HOME TOWN TALK

By Beddy

Stanton and Martin county dairymen are setting a pattern for others in this section of West Texas to shoot at.

The state health department's standard milk ordinance is not a part of the municipal law of Stanton. But these dairymen in and near Stanton are complying with regulations in that ordinance. They are using milking barns with concrete floors, proper drainage facilities, ventilation, lighting and other specifications the state has found to be proper safeguards of the health of the men, women and children who drink milk from their dairies. Also, cow pens are being placed 100 feet from the milking barn. Too, proper cooling processes are being employed.

The writer, in Stanton the other day, took occasion to inspect the plants operated by Mr. Stamps, Mr. Kelly and Mr. Reed near there. Days when dairies consisted of a herd of cows that stood in a lot perhaps a foot or two deep in manure; milking done by hand with a pail often resting on the ground, dust by the million more or less, dust and dirt thickening the air, etc.—those days have passed in most parts of the country.

They have passed because it has been determined that disease often has been spread because of impure milk.

Many Howard county dairymen have shown a desire or willingness to improve their plans. Some, we learn, are doing so.

It is always a good idea to know the source of your family's milk supply and methods used in handling it before it reaches your table.

Big Spring, Midland and Sweetwater are right now in the midst of a spirited campaign by which each hopes to obtain for its own airport the junction of two proposed air mail lines.

The interdepartmental committee on airways, which in a few months is expected to let contracts for operation of a line from New York via St. Louis and Dallas to El Paso and Los Angeles and another from New York via Birmingham to New Orleans and San Antonio, thence northwest to tie into the other line at one of the three above named cities, is being besieged with repeated reviews of the facilities offered in each city.

Sweetwater appears to have a strong advantage because of her rail connections. Big Spring has an advantage because she already has a completely lighted airport and the distance from San Antonio is as short if not shorter than from San Antonio to Midland or Sweetwater. Midland has an advantage because of unusual contacts in various departments in the national capital and because she pioneered in airport building in this section of West Texas and has, therefore, had much more time than the others for publicizing her part.

Midland has been informed, according to a new story in the daily newspaper there, that she must light her airport or her chances will be considerably less bright than otherwise they would be. Sweetwater has taken steps to light her airport. Big Spring must stay on the job and do everything possible to inform the proper authorities of her facilities.

OIL OUTPUT CONTINUES ITS DECLINE

Loss 80,890 Barrels During Weekly Period

TULSA, Okla., March 11 (AP)—The estimated daily average production of light and heavy crude during the week ending March 8 continued to course downward, losing 80,890 barrels, according to the Oil and Gas Journal current report.

This is in addition to 66,000 barrels lost during the week ending March 1. Production activities and natural fluctuations are held responsible.

A total of 57,750 barrels of the drop was contributed by California, 43,250 in light and 14,500 in heavy crude. The midcontinent area dropped 16,262 barrels, Oklahoma contributing to major decreases, 12,970 barrels in this area.

Oklahoma City pool dropped 20,873 barrels. Increases in the Seminole and northern miscellaneous pools, however, reduced the total loss in the state. West Texas remained virtually constant, while Kansas lost slightly less than 1,000 barrels, 113,540 barrels. Gulf coast and southwest Texas heavy crude-producing areas continued on the upward trend begun more than a month ago.

The estimated daily average production for the nation for the week was 2,538,208 barrels as compared to 2,619,198 for the week ending March 1.

Chain Store Tax Bill Passes

AUSTIN, March 11 (AP)—The senate had a new revenue bill today, sent to it by the house yesterday when it voted to place a tax on chain stores of one per cent of gross receipts.

The tax would apply against any group of more than five stores engaged in any business as follows: general merchandise, drugs, groceries, sporting goods, shoes, ladies ready to wear, jewelry, millinery, men's clothing or furnishings, fruit stores, beauty shops, undertaking, tailoring, pressing, meat markets, cab service, shine parlors, drive-yourself automobiles and automobile storage systems. Wholesale businesses, lumber yards, paint and glass stores were exempted.

Proposals to include newspapers and hotels were not adopted. Representative Folk Hornaday of Harlingen, one of the authors of the bill, estimated the tax would produce $3,000,000 annually to the state.

The bill came before the house on minority report, after the revenue and taxation committee had reported it unfavorably.

The conference committee on penitentiary reformation and sulphur tax held their first session in an effort to bring the two houses together on these subjects, but opponents of the administration plan to construct an industrial unit of the penitentiary system near Austin, indicated, through a statement issued by their leader, Representative Harry N. Graves of Georgetown, that they would not yield their point that present-owned lands should not be abandoned for a new prison site. The Graves statement was made in reply to a series of appeals put out by Governor Moody during centralization of the system around a plant to be built in central Texas.

Hearing on the two bills to tax malt was scheduled for tonight by the house committee on revenue and taxation. A bill by Representative W. H. Wigg of Paris, would tax malt five cents per pound, and in barrels of 400 pounds and more one eighth cent per pound. A bill by Representative Sam Gates of Runge would tax malt and caffeine syrups 25 cents per gallon.

Last night the committee approved a bill by Representative C. B. Maynard of Bastrop to place an annual occupation tax of $2.50 on cigarette dealers and of $10 on other tobacco dealers.

It approved the bill of Representative Thurman W. Adkins of Lafayette, for an annual road tax of $3 in Upshur county.

HEAT AGAIN GENERATED IN PENFUSS

Sergeants - At - Arms Prevent Personal Encounter

AUSTIN, March 11. (AP)—Tension over the penitentiary legislation situation flared again in the House today when a fist fight between Representatives B. E. Quinn of Beaumont, and G. J. Cox of Paris was prevented by the sergeant-at-arms.

Representatives George Purl of Dallas had read a telegram from Warden E. F. Harrell at Huntsville that no prisoners had been accepted there since the board order of March 3 closed the penitentiary because of crowded conditions, except one lot that an agent had en route at the time. Yesterday Quinn had read a telegram from the sheriff of Jefferson county that he had delivered prisoners to an agent at Houston several days after the order.

"Who Lied?" "Somebody has lied," said Quinn, and it's not B. E. Quinn nor the sheriff of Jefferson county." Instantly Cox was on his feet. "I have known Harrell for 20 years," he said, "and there is not a more honorable gentleman in existence. I stand here in his shoes to defend his name."

"All right, here I am," said Quinn. Both men started at each other, removing their coats.

"The house was in a tumult, with cries from every section, and the galleries joining in. The speaker's gavel could not be heard three feet away."

Sergeants-at-arms grasped the two men, and members crowded in between them. After a moment or so of struggle, both Cox and Quinn took their seats.

AUSTIN, March 11 (AP)—Initial sessions of the conference committee considering differences between the two houses on penitentiary reformation and sulphur tax proposals failed this morning to produce any apparent compromise.

Both groups planned to resume deliberations this afternoon. At the first meetings various members merely gave their ideas of how the disagreements could be composed.

The state affairs committee examined the house bill imposing a tax of one per cent of the gross receipts on chain stores.

The committee last night voted on the Hubbard house bill fixing a tax of one-half of one per cent on gross receipts of all electric, gas and water companies. The Van Zandt house bill revamping the manner of levying franchise taxes was referred to a subcommittee.

The house passed bills as follows:

By Representative Boyd Farrar of Waxahachie, to provide that no practicing lawyer shall go bond of a person charged with crime. It exempted attorneys who are relatives of the accused.

By Representative Coke Stevenson of Junction, to provide that no deer with prongs containing less than five points should be killed in this state. Representative Henry Webb of Odessa pointed out that this would tend to reduce hunting accidents because of the caution the hunter would have to use in determining the size of the deer.

After arguing for an hour on the bill to give elective county superintendents of schools a four year term, the senate finally passed the bill and approved nine others. The bill to lengthen the term of the elective superintendents was sponsored by Senator Margie Neal, who claimed it was necessary to give children in the rural schools the same advantage as those enjoyed by city children.

A bill by Senator Eugene Miller of Weatherford, providing courtesy registration of visiting motorists was passed without a dissenting vote. It was under discussion in the house at the same time. The bill, Senator Miller stated, is aimed at curbing the activity of the fee grabbing constables who have been arresting visiting motorists on the ground they have no Texas license. The house was to take action later.

By a P. T. A. MEMBER
Friday evening in the Mexican Woodman hall, the regular bi-monthly meeting of the Parent-Teacher association of the Mexican school filled the house.

The program opened with music from a three-piece orchestra which played again and again to the delight of the audience throughout the evening.

Large groups of the school children massed on the platform to right and left and rendered a fine program of songs and readings in English without books.

Mrs. M. R. Showalter, county health nurse, and Miss Vera Adkins, principal of the Mexican school, spoke briefly with Juan Garcia interpreting. This was followed by a brief business session over which F. Fierro, president, presided.

To attend these meetings and to hear the children sing and to see the eagerness with which business is dispatched, gives one a genuine thrill which gathers momentum as one into the realization of what these meetings really mean to the Mexican citizen.

The teachers of this school are not merely teaching to draw a salary—their mission is service to the whole Mexican population and results of their few months' efforts in Big Spring testify to their ability and training. They are doing their utmost to make the Big Spring Mexican school as fine as any in the city.

Already the Mexican school is the finest in the state, with an enrollment of 230 pupils. All interested persons are invited to attend the P. T. A. meetings and the school to see for themselves.

Greater Part Of Shock Suffered From Stock Market Crash Has Definitely Passed—Frank Greens

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The greater part of the first shock to business suffered from last fall's stock market collapse has definitely passed, and sentiment generally has considerably improved since the beginning of February, says Frank Greens in his March first review of business conditions in the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Credit for the improved business tone must be given, he says, to a psychological experiment—the rally of business leaders at Washington—which took up the first strain, and after that to the easing of money and credit reflected in the creeping advance in the stock market in January and early February.

"It seems possible to say, therefore," he adds, "that the trade ship is now forging ahead on its voyage and, all things considered, is making fair progress in view of the severity of the storm that it successfully weathered two months or so ago."

appear to hold the threats against business that seemed possible some few weeks ago. In fact, the level-headed attention now being given to some new problems gives promise that these will be met and solved when, if and as they present themselves.

"Two comparatively new factors forced themselves upon trade attention during January. One was the execrable weather in the western two-thirds of the country, the other the coming to wide public notice of the deflation in a variety of foods or raw materials, visible some months ago in the price compilations but obscured or ignored by the attention bestowed on more exciting things.

"As to the character of the weather in the last half of December and a good part of January, it need only be said that in the larger part of the country it has been such as to have offered a check to business in the best of times. Only those who happened to pass through wide areas of the country westward from the Alleghenias to the Pacific slope are able to give a clear idea of the combination of unseasonable warmth, heavy rains, overflowing rivers and finally the sub-zero weather that afflicted a large area of the trade territory of the United States from before Christmas to the fourth week of January.

"In the general feeling of pleased surprise at the market rally shown in the steel industry, by which mill output was pushed up from 40 to 50 per cent in December to 75 to 85 per cent in January and comparing with 85 to 90 per cent a February a year ago, sight apparently has been lost of the fact that a good deal of the business booked in January was the result of the banking up of potential demand in the last two months of 1935, its release being facilitated by the making of slight concessions in price which thawed out a good many otherwise frozen orders.

Automobile Trade
"The automobile trade, which despite some talk to the contrary seems to have inhibited some consolidation from the well-attended shows, has bought quite freely of the lighter forms of semifinished steel. The backbone of the tonnage output in January, however, seems to have been past heavy orders for rails and cars. Buying of structural steel for heavy construction, the active purchasing by implement manufacturers—whose combined takings, added to the volume of small purchases to provide for the myriad of lighter operations which use this product—made up a good-sized general aggregate.

"In the lighter lines of industry the chief activity has seemed to be in shoe manufacturing, the output of silk and rayon and mixtures thereof, with wool and cotton, which have gone into dresses, hostery, bathing suits and a variety of other manufactures.

Building and its kindred trades, lumber, cement, brick and plumbing and sanitary ware, have been repressed even below the normal seasonal volume by the combination of past overbuilding, bad weather and the rather slow thawing out of the money and credit situation as it affects this important group of industries. The coal trade has been benefited by the weather but there has been apparently plenty to spare for domestic needs and for use by industries.

"The combination of large stocks of copper and slackness of foreign demand has forced curtailment of production in leading western mining centers. It is becoming evident, however, that with the passage of winter and the recent appearance of good orders for electrical materials for spring work, buyers and sellers may agree on an attractive basis for business in this product which is one of the conspicuous exceptions to the down turn in commodity prices now the subject of much remark.

Wholesale, Retail
"In wholesale and retail trade the pace set suffers by comparison with that shown in the steel and some other industries. The textile trades, of course, bulk large in these branches of distribution. While broad silks have done fairly well, the weakness in cotton prices, which like those of wheat, seem to have become entangled in the Farm Board's operations, was a bar to business, January seeing a very general shading of cotton-goods prices which seemed to check buying. Foreign and domestic buying of cotton for the season is now well below the like period a year ago despite the fact that it sells three cents a pound below that date. Cotton-mill curtailment over the year end was very pronounced and is expected to continue for a time at least.

"The weather also was a physical drawback to general wholesale trade, buying in which is said to be very conservative. Retail trade was affected by the weather, especially in the West, but the early reports of chain and mail-order stores sales, while showing smaller gains than in the months of 1935, still mark moderate advances over a year ago in January. Examples of this are the gain of 9.5 per cent over January a year ago in chain and mail-order stores reporting to date of writing, as against a gain of 19.9 per cent in December and a gain in January 1935 of 25 per cent over 1934. Department-store sales in January lost two per cent from a year ago, when a gain of six per cent was shown over January 1935."

LLANO'S HOGAN WELL IN ECTOR GETS SULPHUR

A southeastern limit of the new oil field in Ector county was established over the week end when Ector Oil Company's No. 1 Hogan encountered sulphur water at 3,842 feet and when last reports were received here the fluid was rising in the hole at the rate of 100 feet per hour.

Llano's No. 1 Hogan is located 330 feet from the north and west lines of section 18, block 44, township 3 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey and is approximately one mile east of Landreth Production Company's No. T-2 University, a twin location to the same company's 50,000,000 cubic feet gas well that was junked when operators were unable to recover tools lost while drilling in the well.

The sulphur water in Llano's No. 1 Hogan was not a surprise to those familiar with the new Ector county oil field 14 miles west of Odessa. Lime was topped approximately 72 feet lower in the southeastern pool test than in Humble-Penn and others' No. 1 York, south offset to the discovery producer in the field, and because of that fact, oil men throughout West Texas had been skeptical concerning the well's chances for production since that time.

San Angelo Hotel Woman Gives Facts

ARGOTONE (ARGOTANE) HAS CERTAINLY RELIEVED ME OF 18 LONG YEARS OF SUFFERING AND I AM GRATEFUL TO IT, SAYS MRS. SMITH.

"Orgatone (Argotane) has certainly done more for me than any other medicine I have ever taken, and has relieved me of 18 long years of suffering and I am grateful to it," says Mrs. M. E. Smith, of 144 W. Second street, San Angelo, who owns and operates the Alamo Hotel, and in her conversation recently she continued:

"I had a very bad case of stomach and digestive trouble and my condition seemed to be getting worse, everything I ate would form on my stomach; I would have another spells and palpitation of the heart. I had a bad case of constipation and had to take strong laxatives."

"I was just in a generally run-down condition and needed something to build me up and put me on my feet again. I was very restless and nervous and hardly got a good night's sleep. When night came, I could hardly get my breath.

"Orgatone (Argotane) was advertised so highly and everyone here was telling how it had helped them so I decided to try it. I haven't a sign of my old troubles now. All of my stomach trouble has disappeared and I now eat anything I want without a touch of indigestion. I have a fine appetite, and those terrible smothering spells have left me. I have a fine appetite and, in fact, my condition has improved in every way. My bowels are regulated, I sleep fine every night and wake up in the morning feeling refreshed and full of energy. I have persuaded my daughters to try Orgatone (Argotane), too, and it is doing them good also. Orgatone (Argotane) has done more for me than anything I have ever tried or taken. I am more than glad to give this statement."

Genuine Argotane may be bought in Big Spring at the Cunningham & Phillips Drug Store.—adv.

SAN ANGELO, HTex., March 11 (AP)—When an airplane met a cow at Sterling City, Sunday the plans came out second best. The pilot, J. W. Cain of the Texas Airplane company, landed on the R. L. The damage to the ship was laced at $300 and to the cow $30.

A CLEANER RACE

For a number of years the bath-tub, together with the habits of personal cleanliness which go with it, has been a pre-eminently American institution. Now, however, it appears that its popularity is extending all over the world.

From the Bush Terminal in Brooklyn, where cargoes are shipped to every port on the globe, comes the word that the bath-tubs are being exported now than ever before.

THE THIRD DEGREE'S DANGERS

Everybody in America knows about the "third degree"—the system of brutality whereby American police officials hammer confessions out of prisoners. Usually the practice is concealed, or mentioned with apologies; but now comes Michael Fiaschetti, former head of the Italian squad of the New York City police force, to defend it openly as the best weapon the police have.

Fiaschetti bases his defense of the practice on his own experience. "Some years ago, he says, the murder of a small boy baffled the police. A stool pigeon eventually gave them information on which they arrested five men. They knew these men were the murderers, but they could not prove it. The men refused to talk, and it looked as if they might have to release them.

"Then I went to work," says Fiaschetti. "I put the five men in a room and walked in several minutes later armed with a sawed-off baseball bat. When I came out there was blood spattered on the walls and ceiling. And I had five signed confessions. All went to the electric chair."

husky cop wading into five innocent men with a baseball bat, hammering them until there was blood on the walls and ceiling?

That's what happens all too often when the third degree is used. The police, you see, occasionally become convinced that a man is guilty when he is really innocent; and innocent men have confessed to crimes they did not commit merely to escape torture.

The third degree may have its uses. But the risks are too great. It can be abused too easily.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

A VICTORY FOR FREEDOM OF THE PRESS

Ft. Worth Press: There could be only one just decision in the Cleveland Press contempt case involving freedom of the press. That decision was given yesterday by the Cuyahoga county court of appeals. It reversed the contempt of court sentences imposed by Judge Frederick B. Walther on two editors of the Press, a Scripps-Howard newspaper.

When the Press last July carried editorial criticizing Judge Walther, he sentenced Louis B. Seltzer, editor, and Carl K. Matson, editorial writer, each to 30 days in jail and $500 fines. The editorial questioned the judge's action in issuing an injunction designed to protect a race-track, where the contribution betting system was in use, from raids by the sheriff.

The higher court in reversing Judge Walther ruled that he should not have acted as trial judge in the contempt case; "He should have referred the case to an associate and have given his statement as a witness rather than as a judge from the bench."

Having failed to observe that elementary principle of justice, it was perhaps not surprising that Judge Walther should have handed down a judgment which the higher court found to be "manifestly against the weight of evidence and contrary to law and the penalty meted out is in excess of that allowed by statute."

No argument is needed to show the danger of the contempt power of courts and the ease with which that power can be abused.

When that power is misused to strangle or intimidate the free press it becomes a menace to the principles on which this nation was founded and for which it exists. In the words of Justice Vickery, who wrote the opinion reversing Walther: "Public men must always remember that they are subject to criticism; and when a public officer does an unbecomingly or can be criticized by the press and by thinking people of the land, and the less he says about it, the better it will be for him and for the public.

"We live in an age of pitiless publicity. We live in an age when freedom of speech and freedom of the press are paramount issues. People should be allowed to say what they please and newspapers should be allowed to print what they please, always making themselves liable under the law of slander or the law of libel, and usually this is penalty enough to keep persons from transcending the bounds of decency and proper criticism.

"A free people must have a free press, and must have the right to speak freely their thoughts."

Shires On Way To Join Sox

DALLAS, March 10 (AP)—Arthur Shires, Chicago White Sox first baseman, announced today he would leave for San Antonio tonight to sign a contract and join the Sox at spring training. He worked out with the Dallas team today.

The publicist inclined Texan did not reveal the sum offered him, but it was thought to be the same contract which he previously had declined to sign. He declared he had received permission from White Sox headquarters to report to Manager Donie Bush.

OUT OUR WAY

By Williams

A PULL WITH A PUSH. (Copyright, 1929 by NEA Service, Inc.)

Hollywood Sights and Sounds

BY ROBBIN COONS: HOLLYWOOD—An enterprising "sound" man achieved a silent climax when Calvin Coolidge visited the Hollywood studios.

The bright boy with the mike slipped the recording instrument behind the visiting ex-president as he sat between Mary Pickford and another member of his party, watching the filming of a talkie scene.

Neither Coolidge nor Miss Pickford was aware of the mike, but that made no difference. Miss Pickford said nothing, and Coolidge ditto. The mike heard all they said—exactly nothing.

The Coolidge autograph, by the way, has been added to the motley collection on one of those typical Hollywood autograph "books"—in this case a violin whose unvarnished back is criss-crossed with signatures of the movie-famous. As the former president was leaving a set, Lon Chaney halted him with the request for the autograph for a friend, one of the set-musicians.

While Chaney held the violin, and to owner the ink-bottle, Coolidge signed and went his way, scarcely looking up. Bystanders wondered who recognized the grateful star.

KID GLOVES

A certain movie old-timer arises to deplore the passing of Hollywood's golden days of rough-and-ready, wild-and-wooly chivalry.

"Then," he bewails, "men settled arguments and unfriendly disputes with their fists. Now they go about the business with kid gloves."

Be that as it may, I seem to recall a recent encounter between writing Jim Tully and acting John Gilbert not the least tainted by the "kid" glove influence.

RETURNS

Olga Baclanova, the Russian actress who went into vaudeville when it appeared her accent would hinder future talkie work, has stepped into a talkie role immediately on her return.

She's to have the lead in "Aime With You" opposite Arthur Lake. Betty Compson is back on the Universal lot, working there for the first time since she made her first Hollywood movie appearance, in an early comedy.

THE BIG SHOT

by FRANK L. PACKARD

Not the hat itself—the police would be a long time in tracing Martha Debbins' old hat! But the fugitive was certain to be known as a woman without a hat. Known in the windows of the apartment house who had seen her running out of the araway would know that and report it. The taxi driver, would probably tell the police about her if he learned they were looking for her.

But now, for the first time, a faint smile crossed End's lips. She felt quite sure she would never be traced through any information the taxi driver could give. She had alighted from the taxi in front of a house on the next street, and had nonchalantly—at least she hoped she had given the impression of being nonchalant—about it—mounted the steps and had precluded to ring the bell. The taxi had driven away—and she had descended the steps after that by means of a vacant lot she had, without being obliged to show herself on either of the avenues, gained her own street and house. She did not think that she had been seen by anyone.

She nodded her head emphatically. She was quite sure that she had got safely away—and she was particularly grateful for one thing, she had thought of that almost from the moment her hat had fallen from her head—the fact that Runtly had substituted a piece of plaster for the bandage. The additional description of a bandaged head would not perhaps have helped the police any—but it would have spelled disaster and the end for her. A woman with a bandaged head would have been vitally significant—to Roy!

Or even the description of a woman with a wounded head! Yes, but no one had seen that strip of plaster. The taxi driver hadn't. She had been most careful about that. She went downstairs, switched on the light in her little living room, and sat down at the desk. There was nothing to do now but wait for Roy—and think. If she could only stop thinking for a little while! But the perils were so many, and the road ahead was so hard to see.

There was the element of personal danger to herself at the hands of Mrs. Kane and Izzy Myers. She had not minimized that danger, but so far it had not been crucial. They would strike the first chance they got—she knew that. Not tonight, she felt satisfied of that, for, if those warnings about Twisty Morgan meant anything, Izzy Myers would not be concerned with her for the moment. But tomorrow, or the next day—yes! How was she to protect herself?

What was she to do? She did not know. They were afraid of her, and they meant to put her out of the way—she was not deceived on that score.

The door bell startled her. There Roy was now! She was quite sure, he could not possibly know anything, she had argued that all out with herself—but there came a sudden stab of fear as she hurriedly to her feet and started for the door. He would be in an ugly mood, of course; but he could have no reason to suspect her. She had only to keep her wits about her, and surely she could do that. The bell rang again before she reached the door—rang impatiently, viciously almost, it seemed. Certainly, and from his standpoint with good reason, he was in no locale or pleasant humor!

She opened the door—and the next instant drew back with a low, startled cry, as she stared at the figure standing there on the stoop. It wasn't Roy; it was Phil. (Copyright, Frank L. Packard)

HOW'S your HEALTH

The vitamins known to date have been designated vitamins A, B, C, D, E and PP. This classification is indicative to an extent, of how much there still remains to be discovered on the nature and constitution of these unknown dietary factors.

On the other hand, a great deal is already known about the effect of the lack of these vitamins on normal growth, development and function. Thus the absence of vitamin fat soluble A, commonly found in milk, butter, egg yolk and in certain plants, such as barley, wheat and oats, results in what is known as xerophthalmia, a disease of the eyes in which they become so badly swollen as to be opened only with difficulty; or not at all.

Pen Board Order Will Be Tested

FORT WORTH, March 11 (AP)—The state prison board's resolution not to take prisoners will be tested by Judge Hoseny when he sends four from here to the penitentiary at Huntsville.

The prisoners are Arnold Jacobs, four years for forgery; W. C. Vest, one year for violation of liquor laws; James Kelly, two years for burglary; and Bobbie Wells, 2 years for burglary.

Just when the group will leave Fort Worth was undecided, but Judge Hoseny said it would be within a few days. "The officer in charge will walk up to the commitment clerk at the penitentiary, say, 'here's your prisoners,' and walk away again," Judge Hoseny said. "From then on the men will be the responsibilities of the state, not of Tarrant county."

The prison board recently passed a resolution declining to accept more prisoners until conditions in the penitentiary and prison camps returned to normal. The board reported the system was badly overcrowded.

PRESIDENT AND MRS. HOOVER AMONG MOURNERS AS BODY OF TAFT GOES TO CAPITOL

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—William Howard Taft received today the high honors which a nation reserves for those who have reached the left at pinnacle of its service. It was his own day in the heart of a great people that esteemed his for his statesmanship and loved him for his humanity and to whose welfare all the years of his manhood were given.

From dawn until a westerling sun dipped steeply above the calm hill of Arlington National Cemetery, where it was his wish to sleep for a century, every pulse of the government beat in rhythm to the tribute that was upon his memory.

Edwards Well Pumping Again

After several weeks spent clearing out the hole and plugging back to the upper producing horizon between 2,777-90 feet, Glasscock Brothers' No. 1 Edwards, semi-wildcat test in northern Glasscock county, three miles west of the Coffey-Phillips pool, was again placed on the pump and produced 14 barrels of fluid, two or three per cent water, during the first three hours.

No. 1 Edwards is located 3 feet from the south line and 1.5 feet from the east line of section 18, block 33, township 2 south, T. 2, Ry. Co. survey and is approximately one and one-quarter mile south of the F. H. E. Oil Company No. 1 Cox well which was reported drilling Monday evening at a depth of 1,875 feet.

Operators of F. H. E. No. 1 Cox plan to drill to 1,900 feet and re-test the test on down to expected depths. The well is located 3 feet from the south line and 2.3 feet from the west line of section block 33, township 2 south, T. 2, Ry. Co. survey.

Where Lincoln Lay At the capitol soldier bodybearers lifted their burden tenderly up the steep steps from the plaza, and set it in the center of the rotunda, on a catafalque where Lincoln had lain in death.

A picked guard of sailors, soldiers and marines took station about the casket, and then the waiting crowd was admitted to move slowly past.

They came from every class of that citizenry with whose destiny the life of the departed had been so closely interwoven for four decades. They were on the springtime and the winter of life, of the mountaintop of attainment and the valley of obscurity.

While his fellow citizens thus claimed him for a time the church in which he was shipped waited to minister to him a simple service at 2 p. m., just preceding the burial across the Potomac at Arlington.

Early in the morning two policemen who have known the former president and chief justice for years, and who have been guarding his home during his illness, were permitted to enter and stand for a few minutes by the side of the flag draped, flower laden coffin.

Throughout the city flags stood at half staff. The embassies and legations of foreign nations had joined with American government in displaying their standards.

Two troops of cavalry from the third regiment of Fort Myer drew up at attention before the Taft home at 8:45 a. m.

Behind it came the caisson preceded by the colors of the United States, of the regiment and of the troop.

At The Home The dun colored cavalry horses were perfectly matched. The black caisson was drawn by white artillery horses with red saddle blankets. The two troops filled the half block in front of the home.

The cavalrymen back against the far side of the curb, drew their sabres to present, waiting the appearance of the casket from the home. In front of them were the artillerymen.

At 8:56 the military palbearers, eight enlisted men of the army, navy and marines entered the front door of the home. A crowd of perhaps 500 persons lined the street. Two minutes later, while a bugle called, the casket was borne down the steps to the caisson, while the cavalrymen sat with their sabres at salute.

The casket was draped with an American flag which covered its burnished black surface completely. The blue field was at the rear of the coffin over the face of Mr. Taft. When the coffin had been placed in position two black straps were fastened over the flag, holding it securely in place.

His Last Journey As soon as this had been secured the cavalry at an order of "four right" swung off down Wyoming avenue toward the capitol, and William Howard Taft had begun his last journey.

On leaving the home the caisson and its burden were preceded by one troop of cavalry and the national and regimental colors. Another troop brought up the rear and a squad of motorcycle policemen kept the way clear behind.

Mrs. W. G. Orenbaum has just returned from Fort Worth where she spent ten days visiting her daughter.

WHEN WILL YOU BEGIN USING THIS NEW OIL?

It is being rumored (and truthfully) that no other American motor oil has been so speedily accepted by motorists. Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil has smashed all precedents by its amazing reception. . . . And this oil is as unusual as its introduction. Its superiorities are so apparent, that even before its announcement was well under way, literally thousands of new users were appearing at Red Triangle stations.

CONOCO GERM PROCESSED PARAFFIN BASE MOTOR OIL

Its name seems to intrigue motorists and much conversation has dwelt on the Germ Process, and the whys and wherefores. . . the story is this: Under exclusive Conoco-owned patent rights, a precious oily essence is added to a superbly fine paraffin base oil. This essence is lacking in all other oils, including the one you are now using. The Germ Process makes possible the metal-penetrating safety factor that we call "penetrative lubricity." And this oil, of all on the market, provides a safer, more positive motor protection, from the time you start the motor until you turn off the ignition. So . . . when will you begin using this new oil? . . . at the sign of the Red Triangle.

Election Called For Three School Trustees

HEALTH ALL UPSET

Lady Didn't Sleep Well; Was Weak, Suffering Before She Took Cardui.

Chicago, Ill.—A year and a half ago, when she was in a run-down, weakened condition, Mrs. John A. Medlin, of 2901 Commercial Avenue, this city, took Cardui. Here is what she has to say about it:

"At times I would have had headaches. My legs hurt a great deal. My nerves were all to pieces, and I did not sleep well. I got so I could not sleep a night through. "I read about Cardui. I began taking this medicine and found it in every way suited to my need. "I began to feel better very shortly, but I continued taking Cardui as I wanted to feel strong and well. "Before long I was feeling just fine. I slept well. I had a good appetite. Soon everybody was telling me how well I looked. My color was good and I felt like doing my work without any great effort. "I am glad I took Cardui. I recommend it to others, as my health greatly improved after I had taken it."

If you are run-down, nervous, or suffer every month, take Cardui, a purely vegetable, reconstructive medicine, used by women for over fifty years.

SHALLOW OIL REPORTED IN REEVES WELL

Bailing Tests Fail To Reduce 150 Feet Of 42 Gravity Oil

Reports of a shallow, high gravity oil showing in Black and Fink's No. 1 Brooks in Reeves county drifted into oil company offices in Big Spring Tuesday morning.

Fay was reported to have been topped at 1,800 feet from which 150 feet of 42 gravity oil was standing in the hole. The report also stated that bailing the hole had failed to lower the column of high gravity oil. The test is approximately 16 miles northwest of Toyah.

Black & Fink's No. 1 Brooks is located 1,980 feet from the south line and 660 feet from the east line of section 16, block 26, public school lands. The exact significance of the showing has not been ascertained conclusively, but the report is considered from reliable sources.

William—

The notes of the organ could be heard by those on the outside. From the church belfry, came the tolling of the bell more than a century old. It had been rung upon the death of all presidents since 1822. A pew on the right was reserved for the President and Mrs. Hoover who earlier in the day had stood bareheaded under the east portico of the White House to watch the passage of the cortege to the capitol. Mr. and Mrs. Hoover had arranged to accompany the body from the church to Arlington for burial. The leaden skies that had spattered rain throughout most of the morning had darkened by the time the funeral procession approached the church. A drizzle had turned into a heavy rain. Taft's own pastor, the Rev. Ulysses G. B. ... read some bits of poetry, and a few lines of scripture, and said a prayer. The organ played the supplicating notes of "Abide With Me," and "Lead Kindly Light." That was all. There was no funeral oration.

ANDREWS AND GAINES PLAY BECOMES HOT

Rumors Of Wildcat Well By Humble And Penn Stimulate

Despite the fact that actual drilling in Andrews county has not experienced the heated play expected after completion of Deep Rock Oil Company's No. 1 Ogdan, the county's first commercial oil well, royalty and leases in northwestern Andrews county and southwestern Gaines county are experiencing more demand than in most sections of West Texas at the present time.

A report that Humble-Penn and others will drill a test in section 20, block A-37, public school lands, Andrews county, approximately 9 or 10 miles northwest of Deep Rock's No. 1 Ogdan, is stimulating the royalty and lease play accorded the territory. Humble-Penn and others hold leases on a block of acreage in vicinity of section 20, block A-37 that will expire in April, 1931, unless drilling is started, or leases renewed. Royalty buyers and lease purchasers are playing a northwestern trend across Andrews county and into southern Gaines county.
