

Cohn Claims Try To Halt Spy Search

WASHINGTON (AP)—Roy M. Cohn, today Secretary Stevens and Army counsel John G. Adams tried to block the McCarthy subcommittee's probe for Communists in the Army, and quoted Adams as saying it would be "a feather in his cap" if no hearings were held.

Under oath, the 27-year-old chief aide to Sen. McCarthy also said it was "true," as the McCarthy camp alleges, that the Army officials tried to "discredit" the subcommittee.

Cohn said that soon after Adams was employed as Army counsel last Oct. 1 Adams told him it would be "a feather in his cap" and would "solidify his job" if he could persuade the subcommittee not to hold either public or executive hearings on alleged subversion at Ft. Monmouth, N.J.

He said Adams made no direct request that the subcommittee drop its investigation but made it very clear it would be "welcome news" if the subcommittee would turn the inquiry over to the Army itself.

Cohn said he did not favor doing this, partly because a "thoroughly alarming" security situation at secret radar laboratories at Monmouth had existed for a long time and the Army had done nothing about it despite repeated FBI warnings over a period of years.

Cohn related that at a luncheon in New York Oct. 13 both Stevens and Adams raised the question of "whether or not we had to have hearings," and asked if there wasn't some way to stop the hearings and let them "do this themselves."

Stevens and Adams both insisted when they were witnesses earlier in the McCarthy-Army hearings that they never tried to halt the senator's investigation.

Stevens said he was concerned about the "type" of hearings and what he termed the way the Army was being "hammered." He said he felt an unfair picture of the situation was being given by the McCarthy subcommittee.

Cohn was asked whether Stevens and Adams complained at the luncheon about distortion of the facts.

They didn't, Cohn replied.

Earlier, Cohn had claimed full credit for the McCarthy subcommittee for suspension of 35 suspected security risks at the Army—claim previously denied by

Woman, Charged In Death, Gets Refund

DETROIT (AP)—Mrs. Sylvester Shaw will be given $25 by the law, even though she is charged with the slaying of her husband.

She had posted a $25 bond to insure her husband's appearance in court in connection with an auto collision. That was April 18, her husband died of a stab wound, and a Traffic Court referee yesterday ruled:

"Under the law the case against Shaw was dismissed automatically. Mrs. Shaw is entitled to the return of her $25 even though she is in jail, charged with his murder."

U. S. Opposes Partition Plan

By EDDY GILMORE
GENEVA (AP)—The United States was reported determined today to stand firmly against any settlement of the Indochina problem which would partition territory of the Associated States.

This view was reported by authoritative quarters as the nine-party Indochina conference prepared to meet again in secret session to consider defining assembly areas into which the military forces of the two sides would be regrouped after a cease-fire.

Viet Nam sources said the proposals submitted Tuesday by Communist-led Vietnam definitely would result in the partition of Viet Nam and would be strongly opposed by the Vietnamese.

Informed quarters said the United States had not yet taken a definite position on the Vietnam proposals, but that the first reaction of the U.S. delegation was that the proposals go a great deal farther than the United States is prepared to accept.

British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden has proposed that military representatives of the "two commands" meet in Geneva immediately to work out the lines of the proposed assembly areas.

An unidentified French general was reported rushing here from Indochina to represent French Union forces if such talks are authorized. He would sit down with an opposite number in the Communist-led Vietnam regime.

The urgency of the situation was stressed once more as French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault returned from Paris with orders to break off discussions if the Geneva conference fails to produce results soon.

A spokesman for the French Cabinet said Bidault had reported the Geneva conference "should take a decisive turn in about 8 or 10 days."

These figures seemed to have special significance when compared with Eden's statement last Monday that this week or the next would be decisive. The two statements appeared to point to June 5 as the date when the fate of the conference might become known.

The Eden plan proposed that representatives of the two commands in Indochina undertake as their first task the problem of working out areas in Viet Nam where troops would be assembled after a cease-fire.

The conference, meanwhile, would continue discussion on other military matters, beginning with arrangements for international supervision of the armistice.

There was no definite word as to the Communist position on the Eden proposal.

Both the East and West are

Adams and Stevens, who insisted the subcommittee supplied only minor information which the Army didn't already have.

Cohn testified it looked to him like the situation at Monmouth was such that action was being taken only because of the subcommittee investigation, and if the investigation were dropped "the action might very well stop."

Relating his story chronologically, Cohn had come only to October and the beginnings of the controversy with the Army when a luncheon recess was taken.

Cohn, chief counsel for the McCarthy subcommittee, was on the stand in the 22nd day of the Army-McCarthy hearings as the first direct witness for the McCarthy side.

Special Counsel Ray H. Jenkins reviewed a charge that Stevens and Adams sought to bring about "a discontinuance" of the subcommittee's investigation of alleged subversion in the Army, particularly at the radar laboratories at Ft. Monmouth, N.J.

"That is true," Cohn said.

The McCarthy camp's allegations were made as a countercharge to the Army's allegation that Sen. McCarthy and his aides brought improper pressures for favored treatment for Pvt. G. David Schime, wealthy New Yorker and former consultant to the subcommittee.

Cohn's early testimony was punctuated by a hot exchange between McCarthy and Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) over whether any crime was involved in McCarthy's receiving secret information from an Army officer.

"You cannot receive classified information obtained by criminal means without being guilty of a crime," McClellan told McCarthy.

McCarthy retorted that if anyone wanted to indict him for getting information "exposing Communists . . . let them go ahead."

The exchange dealt with a document McCarthy unsuccessfully sought to introduce earlier in the hearings, summarizing an FBI report on subversive activities at Ft. Monmouth, N.J. McCarthy said at the time he got the information from an Army officer but declined to name him.

McClellan said he wasn't passing final judgment on whether a crime had been committed but had told Atty. Gen. Brownell he ought to look into it.

The senator got into the matter through another document, produced by Cohn. It was described by Cohn as dealing with Communist infiltration of the Army, and as having been in committee files since March, 1953.

McClellan said Democratic members of McCarthy's subcommittee had never seen it, and protested against having to "sit here and meet with surprise after surprise" in the form of documents.

In reply to a question, Cohn said the document he produced was prepared by Paul Crouch, "who was a Communist himself for a very long time" and Crouch is now a consultant for the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service.

Cohn described the document as estimating the extent of Communist infiltration of the Army.

It was made an exhibit for the hearing record.

They Fought Carrier Fire

Known Dead In Ship Disaster Number 91

QUONSET POINT, R. I. (AP)—The word "catastrophe" bobbed up today in eyewitness accounts of the disaster which killed at least 91 men and injured 201 yesterday on the aircraft carrier Bennington.

The catapult room of the big ship may come under investigation after the Navy Board of inquiry meets for the first time here today.

Last October, 37 men died in an explosion on the carrier Leyte as she was being overhauled at Boston. A Naval board of inquiry concluded that the blast happened when someone accidentally ignited oil in a catapult tube.

In explaining the location of the explosions and fire which shook the Bennington while she was 75 miles offshore, her skipper, Capt. William F. Raborn Jr., of Oklahoma City, said the damaged area was below the third deck; that damage was done to the No. 1 fire room, the port catapult room and the living quarters of the general service crew.

Lt. J.G. John Wallam of Pittsburgh, a gunnery officer aboard the Bennington, said the blast awoke him with such a start he smashed his watch on the bulkhead.

"I heard a funny noise coming from the pumps that operate the catapults. They usually sound like some sort of vacuum cleaner, but now they sounded like a motor was running hot and out of kilter—very much louder than usual," he said.

Wallam said he heard a dull boom echo throughout the ship. When he reached the second deck, he added, the lights were out and there was heavy oil smoke everywhere.

Capt. Raborn explained: "We had just completed launching 20 jets and were standing by to launch the 40 propeller planes on the deck when I spotted the puff of smoke coming from the starboard side of the flight deck. This was followed by a minor explosion, the shock of which was felt only in the forward quarters.

"Then came the major explosion which caused the ship to shake."

Rear Adm. Edgar Cruise, who was aboard the Bennington, his flagship, said he too had seen the puff of smoke and yelled over the speaker to Capt. Raborn. He said later when the Bennington had docked there was a heavy smell of aviation gasoline.

The 32,000-ton carrier, a proud bearer of numerous battle honors in World War II, was rocked by the disaster early yesterday off New England.

A violent blast on the second or third deck below the flight deck was followed by searing flames

By The Associated Press
Four Texans and the husband of a Texas girl have been identified as killed in the explosion and fires aboard the aircraft carrier Bennington Wednesday.

One Texan was on the injured list.

The commander, a Texas native, was among the survivors.

Mrs. L. C. McNatt, Eastland, was notified by the Navy that her son, Ens. Loyd McNatt, 23, was among the fatalities. He was listed from Brooklyn, N.Y., on the official list.

The official list included these: Lt. Joseph F. Arrington, Binghamton, N.Y., and husband of Mary Jane Arrington, Corpus Christi.

SECOND ROUND OF SHOTS DUE

Second round of typhoid "shots" for those people menaced by the high flood waters of last week is scheduled for Friday.

The serum is to be given from 10 to 12 a.m. tomorrow at the Health Unit office, 209 East Street, under direction of Dr. J. E. Hogan, city health officer.

It is important that the immunization program be continued, health officers said, and affected people are urged to appear during the hours designated.

Federal Settlement Made In Grain Case

HOUSTON (AP)—A $280,000 settlement has been accepted by the federal government in a suit for $313,013 in connection with Galveston sales of grain to the Commodity Credit Corp.

The government, acting in behalf of the CCC, had filed the suit against the City of Galveston and the Valley Grain Co., of Kansas City, Mo.

Decreases effecting the settlement are expected within a few days.

In April, 1950, the CCC alleged that grain purchases from Galveston wharves was of a lower grade than provided for in a contract.

The City of Galveston, owner of the wharves, said some of the grain had been acquired from Valley Grain Co. The company denied having sent grain of improper quality.

The wheat was sold by the CCC under a court order. The settlement covers losses sustained by the CCC beyond receipts from the sale of the grain.

Indochina Intervention Plea Out During Talks

Tornado Skips Through Central Texas; No Harm

By The Associated Press
A tornado skipped through a section of Central Texas Thursday morning while a portion of the state was under an alert for the twisting killers.

Police at DeLeon said they saw a tornado funnel touch the ground north of the city and the disappear in the direction of Desdemona. But there was no report of damage.

The Weather Bureau had issued a tornado warning at 1 a.m. for the area running from Mineral Wells to around Terrell and Kaufman and for 30 miles on each side of such a line. But the warning was lifted at 4 a.m. with no tornado reports within the area.

Earlier, the weather men had warned of "possible isolated tornadoes until 1 a.m. 30 miles north and south of a line from Abilene to Fort Worth." The twister at DeLeon, the Weather Bureau said, was reported at 1:29 a.m., about the time four huge B36 bombing planes were taking off from Carswell Air Force Base en route to Central America.

Tornado-like winds struck Wednesday night at Bronie and Winters in West Texas. A home was unroofed and windows were smashed at some downtown Bronie business establishments. Trees were uprooted and some rain and hail fell in the 10-minute storm.

At Winters, Mrs. B. B. Bedford reported a storm that "sounded like a freight train." She and some 50 other persons fled to a big storm cellar. While the storm passed, she related, it took five men to hold the storm cellar door closed.

Heavy rain was reported between Winters and Ballinger and Highway Patrol officers said a number of cars were drowned out. Some hail accompanied a downpour at Ballinger, but no estimate of damage to the wheat, if any, had been made.

Houston May Open Links To Negroes

HOUSTON (AP)—A proposed city ordinance would open Houston's three municipal golf courses to use by Negroes.

The City Council deferred action on the measure yesterday until two members of the council return from a convention in San Francisco.

Mayor Roy Hofheinz submitted the proposal. His action followed the U.S. Supreme Court's refusal last Monday to hear the city's appeal of a Fifth Circuit Civil Appeals ruling that the courses be opened to Negroes "on a segregated basis."

Hofheinz' measure would throw the three courses open to all persons regardless of race or color and was drafted without segregation clauses.

AT CANAL ZONE

U. S. Stops French Freighter To Look For Guatemala Arms

PANAMA (AP)—Tensions increased in jittery Central America today as U.S. customs inspectors at the Atlantic mouth of the Panama Canal ransacked the cargo of a French freighter—presumably for contraband arms.

An agent of the French Line at Cristobal said a search of his 8,032-ton freighter Wyoming began last night "in connection with the business in Guatemala." He obviously referred to U.S. charges that left Guatemala recently received a large arms shipment from behind the Iron Curtain. Guatemala is one of the Wyoming's ports of call.

The agent declared, however, "There are no arms or contraband aboard." He said the ship carried only general cargo.

Director Edmund Lanier of the French Line said in Paris, however, the Wyoming was carrying seven boxes of sporting weapons—described in the manifest as hunting rifles and pistols—consigned from Antwerp, Belgium. Three of the boxes were to be unloaded at San Jose, Guatemala, and the others at La Libertad, Salvador, Lanier said. He said he did not know who sent the boxes. He did not know how many weapons were involved, but said they were "surely not enough to start a war."

Solon Backs Swift Action In Warfare

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—French diplomats said today France will delay asking U.S. intervention in the Indochina war so long as cease-fire talks continue at Geneva.

Rep. Javits (R-Lib-NY), leaving open the question of American intervention, said he is convinced that vigorous and swift action could save Southeast Asia.

Javits is a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, which yesterday heard Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, outline the Asian military situation in a three-hour secret briefing.

Committee members were reluctant to discuss Radford's testimony. Some said it encouraged them.

Javits declined also to comment on the meeting but said he was "convinced that an American foreign policy of initiative and vigor, based on a regional organization, can save Southeast Asia and South Asia (India and Pakistan)."

He added, in an interview, "We have got to get on our horse and do it."

Meanwhile, Britain was reported to have proposed that prospective military talks on Southeast Asia among the Western Big Three, Australia and New Zealand should be held at the highest military level—that is, among the chiefs of staff of the five countries.

Military representatives of Britain, France, the United States and the two southwest Pacific nations are expected to meet here within the next two weeks. What they can accomplish in the absence of overall political decisions, however, is unclear. Obviously they can discuss forces available for taking action if their governments decide on action.

One key to such a decision, perhaps now the most important one, is a proposition from the French government for U.S. intervention. The American government has told the French governments in talks at Paris that such a proposal would be necessary as a basis for future American decisions, bearing in mind that this country would act only as one member of a coalition.

Secretary of State Dulles told a news conference Tuesday that no such bid had yet come from the French. French diplomats here say no bid is to be expected until events at Geneva take a decisive turn one way or another. Their estimate, like that of officials at Paris, is that a showdown with the Communists in the Geneva negotiations may be counted on within the next 10 days.

American authorities evidently hope that the situation may be resolved that quickly. But privately they point out that Communist negotiators are in position to drag out the negotiations with new moves from time to time if that is their purpose.

American officials are convinced that the French government would rather have some kind of a cease-fire agreement at Geneva than initiate any move which would lead to intervention by the United States and its allies which would fully internationalize the Indochina war.

Congressional sources said, meanwhile, they have reason to believe the French soon will remove Gen. Henri Navarre as commander in Indochina.

The informants, who declined to be quoted by name, said his most probable successor is Gen. Rene Cogny, commander of the northern forces in Indochina.

Riding THE GRUB LINE With Franklin Reynolds

Truett Vines, vocational agriculture instructor in the Big Spring High School, and other FFA advisors and county agents, as well as the parents of FFA boys and 4-H Club members, are reporting it difficult to find pigs for feeding projects.

The questioning of residents of almost any West Texas community these days reveals far fewer hogs on the farms than a few years ago. In fact, many farmers just don't have any at all.

Vines and others have been up on the High Plains, around the irrigated country, looking for pigs. Usually there are a great many available in this section, but this year it is almost impossible to find a farmer willing to sell any of them—the principal reason being that the reduction in acres allotted to cotton more feed is going to be grown and the farmers want to market this feed on the hoof. They plan on feeding out their pigs and calves themselves.

This part of West Texas has been acclaimed by the specialists as one of the best climates in the world in which to grow pigs, and yet those areas of the United States where swine must be given unlimited attention and protection from the weather appear to be growing most of the pork.

The Martin County Chamber of Commerce, officially or otherwise, has advocated a program of farmers marketing their feed crops, which will be grown in place of cotton, on the hoof.

Douglas Meador, colorful editor of the Matador Tribune, comments that increased horsepower under an automobile hood does not imply increased horse sense under the driver's haircut.

Some of the farmers who have been waiting for years for a rain are now beginning to wonder if they're going to get enough sunshine and warm weather to get their cotton planted. They say a couple of weeks of sunshine would be quite helpful to them.

Some say that when the soil temperature stays above a 65-degree minimum for three consecutive days that it's cotton planting time. Over the West Texas-cotton-growing area generally the soil temperature has been hovering around the 60-degree mark. Those who watch this indication of cotton planting comment, however, that this lower minimum isn't going to make any difference at this time of the year, that it's late enough to plant cotton regardless of soil temperatures.

A number of farmers say that even if more rains are received most of that moisture will be lost to runoff anyway since the ground is about as wet as it can be gotten. They say this is especially true in fields with closed terraces, borders and where water-holding practices have been used.

W. C. Moldenhauer of the USDA's Agricultural Research Service, and working out of the Big Spring Experiment Station, has staked out grass seeding experimental plots on the Bill Faudree Ranch at Warfield in Midland County.

This is the second in a series of such experimental plots in the Midland area, and these trial plantings on the Faudree Ranch are being made for the purpose of comparing different methods of establishing permanent pastures on land being taken out of cultivation.

Farmers and ranchers have been invited to visit these plots and witness the experiments.

An increasing number of farmers and ranchers are planting crops and litter for the seeding of grasses.

Gerhard Synatschek of Midland County has drilled 35 acres of Sudan on a cleared pasture area, which, after probable grazing, he will seed to a range grass mixture in late summer. For the same purpose, John S. Braun has completed drilling cane on 100 acres on the Arch Bengel Ranch south of Midland.

Southeast of Midland, Lewis Smith has planted 10 acres of Guar on the W. F. Cook Farm for soil improvement.

Steers loaded in late afternoon, shipped overnight and sold the next morning at market, show the lowest shrinkage of all animals marketed over a seven-year experiment by the Beeville Experiment Station.

Steers which were loaded at 5 p.m. and weighed at 8 a.m. the next morning had pre-market shrinkage of only 3.53 per cent. The shrinkage of only 3.53 per cent. The animals were fed two hours before loading and were well filled.

The in-transit losses of 360 steers sold from 1947 to 1953 averaged 5.4 per cent. The greatest shrinkage was noted when steers were moved in July directly to market from green grazing. This July shrinkage was 9.39 per cent.

A reduction of concentrates and algae in the feed one to two days before shipment is looked on with favor at the Experiment Station, because the steers then usually arrive at the market cleaner and cooler. The feeding of carbonaceous hay a week prior to shipment is also suggested.

An excessive loss in body fluids is a disadvantage to both shipper and buyer. Fat, heavy steers may shrink 10 to 12 per cent after being in transit 28 to 30 hours. Then, given water, rest and feed comparable to their previous ration, such animals will regain much of their weight. The Experiment Station says that some shippers withhold water and add salt to the feed before shipment to market with the hopes of getting the animals to drink more water when they get to market. This is not recommended, says the Experiment Station, because it causes over-fill in some animals and no fill in others.

Cattle may be moved short distances in early morning and sold without additional feed and water. But if arrival is the day before the sale all animals should be watered and fed overnight and be provided with plenty of pen room.

Additional information on the shipping of cattle to market is included in Progress Report 1679 and free copies may be obtained by writing: Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas.

Circus Tent Blown Down

STOCKTON, Kan. (AP) — Strong winds blew down a circus tent last night but approximately 1,500 spectators and the performers escaped serious injury.

Employees of the Al G. Kelly and Russell Brothers Circus and townspeople on the grounds outside the big tent helped free those trapped under the billowing canvas.

The most serious injury reported was a broken ankle although a number of persons received cuts and bruises.

Perishing Brady, editor of the Rooks County Record, who was attending the circus, said that six girl serialists had come up ropes to start their performance when the wind hit.

He said the big top began to sway and the girls screamed.

"They started lowering the girls down as soon as the wind started blowing so hard," he said. "They were on the ground just before the tent gave way."

"The tent blew right over our heads and down to the north. The bleachers were sitting in held up but a lot of the other bleachers collapsed."

Friendly Manner Remembered In Will

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Postman John McKalvey always had time to stop for a friendly chat with Mrs. Lydia Wood Baily, an 80-year-old widow whose mansion was located on his route.

His friendly smile meant a lot to the lonely old lady from the time he started delivering mail to the $175,000, 15-room home in suburban Wayne eight years ago.

McKalvey brought his wife to meet, sit and chat with and read to Mrs. Baily. In 1952, they moved in temporarily with her to care for her after she suffered a heart attack.

She died earlier this month. When her will was probated, it left the home to the McKalveys.

Waiting On Duck Proves Expensive

SEAFORD, N.Y. (AP) — A mallard duck is hatching a nest of seven eggs in this Long Island community at a cost of $300 a day.

Bulldozer Louis Hirsch, who is putting up 96 new homes here, is losing some $300 a day because he ordered a bulldozer driver not to uproot the tree where the nest is until the eggs are hatched.

It takes about 26 days for a mallard egg to hatch, but Hirsch thinks he saw a crack in one of the eggs and hopes the mother mallard is near the end of her sitting.

"I'm not sure," he said, "how long I can afford to wait for her to become a mother."

Judge Takes Action On Roofing Noises

DENVER (AP) — Dist. Judge William A. Black halted a roofing job at the City and County Building yesterday, saying the noise disrupted his courtroom.

He ordered two men in charge of the roofing crew brought before him, instructed them to put a stop to the hammering and called a hearing for today to determine who approved the pounding job over his court.

B-36's Leave Carswell For Tour Of Nicaragua

FORT WORTH (AP)—Four big intercontinental B-36 bombing planes, three of them bound for strife-torn Central America, took off from Carswell Air Force Base here today.

The first plane, piloted by Brig. Gen. John D. Ryan, and commanded by Maj. W. L. Pendergraft left Carswell at 1:12 a.m.

The second, commanded by Lt. Col. R. A. Bennett, left the ground at 1:21 a.m. and the third left the runway at 1:25 a.m., under the command of Maj. L. W. Brockwell.

The fourth plane, a so-called "air-borne spare," took off at 1:31 a.m. It was commanded by Capt. Glenn Lovell.

The planes originally were scheduled to start leaving Carswell at 1:30 a.m., but the departure time was pushed up by threatening weather.

The "spare" was sent along to take over in case trouble developed with one of the three planes scheduled to make the round trip to Central America. The Air Force said that if no trouble was apparent by the time the planes reached the vicinity of the Yucatan Peninsula that the "spare" would turn back to Carswell.

As they left, the Air Force announced revised flying time and cut the round trip to Nicaragua and return to 17 hours and 20 min-

LINES UP SUPPORT

Ralph Yarborough Speaks In Denton

By CLAYTON HICKERSON
Associated Press Staff

Ralph Yarborough, already beating the bushes for votes, headed up the North Texas segment of his campaign for governor this week as Gov. Allan Shivers toured Korea in a study of Far East problems.

Yarborough's activity was about all that was apparent in the political arena, but behind the scenes activity continued.

He told a meeting of his backers and field workers in Denton Wednesday night that "too much hard-earned money is going down the drain while the influence peddlers cry 'wait until the Legislature meets, it will pass new laws.'"

Yarborough made the statement during a discussion of enforcement of insurance laws, currently a subject being scrutinized by the Travis County grand jury.

"Texas needs new men who won't be sucked in on a shady deal and who will protect the insurance policy holders and legitimate companies," Yarborough said, and added:

"It's time for us to call on the political leaders in Austin to caucus with their conscience to see if they are really doing all they can to remedy the insurance situation.

"All the smoke in Austin can't be coming from the smoke-filled rooms of the politicians."

Yarborough was in the midst of a North Texas tour. He was in Dallas and Athens Tuesday and an old political friend and staunch backer of his—R. T. Craig of Athens—said he believed the gubernatorial candidate would be back in the East Texas town Friday for the politically-potent Old Fiddlers Reunion there.

He has made few speeches on the present tour but has been meeting quietly with friends and backers and has been attempting to line up more support, financial and moral.

In a speech heralded as "non-political" Tuesday he told the Denton Optimist Club that it was wrong to abolish a State Youth Council division concerned with halting juvenile delinquency.

"That slash," the candidate said, "was false—very false" economy, a tragic disregard for the welfare of Texas youth. He said he thought the Youth Council should be strengthened, not weakened.

He was referring to a budget cut that did away with the community services division of the Youth Council.

Yarborough also hit at a suggestion made recently that the State Orphan Home at Corsicana be abolished in favor of a foster home care plan.

"Those orphans should not be farmed out at $90 a month to a caretaker for profit just because it might be a little cheaper than the present system," he said.

The Texas Research League, a privately financed agency, made the foster home suggestion to the State Hospital Board. The board has not acted on it.

Shivers' campaign for re-election, meanwhile, was not dormant—even though the governor was out of the state.

The governor's friends and backers were just as active as the Yarborough organization. They are staying busy lining up support from one end of the state to the other.

Senator Lyndon Johnson and Congressman W. R. (Bob) Poage of Waco and John Dowdy of Athens had speeches scheduled in the state for Friday.

Johnson and Poage scheduled addresses at the dedication of the $15,000,000 Belton dam, between Temple and Belton.

Dowdy said he would speak at his home town's annual musical bingie, the Old Fiddlers Reunion.

Rescuers Seek Injured Man On Mt. McKinley

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—Four men inched their way up Mt. McKinley's treacherous southern buttress today in a desperate attempt to save a mountain climber who was left gravely injured in a lonely, cold tent last Sunday.

The man in the tent is George Argus, one of three survivors of a 1,000-foot fall May 15 which killed the fourth member of their party, George Thayer, 27, Readsboro, Vt.

The rescue party is led by Dr. John McCall, 31-year-old University of Alaska glaciologist. With him are three crack mountain climbers from the Army indoctrination center at Big Delta, Alaska.

They were carried to the 5,000-foot level by an Air Force helicopter early yesterday. Strong winds and blowing snow blocked attempts to add more men to the party so the four started toward the two-mile-high spot where Argus lay.

Morton Wood and Leslie Viereck, who were found in McKinley Park Tuesday just as a search was about to be started, told of the fall.

They said after conquering the southern buttress for the first time and starting back, they reached the 13,000-foot level.

"It was just a silly little accident," Wood said. "One of Thayer's feet slipped—probably because his clamped-on spikes lost their grip. He tumbled over the precipice and all of us went with him."

"I recall falling and falling. Thayer died because he struck a ledge sticking out of the cliff. Argus broke the fall by tumbling into deep snow which stopped him and pulled us all to a stop."

They all were roped together. After remaining at the scene of the accident for a week, Wood and Viereck tried to tow Argus down the mountainside on an inflated mattress but gave up at the 11,000-foot level. There they left him Sunday in a tent. Argus had a broken hip and possibly other broken bones, they said.

The three governors came here to study the U.S. rehabilitation program in South Korea for President Eisenhower.

PRINCESS WINS PUZZLE PRIZE

LONDON (AP)—The winner of a magazine crossword puzzle competition was announced today: Her Royal Highness Princess Margaret.

The crossword editor of Country Life suspected a hoax when the signature of the Queen's kid sister turned up on the winning entry. But when he checked with Buckingham Palace they said, yes, she did it.

"All the royal family," said the palace spokesman, "are very keen on crossword puzzles."

Princess Margaret's prize is a guinea ($8.82) worth of books.

Peso Devaluation Ups Mexican Sales

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Devaluation of the peso has increased retail sales along the Mexican border by 50 per cent, principally because of U.S. citizens crossing into Mexico to buy food.

Reporting this yesterday, the National Chamber of Commerce said devaluation of the peso from 8.65 to 12.50 per dollar decreased food prices by about 45 per cent.

Parr Bank Order Extension Made

HOUSTON (AP)—Federal Judge James V. Allred yesterday extended for 30 days an order restraining two state banks at San Diego and Alice from destroying records.

President of both banks is George B. Parr, Daval County and South Texas political boss.

Asst. U.S. Atty. John Snodgrass said the 90-day extension was not opposed by Parr's attorneys.

The original restraining order said the records were "material and necessary to a current investigation of possible violation of internal revenue laws."

Aid To Neighbors Of Guatemala May Cause Reds To Reconsider

As the U. S. moved vigorously to bolster the military strength of Nicaragua and Honduras, the foreign minister of Guatemala, who had been breathing fire and brimstone in recent months, especially at the Inter-American conference in Caracas early this spring, adopted a sort of deprecating attitude.

It accused the U. S. of using the two countries to pull American chestnuts out of the fire.

On the other hand, the State Department made no bones about it. It said arms were being rushed to the two little countries because of Guatemala's acquisition of shipments from Communist sources, and in keeping with the recently signed mutual defense agreements at Caracas.

As for emergency arms shipments being flown into Honduras and Nicaragua from the United States, Toriello brushed it off with, "We do not believe the arms shipment has anything to do with us."

Radio Moscow denounced the U. S. assistance to Nicaragua and Honduras as another example of "Yankee imperialism."

No Longer 'Armistice' But Now Veterans Day To Honor Defenders

Congress has now completed action on and sent to the White House for the President's signature a bill to change the name of Armistice Day, November 11, to Veterans Day.

ly their own—a pause in the annual round of business and pleasure in which to renew their faith in their country and remind others that eternal vigilance is the price of liberty.

Many states have memorial days in honor of those who have passed on, but few bother to take note of it, perhaps because the date varies with the states.

This, it seems to us, is a sensible step and we have no doubt a veteran of both world wars, President Eisenhower, will give it his approval.

Armistice Day had become more or less moribund in recent years because it had for so long been the peculiar property of the veterans of World War I, and lacked any personal significance to the far more numerous veterans of World War II, and the hundreds of thousands who saw service in the bitter conflict in Korea.

Veterans Day, on the contrary, covers all the 15 or 16 million men and women who served their country in 1941-45, and in 1950-53, along with survivors of the first world conflict.

The veterans should have a day peculiarly their own—a pause in the annual round of business and pleasure in which to renew their faith in their country and remind others that eternal vigilance is the price of liberty.

Its proximity to Thanksgiving has been a handicap and perhaps Congress would date somewhere else on the calendar. But the change of name is a step in the right direction; it is up to the veterans and their various organizations to build it into a national holiday for the instruction and inspiration of all our people young and old.

ILO Officials Are Disturbed Over Membership Of Russians

GENEVA — International conferences move on and off the Geneva stage with the cycle of war and peace. But there is one international group that has survived all to set a remarkable example of world cooperation.

who have no place in the civilization around them.

ILO is doing all the technical work for the European coal and steel pool, preparing the treaties that will make it possible for labor to move from one country to another and from one social security system to another. The organization has made the only official and thoroughly documented report on slave labor with a great deal of the report devoted to the vast slave labor camps in the Soviet Union.

The International Labor Organization was created in 1919 under Article 13 of the Versailles treaty. It was in large part the brain child of Samuel Gompers, founder of the American Federation of Labor, who was chairman at the Versailles conference of the committee that proposed the ILO.

When the war that began in 1939 rang down the curtain on the old League of Nations, the ILO was the only surviving organization. Just before the outbreak of war made travel across boundaries impossible, 45 of the top personnel of the ILO escaped to Canada and there set up offices that functioned until 1945.

That year at San Francisco the old League was officially liquidated and the United Nations took its place. Over strong objection by Soviet Russia, the ILO was the only survivor among the organizations that had operated under the League.

In this postwar era with so much stress put on technical assistance to underdeveloped countries ILO has greatly expanded its work in the field of productivity. Production centers either have been set up or are being set up in India, Egypt, Libya and Brazil.

In still other parts of the world the ILO is helping to cope with serious special problems. In Latin-America, concentrated for the most part in Bolivia, Ecuador, Peru and Mexico, are some 12 million Indians

Time Will Tell Whether Hensel Smart In Getting Out Of Schine Case Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Time will show whether H. Struve Hensel was smart in letting the Senate subcommittee which is investigating the Army-McCarthy row dismiss him as a principal in the case. That relieves Hensel, 6-foot-4 assistant secretary of defense, from having to testify and be cross-examined by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) unless he's called back because of an unexpected turn in the hearing.

to do it and the three Democrats opposed. Divrosnak said not enough evidence had been produced at the hearings so far to sustain the charges against the two men. Bryan, attorney for Hensel, said he was in favor of Divrosnak's motion because he regarded dismissal of the charges against his client as a vindication. McCarthy said as far as he was concerned his charges against Hensel stood. Since he feels that way it would seem he left the door open to call Hensel before him later, when these hearings are over.

In that situation Hensel couldn't cross-examine McCarthy. No one can cross-examine a committee chairman. Further, if Hensel brought his attorney along to such a session, McCarthy could forbid the lawyer to ask a single question or make a statement. He has done that before with others. And if McCarthy, when he resumes the chairmanship, doesn't call Hensel up before him, reporters are sure to ask him why in view of what he already has said about the assistant secretary.

Article VI of the Universal Copyright Convention contains a trick clause which excludes recordings. It reads: "Publication," as used in this Convention, means the reproduction in tangible form and the general distribution to the public of copies of a work from which it can be read or otherwise visually perceived.

On April 21, the day before the hearings began, McCarthy issued a 46-point bill of particulars answering charges made against him and his staff by Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens and Army Counselor John G. Adams. Stevens, Adams and Hensel were — until the subcommittee dismissed Hensel yesterday — the principals in the case against McCarthy, his counsel Roy Cohn and Francis P. Carr, chief of his investigating staff. In points 6 through 9 McCarthy precisely what happens when a symphony orchestra plays Shostakovich? If the Russians have arranged a "back door" non-reciprocal transaction, the symphony orchestra must pay royalties, but a recording company, selling thousands of recordings for use in the home or a juke box, does not have to pay a royalty. Why is this? Who arranged for a special advantage or disadvantage, whichever it may be, for the recording companies? The "back door" arrangement is as follows: The Russians produce a work, but so far as the United States is concerned it is not copyrighted because they do not provide reciprocal protection in their country and they have not agreed to the Universal Copyright Convention. However, they give world-wide rights to a Swiss or a Swede or an Englishman or someone who belongs to a nation within the Copyright Convention. He copyrights the work in his country, whereupon it immediately becomes part of the Universal agreement. He collects the royalties for his principals behind the Iron Curtain.

This Day In Texas

A West Virginia company on this day in 1905 signed a contract to dig a well near Beaumont in a second effort to find oil around "Sour Spring Mound." A previous effort had failed after drillers reached 418 feet. But some Beaumonters still believed that the oil seeps which had been known to exist in the area since the earliest times of settlement indicated a rich deposit of oil somewhere under the ground. Forming the Gladys City Oil, Gas and Manufacturing Company, they had their first experimental well drilled in 1903, but found nothing. The Savage Company of West Virginia tried next, also unsuccessfully, and a third effort, this time by the Texas Oil and Mineral Company, also met with failure. The Gladys City Company's next choice of a man to drill their well proved more fortunate, for they selected A. F. Lucas, a mining engineer who knew more than any man in the country about salt domes. Lucas and his crew succeeded where others had failed—in getting through the 500 feet of quicksand under the surface of the ground. The payoff came in January, 1901, when the Lucas gusher at Spindletop almost literally blew in a brand new era for Texas and the Southwest.

Truckers Talk In A Language Completely Foreign To Others

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald—Editor's Note.

"The weevil was pulling on the swamp stick. He tripped over the weevil pin, hit the headache and fell off the turkey. It just skinned him up some."

What's a turkey? Well, Red grinned, it is a small truck.

F. D. (Red) Williams, safety director for O. H. McAllister trucks, was telling about a minor accident one of the trucking crews had. I didn't "dig his jive," so he went back through the routine, explaining.

Before the conversation was finished, I picked up several other terms peculiar to oil field truckers and which make their conversations sound like a mixture of foreign tongues.

It turned out the "weevil" was the man that got hurt. A weevil is a new man around a trucking camp, usually fresh off the farm.

Here are some of the others, as defined by Williams:

The "swamp stick" he was pulling on was nothing more than a piece of pipe. They use it to slip over the handle of a "boomer" for leverage when they're tightening up the chains holding a load in place.

Big stick—driver of a tandem truck. Cheater pipe—same as a swamp stick. Twist-off—a broken axle. Argentina dragline—a hand shovel. Suck-up load—a load that is taken aboard by the truck's winch.

"Weevil pin"—named for the weevil because he's the man that generally puts it in place—slips in a loop at the edge of the truck bed to keep a load from slipping over the side.

Boring a hole in the wind—speeding. Oklahoma credit card—a five-gallon can and siphon hose. Windshielding—making a long haul. Drilling rig—a hole digger. Bull hauler—truck with sideboards. Tailgating—following too closely. Spudder's mudder—the pusher on a spudding rig.

Practically every truck has a "headache." I found it's a steel framework extending over the cab to keep pipe or other cargo from banging in the truck top and the driver's head.

Williams wouldn't say what they call a safety director. "Aw, you wouldn't want to put that in the paper," he blushed.

These Days—George Sokolsky

Reciprocal Protection Essential To Universal Copyright System

On September 8, 1952, the Universal Copyright Convention was signed at Geneva, Switzerland. It has been lying about in the archives of the State Department and the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations since then waiting for ratification, with which the Committee is now proceeding.

they employ the "back door" process. Or they could prevent the publication of what they want to suppress by setting their royalties too high or by having their agents object to quotations. On the other hand, they could print all the American books they desire without paying royalties and we would have no claims under any agreement.

A universal copyright convention would be excellent if it were universal and in all respects reciprocal. This particular document is not reciprocal because none of the countries in the Communist world provide for any system of copyright protection for alien works, whether printed or unprinted books, articles, plays, musical compositions or motion pictures. The United States has never had a copyright convention with Russia—in Czarist or Soviet eras—because Russia would not agree to reciprocity.

Now, any writer favors copyrights and there is no reason why Khachaturian should not receive royalties for his "Sabre Dance," which was such an enormous success and appeared on the Hit Parade. But as long as his country provides no reciprocal arrangement to protect Cole Porter or Irving Berlin or Aaron Copland, then we ought not to send millions of dollars to Russia to protect their writings, composers motion pictures, and everything except recordings. Apparently, the record companies have some kind of an inside on this deal.

Article VI of the Universal Copyright Convention contains a trick clause which excludes recordings. It reads: "Publication," as used in this Convention, means the reproduction in tangible form and the general distribution to the public of copies of a work from which it can be read or otherwise visually perceived.

The basic principle of copyrighting or patenting in the international field must be reciprocity. If any country chooses to remain outside the copyright or patent convention, using "back door" methods to protect her own people but never reciprocally protecting others, then the transaction is unfair and wrong and should not be permitted. And the Senate ought not to ratify such an agreement.

This is a curious provision that baffles understanding. Why should sheet music come under the provisions of this Convention and not recordings? Sheet music involves visual perception; recordings involve auditory perception. Is the eye to be prejudiced as against the ear? Why the fine distinction?

This is another little transaction in which the Russians are, as usual, playing a few little tricks and they find Americans to help them who are without understanding of the problem.

Authentic Shrubs

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A sharp-eyed cash cashier noted that a $20 bill had "White House" on the back, while all the others she checked had "The White House."

Police discovered similar "White House" bills here and in nearby National City and Escondido. They thought the shrubby-looking suspicious, too. But the U. S. secret service advised that the "the" and shrubby changes were on bills turned out after 1934.

Close Tolerance

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP) — A man entered a barber shop here and plopped into the chair of A. C. Trull, instructing that his hair be cut to a length of 1 1/2 inches. Trull worked carefully for 30 minutes and the customer gave him a dollar.

Trull then watched as the customer produced a rule, measured his hair, said it was cut too short and demanded return of the dollar. Somewhat amazed and disgusted Trull complied, but says rules are prohibited from now on.

The cop alighted, and backed up by a newsman and an automobile club representative, told Mrs. Bugg she was being ticketed as Richmond's best driver.

Mrs. Bugg said her husband taught her to drive.

News From Webb Air Force Base
By JAMES F. KRUEGER

OPEN HOUSE

Yesterday (Wednesday) was another big day at Webb with a 2,000-man Wing Parade, the graduation of Aviation Cadet Class 54-J, and the arrival of the Thunderbirds, the hottest precision flying team in the Air Force today.

Visiting dignitaries included former Secretary of the Army Frank Pace Jr., Maj. Gen. Gabriel Discoway, commander of AFRC's Flying Training Air Force, the Hon. Fred Korth, former assistant Secretary of the Army, and Col. Ralph W. Rodieck, Commander of Conally AFB in Waco.

Col. Dean declared open house for the day and several hundred civilians from Big Spring and the surrounding areas attended the Wing Parade and air show in the morning.

MASTER SERGEANTS ASSOCIATION
Webb's top non-commissioned officers have banded together to form the Association of Webb AFB Master Sergeants. In their first official meeting, held last week, a board of officers headed by M-Sgt. C. W. Cameron, Wing Headquarters Squadron First Sergeant, was elected.

The group approved a constitution which declares that the members are dedicated to constantly strive for increased proficiency in all aspects of military duties; adherence to the principles of leadership to bring out professional development that will further the operational efficiency and facilitate pride and esprit de corps in base units.

Membership in the association is on a voluntary basis by Air Force master sergeants and the Wing Commander is an honorary member. Meetings will be held monthly and minutes of the meetings will be reviewed by the Wing Commander.

AFROTC CAMP
A briefing meeting was held for all Webb officers connected with the Summer AFROTC Encampment which comes here June 21 to July 17.

Col. Fred M. Dean, Wing Commander, stressed the importance of showing the cadets what the Air Force has to offer and to do it in the most efficient manner possible so that they can review it and give it due consideration.

Col. William A. Jones, Pilot Training Group Commander, will be Camp Commander.

Approximately 100 cadets will be here from seven colleges and universities: Texas Christian University, 4 cadets; Texas A&M, 2 cadets; North Texas State College, 20 cadets; Tulsa University, 17 cadets; Oklahoma University, 23 cadets; Colorado A&M, 5 cadets; and Kansas University, 19 cadets.

NEW ARRIVALS
Col. Robert D. Whittington Jr. of Bassett City, La., has arrived here from Barksdale AFB, La., to assume duties as Commander of the 356th USAF Hospital. He replaces Capt. John F. Johnson who has been Acting Commander.

Also arrived at Webb this week was Maj. Charles J. Fix who replaces Lt. Francis Jeffery as Wing Chaplain. Chap. Fix recently completed a three-year tour in England.

PILOTS TO HENSLEY
Webb AFB will extend its pilot training activities to Hensley Naval Air Station at Grand Prairie (Dallas) again this summer.

Headed by Maj. R. K. Graham, 3561st Pilot Training Squadron operations officer, a team of six flying instructors, an academic instructor, a personnel officer and a maintenance officer will spend the period from July 4-18 polishing up reserve pilots of the 870th Pilot Training Wing (Reserve).

MODEL PLANE MEET
Webb model airplane fans are getting ready for a Model Airplane Meet which will be held here sometime next month.

The base-wide meet will determine winners who will enter competition in the Southwest Air Force Conference and Randolph Field. Finalists at Randolph will compete in the worldwide AF Contest in July.

THREE NEW MAJORS
Three Webb captains are now wearing the gold oak leaf of a USAF major. They are Majors Leo G. Bradford, Base Operations Of-

Church Group Favors Merger

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Election of Dr. Albert E. Kelly of Pittsburgh as moderator of the United Presbyterian Church of North America makes it appear certain the group will vote for a merger with two other Presbyterian branches.

Dr. Kelly, general chairman of the church's Board of Administration for six years, has been a strong supporter of the proposal for unification. He was elected yesterday, and the vote on the merger comes Saturday.

The other two branches are the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, a Northern faction of about 2½ million members; and the Presbyterian Church in the United States, a Southern body of about 750,000 members.

The Northern group, meeting in Detroit last week, voted unanimously to unite with the other two factions. If the other two groups approve, three-fourths of the presbyteries of all three groups must endorse the plan to make it a reality.

With 220,000 members, the group meeting here is fairly comparable with the two other groups. It broke away from the other church in Scotland over the issue of separation of church and state.

Don Carr, vocalist; and A-3C Dave Madden, magician; and A-3C Lev Rutkovsky, accordionist.

SPORTS
Webb's 3561st Maintenance Squadron is burning up the ball park in the intramural softball league at Webb. With eight wins against no losses, they are away in front of the field. In second place is AB Group with four wins and no losses. Third place is held by the Student Squadron with seven wins and one loss.

Webb's Dusters, base softball team, is tearing up the city league with wins this week over Cosden and Coahoma. The Dusters started their big guns against Cosden in the first inning by bringing in four runs. Their two runs in the second inning, and repeat in the third put the game on ice.

In action against Coahoma, the Dusters scored early once more to pull ahead and cap the game, 4-0. In their loss of the week, Cook Appliance dusted off the Dusters, 3 to 1.

Adlai Says Ike Pushed Around

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP)—Democrat leader Adlai Stevenson declared last night President Eisenhower is allowing himself to be pushed around too much by other Republicans.

Eisenhower's "reluctance to man the barricades of his office" and defend his rights against congressional encroachments has left the United States with a Republican party having "as many wings as a boardinghouse chicken," Stevenson said.

The Army-McCarthy fight—"the shameful spectacle we have witnessed on television"—displays in public a Republican party acting like a "blind dog in a meat house," he said.

All are symptoms of "something deeper—a constitutional crisis in American government," an attack on the separation of powers, the 1952 Democratic presidential candidate told a crowd of 15,000 at Meridian's Hillbilly Day.

Stevenson shared the spotlight with the nation's top mountain music singers, who honored the late Jimmie Rodgers, Meridian railroad man who became known as the Father of Hillbilly Music.

"In the last 15 months, Republican freebooters... have raked their President fore and aft—with everything from the Bricker amendment to intimidation of our diplomats and slander of the Army," Stevenson said.

Eisenhower's refusal to withstand "congressional invasion of the President domain" has imperiled the nation, "splintered our basic unity, sapped our energy," he said.

"When he restores order in his house, he will have the support of the vast majority of the people, Democrats and Republicans alike." It was Stevenson's first public appearance since an operation about six weeks ago.

Nixon Says Probe Diverts Attention

NEW YORK (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon says the Army-McCarthy hearings are diverting attention from more important issues, and the quicker they end the better.

He declared last night that the Eisenhower administration is "smashing the Communist conspiracy to kill" through efforts of Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover without compromising American fair-play principles.

He said Brownell and Hoover are waging an anti-Rad program of "action and not talk."

Senate GOP Leaders Stick By Adjournment Forecast

By JOE HALL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Republican leaders today stuck by their prediction that Congress should adjourn by July 31 despite a large splash of Democratic cold water.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, told newsmen after a meeting of the Democratic Policy Committee yesterday that Congress would be lucky to go home by Aug. 15.

But Republican Leader Knowland of California and Chairman Ferguson (Mich.) of the GOP Policy Committee, said today in interviews they remained optimistic about the end-of-July target.

"I have not changed my estimate at all," Knowland said. "Assuming we will receive a degree of cooperation (from the Democrats) on legislation yet to be acted upon, I don't see any reason why we can't meet it."

There are in the Senate 47 Republicans, 47 Democrats, 1 Independent and 1 vacancy.

Johnson cited a long list of items on President Eisenhower's program yet to be considered.

Included are the tax revision bill, social security, farm price supports, health legislation, housing, foreign aid, reciprocal trade, revision of the Atomic Energy Act and an increase in the national debt limit.

The biggest legislative logjam is in the Senate, partly because the House limits debate while the Senate cannot.

Knowland asserted, and Johnson conceded, that in one respect—the money bills to run the government in the next year—this session is far ahead of the pace of recent years.

The House has passed 8 of the 11 regular appropriations bills and the Senate, 3. But three others are about ready for the floor in the Senate.

The Senate's trouble largely lies in failure to get major legislation out of committee, and Johnson said

Counting Of Proxies In Rail Fight Starts

By ED MORSE
ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The fate of the mighty New York Central Railroad rested today in four huge safes and nine steel filing cabinets.

Their contents — stock proxies voted for the present management headed by President William White or for the opposition forces headed by financier Robert R. Young — will decide who will run the railroad.

Young's proxies were in the safes and White's in the filing cabinets. After yesterday's rip-roaring annual meeting in the Washington Avenue Armory, attended by 2,000 stockholders, the proxies were taken to the 12th floor of the Hotel Tammany.

There three law professors today began to supervise the laborious process of tabulating, separating the valid from the invalid, and judging challenges.

After 4 hours and 40 minutes of noise and at times disorder and confusion, the stockholders' meeting was recessed yesterday until noon next Thursday, when the inspectors will report on the vote.

Some sources said it might be only the first of several reports and that the count might last many days or even weeks longer if the vote is close.

The management made a crucial challenge of 800,000 shares — largest block of Central stock — voted by Young's Texas millionaire friends, Clint W. Murchison and Sid W. Richardson, who did not attend the meeting.

The Central has fought through the courts and the Interstate Commerce Commission to block voting of these shares, contending that their purchase from the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway was a "sham" and that there was a conspiracy to put C&O and Central under common control.

The Central yesterday lost its latest court fight to bar voting of this block when the Appellate Division of New York State Supreme Court decided in New York City that the stock could be voted.

If the election inspectors approve this opposition block — and if defeat or victory seems to hinge on it — Central is expected to launch an immediate court appeal of the inspectors' decision.

Toward the end of the stockholders' meeting Young told the crowd he had won by a majority of between 700,000 and a million.

White said afterward, "Young is usurping the powers of the inspectors of election. I'm just as confident as ever. Young's victory statement is just some more pure bunk."

Meanwhile, Young was queried by newsmen yesterday about who he may name to succeed White in the event of victory and said, "I dined with a good man in New York City last night."

He declined further comment except to say that the man was a railroad man "from west of the Mississippi."

Sources close to Young said the man was A. E. Perlman, executive vice president of the Denver and Rio Grande Western Railroad, who was mentioned by Young several weeks ago as a possible successor to White.

Young told newsmen, though, that he would "look over every good man in New York Central before I go outside."

The fight for the $2,600,000,000 railroad — second in size only to the Pennsylvania among privately owned railroads — began in February. Then Young demanded that he be made board chairman and that his associate Allen P. Kirby, president of Allegheny Corp., of which Young is board chairman, be made a director. The present board of directors voted down his request.

Disorder halted the meeting temporarily yesterday when Mrs. Wilma Soss, president of the Federation of Women Shareholders in American Business, Inc., questioned the legality of voting before discussion.

She mounted the platform to argue heatedly with White and hundreds of stockholders surged around. Comparative calm was restored only when a railroad guard led Mrs. Soss from the platform.

The session, covered by 112 newsmen, had some of the air of a big political convention — with organ music, bad acoustics and draped bunting.

Tuesday Is School Transfer Deadline

Next Tuesday is the last day for transferring students who expect to attend public schools outside their home district next fall.

Walker Bailey, county superintendent, reminded again today. Transfers can be made at the superintendent's office in the courthouse.

The transfer deadline formerly fell on Aug. 1 of each year, but it has been moved forward to June 1.

All students who attend school outside the district in which they reside are required to be transferred if the school they attend is to receive state aid. In cases where the pupils are not formally transferred, tuition probably will be charged, said Bailey.

The rule applies to students in common school districts who plan to enroll in a high school next year, as well as to elementary pupils who may transfer to another district.

Market Is Steady At Stock Auction

The market remained steady at the Big Spring Livestock Auction Company, when an estimated 800 cattle and 25 hogs went through the ring.

Fat bulls went for 16.50, fat butcher yearlings from 18.00 to 21.50, fat cows for 12.00 to 13.00 and butcher cows from 9.00 to 10.00.

Stocker steer calves sold for 17.00 to 19.50, stocker steer yearlings for 16.00 to 18.00, heifer yearlings for 15.50 to 17.00 cows beside calves for 100.00 to 150.00 and hogs up to 27.00.

Weaver To Install New Club Officers

R. H. Weaver of Big Spring, governor of the Eighth (Texas) District for American Business Clubs, is to install officers and will be principal speaker when a new American Business Club is chartered in Amarillo this evening.

J. B. Apple of the local club is to accompany Weaver to Amarillo for the program. At least two other members of the Big Spring club are expected to be on hand for the ceremonies. A. W. Dillon, who now resides in Amarillo, and Deug Orme, who is attending a meeting of the Southwest Shippers Association at Amarillo, probably will attend.

The charter program is to start at 7 p.m. and will be held at the Herring Hotel.

IT HAPPENED

Pillow Saves Life

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—Four-month-old Michael Hatoflax was sleeping on a pillow on the front seat of a car driven by his mother, Mrs. Ann Hatoflax, 29, when the car was struck broadside by a two-ton truck yesterday.

The right front door was flung open and Michael flew 20 feet through the air, accompanied by the pillow.

It was still under him when he landed. He suffered only minor bruises and scratches.

'Hot' Auto Downfall

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Police won a chase with a hot rod that was really hot.

Officers in a patrol car were chasing an old model auto. It was getting away, but its brakes caught fire.

Fred Lukens, 17, allegedly the driver, and four other youths were taken into custody after police called the fire department.

Highly Questionable

SUNNYSLOPE, Ariz. (AP)—Across the front page of the Sunnyslope High School newspaper a headline read:

"Students sad as school is dismissed." The paper is called "The Question Mark."

Allergy Understood

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—A mining company has applied for mineral leases on about 1,000 acres of state-owned land near Salt Lake City but it is doubtful if there will be any immediate mining activity on it.

The present tenant might object. The land is the site of the Utah State Prison—whose officials are understood to frown upon underground explorations.

Pretty Cookies Ideal For Wedding Shower

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

All those brides-to-be, planning June weddings, deserve spring showers!

Don't let the idea that you have to serve an elaborate food at a bridal shower keep you from honoring a soon-to-be-married friend. Give the shower on a weekend afternoon, or in the evening, and serve pretty cookies with a wonderful ice-cream punch. Cut the cookies into wedding bell and umbrella shapes to add to the festivity. Bell-shaped cutters are readily available; make your own umbrella pattern out of a piece of cardboard. The cookie dough can be made from a prepared mix to save time and trouble.

After the cookies are baked, decorate them with our special semi-sweet chocolate frosting. It's so easy to prepare. Just melt the chocolate and shortening, then add the other ingredients specified in the recipe, and beat until smooth. By the way, when we call for shortening in this recipe we mean a homogenized vegetable shortening. Don't add butter or margarine instead because they have too much moisture and will make the frosting too stiff.

With the cookies, serve this delectable ice-cream punch with its delicate blend of chocolate and coffee flavor. It's rich and satisfying.

SHOWER COOKIES

Prepare rolled cookies from 1 package cookie mix according to package directions. Roll out 1/8-inch thick on lightly floured board or pastry cloth. Cut out bells with bell-shaped cutter and umbrellas with cardboard pattern; it is not necessary to flour cardboard shape. Bake on ungreased cookie sheets in moderate (375F) oven 8 to 9 minutes. Cool. Force Semi-sweet Chocolate Frosting through narrow opening of cake decorator to make detail on umbrellas and bells. Makes 4 dozen medium-size cookies.

SEMI-SWEET CHOCOLATE FROSTING

Ingredients:
3/4 of 6-ounce package (1/2 cup) semi-sweet chocolate morsels
1 1/2 teaspoons shortening (not butter or margarine)
2 1/2 tablespoons evaporated milk (undiluted)
1/2 cup confectioners' sugar
1/4 teaspoon vanilla

Method:
Melt semi-sweet chocolate and shortening over hot (not boiling) water. Remove from heat; mix in evaporated milk and confectioners' sugar; beat until smooth. Mix in vanilla.

MOCHA PUNCH

Ingredients:
1 6-ounce package (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate morsels
4 tablespoons instant coffee
1 cup sugar
1 cup water
2 quarts milk
2 pints pre-packaged vanilla ice cream

Method:
Melt chocolate morsels in 1/2 cup water. Add coffee, sugar, and milk. Beat until smooth. Add ice cream. Beat until smooth.

1 quart carbonated water (chilled)
1 cup cream (whipped)

Method:
Mix together semi-sweet chocolate, instant coffee, sugar and water in top of double boiler; place over hot (not boiling) water and cook, stirring constantly, until blended. Remove from heat; stir in milk; chill. Just before serving, whip cream over top. Makes 16 one-half cup servings.

MRS. LLOYD WASSON

Chocolate Ice Box Pie Is A Hit Every Time

Mrs. Lloyd Wasson will tell you that her hobby is her granddaughter, but one look around her lovely home and yard will tell you that she also spends a good bit of time gardening and running her home. She is just as industrious in the kitchen because she prepared superb chocolate ice box pie for us to photograph for our story of the recipe-of-the-week.

It's her family's favorite pie and it's a recipe she has had for quite a long time.

CHOCOLATE ICE BOX PIE

Ingredients:
1 package (6 ounces) chocolate chips
3 teaspoons milk
3 tablespoons sugar
4 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla

Method:
Melt chocolate chips, sugar and milk over low fire. Cool. Add egg yolks one at a time, beating well after each addition. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and vanilla. Pour in baked pie shell. Top with whipped cream. Place in ice box for at least two hours.

Orange Blossoms Mean Parties And Parfaits

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

The bride-to-be is trying on her veil — orange blossoms nestling in a crown of gauzy tulle. Wedding bells will be ringing, come June, and it's time for friends of engaged couples to entertain them.

If the party is to be informal, hamburgers and frankfurters on toasted buns and rolls are fine—but serve them with some dash! Have an assortment of relishes with the hamburgers — everything from artichoke pickle to chutney — and don't forget the sweet Bahama-type mustard to accompany the frankfurters along with tomato wedges to eat out of hand.

If you are bent on more formal food, lobster salad is still as delicious and appropriate as it was in the Gay Nineties, when it was standard fare for all bridal collations. Or how about cold ham and turkey with green beans vinaigrette and romaine. With either course, serve small buttered rolls—the kind that are topped with an egg wash to make them shiny and festive.

Whether your party is informal or formal, we suggest Orange-Strawberry Parfaits for dessert. This recipe is one you'll want to use year-round because it's made with always-available oranges and ice cream, and frozen strawberries may be used when fresh ones aren't in season.

ORANGE STRAWBERRY PARFAITS

Ingredients:
6 very large oranges
1 1/4 cups sugar
1/4 cup water
2 pints fresh strawberries
2 quarts vanilla ice cream
16 whole strawberries

Method:
Peel oranges, slice and cut into bite-size wedges; there should be 4 cups. Place in container that has a cover; a glass casserole is fine. Cut most of the white membrane from some of the orange peel; then using a sharp paring knife or kitchen scissors, cut enough peel into very narrow strips to make 1/2 cup. The strips will be most attractive if you cut some long and some short. Put sugar, water and orange peel strips into a saucepan; stir over low heat until sugar is dissolved. Increase heat and bring to a boil; boil gently 8 minutes. Pour hot syrup over orange wedges; cool; cover and refrigerate 1 to 2 days to mellow. Makes 1 quart.

When you are ready to serve the parfaits, put some of the ice cream in the bottom of a parfait or other footed glass; arrange some of the orange wedges and syrup, and strawberries, over the ice cream. Fill glasses, alternating layers of fruit and ice cream. Garnish with whole strawberries. Serve at once. Makes 16 parfaits.

Note:
If you are serving only 8, use 3 cups of the oranges with 1 pint of strawberries and 1 quart vanilla ice cream. Keep the remaining 2 cups oranges in the refrigerator for another time — they are delicious over sponge cake with a topping of whipped cream; over vanilla pudding, tapioca cream or custard; or over sliced ripe bananas. Frozen strawberries may be used instead of fresh; use 2 packages for 16 parfaits, 1 package for 8.

Baked Beans Good Accompanying Meat Or As Main Dish

Better than Boston ever thought they could be, are these Baked Beans. This oven dish makes a grand meat accompaniment, and also takes over, very ably (in a mighty delicious way) the duties of a main dish.

You'll use this recipe often because your family will put this dish on the top of their list of favorites. And you'll be happy to learn this "short cut" way to prepare a hearty hot dish everyone will be glad to see on the table, and finishes to the last bite.

Ingredients:
1 16-ounce can baked beans in tomato sauce (or use pork and beans)
1/2 cup catsup
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups cooked white rice
1 1/2 cups water
1/4 cup brown sugar

Method:
Mix together the baked beans, catsup, mustard, salt, rice and water. Pour into a greased 2-quart oven dish. Bake in a preheated 350F oven. Bake uncovered for 45 minutes. Remove and sprinkle the brown sugar over the top. Continue baking for 10-15 minutes more or until the mixture is the desired consistency.

This recipe makes six generous servings.

BRIDAL HOMEWORK

... These two veils are thrifty and easy to make at home.

A Girl Who Sews Can Make A Bridal Veil

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

It's a sentimental gesture, as well as a thrifty one, for a bride to make her own wedding veil.

Local sewing center experts have veils that are lovely to look at and easy to sew.

A charming short veil, suitable for a home or garden wedding, is made from a square of lace and requires little stitching or fitting.

Materials required are: 1 square yard of lace; 4 1/2 yards of lace banding about 5 inches wide, 1 bicycle clip about 1/2 inch wide, 1/4 yard of white satin ribbon about 1/2 inch wide and 8 orange blossoms. Dacron thread is suggested for stitching the lace.

To make the veil, first cut lace banding along heavy scalloped edge. If the lace to be used for the body of the veil is more than a yard wide, trim it to a 36-inch square. Pin lace edging all around the square, mitering the corners and making sure the miter does not fall in the middle of a scallop. Use a half-inch seam allowance.

Baste banding in place and use the zigzag attachment on your sewing machine to stitch. If you back the lace with tissue paper your sewing job will be easier. Remove bastings and tissue paper and tie threads with dressmaker knots. Cut away seam allowance. Clip mitered seams to a 1/4-inch and press open.

You now have a finished square of lace. Cover the bicycle clip with white satin ribbon, wrapping it around and around and securing with tiny stitches. Find the middle of the clip and pin to the middle one corner of the lace square. at the seam, leaving the mitered point of edging to fall over the forehead. Pleat 1 1/2 inches on either side of the clip in 1/2-inch pleats and secure by tacking orange blossoms to each side.

A dramatic long veil may be made of nylon tulle with rows of lace stitched at intervals the entire length of the veil, giving a sunburst effect when the veil is worn. Required materials are: 3 yards of nylon tulle 57 inches wide, 20 yards of 2-inch lace banding, 1 small buckram frame for headpiece, 1/4 yard of satin or fabric to match the gown, and 1/4 yard of grosgrain ribbon 1/2-inch wide.

The entire three-yard length of tulle is used for the veil. Lay the tulle on a sheet spread on the floor and trim ends so they are precisely straight. First pin and then baste a lace banding along the long edges. Then measure nine inches apart for placement of the four other strips of lace. Again backing the tulle with tissue paper, zigzag stitch along both sides of each lace band. The threads, remove bastings and tissue. Gather one end of veil to measurement of back headpiece.

Now cover buckram frame with satin or with fabric of the gown. Pleat remaining lace banding down the middle, using the ruffler attachment of your sewing machine, making 12 to 15 stitches to the inch and a pleat about every 12 stitches. Stitch with the ruffler down the exact center of the banding.

Now fold banding along the center row and tack to back of headpiece about 1/4-inch from the edge. Take another folded row above this. Tack gathered end of veil to back of headpiece, under ruffler. Finish the veil, if you like, with a lace band stitched along the bottom. Finally, slipstitch grosgrain ribbon around inside edge of headpiece—and you're all ready for the wedding march.

Speed Is Key To Removing Stains

COLLEGE STATION — Speed is the best stain remover! Whether it's chocolate ice cream on baby's rompers or ink on your school child's clothes, speed is the key to successful removal.

If the stain is treated before it dries, the chances of removing it are increased. To remove ice cream stains, use cold water immediately and then wash in warm soap suds.

To remove ink stains, let water run through the spot before it dries if possible. Equal parts of glycerin and water makes another good remover, say clothing specialists for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

For information on removing all types of stains, from eggs to iron rust, see your local home demonstration agent or write the Agricultural Information Office at College Station for a copy of the booklet "Removing Stains From Clothing."

Ballerinas Have More Bounce To The Ounce

By VIVIAN BROWN
Lovely ballerinas have a simple recipe for shaking winter kinks: Relax tense muscles.
Office girls, factory workers and housewives will find muscles tense and vitality low at this time of the year. But ballerinas must be the epitome of grace and charm as they pirouette across stage at any season of the year. The skill of these lithe ladies at the entree and tour de force frequently depends on how well they relax off stage.
Maria Tallchief, charming prima ballerina of the New York City Ballet, concentrates on loosening tired muscles to keep her in a relaxed mood. Says she:
"When I'm really tired I take a hot, then a cold shower between ballets at a performance. I like to sit and soak in the tub, too. After a shower at the ballet, I am likely to treat myself to an extra tubbing when I get home."
Miss Tallchief especially likes the old tried-and-true neck shake. Any working girl should find this relaxing any time of the year. It's as simple as this: Turn your head as far as possible to each side without moving the shoulders, then roll your head around in a circle, dropping it to each side in complete relaxation. She explains:
"Besides being invigorating, this exercise gives muscles a more relaxed look. Whenever I feel tense before or after dancing I devote a few moments to it."
Exercise and relaxation are good therapies for warding off colds, too. Miss Tallchief believes. She remembers being ill only once. When she occasionally feels a cold coming on, she attends classes and finds she has shaken the shivers by the end of the dance session.
Feet get a good deal of her attention, of course. And raising the feet whenever possible, resting them on a surface of coffee-table height is especially good. She says:
"I always put my feet up when I sit down, if possible. I use the coffee table as a foot rest at home. Too bad all theaters don't have something like it."
She likes the ankle-rotation exercise, too, rotating her ankle 20 times in one direction and 20 times

Poise And Grace

To develop them, learn to relax, says prima ballerina, Maria Tallchief.

In the other. After dancing she is likely to sit on the edge of the bathtub, and alternately run hot, then cold water over her feet.

Offstage her skin gets a rest from cosmetics and her complexion has that soap-and-water scrubbed look. On stage she wears the routine makeup. She fastens her shoulder-length hair with two pins, one for the crown, another for her chignon, believing that on stage every hair must be in place or the audience will be distracted.
Her legs are slim and kept smooth with razor and soapy lather. She thinks that dancing helps develop the natural contour of the leg and that ballet lessons would be helpful also in helping the average woman develop poise and grace.

Britons Better Husbands Says Writer Wife Of MP

AP Newsfeature Writer
By SANDRA NEMSER
NEW YORK — "It's more fun to go to dinner with an American, but I'd rather be married to a Britisher," says Jill Craigie, British script writer who recently completed her first screen play for an American film company.
Interviewed during her first visit to this country, Miss Craigie, wife of a Member of Parliament and mother of a 17-year-old daughter, conceded that American men are more attractive, have more dash and are sayer than Englishmen, explaining:
"If Americans think a woman looks nice, they say so. They take for granted she is intelligent."
An Englishman, says Miss Craigie, seldom sends flowers and if he sends his wife looks pretty might remark to someone else:
"She's looking a bit of all right tonight."
The hazel-eyed scenarist-journalist claims she would rather marry a Britisher because he's steadier, pointing out that a look at American divorce statistics will prove that. She adds that Britons are much better at compromise in marriage.
"We don't expect a man to be the sun and moon and stars. We put up with faulty refrigerators; we put up with a husband. Marriage is not to be jolly well serious."

Miss Craigie had an opportunity to observe American male charm in the person of Gregory Peck, star of her film play, "Man With a Million," during its filming in England. In expanding an 18-page Mark Twain story to film length, she left it to Peck to insert Americanisms into the dialogue.
She expects to write a series of articles for two London newspapers on her observations of American life. One of them will deal with the woman over 40. Miss Craigie feels young girls here "look terrific," but older women dress as little girls. She says:
"They wear top many jingle jangles. Women here work too hard at being young; British women are inclined to give up."
Though she admires most things in America, such as its modern homes, its automobiles, and its films, Miss Craigie holds no brief for American slang, and spends her time trying to rid her daughter Judy of such Americanisms as:
"You're telling me! Let's face it! What's it to you!" And just plain "O.K."

McBRIDE SAYS

Mary Margaret
If I'd lived in simpler days, I think I could have been an inventor. I'm sure that once somebody else had found out how to make fire I could have figured a way to roast dinosaur without having to burn down my cave. And I can't imagine why the law of gravity had to wait around all those years for Newton, in a reflective frame of mind, to sit under an apple tree. The reason I don't invent now is that the whole business has become so complicated. You have to be equipped with a cyclotron, or at least a two horsepower motor, before you even start these days. Yet a writer on success told me recently that all you need to think of fresh, startling ideas is "apply imagination properly so that it will create something entirely new from patchwork fragments of the old." Since there are several items I'd like to have to make my life pleasanter, I immediately put my imagination to work. But I have to confess that I am hamstrung by lack of scientific and engineering background.
The good old days of waking up some morning with a plan, like one for an easy gadget like a wheel, seems truly gone forever. If only I understood how to put together one of those thinking machines that predict the outcome of elections and defeat human opponents at chess, it would be a short step to my dreams of an automatic combination checkbook balancer and overdraft alarm. Although I haven't figured out how to tailor this contraption, I'm certain about the way it should work — expertly adding, subtracting and carrying over, then sounding a tocsin whenever I attempt to sign a check that would bounce.
There's a fortune waiting for me or anybody who can end dishwashing by constructing pretty, pleasant-to-eat-off-of dishes that you can afford to throw away at the end of every meal. And don't tell me that this has already been accomplished, for it hasn't—at least not to MY satisfaction.
Another crying need is for a lazy-susan type shelf so you can get at the items in the back which are always the ones you want. And when will a benefactor come along to make comfortable corsets that still will restrain the too, too solid flesh, and shoes that have three-inch heels that don't murder your feet?
I've tried and failed on each of these but I'm still hopeful about the contraption I've set my imagi-

Carry Out Carrier Injured

Teams of crewmen and medical corpsmen carry men injured in explosion and fire aboard the big carrier Bennington Wednesday down the staging from the high deck of the vessel. ### Heidt Scores Hit With Show Here Wednesday

Horace Heidt scored an artistic triumph here Wednesday evening, and it's too bad that he couldn't be back this evening to capitalize on the spot he created. The genial veteran orchestra leader and showman doubtless would pack the city auditorium.

As it was, there were only about 750 on hand to witness what many declared to have one of the best shows ever to have been presented here. But Mr. Heidt never gave the appearance of a man dropping about a thousand bucks on the deal, for he was genial and gracious. General reaction was that he not only put on a good show, but that it was extremely fast moving and 100 per cent clean entertainment.

Although Johnny Standley and Dick Kerr turned out to be show stoppers, it was Heidt himself who unobtrusively was the star. Much to the surprise of the audience, he turned out to be something of a vocalist and a pretty fair hooper, too. Ralph Sigwald, portly baritone, scored heavily with his vocals and particularly with his "Lord's Prayer."

Much color and vivacity was added to the production by the Heidt Steppers, eight fresh young girls who were gaily costumed and who were talented dancers. Lyle Lynch doubled effectively as vocalist. Of course, the bread-and-butter of the program was the famous Musical Knights.

Johnny Standley brought the house down when he got on the familiar ground of "In the Book" and "Grandma's Lye Soap," the latter getting a lot of audience help. Dick Kerr worked the crowd completely off balance with his falsetto and then proceeded to mimic top flight vocalists even to the point of imitating the "Lord's Prayer" when he fell to beating the floor in an imitation of Johnny Ray, that buttoned up the deal. The audience wouldn't let him go.

Leon Sparkman won $25 first place for his interpretive dance in a division for amateurs; Mrs. C. A. Boyd, pianist, ranked second and got $15; Frank Maimone, Webb AFB, was third as vocalist and got $10.—JP.

A long illness ended in death here at 7 a.m. Thursday for Mrs. Bettie J. Davis, 79, wife of John Gilmer Davis.

Mrs. Davis had lived in this area for almost half a century. She had been in ill health for several years and had been seriously sick for nine months. She was hospitalized at the time of her death. The family home was at 605 Steakley.

The remains will be taken in a Nalley Funeral Coach at 9:30 a.m. Friday to the First Baptist Church in Snyder where funeral will be held at 2:30 p.m. Burial will be in the City Cemetery at Snyder.

Mrs. Davis was born Jan. 2, 1875 in Woodberry, Tenn. She was married with Mr. Davis in southeastern Borden County where part of Lake J. B. Thomas is now located.

Surviving her are her husband; seven daughters, Mrs. J. B. Cotton, Seagraves, Mrs. J. C. Skelton, Albany, Mrs. Gus Miller, Midland, Mrs. Ruth Bryant, Mrs. W. C. Ford and Mrs. M. L. Attorney George Thomas forfeited a $100 bond in City Court Wednesday afternoon when one of his clients did not show up for trial.

CARRIER TOLL

which roared through many forward compartments. Then came at least one more explosion. Scores were trapped in sleeping quarters. Many suffocated. Many perished in the flames.

The disaster, one of the worst in peacetime U.S. naval history, was the second aboard a carrier in New England waters in less than a year. Last October, 37 died in an explosion and fire on the carrier Leyte while she was docked in Boston.

A four-man court of inquiry, headed by Rear Adm. John M. Hoskins, commandant of the Quonset Naval Air Station, was named to begin investigating today.

Secretary of the Navy Charles S. Thomas, who flew to Quonset for a quick inspection, and Capt. William F. Raborn, Jr., Bennington skipper for only a month, said there was no indication of sabotage.

Raborn, from Oklahoma City, said the cause of the explosion is "a mystery to me."

"All heads have proved groundless," he said. "There was nothing explosive in the area where the explosions took place."

Johnny Standley brought the house down when he got on the familiar ground of "In the Book" and "Grandma's Lye Soap," the latter getting a lot of audience help. Dick Kerr worked the crowd completely off balance with his falsetto and then proceeded to mimic top flight vocalists even to the point of imitating the "Lord's Prayer" when he fell to beating the floor in an imitation of Johnny Ray, that buttoned up the deal. The audience wouldn't let him go.

Jury Finds For Warren Pickens

A jury in the district court at Palo Pinto found quickly in favor of Warren Pickens on Wednesday in his suit against Larry Blackmon, et al.

Pickens, of Austin and Big Spring, had brought suit to establish his rights as a stockholder in corporations and to reassert his partnership rights.

The jury was out less than half an hour in returning its verdict. The suit was brought against Blackmon, Mineral Wells, and Dan Gibbs, Dallas.

Previously, Pickens had filed suit in 118th District Court here and also received temporary injunction against disbursement of corporate funds. The injunction was dissolved subsequently.

Pickens was associated in the construction of the Monticello rental housing project here. Blackmon had contended that Pickens had made verbal offer to sell, a claim Pickens denied.

Involved in the suit were the Mutual Construction Corp., G. & H. Construction Corp., Henry A. Young Construction Company, and Pickens & Blackmon. Principal assets are the project here and one at Breckenridge.

Pickens said here Thursday that he would stay here until judgment had been entered and matters settled. He had asked for restoration of 50 per cent of the corporate stock and of his partnership rights. He also said that no funds would be disbursed except by joint consent of him and Blackmon's attorneys and that none of the houses in the project would be sold.

Paint Sploches Mar Graduation

Ugly splashes of paint Thursday morning put a blot on senior graduation.

Block letters four feet high in black paint proclaimed "Seniors '54" on the two story part over the foyer of the Senior High Building.

Then in a one-story portion near the east part of the auditorium the spectacle was duplicated with "Sr. '54." At still another point, apparently the perpetrators tossed the paint bucket against the wall.

Pat Murphy, business manager, said that a group of seniors had volunteered to try to scrub off the paint but that he had no way of knowing if this would be successful. It may take sand blasting, even if that will work, he said.

Two weeks ago, glass in an exterior door was kicked in and when replaced was immediately shattered again.

This week a senior flag was hoisted on the pole and school officials said that it would be permitted to fly until after graduation. In the meantime, someone plastered the pole with axle grease.

A minor accident was reported at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday in the 1200 block of West 3rd. Drivers involved were Jerry Ronald Roman of Knott and C. L. Smith of El Nido Courts. Smith was operator of a taxi cab. Police said there apparently were no injuries.

STANTON (SC) — The appointment of John F. Byus of El Paso as cashier of the First National Bank here has been announced by Jim Tom, president.

Byus, who will arrive here next week with his family, comes from the El Paso National Bank. His identical twin brother, Grant Byus, is cashier of the Midland National Bank. The new Stanton banker is a veteran of the Korean War in which he served as a major in the Air Force. He attended schools at Temple and Houston.

STANTON (SC) — A gas explosion shattered an unoccupied six-room frame house in South Fort Worth this morning, damaging homes on either side.

Mrs. Joe Magouirk, 75, who lives next door, was buried in bed under a pile of debris. She was treated for shock and released. She was the only casualty.

The blast shattered windows for blocks. It was heard in most areas of the city. Fire Marshal C. C. Killian placed a "curb stone estimate" of $25,000 damage in the area.

Cayuses Terminate Home Stand Tonite

The Big Spring Cayuses, who have shown a remarkable ability to win at home this season, try for a series sweep over Sweetwater at Steer Park this evening. Game time is 8:15 p.m. Pepper Martin's Steeds are now working with a modest winning streak of three games. They felled Midland twice before coming from behind to batter Sweetwater last night. Lefty Al Mendoza, who has notched three wins, will probably take the mound for Big Spring this evening. The Californian hurled the locals past Sweetwater last Sunday. Martin must prune his squad again but he will cast drift at this writing. In the Longhorn League and making threatening gestures at the fourth place club, Carlsbad.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

They like Witty Quintana, the former Big Spring third sacker, in San Antonio. They sometimes call him Pat, because his full handle is Patricio Witremundo Quintana, although he much prefers to be called Witty — but they heap praise on him.

The following is an excerpt from a recent San Antonio Express column written by Dick Peoples: "A couple of years ago, the (St. Louis) Browns drafted a young Cuban named Quintana from out of the Washington organization. Today, Witty Quintana, with the San Antonio Missions, is one of the best shortstops in the Texas League and carries the label of a future major league player. "In fact, it would not be out of line to say that Quintana is the best shortstop prospect to come up in the Baltimore organization since Junior Stephens. Stephens went to Toledo and then to the Browns from the Missions after a great season here in 1950. "Maybe Quintana won't become the real good hitter Stephens is (he led the Texas League in runs batted-in), but he's a fine clutch hitter (second in RBI's with 23), is a good fielder, has a great arm and can run like the wind. "This is Witty's fourth season of professional baseball. He's only 22. He was signed by Joe Cambria, the Washington scout, who comes up with most of the Cuban players, after two years of sandlot ball in his home town of Danes Oriente, Cuba. "The Senators farmed Quintana to Big Spring in the Longhorn League. That first year away from his native land he hit .306, clouted six home runs, had 65 runs batted in and swiped 12 bases. The next year, he really got his feet on the ground. Again with Big Spring, he hit .322, smacked 24 round trippers, had 112 runs batted in and stole 32 bases. "It was during the minor league draft in 1952 that the Browns claimed Quintana. They sent him to Anderson, S. C., in the Class B Tri-State League, where he batted .298. He hit 15 homers, drove in 75 runs and again showed there was largeny in his feet, by stealing 32 bases. "Last year Witty played in the Cuban winter ball. He also works in a sugar refinery. "Manager Don Heffner liked the actions of the quick-moving Cuban the first time he saw him in action this spring. It didn't take Witty long to move to the head of the shortstop class and stay there. "Up to this writing, Quintana was batting at a .294 club, had batted six doubles and four homers. In comparison to Stephens, Vernon settled only .266 his season with the Padres. "Witty, who was born on St. Patrick's Day (March 17), 1932, (That's where he acquired the name Patricio) is single. Cooking and fishing are his two chief hobbies. He likes music and movies for entertainment and his main ambition is to get to the major leagues and stay there. "Witty got his biggest thrill in the 1952 Longhorn League All-Star game when he slammed a grand slam homer. (Note: the home came with two on, not three). His most embarrassing moment was in 1951 against Odessa when he cracked a homer in the ninth inning with two mates on base. In his excitement, Witty forgot to touch first base. Odessa players detected the error and so did the ump. Instead of winning the game, 5-4, on Witty's homer, Big Spring lost the game, 4-2, on Witty's boner. However, a shortstop who hits home runs is a collector's item these days."

Witty was picked up by Pat Stearns in 1951 when Galveston tried him, then gave up on him. It's still a big mystery why Galveston, then in the Gulf Coast League—where talent ran very thin—gave up on him. Local fans had been used to great third base play in Potato Pascual before Quintana arrived. For that reason, they gave Witty a very critical eye. Before he left here, however, he was regarded as Potato's equal in every phase of the game, save as a pitcher and, of course, Witty didn't experiment with that. When I attended the minor league meeting in Phoenix two years ago, perhaps one of the most "talked-about" players in both major and minor league circles was Quintana. The majors knew about him even then. He was a dead certainty to be picked up in the baseball draft. It so happened the Browns, who later were to become the Orioles, got to him first.

Walker did not give up a hit until the fifth, when Thomas singled. Wayne Fields, on the mound for the Cargo Kings, also struck out ten men. Thomas singled for the Rails in the fifth and eventually got home on a throw to third that got away from Travis Anderson. The Anderson Music Company Devils challenge the Big Spring Herald Newsies in this afternoon's game, which begins at 8 p.m. Scene of action is the HJC diamond east of the college.

Defending Champs Beaten By Rails

The Rails, sponsored by employees of the T&P railroad, got off to a fast start in Pony League play here Tuesday by defeating the defending champions of the circuit, the Cargo Kings, 6-1. The Rails scored two runs in the first and that proved to be all they needed. They really put the verdict on ice with a three-run outburst in the sixth, however. Eugene Walker was in mid-season form in pitching the Rails to the win. He gave up only three hits, struck out ten, did not walk a man and the only run the Cargo Kings scored was unearned. George Peacock got the Rails off to a good start with a crashing double in the first. Peacock went all the way around when the ball got through Allen, the right fielder. Peacock was the only player in the game to get two hits. He batted in a run, as did Anderson, Stanley, Brown and McQuary. Dickie Gregory of the Rails got the game's only walk.

Midland Finding It Easy To Lose In League Now

The proverbial drunk never staggered any worse than the Midland Indians are doing in the Longhorn League. Midland seemed almost unable to lose in the early part of the season, but the Indians have found the method now. They dropped their fifth game in a row Wednesday night, falling before Artesia, 6-2. Roswell downed Odessa, 8-7, San Angelo whipped Carlsbad, 5-3, and Big Spring beat Sweetwater, 10-5, in other Longhorn action. Artesia had little trouble in the series opener with Midland, jumping to a 4-0 lead in the first four innings and coasting in from there. Jodie Phillips won his seventh

Buc Boss Sees Silver Lining

NEW YORK (AP)—Pittsburgh Manager Fred Haney peeked out of the National League cellar today and saw what many observers didn't think existed for the Pirates—a ray of sunshine. "I know we haven't looked like much so far," he observed, "but some of our kids have come along even better than I expected. "Take Bob Skinner. He's sure to be one of the best hitters in the game in a year or two. He takes a beautiful cut and doesn't get fooled by the same pitch twice. Bob's only had a year of pro experience and that was in Class D. "Then there's our new second baseman, Curt Roberts, one of the best fielders around and a good leadoff man. (Catchers) Jack Sheppard and Jim Mangano also look impressive and (shortstop) Gair Allie is doing all right too. "Haney is highly pleased with the pitching of his veteran right-hander Max Surkont, who has won four of the Bucs' 12 games. "Max is really going good. He's dropped a lot of weight and has made a good showing almost every time out. They say he doesn't go so well once the hot weather sets in, but I don't think that's a good reason he won't continue to win for us."

Stranahan Winner Over Thirwell

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP)—The three co-favorites—America's Frank Stranahan and Bill Campbell and defending champion Joe Carr of Ireland—won their way to the sixth round of the British Amateur Golf Tournament today. Stranahan, victor in 1948 and 1950, turned back Alan Thirwell, the English champion, 3 and 2. In the feature match of the morning round, Campbell, Walker Cup ace from Huntington, W. Va., finished brilliantly to oust R. F. Stevens of Australia, 2 and 1. Carr, a Dublin clothing man, won over Harold Ridgley, 40-year-old master sergeant from Havertown, Pa., 2 up. Ridgley gave the champion a good battle. Carr's medal round of 69 was the best of the tournament so far. The field now is reduced to 16. This afternoon's round will put the meet in the quarter-finals.

He Caught It Bare-Handed

Few persons have caught the fearsome hand-saw fish, a member of the vicious lancet family, Tom Baker, 20, left, an airman from Columbus, Ohio, did it bare-handed on the Oregon coast near Portland. Baker saw the fish swim between his legs, impulsively reached down and began tugging it shoreward by its tail, dodging snapping teeth. His partner, Ed Warner, right, an airman from Kansas City, Mo., admires the catch. (AP Wirephoto.)

Temes Is Added To Colt Lineup

SAN ANGELO (SC) — The San Angelo Colts of the Longhorn League have bolstered their lineup with the addition of two veterans and a limited service hurler. The class-men joining the Colts are Manny Temes and Quincy Barbee, the hurler Joe Barbesia. All were obtained from Portsmouth of the Piedmont League. Temes, former Midland second sacker, hit .333 and drove in 114 runs for Pampa in the WT-NM League last year. Barbee, a 6-foot-3 Negro youth, was also with Pampa in 1953, where he hit .371. He had 112 RBI's. He clouted 19 home runs. Barbesia won 15 and lost six games for Graceville in the Class D Florida State League last year. He had a 4.48 ERA. The Colts have also signed a rookie infielder — outfielder, Red Warshaw, a native of Roby, Texas.

Baez Gets 5th Win As Broncs Fell Spudders

A 10-5 victory achieved at the expense of Sweetwater here Wednesday night enabled the Big Spring Broncs to move to within 3 1/2 games of the first division in the Longhorn League. The Steeds gained on both third-place Midland and fourth-place Carlsbad. Midland leads Carlsbad by only one game. Bert Baez was hit hard in the first inning but settled down to pitch superbly and gain credit for his fifth victory of the year and his first in a Bronc uniform. He previously had registered four wins for Roswell.

Sweetwater counted four runs in the leadoff frame, with Ken Clueley's two-run homer the big blow. After the first, the only other run Baez surrendered came as the result of another four-master by Clueley in the fifth. The Broncs played catch-up until the fifth, when a two-run single off the bat of Julio Delatorre sent them ahead to stay. Richard Bravo hit his first boundary swat of the year as the leadoff man in the first for Big Spring. Bobby Martin clubbed a mighty homer for the Broncs with Delatorre up front in the fourth. Big Spring batted around in the seventh, during which time they plated four runs and left the sacks jammed. Frank Lopez, the first of three Spudder hurriers to take the hill, had to accept the loss, although Sweetwater was one run ahead when he departed.

The win was the third in a row for the rejuvenated Steeds, who have won 15-19 two-lost record for the year. FOUL TIPS — Two of Sweetwater's hurlers, Lopez and Steve Nunez, were struck by batted balls and Nunez had to be helped from the field because of it. Though the Spudders have been representing Sweetwater for nearly three weeks now, they took the field with Wichita Falls still embroiled in a pitching duel. Bob Martin and Baez combined to make a nice play on Davis Floyd's bouncer in the third, when it became apparent first baseman Tony Martinez could not recover in time. Bob Martin was out in the fifth when he popped to Al McCarty at first base, at which time he was trying to fall away from a pitch. Martinez dived for first base after fielding Floyd's ground ball in the sixth, just beating the runner. Jim Sampson hit a ground rule double in the sixth, the ball going under the fence in right field. Lopez was struck on the arm by a ball hit by Delatorre in the fourth while Nunez was hit on the ankle by one of Sampson's whistling drives. The crowd numbered 450. Bob Martin threw the previous night. Martinez and Delatorre each clubbed three hits for Big Spring.

Malgarini Debut Termed Success

The Harlingen management, currently shopping for a new field boss for the Capitols, will have a tough time finding one who'll get off to a better start than John Malgarini. Malgarini, named temporary manager after Earl Caldwell left the Capitols Tuesday night, piloted Harlingen to a 5-0 win over Bryan in the top Wednesday night action in the Big State League. Malgarini formerly played for San Angelo in the Longhorn League.

Colonial National Opens With Hogan As Favorite

FORT WORTH (AP) — Ben Hogan, Bob Toski, Cary Middlecoff and a terrific amateur, Ernie Vossler, were given the longest look today as the eighth $25,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament rolled into its first round. Most eyes were on Hogan, the little Texan who has won about everything golf has to offer and wants to make it five Colonial titles. The once-tight par 70 of Colonial Country Club's 7,835 yards has proved of little concern to the mighty Bantam, who has shot two 68's and a 69 in tuneup rounds. The hottest of "shadow boxers," however, has been Vossler, the Fort Worth amateur who's known mostly in Texas. Ernie did a 65 to tie Hogan's competitive course record and then turned in a 66, although missing two birdie putts, in his final practice swing yesterday. Middlecoff, the Memphis dentist, who won the Colonial title in 1951, breezed through a 66 in his only tuneup. Toski, the little man from Livingston, N.J., who is the year's leading money winner with $10,988.74, didn't arrive in time for more than one practice round. He did an easy 71.

Giants Await Bums For Big Series

New York Giant fans, still basking in the fading glories of 1951, bragged today about a five-game winning streak, then cautiously crossed their fingers. Brooklyn's coming. The Dodgers invaded the Polo Grounds for a three-game series starting tomorrow night against a Giant club that has been showing more signs of life than most experts expected. Leo Durocher's athletes have tended to streaks this spring and the last five days have been one of their good periods. By whipping Pittsburgh, 2-1, yesterday, they took over second place, a game and a half behind Milwaukee. The Brooklyn series won't make or break the Giants. But if they happen to sweep three games, or even gain a 2-1 edge in decisive fashion, they'll find themselves in the midst of the hottest pennant talk since they knocked off Brooklyn three years ago. In yesterday's game New York got only four hits, a single and a home run by weak-hitting Davey Williams and two doubles by Willie Mays. Williams' single figured in the first run; his homer provided the winning margin. Mays' hitting has been one of the brightest features of the current streak. He's raised his average from .250 to .304 with 10 hits in his last 15 times at bat. Included were two homers, two triples and two doubles. Brooklyn fell to third last night, half a game behind the Giants, by bowing to the Philadelphia Phillies, 6-4. Milwaukee won its ninth straight, 7-4, over Cincinnati. Chicago crushed St. Louis, 15-5. In the American League the Chicago White Sox closed to within half a game of league-leading Cleveland by beating the Indians, 5-4. Washington shaded New York, 2-1. Detroit handed Baltimore its sixth loss in succession, 6-3, and Philadelphia shaded Boston, 6-5, in 10 innings. Two pitching streaks were broken. Robin Roberts, a loser in his last seven appearances against Brooklyn, went the route to victory in Ebbets Field despite a 10-hit Dodger attack. Eddie Lopat of the Yankees was beaten by Washington for the first time in 13 games, since June 26, 1953. Del Ennis drove in five runs in support of Roberts and Willie Jones added to the Philadelphia Cavaliers with a run-scoring triple and

Broadfoot Picks
New Duval Panel

ALICE (M)—Dist. Judge A. S. Broadfoot called into his court today the four Duval County residents he wants to serve on the new county grand jury commission.

The elderly jurist acted swiftly yesterday after the State Court of Criminal Appeals upheld his right to discharge the former grand jury commission and appoint a new one.

Asked to be in his court at 9 a. m. today for testing of their qualifications—a normal formality involving such questions as whether they are freeholders—were these men: Monroe Wiederkehr, Benavides rancher; N. Brooks Frazier, Freer oilfield worker and rancher; Rafael Garcia, also a Freer rancher; and A. A. Griffin, San Diego garage operator.

Judge Broadfoot dismissed the previous jury commission on grounds it was lax in selecting fair and impartial grand and petit jurors.

Meanwhile Donata Serna appeared established as Duval County auditor. Political foe of George Parr, the San Diego man yesterday filed with the county clerk a certified copy of his appointment, his loyalty affidavit, and his bond.

Serna said this was sufficient to establish his authority to act but that he would try to get in touch with County Judge Dan Tobin Jr. to tell him he was ready to serve.

Board Prepares $3-Million Bond Issue
For Plush Hotels At Two State Parks

By BO BYERS
AUSTIN (M)—The State Parks Board now needs only the State Supreme Court's blessing and a national engineering firm's endorsement to promote the financing for plush million-dollar hotels in two state parks.

If all legal and economic barriers are cleared as soon as the board anticipates, Chairman Frank Quinn of Austin is hopeful the hotels will be ready in Eisenhower and Inks state parks by next May 1.

Eisenhower Park is at Texoma Lake, near Denison, in North Texas. Inks Park is at Inks Lake, near Bonnet, in Central Texas.

Planning for the projects has dragged along for three years. The board speeded up action yesterday when it unanimously approved a preliminary agreement with a Chicago bond firm for issuance of 3 million dollars in revenue bonds by July 15 if possible. Before the bonds can be issued, under terms of the agreement, the Supreme Court must pass on legality of their issuance, the security for their payment, and enforceability of the bond obligations.

Also, a nationally known engineering firm of the bond company's choice must make an independent survey of feasibility and practicability of the proposed parks improvement program and park system.

The survey will take some 30 days, estimated George J. Gruner, vice president of John Nuveen and Co., the municipal bond company which proffered the agreement. Other bond associates will join in the agreement.

Whether the Supreme Court can rule on the board's authority to issue such bonds in time to permit their delivery by July 15 is uncertain. The court usually takes a summer recess starting in July.

Quinn hoped all would go smoothly and construction could be under way by Sept. 1.

The 3 million dollar issue is designed to be merely a first installment on what the bond representatives hope may become a 25 or even 50 million dollar improvement program for the entire parks system.

Quinn said Whitney Lake and Atlanta State Park at the Texarkana Reservoir probably would be next on the list for hotel and cabin facilities, boat docks and tennis courts.

Bids Are Delayed On Webb Project

Bid opening on an auxiliary landing strip for Webb AFB has been postponed until 11 a. m. Friday.

The U. S. Corps of Engineers district office at Albuquerque, N. M., announced the postponement Wednesday afternoon, the originally scheduled date.

Plans call for construction of the strip north of Colorado City. It would be used for touch-and-go and other landings in connection with Webb's training program.

Four Points Show Need For Improved Highways

The need for better highways, such as the freeway being constructed through this section of West Texas, is pointed up in a booklet published by the Texas Highway Department.

There are only 600 miles of four-lane divided highway in the state. Present traffic volume demands an additional 2,000 miles of such thoroughfares, the department says.

The load the state's highways must carry is more than 3 1/2 million vehicles which travel a total of 86 billion miles daily.

Texas ranks fourth in the nation in motor vehicle registration, with one car or truck to approximately every two residents. It has about seven per cent of the total road mileage in the entire country.

Contributing to the volume of traffic and the need for improved highways is the state's increasing population and industrialization. Size of the state, of course, is partially responsible for the 234,542 miles of public roads which must be expanded and maintained.

The State Highway Department views the highway system from four angles: increased traffic, highway revenues, obsolete highways and war time neglect.

State highways, such as the one from Big Spring to Snyder; urban roads, such as Third, Fourth and Gregg Streets which are a part of the highways system in Big Spring; farm-to-market roads; and trunk highways, such as Highways 80 and 87, are the ones for which the Highway Department is responsible.

Federal aid—last year $34,500,000 of a $163,000,000 highway budget—is available for highway construction on U. S. routes, including 80 and 87 through Howard County.

Otherwise, the highway dollar comes from state gasoline tax, motor vehicle registration, certificates of title fees and appropriations by the Legislature (for farm-to-market roads). The fuel tax accounts for 45 per cent and car registrations add another 23 per cent to the total.

The Highway Department says the average cost of constructing a mile of state highway is $100,000. Maintenance costs $714 per mile per year.

Last year the department spent a record $37 1/2 million on maintenance alone. Due to rapid growth of the state's highway system, $1 must be spent for maintenance for every $2 spent on construction.

Other expenses last year included $10 million for equipment, etc.; $4 million for the Department of Public Safety; $1.5 million for administration. The $110 million invested in new construction added 3,700 miles to the road system.

An example of the immense cost of modern highways is illustrated by the freeway across Howard County. The Highway Department is to spend about $450,000 on construction in Big Spring, approximately $700,000 for the 11 miles from Big Spring to the Martin County line, and probably another million from Big Spring to the Mitchell County line.

Cost of this will average more than $62,500 per mile.

Big Spring is in a favored position, as far as freeway construction is concerned. With 2,000 miles of such roadway needed immediately, the section here is among the first to receive attention.

Highway 80 also fits into the interstate freeway system. The freeway through Howard County is to be a portion of only two or three-coast-to-coast.

Trunk highway needs are the principal worries of the Highway Commission at present. The farm-to-market system already has grown to the point that the majority of rural inhabitants are within a stone's throw of a paved highway," the Highway Department's booklet says.

The trunk highways—backbone of the road system—have become outmoded and obsolete, due to the tremendous increase in travel and inadequate highway revenue, the report claims.

As roads are improved, traffic safety is expected to increase—another important factor taken into consideration by the State Highway Department.

Last year in Texas there were 2,368 persons killed in motor vehicle accidents. In addition, the economic loss amounted to $150 million.

"Many of these accidents can be traced directly to deficient highways," the department booklet says. "Motor vehicle accidents can never be completely eliminated, but they can be held to an absolute minimum through a modern highway system employing sound engineering principles."

As an example of the safety built into the controlled access roads with divided lanes, the Highway Department points to the Gulf Freeway from Houston to Galveston. While the fatality rate per 100 million vehicle miles throughout Texas last year was 6.4, the death rate was but 1.6 on the divided-lane route.

Adm. Boone Slated To Inspect Hospital

Vice Admiral Joel T. Boone, chief medical director of the Veterans Administration, is due here tomorrow for an official inspection of the Big Spring VA Hospital.

The highly decorated ex-military surgeon is to be accompanied by his special assistant, Robert A. Kevan of Washington, D. C., and Dr. Charles H. Beasley, VA area medical director from St. Louis.

The three men will arrive shortly before noon and depart before 6 p.m.

Admiral Boone is making a special trip to Big Spring for the inspection, said Willis O. Underwood, hospital manager. The admiral has never seen the local institution, which is the newest VA hospital structure.

Underwood and Dr. Jackson H. Friedlander, chief of medical services at the hospital, will conduct Admiral Boone and Dr. Beasley on the inspection. They will be accompanied by Miss Beattie Love, chief nurse.

During the inspection Kevan will hold a conference with members of the administrative staff. Admiral Boone will speak to all employees at 4 p.m., prior to departure.

Admiral Boone, who holds among his many decorations the Medal of Honor, has been the personal physician of Presidents Warren G. Harding, Calvin Coolidge and Herbert Hoover. He served in both the Navy and Marine Corps during World Wars I and II.

Graduating from Hahnemann Medical College in Philadelphia in 1913, Dr. Boone was appointed lieutenant (jg) in the Navy the following year. He advanced in grade to Rear Admiral by 1942, and on retirement in 1950 was advanced to the rank of Vice Admiral.

When World War I started he was assigned to the Marines and was sent to France. He was battalion and regimental surgeon with the Sixth Marine Regiment and later assistant division surgeon of the Second Army division, American Expeditionary Forces.

It was in the vicinity of Vierz, France, that he was awarded the

ADM. BOONE

Medal of Honor. He was cited for going onto the battlefield during heavy enemy fire to apply dressings and first-aid to wounded Marines.

His other medals of World War I included the Distinguished Service Cross, the Silver Star Medal with five oak leaf clusters, and the Purple Heart with two oak leaf clusters.

After return to the United States he was assigned to the presidential yacht Mayflower and was physician to Presidents Harding and Coolidge. He was later assigned physician to the White House during the administration of President Hoover.

In 1933 he was assigned chief of medicine on the hospital ship Relief and was then sent to California. He became Force Medical Officer of the Fleet Marine Force and later Force Medical Officer of the Base Force, U. S. Fleet.

Following other assignments he was selected to be one of three officers to liberate Allied Prisoners of War in Japan prior to military occupation of that country.

He was the Naval Medical Corps

Preacher Reports He Killed His Wife

DALLAS (AP)—"I killed my wife," a preacher said as he walked into police headquarters clutching a large Bible.

"Send an ambulance," said the carpenter and part-time Baptist pastor. "My wife is dead. I killed her with a shotgun. I'll make a statement about it."

Capt. W. R. Westbrook jailed Stafford Lee, 38, and sent patrolmen to the Lee home. They found Mrs. Annie Lee dead on a bed, shot through the chest. A shotgun was nearby.

Lee said his wife was about to divorce him and they had argued as he tried to talk her out of it.

'Great Books' New Idea In Education

By JOHN BUSER

Something new in education has come to Big Spring. Great Books, a new and growing idea in adult education is represented here by one class already and there are plans to add another in the fall.

Great Books differs from most adult education courses in that it's frankly non-vocational. The course consists of reading and discussing selections from famous writings, largely philosophy. No particular brand of thought is featured for selections range from saints to Karl Marx.

Actually, Great Books is more like a study club than a classroom course. There's no teacher; instead one person serves as discussion leader. There are no tests, no grades and no academic credit, whatsoever.

This idea, while it has been utilized over parts of the United States for several years, has just recently come to West Texas. There are eleven groups in West Texas now, coordinated out of Texas Tech by Dr. Per G. Stensland. The Ford Foundation financially aids the program.

Along the same line are two other related programs, the American Heritage series and the Jeffersonian Heritage series. The American Heritage series, like the Great Books course, is a study of the history of the United States. It consists of radio listening groups and is based on a program, "Ways of Mankind," currently aired over four area stations.

Bill Thompson, Howard County Junior College faculty member who serves as discussion leader for the course, is quite enthusiastic. Based on his experiences here, he has written an article for the Junior College Journal for publication next fall.

Thirty are enrolled in the course here, which has meetings for two hours every other week. The class began its sessions last winter and will knock off for the summer on June 4. Sessions are informal and meet in the college cafeteria with a coffee break in the middle of each session.

Although most now enrolled have a college education, it's not a necessity and some don't. In fact there are no formal admission standards whatsoever.

Cost of the course is nominal. The books in the authorized edition cost $11 for the year's readings. However, library books can be used if desired. Discussion leaders donate their time.

Thompson sees the course as a substitute for the old-style liberal education that colleges used to feature but have now sidetracked in favor of professional training courses.

Whatever the reason, Great Books is a growing movement. As of last December there were 1,284 groups meeting in the U. S. and Canada.

Actor Glenn Ford Is Sued By Studio

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Alleging that actor Glenn Ford refused to complete his part in the movie "The Americano," Robert Stillman Productions has sued him for 1 1/2 million dollars damages.

The company's complaint stated yesterday that Ford started the film in Brazil, was given permission to return to Hollywood and agreed to finish the picture free of other commitments but later refused. It asks for the budget of the picture plus expected profits.

Three-fifths of the children born in the United States have mothers between 20 and 30 years old.

Reserve Moisture Over West Texas Is 'Best In Years'

AUSTIN (AP)—Reserve moisture in the western half of Texas is "the best in several years," the U. S. Department of Agriculture said Wednesday.

Moisture in the eastern half is "generally adequate," the USDA's weekly review of conditions said.

Crop and pasture prospects in the northwest were improved by more showery weather, the second straight week of rainfall. Fields are too wet for much necessary planting or replanting of cotton and sorghums.

Wheat prospects in the northwest continued on the upgrade.

Lower Valley cotton was in good shape although some drylands areas needed rain.

Conditions were favorable in most commercial vegetable areas.

Summer range and feed prospects throughout West Texas got another big boost as showers fell on the ranchlands.

The low rolling and southern High Plains had good soil moisture conditions as summer approached. Grass was making remarkable growth. The Edwards Plateau and South Texas ranch regions also had good showers, helping grass.

MEN IN SERVICE

LT. EDWIN R. TURNER

for services in Japan. During World War II he had been awarded the combat infantry badge and bronze star medal.

In 1942 and in the early part of 1943 he was in charge of the U. S. Army Recruiting Station in Big Spring. Lt. Turner enlisted in the regular Army in July 1940. He served with the 97th Infantry Division in Europe and in July 1950 received a commission in the Army reserves. He was called to active duty in April 1951.

Pvt. Jerry W. Sanderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Sanderson, 501 Main, recently began eight weeks of basic training in the Army at Fort Bliss, near El Paso.

Sanderson is with the Antiaircraft Artillery Replacement Training Center at the base and will be familiarized with fundamental infantry subjects. After the first phase of training he will be assigned to further training in the techniques of antiaircraft artillery or will be transferred to a special training school for another skill.

CARL WYRICK

Carl Wyrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Wyrick of Coahoma, reported last Wednesday to Spence Air Force Base at Moultrie, Ga., for primary flight training as an aviation cadet.

Wyrick has just completed pre-flight training at Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio. He spent the past week in Coahoma with his parents before reporting to his new assignment. He will spend five months at Spence.

Wyrick was employed at Corden Refinery before entering the service three months ago. The 20-year-old cadet was processed by the Webb Air Force Base selection team and was the first man from this area to be selected without a college education.

Graduating from Coahoma High School in 1952, Wyrick was president of his senior class and lettered in football.

1st Lt. Edwin R. Turner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe W. Turner, 604 W. 16th, has returned home after a 27 months tour of duty in the Far East. He has gone to Kirtland AFB at Albuquerque, N. M. after visiting his parents here.

He served 11 months with the Korean military advisory mission in Korea and 18 months in headquarters of the Far East command and the United Nations command in Tokyo. Mrs. Turner and their son spent a year in Tokyo with him.

Lt. Turner was awarded the Army commendation ribbon with metal pendant for Korean service. He also has an oak leaf cluster to his Army commendation ribbon

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

A little harbor on coast of Vancouver Island as it looked 162 years ago.

White men — chiefly Englishmen and Frenchmen — gave sheep, pigs and other livestock to natives of various islands in the Pacific Ocean. During later voyages, the whites learned about the value of the livestock to the brown-skinned folk.

In some cases there was a welcome return. On the island of Tahiti, for example, the hungry sailors of Captain Vancouver were supplied with plenty of pork. In addition they were given fruits and fresh vegetables.

After leaving Tahiti, the vessels sailed northeastward until they reached the Sandwich Islands. These islands had been named by Captain Cook in honor of the earl of Sandwich. Today we speak of them as the Hawaiian Islands.

The main object of Vancouver was to explore the western coast of North America. He had been told to try to locate a waterway which would lead through the continent, from the Pacific Ocean to the Atlantic.

Although he failed to find the waterway, the commander and his assistants made valuable maps. The vessels entered and explored a good-sized inlet of the sea. This was given the name of Puget Sound, in honor of Peter Puget, a clever lieutenant on the "Discovery."

ing Tacoma and Seattle, on the shores of Puget Sound. Looking southeastward, Captain Vancouver saw a large and beautiful mountain peak. To this, he gave the name of Mount Rainier, in honor of his friend, Admiral Rainier.

The old Indian name for the peak was Tacoma, but the new name was placed on maps and is used to this time. Mount Rainier rises more than two and a half miles above sea level, and is the center of interest in Mount Rainier National Park.

Sailing northward, Vancouver reached a mass of land which he believed might be a large island. While exploring the waters around it, the "Discovery" ran aground. Tomorrow: Further Exploration.

Inoculation Of Guar Seed Is Being Urged By Conservationist

COLORADO CITY (SC)—A normal yield of from 700 to 900 pounds of guar beans to the acre can be expected from fields where the seed have been inoculated and the crop has been kept clean by cultivation, says Painter Wylie, work unit conservationist with the Colorado City office of the Soil Conservation Service.

Supervisors of the Mitchell Soil Conservation District are urging more farmers to plant guar than ever before, Wylie says, particularly on much of the land that must be devoted to other crops because of the reduced cotton acreage this year.

"We are urging two points in our campaign for more guar," Wylie says. He lists these as the great soil improvement that can be expected and the cash return from the sale of the seed produced to the General Mills guar processing plant in Kenedy.

But the supervisors are putting emphasis on seed inoculation, too. They say it is very important. They say they believe the Urbana Special Guar Inoculant is best, but that the Nitrogen Formula "E" inoculant can also be used. The variety of guar recommended here is the Texsel, which is the upright, single stalk variety, which requires a warm weather growing season of 125 days when adequate moisture is available, and guar will produce abundantly on less moisture than many crops.

The Texsel variety, the supervisors say, has good seeding habits whereby the flowering, seed setting and maturing occur progressively and can halt if moisture becomes short for a period, and then continue the orderly progression toward complete maturity as moisture becomes available again.

Wylie says that on some Texas dryland farms where guar has been grown as a row crop that yields up to 1,100 pounds have been made, but that he believes the average will range from the 700 to 900 pounds as mentioned.

"Another distinct advantage in guar," the conservationist says, "is that it can be planted, cultivated and harvested with the machinery already in use on almost every farm. It combines well with any standard combine, and is planted similar to hepari, but at the rate of only five or six pounds to the acre. The mature guar stands well in the field without shattering."

At the same time he points out that too much rain can ruin a guar crop from the standpoint of merchantable bean quality and that the field should be combined as soon as the seed are mature if too much rain threatens.

"But this shouldn't cause the farmers to overlook the great soil-building advantages of guar even if the bean crop should be ruined by too much rain, which isn't at all likely in this country. Even if they should lose the bean crop to rain, they will more than make up the difference in the increased production of the cotton or other crop that follows the guar."

The supervisors of the Mitchell SCD are also urging the farmers to recognize the fact that guar is adaptable to a very wide range of soils from the heavy clays to the deep clays, but that it thrives best on the medium-textured and sandy soils. Applications of phosphate are recommended to give the guar an opportunity for maximum production.

It is suggested that where guar is planted on deep sands or exceptionally poor fields, that the crop be started off with a balanced fertilizer application, and that after this the guar can be counted on to take care of itself. They describe it as a proot, drought-resistant crop that is not too costly to plant and for which there is an adequate supply of seed.

The 1954 market price for guar beans, Wylie says, is $4 per hundred pounds, after dockage, for good quality beans delivered to the General Mills plant at Kenedy.

The plant does not contract with any farmer for guar acreage, Wylie explains, but General Mills does establish buying agents to purchase the yield direct from the farmer at the market price, less freight to Kenedy, on a carload lot basis. Wylie also makes it plain to the farmer, to whom he suggests a planting of guar, that General Mills does not guarantee any farmer or group of farmers to buy the beans.

At the same time Wylie is sure there will be a ready market for the beans produced, even though the market for these beans for industrial processing has very definite limits.

"We see no reason to be concerned regarding an appreciable surplus," he says. At the same time he estimates that 100,000 acres of guar will be planted in the adaptable regions of Oklahoma and Texas this year. He says a good portion of this acreage will be used strictly for green manure when it is plowed down for soil conditioning and that some will be planted solely for soil protection against blowing and not for the purpose of bean harvest.

"Guar is a superior summer legume," says Wylie, "and will pay its way in rotation whether any beans are marketed or not. We don't regard it as a prime cash crop, but as a soil conditioner, nitrogen fixer and plow pan opener, and that's certainly what we need in this country."

Appellate Court Nixes Oil Request

AUSTIN (AP)—The 3rd Court of Civil Appeals overruled Wednesday motions of 10 major oil companies which sought rehearing on whether the state was entitled to trial of its anti-trust suit against them.

The state filed its suit in 1949, alleging the companies conspired to fix and maintain noncompetitive tank wagon prices on gasoline as far back as July 29, 1946.

Litigation since 1949 has been on the issue of whether the state's suit presented a sufficient cause of action to entitle the state to a trial.

District Judge Charles Betts ruled in 1952 the state had failed to show a cause. The appellate court reversed that decision April 14.

Wednesday's ruling was a refusal by the appellate court to reconsider.

Marshall Firm Low Bidder On Project

TULSA (AP)—Army Engineers said yesterday H. R. Henderson and Co. of Marshall, Tex., was the apparent low bidder on a construction project at the Longhorn Ordnance Works Plant 3 at Marshall.

The company bid $2,480,528 for 45 single and multi-storied buildings and constructing drives, parking areas, sidewalks, utilities and sanitary sewer service lines. The only other bid was $3,370,304 by Campbell and Kay Co., Tyler, Tex. The government estimate was $2,522,591.

Candidates File State Reports

AUSTIN (AP)—First financial reports filed by candidates in statewide political races indicate the heavy spending hasn't started yet, with one exception.

The exception is in the Senate race, in which state Rep. Dudley Dougherty of Beeville reported he has spent $56,228 in his attempt to oust Sen. Lyndon Johnson.

The nearest approach to Dougherty's spending is that of C. T. Johnson, candidate for lieutenant governor. He listed expenses of $5,320.

Sworn statements filed with Secretary of State C. E. Fulgham prior to the midnight deadline Tuesday included these:

For governor (expenses listed first, contributions received, second):

Gov. Shivers—expenses $600 filing fee; contributions received, $1,255.

Ralph Yarborough—$3,013; $10,078.

J. J. Holmes—$600; no contributions.

For lieutenant governor: Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey—$1,365; no contributions.

Rep. George Hinson—$1,916; $588.

C. T. Johnson—$5,320; no contributions.

For senator: Sen. Lyndon Johnson—$3,389; no contributions.

Rep. Dudley Dougherty—$56,228; $13,417.

Capa Killed In Indochina

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—Robert Capa, famed American war photographer, was killed Tuesday in a land mine blast on the Indochina front.

A French high command announcement said the Hungarian-born cameraman died near Phuly, 30 miles south of Hanoi. He was the first American photographer killed in the Indochina war.

Capa, who won fame through his coverage for Life magazine during World War II, came here two weeks ago on a temporary assignment for Life. He had gone to Phuly—an active war sector—to do a story with John Mecklin, a Time magazine correspondent. French sources said Mecklin escaped injury.

In recognition of his World War II coverage, Gen. Eisenhower decorated Capa with the U. S. Medal of Freedom in 1947.

AF Plane Strikes Lumber Yard; Sets Off Terrific Blaze

NEWARK, Del. (AP)—An Air Force twin engine plane crashed into a lumber yard in downtown Newark Tuesday and exploded into a terrific blaze. No one was injured in the fire and both the pilot and copilot safely parachuted over the city.

The C-45 exploded on impact and the flames, fed by a half million dollars worth of lumber, leaped 100 feet into the air.

The two flyers were taken to the New Castle County Air Force Base near Wilmington, 12 miles northeast of Newark. A spokesman said there would be an investigation.

The plane was on a routine non-stop training flight from Mitchell Air Force Base, Long Island, N.Y., to Washington, D. C., and return. The pilot, Capt. Leroy B. Hansen, 22, of Salt Lake City, Utah, said the ship suddenly developed engine trouble and when and copilot Capt. Howard N. Franklyn, 32, of Medford, Mass., bailed out.
