John McKee Ousted As No. 2 Mason In Texas

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Crime Commission Chairman John McKee, accused of being a Navy deserter and living under an assumed name since 1929, has been replaced as the No. 2 Mason in Texas.

This was confirmed late Monday by Circuit Court of Appeals Judge Harold A. Bateman, who succeeds McKee in the high lodge post. McKee and Lee Lockwood, of Waco, the top Mason in Texas, were not available for comment at once.

McKee was replaced in the Masonic post following announcement last Friday by Dallas Dist. Atty. Henry Wade and Dallas Police Chief Frank Dyson that McKee is in reality James Kill Zullinger, a Navy deserter who was given a dishonorable discharge in 1950, 21 years after he walked away from a U.S. Navy vessel.

The Masons issued a short statement that "Judge Bateman succeeds John McKee, 33rd, of Dallas."

Bateman confirmed the change but would make no comment.

Wade and Dyson said they were making their sudden disclosure in the midst of an investigation which they said was leaking to the public, spawning rumors and public discussion.

Both officials said McKee has refused to be fingerprinted but that an analysis of his background substantiated their claims.

Wade was quoted shortly after the revelations that criminal proceedings not connected with the desertion allegations were being considered.

Station WBAP-TV in Fort Worth said Monday, however, that Wade claimed he had been misquoted and that no criminal action was contemplated against McKee.

Wade was not available late Monday for elaboration.

The Mason biography of McKee states he was graduated from New York University but the Dallas Morning News reported today the paper had been aware since last November that NYU had no record of McKee or Zullinger ever attending the school.

Rep. Purcell Campaigning Here Today

Rep. Graham Purcell of Wichita Falls campaigned today in the home town of his opponent, Rep. Bob Price, on the concluding leg of his current six-day tour of the Panhandle.

Purcell, Democratic candidate for re-election from the 13th Congressional District, attended a public coffee for local Democratic chairmen, workers and supporters today from 10 a.m. to noon in the Coronado Inn Starlight Room. Also on hand to greet Purcell was State Rep. Phil Cates of Pampa.

Before he met with the chairmen and workers, Purcell said he had been very pleased with the reception he has been receiving in the Panhandle. His meetings on this trip have been designed mainly for chairmen and workers.

While Purcell campaigned in Pampa today, Price, Republican candidate campaigned in Wichita Falls yesterday and is slated to return there tomorrow.

Following his appearance in Pampa, Purcell left to attend another meeting in Clarendon. He will return to Washington tonight to prepare to attend the sessions of Congress tomorrow and to keep several appointments.

Secretary Laird Warns Of Big Soviet N-Power

Red Buildup Growing Faster Than Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said today Soviet nuclear power is growing faster than he had forecast. He said a U.S. speedup in submarine-missile development signals America's will to keep a strong retaliatory punch.

Other defense officials said the recent decision to push the undersea long-range missile system (ULMS) also indicates to Russia it should not stall on agreeing to limit nuclear weapons, including submarine-launched missiles.

An initial U.S.-Soviet nuclear arms limitation agreement is expected by May, but the Russians are reported opposed to including submarine-launched weapons until they overtake an American lead in this department.

"The Soviet buildup is showing even greater momentum than I projected in last year's defense report," Laird told Congress today in his annual report.

"It would be diplomatically and politically unacceptable for the United States to allow the Soviets to achieve a large numerical superiority in both land-based and sea-based strategic missiles."

Laird reported that by mid-year the Russians will have 1,550 land-based intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBMs) in firing position compared with 1,054 for the United States. The Soviet navy will have 500 submarine-mounted missiles compared with 656 aboard U.S. subs, with the gap closing swiftly.

The U.S. bomber force will continue its downward slide from 565 planes to 531 while the Soviet heavy-bomber fleet remains at about 140. But a fast new Russian bomber has been tested and could be a threat in a few years, Laird said.

Laird's 203-page report contained these other points: Vietnam—"Situation remains encouraging... the major part of our Vietnamization program has been accomplished and we are ahead of schedule on the tasks that remain."

"We seek to avoid the errors of the past which led to our ever-increasing commitment in Vietnam," Laird said. "That is a mistake we cannot afford to make again."

Draft—Inductions this year will be "substantially lower" than last year when draft calls fell to a 10-year low of 98,000. He gave no 1972 figure.

While sticking to his goal of an all-volunteer force by mid-1973, Laird cautioned that "no one can guarantee that the new incentives... will suffice to satisfy the need for manpower without resorting to the draft."

Manpower—By July "we will have completed the planned reduction in major land forces" from the Vietnam peak to the peacetime force of 13 Army divisions and three Marine divisions.

Total armed-forces strength will level off at just under 2.4 million men, lowest since before the Korean war in 1950. At the Vietnam war's height, there were 3.5 million Americans in uniform.

Service missions—Although the Navy appears to be faring better than the other services under the new $76.5-billion defense budget, Laird said he intends to give the Air Force major combat responsibilities in control of the seas, such as use of F111 fighter bombers to attack enemy ships.

Research and development—Asking another $1 billion for research on future weaponry, Laird said Russia "has now reached a position where... there could be new surprises and new Sputniks." The United States, he said, could lose the technological race.

Politics—Laird said he would be "pleased... to consider favorably an invitation" to appear before the platform committees of both the Democratic and Republican national conventions this summer to discuss the nation's defenses.

Laird's chart on strategic nuclear balance shows the United States has 4,700 warheads to 2,100 for the Russians. By next summer, the United States will add 1,000 warheads while the Russians will gain only about 400.

The Pentagon chief reported that the Russians may have completed deployment of several types of ICBMs, including the huge SS9 whose 25-megaton warhead dwarfs anything the United States owns.

However, during the course of last year we detected almost 100 new silos that differ from currently deployed Soviet ICBMs," Laird said.

Defense Chief: Red Missiles Threaten Asia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird told Congress today Communist Chinese missiles threaten most of south and east Asia and a substantial part of the Soviet Union.

"We believe that the Chinese could begin deployment of intercontinental ballistic missiles with a range of 3,000 nautical miles or more, capable of striking all or most of the U.S.S.R., by 1975," Laird said in a statement to the Senate Armed Services Committee.

He said the two Chinese satellites launched in the last 18 months and a dozen nuclear tests since 1964 "indicate a fairly high degree of sophistication in both missile and warhead development."

He said the two satellites probably were orbited by a multistage vehicle based on their intermediate-range ballistic missile. Therefore, he said, they should be considered as part of China's progressive development of an ICBM.

"We have not as yet been able to confirm the initial flight testing of an ICBM," Laird said in his annual report to Congress.

He said it cannot be predicted when China will have an ICBM capable of striking the United States, but estimates are that deployment could not take place before 1975 with 10 to 20 missiles available by mid-1976.

Laird also said the Chinese are interested in nuclear-submarine technology and probably will develop a prototype in the next several years. But ballistic-missile submarines are not likely to be available until the last half of the 1970s, he said.

Board Continues Inquiry Into Fate Of Missing Tanker

HOUSTON (AP) — A Coast Guard inquiry into the fate of the V. A. Fogg continued today after a harbor pilot told of smelling volatile benzene before he guided the tanker out of Freeport, Tex.

The board was expected to meet throughout the week. Alvin Miller told the four-officer board in opening testimony Monday he smelled the fumes as he walked across the 572-foot tanker's deck. "I thought to myself that benzene sure stunk," Miller said.

Wreckage of the Fogg was discovered Saturday 40 miles southeast of Freeport in the Gulf of Mexico. It was reported missing Feb. 2 after sailing into the Gulf to dump benzene residue.

President To Set Out For Peking Thursday

WASHINGTON (AP) — After opening wider the door for trade with China, President Nixon has received a two-stage briefing from a French intellectual who knows the Chinese leaders Nixon will meet next week.

An 80-minute meeting with France's Andre Malraux and a private White House dinner for him Monday night came as spokesmen sketched a rough itinerary for Nixon's week-long China visit.

Included are an open-ended series of meetings with Communist leaders, a round of four banquets in three cities and sightseeing trips to the Great Wall and other Chinese shrines.

Nixon, who leaves Thursday on the first leg of his historic journey, sought the meeting with Malraux to get the Frenchman's impressions of Mao Tse-tung, Chou En-lai and other Communist officials as part of his last-minute cramming for the trip.

A few hours before greeting the French author and former Culture minister, the White House announced Nixon was taking a series of steps to place China on the same trade footing as the Soviet Union and most other eastern European Communist countries.

Basically, Nixon's actions allow the export to China of such U.S. products as locomotives, construction equipment, industrial chemicals, internal combustion engines and rolling mills.

These will now be added to the list of products which can be shipped to China through commercial channels by holders of a broad, general license—as opposed to special licenses which require case-by-case decisions.

Ziegler, outlining a "very rough itinerary" for Nixon's China trip, said the President will use Chinese-built limousines while there and will fly from Peking to Hangchow in an airplane supplied by the Chinese government—the first time he will have used non-U.S. aircraft during his extensive travels.

The President, Mrs. Nixon and the official party of 13 White House and State Department advisers will fly Thursday from Washington to Hawaii, where they will spend two nights and one day before heading on to Guam for an overnight stop.

From Guam, Nixon will fly to Shanghai, arriving there about 9 a.m. China time, Monday, Feb. 21. After leaving the plane for a brief rest, he will fly on to Peking, arriving at 11:30 a.m. Monday (10:30 p.m. EST Sunday). There he will be officially greeted by Chinese officials—probably including Premier Chou En-lai.

After being driven to the Peking guest house, Nixon will begin a series of meetings with Chou and possibly Mao Tse-tung. Ziegler said these will dominate the five days Nixon is in Peking.

Also on the schedule in the Chinese capital are a cultural show, a gymnastic event and two banquets, one hosted by Chou and the other by Nixon. In addition, Ziegler said, Nixon probably will visit the Great Wall, the Ming tombs and the Forbidden City. Mrs. Nixon probably will tour a children's hospital, a commune, a glassware factory and such historical sites as the Temple of Heavenly Peace.

City Solons To Hold Meet Tomorrow

Pampa city commissioners will meet in a special session at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday to review appraisal values made by the Texas Highway Department for right-of-way acquisition on SH-273 south on Cuyler St. from Brown St. to McCullough.

City Manager Mack Wofford said today the highway improvement will include widening of the thoroughfare approximately 10 feet on each side of the street.

The city manager said no formal action is expected to be taken tomorrow but if the commission agrees with state figures, the district highway engineer's office at Amarillo will send the appraisal report to Austin for final approval.

U.S. Veteran Newsmen Snow Passes Away

EYSINS, Switzerland (AP) — Edgar Snow, the veteran American foreign correspondent and expert on Communist China, died in his sleep early today of cancer of the pancreas. He was 66.

Snow had been ill for months and underwent surgery six weeks ago.

The journalist's wife, son and daughter were with him at his home in this village overlooking Lake Geneva. Two Chinese doctors, sent to Geneva by Premier Chou En-lai, had joined local physicians in attending him for the past two weeks.

Snow first went to China in 1928 at the age of 23 and became a correspondent for the Chicago Tribune in 1929. Eight years later, in his book "Red Star Over China," he told the world of the Long March in which Mao Tse-tung led the Chinese Communists to refuge in Yenan.

He became a personal friend of Mao, Chou and the other Communist leaders, and for years after the Communists expelled Chiang Kai-shek's regime from the mainland and the U.S. government maintained its alliance with Chiang, Snow was the only non-Communist American newsmen welcome in Peking.

Snow's illness forced him to stop work on a new book on China and to abandon preparations to cover President Nixon's visit to Peking next week for Life magazine.

He had hailed the announcement last summer of Nixon's visit as the beginning of a "new era of Far Eastern and world politics."

GREETING SUPPORTERS—Rep. Graham Purcell, right, Democratic candidate for re-election from the 13th Congressional District, confers with two of his supporters, E.H. Ousley, Sr., center, and A.N. King, in the lobby of the Coronado Inn. Purcell attended a coffee session for local Democratic chairmen, workers and supporters from 10 a.m. until noon today. While Purcell was in his opponent's, Rep. Bob Price, home town, Price was in Purcell's home town of Wichita Falls yesterday and will return there tomorrow.

John Mitchell Resigns Post To Direct Nixon's Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell resigned his Cabinet post today to head up President Nixon's re-election campaign. Nixon immediately named deputy Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst to succeed him.

Mitchell's resignation, effective March 1, had long been expected. He directed Nixon's 1968 campaign effort and the President's political advisers had been anxious for him to take over the same post for the 1972 re-election effort.

Nixon's nomination of Kleindienst, a conservative identified with the law-and-order issue, is expected to draw strong opposition from liberal and civil rights forces.

But White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler replied, "Yes, indeed" when asked whether the administration was confident the Senate would act favorably on elevation of Mitchell's chief assistant to the Cabinet.

Ziegler said Mitchell handed Nixon a hand-written personal letter at a meeting in the President's Oval Office Monday afternoon.

The letter's contents were not immediately disclosed, but the White House released Nixon's letter to Mitchell accepting his resignation with a note of "utmost regret."

But, Nixon wrote Mitchell, his former law partner, the regret is "compensated by a sense of personal and heartfelt gratitude on behalf of myself and all Americans."

"As chief legal adviser to the President, and as the leader of our fight against crime and lawlessness, you have left a permanent imprint for the better of our nation of which I am immensely proud," Nixon continued.

Nixon's four-paragraph letter made no reference to Mitchell's new role as head of the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

Ziegler said the pipe-smoking, stern-faced Mitchell would be participating in the re-election campaign, but said Mitchell himself would provide other details of his new position.

In a brief statement issued by the Justice Department, Mitchell said he resigned in order to be able to participate in the campaign for the re-election of the President.

"Although I am most mindful of the importance of the office of attorney general and its function during our current period of history, I sincerely believe that whatever abilities I possess should be dedicated to the undertaking that will be most beneficial to the American people this year—namely, the re-election of President Nixon," Mitchell said.

"Accordingly, it is with considerable regret that I leave the President's Cabinet, but I do so with the firm belief that I will be working to attain the greatest good for the country."

Heath Asks Union Head To Help Stop Blackout

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Edward Heath called in British's top union leader today in an effort to prevent a total power blackout by the end of the month.

Up to 20 million jobs were at stake in the worst industrial crisis since the general strike 46 years ago. Already, 800,000 workers have been laid off as a result of massive power cuts forced by the national coal miners' strike, now in its sixth week.

Heath was meeting with Victor Feather, leader of the giant Trades Union Congress, in the hope that he would persuade the 280,000 strikers to allow coal into the generating plants.

The government warned that even the present, curtailed supply of electric power could be maintained for only two more weeks. After that, Trade and Industry Minister John Davies told the House of Commons, "there will be neither electricity for industry nor in the home at all."

Even such essential services as hospitals, sewage plants and railroads could be without power unless the miners stop picketing the generating plants and return to work. Davies said as members of the Labor party put up the usual opposition shouts of "Resign."

Most industries were cut back Monday to a three-day

Mitchell becomes the fifth member of Nixon's original Cabinet to resign. There have been reports Secretary of Treasury John B. Connally also planned to depart soon, but Ziegler denied that such a move was contemplated.

"I'm convinced that the farthest thing from the Secretary's mind is resigning from the administration," Ziegler said of the former Texas governor and lone Democrat in the Cabinet.

Kleindienst, 48, is a graduate of Harvard Law School and was a Phoenix attorney when he joined Nixon's 1968 campaign effort as a chief aide to Mitchell. After Nixon's inauguration, Mitchell brought him into the Justice Department as deputy attorney general.

Heath's Conservative majority in Commons assured him approval of the government's handling of the crisis. By a vote of 315 to 276, or a majority of 39, the House rejected a Labor motion of no confidence.

More than $2 billion was wiped off stock prices Monday in the London Stock Market. Many small companies working on narrow profit margins were reported facing bankruptcy. "A few of these smaller firms have already indicated that they do not intend to reopen," said a spokesman of the Engineering and Employers Association. "As long as the power restrictions continue, the number of firms going out of business will grow."

A beginning budget of $10,000 has been suggested for the first year. A meeting is scheduled in Pampa March 7, at which time the organization will be completed. The board endorsed the organization in principle and gave the executive board its approval for Pampa's participation up to $500.

Don Nelson, vocational education coordinator for Pampa High School, reported to the chamber plans had been approved for establishment of an area vocational school in Pampa. He said the local school board was now studying plans for construction and hoped to get the program underway this year. It was announced that all of the paper work had been completed for organization of the Pampa Oil & Gas Museum, which has been put together by the Oil & Gas Committee. Chuck Ziomke, chairman. Plans are underway to kick off a campaign in support of the new museum within the next few weeks.

President Sparkman reported all Chamber committees were at work, and he expected a number of new community development projects to be inaugurated this year. Vaccination Of Horses Asked By Butz

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz says horse owners, particularly those in "high risk" areas, should vaccinate their animals now to protect against another outbreak of Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis. The disease, a form of sleeping sickness, entered the country from Latin America last year and threatened to spread from South Texas into other states. Emergency quarantines and vaccination programs headed off VEE in 1971. About 2.8 million horses in 19 states were vaccinated. States along the Gulf Coast and Mexico are defined as "high risk" areas by the department. Horse owners in those areas are urged to have their animals vaccinated officials said Monday.

Governor Seeking Delay Of Deadline For Highway Law

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith has asked U.S. Transportation Secretary John Volpe to give Texas more time to pass a highway beautification law. Volpe set a May 31 deadline, and Texas will lose some $24 million in federal highway construction money if the legislature fails to enact such a law. Smith asked Volpe to extend the deadline to Sept. 1, saying he hoped he could delay the special session of the legislature until after May 31. "The session might be called before May 31, but the accuracy of revenue and expenditure estimates strongly suggests that a later date would be preferable," Smith told Volpe in a telegram.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes said Smith should call an immediate special session on the matter.

Fire Causes Heavy Damage At Area Plant

CANADIAN—About 200 barrels of oil field chemicals caught fire around 3 p.m. Monday and caused more than $40,000 in damage at the Baroid Plant southwest of town.

All five units of the Canadian Volunteer Fire Department fought the fire for two hours before it was finally put out about 5 p.m. Officials said they did not know what started the blaze.

The chemicals apparently exploded as pressure built in the barrels stacked against a metal warehouse. The explosions sent flames, some 50 to 75 feet into the air.

No injuries were reported. Damage estimate did not include damage to the warehouse, one end of which was burned, and the sacking material around some of the drilling mud within the building.

Sanders Blasts Yarborough In First Campaign Speech

DALLAS (AP) — U.S. Senate candidate Barefoot Sanders swung open his campaign headquarters door here Monday with a speech blasting Ralph Yarborough, another candidate for the office.

Sanders opened his state campaign headquarters with a prepared speech which also leveled attacks at incumbent U.S. Sen. John Tower, R-Tex.

Sanders also said, "Our present Republican senator has consistently opposed measures for the good of Texas when he has been present and voting—and that has not been too often. Texas needs a fulltime constructive voice in the Senate, not a part-time obstructionist like Sen. Tower."

Forget Tax Hanky-Panky

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The Christmas bills are not fully paid, Junior's college tuition is going up again and that April 17 income tax deadline moves closer every day.

Let's see, mused the harried taxpayer, didn't President Nixon order all federal departments to cut back by 5 per cent on the number of employees? Then didn't he give the staff of Internal Revenue Service the responsibility for being watchdogs over enforcement of the Economic Stabilization Program?

Those guys at IRS are good all right, the harried man continues to dream, but even they can't do everything.

Since they are going to be so busy checking on store prices, rents and wages, maybe they will be unable to check those tax returns too carefully. We've got news for you. You're not the first one to think along those lines.

IRS has got the message, too. They are prepared for all those who make subtle inquiries about the size of the work force and all that extra work that must be done.

The inquiries have been so numerous that IRS has prepared a "fact sheet."

This shows, right off, that Internal Revenue has been officially exempted from the cutback order. This is to insure that it will have adequate staffing.

Last year IRS had 68,700 employees. This year it has 4,000 more.

If it continues to supply 3,000 employees to the stabilization program, it actually has 1,000 more employees for auditing tax returns than it did a year ago.

And another thing. Every time they check records to make sure there is no price violation, they do double duty by checking compliance with the income tax at the same time.

It works the other way, too. When they are checking income tax returns and are looking over the books, they are also in a position to check price violations.

So if you have any devious notions, better forget all about it.

Uncle Sam's tax sleuths insist they will be in an even better position than before to spot any hanky-panky on those tax returns.

Nixon Announces Further Step To Relax China Trade Barrier

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon announced Monday further steps to relax trade barriers with China, placing the Asian Communist nation on an equal trade footing with the Soviet Union.

The announcement by White House spokesmen came three days before Nixon departs for a historic China visit.

"We hope the People's Republic of China will be receptive to this step to open up communications with them," press secretary Ronald Ziegler said.

Ziegler said the series of actions will allow the export to China of such items as locomotives, construction equipment, a variety of industrial chemicals, internal combustion engines and rolling mills.

The presidential decisions, which follow by seven months a significant loosening of trade restrictions last June, are part of Nixon's "effort to establish a broader relationship" with the country of 800 million people which he will visit Feb. 21-28, Ziegler said.

Nixon's actions basically involved shifting China from a list of countries to which virtually all U.S. exports are banned to another trade list which includes the Soviet Union and other countries in Eastern Europe such as Albania and East Germany.

Texas Grain Industry Hurt By Reduced Grain Exports

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Reduced grain exports from Texas ports are costing the state's grain industry millions of dollars, says John J. Seibert, grain marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

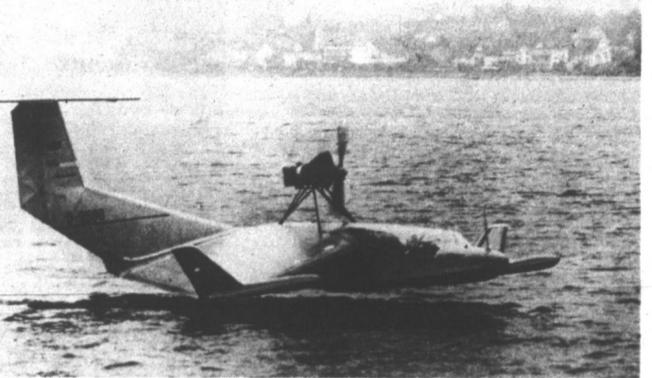

"The impact is already being felt throughout the total industry, from the producer to the handler, transporter and exporter. Furthermore, the situation will contribute to our balance of payment deficit," Seibert said.

Most often the producer takes the brunt of the load when exports decline, explains Seibert. He is not represented at the bargaining table, so his price is generally discounted at the time of sale. This reflects reduced demand.

"Grain sorghum exports during the last three months of 1971 were down more than 30 million bushels from the same 1970 period," points out the specialist. "This reduced revenue by $19 million. Hard winter wheat exports were off 16 million bushels during the last six months, resulting in a loss of more than $25 million."

Seibert lists several factors contributing to the reduction in grain exports. Large world supplies of grain offer stiff competition to U.S. produced grains. Price relationships with competing U.S. grains from other countries, are also a factor. A third cause is dock strikes. These have reduced sales in addition to prompting our stable customers to look elsewhere for reliable supplies, said the specialist.

Cyprus' Leader May Turn To Soviet Union For Help

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — President Makarios may turn to the Soviet Union for help in standing up to the Greek colonels ruling in Athens, observers in Nicosia think. They believe the appeal to Moscow may prove futile, but they think the Greek junta has left Makarios nowhere else to turn.

The Greeks last week gave Makarios a three-point ultimatum designed to end the threat of civil war between the president and his bitter enemy, Col. George Grivas, and at the same time bring Makarios under the domination of Athens.

To restore good relations between Greece and Turkey, Greek Premier George Papadopoulos and his associates want a settlement to the long and often bloody feud between the island's Greek majority and its Turkish minority. Makarios is not willing to make the concessions that the Greeks think necessary and maintains that the final say is his as the democratically elected leader of the Cypriot people. But the Greek ultimatum demands that Makarios accept that the final say on a settlement belongs to Athens, as the "national center."

Grivas was the leader of the EOKA underground during the Cypriot independence struggle and is the leading advocate of Enosis, the union of Cyprus with Greece. The Turkish government and the Turkish Cypriots are violently opposed to Enosis, and Makarios and the Greek government have jointly repudiated the policy. But despite this basic difference between Enosis and Grivas, the Greek ultimatum also demands that Makarios form a rightwing government of national unity including representatives of Grivas.

Greek Cypriot officials think

Athens is supporting Grivas to force Makarios into accepting the Greek dictates.

Grivas returned secretly to Cyprus from Athens last September and has a considerable militant following on the island. Observers believe that if Makarios rejects the Greek ultimatum, a clash with Grivas will be inevitable. If that happened, the 1,000-man force which Greece keeps on the island and the Greek officers of the Cypriot National Guard would intervene and neutralize both Makarios and Grivas, leaving the way open for Athens to impose a settlement.

Makarios has already turned once to the Soviet bloc, for a large quantity of arms which he recently imported secretly from Czechoslovakia. It is an open secret that he got them to protect his regime against Grivas.

Nixon May Take Step To Halt School Busing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon was quoted Monday as telling congressional sponsors of an anti-busing constitutional amendment that he would take steps in the near future to offset recent federal court decisions requiring extensive busing for school integration.

This was reported by Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich., after he and seven other members of Congress met with Nixon for nearly two hours to explain their move to write a busing ban into the U.S. Constitution.

Griffin said Nixon, long a critic of forced busing, told the meeting he had named a Cabinet committee to study the busing question and deliver a report upon his return from China late this month. "It was very clear from the meeting that the President is going to do something about it in the near future," Griffin told newsmen.

Eight members of Congress were invited to the White House for the busing conference: Sens. Griffin, John G. Tower, R-Tenn., William E. Brock, R-Tenn., Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., and Harry F. Byrd Jr., Ind.-Va., and Reps. Norman Lent, R-N.Y., Tom Steed, D-Kla., and Thomas Downing, D-Va.

China—Its Land And People

Editor's Note—Whatever develops from President Nixon's journey to China must be shaped in part by that country's ancient and modern history. The age of colonialism left scars on the Chinese soul, and the Men of Peking still speak of China as a "wronged party." This is the second of five articles depicting some of the events that will color Richard Nixon's road to Peking.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent
There was a time when the ruler of the proud Celestial Empire could insult the barbarian foreigner with impunity.

George III, the British king who lost the American colonies, got a lesson also in Chinese diplomacy. The British, eyeing prospective profits, hungrily courted China. They were told they must be willing to kowtow—bow to the throne—and pay tribute. Besides, Chien-lung wasn't much interested.

The last of the great Manchu rulers wrote George III as if instructing a poorly tutored princeling. To permit a British representative at his court, he wrote, would be "contrary to all the usage of my dynasty." It seemed ridiculous to him to assume that a British barbarian could make the grade.

"Our ceremonies and code of laws, O King," he told George, "differ so completely from yours that even if your envoy were capable of acquiring the rudiments of our civilization, you could not possibly transplant our manners and customs to your alien soil."

The imperial court would learn the hard way. The foreigner could not lightly be offended. The age when the ruler of the Celestial Empire could require the powerful foreigner to kowtow was drawing swiftly to a close toward the dawn of the 19th century. China was about to be rudely if temporarily disabused of the notion that she could require either tribute or respect from the mighty alien.

China's had been an ancient and noble civilization, but she had neglected military power and for that would pay a painful price. Until a few centuries ago, China knew next to nothing of Europe apart from a few traders and the handful of missionaries who were intent upon converting the "heathen Chinese."

An act of the Ming Dynasty—some might consider it an historic blunder—started it all.

Late in the 16th century the Mings permitted Portugal to establish a concession on the South China Sea at Aomenkow below Canton. Macao, as the Portuguese still call it, was the germ that three centuries later produced a raging contagion of colonialism.

In the 276 years of Ming rule, China's population grew from about 65 millions to around 150 million, and the empire prospered.

The end for the Mings came when the Manchus, a non-Han people, poured from the North through the Great Wall and then wheeled south to complete a process of conquest. As many times before, a dynasty's fall brought incredible turmoil.

It was years before the Manchus quelled all the rebellions. Then they entrenched their China Dynasty and settled down to what would be nearly three centuries of rule over their "great and pure empire." They imposed the partly shaven head and pigtail on Han men, to betoken submission.

By the end of the 18th century, China again was a huge empire extending from Central Asia and Siberia south to Burma and India, with Korea and Annam—part of today's Vietnam—as vassal states.

But the time of decay was near. China became an easy mark for greedy foreigners—

Portuguese, English, Russian, German, French, Japanese, and, finally, American. China's technology lagged far behind Europe's so far as industrialization and military potential were concerned. It was not for lack of talent, but simply because China was not particularly interested in commercial and imperial possibilities inherent in scientific development.

As China reeled into the 19th century on waves of unrest, England's merchants industriously built up an opium trade that became an enormously important source of British wealth.

Until his death in 1799, Chienlung tried desperately to stem a soaring opium trade.

His successors, inferior men much less able to cope with the avid Europeans, also fervently declared war on "vile opium."

The emperor in 1839 wrote Queen Victoria demanding to know why "barbarian ships" traveled so many miles for such trade.

"I have heard," he wrote, "that the smoking of opium is very strictly forbidden by your country; that is because the harm caused by opium is clearly understood. Let us ask: where is your conscience?"

The court's antiopium efforts, however, only provoked the British to retaliation and finally produced the Opium War of 1840. Britain easily humiliated the Celestial Empire.

As punishment, Britain forced the throne to designate Canton, Amoy, Ningpo and Shanghai as "treaty ports" open to foreigners for warehouses and homes. The gates swung wide open thereafter.

Europeans took full advantage, and hatred both for the foreigner and the non-Han Ching court mounted throughout China. The Chinese had been stunned by their first major military clash with a Western nation; astonished to learn the barbarian could bring the proud imperial court to heel.

Hatred of the Chings sparked the Tai Ping rebellion. It exploded suddenly in Kweichow in 1852, led by a teacher named Hung Hsiu-chen. Influenced by his own Chinese interpretation of Protestant Christianity, he believed he had a mandate from heaven to drive out the Manchus. He nearly succeeded.

Hung's followers cut off their pigtails and proclaimed him king of the Tai Ping Tien Kuo—heavenly Kingdom of the Great Peace. They overran four provinces and established a government at Nanking. But quarreling and corruption among the rulers at Nanking severely weakened the revolutionary regime and it fell in 1864 to a Manchu assault.

However, the Tai Ping movement had deep and permanent impact on China's development. It would be a model for the Kuomintang organization which later on would overthrow the Chings. It would inspire the violent youth uprising of 1919, called the May 4 Movement, and it would serve still later as a pattern for Communist military strategy.

Czarist incursions also left scars. A Russian obsession with expansion toward year-round warm-water ports led to imposition of patently unfair treaties. The Russians nailed down vast Central Asian areas and which China had claimed. The czar sent troops to Manchuria adding fuel to fires of antiforeign sentiment in North China.

For China's intellectuals 1895 brought a deep psychological shock. A modernized Japan humbled China in a brief war, seizing Taiwan and other Chinese islands. China's first military defeat by an Asian neighbor left a permanent bitter taste.

Bank Robbery Is Wide Open Field

NEW YORK (NEA)—When someone asked Willie Sutton why he held up banks, the long-time crook replied: "Because that's where the money is!"

The logic has not escaped increasing numbers of other criminals. In a nation of growing crime, bank robbery is perhaps the fastest sprouting of all.

The American Banker's Association reports that money institutions were victimized 3,354 times last year (including some after-hour burglaries), but for more than $10 million. That's three times the number and twice the loss of five years ago. Or, says the FBI, a numbing 409 per cent increase in the last decade.

John Dillinger? He was a piker. A robber today can hit as many banks and swipe as much money in a year as the legendary Mr. D. did in his entire career.

So what can be done about it? Plenty. But also, not much. Banks have been tightening up since 1968, when federal minimum security procedures were legislated for the nation's cash houses. More guards with guns have been hired. Numerous institutions have installed elaborate surveillance cameras.

Chicago's First National has put in vault doors that weigh 87 tons each.

To what end? Nothing very encouraging. The number of bank jobs last year was more than twice the rate of 1968, when the security escalation began.

The truth is, says experts, "it's awfully damn easy to rob a bank today." Especially the suburban institutions, which are feeling the brunt of rising statistics. "All the robber has to do is use his head," says a New York bank security official. "he doesn't have to be afraid of most guards because most guards today are retired window washers or the like. As soon as he gets inside a bank, all he has to do is throw his coat over the camera. As for the big vaults, well, there are space-age 'burning-bars' which can cut through anything."

As it happens, most robbers today don't bother to use their heads even to the extent quoted. Muscle and chutzpa are all that's required. Thus the field is wide open to all manner of opportunists. Gone are the days of Dillinger, when bank men were almost romantically professional. The perpetrators now are old men, high school teen-agers, debt-ridden dum-dums. A blind beggar tried to rob one facility. And the FBI likes to tell the story (true) about a bank teller describing his bandit as "a little old lady in tennis shoes."

Recently in New York, a robber named Melvin Schuman gave himself up after robbing a suburban bank of $17,699. Why? "Because I'm tired of running." He told police he robbed the bank with two other men, and all three of them were bungling amateurs: "It was like pulling a job with The Three Stooges." All of the bandits were clearly photographed by cameras, one of them tried to shoot it out with a customer. "Even when we tried to get away it was a mess," Schuman said. "The getaway driver tried to run off and I grabbed him back. Then the other jerk forgot to close the door to the car and he fell out. Oh, boy. It was something."

On the surface of it, today's bank robber hardly seems a match for organized security. But, according to William Owen, security officer for the ABA, the crooks have one thing for them—or two things: "We have to plan defenses within the framework of safety for customers, and safety for employees." Thus, say Owen, security measures, such as sharpshooting, gas release and automatic exit locking are impossible. "We don't want anyone hurt. We'd rather let the criminal get away than have a customer or teller seriously injured."

So it is that most robbers do get away. At least temporarily. And much of the emphasis placed on bank robbery today is not on prevention but rather on investigation. William Barry, director of Smith & Wesson Security Services, says he is constantly drilling bank executives on the importance of robbery "after the fact." This includes everything from inch markings on bank doors (so bandits can be readily sized up) to educating tellers on total recall ("He looked like Jackie Gleason") to, most importantly, security cameras.

Barry says most banks cooperate fully. He says some have regular robbery classes for their employees. Some others have wired their floors for sound and sight. Others, like an institution in California, even lock their tellers up and do business via pneumatic tubes. Yet, alas, the robberies go on. Because no defense is perfect.

CAMERA CATCHES the action in a Pomona, N.Y., bank. But this and other security measures haven't discouraged the boom in robberies.

Executives react to snoopy secretary

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Re "pornographic" mail arriving at the office, and the behavior of secretaries:

I am an executive who occasionally receives erotic mail. I enjoy it and find no reason to make excuses to anyone, especially to paid employees. When I send for it, I request that all such material be marked "personal," and as such it is placed on my desk, unopened.

No secretary has the right to take it upon herself to destroy any of her employer's mail. A secretary is a secretary, not a censor. Her boss' tastes are none of her business.

Were I to discover that my secretary had destroyed any of my mail, I would fire her on the spot. And if the mail contained paid-for material, I would dock her the cost of what she had destroyed. Moreover, I would give her the most damning reference of all, namely that she was fired for dishonesty and theft, which would be absolutely true.

CALIFORNIA EXEC.

DEAR ABBY: The boss' porno mail should pose no problem to an adult woman doing what she's paid to do.

Today when all women walk a little prouder, it seems a bit hysterical for grown women in the business world to squeal when they see unfamiliar sexual material and stumble off as if their virginal eyeballs were seared. And then to take the unprincipled and even illegal action of destroying it, it is infuriating. If my help ever pulled anything like that, I'd really give them something to get hysterical about.

But most amazing is the fact that these gals don't simply put the stuff on his desk and say, "Do you want me to throw this away or not?" Most of it's in double envelopes anyway. The inner one says, "Sexually oriented material." I know. I receive it regularly for reasons that are nobody's business but my own.

DEAR ABBY: A message to those "censoring secretaries" who throw out all the boss' pornographic mail: You're in the wrong occupation, honey. Try egg candling. Your boss will be tickled pink if you can find all the rotten stuff.

D. C.

DEAR ABBY: I have the perfect solution for the secretary whose boss has sent for pornographic material in care of his office: I would send a sample of this filth to the boss' wife, his minister, and to a few of his most important business contacts who may not know that he is the type of person who appreciates this kind of garbage. Then I would quit my job!

ANTI-PORNO

DEAR ANTI: If that is your "solution," when you are being interviewed for a new job, be sure to tell your prospective employers why you quit. They have a right to know what kind of person YOU are.

DEAR ABBY: I asked my secretary what she would do if any pornographic material were ever sent to my office and she said, "I would check it out first, and if I felt you could take it, then I would give it to you."

A BOSS

Many Food Additives Can Be Safely Used

Consumers wary of food additives may shun processed foods and make everything themselves, said Miss Jimmie Lou Wainscott, Extension county home demonstration agent.

"But they're still using food additives," the agent said. "Some ingredients not commonly thought of as additives have been safely used for years. I'm talking about spices, pectin, sugar, gelatin and salt, which are used to flavor and preserve food."

"Iodine was the first commercial food additive when it was added to salt to prevent simple goiter," Miss Wainscott related. "Today we buy fortified bread, cereal products, milk and other foods to prevent vitamin and mineral deficiencies."

"Preservatives that retard mold and bacterial spoilage are another group of additives, according to the agent. For example, salt is used as a curing agent in meat preservation. And sugar is used in preparing jams and jellies for canning and freezing fruits. (Of course, you may also can or freeze fruits without sugar.)"

Another additive is pectin, a natural thickener. "Since many fruits don't contain enough natural pectin to form a gel, additional pectin is needed to make certain jams and jellies," she explained.

Food manufacturers add synthetic or natural food colors to processed foods when unwanted color changes occur. Miss Wainscott claimed. "Many food colors are made from natural food substances. For instance, carotene, a source of vitamin A found in yellow vegetables, may be used to color dairy products such as margarine."

"Although an additive may come from food or other substances, it's chemical by nature, the agent said. "The word 'chemical' doesn't mean something unnatural or dangerous."

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 16
 Your birthday today: Allowing intuition to guide you thru this year produces satisfying results. Nothing of your present experience quite prepares you for many situations; remain flexible, alert to make changes. Today's natives prefer definite goals, determination to get to them.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: You may talk a little faster than is prudent. Stick to proven habits despite temptation for short cuts, as nothing you do escapes critical notice.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: It's your turn to be determined. Avoid detours to please others. Older people tend to complicate matters briefly.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Stretch yourself for a bit of extra achievement on the job. Concentrate on a single objective in personal matters. If romance is involved, make the most of a high tide of emotional expression.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: A determined attack on work at hand, anything that is left over from recent past, will produce results beyond usual. Gathering information on subjects of personal interest brings new resources.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Try to rescue and put back together what seemed hopelessly scattered yesterday and the day before.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Pay no attention to temporary moods, minor inconveniences. You can get to the bottom of a long-standing riddle by meditating on the essential qualities of your nature.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Your keenest judgment is needed. From a slow start you rise to the occasion and it's a fairly successful day. Skip shop talk, idle chatter.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Start early enough to get on top of the situation and stay there.

Progressive Club Meets

The Progressive Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. E.C. Golden, 625 Carr.

Mrs. G.B. Hogan, president, led the business session, asking each member to complete and send in a list of suggested programs to be held in 1972 and 1973 to the county home demonstration agent.

Mrs. Sandford reported on the HD council meeting. Mrs. Gene Leigh presented the program on grapho-analysis, explaining how a person's character could be detected through different strokes of his handwriting. Following her demonstration, she gave an analysis of each member's handwriting. The program concluded with a question-and-answer period.

Refreshments of cookies and coffee were served. Mrs. Tom Price and Mrs. Leigh were guests. Members attending were Mmes. B.F. Dorman, E.P. Templin, D.A. Rife, E.C. Golden, Audria Sandford, E.L. Trumm, Herb Peoples and G.B. Hogan.

Next meeting will be at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Audria Sandford, 601 Juiter.

State Welfare Officials To Initiate Stamp Plan

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — State Welfare Department officials said Monday they will meet with representatives of 12 counties Feb. 23 to initiate food stamp programs in those counties.

The counties are: Cameron, Dallas, Hale, Castro, Crosby, Floyd, Swisher, Jefferson, Jim Wells, Tom Green, Bowie and Willacy.

Twenty-nine Texas counties already participate in the federal program.

Also meeting with the county representatives will be officials from the Texas Agriculture Department.

Welfare officials said studies are under way to permit counties to negotiate with local post office representatives for the distribution of stamps through the post office. This already is being done in some areas of California and Washington, they said.

In other action, the welfare board announced a 10 per cent reduction in Blue Cross-Blue Shield premiums for medical payments to welfare recipients under the aid to the blind and aid to the permanently and totally disabled.

Premiums for the aid to families with depending children program have been cut 1.55 per cent, they said.

The board voted to cut the monthly personal need allowance from $25 to $12 for persons in state institutions.

A spokesman said the allowance accumulates in some cases to the point where the person no longer would qualify as a recipient.

Student Named To UT Board Of Regents

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith announced the appointment Monday of the first student in Texas history to a university board of regents.

Smith picked Richard Allen Moore III, 28-year old first-year student at the University of Texas Law School, for the board at predominately black Texas Southern University.

Moore is black and has a beard. Asked if he thought the appointment would help or hurt with voting students in the May primary, Smith said: "I don't think there is any way you can evaluate that at the present time."

Smith is seeking re-election and faces what most observers think is the toughest race of his political life.

Among those running against Smith in the Democratic primary are Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, Uvalde rancher-banker Dolph Briscoe and Rep. Francis Farenthold of Corpus Christi. Several Republicans are running in the GOP primary.

This is the first gubernatorial race in which 18-to 20-year-olds will be able to vote.

Smith Receives Report Asking Retroactive Pay

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Public Employees Association and the Texas State Teachers Association reported to Gov. Preston Smith Monday that most state employees and public teachers have not received their retroactive pay raises.

Pay increases for public employees and teachers were voted by the 1971 legislature but were caught by the wage-freeze before they became effective last Sept. 1. The retroactive back pay, from Sept. 1 to Nov. 13, was finally approved last week.

Champion Steer

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A Fort Worth teen-ager showed the grand champion steer Monday in the 23rd annual San Antonio Stock Show.

Muri Richardson, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Muri Richardson Sr. of Fort Worth, won the prize with a 1,215-pound black Angus. It was his first entry in a major stock show.

Reserve champion honors went to a 1,235-pound charolais cross shown by Bill Edwards of Llano.

The grand champion, which with other show animals will be sold at auction Friday, was selected from among the 10 top steers in as many breeds.

Young Richardson said he plans to become a veterinarian and will save the money from the auction sale to go to college.

The allowance is for such things as toothpaste, newspapers and magazines.

The board's action will save an estimated $301,000 a year.

Additional 70,000 Join Welfare Rolls

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government said Monday an additional 70,000 persons joined welfare rolls in October but conceded inflated statistics were cited last month in a new pitch for the administration's welfare-reform bill.

The latest Department of Health, Education and Welfare report reflects the continuing impact of state relief cutbacks, in the face of rising costs, with more recipients receiving less money.

The lone exception is the state and locally operated general-assistance program, which dropped 35,000 recipients in September and another 15,000 in October for a one-month saving of almost $1 million.

General relievers, who do not qualify for federal funds, now total 954,000 compared with more than one million a year earlier.

Cash welfare payments in October, latest figures available, showed a $2.7 million decrease to $857.8 million, the third straight monthly drop.

But total federal expenditures for all welfare assistance, including medical care, went up $100 million to nearly $1.58 billion to reverse a downward trend the previous two months.

An HEW spokesman blamed states for the inflated September figures cited last month when John D. Twinn, administrator of the Social and Rehabilitation Service, renewed his plea for congressional passage of welfare reform.

The new report scales down the September increase by one-third, from $1,000 to $5,000 on welfare rolls, almost all in the nonfederal general-assistance category.

Texas G.O.P. Figure Announces Resignation

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Peter O'Donnell Jr., prominent state and national figure in the Republican Party, said Monday he has resigned as Texas' national GOP committeeman.

"First, and most important to me, are personal reasons," O'Donnell said in his letter to State GOP Chairman George Willeford without giving any details.

"Second, after serving continuously as a party official in various capacities for 15 years, I think the time has come for the party to have new leadership in this position.

"It is apparent that Texas today needs the better government that two-party competition can provide," O'Donnell said.

O'Donnell said his resignation was effective immediately and a successor would be named at the March 13 meeting of the State GOP committee.

High party officials who did not want to be quoted by name said there was a "good possibility" a new committeeman would be appointed to take O'Donnell's job temporarily until the committee holds a formal election.

Willeford, who heads the committee, sent statement of praise to O'Donnell for his work but did not mention a successor or the committee's next meeting.

O'Donnell, 47, has served as national committeeman since June, 1969, succeeding Albert Fay of Houston, a current GOP candidate for governor. The change also occurred during a general shakeup of the state party after Richard Nixon narrowly failed to carry Texas and other top GOP candidates for statewide offices lost their races.

O'Donnell was state GOP chairman from September, 1962, until taking the national committee job. At other times he has been chairman of the Texas Republican Patronage Committee under President Nixon's administration, a member of the Republican National Finance committee and a key figure in the GOP faction that successfully drafted Sen. Garry Goldwater, R-Ariz., as the party presidential candidate in 1964.

Business Mirror

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the highlights of a recent seminar on investment performance at the University of Pennsylvania was a report stating that the record of institutional investors was no better than the market as a whole.

Institutions are the trusts, the pension and mutual funds, the insurers, the foundations. They are professionals, and they take big salaries to prove their status.

Often they have superior research facilities. They have quick access to information that may have major impact on particular stocks or on the market as a whole.

Clearly they have sold their case to the public. More than $50 billion, for example, is invested through mutual funds. And yet, on average, they do no better than the market as a whole.

The report cited was given at the Rodney L. White Center for Financial Research at the Wharton School, where some of the best-known studies of markets have been conducted.

If the pros aren't able to "beat" the market, then what is the criterion on which they should be judged? Their convenience? Ability to spread the risk for many investors? Ability to diversify? To relieve investors of responsibilities?

Most investors through institutions are aware of such considerations, but in the last analysis they are likely to reduce everything to just one consideration: Do they make more money for me than I might make on my own?

Why don't the institutions do better? One explanation lies in the makeup of the market, and it behooves every small investor to understand it. On some days, 70 per cent of all trading on the New York Stock Exchange is by institutions.

This means that when one institution makes a gain it often is at the expense of another. On such days, they are "the market as a whole." And since they are the market they cannot better the market.

In other words, so institutionalized is the market that the great advantages enjoyed by institutions have been neutralized.

The lesson for the small investor is to be more alert and inquisitive about the manager of his pension or mutual fund portfolio. Some managers appear to outperform the market consistently; others have records so dismal that one wonders how they persist.

In the averages, however, the extremely poor records and the terribly poor records may become hidden, thus protecting the inept manager and depriving the small investors who make up the fund from enjoying rewards that could be theirs.

Daydreamer Delights In Discarding Doldrums

NEW YORK (AP) — Sluggish flows the blood in February. Man's nose runneth and his voice complaineth, as doth the voice of the surly winter wind.

There is much to be done, but nobody wants to do it. To the optimist, however, this is one of the grand seasons of the year. As the pulse of his body slows, the pulse of his mind quickens. He is free to daydream and let his fantasies run riot.

In his imagination he can, if he chooses to—

Soar to the North Pole and ghost write the memoirs of Santa Claus.

Invite Mae West to come up and see him sometime.

Become the first man to fire a breaded veal cutlet into space.

Speed up traffic in New York City by replacing its taxicab fleet with a fleet of rickshaws.

Call off the baseball season and add a spring pro football season in its stead.

Lose your identity completely by announcing yourself as just one more candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Interview Howard Hughes via a ouija board.

Proclaim the end of the world.

Proclaim the death penalty for motorcycle drivers who refuse to use their mufflers.

Fine suburbanites $100 each for uprooting any dandelion from their lawn until its yellow heraldry pales to gray.

Launch an expedition to find out where all the go-go girls went.

Return all the Valentine cards sent you by girls who were too cheap to buy you a present last Christmas.

Give lorgnettes to all the deserving poor.

Leap before the girls who leap in Leap Year land on you.

Yes, there's no reason for anyone to be caught in the February doldrums. All he has to do is to put a sign on his desk saying "gone until better weather," then curl up in an old office file cabinet, and start daydreaming.

Truax Laid Up After Surgery

DALLAS (AP) — With surgery on three of his four limbs, Billy "The Tree" Truax hardly felt like doing little more than reading a book on income taxes.

Things were painful enough so the Dallas Cowboy tight end thought he might as well get on with figuring out how much a bite Uncle Sam was going to take out of his winning Super Bowl Check.

"It was pretty rough the first couple of days," said Truax of the surgery at Baylor Hospital last week.

Doctors repaired a torn cartilage and removed bone spurs in his left knee.

"While they were there they figured they would take out a bunch of junk that had collected on the top of the right knee cap," Truax said. "Then they cleaned up the chips in my left elbow."

Billiards Champ Upset By Wimpy

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Luther "Wimpy" Lassiter of Elizabeth City, N.C., upset Jack Breit of Houston 150-103 Monday night in action of World Pocket Billiards championship, dropping Breit into second place.

Both Balsis and Craone won, giving them 13-1 records. Lou Butera of North Hollywood, Calif., who had a bye, also is 13-1. But Breit's defeat dropped him to 12-2.

Lassiter is 10-5 in the 20-man round robin which concludes Saturday. First prize is $5,000.

The 6-foot-7 Truax—it's safe to say—played hurt last year. In fact, teammates marveled at how Truax played at all.

Truax was part of Coach Tom Landry's messenger system along with Mike Ditka. Every other play he had to run to the huddle with Landry's call.

"I had to have a very good memory or I would have never remembered the play by the time I got there," said Truax, a former star at LSU who came to Dallas from Los Angeles.

"But I wanted to stick the season out," Truax said. "I thought I was the member of the greatest team ever assembled in the history of the game and I didn't want to miss it."

"Sometimes I can't believe it's all over. I keep waiting for someone to call and say we have another game to play. I keep reading all this talk about we had a mechanically boring team. Well, all I'm concerned about is winning. We won 20 of 23 games didn't we?"

Truax says "Talk of Dallas being a dynasty scares me. I think we are but I don't like for other people to know it or say it. I don't like to brag and I don't ever like to say anything good about another team because it builds up their confidence... the first thing you know the dynasty starts to crumble... However, I think we should be really good for at least two more years."

While he is recovering from surgery, Truax has decided to go on a diet.

Harvesters Clash With Palo Duro Dons Tonight

Tonight the fighting Harvesters lay it on the line as they pit their number-one position against the Palo Duro Dons.

Both teams have a one-loss district season and things are expected to get pretty tight.

In their bout before in Pampa the Dons were shocked by the aggressiveness and they lost.

Now the Dons are inviting the Harvesters to Amarillo where the home-court advantage will be theirs.

Pampa chalked up their one loss when they fell to the Tascosa Rebels the first time the two teams met. Now Pampa has vengeance as they rebelled a Rebel Friday night by a margin of 80-69.

Pampa fans are hoping desperately that Palo Duro does not have the same plans for the Harvesters that Pampa had for the Rebels.

Richard Bunton is the man to watch tonight as in the Rebel-Harvester bout he led all scoring with 27 points.

Mike Edgar was not far behind Bunton as he chalked up his fair share of 23 total points.

Don Cain could use some watching also, as he came up with a double figure tally of 17 total points.

If the Harvesters manage to boom past the Dons as they did before, the only teams left to challenge their way to the title will be the Amarillo High Sandies and the Borger Bulldogs.

Pampa will face the Sandies in Pampa Friday night and the Bulldogs in Borger Tuesday.

The Shockers will face the Dons B-squad tonight at 6 p.m. preceding the Harvesters at 8 p.m.

The Shockers now have a 5-2 district record and a 14-9 season record.

This record should be an indication of the type of people to be playing for next year's Harvesters.

Against the Rebel JV's the Shockers leaped to victory with a margin of 75-50.

A.J. Brewer led the scoring with 20 total points to his mark.

Both bouts in Palo Duro country will prove exciting and a large crowd is expected to be on hand.

Somehow the Dons feel that tonight is their night for vengeance though the Harvesters were pre-season picks to capture the district title.

College Poll

By Associated Press

Marshall has cracked The Associated Press' Top Ten major college basketball ranking, but the Thundering Herd and everybody else are a long way from UCLA country.

UCLA once again leads the AP Top Twenty, released today, by a comfortable margin but for the first time in four weeks the Bruins are not a unanimous choice for No. 1.

One first-place ballot out of the 41 cast in this week's nationwide poll of sports writers and sportscasters went to Marquette.

With the other 40 first-place votes UCLA, 19-0, had 818 points and a comfortable lead over Marquette, 19-0, which had 720 points.

The order of the next four teams in the Top Ten was the

Parkhill Will Finish School

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — University of Virginia basketball star Barry Parkhill, hounded lately by agents dickering to get him to turn pro, has spurned their offers and will complete his college education.

Parkhill, a junior, made the announcement Monday after he and his parents met over the weekend at the home of Cavalier coach Bill Gibson. Parkhill has become something of a folk hero on the Charlottesville campus and across the state this winter.

He has averaged 22.7 points a game in leading the long-downtrodden Cavaliers to an 18-1 record. The team has become the first in state history to make The Associated Press top 10 and is now ranked No. 6.

NBA Roundup

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "We played a very poor game," was the diagnosis by coach Jack Ramsey after his Philadelphia 76ers lost to the Houston Rockets, 130-116, Monday night for their seventh defeat in a row.

"That was not a prideful performance," he continued to mourn as the game between two also-rans in the National Basketball Association receded in his memory. "My premise in this business is that the talent is not that widely dispersed... You're not that far from making it if you play hard and play together."

"My job is to make the team play together. I haven't been able to," he said. Houston coach Tex Winner, whose team's 24-37 record shows that he knows what it's like to lose, observed: "It was a long night for the home crowd. There'll be good nights."

Only 4,166 spectators were there to watch as the 76ers fell further and further behind in the second half after staying almost abreast of the Rockets through the first half.

The people who enjoyed the contest were the five Rockets who scored 19 points or more: Elvin Hayes with 28 for game high, Calvin Murphy and Stu Lantz with 22 each, and Greg Smith and Rudy Tomjanovich with 19 apiece.

Billy Cunningham led the 76ers with 25 points, and Bob Rule had 21.

It was the only game played in the NBA Monday.

THOUGH HE is relatively small for a National Basketball Association center at 6-feet-9, Dave Cowens of the Boston Celtics (No. 18 in the above photos) has more than held his own as he battles such opponents as 7-foot-2 Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of Milwaukee, left, and 6-foot-11 Nate Thurmond of Golden State, above. The play of Cowens, in only his second season in the NBA, has sparked the Celtics to a big lead in the league's Atlantic Division.

Fireworks Finish Off Olympics For Twosome

NORTHBROOK, Ill. (AP) — A final salvo of fireworks blasted against the sky and the show was over for Dianne Holm and Anne Henning, America's Olympic darlings.

Their feats in Japan recorded to the tune of four medals including a gold award for each girl, they returned home Monday night to a hometown welcome showered by fireworks and roses.

A crowd of possibly 6,000, representing Northbrook's "Speed Skating Capital of the World," was on hand at Meadowhill Park where the two Olympic champions first started to learn to speed skate.

Earlier, the girls were met by Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago upon their arrival at O'Hare International Airport.

But their flight, delayed by a snowstorm in Japan and mechanical difficulties along the way, forced a change in plans.

Originally they were to have had their first reception at home and then gone on to Chicago for a ticker-tape greeting along LaSalle St.

But the speed skating champions arrived nearly 10 hours later than scheduled and had to settle for the airport reception at Chicago before returning to Meadowhill Park which was jammed with teenagers and youngsters.

The crowd cheered wildly for Dianne and Anne although officials took pains to introduce the entire Northbrook Olympic group including Coach Ed Rudolph.

Anne, 16, wore her blazing red Olympic cape. Dianne, 20, who will be off to Europe Tuesday for more competition, had on tan slacks and a brown leather jacket.

"We're happy, but we're tired and thank you," they said.

LOUDONVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Siena College's athletic director and basketball coach, Gene Culnan, resigned Monday, but a college spokesman said he will continue through the academic year as athletic director.

Assistant coach Richard Reith will take over the basketball team while a special committee searches for a permanent successor to Culnan, 32.

Incident Action Delayed

The question about an incident during the Tascosa-Harvester clash Feb. 11 has been the subject of great concern to district 3-AAAA officials.

The incident involved a single blow from a Harvester cager knocking out a Tascosa player. The Tascosa player claims to have suffered a concussion but according to Highland General Hospital authorities no damage was incurred, by the youth.

The Amarillo youth attended school Monday and complained of a sore jaw. The official release concerning the incident is as follows:

"The district executive committee of District 3-AAAA met in Borger Monday morning, to discuss an incident that occurred in a basketball game played Friday, Feb. 11, in Pampa between Pampa and Tascosa."

"The committee voted to defer a decision until the superintendents of Pampa, Borger, and Amarillo return from an out of state meeting."

The only action taken by Pampa school officials concerning the matter has been a week's suspension from the athletic program by the Harvester involved, according to Athletic Director Ed Lehnick.

ABA Roundup

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — It had all the makings of an out-and-out rout, and even the reserves scored big as the Utah Stars flattened the Florida Stars from Miami Beach 134-112 in American Basketball Association action Monday night.

Utah's Willie Wise led the Salt Palace fun with 29 points, while reserve Merv Jackson pumped in 22 points.

The game was never in doubt as the Stars took an early lead and trotted to the dressing room with a 66-49 halftime advantage. Florida was in the game only until midway through the second quarter. The early Floridian effort was mostly that of Willie Long, who wound up with 22 points, and Mack Calvin, who scored 19.

Utah had only a seven-point lead in the second period until Zelmo Beatty, Ron Boone and Glen Combs combined for a scoring blitz.

In the second half the Stars opened up a 21-point lead and the reserves took over.

Former Star Manny Leaks, who was traded to Florida less than a month ago, contributed 10 points before he was out.

Other leading scorers for Utah included Combs with 16 and Beatty with 14. Warren Jabal scored 16 and Ron Franz chipped in with 17 points for the Floridians.

The game was the only one on the ABA docket Monday night.

Pampa Linksters Finish In Tenth

Recently the Pampa High School Golf team returned from the Midland Invitational with pretty good news for Pampans.

With 20 teams that could be rated as stiff competition attending the Pampa squad finished at about tenth place. The score is not definite as the squad left before the lower rated teams were officially announced.

"The exact placement record will arrive sometime this week," commented linkster coach Tom Lindsey. "We will be somewhere around tenth."

Trophies were given to first, second and third places.

The Harvesters showed vast improvement since the last meet as the first day at the tourney they scored 315 and the second 314.

Individual scores the first day had senior Doug White as low man with 75 strokes. Junior Steve Hopkins followed with 76. Senior Leslie Harris was next with 81 strokes. Sophomore Mike Coulter followed Harris with 83 strokes. Senior Dick Bailey's score of 86 was dropped.

The second day of competition showed Doug White low man again with 75 strokes. Steve Hopkins was next with 77 strokes. Harris dropped a stroke to his score as he ended with 80. Bailey was next in line with 82. Coulter's score of 86 was dropped from the Harvester card that day.

The team total was 629 "and that is a score that will be difficult to improve on," stated Lindsey.

Pampa did pretty well in the low ball competition though they didn't win it. The first day was 68 and the second was 67.

This weekend there will be no meet, but the linksters will trek to Amarillo to play a practice round there.

It is always good to know the course on which you will have future play. The Harvesters will see quite a bit of competition in Amarillo.

The next official tourney will be the Andrews invitational at Andrews, Texas.

"There we will meet some of the toughest competitors we have met all year," said Lindsey.

Also as an added threat, some college coaches will attend the Andrews tourney to give players some pointers.

The coaches will be allowed to attend a clinic to improve their coaching ability.

Long Hours Pay Off For Australian Star

TORONTO (AP) — Long hours and hard work have paid off so far for Fred Stolle in the $50,000 World Championship Tennis tournament here.

Stolle, the 33-year-old Australian veteran, pulled off the first upset of the tournament by ousting fourth-seeded Cliff Drysdale of South Africa 6-0, 6-3 in a morning match.

Twelve hours later he and countryman Ken Rosewall were putting the finishing strokes on a 6-7, 6-2, 6-4 first-round doubles victory over Brian Fairlie of New Zealand and Ismail El Shafei of Egypt.

So much for the long hours. The hard work started Sunday night a few hours after Stolle arrived here by plane from Philadelphia.

He waited until Sunday's draw was finished then went out on the indoor court for a 90-minute "hit" with Terry Addison, another Australian player on the tour.

"That's the last thing I expected to come in during the afternoon and find out I was expected to play at 10 the next morning," Stolle said after beating Drysdale.

Other seeded players managed first-round victories although third-seeded Tom Okker of The Netherlands and seventh-seeded Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., needed victories in the best-of-12 points tiebreaker games that decide sets that are tied 6-6.

Okker started his march toward the singles final that pays $10,000 to the winner and $5,000 to the loser with a 6-4, 6-7, 7-6 victory over Nikki Pilić of Yugoslavia.

Riessen forced Australian Ray Ruffels into backhand errors in winning 6-4, 7-6.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Our Soft Underbelly

The House Armed Services Committee has shown more concern than the Defense Department that a defecting Cuban pilot flew a MIG-17 fighter to a Florida air base in 1969 and a Russian-built transport flew from Havana to New Orleans last year carrying some uninvited delegates to a sugar conference. How were these unannounced flights made without triggering an air defense alert?

Rep. F. Edward Hebert, chairman of the committee, now provides the answer. There is virtually no air defense system to be triggered along our southern border and the Gulf Coast. It is that simple.

A Defense Department spokesman offers some reassurance, pointing out that the Soviet Union could not launch a major manned bomber attack without the United States knowing it. Besides, many defense strategists believe manned bombers are not worth worrying about in this age of far more formidable nuclear missiles.

Perhaps so. Still it is hardly alarming to recall that most of the American people and their leaders were convinced in 1941 that the Japanese either would not or could not carry out an attack on Pearl Harbor. Nevertheless, it happened, and with devastating results.

The glaring gap in defense of our southern approaches has gone unremedied in a period of sustained hostility toward the United States by the Castro government in Cuba. During the same period there has been a bid by the Soviet Union to establish a naval presence in the Caribbean, and there have been visible efforts by both the Russians and Chinese Communists to cultivate friends among Latin American governments.

It may be a remote possibility that any government, either a major power or a less one subject to the will or persuasion of our enemies, would embark on the reckless adventure of a bombing attack on any part of the United States. This is no reason, however, to invite one by leaving the door wide open.

The commander of the North American Air Defense Command has told the Hebert committee that even the radar screen protecting the north, east and west approaches to North America is vulnerable to a low-level bomber attack. Our radar coverage is ineffective below 2,000 feet. With Canada hinting that it might pull out of its NORAD commitment, we might well question whether it is only our "southern exposure" that needs attention.

The Russians maintain a fleet of 900 long-range bombers and are investing heavily in their new "Backfire" supersonic bomber. This swing-wing plane is said to be capable of flying at the speed of sound at an altitude of 500 feet, carrying parachute-dropped hydrogen bombs. It could fly from Soviet bases to the United States and back without refueling and may be operational by next year.

While some of our strategists may believe that bombers are obsolete, the Russians obviously do not.

Peace, Peace, Powie!

The Chinese are among the world's most astute people. You can almost say that it takes a Chinese to understand an oriental. For that reason we commend to the reader paragraphs that appeared in Taipei-published Free China Weekly regarding Mr. Nixon's latest peace effort. The paper quotes another Chinese source "United Daily News" which stated:

"The North Vietnamese will not reject the peace plan out of hand, because it involves the withdrawal of U.S. forces and also because rejection might be advantageous to the U.S. government in dealing with American anti-war movement. Neither will they accept the plan, because it would return the Vietnam situation to the status of 1954 after the Geneva agreement was signed.

"Hanoi is waiting for opportunity to launch an offensive when U.S. forces are sufficiently small. Peace talks would depend on results of the offensive."

Boil that down and you get the picture of the bantam-weight fighter waiting until the precise moment that the final bell rings and then—as his opponent lowers his guard—POWIE!

Extra! 2 Unions Ask For Cut In Their Pay!

By PAUL HARVEY

Here you are: In Cincinnati, two unions have asked for a pay cut. Carpenters and millwrights—unions in the building trades—have asked that their projected pay raises of 11 per cent be cut to 5.5 per cent to conform with the President's anti-inflation efforts. They're not all meanies.

AFL-CIO President George Meany offended a lot of union members with his unbecoming conduct at that last labor convention.

A top Missouri labor leader, President Tom Walsh of the Building and Construction Trades Council, says Meany acted "childishly."

Among other purposeful slights Meany referred to the President's appearance as "an act."

Returning to the rostrum, Meany announced, "Now we'll have act two."

H.L. Hunt Writes

One defender of President Nixon's visit to Red China said that the President needed to go there to find out what the country is really like. What the President is more likely to find out is how the communists can hide real conditions in order to put up a good front for their important visitor. If the President wants to find out what things are really like under Mao's tranny, he should speak to some of the many refugees from Red China who have escaped to the free world.

Since 1962, over 300,000 known refugees have escaped to Hong Kong. Many more escapees have never been counted, perhaps as many as five times that number. There are undoubtedly many more people who live in the heart of China, far from the border, who would escape if they could, and still others who have attempted to escape and were killed in the process. If free exodus were allowed from Red China, there might soon be no one left except Communist Party functionaries.

These hundreds of thousands of people have risked their lives to escape because life under Mao's regime is intolerable. As one refugee, Miss Yuan Mao-yun, explained, "The Chinese people are forced to worship Mao as a deity. They know he is an ordinary man. They hate him. If they show any signs against him, they know their fate."

Miss Yuan and the many others who have done as she has could tell President Nixon, and anyone else who would listen, the truth about Communist China.

Bible Thought
Bless them which persecute you: bless, and curse not.—Romans 12:14
At times, the world seems a jungle all tooth and nail. The Master said, "You are not of the world." In it, but not of it. Feel with it, yes, but not of it.

Since then we've seen act three. Meany-men, including Sen. Hubert Humphrey, have sought to recover the fumble by selling the silly notion that President Nixon "planned his own embarrassment." They suggest that for political purposes the President purposely put himself in a position to beget public sympathy.

The fact is that the President, against political advice and at considerable risk, went to that convention. He had to know that he might have been booted, humiliated. He might have been shouted off the platform—or worse.

He wasn't, of course. His uncompromising, forthright speech was interrupted by applause repeatedly. This from men who can respect a philosophy with which they may not agree if it is sincere, honest and consistent.

I'd like to restate that my antipathy toward what happened in Miami does not reflect a personal vendetta. When George Meany went to the hospital last time, though it may have been a false alarm, suddenly I was re-reminded that we are all in his debt. All those years when I have fought on the same side, I hope we still will.

An ex-Bronx plumber, he still goes after all enemies of our country with the Constitution in one hand and a pipe wrench in the other.

I respect that. But George Meany, that you are a crusty old goat who means well does not excuse boorishly bad manners, does not excuse calling the President "a stunt man."

And worse, obscured by all the reverberations is the deliberate damage you can do to the President's anti-inflation efforts. Union members lose as much or more than anybody when we get paid off in worthless dollars.

Yet you continue to demand retroactive pay raises which could turn the freeze to slush. And when you protest that President Nixon lacks the ability, the intelligence or the knowledge to control the economy, you are saying of him precisely what the late Walter Reuther said of you. Try to remember how you felt.

Your Health

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Would you please comment on the Chinese practice of acupuncture as reported by James Reston of the New York Times in connection with his emergency appendectomy during his recent visit to Peking? I am sure many others would also like to hear the medical profession's evaluation of this form of anesthesia.

Dear Reader—Now you have really put me on the spot. The truth of the matter is, by our concepts of physiology, the locations of nerves in the body, how nerve signals are transmitted for pain and how nerves are blocked, there just isn't any good explanation as to why acupuncture should work, if in fact it does.

I can't totally discount the fact that it might be useful in certain instances, since we are always learning new things about the body, and even new ways in which things are relayed by the nervous system. There are many feedback mechanisms from the skin itself that cause all sorts of problems. A good example is letting the skin be chilled or cooled and ending up with a stiff neck.

There is another aspect of all this and that is the question of hypnotism or suggestibility. The western mind is not as susceptible to hypnotism and cannot produce self-induced trances. In fact, I believe it is a perfectly fair statement to make that the vast majority of western physicians have little or no knowledge of hypnotism. As a side comment, there is probably a reason for this, one being that Freud was opposed to hypnotism and the reason was because of his own problems. He attempted hypnotism and at the end of the hypnotic session his female patient became amorous and threw her arms around him. This so frightened Freud that he advised against the use of hypnotism. Ever since then hypnotism has not really been explored adequately by psychiatrists or other disciplines in medicine in the western world.

It is true, however, that hypnotism can be used in some individuals to perform major surgery, including radical removal of the breast. There are some drawbacks to hypnotism in that only about 25 per cent of the people in the western world can be brought into deep enough hypnotism to perform these kinds of surgical procedures without severe pain.

Please send your questions and comments to Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Lamb cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Red China Deploying New IBM Behind Scene of Nixon Talks

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — While President Nixon is engaged in the globally fanfared discussions in Peking, his Communist hosts will also be engrossed in two equally momentous but unpublishable military operations.

Both matters are fully known to the President. He has been thoroughly briefed on them in the exhaustive backgrounding he has had in preparation for his historic trip. As spelled out to the President, they are as follows:

—Red China is now in the process of emplacing a newly-developed ballistic missile armed with a thermonuclear warhead. This formidable new weapon is an intermediate ballistic missile (IBM) with an estimated range of 1,200 to 2,000 miles.

—Continued purging of once-powerful elements in the armed forces allied with, or suspected of being allied with, vanished Defense Minister and deputy Communist party chairman Lin Piao. Simultaneous with this drastic axing is an extensive recasting of the military command.

The new IBMs are replacing Red China's original ballistic missile. This is a medium range 600 to 800-mile weapon which, while armed with a nuclear warhead, cannot be stored in the ground because of being fueled with liquid oxygen and kerosene. As a consequence, it is slow and complicated to launch, and vulnerable to surface attack.

Starting in 1969, about 20 of these were deployed in Shensi province, from which they could hit targets in Russia's Pacific maritime provinces, and Japan, South Korea and Taiwan.

The new IBMs, fueled with a storable liquid propellant, are being emplaced in underground steel and concrete silos—quite similar to those used by the U.S. and the Soviet. This missile, with its more than double range, can strike targets as far west as the Ural mountains, and in India, Thailand, Burma, Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia.

Both India and Russia are acutely conscious of this new menace. The two countries have long borders adjoining Red China and, in 1961, India was severely trounced in a brief but costly border clash with the Chinese Communists.

More Threatening Hardware

While deploying the new IBM, Peking is known to also be pushing hard to develop an intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM)—with the potential of reaching targets in both European Russia and the United States.

U.S. experts anticipate that Red China will have an operational ICBM by 1974 with a range of at least double (3,000 miles) the new IBM. With that start, it will be only a matter of a short time before they perfect an ICBM with 5,000 to 6,000-mile range—armed with a 3-megaton warhead. Three megatons are equivalent to the explosive force of 3 million tons of TNT.

Ominously significant of Peking's determination to become a first-class missile power is that some 30 per cent of its military budget is allocated for missiles and nuclear warheads and other weapons. This proportion is deemed exceptionally high in view of the fact that Red China has a standing military force of around 3 million men—with at least 20 divisions on its Siberian border facing an even larger Soviet force.

While concentrating on missiles and nuclear weapons, Red China is by no means neglecting other essential armaments. Developments in these fields as detailed to President Nixon in the extensive briefings he has had are the following:

A supersonic close-support fighter-bomber with a speed of around 1,400 miles and combat range of up to 500 miles. This plane is entirely of Chinese design and has been in operation since last May. Also produced by the Chinese Communists is an advanced version of Russia's now old model TU-16 medium-range bomber. Apparent mission of this craft is to deliver Red China's aerial nuclear bombs, which are undergoing constant improvement. The last atomic test, in December, involved an air drop.

Similarly, the Chinese have developed their own surface-to-air anti-aircraft missile and an air-defense radar device. A number of the AA missiles have been sent to Albania, Peking's anti-Moscow European ally. The radar mechanism is highly regarded by Western experts.

Red China also is not overlooking its naval forces. Intelligence authorities are convinced the Chinese are undertaking the building of a nuclear-powered submarine. Evidence of this unexpected development is the completion of a type of hull required for that kind of sub. As far as is now known, this craft will be armed with conventional type torpedoes.

It is also known the Chinese are building a missile-armed destroyer for use against surface ships.

Walking the Plank
Since the mysterious disappearance last fall of Defense Minister Lin Piao and a number of closely related top military chiefs, the purge of Red Chinese military ranks has not only continued but has reached far down.

A number of field grade officers (majors to colonels) have been ousted. Some have been kicked out completely; others demoted.

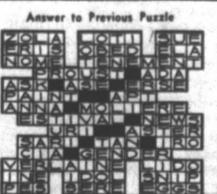

Information on this still-raging "purification" is fragmentary, but enough is slowly coming to light to make it evident that anyone suspected of having any ties of any kind to the Lin Piao faction is being axed, regardless of rank.

Their replacements are younger, and presumably, more "reliable" characters. How they measure up militarily is a moot question.

Significantly, this extensive and heavy-handed purging is not affecting scientists—particularly nuclear. There is no information or evidence that this relatively small elite corps is being either disciplined or harassed—as yet.

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Connecticut becomes the fourth state in modern times to start a lottery when the first tickets go on sale Tuesday.

A total of 3.5 million 50-cent tickets have been printed for sale at 3,000 specially licensed business for the first weekly drawing on Feb. 24.

The top weekly prize is $5,000, but under a complicated system certain tickets could lead to a top prize of $100,000 in periodic drawings held separately from the weekly lottery.

New Hampshire became the first state in modern times to start a state lottery when its lottery was established in 1964. Since then, New York and New Jersey have established state lotteries.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Just one veteran of the Spanish-American War was on hand Sunday at the annual Remember the Maine ceremonies held on board the USS Olympia, Adm. George Dewey's flagship during the war.

Ledy Howard, 94, who was a Marine for five years, was the lone veteran present as two floral wreaths were thrown into the Delaware River, where the Olympia is berthed as a museum.

The ceremony is held each year to honor the 266 men who died on Feb. 15, 1898, when the battleship USS Maine sank in Havana harbor following a mysterious explosion. The war between the United States and Spain followed.

Sitting Bull, the Sioux Indian chief, was shot and killed in South Dakota in 1890 after a skirmish with federal troops.

Worry Clinic

By George W. Crane
Ph. D., M. D.

Ruth's experience shows that English composition becomes far more dynamic and exciting when the assignments are combined with practical psychology. "An Autumn Sunset" is relatively static when contrasted with "How to ask a girl for a date?"

CASE T-503: Ruth s., age 28, is an English teacher.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "I used to be a shy, friendless high schooler, too."

"But your column ran in my hometown newspaper so I sent for a few of your booklets and dissected myself."

"And I could hardly believe it was so simple to win friends and be popular!"

"In fact, within a week I had seen such a radical change in the way my classmates reacted that I thought to myself, 'How long has this formula been known?'"

"Now I am married to another teacher who is wonderful but he was so shy in college that he would never have asked me for a date if I hadn't used your 'Compliment Club' method on him at the start."

"Then I deftly tooted his horn with honest praise until he blossomed out into quite a good conversationalist."

"So now I mix Applied Psychology with my classroom assignments in English composition."

"For example, I insist that all my pupils pay 3 sincere verbal compliments per day for a full week and then write an account of how people receive compliments."

"And they are to be on the alert for anybody who goes even farther and answers with a 'Fine, thank you. How are you?'"

"Then I have the students try to match those replies with the type of job or occupation their friends follow."

"(Always write to Dr. Crane, Hopkins Bldg. Meilal, Indiana 47958, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)"

"But I have also used your suggestion about assigning the task of writing a 50-word contest letter about soap or cereals or other commercial products."

"The teen-agers are delighted at such practical English assignments."

"In fact, one of the girls won a new steam electric iron by submitting her classroom letter to the manufacturer who sponsored the contest."

"Another popular classroom project involves watching their clergyman or any other public speaker and analyzing his gestures, plus his slow, choppy delivery during those first 3 or 4 minutes."

"But the most amusing assignment involves their greeting people with a cordial 'Good morning, how are you?'"

"When they are to tabulate whether the other person replies with merely a 'Fine' or if he answers, 'Fine, thank you.'"

Texas Has Methadone Plan For Drug Dependent Persons

Drug dependent persons in Texas now have a place to turn.

In 10 Texas cities, methadone treatment centers are in operation to provide addicts with a synthetic narcotic drug substitute for heroin. The maintenance clinics are licensed and regulated by the Texas State Department of Health.

Guidelines for the methadone program were drawn up last fall by the Advisory Committee on Synthetic Drugs: Rules, regulations, and standards were drawn under authority of House Bill 139 of the 62nd Legislature.

At present there are 13 clinics operating in 10 cities—Austin, San Antonio, Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, Lubbock, El Paso, Corpus Christi, Harlingen, and McAllen. These 13 are now operating under permits from the State Health Department. All methadone maintenance clinics must undergo inspection and be licensed by the State Health Department to operate.

In addition to the licensed clinics, private physicians may use methadone with a private patient without permit for withdrawal purposes only. The withdrawal period cannot be longer than six weeks and such withdrawal programs using methadone cannot be administered to the same patient more often than every three months. The primary problem with the withdrawal program is the low success rate in keeping a patient off of heroin.

The synthetic narcotics maintenance of drug-dependent persons must have permits and conform to guidelines of the advisory committee.

Why has the maintenance program become a useful tool in the treatment of drug addiction? Persons on a maintenance program haven't really kicked the need for narcotics, but they are able to perform their normal jobs, care for their children, and attend school by using the narcotic drug substitute.

Research is underway now to find a substance to take the addict off of methadone.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—Bess Truman has marked her 87th birthday with a quiet day at home with her husband, former President Harry Truman.

A spokesman said the former president and former first lady had no special plans as they observed the occasion Sunday. Truman turns 88 May 8.

CHIANG MAI, Thailand (AP)—Queen Elizabeth has visited a huge dam and a mountaintop palace as she continues a state visit to this Southeast Asian nation.

Thousands of school children were on hand Sunday as the Queen, Prince Philip, and Princess Anne landed at Chiang Mai's airport and then drove in a royal motorcade to King Bhumibol's palace on Doi Suthop mountain.

The king uses the palace as a base when involved in efforts to eradicate the cultivation of opium plants among the hill tribes of the surrounding area.

Topics to be discussed include the Occupational Health and Safety Act of 1970, dealing with driving drunks, industrial safety hygiene, fire prevention and engineering, municipal accident prevention problems, marine and aerospace technology, and other areas.

The conference will also include the largest exposition of safety equipment and technology in the Southwest by developers and manufacturers of such products.

Conference sessions will be held through Wednesday, March 22, at the Sheraton-Dallas Hotel. Pre-registration is urged for everyone; attendance is open to all interested persons. Details are available from the Texas Safety Association, P. O. Box 3138, Austin, Texas 78764.

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP)—"Here is my combat pay for a month which was given for helping kill people in Vietnam. Please use it to help people to stop some of the feelings and beliefs of mankind which allow us to kill each other."

The message, and a $65 month's pay to U.S. soldier John F. Watts, came to the First United Methodist Church here. It was forwarded to the denomination's Board of Missions, which in turn gave it to the Martin Luther King Hopemobile, an interracial peace project in New York.

His college education costs less when you save for it.

Income Tax Q And A

EDITOR'S NOTE—This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers.

Q) What effect will the new tax law have on the amount of tax withheld from my paycheck in 1972?

A) As a result of changes in the withholding system for 1972, single employees earning up to $2,500 a year and married employees, whose spouses are not employed, with earnings up to $31,000 a year, can generally expect to have their full tax withheld. Wage earners should determine if it is necessary to file a new withholding exemption certificate (Form W-4) to avoid overwithholding and unnecessary reductions in take-home pay. Specifically, employees should (1) claim all the withholding exemptions to which they are entitled, (2) claim the new "special withholding allowance" if single and earning $31,000 or less (allowance may not be claimed if employee has more than one job), and (3) claim the "additional withholding allowances" shown on the back of Form W-4 if their itemized deductions are substantially larger than the standard deduction.

Q) What transportation expenses are deductible that are not business related?

A) You may deduct as a charitable contribution unreimbursed out-of-pocket transportation expenses directly attributable to services you render to a charitable organization. If you use your own car, instead of actual expenses you may use the rate of six cents per mile to determine your deductions.

Q) Have there been any changes in the Social Security Tax rate for 1972?

A) No. The rate remains at 5.2 percent for both employers and employees. However, the maximum amount of wages subject to social security tax has been increased to $9,000 for wages paid in 1972.

Q) How much is the percentage standard deduction this year?

A) On your 1971 return the standard deduction is 13 percent of your adjusted gross income up to a maximum deduction of $1,500. Thus, if your adjusted gross income is $11,000 and you take the standard deduction, that deduction would be 13 percent of $11,000 or $1,430. If the adjusted gross income is $16,000, the standard deduction would be the maximum of $1,500 since 13 percent of $16,000 is $2,080.

Television And Radio

NEW YORK (AP)—The Network Channels are ablaze with the splendor and pageantry of ancient days on Sunday night. There was "Cleopatra" on ABC "Ben Hur" on CBS, and happily, "Elizabeth Regina" on the Public Broadcasting channels.

"Cleopatra," the $40-million film of nine years ago, finally made it to the small screens. A fantastic riot of opulence and mob scenes, the goings-on in Caesar's Rome were very entertaining. The 1959 spectacle "Ben Hur" has been broadcast before, and was also drama painted with a broad brush.

Both were made to be shown on the huge screens of theaters, with the result that the vast scenes with hordes of people tended to look like disturbed ant hills when seen on television screens.

There can be no complaints about "Elizabeth Regina," a BBC import that picks up in a six-part series where "The Six Wives of Henry VIII" left off. With Glenda Jackson playing the vital, fiery daughter of Henry and Anne Boleyn, the first episode concentrated on the rocky road to the Tudor throne—the death of ailing teen-aged Edward VI, and then of Elizabeth's older half-sister, Mary. There were plots, schemes, double-dealing, skullduggery, jealousy and even imprisonment in the Tower of London for the future queen.

The series was made expressly for television and used closeups and comparatively few people to carry the story. The fine acting, authentic costumes and backgrounds, and the wellwritten scripts made English history come fascinatingly alive.

Earlier on Sunday, Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic Orchestra appeared in a CBS "Young People's Concert." The subject was Franz Liszt and his preoccupation with the legend of Faust.
