Mission specialist Shannon Lucid stuffs pilot Michael McCulley into a spacesuit on the mid-deck of the Space Shuttle Atlantis Sunday in this television picture. The two were doing the suit act for IMAX filming. The shuttle successfully completed its mission early today in the Mojave Desert.

Shuttle lands successfully in Mojave Desert today

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Atlantis' astronauts swooped out of orbit to a safe, early landing in the Mojave Desert today after a five-day mission that sent the Galileo spacecraft streaking across the solar system toward Jupiter.

Commander Donald Williams guided the 97-ton winged spaceship to a stop on a hard clay lakebed runway at 9:33 a.m. PDT, concluding a flight that covered 1.7 million miles.

He landed into a light headwind of about 8 mph.

"Congratulations on an outstanding mission," Frank Culbertson, the spacecraft communicator at Mission Control in Houston, told the shuttle crew. "You've extended the shuttle's reach to the outer planets."

"It's nice to be home," Williams replied.

The five astronauts started their descent from orbit an hour before touchdown when Williams fired Atlantis' braking rockets 180 miles above the Indian Ocean. That slowed the ship's 17,400 mph speed by 219 mph and started it on a fiery, hourlong dive through the atmosphere.

Two sonic booms crackled over the California desert as Atlantis glided powerless through the clear sky, making wide circles to reduce speed as it descended.

About an hour before landing, commander Don Williams and pilot Mike McCulley were scheduled to fire twin braking rockets to drop the shuttle out of orbit and begin its dive through the atmosphere.

"Re-entry heating is rather spectacular if you see it in the darkness. ... It looks like you're inside a fire looking out," Williams said Sunday during a television interview from space. He described the fireball created by the friction created when the shuttle plunges through the atmosphere.

The main goal of the five-day mission was to deploy the nuclear-powered Galileo, and that was accomplished about 61 1/2 hours after blastoff Wednesday from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

The $1.5 billion probe continued to operate flawlessly as it raced across the solar system on a 2.4-billion-mile roundabout journey to Jupiter. Traveling at nearly 9,000 mph, the probe had logged more than 900,000 miles as of late Sunday.

"We all certainly breathed a sigh of relief when it went according to plan and we kept hearing all the good news from the ground that the spacecraft had done all the things that it had to do to get on its way," astronaut Franklin Chang-Diaz said Sunday during an interview with Cable News Network.

Also aboard Atlantis were Shannon Lucid and Ellen Baker.

If all goes according to plan, Galileo will take six years to reach Jupiter, where it's expected to give the best look yet at another planet and provide clues to the origin of the universe.

Before it gets there, Galileo will swoop past Venus once and Earth twice to gain momentum from the planets' gravity for the long voyage.

The astronauts also conducted several scientific experiments, including one that measured the Earth's protective ozone layer.

Bands take top ratings

The Pampa High School and Middle School bands marched and played in the top of their fields Saturday at University Interscholastic League Marching and Twirling Contest in Borger.

Both the high school and middle school bands received ratings of I. The high school band will advance to regional marching competition on Nov. 4 in Wichita Falls. They will compete with six other bands, including Hereford, Cleburne and Crowley, for the two who qualify for state competition. The other two competing in the Class 4A competition have not been chosen.

Others qualifying in Borger Saturday to march in their regional competitions are Sunray, White Deer, West Texas, Canadian, Canyon, Tulia, Hereford, Tascosa and Amarillo.

Charles Johnson, director of the high school band, said today he was equally proud of the middle school and high school bands.

"The (high school) band had a really great show and the students have every reason to be pleased with themselves," Johnson said. But Johnson said the high school band has its work cut out for the regional competition. With only two of six bands going to state, the competition will be stiff, especially since three of those six, including Pampa, have been to state before, he said.

"We have our work cut out for us. We are really going to have to work hard. It is real tough competition," Johnson said. "We are going to have to make every minute count in practice, getting it as perfect as we can."

The high school band will put on basically the same show in Wichita Falls as was done at Borger on Saturday, with a few minor changes, Johnson said. The Pampa crowd is in for a treat at this Friday's football game because it will see the marching routine in its entirety for the first time.

"We're all really excited (about Saturday's rating)," Johnson said. "We watched the film of the show this morning."

"The middle school did a great job that morning. They were very, very impressive. I've had several comments from other directions in the region about the middle school's performance," Johnson said.

Bruce Collins, band director for the Patriot Band at PMS, said this morning he was proud of the students and equally happy for the support of the parents received in Borger. The middle school band competed in the Class A competition.

"We were really proud of our students in the way they performed," Collins said. "They were the only middle school band in our area participating. They received a I from all three judges."

Collins said the judges were complimentary of the band's marching and playing ability, especially the playing of the 94-member band. The PMS band is one of only six marching bands in the state of Texas, he said.

"We appreciate the support of the parents who went to Borger. There were more than 200 parents in attendance from the middle school alone," Collins said.

Johnson also said the public support for the bands was overwhelming. "There was tremendous support. A caravan went over with the high school. I'd say there were at least 300 people there for the high school band's performance."

Search for survivors halted in unstable freeway ruins

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A flotilla of ferries and extra subways were mobilized to ease commuter gridlock today, and rescuers indefinitely halted the search for survivors at an earthquake-flattened freeway when the rubble became too unstable.

Earlier, 150 residents of a housing project just 10 feet from collapsed Interstate 880 in Oakland joined thousands of homeless because of fears that more of the highway could fall.

And Buck Helm, the beefy dockworker plucked from under the debris Saturday, showed slight improvement Sunday but was fighting for his life.

Damage estimates from Tuesday's earthquake topped $7 billion, eclipsing Hurricane Hugo as the costliest natural disaster in U.S. history, according to the Independent Insurance Agents of America.

The death toll was 59, including 38 pulled from I-880. Dozens remained missing and thousands were injured and homeless.

"We know there are more victims, more cars. But we don't know how many," said California Highway Patrol Capt. Mike Garver, speaking about I-880.

The unstable ruins forced authorities to halt rescue work late Sunday.

There was no estimate of when work could resume. "It's kind of minute by minute," said California Department of Transportation spokesman Kyle Nelson said.

The first phase of the Bay Bridge repair started when workers sawed a 50-foot collapsed section in half and lowered it by crane Sunday to a barge on wind-whipped San Francisco Bay. It was to be towed to a dock for inspection and repair.

Without the Bay Bridge, the main link between San Francisco and Oakland, 65,000 rush-hour motorists were forced to seek other ways to work. Daily, 260,000 cars use the bridge, the most crucial of the region's earthquake-disrupted roadways. Repairs will take at least four weeks.

"You just can't squeeze all the traffic onto other bridges. There just isn't enough room," said Joel Markowitz, a traffic planner with the Metropolitan Transportation Commission. "We're going to have a crisis until people adapt a little."

Traffic planners took extraordinary precautions to avoid rush-hour paralysis on the first full workday since the earthquake.

Commuters were urged to take public transportation, buddy up in carpools and come in earlier or later than normal. Fourteen ferries were added to ease the bridge crisis, and extra police and tow trucks were placed in choke zones in case something goes wrong.

About 3 million people commute on a typical workday in the nine-county region. Authorities warned that 2 million of them could be disrupted in a nightmarish obstacle course.

MTC Chairman Rod Diridon said any motorist driving alone would be "doing an anti-social act."

Extra subway trains and ferries can accommodate an extra 45,000 riders. Other bridges must handle the rest of the traffic that normally crosses the eight-mile-long Bay Bridge.

Christian army commander rejects Mid-east peace plans

By DONNA ABU-NASR
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Christian leader Gen. Michel Aoun put his forces on alert today after rejecting a peace plan approved by Lebanon's Parliament because it lacks a specific timetable for a Syrian troop withdrawal.

The accord, approved Sunday by a special parliamentary session held in Saudi Arabia, suffered another jolt when the two main militias of Lebanon's 1.2 million-strong Shiite Moslem sect also rejected the Arab-brokered plan.

Aoun told a late-night news conference Sunday that he accepts more power-sharing with Moslems, for which the accord provides. But "what the deputies approved in Taif is a crime I will not accept," he said.

"I have demanded a Syrian withdrawal from Lebanon but they came up with a peace plan full of ambiguities about this issue which constitutes Lebanon's sovereignty," Aoun added.

The 54-year-old Maronite Catholic has repeatedly demanded withdrawal of the 40,000 Syrian troops from Lebanon and in March sparked the latest outbreak in the country's 14-year-old civil war by blockading illegal militia-run ports.

Moslem militias allied with the Syrians responded by shelling the Christian enclave. More than 900 people were killed and at least 2,000 wounded in savage shelling duels until an Arab League-sponsored ceasefire took hold Sept. 22.

Throughout the shelling, Aoun portrayed his military campaign as a crusade to rid Lebanon of Syrian troops, who arrived in 1976 under an Arab League peacekeeping mandate but later sided with the Moslems.

Aoun said a referendum should be held on the accord and offered to step down if they support it.

The civil war has prevented parliamentary elections, which were last held in 1972, and it was unclear how a referendum could be held.

Aoun's response, compounded by the Shiite rejection, put the future of the plan in doubt and raised fears that shelling battles would resume.

A senior official at Aoun's command center, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said today that all leave was canceled for Aoun's 20,000 mainly Christian troops and they were ordered to stay in their barracks.

Lebanon's lawmakers have been meeting in Taif since Sept. 30 under Arab League auspices and removed from the strife of their homeland.

On Sunday, 59 of the 62 deputies present voted for the draft plan but made their action contingent on approval by Aoun and his rival, acting Prime Minister Salim Hoss. Two deputies abstained, one voted 'no' and another was absent because of illness.

Hoss, who heads a Cabinet vying for power with Aoun's Christian government, welcomed the Taif accord in a statement issued today and called for its adoption without any reservations.

The pro-Syrian mainstream Shiite Amal militia and the pro-Iranian fundamentalist Hezbollah, or Party of God, rejected the accord because they want a bigger representation corresponding to their status as Lebanon's largest single sect.

Under the peace plan, the number of seats in Parliament would be raised from the current 99 to 108, equally divided between Moslems and Christians. In the Taif talks, Moslems had called for raising the number to 128, but that was later lowered in a compromise.

Amal leaders are demanding that the number be raised even higher than 128 to give "a wider representation to all militias and institutions."

Christian commander Gen. Michel Aoun rejected an Arab-brokered peace plan today to end Lebanon's civil war that the Lebanese parliament approved in a special session in Saudi Arabia. His veto threatens to kindle new fighting in Beirut.

DPS
SUNDAY, Oct. 22

Timothy Leon Boyd, 27, of White Deer, was arrested on U.S. 60, west of Pampa, on charges of driving while intoxicated (second offense), speeding (68 mph in a 55 mph zone) and no proof of liability insurance.

Quake

Other freeways also are devastated. A 11/4-mile section of I-880 is flattened and the Embarcadero Freeway and the I-280 extension are closed. Farther south, landslide-clogged Highway 17 is open only to buses and emergency vehicles.

The hospital where Helm was taken was deluged with flowers, telegrams and phone calls for a survivor who had been given up for dead.

Helm, 57, regained some functions in his kidneys, which were damaged by dehydration during his 89-hour ordeal. He was also breathing better, but he was still having trouble moving his leg and was being fed by a tube in intensive care, said officials at Oakland's Highland General Hospital.

"He is not out of the woods yet," said Dr. Will Fry. But he added: "He's proven that he has a strong will to live."

Highway engineer Steven Whipple, the hero who found Helm, said he was checking the ruins for stability when he spotted the back of Helm's head and a slight movement in his flashlight's beam.

"It stopped my heart," said Whipple, 29, who works for the state transportation department.

In six subsequent sweeps of the section, sniffing dogs and sensitive listening devices failed to detect any more survivors.

Rescuers were clearly buoyed at finding someone alive after four grisly days of removing bodies and crushed cars from the crumpled concrete. They placed giant airbags, hydraulic jacks and wooden timbers under concrete slabs and trucked in dirt to firm the foundation. They also installed seismic monitors on the structure.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers on Sunday reported major cracks in three dams within five miles of the epicenter in the Santa Cruz Mountains, but said they posed "no public threat at this time" because water is low behind them.

A half-dozen tent cities have sprouted in Watsonville, a city of 30,000 about 80 miles south of San Francisco. Many residents were so frightened by the quake and its aftershocks that they refuse to go indoors, even if their homes have been declared safe.

The Red Cross even opened a full-blown shelter of olive-green military tents, complete with medical and feeding facilities, in the battered community.

Resumption of the World Series, the first ever between the two Bay area teams, was pushed back until Friday. It had been hoped play would resume three days earlier.

Football was played Sunday, but not in San Francisco. The 49ers beat the New England Patriots 37-20 in a game moved from Candlestick Park to Stanford University, and a collection was taken among the 75,000 fans for earthquake victims. A moment of silence honored the dead.

Throughout the region, Sunday was a time for mourning the dead and giving thanks for survival.

"We pray to be spared from further suffering," Archbishop John Quinn told 700 worshippers at St. Mary's Cathedral in San Francisco. "I pray for the relief of suffering and anxiety. I cannot forget to pray for the dead and the bereaved."

In Oakland, parishioners of the St. Francis de Sales Cathedral held services in a Baptist church because their tower had been cracked and leaned precariously.

"Sometimes in life, God shakes us and says, 'Pay attention, there is something more important than the ordinary things in your life,'" the Rev. Joseph Powers said.

TCTA lauds decision on funding

The Texas Classroom Teachers Association has formally lauded the decision handed down recently by the Texas Supreme Court that the way schools are funded by the state is unconstitutional.

In a decision regarding the Edgewood vs. Kirby case, the court ruled the current school finance system inequitable due to the failure to afford children in poor districts a substantially equal opportunity to have access to education funds.

The court held that the state has not fulfilled the constitutional mandate to provide an efficient public school system, a conclusion that was supported by the TCTA, which filed a "friend of the court" brief submitted earlier this year.

"We are pleased with the decision," said TCTA President Joan Brindley. "We hope the Legislature will at last be prompted to provide adequate funding for education, which it failed to do in the regular legislative session earlier this year."

TCTA officials have previously stated that the Legislature fell short by several million dollars in providing the necessary funds to operate schools in the state.

More than 25,000 teachers around the state belong to TCTA, according to officials with the organization. It is the largest teacher organization in Pampa.

Civil war ship 'Monitor' center of safety dispute

By JEFF BARKER

The government's refusal for safety reasons to allow anyone to dive to the ironclad Monitor's watery grave for the last 10 years has angered divers, who believe the ship is on the verge of collapsing. The Monitor, above, an ironclad Civil War ship sank in a gale after a celebrated battle with the Confederate ship Merrimack 127 years ago.

permission for the dive.

In the last five years, Gentile said he has filed 11 permit applications and written 51 letters to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, which oversees the wreck 16 miles off the Cape Hatteras coast in North Carolina.

Gentile, who said his quest has cost him thousands of dollars, has begun filing federal Freedom of Information Act requests to try to obtain information from NOAA that he believes will not be forthcoming any other way.

Last week he sat through a day-long hearing before a NOAA administrative law judge who considered previous denials of three of his requests — each varying slightly — to make the 220-foot dive using scuba gear. The judge will study the case further before making a recommendation to the National Ocean Service, a branch of NOAA.

"Anyone who has put this much blood and sweat into it, it would be terrific if he could meet NOAA's conditions," said Peter DeCoursey, spokesman for Rep. Robert Borski, D-Pa., who has been trying to speed up the administration's consideration of Gentile's requests.

"The problem is bureaucratic territoriality," Gentile said in an interview after the hearing. "NOAA wants to preserve the wreck for themselves."

The currents and weather can change quickly in the area where the Monitor went down.

"They don't call that 'The Graveyard of the Atlantic' for nothing," said NOAA spokesman Dane Konop, who has been to the site. "It's a very tricky situation out there, the most dangerous conditions imaginable."

Gentile's attorney, fellow diver Peter Hess, noted at the hearing that NOAA allowed French explorer Jacques Cousteau's party to dive to the Monitor in 1979.

Cousteau Society spokeswoman Karen Brazeau said last week that the weather and the visibility on the trip was poor, and that little or no usable footage was produced.

Gorbachev shows Soviet press he's still the boss

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) - President Mikhail S. Gorbachev has shown the Soviet press who is boss.

First he told the new generation of free-swinging journalists not to overstep the bounds of glasnost. Then he ousted the conservative editor of Pravda.

The result has left Gorbachev in what he clearly thinks is the best place for every Soviet to be: the center.

By accusing the more liberal editors of stirring up dangerous public passions, Gorbachev drew a line and told them they cannot always print what they choose. He then demonstrated he could install his own man at the helm of Pravda, the most prestigious editor's job in the Soviet Union.

At a meeting with editors of major publications Oct. 13, Gorbachev accused them of stirring up the public at a time of great uncertainty. One editor paraphrased Gorbachev as saying, "Reading the papers, one gets the impression of standing knee-deep in a pool of spilled gasoline. All it needs is one tiny spark."

It was a reminder that glasnost has its limits.

Many accounts of the session came from Soviet journalists who weren't present but had been briefed by their bosses. Under the cloak of anonymity and in the more casual climate spawned by glasnost, informants shared with Western colleagues what they regarded as an assault on the gains they have so recently made.

Gorbachev reportedly called for the resignation of the editor of Arguments and Facts, Vladislav A. Starkov, who led his weekly in little more than a year from a recorder of social statistics circulated among party members to a breezily written tabloid with a circulation of 26 million.

On Monday, Starkov was called to the party's Central Committee headquarters where he reportedly was given a dressing-down by Gorbachev's ideology chief and told he had two days to think over his position.

Soviet lawmakers, the newspaper's workers and other editors rallied in Starkov's defense and he was not fired. But the edition that appeared Friday was a chastened version of Arguments and Facts.

Its first three pages were devoted entirely to two articles. The lead story confessed that a poll the paper published two weeks ago, indicating human rights activist Andrei Sakharov was more popular than Gorbachev, was an unscientific sampling of readers' letters.

The article then reported the results of what it described as a scientific poll of 2,461 people. Although Sakharov found some popular support among students, the poll showed, Gorbachev's performance got a favorable assessment from 66 percent of those who responded.

The second two-thirds of the front page, all of page 2 and most of page 3 were devoted to a friendly interview with Yegor K. Ligachev, the sole surviving conservative party stalwart on the ruling Politburo.

If Arguments and Facts took a sharp turn to the right, Pravda apparently took a sudden and equally abrupt turn to the left.

Viktor G. Afanasyev, the 66-year-old editor who had headed the official party organ since 1976, cleaned out his desk Thursday to make room for Ivan T. Frolov, a Gorbachev aide and Communist philosopher.

Frolov is said to have come up with the ideological underpinning for Gorbachev's conciliatory foreign policy based on the need for cooperation among nations.

Afanasyev ostensibly supported glasnost but was closely identified with the leadership of Leonid I. Brezhnev from 1964 to 1982, when the press helped hide the country's problems. He rejected political pluralism and warned against letting criticism of party policy get out of hand.

Congress begins work on earthquake aid

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congress plans to act quickly this week to provide billions of dollars in federal disaster aid to the earthquake-ravaged San Francisco Bay area.

Lawmakers, although mindful of the impact on the federal budget deficit, begin work in the House Appropriations Committee this afternoon on an aid package estimated at anywhere from $2.5 billion to $5 billion.

President Bush, who inspected the damage on Friday, promised all-out federal help with "no red tape."

However, Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., warned reporters on Sunday in San Francisco, "Unfortunately, all the cost cannot be covered" by government aid.

"There will be some loss," said Cranston, who predicted the federal government would provide $3.5 billion in aid but estimated property loss and damage to roads and highways at more than $7 billion.

Congress has asked the president's budget office for an official cost estimate by today, but administration officials said Sunday it may take longer as damage estimates continue to escalate.

House Speaker Thomas S. Foley said Friday he expected Washington would have to provide $2.5 billion in earthquake relief. California Lt. Gov. Leo McCarthy on Sunday put the needed federal aid at $3.3 billion, and Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., said he expects the figure to rise to $5 billion.

"It's an evolving situation," Transportation Secretary Samuel

Skinner said Sunday on CBS-TV's "Face the Nation" program. "I don't think we want to jump to a number."

Cranston, the Senate majority whip, said the earthquake aid would be added to a House appropriation bill that must be passed by Wednesday to keep the government functioning. He said the first federal funds could be available within a week.

Foley said lawmakers must put aside their concern for the deficit when it comes to providing money for the disaster victims.

"It would be very unfair to affected areas ... to say, well, we can't meet these obligations because we have a budget crunch," Foley said. "We have to respond."

Cranston said, "I have no doubt about our capacity to produce that money" in Congress. He predicted no trouble in getting the votes to waive the Gramm-Rudman federal spending limit or other legal restrictions on federal disaster aid.

Bush said Friday he was "willing to do what's needed to be done" but offered no details on how much he thought the federal government should contribute.

"There's no ceiling on the compassion of the American people," Bush said. He declined several times to rule out the possibility of a tax increase to pay for the recovery costs.

Moynihan, interviewed Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press" program, said he expected most of the earthquake aid to come from the $12 billion accumulated in the Federal Highway Trust Fund.

(AP Laserphoto)

Glen Ward, on wing, unloads his aircraft Sunday and passes relief supplies from man to man to a flatbed truck at the Watsonville, Calif., airport. Ward, who makes 8 to 9 round trips per day, is one of many private pilots that fly in needed goods for earthquake victims.

Richards in San Francisco when earthquake struck

HOUSTON (AP) - Texas gubernatorial candidates — expected to spend a combined $45 million to $50 million during the campaign — are going out-of-state to raise some of that money.

If left to only raise money in-state, the expected expenditures of all candidates — Democrats and Republicans — would require a $3 contribution from each person in Texas.

State Treasurer Ann Richards was in San Francisco last week raising money when the earthquake hit. During the first half of this year, Ms. Richards raised $391,142 in cash contributions for her gubernatorial campaign. About one-sixth of that total was from out-of-state contributors.

By comparison, her announced opponent in the Democratic primary, Attorney General Jim Mattox, raised $644,645 during the period, including $28,300 from out of state. Almost half of Mattox's out-of-state contributions came from labor unions.

By the time Ms. Richards' campaign concludes, about 20 percent of her money probably will have come from out of state, she said.

"One of the things that's advantageous about that, too, is the opportunity to get to know people out of state," she said. "We have reached the point, hopefully, in this state where we realize our economic future is beyond our borders."

Ms. Richards said she also hopes that some of her political fund-raising efforts will result in more movies being shot in Texas.

"It's good, clean, solid employment," she said. "I've already started talking to producers, directors, any opportunity I get when I'm in California."

So far, Richards has obtained $1,000 from singer Barbra Streisand; $5,000 from television producer Norman Lear; and $10,000 from "Family Ties" producer Gary Goldberg.

Houston developer plans space attraction

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) - Visitors to the Johnson Space Center will be getting closer to the space program and the experience of spaceflight with the planned opening of a nearby attraction.

"It's not a museum, and we don't want to be a museum park," said Vance Ablott, general manager of Space Center Houston, a $64 million facility scheduled to open in summer 1991. "We're providing a hands-on environment. We want people to understand what it is like to land the shuttle."

"The shuttle is an interesting aircraft. Theoretically it should not fly. Young people will understand how difficult it is," he said, referring to computer displays that will appeal to young visitors and will be used to simulate a shuttle astronauts," said Ablott, who will oversee fund raising and operations for Space Center Houston. "What they do is handle portions of whatever flight is taking place. These will be modified for our use, with computer screens and keyboards. In a sense it's like a video game. Kids will be familiar with that."

Ablott says the project has no government funding and no plans for support from the Johnson Space Center.

For years, space program observers longed for a more spacious and revealing visitors' center. Some also have expressed hope that archives and personal papers of important people in the space program, now in various museums and university collections, could be housed closer to JSC, he said.

Another planned feature is a gallery with space flight artifacts, Mercury and Gemini capsules and other items, Ablott said.

"The most exciting thing will be a stylized visit of the mission control room, in real time, where you will hear from a briefing officer what exactly is happening right now on a space flight" or some other NASA activity, he said.

A tram-ride tour will take visitors around JSC with guides describing the work done in various buildings.

"We expect to complete design development by the end of this year. This will enable us to sell the bond financing in January and break ground in early February."

He said the price of admission is undetermined, but financing plans are based on an average annual attendance of 2 million visitors.

Space Center Houston will employ about 150 people and will be located adjacent to the Johnson Space Center on 50 acres of property.

TENSION HEADACHES

If you're bothered by headache that seems to have its origin at the base of your skull, you may be suffering from tension headache.

Tension headaches can be caused by an irritation of the nerves in the area of the spine immediately under the skull. These are called the suboccipital nerves. They pass through small openings in the spinal column to muscles in the surrounding area. Any abnormal pressure or dysfunction of neck and muscles can irritate the nerves, causing tension.

The tension doesn't cause the headache. To treat this form of headache, attention should be paid to the bone and muscle structures. They should be returned to normal balance so they can function properly again.

Medication is not the answer to tension headaches. Aspirin and other painkillers may give you temporary relief but they won't solve the problem. Once the source of the problem is found and treated, THEN you can get the relief you need.

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Why do free nations reject immigrants?

The issue almost never addressed in discussions about how to handle the increasing number of Soviet subjects who are leaving the workers' paradise under Gorbachev's reforms is the monstrous moral blindness displayed by Western leaders, including President Bush. For decades, Western leaders have been urging the Soviets to loosen up emigration procedures so that more people who wish to leave can do so legally.

The other side of emigration is immigration. A government that urges another government to allow free or relatively free emigration should not only allow emigration itself, it should have a relatively free immigration policy. Otherwise, both moral and practical problems emerge.

Morally, if you're for letting anyone who wants to leave a country to do so, you should be for letting anybody who wants to enter a country do so. (Who says A, must say B.) And, quite practically, if a lot of people want to leave one country, where are they to go if other countries don't have relatively open immigration policies?

The moral disparity between what Western leaders urge upon Soviet leaders and the West's own restrictive immigration policies — pots calling the kettle black on a global scale — is too seldom noted. But the practical consequences are becoming all too apparent in the form of hundreds of thousands (millions before too long?) of refugees languishing in squalid camps hoping that putatively free countries will let them enter.

The Western double standard is coming into sharper focus since the Gorbachev regime, after decades of hypocritical pressure, has actually eased up emigration procedures somewhat. Gorbachev's motive, to be sure, may have more to do with a desire to ease pressure on the system created by the presence of discontented people than with real respect for individual rights. But the practical result is that U.S. officials in Moscow expect about 300,000 Soviet subjects to apply to leave the Soviet Union and enter the United States next year.

So what will the avatars of compassion and respect for human rights do now? How will they handle this flow of hopeful humanity lured by promises of freedom in our country? By announcing that the United States will admit only 50,000 immigrants from the Soviet Union next year, with maybe 20,000 or 30,000 more graciously permitted to enter on a special "parole" program.

Our leaders promise freedom, but ration it. At a time when Jewish leaders claim that anti-Semitic campaigns in the Soviet Union are quietly intensifying, we will let more than 200,000 people wait ... and wait and wait. The U.S. government will now create a huge mass of "refuseniks" — people refused permission to enter the land of the free.

The fallacy is viewing immigrants as a problem rather than an opportunity. A few hundred thousand ambitious people, actively discontented with totalitarianism, who understand through their own experience the false promise of communism, should be considered an asset to a free country. Instead, our leaders tremble in fear of any change in the status quo — thereby betraying this country's most precious heritage, liberty and opportunity.

It's just a little 'inconvenient'

WASHINGTON — It was a little after 12:30 on the afternoon of Oct. 11 when Henry Hyde of Illinois went to the well of the House. He had come to oppose — most eloquently to oppose — what became known as the Boxer amendment.

The amendment would permit poor women and girl children to obtain abortions through Medicaid if they become pregnant by reason of rape or incest. Hyde lost. The amendment carried by 216 to 206, and true conservatives will applaud that outcome.

Hyde's concern — very nearly his total concern — was for the "unwanted, innocently inconvenient unborn." He liked that phrase so much that he repeated it: Pregnancy resulting from rape or incest is an "inconvenient" matter.

Yes, the gentleman acknowledged that a woman thus victimized "has serious human problems." He agreed that rape and incest are "tragedies." But after he had concluded these ritual remarks, he was back to his theme. Public funds must not be used for abortions for the poor. This is because abortion is "a public matter."

Hyde is a fine, stout Republican on many issues, but on this issue his position is indefensible. Perhaps he does not grasp his own inconsistency.

Hyde does not object to abortion with private funds; he suggested during debate that if the Playboy Foundation, or Planned Parenthood, or Stewart Mott will pay for such abortions for the poor, OK by him. If the victim of rape or incest will report promptly to a hospital, when she may or may not have conceived, let her be cured then. Nothing wrong with that. But once a poor woman becomes pregnant, too bad.

The three foremost opponents of the Boxer amendment were Hyde, Bill Natcher of Kentucky and Silvio Conte of Massachusetts. All three have fathered daughters.

It would be interesting to ask them to look into their hearts — really to look into their hearts — and ask them a blunt question: If your daughter had become pregnant as a result of rape, would you honestly insist that she carry the despised infant to term? Would you then claim the child as your grandchild? Would you regard this as a mere "inconvenience"? How would the gentlemen respond?

I speak with some emotion on this subject. My godchild Julie was raped last April. A masked intruder forced his way into her apartment, put a pistol to her navel, made her submit to sodomy, then raped her. Six months later, she relives the experience in her nightmares. She will never recover fully. No victim of rape ever does.

The humiliation, the horror, the degradation, the invasion of her most private self — these will dwell with her. The gentleman from Illinois is unmoved. He says only that if she had become pregnant, how "inconvenient" it would have been.

Inconvenient! What a jolly little word! Madam finds it inconvenient to play bridge on Tuesday. Would it also be inconvenient to have tea on Friday? Dear me, says the gentleman from Illinois, what an inconvenience it is to have inconvenient things happen.

The gentleman cannot imagine a woman's living for nine months with the product of hate and brutality growing in her womb. He would spare the well-to-do such an inconvenience. Their right to obtain an abortion would not be disturbed. It is only the poor woman, dependent upon Medicaid, who would effectively be compelled to undergo this ordeal.

Sweet Henry! Fair Henry! He weeps for the innocent embryo; he has no tears left for the innocent woman.

Abortion is not "a public matter." A more intensely private matter could not be imagined. And this is the curious thing about "conservatives," including such conservatives as George Bush. The president has threatened to veto the bill if the Boxer amendment remains in it.

If there is one basic tenet of the conservative philosophy, it is that government must not interfere with the private lives of a free people. I find it unconscionable that conservatives should defend this ultimate denial of a woman's freedom over her own reproductive organs.

Barbara Boxer of California carried the day. She had help from other women in the House, notably Louise Slaughter of New York and Marge Rouke of New Jersey. Jim McDermott of Washington added a knowledgeable word of support; as a psychiatrist, he has treated victims of rape.

Don Edwards of California warned that the American public "is tired of listening to judges and legislatures telling them how to make the most personal decisions of their lives." The gentleman will never speak a truer word.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, Oct. 23, the 296th day of 1989. There are 69 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On Oct. 23, 1983, 241 U.S. Marines and sailors in Lebanon died in an explosion caused by a suicide truck-bomber who crashed into the U.S. compound at Beirut International Airport. An almost simultaneous attack on French forces in the Lebanese capital claimed the lives of 58 paratroopers.

On this date:
In 1910, Blanche S. Scott became the first woman to make a solo public airplane flight, reaching an altitude of 12 feet as she sailed across a park in Fort Wayne, Ind.

In 1915, 25,000 women marched in New York City, demanding the right to vote.

In 1942, during World War II, Britain launched a major offensive against Axis forces at El Alamein, Egypt.

Most needed, most unwanted

Don't credit me with this mongrel prose; it has many parents — at least 535,000 of them: Policemen.

A policeman is a composite of what all men are, a mingling of saint and sinner, dust and deity.

Culled statistics wave the fan over the stinkers, underscore instances of dishonesty and brutality because they are "news." What that really means is that they are exceptional, unusual, not commonplace.

Buried under the froth is the fact: Less than half of 1 percent of policemen misfit that uniform.

That's a better average than you'd find among clergymen.

What is a policeman made of? He, of all men, is at once the most needed and the most unwanted.

He's a strangely nameless creature who is "Sir" to his face and "fuzz" behind his back.

He must be such a diplomat that he can settle differences between individuals so that each will think he won.

But ...

If the policeman is neat, he's conceited; if he's careless, he's a bum.

If he's pleasant, he's a flirt; if he's not, he's a scoundrel.

He must make in an instant decisions which would require months for a lawyer.

But ...

If he hurries, he's careless; if he's deliberate, he's lazy.

He must be first to an accident and infallible with a diagnosis.

He must be able to start breathing, stop bleeding, tie splints and, above all, be sure the victim goes home without a limp.

Or expect to be sued

The police officer must know every gun, draw on the run and hit where it doesn't hurt.

He must be able to whip two men twice his size and half his age without damaging his uniform and without being "brutal."

If you hit him, he's a coward; if he hits you, he's a bully.

A policeman must know everything — and not tell.

He must know where all the sin is — and not partake.

The policeman must, from a single human hair, be able to describe the crime, the weapon and the criminal — and tell you where the criminal is hiding.

But ...

If he catches the criminal, he's lucky; if he doesn't, he's a dunce.

If he gets promoted, he has political pull. If he doesn't, he's a dullard.

The policeman must chase bum leads to a dead end, stake out 10 nights to tag one witness who saw it happen — but refuses to remember.

He runs files and writes reports until his eyes ache to build a case against some felon who'll get dealt-out by a shameless shamus or an "honorable" who isn't.

The policeman must be a minister, a social worker, a diplomat, a tough guy and a gentleman.

And of course he'll have to be a genius ...

For he'll have to feed a family on a policeman's salary.

Are liberals too addicted to the left?

By WILLIAM A. RUSHER

For some mysterious reason, there has recently been a sharp upswing in the number and intensity of the attacks on Jonas Savimbi, the courageous and charismatic black leader of the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola (known as UNITA).

For 14 years, from his headquarters at Jamba in the bush country of southeastern Angola, Savimbi has waged a determined guerrilla war against the communist puppet regime based in Luanda on the Atlantic coast.

His forces dominate the southeastern third of Angola and move freely through much of the rest. If Moscow hadn't rushed nearly 40,000 Cuban troops to Angola to stiffen the spine of its puppets there, Savimbi would long since have established control of the whole country.

Instead, he has been forced to battle a regime not only supported by Cuban troops, but generously supplied with Soviet arms, including tanks, helicopters, fighter aircraft and even Russian advisers, while he was kept on short rations.

Thanks to President Reagan, Savimbi in recent years has been given American Stinger surface-to-air missiles, and as a result Jamba (which I visited in 1986) boasts large chunks of various Soviet attack helicopters as trophies. South Africa has also provided limited help.

Savimbi's stubborn and successful resistance is one reason why, at the Moscow summit in May-June 1988, Mikhail Gorbachev appears to have agreed with Reagan (in a settlement never disclosed by the two sides, lest it upset their harder-line supporters) to cool the superpower competition in southern Africa.

Moscow and Washington would back a ceasefire in Angola; the Cuban troops would begin a phased withdrawal; South Africa would stop helping Savimbi; and UNITA would be integrated into the life and governmental structure of Angola. In addition, free elections would be held looking toward the independence of Namibia, and the outlawed and communist-dominated African National Congress would turn from terrorist violence to serious negotiations with the white government of South Africa.

In the past 17 months, all of these steps have been initiated. There have been stumbles on both sides, but the arrangement between the superpowers is being honored by both.

But in recent months — from seemingly independent sources in Washington, London and New York, but with a timing that certainly suggests coordination by someone — the Western media have been deluged with a series of savage smears against Savimbi and UNITA.

After 14 years of courageous resistance, Savimbi is quite suddenly being accused of dictatorial methods, indiscriminate slaughters of innocent Angolan villagers, torture of would-be defectors and even the practice of voodoo.

These charges have surfaced on the front page of The New York Times, on Ted Turner's Cable News Network, in remarks attributed to (but later denied by) an English biographer of Savimbi's now living in London, and elsewhere.

A few sentences of judicious criticism of Savimbi in my old magazine National Review, written by a freelance reporter and published over his byline as his own opinion, even turned up on the Op-Ed page of the Times — carefully shorn of the subsequent paragraphs that added we should not be deterred from supporting him.

Who is behind this inundation of billingsgate? The Soviets? It hardly seems likely; they have signed off on an overall settlement, which must include UNITA. Their communist stooges in Angola? That is more plausible; this vile little clique, which shot its way to power with Brezhnev's help in the mid 1970s and has never held a single election — not even a phony one — has, of course, a good deal to lose by being forced to share Angola with UNITA.

But why should the major media of the Western world aid this filthy propaganda drive? Is the liberal habit of serving as a megaphone for the left simply too ingrained to break?

Poland prepares to battle the poverty of capitalism

By DRUSILLA MENAKER
Associated Press Writer

LUBLIN, Poland (AP) - Poland's economic reformers have vowed to transform socialism into capitalism. So far, Poles are learning one element: poverty.

Soup kitchens are opening across the country and the East bloc's first food stamp program is being readied as Poland prepares to deal for the first time with a problem that officially never existed under Communist ideology.

With government controls lifted, food prices are up 300, 400 or even 1,200 percent in three months and hunger looms for pensioners and even schoolchildren.

There is the new prospect of unemployment as inefficient factories close for lack of government subsidies.

When Tadeusz Mazowiecki became the only non-communist prime minister in the East bloc, he warned that Poles do not know just how painful it will be to revive the nation's ruined economy.

"Poland has practically no sensible social welfare system," says Labor Minister Jacek Kuron, a veteran Solidarity activist charged with organizing protection from the worst effects of economic reform.

"Such a system can be introduced but that will take one, two or even three years. Yet people need to be helped right now," he said in a recent newspaper interview. "Local communities must organize themselves for such help. This is where private initiative has an enormous task before it."

Every day, newspapers carry reports of new soup kitchens opening: In Tarnow, 500 people are getting free meals and 100 more will be helped starting Nov. 1; a kitchen has opened in Rzeszow and a second is planned a Solidarity chapter in Gdansk is collecting food donations.

"Milk bars used to be the mecca for poor people. But since milk and cottage cheese prices have increased tenfold, many old age pensioners were sentenced to a forced fast," the Peasant Party newspaper said in a report on coupons distributed in Poznan for free meals at the small seedy restaurants that serve dairy products, eggs, soup and bread, but usually no meat.

Up to 4.5 million pensioners, poor children up to age 6 and others will receive coupons good for free milk, bread and cottage cheese when the food stamp program starts in December.

A recent state television special showed the homeless under highways, on park benches and in train stations. A shop clerk reported a rise in shoplifting. A divorced woman despaired about how she would provide for her two children now that their kindergarten fees demand nearly half her salary.

The irony is not lost on Poles who for decades saw the homeless and unemployed in the United States in television footage backing the official ideology that socialism cares for all and only capitalism breeds poverty.

For four decades, the price of food, and other basic supplies were kept artificially low by government subsidies. Shortages were rampant, but bread, potatoes and milk were very cheap.

The burden of those subsidies became clear when the new pro-Solidarity government threw open the account books on a huge budget deficit and began to do battle with deeply rooted waste and inefficiency.

"At least with the new government we are feeling better about ourselves as Poles," said an elderly woman waiting at a Warsaw soup kitchen. "But what can the government do with an empty treasury? We are feeling more free but we cannot live on freedom alone. We have to eat something."

East German leaders concede to reforms; new protest draws thousands of activists

BERLIN (AP) - After years of resistance to change, East Germany's communist leadership conceded Saturday there may be "important lessons" to be learned from reforms introduced by Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

Thousands of pro-democracy activists rallied to keep up the pressure for change.

The official ADN news agency said East Germany's new Communist Party chief, Egon Krenz, spoke by telephone with Gorbachev about his reforms, which have given non-communists seats in the Soviet government and allowed more open discussion of the nation's problems.

After years of contending Gorbachev's political and economic reforms were unnecessary in East Germany, ADN said Krenz acknowledged "there are important lessons to be learned from Soviet perestroika in the German Democratic Republic." Perestroika refers to Gorbachev's reforms.

Gorbachev invited Krenz to visit Moscow, and the trip will take place soon, ADN said without giving a date.

In another unusually frank report by the government news agency, ADN said at least 20,000 East Germans staged a pro-reform candlelight vigil in the city of Dresden late Friday. Activists said 50,000 people took part.

ADN also reported that the deputy police chief in East Berlin promised to investigate allegations of police brutality during pro-democracy demonstrations earlier this month.

The police official, Dieter Dietze, was quoted as saying 50 complaints filed in connection with those marches would be "thoroughly investigated."

Police used force to break up pro-democracy protests that swept the nation before and during its Oct. 7 celebration of 40 years of statehood. Larger demonstrations since then have been allowed to take place peacefully.

Krenz replaced Erich Honecker as Communist Party leader when the 77-year-old Honecker stepped down after 18 years in power.

Honecker cited health reasons, but widespread dissatisfaction with his authoritarian government, which has led about 55,000 East Germans to flee West in recent weeks, had increased pressure for a change.

The Krenz leadership responded to public calls for more democracy with a promised dialogue on ways to improve East German living standards. But Krenz made clear in a speech the night of his appointment that communists have no plan to share power with fledgling opposition groups or embrace reforms.

Iran links hostage release to Iranians held by Lebanon

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) - President Hashemi Rafsanjani of Iran today condemned hostage-taking but said he would take no steps to help release 18 Westerners held in Lebanon until Iranians held in Lebanon are freed.

In the past, Iran has linked its assistance in winning freedom for Western hostages in Lebanon to the fate of three Iranians kidnapped by Christian Lebanese Forces militiamen in north Lebanon in July 1982 and believed dead.

Most of the Western hostages are believed held by groups loyal to Iran.

The official Islamic Republic News Agency quoted Rafsanjani as saying at a news conference in Tehran that hostage-taking is an "inhuman action" that can produce no positive political results.

Answering a question from an American reporter, the Iranian president accused the United States of using the issue of the hostages as no more than a "bridge for re-establishing relations with Iran."

He called on Washington to release more than $1 billion in frozen Iranian assets as a goodwill gesture for normalization of relations, IRNA reported in a dispatch monitored in Cyprus.

"You have two options: First to unfreeze our assets, which you must do as we will take them back one day. But if you are very much fond of money, you can at least instruct your agents in Lebanon to free our hostages," Rafsanjani was quoted as saying by the agency.

"If you claim they are dead, return their bodies to us or show us their graves," he added.

FBI still follows suspected spy

By MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Suspected Soviet spy Felix Bloch is learning that fame may be fleeting but the FBI is not.

The nightly news no longer chronicles the 54-year-old diplomat's walks in the park, visits to his lawyer or trips to the grocery. The two dozen reporters and camera crews who followed him everywhere in July and August have dwindled to none.

But the FBI agents are still there around the clock, and experts say so is the government's electronic eavesdropping.

Bloch remains on paid leave from his $80,000-a-year job in the State Department's European bureau. There is no indictment; not even a public move to fire him. How long can this go on?

Legally, forever. No one in the government will predict, but current and former intelligence officials see no letup well into next year. Some spy investigations have lasted more than a decade — although mostly out of the public eye.

Bloch could be removed from the government payroll next spring under a State Department up-or-out policy requiring periodic promotions to remain employed.

His departure from government would not end the FBI investigation into allegations that he spied for the Soviet Union since his posting in East Berlin in 1975. But it would increase the parallels between the Bloch case and that of Kim Philby, the famed Soviet mole who penetrated British intelligence.

The British relieved Philby of his duties in 1951 but did not dismiss him from government until 1955. The investigation remained open, while Philby worked as a journalist in Beirut, until additional evidence surfaced and he fled to Moscow in 1963.

In the Bloch case, U.S. counterintelligence officials have enough evidence to suspect him of spying but not enough to bring charges.

Although Bloch's situation is hardly without parallel, public awareness of it is unparalleled. And that has raised concerns, even objections from a range of observers.

"They should fish or cut bait — either indict him or let him live his life," Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., told

The Associated Press last week. "He's being punished as a convicted criminal."

Edwards, a former FBI agent who is chairman of the House civil and constitutional rights subcommittee, said the FBI should continue its investigation without the obvious surveillance. "Their duty is investigate in accordance with their usual rules, but their usual rules do not include harassment."

Assistant FBI Director Milt Ahlerich responded, "I appreciate those concerns, but the investigation is being conducted lawfully and within the bounds of the foreign counterintelligence guidelines of the Department of Justice."

Former FBI agents say such surveillance is designed to prevent a spy suspect from acquiring or turning over additional secrets.

Counterintelligence investigations are reviewed annually, and eavesdropping every 90 days, by the FBI and the Justice Department. The review concentrates on whether there is enough evidence for a full investigation using all investigative techniques.

Based on interviews with government sources and published reports, the evidence in hand in the Bloch case looks like this:

Bloch was observed in Paris last May meeting a suspected Soviet agent after using traditional "dry-cleaning" techniques to shake surveillance. He passed a travel bag to the man, who was later recorded telephoning Bloch with what sounded like a warning that authorities were on to them.

Other electronic surveillance is said to have picked up Bloch telling his wife that he had accepted payments from the Soviets.

A one-time Viennese prostitute has told a federal grand jury that Bloch spent roughly $10,000 a year for her services over seven years — an amount that investigators cannot find withdrawn from Bloch's acknowledged bank accounts.

But missing from this list is the identity of even one secret turned over to the Soviets — and that is the minimum requirement for obtaining an espionage indictment.

In interviews, Bloch has repeatedly passed up chances to deny the allegations, contenting himself with the observation that the government has not been able to bring any charges, much less prove them.

Some wealthy still not paying taxes

By JIM LUTHER
AP Tax Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A handful of the wealthiest people in America are still able to avoid paying federal income tax despite repeated congressional efforts to close loopholes.

Of 529,460 couples and individuals who reported total income above $200,000 on returns filed in 1987, 595 paid no tax, the Internal Revenue Service says in a new report. Those 595 had income averaging $600,000; two out of every three had capital gains averaging $490,000 apiece.

An additional 33,805 over-$200,000 earners paid tax at an effective rate of less than 15 percent, typically less than a middle-income family would pay. Almost 3,000 paid less than 10 percent.

The estimates were reported without comment by the IRS in the quarterly "Statistics of Income" compilation. The IRS has been required since 1978 to estimate the number of high-income people who legally avoid paying any tax.

The rich were able to avoid taxes by reporting big losses on farm and partnership investments; by racking up large capital gains, 60 percent of which were excluded from taxation; by claiming itemized deductions averaging $262,000, and by using the credit for taxes paid abroad.

The figures do not include high-earners whose incomes are made up largely of tax-exempt interest. The report is based on unaudited returns; after an audit, some of the returns could lose their no-tax status.

Returns covered in the latest report, reflecting income earned in 1986, were the last filed before most provisions in the 1986 tax overhaul took effect. Several changes in that law were designed to reduce the ability of wealthier people to avoid taxes.

The report showed the number of people with annual incomes over $200,000 grew from 370,430 on returns in 1985 to 529,460 a year later. The chief reason apparently was a big selloff of investments in 1986 to avoid a higher capital-gains tax that took effect in 1987.

The number of tax-free people above the $200,000-a-year level was 53 on returns filed in 1977 and generally has grown steadily since that time. One exception was in 1985 when the number dropped to 325 from the previous year's 579. The latest figure was down from 613 the previous year.

Even so, the number who are able to "zero out" their taxes remains a tiny fraction of the total high-income earners. The most recent figures indicate that 112 of every 10,000 people with expanded income above $200,000 paid no tax, compared with 100 per 100,000 in 1977.

The percentage of wealthy people paying no income tax has risen in the face of repeated toughening of the "minimum tax," a levy aimed at requiring all high-income people to pay some tax.

Texas hospital industry topic for Chamber breakfast Thursday

Terry Townsend, CAE, president/chief executive officer of the Texas Hospital Association, will address the Pampa Chamber of Commerce at 6:45 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 26 at the M.K. Brown Room of the Pampa Community Building.

Townsend's speech will focus on the critical state of the hospital industry in Texas, and will address the effects of inadequate Medicare reimbursement.

For the third consecutive year, Texas leads the nation in the number of hospital closures. A key factor in hospital closures is inadequate payment services rendered to the elderly and poor under the Medicaid and Medicare programs.

Townsend, a certified association executive, became president of the Texas Hospital in 1987. He has an impressive career in association management and was a respected member of the Texas House of Representatives for eight years.

Representing more than 84 percent of the state's hospitals, the Texas Hospital Association is one of the largest state hospital associations in the U.S., with more than 740 institutional and 3,800 professional members. Based in Austin, the trade association represents the collective interests of its members regarding public policy and serves as the advocate for legislative and regulatory issues affecting the health care industry.

Oldster wants to lay down the law for serving on jury

DEAR ABBY: I've been reading your column in the New York Post since you started writing. I'm 88 years old, have been an American citizen since 1930, and have worked as both a musician and printer until three years ago. I'm now retired and collect Social Security and union pensions.

Now, my reason for writing: I feel that I, and other senior citizens, are being discriminated against because a New York law prohibits men and women who are over 75 from serving as jurors.

Last year I applied for jury duty in the Brooklyn Supreme Court and was rejected because of my age. Isn't that outrageous? Surely I don't need the $12 a day it pays.

When a man such as the late Claude Pepper could function brilliantly in the U.S. Congress until his untimely death recently at age 88, why should citizens be deprived of serving as jurors simply because they are more than 75 years old?

I am sure there are many others like me who could prove, by a physician's certificate if necessary, that they could perform as efficiently as younger people.

In all my 55 years of being an American citizen, I have never missed voting. Abby, please help us older folks.

SAMUEL PEVSNER
DEAR MR. PEVSNER: I called upon Sidney D. Rosoff, Esq. — my trusty New York legal eagle. His reply, in part:

"Dear Abby: You will be pleased to learn that by amendment of the New York State Judiciary Law in 1987, effective Sept. 1, 1987, they deleted the provision that a juror had to be less than 76 years of age. (There were obviously others who felt the same as Mr. Pevsner — that 'the riper the fruit, the sweeter it is.')

"Mr. Pevsner can therefore refer the jury clerk to the provisions of Section 510 of the New York State Judiciary Law if the issue arises the next time he is called. We have been advised by the County Clerk's office that it is now their policy that those prospective jurors over age 70 who receive notice of jury service will be permitted to serve at their option."

So, relax, Sam. You're still eligible for jury duty.

DEAR ABBY: I've never seen this discussed in your column, but I can't believe I'm the only one who has ever had this problem — woman or man. My husband and I had a very happy marriage. When he died, it was too soon — it always is — but I'm learning to live without him. No moping, no whining. I manage to lead a busy, pleasant family and social life.

Dear Abby

After a while, acquaintances and relatives began urging me to date. (There is no pressure from close friends, who simply include me in their plans.) I don't want to "date" and have said as much. Still, they give my telephone number to "likely prospects," so when I'm called, I make excuses.

I have my hands full fielding approaches without this. I'm at a loss to know how to handle the situation. Any help?

CONTENT ALONE
DEAR CONTENT: Your signature is the perfect response. "Thank you. I'm content alone."

DEAR ABBY: Is there anything in insecticides that could excite a man?

Arthur is 55 — just the age most men start to slow down, but he's still going strong. He gets especially aroused right after he sprays our property for bugs.

I noticed it last year when we moved into this house. We had ants and roaches, and right after Arthur sprayed he started looking for me and would get so passionate that he didn't care if I did my housework or even cooked. On weekends he sprays sometimes two and three times a day. It's really getting me down.

We live in Florida. What brand of bug bomb will kill the bugs down here without bringing out my husband's manhood so strong?

He uses Raid, TNT and Rid-a-Bug, and they all have the same effect on him. The brands that don't affect him don't have any effect on the bugs either. Please help me.

TIERED
DEAR TIRED: My chemical experts know of nothing in any brand of insecticide that would rejuvenate the waning desire of a man. If there were, we'd have a lot more dead bugs, livelier husbands and tired wives.

DEAR ABBY: Just read your letter "From Wahoo, Neb." in which you explain the flower-over-the-ear signal.

As a native-born Hawaiian, here's the true meaning of flower placement: If a girl wears a flower over her left ear, it means she is spoken for. (Same side as her heart — which is the reason why wedding rings are worn on the left hand.)

If the flower is worn over the right ear, it means the girl is available or unattached.

A flower worn on the back of the head means "Follow me." A flower on top of the head means "Married, but will fool around."

LOVELY HULA HANDS IN MAUI
DEAR ABBY: I work as a receptionist for a large company and I love my job. I am always in a good mood and smiling comes easily to me.

Would you please tell me what to say to people who say things like, "I hate people who are always cheerful in the morning — you make me sick!"

I once had a woman say to me, "You must be either very stupid or incredibly lucky, because nobody can be that happy all the time."

Abby, just once I would like to have some kind of comeback that would shut them up or put them in their place. Thank you.

HAPPY AND SHOWS IT
DEAR HAPPY: The most effective response to a rude comment is no reaction whatsoever. As my sainted grandfather used to say, "Never get into a wrestling match with a skunk."

Luncheon/Style Show benefit

AMARILLO - G.W. Bailey, star of screen and TV, will be the special guest host of a luncheon and style show to benefit the Ronald McDonald House of Amarillo. The event, co-sponsored by the Diane Dick Agency and Sue Sanders Couture Studio, will be at the Amarillo Country Club, Wednesday, Oct. 25 at 11:30 a.m.

"Renaissance: Revival of the Spirit" is the theme and tickets include a gourmet lunch, the fashion show and door prizes. Prizes include a round trip air fare for two to New Orleans by American Airlines, a self improvement scholarship to the Diane Dick Agency, dinners at the Santa Fe Restaurant and All the Fixins, and one night for two at the Galbraith House.

Bailey co-starred in three major studio films in 1987. First filmgoers will remember his performance in "Mannequin"; next he co-starred with Whoopi Goldberg and Bob Goldwait in "Burglar"; and then he returned with many alumni from "Police Academy" to recreate the Capt. Harris role in "Police Academy IV."

J.M.J. Ltd. of San Antonio will be displaying and selling jewelry before and after the show and will donate a portion of the sales to the Ronald McDonald House.

For more information contact Pat Cathcart, Ronald McDonald House, 358-8177.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You have the ability today to make advantageous agreements, provided you're prepared to see that the other guy fares as well as you do.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Flow with events today instead of resisting change. Shifts in conditions work to your ultimate benefit, even the ones which won't be initiated by you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Use the soft sell today in a situation where you have something substantial to gain. It could prove to be counterproductive if you get too pushy.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Activities which do not improve your material position should not be permitted to take time away from those that do. Allocate your efforts to the money makers today.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Luck has its limitations today and as long as you are aware of its parameters, you should do extremely well. Let your common sense guide you in chancy matters.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Things have a way of working out to your expectations today, so don't be afraid to elevate your sights a bit higher than usual. Even if you fall short, which isn't likely, you'll still come out ahead.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) All work and no play is a boring formula designed to take the zing out of life. Set aside your tools early today and participate in activities you find fun.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Luck continues to favor you again today where your material interests are concerned. Something good could develop for you through a chain of events set in motion by outside factors.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Focus your efforts and attention on priority issues today, because these are the areas that look the most hopeful. Think positive and play to win.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In competitive involvements today you will have the upper hand, yet you may not realize it at the time. However, your opponents will and this will give you a considerable psychological edge.

Longhorns in, Sooners out

By The Associated Press

Successive victories over Oklahoma and Arkansas have convinced voters that Texas belongs among the Top 25. Two successive losses also convinced them that Air Force doesn't.

Following a weekend of upsets, those are among the most dramatic changes in the Associated Press college football poll.

The Longhorns, who shocked Oklahoma two weeks ago, did the same to then-No. 7 Arkansas on Saturday by a 24-20 score to move into the ranked teams for the first time this season at No. 24.

Clemson was the other new face in the Top 25 this week, moving back in after a week's absence at No. 22 following a 30-10 whipping of previously undefeated No. 12 North Carolina State.

Meanwhile, Air Force lost for the second straight week, 27-9 to Texas Christian, to drop to 6-2 for the season and out of the Top 25. The Falcons, No. 19 last week, had won their first six games before losing to Notre Dame 41-27 and to TCU.

Oklahoma, No. 25 last week, also dropped out, although the Sooners beat Iowa State 43-40.

There were plenty of other shakeups in the Top 25, although Nos. 1 through 5, led by Notre Dame, remained intact in the weekly voting by the nation's sports writers and broadcasters.

The Fighting Irish, who have held the top spot since winning the Kickoff Classic in August, won their seventh game of the season and 19th in a row overall with an exciting 28-24 victory over Southern California.

The Irish garnered 56 of the 60 first-place votes and 1,496 points overall. Miami, idle last week, held the No. 2 spot with 1,424 points, including three first-place votes. Colorado, a 49-17 winner over Kansas, was again No. 3 with 1,379 points, including one vote for first.

Nebraska, which beat Oklahoma State 48-23, remained fourth, followed again by No. 5 Michigan, a 26-12 winner over Iowa.

The remainder of the Top 10 includes No. 6 Alabama, No. 7 Pitt, No. 8 Illinois, No. 9 Florida State and No. 10 Southern Cal.

Alabama moved up four spots following a 47-30 victory over previously unbeaten Tennessee, which was No. 6 last week. Pitt moved up one spot after an idle weekend and Illinois jumped five places after a 14-10 victory over Michigan State. Florida State moved up five after taking a 22-14 decision over Auburn, No. 11 last week. And Southern Cal dropped one spot after its loss to Notre Dame at South Bend.

The rest of the Top 25 includes No. 11 Tennessee, No. 12 Houston, No. 13 Arkansas, No. 14 Penn State, No. 15 West Virginia, No. 16 Auburn, No. 17 Arizona, No. 18 Brigham Young, No. 19 Florida, No. 20 North Carolina State, No. 21 Texas A&M, No. 22 Clemson, No. 23 Washington State, No. 24 Texas and No. 25 South Carolina.

Last week's 11-25 lineup included Auburn, North Carolina State, Illinois, Florida State, Washington State, Houston, Penn State, West Virginia, Air Force, Florida, Brigham Young, Arizona, Texas A&M, South Carolina and Oklahoma.

Gregg vows revenge against Cougars

HOUSTON (AP) — Jack Pardee said his explosive Houston Cougars did not intentionally run up the score against Southern Methodist when they scored 95 points and amassed 1,021 yards total offense.

The Mustang players and Coach Forrest Gregg, however, have vowed to someday gain revenge.

"They claim they're just explosive. Well, we're not always going to be like this," SMU receiver Michael Bowen said. "Someday we're going to be the powerhouse and we'll remember every team that did this to us."

Cougars quarterback Andre Ware set NCAA records for most yards in a quarter (340 in the second), most yards in a half (517 in the first half), and most touchdown passes in a quarter (five) in the second.

"We were just running our offense, we didn't run up the score," Ware said.

Houston also set NCAA records for most passing yards (771) and tied a record with 10 touchdowns.

No surprises in National Football League

By Barry Wilner

AP Sports Writer

None has the worst record in the league, a distinction held by the winless Dallas Cowboys, but all could give the Cowboys a run for the bottom before the season ends.

The Detroit Lions, New York Jets, San Diego Chargers and Pittsburgh Steelers had plenty in common Sunday, as they have for most of the season. All lost to first-place teams, all sputtered offensively, and all stayed in the cellar.

Minnesota beat Detroit 20-7, dropping the Lions to 1-6. The Jets, 34-3 losers at Buffalo, have the same record. The Chargers (2-5) fell at home to the New York Giants 20-13 and Pittsburgh (3-4) was blanked at Houston 27-0.

Also Sunday, it was San Francisco 37, New England 20; Indianapolis 23, Cincinnati 12; New Orleans 40, the Los Angeles Rams 21; Washington 32, Tampa Bay 28; Denver 24, Seattle 21 in overtime; Phoenix 34, Atlanta 20; Philadelphia 10, the Los Angeles Raiders 7, and Miami 23, Green Bay 20.

Tonight, Chicago is at Cleveland. Both teams have lost their last two games.

Vikings 20, Lions 7

If anyone wondered why the Vikings acquired linebacker Mike Merriweather, the answer was provided at the Silverdome. Minnesota's league-leading defense had eight sacks for 42 yards in losses, intercepted two passes and recovered three fumbles. Merriweather had two sacks, one interception, caused two fumbles and recovered one.

"The game plan here in Minnesota is blitzing and everybody had an opportunity today," Merriweather said. "Our defensive line is the best in the league and our secondary can run with anybody."

Bills 34, Jets 3

The Jets seem to have hit bottom, scoring only one touchdown offensively in the last four games, all losses. At Buffalo, New York was held to 154 yards and just 17 min-quarterback Jim Kelly, threw for three scores.

utes of possession time. The Bills had more rushing plays (52) than the Jets had total plays (48).

"Mistakes, week after week, are killing us," Jets quarterback Ken O'Brien said. "It seems we're pulling the noose a little tighter on ourselves all the time."

Buffalo, meanwhile, stayed atop the AFC East at 5-2 as Frank Reich, subbing again for injured season, didn't do badly in the other three periods, either, against the befuddled Chargers. San Diego had only 179 yards total offense and did not score a touchdown on offense.

"It seemed as if they were actually playing defense while their offense was in there," said linebacker Lawrence Taylor, held without a tackle because he was being blocked by two and three men on every play.

Vencie Glenn went 81 yards for a touchdown with a fumble by Maurice Carthon, the longest fumble return in Chargers' history.

Oilers 27, Steelers 0

Houston's first shutout since 1980 featured a near-perfect first half in which Pittsburgh gained but 22 yards. Entering the fourth quarter, the Steelers had only 42 yards total offense and wound up with 132.

Bubba McDowell had two interceptions as Houston (4-3) forced four turnovers.

The Oilers scored on four of their five first-half possessions and Warren Moon had three first-half touchdowns.

Chiefs 36, Cowboys 28

Dallas continued its struggles as Christian Okoye ran through the NFL's worst rushing defense for 170 yards and two touchdowns. The Chiefs (3-4) scored four rushing touchdowns for the first time since Dec. 12, 1976. The last was a 5-yard run by quarterback Steve Pelluer, who was traded by the Cowboys to Kansas City last week.

Pelluer played the third quarter for Steve DeBerg, who had muscle cramps in his right leg.

Former Chief Paul Palmer, signed this week by Dallas, had a 63-yard touchdown run.

49ers 37, Patriots 20

In a game played at Stanford Stadium while Candlestick Park is being repaired after the devastating earthquake, the 49ers lost safety Jeff Fuller to a serious neck injury.

Fuller sustained a compression fracture of three vertebrae in his neck, causing nerve-root damage that may cost full him use of his right arm. Team physician Dr. Michael Dillingham said the injury is not life-threatening and that Fuller was in stable condition in the intensive care unit at Stanford Hospital. Fuller also sustained a concussion.

Joe Montana left in the second quarter with a slight knee sprain.

Steve Young replaced Montana and completed 10 of 11 passes for 188 yards and three touchdowns. Jerry Rice had a pair of touchdown catches.

Colts 23, Bengals 12

Cincinnati had won 12 straight at home, but the loss to the Colts was their second straight — Miami broke the streak last week. The Bengals were their own worst enemy, losing the ball twice late in the game, leading to 14 points for Indianapolis.

James Brooks fumbled and Duane Bickett recovered at the Bengals' 16, setting up Jack Trudeau's 3-yard touchdown pass to Albert Bentley with 2:07 remaining. Then Keith Taylor intercepted Boomer Esiason and returned the ball to the Cincinnati 21. On the next play, Eric Dickerson scored. Dickerson rushed for a season-high 152 yards.

Saints 40, Rams 21

New Orleans struck quickly and often in handing the Rams their second consecutive loss after five victories. Bobby Hebert threw touchdown passes of 54 yards to Floyd Turner and 37 yards to Eric Martin on consecutive plays early in the third quarter. Hebert completed 15 of 22 passes for 276 yards.

Redskins 32, Buccaneers 28

Washington put the game away by scoring on all three third-quarter possessions. The Skins increased a 12-7 halftime lead to 29-7, then held off a Tampa Bay rally.

Mark Rypien threw two touchdown passes to Gary Clark and Gerald Riggs ran for 99 yards and one score.

The Bucs rushed the ball 10 times for one yard.

World Series will resume on Friday

By JIM DONAGHY

AP Baseball Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Life in the Bay area goes on and San Francisco Mayor Art Agnos wants the World Series to be part of it starting Friday.

Just minutes before the start of Game 3 between San Francisco and Oakland last Tuesday, a powerful earthquake hit northern California, causing death and destruction for miles.

The people of the region, however, have made a remarkable recovery in a short period of time.

"Cable cars are running. The opera is performing. Conventions are starting. The 49ers are playing," Agnos said. "It's time to go on."

"We even had our first protest demonstration, a sure sign that we are regaining our equilibrium."

During a news conference at the St. Francis Hotel on Sunday, Agnos and Commissioner Fay Vincent said the World Series would resume on Friday.

Games 3 and 4 and, if necessary, Game 5, will be played over the weekend at Candlestick Park. If needed, Monday would be an off day and the Series could end in Game 6 on Tuesday, Oct. 31, or in Game 7 on Wednesday, Nov. 1, in the Oakland Coliseum. Oakland leads the best-of-7 Series 2-0.

Last Wednesday, Vincent tentatively scheduled the Series to resume on Tuesday.

"We have agreed that baseball should resume with enthusiasm this coming week," Vincent said. "But Tuesday was too ambitious."

Vincent, however, made it clear all week that baseball was not a priority, but only a guest, in the Bay area. The final decision was made by Agnos.

So now, this Series, which had already been delayed by the longest layoff ever, will go 11 days between games. All games will be played at their original starting times.

Agnos cited three reasons for waiting until Friday: Candlestick Park must be certified as safe, the Bay area must find whether it can handle the expected traffic problems, and sufficient security must be assigned.

"It's been just five days since the second largest earthquake of the century struck the San Francisco Bay area," Agnos said. "For most San Franciscans, the shock and the grief have just begun to wear off and we are turning to the work of putting people's lives back together again."

There are still hundreds of homeless here and in surrounding communities.

Agnos said the city survived in "astoundingly good shape" and life is returning to normal.

The mayor said he did not have the time to think about the World Series until this weekend. He met with Vincent Saturday night and early Sunday.

Aggies' Thomas following in footsteps of former All-American linebacker

By JIMMY BURCH

Fort Worth Star-Telegram

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — William Thomas, Texas A&M's wisp of an outside linebacker, inherited the jersey of former All-American Johnny Holland when he enrolled in 1987.

Two years later, Thomas is reliving Holland's life story as well.

Thomas, like Holland, went to A&M as a quarterback. Both were assigned uniform No. 11.

Holland, now in his third season with the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League, had a brief but ineffective stint at quarterback before he moved to the secondary. He stayed there one season, moved to outside linebacker and became a star. All while wearing a quarterback's number.

Thomas, A&M's latest quarterback-turned-linebacker, made the switch from strong safety last spring. His No. 11 has been draped over opposing quarterbacks so frequently this fall that older teammates have started calling him "Johnny Rock" — Holland's old nickname.

Not bad company for a 6-3, 205-pound junior who was projected as a backup as recently as August. Thomas' status changed during fall drills, coach R.C. Slocum said, when he showed surprising tenacity as a pass rusher.

Slocum said Thomas, whom he called the "skinnyest" linebacker in Division I football, earned a spot as a starter on an A&M team seeking its fourth Southwest Conference championship in five years.

Tim Simpson ready for another crack at Nabisco Golf Championships

By STEVEN WINE

AP Sports Writer

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (AP) — Tim Simpson, buoyed by a one-stroke victory in the Disney Classic, gets another crack this week at the Harbour Town Golf Links in the $2.5 million Nabisco Championships. This time, Simpson will try to stay away from the water.

Simpson, 33, has been familiar with the Hilton Head, S.C., layout since childhood. His family spent summers there, and he would hang around the golf course.

He won $144,000 with his second title of the year Saturday.

A victory in the Nabisco would be worth $450,000.

"Obviously I have more momentum than any other player going into this," Simpson said with a chuckle. "I feel like I've established myself as an upper-echelon player, which I've wanted to do all my life — not be just one of the numbers out here."

Simpson clinched the Disney victory when he tapped in for par on the last hole while playing partner Donnie Hammond made a bogey.

Simpson, avoiding the bogeys that befell other contenders, had 16 pars as he shot a final round of 2-under-par 70 on Saturday for a 16-under total of 272. Hammond made three bogeys as he shot 71 to finish at 273.

On the par-4 18th hole, Hammond hit his drive behind a tree in the right rough. He pulled his second shot into a bunker, chipped up short by 20 feet and two-putted.

"I feel pretty good," said Hammond, who was seeking his second consecutive PGA Tour victory. "I played pretty hard and hit some pretty good shots in the middle of the round. I just couldn't do it on the last hole."

Hammond needed a first- or second-place finish in the Disney to make the top 30 on the Tour money list, the cutoff for qualifying for the Nabisco.

PLANO, Texas (AP) — Quarterback Scott Stoker of Northwestern State and Stephen F. Austin receiver Joe Bradford were named Southland Conference co-offensive Players of the Week.
Sam Houston State's Mike Otis received Defensive Player of the Week honors and teammate Bart Bradley was selected as Special Teams Player of the Week.
Stoker passed for 294 yards and two touchdowns in Northwestern's 14-14 tie with North-east Louisiana. The senior from Henderson, La. had touchdown passes of 65 and 99 yards. Stoker's 99-yard touchdown pass to Victor Robinson was a national, SLC and school record.
Bradford had eight receptions for 144 yards and three touchdowns to pace fifth-ranked Stephen F. Austin to a 42-14 victory over McNeese State. The senior from Henderson, Texas, had touchdown catches of 15, 15 and 10 yards.
Otis had 10 tackles, including two tackles for losses, in Sam Houston's 14-6 victory over North Texas. It was SHSU's first conference victory since 1987. The junior from Crosby, Texas, caused a fumble that set up the Bearkats' first touchdown.
Bradley punched five times in the Bearkats victory for an average of 49 yards. The senior from Kilgore, Texas, had punts of 65 and 57 yards in the fourth quarter to keep UNT in bad field position against the wind.

Carter coach faces more inquiries

DALLAS (AP) — Freddie James, the suspended head football coach of Dallas Carter High School, faced a new round of inquiries today because he was seen wearing a headset and sitting with Carter coaches in the press box during the school's game against DeSoto.
James, whose team won the Class 5A state championship last year, was placed on administrative leave last week pending an investigation into allegations that he knowingly played an ineligible player against Grand Prairie the previous week.
James' appearance in the press box last Friday is "a real problem," said a Dallas school district official investigating the school and its head coach.
James videotaped by a Fort Worth television station wearing a headset during the second half of Carter's game at DeSoto, which the Cowboys won 33-13.
"We didn't prohibit him from going to the game, but we were disappointed to learn that he was there," said Chad Woolery, a Dallas school district assistant superintendent who is leading the investigation into complaints about James and his program.
"We removed him as head coach and communicated to him that he was not allowed to coach, but we didn't tell him he couldn't go to the game. But he really didn't have any business being in the press box."

Woolery said Dallas Independent School District officials would ask James today about his presence in the press box.
While on administrative leave, James has been assigned to work at a downtown athletic office.
James is not commenting on his situation, and would only tell a Dallas newspaper that he was "sightseeing" at the DeSoto game.
In an interview with KXAS-TV following Friday's game, Carter's acting coach, Bruce Chambers, was asked if James was being allowed to coach from the press box.
"Well, he wasn't coaching," Chambers responded. "I mean, he wasn't talking to me... I don't know, you know, if he can, if he can't, but I know he wasn't coaching."
Chambers acknowledged James was wearing headphones, but said: "It doesn't necessarily mean that he's transmitting plays. You know, but like I said, he wasn't talking to me."
The school district expects its investigation into James and his program to be completed by Wednesday, Woolery said. Seven affidavits were taken Friday.
The DISD had offered a forfeit to Grand Prairie because of the presence of an ineligible Carter sophomore during the game. But the district executive committee of District 11-5A delayed accepting such a forfeit until the outcome of the school district investigation.

Man killed in fight between rival fans

HOUSTON (AP) — A man police say was a bystander was shot and killed during a confrontation between rival high school football fans.
A 16-year-old boy, a junior at Madison High School in southwest Houston, was taken into custody following the early Saturday morning shooting, homicide Sgt. Dave Collier said.
The boy made a statement to police and was expected to be turned over to the juvenile detention courts, he said.
A juvenile detention court spokesman, however, said Sunday he could not release any information on the teen.
Collier said the fatal shot was not intended for George Allison, 21, but for three students from Willowridge High School, whose football team beat Madison 28-21 Friday night. The three Willowridge students had driven to the mobile home park, where about 100 Madison students were having a party.

A crowd of Madison students gathered around the Willowridge car.
"When people started ganging around the car, they took off," Collier said. "Somebody handed him (the suspect) a gun and said, 'Shoot at them,' and he shot at them."
The shot struck Allison, who was standing nearby, in the chest. He was taken to Ben Taub Hospital, where he died at 1:12 a.m. Saturday.
The gun also had been fired earlier in the party, though no one was injured, Collier said.

Longhorns shooting for Southwest Conference championship honors

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer
Shades of 1969.
The Texas Longhorns of 20 years ago used a victory over the Arkansas Razorbacks in the Ozarks to win the national championship.
While no such national honor will be in the future for the twice-beaten 1989 Longhorns, they could use the Fayetteville springboard for league championship honors.
Texas became the Southwest Conference's only unbeaten team in league play on Saturday with a 24-20 upset of seventh-ranked Arkansas.
Texas is 3-0 with a week off to contemplate back-to-back victories over Oklahoma and Arkansas.
"You always feel lucky to get out of the hills (the Ozarks) with your skin," said Texas coach David McWilliams. "I was nervous but I'm happy."
Texas has defeated Arkansas in Fayetteville four consecutive times and it's the second victory for McWilliams in the Hogs' back yard.
In other games on Saturday, 23rd-ranked Texas A&M stayed alive in the conference race with a 14-11 victory over Baylor, Texas Christian upheld the SWC's non-conference record to 15-8-1 with a shocking 27-9 upset of The Air Force at Amon Carter Stadium, Texas Tech came from behind to defeat pesky Rice 41-25, and 16th-ranked Houston gunned down helpless Southern Methodist 95-21 in the Astrodome.
Trailing behind Texas and A&M in the SWC race are Arkansas 2-1, TCU, Texas Tech and Baylor at 2-2, Rice at 1-3, and SMU at 0-5. The Cougars aren't eligible for the SWC title or the Cotton Bowl because of NCAA probation but their games against other league teams count.

Arkansas coach Ken Hatfield said the Texas victory was no fluke.
"My hat is off to them," Hatfield said. "We couldn't slow them down."
Arkansas linebacker Mick Thomas said Texas quarterback Peter Gardere, a redshirt freshman, is the real item.
"He's better than anybody we've faced," Thomas said.
Gardere hit 16 of 20 passes for 247 yards, including a 61-yard touchdown strike to Tony Jones.
Baylor coach Grant Teaff, wearing sunglasses to hide his red eyes after some locker room tears, found the loss to the Aggies hard to stomach.
He said: "It's one of the toughest losses I've ever had. It was one time I didn't know what to say to the team. It was just that painful of a loss."
Teaff said that although A&M has a loss in the league race, "I think the Aggies are in the driver's seat. They get Texas and Arkansas at home where they are tough."
Baylor lost although linebacker James Francis had 16 tackles, a fumble recovery and two touchdowns.
"It was the greatest performance by a linebacker since Mike Singletary," Teaff said.
The Aggies were soundly outplayed, yet a 34-yard run by quarterback Lance Pavlas set up the winning touchdown.
"Sooner or later, you've got to win one of those games where everything is going against you," said A&M coach R.C. Slocum. "You've got to find a way to win, whether it's life or football."
James Gray rushed 33 times for 227 yards as Tech kept its bowl hopes alive. It's the first time since 1977 that the Raiders have five vicories heading into November.

Houston poured it on freshmen-dominated SMU, drawing coach Forrest Gregg's wrath.
"I would have never ran up the score against anybody," Gregg said. "We will even the score somewhere along the line. This is not easy to swallow. We will never forget it."
Houston set NCAA records for most total yards in a game (1,021) and most passing yards (771). They tied a record with 10 touchdowns.
Quarterback Andre Ware set NCAA records for most yards in a quarter (340 in the second), most yards in a half (517 in the first half), and most touchdown passes in a quarter (five) in the second.
"We were just running our offense, we didn't run up the score," Ware said.
Leon Clay, a freshman redshirt, came off the bench to hit 10 of 11 passes for 165 yards and two touchdowns against Air Force, including an 86-yarder to Stephen Shipley, second longest in TCU history.
TCU shut down Dee Dowis, the Air Force's great quarterback, to 28 yards on eight carries and only 69 yards passing.
"It was one of our biggest victories, ever," said TCU coach Jim Wacker.
In games this week, TCU is at Baylor in a noon (Raycom TV) game, Texas A&M is at Rice in a 2 p.m. clash, North Texas is at SMU in a 2 p.m. game, and Arkansas and Houston meet at 7 p.m. in Little Rock.
SWC Superlatives:
Passing — Houston's Andre Ware, 25-41-1 for 517 yards.
Receiving — Houston's Manny Hazard, nine catches for 143 yards.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS
Notice is hereby given that the Commissioners' Court of Gray County will accept proposals from Certified Public Accountants to conduct an independent audit of the County's various financial records for calendar years 1988 and 1989. Sealed proposals will be received until 10:00 a.m. on November 15, 1989 in the County Judge's office, Gray County Courthouse, Pampa, Texas.
The audit is to include the receipt and disbursement of all funds for such office holder's office, if any. Examination of the accounting records should include such tests as to detect irregularities, fraud, falsification or illegal acts, if any. Proposals shall set forth the standard hourly rates, estimated hours by rate classification and a maximum dollar amount for all services and materials to be billed. Ten copies of each report are required for the County.
Payment to be made upon completion of all work and acceptance of the audit reports and opinion letter.
Proposals are to be for one year; however, an option can be offered for more than one year. The County reserves the right to reject any or all bids, to waive objections based on failure to comply with formalities and to allow correction of obvious or patent errors.

Blackhawks hand Kings 7-4 loss in National Hockey League action

By JOE MOOSHIL
AP Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Flu-stricken Wayne Gretzky played as hard as he could but the NHL's all-time scoring leader wasn't up to it. As a matter of fact, neither were his Los Angeles teammates.
The result was a 7-4 NHL loss to the Chicago Blackhawks Sunday night.
"I wasn't 100 percent but I felt there were still some of the little things I could do to help the team," said Gretzky, suffering from a "touch of the flu" and a case of laryngitis. "I knew I wasn't myself tonight, but I still played as hard as I could. That's the part of being a professional."
Gretzky still managed two assists although he was obviously off his game.
Coach Mike Keenan of the Blackhawks said his team didn't do anything special against Gretzky. "We forechecked well and we killed off their great power play."

The Blackhawks shut off the Los Angeles power play led by Gretzky four times, including three times in the second period when they seemingly blew the game open with a three-goal assault.
But they still had to fight off a final, desperate rally by the Kings to put away the victory that gave them a 5-4-1 record and placed them over the .500 mark for the first time since Keenan took over as coach last year and the first time since Nov. 22, 1987.
In the only other NHL game Sunday night, Winnipeg beat Edmonton 5-4.
Steve Thomas and Adam Creighton were instrumental in Chicago's victory, as was goalie Jacques Cloutier, who survived a three-goal surge in a span of six minutes in the final period.
A 6-1 lead shriveled to 6-4 with about five minutes to play and by the time Creighton scored his second goal of the game into an open net, the issue was final.

Jets 5, Oilers 4
Thomas Steen flipped in a rebound with 6:26 left to lead Winnipeg over Edmonton.
Paul Fenton, Randy Cunneyworth, Dave Ellett and Dave McLlwain also scored for the Jets, who blew a 3-1 second-period lead, but rallied from a 4-3 deficit in the third period.
Steen, still suffering from the flu, put a rebound into the top of the net at 13:34 to break a 4-4 tie.
Glenn Anderson had two goals and Mark Messier and Geoff Smith one apiece for Edmonton (3-4-1), which suffered its first road loss in three games this season.
Bill Ranford made 30 saves — including two on breakaways by Dale Hawerchuk, to keep Edmonton in the game. Tom Draper faced only 18 Edmonton shots for the Jets.
"Akceem is the kind of player who will want to be ready, but there's no certainty," Chaney said.
"The doctors may clear him for the first game, but he may not be ready to play basketball. There's a difference between being ready medically and being ready physically."

Rockets' may place Olajuwon on injured list to reach 12-man roster

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Rockets may place star center Akeem Olajuwon on the injured list in order to get its roster to 12 players by Nov. 3, coach Don Chaney said.
Olajuwon has been on medication for 104 days to treat a blood clot discovered in his left calf July 10. He is supposed to be weaned off the blood thinners, which takes about five days, before he can participate in full-contact scrimmages.

"Once we get the OK from doctors, we'll go full-tilt and see how long it takes Akeem to get ready," Chaney said. "Knowing Akeem, he'll be ready."
Chaney said if Olajuwon is not cleared to play before the opener, it might be to the Rockets' benefit to hold him out until he regains his stamina.

"Akeem is the kind of player who will want to be ready, but there's no certainty," Chaney said.
"The doctors may clear him for the first game, but he may not be ready to play basketball. There's a difference between being ready medically and being ready physically."
