HOWARD COUNTY TOTAL 22,889

Federal Highway Engineer Is Fatally Injured At Austin MAN HELD IN SPARENBERG KILLING

HOME TOWN TALK

By Beddy
HOWARD COUNTY, 22,889.

Supervisor Beard's report of Saturday, fixing that figure as the 1930 population of this county is especially interesting because it shows rural population has increased more rapidly, in proportion to the 1920 total of city and rural inhabitants, than has the population of the city of Big Spring.

The city's 1930 figure, 13,731, is 32% per cent greater than that of 1920. Howard county had 6,962 inhabitants in 1920, of which 4,278 were inside the Big Spring city limits, leaving a total of 2,689 outside the city.

The 1920 population 22,889, is distributed 13,731 in the city and 9,158 outside.

While city population increased at the rate of 321 per cent that outside the city limits hopped ahead at a 340 per cent clip.

PRESENT population of the county is greater than that listed in 1920 for any West Texas county with the exceptions of Taylor, which had 24,081, and Eastland, with an oil boom and 58,505. Eastland, still one of the most densely populated counties west of Fort Worth, has dropped off considerably. Taylor has 40,000. Tom Green, which had 15,210 in 1920, has more than 36,000. Potter, with but 16,710 ten years ago, now has 43,000 in the city of Amarillo alone. Lubbock county had 11,098 in 1920 but the city of Lubbock itself has 20,015 now. Jones county has dropped behind Howard this year, having lost a few hundred of the 22,323 listed in 1920.

Which all goes to show that Howard county's growth has been balanced, in the smaller towns, the larger town and the rural sections.

The question already is asked: what will be the 1940 population?

Is there any reason to predict the city of Big Spring, with 13,731, or more than 3,000 more than Abilene or San Angelo had in 1920 will not gain as much in the next ten years as did those cities in the

WILL FRITTS TAKES ISSUE WITH WITNESS

EASTLAND, Tex., May 24 (AP)—Will Fritts, on trial for the slaying of Earl Hamilton, 17-year-old witness against him in a liquor trial, roused himself from his lethargy today long enough to challenge a state witness.

The witness had described a scene in the Anson county jail when Fritts simulated an attempt to hang himself and was cut down by the jailer. Another person present, the witness said, had warned him he had better not try that in the Haskell jail.

"No," the witness quoted Fritts as saying, "You'd let me hang until I died."

At this point, Fritts raised himself from his chair and said the witness was not telling the truth.

The exchange broke a monotonous parade of witnesses by which the defense sought to establish a plea of insanity and the state to break it down. Sixty of 150 witnesses had testified when court recessed late today until Monday morning.

Fritts was alleged to have shot Hamilton at Hamilton's home where he went to ask Hamilton whether the boy had said he purchased liquor from Fritts.

RETURN TO LAMESA IS DEFERRED

Seven Officers May Get Shares Of Large Reward Fund

DALLAS, Tex., May 24 (AP)—Captured by seven peace officers who surrounded a farmhouse near Athens, Henderson county, Ira McKee was held in the Dallas county jail today awaiting return to Lamesa to face charges of murder there in the death of W. R. Billingsley, merchant of Sparenburg, Dawson county.

Killed May 1
Billingsley was killed May 1 as he attempted to frustrate a robbery opposite his place of business at a filling station. He was shot three times by the robber, who drove away with $2.70 obtained in the holdup.

McKee was hunted throughout West Texas and narrowly escaped capture in a gun fight with officers at Ranger a few days later. Seven officers participated in the capture of McKee yesterday.

Deputy O. B. Conley of Lubbock, Police Chief Tom Able of Slaton, Deputy A. M. Bennett, Lamesa, Sheriff Gib Abernathy of Palo Pinto county, Sheriff C. C. Pharris of Henderson county, and Ranger Sergeant J. W. Smith and Ranger W. E. Young.

Rewards totaling nearly $1,000 were posted by Governor Dan Moody and Dawson county citizens for McKee's arrest. Deputies Bennett and Conley said they believed the amount should be divided among the seven officers.

Officers said McKee would not be returned to Lamesa at this time because of public feeling in that county.

Interviewed here last night by a Dallas News reporter, McKee said he took part in the gun battle at Ranger, but denied he participated in the Dawson county shooting in which Billingsley was killed. He exhibited an indentation in his skull which he said was inflicted when a fellow prisoner struck him with an iron bar while he was serving a term in the penitentiary for manslaughter. He claimed he had suffered mental trouble since this attack.

SEATING OF BLANTON TO BE OPPOSED

Michigan Representative Demands Credentials Be Given

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP)—Notice was served on Thomas L. Blanton, representative-elect from the 17th Texas district, today that any effort to take his seat without presenting election credentials to the house would be opposed by the Michigan representative.

Blanton said he hoped to prevent the seating of the Texan until the regular December session.

Unanimous consent was sought by Representative Garner of Texas, the minority leader, to have Blanton take the oath without presenting a certificate of election. Speaker Pro-Tem Snell of New York said he doubted his authority to administer the oath and asked that the request be submitted Monday with Speaker Longworth in the chair.

Blanton of Abilene defeated Mrs. R. Q. Lee of Cisco at a special election May 20 to fill the vacancy created by the death of her husband. For six terms Blanton represented the district, retiring March 4, 1929, after his defeat in the race for senator.

Clancy was on his feet ready to object when Garner's request for unanimous consent to seat Blanton was made.

"My understanding," he said, "is that the Texas law provides that a certificate of election for representatives in congress shall not be furnished by the governor and the secretary of state under thirty days after election. Mr. Blanton was elected into a vacancy on May 20th and therefore will not be eligible to his seat until June 20th."

Clancy said that on Monday "if Mr. Blanton presents himself before Speaker Longworth, as was announced Saturday, I will be ready to object to the unanimous consent motion to allow him to

He was driving alone at a high speed and the car turned over on a curve.

MARTIAL LAW LIFTED; TRIAL DATE NOT SET

SHERMAN, Tex., May 24 (AP)—A 14-day military rule in Sherman ended today when Col. L. E. McGee of the Texas National Guard turned over to Major Dupont B. Lyon, director of public safety, the duties of keeping the peace.

Transferring of authorities from military to civil authorities was without incident. Martial law was lifted officially at noon as decreed by Gov. Dan Moody in a proclamation issued yesterday.

Martial law was declared May 10 after a day and night of rioting in which a mob burned the Grayson worth of machinery and equipment which is arriving in Big Spring daily.

'MA' ENTERS RACE WITH STATEMENT

'Differs' With Jim On Pro Laws; Other Entrants At Work

AUSTIN, May 24 (AP)—Adopting the platform of her husband, held ineligible to hold office by the supreme court, Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, wife of former Governor James E. Ferguson, today formally announced her candidacy for governor.

She announced she would accept her husband's platform "with only one change."

"Instead of promising to veto all liquor legislation as he promised to do, I want to strengthen our liquor laws and see if some improvement cannot be made in their enforcement," she said. "We who have been prohibitionists all these years have suffered much discouragement recently, and I want to see one honest effort made to outlaw the liquor traffic before we give up the struggle."

Mrs. Ferguson served as governor from 1925 to 1927, having been defeated for reelection by Governor

TWO VIEWS OF OIL INDUSTRY'S ILLS ARE GIVEN

TULSA, Okla., May 24 (AP)—Divergent views of two leaders of the petroleum industry today were before oil men gathered here for the annual convention of the Mid Continent Oil Scouts' and Land Men's Association and the annual spring meeting of the mid continent section, American Petroleum Institute's division of production.

The views were those of E. B. Reeser, president of the American Petroleum Institute and the Barnsdall Corporation, and Wirt Franklin, independent operator, who heads the Independent Petroleum Association of America.

Speaking before the scouts last night, Reeser cited statistics show-

FLOOD AREA CHANGES AT SHREVEPORT

Overflows Shift To Red River And Lower Bossier

SHREVEPORT, La., May 24 (AP)—Pressure of flood waters was moving out of the Shreveport area today and was carrying its destructive overflows to Red River parish and lower Bossier.

During the 24-hour period ending at 7 a. m. Saturday, the Red River rose only eight tenths of a foot at Shreveport, standing at 35.2 feet, 3.8 feet under flood stage. The slower rise cheered levee workers, who now believe the main levees will hold.

Farther to the east, the Ouachita river started rising today in its headwaters and the flood stage of 40 feet was predicted for Monroe, La., between June 5 and 8. Over in the Mississippi delta, residents were fighting the worst mosquito epidemic known in a generation due to the thousands of inundated acres.

The improved situation in the weak levee at Shreve Island, just south of the city of Shreveport, caused the movement of part of the gangs to another point two miles south, where the embankment was reported caving off.

Water was flowing over the levee on the Bossier parish side, covering large areas of pasture and timber lands. Workers were sand-bagging the levee at Gilmer's Point, where water was leaking over rich farm lands.

The peak was believed reached in the backwater from the bayous to the north of Shreveport. Hundreds of acres have been flooded and have reached the low areas outside of the city and backed into a negro settlement, forcing evacuation. Part of the new municipal golf course was under water. The city proper stands on high ridges and is in no danger.

The Louisiana highway commission ordered several highways closed and on Route No. 80, between Minden and Shreveport, light traffic only was allowed every two hours.

Officials here pointed out that the field was public property and that the Zeppelin officers were not allowed to charge admission at Lakehurst, N. J., or other government fields.

Tonight, however, Doctor Ecker, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, was permitted to land at Lakehurst, N. J., and other government fields.

1930 TOTAL 3.40 HIGHER THAN IN '20

Average Grows From 7.87 To 25.75 Per Square Mile

Population of Howard county is 22,889, the district supervisor of the federal census announced yesterday.

This figure represents a growth of 340 per cent compared with the 1920 population, 6,962.

Population of the city of Big Spring, announced Wednesday, is 13,731, or 321 per cent increase since 1920.

Rate of growth in the county outside Big Spring limits during the decade was 328 per cent, indicating balance between the rate of growth in the rural and urban districts.

The 1920 population of square mile was 7.87. This increased during the ten years to 25.75 for each of the 891 square miles within the county.

Howard county in 1910 had 8,888 inhabitants and in 1900 it was 2,023. The 1930 population is 900 per cent greater than that of thirty years ago, an average annual growth of 30 per cent.

Population of the city of Big Spring lacks but 193 of being twice as large as that of the entire county in 1920.

Population outside the city limits ten years ago was 2,689, compared with 9,158 in the same area this year. Number of farms in the county is 1,196.

Population of the city in 1920 was 4,273.

LAMESA, May 24.—Dawson county, outside of Lamesa, has a population of 10,004, census figures for 1930 just released, reveal. With Lamesa's population of 3,486, the county shows a total of 13,490 inhabitants.

The census also recorded that the county now has a total of 2,303 farms.

These figures show a 200 per cent increase for the city of Lamesa.

ZEPPELIN MAY NOT LAND AT CAPITAL CITY

RIO JANEIRO, May 25 (AP)—The Graf Zeppelin at 1:55 a. m. (10:55 p. m. c. s. t.) passed 30 miles off the coast from here, flying high and in the direction of Santos.

Announcement from the ship said that after reaching Rio Janeiro it would continue on the Parana, state of Parana, returning here later in the morning to land.

Several hundred persons expecting to view the airship at Campo Dos Affonso's flying field became very angry this evening at her failure to arrive. One afternoon newspaper referred to the flight as "the Shylock flight." That referred to the insistence of the Zeppelin agents in collecting a fee of six dollars admission to approach the airship at the flying field. It was reported here that when Doctor Eckener was informed in Pernambuco that General Marante, chief of the Brazilian aviation corps, refused to allow the field to be exploited for private enterprises, he decided not to come to Rio Janeiro.

Officials here pointed out that the field was public property and that the Zeppelin officers were not allowed to charge admission at Lakehurst, N. J., or other government fields.

Blaeholder Signs

George Blaeholder

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Despite the fact that he lost more games last year than he won, George Blaeholder, big righthander on the Browns' pitching staff, held out a long time for an increase in pay.

But he capitulated and signed up recently at a salary not made public.

Blaeholder has had a spotty career with the Browns, but a belief that he has great potentialities is demonstrated by the desire shown by other major league clubs for his contract while he still was a hold-out.

Blaeholder, who was born in Orange, Calif., in 1904, was picked up on California sandlots in 1923 by the Browns. He was sent to the Three-I league for seasoning, and in 1924 the Browns farmed him to Tulsa in the Western League.

The pitcher spent most of the next four years with the Tulsa Oilers, returning to the Browns in 1928. He won 10 games and lost 15 that year, and last season won 14 while losing 15.

Americans Win Tennis Laurel

By THOMAS J. TOPPING Associated Press Sports Writer
AUTEUIL, France, May 24 (AP)—By a smashing victory over Miss Simone Mathieu and Mlle Yvette Barbiere of France, the redoubtable Helen Wills Moody and her veteran partner, Elizabeth Ryan, captured the French women's doubles championship for the United States today. The scores of the one-sided final were 6-3, 6-1.

The French forces struck a blow in return when Jean Borotra, "the Bounding Basque" of Davis Cup fame, and his youthful partner, Rene Duboulet, eliminated the American men's doubles combination of Bill Tilden and Wilbur Conn in a furious quarter-final round struggle, 6-2, 8-10, 5-7, 6-3, 7-5.

In adding the doubles crown to the singles title which she is here to defend Queen Helen played like one inspired, scoring seven placements against the bewildered French girls in the second set alone. Herberto Mrs. Moody had been content to play a secondary

Jurors' Method Of Fixing Damages Is New Trial Plea

"Higher finance" as employed by jurors in determining the amount of judgment to be awarded Lillie Opal Sides against Cosden and Company, was given by defense counsel as the reason why a new trial should be granted in district court Friday afternoon. The plaintiffs were awarded a judgment of $1112.50 against the Cosden company for damages to a hay field, allegedly caused by waste oil and salt water washed from the refinery and deposited on the land of the defendant. Jurors testified at the hearing Friday afternoon that the jurors were divided as to the correct amount. The jurors added all of the amounts as presented by each Juror and divided the total by twelve, the result being accepted as the judgment, they said.

Judge Fritz R. Smith overruled the motion for a new trial, and counsel for the defendants gave notice of appeal and were allowed 60 days to prepare bill of exceptions and statement of facts.

Notice Of Appeal Filed By Cody Bell

Notice of appeal was filed Friday afternoon in district court from the decision reached by jurors in the Cody M. Bell vs. City of Big Spring damage suit, after a motion for a new trial had been overruled by Judge Fritz R. Smith.

Bell asked $10,000 for physical injuries, and $10,000 for "mental anguish" because of water he drank from the city mains. He alleged the water was poisoned by an accident at the sewage disposal plant, resulting in water being pumped into the mains.

The city won the case when it was tried at this term of court.

FINAL ATTEMPT TO FINANCE JUBILEE TO BE MADE MONDAY

Final attempt to provide funds necessary to finance the Oil Men's Jubilee of July 3, 4, and 5 in a manner that will bring credit and not discredit to the city will be made Monday by the oil & gas committee of the Chamber of Commerce, it was announced last night by Joseph Edwards, chairman. Some of the merchants have "fallen down" in their support of the Jubilee, committee men declared. Funds are being derived from sale of space in a large program book. Considerably more funds will be needed to make the three-day celebration sufficiently enjoyable to the oil men it is declared. Invitations to the Jubilee were wired delegates to the annual session of the Mid-Continent section, American Petroleum Institute's division of production and the Mid-Continent Oil Scouts' and Land Men's Association, in convention at Tulsa and the National Oil Scouts' Association, which met in San Antonio last week. The committee on publicity has arranged for large bill boards to be displayed in twenty strategically located towns of the state, as well as 20,000 handbills, placards, news stories. Effort is being made to have excursion rates offered for the three days by the Texas & Pacific Railway company.

Turpin, vice-president and general manager, said, is a step in a program for building the road west to the New Mexico coal mines district for a junction there with the Colorado Southern.

Pearman in an alleged $200,000 insurance plot, is first on the trial docket for a special term of circuit court opening Monday. Whether the trial of Dr. Bass will start Monday or be set for later in the term will not be determined until Monday. Dr. Bass, retired dentist, has been held in the county jail here since his arrest a few days after the body of Pearman, formerly automobile mechanic of Columbia, was found beside a highway in this county last March 29 with three bullet holes in the head.

Miami Solons Are Named In Charges

MIAMI, Fla., May 24 (AP)—Warrants charging Mayor Reedler, city Commissioner Knight, director of Public Safety McCready and former Governor James M. Cox of Ohio, publisher of the Miami Daily News, with conspiracy in connection with recent attempts to banish "Scarface" Al Capone from the city were sworn out here today. Vincent C. Giblin, attorney for the Chicago chief, went before a justice of the peace and obtained the warrants. The technical charge is that each of the men conspired to accuse Capone falsely of violation of a city ordinance.

"Swell Heads" Late Drinking Malady

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 24 (AP)—Comes now a running mate for "Jake" paralysis, and southwestern dentists are warned they may expect to become crippled in their upper extremities as well as their lower ones. "Swell heads," also known as limber neck, was reported to have made its appearance as a new drinking malady here by Dr. Walter H. Miles, Oklahoma City health director. So far only three or four cases have been reported to Dr. Miles, whereas "jake paralysis," the disease attributed to consumption of Jamaica ginger in beverage quantities, has crippled the legs of hundreds in the south, southwest, and other localities. Dr. Miles laid "swell head" to home made beer. Its symptoms, he said, are swellings of the face and neck muscles, probably caused by a kidney infection. He believes the infection comes from containers in which the mixture is brewed.

Hunt Wins Texas Amateur Golf Title

TINY REED will be doing business at the same old stand today. His return from the straight and narrow path of snatching quarters at the gate leading to the spacious grandstand at the dusty D. rancho, was short. His return, retracing his steps, as it were, was swift and sudden. As Reed gazes upon the situation the unpropitious business is bankrupt. Reed was named umpire to succeed Sammy Sain, resigned. Reed placed his bulk behind the pitcher Friday afternoon, and he became heated beneath his helmet Saturday we received Tiny's resignation as umpire, and application for the job of gate keeper, his profession by trade and choice. Says Mr. Reed, he would much rather take tickets for nothing than crossing for three bucks an afternoon.

As Hamlet said, "every man has business and desire, such as it is." So it is with Mr. Reed. He had ambition in his heart to umpire the city league games. He will now consider offers for that ambition, slightly mangled. Tiny says he umpired a game once and got $20 and lots of slanderous language, but Friday was the first time he ever got paid so little for so much abuse. Today the general Mr. Bruce Nesbitt, the skipper of the button crushing Laundry aggregation, will umpire. Mr. Nesbitt may not be the same supply man when he makes his exit from Dusty D. this eve. But he is bringing it upon himself. We're going to keep on until we get an umpire, that won't trek to the showers after one day.

The umpiring business went wild Friday. Harry Hurt, hurling for the Bankers, didn't especially care for one of Reed's decisions, so Hurt folded up his glove and spent the rest of the game warming up a given portion of a wooden bench in the dugout. His egress was voluntary. Incidentally the decision was caused by Sain who socked a fair or a foul one to left. Not having any deep-seated desire to engage in the business of arbitration we'll reserve our opinion. But we surely would have hated to have been sitting on the other side of that boundary line when Sain socked that little pellet. We sure would.

After Reed had vanished from the picture and headed for the high school to assist in turning out another flock of high school students, McPeak, former T&P catcher, took over the reins. McPeak didn't fare much better. In the fifth inning when Woods galloped across the home plate to tally the winning run, the decision was close. He was forced to hurry his slide for the block and McPeak leveled his hands and barked "safe!" That was enough to start the fireworks. The game was over and McPeak had plenty of argument on his hand all of a sudden. Now Reed and McPeak know how we feel at times when the gate receipts fall below the umpire's fee and the gross pay-off. It maketh one perspire at the brow. And get tepid within one's body.

BOBBY SHOOTS PRACTICE 71

By FRANK H. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer
ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 24 (AP)—After scoring a 71 in practice over the old course at St. Andrews today Bobby Jones laid his clubs aside until Monday when 172 entrants for the British amateur championship, upon which the Georgian has set his heart, start the 18-hole knockout battles which will continue until the 26-hole final on Saturday.

Jones 71 set the pace for the Americans practice but George Voigt, playing with George Von Elm, Roland MacKenzie and John Dawson, came in a little later with a 70, the best of the day.

Practice scores during the week before the championship may or may not mean much, but Jones is satisfied with his golf even though some of the prize-winning veterans of the royal and ancient game believe he reached the apex in 1927 when his record 283 won him the British open title for the second time.

While some of the younger American contingent voice criticism of the St. Andrews course, Jones revels in its unique features. "I love it, it's greatness is unimpairable to me," he said today.

Postpone Final Davis Matches

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP)—Play in the two final Davis Cup matches between the United States and Mexico was postponed today until Monday because of rain.

The two final singles contests will be a mere formality. The clean cut doubles victory scored yesterday by John Van Ryn of East Orange, New Jersey, and Wilmer Allison of Austin, Texas, gave the United States a 2-0 lead over Mexico and unchallenged supremacy on this side of the Atlantic.

RAILROAD 9 COPS TILT
Bankers Drop 9-8 Battle To Barbers' Outfit

Richco, the Richardson Refinery and Coahoma club, and the Texas & Pacific Railway team, will clash this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the City League Sunday afternoon fray.

Richco is tied with the Laundry for first place honors, while the Railroads are trying to move up the ladder from fifth place. It will be the second game over the week-end for Lefty Baber's batmen, they having defeated the Bankers Friday afternoon.

The Bankers lost a 9 to 8 tilt with the Railway Friday afternoon in a battle featured by squabbling with two umpires over decisions. The winning run came in the last of the fifth when Woods was called safe at the plate by McPeak, who relieved Tiny Reed as arbiter.

Woods Relieved Malone at the beginning of the second, and the Bankers went away three in a line. In their part of the third T&P gained a one tally margin when they scored two. After two were down Baber singled, and Sain, hitting for Mason, doubled to left field. When Reed called the questionable ball fair, Hurt, hurling for the Bankers, left the mound, and was relieved by Larrimore. Sain tallied on Bishop's single.

In the beginning of the fourth the Bankers forged ahead when Payne singled, Barley was hit by one of Wood's offerings, and Larrimore singled, to run across two runs.

Tied in Fifth
The score was knotted in the first of the fifth when P. Madison got to first on Schwartzbach's error. Mayes got his third walk of the day. Hutchins, Payne, Larrimore and Stevens singled, Madison, Mayes and Payne tallying.

In the last of the fifth, Woods singled and ran across the winning run after Schwartzbach had singled, and an error had been marked against F. Payne, allowing Roberts to place.

COSDEN MEETS MEXICAN TEAM
Cosden Refinery and the Tigers, a Mexican team will play this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the Texas & Pacific Railway grounds. Cosden is a member of the City League.

COAST GUNS FOR INTERCOLLEGIATE MARKS

Hector Dyer, Stanford, and Frank Wykoff, Southern California (left), entered in the I. C. A. A. A. meet at Cambridge, finishing a "dead heat" 220-yard dash in 21.2-5 seconds. Eric Krenz, Stanford (right), who will attempt to better his own record discus toss of 134 feet, 11 inches. Barney Berlinger, Pennsylvania's versatile track man, who is one of the East's greatest hopes, bettered 1-10 of a second last year by Sid Kieselhorst of Yale, two-time defending champion, but the mark was not allowed due to wind aid.

It may be beaten this time with Kieselhorst as well as Smith of Stanford, Welsh of Southern California and Pogolotti of California, to force a fast pace.

This year Pennsylvania has one of the greatest all-around stars now in college in Barney Berlinger, who may score well up in four or five events. The Quakers also have a star crop of distance runners, including Bill McKniff, mile favorite, and figure to lead the eastern pack.

Cornell has two of the best eastern hurdlers in Hoesley and Clark, Harvard has speed talent and a star hammer thrower in Voneck, Yale has Kieselhorst and a 440 ace in Engle, Princeton has the high jump titleholder, Ben Hedges, Bates has the 880-yard favorite, Russell Chapman, and Georgetown the 100 yard champion, Karl Wildermuth.

NEW CONTENDERS UNLIKELY TO FLEE FROM "ONUS" OF HEAVYWEIGHT TITLE

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, May 24 (AP)—Whatever else may happen in the Yankee stadium late in the evening of June 12, there will be no announcements that a new heavyweight champion has retired to rest on his laurels.

For Jack Sharkey, the Boston Saltzman, and Max Schmeling, most formidable heavyweight threat ever to come out of Europe, the battle pit offers the heights of their respective ambitions.

Schmeling has his fortune yet to make and at the age of 24 should rule the roost for years to come if he once gets by Sharkey. The big New Englander, although 30 years old and the creator of one forportunity—once against Jack Dempsey and again in the elimination tournament to decide Gene Tunney's final opponent. He carries the flag of experience.

Schmeling, the fighting image of Dempsey, is the plegmatic, stolid German with a decentering smash in either fist, unimaginative, unpunished, the best business man among the heavyweights since Luis Angel Firpo. He is at his best over the fifteen round route.

In the background rests the shadow of Tunney, lolling in a bench chair retired to society at the peak of his physical prowess, one of the greatest machine fighters of the modern age—the man no one fully understood.

PEEK GOES DOWN IN FINAL

Galveston Youth Loses On The Final Hole

HOUSTON, May 24 (AP)—W. C. Hunt of Houston today won the amateur golf championship of Texas by defeating Gaston Peek of Galveston one up in the thirty-six hole final round.

For 30 years Hunt had been schooling himself for this day. There was a still drama at the finish. A gallery of 300 stood scarcely breathing as Hunt, a small and careful man, leaned over and addressed a ball which lay in the edge of a trap. His stick came down sharply and the ball rolled over the hill within eight inches of the pin. It was his third stroke and Peek conceded him a four.

The Galveston player, who had been eight feet shy of the cup with his third, laid his next within two inches of the flag. He grinned and rushed over to grasp Hunt's hand. Two more inches and he would have won the hole, squaring the match.

On the 29th hole he was four down and leaving there, he bogged a brilliant rally which put worry lines in the veteran's face. He took the next hole with a par four. They halved the 31st and on the 32nd Hunt, wearing under the strain, two-putted a three foot shot, making Peek only two down.

They halved the 33rd and Peek took a Birdie three on the 34th with a 20 foot putt to go one down. He clung desperately to this thin chance, halving the next with an eight foot putt which brought a greatly about from the gallery.

Then Hunt was on the defensive as they teed up on the 35th hole. His approach shot went into the trap and there began the putting duel which went to the older man. Hunt started the match by going on up and Peek never was square after that except in the third, fourth and fifth holes. His score for the morning's 18 was 85, 14 over par, while Hunt had 76. Peek out-shot the older for the afternoon's 18 by two, taking a 78.

The Hunt victory takes the championship away from the public links players for the first time in four years. Dennis Lavender, the defending titlist, went out in the quarter finals to Bud McKinley of Del-Rio, who was dunned yesterday by Peek.

ORIOLES POUND UNDERWOOD AND NEELY, WIN FRAY
Pounding Neel and Underwood for seventeen hits the Orioles maintained their winning tactics by downing the Cubs 20 to 4. Smith was on the mound for the league leaders and held the cellar occupants well in hand.
Eight runs in the second inning featured the Oriole attack that drove Neel from the mound early in the game. Two errors, a walk, four singles, and Frank Martin's circuit clot netted the victors their scores. Rogers, lately of the Jellies, secured four hits for the Orioles with Underwood and Payne of the Cubs each getting two.

the huge column is to be lined with firebrick. Workers were busy Saturday framing the roundhouse, and starting construction of the turntable.

The boiler and power house has advanced to such a stage that equipment is being installed.

All brick has been laid on the roundhouse wash and locker room, and most of the brick work on the machine shop is completed. The all-steel building is ready for the roof.

Foundation work for the boiler and smith shop is completed. A new corrugated iron building on the old yard site will be moved to the new terminal grounds and placed on the foundation.

The storehouse foundation work and floor slab work has started. Concrete covering one-half of the dimension of the structure was poured last Monday. The remaining one-half is to be poured this Monday.

Roofing of the lumber shed is nearing an end, and the foundation for the wood mill has been completed.

Foundation and nearly all brick work of the oil house have been completed.

The excavation for the switch santly has been completed, and concrete for the inspection pit has been poured.

Rough carpenter work, foundation and floor for the sand-house, have been completed also.

Each building is of reinforced concrete, steel and brick.

The cost of erection of the 13 structures has been conservatively placed at $250,000. This includes, however, only those portions of the buildings rising "above the ground." Oil and steam lines are yet to be laid, forming a net below the ground.

Robbins Seeks Scenic Road Aid

The following call was issued Saturday by B. F. Robbins, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce civic committee:

Your Chamber of Commerce civic committee is calling a meeting of all the chairmen and vice chairmen of all the civic committees for Monday night, May 26 at the Federation club house. You are urged to be present at this meeting for we need your presence and council in formulating plans to repair the Scenic Drive road.

We know every citizen of Big Spring wants this road improved and if we all will put our shoulder to the wheel we can do it and never miss the small amount it will cost each of us.

We are no longer a small town and we must get out of our small town ways and take on the ways of a good substantial growing city and do things like all other progressive cities do them.

We are to have an oil exposition here on July 3, 4 and 5 and no doubt will have important people here from ten or fifteen states and we want our town to look its best on this occasion and have our Scenic Drive road in good condition so we will not be ashamed to take our visitors up this road to our beautiful scenic mountain. If this beautiful scenic place was near some of our neighboring cities they would advertise it to the world and have a paved road leading up and down the mountain.

We want to begin work on this road next week and as we all know the extent of the improvement will depend on the amount of money and labor donated for this purpose, and your civic committees have all the confidence in the world in the people of Big Spring doing the worthwhile things when they are called on, so let's make it a hundred per cent cooperation in this important, worthy undertaking.

ing the smaller operators were doing most of the drilling.

"A frequent statement as to the effect that if the larger companies discontinued their active drilling campaign, the over production problem would be solved," he said. "May I call attention to a survey recently made of all the drilling wells in the United States which showed that the companies controlling approximately 80 per cent of the production were drilling only about 24 per cent of the wells; whereas, those controlling 29 per cent of the production were engaged in drilling 66 per cent of the wells. This is the most important subject before the industry at this time. The curtailment of production must continue, and it is equally as important to curtail drilling operations."

Franklin, in addressing the scouts, laid the present ills of the industry to the importation of cheap foreign oil by the big companies, naming the Shell, Lago and Gulf organizations as the "wedge in the fight to throttle the domestic oil producer and control the domestic market."

past ten—they now have 23,000 and 25,000 respectively. Rural population of this county jumped from 2,689 to 9,158 during the decade while that of Tom Green county was rising from 5,160 to between 11,000 and 12,000—quite a difference in the percentage. Taylor had 13,804 outside Abilene in 1920, and now has more than 17,000—again quite a difference.

HOWARD COUNTY has more than 160,000 acres of tillable land not yet touched by a plow, which is something few counties in Texas in which there already is a city of more than 12,000 inhabitants can offer.

Additionally, Howard county has a major oil field within its boundaries—something, by the way, that every West Texas city now larger than Big Spring would give more for than anything they can think of unless it is Big Spring's railroad payroll and refineries.

"What this town needs is payrolls"—that's the favorite statement of folks in every town. Big Spring has been blessed generously with payrolls.

But, after all is said and done, it would be a lot better for Big Spring not to gain a single inhabitant in the next 10 years and have all those here prosper and make a comfortable living than to double the population and have a large number of folks in straits—without local means of employment at wages sufficient to maintain themselves and families on a standard of living equal to the average throughout the country.

We need more payrolls. We need more diversification of crops. We need more cotton and maize and stuff grown on fewer acres, but more acres in cultivation. We need a few new oil pools and refineries and pipe lines.

And, if ten or twenty thousand

"I am reliably informed," Clancy said, "that Mr. Blanton issued advertisements and press statements in Texas that if and when elected he would immediately rush to Washington and take steps to kill alleged unwise and vicious legislation which he described with intemperate language.

"He does not come, in my opinion, to aid in the passage of good legislation but to hamper it."

ABILENE, Tex., May 24 (AP)—Governor Dan Moody told the Abilene Reporter-News tonight that while Texas has a statute providing for the calling of special elections to fill vacancies, it has none fixing the time for canvassing returns from such elections.

"My opinion is," said Governor Moody, "that as soon as the county judge in the nineteen counties of the 17th congressional district certify returns of the election of May 26 to the secretary of state, they may be canvassed and a certificate of election issued to Representative-elect Thomas L. Blanton."

Moody, who was attorney general during her tenure. She was elected in 1924 after James E. Ferguson, impeached and removed from the governor's office during his second term in 1917, was refused a place on the ballots.

Unqualified The supreme court Friday held that Ferguson's impeachment had disqualified him from again holding office and refused to issue a mandamus to compel the state Democratic executive committee to place his name as a candidate for governor on the primary ballots.

"To those who may think that a woman cannot make a good governor I refer them to the two administrations preceding and succeeding mine," Mrs. Ferguson said. "I leave it to the fair minded if the record of my administration suffers by the comparison."

She gave notice that in event of her election she would "receive the aid and advice of my good husband."

"If consulting with one's husband were treason, then make the most of it," she said. "It appears to me that one of the things the matter with this country now is that we do not have enough of the old-fashioned fireside talks and confidences like our fathers and mothers used to have when they were laying the foundations of this republic.

As to Liquor Mrs. Ferguson said she favored passage of laws providing that no one shall be allowed to hold any office, legislative, judicial or executive, who "in any way drinks or uses intoxicating liquors unlawfully obtained, and that no person shall take any office to which he or she may be elected until an affidavit of said person is filed with the clerk of the county stating that said person has not during the six months preceding the making of said affidavit drunk any intoxicating liquor unlawfully bought or obtained."

Action of the Texas senate in impeaching Ferguson and removing him from office was "judicial punishment," and as such "is not indelibly as a constitution penalty, but it pardonable," the supreme court was told today in Ferguson's motion for a rehearing of his application for a mandamus to compel the state Democratic executive committee to place his name on the party ballots as a candidate for governor.

The court yesterday held Ferguson ineligible on account of his impeachment and judgment of the senate that he be disqualified from holding office in the future.

The special supreme court that handed down the decision was expected to meet Monday to act on the motion for rehearing.

SHAKES HANDS AUSTIN, May 24.—W. Gregory Hatcher, candidate for governor, believes it too early to start campaign oratory, and is making his present tour of mid-West Texas, a hand-shaking, personal-greeting affair.

Mr. Hatcher is spending the latter part of this week in a tour of Weatherford, Mineral Wells, Jacksboro, Graham, Olney, Seymour, Crosbyton, Floyd and Plainview. From Plainview early in the week he will begin a cruise through Big Spring, Sweetwater, Abilene, Cisco, Eastland, Coahoma, Dublin and Stephenville. Later he will visit southwest Texas, he said.

"It's foolish for the boys on the stump to get 'all set up' before the boys at the forks of the creek get their coats off," the candidate commented.

Mr. Hatcher, charging excessive increase in the cost of state government, is making his campaign on the proposal of reducing the government cost at least $10,000,000 during the two-year administration period.

ROBINSON OUT WACO, May 24. (AP)—Fred B. Robinson of Waco, good roads advocate, today announced his withdrawal as candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket.

Funeral services were to be held in Coleman this afternoon.

ANOTHER ONE NEW BRAUNFELS, May 24. (AP)—Paul Lovan, "dirt farmer," announced his candidacy for governor today subject to the Democratic primaries. Although a cousin of United States Senator Morris Sheppard, Lovan is not for the 18th Amendment, he said. Mr. Lovan's announcement made twenty men in the race.

After reaching Southampton they will leave the band, which will fill the engagements abroad, and tour the following countries: England, Holland, Belgium, Germany (Passion Play), Austria, Czechoslovakia, Switzerland, Italy and France.

They will sail from Cherbourg, August 16, and return via New York, Philadelphia and Washington, D. C.

TO MAKE EUROPEAN TOUR

AGNES CURRIE LILLIAN SHICK FRANCES MELTON

Truly Times Have Changed For The European Traveler

Once upon a time, in the days of Queen Victoria, people actually took baggage with them when they went to Europe! Frank Stockton in "The Rudder Granger Abroad" describes in his inimitable style the imaginary experiences of two of his contemporaries on the other side of the Atlantic. The American hero makes a trip to Europe with "a heavy overcoat for cold weather, a lighter one, and a good winter suit, and a good summer suit, besides another for spring and fall, and an old suit to lie about in the orange groves, and a dress suit, besides such convenient articles as old boots for tramping in, pocket-lanterns, and so forth."

Teachers Scatter As School Ends

As school comes to an end and relieved children leave for visits with grandmother and Aunt Mary they put behind them all thoughts of "teacher" and her small but mighty kingdom, the school room. Even so does "teacher" put all thoughts behind her of her young and often obstreperous subjects. After all, she is not at heart a grim and mighty tyrant, but a rather tired young woman—tired of grading papers, tired of pitting her wits against the saucy "smart" boys, tired of writing with dusty chalk upon a dusty blackboard. Often as not she is just out of college. It is quite a change—that of becoming a teacher and influencing the minds of hundreds of youngsters. For if she is a good teacher, she is a serious one and realizes her power. She has more influence than the mother and infinitely more than the father, for the children are hers for three-fourths of the year. In their whole school career, excepting college, the home teacher is with her students eight years and three months continuously. In other words, out of eleven years of schooling the student has two years and seven months of vacation. The rest of that time his impressionable mind is constantly under the tutelage of his teacher. The teaching staff of the city schools is on its way home. Miss Clara Secret will go to New York for the summer. Miss Frances Melton and Miss Agnes Currie will leave soon for Europe. Society Girl Replaces Golf Club With Hoe

It has been said that the only thing the male of the species knows about the female is that she's bound to do the unexpected at one time or another. The fertile brain from whence came this bit of philosophy long since has ceased to function, but, figuratively speaking, the melody of its wisdom lingers on.

As proof of this the story evolves of the young Texarkana woman who has forsaken the rather distinct social atmosphere of the golf links for the more plebian art of chopping cotton.

Furthermore, her action was not prompted by a desire for more strenuous exercise. Nothing but the lure of the coin of the realm has caused this petite damsel to cast aside the niblick and take up the "goose-necked" hoe.

She has known the thrill of a screaming drive straight down the fairway, and again has choked with rage over a hook or slice into the rough. All the joys and all the sorrows of the Septishian pastime have been hers.

But now while her companions of the links are enjoying their beauty sleep, dreaming perhaps of that par on No. 7 or the birdie on No. 15, when the milk trucks are rattling by, the roosters are crowing and the sun is trying in vain to pierce the cold gray dawn, she tees up to row No. 1 of a Bowie county farm.

Her tiny hands, tanned by the sun of the links, grip not the shaft of the driver but the thick handle of the "goose-necked" hoe.

Her stance is perfect—she wiggles the hoe and gazes out across the wide expanse where old King Cotton rules supreme, looking not for the smooth grassy green, but for the long distant ragged end of row No. 1. Perhaps she instinctively starts to shout "Fore!" The cry, however, becomes only a whisper for her companions moving on before her are not familiar with the signal. Their complexions are dark and their vocabularies contain no such words.

Her toil in the cotton field, however, will be of short duration. Her father owns the farm. He bet she couldn't. She bet she could. He pays a huge wage for this particular cotton hand.

Eva Nell Porter Entertains Friends

W.P. CLEMENT OF TEXAS TECH IS PRINCIPAL SPEAKER AT GRADUATION EXERCISES

Miss Alice Dawes Gives Piano Number—Auditorium Completely Filled Even To Balconies

Seventy-one grey clad seniors made the short march across the high school stage Friday night that ended their high school career.

As each received his diploma he moved the tassel of his mortar board from the left to the right side and completed with that gesture four years of high school work.

The auditorium was completely filled even to the balconies.

Pastor Pleads Removable Brim Hats For Women

WEMBLY, England, May 20. (AP)—Women's hats with brims are causing some perturbation in the mind of the Rev. H. W. R. Easley, rector of St. Michael's church, Tokington.

In the parish magazine he says, "we understand from our lady friends that brimmed hats may return this spring. We hear the portentous news with mixed feelings. The modern girl looks equally charming in any sort of hat, or in no hat at all. Yet a dreadful dread is upon us. After 20 years of male emancipation, is our view in church, cinema or concert rooms to be obstructed by creations from Paris?"

"If the ladies make brims the rage, the gentlemen may brim with rage. May we plead, therefore, that the brims be made removable, so that they may be taken off and held in the lap."

Miss Alice Dawes, of the fine arts department, West Texas State Teachers college, Canyon, gave a piano number, "Gaboite" (Bach).

Proclamation and recessional were laid by Nancy Dawes and the invocation was given by Rev. W. G. Bailey of the Methodist church. Rev. W. H. Martin of St. Mary's Episcopal church gave the benediction.

Miss Reta Debenport, highest ranking student in the history of the school, gave the valedictory address and Miss Theodora McDonald gave the salutatory.

Mrs. Fox Stripling, secretary, treasurer of the school board, presented the diplomas, and George Gentry, principal, presided during the ceremonies.

Scholarships were presented by Miss Debenport and James Higgs, highest ranking boy. Miss Margaret Bettie was announced as an honor student, with an A average.

MRS. T. T. SMITH PLANS PLAY GROUP

"Children's Theatre" To Supplement Regular Lessons

A "Children's Theatre" has been organized by Mrs. Tracy Smith to supplement the regular lessons in expression which she will give to a group of pupils beginning Tuesday, June 3.

The theater, properly deserving the title "little theater," is Mrs. Smith's own idea to train younger children in that interesting and more useful medium of "expression," known as theatrical.

This presentation of little plays will only, however, be used to supplement the regular weekly private expression lesson. A recital play "Alice in Wonderland" will be given Aug. 22.

"It is hoped," said Mrs. Smith, "that this method will teach the children to work with each other and will encourage their appearance in public by the process of having them work together and not just with the instructor in private."

"The majority of children who take expression lessons can do very well alone, but when it comes to working with other children in a directed play, the become embarrassed and confused."

"The idea of having little plays for them to act out will increase the child's interest in the spoken art."

The first meeting will be at nine o'clock at the Central school building, Tuesday, June 3.

The following children are now pupils of Mrs. Smith: Johnnie Williams, Gavin Wright, Shirley Malcomb, Betty Lee Eddy, Mecca Ford, J. C. Douglass, Mary Jane Reed, Marguerite Reed, Flo-cabell Squires, Volle Mae Dodge, Mary Elizabeth Dodge, Jeanette Dodge and Frances Stamper.

AUXILIARIES TO MEET

Baptist: Lucille Reagan—Mrs. D. Price, 1300 Main street at 4 o'clock.

East—At church at 4 o'clock.

West—Mrs. R. Reagan, 411 Lancaster at 3 o'clock.

Central—No meeting.

Presbyterian: Church parlors at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Settles, president, will preside.

Methodist: Regular social meeting at 3 o'clock at the church.

TO HAVE PICNIC

The B. of L. F. and E. and B. of R. T. and their auxiliaries will hold a joint picnic at the new City Park the evening of June 3rd. All members of the four orders, and their families are extended a cordial invitation.

Can Your Own Talk And Listen To Canned Talk

The art of ushering at a movie palace has undergone something of a change since the advent of the talkies. With the sound pictures has come a regime of the strictest silence while seating patrons.

There is never a word, if you have noticed after one enters the inner sanctuary. In the outer corridor you are asked your preference as to "how far down?" and then commences the trek with the guide's head and shoulders in silhouette between you and the silver screen.

Click! On goes the torch, showing you the end of the aisle you are to sit in. The usher has departed.

If you are really in the spirit of the thing, you will omit the perfunctory "Excuse me's" and "I'm sorry's" when you step on someone's feet or rumple the marcel of the girl in the row ahead of you. The idea is to can your own talk and listen to the canned talk.

WOMEN In The World

English dancing girls are making a hit in a Berlin theatre. A good wife can be bought for little as $2.50 in Morocco. In spite of the popular belief, it is stated that French women use less make-up than women of any other civilized race. Blondes suffer less from seasickness than brunets, according to a doctor who has made experiments long those lines. A mother and her son recently served on a jury at Marylebone, England. Jiu-jitsu, or Japanese wrestling, is one of the very few sports in which women can compete on a footing of equality with men. It is a question of skill, not strength. A Detroit furniture store maintains a chapel where weddings are performed. It also furnishes the music, flowers, wedding cake, and even the minister, and gives away $50 gift of the bride's own choosing.

If a mosquito bites one, it is a female. The males are unable to pierce the skin and therefore are of bloodsuckers, but vegetarians. A 51-year-old Illinois woman met her 78-year-old father for the first time in a railroad station recently. Her father and mother had separated before her birth. "Trench mouth," a disease of the gums, is a result of smoking, claims Dr. Harold J. Leonard of Columbia University. Many women who smoke are victims of this disease. The children of Ventura, California, have been prohibited from hawking tar taken from the streets. This practice has caused considerable damage to the streets of this city.

An army of women in Russia is trained in handling rifles and machine guns, and to act as protectors for munition factories in time of war. Only eight daughters of Revolutionary War soldiers remain after the recent death of Mrs. Helen M. Barrett of Richland, Mich. In the New York bawery section here is a child born every three minutes, and there is a death every nine minutes.

Probably the most important double-date dress ever made is the silver and white wedding gown which Mrs. Anne Tyrrell, daughter of the British ambassador, wore when she was married on April 30 at Notre-Dame Cathedral to Adrian Holman, secretary of the Paris British embassy. Mrs. Holman intends to wear her wedding dress again in June when she is presented to the king and queen of England at Buckingham Palace.

WHITE WINS FAVOR OF CAPITAL WOMEN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Debutantes and society matrons alike favor white for this season's wear.

Madame Halvard H. Bachke, wife of the minister from Norway, is wearing a white beaded evening gown made on tight fitting lines and with long skirt flaring at the ankles.

Miss Clara Bolling, niece of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wears a white satin gown with tight fitting bodice and ankle length skirt which flares from the hips.

VAGABOND SCARVES TOP OFF SPORT TOGS

PARIS (AP)—Paris gives its oph to the merest rags for sport scarves. The smartest new wool scarves are raveled and frayed.

One of the exclusive houses shows a raggedy-Anne scarf of navy blue wool georgette with snappy beach pajamas of starched pique. The scarf has raveled edges.

There are many versions of the frayed-edged vagabond scarf.

"Roads," Kindly, Simple Verse Of Texas Writer

A simple, kindly little verse the one quoted below appeals to the dormant wanderer in each of us. It is by a young Texas poet.

ROADS

I love highways That go down Into every Little town;

Magic, bright, Exploring chains, Linking mountains, Sea and plains,

Linking hearts And minds and men, Making all Mankind akin.

One could not Be much alone Where a road goes Winding on.

Where the world's Swift, eager heels, All the hundred Million wheels,

All the living, Breathing leads Piss before one I love roads.

CRAMPED FOR SPACE?

Old Friends Clothed in New Designs

BY MARGERY TAYLOR
The modern cry for space is being answered by all kinds of new and ingenious convertible furniture and by old and converted furniture serving in new ways. The sofa which becomes a bed is an old friend clothed in many new designs. A companion piece is the charming little end table which becomes a dressing table when the top is lifted and reveals compartments for powder, rouge, combs, brushes—and a mirror of adequate size.

For the "where will I put things" problem, there are the depths below the dignified high-topped secretary which, above, displays books or china. Welsh dressers, too, are very receptive to large quantities of linen, and are also ornamental in giving shelf space for pewter, china or your favorite collection. Corner cupboards seem to have been invented for putting things in small apartments. For their storage capacity chests of drawers are being invited into the living room, and one type, discreetly called the "bachelor chest," has a hinged lid on top which is "let lined and which, opened out, becomes the ever useful ironing board. Tables have naturally challenged the ingenuity of designers. The imposing Jacobean refectory table becomes friendly and makes room for eight guests when its leaves are spread. Tip-top tables can become almost invisible in their consideration of floor-space and nests of tables are equally retiring.

The radio has brought a new and very welcome piece of double-duty furniture—a novel table in which the radio is concealed in the space usually devoted to drawers which are filled up with the "I guess we ought to keep that" things which are never seen again.

If you figure on buying convertible furniture, plan your room to take full advantage of it. Such pieces really enlarge your rooms and can even make two rooms where only one grew on the floor plan.

If they are useful, these double-duty pieces, they need not be the less decorative. You can choose your period—English, Colonial, modern—and find convertible furniture with authentic lines. The screen is the ideal accomplice for the intrigue or two-faced furniture. When visitors appear before the bed has been transformed back into a sofa or the "library" table still holds the supper dishes, an attractive screen will divert attention until there is nothing more to hide.

Writers Of Southwest Come More And More To The Fore—"Golden Stallion" And Henry's New Book Good Example

By ONA REAGAN PARSONS

"The Golden Stallion," by D. Maitland Bushby (Southwest Press) Will Irwin and Edna Ferber are not the only discoverers of the great treasure that may be had in the Southwest for the taking. Both Mr. Bushby and the Southwest Press have picked up some valuable nuggets on their own accord. The Southwest Press particularly is doing a fine piece of work in catering to writers of its own section.

Mr. Bushby, who lives in Flagstaff, Arizona, says in his introduction that his object in compiling his collection of poems from representative poets of the southwest is to give authentic portrayals of its peoples and locale. With all due respect to writers of a greater range of talent, one must admit that the homeliness of native scribbles preserves uniquely a flavor and a feeling of reality of their own region. Alier writers who are strangers cannot compete on their own grounds.

The poems in Mr. Bushby's collection are not all on the same level. Some of them are little more than jingles but the jingles are such as this:

"I've spent my life with my legs astraddle Of a buckin' hoss and a cowboy saddle. Some, 'tis said, weren't never rode But I stay on (if I don't get throwed)."

Such southwestern poets as Whitney Montgomery and Hilton Ross (Gree), who take nature seriously, are included. Mr. Dresbach is generously represented. His "Golden Stallion" gives the book its title.

Lexie Dean Robertson and Grace Noll Crowell each have several poems reprinted. The collection is not limited to Texas and the best poems are not by Texas writers. Mary Austin's "Drouth" is one of the finest in her group of especially fine poems. This is the first stanza:

"What way shall a man turn When earth and sky neglect him? Shall he reproach the late-coming rain, Laggard, the lights are out and my servants departed? Or say to the river, 'Yesterday had you run I had been here to receive you? If a woman betrays him there is relief in cursing But where shall he go or stay When the rains are unfaithful? Robinson Jeffers, whose poems are putting California on the poetical map, has four poems in the collection. Witter Bynner has one. The arrangement of the book adds to its convenience as a handbook. A short biographical section gives the important facts concerning each contributor.

Plains," by Stuart Henry (E. P. Dutton and Co.). This was not a proper book to send a Texan.

Every loyal Texan has been taught that cowboys, especially Texas cowboys, were heroes of their age, literally knights of the road, big-hearted, honest, true-blue and never, never criminal.

It is, therefore, somewhat startling to read that the worst street in the little cowtown of Abilene, Kansas, was called, back in 1870, Texas or Hell street, in honor of the Texas cowboys who used to drink the town dry and then try to shoot it up.

Mr. Henry, the author, a Kansan, probably wrote the book for the joy of indulging in a few boyhood reminiscences. When he was a small boy in Abilene his family was part of the more prominent and peace-loving stationery citizens.

One learns that a continual warfare existed between the Texas cowboy, who regarded the town's existence primarily dependent on his seasonal trips with cattle to be shipped to Chicago and the residents, who were one-fourth farmer and three-fourths optimist. What an ex-cowboy would write today about the Abilene of that period would make a different tale, we imagine. Probably one would not recognize the city for the same hero.

While there is no doubt of Mr. Henry's affection for his native town and his love for that part of Kansas which has now become a quiet agricultural community, there is a question in our minds if this affection has not led him to exaggerate greatly the size of the Kansas plain and to choose a misleading title. The peculiar problems which Abilene faced were not typical, except the fight against droughts.

A better title would have been "The Part the Henrys Played in Building Abilene."

This author could study with profit at the Stanley Vestal school for sincerity and honesty wants to cultivate the world's interest in great American plains. He needs many things which Mr. Vestal has, in addition to scholarship; he needs for one thing, a wider horizon, not geographically so much as sympathetically.

He has a splendid opportunity to tell a rattling good yarn in the story of Abilene, once called the toughest place in the world, but he must first see it as something else than the little village which the Henry family set out to clean up so that Rotarians, the Lions and the Kiwanians could come in and feel at home.

CRYSTAL CITY—Buildings now under construction in this city involve expenditure of approximately $100,000.

Wise Economy, That of Spending More "It's Bright To Be Dull Now," Say Fashionists Money On Fewer And Better Things

By ADA E. LINGO
This is a talk on economy. It is the kind of economy that will surprise many—for it advocates spending more money. But cheer up—it means saving more money in the long run. Now-a-days when fashions change so quickly and clothes last half to one-fourth the length of time that they used to, it is hard to know just what to do.

Should one put lots of money into two nice dresses or buy four not so nice as to material, but each one different in style? Of course it is more fun to have several outfits—and change them often. But these four dresses will be extreme in style and faddish in design. They will "go out" in little or no time.

Two dresses of excellent quality will be of much more conservative cut, color and style. They will be equal to any occasion, if chosen wisely, from sports to bridge. And what is more useful—you won't get tired of wearing them.

Witness your friend who bought a leopard skin coat at the height of their popularity. After the tenth wearing you came near you again, and privately, she was probably near the screaming point also.

Buy the best quality. And be conservative. When your income will allow only two or three pairs of shoes, buy one pair of plain black kid and don't mind paying from $12 to $15 for them. They will last an entire season and do you no end of good.

Take hats the same way. A simple style, becoming and of a retiring color can be worn with any outfit and no one will say—"There comes Mrs. This-and-that. I can see that purple hat."

DARK-BRIGHT COLORS AND HEAVY-SHEER FABRICS
Sounds paradoxical, but it's so. The advance sheet from Mrs. E. H. Little, fashion editor of the Woman's Home Companion makes the statement: "These heavy-sheer fabrics, like crepe Roma and crepe Elizabeth were featured in an important line of early autumn silks recently put on the market."

"Dark-bright colors, clear reds, greens and blues, maybe-browns and red-browns were put forward for afternoon dresses."

She also states that "afternoon frocks are often made with the yoke and sleeves of a contrasting material and color—pink crepe de chine on a very dark red maroon frock."

"DEVILS CHIPS," NAME OF NEW BRACELET
And they have even taken to naming the bracelets. "Devil's Chips" describes a smart affair of galatin in an odd new coralish color. Bracelets come by seasons and their season is in. Wear your tailored ones on the outside of your gloves, and keep the fussy ones for late afternoon.

"IT'S BRIGHT TO BE DULL NOW"
This fashion wise crack is making its appearance everywhere.

It applies to hose, you know. From a fashion standpoint, quite logical that the dull surface stocking should be offered at this time, since they complement the vogue of dull fabrics which is now being so much discussed and which promises to hold for some time.

It has been repeatedly emphasized that dullness gives more illusion of slenderness to the leg—a strong argument to the modern woman.

There is another point which has been used extensively in the complexion tones, it gives a more realistic impression of the actual skin than did the sheen surface.

SELDOM A SLIP TWIXT THE CALF AND HIP

Get over the school girl prejudice against slips.

They add months to dresses and to confidence to your standing in the screen door.

A new wrinkle in slips is one that is a combination blouse and slip. Busy women step into it—fasten on a suit skirt and are ready for the day.

For the new streamline dresses it's necessary to have a slip fitted in at the waist so that it will not be bulky. For sports one must have the smooth, slashed back and net top slip; for afternoon or dinner, the V-top slip; for evening, the low-back slip with the flared skirt.

WINDOW CARDS SHOW STYLE TRENDS

These cards recently graced the windows of New York shops and show in a pictorial way the trend of the modern style.

"The sand color increases in popularity as the warmer days approach." (Bags and Accessories.)

"In the season's vogue, pastel jewelry is the finishing touch to your spring frock."

"Lingerie crepe for delicacy, lace-trimmed for femininity."—Gimbel Brothers.

"Knitted dresses accenting the theme of black and white."

"Young sophisticates choose emerald green accessories with black frocks."

"Smart youngsters wear knitted suits in spring pastels."—Saks-34th Street.

"The untrimmed coat turns its attention to capes, belts and swagger detail."

"The Junior Guild tweed coat goes red to greet the spring."

"New spring morning frocks of rayon crepe and Chantilly, new cotton and silk combination."

"Budget-wise young things know it's smart to wear navy blue and polka dot ensembles."—James McCreery & Co.

"Oatmeal tweeds and fluffy furs are the last word in sports coats fashions."

"The summer, 1930, sports fashions can be told in a few words—normal waistline, tucks, dull silks, velveteen palatos, fitted jackets, sports shirts, and berets."

"Don't let your stockings out."

ON A HILLSIDE

Designed for a lot with a slope is this modern house of simple construction. By the term "modern" is meant the recent type of plan in vogue at present.

Economy of space is a feature of the house. The arrangement of the kitchen back of the living room necessitates only one chimney, which handles together the flues from the kitchen range, the furnace and the basement garage, shown at the left of the sketch. The separate staircase is another feature of the plan. From it one may enter any part of the house without going through any of the other rooms. Thus the owner may go from his bedroom all the way to the basement without disturbing late-sleeping guests.

The outside finish of this house is stucco in rough texture. The color is light blue and light pink shades laid one over the other to give a blended effect. The front door and ashes should be in French gray for ideal harmony.

A lot for this type of house should be at least 50x100 feet in size, and the house should face to the north. The cost would range from $8,000 to $10,000.

A house designed for a side-hill lot, such as this, is adaptable to sites frequently found in many of the principal states, Pennsylvania, New York and all the New England states in the east, and California and its neighboring states in the west abound in sites ideal for this type of home.

An attractive garden may be laid out in the walled area in front of the house, as shown.

CAMELIAS BUNCHED AT BACK OF NECK

PARIS (AP)—Camellias are worn in bunches at the back of the neck this season.

Patou sponsors the new placing for afternoon and evening wraps. A spray of camellias gives support to a narrow stand-up collar or heads a rudimentary cape or pleated bolero.

YOUR EVENING POSY SHOULD BE CARNATION

PARIS (AP)—Red carnations are the new artificial flower in a mode for evening.

Paris puts two cherry red carnations at the side front of the decollete of white evening dresses.

A new midsummer model of black and white printed chiffon has two white chiffon carnations applied to the side decollete. This is a dance dress.

CRYSTAL AND PEARL EAR RINGS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ear rings of crystal and pearl are much in favor for evening wear in the capital.

Most of them are pendant, some made of a single large pearl or piece of crystal, others of many dangling strands of the same stones.

Some of the latter reach almost to the shoulder.

OSTRICH FEATHERS FOR MULES LATEST

PARIS (AP)—For a French actress a shoe designer here has made bedroom mules which weigh two ounces the pair, minus their seven centimeter heels.

They are made of a special fabric of ostrich feather fronds woven on a metal thread base.

The same house shows crepe de chine evening slippers diagonally striped with gold and silver.

CUT LIKE SHAWL IN NEW TULLE CAPE

SQUARE NECKLINES NEW FOR AFTERNOON

PARIS (AP)—Bridge dresses, alias afternoon frocks, have a new element injected into their design by deep bertha collar models with square necklines, square in back as well as front.

The square necklines are a decidedly new note and are put out by a designer of authority.

One way of finishing the square necks is with a narrow self band, stitched flat with ends left free to lie in a bow in the center back.

FEATHER IN YOUR HAT SWANK FOR SUMMER

PARIS (AP)—Feathers, fine and otherwise, are making headway in the millinery world.

There are more of them used for spring than there were for winter, which is remarkable considering the fact that summer is essentially a flower season.

Experts prognosticate that hats for next fall will make an even wider use of small flat feathers. A variety-colored feather cockade or two or three small quills are good style for the spring cloth hat or dressmaker beret.

Tailored suits with blouses of white pique are not complete without the pique flower in the button hole.

WHITE AND SILVER FOR DOLLY GANN

WASHINGTON (AP)—A short season of opera in the capital drew out many good looking light evening gowns.

Gowns of white velvet and white satin trimmed with lace were noted.

Shading Of Postage Stamp Causes The Death Of Artist

Just a faint shading on a small Turkish postage stamp caused the death by torture of an Armenian patriot, and made the Turkish government slightly ridiculous.

In 1913 Turkish postoffice officials became dissatisfied with their ugly postal adhesive, and decided to have them entirely remodeled. Designs for a complete new issue were soon agreed upon and an Armenian engraver employed to execute the designs in metal. This Armenian was both an artist and a fine workman and he soon produced an entire new issue that made the Turks gasp in admiration.

Approved

The die-proofs of the new stamps were approved by the head of the Turkish postal department. He was well pleased with them and said so publicly. Shortly after the die proofs had been approved, the entire new issue was printed and distributed to the various post-offices throughout the empire. The postal clerks examined the new stamps closely when they were first placed on sale, but they did not discover anything unusual or dangerous about any part of the stamps, much less about the lines of shading under the "postes Ottomanes" in the upper left corner of the ten-paras stamp.

An Insult

It was left to a Turkish philatelist, five years later, to discover that those apparently harmless lines of shading were in reality an insult to the Turkish government. This man, with all the courtesy and interest in details that a good philatelist must have, was examining the Turkish stamp under a powerful magnifying glass when he discovered that the shading on the ten-paras stamp was really not shading at all but a line of Armenian script. Imagine the feelings of an Ottoman patriot when he discovered that Armenian script appeared on the stamp. He was still further aroused when, upon translation, he discovered the writing on it to read as follows: "At the foot of the mountain join the army." To an Armenian or a Turk there is no doubt as to the meaning of the sentence. The mountain mentioned was Mount Ararat and the army a visionary force that the Armenians hope will someday appear to drive the Turks from the face of the earth.

Tortured To Death

The Turkish philatelist reported his discovery to be a high official immediately. In an even shorter time the post office department was informed. Orders were given out for the interception and capture of the Armenian who had engraved the stamps. In less than forty-eight hours the stamp artist was brought in; and his justice, as such, was swift. He was condemned to be tortured to death.

Good Joke

The Turkish government tried to cover up their stupidity regarding the Armenian script. They had the plates for printing the stamps burned until no trace of the script remained. In spite of this, it was not long before the Armenian people were chuckling over the discomfort of the Turkish officials. Let it be known they understood the reason for the 1930 issue of stamps in Turkey.

BRUNETTES ACQUIRE TAN EASIER, EXPERT ASSERTS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Brunettes acquire sun tan easier than do blondes, says Dr. LeRoy A. Wilkes, of the White House conference on child health.

In preparing for the summer days at the beaches, blondes, says Dr. Wilkes, must be prepared to have their skins burn but not tan readily.

Sun tan, though sometimes fashionable, has no health value save as a defense against an excessive amount of sun rays, he says.

AFTER A LONG, STRENUOUS DAY TRY AN "EMERGENCY" CLEANSING

Apply make-up only to a scrupulously clean skin. This will prevent your pores becoming clogged, and will help you to keep your skin fine-textured. But if you are in town all day shopping or working, and then have an engagement for dinner, you probably will say to yourself, "That cleansing rule is all very well sometimes. Yet what can I do when I haven't the time or opportunity to give my skin a thorough cleansing?"

Occasionally it is impossible to cleanse your face thoroughly, and you must be content with the next best thing—an "emergency" cleansing. In the morning carry with you a small bottle of skin freshener, and a few pads of cotton. Carefully wrap cleansing tissues around the bottle to keep it from breaking.

For your emergency cleansing, saturate a small piece of cotton with skin freshener and whisk it up over your neck and face. This will remove the dust and excess oil that have collected during the day, and will leave your face feeling cool and refreshed. Then smooth a little dry or cream rouge on your cheeks, and apply a bit of lipstick to your lips. And last, lightly dust your neck and face with powder, but do not rub it in. Rubbing only makes face powder caked and gives your skin that not-quite-clean appearance we all want to avoid.

Too much trouble? Of course not, for I believe even a plain woman who always looks immaculate makes a better impression than one who is beautiful, but untidy. There is a pleasant element of surprise about someone who preserves an air of freshness and perfection after a long, tiring day that would leave most women wilted-looking.

Of course this emergency cleansing never should take the place of your daily basic cleansing. Your face and neck should be thoroughly cleansed at least once daily in this way: Beginning at the base of your neck, spread a generous coating of cleansing cream up over every portion of your neck and face with your cushioned finger tips.

Let the cream remain on your skin for a minute or two, and then again working up from the base of your neck, wipe away the cream with soft absorbent cleansing tissues. Never use towels to remove cream, for even the finest towel is not as soft as cleansing tissues, and the week's laundry problem certainly is no small item if towels are used in place of cleansing tissues.

After wiping away the cleansing cream, saturate pads of cotton with skin freshener, and wipe those damp pads up over your face and neck to remove every remaining trace of cream. This will leave your skin really clean.

John Boles Is Star In "Song Of The West"

ALL-COLOR ATTRACTION OPENS THREE-DAY STAY AT THE RITZ

In "Song of the West," the 100 per cent natural color, singing, talking, dancing Vitaphone picture in technicolor which comes to the Ritz Theatre today, Monday and Tuesday, Warner Bros., have a true epic, which sweeps the spectator off his feet not only by the medium of motion pictures, but by sound, by melody, and singing, and by the gorgeousness of natural colors taken against the magnificent background of the great out of doors West.

"Murder Will Out" Queen Picture

"Murder Will Out" First National and Vitaphone production to be shown at the Queen theatre Friday and Saturday is refreshingly original.

With no bungling detective, spooky scenes, sliding panels, clutching hands, nor other of the usual tricks so dear to the heart of the mystery author, "Murder Will Out" holds audience interest and emerges as one of the seasons most novel and interesting features.

Instead of the meaningless patter so frequently found in mystery pictures, intelligent dialogue carries the story along at a brisk pace toward the surprise denouement.

The excellent adaptation of Murray Leinster's story is the work of J. Grubb Alexander.

Sound effects, which always heighten the effectiveness of mystery pictures, are used in good taste and moderation.

The plot centers about a group of Chinese blackmailers who attempt to extort money from Leonard Staunton, a wealthy young New York clubman.

The role of Staunton is ideally suited to Jack Mulhall's breezy personality. His performance has a fine gusto and admirable restraint. Lila Lee, who was also Mulhall's leading woman in "Dark Streets" is both charming and capable. Noah Beery, Malcolm MacGregor, Tully Marshall and Alec B. Francis, long established in silent pictures, are all entirely adequate. Hedda Hopper, who gives her every screen role a charm and finesse all her own, is in her usual good form.

Claud Allister, a newcomer to the films, is interesting and has noticeably flawless diction.

Much credit for the success of "Murder Will Out" is due to Clarence Badger's direction which is smooth and intelligent.

"Murder Will Out" is a thoroughly satisfactory film pictorially as well as otherwise. This First National film deserves a place on every moviegoer's "must" list.

Commerce and Cooper held joint road meeting to undertake improvement of roads leading to both cities.

Charles Kaley In Week's Opener At Queen Theatre

"Lord Byron of Broadway," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer all-talking comedy with music and technicolor adapted from the novel by Nell Martin, will open Monday at the Queen theatre.

The picture is distinguished by big names of both stage and screen, the cast being headed by Charles Kaley of "Earl Carroll's Vanities," Ethelind Terry of "Ritz Ritz" and "Kid Boots," Cliff Edwards of "Ukulele Ike" fame and Marion Shilling, last seen in the screen farce, "Wise Girls." Supporting roles are played by Gwen Lee, Benny Rubin, Drew Demorest, Rita Flynn, Hazel Craven and others.

Inasmuch as the story centers about a song writer who later becomes a vaudeville matinee idol, the musical numbers play an important part in the production. That the songs are of a hit caliber is indicated by the fact that they were written by Nacio Herb Brown and Arthur Freed, composers of the popular "Singin' in the Rain," "Wedding of the Painted Doll" and other first-rate melodies.

Success of the musical attractions of the picture is further assured by the fact that this end of the production was supervised by Harry Beaumont, director of the long-run "Broadway Melody," first musical-comedy of the screen. William Nigh, known for his many Lon Chaney productions, co-directed the picture, dealing chiefly with narrative, plot and characterizations.

As a final attraction, "Lord Byron" contains a number of dance ensembles created by Sammy Lee, former Ziegfeld dance director, which were filmed in Technicolor and which employ a large Albertina Rasch ballet corps.

It is stated that the plot of M-G-M's new musical talkie enables moviegoers all over the country to enjoy the personalities of both Miss Terry and Kaley at first hand, inasmuch as the players incorporate much of their stage routine in the various vaudeville and revue scenes of the picture.

Miss Terry, whose voice is considered to be one of the finest on the New York musical stage, will sing a luring tune entitled "Should I?" and also "The Woman in the Shoe," a song adapted from the old nursery rhyme and around which is built one of the spectacular Technicolor sequences. Kaley has a solo called "Only Love Is Real" and also sings a sentimental ballad with Cliff Edwards called "A Bundle of Old Love Letters. An interesting item of the picture is the fact that it contains the song which first brought Edwards into the limelight, namely, "A Japanese Sandman," with which he "stopped the show" at New York's Riverside Theatre a few years ago.

The story of "Lord Byron" concerns a handsome young songwriter whose attraction for women continually gets him into hot water. It is said the picture brims with hilarious situations but leads up to an emotional climax.

Willard Mack and Crane Wilbur, both well-known playwrights, were engaged to write the dialogue and continuity.

Have you a hobby? If not, it is time to scurry around and find one. Without a first class hobby, life is incomplete.

A hobby is the outcome of a temperamental desire which seeks expression. Generally speaking, a hobby is something far apart from a vocation.

For example, practically every motion picture star in Hollywood has a hobby, some of them a bit fantastic, but at least interesting.

Take for instance, the players in "Spring is Here," a First National-Vitaphone picture coming to the Ritz Theatre Friday and Saturday. They all confess to hobbies.

Joan Bennett In Queen Feature, "Crazy That Way"

Joan Bennett, playing the lead in "Crazy That Way," Fox Movietone production directed by Hamilton MacFadden, gives the greater share of credit for her success to those she has supported—in films. This picture will be shown Wednesday and Thursday at the Queen theatre.

When she came to Hollywood and filmdom she was a bewildered girl, not quite understanding why her first role on the talking screen was the lead opposite Ronald Colman in "Bulldog Drummond."

Since "Bulldog Drummond," she has been transformed from a graceful girl to a talented actress. By way of comparison nothing more attests the truth of this than to see her in "Bulldog Drummond."

a hobby started in his boyhood. He is a philatelist and has postage stamps old and new from every corner of the globe. These are carefully mounted and catalogued.

Bernice Claire, who is naturally musical, for a number of years has been gathering copies of old songs that have long since passed out of favor. She is particularly proud of having a first edition of Charles K. Harris' "After the Ball." Among her hundreds of copies of sheet music are many favorites of bygone days, such as "Two Little Girls in Blue" and "Waltz Me Around Again, Willie."

Alexander Gray has been a baseball fan for years and has a really valuable collection of pictures of old stars of the diamond. Gray's collection goes as far back as Amos Rousie, who pitched for New York in the middle nineties.

Louise Fazenda has a fascinating collection of quaint teapots which she has found in curio shops and in the residences of old settlers, whose chinaware has been passed on from generation to generation. Special cabinets have been built to fit in the dining room and living room of her home, each shelf laden with teapots.

Ford Sterling, noted comedian from way back in the Keystone days, has made a marvelous collection of pipes, running all the way from the finely carved Meerschaum to the humble corn-cob.

Inez Courtney admits that shoes are an irresistible attraction. Shoes, of all colors and styles, and including the footwear of most of the nations of the world. Miss Courtney has cabinets in which these shoes are placed on display.

"THE GOLDEN CALF" COMING AS RITZ MID-WEEK FEATURE

Well-filled stockings, not at all due to the generosity of Santa Claus, brought joy to a large group of Hollywood girls recently when they appeared before Judge Marshall F. McComb in the Superior Court of Los Angeles with their mothers and fathers and had official approval given their long-term contracts with the William Fox studios.

The girls are part of the chorus of 100 especially selected for the dance ensemble numbers of "The Golden Calf," spectacular Fox Movietone comedy with music which will be seen and heard at the Ritz theatre Wednesday and Thursday.

There were forty of the girls who descended upon the august judge and staged their own beauty parade before the bar of justice. This balance of the large chorus already is under contract and so it was not necessary to have their agreements revised by the court.

California law makes it compulsory for any contract with a minor—15 years in the case of girls—to be officially approved by a superior court judge before it becomes binding. This measure protects the minors and incidentally the studios. They must be accompanied to court by their parents or guardians who must give their consent to the contracts.

All the girls have calves which are exactly thirteen inches in circumference, with ankles seven and a quarter inches, and feet nine inches long.

Hidalgo County Democrats Have New Executive

McALLEN, Tex., May 23 (AP)—For the first time in fourteen years, Democrats of Hidalgo county today had a new executive committee chairman, Lloyd P. Bloodworth, former secretary of the Edinburg Chamber of Commerce, was named to succeed M. McIlhenny. He had held the post for that length of time in turbulent county politics in which Sheriff A. Y. Baker has played a prominent part.

Members of the present county administration, all democrats, have held office from six to 12 years. "The bars of the democratic party in Hidalgo county are down," Bloodworth declared. "Anyone having political ambitions may announce for office."

and then take a look at her as Ann Jordan in "Crazy That Way." The transformation is truly unbelievable.

Miss Bennett gives most credit for her marked improvement to Hamilton MacFadden, who directed her in "Crazy That Way," who, she says, seemed to instantly sense her hidden capabilities.

Though Miss Bennett has played leads in six big productions within the space of one year, it has not all been glitter and joyousness.

She has had her heartbreaks—and plenty.

Brought from New York for the special purpose of enacting the feminine lead in the production of "Bulldog Drummond," she had every right to presume that a go-i characterization would lead to other important roles. Two days after her first picture was finished she was called into the studio office and informed there were no roles available for her. One studio official advised her to return to the stage.

"You can imagine my feelings," said Miss Bennett. "I had given up my stage career to accept the 'Bulldog Drummond' role. Now I was told that I was not needed. My first thought was that a Bennett had failed. Hurrying down to the Belasco Theatre, I secured a role in 'The Pirate,' a stage play. Of course I know now that the studio was wise in not using me in another picture so soon after my first one. While they might like my work, until the public passed judgment I was still a gamble. Three weeks after I began work in 'The Pirate' the studio sent for me and I signed one of those long-term contracts."

Kenneth MacKenna, Regis Toomey, Jason Roberts, Sharon Lynn and Lumsden Hare are the featured players. MacFadden, who directed, also wrote the scenario and dialog in conjunction with the gifted Marion Orth.

His Name?

But though places and customs and dress have changed, Stockton impresses on us that human nature has not changed. In Florida the couple met a party of three who joined them on their yacht trip. These three are described as constantly wielding pencils; their journals or notebooks were always in their hands. Who has ever made a trip to Europe with a tour or party and not seen people so busy writing about what they see that they scarcely see anything? There was one American woman in England who almost tripped the guide several times one morning when a party was "seeing London." She was always at his elbow, writing down every word he said, asking him to spell names of people, places, things. When he said, "Here is the grave of unknown soldier" she never lifted her pencil or her eyes, but asked in a business-like way, "What was his name?" Every other member of the group of Americans blushed or squirmed, but the long-suffering guide answered without any apparent surprise, "He was unknown, madam." For the guide was an old man, perhaps old enough to recall Victorian note-books.
