Germany Regains Freedom

Bonn Government Allied With West

BONN, Germany — UP — West Germany regained its place among the free nations of the world Thursday, almost 10 years to the day since Hitler's "thousand year Reich" crumbled with the unconditional surrender of his armies.

A series of brief diplomatic ceremonies here, in Paris, in Washington and in Brussels made Germany free once again, allied with the western nations and pledged to raise a 500,000-man force for the defense of West Europe.

The key ceremony was held at noon when the British and French high commissioners deposited with the Bonn government the documents signifying ratification of the Paris treaties. The United States did this in April.

In that brief noon ceremony Germany regained its sovereignty, but there was no rejoicing. The country is divided by the Iron Curtain, and 18 million Germans live under Soviet domination in the East, their future obscured by the clouds of the cold war.

West Germany is among the most prosperous nations of Europe, but there are penniless refugees from communism. The nation will remain to seek unification through strength but to many the unconditional surrender of May 8, 1945, is too fresh to make rearmament popular.

Thursday's diplomatic activities completed the ratification of the Paris accords, signed on Oct. 23, 1954, and pushed them through to success despite Communist threats that final ratification will seal the division of Germany.

Provides Four Points

1. They make Germany an independent nation.
2. They enable Germany to begin raising a 12-division army and an air force and navy—placing 500,000 men under arms.
3. They admit Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization as its 15th member.
4. And they admit Germany to a seven-nation western European union together with Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg — its friends and its foes of the last world war.

The Paris acts do four things:

Two Phone Installations Blasted Out

ATLANTA — UP — Two dynamite blasts knocked out small telephone installations at Knoxville, Tenn., Thursday as violence continued in two major southern strikes.

Police arrested two men identified as Southern Bell strikers on suspicion of setting off both blasts in telephone terminal boxes, knocking out service to hundreds.

One of the explosions at Knoxville demolished a terminal box containing 200 telephone circuits, shattered the pole on which it was mounted and knocked out all windows on one side of a school building across the street, authorities said.

No one was reported hurt by either explosion.

Police identified the two men arrested as striking Southern Bell employees. Police said their car was seen speeding from the scene of the first blast.

Other new violence had been reported in both the strikes against the Southern Bell Telephone Co. and the Louisville & Nashville Railroad that have gripped the South for 53 days.

A union spokesman in Washington said L&N's refusal to reinstate strikers accused of vandalism was the "only real major stumbling block" to settling that dispute.

The rail union source disagreed with federal mediation chief Francis A. O'Neill, who said in Washington that he believed an agreement in the L&N strike was "pretty close."

THERE GOES SURVIVAL TOWN — In a blast similar to this earlier test, the biggest atomic device to be set off this year demolished "Survival Town, USA" this morning at the Nevada Atomic Test Site.

A RARE DAY IS TODAY

You just can't hardly get them kind no more. George Gobel, the newest manipulator of the American language, would say.

And he'd be right, too. For today is a very special day, the kind that comes only every 11 years or so.

Soviets Yield Two Points On Austria Treaty

VIENNA — UP — The Soviet Union yielded Thursday to the West on two of the biggest points of dispute in the Austrian treaty, and the U.S. Army made public its plan to withdraw American troops from Austria.

Early conclusion of the state treaty appeared assured.

Russia officially withdrew its demands for an article that would force the repatriation of 36,000 anti-Communist refugees and to another article that would put a $3,000,000 ceiling on the future Austrian defense army.

"We will be able to have the kind of Army we want," a spokesman for the Austrian federal chancellery announced.

In a release to American troops, U.S. Army headquarters announced the "probabilities of withdrawal" of occupation forces from Austria and gave instructions as to how the evacuation will be carried out.

The Austrian spokesman said the Russian concessions on Articles 15 and 17 followed a series of telephone talks Thursday between Soviet Ambassador I. I. Ilyichev and the Kremlin.

Ilyichev indicated earlier he would drop the two articles but lacked authority until he checked with Moscow.

The treaty, when completed, will restore Austria's freedom and end the 10-year four-power occupation. The time for pulling out the occupation troops was reported to be the last major article blocking agreement.

9 US Airmen Lost At Sea

LONDON — UP — Ships and planes searched the Atlantic off Iceland in vain Thursday for the nine men aboard a U.S. Air Force refueling plane which crashed in flames Wednesday.

The wreckage of the plane, a KC-97 from the Smokey Hill Air Force Base, Kan., was spotted Wednesday evening. But an Air Force spokesman said no survivors were sighted.

The four-engine plane was assigned to the 310th Bomber Wing but was on temporary duty in England.

'Operation Cue' Called 'Beautiful'

As Told to United Press
ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. — UP — Operation Cue was a beautiful atomic shot — and we hope that its main result will be to make America stronger and help deter any enemy from starting a war against us.

I have just flown to within five miles of ground zero with Maj. Gen. Clyde E. Dougherty, field exercise director.

Our helicopter took off five minutes after the blast. The effects were not immediately noticeable at the survival city, but it is, of course, too early to evaluate the damage, and our view was obscured by dust.

Important to Civil Defense
This shot was very important to civil defense and to Mr. and Mrs. First, we had to know what effects a nuclear shot of this size would have on American homes, facilities, public utilities, food and materials — the things that we Americans live and work with every day.

Secondly, it gave civil defense workers from throughout the nation an unexcelled opportunity to go into a "devastation" area and perform the duties they normally would perform after an actual hostile atomic explosion.

View by Television
Thirty Operation Cue gave the man, women and children of America a chance to see in their own homes — by television — what an atomic explosion can do. We hope that the entire country and the world will learn what happened in the homes and the facilities that made up the survival city.

It was a very successful shot, despite the delays and disappointments. We relied 100 per cent on the judgment of the AEC in postponing the shots because of weather conditions.

About 200 of our 350 civil defense workers stayed over for the shot, many of them at their own expense. They stayed out of the plush spots of Las Vegas and worked up here through the delays.

Health Experts Say Vaccine Might Share Blame For Polio

By UNITED PRESS
An experts' statement that Salk vaccine could be a contributing factor to 10 cases of infantile paralysis in Idaho highlighted mounting activity on the nation's polio front Thursday.

Three public health experts announced that a week of research among Idaho's polio cases "strongly indicate a direct relation of the vaccine with the cases of polio which have been seen."

The 10 polio cases were among 32,000 Idaho children inoculated with Salk vaccine manufactured by the Cutter Laboratories of Berkeley, Calif. Two of the youngsters died and three are in critical condition.

Meanwhile, a third child died after receiving an inoculation of Cutter vaccine and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis announced that New York and Washington had requested a delay in shipments of vaccine to them pending an investigation.

Supplies Fall Behind
In Washington, President Eisenhower said he would ask congress for power to distribute Salk vaccine free to the nation's children if it becomes evident any child is being unfairly deprived of it. His statement was coupled with an announcement that vaccine supplies had fallen nearly 7 million doses behind estimates.

There have been 46 cases of polio following inoculations of Salk vaccine across the nation and in Hawaii. Up until the Idaho experts' statement, scientists had been unanimous in stressing that there was no evidence that the Salk vaccine was to blame.

The Idaho experts emphasized that their investigations will remain strictly circumstantial until completion of laboratory tests.

Supported by Factors
But they said the possible connection between Salk vaccine and the 10 Idaho cases was supported by four factors:

1. The disease struck in areas where there had been no previous polio cases since last fall.
2. Only children who had received the vaccine became ill in these areas.
3. The first signs of paralysis occurred in the arm, where the children had been vaccinated.
4. The paralysis developed first in the upper extremities, although the disease is usually first felt in the legs.

Robert and Merriman, of Pampa, was the only firm represented at the informal session and Wayland Merriman of the firm will submit a proposed plan of operation Tuesday morning at the regular city commission meeting, City Mgr. Fred Brook reported.

Mayor Lynn Boyd also stated at the session that within the next two to three weeks work would probably begin on a survey of Pampa's water — part of the $200,000 water improvement bond issue passed late in February by Pampa voters.

Civil Defense Units Test Ability Of City To Survive

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. — UP — The most powerful atomic test explosion of the year hurled its might through "Survival Town, USA" Thursday, wreaking havoc while U. S. tanks of an armored task force rode out the shock unperturbed less than two miles from the blast.

The white heat of nuclear fury burst with earth-rocking violence on the pre-dawn Nevada desert with a force equivalent to 35,000 tons of TNT — more powerful by far than any ever witnessed before by non-military and non-technical observers.

It roared into "Survival Town," a typical American community 10 blocks away, like a hurricane, stripping off roofs and churning window glass into millions of darting, deadly missiles.

Deep Layer of Dust
A deep layer of dust and smoke shrouded the "doomed" city for more than an hour after the explosion, hiding the detailed fate of its typically American furnishings and appliances and its mannequin residents and making a full assessment of the effects impossible immediately.

But civil defense and military observers who went through the experiment in trenches less than two miles from the vaporized tower reported that most of the 10 residences still were standing, although the windows were knocked out. No major fires were apparent immediately.

The tankers, in the first indoctrination for U. S. armored task forces, went through the terrific blast with "no strain." The shock wave, which shook many of civil defense workers and newsmen 1-2 miles distant, was barely discernible in the buttoned down tanks, the crews reported back by radio.

Showered with Rocks
Occupants of front line trenches two miles distant were showered with a cascade of rocks and dust but none was injured.

Nine Postponements
Watching were some 500 civil defense observers and newsmen — the remnants of a vanguard of 2,000 who originally came from all over the country to see this test. Thursday's watchers stuck it out, undaunted by nine consecutive postponements of the blast because of adverse weather.

The blast was only one mile from the edge of a typical American town, dubbed "Survival Town" and populated only by mannequins, anaesthetized dogs and some 500 rats.

Its brilliant flash shot made sheet lightning across the dark skies of at least six western states. It produced a deadly beautiful fireball that awed the observers and armed vehicles.

The brilliant portion of the flash was three seconds in duration, followed by an eight-second orange-toned after-glow.

Ice-Cap Forms
The typical mushroom cloud shot up to 40,000 feet and an ice-cap formed as usual on the white crest of the cloud.

The angry fireball of the fissioning atoms measured about 1,400 feet across — roughly equal in length to four football fields — as the shot tower vaporized.

The shock wave of the observer station, 7 1/2 miles distant, had the velocity of several ammunition ships colliding and exploding (See A-BLAST, Page 2)

Truck, Auto Crash Kills Oil Executive

McLEAN — John Hardesty Mackey, 42, of Wichita Falls, district manager of the Mid-Continent Oil Corp., was killed almost instantly yesterday afternoon when his car was involved in a collision with a G-K Trucking Co. truck-trailer driven by Fred Randall, 46, of Pampa.

The accident occurred on U.S. Hwy. 66, exactly 8 1/2 miles east of Groom, at 2:45 p.m. yesterday, according to Highway Patrolmen Joe O'Rear and R. C. Parker, both of McLean.

Actually, it was the trailer, which had come loose from the Mackey vehicle, they reported. Mackey was headed east and Randall was going west, they said, when Randall applied his brakes and the poles on the pole trailer snapped and threw the trailer across the pavement in the path of Mackey's car.

The trailer and the car hit head-on, patrolmen said, and were both demolished. There was no damage to the truck itself. The dashboard of the Mackey vehicle was driven into the back seat.

Awards Banquet Slated Tonight

Pampa plays host tonight — for the first time — to the 10th annual Fort Worth Press "Save Our Soil and Save Texas" regional barbecue and awards presentation.

The program will begin at 7 p.m. today in the Gray County Community Building in Recreation Park, Jim Strawn, work unit conservationist for the Gray County Soil Conservation District, said today. An estimated 200 persons will be on hand.

There will be two Gray Counties receiving awards, Strawn said.

One of them is Quentin Williams, Pampa, who was named the "Best Non-Farming Conservationist" in this 54-county region by the newspaper. The other is Peb Everett, McLean, who was named the "Best Comeback Farmer" in the West Texas region.

Dr. E. Douglas Carver, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Pampa, will give the invocation at 7 p.m. sharp. That will be followed by the barbecue, which was being prepared today by Frank Carter and Bill Graham.

W. B. Jackson, secretary of the Gray County Soil Conservation District, the master of ceremonies, will make the introductory remarks. And Floyd Watson, president of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, will give a welcoming address.

Strawn will introduce the special guests and Mrs. Lavonia Webb, soloist, will entertain. Walter Humphrey, editor of the Fort Worth Press, will conclude the activities with the presentation of awards.

Man Cleared Of White Slavery

TULSA — UP — Melzer Barnes, Pasadena, Tex., truck driver, Thursday was clear of white-slavery charges following a one-day trial featuring testimony of a 54-year-old prostitute.

Mrs. Juanita Ausmus, who said she had been married at least six times, testified she filled "professional dates" at Barnes' request.

The trucker told the court he had lived with the woman for six months before learning she was a prostitute.

Bao Dai Ouster Upheld

Convention Okays Premier

SAIGON, Indo - China — UP — A nationwide convention called by Viet Nam's revolutionary council Thursday adopted a motion denouncing Bao Dai as emperor and giving approval to Premier Ngo Dinh Diem to set up a new provisional government.

The delegates passed the resolution by a show of hands, demonstrating their faith in the military junta and its policy of turning free Viet Nam into a republic despite American warnings that the country is not ready for such a step.

The vote came in the midst of a growing demand to "liberate" north Viet Nam from the Communists — the junta's apparent answer to recent charges it was infiltrated with Communists and former followers of Red leader Ho Chi Minh.

The delegates, meeting in a theatre on the wide boulevard Gallieni — scene of bloody fighting last week end — cheered themselves hoarse when Gen. Nguyen Thanh Phong abused the absentee emperor.

Phuong, one of the military leaders of the Cao Dai religious sect, told the 1,000 or more national military and political figures "your presence here proves you have had enough of that puppet Bao Dai."

"Down with Communism and down with Bao Dai!" he thundered.

Not far away a convention of Viet Nam local leaders summoned Wednesday by Premier Ngo Dinh Diem met in a "rival" session to settle the future of strict terms, apparently less drastic than those of the revolutionary council.

Diem appeared to be swinging to the American, British and French points of view that Bao Dai should remain as a ruler but stripped of much of his powers. However he still was pressing for a Viet Nam republic over the big tares's present wishes.

Nautilus To Begin Cruise

WASHINGTON — UP — The Navy announced Thursday that the atomic-powered submarine Nautilus will begin a six-week shakedown cruise from New London, Conn., in the next few days.

The Navy said no passengers other than "a few technical observers" will be carried. The submarine will not be open to the public at any part of the cruise. It will visit San Juan, P. R., on May 13 or 14.

their entire loads. A heat wave as though from an open blast furnace door a few feet away flushed the faces of observers. The ascending heart of the cloud wreathed itself in a dark crimson—unlike the brilliant rose-peach bloom of previous atomic blasts.

Station Knocked Out
Ten minutes after the blast, it was announced that no signs could be received from a broadcasting station that was in the forward line of test homes, about 10 city blocks from the tower. This indicated that there had been considerable damage, at least in the front tanks of the test town.

Hal Goodwin of the Civil Defense Administration announced that none of the civil defense or news-men observers in trenches at Position Baker, 10,700 feet from the tower (roughly two miles) had been injured despite the heavy after-shock.

There was no shock felt in Las Vegas, 75 airline miles from the site. Early risers in Oakland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and in Phoenix, Ariz., Salt Lake City and other western points saw the flash with intensities ranging from grey-white to orange-yellow and "reddish."

Land Probe Believed Near End

AUSTIN—UP—Two top state officials now investigating the scandalized $100 million veterans land program were believed Thursday to be ready to turn their findings over to law enforcement officers and prosecutors.

The two, State Auditor C. H. Caynes and Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, indicated this Wednesday night in testimony before a special House committee which is conducting its own inquiry into Veterans Land Board transactions.

Caynes told House committee members his investigation had reached the point where, "unless it's necessary to put the spotlight on some more deals," that probably from now on "the principal things to be done are by law enforcement agencies, as far as we are concerned."

Caynes, in announcing that he expected to issue an audit on the Veterans Land Board before the end of May, also told House investigators that since his office began investigating the program it had discovered a total of 294 multiple or block deals.

Of that total, he listed 125 as "questionable."

Caynes, Garrison, Land Commissioner J. Earl Rudder and Clark Diebel, executive secretary of the Veterans Land Board, testified before the House committee Wednesday night.

NEW EVIDENCE

Writer In Tank Says A-Blast Was Nothing

THIRTY-ONE HUNDRED-YARDS FROM HELL—UP—Shake, rattle and roll.

Give me a 30 ton Gen. Patton tank and I don't care if they drop an A-bomb on my front doorstep.

Thursday's atomic blast caught the five of us huddled in Tank Charlie almost by surprise. Our telephone line was out and we were under radio silence.

Our five watches didn't agree and we were debating what time it was when a faint glimmer of light filtered inside the tank. If you'd blinked you would have missed it.

"There she goes, shouted one of the crew.

He was so right.

Before we could grab for something solid and say "gee whillikers" the noise and the blast wave hit us simultaneously. They came with a wicked wallop maybe two or three seconds after the first glimmer of light.

While we were hollering to each other that the blast had gone off, the tank was filled with an ear-splitting "whap" that sounded like a million beavers slapping their tails on water-in unison.

At the same time the tank, heavy and solid as it was, began to shake.

It wasn't the gentle rolling motion of a moderate earthquake that we felt in the trenches two years ago.

Thursday's motion was jarring and jolting as if some giant had grasped the tank in his hands and shook it violently. We heard the rush of the blast wave through the air past the tank with the rattle of dirt and rocks off its sides.

All the time we heard the rumbling echo and re-echo of the "whap" of the explosion across Yucca Flat, sounding like a busy bowling alley.

The inside of the tank was filled with blinding, choking dust. How the dust got inside the tank when the blinding flash of the explosion died down we'll never know, but it did.

'DUST BOWL'

Map shows the drought-stricken Dust Bowl of the western plains. The monthly report of the Soil Conservation Service in April said more than 13 million acres have been damaged by wind erosion since last November. In addition, another 20 million acres are in condition to blow if high winds and drought persist.

New Acclaim As An 'Actor' May Take Carson Out Of TV

By ALJNE MOSBY
HOLLYWOOD—UP—Jack Carson, weathering his first regular TV comedy series, Thursday afternoon as how it may be his last because of his new-found acclaim as an "actor."
 Round-faced Carson launched a monthly NBC-TV program last fall which, he admits, "got some bad reviews and some good ones." But while Carson the comedian did not set any TV sets on fire he drew raves when he turned dramatic actor twice on the ABC-TV U. S. Steel Hour.

He also scored in motion picture theaters last year with his convincing press agent character in "A Star is Born."
 "My TV sponsor wants a different format next fall so we may do a dramatic series. I would be host and act in some. In fact, I may just drift into character parts," the actor said as he polished off a truck-size lunch at his favorite haunt, the Lakeside Country Club.

Grandson Of Famed Doctor Dies Of Polio

The theater guild also is paying Jack for a Broadway play, and he may co-star with Oscar winner Shirley Booth in a movie.
 Carson thinks his TV program hasn't broken any rating records because it's only once a month. "You don't have a chance to build anybody," he said. "Every night is starting again. But the disadvantage of being on every week is that you're worn out too much."
 Carson, with his usual "ah-shucks" grin, thinks he passed the acting grade, "because if you have a great part with meat to it, you get praise!"

NEW ORLEANS—UP—The young grandson of Dr. Alton Ochsner, famed New Orleans surgeon, died Wednesday from polio, 11 days after he was inoculated with a shot of the Salk vaccine from the Cutter Laboratories.
 The child was E. Allen Davis Jr., who was 30 months old.
 Doctors at Foundation hospital said the boy was given a shot of the vaccine 11 days ago. He developed bulbar polio, the worst form of the disease, Sunday. He died shortly after 9 a.m. Wednesday.

Physicians at the hospital said it is their opinion that the vaccine was in no way responsible for the illness of the child.
 The Salk vaccine made by the Cutter Laboratories was recalled by the U. S. Public Health Service pending a further study.
 The Cutter vaccine was received only in small quantities in Louisiana and used commercially. None of it was used in the program of inoculating school children.
 The Ochsner Foundation hospital gave approximately 140 shots of the Cutter vaccine. The Davis child was the only polio case reported among the group.
 Until Wednesday only two Louisiana children who received the shots—both from a vaccine manufactured for Eli Lilly Co.—had come down with polio. In both cases, health department authorities said they showed polio symptoms before or on the day the shots were administered, "although it was not known at the time."

A total of some 190,000 Louisiana first and second grade students received the vaccine. In addition, approximately 1,200 shots of the Cutter vaccine was administered privately in Louisiana before its recall.

"Also, everybody is so overwhelmed by the fact you do something you're not supposed to do like Frank Sinatra in 'From Here to Eternity.' If a regular character actor had done that part, you wouldn't have noticed it."

"I did 'A Star is Born' and people say, 'Jeez, the depth of feeling—when all the time I'm just thinking of mashed potatoes.'
 "Besides," he added, "I'm not a comedian at all. I don't think like one."
 Carson likes being a dramatic actor "because the ham in me

This Is My Dish

Dainty White Cake For Special Events

By JANE KADINGO
Pampa News Women's Editor

Mrs. A. N. Rogers, west of city, has a recipe for a dainty white cake, that she says never fails. A Pampa for 21 years, Mrs. Rogers cooks for her husband, who is employed by the Phillips company, and her children and grandchildren when they are at home.

The Rogers have one daughter, Mrs. Ben Ormson, who lives in Pampa, and a son, Doyle E. Rogers, who lives in Ft. Worth, and four grandchildren.

When asked if she liked to cook, Mrs. Rogers stated: "Oh, yes! I guess that's my middle name. I have always loved to cook. It seems to come naturally."

Mrs. Rogers started cooking as a girl. Her hobbies are cooking and taking care of her grandchildren. Her activities outside the home are centered around St. Paul Methodist Church. She is a member of the Women's Society of Christian Service and president of the Ida Isabel Class.

Although she says she doesn't have any hobbies, she raises chickens, and has a garden.

Mrs. Rogers' white cake is nice for birthdays and showers, she advised. For showers, she makes it into a loaf cake and decorates each individual piece. For birthdays, she makes a layer cake. In addition to never being a failure, it is also nice and moist, she stated.

DAINTY WHITE CAKE

1 cup shortening (refined vegetable shortening)
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 cup milk
1 tsp. lemon extract
3 cups all-purpose flour
3 tsp. baking powder
7 egg whites
7 tsp. salt

Put all the ingredients in a mixer and mix at medium speed. Bake in loaf pan or in two 9-inch pans for 30 to 35 minutes at 350 degrees.

ICING

3 cups powdered sugar
4 egg whites
4 Tbsp. shortening
dash cream of tartar

Put shortening, egg whites and cream of tartar in mixer. Start at high speed. Add sugar gradually until frosting is "good and stiff." For decorating the cake in different colors, Mrs. Rogers takes 1 Tbsp for each color and puts in

Ham Rolls Baked In A Raisin Sauce

These delightful ham rolls are an excellent way to use up that left-over ham. Ham slices are rolled around a tangy rice stuffing, then baked in a raisin sauce. If your ham is in pieces too small to roll, you can arrange the pieces over the stuffing, then bake in the raisin sauce. Baking in the raisin sauce gives the ham a delicious new flavor.

INGREDIENTS:

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 tablespoon minced onion
2-3 cup uncooked white rice
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1-3 cups water
8 thin slices cooked ham
1/2 cup cooked raisins (save liquid)
1-3 cup light brown sugar, firmly packed
1 cup liquid (use liquid from cooking raisins)
1 tablespoon coarsely grated for

Place chops and potatoes on broiling platter and place in compartment about 3 inches from source of moderate heat. Broil for about 8 minutes longer. In the meantime, heat mushrooms and onions together in their own broth. When chops are done, drain mushrooms and onions, brush lightly with butter and add to platter. Serve immediately. Yield: 4 servings.

Molasses Still a Spring Tonic

SPRING tonic for spring sport enthusiasts comes in the delicious form of molasses cookies and milk with a tasty flavor. Delicate, smooth unrefined molasses offers champion refreshment.

With modern America's year long supply of fruits and vegetables and vitamin D enriched milk, a bitter potion of sulphur and molasses no longer need alert the body after a winter shortage of vitamins and minerals. However, unrefined molasses, an outstanding source of iron, is still a good addition to the daily menu. A tablespoon of this sweet, aromatic molasses stirred into a glass of milk supplies a mineral milk lacks. And the accompanying cookies are exciting enough to cause a cart wheel of joy. Giants in size, they are crisp and delicate of with toothpicks. (If the ham slices tear and will not roll, place the rice mixture in a greased baking dish and top with the ham slices.) Place the ham rolls in a greased shallow baking dish about 10" x 6" x 2". Mix together the raisins, brown sugar, liquid and orange rind. Pour over the ham. Place the baking dish in a preheated 350 degree F. oven for 30 minutes or until the ham rolls brown. Baste occasionally. This recipe makes 8 servings.

Eating Lunch With Mother Helps Baby Master Spoon Techniques

PERFECTING-SPOON USING TECHNIQUES will be easier for your cherub, if you plan occasional luncheon twosomes with him. A hearty "baby submarine" sandwich and a big bowl of piping hot tomato soup provide a satisfying, quickly prepared menu for mother to enjoy while she supervises baby's self feeding venture.

This new baby feeding set, decorated with cute Campbell Kids, is designed by Steubenville to make baby a much tidier eater. Both the plate and the soup-cereal bowl have concave curved edges that keep food from being pushed out, as well as tip-resistant bottoms. A Pennsylvania Dutch version of the Campbell Kids decorates the place mat, part of a gay new luncheon set designed by Leacock.

To make a Baby Submarine sandwich, slice a small loaf of French or Italian bread lengthwise. Butter both halves and fill with layers of lettuce, slices of cold meat or cheese, add mustard and sliced pickle and top with upper half of loaf. (ANS)

Fine Stuffing Adds To Chicken Breasts

Here is a new way to prepare chicken breasts. Modern cooks combine stuffing ingredients just before the bird is to be roasted. Advance preparations can include the getting ready and measuring of the dry ingredients which may be stored at room temperature. Liquid or perishable ingredients may be prepared and measured, until time to make the stuffing. Freezing of prepared stuffings is not recommended.

STUFFED CHICKEN BREASTS

2 quarts coarse dry bread crumbs
1 teaspoon celery seeds
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup melted butter or margarine
1/2 cup minced onion
2-3 cup chopped celery
3 cup chicken bouillon
4 (1 pound) chicken breasts
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
1/2 cup Sherry

Combine bread crumbs, celery seeds, salt, poultry seasoning, pepper, butter, onion, celery and

FAMOUS TEXANS' RECIPES

"First Lady of the Cabinet" Favors French Beef Stew

Fort Worth — French cookery with a Texas accent is the way Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, Secretary of the Seitch, Education and Welfare, describes her savory Beef Stew.

In this recipe the dainty Houstonian, who is the only feminine member of President Eisenhower's Cabinet, combines the delicate French technique of long, slow, moisture cooking with wine, with traditional French economy in using a nourishing economy beef to feed eight persons.

Mrs. Hobby listed the Beef Stew as her favorite beef recipe in response to the Texas Beef Council's "Famous Texans' Recipes" cookbook, now in preparation.

A cultured, studied recipe, the Hobby Beef Stew gives evidence of a great deal of forethought and planning, exemplifying the Secretary's philosophy that "anything worth doing is worth doing well."

Minimum time for preparation and cooking is seven hours. But what a success is the hostess who serves the delicate, tender, wine-permeated vegetable and beef triumph!

Ingredients for eight generous servings:

5 lbs. sitchbone (from the rump)
4 cups potatoes, cut thick
2 cups carrots, cut in 1-inch cubes
1 cup onions, cut in thin slices
1/2 bottle red wine
2 cans bouillon
Salt and pepper to taste

Cut some of the fat into small pieces and dry out in frying pan. Add the beef and stir constantly, searing quickly. Remove the well-browned pieces to a kettle.

Pour into the kettle the wine for about four hours. Mrs. Hobby advises, for most flavorful results, Remove the meat from the bone, cut in two inch cubes and dredge with flour.

Soak the vegetables in red wine for about four hours. Mrs. Hobby advises, for most flavorful results, Add the beef and stir constantly, searing quickly. Remove the well-browned pieces to a kettle.

Four into the kettle the wine for about three hours, or until the meat is tender. Add more wine if more moisture is required. Cook the bones with the meat for "character."

Add carrots and onions during last hour of cooking. Cook the potatoes separately to prevent their becoming mealy, and add them at the last minute.

Now remove the bones and fat, skin, and thicken with the flour which has been mixed with 1/4 cup of cold water. Cook five more minutes, and serve.

Heavy, brown gravy, enriched with wine, fully develops the characteristic flavor of the beef, according to Mrs. Hobby.

IT'S THE LAW IN TEXAS

Your son or daughter is considered a minor in the law of contracts until he or she becomes 21 years old. A parent frequently asks, "Am I responsible for the contracts entered into by my minor child?" A parent further wonders what rights his child may have once he enters into a contract.

All adults, particularly businessmen, contract with minors at their peril. What are their rights?
As a parent you are not responsible for the contracts of your minor child unless you, yourself, enter into the contract or unless you guarantee the child's performance of the terms of the contract.

What rights does your minor child have? The law of contracts protects those who are not yet twenty-one years of age. Contracts of minors are "voidable." This means that these contracts are perfectly valid ones and adult parties are bound by them but the minor party has a right to refuse to perform his part of the contract and the law will not require him to do so.

Most contracts may be rejected by the minor either before he is 21 years old or shortly afterwards. If a minor rejects a contract, he "disaffirms" it. He may notify the other party and the contract becomes null and void. This right applies to many types of contracts, such as deeds, mortgages, promissory notes, contracts of employment, street improvement contracts and contracts for the purchase of automobiles.

The law requires a minor who desires to reject his contract to do so within a reasonable time after he reaches 21 years of age. If he fails to disaffirm within a reasonable time, he is regarded as having accepted the contract and is bound by it.

What constitutes a "reasonable time" depends upon the facts of each individual case. The fact that the parent approves the contract does not prevent a minor, at any time, from rejecting it. An adult who contracts with a minor, as has been seen, is at a serious disadvantage. The law requires him to perform his part of the bargain, but the minor may elect to disaffirm the contract.

The duty is upon those who contract with minors to ascertain their ages; otherwise, such persons may someday be defeated by the shield with which the law protects the minor.

If a minor purchases an automobile, or some other article of value, and he wishes to revoke the purchase contract, he may recover from the seller the money that he has paid. But he must restore or offer to restore, the automobile or article to the seller if he still has it.

After a child reaches the age of 21, he is no longer a minor and he may ratify any contracts that he made during his minority; and they are then valid and binding. He may ratify by expressly stating that he will perform the obligations of the contract. If he uses the purchased property beyond a reasonable time after becoming of age, the law may hold that this amounts to a ratification and he requires him to perform his obligations under the contract.

Little Town Awaits News On Uranium

MONTGOMERY, La. (UP)—Residents of this small community in the northwest corner of Grant parish waited anxiously Wednesday for the "magic word" on whether they have a uranium strike on their hands.
Mineral experts from Nevada, Texas and Louisiana descended on the Nantaches Creek area, took some rock sample, and retired to the secrecy of their laboratories.
Uranium hopes were skyrocketed by two Dallas experts, who said an Ice Age glacier pushed a $2,000-an-ounce vein of the ore from Jefferson, Tex., into Grant parish.
The experts checked the 160-acre farm of Lucy Quinalty with Geiger counters and found the instrument went "hog-wild" less than 100 yards from her house.
Miss Quinalty said she sold about $2,100 of rocks on her property to the state for construction of a road bed some six years back. If there's uranium around here, motorists may be driving over one of the highest-priced road beds in the country.
Dr. M. Kuhlman is keeping a close watch over his 40-acre property. The experts said the main vein of ore, if it exists, may be under his land.
So far, nobody knows for sure whether the area contains uranium or not. But the Geiger counters are jumping.

150 Horned Toads To Run In 19th Annual Toad Derby

By JOHN M. BERNIER
COALINGA, Calif. —UP—Some 150 horned toads, creatures that usually occupy a sagebrush home and are shunned by man, compete for "star roles" here this weekend in the 19th annual Horned Toad Derby.

Most of the entries have spent their lives basking in the sun on the west side of the San Joaquin Valley, but one has been flown to California from Australia for the derby.

The honor and prestige of the island continent will be resting on the thorny back of a toad appropriately named "Downunder." The Aussie is sponsored by the Brown Drilling Co., of Learmonth, West Australia.

Besides the long entry from the southern hemisphere, a number of big names in local horned toad circles, including Peachy, Iris Beauty, Radio-Active, General Grant and Cantaloupe King, already have reported they'll be at the starting post Saturday.

One of the biggest problems facing the trainers is teaching the toads simple geometry.

The race track consists of a 16-foot canvas spread out in the main street of town. The participants are placed in the center under a basket and when the cover is lifted the race is on.

Veteran derby followers claim any toad that would learn "the shortest distance between two points is a straight line" could easily win the contest. Instead of dashing for the finish line at the outer edge, the little reptiles usually stand around and talk over current topics. Eventually one will casually wander across the finish line and be declared winner.

However, a desert lizard occasionally will break tradition and race for paydirt. This happened last year when a local toad set a new world record in the amazing time of 2.2 seconds. The old mark of 2.5 was recorded in 1940 by "Pete the Rambler," who was entered by the El Paso, Tex., Chamber of Commerce.

Faster times are expected this year and some experts have gone so far as to predict the "mythical two-second barrier" will be broken.

THE MARQUEE BY DICK KLEINER

The Record Shop: If Kurt Baum is any example, look for Rocky Marciano to be our next great tenor.

Baum, one of the Met's top tenors, was a fighter back in his early Vienna days. One day he stepped into the ring with a German heavyweight named Max Schmeling. A few minutes later, Baum had a broken nose.

In setting it properly, the surgeons removed a bone. Baum came out of the hospital with a ringing, clear tenor. And an operatic career was born, by hook (Right hook.)

Denise Lor, Mercury's lovely gray-eyed star, is most unusual. She actually thinks about what she's singing. She reads the lyrics of a song not to see where she can put in a tricky sound, but to figure out what they say, what the story is, how best to do justice to the meaning.

What is so rare as a logical interpretation of lyrics?

"Oh, I may put in a gimmick or two," she says, referring to the current fad for strange vocal noises. "After all, every record needs an ear-catcher. But I'm not trying to create any particular sound that's always me."

There are, Denise thinks, two ways of doing a song, just as there is the "Stanislavsky method" — famous in theatrical circles — which she says can be interpreted vocally when "a singer makes believe he is the person singing the lyrics."

She, however, prefers to study and digest the meaning of the lyrics, then sing them as she believes she really would if she were in that position.

The result, no matter what the method, is pleasing. Denise's voice and style make beautiful music together. And, since she's a handsome hunk of woman, she would seem to have a bright future.

Denise is one thrust who "never had to knock on doors" to advance her career.

"I've been very lucky," she says. "I got my first job through my teacher's husband, and ever since it's been the same. Some body will say, 'I hear so-and-so is looking for a new singer,' and 'I'll go over and audition.'"

Right now she's the girl vocalist on Garry Moore's TV show, which keeps her around New York for which she's grateful. She lives in Greenwich, Conn., not too far away, with her husband, Jay Martin, and two sons.

"That teacher of hers," incidentally, isn't the usual voice teacher. At least, Denise doesn't study the usual vocal lessons.

"I'm learning more about acting and song interpretation," she says. "than mechanical things like how to breathe through your elbow and what to do with your ribs. I think the former is more important, anyhow."

See — most unusual gal.

There's a lot of furor about rhythm and blues lyrics being off-color. They may be, but a lot of singers feel it's the interpretation that makes them that way.

"It's all in the way a tune is sung," says Mary McCoy. "Why, I could sing 'Hickory Dickory

Princeton Averts New 'Civil War'

PRINCETON, N.J. —UP—Mike Koplinger, Princeton University's head proctor, averted a possible re-enactment of the war between the states Wednesday.

The near engagement occurred when seven Southern-born Princeton students waving the Stars and Bars from a broomstick marched on a 300-man parade of the school's Yank ROTC unit as it was being reviewed by former New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

Koplinger halted the displaced Southerners, clad in Confederate grey, 150 yards shy of their apparent objective.

Carver School Music Fete Set Tonight

Dr. Sheppard's Defense Puts New Evidence

CLEVELAND —UP— Defense attorneys said Wednesday they had submitted nine new pieces of evidence as basis of their plea for a new trial of convicted wife-killer Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, but the state said the evidence "represents opinion, speculations and conjectures."

Defense Attorney Arthur J. Pettigree itemized the nine points to Common Pleas Judge Edward Blythin. He was answered briefly by two assistant county prosecutors, Saul S. Danaceau and Thomas J. Parrino.

Both men questioned an investigation of a Sheppard-hired criminologist, and cited the findings of their own investigators as rebuttal to the Sheppard claims.

Of the $100-a-day criminologist, Parrino said: "His so-called 'independent' examination on his 'personal' basis... represents opinion, speculations and conjectures." He added that most of the defense theories had been "fully explored" at the nine-week trial ending in Dr. Sheppard's conviction of second-degree murder.

Judge Blythin, after hearing the oral arguments, said he would take the case under advisement before he made his decision, probably later this week.

Gary Okays Idea For Fish Permits

DENISON, Tex. —UP— Oklahoma's Gov. Raymond Gary has approved a suggestion by Denison Herald publisher Fred Conn that a compact commission be appointed to work out muddled license laws on Lake Texoma.

Conn said Thursday the Sooner governor replied to his suggestion by writing, "I can see no reason why such a commission should not be established. I think it is a good idea."

Gary felt the commission might go further than working out a reciprocal fishing license for the interstate lake. We might not stop with consideration of the license laws, but there might be other problems of mutual concern to our states which this commission could solve," he wrote the Denison publisher.

Peru Well Pays

LOS ANGELES —UP— Douglas Oil Company of California said Thursday a deep test well slanted drilled from a beach in the Lobos area of Peru has been successfully completed between 6,896 and 6,923 feet. President W. G. Krieger said the well produced 720 barrels a day of 39 gravity through an 18-64 inch beam.

Vaccine Supplies Lagging

WASHINGTON —UP— The Public Health Service disclosed Wednesday that Salk vaccine supplies have fallen nearly 7 million doses behind estimates made only a week ago.

It said it has approved 10.5 million doses for distribution so far. This compares with an earlier government estimate that more than 17 million doses would be available at this time.

The health service said one factor in the "net slowdown" in the availability of vaccine is the ban on vaccine produced by Cutter Laboratories, Berkeley, Calif. It had been assumed 1,700,000 Cutter shots would have been produced by now.

Another factor in the lag, the health service said, is that it has refused approval of 3.9 million doses pending receipt of additional testing data from the manufacturer.

Class of 1985!

It would take a long time to determine who won the bet—but we'd be willing to wager that the lad in the picture above winds up owning a Cadillac!

We feel so confident because he is starting out like a typical Cadillac owner.

Preponderately, Cadillac owners are self-made men. They just emerge—from everywhere.

But they are usually marked, quite early in life, by industry and by thrift and by the will to succeed.

That's why we say that this wonderful lad—out earning money to make himself self-sufficient—is very likely to wind up owning a Cadillac. Looking at him, as he labors, we estimate the class of 1985!

We hope we are around to deliver his car when the great day arrives—for it's a great thrill to hand out the keys when an owner comes in for his first Cadillac.

It's worth a lot to see the smile on his face and the gleam in his eye as he settles himself behind the wheel—studies the instrument panel to make sure of the controls—and floats away in the direction of home and a family celebration.

Of course, for the lad in the picture above, that thrill is still a great many years away.

But how about you? Is the time coming close for your dream of a Cadillac to come to a happy ending? If so, we'd be happy—indeed—to see you.

This is a wonderful year for owning a new Cadillac—whether it's your first or your second or your fifth or your tenth. Never before has Cadillac performance been so marvelous—its beauty so arresting—its comfort and handling ease so delightful. It is more decisively than ever—the Standard of the World!

Why not come in today—and check this for yourself? We'll give you the keys and a car—for the most revealing hour you ever spent in a motor car!

MAKING A GO OF LIFE

By ROY L. SMITH
Read Joshua 24:12-25
Each man is responsible for himself. No one else, for instance, can do your breathing for you; no one else can control your thinking for you; no one else can exercise faith for you. Occasionally we hear someone say, "He made me mad." The truth is that no one ever makes another person angry. They may contrive an irritating situation, but anger is always one's own choice.

It is extremely difficult for us to admit that our worst misfortunes are all homemade. There can be no spirit of victory within the soul of the man who does not have the courage to admit his responsibility and to assume authority over his own life. It is a fact, of course, that many of our choices are made for us by factors outside ourselves, but in every case we have enthroned the dictators in the process of making our choices. Our enslavement therefore is the product of a succession of wrong choices which originally were strictly personal. I have made my life, and if it is to be unmade in any particular I must unmake it. I do not ask thee, O God, to act in my stead, but to inspire me, that I may be ready to rise when thou dost call. Strengthen me, O God, that I may initiate action. Amen.
Make a study of the effects produced by your moods. What did it do to your day when you grew angry, bitter, cynical, resentful or critical? What did it do to your day when you laughed at your irritations and dismissed your annoyances good humoredly?

It sometimes happens that one has decided upon anger so many times that the choice has become automatic, and a rage develops from force of habit. But such fits of temper are always the product of a long series of decisions. Any habit is an accumulation of choices. This power to choose is one of the marks to the image of God in which we were created.
To achieve any degree of spiritual efficiency we must face the responsibility of choices with complete candor. Most of us have accustomed ourselves to the thought that we are the victims of life; we have pictured ourselves as having had misfortune thrust upon us.

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Close-ups and Longshots: Hollywood's to the fresh, wellbred charms of Grace Kelly brought Cornell Borchers back to Hollywood. Except that Cornell looks more like Ingrid Bergman than like Grace.

But like both, blonde, tall Cornell is a lady.

The last time she was in Hollywood, after costarring in England with Montgomery Clift and Paul Douglas in "The Big Lift," the year was 1951. Marilyn Monroe was starting to wiggle and sex-in-the-rough was the movie ideal.

After four months at Fox without facing a camera, Cornell returned to her native Germany for a series of films, won stardom in British flickers. Then Grace Kelly hit cultured charms and Cornell became a lady remembered for "A Time Remembered" opposite Rock-Hudson at U-I.

Like Grace, she's cool, composed and cultured — Movie Queen 1955 Style.

Clift is a puzzle to Hollywood but after acting with him Cornell says: "I thought he was wonderful. Paul Douglas is the one who threw me I couldn't understand him at all."

JACOBY ON BRIDGE Safety Of Contract Is Main Problem

By OSWALD JACOBY Written for NEA Service

When you're playing rubber bridge, the safety of your contract is your chief consideration. This caused Sterling Floyd, of Sarasota, Fla., to adopt a rather unusual line of play when he held the South cards in the hand shown today.

West opened the jack of diamonds, and Floyd saw at a glance that the contract depended on limiting the loss to three tricks in the black suits. This would be impossible if the cards were located in the worst possible way, but it was possible to provide against certain bad breaks.

With this thought in mind, South won the first trick with the ace of diamonds and immediately laid down the ace of spades. This happened to drop the king of spades, revealing the exact trump situation.

South hadn't expected this result, but he was providing against a doubleton king-jack in the West hand, among other distributions. If no high card had dropped on the ace of spades, he would get to

Building Has Best April In Two Years

The number of building permits issued during April by the City of Pampa and the estimated total evaluation show an increase over the last two Aprils — particularly over April, 1954.

Fifty-eight building permits were issued last month for construction, estimated at $319,440, records in the city department of public works indicate.

A year ago, in April, there were only 23 permits for a total of $87,975.25. In April 1953, however, it was 47 and $279,250.

The chief difference in the Aprils of the three years can be seen in the permits for new residences.

Twenty-two such permits were handed out by the department this April for an estimated construction cost of $242,750. In 1954, April saw but seven permits for new residences, totaling $73,025. The year before, there were 15 permits for $180,550.

There was one permit for a new business, another for a remodeled business and three for miscellaneous items in April 1955. Last year there were none for any of these three categories in the fourth month. In April, 1953, though, there was one new business, two remodeled businesses and four miscellaneous items.

Gauges, however, are one thing that seems to increase through the years. Two years ago, there was only one permit issued for a garage in April. A year later the total for April upped to four. And this April it was eight.

Unusual Sight

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — UP — A Milwaukee mechanic gave a few people something to think about the other day as he rode through the city in a Cadillac hearse. The impression he made wouldn't have been quite so startling if he hadn't been lying on the casket table listening for a squeak in the rear of the hearse.

dummy and lead a trump towards his queen as the best way of limiting the trump loss.

After the king of spades dropped, declarer realized that he would have to lose two trump tricks to East. It was therefore necessary to limit the club loss to one trick. After some thought, Floyd led a club towards dummy and put up the ace of clubs instead of trying a finesse.

This time the result was not so spectacular, since the king didn't drop. The fall of the jack was, however, eminently satisfactory.

Declarer could continue with the queen of clubs to knock out the king. It was then easy to continue with clubs, allowing East to take his own trump tricks whenever he liked.

Declarer would have lost his game contract if he had finessed the queen of spades on the first round of that suit. He would have lost to the king, and East would have won two additional trump tricks later on, as well as a club trick.

South might have lost his game contract likewise by misplaying the clubs. For example, if declarer decided to risk two finessses in clubs, he would have lost both of them. He couldn't protect himself against K-J-x of clubs in the East hand, but there was no need to lose two tricks to the K-J alone.

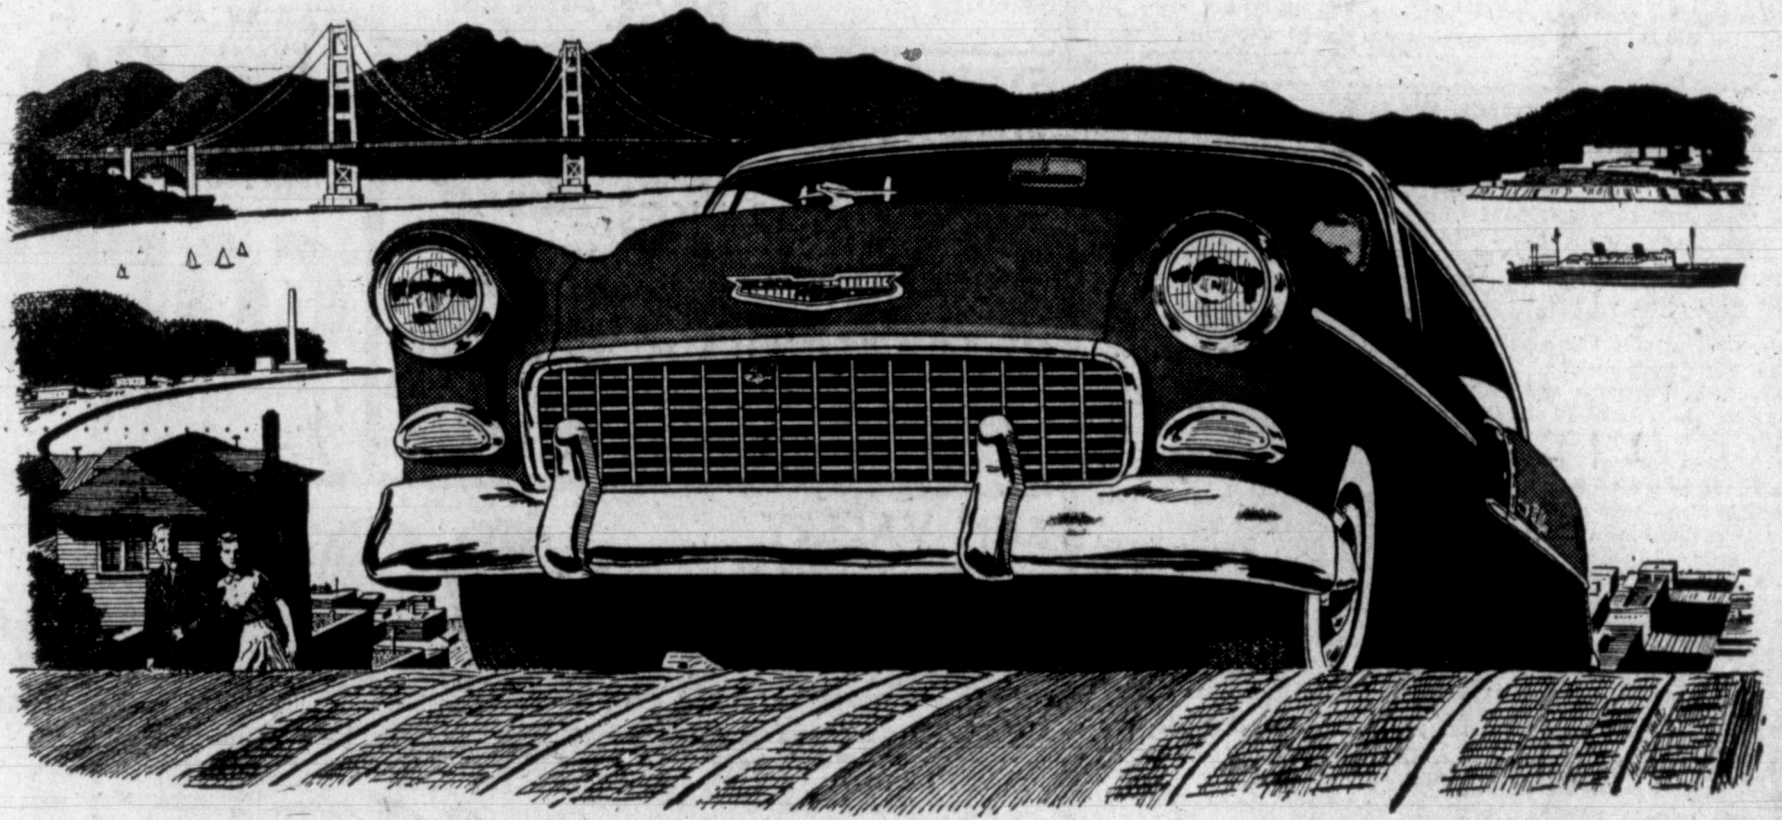

New Law Okays Longer Trailers

The Pampa Chamber of Commerce, which handles the licensing of trucks to operate inside the City of Pampa, today announced receipt of information from the Texas Highway Department about changes in the length of the vehicles.

According to a law passed by the 54th Texas Legislature, combinations of motor vehicles, commercial motor vehicles, truck tractors, trailers and semi-trailers can now be 50 feet in length — instead of the old 45 feet.

The act was signed by Gov. Allan Shivers and became effective April 21. Permit offices over the state were being notified today.

The letter notifying the local chamber was signed by D. C. Greer, state highway engineer, and J. A. Waller, chief engineer of maintenance operations.

Punch-line to the year's hottest power story—
Chevrolet "Turbo-Fire V8"!

This is the engine that's writing a whole new chapter in the book of automobile performance records. This is the engine that has stock car timers doing a "double take" at their stop-watches wherever experts gather to compare the abilities of the 1955 cars.

For example, in the recent NASCAR* stock car competition at Daytona Beach, Florida, Chevrolet literally ran away from every other car in its class—and a raft of others besides. In the one-mile straightaway run for low-priced cars, the first two places—and six of the first ten—went to Chevrolets. And in acceleration runs from a standing start against all comers, Chevrolet beat all other low-priced cars—and every high-priced car except one!

What's behind this blazing performance? A compact honey of a V8 that only the world's leading producer of valve-in-head engines can build. Chevrolet's new "Turbo-Fire V8" has the shortest piston stroke in the industry (that means less piston travel...longer engine life!) And it delivers the highest power per pound of any V8 in the low-priced field. It's so efficient that it requires only four quarts of oil instead of the usual five...needs less radiator coolant, too. It's the most modern V8 under anybody's hood!

It puts a new kind of fun in your driving life. You're in charge of 162 high-spirited horsepower—or if you're looking for even more excitement, the new "Super Turbo-Fire V8" (optional at extra cost) puts 180 h.p. under your toe!

Pick the one you'd rather have fun with, then come in and get behind the wheel. You'll see why the Motoramic Chevrolet is showing its heels to everyone else on the road!

No other low-priced car has any—no high-priced car has all—of these great Chevrolet features!

Body by Fisher—Nine engine-drive choices in any model—12-volt electrical system—Anti-Dive braking—Outrigger rear springs—Ball-Race steering—High-Level ventilation—Double-Arch cowl construction.

Combine your new Chevrolet purchase with your vacation plans! Order a new Chevrolet through us, then pick it up at the plant in Flint, Michigan, see Chevrolets built, if you like, and drive yours home. Chances are you'll save a substantial share of your vacation travel costs!

Senate OKs Ike's Foreign Trade Bill

WASHINGTON—UP—The Senate gave President Eisenhower a major legislative victory Wednesday night by approving his foreign trade program.

The Senate approved a compromise version of the foreign trade bill by a whopping 75 to 13 vote after three days of debate.

In the House, meanwhile, administration leaders claimed a good chance of defeating a Democratic bill which would kill the administration's flexible farm price support program and restore rigid high supports.

The amendment was expected to cut Democratic strength in the nip-and-tuck battle.

COMMUNIST COLONIALISM

"The empires of yesterday on which the sun never set are departing from Asia. What we have to fear now are the new, shadowy empires over which we know the sun never rises." So spoke the Philippines' Gen. Carlos P. Romulo in his historic blast against Communist imperialism at the recent Bandung conference of Afro-Asian nations. The map above shows how the Communist realm, starting with Russia during World War I, has expanded into a vast empire.

Usual Soviet Tactics Used In Austria Treaty Talks

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
 United Press Foreign Analyst
 Soviet Russia is pursuing its usual tactics in the Austrian treaty negotiations now being conducted in Vienna.

It is trying to include provisions which would keep Austria from being really independent.

It is trying to include an article which would permit it to get hold of the Iron Curtain refugees now being sheltered in Austria.

And naturally, it is trying also to extract the last possible dollar in economic concessions from Austria as the price of the treaty.

As the result, the negotiations which started off so smoothly on Monday have run into some snags.

Big Four May Decide
 It is probable that the disputed points will have to be left for decision by the Big Four foreign ministers.

Nevertheless, Allied diplomatic authorities seem convinced that the Kremlin is ready at last to sign the treaty restoring to Austria the sovereignty which it lost when Nazi Germany seized it in 1938.

It is reported that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles hopes the treaty may be signed in Vienna around the middle of this month. As has been pointed out, if Russia does agree to an acceptable treaty, it will be because of its acute anxiety over the prospect of West German rearmament.

Germans would be told that they, too, could have a treaty and get foreign occupation troops out of their country if they would refuse to rearm.

This appeal is strong. In the Vienna negotiations, the United States, British and French delegates must not only oppose the greediness of the Russians. They must guard against over-eagerness by the Austrians themselves to give the Russians concessions in order to get rid of the detested Red Army.

Snag over Refugees
 One snag in the Vienna negotiations concerns about 36,000 refugees from behind the Iron Curtain who are now in Austria. They include Russians, Poles, Czechoslovaks, Hungarians and Romanians. These people have escaped from Iron Curtain territory at risk of their lives. They are the fortunate ones. Thousands of others have been shot while trying to cross the border or have been killed by land mines planted along it.

Russia is trying to word the treaty so it could get all these people into its grip, to be tortured, enslaved or murdered.

A second snag concerns the size of the Austrian armed forces. Russia wants to limit the Austrian army to 53,000 men, and the air force to 5,000 men — with 90 planes.

Russia also, however, wants Austria to be completely neutral. An Army of 53,000 is hardly large enough to permit Austria to attempt to defend its neutrality. Further, this restriction would limit Austria's sovereignty.

Drug Discoveries In Past Would Have Helped Lincoln

By MERRIMAN SMITH
 WASHINGTON —UP— Backstairs at the White House: The Salk polio vaccine brings to mind the important that drug discoveries could have made in the lives of occupants of the White House in days past.

A pharmacist and editor of "The Prescriptionist," Edward P. Fleming, wrote recently and movingly: "To the couple looking down upon that small figure lying so still in the big bed, it must have seemed to have happened very quickly. The small boy coming in from the dreary rain, the next day the sore throat, then the horrible cough, the high fever, the succession of nurses and doctors, the never ending vigil by the bedside, the alternating hope and despair and, finally, the irrevocable end."

"Their son was dead. What mattered their position, their influence, their power, when all of it was unavailing to save their boy?"

"No ordinary couple were Abraham and Mary Lincoln, yet death had entered the White House as devastatingly as though it had been a hotel. Five dollars worth of antibiotics would have had Willie Lincoln playing out on the lawn within the week, but the word, "antibiotic" had not yet been coined. Of course, that was 90 years ago."

Pharmacist Fleming also points out: "Not so remote in time was the era of Calvin Coolidge, Junior. He had known automobiles from his earliest memories, he seldom glanced up when an airplane flew overhead, he enjoyed his radio as does every modern boy.

"Yet a heel was blistered on the tennis court, infection set in to be followed by the dread septicemia and once again death eluded every barrier to invade the White House and carry away a president's son. Two or three dozen sulfa tablets would have been an effective barrier, but the Coolidges knew no more of sulfa than did the Lincolns of anti-biotics."

Quite a reminder from Fleming. Possibly in similar knowledge, President Eisenhower has been indignant that no favors be granted, no privilege recognized but need in the distribution of the new polio vaccine.

This sort of history also may help to explain why the Eisenhower were so shocked and even indignant when they heard that someone was trying to spread a lie that their grandchildren were given favored treatment and received the Salk vaccine months before other children. It just didn't happen, nor was this ever requested.

Okla. City To Ration Water For 3rd Year

OKLAHOMA CITY —UP— Water rationing will go into effect in Oklahoma City next Tuesday for the second summer in three years.

An ordinance being drafted by attorneys Thursday would prohibit use of hoses or automatic sprinkling systems on lawns or shrubbery; use of water for washing cars; and use of water for air conditioners or swimming pools unless re-circulating equipment is used.

All "wasteful" uses of water would be banned, as in 1953, when rationing last was in force under similar emergency circumstances.

The city council Tuesday ordered attorneys to prepare an ordinance similar to one used two years ago. City Water Superintendent M. B. Cunningham told the council 20 wells now are being used to augment reservoirs, and more wells are tapped as needed. These included seven deep wells recently completed under a $2 million emergency program.

Grace Tully Knew FDR Well As Any Member Of Family

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
 WASHINGTON —UP— Grace Tully knew the late Franklin Delano Roosevelt almost as well as a member of the family.

During the four years Mr. Roosevelt was governor of New York and all of his years as president, 1932 to 1945, she was his private secretary.

She likes to tell the story, never published, about the time her boss received a shipment of oysters from a dear friend.

There was a rule in the White House then, and there is still, I suppose, that everything the President eats must be looked over for bugs and other things that might do him in.

Mr. Roosevelt demanded that he have a few bites of the oysters without delay. He was told that, according to the White House ground rules, the delay might run into considerable time.

Something of a Rage
 "The boss," Grace told me during an interview, "was in something resembling a rage. He commanded that Harry Hopkins, his assistant, and I run down to the main kitchen in the White House and sample the oysters."

"I want some — right now," Mr. Roosevelt told her.

FDR was a firm man, one to be obeyed, without delay.

"Grace," he said to me, "you and Harry try those oysters for me — miserably. If you are still alive in two hours, I want a big bowl of oysters on the half-shell, and another big silver bowl of oyster stew and dessert. And keep some back for seconds on both orders."

Grace and Harry Hopkins survived the ordeal, and Mr. Roosevelt got a tummy full of one of his favorite dishes.

But mostly this is a story about the lovely little white-haired lady named Grace Tully, who has served the Democratic party well for more years than she would like to admit. She once worked for Averell Harriman, now the governor of New York.

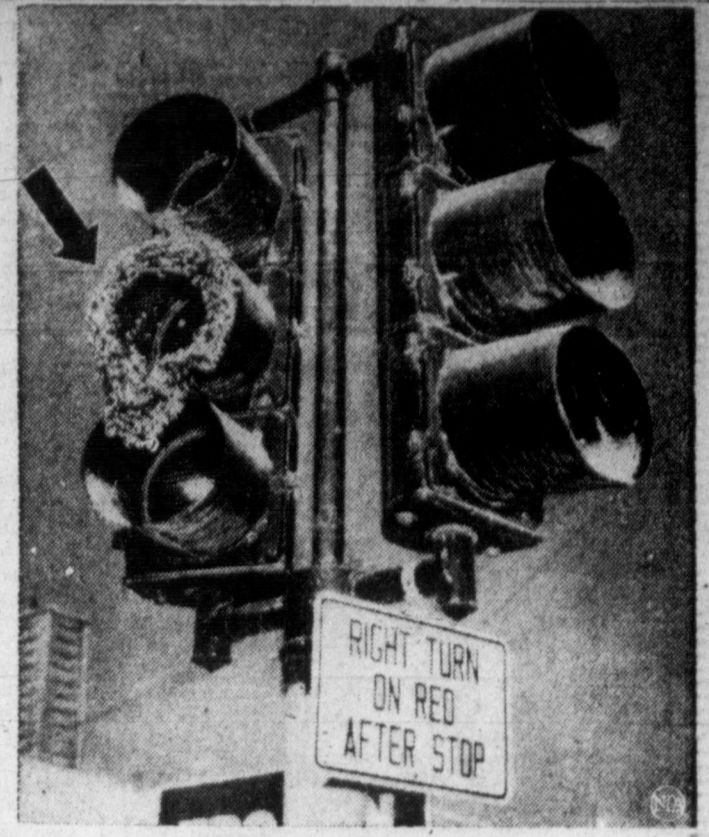

Former Treasurer On Cowboy Staff

TOPEKA, Kan. —UP— Mrs. Georgia Neese Clark Gray, former treasurer of the United States, took office Thursday as vice-chairman of the "Cowboy Capital of the World in Dodge City."

Part of her duties will be as co-chairman of a drive to raise funds for the newborn organization. The other co-chairman is Willard Mayberry, Elkhart, Kan., publisher.

The board of directors of the organization met Wednesday in Topeka and elected Mrs. Gray and three other officers.

William Weigand of Lacrosse, Kan., was elected chairman, Z. Arthur Nevins, of Dodge City, Kan., treasurer, and Gray Graham, of Dodge City, executive director.

CAUTION, AND HOW!
 Swarming bees on the yellow sector of an El Centro, Calif., traffic light emphasized "caution" to everyone approaching. The bees were attracted by the light and built the "beard" (arrow). They left only when removed by hand into a cardboard box by Morgan Short, a Calipatria farmer who happened to be passing.

THIS IS THE DAY FOR CAKES, it seems. For an easy-to-make, never-fail white cake, see "This Is My Dish." And here is a burnt sugar cake recipe from Mrs. Walter Purviance, which she says almost never is a failure.

BURNT SUGAR CAKE
1/2 cup shortening
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 egg yolks
1 tsp. vanilla
2 1/2 cups cake flour
1/2 tsp. salt
2 1/2 cups baking powder
2 1/2 cups water or skimmed milk
3 Tbsp. burnt sugar
2 stiffly beaten eggs
Cream shortening and sugar.
Add egg yolks and vanilla. Beat until fluffy. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with water. Add burnt sugar and fold in egg whites. Bake in two layers.

BURNT SUGAR
Melt 1/2 cup sugar in heavy skillet or pan over low heat. Remove from heat and add 1/2 cup boiling water. Frost with burnt sugar icing.

'MEAL TIME IS FAMILY'

RUTH MILLET

For some time I've been wondering if at least part of the time the average housewife spends trying to stay young by going to beauty shops, patting in face creams, etc., might not be better spent on some kind of physical exercise.

With that idea in mind I visited an exercise class the other day. This class has been running for years as a city recreation department's answer to woman's eternal effort to stay young.

The experience was eye-opening. Before even asking members of the class how long they had been going to this daily, half-hour exercise class, I could spot the long-time regulars without a ny trouble at all.

The hair of a "regular" might be gray and the years might have left their mark in deepened lines around the mouth and eyes.

But to the last one the regulars all had one thing in common — they stood and walked young and there was no housewife's spread about their middles, no thick arms or heavy thighs. And, furthermore, they moved with a grace and ease the newcomers to the class — whatever their age — usually lacked.

In short, these women who through exercise had been faithful about keeping their bodies trim and supple through the years had done more to keep the appearance of youth than any amount of money spent on facials, clothes, hair dyes, etc., could have bought them.

Come to think of it, when you see a man who obviously looks younger than his wife, you usually find out that he has remained far more physically active than she through the years.

Regular exercise is something that women who want to stay young looking as long as possible — and what woman doesn't — ought to give some consideration.

TIME, the slogan for Nutrition Week (May 1 to 7), could be the keynote for nutrition education everywhere. This slogan calls to mind meals made more delicious when the whole family shares in the plans for them... the melody lingering on in happy family gatherings around the dining table even after the last crumb is cleared away. And when each family member enjoys a variety of foods carefully and lovingly prepared, good food and good nutrition go hand in hand.

Nutrition Week's emphasis on food as it relates to health gains staunch support from recent research not only for the first week in May but for every week in the year. In Toronto Dr. Charles Best and his associates, in investigations sponsored by The Nutrition Foundation, found that injuries to delicate cells and body tissues as a result of faulty diets are not completely corrected by returning to a good diet, as was formerly thought. There is normally a great capacity for restoring injured tissue, but this newer evidence points to limitations in the process of repair. The Toronto group points out the close association between transitory deposits of fat in the tissues and later failure to retain health, thus emphasizing the importance of good nutrition every day in the year and throughout life.

A plan by which the homemaker can provide good eating and good nutrition for her family is as easy as counting from one to five on the fingers of one hand. Each member of her family receives a healthy diet when served a variety of foods daily from each of these five groups: (1) Milk and other dairy products, especially for the youngsters; (2) Meats, fish, poultry, or eggs; (3) Enriched or whole grain breads and fortified cereals; (4) Citrus fruit or juices or tomatoes, plus one or two servings of other fruits; (5) One serving of leafy green or yellow vegetables, plus one or two servings of other vegetables, including potato, together with a moderate use of spreads, fats, sugars, dressings, and desserts to round out a good meal and control body weight.

With this plan for good nutrition at her finger tips, the homemaker can provide her family with foods for energy, building and repair of tissues, plus minerals and vitamins, all essential for glowing health.

Cook's Nook

By GAYNOR MADDX
NEA Food and Markets Editor
Most San Franciscans have a flair for cooking sea food. We asked Mrs. Drew Chidester, who lives on Russian Hill overlooking the bay, to give us two of her appetizing recipes. She uses fillets of lingcod, sole and other West Coast fish, but any white-meat fish fillets found in other parts of the country may be used.

Fish in Sour Cream
(Makes 4 to 6 servings)
Two pounds frozen fish fillets, 1/2 green pepper, finely chopped, 1 cup thick sour cream, 1/2 medium-sized onion, thinly sliced, 1/2 teaspoon salt, dash pepper.

Let fillets thaw on refrigerator shelf or at room temperature. Mix green pepper with sour cream. Place onion slices on bottom of buttered casserole and top with fillets. Season with salt and pepper. Bake for 15 minutes at 425 degrees F. or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Remove fish from oven. Preheat broiler. Spread sour cream over fish and place under broiler 3 inches from heat for 5 minutes, or until top of dish is lightly browned.

Fish Mariposa
(Makes 8 or 9 servings)
Three pounds fish fillets, 1/2 teaspoon salt, dash pepper, 2 egg whites, 1 cup mayonnaise, 1/4 cup grated cheese.

Jelly Sauce For Beef
Currant Jelly Sauce is excellent to serve with roast beef. Melt 1/2 cup of currant jelly and add 1 tablespoon of finely-chopped hatched almonds and 1 tablespoon of grated horseradish.

Seasoning Tips For Ground Meat
Use a light touch when you season your ground meat dishes. A good rule to follow is to use 1/4 teaspoon of the stronger seasonings and 1/2 teaspoon of the milder ones per pound of ground meat.

PICTURE NEWS

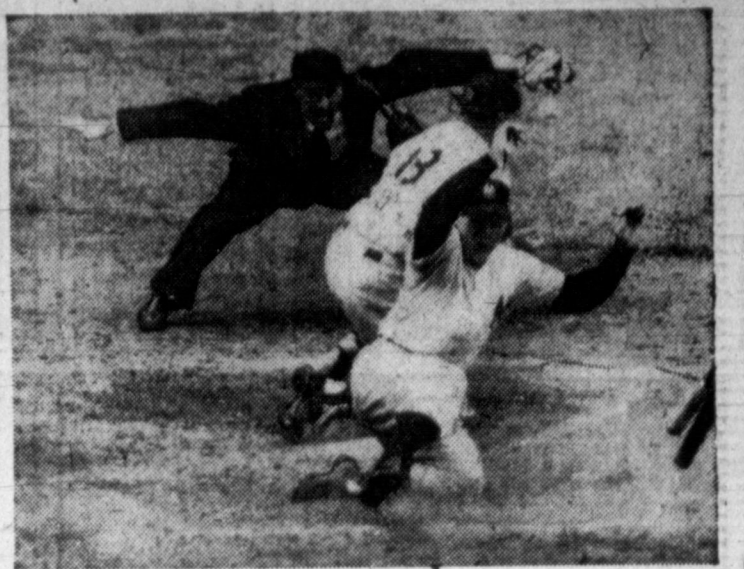

AROUND THE SPORTS WORLD

FOR THE KIDS—Former New York Yankee pitcher Allie Reynolds is demonstrating some of the finer points of the national pastime to a group of boys on his new TV show in Oklahoma City, Okla. The show is an extra-curricular activity to the former star's full-time occupation as an oil company executive in his native state.

DOINGS IN SINGAPORE—Three local gals over there are water skiing—the latest sports craze in Singapore. The sport has been given a head start with the formation of a 40-member water ski club that gets out on the water every weekend.

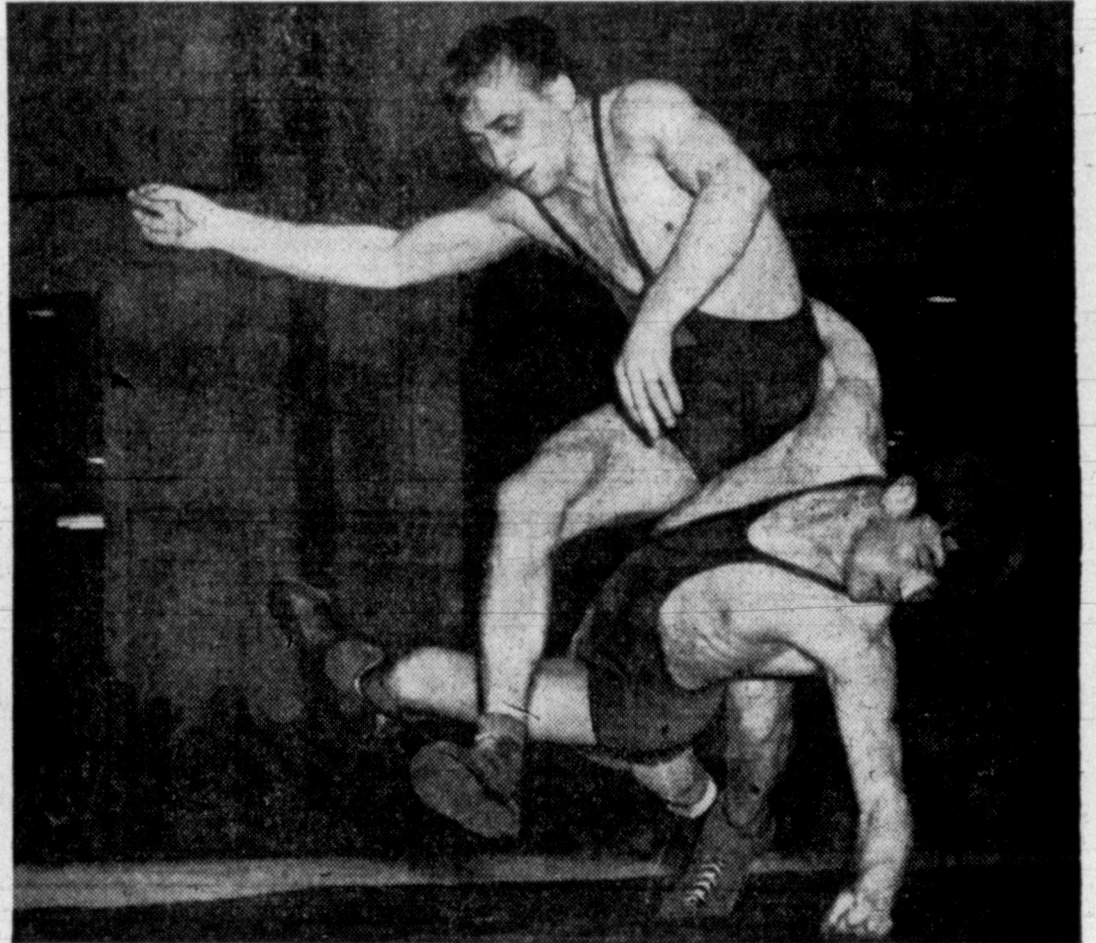

THE WINNER!—Tony Trabert swings for a smash during the final round of the River Oaks Tennis Tournament at Houston, Tex. Trabert won his ninth straight tournament title by defeating U.S. Singles champion Vic Seixas in straight sets, 6-0, 6-1 and 6-4, to clinch the crown.

MATCHED—The trim blazer, long a sports favorite, and Bermuda shorts, which grow in popularity every season, are teamed for smart appearance at playtime. They're done in handsome oxford gray British flannel, and the outfit is spiced by white piping and white buttons. It's both stylish and comfortable.

SENSE OF STYLE—This very young lady in Pinehurst, N. C., already knows the value of a hat box; when it's empty, it can be used to store a dress, of course. She's Leslie Dickson, of Devon, Pa., and the two-year-old miss won first prize at Pinehurst's annual costume horse show.

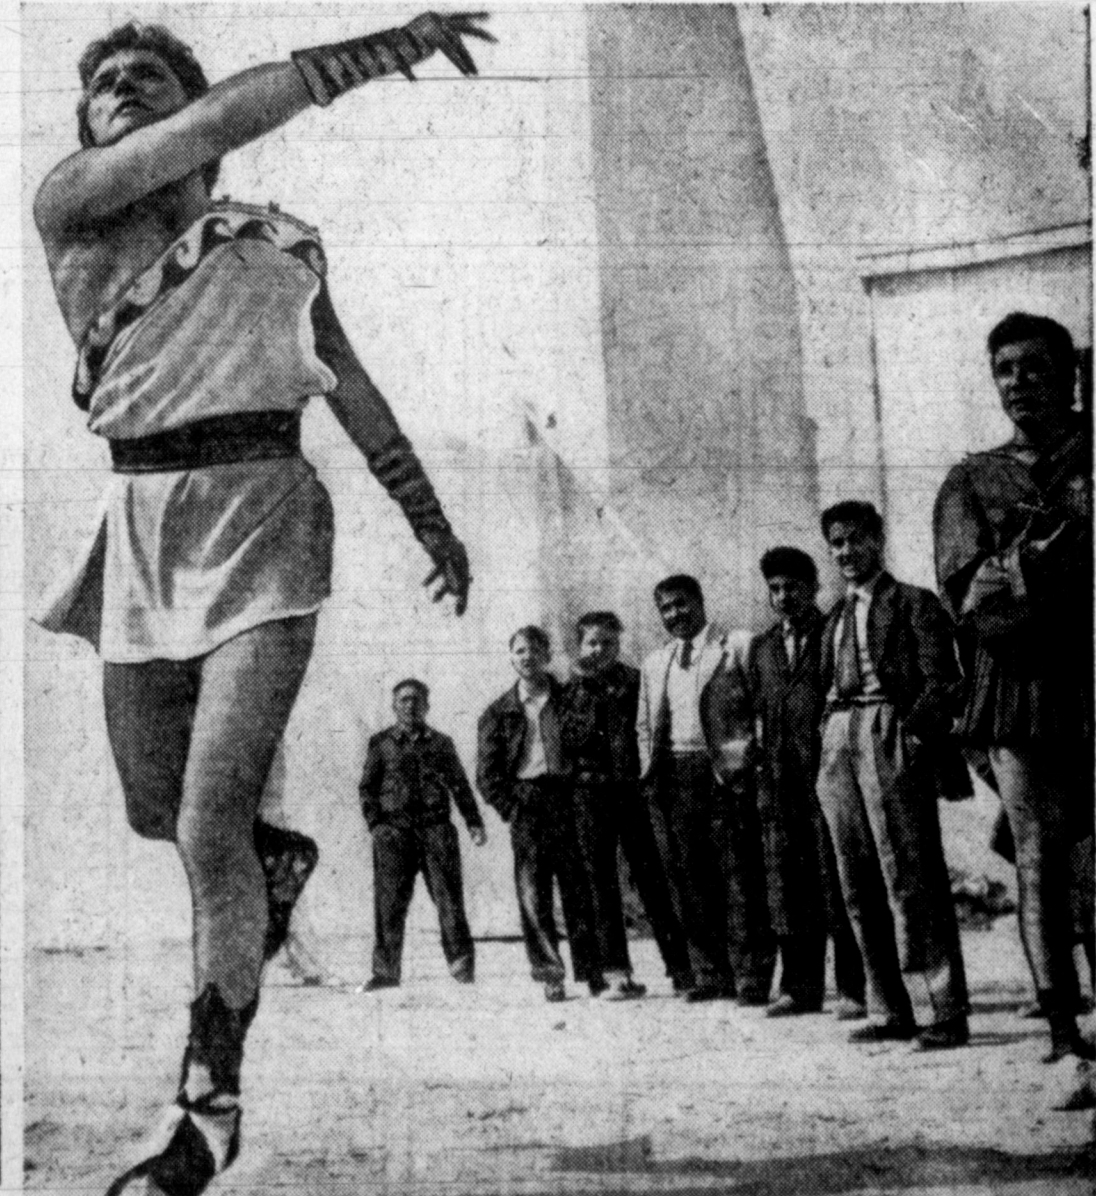

DOWN HE GOES—Sweden's Edvon Westerby, top, tangled with Russia's Vladimir Stachovich in a bantamweight wrestling match at Karlsruhe, Germany. The Russian won on points, 3-0, on opening night of the 1955 World Wrestling Championships.

HERE'S HOW!—Because of the presence of U.S. troops in France, American football is becoming popular over there. Lacy Huffman, of Richmond, Va., is demonstrating how to place a good, hard tackle to a group of players of the Celtic Football Club in Choisy-Le-Roi. U.S. trainer Donald Hare, of Baltimore, holds the practice bag for Huffman.

SAFE AND SEINE CRAFT—Springtime in Paris finds a young couple taking to water like ducks in an inflated rubber two-seater craft. They had a bit of trouble getting the paddles co-ordinated, but they made it under that last bridge and haven't had an upset so far on the Seine River.

DISCUS JOCKEY—Modern Spaniards and "ancient Greeks" formed the crowd watching actor Richard Burton practice discus-throwing for a scene in the movie, "Alexander the Great." Burton plays the title role in the picture which was filmed in Spain. This practice session took place in Madrid where the star's strenuous activity was thoroughly appraised.

Atomic Weapons Make Big Airfields Obsolete

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Atomic weapons have made airfields obsolete.

As a result, the three services are spending huge sums on scores of rush projects to try to lick this military enigma.

The problem has been building up ever since the strategists realized that maximum dispersal of troops, ships and supplies was the fundamental approach to defense in an atomic war.

But the need for longer runways for jets, increased complexity of air bases and the greater integration of air units into all military operations have reversed efforts to disperse air power.

As it stands, if war should come now, airfields would be prime, vulnerable targets for enemy A-bombs, with the grave danger that U.S. forces might quickly lose their vital air support.

Here are some of the most important projects aimed at making air power more dispersible:

The Glenn L. Martin Company has developed a "zero-length" launching device for the Air Force which permits a piloted F-84 jet fighter to get into the air from the back of a truck. The plane's engine is run up to full speed and a rocket "booster" gives it enough added kick to get it into the air.

There is still the problem of getting the plane back down at the forward area. But being shot into the air at the front has these advantages: more time over targets, a chance to fly to a base further in the rear, and the need for a shorter runway because the fuel and bomb loads are less for landing.

Getting the planes to the front, of course, is a major problem of logistics which reduces the advantage of the zero-launching concept.

Efforts toward reducing lengths of air strips the Air Force is conducting tests with "arresting gear" such as huge chains which will reduce a plane's runway needs.

The new Fairchild C-123 transport, which is now being delivered to Air Force troop carrier units, are part of this effort to eliminate airfields. They can be landed on fairly rough, open terrain.

The big hope of the Air Force, however, is a jet-powered vertical take-off plane, a project under heavy security wraps. The Navy is already flying two types of VTO planes. But they are propeller-powered. And Air Force experts believe that only jet planes can defend themselves and carry out missions against enemy jets.

It's obvious that VTO jets would permit maximum dispersion of air units in a battle area and eliminate the need for a landing field. In addition to its VTO projects the Navy is improving its catapult devices and carrier landing techniques, which can be used by the Air Force and Marines for forward operations.

One of these projects is known as the "flex-deck." The deck consists of a gigantic inflated rubber mat. The plane lands on it with wheels up or with no landing gear at all.

The idea is being tested at Patuxent, Md., the Navy's experimental base. It's a technique first developed by the British, and used on a carrier. A plane approaches, with a trailing hook. The hook catches a cable at the end of the deck and the cable plays out on a hydraulic drum. The plane bounces and skids to a stop.

Although developed for carriers, the flex-deck now appears to have more benefits for the Marines and Air Force.

The flex-deck would require a minimum of ground preparation and could be inflated in a short time to receive planes.

The Army's answers to the obsolescence of air fields in an atomic war are convertible planes and helicopters. It has purchased and financed more helicopters — six types are in use and eight types are being developed — than the other services in an attempt to get greater air mobility for its troops.

And it has invested heavily in models and designs of convertible planes which fly straight up and down, and forward at speeds close to those of conventional planes. It has two models, the McDonnell SV-1 and Bell XV-3, in advance testing.

As one Air Force expert sums it up: "Within the next 10 or 15 years, military aviation people will be able to build waxing so much time building airfields and concentrate on building airplanes."

Loans Asked For Uranium Set Record

WASHINGTON —UP— Interior Secretary Douglas McKay Thursday reported a record number of applications for government aid in financing uranium prospecting projects.

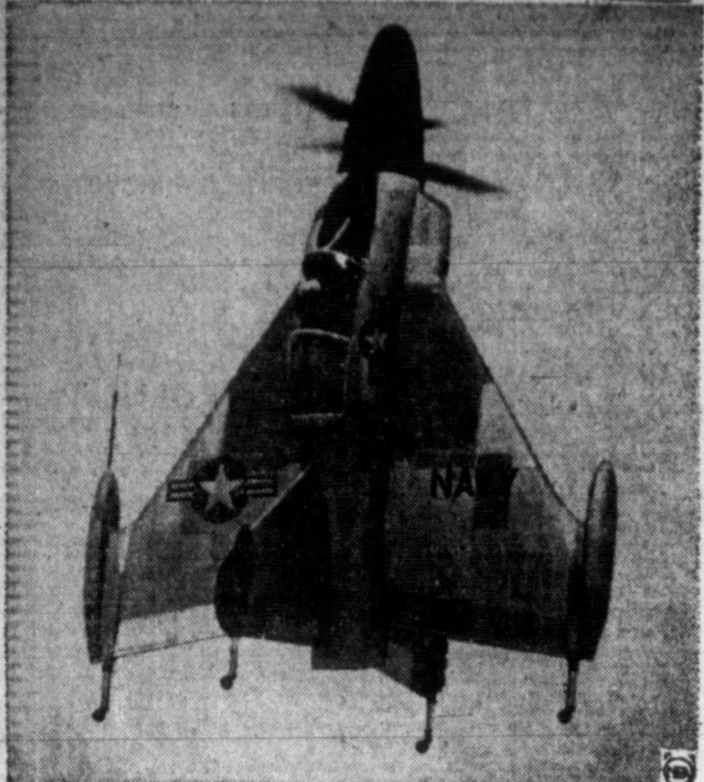

In the three months ended March 31, he said, the Defense Minerals Exploration administration received 117 new applications, 59 of which proposed uranium projects. The number of uranium applications is 50 per cent higher than those received during the last three months of 1954.

McKay said estimated cost of the proposed uranium projects amounted to $5,320,000 for the first three months of this year compared to $440,000 for the first three months of 1954.

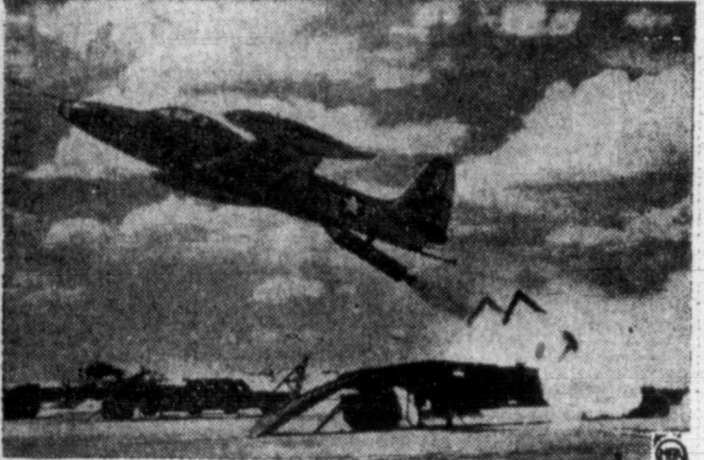

The 117 minerals applications received during January, February and March proposed projects in 13 states. They ranged from a $2,280 mica project in North Carolina to a $923,600 uranium project in Utah.

Canopy Claim

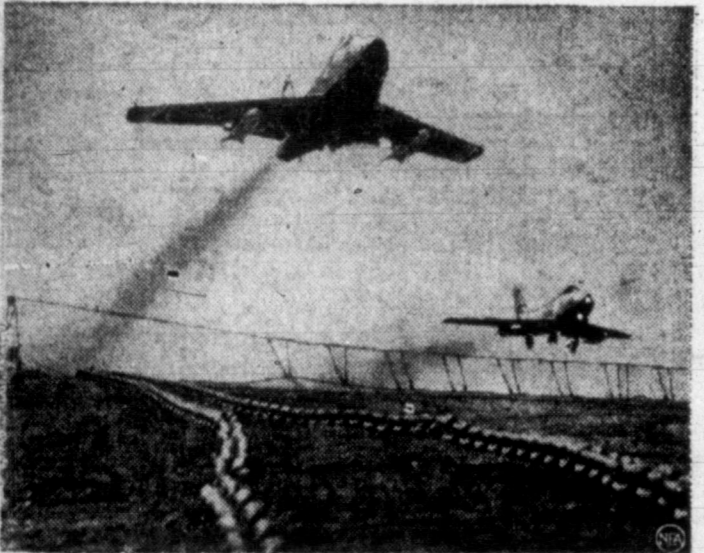

CHICAGO —UP— The Sherman Hotel is building a canopy which it says will be the largest ever built. Located on a Loop corner, it will extend 260 feet in one direction and 200 in another at a height of 16 feet. There will be 6,000 feet of fluorescent lighting in the installation.

VERTICAL TAKE OFF -- This new plane needs no air field at all. This Navy model is a prop job, but the Air Force is working on a jet VTO

ZERO LENGTH LAUNCHER -- The Air Force has developed a new launch which hurls F-84 jet into the air from back of a truck, eliminating runway.

ARRESTING GEAR DEVICES -- Nylon ropes stretch across runway cut down on distance needed for landing. Heavy chains provide drag.

Green's Slayer May Have Been Wounded

FORT WORTH —UP— There were indications Thursday that one of the hoodlums who shot and fatally wounded Cecil Green may have been wounded himself by shots fired by Green's companion on the fatal night.

Chief of Police Earl Barrow of Sanson Park, the Fort Worth suburb in which Green was shot, said Leroy (Tincy) Eggleston may have winged one of the killers. He said two trails of blood led away from the scene of the shooting.

One was made by a boy who cut his foot and left a trail as he hobbled home. But Barrow wasn't able to account for the second trail of blood.

"Tincy may have winged one of the men," he said. "Then the man later may have run to a getaway car near the highway. That would account for the second bloody trail."

"Sheriff Harlan Wright said, meantime, that the assassination of Green may be part of an underworld struggle for control of prostitution in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

Wright said police have received reports that Green and Eggleston were feuding with a group of Dallas hoodlums over control of organized prostitution.

Edell Evans, an ex-convict who ran a call girl racket from his home in suburban Richland Hills, disappeared last month after telling a maid he was leaving "to meet Cecil." His blood-soaked car was later found, but he was not.

Green was cut down by three, possibly four, professional killers as he drove his air-conditioned, green Cadillac into a gangland trap Monday night. He died Tuesday.

Railroad Girl WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass. —UP— Lorraine Tatro is known as the "girl in the window" by her railroad friends. Lorraine has been an invalid from birth and her day is brightened by waving to the crews as Boston & Maine trains pass by.

Clarke School for the Deaf at Northampton, Mass., and New York City's Lexington School for the Deaf, both founded in 1867, started the movement in America to teach deaf children to speak and read lips.

Officer's Child Is Polio Victim

SHREVEPORT, La. —UP— Rebecca Daniels, 2, the daughter of Lt. J. and Mrs. Raymond M. Daniels of Sherman, Tex., was hospitalized with polio Wednesday at Barkdale Air Force Base.

Rebecca was the base's ninth polio victim of the year. Doctors said she is suffering from acute spinal polio. She was transferred later to the Confederate Memorial hospital in Shreveport.

She was not injected with any polio vaccine. Her case was the 11th of the year in Bossier parish, which includes Barkdale Field.

Bathing Traces Back To Earliest Cultures

Bathing is an art as old as civilization itself, says the Plumbing Fixture Manufacturers Association. Its popularity has been traced back to the earliest beginnings of civilization.

In China, bathing is thought to have been in vogue some 7,000 years ago or more.

As far back as 5,000 years ago, King Urimmar of Babylon saw the necessity of frequent bathing. His palace at Ashunnak was equipped with a 15 by 15 foot bathroom.

Since bathtubs were unknown in those days, bathing consisted of a shower. Urimmar stood in the center of the room while servants threw water over him. Clay drainage pipes in the floor carried the water off.

The earliest traces of a bathtub were discovered in ruins left by the Romans. Roman bathtubs were elaborate affairs. Carved from solid marble, they were decorated with embellishments on their sides. Accessories and fittings were of solid silver and sometimes gold.

Early American bathtubs were not so plush. Some were hollowed out of logs. In many cases a carpenter built a cabinet and a plumber or tinsmith lined it with brazed or soldered metal.

Some early tubs doubled as pieces of furniture such as the sofa-bed does today. Others were of the folding type and when not in use folded up against the wall like a folding bed.

It was about 1870 that the first enameled iron bathtub was produced in America. The tub was heated to a cherry-red after which enamel, in the form of a powder, was applied to the hot metal. The extreme temperature induced the
