Ex-Land Chief Is Indicted By State

Bascom Giles Is Charged In Plot To Steal

AUSTIN, March 5 — UP — Bascom Giles, 54, land commissioner of Texas for 16 years and former chairman of the scandalized agency that administers a $100 million veterans land program, was arrested Saturday on a charge of plotting to steal $83,500 from the state.

He was at least the 11th person indicted in the burgeoning land scandal.

Giles resigned as commissioner of the General Land Office on Jan. 1, the day he was to have started his ninth consecutive term.

The land commissioner is by law chairman of the Veterans Land Board, which at the time of Giles' resignation already was under investigation by the state Senate. Gov. Allan Shivers and Attorney General John Ben Shepperd also are members of the board.

Six persons have been indicted at Cuero, Tex., where fraudulent dealings in the program designed to permit veterans to buy land on long terms at low interest rates first was publicized by the Cuero Record: two at San Antonio, and at least three at Austin.

Giles was one of at least three persons indicted Friday by a Travis county grand jury. One indictment named Giles and E. R. Sheffield jointly. Nineteen other indictments named L. R. Ruffin, a Brady, Tex., land promoter. The nature of the indictments and persons named were not disclosed until Saturday.

Giles made $60,000 bond later Saturday and was released. Ruffin, arrested earlier in the day at Brady, Tex., posted $40,000 bond. Shepperd said the indictment of Giles climaxed "months of investigation and work" and predicted "there will be other indictments against him."

"Texas grand juries are not through with Giles," the attorney (See INDICTED, Page 3)

WESTERN-TYPE RUSTLER HUNT IS A CASE OF 'CRY WOLF'

Minutes after rancher Johnny Rapstine called the sheriff Saturday night to report a cattle theft on his place, 24 miles south of Pampa, law enforcement officers all over the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandle were alerted. Rapstine said he saw tracks left in his field by a "bob-tail" truck, apparently used in the "theft." About 30 minutes after the alert the cattle "thief" hunt was called off.

It seems a neighbor of Rapstine's had backed into his field to pick up a stray calf. The "stolen" cattle, all seven, were found wandering in an adjoining field, but separated from the main herd.

Salk Vaccine Is Distributed In Anticipation

NEW YORK, March 5 UP — Nationwide distribution of enough Salk anti-polio vaccine to vaccinate nine million children is well underway, it was disclosed Saturday.

The distribution by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is in anticipation of a favorable report from the scientific evaluation center established to measure the results of the test vaccination of 440,000 children last spring.

In addition to the nine million vaccinations purchased with $9 million in March of Dimes funds, pharmaceutical manufacturers are piling up a considerable stock for the use of private physicians — also in the belief that the scientific evaluation report will be favorable.

The evaluation center at the University of Michigan, directed by Dr. Thomas Francis Jr., is expected to make its report soon after April 1. It will be an elaborate report, designed to answer many complex questions with scientific precision.

No one aside from Dr. Francis and his associates has any indication of what these answers will be, and Dr. Francis has repeatedly made pronouncements against "leaks." But scientists who have been close to the development of the vaccine from the beginning were positive that the report could not be entirely unfavorable.

An entirely unfavorable report would be that the vaccine had no protective value against polio whatever. The elaborate and large-scale tests of Dr. Jonas E. Salk, who developed the vaccine at the University of Pittsburgh, first in animals and then in human beings, all but ruled out such a sad end to man's greatest hope so far for ridding polio.

Unopposed Saturday were Lynn Boyd, candidate for mayor; Gene Fatheree, candidate for reelection as commissioner from Ward 1; and Frank Dial, candidate for reelection as commissioner from Ward 2. Boyd is a lumberman; Fatheree, a wholesale confectioner; and Dial, a service station operator.

Lane was reared in Arnett, Okla., and came to Pampa from Colorado 22 years ago. He has a son, Emmett and a daughter, Mrs. Thelma Attaway, both of Pampa.

Russ Say A-Target List Includes U. S.

LONDON, March 5 UP — Soviet Russia said Saturday the United States is on the list of targets that it could and would strike with atom bombs if the need arises for "military retaliation."

Friday Moscow warned Britain that the British Isles are particularly exposed and vulnerable to Soviet H-bombs if a nuclear war begins.

A Moscow Radio broadcast, monitored here, said: "Under modern conditions the United States ruling circles have no ground for hope that should they commit aggression, U. S. territory would remain outside military retaliation.

"And as regards the production of hydrogen weapons, the Soviet union is well ahead of the USA," the broadcast said.

Written by General The broadcast was based on an article written for the Soviet journal New Times by Maj. Gen. F. Isayev.

He said the United States at one time hoped they could inflict "masked atomic blow on vital centers of the Soviet Union and the other peace-loving countries."

"They calculated that the USA would remain invulnerable," the broadcast said.

Now, it said, the United States cannot hope that its own territory would remain outside the range of Russian atomic retaliation.

"As regards the well-recognized vulnerability of their (the United States) satellites in Western Europe and other regions where the US military bases are situated, this state of affairs does not trouble the strategists," the Isayev article said.

"It would seem that these facts now are being understood in Washington."

Ezzell was released from Hemphill County Hospital Saturday morning, according to Rathjen. Deaton was still hospitalized Saturday with a condition not arising from the fight.

Deaton beat up the Canadian editor supposedly as a result of newspaper articles dealing with the majority race. The attack took place in the Canadian American Legion Hall where Ezzell was covering a story on the drawing for a Panhandle Field Trial.

According to Ezzell, Deaton told Ezzell he wanted to talk to him outside the hall. In the affray, Ezzell was reported to have suffered a minor concussion, facial cuts and bruises. Deaton received an injured right hand. Ezzell weighed in at 130, while Deaton was described as weighing about 200.

In Dulles' private talks with the President and congressional committees, he is expected to go deeply into the latest developments in administration strategy to retaliate on three fronts against Red China if it commits aggression in the Asian-Pacific area.

The triple front strategy calls for hitting the Chinese Reds primarily from Korea, Formosa, and Southeast Asia. Chairman Walter F. George (D-Ga.) said Dulles will be asked to meet with the Senate Foreign Relations committee Tuesday if it is convenient for the secretary. If not, George said, a date later in the week will be set.

Dulles met in Bangkok, Thailand, with diplomats and defense leaders of seven other countries to put the Southeast Asian link into this defense planning. Early Saturday, Dalhart reported

Tension Turns Into Violence On Israeli-Jordanian Border

GAZA, Egyptian-Israeli Frontier, March 5 UP — Arab-Israeli tension which has threatened the peace of the Middle East, erupted Saturday in new violence on the Israeli-Jordanian frontier.

Jordan charged before the Mixed Arbitration Commission in Jerusalem, that five Jordanian Beduins were murdered by Israeli troops Friday night.

Israel charged Syria with a less serious frontier violation near the Haggovrima settlement where, it said, shots were fired from Syrian positions, wounding one of two workmen on waterworks project in upper Galilee. Israeli reinforcements returned and silenced the Syrian fire, the Israeli complaint said.

The commission already is considering Egypt's charges that an Israeli army unit on last Monday night staged a sneak attack on an Egyptian military post in this Egyptian frontier area, killing 42 Egyptians and wounding 29.

The situation here was so dangerous Saturday that families of the United Nations truce team — including one American woman — were evacuated from the Gaza area.

Egypt charged that Israeli artillery opened fire during the night on a second Egyptian military outpost, but inflicted no casualties.

The evacuation of UN families was ordered as a precaution against their becoming involved and possibly being wounded or killed in such clashes.

UN officials identified the American who was evacuated as Mrs. Pierre Duhat, formerly of Geneva, Ill. She is the wife of a Belgian civilian radio operator.

Confrontations Jordanian Charge Israel, which has denied the Egyptian charge of responsibility for the bloody Gaza battle, also countered the Jordanian charge of an unprovoked attack in Jordan territory on the opposite side of Israel.

Jordan told the Mixed Arbitration Commission its nationals were cut down deliberately in retaliation for the deaths of a young Israeli couple Israel claimed was murdered two weeks ago. Jordan said a sixth Jordanian was released and told to tell his government the murders were in repayment for the two Israeli deaths.

Israel claimed the latest clash occurred when four armed Jordan shepherds were found herding their flocks on Israeli territory in the Beit Govrin area. The shepherds were said to have exchanged gunfire with the patrol and then to have withdrawn to Jordan territories.

Israel indicated it knew of no casualties in the encounter.

Jordan lies across Israel from the Gaza strip where reports of new Israeli actions raised fears for the safety of United Nations families.

City Commission Hopeful Signs Up

The Pampa political pot came to even more a boil Saturday as another candidate filed with City Secy. Ed Vicars to put one man each in the race for mayor and commissioner from Wards 1 and 2, two for Ward 3 commissioner and three for Ward 4 commissioner.

The latest to file was Earl Lane, 65, of 515 Ash, a retired carpenter who is running for city commissioner from Ward 4.

Wards 3 and 4, therefore, now enjoy the distinction of having a grocer and a carpenter running in each of them.

Has Opposition Opposing Lane in the April 5 election will be incumbent W. D. Varnon, a grocer, and E. C. Schaffer, a perennial candidate whose latest political effort was to throw the Pct. 2 county commissioner race last summer into a runoff.

Fire Destroys Civic Building

SHAMROCK — A raging two-hour blaze Friday morning gutted the Shamrock Community Building and sent four firemen to the hospital for emergency treatment.

The two-alarm fire, fought by members of the Shamrock and Wheeler Fire Departments, was thought to have been caused by faulty wiring, according to Fire Chief Raymond York, but he added "as yet we're not sure of the cause."

The $20,000 blaze was reported at 10 a.m. It was brought under control by 11:50 a.m., York said. Only one person was in the building at the time of the blaze but was not injured.

One of the firemen, Ed Brookshire, was overcome by sulphur smoke fumes from burning roof tar. He was still in Shamrock Hospital late Saturday and was expected to undergo x-rays Monday to determine whether there was any injury to his lungs. Also treated for minor injuries and then released were Martin Exum, Bob Hammock and Jerry Birten.

Volcano Erupts 6 Days In Row

HILLO, Hawaii, March 5 UP — Kilauea volcano erupted for the sixth straight day Saturday, sending a muddy river of molten lava flowing toward the beach town of Pohokai where authorities ordered the evacuation of all residents.

Further inland, Kapoho was virtually sealed off from civilization as fingers of steaming rock oozed past both sides of the village en route to the sea.

A mile-long fissure poured lava the texture of heavy mud in an ever-widening arc over nearly flat tropical forest land on the eastern tip of the island.

Reports To Nation Tuesday Night

WASHINGTON, March 5 — UP — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles returns from the Far East Sunday to report on American-led strategy to pound Red China on three fronts, perhaps with atomic weapons, if the Communists commit outright aggression in Asia.

Dulles also will report on the chances of war or peace in the Formosa crisis. He conferred on Formosa with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek at the end of his seven-nation swing.

Dulles' reports to President Eisenhower, congressional committees, and the American people will vary, depending on his audience. In his nationwide television and radio address Tuesday night, he is expected to appeal to Nationalist and Red China to renounce the use of force in the Formosa-off shore island area. Ousted School Boss Asks Reinstatement

IRVING, Tex., March 5 — UP — The fired superintendent of Irving's eight schools, 215 striking teachers and service employes and the Irving Citizens' committee all asked the school board Saturday night to let the strikers go back to work and settle their disputes peacefully.

Dr. John L. Beard, 53, the former superintendent, whose dismissal was followed last Tuesday by the strike, asked the board to restore him, 10 other persons who were fired and the strikers to their jobs.

He said the 6,000 students of the schools were suffering because the trouble broke in the midst of the school year, and he was willing to have the question of his retention as school superintendent put up to the voters in May, when two new members of the school board will be elected.

Would Go Voluntarily If the voters decided then that he should go, he said he would go at the end of the current school term (See earlier story and picture on page 5.)

and not try to collect the balance of his contract. He would then have two more years to go at $9,700 a year.

Dr. Beard renewed his request for a public hearing of the Board's complaint against him. He said he would even present himself for a closed "or star chamber" hearing, but would reserve the right to object to it.

The Citizens' committee, which earlier got 3,000 signatures to a petition demanding Dr. Beard's reinstatement or the school board's resignation, did not include Dr. Beard in its proposal.

Gave Consent and Authority The striking teachers and the principals, seven of whom were fired, gave their "consent and authority" to the proposal.

Cold Wave, Floods In Weather Scene

TEXAS' balmy March weather came to an end Saturday as a reinforced cold front pushed into the state. Freezing drizzle, snow flurries and some blowing dust followed the cold air into the Panhandle.

Two cold masses merged in the midwest and barreled on into the Lone Star State. By mid-afternoon, the front had moved halfway through the state and may reach the lower Rio Grande Valley by Sunday morning, weathermen said.

The citrus and vegetables in the lower Valley appeared to be in no great danger from the cold, at least for Saturday night.

The temperature at Amarillo was 34 degrees at mid-afternoon and was falling. Readings of from 12 to 22 degrees were predicted for the Panhandle and Upper South Plains before morning, 22 to 32 in the Lower South Plains and 28 to 45 elsewhere in West Texas.

Lows of 22 to 32 degrees were expected in the northwest section of North Central Texas, and 27 to 35 degree readings were likely in the extreme northern portion of East Texas.

The rain and snow in the Panhandle was hardly enough to wet the ground, weathermen said, and there was no other moisture reported in the state although it was cloudy nearly everywhere.

Some dust was in the air in West Texas. But, fortunately, winds generally were from the north and northeast whereas west winds usually whip up the most dust, weathermen said.

Early Saturday, Dalhart reported

ed two-mile visibility and blowing dust. San Angelo also reported gusts Saturday afternoon.

Winds off the Gulf produced gusts up to 30-mile-per-hour at Brownsville and 20 to 35 miles-per-hour winds hit North Texas. But winds generally were light in West Texas.

All Juveniles Not Delinquent

By MARY KAY FLYNN
NEA Staff Correspondent
TOPEKA, Kans. — (NEA) — "The Knights," a pyramiding club of teenage boys, have set out to wipe out juvenile delinquency by earning the respect of their elders and other teenagers.

No sissies, they are "regular guys" pledged to chivalrous conduct and helping others of their own age group.

"We're going to prove we can go out and handle ourselves like gentlemen," explained Jim Fretz, 16, treasurer. "Too often folks read something about kids getting into trouble and then suspect all teenagers of doing the same thing."

The Knights conduct their meetings at police headquarters but they're on their honor when away from home for other activities. Their sworn objective: "To prove all juveniles are not delinquents and to provide for the common defense of teenagers."

"Andy" Anderson, 27-year-old father of two pre-school boys was assigned to investigate reports of teenagers' "noisy parties" in the summer of 1953. Out of this acquaintance came a request from some of the youths for permission to hold a street dance. The place later was changed to a tennis court.

When the dance was rained out, Topeka's police chief, S. R. Purdue, invited the youths to use a large meeting room at police headquarters. It was the first time many of the youths had been inside the building; for others who had brushed with the law it was the beginning of a new relationship.

Last November members of a teenage club which had changed its name from "Hooded Klan" to "The Knights" sought out "Andy," the cop who left the good impression. They asked his assistance in adopting a family for Christmas.

Anderson suggested they channel their thoughtfulness for others into a permanent organization by "adopting" buddies to help solve some of the problems of their own age group.

The youths decided to give the idea a try and organized with 14 charter members. They already have built membership to 49 with 20 applicants waiting to be processed.

"Gaining membership means a lot of the kids who are blamed for things they didn't do," Anderson observed.

Jack Watts, 19, one of the original Knights and now president of the new organization, admits that the original plan of the "Hooded Knights" was to wear hooded sweatshirts and employ some secret tactics.

"Our folks thought from the sound of 'Hooded Knights' that we were going to end up in jail, but even after we changed our name it didn't convince them that the

Eisenhower, Churchill Meeting Said Probable

LONDON, March 5 (UP) — Highly placed British sources said Saturday night that Prime Minister Winston Churchill and President Dwight D. Eisenhower probably will meet to discuss the Atlantic pact in the Atlantic City area in the next few days.

The British authority said it appears inevitable that Churchill and President Eisenhower will meet to discuss the Atlantic pact in the Atlantic City area in the next few days.

He said the prime minister's speech should have made it "abundantly clear on both sides of the Atlantic" that the alliance, so Dwight D. Eisenhower probably will meet to discuss the Atlantic pact in the Atlantic City area in the next few days.

These sources suggested that the 80-year-old prime minister may even now be contemplating another pilgrimage to Washington in an attempt to bring American and British policy back into line.

Churchill on Tuesday said bluntly that Britain must build its own H-bomb because American H-bombers might not give adequate priority to the targets Britain would want bombed in event of a war.

In addition to the 1946 parting of the ways on the sharing of nuclear secrets, he said Anglo-American policy now is in need of synchronizing all the way from Europe to the Far East. He said some particularly close planning is indicated in the strife-torn Middle East.

VFW Official Fails Lie Test In Party Death

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 5 (UP) — Joe Evert Austin, 29-year-old VFW official who was jailed after the wife of another member died as he took her home, took a second unsuccessful lie detector test Saturday.

Austin offered to repeat the story of how Mrs. Dorothy Williams, a pretty 28-year-old brunette, died on the way home from a VFW party. Homicide detectives said he gave conflicting answers to questions about the death.

M. W. Myatt, state crime bureau polygraph expert, said Austin was in such a high state of nervous tension, it was impossible to obtain a positive reaction. Austin showed similar nervousness when he took his first test Friday.

Dies of Skull Fracture
Mrs. Williams died at a hospital Friday of a skull fracture. Austin told police she fell from her automobile as he was driving her home from a VFW dance. Her husband, Oscar P. Williams, was out of town.

"The autopsy report said the head wound was probably caused by a blunt instrument."

"The blow definitely was not caused by a flat surface, such as falling on the pavement," Homicide Capt. Ted Baughman said.

Back Seat Bloody
"Besides that he said the upper torso showed no pavement burns or bruises, although Mrs. Williams legs were scratched."

The back seat of Austin's car was soaked with blood, a window was broken and the right rear door had been built back so far it bent the fender. Neighbors said the door was all right Thursday.

Austin first told officers he agreed to drive Mrs. Williams straight home, but later admitted he stopped at his five-room home for a drink.

Three Are Out
COLLEGE STATION, Tex., March 5—UP—Three Texas A&M track men who had been counted on to win points in a triangular track meet in Austin Saturday against Texas and Houston, won't compete. Shotputters Bobby Green and Harry Cox have injured legs, while broad jumper Bobby Robinson has a sprained ankle.

KNIGHTS' ROUNDTABLE SESSIONS are held in Topeka police headquarters building, where Jack Watts, 19 (on table), presides. Police sponsors Robinson and Wilbur Anderson sit in.

title wasn't a front for delinquency," he recalled. "Now we have an organization of which we are proud and we want to justify adult confidence in us."

The Knights have toured all divisions of the Topeka police departments and have seen special demonstrations of judo and police equipment such as lie detectors and firearms.

"When you get to know the police setup, you see how quick they can get you," one youth remarked with unabashed frankness.

"I think I'm lucky," is the way Dave Lawrence, 17, put it on being admitted to membership by the Knights.

On his membership application one would-be member wrote: "I belong to no other social organizations and I have few good friends and I am hoping to find some good pals."

On the suggestion of a Topeka druggist, a booster organization called "The Silent Knights" has been formed by civic leaders, businessmen and fathers of the young Knights. They plan to give counsel and personal assistance when requested and match dollar-for-dollar he money the Knights themselves put into their treasury.

Last month 28 members went to Omaha, Neb., for a tour of Boys Town, and now envision a similar setup for their own state. They consider it a long-range dream that will come true someday.

Anderson and the other police sponsor, Patrolman Vernon "Robbie" Robinson, have no special formula — apart from a genuine Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson and interest in youth — to account for their popularity with the Knights, but they are agreed on this requisite:

"You've got to be one of the boys."

Brooklynites to Box
HOLYOKE, Mass., March 5—UP—A couple of Brooklyn boys have been signed to meet in the feature 10-round bout here Tuesday night.

Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson and Roy Thomas are the principals.

Perryton To Build Reservoir

PERRYTON — (Special) — Perryton is advertising for bids for the construction of a new 200,000 gallon concrete reservoir which is needed to help the water situation during the summer months.

The reservoir is to be located just north of the present reservoir in the city park. The present reservoir holds 100,000 gallons and the overhead tank has a storage capacity of 200,000 gallons.

The city has had a water storage problem during the past two summers, and the new reservoir will enable them to handle peak periods during the summer.

There are two wells pumping into the south storage tanks at about 575 gallons per minute. Work has been done on the pump at the city park well, boosting the capacity considerably.

The average per capita water consumption in Perryton is about 90 gallons per day. In the peak periods of the summer, however, consumption jumps to 1,200 gallons. This has put a strain on the pumping and storage facilities of the city system and may necessitate the drilling of more wells in the near future.

"he mass production of mechanical dryers got underway in 1948.

HOTTEST BUICK IN HISTORY
No wonder you see so many 1955 Buicks on the highways—they're rolling up bigger sales than ever before in history—topping the popularity that has already made Buick one of the "Big Three" in total national sales.

Who says you can't have getaway and gas saving too?

(maybe you'd better try Variable Pitch Dynaflo!)

As any automotive engineer will tell you, the goal in automatic transmissions has long been a design that would give top acceleration and top gas mileage—and still be absolutely smooth.

Well, it's easy to step up acceleration, or gas mileage—but tough to do both together—unless a lot of gearshifting takes place, which cuts down on smoothness.

So Buick engineers looked to aviation for the answer—and brother! what a wonderful new magic they came up with!

They took a leaf from today's plane propeller—which switches the pitch of its blades one way for quick take-off—and another way for better gas mileage aloft.

They brought the same principle to Dynaflo Drive®—to the twenty propeller-like blades in the Dynaflo "stator." They engineered these blades to swivel like the blades of the plane propeller—and with the same results.

In cruising and all normal driving, the blades are angled for economy—and you get a lot more miles from a tankful of gas.

But when you have to move instantly—when you need quick getaway, or a sudden burst of safety-surge power to get out of a tight spot—you just press down that gas pedal, and you're off in a split second.

You've never felt anything like it before—because there's never been anything like it before in an automobile.

It's action that's sheer thrill—action that's backed by the highest V8 horsepower in Buick history—action that's sending Buick sales soaring to record-high levels.

Come in and try it, at the wheel of a Buick SPECIAL, CENTURY, SUPER or ROADMASTER. You have nothing to lose—and the year's most thrilling buy to meet.

*Dynaflo Drive is standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Allies May Watch Only At A-Tests

WASHINGTON, March 5—UP—The United States has invited representatives of Britain and other Allied nations to witness under certain restrictions—some of this nation's atomic tests in Nevada.

But none of the foreign representatives will be given access to any secret data on design and manufacture of nuclear weapons, authoritative sources reported Saturday.

This ban is laid down in U.S. law. But the visitors from some of the principal North Atlantic pact nations will be given opportunity to study the effects of nuclear explosions.

Briton Will Watch

Sir William Penney, Great Britain's top nuclear weapons expert, will be among those who will witness one of this spring's Nevada explosions.

Dispatches from London said Britain is seeking full restoration of the atomic partnership with the United States that existed during World War II. But officials said American law would bar that.

The Defense Department already has announced that 60 Canadian officers and men will participate in radiological exercises in connection with the Nevada tests. It also has invited, in addition to Britain, some of the other leading NATO allies to send representatives but as yet has not made a detailed announcement.

The London dispatches indicated Penney would seek to broaden the scope of his visit here to encompass exchange of information on weapons production as well as weapons effects.

Blind, Deaf Parents May Lose New Son

MIAMI, March 5—UP—A childless Miami couple appealed Saturday for permission to rear a 12-day-old boy who may be taken from his Ohio home because his parents are blind and deaf.

The father of the child, Harold Hathaway, Stow, Ohio, is the father of Mrs. Paul R. Baker Jr., who joined with her husband in asking for the baby.

Baker, an electric motor repairman, telephoned United Press after reading about the tragic plight of Harold and Georgia Hathaway, whose son was born with normal eyesight and hearing.

"That little boy is my wife's brother," Baker said. "We certainly would like to take him in if the welfare people in Ohio won't let Mr. and Mrs. Hathaway keep him."

Baker said he and his wife visited her father about 15 months ago and had not heard of the son being born until they read the story in a local paper.

None Register For Exemption

The deadline for Pampans who have turned 21 since Feb. 1 to apply for an exemption to vote in city and school elections this year passed Saturday.

And not a single one of the eligibles had applied to County Tax Collector Jack Back.

The city election is April 15 and the school board election April 2. By law, exemptions for those who become 21 after the regular poll tax and exemption deadline (Jan. 31) must be applied for in the county tax office 30 days before the election.

"For the child's good, he probably will have to be taken away from the parents to a place where he can be cared for better by sighted people."

Stock Mart Probers Scan Contractors

WASHINGTON, March 5—UP—Senate investigators asked the Defense Department Saturday for a list of its 100 top defense contractors to determine whether its procurement policies have contributed to the stock market boom.

Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) said his Senate Banking Committee wants to find out what effect defense business has had on the stocks of companies concerned. Financial data of the contractors will be analyzed.

The committee is making a "friendly" investigation of the surging market.

Tips and Rumors

The request was sent to the Pentagon after Fulbright disclosed the committee is checking about 20 instances in which "tips and rumors" produced market fluctuations. The activity could have resulted in market killings for a few insiders.

Testimony Friday highlighted two instances of frenzied market activity occasioned by tips from radio-TV commentator Walter Winchell. Winchell quickly issued a statement asserting that he owns no stocks personally.

Boy Falls Two Floors And Lives

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 5—UP—An 11-year-old boy who fell out a window to a concrete driveway two stories below was in "fair" condition today.

John Tway was admitted to Mercy hospital Friday night suffering from a skull fracture. Investigators said the boy apparently lost his balance while on a bunk bed.

Cops Pick Wrong Man As Gunman

GREEN RIVER, Wyo., March 5—UP—Authorities discovered Saturday that the fugitive who killed two men in a mad flight through Wyoming and Utah Friday before he was himself slain was not the ex-convict they supposed him to be.

A fingerprint check showed that the tall, slim man killed by a railroad agent's shotgun volley in a Green River home Friday night was not the Melvin Henry Gray who had served a year for check forgery in the Wyoming penitentiary.

But he used the name of Melvin Gray, perhaps coincidentally, for more than a year while working for Pinedale, Wyo., rancher Dean Binning.

Binning came here Saturday and viewed the killer's body. He said it was the body of a young man, about 23, who had worked for him under the name of Gray, and registered a car under that name.

Trustworthy Worker

"He was a trustworthy and willing worker," Binning said. "I knew nothing bad about him."

Until Binning had seen the body, authorities feared that the real Gray might also have been killed and his identity and possessions taken over.

The ex-convict Gray had not contacted Wyoming authorities to help clear up the mystery.

INDICTED

General said. Shepperd released a prepared statement on the Travis county grand jury action after returning from San Antonio where he conferred with a Bexar county grand jury also investigating the veterans land program.

Shepperd lauded work done by the Travis county grand jury and District Attorney Les Procter.

"They did an outstanding job for the people of Texas," he said. One of Shepperd's assistants had been assigned to work with the Travis county grand jury during its investigation.

The Giles indictment alleged "conspiracy to commit theft" and charged that he and Sheffield on "about Dec. 16, 1953, 'did conspire and agree together and between themselves to unlawfully and fraudulently take $83,500...' in state money in connection with the veterans land program.

Giles was arrested shortly after noon as he left the Perry-Brooks building, a downtown office structure. He apparently knew nothing about the indictment. He was handed a copy by a newsmen. Giles pulled his horn-rimmed glasses from his coat pocket, put them on and, sitting in the Travis county sheriff's office, carefully read the charge against him.

"I'm wondering what they based that on," he said. "It doesn't mean anything to me."

Ruffin, in nine indictments, was accused of uttering a forged instrument affecting a land title, in another nine of committing a forgery affecting a land title; in a single count of the theft of $83,500 from the state.

Giles first was elected land commissioner in 1938, upsetting the incumbent. He had worked in the land office 17 years, starting as a 29-year-old office boy. After being elected commissioner he was re-elected overwhelmingly every two years thereafter.

He smiled affably when brought to the sheriff's office Saturday, but he would say little or nothing to newsmen.

The land scandals generally have involved land dealers who got veterans — mostly Negroes and Mexicans — to apply to buy land under the program. The veterans' land purchases are financed by the state and the ex-servicemen repay the money over 40 years at three per cent interest.

Some of the veterans signed blank pieces of paper which, they were told, would insure their "loan" rights later if they needed them. The land dealers, according to the charges and to testimony before separate House and Senate committees investigating the scandal, filled in the papers and turned them in to the state, which "bought" the land from the dealers for the veterans, with the dealers making what has been described as "windfall" profits.

The veterans then were supposed to start paying back the state monthly. Some were surprised to learn from the state that they were landowners.

one, politically. Only Schaffer and Buckner had announced before the week began. Tuesday the four present commissioners filed. (Incumbent Mayor Tom Rose has been saying for some time that he would not be a candidate for reelection. And he has not announced.) Boyd announced Thursday night and Lane, late Saturday morning.

Theoretically, potential candidates have until midnight today to file for office. But for practical purposes, the deadline was Saturday. If they wanted to file after noon Saturday, they had to contact Mayor Rose of City Seeyvicars, and neither of them would state where he would be up till midnight today.

As Vicars put it just before he closed his office door Saturday: "After all, they've had months in which to file. They should have made up their minds by now."

Candidates for city office by law must file 30 days before the election. That 30 days of no announcing begins at midnight tonight.

WEATHER

aries spilled over into lowland areas of four states Saturday and a late winter cold wave moved in to the upper Midwest.

Meanwhile, Tornado threats ended in the South.

Floodwaters inundated low-lying farmland, villages and cities in western Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky and Ohio, forcing hundreds of families to flee.

U. S. Engineers predicted the Ohio would reach 40 to 41 feet at Marietta, Ohio Monday morning. Flood stage is 35 feet. A 40-foot crest would overflow into the main business district.

Supermarkets and grocery stores did a rush business as residents stocked up on supplies to tide them over until the flood recedes.

Civil defense disaster crews were alerted and several roads into Marietta were closed.

He will turn over the petitions—similar ones are being collected over the state — to Gordon Griffin, executive secretary of the Texas Service Stations Association.

Ogden said Saturday he understood a legislative hearing will be held sometime in the near future. The TSSA's alternate proposals for raising additional tax money are store trade stamps and certain presently tax-exempt merchandising companies.

'Protest' Petitions To Be Collected

Petitions protesting a proposed state gasoline tax increase that have been circulated to Pampa's 50 gas stations for customers to sign will be collected Monday by Ben Ogden, Pampa Service Stations Association official, and taken to Austin.

He will turn over the petitions—similar ones are being collected over the state — to Gordon Griffin, executive secretary of the Texas Service Stations Association.

Ogden said Saturday he understood a legislative hearing will be held sometime in the near future. The TSSA's alternate proposals for raising additional tax money are store trade stamps and certain presently tax-exempt merchandising companies.

Pampan Pleads Not Guilty

Clarence Hale, 32, of 513 N. Sloan, pleaded not guilty Friday to a charge of aggravated assault on his wife and his bond was set at $500, the office of County Atty. Don Cain reported Saturday.

New Armory Stands As Tribute To Pampa Guard

By ED NASH

Pampa News Staff Writer
The Pampa unit of the Texas National Guard has come a long way since Dec. 15, 1948.

It has survived a disastrous fire, helped out in a tornado, increased its personnel sevenfold and got itself a much larger meeting place.

It is that "meeting place" — the new Guard armory building in Recreation Park — that will be dedicated Monday afternoon, less than 10 months since the unit's guidon was planted at the site by Capt. Charles L. Robison, battalion executive officer.

Visitors, entering the main door on the south, will see a vast drill hall ringed with 11 offices. A tier of windows at the top look down on cream-colored tile walls, glazed at the bottom, and on a concrete floor which becomes an asphalt tile floor once you enter the offices.

To the left as you enter, and working around the huge structure (114 x 109 x 34 feet), are the headquarters battery room, conference room, service center of office, a double classroom which can be split into two separate rooms by folding soundproof doors, battalion headquarters, and battalion commander's office, supply room which has an entrance to the walk-in safe, a small door and then a large overhead door opening on the north motor park another supply room, the kitchen and the office for operations, training and personnel.

Then there's the furnishings and conveniences. Some are gifts. Like the gas range from Meivin Moyer, the range and refrigerator from Paul Crossman, the desk from Lynn Boyd, the 200 folding chairs from Doug Mills, even the extra keys for door locks from John Schoofield.

Others came with the place. They include two ventilators, three air vents in the ceiling, four unit heaters, three exhaust fans, a water heater and drinking fountain.

Started There

All this comprises the new home of the Headquarters and Headquarters Battery of the 47th Field Artillery Battalion (Observation) — the Pampa unit of the Guard. Three other Panhandle communities — Shamrock, Dumas and Dalhart — have batteries in the battalion now. But Pampa is where it got started.

And that was just a few short steps off the northeast of the new building.

The "armory" where the Pampa battery (and battalion) was organized Dec. 15, 1948, was all wood, an old hospital mess hall, a gift from the Pampa Air Base.

Capt. William J. Ragsdale, who heads the Texas Employment Commission office in Pampa now was the first commander. There were two officers and 16 enlisted men. Three of the enlisted men are still in the Pampa unit: Sgt. Charles A. Adams, Sgt. Earl V. Wallin and Sgt. Clarence E. Upton.

Capt. Robison, grain company business manager, took over command in February, 1951, just four months before the whole unit was called out to help in the White Deer tornado and earn these words from Mrs. Ralph Randel, Carson County Red Cross chairman:

"The Pampa Guard unit is ever the most wonderful thing I've ever seen in a disaster area . . . never (was there) less hysteria and more organization."

Tragedy

But at 2 a.m. Nov. 28, 1951, less than six months later, tragedy struck — the building that had been used as the armory for almost three years burned to the ground. First there was pessimism, then Lt. Col. James T. Clark, battalion commander, said, "Either we'll come out of this thing a better unit, or we'll sink."

The unit didn't sink, but eventually it did get dispersed somewhat — into four separate places. First it used the Cabot offices on West Brown but in October, 1953, the non-vehicular equipment went to a building at 400 W. Wilks, the vehicles went to Fisher-Panhandle Grain Co., the drills took place in the Legion-V.F.W. Hall and the administrative work was done in the Courthouse.

In January, 1954, Second Lt. Robert A. Smith, Celanese supervisor, took over as commander of the unit with Capt. Robison moving up to executive officer. At the same time, Lt. Col. Clarke was replaced by Maj. (now Lt. Col.) Dock A. Stuart, oil tool company branch manager, as battalion commander. A little over a year later — last month — First Lt. James O. Harris, Cabot engineer, replaced Lt. Smith.

A new part of the Pampa battery, a medical detachment, was added to the scene March 1, 1954. It has 10 enlisted men. Its officer will be Assistant Harvester Basketball Coach Terry Culley, who is scheduled to make second lieutenant Monday night. The detachment is separate from the battery but a part of the battalion.

124 Now

Today the Pampa Guard unit, excluding the medics, has 14 officers, 106 enlisted men and four warrant officers. The unit complement climbed from 16 to 57 the first year, stayed in the 60s till 1953 when it climbed to 87 EMs and then went over the 100-mark last year.

The unit is represented by all manner of occupations and previous military service. There's M. Sgt. Kay Fancher, radio executive who handles operations and training in the Guard; Maj. George W. Dingus, engineer and survey officer; Rev. Dick Crews, pastor and chaplain; and First Lt. Winford L. Veale, Jr., paint company store manager and motor and service center officer.

There are six men who work full-time for the Guard. Three are mechanics. The other three are CWO William Leonard, administrative assistant, adjutant and military personnel officer; WOJG Wesley Langham, administrative supply and maintenance technician and unit administrator; and Sgt. Richard D. McPherson, Leonard's assistant.

In the unit are engineers, oil company employes, a football coach, bookkeeper, phone company personnel, a highway patrolman, restaurant cooks, oil well (and field) supply people, electricians, radio and TV men, a roofer, service station operator, IBM operator, seismograph crewman, employment agency personnel, post office employes, a school janitor, carpenters, machinists, a soil conservation man and high school and college students. The last includes Ken Hinkle and Benny Cartwright, first-string Harvester basketballers.

Active Service

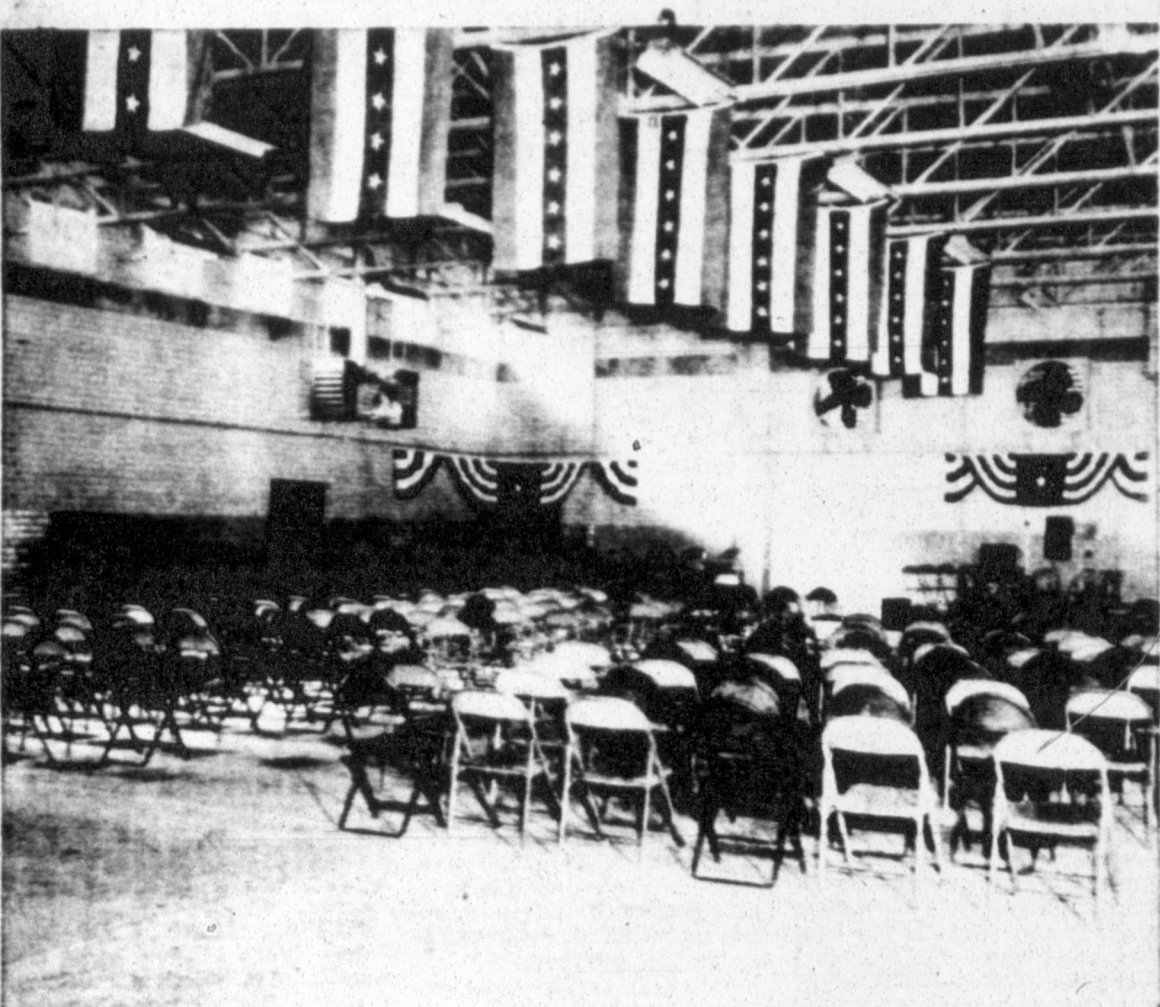

And, as far as previous military service is concerned there are men from tank destroyers, combat engineers, Air Force, field artillery, paratroops, Marines, Navy, ordnance and the infantry. They served in both World War II and the Korean conflict.

Part of being a Guardsman is going to summer encampment for two weeks. The first summer, 1949, the unit went to North Fort Hood, near Gateville. Ever since, it has been Fort Sill, Okla. Last summer the battery came back with an "excellent" rating in training efficiency and the medics got a Silver Certificate.

The dedication of the new armory will be the culmination of what many a Pampa Guardsman has been working for these last six years. Only 10 months ago — May 12, 1954, was the date — there was nothing at the site but Capt. Robison's guidon.

IT'S NOT A CONVENTION HALL — But it is the new Texas National Guard armory in Recreation Park which will be dedicated Monday afternoon in a ceremony expected to last about 30 minutes. Red-white-and-blue bunting hangs from the ceiling and walls of the new structure and down at the north end is a slightly elevated speaker's stand. Folding chairs — 250 of them — have been moved in for the occasion. (News Photo)

Ousted Priest Discusses Russ Thought Train

HELSINKI, Finland, March 5 —UP—Father Georges Bissonnette, the American Roman Catholic priest ousted from Russia, said Saturday that Russian propaganda has convinced the Soviet people that "the world is divided into just two parts: The Soviet Union and the United States."

He told a press conference arranged after his arrival here from Moscow, that this strange division of the world in the Soviet mind is discovered "whenever you go outside Moscow, to the provincial parts of the Soviet Union."

The priest, whose home is at Central Falls, R.I., said he has no idea why the Russian government suddenly ordered him expelled on short notice. He said his only present plans are to return as soon as possible to the United States.

Father Bissonnette, described himself as "just a clergyman" with too many duties of his own to take up political speculations. But he did provide sidelights on his two years in Russia.

"When the people see a foreigner, of whatever nationality," he said "they immediately think of him as an American. Other nationalities just don't exist in their minds."

The priest said he assumed this peculiar point of view had been fostered by the over-emphasis of anti-American propaganda in the Soviet Union.

In Moscow, he said, the situation is different.

"The Soviet people are definitely interested in the United States and in Americans," he said. "As soon as you get together at a dinner or some other occasion, they like to ask questions about America, such as:

"How many negroes are there in America?"

"When you tell them that there has not been a lynching in America in 19 years," he said, "they become puzzled and think that you are not talking in earnest."

Nixon Back From Latin Smile Tour

WASHINGTON, March 5 —UP—Vice President Richard M. Nixon returned Saturday from a Central America tour and urged a mutual "help one help all" good neighbor economic program to protect hemispheric security.

Tanned and slimmer after a flying 7,500-mile tour of 10 republics, the vice president said the United States must explore ways to reduce trade barriers with the friendly neighbors he visited.

"They need additional investments both from inside and from outside," Nixon said. "We are often asked why the United States should be interested in the economic progress of those countries."

"The answer is simple. If their economic conditions improve, economic conditions will be better in the United States. What helps one helps all. Distress in those areas would be harmful to us."

"These countries are our friends. Mrs. Nixon and I saw that at first hand, in our talks with chiefs of state and on the faces of thousands of people. We must not take good friends for granted. We have not and will not."

President Sets Uniform Rules For Security

WASHINGTON, March 5—President Eisenhower Saturday laid down seven new rules to govern the federal security program uniformly and to "protect both the national security and the rights of federal employees."

Two were aimed at avoiding in the future the furor and inter-governmental dispute which occurred in the recent Wolf Ladejinsky security case. One might be interpreted as directed at Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson, who dismissed Ladejinsky on security grounds although he had been cleared for the State Department. The Russian-born land reform expert then was hired by another government agency.

Every Effort The new rule says "every effort" should be made to produce persons at security board hearings so that employees could face their accusers, but only "so long as the production of such witnesses would not jeopardize the national security."

This means no change from the position taken by the Justice department in a brief filed with the Supreme Court Thursday which stated that mandatory production of all accusers would endanger national security.

The seven rules were outlined by Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. in a letter to Mr. Eisenhower made public Saturday. The President said he approved the rules and directed that they be sent to all agency heads. Until Saturday, each agency head could interpret the security program as he saw fit.

Here are the seven new rules: 1. A statement of charges against an employee should be drawn "as specifically as possible, consistent with the requirements of protecting the national security." (In the past, many employees who were dismissed complained they had not been told the specified charges against them)

2. "It is suggested that a person al interview with the employee prior to suspension is helpful in most instances."

3. A legal officer should be present at security board hearings to advise the board and the employee as to procedural matters.

4. Each agency head should periodically and personally review persons serving on security hearing boards to insure their continued "high calibre."

5. Whenever an agency head proposes to make an adverse security evaluation on a person previously cleared by another agency, he should "consult promptly" with the head of the other agency.

6. Every effort should be made to produce witnesses at hearings for cross-examination by accused employees, "so long as the production of such witnesses would not jeopardize the national security."

7. All violations of law disclosed in investigations or proceedings under the security program should be reported immediately to the Justice Department.

POLITICS TO BLAME — Dr. John L. Beard, right, charged that state Democratic politics was behind his unexplained dismissal as superintendent of the Irving, Tex., school system which resulted in wholesale walkout of teachers. Charles E. Young, left, president of the school board, said he could not comment at this time on the charge.

Irving Citizens May Junk School Board

By PRESTON MCGRAW IRVING, Tex., March 5—UP—A citizens' group allied with 200 striking teachers and other school employes Saturday was considering a plan to do away with the local school board. But officials of the school board were busy hiring replacement teachers and said things would be cleared up soon.

"A spirit of co-operation is now evidence in our school district," a spokesman for the school board said.

But the Irving Citizens' Committee was thinking about a plan to get the Irving Independent School District dissolved, through a special election. This would put the city's eight public schools into the common school district and leave the seven-man Irving school board without jobs or power.

The school board's firing of Dr. John L. Beard, 53-year-old superintendent of schools, touched off the strike. Also fired were 10 other persons, including seven school principals.

Beard charged that he was fired because teachers in the schools attended Democratic precinct conventions last summer and helped swing the vote in the area to Ralph Yarborough, the "liberal" Democrat who lost in the runoff election to incumbent Gov. Allan Shivers.

The school board denied any political link to the firing and the walkouts. The members said Dr. Beard had not co-operated.

At any rate, the action split Irving into two camps—pro-Beard and pro-school board. But the two factions had one thing in common—both wanted the schools to operate normally.

At present, substitute teachers, students and other volunteers have kept the classes operating. The school board said it considered the striking teachers have violated their contracts and has started hiring replacements.

Seems like shrinking, but is it? Some fabrics woven 36 inches wide are stretched to 39 inches in the factory, when washed, they relax to their normal size. Many such fabrics, such as men's undershirts, will stretch back to their original size with wear.

There's even more to Chevrolet styling than meets the eye!

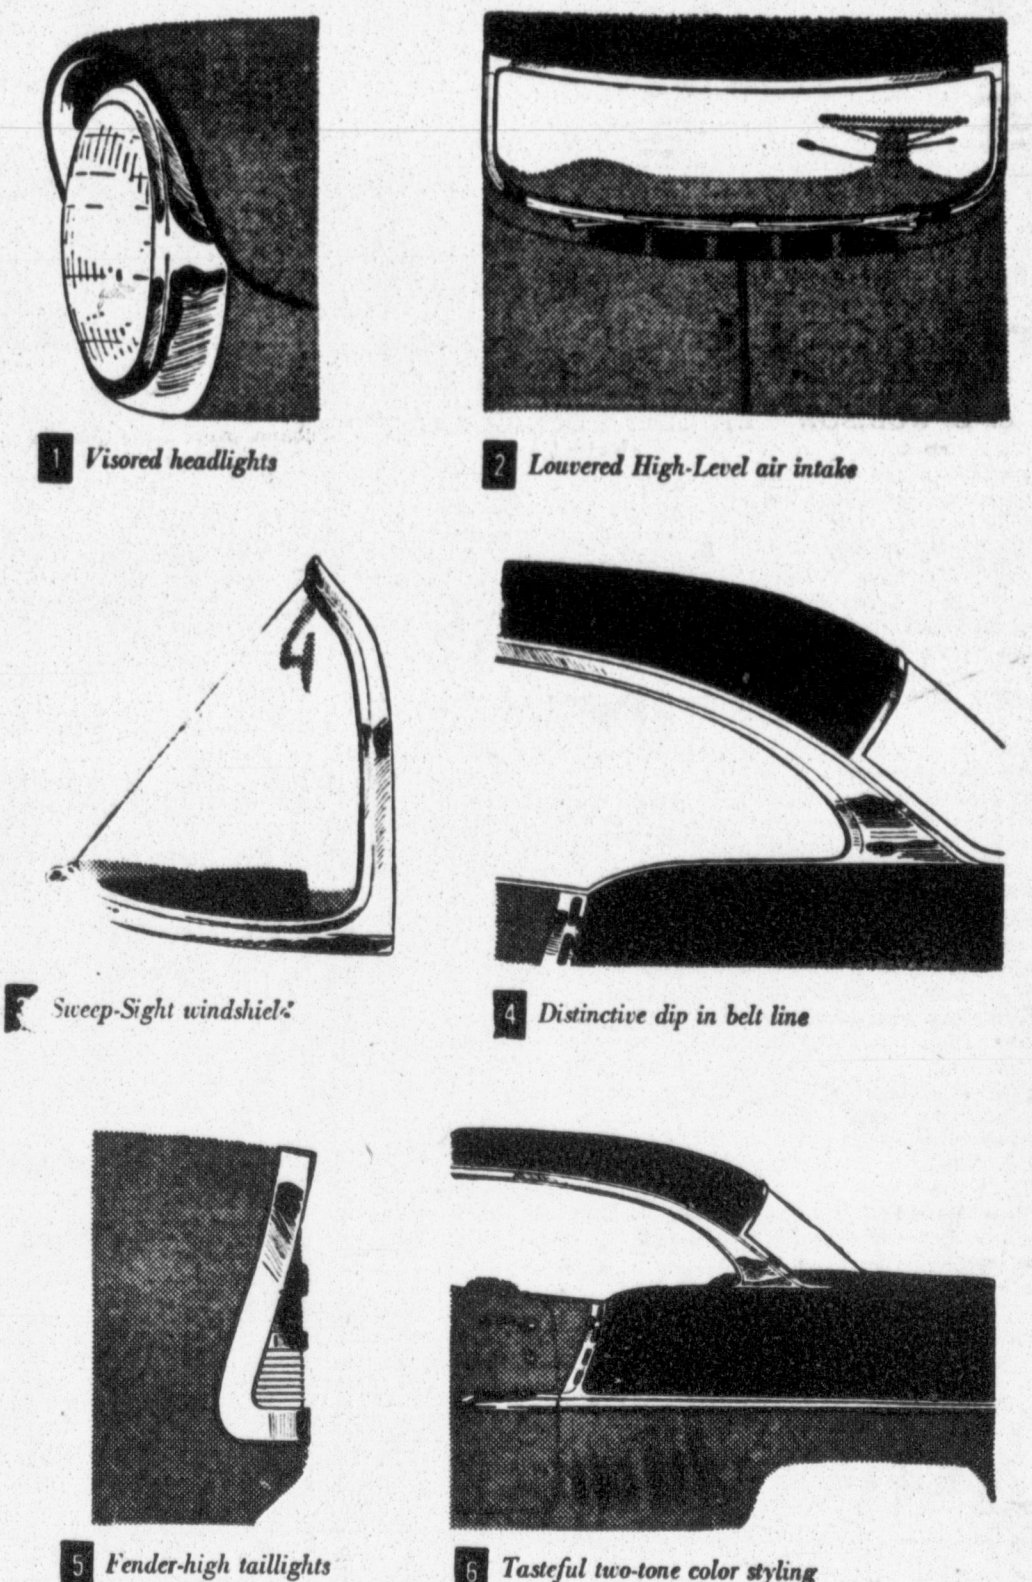

This is beauty with a bonus... for Chevrolet styling is designed to add safety and comfort while you drive, and to return greater value when you trade.

Truly modern lines are shaped by usefulness. You can see what we mean in the deep crystal curve of Chevrolet's Sweep-Sight windshield... a dramatic style note, certainly, but one that stems from the need for wider, safer vision. Or take high-set taillights—they add to the impressive length of line... but they are up there where they can be seen for safety's sake, and as convenient guides in parking. So, too, with the jutting peaks over the headlights.

The smart louvers across the hood aren't just decoration... they mark the intake for the High-Level ventilation system for cleaner, fresher air. And the whole shape of the body—its lowness, the dipped belt line—is merely a reflection of a lowered center of gravity, the added stability. This is truly functional styling that serves you better every mile, and preserves its value against the distant day when you trade. This is Body by Fisher—another Chevrolet exclusive in the low-price field. Come in and let us demonstrate that this new Chevrolet is just as exciting to drive as to look at!

U. S. Colleges Need $2 Billion In Dorms

By RICHARD E. MOONEY
WASHINGTON, March 5—UP—The nation's colleges will need $2 billion worth of new dormitories and homes for students and faculty by 1965, according to one recent estimate.

College enrollment now is at a record level of 2.5 million with hundreds of thousands of World War II "babies" due to enter as freshmen in another four years.

The government has a four-year-old college housing program designed to meet at least part of the need in two ways: By lending government funds, and by encouraging private lenders to put up the money.

Congress set up a $300 million government loan program in 1951. The Housing and Home Finance Agency has been authorized to lend up to $200 million of it so far. It had loaned or had plans to lend $158,600,000 as of last Monday.

Those loans to date cover some 200 different colleges and universities. They will help provide housing for more than 26,000 men students, 13,000 women students, 280 married students and their families, and 500 faculty members.

In addition, 62 college housing loans which were all set to be made in government funds were made instead by private sources—$51 million worth. Housing Chief Albert M. Cole started the policy of referring as many projects as possible to private investors.

Need Be Reduced

In a recent statement in the magazine "Architectural Record," Cole said any success in financing college housing with private funds will reduce the need for direct federal loans "and a much broader program will come into existence (which can) provide many times the amount of housing possible."

The program was scrutinized by a Senate committee last fall, but was left unchanged.

At least one college official wants it broadened—more funds for more types of buildings.

Writing in "College and University Business," the University of Florida's Vice President George F. Baughman said recently the full $300 million authorization should be made available for lending at once.

Would Take Three Years

He said, "it takes almost three years before the gleam in the eye of a university president is translated into a tangible building occupied by students" and he warned of the coming flood of war baby freshmen.

Baughman also called for broader scope, to make the program include such buildings as students unions, adult education centers, dining halls and other types of buildings which produce revenues.

At present, HFA shows no signs of asking Congress for the expansion nor the speed-up.

The most recent development in the program is a trend to building permanent homes for married students, to replace the temporary quonset hut-type of housing erected for veterans immediately after the war, and to accommodate the continuing student population of young married couples.

The government does not dictate style or type of building—only that "economy will be promoted in its construction and that it will not be of elaborate or extravagant design."

The loans are for a maximum of 40 years, currently at a 2 1/4 per cent interest rate, and it does not lend until it is sure it will get the money back.

A college cannot get the government loan until it has tried and failed to get the money from private sources on similar terms.

Meditations for LENT

By DR. J. CARTER SWAIM
Written for NEA Service

Lent is a season of self-denial. A characteristic text is to be found in the words of Jesus: "If any man would come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me" (Mark 8:34, RSV). We ordinarily interpret this to mean: "let him deny to himself" this or that. On that basis, during Lent we forego cigars, ice cream sodas, the theater.

While these may be useful disciplines, this is not what Jesus meant. It is not that we are to deny to ourselves this or that, but that we are to deny ourselves.

The Greek word here is a very strong one. It means "say no" to oneself, disown, repudiate, deny utterly. We use "self-denial" as if it meant temporarily depriving oneself of chocolates, or withholding the gratification of other desires.

In the Biblical sense the term means to turn one's back upon the self, push it from the center of our being, cease to regard it as the be-all and the end-all of existence. It means to have a new focus of interest outside oneself.

The rich young ruler had denied to himself the petty indulgences which were habitual with the men of his class, but he was not willing to say no to himself. The result was that "he went away sorrowful" (Matthew 19:22, RSV). Paul, on the other hand, had so far pushed himself out of the center that he could say: "it is no longer I who live, but Christ who lives in me" (Galatians 2:20, RSV).

Ag Officials Have No Aversion To Two-Price Support Program

By GWEN GIBSON

WASHINGTON, March 5—UP—The Agriculture Department has no aversion to two-price support programs if they are carried out discreetly, a check with top officials revealed this week.

Still the Department would not like to see legislation passed flatly authorizing two-price systems as a means of expanding the market for any crop.

Under a two-price system, a farmer would divide his acreage and grow parts of his crop strictly for export. He would receive high supports on his domestic crop but very low, or no, supports on his export crop.

Many interests boost plan
Many farm interests have advocated this plan to create a larger outlet for such foods as rice, milk and citrus fruits which have been produced in surplus quantities for many years.

Foreign countries, the Agriculture Department believes, would view any such arrangement as "export dumping" and America would lose many friends.

Through subsidies, however, the government is actually carrying out two-price programs on a number of surplus products including oil, dried milk, rice, citrus fruits, butter and wheat.

(By government definition you sell it for less than it cost to acquire it from the farmer.)

Dried milk, for example, currently is selling in America for 16 or 17 cents a pound. The government barriers it in export channels for an average of 11.75 cents a pound.

Group Get Milk Cheap
Such organizations as the United Nations Children's Fund get dried milk from the government for a penny a pound.

Cottonseed oil, which sells in this country for 15 and 16 cents a pound, is being sold by the government to exporters for 11 and 12 cents.

In the Gulf Coast area, domestic wheat prices are averaging about $2.80 per bushel. Latest government exports of wheat from that region sold for an average of $1.80 per bushel.

East coast wheat, selling domestically for about $2.37 a bushel, is being sold for export at $1.72 and West coast wheat, selling to Americans for $2.39, is going to exporters for about 74 cents a bushel less.

"This is a more subtle approach to the two-price theory," one official said. "It certainly is less offensive to other nations than if we boldly write into law a statute saying America will raise one-million crates of oranges this year to sell at cut-rate prices in foreign countries."

Government Gains Control
By subsidizing exports, he said, the government can control the amount of American food that pours into foreign markets and if it can make certain the United States does nothing to drastically upset world prices.

Another official commented that America already is receiving complaints about the amount of fruit and rice that is being offered for export sale.

"Think what the reaction would be in these countries," he said, "if we set aside a certain amount of acreage and designated it for export crops."

Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson, incidentally, recently submitted a report to Congress on a study of two-price programs for rice.

The report did not rule out the two-price system but it suggested a number of preferable alternatives.

Other Developments Listed
• DROUGHT: Farmers in drought-stricken areas of the West may have an additional problem to cope with this summer — an increased grasshopper population. Agriculture Department entomologists believe that six-million acres of land in 15 western states will require grasshopper control. Biggest build-up of the insect appears to be in Missouri, southern Wisconsin, the Texas Panhandle and eastern Kansas. In isolated parts of eastern New Mexico and Texas, however, it's been too hot and dry for even "hoppers to survive."

GRAINS: The demand for all types of feeds has suddenly shown a sharp decrease. According to Agriculture Department statistics, use of feeds during the first three months of the 1954-55 marketing season was the lowest since 1948. Consumption per animal was the smallest since 1946. Prices for feeds at mid-February were seven per cent below the same month last year.

CATTLE: Foreign agricultural experts predict that Cuba will give America some stiff competition in the next three years in the field of cattle exports. Mexico also has become more competitive as a cattle exporting country.

Proxy Fight Pleas Made

DETROIT, March 5—UP—Gen. Ward fight made personal appeals for support Friday in an attempt to win control of the giant mail order house.

Edmund A. Krider, 42, president of the $700 million firm, met with bankers and investment counselors to tell how Sewell Avery's management has given Montgomery Ward a liquid surplus of $325 million.

Louis E. Wolfson, 43-year-old Florida financier, scheduled an open meeting for stockholders to charge that current management has allowed sales to slump, built up its cash surplus by liquidating stores and allowed stores to run down.

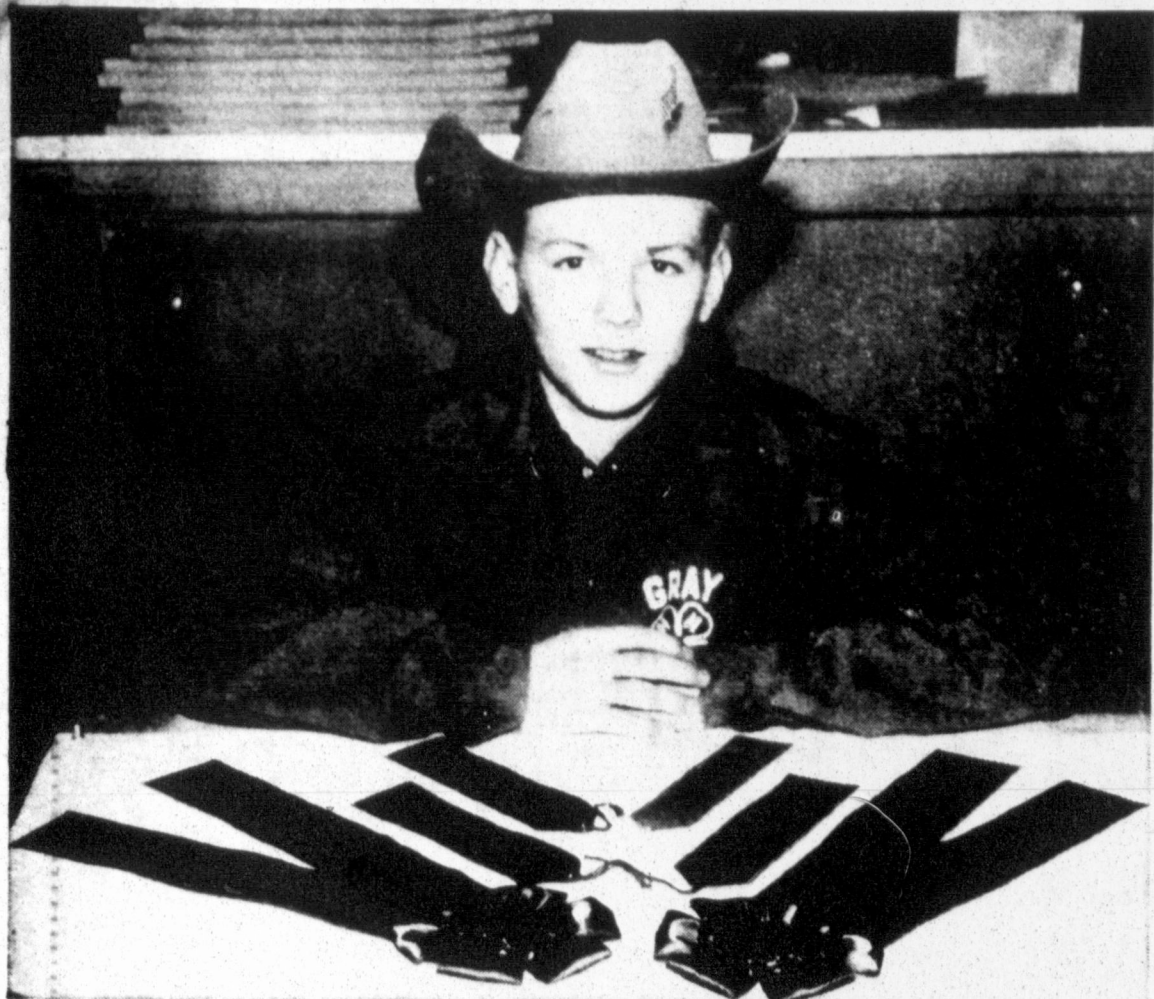

He also was prepared to promise he will start spending some of the surplus on a $75 million program of building and remodeling.

"And I'm confident I can do it," he said Thursday. "So confident that I bought another 1,500 shares of Montgomery Ward stock yesterday to add to the 34,500 I already own."

The stock is currently selling for about $80 per share. There are 6.5 million shares outstanding.

4-H Club Work Arms Youth With Knowledge For Life

By BILL KERR
Pampa News Staff Writer

Judge Bruce Parker incisively stated what is probably the main purpose of the 4-H Clubs throughout the country. In commenting on the celebration of National 4-H week, March 5-12 Judge Parker said: "4-H work arms our agricultural youth with something to work with, for knowledge is as essential as the implements of agriculture."

In saluting National 4-H week, a compliment is being paid to an organization which provides opportunities for rural boys and girls not only to become better farmers and homemakers, but better citizens.

120,000 In Texas
There are over 120,000 members of 4-H clubs in the state of Texas, providing training for one-fifth of the rural youths of the state. Gov. Allan Shivers says he feels certain that through 4-H training over a period of 40 years, the state has definitely profited.

Gray County's 4-H clubs, composed of nine boys clubs with 181 members, and 10 girls clubs with 176, are part of a nationwide membership of youths between the ages of 10 and 21.

Giving direction and force to the 4-H program are those adult leaders who give unstintingly of their time and efforts to cohesively form an organization which will benefit the youth of their communities. Directing this insurance policy in the future of our nation in Gray County are County Agent Ralph Thomas and his assistant Jerry Mobly, and County Home Demonstration Agent Helen Dunlap, and her assistant Faye Burns.

Working with the extension agents all over the state are 9,820 local adult leaders, 2,376 junior leaders, and the innumerable friends of 4-H and the extension service staff.

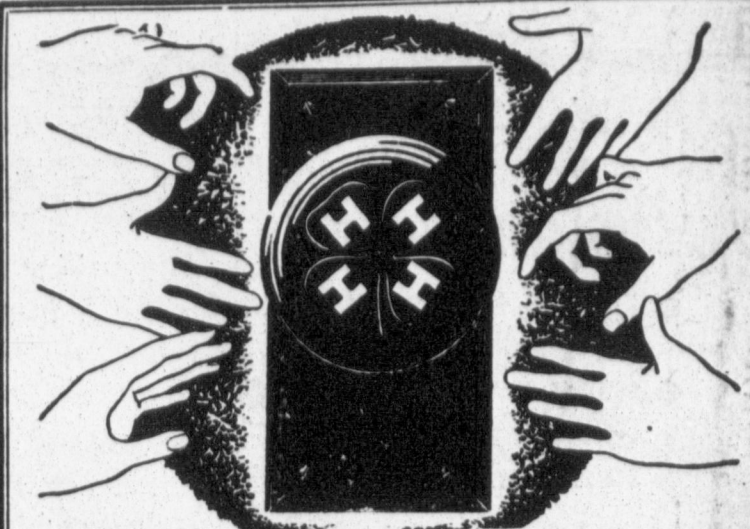

During 1953 just under 80 per cent of the membership in 4-H work completed projects in some phase of agriculture, home economics or community improvement.

Better Citizens
The goals of 4-H work seek to train youth for adult citizenship. Rural youth learns the best methods known regarding farming and home making. They are impressed with the necessity for working together in voluntary groups on community matters in order to gain a better way of living. Four-H work stresses the educational value of farm life, driving home to the young and elastic mind the necessity for self-reliance, character, and an appreciation for the open country.

Four-H work stresses the need for competition in a growing, healthy sojety. It fosters annually numerous meets as in the state of Texas where there are each year district and state meets between all of Texas' 254 counties. The contests serve not only to build agriculture and homemaking prowess, but also build a citizenry who respect the need for progress through individual initiative.

According to state 4-H leader Floyd Lynch the wonderful thing about the 4-H program is that the tenets of the program become part of the children for life. "It gives them guidance when they need it, teaches them some of the inspiring things in agriculture and farm home life, and gives them a vision of its possibilities as a life work."

2,000,000 Hands Have Opened This Door

4-H club work has opened the door to new experiences, education and fun for 2 million boys and girls in the United States. You can take advantage of these opportunities by enrolling in the 4-H club program. A 4-H membership card is all you need. See your county extension agent today!

Gray 4-Hers Do OK In Competition

Gray County 4-Hers are a proud hard working group. They carry out practical demonstrations in the home and on the farm, involving every phase of homemaking and agriculture. Proud of their achievements? Why shouldn't they be?

At Amarillo's recently concluded Fat Stock Show, the prowess of Gray County 4-Hers was shown when in a field of 500 swine entries they won the championship award for the best group of 15 pigs from one county. The entries of five 4-H boys, Robert Anderwald, Dale Veale, Kenton Knorpp, Paul Eakin, and Hunky Greene, went into making for this outstanding accomplishment. Anderwald had the grand champion in two classes with his Chester White barrows.

He won the top awards for the best group of three entries in the show, also winning in the litter class with his six barrows.

Commenting on the showing made by the Gray County boys at the Amarillo Show, Jerry Mobly, Assistant County Agent, said their efforts were "commendable."

"Of the 26 swine entries only eight of them failed to win placings. For many of the boys it was the first time they had fed pigs for a show."

Placing well in the show were 4-H boys like Paul Eakin, and Dale Veale, and David Miller, who copped the top prize in the Poland China barrow class, in a competition including boys from Texas, New Mexico, Kansas, and Oklahoma.

Stock Market 'Bull' High Is Reached In NY

NEW YORK, March 5 —UP—Stocks rose to new bull market highs this past week in the smallest volume since the week ended Jan. 21.

Utilities stood out by making their best gain on average since April 15, 1939. Natural gas issues spurred to help lift this figure. Their strength reflected hopes for modifications of regulations against the companies.

The market moved higher steadily with the industrials breaking all previous records in their average. The industrial gain was the best for a week since Nov. 12, last. For the rally the rise was the best since Dec. 17.

Four Billion Dollars
Altogether the market was carried up more than $4 billion in valuation of all listed securities.

Traders were unaffected by the start of the Senate investigation. In fact, some of the statements made by those testifying helped the rise along. The presidents of the nation's largest exchanges found the market rise sound, based on strong business and good prospects.

Also helping the market were glowing reports from the major lines of industry—steel operations heading for 95-96 per cent, according to Iron Age, near record output for the week and a record for the year believed possible by the head of General Motors.

Steels Gain
Steels had wide gains, many rising to new highs. Metal issues generally moved up. Aluminum issues scored wide gains in several sessions. So did selected coppers.

Gray 4-H Club Members Hold Many Honors

Past honors spell out the accomplishments of Gray County 4-H boys and girls in achieving goals which will prepare them for adult life. Upholding the bright traditions of the local club are boys like Ruben Baggerman, winner of the Gold Star award in 1954 for being the top 4-H boy in Gray County.

David Miller, 16-year-old president of the 4-H Club Council, is among the club's shining lights with a somewhat large appendage of laurels. He is presently winding up his seventh year in 4-H work. An impressive roster of accomplishments includes the winning of the 1954 Achievement Gold Medal. During the past year David won the talent trip over New Mexico and Texas on his record; he was on the 1954 team which won the district competition and placed second in the state competition at College Station, and his energy finds him enrolled in virtually every activity of his club.

The girls certainly need not occupy a secondary position. Their 10 clubs and 176 members bustle with activities from canning, to bed room demonstrations, and dairy foods preparation. Nancy Tate 14, of McLean was the winner in October, of the gold star for outstanding 4-H work during the preceding year. She participated in all the club activities, emulating David Miller, only in the girl's activities. They included dress review and the specialized frozen food preparation. White Deer's 15-year-old Carolyn Anderwald, followed in Nancy's footsteps, having competed admirably in many county and district competitions, including August's Agricultural Achievement Days. Though only 11, the work of Vivian Warminski of White Deer, in dress review, gardening, canning and poultry has made many of her sister members sit up and take admirable notice.

Huey Long's Ex-Kin Seeks Governor Post

HOLLYWOOD, March 5—UP—Shapely Cleo Moore, ex-daughter-in-law of the late Huey Long, mapped plans Saturday for her gubernatorial campaign in Louisiana, her home state. Cleo, once married to Palmer Long, son of the late "Kingfish" governor of the Pelican state, says, "I have six more years to go on my movie contract, but after that I'm going to jump right into politics."

"First thing I'll do is close all the gravel and dirt roads in Louisiana and build the best four-lane super-highways in the country. A lot of my relatives live at the end of those dirt roads and it takes too much time to visit them." Cleo's next objective is to build up Louisiana State University. "When I get elected, LSU will play in the Sugar Bowl every year. We'll get the best players in the country down there, and I've got some new ideas on how to recruit those big husky boys," she added with a wink. "Ask me what I think of Earl and Russell Long and I'll give you a straight answer. There's no finer name in the entire state. I think Mayor Delesseps Morrison of New Orleans is tops, too. We met once and he was very charming."

Cleo, who hit the front pages when a sizzling television kiss with a Chicago dice jockey got the lucky man fired, fearlessly tackled other Louisiana problems. "Take the school problem down there," she said. "Well, I went to grammar school and high school there and Pope's Business College in Baton Rouge. There's nothing wrong with our school system, believe me. I learned a thing or two down there myself."

"And I'm four-squares in favor of leaving the tidelands oil to the states. We've got a lot of that black gold off the coast and it rightfully belongs to Louisiana."

Bill Would Help Medical Schools WASHINGTON, March 5—UP—Sen. Lister Hill (D-Ala.) and nine other senators Saturday introduced a bill for $250 million worth of federal grants to medical schools. The grants, to be paid over a five-year period, would be used for expanding facilities for training doctors.

Practice Mine Seares Bathes MIAMI BEACH, March 5—UP—Surf bathers made a dash for the beach Friday when an ominous black object drifted close to shore. Coast Guard demolition experts confirmed that the object was a mine, but a practice one and harmless.

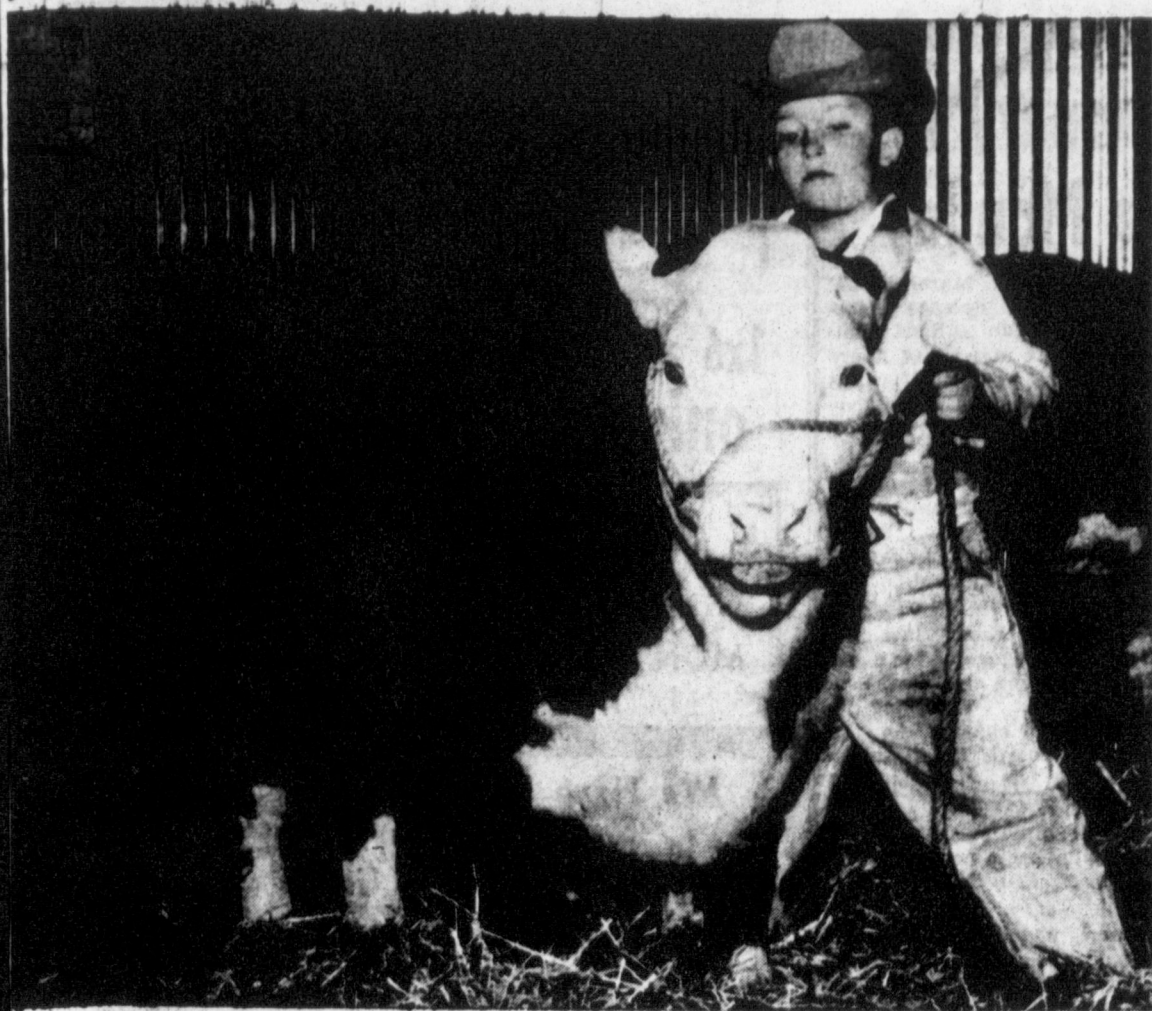

Big Theft DALLAS, March 5—UP—Mrs. Annie Fenner complained to police Friday that a man and woman stole a garden hoe and spade from her back yard.

"As for the 'right to work' bill—everybody ought to have the right to work, or the right to loaf for that matter. Personally I want to work until I'm 108."

Cleo said she's received messages from all over the country since her appearance Friday on a national TV show when she announced her intention to run for governor.

"I've already got a lot of backers," she said proudly. "If this keeps up, I may forget acting altogether and become a full-time politician."

Coming Events Will Test 4-H Club Abilities

In the coming weeks, Gray County 4-H clubs will compete in several activities. On April 2, girls will compete in a county contest featuring dairy foods, vegetables topped off with a "Share the Fun Festival."

Naturally all Gray County 4-H'ers have their eyes focused on the elimination contest April 9th in which the boys will compete in soil judging. This will be at Plainview.

At the district competition April 30 at West Texas State College at Canyon local youngsters will have an opportunity to test their mettle against the finest in the district. The boys will compete in, among other competitions, rifle judging, tractor driving and public speaking while the girls will enter the dairy, vegetable and home economics contests. Winners will go to the coveted state competition on the campus of Texas A&M College, College Station, June 7-8-9. At the meeting, State 4-H leader Floyd Lynch, says boys and girls will be provided an opportunity to get training in leadership subjects of their choice, and further acquaint them with the facilities offered by the college. Competition will be held in 18 different judging and team demonstration contests.

Four fortunate youngsters, two boys and two girls, from the county will serve as delegates to the three-day conference. An adult leader will accompany the group.

LINCOLN'S FUTURA arrives at Teterboro, N. J. It underwent tests in New York City.

SOMETHING'S FISHY HERE

Lincoln's revolutionary Futura resembles a shark from out of the deep, and its designers say there is a reason why. The fierce, fish-like appearance of the experimental auto is expected to give it aerodynamic qualities which will help stabilize it at high speeds. And it will be able to travel, for it's powered by a 330-horsepower V-8 engine. The shark-like front, shark fin rear fenders and hooded headlamps are all fashioned after features of the ocean creature. The car features air scoops in the rear fenders which cool the rear brakes and provide fresh air for the air conditioning system. Twin canopies rise when the doors are open, but a safety device prevents the car from moving while the canopies are raised. The Futura will be used as a "laboratory on wheels."

SHARK-LIKE front is said to be inspired by streamlined ocean fish.

ANTENNA on rear picks up auto horn sounds, carries them into car.

Unruly Youths Helped

CHICAGO, March 5—UP—An eight-year old boy stopped eating sandwiches made of paper and paste in school.

Another boy, a leading failure in deportment at 13, learned to like reading so much that he wanted to stay after school to read to teacher.

Both boys once spent most of their time in the scholastic cellar but now are making normal progress toward maturity through the help of a special school, sponsored jointly by the Chicago Board of Education and the Jewish Federation.

The board decided to help the boys and seven other children and last fall packed them off to the special school, where their emotional needs were studied by Dr. Charles P. Gershenson.

They were found to be normal except for their tendency toward unruliness.

Gershenson discovered a gnawing emotional hunger in the boy with the paper-and-paste diet and satisfied it with other means—among them, keeping him active.

His hunger appeased, the youngster began to read with ability for the first time in his life.

The emotional starvation of the 13-year old boy was replaced by a keen joy in reading and he wanted to share this with his teacher after school hours.

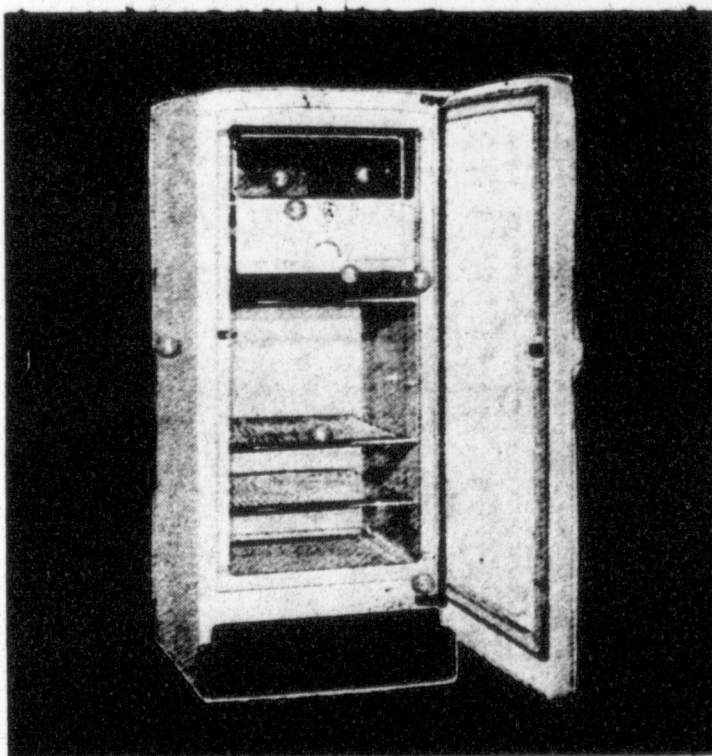

Gershenson said that the results obtained with the once-misbehaving children to date show that a teacher's ability to win the love and respect of a child is an important factor in his progress in school.

Mrs. Mary Lawrence, executive director of the children's bureau of the federation, said that the nine young special students are learning faster under the new emotional climate.

The address of the special school is kept secret so that the children will be spared ridicule by other youngsters in the neighborhood.

Nugent Case Summary Is Due Monday

FORT SILL, Okla., March 5—UP—Prosecution and defense attorneys will begin summations Monday in the court martial of Army Maj. Ambrose Nugent, who's charged on nine counts of collaborating with the enemy while a prisoner of war in Korea.

The court martial of Nugent, 45-year-old career officer and grandfather from Merrill, Wis., began Jan. 24. He originally was charged on 13 counts of collaboration but four of them were thrown out.

Following summations, the board is expected to begin considering a verdict late Monday or early Tuesday.

Maximum penalty allowed on conviction of collaboration would be life imprisonment. A two-thirds vote of the court martial board is necessary for a sentence up to 10 years, a three-quarter vote for a sentence over 10 years.

The defense rested Thursday and Friday was spent hearing rebuttal witnesses. Last witness to be heard was Nugent. He was recalled to restate briefly earlier testimony in detail he said he was not clear on which when interrogated after he was repatriated.

"The foremost thing in my mind at the time was that I was coming home at last," he said.

AUSTIN — The Harvester basketballers just weren't as fortunate as the Crozier Tech Wolves in the opening round of the Class 4A semi-finals here Friday night.

As you know, Crozier Tech and the Harvesters were the final favorites here in the 4A division with the Harvesters bowing and the Wolves from Dallas escaping deaumont couldn't stand properly in its game with Crozier Tech. The South Texans had the team on the ropes, a four-lead with 1:30 minutes left in the game but, for some reason they grew panicky and allowed Tech to pull the game out to the final second.

Beaumont never attempted to win in those final seconds and the Purples the game. The day's Harvester showing against Waco wasn't their best, by means, this season but you to give the Green and Gold credit for putting out their all-out effort in the fourth quarter and for teams that would have found them for the night.

The Harvesters refused to let in and they fought back to within five points on two occasions in the remaining time. KING McILVAIN on fouls five minutes left certainly helped matters. In addition to Wain's rebound play the forward was missed dearly in the scoring department as he having a good night from the two reserves who got into the game in the late stages turned up performances despite lack of experience under pres-

Sophomore Dickie Mauldin Junior Jimmy Enloe were in the lineup when regu-

of these same guys were of opinion the Harvesters weren't "nifty" enough for the title they had won the crown the two years.

But we believe the Green and Gold fought as hard as ever. You don't put it this way and you don't try to take away any credit from Waco: "It just wasn't Harvesters' night."

ALTHOUGH THERE is no way of making a check, we believe the year's following of Harvester to the tournament here out-weighs the fans that came down last year.

There were 300 Pampa fans and a rather a conservative figure. You can't be sure that none of the fans that were to lose to the Harvesters themself. I recommend the Top Texas team for the way they fought. After all the Harvester boys brought most publicity to our city the past three years. The Houston team, Doyle Jones, Jerry Beck, Danny Boone, and Larry McBride, equaled the two turn record with a 40.5 performance. Texas scored 85 1-3 points to 46 2-3 for Texas A&M and 24 for Houston.

The Texas spring relay team, with two regular members out, was clocked right behind the flying Cougars at 40.7.

Houston Team Equals World Sprint Mark

AUSTIN, March 5-UP—The University of Houston equaled the world sprint record while the University of Texas easily won a triangular track meet Saturday afternoon.

The Houston team, Doyle Jones, Jerry Beck, Danny Boone, and Larry McBride, equaled the two turn record with a 40.5 performance.

Texas scored 85 1-3 points to 46 2-3 for Texas A&M and 24 for Houston.

The Texas spring relay team, with two regular members out, was clocked right behind the flying Cougars at 40.7.

A Longhorn sophomore, Robert Whilden, upset his conference champion teammate, Dean Smith, in the 100-yard dash with a time of 9.6, but Smith came back to win the 200 in 21.3.

Among other top performances were a 1:50.8 half mile by Texas' Dick Forrester, a 3:15.6 mile relay by Texas, a 48.5 quarter mile by Jon Tox of Texas and a 4:18.2 mile by Hulen Hale of Texas.

The hefty 35-year-old Lemont, Ill., pro, who has been up and down in his tournament play, shot a 24-37 to forge to a one-stroke lead over little Jerry Barber of Los Angeles, who was in a tie with Furgol at the start of Saturday's round with a 134, and blond Jimmy Barber of Laguna, Calif.

Barber's precision game was off Saturday and he had to settle for a par 35-37-72. He had been able to sink either of two short putts

Seminole, Buna, Avoca Win Titles

AUSTIN, March 5-UP—Seminole, Buna and Avoca captured schoolboy basketball championship Saturday in the Texas Interscholastic League's 35th annual state tournament.

Seminole edged San Marcos 50 to 49 in an exciting finish with a free throw shot in the last 25 seconds of the game to win the Class AA title. Buna squeezed past Dickinson 58 to 54 to take the Class A crown, and Avoca won Class B honors by defeating Big Sandy 47 to 41.

The afternoon championship battles preceded night contests pitting Beaumont French against Victoria for the Class AAA title, and Dallas Crozier Tech against Waco in the Class AAAA championship match.

Seminole's Indians held a slim lead most of the game with margin's up to eight points, but San Marcos fought back in the final period to take a 49 to 48 lead on two free throw shots by forward Bobby Caruthers with less than two minutes to go.

But Seminole knotted the score on a free shot by forward Leland Cadeby and center Edwin Young provided the game-winning margin with a shot from the free throw line with only 25 seconds left in the contest.

Seminole held a 28 to 22 lead at halftime. Forward Johnnie Spear of Seminole led scorers with 17 points, and center Delbert Ottmers was high point man for San Marcos with 13 points.

Buna broke a 54-54 tie with Dickinson with less than 30 seconds left in the Class A title game, when forward John Ed Hargroves sank two free throw shots, and forward Delman Rogers iced down the match with a field goal.

Guard Wayne Williams sparked the losers with 20 points, and tied the state tournament free throw record by dropping in 12 charity shots. Rogers led Buna scorers with 15.

Dickinson led most of the way, posting a 34-24 margin at halftime. Early in the third period Dickinson held a 40-28 lead, but Buna trimmed that to 48-41 by the end of the period.

With less than three minutes left, Buna tied up the game at 50-50, again at 52-52, and then went ahead 54-52 with less than a minute left.

Two free shots by Dickinson forward Leon Thomas tied the contest at 54-54 when Buna went out in front on Hargroves' free throw.

The Avoca club jumped to a quick lead, holding a 14 to 2 margin in midway in the first period. But Big Sandy whittled the lead to 14 to 8 at the end of three quarters, limiting Big Sandy to only two points during the third period.

Big Sandy, paced by forward Joe Thomas with 18 points, roared back in the final period to chalk up 18 points but was unable to overcome Avoca's wide lead.

Forward Oscar Williams scored 15 points for Big Sandy. In four previous years, Big Sandy had gone to the finals. The East Texas team was able to win the title only in 1932.

Kilgore's Bulldogs earned third-place consolation honors in Class AAA by defeating Plainview, 69 to 62. Center Buddy Humphrey led the Kilgore drive by dropping in 31 points.

Crozier Tech Cops State 4-A Crown

AUSTIN, March 5-UP—Dallas Crozier Tech squeezed by Waco's surprising Tigers 59-57 with a field goal in the last 15 seconds Saturday night to win the Class AAAA crown and join Victoria, Seminole, Buna, and Avoca as champions of the 35th annual schoolboy basketball tournament.

A. C. Black, 6-9 center for Crozier Tech, drove down court and dropped in a field goal with only 15 seconds remaining to provide the margin of victory for the Dallas school, runner-up in AAAA last year.

Black scored 28 points while tiny 5-8 guard Charley Pack sparked Waco with 18 points, and forward Kenneth Brunson dropped in 17 for the Tigers.

The Class AAAA title contest was hard fought all the way, with neither team holding a decisive margin at any point. Crozier Tech and Waco battled to a 33 to 33 tie at halftime, and were tied seven times in the second half.

Waco, with one minute and 15 seconds left in the game, took time out and then held the ball until less than 30 seconds remained before making an unsuccessful drive for the basket. But Black took the rebound and raced downcourt to sink the game-winning two points.

Victoria's Stingers posted a 60-51 victory over Beaumont French to win the Class AAA title. Victoria overcame an early surge by French to chalk up a 33 to 22 halftime lead, and held a 10 to 12 point lead most of the way in the second half.

John Moore, 6-8 center led the attack by dropping in 16 points. Guard Brenton Hughes of French won high scoring honors with 17 points and center Charles Williams of French had 14.

French had an early 10-6 lead midway in the first period but Swisher and Moore combined to put Victoria out in front 16-10 at the end of the first quarter and Victoria held the lead the rest of the game.

Purples Finish Fast To Take Third Place

By BUCK FRANCIS Pampa News Sports Editor

GREGORY GYM — Beaumont's fast-finishing Purples came from behind in the second half here Saturday night to down Pampa's defending state champion Harvesters for consolation honors in Class 4A in the 35th annual state schoolboy tournament, 62-52.

The game was almost a repeat of Friday night's Harvester loss to Waco in the semi-final bracket when the Green and Gold fell apart in the third quarter and not being able to catch up in the final period.

The Harvesters held command through most of the first half leading on two different occasions by seven points. Beaumont, who threw a scare into tonight's favorite Crozier Tech of Dallas in the other semi-final game Friday night before losing in the final second of play, narrowed the gap to two points, 30-28, at halftime.

Then in the third quarter the Purples scored 15 points while the Harvesters were picking up only six points to take the lead at the three-quarter mark, 43-36.

The Harvesters employed a full court press through most of the final period and committed several fouls in the process and the Purples managed to maintain a comfortable lead the final eight minutes by making a fair percentage of the free tosses given them.

The Harvesters thus were awarded the fourth place trophy in the state's top division after having won the championship prize the past two years.

Speedy Ken Hinkle led the Harvester attack in Saturday night's consolation finals with 17 points. Hinkle canned four from the floor and nine of 11 attempts from the gratia line.

Hinkle was one of four seniors who played his final game for the Green and Gold. Others were E. Jay McIlvain, Gary Griffin and Benny Cartwright.

Cartwright and Griffin followed Hinkle in the scoring for the Harvesters with 10 points apiece. McIlvain, who led the Harvesters in Friday's semi-final tilt with Waco with 21 points, fell off to seven points Saturday night.

McIlvain was slowed after committing four personal fouls only two minutes deep in the third. The 6-2 forward, however, never picked up his fifth and he played the entire game.

The Harvesters hit an amazing percentage of their free shots in Saturday night's game — 24 of 28 — for 85.7 per cent.

But the Harvesters were cold from the floor hitting only 14 of 33 attempts for 42.4 per cent.

Basketball Fix Attempt Reported

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 5-UP—The long-slumbering college basketball scandal broke out into the open again Saturday night when Erie County District Attorney John Dwyer revealed that an attempt had been made to "fix" Saturday night's Canisius-Niagara game at Memorial Auditorium.

The district attorney revealed that Charley Hoxie, 22-year-old senior from New York City and a star forward from Niagara, had been contacted last Wednesday by an unknown caller. Dwyer said Hoxie reported the call immediately to Coach John J. Gallagher, who notified authorities.

Dwyer said an investigation was begun "at once and is continuing" to learn the identity of the caller for arrest and probable prosecution.

The announcement of the "bribe" attempt was held up until the half-time of Saturday night's contest, played before a record crowd of 12,363 because the district attorney hoped the unknown caller would attempt to contact Hoxie personally just before game time.

Dwyer also revealed that Hoxie has been under surveillance by police since last Wednesday in case further contacts were attempted.

Marty Furgol Takes Baton Rouge Lead

World Series Rivals Make Big Noise In Baseball News

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer

The World Series rivals of 1954 were under fire Saturday with pitcher Early Wynn challenging the Cleveland Indians to trade him, and the Brooklyn Dodgers advising Manager Leo Durocher to zip his lip.

Wynn, a 23-game winner for the Indians last season, said at Tucson, Ariz., that "it's all right with me" if General Manager Hank Greenberg carries out a threat to trade him. Wynn is demanding $45,000 but Greenberg has made a "final offer" of $37,000.

Wynn, who wants the same salary as teammates Ralph Kiner and Bob Lemon, said he'd "prefer to stay in Cleveland" but wouldn't reduce his demand because of Greenberg's threat. He added he hoped "Kiner and Lemon make a million but I want to live a little too."

Durocher Draws Fire
At Vero Beach, Fla., meanwhile, Manager Walt Alton led a verbal assault on Durocher for stating recently the Brooklyn Dodgers couldn't win the 1955 pennant if Roy Campanella, Jackie Robinson or Pee Wee Reese were injured. "We'd be a lot better off than Durocher if he lost any of his regulars," the normally placid Alton said. "It's a darn cinch we have a better bench than the Giants."

"He's just being ridiculous," added Vice President Buzzy Bavaasi. "You could say that about any team in the majors." "It's unfortunate for the Giants that when they bought Bob Lemon (rookie outfielder) from Nashville with his 64 homers they couldn't buy that right fielder in Nashville, too," chimed in Fresno Thompson, another vice president. Nashville has a notoriously short right field fence.

Even such verbal fireworks couldn't drown out trade talk, however, as General Manager Gabe Paul of the Cincinnati Redlegs revealed unsuccessful efforts to discuss a deal for slugger Frank Thomas of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Paul said he got nowhere in his talks with General Manager Branch Rickey.

Other Trade Talk
In other trade moves, the Dodgers dispatched scout Andy High to Clearwater, Fla., to negotiate with General Manager Roy Haney of the Philadelphia Phillies, while Manager Paul Richards of the Baltimore Orioles said he will seek a "right-handed power hitter" at the governor's dinner in Tampa, Fla., next Monday.

In other camps: Manager Casey Stengel named Whitey Ford, Bob Grim and Bob Turley as the New York Yankees' "big three" but said his fourth starting hurler has not been determined. Harvey Kuenn's request to continue as the Detroit Tigers' leadoff man was granted by Manager Bucky Harris.

Third-baseman Jim Finigan signed for about $8,500 leaving second-baseman Forest Jacobs the Kansas City Athletics' only holdout. Ruben Gomez of the Giants, a 17-game winner in 1954, predicted he'll win 20 this year. Rookie outfielder Ted Tappe, who hit 27 homers for Tulsa in the Texas League last year, continued heavy hitting in the Chicago Cubs' Mesa, Ariz., camp.

Coach Is Hired
SWEETWATER, March 5 — UP—Elwood Turner, who coached his Albany high school football team to the 1954 Class A state title, was hired Friday as head coach at Sweetwater high school. He succeeds Pat Gerald, resigned. A $6,000 salary figure was quoted for Turner, former fullback at Texas Christian.

Clovis In! WT-NM League Set To Operate For Year

LUBBOCK — (Special) — The West Texas-New Mexico League apparently was all set to operate for the 1955 season Saturday after Eddie Jones, president of the Clovis Pioneers, paid the remaining portion of the guarantee fee and announced the Pioneers would "play ball" this year.

At a meeting here Saturday of the league officials, Jones plunked down the $1,800 additional money and announced that Clovis fans had purchased 1,011 books of season tickets at $30 each to give the club operating capital for the coming season.

Jones said neighboring towns of Friona and Muleshoe had purchased tickets in the late drive, and that by Saturday, even more tickets had probably been purchased.

The clinching of Clovis gives the West Texas-New Mexico League a green light toward operating with eight clubs, Albuquerque and Clovis in New Mexico, and Amarillo, Pampa, Lubbock, Plainview, Abilene and El Paso in Texas.

Each of these clubs had a representative present who reported on the financial status of his team. The representatives all reported their clubs were financially secure.

John Carleton reported for Pampa. This year will mark the first season for these cities to operate as individual clubs to cooperate in this matter.

He said that the league would make a determined effort to speed up play in the coming season, and said that league umpires would be paid to eliminate prolonged and unnecessary player arguments during the games.

The league also passed a resolution regarding checking of clubs charged in violations of salary limits.

The resolution says that clubs charged with violations of the salary limits will be reported to the national association and that they will be subject to fine.

Sayles said, however, that the league would not entertain any reckless charges and that each charge must be substantiated by facts.

The league's resolution states that a club accused of violations will be investigated. If found innocent, the club making the charge must bear the cost of the probe. If found guilty, the guilty club must pay the investigation costs.

In the event the league makes an investigation on its own, the same procedure will apply: The league bearing the cost in the event the club is innocent and the club paying should it be guilty.

Also at the meeting Saturday the league confirmed the date and place of the all-star game at Plainview July 30 with Amarillo, Albuquerque, Clovis and Pampa representing the North and Abilene, El Paso, Plainview and Lubbock on the South team.

At a side meeting, the press and radio group elected Harry Gilstrap as president again and A. C. Etter of station KWKC of Abilene as secretary.

Santee To Run In Texas Relays

AUSTIN, March 5 — UP—West Santee will resume his quest for the world outdoor mile record in the Texas Relays April 2, meet director Clyde Littlefield said Saturday.

Santee notified Littlefield, University of Texas track coach, that he would put in his first outdoor appearance of the 1955 season in the Jerry Thompson mile, a special event of the relays.

The Kansas cowboy, who holds the American outdoor mile record of 4:00.8 and held the world indoor record for a week during the past season, was a sensational performer at the Texas Relays in the 1953 and 1954 seasons.

He ran on nine winning Kansas University relay teams which set seven meet records.

Santee will make his first Texas appearance of the year Tuesday night in Houston competing with the United States Pan American team against a group of Southwest Conference All-Stars.

Littlefield also hopes to bring his Pan-Am mile team teammates rivals Fred Dwyer.

Santee will be favored to smash the Jerry Thompson mile record of 4:12.3 which is jointly held by Thompson, the former UT star for whom the event is named, and Bruce Drummond of Oklahoma.

Saxon Signs To Battle De Marco

BOSTON, March 5 — UP—Welterweight champion Johnny Saxton snubbed the International Boxing Club and high-ranking contender Carmen Basilio Saturday by signing a contract to defend his title here against Tony De Marco of Boston.

Henry Lamar, chairman of the Massachusetts Boxing Commission and a member of the National Boxing Association, said "the commission approved the bout this morning and I expect NBA approval will be forthcoming."

Lamar said the contract for the 15-round title match "doesn't say anything about Basilio." It was reported that the contract called for the winner to sign within 30 days after the fight here to meet Basilio.

Matchmaker Sam Silverman of the Callahan AC said the title bout scheduled for April 1 at Boston Garden, the same day the IBC planned to promote a Saxton-Basilio title match in Syracuse, N.Y., Basilio's home town.

"That doesn't affect us," Silverman said following contract signing ceremonies at the offices of the Massachusetts Boxing Commission. "We don't care about TV. We've got a contract for a championship fight. That's all."

Silverman said he would not try to televise the bout because "they don't want to black out New England. Silverman always has insisted on blacking out local televisioners to assure good attendance."

Gym Is Started
SAN MARCOS, Tex., March 5 — UP—Construction has started on a new $900,000 gymnasium, the fourth since 1919, at Southwest Texas State College. Athletic Director O. W. Strahan turned the first shovel of dirt for the new gym Friday. The gym will have a seating capacity of 4,200.

Watson Tops NFL Scoring

PHILADELPHIA, March 5 — UP—Bobby Watson, the dark-visaged end from Georgia who pulled a surprise four seasons ago by becoming the National Football League's rookie of the year, won the 1954 scoring championship, the professional circuit announced officially Saturday.

Watson, an all-around performer with the Philadelphia Eagles, piled up 114 points from 11 touchdowns, all on passes; 26 conversions, and four field goals to lead Doak Walker of the Detroit Lions by eight points. Watson finished first although he missed several games and was used sparingly in others because of a broken jaw.

Walker scored two touchdowns by rushing, three on passes, kicked 43 conversions without a miss and added 11 field goals in 17 attempts for a 106 total.

Detroit won the team honors with 337 points, one more than the champion Cleveland Browns scored. The Eagles set a record with 33 touchdowns.

Lou Groza of the Browns, finished third with 85 points and Gordon Soltau of the San Francisco Forty Niners was fourth with 76 points. Soltau was the 1953 scoring champion.

Ben Agajanian of the New York Giants finished fifth, followed by Harlon Hill of the Chicago Bears, Beacon Dan Towler of the Los Angeles Rams, Les Richter of the Rams, Pete Pihos of the Eagles and Joe Perry of the Forty Niners as the top 10.

Turf Patron Discloses Option
ARCADIA, Calif., March 5 — UP—Neil S. McCarthy, a local turf patron, disclosed Thursday that he holds an option to buy Arctic Way, the Irish horse who was flown 8,000 miles for Saturday's $100,000 San Juan Capistrano Handicap at Santa Anita.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 5 — UP—Sixteen horses owned by Texans were among the 125 thoroughbreds nominated Saturday for the 81st and richest running of the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs, May 7.

The winner was guaranteed $100,000, a figure that should be easy to meet. The value of the blue-ribbon classic has been increased to $125,000 in added money and the total cost to start a horse, raised from $1,050 to $1,600.

Thus with only 16 starters the Kentucky Derby for 1955 would be worth a total of $182,500 with a net purse of $106,400 going to the winner, topping the record of $102,650 earned by Andrew J. Crevelin's Determine a year ago. The second horse gets $25,000, the third, $12,500 and the fourth $5,000 as these prizes also were increased.

Eugene Constantine Jr. of Dallas led the list of Texans with four entries, but perhaps the best-known horses were Jean's Joe and Blue Ruler, owned by the Murcin Stable, part of the Clint Murchison enterprises.

Jean's Joe and Blue Ruler ran to place and show in the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap behind kind swaps, Fair Ruler also was a Murcin entry.

Battle Dance, winner of the Los Felts Handicap at Santa Anita, was another prominent nominee. Battle Dance was one of three entries by Taylorcrest Stables, owned by T. I. Harkins of Houston. The others

Inspired Tigers Knock Harvesters From Race

By BUCK FRANCIS
Pampa News Sports Editor

AUSTIN — A cold third quarter ruined the Pampa Harvesters' bid for a third straight state Class 4A cage title here Friday night when the Waco Tigers upset the Green and Golds, 67-61, in the semi-finals with a capacity crowd of 7,500 fans looking on in Gregory Gym.

The Harvesters were holding their own with the inspired Tigers until midway through the third period when they suddenly cooled off and at the same time saw the Tigers hit a scoring spree.

The defending champs led at the first quarter mark, 16-14 with Waco coming back to take the lead at halftime, 30-29. Waco still held a slim one-point margin after 4:30 minutes of play in the third, 38-37, but this is where the roof fell in on the Pampa club.

Waco poured in 10 more points the remaining 3:30 minutes of the third while the Harvesters were going pointless, the Tigers surging well ahead, 48-37, going into the final period.

The gap was just too big for the Harvesters to overcome in the final eight minutes but Coach Clifton McNeely's charges kept clinging away until the final gun. The Harvesters still had an outside chance of catching up when they narrowed the gap to five points, 61-56, with 2:15 minutes left in the game.

But Waco staved off the threatening Harvesters club to preserve their lead and record one of the many upsets of first round play in all divisions of the tournament.

The Harvesters matched Waco in field goals but the Wacoans made better use of its free throws for the final difference. The Tigers hit 25 of 37 from the free throw line while the Harvesters could only make good on 19 of 24 attempts. Both teams hit 21 times from the field.

Pampa tied 57 field goals to wind up with 37 per cent from the floor while Waco tried 50 for 42 per cent.

The Harvesters' top scorer, E. Jay McIlvain had a 50 per cent shooting from the floor. McIlvain was the game's leading scorer with 21 points although he left the game with five minutes to go via the personal foul route.

Oiler Spring Drills to Begin March 27

Spring training for the Pampa Oilers will open here March 27, according to Grover Seitz, Oiler manager. The Oilers have already signed players for the coming season including veterans "Red" Dial, Tony Briggs, Jack Venable, Ed Hall and Virgil Frazier. Promoted service players signed include Pete Carmona, Dick Hairston, Tony Tims, Karl Heron and Joe Gaines. A rookie signed is Jerry Epp, and one player in the military service on the Oiler roster is Dean Higgins. The club has yet to sign another player, one more limited service player and two rookies before the roster is numerically complete, according to Seitz.

Rematch Set for Vejar, Billy Graham

NEW YORK, March 5-UP—Chico Vejar and veteran Billy Graham will meet in a rematch in a welterweight bout sometime next month because Chico's speed and hustle earned only a split decision over Billy's skill in their 10-round fight at Madison Square Garden Friday night. Both fighters and their managers said Saturday they were willing to accept the second engagement. Matchmaker Billy Brown said, "I'll have to stage it in some city outside of New York because the arena will be in the Garden during the rest of April."

Shrine Game Stars Picked

NEW YORK, March 5-UP—Dick Hemric of Wake Forest and Buzzy Wilkinson of Virginia Saturday were chosen to play for the Shrine Game at Madison Square Garden, March 26. Hemric, a six-foot-six center from Jonesville, N. C., has scored more points in major college competition than any other player in history. In four years of varsity play, he has totaled over 2,540 points. Wilkinson, although a backcourt man, also is a prolific scorer. He finished third last season in the major college statistics with an average of 30.1 points per game, and has remained above the 30-point mark this season. Hemric and Wilkinson will play alongside such east stars as Tom Gola of La Salle, Duquesne's Dick Ricketts, Fordham's Ed Conlin and Maurice Stokes of St. Francis Pa. The Shrine Game will be coached by Ken Loeffler of La Salle, while Bruce Drake of Oklahoma will handle the West team.

MIAMI, Fla., March 5-UP—Former welterweight champion Kid Gavilan of Cuba, still smarting from his recent loss to Trinidad's Hector Constance, has demanded that a Cuban judge be appointed for his bout here with Bobby Dykes, March 16. Constance scored a close unanimous decision over Gavilan at Miami Beach last week. Daily Double $158

MIAMI, Fla., March 5-UP—Campeño ($94.40) and Butch's Pride ($87.40) formed a $2,500 daily double at Oklawaha Park Friday—the largest of the year. It topped the previous high of $1,542.80 returned at the Fair Grounds in New Orleans, Jan. 22, 29-30 at the Loyola, Fieldhouse.

TRAINING CAMP BRIEFS

Training Camp Briefs By UNITED PRESS
TUCSON, Ariz., March 5-UP—Holdout Early Wynn of the Cleveland Indians said Saturday "it's a right with me" if General Manager Hank Greenberg carries out his threat to trade him. Wynn, a 23-game winner for the American League champions in 1954, revealed Greenberg's threat and also that he wants $45,000—the same amount Bob Lemon and Ralph Kiner are believed to be receiving. The club has offered Wynn $37,000.

TAMPA, Fla., March 5-UP—General Manager Gabe Paul of the Cincinnati Redlegs said Saturday he was greeted by deafening silence when he attempted to discuss a trade for slugger Frank Thomas with General Manager Branch Rickey of the Pittsburgh Pirates. "We'll bid for Thomas if he's on the market," Paul said. "But I don't expect Pittsburgh to trade him—at least not until he's signed."

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 5-UP—Whitely Ford, Bob Grim and Bob Turley were named Saturday as the New York Yankee's "big three"—with Don Larsen, Tom Morgan and Tommy Byrne the chief candidates for the No. 4 starting berth.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 5-UP—Infielder Forest Jacobs was the Kansas City Athletics' only holdout Saturday after third-baseman Jim Finigan agreed to terms and took part in his first workout. Finigan, who hit .302 in 138 games last season, is believed to have accepted a contract calling for $8,500.

LAKELAND, Fla., March 5-UP—Shortstop Harvey Kuenn of the Detroit Tigers found a sympathetic ear Saturday when he asked Manager Bucky Harris to let him continue as the team's leadoff man. "Harvey tells me he can't seem to get his hits unless he's the leadoff batter," Harris explained. "I'm willing to go along with him." Kuenn collected 209 hits as a rookie in 1953 and 201 last season.

SARASOTA, Fla., March 5-UP—Rookie catcher Guy Morton suffered a slight fracture of the nose Friday when he was struck by his own foul ball during a Boston Red Sox workout. He is expected to be sidelined several days.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 5-UP—Manager Paul Richards of the Baltimore Orioles said Saturday he's willing to talk trade with anybody who will listen at next Monday's governor's baseball dinner in Tampa, Fla. Richards hopes to obtain a right-handed, power-hitting outfielder to form a 1-2 punch with ex-Yankee Gene Woodling.

BRADENTON, Fla., March 5-UP—The Milwaukee Braves, who suffered with a similar problem last spring, were slowed down Saturday by perhaps the largest collection of blistered feet and aching muscles in Florida.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 5-UP—Manager Charley Dressen sent the Washington Senators through a three-hour drill on fundamentals Friday, including work on base running, sliding, cutoffs and pick-offs by pitchers.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 5-UP—Rookie pitcher Lynn Lovenguth left the Philadelphia Phillies Saturday for Syracuse, where his wife has undergone an emergency appendectomy.

TAMPA, Fla., March 5-UP—General Manager Frank Lane of the Chicago White Sox revealed Saturday that the American League's realignment committee will meet here on March 14. The committee is investigating the possibility of accepting new franchises into the circuit.

Haggerty Awards To Gola, Conlin

NEW YORK, March 5-UP—Ed Conlin of Fordham and Tom Gola of La Salle Saturday were named recipients of this season's Haggerty and gold star awards, respectively, by the New York Basketball Writers Association. Conlin was chosen as the outstanding college basketball player in the New York area for the second consecutive season. He was the second player to win the award in successive years. NYU's Sid Tanenbaum did it in 1946 and 1947.

Funk-Shire Bout Vies With Girls

The Dory Funk-Roy Shire wrestling animosity continues. It comes to a sort of a head Monday night when they oppose each other from different sides of a tag team match at the Pampa Top of Texas Wrestling Club. But for popularity's sake, they'll have to contend with a girls match. Dory Funk, six times Southwest states junior heavyweight champion, teams with veteran Herb Parks, a durable, fast-moving character from North Bay, Ontario, Canada. "agin" the college roughsters from Evanston, Ill., and Northwestern University, Prof. Roy Shire and his manager-partner-vallet, long-haired Bobby Wallace.

are well trained in the fundamentals of wrestling and have added a lot of maneuvers that the male grapplers have overlooked. Starting the three-match card, veteran Tony Morelli of Italy and New York, goes against a likewise veteran, Maurice La Chappelle, of Tacoma, Wash. La Chappelle is a full-blooded Frenchman, but was born in Canada. He has wrestled in France, England, Mexico, Canada and the U. S., and he is not to be considered lightly. Morelli was born in Italy, but the suave philosophic, pipe-smoking athlete, getting along in years but still powerful in the ring, is a well-known New York character—in and out of the ring.

KEELUNG, Formosa. (Delayed) (FHTNC) — Leland C. Gobie, seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gobie of Kingsville Camp, was aboard the attack transport USS Lanawee participating in the evacuation of the Tachens Islands.

The Lanawee carried the first shipment of evacuees from the islands. She arrived in Keelung on Wednesday Feb. 9 and received a welcome from crowd lining the waterfront while the ship offloaded 3,800 civilians.

U. S. Ambassador to Nationalist China, Karl L. Rankin sailed with the ship as she returned to the Tachens the same day.

Lanawee landing craft and shipboard personnel conducted continuous amphibious operations for the remaining two and one-half days to clear the beach of troops and equipment that might be of value to the Communists.

Amarillo Kidnaper Gets 3 Years

AMARILLO, March 5—UP—Pretty Dianne Pappas began serving a three-year prison sentence Saturday for kidnaping a 10-month-old boy with whom she was baby-sitting.

Federal Judge Joe B. Dooley passed sentence on Mrs. Pappas, 24, Friday after studying a psychiatrist's report which said she knew right from wrong. Mrs. Pappas broke into tears when sentence was pronounced.

Immediately afterwards, she was led away to the U.S. Marshal's office where she and her estranged husband, Marine Corps Pfc. Ben Pappas, were reunited. Pappas said they would be reconciled when she served her term.

He said he thought his wife was fortunate in receiving only three years. She needs dental and medical care, he said, which she can get at the federal institution.

Mrs. Pappas was baby-sitting with 10-month-old Randy Gene Caskey when she took the baby and disappeared. She and the baby, who was unharmed, were picked up in a Denver bar. Mrs. Pappas told authorities she took the baby because his mother was not a good mother.

THE GIRL SCOUT PROMISE
On my honor, I will try:
To do my duty to God and my country,
To help other people at all times,
To obey the Girl Scout Laws.

THE GIRL SCOUT LAWS

1. A Girl Scout's honor is to be trusted.
2. A Girl Scout is loyal.
3. A Girl Scout's duty is to be useful and to help others.
4. A Girl Scout is a friend to all and a sister to every other girl Scout.
5. A Girl Scout is courteous.
6. A Girl Scout is a friend to animals.
7. A Girl Scout obeys orders.
8. A Girl Scout is cheerful.
9. A Girl Scout is thrifty.
10. A Girl Scout is clean in thought, word, and deed.

GIRL SCOUT ACTIVITIES

The Pampa Girl Scout activities cover a wide area and include many skills. During Girl Scout Week, which begins today and ends Saturday, the 43rd birthday of Scouting in the United States, the local organizations will be stressing these accomplishments and activities. UPPER LEFT: World friendship, with its slogan, "Hands Around the World," is one phase of Scouting. Nora Ruth Wells, 11, left, holds the U. S. flag and those of 25 other countries belonging to the GS world association, while Kathryn Bullard, 11, right, points out the countries on a globe. Holding the display of the globe and figurines depicting the costumes of 13 countries is Polly Jane Johnson, 11. All are members of Troop 17, with Mrs. Joe Wells as leader. Mrs. Wells is also the Juliette Low World Friendship chairman.

CENTER: Each Girl Scout promises "To do my duty to God and my country" and each meeting is opened with a flag ceremony. Shown during a ceremony are, left to right, Carlene Sexton, 7; Joy Ann Shultz, 7; and Jaime Cohea, 7. All are members of Brownie Troop 56, with Mrs. Mary Ann Cohea and Mrs. E. E. Shultz as leaders.

Peg O' Pampa

BOY! HAS PEG EVER HAD SPRING FEVER this week... just felt like sitting out in the sun soaking up vitamins... Know it's too good to last, but we can dream... Peg's got that picnic bug, already, but guess it won't last... we're bound to have more winter yet... these false springs... sure do get our hopes up... then comes the let-down.

PEG GOT A LETTER THIS WEEK, signed a "fellow snooper"... Sure to appreciate the contribution as Peg can't keep up with everything that's going on... Pampanos being such busy, active people... This is what she had to say... Guess the Pot, Paint and Piddlers are getting ready for a dusty spring and hot summer, saw them moving out of that little old house on East Browning this week, understand they're "taking over" Bill Hoskew's cool, clean basement workshop... Wonder if Bill will hide all those fine tools he has, knowing Bill, he'll probably say, "Help yourselves girls." Understand the newly formed Pampa Arts and Crafts Group will move into the old PPP club house. This will be good news for the many Pampa craftsmen who have been wanting to join such a group. Hear that Dr. Carl Lang seems to be as good with copper as he is with a scalpel.

THOUGHTS FOR THE WEEK... There never was found, in any age of the world, either religion or law that did so highly exalt the public good as the Bible (Francis Bacon)... The word of God will stand a thousand readings; and he who has gone over it most frequently is the surest of finding new wonders there (James Hamilton)... In what light soever we regard the Bible, whether with reverence to revelation, to history or to morality, it is an invaluable and inexhaustible mine of knowledge and virtue (John Quincy Adams)... The Bible is the learned man's masterpiece, the ignorant man's dictionary, the wise man's directory (Mary Baker Eddy)... Just as all things upon earth represent and image forth all the realities of another life of humanity (Helen Keller)... To my early knowledge of the Bible I owe the best part of my taste in literature, and the most precious, and on the whole, the essential part of my education (John Ruskin).

THE COMMUNITY CONCERT ASSOCIATION really gave a nice banquet for its workers, Monday... Peg doesn't know when she has had such a good time... everyone was seated at individual tables, with four at each table... nice chaty groups... and the Parish Hall of Holy Souls Church was really full... something no one wanted to miss... Icie Harrah, who always looks smart... looked especially chic and attractive... just love the way she wears her hair... Mrs. Fred Neslage was there, looking prettier than ever... also spied Mrs. Clifford Jones, Mrs. A. D. Hills, Mary Nancy Bowen, Mrs. E. V. Ward, Dr. and Mrs. Calvin Jones, Mrs. A. Schuneman... Henry Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lyons, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Rose... Mayor and Mrs. Tom Rose... certainly no doubt that Rex and Tom are brothers... after all these years, Peg still has to do a double take... Jim Austin, who has a marvelous voice, was there... with his pretty young wife... Saw Collette Dow, Mrs. Mack Hiatt, Adrienne Foster, Ruth Nestell, Don Sprinkle, Mrs. Roy Sullivan, Thelma Bray, Marie Harrah, Jean Chisholm, Bill Halsey, Mrs. Bob Curry, chic as ever... Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Veale... Eben Warner Jr., Mrs. Roy McKernan, Eloise Lane... and Mr. and Mrs. Knox Kinard... Wea Izzard gave a very amusing speech although Peg didn't agree with his idea of the men wearing tuxedos to concerts.

Charlie Hickman and Jan Dosier gave the cutest program at the 20th Century Allegro tea the other day... kept everyone in stitches... didn't realize either of them could be so funny... and little Maurine Hickman did a wonderful job in her interpretation of a Frenchman sort of a pantomime of a record... There were oodles of costumes changes... but it never dragged... Peg thought it was real cute... a relief from the usual serious programs... Frances Cree looked stunning... and so did Marie Harrah... saw Mrs. W. R. Campbell, Mrs. Ronald Hubbard... Mary Grady... Mrs. Sam Pruitt... among the good crowd that was there.

PEG UNDERSTANDS that Euna Lee Moores... always so busy... has given up a great deal of her time this week to give good grooming lectures to the Girl Scout troops... she's the Girl Scout beauty consultant... certainly is nice of her to give up her time for the girls... who Peg understands were as thrilled over the whole thing as Euna Lee.

IF YOU'VE GOT A HANKERING to try crepes suzettes, san flaming brandy, here is a delicious recipe... Peg highly recommends it... always wanted to try them but didn't have the courage until recently.

CREPES SUZETTES with MOLASSES-ORANGE SAUCE
 3/4 cup sifted all-purpose flour 1 cup milk
 2 1/2 teaspoon salt 1 1/2 tablespoon butter or margarine
 2 eggs, well beaten pine, melted
 Combine flour and salt. Combine eggs, milk, and butter; add all at once to flour mixture. Beat until smooth. For each crepe, pour 3 table-spoons batter on a hot, greased skillet; tilt to spread thinly. When lightly browned, turn to brown other side. Remove, roll up jelly-roll fashion. Place in Molasses-Orange Sauce in chafing dish, or spoon sauce over crepes in serving dish. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar.
 YIELD: 6 servings.

MOLASSES-ORANGE SAUCE
 1 6 ounce can frozen concentrated orange juice
 1/4 cup sugar
 1/2 cup unsulphured molasses
 1/4 cup butter or margarine
 Turn undiluted orange juice concentrate into chafing dish or saucepan. Stir in sugar, unsulphured molasses, and butter. Heat, stirring occasionally, until butter is melted and sauce is heated through.

FOURRI... Saw pretty Sarah Parker driving along the street the other day... she's such a pretty girl... she looks so tiny behind the wheel of a car... Understand the Bunny Behrmans have just returned this week from California... Jean Duncan was among ill this week... maybe this sunny weather we've been having will help people get well faster... or maybe keep more from getting what's ever is going around... glad to hear Marlene Kolb is Lions Club sweetheart this month... Pretty Marlene is a very capable young girl.

THE BIG STYLE SHOW is just a week away... guess, nearly every woman in town is going... bet some men will, too... promises to be one of the big hits of the year... understand lovely Doris Johnson is going to be a model... those women working behind the scenes... without credit... certainly deserve some praise... Mrs. Rufe Jordan has worked with the merchants on the picking of models... Theresa McKinney is in charge of the refreshments... and Lois Watkins had the big job of handling the ticket sales... Betty Whitney has had charge of the decorations... which promise to be exceptional... not to forget Azelle Loftus on publicity... Peg knows there are a lot more she hasn't mentioned.

THE LIONS WILL BE WHOOPING it up Thursday and Friday nights in their annual minstrel... besides always being a lot of fun, the proceeds go for a good cause... Peg hopes they have a sell-out crowd... but, they usually do.

Barbara Ann Carlson And James Crow Marry Saturday In Double-Ring Service

Miss Barbara Ann Carlson and James W. Crow were united in marriage at 8 p.m. Saturday in the First Methodist Church. Rev. Woodrow Adcock officiated for the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Carlson, 1616 Hamilton, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Crow of Austin.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white slipper satin. The figurine bodice was embroidered in satin cording and seed pearls and had a high-necked yolk of silk shadow lace. The long fitted sleeves came to points over her hands and the bouffant skirt tapered to a cathedral train. Her fingertip veil of French illusion fell from a pill-box headdress of silk shadow lace over satin, embroidered with seed pearls. She carried a cascade of white gardenias and stephanotis.

Mrs. Bill Waters, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a cocktail length gown of emerald green antique silk taffeta and a green half-hat of tulle. She carried a green basket filled with white daisies and pink split carnations.

Miss Jo Ann Crow of Austin, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Jo Ann Applebay of Lubbock were bridesmaids. They wore emerald green gowns identical to that of the matron of honor, and carried identical baskets of flowers.

Joe Crow of Austin, father of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Bill Waters of Pampa; Christopher Crow of Austin, brother of the bridegroom; and Marcus Singletary of Austin.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Carlson wore a dress of rose lace over crepe with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a pink crepe dress with matching accessories. Both wore corsages of white gladioli.

The couple was married before a background of woodwardia palms in varying heights, in front of which were grouped candelabra with white tapers. Completing the setting were white gladioli and stock in wedding baskets and a large center floral piece of white gladioli and stock.

Mrs. Roy Johnson, organist, played the traditional wedding marches and songs. Soloist was Roy Johnson, who sang "My Own True Love" and "Through the Years."

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the educational building of the church.

Background piano music was provided by Mrs. Roy Johnson, and guests were registered by Mrs. Jewell Applebay of Lubbock. Miss Diane Crow of Austin, sister of the bridegroom, presided at the punch bowl and Miss Carol Culbertson served the cake. Others assisting were Miss Margery Dixon of Dallas, Mrs. Courtney Cowden of Midland, and Mmes. Larry Fuller, Frank Kelp and John Spearman, all of Pampa.

MRS. JAMES W. CROW (Photo by Smith's Studio)

For a week's wedding trip to points in South Texas, the bride wore a beige wool shakrakin suit with aqua hat and gloves and brown lizard purse and pumps. Her corsage was of white gardenias. The couple will be at home at 2411 Quarry Road, Austin.

A Star Gives Her Recipe For Dieting To Start Before Gaining Much Weight

No-Breakfast Habit Does Not Help Diet

EDITOR'S NOTE: Here's the sixth of a seven-day series to show you a star's road to the smart way to stay slim. The expert calorie counter who gapped out the diet in the super-vision nutritionist of the New York City Health Department.

By DONNA REED
(Written for NEA Service)

The no-breakfast habit is a bad one. Far from being an aid in losing weight, it can actually put on weight since it leads to the mid-morning snack (usually a sweet roll or coffee) and to more food than you need at lunch.

So we always have a hearty breakfast at our house. By hearty, I mean grapefruit, cereal with milk, eggs and bacon and toast. My children and husband always have a good breakfast and when I'm dieting, I simply switch to orange juice, shredded cereal, skim milk and coffee.

Neither Tony nor I consider that orange juice and coffee make a breakfast. I have a well-balanced breakfast even when I'm dieting since I've learned it's easier to lose weight on three well-planned meals a day than it is on two meals and snacks or just two heavy meals.

People who, from habit or prejudice, feel that they just can't eat breakfast should check with their doctors. A doctor can get you back on the right track and give you (if you need them) vitamins.

You'll find that eating breakfast gives you energy for the morning's work that you probably didn't know you had. And you won't be ravenous by lunchtime.

Birthday Fete Held For Wheeler Lady

WHEELER — (Special) — Mrs. H. A. Whitener, known to relatives and friends as "Grandma White-ner," recently celebrated her 90th birthday with a dinner.

Born in Cass County in 1865, she married Mr. Whitener in Booneville Ark., in 1884. They had nine children, six of whom are still living. They are Mrs. Ina Young and Mrs. Winnie Norrid, both of Amarillo; Mrs. Claude Davis, Mrs. Edna Wright, and Arthur Whitener, all of Wheeler; and Lonnie Whitener of Texas City. She has 22 grandchildren, 47 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

The Whiteners moved to Wheeler County in 1907 and were engaged in farming in the Kelton Community until Mr. Whitener's death in 1933.

Mrs. Whitener is a member of the First Baptist Church of Wheeler. She has a keen interest in gardening and until recently when her eyesight began to fail, she did a lot of knitting, crocheting, sewing and other handwork.

Those attending her birthday dinner were Mrs. Ina Young, Winnie Norrid, Dan Norrid, Edna Wright; Messrs. and Mrs. Claude Davis and Arthur White-ner; and Dinah Sue and Larry Norrid. Other relatives and friends called during the day.

Treble Clef Club Presented Program On The Art Song By Mrs. K. Lankford

"The Art Song" was the program presented by Mrs. Kenneth Lankford at the recent meeting of Treble Clef Club in the City Club Room.

"The art song depends on the perfect fusion of text and music," she explained. "After the composer selects a text with an emotional or poetic content that invites a musical setting, he uses all the resources of his art to bring out the hidden implication of the words. Rhythm must conform to and accentuate the meter of the poetry. The curve of the melody traces the rise and fall of emotion in the text."

"The important words are brought out by the musical accent," she went on. "The harmonic background in the accompaniment provides a sympathetic commentary ranging from lightness and gaiety to heavy drama. Tempo and dynamics underscore the mood which changes with each shade of meaning. What emerges is a miniature tone poem, lyric or dramatic, that captures the innermost spirit of the poem."

Masters of the art song, named by Mrs. Lankford, were Schubert, Schumann, Brahms, Grieg, Tchaikovsky and Edward McDowell.

"In America this type of song has always been a favorite," she pointed out. "It runs from the sentimental, popular kind to the highest type of art song."

The musical program following Mrs. Lankford's speech included a contralto solo, "None But The Lonely Heart" by Tchaikovsky sung by Mrs. G. L. Hallenbeck; a piano solo, "Improvisi in a Flat Major" by Schubert, played by Bill Haley; contralto solos, "The Sandman" by Schumann and "In Summer Fields" by Brahms, sung by Mrs. Bob Getty; a tenor solo, "Do Not Go My Love" by Hageman, sung by Ray Luper; and two Treble Clef Chorus numbers,

"Comes a Train of Little Ladies" by Sullivan and "A Dream Boat Passes By" by Lemare.

Encore's included "Galliwog's Cakewalk" by Debussy, a piano solo by Bill Haley; and "Caro Mio Ben" by Glodani, a tenor solo by Ray Luper.

Mrs. Hallenbeck was accompanied by Miss Eloise Lane, who also played for the chorus numbers and for Mr. Luper's solos. Mrs.

RUTH MILLET

There are some things a woman can't hide, no matter how much she kids herself into thinking that she is making the kind of impression she wants to make.

She can't for long hide the fact that she is interested only in herself. For if she always thinks of herself first, that fact will be made clear in dozens of little actions, small decisions, and remarks. Each person who comes in contact with a self-centered woman soon knows how little he or anyone else really matters to her.

She can't for any length of time hide the fact that she is envious of others. The person who is envious of others can't ever wholeheartedly rejoice over another's good fortune. Somewhere she always strikes a sour note. Nor can she ever praise another person without slipping in some belittling remark.

She can't conceal the fact that she is a social climber. The woman who measures other people by what they can do for her and who is determined to get in with "the right people" can't fool anyone for long. Her social ambition shows every time she ignores an unimportant person to make a big fuss over someone she thinks is worth impressing. It is glimpsed in the questions she asks about people, in her conversation which is always aimed to impress, in her readiness to leave a person or a group whenever she thinks she can better herself.

She can't cover up the fact that she lives to impress others, no matter how subtle she thinks she is being when she brags of this or that.

21 Easy Credit Terms Boost Auto Sales

ARRESTED

Gerald Paden, Lubbock, Tex., is led away by police who arrested him for trying to erect a sign outside his church in Rome Thursday. Paden, a leader of the American Church of Christ, said police acted without full knowledge of court order that permitted erection of sign. (NEA Telephoto)

DETROIT, March 5 — UP—The liberal credit terms being offered on new cars is at least one big factor behind the booming automobile sales which might set an all-time record in 1955.

In the industry, some of the credit terms go past the liberal point, and some spokesmen call them "crazy terms."

Whether "liberal" or "crazy" however, the terms being offered make it easier at times to buy a new car than not buy one.

Some dealers are selling cars with nothing down, five years to pay.

Some are even selling cars under deals by which a buyer drives the car free for a year without making a payment of any kind until after the first year.

In Detroit, a group of dealers are advertising: "Buy a new car and cut your monthly payments."

These ads cite cases in which people who owed $83 a month on their old cars, traded them in on new ones. The old mortgage was paid off and the payments on the new car were only $53 a month.

Already many car buyers are in effect merely "leasing" cars and never own one outright. But the time they pay off one, or before that, they trade for a new car.

But with credit terms getting wilder, many in the industry, like the National Automobile Dealers Association, are wondering what many of the current credit offers are going to do to the automobile market.

The NADA has warned its members that extremely long term credit deals, just to keep monthly payments low, are going to tie up customers for longer periods than normal before they'll be ready or able to buy another new car.

"Selling under these circumstances is selling next year's business this year," the NADA says.

It also said that such long-term deals usually mean also a customer is being over-sold, and is being sold a late model used car. It also warned that people who need such long terms often are poor credit risks, with a high rate of repossessions.

The long-term deals also are apt to mean customer dissatisfaction, the NADA warned.

It said under long-term credit deals a customer, because of depreciation on his car, might find

Perryton Girl Wins Contest

PERRYTON —(Special)— Mary Lou Jacquot, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Jacquot, has won first place in the Amarillo Symphony Orchestra contest and will play with the orchestra March 27.

She competed in the 12 to 14-year-old group in the contest held Saturday in Amarillo. She played "D Major Concerto" by Hayden as her selection.

DeVona McEntire, also of Perryton, participated in the audition.

This is the second Perryton pianist to win an honor of this type from the Amarillo Symphony. Two years ago Sara Mize won the guest appearance honor in a younger age group.

himself in the position in a year or two of owing more on his car than the car is worth.

"What could be more frustrating?" the NADA added.

Bank Robberies Increase
WASHINGTON, March 5—UP—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said Saturday the rate of bank robberies has reached a "feverish" pace in the past four years. He said there were 224 bank robberies in 1950, but they increased to 317 in 1954.

"WHY I LIKE MY ELECTRIC DRYER"

"Watching my year-old daughter, Lexy Jane, is part of washing—that's why I like my electric dryer!" says Mrs. Myron D. Adams, 123 N. Academy, Guymon, Okla.

"Lexy Jane is at the age where she 'gets into everything', so she's an important part of planning my clothes drying."

"I wash about two loads of clothes every day. Before I had the dryer, I would have to carry the heavy, wet clothes out into the yard, leaving Lexy Jane alone. Any mother knows how much mischief an active youngster can get into in just a few minutes. Now, with my clothes dryer, I can watch Lexy Jane and dry clothes at the same time."

"The clothes really 'piled up' before I got my dryer, especially in the winter months when many days are not fit for drying outdoors. Now I pick my own drying day, even to the hour."

You, too, will find the convenience of electric clothes drying a big help on washday. You can 'watch'—your children, that is — and dry at the same time.

Show Within Show Needs Live Fans

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK, March 5—UP—NBC's "Philo Playhouse" won't be starting a new trend for hour-long "live" television dramas Sunday night when it is performed before an audience.

This is just a peculiar case in which an audience is needed because David Shaw's script, "Play Me Hearts and Flowers," starts off as a TV show within a TV show. The big TV dramas invariably are played without audiences for many practical production reasons.

However, there are many anxious to sit in on them, as was evidenced by the response to the announcement a couple of weeks ago that an audience could see this one.

Hubert, Number of Requests. The NBC studio that once was the Century Theater seats about 1,500 persons. Within a few days, the program has received requests for 11,000 tickets.

"Play Me Hearts and Flowers," stars Johnny Desmond and Joey Adams, both rather unusual persons to find doing this type of work. Desmond is one of the top popular singers and Adams is a leading night club comic who also is well known to radio and TV as a master of ceremonies.

Shaw's story begins with the air-need of typical audience reaction, hence the need of typical audience reaction. Desmond plays an unknown vocalist who meets a comic on the show, and they discover that the singer makes a good "straight man" for the comedian.

They quickly become a sensational team, but the singer eventually grows to become known for his vocal ability and complications ensue.

The plot, identically, concerns the recording of a song by the vocalist which becomes a hit. An actual new song will be used for this purpose, and it's title is the same as that of the play. Desmond already has recorded the song for commercial use, and the record will be released by Coral the day after the TV show.

Several attempts have been made this season to tie in a new song with a TV show in an effort to get an overnight record success. But the only one that worked in the really grand manner was the first one, the off-camera vocal by the then unknown Joan Weber of "Let Me Go, Lover," as background music for a "Studio One" drama. And that success was pure accident.

Peepers to Have Baby. The anticipated injection of impending parenthood into the "Mr. Peepers" program occurs this Sunday when Nancy Peepers' going to have a baby.

There will be no birth during the present season, however. It is planned for the baby to be born while the program is off the air this summer, with the child being introduced when the new series starts in the fall. According to plan, the child will be a girl.

WESTERN DRAMA

Gary Cooper and Burt Lancaster, two of the screen's most rugged he-men, have the roughest roles of their careers as two American free-booters on the loose in the tumultuous Mexico of 1866, in "Vera Cruz," currently showing at the LaNora Theatre. The cast also includes Denise Darcel and Cesar Romero.

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—Uncovering Hollywood: Marie Wilson bustin' out again, kids. Television kept her clothes above sea level as "Irina" but the wraps will be off soon on CBS' new home-show starring Marie as "Miss Peppermint." It's back to glamor duds for the big-eyed star who will even use Marie as her character name to further escape Irina. Hush-hush details of the show: She plays a secretary in a model agency who spends more time modeling bathing suits and scanties and living it up with boy friends than she does at her desk. "Honey," she flipped it, "it's going to be 'SEE IT NOW'." Oh, no. Liberace's now wearing a diamond ring shaped like a piano. With those teeth, he always looks like a piano to me.

Insiders at U-I don't put much stock in rumors that Mamie Van Doren will become Mrs. Ray Anthony by April. The career is in high gear.

Henry Fonda Plays Clown On Sunday TV

Henry Fonda stars as the world-famous circus clown Emmett Kelly, in "General Electric Theater's" presentation of "Clown," Sunday, March 7 (CBS Television, 9:00-9:30 p.m., EST).

The story is based on Emmett Kelly's autobiography, "Clown," which was published by Prentice-Hall and soared to the best-selling ranks in short order.

The story opens in the mid-thirties with Fonda, as Emmett Kelly, a reluctant trapeze artist. His partner in the spotlight is his lovely and talented wife, Eva Balto (Dorothy Malone). Eva, who is descended from a long line of top circus artists, works hard to make Emmett a top-flight performer but his heart is not in it.

Torn between his life-long ambition to be a clown and his love for Eva, Emmett reaches emotional crossroads when Eva is offered a spot with Ringling Brothers to work with a top quartet of serial artists and has to leave Emmett behind.

Almost simultaneously, however, Emmett is given an opportunity to do his Willie, the Tramp, act. At his first performance, the audience ignores him. Gradually, his act catches the public fancy and he is firmly launched on a career that is to bring him fame and fortune.

Iowa Leads Dressed Meat Production

CHICAGO, March 5—UP—The American Meat Institute said Sunday night eight states, with Iowa again leading the way, each processed more than one billion pounds of dressed meat during 1954.

Iowa continued as the No. 1 meat processing state with 2,696,772,000 pounds, a one per cent increase over its 1953 output. Illinois was second with 2,191,054,000 pounds.

Iowa also was the top pork processor, turning out 1,578,561,000 pounds to top all other states by a wide margin.

But California copped the prize as the top beef processing state, accounting for 1,225,919,000 pounds. Illinois was second and Iowa third.

California also was the top lamb producer with 163,851,000 pounds, followed by Iowa and Nebraska. Texas took honors as the top veal producing state with 284,226,000 pounds, while Illinois was second and Wisconsin third.

In total production, California was third behind Iowa and Illinois with 1,962,064,000 pounds. Others of the eight states in order were Minnesota, 1,596,989,000 pounds; Nebraska, 1,442,938,000 pounds; Texas, 1,283,884,000 pounds; Ohio, 1,123,508,000 pounds, and Missouri, 1,026,819,000 pounds.

By BILL KERR
Pampa News Staff Writer

In a scholarly, but interesting treatment of the subject of narcotics traffic, not labored with dull statistics, Harry J. Anslinger, United States Commissioner of Narcotics for the past 25 years, develops a searching analysis of the problem and how it is to be combated. He is given an able assist by a young lawyer, William F. Tompkins, who served as chairman of New Jersey's Legislative Committee to Study Narcotics.

Anslinger has been described by British narcotics expert Leonard Lyall, as "the greatest living authority on the world narcotics traffic." This book is available at the library.

Reds Largest Trafficker
The traffic in opium supposedly originated with the Sumerians as early as 5,000 B.C. Along with its more recent counterparts, heroin, morphine, cocaine and others, it has been the symbol of a "dangerous instrumentality" of traffic fraught with evil, of unprincipled men . . . and amoral nations.

Anslinger through extensive research and the gleanings of facts from all over the world says that the principal illicit sources of narcotics in the world today are Communist China, Burma, Malaya, India, Japan, Turkey, Thailand, Iran, Syria, Lebanon, Italy and Mexico.

Narcotics have become the instrument of national policy. The Japanese used it as "chemical warfare" to weaken the will of the Chinese during their conflict of the 1930s. The communist world, principally Red China, is smuggling narcotics into the international market to weaken countries which are their prime objectives in their plans for world conquest.

Italian Gangsters
Communist China is exploiting the use of the "poppy" in order to weaken nations internally through depravity and human misery, weakening the will to resist their aggressions. It is part of a systematic plan to create new addicts, while maintaining a hold on those already in the ranks.

Investigations conducted by the United States Department of Narcotics with the cooperation of Italian agencies showed considerable quantities of Italian heroin being smuggled into the United States by American deportee gangsters now in Italy, who apparently monopolize the illicit traffic. The gangsters were shipping the heroin to narcotics gangs in principal cities throughout the country. The production of heroin was indefinitely suspended in Italy by order of the Italian Commission of Public Health. It was found that only 20 kilograms (44 pounds) of the annual production of 200 kilograms was being used for medicinal purposes.

In a study conducted recently by the Federal Bureau of Narcotics it was shown in a 16-state survey representing 27 per cent of the nation that there were 1.83 drug addicts per 10,000 population. States like Nevada showed 10.08 persons, Oklahoma 3.09, and 2.38 in Delaware per 10,000.

Early Laws
According to the authors, in 1909 when the first anti-opium law was passed in the United States, addiction to narcotics was so widespread that the annual importation of opium reached just short of 630,000 pounds for a country with a population of 80,000,000. With today's population of 155,000,000, the annual consumption has been almost halved.

With the passage of the Harrison Act in 1914 figures pointed up the fact that one out of every 460 persons in the country were narcotics addicts; in 1922 the figures showed not more than one out of every 3,000 persons.

Treatment is still in its infancy. Not enough hospitals are available for the specialized work. One need only look at the daily newspapers to see the effect narcotics have on a large segment of our youth. In a survey conducted before World War II on the island of Formosa, Dr. Tsungming To, of the Health Commission showed statistically that 70 per cent of the crime committed in the Japanese Colony was done by opium smokers.

Stiffening of sentences may act as a deterrent to the pushing in this country of narcotics. Under the Boggs Act of 1951, sentences have been considerably more severe. Mandatory sentences of two, five, and 10 years are now required for a conviction.

Adventure Re-lives Darwin's Voyage

The story of Charles Darwin's memorable five-year voyage around the world on H.M.S. Beagle, during which the famed naturalist first formulated his revolutionary theories about the evolution of species, will be presented on "Adventure," Sunday, March 6 (CBS Television, 3:30-4:00 p.m., EST). "Adventure" is the joint effort of CBS Television and the American Museum of Natural History.

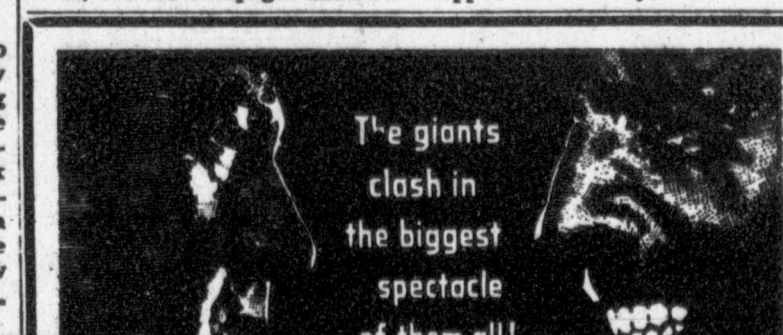

The 22-year-old Darwin shipped aboard the Beagle as naturalist for the long, world tour, during which the ship was commissioned to make certain geographic and navigational surveys for the British Navy. As he visited different places, Darwin saw variations among animals of the same species which first suggested to him the processes of adaptation and natural selection, which remain the bulwark of his theories of evolution. The more Darwin saw of both the flora and the fauna of the world, the more he became convinced of the workings of evolution in establishing the "survival of the fittest" in species everywhere. Prevailing theory at the time (1831) was that all animal forms originally had been created as they appeared.

On the broadcast, Dr. Edwin H. Colbert, curator of fossil reptiles and amphibians at the Museum, Charles Romine, narrator for this broadcast, examine some of the evidence of evolution which Darwin found in four areas during his voyage: Patagonia, Buenos Aires, and the Galapagos and Keeling Islands. For example, near Buenos Aires, Darwin found the fossil of a horse which suggested that horses roamed the continent some 10,000 years previously. And yet he knew that horses were unknown when the Spaniards landed on South America in the 16th Century. The Galapagos, he found to be a natural laboratory for the study of evolution because more than 800 miles of open water separated these islands from the mainland and strong currents separated them from each other. Here he found species differing from each other and yet all similar to animals he had observed on the mainland. Then, as a experiences, among others, started him pondering the forces in nature that could work to extinguish one species and alter another. His theories on evolution resulted.

Producer of "Adventure" is Robert Northfield. Director is Mel Ferber. Associate producer is Jac Venza. Script was prepared by Shelby Gordon.

A PAIR OF FAST ONES
Metropolitan opera star Robert Merrill revealed a little-known secret when he was a guest on CBS Television's "I've Got a Secret" recently. The singer whispered to Garry that he once tried out as a pitcher for the Brooklyn Dodgers. To corroborate his secret, he pitched a couple of fast ones to Garry right there in front of the cameras. But what turned out to be equally surprising was that Garry proved to be an expert catcher, stopped them neatly.

The giants clash in the biggest spectacle of them all!

'Aunt Phyllis' Top Panhandle Relative

AMARILLO — The Panhandle's most favorite relative! That's "Aunt Phyllis" O'Keefe, pert, blonde, lovable star of Channel 4's "For Kids Only" show.

As a conservative estimate, Mrs. Pat O'Keefe is "Aunt Phyllis" to at least 100,000 High Plains children. And, if there's a television set available very few of them miss the antics of Aunt Phyllis, Kaygee and Jerry the Artist every week day afternoon from 5:00 to 5:45 on KGNC-TV.

In the slightly less than two years that "For Kids Only" has been one of KGNC's featured shows, some 5,200 of the people she loves the most — children — have appeared as guest on the show, averaging 20 daily. Even though 1955 is young yet, only a handful of dates remain to be filled this year as the "For Kids Only" honored guest spot as "Birthday Child" of the day, and more than half of the dates for 1956 have already been taken.

Each day a child who's celebrating a birthday on that date is the special birthday child. The children are selected by letters from their mothers.

The daily mail the show receives mirrors Aunt Phyllis' popularity. It isn't at all unusual for the station to receive 75 letters daily and it often goes more than 100.

In addition to more than 5,000 children on the show, countless other thousands have seen Aunt Phyllis, Kaygee and Pete at personal appearances throughout the area.

A mother of four, she could not be more qualified to handle such a show.

One of Aunt Phyllis' biggest worries these days is 20-year-old son, David, who's in the Navy, stationed aboard the USS Breckinridge, a troop transport, which operates between the West Coast and Far East as a component of the Military Sea Transportation Service.

Daughter Sidney 6 is in her first year of school, and then there are the 8-year-old twins, Candy and Mike.

A native of Charleston, W. Va., Aunt Phyllis met husband, Pat, in Charleston when he came there to star in Cyrano de Bergerac. Pat is a native of Panhandle, and they have lived in Amarillo for seven years.

The O'Keefes, Uncle Pat and Aunt Phyllis, have been reading the funnies over KGNC Radio every Sunday morning from 8:45 to 9:30 for the past four years.

Then from Monday through Friday at 9:45 a.m., Aunt Phyllis presents her "Your Baby" show with many helpful hints to new mothers but "absolutely no medical advice."

In addition to her family (which always comes first), her TV and radio work, Aunt Phyllis, in fact both the O'Keefes, find time to be very active in Amarillo Little Theatre work.

Both have had featured roles in such Little Theatre hits as "Bell, Book and Candle" and "Life with Father."

"Pat is the actor in the family" Phyllis tells you laughingly. "I'm the ham. But I love it. It's a hobby with us now, although Pat was on the legitimate stage for years."

One of Texas' Five Most Consistent Newspapers

We believe that one truth is always consistent with another truth. We endeavor to be consistent with truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence.

Should we, at any time, be inconsistent with these truths, we would appreciate anyone pointing out to us how we are inconsistent with these moral guides.

Published daily except Saturdays by The Pampa News, Atchison at Somerville, Pampa, Texas. Entered as second class matter under the act of March 3, 1879.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By CARRIER in Pampa, 20¢ per week. Paid in advance (at office) $2.90 per 3 months, $7.50 per six months, $13.00 per year. By mail $7.50 per year in retail trading zone, $12.00 per year outside retail trading zone. Price for single copy, 5 cents. No mail orders accepted in localities served by carrier.

Consistency

A reader suggested to us that because the Pampa News advocated the passage of water bonds recently we had abandoned a single moral standard for determining right or wrong and had violated our slogan "One of Texas' Five Most Consistent Newspapers." Note The News claims only to be one of the MOST consistent.

It is impossible to be consistent with any form of socialism. And it is a degree of socialism-communism for any government to be in any business where the full cost of the service received is not paid by the recipients—except the business of stopping aggression, police protection. And even that should be supported on a voluntary basis.

We believe we would have a better water system and better roads if they were privately owned and if the private operator was not penalized by income and property taxes that government-owned property escapes.

The Pampa Water System attempts to charge each consumer in proportion to the cost of the service rendered. So long as it does not charge any person who gets no benefit from it, there is no involuntary act, and thus no socialism or communism. The roads, with the gas tax, attempts to charge likewise. It is, of course, not perfect, but it aims to be operated on a basis where both parties are directly benefitted and not as socialism, where only one of the two parties is benefitted.

But it is entirely different when the city or government goes into furnishing a service and makes no attempt to charge each patron in proportion to the cost of the service rendered. Such services as tax-supported libraries, schools, parks, etc. make no attempt to get support on an individual, voluntary basis. They are based on aggression-socialism, and they thus violate such moral laws as the Coveting Commandment and the Golden Rule.

The editorial in the Pampa News advocating the Bond passage for the water system did not go into detail explaining that so long as the city was in the business of furnishing water and it attempted to charge for the water in proportion to the cost of the service rendered, as they have been doing in the past, passing the Bond issue would not infringe on any person's inalienable rights, provided the bonds were paid in proportion to water used.

THE NATION'S PRESS

HERE, THERE, AND EVERYWHERE

The defense department has reported to Congress that 1,370,000 men of the nation's combat forces are stationed abroad at more than 900 installations, as against 1,502,000 within the United States. The total within the continental limits classified as ready for combat does not include trainees with less than four months of service, seriously hospitalized men, women in uniform, and conscientious objectors.

Several facts are apparent from this report, the most significant being that the defense establishment is violating the time tested precept that military effectiveness depends upon concentration of force. America's forces are badly dispersed. Close to half of them are in foreign countries. These are distributed around more than 900 different installations, or in caravans averaging a strength of 1,322 men.

This situation is made to order for piecemeal destruction of almost half of America's forces by an enemy that can concentrate successively against small forces isolated from one another. In his recent address at Los Angeles, Gen. MacArthur referred to Red China's strategic position in the far east as providing a classic example of "the familiar case of a concentrated enemy in a central position deployed against scattered allies." The concentrated power always has the advantage.

MacArthur pointed out that the Chinese Communists had military designs on three fronts: Korea, Indo-China, and Formosa—but were careful to clean up each singly before proceeding to bring force against the next objective, because fighting on all three simultaneously would invite defeat. In fire before turning to Indo-China, and they got a settlement there before directing their attention to Formosa.

It is this cardinal strategic doctrine that the Eisenhower administration is violating wholesale by dispersing American forces in dribs and drabs all over the world. The Japanese followed that strategy with disastrous results when they tried to hold isolated positions all over the orient in World War II. Their scattered garrisons were overwhelmed in turn when they were not by-passed and left to die on the vine, cut off by American control of the sea and air from reinforcements and supplies.

Last year there was much talk in the defense department of bringing overseas contingents home in order to develop a strong mobile striking force operating from a secure base within the United States. Evidently that was only talk, for the department's report suggests no steps to make the policy a reality.

Rep. Clare Hoffman of Michigan deserves commendation for having introduced the resolution which brought the facts out of the defense department, which in the past has been close-mouthed about its dispositions abroad. It can be hoped that Congress will have the good sense to perceive that this information discloses a sprawling, untidy, and hazardous disposition of military force which necessarily is most effective when concentrated.

SECURITY

Trailer Talk

Want security? Throw a brick through a window.

You'll get it, fast. Three meals a day, free. No taxes (they'll "soak the rich" for your support). Free housing, free clothing, free medical care. No worry about your future; you've had it.

But obey orders, or else! Stand up to be counted! March in line! No back talk! Do what you are told!

Jail, socialism, Communism. The welfare state. They're all the same—same "benefits," same obligations, same "rewards," same payments.

Of course, every once in a while, promises backfire and you get a club on the head instead of the security you've been promised. But keep on throwing bricks at the profit-and-loss system and you'll smash it; then you'll get your "security."

But you won't like it.

A few days ago, after 56 years of shining shoes at an Elizabeth, N. J., stand, Anthony Tomasulo died, at the age of 89. Mr. Tomasulo was born in Italy; came to this country when he was 26.

Surviving him are six sons: Judge Nicholas A. Tomasulo of the New Jersey Superior Court; Dr. Frank T. Tomasulo, dentist; Joseph Tomasulo, head of an electric firm; Louis Tomasulo, construction superintendent; Michael Tomasulo, school principal; James Tomasulo, Union County Supervisor of Roads.

Would Pravda care to reprint this one?

Want increasing in Communism China. There has always been want in all the Communist satellite countries where there was plenty before. Want is a "Permanent Objective" of the Communist internationalists who believe that a privileged minority must rule a world whose masses are kept permanently subdued by want. Communism makes a lying promise of plenty to shackle all men with the chains of want. All the records prove it.

Ohio Teacher Comments On Newspaper's Stand On State Schools

I want to quote from a letter from Mr. J. O. Tressler of Bucyrus, Ohio, commenting on the stand on state schools of The Bucyrus Telegraph Forum, one of Freedom Newspapers. He writes:

"I have read several of your editorials in the Bucyrus Telegraph Forum with interest, all which referred to our public schools as being contrary to the Golden Rule. Our constitution is a pledge to the support of schools and to the privilege of freedom of speech as long as that freedom is not used to undermine or overthrow our democratic form of government."

"Imagine your position as a reader of our local daily and not its publisher. That is the meaning of the Golden Rule, isn't it? Would not you be interested in reading all sides of every public question? A truly great newspaper does that very thing."

"I would prefer to read our local paper instead of the Toledo Blade. Yet the Blade remains as free from bias and prejudice as it is possible to do. It also has a daily page of farm news. At least 50 per cent of the people in Bucyrus came from farms, have relatives on farms, or own farms. They are interested in reading about farm problems and farm progress."

"You are entrusted with the responsibility of serving this community with the news, the whole news, and nothing but the news. Newspapers are really the adult college courses of study. The progress of any community depends much upon its daily newspaper."

Yours for a better community newspaper,
J. O. Tressler"

Comments On Letter

I don't believe that the federal Constitution makes any pledge to support schools.

Mr. Tressler talks about our democratic form of government. This nation was never intended to be a Democratic Form of Government. If it was to be a pure majority rule country why did we have a Constitution?

I doubt whether a reader wants to read all sides of every public question. If he tried to read all sides of every public question, he would get many more columns of collectivistic propaganda than he would of articles and editorials that are in harmony with the Golden Rule. That is true because there are millions of ways of doing things wrong and only one way of doing things right. What every reader should be interested in is that the newspaper does not suppress any vital news or advertising and selects news that would be most informative to its readers. No newspaper can carry all the news. Every news item that it carries is a matter of judgment as to whether this or that item is more informative or useful to the reader.

Reader Fooled On

The reader contends that the Toledo Blade is as free from bias and prejudice as it is possible to do. That statement was evidence to me how easily readers are fooled on whether a newspaper is good or bad. Some 36 years ago when I lived in Lorain, Ohio, and the state paving contracts were let on a non-competitive basis. I sent an ad with a check to the Toledo Blade showing how much more certain contractors under state contracts were paid for paving roads around Toledo than other contractors would do the same job for. The ad was nothing but a record of the contracts that had been let, and for that reason not libelous. But the newspaper returned my ad and check and contended that it would not print it because it was controversial. I was shocked that a newspaper would refuse to give its readers information they should have in order to vote intelligently for Governor. The purpose of the ad was to show the readers how the paving department of the state under record of the contracts was at the time editor of the Toledo Blade. He is now president of the corporation that operates the Blade. How can a newspaper be free of bias that refuses to run a paid ad exposing corruption in paving contracts?

Mr. Tressler contends that the newspaper is entrusted with the responsibility of serving the community with the news, the whole news, and nothing but the news. No newspaper can carry all the news. As stated above, all it can do is to select the news that it believes to be the most informative and useful to its readers. The only thing it can do is to be sure that it is not suppressing news or advertising in order to favor any particular interest—that it is not a party to keeping its readers uninformed.

Mr. Tressler has the right idea that newspapers should be "the adult college courses of study." Few of them, however, do much to get their readers to better understand the blessings that come from obeying moral laws. Only newspapers that do not suppress news or advertising and invite their readers to point out contradictions in their editorial policy and print vital news that they have missed when called to their attention can do much to help their readers become better educated. A good newspaper always wants its contradictions and omissions pointed out. In other words, the columns of a good newspaper are always open to have its policy questioned by those people who are seeking information rather than simply trying to promote some special privilege.

SEATO Members Told U. S. Aid Has Its Limitations

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Aftermath developments of the Southeast Asia strategy conference at Bangkok disclose that the United States must fight alone in any defense of Formosa and the Pescadore Islands in the event of Chinese Communist invasion. Neither the European nor Asian members of SEATO will give us much token support as they did in Korea.

Despite Bangkok Communists' declaration that substantial unity in opposition to Communist aggression in this area had been achieved, that was no solid material gain. The SEATO members had been committed to this position before they assembled.

The task at Bangkok was to build a military and economic wall against Communist infiltration or conquest of this food and mineral and rubber-rich territory and a few bricks were laid. International cement is still to be applied. From the military standpoint, Thailand and the Asian nations—Australia and the Asian nations—wanted the United States to assign at least token forces, sea, air and ground, in the imperiled area. But Secretary Dulles agreed only that warships and planes now in Japan, the Philippines or other Pacific bases would be available for shipment to the Asians and Australians under Red guns, this strategy smacks too much of the defensive. It suggests that the United States will "liberate" them only after they have been overrun. It recalls the long delay in freeing France of occupying Germans. It reminds them of MacArthur's long ordeal in driving back the Japanese after they had approached Australian shores. It made them think of the marooned Chiang Kai-shek on Formosa.

World Dulles furnish specific details of the kind or amount of military aid which we will provide in an emergency. As with the Quemoy and Matsu Islands, he did not care to tip off the enemy on our war plans. But he was equally confusing to our prospective allies. An Australian representative complained bitterly of this reticence.

The American Secretary of State, of course, had more on his mind than the regional defense of Southeast Asia. Whereas the other SEATO delegates thought only in terms of their own security against Mao Tse-tung, Dulles had to view their problems as only a small segment of the vast Far East, including Korea, Japan, Formosa, the Philippines.

Southeast Asia represents to him only one of our numerous Pacific commitments, ranging from Alaska to Australia. To them national and individual survival in an atomic age is everything.

On this question, however, Dulles discovered his European and Asian opposites to be strangely but understandably unsympathetic and unco-operative. He found them unresponsive to his suggestion that the immediate strategy against a Red assault on Indo-China might be a joint counter-offensive from Korea or Formosa, and in which they would participate.

Such a counterblow, they replied, would leave them at the Red's mercy in the early days of any conflict, especially in view of the Chinese numerical superiority.

They were not willing to share Dulles' belief that all these exposed areas are actually interdependent.

Nor did Dulles win any support for his proposal that a Red attack on South Korea or Formosa should activate the military forces of SEATO members. Again they noted that, if they deployed their strength, such as it is, to the north, it would give the Communists an open invasion road into Southeast Asia. Even the British and the Australians opposed this idea.

The Indo-China crisis also forced Dulles to depart from previous American foreign policy in the Orient and Asia. He had steadfastly refused to enter into any alliance in this sphere with the "old colonial powers," Britain and France.

He barred them from participation in our military pacts with Japan, the Philippines, Australia, New Zealand, Formosa, Turkey and Pakistan. Now we are associated with them, as Mao and Prime Minister Nehru will not fail to note at the forthcoming conference of 30 Afro-Asian nations in Indonesia.

In short the Bangkok strategy meeting was not one of Dulles' shining successes. Its maximum achievement, perhaps, is recorded in the lovely lyric from the Broadway musical, "The King and I." Since it was his first visit to this part of the world, it was a case of "getting to know you."

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M. D.

Three men have written similar letters recently inquiring about the possibility of there being such a thing as change of life in men. One says, although married happily for twenty years, the simple faults of his spouse take on serious proportions which cause ridiculous arguments. Other items in this letter indicate that the difficulty may not be with the husband alone since the wife is inclined to a few pre-dinner cocktails and becomes much more argumentative at such times.

Another of the correspondents says he is afflicted by weakness, nervousness, loss of weight, shaky nerves and slight mental disturbances. The third writes that he has had heart palpitations for some years but that his heart is actually all right and that now he has great difficulty sleeping, has no appetite, and gets so nervous that he can't sit still and worries over any little thing.

ARE THESE MEN and others like them suffering from what might be called a change of life and if so what can be done about it? The answer is indeed hard to come by. It should be said at first that there might be other causes in the physical condition, in the family relationships, in the occupation, or from financial or other worries which could account for almost all of these symptoms described.

It is almost certainly true that the hormone production of the male sex glands does slow up with advancing years. In men, however, this gradual slowing appears to produce no symptoms in the majority of instances and some experts strenuously object to the term "change of life" in men.

OTHERS BELIEVE THAT at least in some men, a decrease in functioning of these glands may come fairly rapidly and produce symptoms which justify speaking of a male change of life.

US Is Becoming Accustomed To Spending Above Income

By THURMAN SENSING

The next fiscal year will be the twenty-third of the past twenty-six during which our Federal Government will live beyond its means; in other words, will spend more than it receives. Federal budget deficits have now practically become a habit. Nevertheless, it is a habit which is contrary to American tradition and to all principles of a sound economy.

During the early years of these twenty-six years, when we were not so immune to violating good budget practices as we quite often heard the query, "Where's the money coming from?" In other words, a Government that proposed to spend more than estimates of income showed it would have to spend was immediately confronted with a query as to the source of the money to be spent.

We don't hear the question asked much any more. We seem to have about reached the point in this country where we either don't care where it is coming from, or we simply accept as a matter of course the fact that it is coming from the printing press and so place else.

This practice and this attitude, of course, have resulted in a national debt of staggering amount—now approximately $278 billion. According to Senator Byrd, of Virginia, this debt "is equivalent to the full value of all the land, all the buildings, all the mines, all the machinery, all the livestock—everything of tangible value—in the United States. We are mortgaged to the hilt."

The saddest aspect of this growing debt, perhaps, is the fact that neither our political parties seem inclined to bring it to a definite halt. According to present estimates, the last $30 billion of our national debt will have been added under the present Administration—an administration that was pledged to give us a balanced budget. More than that, even though the deficit for the next fiscal year—by the most optimistic estimates—is forecast at $2.4 billion, both parties are committed to tax reduction during that year. In fact, one of the parties wants to pass the tax reduction bill now and get the jump on the other party, which does not want to pass it until next year.

Moreover, all this increase in national debt is over and above a decided increase in state and local debt. In fact, these latter debts give all the appearance now of increasing much more rapidly than the national debt on a percentage basis. Also, state and local taxes are increasing more rapidly by far than national taxes are decreasing or give prospect of decreasing. Increasing debt and rising taxes all add up to the possibility of run-away inflation too terrible to contemplate.

In the past eight years, 1946-1954, expenditures of state and local governments have soared from slightly over $13 billion per year to around $32 billion. During the same period, the debt of these two governmental units is more than doubled to around $33 billion. Moreover, although states throughout the nation are increasing sales taxes, gasoline taxes, auto license and many other taxes, these state and local debts are still headed sharply upward.

There are those who try to excuse our soaring taxes or soothe our feelings by making it appear not so bad by pointing out how much our national income has increased during recent years. It is true that national income has increased immensely, partly due to inflated dollars, but at the same time we must face the fact that total taxation by our federal, state and local governments for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1954, about $90.5 billion—is more than 30 per cent of our national income as against total taxes amounting to only 12 per cent of our national income in 1929.

There are also those who would point out that the possibility of depression from growing debt, both public and private, is not so serious because of the immense increase in the total of savings in the country now over 20 or 30 years ago. They overlook the fact that the people with debts are not the people with cash savings, generally speaking, and that it is the people with debts who can quickly find themselves in trouble and spread their trouble to others.

It's Your Country

By John Beck

Many and devious are the schemes that have been hatched to divest the United States of its sovereignty, destroy its Constitution, and abolish the rights of its citizens. Of all these, the United Nations is the largest and most comprehensive. It is the master plan, the gigantic trap into which we fell so quickly. But it is of such huge dimensions that we still enjoy limited freedom, somewhat like squirrels in a large cage.

Therefore the busy one worders have set a number of smaller traps for us within the master trap. These smaller traps, enticingly baited and well camouflaged, are designed to snap instantly and hold fast. They are the various treaties, covenants, conventions, pacts, federations, and unions "within the framework of the United Nations."

One of these was called the "Atlantic Union Resolution." As such it was twice sponsored by Senator Kefauver, who has been called "England's Senator," and twice defeated. It is soon to be reintroduced in our Senate, but this time with a more disarming title. It is reported that Senator Kefauver now proposes to call it the "Resolution for an Atlantic Exploratory Convention."

Such casting about for a title sufficiently euphemistic to deceive U. S. Senators was demonstrated last October when Harry S. Truman, Gen. George C. Marshall, Adlai Stevenson, Henry Ford II, Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr., and others of that ilk issued an appeal for "Atlantic Unity." This scheme proposed the strengthening of NATO to extend its control "beyond military requirements and into the political, economic, and cultural aspects of our lives." The title was changed slightly but the objectives were left crudely and starkly naked.

The nation's press and major information channels promptly lowered the blackout curtain over "Atlantic Unity," as is their custom with respect to world government schemes. The people shouldn't be told too much about plans to destroy their rights, liberty, and property, lest they protest. So far as I have been able to ascertain, the press services carried one brief story last October 3, and after that—silence.

"We heard nothing more about 'Atlantic Unity,'" "Atlantic Union," "Atlantic Liberty," or any of the other euphemisms for world government until January of this year, when the patriotic American underground learned that Senator Kefauver was again trying to reintroduce the "Atlantic Union Resolution," the same resolution which, it is reported, had received the endorsement of Milton Eisenhower, John Foster Dulles, and Senators Nixon (now vice president), Carlson, Flanders, and Lehman when it was before the 82nd Congress.

Among the few publications which exposed the most recent of the one worders' plans for Atlantic Union was the Guardians of Our American Heritage, 1028 Connecticut Ave., Washington, D.C., issues of Dec. 1954 and Jan. 1955, 10 cents a copy.

Alerted Americans at once began protesting to their senators, with the result that a delay was called apparently in order to take off the "heat" and arrange better camouflage.

The president of the Atlantic Union Committee, Owen J. Roberts who regards national sovereignty as a "silly shibboleth," decided that the title had better not be the "Atlantic Union Resolution" after all, but something less revealing. The purpose of the resolution, however, was to remain unchanged. All that was needed was a more disarming title, a little time for the people to cool off, and the exertion of more pressure on members of Congress.

Chiang-U.S. Defense Plan Is Discussed

TAIPEI, Sunday, March 6-UP-Adm. Robert B. Carney, U.S. chief of naval operations, disclosed Saturday that a joint Chinese-American command probably may be set up here to organize the defense of Formosa against possible Communist attack.

Carney said planning for the joint command is not complete, but added that the recent Chinese-American defense pact made it extremely likely one will be formed.

"A joint command is always necessary when forces of two nations get together," he said.

Carney expressed his views at a press conference shortly before boarding a plane for Honolulu and eventually to the United States.

Heavy weather Saturday brought fighting along the embattled China coast to a standstill. Nationalist Chinese military quarters said not a shot was fired along the 150-mile "front."

The Communists made no attempt to follow up their attack on the northern outpost island of Kao-teng, which was beaten off by Chinese artillery Friday night.

The official military information service issued no communique on the day's operations because "there is nothing to report."

Carney emphasized that the situation still is crucial despite the Saturday lull. He said he will do everything he can to speed up military aid shipments to Formosa when he gets back to Washington next week.

API Chapter Slates Meeting

The Panhandle chapter of the American Petroleum Institute is getting ready for a meeting on water flooding operation and technique.

An estimated 120 couples were on hand Friday night in the Top of Texas Sportsman's Club for the dance, according to Martin Ludeman, chapter secretary-treasurer.

And a good turnout is expected at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday in the Cities Service Welfare Hall, 2 1/4 miles southwest of Pampa, Roy Milliken, chapter chairman, said Saturday.

Magnolia Adds Pipe

Magnolia Pipe Line Company will add 215 miles of new 12, 14, and 16-inch pipe to its present crude oil system from West Texas to Corsicana, according to an announcement made Saturday by L. H. True, company president.

This new project will give Magnolia two complete lines from the Permian Basin area to Corsicana, central terminal of Magnolia's pipe line operations.

The pipe will be laid at various points along the company's 335-mile pipe line span from Midland to Corsicana and will increase the capacity of this part of Magnolia Pipe Line Company's system to 162,000 barrels per day.

The company's pipe line in West Texas gathers large volumes of crude oil from the vast Permian Basin area in West Texas and eastern New Mexico. From there the crude moves through main line facilities in Corsicana and from there oil is sent to eastern refineries or is pumped to Beaumont where Magnolia's largest refinery is located.

Work on the West Texas line is scheduled to begin April 1. The program will be completed around Oct. 1.

Oil Briefs

The spring meeting of the Southwestern Division of the American Petroleum Institute's Division of Production will be held Wednesday through Friday in the Hotel Jung, New Orleans, La.

NEW YORK - The board of directors of Cities Service Company declared a quarterly dividend of fifty cents per share, payable April 11 to shareholders of record March 15, 1955.

Philadelphia - The country's 21,000,000 consumers of natural gas stand to gain little from federal control of field prices, says James E. Few, manager of the natural gas division of Sun Oil Company.

Any slight advantage in price they might receive would be temporary and would be followed by short supplies and higher prices, he said.

"The field price of gas on the average is only about 10 per cent of the cost to the householder," he explained. "The other 90 per cent are transmission and distribution costs."

Thus, he pointed out, even a tremendous change in the field price would have little effect percentage-wise on the cost to the residential consumer.

TO RETIRE

John R. Suman, a vice president and director of Standard Oil Co. (N.J.) since February, 1945, Saturday announced he would retire the end of this month. He has been in the petroleum business for 44 years as an engineer, geologist and executive.

Ike Group For Keeping Depletion

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE WASHINGTON, March 5-UP-President Eisenhower's Cabinet fuels committee in its recent report warned Congress not to tamper with the 27 1/2 per cent depletion tax allowance on oil and gas production.

Under the heading, "tax incentives," it said it should be kept in mind that the deduction encourages exploration to keep supplies space with demand.

The income tax law permits oil and gas operators to write off 27 1/2 per cent of their gross income to cover losses due to profitless drilling and depletion or exhaustion of producing wells. A bi-partisan congressional bloc attempted to cut the allowance to 15 per cent last year to plug what it called a "billion dollar loophole."

The same group is making time this year, waiting an opportune time to act.

Changes Must Be Analyzed "Any changes that may be proposed in the future," the presidential committee said, "must be analyzed in terms of their probable effect on development of resources needed for economic progress and national defense as well as the fiscal and tax policies of the government."

Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey was a member of the committee. The group's position was regarded therefore as reflecting Humphrey's previously announced opposition to cuts.

When Mr. Eisenhower sent congress his fiscal 1956 budget, Humphrey told a press conference his experts are keeping depletion "under continuing study." Asked why this was being done, he replied: "Well, I will be frank about it. I think that is one of the most difficult things anybody has to consider. Our whole economy is based upon cheap power which comes from fuel oil, the development of reserves of oil and gas is one of the big problems we have to balance out - as to what is the right thing and how to do it. It is a very big and complex problem."

Pressed for a further explanation, Humphrey said: "There are a number of things we are studying but we have nothing we now contemplate action on."

The fuels committee report said: "Further analysis and study by the appropriate branches of the government should from time to time be made to review the amount and method of making such allowances to maintain proper relationships with continuing changes in other features of the law." It then added its warning.

The warning may be unnecessary. The Senate Finance committee, which handles tax legislation, includes many friends of oil and gas, among them Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas. The industry also has many friends on the tax-writing House Ways and Means committee. And finally, Speaker Sam Rayburn is a Texan.

To move onto the finance committee, Johnson bumped Sen. Paul C. Douglas (D-Ill.), one of the group that tried to cut the allowance last year.

TIME OUT FOR PEACE

A warm noonday sun removes the chilly fear of war long enough to allow this laborer to doze on a pier at Keelung, Formosa. The little girl innocently standing by adds to this serene scene of the not-so-serene stronghold of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists.

Houston Child Loses Heart Ailment Battle

HOUSTON, March 5—UP—Little Stephanie Gordon, an identical twin, with a congenital malformation of the heart vessel, lost her fight for life Friday night.

A delicate operation, during which doctors at Methodist hospital grafted a piece of heart artery on her main heart vessel to bypass obstruction, was performed Friday.

After the four-hour long surgery, doctors said the child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gordon of Queens, New York, appeared to be "in fine shape."

But the hospital announced Saturday morning that the seven-year-old child, her strength weakened by previous treatments in New York, failed to rally and died Friday night with her parents at her bedside.

Doctors opened Stephanie's tiny chest for a second time and tried to massage the heart back to life, but failed.

There was no comment from the Gordons. He said he and Mrs. Gordon would fly back to New York Saturday. Stephanie's body was to follow in another plane.

Stephanie's twin sister, who was born without physical fault, is with her grandmother in New York. A doctor in New York discovered that an obstruction in Stephanie's aorta—or great blood vessel—was growing and slowly choking off the heart's blood circulation. So critical was her condition that she was given only two months to live unless something was done.

The New York doctor sent Stephanie here because an operation that was necessary to save her life was originated at the Texas Medical Center in Houston.

It called for grafting a piece of the aorta around a portion of artery located near the kidneys. Stephanie went into surgery at 7:30 a.m. Friday and was wheeled out four hours later at 11:30, doctors said "in fine shape."

Stephanie suffered from what, medically, is called an aortic coarctation. Grafting another piece of artery from the hospital's human parts bank around the obstruction was indicated.
