Coach Chapman To Have Heavy Team Here

Save in September

Tiger Infield Mentors Not To Have Edge Very Happy

Black And Gold To Depend On Passes; Defensive Workout

Big Spring high school's grid mentors received a severe jolt Wednesday morning when they learned that the Lubbock Westerners, due down Friday evening for a practice tilt, will outweigh the Big Springers by a wide margin.

The Westerner line will be approximately one hundred and three pounds heavier than the Steer forwards, wall, outweighing the local, fourteen-pounders to the man. Coach Chapman's backfield will be six pounds heavier to the man than the Herd.

Coaches Worried
The Steer coaches are worried indeed. The way they figure it, the only edge the Bovines will have will be that Cordill will scale just a few pounds heavier than his opponent, and the local water boy, Good Graves, may tip the scales a bit more than the Lubbock water loter.

Obie opined that it would be next to impossible to expect the Steer line to be able to stand up against as heavy a charging outfit as the Westerners. "They'll simply run over our little club," he said.

Drilled In Passing
The black and gold has been drilled in passing this week, and the results are pretty fair, but far from being a perfect combination. Need doing most of the tossing and Cordill the shagging.

Obie will have his cohorts take to the air on a big scare Friday. It will be their only chance, because the possibility of a defense holding is very slim.

"I wouldn't be so worried," the big coach continued, "if they didn't outweigh us so much, but that means a lot."

Not only may fans get to see the Steers do a lot of passing, but it looks like Chapman has similar ideas. The Lubbock coach says his team will play a wide open game. They have some good passers in Quarterback Eugene Alderson, Halfback Virgil Griner and Fullback Charles Calhoun.

Look For Calhoun
This Calhoun is going to be quite a horse in the Westerner backfield this year. Switched from the line in order to provide blocking weight for pee wee ball toters, Calhoun has quickly shown capabilities as a ball carrier, a passer and a punter. He can block, too. Griner, a tom thumb halfback who didn't get to play much last year because of injuries, is one of the neatest things out there. He's going to give Morris White a battle for honors. Alderson, coming up from the Coachman's line, is probably the most accurate passer of the group, and Backfield Coach Huffman thinks he has great possibilities.

Bob Flowers, who captains the Steer outfit, is rated as one of the smoothest high school performers in this section, will be on the sidelines again Friday. Bristow doesn't think Bob's hand has healed enough to risk using him, and he doesn't want to ruin him for the season.

and the other at one position, you can generally be sure that that position is one of the weakest on his team.

So it is at third base for the Giants, where Terry is waving between Bloddy Ryan and John Vergez. Vergez was good enough to play the hot corner most of the year, but he has slumped at bat so miserably (batting average: .197) today, if his pitching staff were no stronger than his third baseman place. Terry believe in him. This rather than his batting or fielding, is responsible for his chance.

All this is one way of saying that the Tigers are better fortified at third base with youthful Marvin Owen. Manager Mickey Cochrane tried to get Pinkie Higgins from the Athletics to play third base, but Connie Mack wouldn't let him go, and Owen had to be used. Cochrane is glad today that the Higgins deal fell through, for Owen has played so well that Cochrane has since been prompted to say: "I wouldn't trade him for any third baseman in the league."

Batting Records
Owen is batting .321 and has been playing a great game in the field. He should have no trouble proving in this section, will be the best third baseman on the field.

Detroiters Have Considerable Punch, Batting Figures Show

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of four articles comparing the New York Giants and the Detroit Tigers. Subsequent articles will discuss the outfielders and the batteries.

By JAMES B. RESTON
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
NEW YORK (AP)—Figures—those black-faced, two-faced monsters of professional baseball, which give Detroit Tigers' infield a 42 point batting advantage over the New York Giants—may mean nothing in the world series.

For evidence, you have the case of Henry Greenberg vs. William Terry. Even the boys who dislike Memphis Terry will admit that he is one of the best first basemen in his recent history of the game. His record this year is indisputable. He has been in the fight for the National league batting crown all year with a mark of around .331, and in the field he has been just as calm and reliable as the Brooklyn bridge. Still, there is more than a possibility that this 'boy Greenberg' will steal the show from him in the series.

Hits 'In The Clutch'
Though Greenberg is batting approximately 15 points better than Terry, he has driven in about 42 more runs Terry is batting third and Greenberg fourth, which accounts for part of the difference, but Greenberg's hitting has been so vicious when the Detroiters were in the tightest spots, that it isn't likely anyone can be rated below anyone—not even Terry.

In the field, Terry clearly has the advantage. He is the cool, methodical campaigner, the perfect first baseman. Greenberg is still complaining about his legs and his legs today they won't mention little Hughie in the same breath, even for sentimental reasons.

Gehring Over Critz
Charley's batting average of .358 is 115 points higher than Hughie's, and Charley's arm is stronger. It is amazing that his legs are not better, because they are so much younger, but no second baseman in the game will cover more ground than Critz, or make more surprising stops. Critz is at least partly responsible for the notion that the Giants' infield will be better defensively than Detroit's.

In the major leagues, a weak hitter is defined as "one who hits when you least expect him to." Hughie Critz is this type of hitter. When the Giants were in a lamentable slump at the start of September, he had one of the best weeks in the history of the year, and was partly responsible for the Giants' comeback.

At shortstop are two of the finest players in the game today, Bill Rogell of the Tigers and Captain Travis Jackson of the Giants. Jackson is none of your half-way shortstops. He's made in the old tradition of the game. At his command is perhaps the strongest throwing arm in baseball today.

Jackson Has Edge
But Travis Jackson could have the strongest arm in the game and still not be anything like the player he has been this year. He has what is respectably known as "heart." One of the greatest money players in the game, he is batting only .283, yet he is driving more runs than Rogell, who has been around the 300 mark all season.

Fortunately for the Giants, a baseball team can be stronger than its weakest link. Bill Terry would not be making world series plans today, if his pitching staff were no stronger than his third baseman. When a manager uses one player, he uses them all.

petition; good pass receiver and sensational defensively."

Bristow says he's pleased with his Bovines, but nothing is sure as yet.

One West Texas grid tilt that local Whites will watch with great interest Saturday will be the Austin high school-Bowie fray at El Paso—a championship battle. If the Bovines, odds-on favorites to capture the district 3 diadem, run true to form, they will tackle the winner of the El Paso district—probably Bowie. One thing you can't figure out is why such an important game as the Bowie-Austin high affair is to be staged so early in the season.

Thousands of Women Benefited By Cardui

The benefits many women obtain from Cardui give them great confidence in it. "I have four children," writes Mrs. J. L. Norred, of Lagrange, Ga. "Before the birth of my children, I was weak, nervous and tired. I had a lot of trouble with my back. I took Cardui each time and found it so helpful. Cardui did more to slay the nannies at these times than anything I have ever used. I am in very good health and believe Cardui did a lot of it." Thousands of women have benefited from Cardui. If it does not benefit you, consult a physician.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK COMES AGAIN

In about a month—between October 7 and 13—Fire Prevention Week will be observed again. This week, which has become a national custom, will be formally initiated by proclamations by the President, governors of States, mayors of cities and other prominent persons in public and private life.

During the week every citizen will have a splendid opportunity to learn the fundamentals of fire prevention and control. Through speeches, newspaper and magazine articles, exhibits and other means, an intensive effort will be made to enlist the citizen's interest. He can blame no one but himself if he fails to learn.

Fire prevention is a civic duty which every citizen owes to himself and to every other person. We all pay for fire—we pay for it in lost business, destroyed jobs, higher taxes and insurance rates. On the average, each family contributes $4 a year as a tribute to Moloch—dollars which are destroyed as surely as if we tossed them into a stove. Worse still, three people—two adults and a child—out of each 50,000 of our population, are sacrificed to the pagan god—because we are ignorant and careless when it comes to fire.

In the past, it has often been the experience that fire losses dropped during the week and for a short period thereafter, only to rise again as the public gradually forgot the information gleaned.

This year we should look forward to the week and devote a little time during it to really learning the fundamentals of fire prevention—then remember and practice them in the future.

Summer training of national guardsmen at Fort McClellan, Alabama, was halted nearly a full day recently for the wedding of a private and his childhood sweetheart.

At his side is Miss Lorna Reid, his mechanic. Both are University of Toronto students. Wilson's victory was on points under rules of the American Power Boat Association, and by reason of a slashing victory in the first heat and two close finishes in second place. Exhibition crowds were electrified in the third and final heat when Wilson, after losing scores of yards by reason of a delayed start, waged a valiant fight for the lead. With his engine roaring wide open he managed to flash past 6 competing boats but was unable to overtake the heat winner, finishing a scant 75 yards in its wake. The Exhibition races mark the first running of an international championship in the new speed boat racing class which promises to become one of the most sporting

TIGER ISLAND

By Gouverneur Morris

CHAPTER 19
SIMPLE RULES

"Who's going to know?" said Flint honestly. "He's a sport."

She had said that if he did not at once open the door she would start screaming. He had not opened the door and she had not started to scream. He was inexperienced and these facts gave him hope.

He advanced a short step and she story ever turned more quickly to the bolting of a door. But the business required two hands. The door itself had sagged on its hinges and had to be lifted by the handle so that the bolt could be shot. The door was heavy and required a strong lift.

As Flint strained eagerly upward on the base doorknob, Ivy swung the heavy water-bottle and brought it down with stunful concussion on the top of his head. He dropped in a heap, his fingers twitching. She recovered her sewing materials, stepped across the unconscious man, opened the cabin door and went on deck.

Ivy's face was untroubled and her first thought on gaining the deck was how much fresher the air was than it had been down in that hot stuffy cabin. Flint was not the first man to be quieted and brought to order by a blow on the top of the head with a bottle or a carafe.

She did not think that she had killed him and she did not much care. His devotion which had really touched her had all ended in beatitudes. Men like Flint were probably better dead. What was he doing anyway under the Chinese flag? Didn't he have a flag of his own?

When presently Bowers joined her, having been worsted, he admitted humbly, in his argument with Wong Bo, she made no mention of the unpleasant scene with the wireless operator. If Bowers learned what had happened, he would feel, manlike, that something drastic had to be done about it. Flint had been sufficiently punished.

It is doubtful if any man in his draw back an equal distance and a little more to the right, a little nearer to the water-bottle.

Her entire manner changed. Her eyes softened and he thought that she was going to be what he had called a sport. A good yielding sport. Her next words convinced him that this was the case. She spoke in a quick half-whisper.

"Isn't it better to bolt the door?" she asked.

It is doubtful if any man in his

AAA SAFETYGRAMS

NEEDLESS INJURY

43,970 pedestrians crossing against auto-traffic were injured in automobile accidents in the United States in 1933. 28,878 more were injured while crossing against a traffic signal or the signal of a traffic officer. Stepping from behind a parked car caused injury to 33,520 pedestrians. Too often, pedestrians are careless and take chances. Not always does the blame rest on the motorist.

The light began to fall but the simple washdress upon which she had been engaged was finished. She had planned to make several more, but Bowers dissuaded her. This one would do to go ashore in and once she was ashore, she would no longer have to sew for herself. Others would sew for her.

Helen joined them, climbed lightly to Ivy's shoulder and chattered in her ear.

"What's she saying?" asked Bowers with a smile.

"She's been talking to the caged monkey," said Ivy, "and they've insulted her because she's free and has hats and frocks and a trunk and suitcase all her own. She says that they're nothing but low-down monkey-trash."

But Ivy's attention was on neither Helen nor Bowers. It was at most time for the "Get Ready" song, when she and Bowers would both go below to change for dinner and her attention was on the door by which Flint, if and when he recovered consciousness, might be expected to emerge.

It would be altogether unpleasant if Bowers were to discover him prone on the floor of Ivy's cabin. Explanations would not fit the case. The truth would have to be told, and Bowers of course would feel that he had to do something about it.

When Flint actually did emerge through the doorway toward which she had been casting glances, she sighed with relief. Flint's face was dead-white and his brain was not altogether clear.

It did not occur to him that Ivy might keep silent about what had happened. Women didn't. If telling would get others into trouble, they told. Undoubtedly Bowers would take some kind of action.

This would probably be first-aid. Flint was no match for Bowers, but he was not a coward. Believing that he was in for a dreadful beating he thought best to get it over with. He hesitated for only a moment and started toward them. His face was stern and set.

"Ivy, realizing what might perhaps be going on in the young man's mind, thought best to warn him that all was well. So she called to him in a gay voice:

"Where have you been hiding yourself?"

"Nowhere special," said Flint as he joined them. "Most anywhere. I have been trying to hide from a splitting headache."

"Ever try aspirin?" asked Bowers in the eager voice of one who wishes another to benefit by a pet cure. "I've got some in my kit somewhere."

"Thanks," said Flint, "but I don't need anything. It's begun to clear up by itself. Hot, isn't it?"

Bowers had risen from his chair. "You sit down there," he said, "and sprawl. I am going to make you try the aspirin, whether you like it or not."

He left them and went to find the medicine, whistling cheerfully as he went.

"Aren't you going to tell him?" asked Flint.

"Not unless you force me to," said Ivy. "It wouldn't be pleasant for me to tell or for him to hear."

1934 LIVESTOCK EXPOSITION TO BE GREATEST EVER HELD

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—Despite the drought and hardship of the summer, the American Royal Livestock Exposition this fall is expected to be the greatest Kansas City ever has offered.

Two reasons are offered for the improved rating by the exposition committee of the chamber of commerce. One is the abandonment this year of the St. Louis National Dairy Show, and the other the earlier date for the local exposition. Whereas it has been held in November in the past it will be held Oct. 20-27 this fall.

The earlier date, it was said, will attract about 33 per cent more dairy entries than in the past, as dairy show stock usually is back in home barns by November.

Mrs. Eugene Morrison and son, Billy Marvin, of Ballinger, are visiting with Mrs. Morrison's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin K. House.

HUGO AND VICTOR ZACCHINI HUMAN PROJECTILES WITH RINGLING CIRCUS

Two men fired from a giant cannon in the same instant - that's but one of the thrills beneath the "big top" of the combined Ringling and Barnum and Bailey circus when it exhibits here for a night performance, only, Friday, Sept. 21, pitching its encampment of thirty tents at Third and Bell streets.

Hugo and Victor Zacchini, two doughty Italian lads, present a Two Man Light Brigade, who charge, not into the cannon's mouth, but out of it, soaring through the dome of the great tent at rocket like speed to alight, right side up, in a net hundreds of feet away without so much as tousling their hair.

The circus is elevated for discharge, Hugo slides into it first. Then Victor lowers himself into the muzzle. There is a big mistake in bucking him so hard. They say that FDR is using every resource to get the conservatives to go along with him - as per Moley's mission in the hope of checking too violent a swing to the left.

They add that Mr. Roosevelt is not likely to use his inflationary powers over money and credit nor to yield to demands for still stiffer regulation of private enterprise unless and until he is fully convinced he can not work with bankers and big industrialists. In that case all he has to do is release the brakes and let Congress do the rest.

Disbar - Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau thinks he has the "Washington Tax Bar" on the run. This is the nickname given an erstwhile closed corporation of District of Columbia lawyers who were able to work wonders before the Bureau of International Revenue in getting big tax refunds and readjustments for wealthy clients.

Teamwork - Raymond Moley is holding down as important a job - unofficially as ever he did when the papers were filled with his doings as chief-truster No. 1. He acts as chief liaison officer between the administration and business and financial leaders. The latter accept him as an authoritative spokesman for FDR.

Motors - The projected merger of independent automobile companies has hit snags but is very much alive behind the scenes. Auburn is taking the most initiative with the car companies that the little fellows can't hope to survive against General Motors and Chrysler competition unless they get together. There's a touch of novelty to the negotiations. They're confined to the companies directly interested with no banking fingers in the pie.

City - Tammany and its allies tried a new stunt in the Democratic primaries. They made no campaign for Frank Taylor as Comptroller-in-chief and relied on the "clubhouse" vote. They wanted to find out just how strong this Fusion bird McDouglrick was. What they learned has them plenty scared.

Racket - One by-product of devaluation is a thriving racket among old gold dealers. Shop sprouting assay signs lure owners of old jewelry - who are relieved of heirlooms at a fraction of their worth. The dealers take advantage of the fact that few sellers know anything about value. The worst of it is that many of the victims are depression sufferers parting with treasures in order to eat.

Sidelights - Chrysler companies shipped 497,000 cars and trucks in the first eight months of '34. That's 47 per cent ahead of a year ago. Insiders estimate that Armour earned more than enough in six months to cover the 6 per cent dividend on its new preferred.

Local Changes in 23 Years - Former Resident Declares Only Howard County Hills Remain Unchanged In Quarter Of Century. Imagine how an ex-resident would feel today returning to Big Spring after an absence of 23 years!

from the Slaughter ranch, and located his town near the old Slaughter headquarters' ranch 25 miles north of town. The town and the land company boomed for a while. The town was called Soash. It had a hotel and a brick bank building, whose foundation and walls are still standing and several stores. Long after the company collapsed from the effect of too much dry weather, dry winds and crop failure, the town and school remained.

West Texas Squad To Engage In Mertz Trophy Battles

A picked team of West Texas golf stars, headed by Shirley Robbins of Big Spring, will engage a San Angelo combination today on the San Angelo Country Club in the annual Mertz cup battles.

The Mertz trophy squad play is a sort of friendly scrap between San Angelo golfers and a picked crew of linksmen from other West Texas clubs.

Giants Turn Out Even With Cincy

NEW YORK—The Giants, still undergoing something of a batting slump, succeeded out an even break with the last place Cincinnati Reds in a doubleheader Tuesday and maintained their 3-1-2 game lead over the idle Cardinals in the National league pennant race.

Cincinnati won the ten-inning opener, 2-0, when Chick Hafey's homer broke up a mound duel between Benny Frey and Fred Fitzsimmons. The Giants came back to take the afterpiece, 4-2, aided by the wildness of Tony Freitas and Allyn Stout.

DOGERS 9, PIRATES 4
BROOKLYN—The Dodgers belabored three Pittsburgh pitchers for 17 hits Tuesday and easily won the delayed opener of their series 9-4. Emil Leonard was touched for 13 blows, including a homer by Paul Waner with two aboard, but went the route for his 13th victory.

The only time the Bucs were close was after Waner's homer in the Services at the Methodist church Sunday; Sunday school at 10 a. m., J. M. Cramer, superintendent; preaching by the pastor at 11 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. Epworth league, 7:15 p. m., Floyd Dunn, president; Mrs. G. M. Boswell, sponsor.

Floyd Dunn, president of the local chapter of the Epworth League, and a young minister, was elected vice-president of the Signal Mountain union, Epworth league, at a session of the first church, Big Spring, Monday night. Those attending from here were Mrs. G. M. Boswell and son, Junior, Rev. Hamilton Wright and daughters, Maxine and Joedena.

Recently a high wind wrenched the Methodist church at Westbrook from its blocks. The membership decided to raze the top-heavy and old structure and build a more modern and substantial church building. Rev. D. A. Rost, the pastor, has a number employed on the new project.

Women of the local Methodist church met and organized recently a chapter of the Woman's missionary society with about twenty members. Mrs. G. M. Boswell was elected president, Miss Sue Brown vice-president and Mrs. Arch Thompson secretary-treasurer and Mrs. Elmer H. Dunn corresponding secretary. The society meets every Monday at 3:30 o'clock. The organization desires the enrollment of every Methodist in this area.

W. A. Farrar, recently seriously injured in an auto accident on Scurry street, Big Spring, is improving at his home here and should be back at work in another week.

Mrs. G. M. Boswell recently returned from a trip which took her to Abilene, Dallas and Carrollton.

Superintendent G. M. Boswell reports school increases in scholastics daily. Numerous new additions are expected when cotton picking closes. This should be soon as the crop is very short here. The seventh left them a run behind.

CUBS 7-1, PHIL 3-8
PHILADELPHIA—The Chicago Cubs and the Phillies divided a doubleheader Tuesday, the Browns winning the first fray, 7-3, while the Phils snared the second, 8-1. Faced by Don Hurst and Gabby Hartnett, the Cubs pounded Syl Johnson and Austin Moore for 12 hits in the first game.

The Phillies led all the way in the second, scoring five runs off Bush in five innings.

Rev. Frank Story, pastor of the Fluvanna church, and Rev. Mr. Merritt, Baptist pastor from Snyder, visited here a brief time, en route to Gall, Borden county, where they are holding a union Baptist Methodist revival this week.

Announcement is made that services will be held at 1 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. at the Methodist church at Vincent on the first Sunday in October. All members of the church are urged to be present for a church conference scheduled for that day.

Elmo Birkhead and family visited briefly Sunday with Mrs. Birkhead's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Farrar.

The union Sunday school at Richland, organized several months ago, is reported growing rapidly. It meets at 10 o'clock every Sunday. Officers urge the people of that community to attend. Preaching services are held there each third Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Latin schools opened several days ago with Frances Adkins, summer graduate of McMurry College, as superintendent. Adkins' parents live on the Lamesa and Big Spring road. He is known by a number of local people.

Indications are Coahoma will be a "deserted village" Friday night when the populace en masse attend Ringling Brother circus at Big Spring.

An old-fashioned rousing Methodist fellowship and fourth quarterly conference is scheduled to be held Sunday, Sept. 30 (fifth Sunday) at Center Point, six miles northeast of Big Spring. Dr. C. A. Long, presiding elder of the Sweetwater district, will preach at 11 a. m. and again in the afternoon.

with a business session at 2 p. m. Dinner will be served on the ground. All persons attending are urged to bring a well filled lunch basket. Churches represented officially upon this occasion will be Coahoma, Vincent, Center Point and Richland. Coahoma will be represented by Elmer H. Dunn, chairman; J. M. Cramer, honorary steward; Lem Dennis, A. W. Thompson, J. C. Neal, N. G. Hoover; Vincent by Mrs. Fern Winters; Mrs. R. L. Warren and M. C. Harris; Richland by G. R. Sewell and Center Point by John Davis, Wylie Davis, J. W. Briggance and W. M. Fletcher. In addition to preaching, planning and good fellowship, officers of the various churches will be elected for the ensuing conference year beginning Nov. 20.

"We extend a special invitation to every Methodist over this area to attend this 'red-letter' day occasion. Bring along a well filled basket and enjoy this fifth Sunday" urged the pastor, Rev. Hamilton Wright, Coahoma. "All former members and pastors are especially urged to be present."

Tigers Whitewash New Yorkers 2 To 0

DETROIT—For the second time in as many days, the Tigers whitewashed their only remaining challengers for the American league pennant, the New York Yankees, winning 2-0 to advance another step ward clinching the flag.

Lynwood Rowe set down the Yanks with six hits. The triumph put the Tigers 7 1/2 games in the van. Four more victories will clinch the flag for Detroit.

MACKS 6, WHITE SOX
CHICAGO—Bill Dietrich shut out the White Sox with six hits Tuesday and the Philadelphia Athletics made it two in a row over the Chicagoans, 6-0. The A's scored five of their runs in the eighth inning, two of them on a homer by Catcher Frank Hayes.

RED SOX 2, BROWNS 1
ST. LOUIS—For nine innings Tuesday big Buck Newsom held the Boston Red Sox hitless, but he weakened in the tenth, gave two passes and a single, and the Browns were defeated 2-1.

The winning run was scored by Bishop, who with Werber had been walked by the St. Louis hurler before R. Johnson singled.

INDIANS 5-2, SENES 4-6
CLEVELAND—The Indians drove another nail into their perch on third place in the American league Tuesday by defeating Washington twice, 5-4, and 9-6.

It took the Indians 12 innings to defeat the badly-crippled Washington outfit in the first game, a triple by Galatzer and a single by Averil finally ending the contest. They overcame a lead of five runs to win the second.

Pampa After State Crown

Odus Mitchell's Harvesters Open Campaign Against Capitol Hill

PAMPA (SpI)—Pampa's Harvesters, district champions in 1933, will open their current campaign at Oklahoma City Sept. 21, when they will test their metal in a night game with Capitol Hill. The odds are heavily on the Sooner, who think they will be state champions this year.

The Harvesters 1934 schedule follows:
Sept. 21—At Capitol Hill, Oklahoma City, night game
Sept. 28—Quannah here, night game
October 5—North Side of Fort Worth, here, night game
October 12—Shawnee, Okla., here, night game
October 19—McLean here, night game
October 27—Bowling High at El Paso
November 3—Plainview here
November 12—Borger at Borger
November 16—Open
November 23—Lubbock here
November 29—Amarillo at Amarillo
—Conference game.
Coaches Odus Mitchell and Argus M. Fox are driving hard in an effort to whip into playing form a squad cut heavily by graduation last spring. They have much beefy, willing material but a shortage of veterans in key positions. A full-back and a capable center must be developed from green material. The right side of the line is inexperienced.

Otherwise, the eleven captained by Monroe Owens, all-state and last year, is up to Pampa Harvesters specifications. The starting lineup this year will likely average about 182 pounds, compared to 158 about 1933. The squad average is 157 pounds. The boys average 157 years in experience.

25 POUNDS OF PENNIES HELP PAY THE STORK
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—It took "Leo Hill five years to save 4,000 pennies but he had a good use for them. Recently he turned over a sack weighing 25 pounds to the cashier of a hospital and told her to apply the pennies to his bill.

"I've been saving for this event for five years," he said as he accepted the receipt for $40.

The event was the arrival of a baby daughter to Mrs. Hill.

A V-8 is no longer the privilege of the Wealthy

Low First Cost
Low Upkeep Cost
High Resale Value

IT is not just chance that the Ford V-8 is the only V-8 selling today for less than $2,500. It is due entirely to the skill of Ford engineers.

For the V-type engine costs more to build. It is the type of engine that powers the most expensive cars—holds every world speed record. And only Ford has been able to put it in a low price car.

The advantages of a V-8 are apparent the moment you drive it. Increased flexibility in traffic—faster pick-up—an ability to get places without driving strain.

The new Ford V-8 is not only low in first cost. It costs less to operate than any other Ford car ever built. Gasoline costs are lower. Oil costs are lower. Carbon removal and valve grinding are virtually eliminated.

See the new Ford V-8 at your nearest dealer's. Then ask yourself why you should accept less today!
