Local Red Cross aids Hugo relief program

By BETH MILLER Staff Writer

The American Red Cross is launching one of its largest campaigns in order to raise money to aid victims of Hurricane Hugo.

And the Gray County Chapter of the American Red Cross is already on its way to helping reach that goal. Before the campaign was even announced, the Gray County chapter had received $165, said Katie Fairweather, director of the chapter.

The $42 million goal is the largest nationwide disaster campaign the Red Cross has ever embarked upon, Fairweather said Tuesday afternoon. The money is needed to provide relief efforts for the more than 100,000 families affected by Hurricane Hugo.

Gray County's assigned goal is $3,197, and Fairweather is optimistic that the amount plus more will be easily raised by county residents. The chapter office also includes Roberts, Hemphill, year. Wheeler, Collingsworth, Donley and part of Carson County.

"I know we've had a lot of disasters in the past and they have always turned out to help. The money already received is evidence of the caring attitude," she said.

Carson is the only other county in the chapter office that has been assigned a national goal. That goal is $55, and Fairweather said she is confident that amount will also be easily raised.

Only monetary donations are accepted by the Red Cross. Other groups in the county and area have been collecting items to send to the hurricane victims.

The funds donated will be used to buy clothing, household furnishings and even help repair houses, Fairweather said. "There was a lot of damage, not just in

Bentsen wants to tax oil, gas to build wetlands fund

By JENNIFER DIXON Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen wants to tax oil and gas drilled on the outer continental shelf and use the revenues to protect coastal wetlands, but industry officials say the levy unfairly asks producers to remedy an erosion problem with many causes.

'The loss of wetlands is an on-shore problem and is not confined to coastal areas or areas with oil and gas activity," says Joseph Lastelic, a spokesman for the American Petroleum Institute."

Lastelic blames urban development, natural causes, the Mississippi River levy system, canals and agricultural for the decline of coastal wetlands, but environmentalists say off-shore drilling also has done a share of the damage and favor the concept of the proposed Coastal Wetlands Trust Fund.

Says Lastelic: "Since most of the causes of wetlands losses were unintended consequences of activities that provided public benefits, an equitable solution would be to fund wetlands conservation programs out of general and gas activity is one cause of erosion in coastal wetrevenues. It is unfair to tax a single industry to address lands, which provide habitat for migratory birds, fish a broad land use problem."

Under the plan by Bentsen, D-Texas, and Sen. J. Bennett Johnston, D-La., a tax of 2 cents per 1,000 cubic feet of natural gas and a tax of 3 cents per barrel of oil would be levied on outer continental shelf pro-

Industry estimates say the plan would raise about $100 million annually, while the senators say revenues would be closer to $383 million over five years.

The plan is included in Bentsen's version of what is known as budget reconciliation legislation pending before the Finance Committee, of which Bentsen is Johnston said late Monday that getting the tax included in the reconciliation bill was "the difficult part" of moving the plan through the Senate.

According to a fact sheet from Johnston's office, the problem of wetlands loss in the Gulf Coast is critical, especially in Louisiana. Johnston's office also said oil and wildlife, as well as commercial and recreational

"Navigation, access and pipeline canals and other activities related to the exploration, development and production of oil and gas along the Gulf Coast and on the outer continental shelf have had adverse effects on many of the coastal wetlands of the Guif Coast region," Johnston's office said.

"Oil and gas production in the coastal areas have contributed (to wetlands losses). I wouldn't say it's the No. 1 factor, but they have contributed their part," said Bill Reffalt, refuge program director for the Wilderness

But Mike Baly, executive vice president of the American Gas Association, said the natural gas industry is "probably less than 10 percent of the problem, but some senators are looking at us as 80 percent of the

"This is sort of like a negative oil import fee where it raises the price but doesn't help improve your production," Baly said.

Baly said the natural gas industry would pay the greatest share of the tax — accounting for 91 percent of what the association projects will be $98 million in annual revenues.

"At a time when 50 percent of our oil comes from foreign countries and concern about reducing our deficit from oil imports, it's difficult for us to understand why they're lessening the competitive factor for natural gas by applying a federal tax," Baly said, adding that the levy would be the first federal tax on natural gas.

Scott Feierabend, director of the fisheries and wildlife division at the National Wildlife Federation, said he would support the Bentsen-Johnston approach to funding wetlands conservation through a trust fund, although he had not seen the proposal.

Bentsen said Monday his plan would "be a great thing for the coastal waters, Louisiana, Texas and the

with the Texas A&M System will mean more money and a wider array of programs for West Texas State University, officials say.

The merger was approved Saturday by A&M System regents meeting in College Station. West Texas State's regents approved the plan earlier in the week. If the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board approves the merger, the 5.700-student university 17 miles south of Amarillo will become part of the A&M System next Sept. 1.

"I am convinced that much more educational money will come into this region this way than any other way open to us now," West Texas State regent Burk Whittenburg said. "I see some huge potenacademic programs and especially

Now government takes over films

Since when do Americans, who invented movies and have dominated the art, need the government to tell them which are their favorite flicks? But last month Librarian of Congress James H. Billington named 25 classic American movies to the National Film Registry as "culturally, historically, or esthetically significant." He was acting according to an act passed last year by Congress and suggestions by the National Film Preservation Board.

To argue with the choices would be idle, considering such classics as Gone With the Wind, Casablanca, Citizen Kane and High Noon. Even The Searchers, the deep western drama directed by John Ford and starring John Wayne, both noable reactionaries, made it past the censorious eyes of the board's liberal Hollywood mem-

Yet government has no reason at all to make such judgments. We might as well have a special Ice Cream Preservation Board that tells us which flavors and recipes are best, and spends our tax money insuring that such "classic tastes" are preserved in an icebox in the gastronomy section at the Library of Congress.

Even worse, the films on the list are protected by law from alteration without the film makers' permission. One can do so, for example, by colorization, only by attaching a special warning that tells the viewer - who apparently is considered too stupid to know the difference himself - what changes have been made. Anyone selling such a film or showing it without the notice can be slapped with a $10,000 fine and an injunction.

So if you charge your friends 25 cents to watch an altered version of D.W. Griffith's 1916 classic Intolerance (on which the copyright has run out), without telling them it's colorized, the government can hit you with an intolerant $10,000 fine. Turn on your videorecorder and, as the government agents storm your house, you can film your own version of Intolerance II.

The main impetus for the creation of the board and this list has been colorization. Hollywood stars have gone goofy over it, even though they can watch the original versions anytime; even colorized films shown on TV can be de-colorized simply by switching off the color. However artistically gauche colorization may be, it's no different from purchasing a copy of the Mona Lisa and scrawling a moustache above her smile. Leonardo's original still exists, unedited, in Paris for any one to see.

Even in our day it's astounding to witness such an expansion of government power. More and more the government becomes like the sociopathic Frank Miller gang in High Noon, and the few Americans defending liberty like Gary Cooper, walking alone through the deserted streets to do what's right no matter what.

This led him to comment on the Coast Guard. In the past nine months, he has come to love it. "What unsung heroes!" Skinner grouses that the Coast Guard had not shared in the growth of the armed services. On a spartan budget "they do one heck of a job.'

Is history really coming to an end?

By WILLIAM A. RUSHER

There is no doubt whatever that we are witnessing momentous changes on the world scene - in the Soviet Union, China, Poland, Hungary and elsewhere - and it is perfectly natural that thoughtful observers should try to explain what is happening, in the light of the laws of history and the parallel experiences of different nations and eras. It is also natural that their explanations should differ.

Of course, there are those who believe that history, in Aldous Hux- second, because, even if it's right, we ley's words, is "just one damned thing after another.'

But most of us like to think we can see a pattern in events. Undoubtedly, there is a lot of wishful thinking in the process, and we certainly don't all see the same thing. But what makes the present moment so interesting is that just about everybody agrees that something very big is happening.

than $3.7 million in PTL money for his own benefit and of conspiring to defraud followers of their money to support his lavish living.

If convicted on all counts, Bakker could be sentenced to 120 years and fined more than $5 million.

Potter instructed the jury Tuesday night after closing arguments.

"You can't lie to people to send you money - it's that simple," prosecutor Deborah Smith told the jury.

"You can't tell half-truths. If you do it, if you use the postal service and the public airwaves you will find yourself in federal court answering charges of mail and wire fraud. That's why we're here today, not the way the money was spent because that's just what Mr. Bakker but the way it was earned," Bender

Bakker's attorneys said he was a victim of circumstances and a minister worried about the survival

Washington aiming for wine tourism

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP) - Romantic dinner trains rumble through canyons, famous musicians perform along the Columbia River, and bed-and-breakfast inns seem as ubiquitous as

It's a long way from California's Napa Valley, but Central Washington's wine country is slowly developing into a tourist attraction.

As many as 300,000 people a year visit state ineries where an array of facilities and activities are being developed to accommodate them. "The wineries have drawn an awful lot of draw up to 17,000 people to a town with a population of just 260. The winery's products are the only liquor that can be brought into the shows.

Recently the Washington Central Railroad Co. began operating dinner trains that include winery stops.

The Friday dinner and Sunday brunch train departs Yakima for the college town of Ellensburg, where riders spend a half-hour at the Cascade Crest Estates Winery in the converted railroad depot as the engine is turned around.

On Saturday night the dinner train runs from Kennewick to Prosser, stopping at the Hogue Cellars. The three-hour rides cost $45 per per-

"I think it's good for the wineries and good Still, there's no mistaking the area for Napa for the passengers," says Brig Temple, manager of the dinner trains for the railroad. "Some outof-town passengers get a chance to taste the local flavors. It adds to the trip.'

> Another sign of tourism's impact is Tucker Cellar's decision to build a tasting room in Yakima, in addition to its winery tasting room 40 miles south in Sunnyside. The downtown Yakima facility is designed to draw some of the convention visitors to Central Washington's largest city, Tucker says.

'They don't have time to go through the val-

Washington has more than 70 wineries, with about half clustered in the fruit-growing central region. The rest are scattered in Western Washington, with a handful in the Spokane area.

Studying reports from 33 wineries across the state, from May to September of 1987, a Washington State University survey found that visitors ranged from 12 per month at one remote winery to 5,500 per month at the busiest one.

"The average age of the visitors was 40

Dylan, Rod Stewart and The Judds at its natural amphitheater above the Columbia River. They at $40,000 per year," Folwell says, adding most of the visitors lived in Washington.

Large-scale wine production is only about a decade old in Washington, and Gail Thompson of the state Department of Tourism says promotion of the wineries to out-of-state visitors is still

We haven't been in the business of promoting visitors for years and years, like the California wine country," Ms. Thompson says, noting that one problem was inadequate maps on winery brochures to direct visitors to some of the most remote locations.

But everywhere there seems to be an awak-

Wil Masset, owner of Yakima's Birchfield Manor, recently opened a five-room inn above his gourmet restaurant.

'There were six wineries in the state when we came," Masset says. "Now there are really super deluxe facilities a few miles from here."

Another inn opened recently in Sunnyside. Three have opened in Prosser in the past year, along with a 30-unit motel.

Festivals provide the busiest weekends for the wineries, including the spring barrel tasting when thousands of visitors sampled newly made wines right from the barrel. Tucker says 3,500 people visited his winery over that weekend. But for all the activity, winery owners are aware that Central Washington will never rival the Napa Valley, located near San Francisco, primarily because the population density is just not there, Hogue says. As lively as the tourist business is, the wineries rely on sales to retail stores for volume. Only 13 percent of total production is sold by the tasting rooms - just about two bottles to the cus-

1989 had been a big year for the review of historic and nostalgic events. We've been inundated with coverage of the anniversaries of Woodstock, the first walk on the moon by U.S. astronauts, the 1939 New York World's Fair, and Hitler's invasion of Poland and the beginning of World War II.

The World's Fair introduced millions of Americans to things they had never seen before. Take the category of food, for example. The pavilions from many nations offered exotic dishes never before experienced by other than the most wealthy and well-traveled.

Americans who had grown up on radio, suddenly discovered the magic of television in its early demonstrations at the fair. And, home cooks were treated to a new kitchen aid to give them more time and to make life easier - the first saucepan-style "Presto" home pressure cooker in cast aluminum, with a sealing ring and wooden stick handles.

Pressure cookers got a good workout as housewives used them to can produce from their World War II Victory gardens. Then, like

Osborne fifth person to receive Bourland designed defibrillator

By Elaine Ledbetter

Billie Osborne (Mrs. Emmett) is one person who read the story on science fair winners in last Sunday's Pampa News with more than casual

The article described the research of Dr. Joe Bourland, Pampa native, whose work led to the development of the smallest defibrillator which can be implanted within the human body.

Osborne was only the fifth person to receive one of these defibrillators. The implantation was done at Hermann Hospital in Houston on July 23, 1987. Since that time about Billie Osborne was the fifth thirty have been implanted in After having heart problems for several years, Osborne was faced with the possibility of a heart transplant. Considering the length of time involved in finding a suitable donor and the uncertainty involved, she refused to go this route. Shortly afterward she learned about this new device which had then only recently come available, so she arranged to go to Houston for the implantation.

When asked to explain the operation of the device, Osborne said, recipient of a device developed as a result of the work of Dr. Joe Bourland and his research team.

"After the chest is opened, the electrodes implanted on the heart are connected to a battery-operated pulse generator in the abdomen. When the electrodes sense an abnormal heart rhythm, the pulse generator recharges itself and delivers a jolt to quell the arrhythmia. The jolt feels like a kick in the

She has to go to Houston every four or five weeks to have the battery pack checked to be sure it is in good working order. Since Osborne's pack was among the first marketed, its life span was estimated to be about eighteen months to two years at which time it would have to be replaced. Hers has now been in operation for just over two years and doctors plan to do the replacement surgery in early spring. The newer models have much longer life spans.

In the time she has had hers, Osborne said,"It has given me fifteen jolts, but with my medication I have not been 'kicked' in nine months now.

Osborne said she has often wished she could express her appreciation to someone whose knowledge and expertise had helped make her defibrillator possible for without it she insists she would not be alive today. After reading the article in the paper Sunday, she called Dr. Bourland at his home in Indiana to thank him for his part in giving her this device.

"It is most inspiring to realize that a seed planted here in Pampa several years ago has borne fruit to benefit a local citizen in such a marvelous way!" said Osborne.

Abortion foes are challenged to do more than carry signs

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I've seen some of the most outrageous headlines in the tabloids and magazines that are sold at the checkout stands in supermarkets. They always feature famous people (usually movie stars), and later you find out that most of the stories aren't even true! I'm talk-the head of one famous person on the body of another - showing them

"together" when they have never even like that? I would think some of those famous people would sue those publications for every dime they had.

Or is it true that celebrities don't care what people say about them as long as they spell their names right? APPALLED IN KANSAS

DEAR APPALLED: It's not true that celebrities don't care what people say about them - they do care. But what's the alternative? Filing a lawsuit is not only expensive, it calls attention to the lie and serves to perpetuate it. (And there are those who will say, "Where there's smoke, there must be fire.") Most celebrities wisely choose to ignore the those publications — they don't care whether the gossip is true

And as for the people who buy

DEAR ABBY: I want to comment lies - libelous as they may be.

How can they get away with stuff met each other!

Now I hear that they actually put ing about flat-out, bald-faced lies.

DEAR ABBY: This is a message to those men and women who try to prevent women from entering abortion clinics and carry big signs that say, "They Kill Babies Here!"

Have you signed up to adopt a child? If not, why not? Is it because you don't want one, can't afford one, or don't have the time, patience or desire to raise a child?

What if a woman who was about to enter a family planning clinic saw your sign, then decided not to have an abortion but chose instead to give her baby to you? Would you accept it? What if the mother belonged to a minority group - or was addicted to drugs, or tested positive for AIDS?

Why are you spending your time carrying a sign? Why aren't you volunteering to baby-sit a child born to a single mother so she can work? Why haven't you opened your door to a pregnant teen-ager whose parents have kicked her out when she took your advice and decided not to have an abortion?

As for the taxpayers who resent paying for abortions, who do you think pays for foster care, welfare, social workers and juvenile delinquency? The taxpayers

Let's talk about something money can't buy: love. Have you ever visited a home for abused and unwanted children? Have you ever been to juvenile hall and seen the children who have committed crimes because they were born to mothers who didn't want them?

I'm not thrilled about abortion, but I don't think anyone has the right to tell others not to have one unless he or she has done the things I have mentioned above.

So, to those carrying those signs and trying to prevent women from entering family planning clinics, heed my message: If you must be against abortion, don't be a hypocrite - make your time and energy

DEAR ABBY: A reader wanted to know whether to include her deceased children when a stranger asked, "How many children do you

She said if she didn't mention them, it would be as though she felt their lives had no meaning - and they never existed.

Many years ago, I met a woman who handled the question this way: "I have four, but I only got to keep two." (Two had died in infancy.) I thought that was a very nice way to handle it. MRS. H.L., WHITING, N.J.

DEAR MRS. H.L.: So do I. But was stumped when a St. Paul reader asked, "How should I respond when I'm asked how many children I have? I had a baby out of wedlock when I was 16. I can never forget my firstborn, whom I gave up for adoption to be raised by another. Should I not count her as one of my children?" Readers?

Area teams take well-earned rest

Wheeler, Miami and Groom football players can kick off their cleats and relax Friday night. Those three area schools have an open date before the line starts forming for district races.

"We needed an open date," said Groom coach Jimmy Branch, whose Tigers have fallen to 1-3. "It's just two weeks before district starts and we get Higgins right out of the box.'

Groom suffered a blow when junior back Robert Miller was injured in last week's game against Lazbuddie and will be out from three to six weeks.

Miller, who sustained a broken bone in his foot, was a valuable cog in Groom's offense. He had scored six touchdowns and passed for another in three games.

"Robert had a good first quarter and then he got hurt. He's a big loss," Branch said.

Groom hosts Higgins Oct. 13 in a District 2A six-man

Wheeler also begins league play on Oct. 13, traveling to Gruver for a District 1-1A clash.

The Mustangs are trying to shake off the aftereffects of a 20-17 loss to Quanah last week. Wheeler was leading with 11 seconds to go when Quanah scored on a long-distance aerial to win the game.

"It was one of those last-ditch efforts which paid off for them," said Wheeler coach Ronnie Karcher. "We had it won, but we let it get away. We're hoping we can learn from our mistakes." Miami, which also suffered a close loss (30-24 to Valley) last week, has Friday night off because of a schedule mixup. Miami was supposed to play Alamo Catholic, but the game conflicted with AC's district opener. The Warriors have had a string of injuries, reducing the squad to 14 players, so coach Bob Loy is hoping to use the off-week to let some wounds heal. "We're hurting, but I found some ballplayers last week. We may have lost the game, but we accomplished what we set out to do," Loy said.

One of things Loy accomplished was finding a quarterback to fill in for injured Cody Mixon and Don Howard. Senior Kyle Fields was converted from tight end to the signal-calling spot and Loy believes he's found the perfect replacement.

"He did a whale of a job for us against Valley. He had a lot of poise out there," Loy said. "It was like he had been playing quarterback the whole year

At its recent fund-raising banquet, the Top O' Texas Chapter of Ducks Unlimited raised $11,111, no small potatoes in any period, but exceptionally generous during these lean economic times.

"That's a decent figure, especially when you consider that during the oil boom years we were raising $12 or $13,000 at our banquets," said Pampa attorney Ken Fields, one of the founders of the TOT Chapter.

Funds are raised through an auction where items, ranging from a Wood Duck Nest Box to a Federal Duck Stamp Collection, are sold to the highest bidder.

The thirdtime 20-game winner, 21-9 this year, put to rest any questions about his sore right shoulder. Kelton, Pampa win matches

KELTON - Kelton locked onto sole possession of first place in the District 9-1A volleyball standings with a 15-6, 15-13 win over Lefors Tuesday night.

Both teams were tied for first with 2-0 records going into last night's match, which ended the first half of district play. Kelton started off slow in both steam and wore down visiting Lefors. "We've played much better than we did last night," said Kelton coach Brad Slatton. "We just weren't moving our feet out there. Lefors also threw us off with their style of play. We're used to playing teams with big hitters and Lefors was throwing dinks at us all night long.'

Lefors led 2-0 briefly in the first games, but the Lady Lions picked up game, but Kelton, led by Susan Davidson and Julie Davidson, reeled off eight straight points to win going away. Susan scored twice on dinks and Julie had two service points during that eightpoint run.

The second game was nip and tuck until the late stages when Lefors, sparked by two straight service points by Kellie Lake, pulled away to a 13-9 lead. But the Davidson girls rallied Kelton again. With the score tied at 13-all, Susan gave Kelton the lead with her serve and Julie's kill put Lefors away.

"Mental mistakes hurt us and we didn't play with much consistency, but we are showing improvement," said 3.

Kelton, 9-8 overall, plays at Briscoe next Thursday night with the district match starting at 6:30 p.m. "I'm real proud of the way the girls came back last night. They hate to lose because Kelton has such a winning tradition in volleyball. I'm just glad to be a part of it," Slatton said.

In other district action last night, Briscoe notched a 15-1, 15-9 victory over Mobeetie.

Briscoe is now 1-2 in district play and 2-6 overall. Mobeetie slipped to 0-

Astros lose it in September

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON — For the third straight year, a September collapse kept the Houston Astros from making a serious run at the National League pennant.

The Astros haven't finished hot since winning the divisional flag by 10 games in 1986. They have contended the past three seasons until August and September.

Routinely picked to finish near the bottom of the National League Western Division, they spent much of the season in second place and for one proud day, were alone

The Astros were one-half game off the pace as late as Aug. 22.

Then, almost as predictable as the changing of the seasons, the Astros started their September swoon.

They finished in third place, six games behind champion San Francisco, closer to General Manager Bill Wood's

"We didn't believe that," Wood said. "That's just the nature of analysis. If you don't finish on top with a real hot streak, they write you off."

The Astros started the season by losing future Hall of Famer Nolan Ryan to the Texas Rangers in a contract dispute and finished up by losing Hall of Famer Yogi Berra, who retired as an on-field coach.

Between the two events the Astros both thrilled and dismayed their fans.

— Houston won 16 of 17 games from May 26 to June 11, including a 22-inning game from the Dodgers, 5-4, that was the ninth longest in major league history. First baseman Glenn Davis slept on the floor of the training room because the Astros had to return for an afternoon game. They won that one too.

- Mike Scott, looking like the pitcher who won the Cy Young Award in 1986, became the first Astros 20-game winner since Joe Niekro - Ken Caminiti had a solid season at third base and versatile Craig Biggio became the catcher, solving two areas that seemed troublesome at the beginning of the

But there were some disappointments as well. - Second baseman Bill Doran, the hardest worker on the team, couldn't shake of the worst slump of his career that extended over the second half of the season. After feeling slighted at being left off the National League All-Star team, Doran got only 26 hits and finished at .219.

Carrie Watson sets up a teammate in District 9-1A volleyball action Tuesday at Kelton.

Kelton won the match, 15-6, 15-13 to take the first-half lead.

LUBBOCK - Pampa overcame mental lapses in the second game to defeat Lubbock Estacado 15-5, 11-15, 15-3 Tuesday night in a District 1-4A volleyball contest. The Lady Harvesters hold down third place in the district race with a 4-3 record. Estacado remains in last place at 1-6, 2-17 overall. Pampa combined the service points of Kandi Winton and Rochelle Pritchard with the spikes of Leslie Bailey and Kristen Becker to batter Estaca-

Pampa coach Mike Lopez. Estacado caught the Lady Harvesters standing around the second game, Lopez said, "We had a mental letdown, mainly because we beat them so easy the first game," Lopez said. "We came back the the third game and were able to dominate them.

Pampa had a strong service attack in the third game, led by Kidwell, Pritchard and Bridgett Mathis.

The Lady Harvesters, 8-12 overall, host Levelland at 2 p.m. Saturday for another district matchup.

SWC Previews TEXAS A&M (3-1, 1-0 SWC) at TEXAS TECH (3-1, 0-1 SWC), 12 Noon (CDT), Raycom Sports Telecast — One of the SWC' most colorful and hard-to-call rivalries is renewed for 48th time since 1927. A&M leads the series in all games 26-20-1, but the Red Raiders have a 15-13-1 edge in SWC activity. A&M prevailed 50-15 at College Station last year. Texas A&M head coach R.C. Slocum is 3-1 in his first season with A&M and initial year as a college chieftan. Tech head coach Spike Dykes has a 14-12-1 (four years) overall mark, 7-7 record in SWC play, and 1-1 mark against the Aggies. A&M relies more on airpower this season from QB Lance Pavlas (51-of-84 pass ing for 634 yards, 60.7 percent and a 127.2 fficiency rating). His chief targets are TE Mike Jones (12 catches for 207 yards) and WR Percy Waddle (12 grabs for 179 yards). Tech, a control-passing team in 1988, uses a variety of running options to enhance the talents of IBs James Gray (65 carries, 416 yards, 4 TDs) and Anthony Lynn (78 carries, 354 yards, 4

TDs), the 1-3 rushers in the conference. BAYLOR (2-2, 1-0 SWC) at HOUSTON (3-0, 0-0 SWC), 4:00 p.m. (CDT) — Rebounding Baylor and quick-striking Houston meet in a rematch of a 1988 contest the Cougars won 27-24 in final seconds. Baylor, winner of its last two games, seeks to protect its share of the SWC lead. The series is tied 10-10-1. Between college and pro head coaching assignments Baylor coach Grant Teaff and Houston coach Jack Pardee have amassed almost 250 wins (243) in their 38 seasons Teaff is 146-134-7 (27th year) overall, 104-88 5 (18th year) at Baylor, 66-62-3 in SWC games, and 5-7-1 against the Cougars. Pardee is 16-9-1 (third year) as a college coach after going 81-65 in nine years as a pro-fessional leagues' mentor. Baylor has proven to be tough against the pass as avidenced by its average yield of 65.1 yards per game (tops nationally). LB James Francis averages better than 11 tackles per game for BU while DBs Robert Blackmon and Mike Welch help the cause. For the Cougars QB Andre Ware coninues to roll up impressive numbers (100 of 161 for 1,300 yards, 14 TDs in just three games). UH is battling to overcome season-ending injuries to All-America candidate LB Lamar Lathon and WR Verlond Brown (21 catches in two games). Houston still leads the SWC in total defense with an average yield of 213 yards per game behind current LB star Ed

RICE (1-2-1, 1-0 SWC) at TEXAS (1-2, 1-0, SWC), 7:00 p.m. (CDT) — The Owls and Longhorns, both undefeated in SWC encounters, tangle at Austin's Memorial Stadium. The Owls are playing with more confidence after knotting Wake Forest 17-17 on the road last week while the Longhorns lost a 16-12 heartbreaker to Penn State on a blocked punt in the fourth quarter. Texas leads the all-time ser 54-20-1. Rice mentor Fred Goldsmith is 3-9-1 (second season) overall, 1-2-1 with the Owls and unbeaten in one SWC games. Texas chief David McWilliams stands 19-18 (fourth year) overall, 12-14 (third season) at Texas, 3-0 against Rice, and 13-10 in SWC games at Texas Tech and UT. QB Donald Hollas, accounting for 301 yards of total offense against Wake Forest despite being injured one week earlier, is the Owls' engineer on offense with 886 yards of total offense, essentially in three-plus games. Soph RB Eric Henley (fifth lly in receiving) has 29 catches for 359 yards and 2 TDs for the Owls. Texas RB Chris carries for 211 yards and five yards per try while DTs Ken Hackemack and Rocky Allen

1-1 SWC), 7:30 p.m. (CDT) — Red-hot Arkansas, winner of 13 of its last 15 games, begins defense of its 1988 SWC title against the up-and-coming Horned Frogs at Amon Carter Stadium. The Razorbacks utilized three quarterbacks in last week's 39-7 win over Texas-El Paso while TCU has three different RBs with 100-yard-plus rushing games.

Arkansas holds an all-time lead of 41-22-2 over the Frogs. Coach Ken Hatfield's crew won 53-10 in Fayetteville last year. Hatfield is 75-46-2 (11th year) overall, 48-15-1 (sixth year, third-most wins in Arkansas football his tory) with the Razorbacks, 29-9 in SWC games, and 4-1 against TCU. TCU head coach Jim Wacker is 130-76-3 (19th year 15th-highest win total among active NCAA Division I-A coaches) overall, 26-43-2 (seventh season) at TCU, 13-34-1 in SWC games, and 1-5 against the Hogs. The Razor-backs have the nation's fifth-best rushing offense (334 yards per game) and are sev enth nationally in total offense. Five of the SWC's Top 20 rus hers, led by senior James Rouse (32 carries, 155 yards), dot the UA backfield. TCU, beset by some nagging injuries, has had several rise to the occasion showings. QB Ron Jiles, after attempting just 12 passes last year, is 62-of-120 for 749 ds and three TDs while ranking second in yards and three TDs while ranking second in SWC total offense (233.5 yards per game) Razorbacks hope to offset him with LB Mick Thomas (25 tackles in three games)
