

Aaron, who is closing in on Babe Ruth's career home run record of 714, is getting a steady stream of hate mail—60 per cent of it on the adverse side.

"If I was white, all America would be proud of me," Aaron said. "But I am black. There are some sick people in this world. Or else I wouldn't get the mail I do. These are sick people who thrive on trying to make other people miserable."

"I can't do anything about the mail," said Aaron, here with the Braves for a series with the Houston Astros. "I'd say that the ratio is 60-40, that 60 per cent of it is of a racist nature."

"It's very offensive. They call me 'nigger' and every other bad word you can come up with."

The Braves have fulltime secretary in charge of Aaron's mail, which is increasing as he gets closer to the record. And Hank reads it all.

But why read such letters and postcards?

"That's a good question, he said. "I don't know why. Except I always have, from the very start of my career. You get a piece of mail and you have to read it. I want to look at my own mail. I want to read what people are writing... what they think."

Aaron doesn't like the slurs he receives through the mail, but they won't deter him from his quest for Babe's record.

"You can't ignore them," Aaron said. "They are here. But this is just the way things are for black people in America. It's something you battle all of your life.

He obviously wants the record.

"I'd be lying if I said I didn't," he said.

Golf Tips from the Old Masters

YOU CAN'T SWING HARD AND BE CONSISTENT

Sam Snead, who many believe is the most natural swinger in golf, is self-taught. Because he never had a teacher to help him when his swing faltered, he had to experiment a great deal to find out exactly what he could do with his swing.

One thing he learned was that he could not swing his hardest and be consistent.

"If you swing full out on every shot, you'll rarely contact the ball square," Snead says. "I learned to throttle back to about 80 per cent. This is probably the most important lesson for any golfer to learn."

"When I'm really smoking the ball, I never have the sensation of hitting at all. My swing feels just like grease, as if my whole body were oiled. The key to this feeling is keeping your legs from getting tight."

Tennis' Chris Evert Is Not Really The All-American Girl

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — "There's a lot of meanness in Chris Evert. And that's what probably makes her so great. She's a tough cookie. But that's also what separates Chris and Laurie. They're really not that much alike at all."

Fred Weinman, tennis coach, was discussing his pupil, Laurie Fleming. Laurie Fleming has been compared to Chris Evert for about 10 years now. The two live only about a mile apart in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., have been bosom companions as well as intense and sometimes tearful rivals.

Similarities abound, especially in their play. Both use a distinctive two-handed backhand, eschew a net game, employ a reaching open-forehand. Both are meticulous about eye make-up, wear dangly gold earrings, walk with a cute fluffy step and emit girlish giggles.

Their fathers are both tennis instructors. Each girl has a 15-year-old sister and 11-year-old brother who are top-flight tennis players for their age groups.

Laurie Fleming, a delicate-looking 17-year-old with long lustrous black hair which she twirls into a prim bun before playing, left home to play in her first tennis tournament as a professional in the Family Circle Cup at Hilton Head, S. C. Her father told her she was under no pressure to be spectacular, that all she needed to do was concentrate on the job.

At the tournament, Laurie said she was not feeling pressure. Coach Weinman, however, said, "Laurie is feeling unbelievable pressure. She's bringing it on herself. She always has been compared to Chris and she's always followed in Chris's footsteps."

For example, the year after Chris won the national 14-and-under girls' championship, Laurie won it. The year after Chris won the national 16-and-under championship, Laurie won it. Laurie is embarking on her pro career, a year after 18-year-old Chris began hers.

But there are differences. For one, they are not so evenly matched. Laurie does not possess Chris's killer instinct on the court. In countless head-to-head tournament matches, Laurie has never beaten Chris. She got close last year and that put a wrench in a relationship that has been so chummy that, said Laurie, "we always talked about when we'd turn pro and room together and play each other in the finals."

They were playing in the tennis club in Fort Lauderdale. Laurie was ahead 4-3 in games after having split two sets. As they passed each other to switch sides, Laurie said, "It's 4-3 my favor, isn't it, Chris?" This according to Weinman, set Chris off. She snubbed Laurie the rest of the way and beat her, to boot. Weinman remembers Laurie crying in the clubhouse afterward. "I hate that girl, she's so conceited."

When Laurie came home, a note had been delivered to her. It was from Chris. Laurie happily opened it, thinking it was a patch-up note. Laurie read and began to cry. Chris had blurted her.

They soon made up. "They fight and make up like normal high-school girls," Weinman said. "They just happen to be exceptional tennis players. But Chris's not the sweet All-American type that everybody makes her out to be. She'll scratch your eyes out to win. I remember watching her play her little sister. Her sister was bawling her eyes out. Chris had beaten her 6-love and was eating her alive 5-love in the second set. But that attitude makes Chris a champion."

She hurt Laurie another time, according to Weinman. After beating Laurie in a local tournament, Chris told a newspaperman, "I practice more. I play harder. I want to win more than Laurie."

plays later under the lights, too."

Weinman said that Laurie is just not as totally consumed by tennis as Chris is. "Laurie has other interests, such as writing sports on her high school paper, and being selected to the Homecoming court," said Weinman.

Yes, said Laurie, taking a bit different view. "Sometimes school does interfere with my tennis." She does not plan to go to college. She feels that the tour "will be like going away to school."

Kip Gone

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Distance runner Kip Keino of Kenya either has jumped the pro track tour or met with foul play, an official of the International Track Association believes.

The Olympic champion was last seen by ITA officials when he was driven to Los Angeles International Airport with reservations for a flight home to see his family. That was after the April 14 meet at Baltimore. His next scheduled appearance was last Friday night in Toronto.

He didn't show up in Toronto and he wasn't at Philadelphia for the next meet last Saturday. The next ITA meet is Saturday in San Diego.

Is Keino in violation of his ITA contract? Has he quit the ITA?

"Gee, I haven't thought of it in those terms," Jack Butefish, ITA executive vice president, said Tuesday. "I want to be sure first that he's okay. We're worried about what's happened to him."

Smudges On McGovern's Kettle, Too

By BRUCE BISSAT WASHINGTON (NEA) Seasoned Democrats and political observers here aren't buying Sen. George McGovern's claims he was misquoted in a New York Times magazine piece that has him putting a hard rap on Sen. Thomas Eagleton, saying further that McGovern's wife grew to hate the press, and that after he lost to President Nixon they thought of moving to England.

McGovern, in a response printed in the Times the same day the article appeared, charged that its author, Joe McGinniss, actually fabricated quotations. McGinniss stands firm. The author has McGovern saying he never liked Eagleton, his chosen running mate, and felt he got the "run-around" from him, since the Missouri senator never did show him his controversial medical records.

One newsman, in his publication, quoted an anonymous McGovern aide as directly contradicting another aide in an important assertion about the Eagleton affair. He later told me he grew that week to distrust every major McGovern source he could talk to.

One morning, amid these events, two leading U.S. newspapers using hard-digging reporters carried diametrically opposing stories on McGovern's attitudes and intentions toward Eagleton and his future on the ticket. Both had George McGovern as their source.

RAY CROMLEY Sirica Pressure Broke Watergate

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The more hours this reporter spends reading Judge John J. Sirica's opinions the more certain the conclusion that this is a most remarkable man. Perhaps more than any other man this lifelong Republican judge, an Eisenhower appointee, pried the lid off Watergate when, as presiding judge at the original trial, he kept the pressure on until one man broke.

"Talk to one man of liberty," noted Sirica, "and he understands you. Talk to another and his idea of liberty is the freedom of the wolf to pillage the fold." Sirica is a believer in excellence. He holds that men of education, wealth and power hold a greater responsibility for upholding moral standards than other men and therefore must be punished more severely for their transgressions.

He is annoyed, perhaps angered, by intellectual conformity, by men who are content to be average, by mental stagnation. He is a believer in the uncommon man. "Government," says Sirica, "is our business and we get the kind of government we ask for. If we are to have good government, and preserve our freedom, the lawyer (judge) must be in the lead.

Question Box

QUESTION: There seems to be some question about federal "impacted aid" funds to schools with heavy concentrations of children from U.S. military establishments. President Nixon has been holding up these funds, but now has signed the legislation freeing these funds for the rest of the year. What is wrong with the federal government helping out in cases like that?

ANSWER: We believe payments by the national government to school districts where there are large military establishments are not so objectionable as some other forms of handouts to local government. The "impacted aid" funds were established theoretically to replace loss of tax money local districts suffered when lands were taken off the tax rolls for military establishments.

Like all government programs, the politicians, locally and nationally, decided they had a pretty good thing going, so they expanded it. Parents with children in school have been receiving cards from the school district on which they were asked extensive and personal questions about their employment. This was because the program of subsidy had been expanded to include payment for pupils of parents whose employment might be considered connected in some way with the national government, even in so-called defense plants. And school officials are not inclined to overlook an opportunity to grab any additional money possible.

As long as local schools are financed by taxes, we suppose it is only natural to expect the national government to make some sort of payment to the districts in lieu of taxes for the districts which the government has taken off the tax rolls. If none of them were financed by taxes, there would be no problem.

Inside Washington Enigma of Watergate: What Did Buggers Overhear, If Anything? By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Most intriguing mystery of the uproarious Watergate furor is a matter about which remarkably there has been no mention and no headline disclosures. It's the very moot question — what is in the recordings of the wiretapping?

What and who are they about? Why are they so important? What campaign secrets or other significant information do they reveal — if any? Above all, why the all-pervasive silence about them? Why have these bugging transcripts been so completely ignored by the innumerable probes and exposers — media, governmental and what-have-you?

Every other aspect of the tumultuous affair has been endlessly scoured, scoured and muckraked. Sensations have piled on sensations. Even secret grand jury proceedings have been published verbatim. But not one word of the contents of the wiretapping. It's passing strange; perhaps more than that.

The puzzle is whether this curious omission is inadvertent, deliberate — or something else. Whatever the reason, it's the enigma of l'affaire Watergate. The Grapevine There have been some desultory rumors about the nature and contents of the bugging tapes.

Latest gossip is that the transcripts consist of trivia — mostly inconsequential chatter about personnel and office affairs of the Democratic National Committee. One story going the rounds is that a certain beautiful secretary carried on a series of liaisons both in and out of the headquarters, with numerous daily phone calls to her and by her. According to the tale, she was a very busy and popular young lady — socially.

Another of the backstage accounts involves a well-known Democratic politico who seemingly was doing a little cheating on his wife. In none of this gossip is there any word or hint that the bugging uncovered anything of importance. Similarly, no major Democratic figure or campaign strategy is mentioned — which further underscores the mystery of why the wiretapping ever was undertaken.

That's another puzzle that still is unanswered. In The Know? There is one witness in the case who "thinks" she unknowingly typed transcripts of the wiretapped Watergate telephone conversations. She is Mrs. Sally Harmony, former secretary to G. Gordon Liddy, one of those convicted for bugging. At the time of that operation, Liddy was general counsel of the finance committee of the Committee to Reelect the President.

In a deposition made in a civil suit arising from the wiretapping, Mrs. Harmony testified that at the time she did the transcribing she was unaware it was bugging information. The typing was done on special stationery with the word "Gemstone," apparently a code term, printed on it.

WORRY CLINIC By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

The Bible says God slew a man who used a contraceptive device. But it apparently was not because the Almighty opposed birth control itself. Note the religious-legal debate about abortion: Heed my advice to such wives as Marcia. A baby gives you more education than college does.

CASE X 509 Marcia M., aged 25, is a worried wife.

"Dr. Crane," she begged, "I need some advice quickly."

"For we have been married 2 years but have avoided pregnancy because we wanted to buy our home and a new car before we started our family."

"Now, however, I find that I am pregnant."

"Since I am only 2 months along, wouldn't it be wise for me to have an abortion?"

"For what is the difference between use of contraceptives to prevent a baby versus having an abortion after one is pregnant?"

murder.

Technically, is it murder to remove an appendix from its maternal supply of food and oxygen?

Or tonsils or the uterus or a gall bladder?

But young wives like Marcia must be on guard about worshipping idols called automobiles, suburban homes, color TV sets, etc.

Psychologically, it is much better for married couples of good—I.Q. and healthy background, to invest in a few babies than in new cars and new residential sites.

Moreover, if a young wife submits to an abortion, as in Marcia's circumstances, suppose her husband should be killed in an auto wreck before she ever got pregnant again? Suppose she also found it impossible to have another baby, even if her husband remained alive and well?

And such wives secretly worry thereafter, for they usually have a guilty conscience, so they subconsciously will have a constant dread of cancer, often of the womb!

It's far better to have your babies while you are young, even if you must buy a used car and secondhand furniture!

For babies extort your attention to civic and school and church organizations.

They give you more education than 4 years at college!

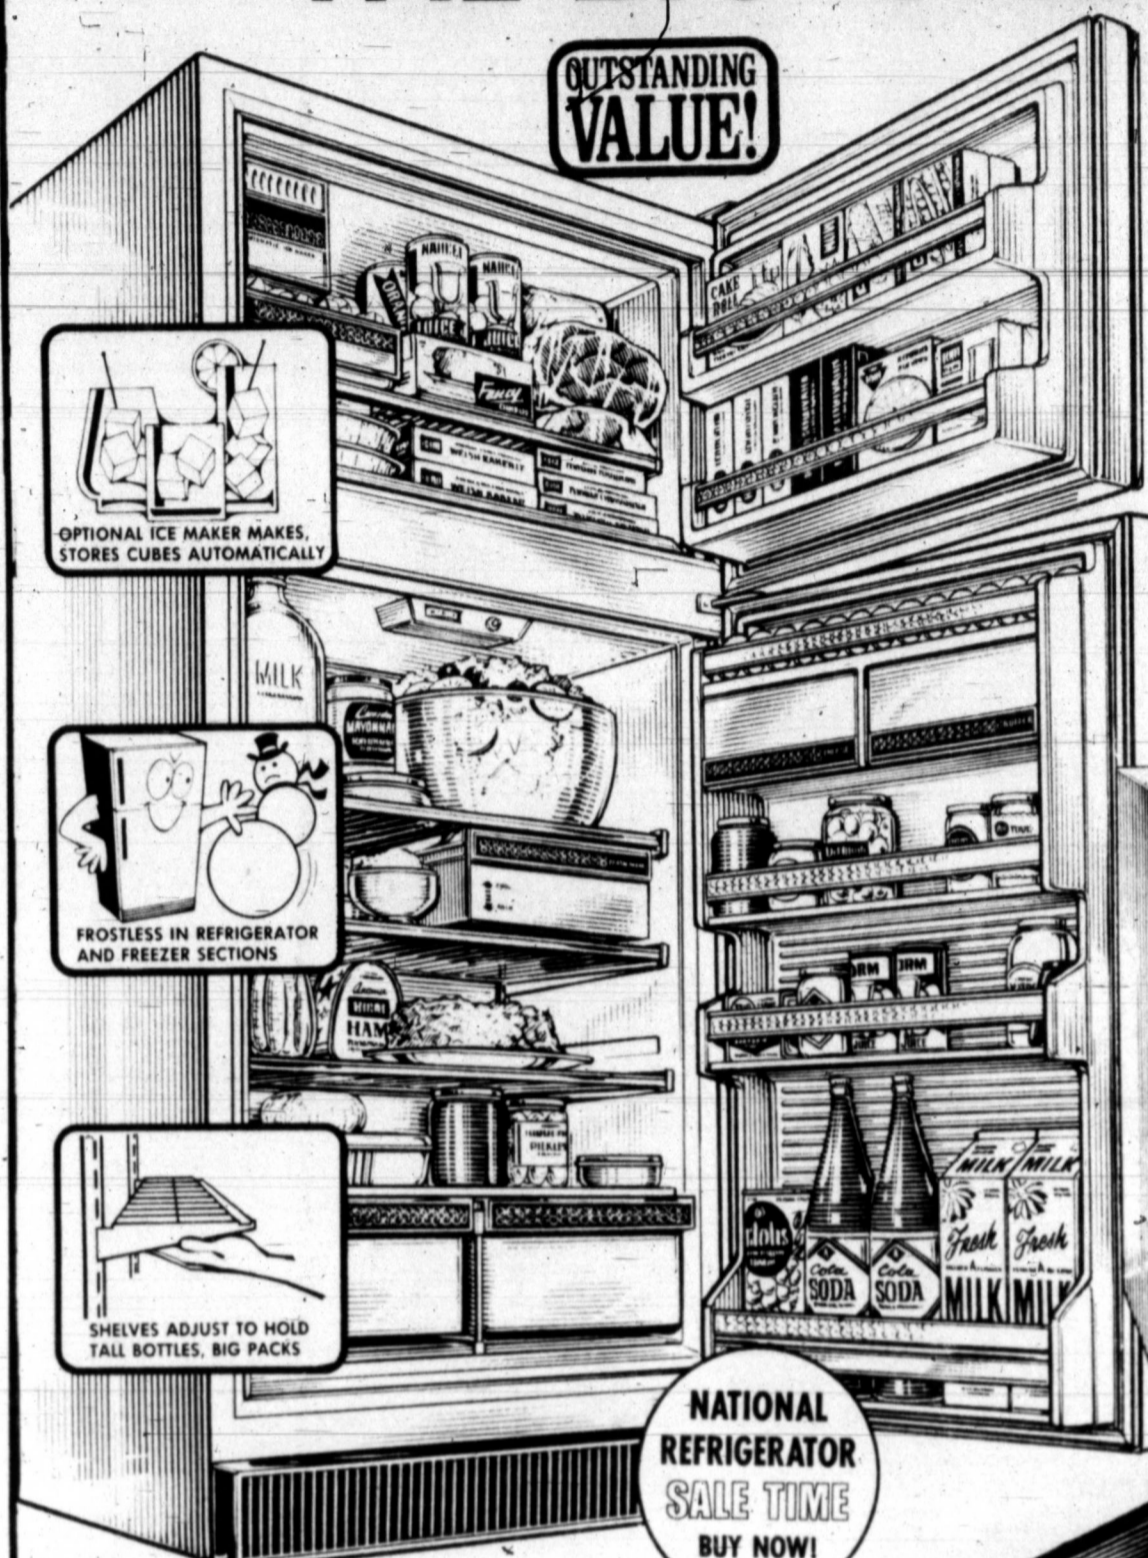

So send for my booklet "Facts About Pregnancy and Foster Children" enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Worry Clinic, Hopkins Bldg., Mellett, Indiana 47951. Enclose a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you need for one of his booklets.)
