Charges By Middlemen Hike Food Basket Costs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The annual cost of a typical family food market basket rose 9 per cent to a record $1,493 in May largely because of another increase in middlemen's charges, an Agriculture Department report showed today.

The hike in prices paid by consumers compared with an advance of 1.6 per cent in April and was the smallest since the current burst of food inflation began five months ago.

For the second consecutive month, the boost in consumer food bills was due more to higher middlemen's charges which rose 1.2 per cent in May than to higher farm returns which rose only 4 per cent. Until April, most of the food inflation which began last December had been attributed to skyrocketing farm prices.

The market basket report showed retail beef prices in May held steady at a record average of $1.36 a pound for choice grade cuts. Returns to farmers for 2.28 pounds of live cattle (equal to one retail pound) edged up 15 per cent to 92.7 cents a pound and supermarket margins widened 1.9 per cent to 37 cents a pound, but these gains were offset when the meat packer's margin was slashed 25 per cent to 6.3 cents a pound.

Dean Testifies President Helped Coverup Attempts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John W. Dean III testified today he was sure that President Nixon not only knew about the Watergate cover-up as early as last fall but also helped try to keep the scandal quiet.

Outwardly calm, his voice hoarse after reading a 65,000-word statement to the Senate Watergate Committee Monday detailing his own knowledge and participation in the plot, Dean answered "That is correct" several times when asked if he was charging Nixon with complicity in a massive White House effort to cover up the Watergate scandal.

He said he became sure of the President's involvement Sept. 15, the day seven men — none of them White House officials — were indicted for the Watergate bugging, when the President called him in to congratulate him for his handling of the case.

"Did you have any doubt in your mind what the President was talking about?" asked

Samuel Dash, the chief committee counsel.

"No, I did not," Dean replied.

"Therefore, Mr. Dean, whatever doubt you may have had prior to Sept. 15 about the President's involvement in the cover-up, did you have any doubts with yourself about this after Sept. 15?" Dash asked.

"No, I did not," Dean replied.

While Dean conceded he had actively participated in the cover-up himself — which he said involved perjury, payoffs to the original Watergate defendants to keep them quiet and impeding the FBI investigation — he denied that he was implicating Nixon in an effort to gain immunity from criminal prosecution.

"Mr. Dash, I have been asked to give testimony," Dean said. "That testimony happens to involve the President of the United States. I have no motive of using that testimony to obtain immunity from prosecution."

Dean has been granted immunity for what he tells the Senate investigating committee. But federal prosecutors have rejected his efforts to gain a promise that he will not be prosecuted at all, and he is known to be a target of the grand jury that is investigating Watergate.

Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., told Dean that his testimony contained "very strong charges against the President of the United States involving him in criminal offenses," and asked:

"What makes you think that your credibility is greater than that of the President, who denies what you have said?"

"Well, Senator, I have been the truth," Dean replied. "I've told it exactly the way I know it. I don't say that I — you're asking me a public relations question, really in a sense, why I would have greater credibility than the President of the United States — I'm telling you what I know. I'm telling it just as I know it."

Leaning forward in his chair as television cameras zoomed in, Dean listened intently as Dash attempted to summarize Dean's lengthy opening statement in which he implicated not only Nixon but the President's two closest advisers, H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman.

"One, after telling the President on Sept. 15 that you could not assure that the cover-up would not unravel, it did in fact begin to unravel in January, 1973?" Dash asked.

"And that you learned from Mr. Ehrlichman in January and from the President himself on March 13, 1973, that the President when apprised of (Watergate conspirator E. Howard) Hunt's pressure, authorized giving Hunt assurances concerning executive clemency? Despite your explicit statement in your meeting with the President on Feb. 28, 1973, of your culpability for obstruction of justice, the President, according to your statement, reassured you that you had no legal problems?"

"In your meeting with the President on March 13, when you apprised the President of increasing payoff demands from Mr. Hunt which you estimated would cost as much as $1 million, the President, according to your statement, responded that that amount of money would be no problem and inquired as to how such payments should be made, leading to a discussion by you in the presence of the President on laundering money and secret drops?"

"And despite your lengthy explanation to the President when you met with him on March 21, concerning the criminal involvement of various White House and (campaign) officials, including Mr. Haldeman, Mr. Ehrlichman, Mr. (Charles W.) Colson, yourself and Mr. (Jeb Stuart) Magruder, and increased demands for payoff money requiring more coverup activities on the part of the White House, asked why he waited until April to tell federal investigators what he knew, Dean said it was because all along he was "hopeful that the President himself would step forward and tell of his involvement in some of these things."

Congress Wants Bombing Halted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The word to the President is plain: Congress wants the bombing in Cambodia stopped.

Whether the President will follow congressional wishes, however, is still open to question.

The House Monday by voice vote joined the Senate in demanding that the bombing be stopped.

The White House said President Nixon "regrets the results" of the House vote Monday and will decide whether to veto the legislation.

The fund cutoff cleared the House following a 204 to 204 tie that defeated a move to permit the bombing to continue two more months.

The measure, part of a $3.3 billion supplemental appropriation bill, passed the Senate 63 to 19 on May 19.

Following the House vote, the supplemental bill went back to the Senate for what was expected to be routine final approval before being sent to the White House. The President has 10 days to act on the bill after it lands on his desk.

The 10-day period allotted by the Constitution will probably expire when Congress is in a week's recess for the Independence Day holiday. Whether Nixon can use that week-long congressional vacation to pocket veto the bill is a constitutional question that has not been resolved by the courts. If he does, it would deprive Congress of the opportunity to override his veto.

The White House said Nixon would make his decision after consulting Republican congressional leaders. The spokesman said the President felt "such actions seriously undermine prospects for achieving a settlement in Cambodia and endanger the viability of the structure of peace achieved in Vietnam and Laos at such great sacrifice."

The amendment, sponsored by Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., declares:

None of the funds herein appropriated under this act or heretofore appropriated under any other act may be expended to support directly or indirectly combat activity in, over or from the shores of Cambodia or in or over Laos by United States forces.

Brezhnev Notes Role Of France

RAMBOUILLET, France (UPI) — Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev assured French President Georges Pompidou today that he and President Nixon took no decision involving any third nation at their summit meetings a French spokesman said.

The Nixon-Brezhnev decision to maintain world peace and to rule out nuclear conflicts had sparked apprehension in French government circles that the two superpowers sought to settle world affairs by themselves against the wishes and national interests of other world powers.

Brezhnev, the Soviet Union's Communist party general secretary, gave the assurance to Pompidou during their first meeting which ran overtime to three hours and 15 minutes in the 14th Century Rambouillet chateau 35 miles west of Paris.

"Mr. Brezhnev emphasized that at no time was there any question involving third powers," the French spokesman said.

Immediately after the Nixon-Brezhnev nuclear agreement signatures French government officials said France would continue to build up its own nuclear arsenal despite the Soviet-American talks on disarmament. France is believed planning new nuclear tests shortly in the South Pacific.

The French spokesman said Brezhnev and Pompidou both had described as "positive and very substantial" their meeting this morning in Marie Antoinette's former boudoir in the medieval chateau with four towers, now flying the hammer and sickle of the Soviet Union.

Confirming France's pride that Brezhnev chose to fill in France first on the Soviet-American talks, the French spokesman told newsmen.

"Mr. Brezhnev in the talks with Mr. Pompidou emphasized the dominant role played by France in Western Europe."

The spokesman told newsmen Brezhnev and Pompidou discussed international problems as well as Brezhnev's visit to the U.S. president and European fears of Soviet-U.S. world domination.

The talks, which will wind up at noon Wednesday, provide an opportunity for Brezhnev and Pompidou to discuss the entire range of world events against the background of agreements reached by Brezhnev last week in his summit meeting with Nixon.

Various aspects of the American-Soviet accords, especially the two superpowers' pledge to maintain world peace, have sparked criticism in Paris and other European capitals that Moscow and Washington are seeking to decide the future of the world between them.

FOR PAMPA Electrical Code To Be Updated

Pampa city commissioners voted today to update the city's 15-year-old electrical code.

The action was taken after City Manager Mack Wofford called attention to the fact the existing code was based on the National Code of 1958.

Changes will be made, it was decided, to bring the Pampa code into conformity with the 1973 National Code.

A contract for seal-coating city streets was awarded to G. W. James of Pampa for $67,467.50.

The award was made only after City Manager Wofford urged that it be made with a stipulation that the city can reduce the amount of the contract.

Wofford told commissioners there is no provision in the 1972-73 city budget for payment for seal-coating in excess of the approximately $40,000 spent each year for that purpose.

He said a study of the 20 to 30 per cent increase in seal-coating costs showed that it was in line with a general increase nationally.

As a result, the city staff was asked to make selective choice of streets to be seal-coated in order to keep the cost down this year.

A contract was awarded to Radcliff Supply Co. of Pampa for purchase of a utility-type battery-operated mower for $2,195.

Mrs. J.B. McGuire Jr. and the Rev. Martin Hager were appointed members of the Regional Mental Health - Mental Retardation Committee.

An ordinance was approved on first reading to open up two new areas for mobile homes. One would be an area bounded on the north by E. Frederic, by S. Barnes on the west and east to the city limits.

The other would be bounded by the west city limits, by Gwendolyn on the north, on the east by an alley between Wells and Nelson streets, and by Alcock on the south.

The consultant engineering firm of Merriman and Barber was authorized to conduct a study of how best to meet a Texas Water Quality Board order to chlorinate oxidation ponds at the Pampa sewage treatment plant on a stop-gap basis pending completion of Pampa's proposed $570,000 sewage treatment plant construction.

Warm Weather Helping Ripened Wheat Harvest

The weather locally is cooperating with a number of factors to hold bright the promise of a bumper wheat crop both in Gray County and across the entire Panhandle.

Continued warm, sunny weather has ripened wheat fields at a rapid rate. Farmers are watching the mounting harvest of the golden grain with frequent glances at the skies for the dreaded rain clouds.

There is nrain in the forecast for today and tomorrow — just clouds, which might keep the temperature short of the 100-degree mark expected this week. After a very damp spring, rainfall in the local area has fallen behind what the statistics say is the normal average for this period in the year.

Wheat producers have for the status quo a few more days, then they will be content to let the rest of the population have some rain to green up lawns, give thirsty flowers a drink and generally take the edge off what developed into instant summer.

Not Dry Elsewhere

Elsewhere in the state, it was a different story.

Heavy rains that pushed many creeks and rivers in South and South Central Texas to flood stage or bankful eased today.

Heavy showers fell today in the Laredo area. More showers were expected south of Houston and San Antonio but by Wednesday forecasters believed rain would be confined to the Coastal Bend area.

There was nothing in the weather picture such as Monday, 3.40 inches at San Antonio or 3.30 inches at Alice.

San Antonio firemen were looking for the body of William Nixon, 6, drowned Monday with his brother Derrick, 8, when they were swept into a drainage ditch. The body of Derrick was found Monday night in a creek.

Search for Bodies

At Corpus Christi, Coast Guardmen searched Red Fish Bay for the bodies of Craig Mothershed and his 5-year-old son Allen. The body of 25-year-old Mrs. Debra Mothershed was found Monday.

Authorities were not sure weather was responsible for the apparent drowning of the Mothershed family, from Port Aransas. Their 14-foot boat and fishing gear was located on Ransom Island.

Some farm roads were closed in the Kingsville-Papalote-Sinton areas of South Texas.

The Guadalupe, Nueces, Frio, San Antonio, Atascosa, and Nueces rivers all were high or causing minor flooding. There was flooding Monday in San Antonio, but creeks and canals were receding today.

San Antonio Soaked

San Antonio had 2.42 inches of rain in six hours Monday.

Unofficial reports said three funnel clouds were sighted in the Lower Rio Grande Valley and a fourth funnel cloud "virtually" touched the ground. No damage was reported, however.

Except for the southern part of the state, Texas was mostly fair. Temperatures worked back toward summer levels, with many 90 degree readings Monday and the state's high of 97 at El Paso.

JP Sets Bond For Two Men

Two Pampa men were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Nat Lunsford Monday afternoon. He then fixed bonds totaling $3,500.

Judge Lunsford set bond at $1,500 for Gerald Becton, charged with the beating of his six-year-old stepson who was hospitalized for treatment following the alleged incident. This is a felony offense.

For William Britton, charged with selling dangerous drugs to minors, bond was set at $2,000. He was taken into custody after police were given statements by the two Perryton youths to whom he allegedly sold the narcotics at a local drive-in. It was not Britton's first drug offense, police said.

Proposal Unveiled For Health Center

By T. DEWEES

Preliminary plans for a new half-million dollar health care center for Pampa were unveiled today by Jess Taylor, operator of the Pampa Nursing Center, W. Kentucky Ave.

Taylor prefaced his announcement with a statement the proposal still is dependent upon approval by the Panhandle Regional Health Council, the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission and the State Health Department.

He said plans already have been presented to the Regional Health Council and he expects to appear again before the Council next Monday with supporting documents for his application.

Taylor said a certificate of need must be obtained before the go-ahead signal can be given. He stated the regional health group will review his application and if it is approved, a recommendation will then go to the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission for further study.

Approval of the PRPC would be followed by the State Health Planning Commission's final consideration.

Taylor appeared before the Pampa Chamber of Commerce board of directors at its monthly meeting yesterday and outlined preliminary stages for the modern health care center.

He said the new facility, if approved by the various agencies, would be located on a 14-acre site facing N. Sumner

Proposal Unveiled For Health Center

St. across from Coronado Inn and Coronado Shopping Center.

The new facility would be modern in all respects, complete with landscaping, and would contain 126 beds in six wings with kitchen and dining areas.

Although Taylor did not ask the chamber to endorse the project at yesterday's meeting, it was the opinion of the directors that such a facility was needed in Pampa and that if proper facilities and management were provided, residents of the Top O' Texas area would make use of such facilities.

Taylor said today he was optimistic over support he had received so far in obtaining information to obtain a certificate of need for the project.

He added that if his project receives the necessary agency approvals, construction could possibly begin within nine months from now.

Entries Already Received In Local Beauty Contest

Thirteen entries already have been received for the annual Miss Top O' Texas Beauty contest scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 11, in the M.K. Brown Auditorium.

It was also reported at yesterday's monthly meeting of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce board of directors that the chamber staff will supply necessary information to any business firm or civic group wishing to sponsor a contestant.

Sponsors seeking a contestant will be assisted if they will contact Mrs. Marguerite McLeod in the chamber office.

Directors heard several activity reports at their Monday meeting.

It was reported that the chamber's 1973 budget was approximately 96 per cent complete and the goal is expected to be reached before the end of the fiscal year.

Plans were reported complete for the traditional Independence Day program scheduled for Wednesday evening, July 4, at the Rodeo Grounds in Recreation Park. The program will get under way at 8:45 p.m. with Western Games presented by the Pampa High School Rodeo Club, featuring the Pony Express Race and other cowboy and cowgirl contests.

Following the entertainment, a patriotic program featuring an address by the Rev. Claude Cone, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will take place, with Jerry Sims, president of the chamber, serving as master of ceremonies.

Unruly Students Placed In Cage

HOUSTON (UPI) — A state public welfare worker has testified before the owner of the Artesia Hall detention home, indicted in the death of one student, sometimes placed students in a cage to discipline the young.

The testimony was before a House subcommittee investigating how Dr. Joseph Farrar received a license for the school in 1971. Further testimony was scheduled today.

Farrar, 56, has been charged with murder in the death of a 17-year-old Houston girl, Danna Annette Hoviboll. The indictment alleges Farrar, who with his son Dale is also charged with assaulting several students, withheld medical attention from the girl after she swallowed rat poisoning.

Ruth Urmey, a former licensing supervisor for the welfare department, told the committee Monday she learned a cage was used to hold unruly students for as long as a day when she visited the rural Liberty County school in May, 1971.

"We stood outside on the grounds and saw the cage," Mrs. Urmey said. "It was about 4 by 4 or 3 by 5. (We learned) children were kept in it up to a substantial length of time."

Farrar admitted he used the cage, she said. "He said if the children had temper tantrums or flashbacks from drugs they had to be restrained. He also justified using handcuffs against them."

"He said the only way the children could be controlled was by fear and said all were psychopaths," she said.

The state assumed control of the school last week after Gov. Dolph Briscoe toured the facility and found conditions "appalling." The students were sent home.

W. Kendall Baker of Houston, a member of the State Board of Public Welfare for 12 years, acted as Farrar's attorney when he applied for a license. Mrs. Urmey said she opposed the licensing of the school and was later demoted.

"I feel this was because of political infighting," Mrs. Urmey said. "I have evidence that Mr. Baker demanded I be dismissed."

A co-worker, Dainne Allen said the department discovered the school was operating without a license and attempted to inspect it in 1971. She arrived unannounced May 18 and said staff members told her the facility was overcrowded, its food handlers unlicensed, and it had improper sanitary conditions.

Farrar ordered the welfare workers barred from going into the buildings, she said.

"The only other visits came after the prior knowledge of Farrar," she said.

Wallace Denies 'Healing' Windows Blamed In Deaths

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Gov. George C. Wallace says he appreciates the efforts of a purported psychic healer, known only as "Mr. A.," but he declines to give the mysterious healer credit for ridding him of pain he has suffered since he was shot in 1972.

Wallace's office confirmed Monday that the governor, paralyzed from the waist down, had met with "Mr. A.," but his staff said privately the National Enquirer story describing the visits and results were exaggerated.

Wallace's staff said he acknowledged that "Mr. A.," a surgeon, Dr. Dena L. Smith, came by to see him.

"I was appreciative of them coming by as many people have come by to suggest treatment and to have prayer with me," Wallace said through his press secretary, Billy Joe Camp. "I saw them and was appreciative of their well meaning and concern."

The Enquirer said the 78-year-old healer, who wanted to remain anonymous to keep from being swamped with treatment requests, said he was "quite sure that, given time, I can get the governor to walk again."

Except for exercising on braces and crutches and standing in a specially built podium, Wallace has been confined to a wheelchair since the May 15, 1972, assassination attempt as he campaigned in the Maryland presidential primary.

Police answered a call to a local lounge on W. Brown St. and found the place a shambles, with one man nursing minor injuries.

The operator of the place told officers a group entered around 5 p.m. Monday and later in the evening a fight broke out.

After the men left, an inventory revealed broken pool cues and two straw hats and two shirts left behind.

Police said they believed they had located the men involved in the melee and would bring them in for questioning sometime today.

1976 AUTOMOBILE EMISSION CONTROL SYSTEM

"Expensive, inefficient, unreliable and unnecessary," claim the critics of the way Detroit proposes to meet the final and most drastic automobile emission control standards due to be required on 1975 and 1976 models, which will bring pollutant levels 90 per cent below those of 1970. Heart of the controversy are catalysts which convert exhausts into harmless gases using precious metals such as platinum and palladium. Added cost of the catalysts to a new-car buyer is placed at $275 upwards, exclusive of manufacturer's and dealer's markups, maintenance costs and cost of additional fuel consumed. Because other pollution-control systems or methods may be simpler and superior to the catalysts, the automakers are asking the government to postpone the 1975 standards by at least a year. (1975 system differs from 1976 in not requiring the nitrogen oxide catalyst shown directly behind engine in above drawing.)

Irish Catholic Legislator Latest Victim In Conflict

BELFAST (UPI) — Police found the bodies of a Roman Catholic legislator and a young woman in a quarry on the outskirts of Belfast early today and said a new Protestant extremist group claimed responsibility for the shootings.

A police spokesman identified the dead legislator as Henry "Paddy" Wilson, a Belfast city councillor and a close associate of Gerry Fitt, leader of the Social Democratic Labor Party — (SLDP) — Northern Ireland's main Catholic opposition party.

The last death was the fifth reported in a matter of hours. Late Monday night, three men died when their own bomb ripped through their car near Omagh. The British Army said that incident could mark the start of an Irish Republican Army (IRA) bombing campaign along Northern Ireland's western border.

Police officials said Wilson's body and that of the unidentified 21-year-old woman were found in a quarry in north Belfast. Police said the search was prompted by a telephone call they received from a "Capt. Black" saying the Ulster Freedom Fighters (UFF), a new Protestant extremist group, claimed responsibility for the murders.

"We have just killed Paddy Wilson and a girl with him," police quoted the caller as saying.

Fitt, who also is a member of the British House of Commons, denounced the slayings and said Wilson "had not an ounce of sectarian blood in his body."

Army sources said Monday night's bomb victims, identified as members of the outlawed IRA, died instantly in the blast as they were driving toward a British Army base at Omagh, a border town 55 miles west of Belfast.

The sources said the deaths followed the spotting of several large IRA groups moving into the heavily wooded hills on the Irish Republic side of the border in the past two days.

"It was believed the men were carrying a bomb to be planted in Omagh when it exploded prematurely in their car," an army spokesman said.

Bombs Monday also wrecked a clothing store in the village of Benurb, 30 miles southwest of Belfast, and demolished a post office in a Belfast suburb. Neither caused any injuries.

Army sources said the IRA was being forced to resort to attacks in the western border area because of an army clampdown and the arrest of numerous IRA men in Belfast.

"In the past two weeks alone, we have captured 80 IRA men in Belfast and we suspect 22 of them were senior officers," one source said.

Thieves Take Parts Of Car

Sometime in the 24-hour period between Friday night and Saturday night, thieves took a number of parts from a car on the used car lot at Downtown Motors on S. Cuyler St.

The vehicle was pushed from the second row of display to the rear of the lot behind the campers parked there. The intake manifold, three carburetors and a stereo set were removed from the car.

Officers processed the auto for fingerprints and planned to check out those persons who had shown an interest in purchasing the car earlier in the week. The owner of Downtown Motors told police one group looking at the car had shown an interest in the carburetors.

Money Removed From Coin Box

Approximately $20 was taken from the coin box of the soft drink machine at Pampa Motor Co. on W. Foster St. Monday night.

The machine had been pried open with a flat instrument and the change taken.

Officers could not find a point of forced entry into the building, according to the police report. However, a number of footprints were found behind the place of business.

An investigation of the incident is being conducted.

TWO DIE Argentina Struck By New Violence

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Two persons died from assassins' bullets and two executives were kidnapped Monday as the country's new president was proclaiming "violence has no place or excuse in Argentina today."

Police said former Peronist Congressman Alberto Arnesto, 52, was shot to death while leaving a movie theater in Campana, 30 miles from Buenos Aires. Police said if the motive proves political, it would be the first such assassination since Peronist President Hector J. Campora took power a month ago.

Two military men and two union leaders were assassinated earlier in the year before Campora took office. Since the beginning of the year, more than 60 persons have been kidnapped and six of them are still being held for ransom.

Monday's other death was that of Argentine-born Ford Motor Co. accountant Luis Giovannelli, 34, who succumbed to bullet wounds suffered when leftist guerrillas shot him in a kidnap attempt outside the Buenos Aires Ford plant May 21.

Shortly after that shooting, Ford met a guerrilla demand for payment of $2 million to Argentine charities in return for a guerrilla promise not to harm any more of the company's employees.

Mario Baratella, vice president of the Argentine branch of the Bank of Italy, was abducted Monday outside his home in suburban Buenos Aires, police said. Also kidnapped was Pedro Cazachkov, head of a food products company who was taken from his house by armed men. His company reported a $700,000 ransom was demanded for his safe return.

Argentina's various guerrilla groups — some Peronist — have kept up their extremist activities under the Campora government, limiting their targets to "monopolies and the armed forces."

"The time of violence has no place or excuse in Argentina today," Campora said in his 23-minute television address to the nation Monday night. He said groups "taking the law into their own hands must stop. This government will firmly exercise its authority to assure orderly change."

Campora's words echoed those made Thursday by his mentor, former President Juan D. Peron, who returned to Argentina after 18 years in exile and called in a speech for a "peaceful revolution" that "would not cost the life of a single Argentine."

Briscoe Attacks Disorder

LONGVIEW, Tex. (UPI) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe said Monday Texas must "restore full protection of the law."

"It is time for us to put aside the ridiculous notion that the term 'law and order' contains ugly racial or social overtones," he said at a meeting of East Texas lawmen. "Law and order means just what it says."

"It means people shouldn't have to bolt six padlocks on the door at night."

"It means that a citizen should be able to walk down the street in safety — at any hour of the day or night."

"It means that impressionable grade school students should be protected from the insidious temptations of immoral or callous drug pushers."

"It means that our state should be free — entirely free — from the strangling tentacles of organized crime."

Briscoe told the lawmen the new criminal code, drug law and death penalty statutes adopted by the legislature will help them perform their duty.

"Every citizen has the right to be free from the fear of crime on his family or person," he said.

"There can be no such thing as partial protection of our citizens, because there is no such thing as partial crime," Briscoe said. "Not only must we restore full confidence in the law — we must also restore full protection of the law."

Flight controllers prepared for the Skylab 2 flight of Alan L. Bean, Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma, running simulations Monday of the launch and docking with the space station.

The next team of astronauts who are to visit Skylab late next month for a 56-day stay are set up a different shade over the parashute to protect the station from the sun's searing rays. Engineers believe the material on the parashute might degrade before the end of the next two flights to Skylab.

Dr. W. Royce Hawkins, the astronauts' chief physician, said the pilots are showing continuous improvement in readjusting to Earth after prolonged weightlessness.

Conrad and Weitz were doing fine only a few hours after splashdown Friday, but Kerwin had problems with dizziness, lightheadedness and nausea for a number of hours. Kerwin, the first U.S. space doctor, said on his return to Houston he was fit and "space is kind to people."

Hawkins said the medical tests, including riding a stationary bicycle and lying in an iron lung-like device to test the muscular and cardiovascular systems, would continue until the astronauts returned to the same work level as before the 28-day mission.

The crew also continued the daily technical discussions, detailing step-by-step the flight. The debriefings concentrated on the activation of Skylab and all its systems and the irregularities of the craft. The

Television In Review

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — In terms of first-run summer entertainment series, ABC-TV is king of network television's vacation-time season this year.

Skeptics at the other networks may try to brush off this fact, noting that video audiences are smaller in the traditional vacation months, but many persons who do watch television in the summer will appreciate ABC-TV's efforts. Regardless of the ratings, these efforts will result in a good will victory with the public for ABC-TV, the smallest of the "big three" commercial video networks.

CBS-TV thus far has no first-run summer entertainment series on the air, blaming the four-month writers' strike. NBC-TV at least has several new weekly musical-variety shows on tap—a Helen Reddy series that begins Thursday and a group of country music programs, taped in Nashville, that take over Dean Martin's usual time slot for a brief run starting July 26.

ABC-TV, meanwhile, already has two first-run summer series on the air and two more set to bow in. These four shows are:

— "Thicker Than Water," a situation comedy that arrived June 13, with Julie Harris, Richard Long and Malcolm Atterbury as its regular stars, and concerns a long-estranged sister and brother who must run their ailing old father's factory to earn their promised inheritances.

Program on Composers — "Love Thy Neighbor," a situation comedy that had its debut June 15 and deals with a white couple and a black couple whose houses are next to each other.

— "The Burns and Schreiber Comedy Hour," a variety entry that offers the witty team on Saturday nights starting this coming weekend. A preview of

Committee Okays Funds For Flood

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Appropriations Committee Monday approved $139 million $29 million more than President Nixon requested — for flood control projects along the Mississippi River and its tributaries.

The projects approved by the committee as part of a $4.7 billion public works appropriations bill for fiscal 1974 exceeded the fiscal 1973 appropriations for this purpose by more than $27 million.

Among the larger items approved for construction and planning were:

Red River backwater $2.6 million.

WORRY CLINIC

Nora is partly correct. But bulging muscles do not prevent bears or mosquitoes from attacking you. Nor do they stop germs! For muscles are destroyed by chemicals. That's why gastric juice dissolves meat and perforates an ulcer!

CASE X-544: Nora J., aged 22, is a health faddist.
"Dr. Crane," she began, "if people would join our health clubs and eat the proper diet, they wouldn't need to suffer from diseases, such as smallpox or venereal infection!"

"So why do you medics still inflict needless pain on school kiddies by giving them shots? Why not teach them how to live right and they'd save themselves all that unnecessary expense for medical injections!"

BE LOGICAL

Nora is partly correct when she says if we ingested the proper foods, vitamins and trace chemicals, we'd be healthier.

Which is why I keep reminding you that our blood contains in varying degree all of the 44 water-soluble chemical elements on this Earth.

They have, alas, been considerably denuded or leached from our soil, though still plentiful in ocean water.

But those trace chemicals are regarded as possible antidotes for "deficiency diseases," such as gray hair, psoriasis, diabetes, multiple sclerosis and even cancer.

But a deficiency ailment differs greatly from a germ or virus disease.

For example, even if you drank your daily input of sea water and dined on a balanced diet, suppose an angry grizzly bear started your way.

Would your healthful diet prevent the bear from attacking and maybe killing you? Certainly not!

Now let's shift to smaller foes, such as wood ticks or bed bugs, mosquitoes or even chiggers. Is a big, healthy, football player immune from those this series last Friday achieved an admirable level of original, quality humor.

— "The Corner Bar," a situation comedy, first seen on ABC-TV last summer, that returns Aug. 3 and revolves around the goings-on at a neighborhood New York City tavern. This series showed some real potential and laugh-getting ability on its 1972 run.

In addition to these four entries, ABC-TV recently presented — as another "off-season" attraction — the mini-series "The Strauss Family," a schmaltzy but entertaining dramatized biography with music about the famous Viennese clan of waltz composers.

Program On Fitzgerald

ABC-TV is also detailing plans for some of its major specials of the 1973-74 season — for example, for its scheduled two-hour program "F. Scott Fitzgerald and 'The Last of the Belles,'" which dramatizes two periods of the writer's life — one through a short story he wrote. The network says Richard Chamberlain will star as Fitzgerald and Blythe Danner as his wife, Zelda, and, in explaining the structure of the program, says:

"Fitzgerald wrote the short story 'The Last of the Belles' in 1928. It fictionalized his meeting with Zelda while he was an Army officer in the south. F. Scott Fitzgerald and 'The Last of the Belles' first portrays the author with his wife and child at the time in their lives when he was about to write this story. The program then slips into 1919, the time depicted in the short story about a young officer stationed in (Georgia)."

The network says that "featured in the fiction segment of the special are David Huffman and Susan Sarandon, who represent the young Fitzgerald and the last of the southern belles."

Other 1973-74 specials in the works at ABC-TV:

— A new two-hour production of Tennessee Williams' "The Glass Menagerie," starring Katharine Hepburn.

Midler Program — An hour headlining the new music and comedy star Bette Midler.

— A two-part, four-hour presentation, "The Movies," which ABC-TV says includes "famous scenes" from more than 100 movies, and is scheduled for this fall, with proceeds from the special benefitting the Motion Picture and Television Relief Fund.

creatures just because of his splendid physique and superb dietary habits?

Not at all!

For grizzly bears, as well as wood ticks and mosquitoes, seem to relish a healthy, athletic person as much (if not more) than a skinny, anemic human being.

Now shift down to a still smaller enemy, namely, germs. Your splendid muscular body is not a protection against germs, any more than it was against the grizzly bear or wood ticks.

The real antidote for germs is the body's own manufacture of what we call antibodies.

And our medical shots help your body build up a larger army of those antibodies.

Nora, for example, soon went to Mexico on a vacation trip. And almost died from a severe case of "Montezuma's Revenge" from infected food or water.

A few weeks later, too, she broke out with smallpox, now almost a rarity in the U.S.A.

So her stress on a balanced diet and gymnastics may have helped build up some resistance but could not chemically kill the invading viruses.

So send for my booklet "The Ocean's 44 Trace Chemicals," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

They may help you ward off deficiency ailments. And even reduce the severity of germ infections, but they aren't guaranteed to stop grizzly bears or germs!

Group Urges Ban For Killing Whale

LONDON (UPI) — An advertisement signed by some of the world's leading ocean experts, conservationists and members of royalty appeared in The London Times Monday urging a 10-year ban on the killing of whales.

Publication of the ad coincided with the start of a meeting of the International Whaling Commission (IWC) in London to discuss such a moratorium.

Among the signers of the newspaper ad were Britain's Prince Philip, Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands, underwater explorer Jacques Cousteau and Thor Heyerdahl of "Kon Tiki" fame.

Meeting last year in Oslo, the IWC — which has imposed bans on the killing of some whales — nonetheless rejected a call by its American and British members to put an end to the killing of all whales.

The majority view, backed by the scientific committee of the IWC, was that regulation by types and stocks was the only practical method of conserving the species.

IWC sources said, however, there was a possibility that the fin whale might be added to the list of types already banned from killing by the IWC. The commission has already declared a moratorium on the catching of blue, humpback, bowhead, grey and right whales.

Median sales of new homes averaged $25,000 in 1971.

VFW Groups Hold Banquet For Officers

The Pampa post of Veterans of Foreign Wars and its Auxiliary held a banquet recently to honor outgoing and incoming officers.

Outgoing Post commander was Ross Neugin, with Mrs. Georgia Mack as outgoing Auxiliary president.

Installed to head the organizations were A.C. Howard, post commander, and Mrs. Tharon Leonard, Auxiliary president.

Guest speaker for the banquet June 19 was Capt. Doyle Kirby, Navy representative of Amarillo. He was introduced by local Army recruiter, SFC. Kenneth Baker.

Capt. Kirby spoke on the general rules and life in the service, touching on salaries, regulations, opportunities and so on. He also answered questions from the audience.

Mrs. Libby Shotwell, executive secretary for the Gray County chapter of the American Red Cross, provided information on how the organization aids servicemen, particularly in arranging emergency leaves in case of deaths or extreme illnesses.

Chairman for the banquet was Mrs. May Hatcher, with Mrs. Jessie Rance and Mrs. DaAnna Finney serving as hostesses.

Forty-three members and guests were present for the banquet at the VFW Hall.

Retired Amarillo Author Writes Tale Of Change

By CARLA COMBS
"When the Bell Sounded," a simple intimate tale written by F.M. McCarty, Amarillo, covers the period in history that saw the change of transportation from the horse-drawn, with its slow tempo, to that of the jet age.

The book is a story of many people and is filled with many incidents that make good stories. Many are humorous; some are tragic. All are true, although names in some instances have been changed to protect those who have no desire for fame or notoriety.

McCarty was born and grew up on a farm near Weatherford, which he left to engage in teaching.

He attended nine summer sessions in North Texas State College to earn his B.S. Degree in 1936. His master of arts degree was awarded from West Texas State College in 1947.

He taught and served as superintendent of schools until 1948, when he became representative of a yearbook publishing company and worked with high school and college annuals until his retirement in 1970.

In 1951 he organized and served as president and general manager of a corporation that dealt in school materials until it was merged with a larger national company in 1964, with headquarters in Kansas City, Mo. He then served as sales representative for that firm for six years.

He and his wife, Nola, make use of a fully-equipped motor home to travel extensively. He devotes most of his time to writing and to the distribution of his books.

Even in retirement, every day is an adventure. "When the Bell Sounded" can be found in local gift shops in Pampa.

HANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — A Kings County budget writer may have had the taxpayers in mind.

The county supervisors found this line in their proposed 1973-74 budget: "Under Section 5, a grant totaling $96,589 was allocated to continue the 21 remaining positions, of which 10 are allocated to the county, until such time as those funds are exasperated."

Sporty Cars More Accident Prone

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Every motorist has had the experience of seeing an auto in his rear view mirror and saying "there's the kind of car or motorist sure to get into an accident."

Well, the Institute of Highway Safety has studied insurance claims and issued a report indicating some sporty style cars — and perhaps some drivers who buy their cars because of that special style — are more accident prone than others.

The four automobiles with the highest claim frequency per 100 insured vehicles were:

- AMC Javelin, 17.2 per cent.
- Mercury Cougar, 16 per cent.
- Ford Mustang and Chevrolet Corvete, tied with 15.6 per cent.

The four are among the sportiest cars on the road, and they are advertised as such.

The next category in the survey was the four cars with the lowest claim frequency. Here, as expected, were some of the "solid citizens" of the car world, but not some of the prestige cars.

The four with the lowest rate of claim frequency were:

- Pontiac Catalina, 7.4 per cent.
- Chevrolet's Impala and Caprice, 7.6 per cent.
- Chevrolet Kingswood station wagon, 7.7 per cent.

QUALITY AND CONVENIENCE—Gibson's Discount Pharmacy has a selection of approximately 15,000 medicines to help their customers get the service they need. Three registered pharmacists are available to fill prescriptions efficiently and promptly.

Gibson's Discount Pharmacy Offers Convenient Service

Realizing that illness hits most people at sometime in their lives, Gibson's Discount Pharmacy strives to maintain a high quality standard of service and yet provide the medicines inexpensively.

A full staff of registered pharmacists are always on hand to aid the customer in filling his prescription needs as they arise.

And this service is available even outside of normal store hours. At least one pharmacist is ready 24 hours a day, seven days a week, to help the customer obtain medicines that may be needed quickly to combat sickness.

Several clerks are on hand to take orders and to help provide fast and efficient service for the customer. This eliminates some of the time a pharmacist would have to spend on paper work, freeing him to spend more time with filling the prescriptions.

Dean Copeland, pharmacist in charge, says all the personnel in the pharmacy work together in an effort to give the customer the fast and efficient service that has become a trademark of Gibson's. And yet the low prices are maintained.

Working with Copeland are David Burns, who has been a member of the Gibson staff for over a year, and Dick Wilson, who joined Gibson's Discount Pharmacy last year.

Filling prescriptions for the customers, all three work promptly to keep the prices down without sacrificing any of the service. And only the finest of medicines are used.

The medicines are obtained from reputable pharmacy companies at less cost and without the high overhead encountered by many smaller pharmacies.

Gibson's Discount Pharmacy carries approximately 15,000 medicines to more than meet the needs of most illnesses.

Another special feature of the pharmacy is the stock of vitamins they keep in supply. Many doctors believe many illnesses could be avoided or at least cut down if vitamins were used to supplement the regular diet.

Gibson's keeps an outstanding supply, whether its for children or for adults or for special diets.

And with the season for colds and sniffles just around the corner, vitamins should be a part of the regular diet.

Customers suffering from allergies can also find a complete line of medicines to help control difficulties. For people with sensitive skin, a full line of Allercream cosmetics are in stock.

A registered pharmacist since 1957, Copland invites customers to come by and check Gibson's Discount Pharmacy and compare for quality and service at low prices.

Mobile Home Costs Add Up and Up

By CARLTON SMITH

If this keeps up, everybody is going to be living in mobile homes. In the last year for which figures are available, 1971, close to half of all the people buying new single-family dwellings—43 per cent of them—wound up in mobile homes as opposed to conventional houses.

Mainly accounting for the mushrooming sales, of course, is that the mobiles carry far smaller price tags than conventional houses—the kind that go on foundations. But whether they actually cost less, either in the long run or by the month, is questioned in a government study just published. The answer seems to come out "no."

Interested in the potential of mobiles for solving the housing problems of low-income rural families, the Office of Economic Opportunity assigned a pair of research evaluators to the study.

The cost comparisons below apply to a mobile home selling at the industry's average 1971 price, $6,640, and a $15,000 conventional house.

Mobiles, to begin with, aren't financed like houses. The financing is practically identical to an auto loan. Interest is charged by the "add-on" method, making a stated rate of 7 per cent actually the equivalent of 12 per cent simple annual interest.

Mobile home loans are for shorter periods, too—typically five to seven years, though it's true that for the bigger, luxury models selling at prices up to $18,000, lenders will extend the term to 12 or sometimes 15 years on an FHA-insured loan. The down payment, if your credit is good, is typically 20 per cent.

While that may sound like a modest initial outlay, mobile home buyers discover that other items—similar to the closing costs on a conventional home—can add substantially to the purchase price. Fees for credit checks, sales tax, the mandatory damage insurance add up, along with "options," probably. If you'd like to have some steps going up to the door, for example, that's optional. These extra expenses will typically add up to $1,030, according to the O.E.O. study.

Thus there's more to be financed than just the purchase price, and the high interest rate and short repayment period "make the monthly cost very high," the study notes. For debt repayment alone is not the whole story. There is site rent—typically $50 a month, though it will run as high as $150 in the luxury parks. Utilities average $25 a month, according to the study.

Add it all up, and monthly cost of the mobile is generally as high as, or higher than for the conventional house. Depending on financing arrangements, the range is put by the study at $166 to $203 for the mobile, $165 to $179 for the conventional house.

As for long-run total outlay—that is, "cost of possession," which includes total interest charges until the loans are paid off—that's put at $25,000 to $28,000 for the mobile home, $25,000 to $27,000 for the conventional house.

"Depending on financing arrangements, the mobile home may be more or less expensive than the conventional house," the study concludes. "The conventional house provides more durability and space for about the same cost as the mobile home."

Opinions differ about the durability of mobile homes. Depending on whom you're talking to, expected life is seven to 15 years. But there's a little argument about the rate of depreciation, since most dealers go by the "Blue Book." A mobile will lose 50 per cent of its value after six-and-a-half years—and if you're selling to a dealer, he'll knock about a third off the Blue Book price to cover his reconditioning costs and profit on resale.

"These cost analyses show," the authors of the O.E.O. study conclude, "that mobile homes are not substantially less expensive, over time, than low-cost conventional homes. Although the costs are essentially equal, there is more value for the expenditure with a conventional house which provides more space, safety and a longer lifetime."

And, at that, the authors may have been conservative about the cost of the mobile. Their average-priced model of two years ago—then $6,640—was a "12-wide." But mobiles have been getting bigger fast.

"Double-wides" and expandable models have been accounting for a rapidly increasing share of mobile sales. And the latest and biggest design, the "14-wides," even in 1971 "were gaining ground," the authors noted, and they guessed that "as more states permit passage of the 14-wides on their highways, this width may become the dominant one."

If it's a not-so-little vine-covered 14-wide that you've had your heart set on, forget that price of $6,640—especially in 1973, the year when controls were lifted because inflation (somebody said) was now under control.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

ownership of oil resources is catching on in the Arab world. Since Iran, regarded as a friend of the west, pulled it off earlier this year, Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy has followed up with similar warnings to American companies. Earlier this month, Kuwait's premier told Robert Dorsey, chairman of the Gulf Oil Corp., Kuwait planned to renegotiate its participation agreement worked out last year and supposed to go into effect on Jan. 1 this year. The Kuwait parliament rejected the agreement which would have given Kuwait 25 per cent ownership of foreign oil companies, rising to 51 per cent by 1981. But though Kuwait officials pooped the idea there were indications they were looking for 100 per cent right now or at least in a future much closer than 1981.

Racial Issue in France:

France has the possibility of racial crisis, and as result is taking a new look at its rules on immigration. Sudden left-bank riots were the first indication of how deeply feelings run. Since the vast majority of immigrants are Arabs or blacks from France's former colonies in Africa, the issue has the seeds of an ugly racist tempest. Discreetly, the government already has moved to contain the dangers on two fronts. It has cut back on numbers arriving—225,000 in 1970, 125,000 last year—and is making life better for the ones who are established in France.

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — A Swedish physician who uses hypnosis says the technique can be valuable in helping patients during the treatment of both acute and chronic pain.

Dr. Basil Finer said he uses hypnosis to help patients achieve deep muscular and mental relaxation followed by a numbing sensation that begins at the soles of the feet and rises over the whole body.

An associate professor of anaesthesiology and intensive care at the University of Uppsala, Dr. Finer discussed his procedures at a recent international symposium on pain held in Seattle under sponsorship of the University of Washington School of Medicine and the National Institutes of Health.

Finer said that in some cases he combines the use of hypnosis with drugs or nerve blocks to treat pain.

May Ease Suffering

As much as 90 per cent of the population can be hypnotized, he said. He pointed out that hypnosis might not be the proper form of treatment for patients who are not sufficiently susceptible, persons who become too dependent on it or if it causes withdrawal from reality.

Use of hypnosis to relieve an accident victim's acute pain during surgery, as well as in obstetrics cases, has proved successful, he said.

For patients suffering from chronic pain, hypnosis does not usually bring complete relief, but it may change unbearable suffering to "bearable discomfort," he said.

Another use for hypnosis, he said, is to help a patient overcome the fear of anticipated pain, such as that encountered in connection with dental surgery, obstetrics and certain amputation cases.

Patients Feel Inferior

Noting the need to relieve the chronic pain for a patient, he said, "By the time sick patients seek hypnotherapy, they often have been suffering for several years, are desperate and have been disappointed by previous failures to treat pain."

"Because of their chronic suffering, they may be addicted to drugs or alcohol or both. This and various prolonged hospital stays often make a chronic pain patient passive and institutionalized."

"They have learned during the years that friends, relatives and hospital staff get tired of hearing of their suffering. These patients feel inferior to others and, at the same time, long to be accepted as they are."

"These feelings breed a strong aggression, which seldom finds release. Lack of sleep from pain increases the vicious circle. Unemployment also may be an additional complicating factor."

Yankee Ingenuity Is Touchstone Of American's Business Success

NEW YORK (UPI) — Yankee ingenuity has been the touchstone of America's success in the business world. Now businessmen are even turning a worrisome thing like inflation into a source of increased productivity and higher employee morale and helping workers save a dollar or two in the process.

More than 100 companies have launched programs that give employees advice on how to stretch salary dollars. In return, they are getting operational savings worth up to 80 times the cost of the program, plus more employee loyalty and togetherness.

The "Buck A Day" (BAD) program was the brainchild of P. B. Crosby, a vice president at International Telephone & Telegraph, and is implemented by Industrial Motivation, Inc. of New York. The consulting organization handles the promotional literature and weekly newsletters which tell employees how to save a dollar per day for each of the some 250 days worked each year.

Employees Return Favor

Employees return the favor by telling companies how their jobs can be operated more efficiently.

ITT estimates it has saved $73 for every $1 it has spent on the program, and that figure goes to 80-to-1 in some companies, according to George J. Schmidt, president of IMI.

Some recent tips on how to beat the inflation the companies have passed on to employees:

- If the price of large size eggs is more than seven cents greater than the next smaller size it's more economical to buy the smaller size.
- Use a three-minute egg timer to time your long distance calls.
- Go easy on convenience foods. For instance, you pay about 30 per cent more for pre-sweetened cereals than for those you sugar yourself.

Delta Kappa Gamma Grants Scholarships At Convention

Beta Delta and Theta Delta Chapters of Delta Kappa Gamma, international honor society for women teachers, were represented by Mrs. Willie Mae Mangold, Mrs. Exie Vantine, Mrs. Mildred Sullivan and Miss Claudia Everly of Pampa at the 44th Annual Convention of the Alpha State (Texas) organization held at the San Antonio Convention Center, June 14-19. Theme of the convention was "Tis the set of the soul that decides the goal, and not the storm or the strife," taken from the poem "One Ship East" by Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Mrs. Marianna Jones and Mrs. Monta Frost, San Antonio, were convention chairman and co-chairman, while the seven San Antonio chapters served as hostesses to the 882 members registered.

The convention opened Thursday with a planning luncheon for regional directors, followed by a membership workshop conducted by Miss Catherine Rathman, international executive secretary. The regional meeting for the upper Panhandle area was set for Oct. 13, in Booker, with Mrs. Evelyn Laney, Amarillo, as chairman.

That evening delegates were treated to a special Fiesta de la Delta Kappa Gamma featuring a Mexican buffet in the River Arcade, strolling mariachis, pinatas, boat rides, and a program of music and dances by Latin-American pupils from one of the San Antonio elementary schools.

On Friday and Saturday, Mrs. LeVonne Davis, Alpha State president, presided at the business sessions where committee reports were approved and recommendations adopted. State officers were elected, and other Society business transacted. State Committees Panels and Membership Workshops were conducted by various state committee chairmen.

At noon, area luncheons were held at which society business was discussed. In Area IX, at which Mrs. Laney, outgoing Area director, presided, guests of honor were Mrs. Sullivan, Pampa, Mrs. Velma Weaver, Dumas, and Mrs. Mattie Ruth Nowlin, Plainview, past area directors. Mrs. Stella Bryant, outgoing state parliamentarian, Miss Adele Barnes, Amarillo, incoming area director, and Miss Margaret Ann Garlin, Lubbock, chairman of the State Committee on Research.

Friday evening, after a musical program by the State Chorus, Mrs. Mangold, president of Beta Delta Chapter, and Mrs. Vantine, president of Theta Delta, were among the 233 presidents who participated in a gala presentation of chapter presidents in a typical San Antonio setting.

At the Birthday luncheon on Saturday, Dr. Madge Davis, Wichita Falls, a past state president, gave the keynote address, "Not By Might," and Mrs. Mattie Lou Chisum, Daingerfield, chairman of the State Committee on Publications and Publicity, conducted the birthday ceremony, at which a "fleet of boats" brought in more than $600 for the State Scholarship Fund.

Mrs. Ruby Lee Lafferty, El Paso, chairman of the State Scholarship Committee, presented scholarship recipients and honor chapters. Theta Delta was among the 144 chapters recognized as "honor chapters" for having contributed $1 or more per member to the State Scholarship Fund, in addition to the regular $1 scholarship fee.

Among those granted scholarships for the summer term were Mrs. Ruth Holladay, Canyon, a former member of Beta Delta; Reva McGuire, Amarillo; and Miss Frances White, Port Arthur, a frequent visitor in Pampa with her sister, Mrs. Katie Key, Miss Sylvia Grider, a graduate of Pampa High School, was granted a long-term scholarship of $1250 for study at Indiana University.

The following state officers were installed in a formal ceremony Saturday afternoon: Mrs. Frances Lowrance, El Paso, president; Mrs. Aleene King Van De Grift, Dallas, first vice-president; Mrs. Marianna Jones, San Antonio, second vice-president; Miss Dorothy Stallings, Waco, recording secretary; Mrs. Beth Garcia, El Paso, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Louella Merrett, Fort Worth, treasurer, and Mrs. Mildred Mead, Houston, parliamentarian.

For the first time in its 44-year history, none of the 12 founders of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society were present for the state convention. Dr. Eula Lee Carter, State Honorary Founder, was present, and was granted permission to begin expansion of the Society into Mexico. The Society already has chapters in Canada, Sweden and Norway.

At the Founder's Dinner Saturday evening, Frances White, immediate past state president, gave the invocation, and Mrs. Phebe Emmons, international president, spoke on "The Mind and the Grace to Change."

A memorial service on Sunday morning concluded the convention. Among the deceased named were Miss Daisy Childers, Canadian, Beta Delta, and Mrs. Edith Morris, White Deer, Theta Delta.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 27
Your birthday today: Marks a sustained forward march thru experimental phases into a successful earning pattern. The year's emphasis is on material concerns. Relationships tend to inspirational contacts, free from affectation. Today's natives have courage, aren't always very tactful.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Skip the bickering, take everyone into your confidence, get busy to fix up your household.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Give credit where credit is due, particularly where you have been helped. It's a good day for additions to personal possessions.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: You thrive in competition, have no hesitation in taking on a debate. Investigate the prospects for changes in work conditions.

Cancer [June 21-July 21]: Set a high value on anything you offer for sale. Communication, correspondence promise results beyond expectations—make an effort!

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Promotion is normal today. If you're not improving, you're either on a divergent track or missing some point.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Self-improvement is the goal of the moment. Push pending projects toward early completion.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Now your personality counts strongly. Encouraging others' efforts should be continued in proportion to your own progress.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: It's a great day for sorting out what is yours and what is not, making the best use of all opportunities for reasonable exchanges.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Your treatment of others brings results in kind on this otherwise undistinguished day. Be diligent.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Benefits are indicated if you will stay in place to receive them. Present a smooth, graceful side of your personality.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: The soft sell does it. Instead of pressing others to adopt your ideas, simply apply them and attract interest by your good results.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Resolve to hold to thrifty budget decisions despite your bright mood and temptations to spend.

Centerfolds are unstapling marriage

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Since the beginning of our marriage four years ago, I told my husband I wouldn't tolerate "Playboy" or any other such magazine in our home, and if he wanted to read that kind of stuff he would have to leave it at his office.

We moved recently and I found a stack of these girly magazines in the attic. My husband laughed about it and said he read them when I was asleep or out.

Now he continues buying these magazines which he keeps in his drawer. I told him to remove them or I would throw them out. Well, he didn't, and I did. Now he tells me I owe him $8 for his destroyed magazines, and he refuses to give me his paycheck until I pay him the $8.

Am I wrong, or is he? He knew my feelings, and he was warned. He says those magazines belonged to him and I had no right to destroy them.

If you want to publish this, go ahead. There must be others with this problem.

HATES FILTH

DEAR HATES: You are wrong. Your husband has a right to read what he wishes, and to keep whatever he wants in his drawer. And if you don't quit invading his privacy and destroying his property, it could cost you more than $8.

DEAR ABBY: Both my husband and I are nearly 30 years old. We've been married for six beautiful years, and we have not had any children because we just plain do not want any. We have given the matter a great deal of serious consideration and have concluded that having children is not all it's cracked up to be. Maybe we're wrong, but that is the way we feel about it.

The problem: Both his mother and mine have been bounding us for some time now with: "When are you going to make me a grandmother?" The answer, of course, is: "Never!" But how do you tell two women who have done little else in their lives but produce children without inviting a fight?

We have been told that we are "selfish," that it's "unnatural" to want no children, and maybe we should see a psychiatrist. I'm sure you get the picture.

So how do you tell two would-be grandmothers that whether we want children or not is strictly our own business, and even tho it's a disappointment to them, we would rather not discuss it?

CHILDLESS AND SATISFIED

DEAR CHILDLESS: You seem sufficiently articulate to get the message across. When the subject comes up, simply say that you prefer not to discuss it. And don't try to defend your position or you will be in for an endless debate.

DEAR ABBY: I know I shouldn't think about myself so much, but I feel so big and ugly and dumb. In other words, I just don't have any confidence in myself.

I'm 5 foot 8 and weigh 140. I have mousy brown hair cut in a shag, which I hate on me. But I also hated my hair when it was long, I'm 24 and married. Everything I buy I want to return as soon as I get it home. Everything I cook I feel like throwing out, and I never feel like I look right in anything I put on.

All this lack of confidence in myself is driving me nuts. I hate for people to look me in the face because I think they're looking at my nose. I know I have shoulders like a football player, but I'm not any bigger than my sister, and she always looks nice.

Please help me, Abby. I'm so miserable.

ONE BIG MESS

DEAR ONE: You can't be nearly as big a "mess" as you think you are. At least one man must have thought you were pretty special or he wouldn't have married you.

What you need is a better self-image. Start with getting your psychological house in order. Your doctor can recommend a counselor, [and a diet if you feel "fat"], and remember, the longest march in the world started with a step—so get going.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

LOCKED IN FOR SAFETY

LONDON (UPI)—British Overseas Airways Corp. (BOAC) held up its flight to Asia when a stewardess failed to locate passenger D. Bass on the plane.

Then she asked Bass' traveling companion and found she had locked Bass in the plane's lavatory for safety.

D. Bass was, in fact, a double bass fiddle on its way to Malaysia.

No book by Fred Karpin would be complete unless he showed a couple of hands where someone threw away an ace as the only way to make a contract or defeat a contract depending on whether or not the hero was defending or playing the dummy.

In today's hand played in a rubber bridge game at New York's Cavendish Club, Sonny Moyses, former editor of the Bridge World, found himself in a rather unound six-heart contract.

Not that we don't all get into worse contracts and no one can blame Sonny for his six bid.

West opened the eight of clubs. After a low club was played from dummy, East played the 10. Sonny thought of ducking but decided that the club lead was a singleton and he had better take the trick.

He also saw a way to make the contract assuming he was right. He simply played out a few rounds of trumps; led a diamond to dummy's king and discarded his ace of spades.

Then he ruffed a diamond and led the four of spades. West was in with the king, but had to lead another spade to let Sonny get to dummy and discard his losing clubs.

A—Bid four spades. If you have an expert and conservative partner you might jump to five spades. This should tell him that you are afraid of two heart losers. Only a conservative expert would figure this out.

You do bid four spades and your partner bids five hearts. What do you do now?

HE GOT HIS WISH

GLOUCESTER, England (UPI)—Ronald Aplin, 61, smashed a window in protest against being unemployed, then elected to go for trial before a higher court.

He told the judge he was tired of the magistrates court where sentences were limited to only six months and that unless he could get a job he wanted to go to prison for a longer time.

Judge Anthony Bulger jailed him for nine months.

At Wimbledon

Unknown Players Can Draw Crowds

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — It has been said before but it's worth saying again—the Wimbledon championships are unique in the tennis world. Seventy-three of the greatest names in men's tennis boycotted the tournament this year, and yet the first-day crowd was just as big as though all of them were on the courts instead of a bumper crop of unknowns. "There are about 80 players out there I don't even know," said one veteran umpire, "and I get around."

These were the highlights in a day of jowlings: —The Duchess of Kent, leading a standing ovation—a rare royal gesture—when Ilie Nastase of Romania, one of three members of the Association of Tennis Professionals (ATP) not boycotting the tournament, walked onto the immaculate center court as No. 1 seed to open the tournament. Nastase, who had "other things on my mind" all last week, polished off Hans Joachim Plotz of West Germany, 6-3, 7-5, 6-2. —Bjorn Borg of Sweden, making his first big-time appearance here at only 17, who walked on the center court to face India's veteran Premjit Lall and served four straight aces. Borg, sixth seeded after the ATP pullout, won in three sets, but only after an agonizing 20-18 tiebreaker in the third. The score was 6-3, 6-4, 9-8. Jimmy Connors of Bellville, Ill., seeded fifth and the top-ranking American in the tournament, ran out a powerful 6-4, 6-3, 6-4 win over strong British southpaw Mark Farrell. Roger Taylor of Britain, the No. 3 seed, and all the other seeded men won without sensation. But the crowd was pleased, and it was plentiful. Ticket touts forlornly peddling "center court seats, gov. real cheap" outside the grounds Monday should find business better today since Monday's crowds found Wimbledon is as Wimbledon always was. "I think we'll make a profit," a club official grinned.

All-Star Format On Agenda

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The format of the annual All-Star game, a new formula for breaking ties for playoff position and the use of drugs in athletics are on the agenda of the three-day meeting of the National Basketball Association Board of Governors which opens Wednesday at the Beverly Hills Hotel. The Competition Committee, chaired by Arnold "Red" Auerbach of the Boston Celtics, will discuss several alterations in the makeup of the squads for the All-Star game, the 1974 version of which will be played at Seattle in January. To be considered are: The possibility of reducing the squads from 14 to 12 players to allow each man more playing time; elimination of the present requirement that each team must be represented; and elimination of the rule that no team may be represented by more than three players. That committee will also deal with the matter of breaking ties for playoff position. Commissioner Walter Kennedy will report on meetings he's had with Rep. Harley Staggers D-W. Va., chairman of the Special Subcommittee on Investigations of the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce concerning athletes use of drugs. Kennedy said a committee of NBA team doctors and physicians, chaired by Dr. Robert Kerlan of the Los Angeles Lakers, met with representatives of the Players Association in Phoenix last month and their findings will be discussed fully. But Kennedy said "no definitive action will be taken at this meeting." The governors are slated to meet again in August or September and are expected to act on the issue at that time. Merger Committee Chairman Herman Sarkowsky of the Portland Trail Blazers is to brief the governors and Commissioner Kennedy on the results of his meeting Tuesday with senators handling a bill in Congress dealing with a proposed NBA-ABA merger. The bill was introduced by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind.

Pete Rozelle Will Unfold His Plan

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the National Football League, is expected to unveil his plan for the controlled-use of drugs to the 26 NFL owners today as a two-day owners' meeting swings into action. The NFL Players Association, meeting in Chicago last weekend, has already voted to reject any plan of the commissioner's which would call for a mandatory urinalysis as part of the deterrent. But it was believed that Rozelle might move to establish an NFL medical director who would make it mandatory for all teams to report any drugs they maintain and the reasons for their use. Rozelle is expected to over the plan thoroughly with the owners today before making any announcement. Other topics on the agenda for the two-day meetings are the sale of the New Orleans Saints and the possibility of further expansion. The league has not yet approved the sale of the Saints, who were sold for a record $20 million to a Chicago syndicate headed by sports entrepreneur Potter Palmer. Palmer is also part-owner of the Harlem Globetrotters.

Walter Alston: Methuselah of managers

By IRA BERKOW

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Walter Alston, legs crossed, leathery face creased, leisurely smoking a cigarette, sat recently in the Dodgers' dug-out where he has sat for the last 20 years, incredibly, imperturbably. He came out of nowhere — well, if you consider Darrtown, Ohio (pop. scarce), nowhere — to manage in Brooklyn, which in baseball in 1954, was indeed somewhere. Virtually every year for about the next decade or so, after, Alston was supposed to be fired. Every year he wasn't.

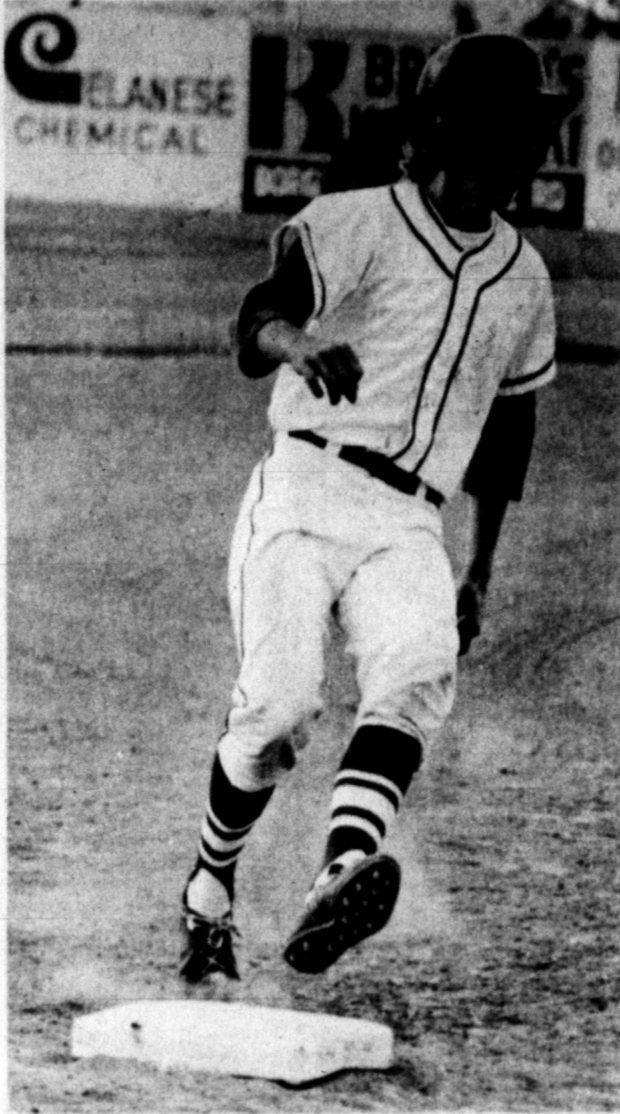

The Dodgers are now into their third major change-over in personnel in the last 20 years. First there was the team of Robinson, Erskine, Hodges, Newcombe, Campanella. Then came the Koufax, Drysdale, Roseboro, Gilliam years. Now there is Cey and Ferguson and Buckner and others who are only beginning to dent the headlines. They are fighting the Giants for top spot in the National League West. Alston sits and works his quiet wonders. He has managed four World Champions and six pennant winners. In between he has also masterminded two seventh-place finishes and one eighth-place.

He now is third on the all-time list for having managed one team most consecutive years. Only Connie Mack (50 years) and John McGraw (31) are ahead of him; but they had a small edge: they owned their ball clubs. Alston is at the mercy of Walter O'Malley, chairman of the board of the Dodgers. Every year Alston gets a one-year contract, just one year. In a profession that is notorious for its insecurity, in which managers rarely last more than three seasons with one club, signing a one year contract is a funeral thing to do.

Walter Alston has managed the Dodgers, Brooklyn and Los Angeles varieties, for 20 years without showing too many signs of wear and tear. The photographs are, from left, from 1954, 1963 and this year. Alston says now that none of this bothered him too terrifically. "I've always felt that if they don't want me, then I don't want to be here." Although there have been mentions in news reports that he might retire, he gives no hint of this. He says that managing keeps him young, at 61. An acquaintance walked by in the dugout. "The team gets younger but the manager gets older," the man said to Alston, lamely being light. "Not hardly," said Alston. He said later that he enjoys working with young ballplayers and that he'd just as soon everybody left him alone so he could do that. The young ballplayers he has now, he acknowledges, "excited" a lot of people this spring. "But actually when you look at it, we just had one very good month," he said. "Who expected Lopes to hit .350. Crawford to be batting .400. Cey to be way over .300. Ferguson to lead the league in RBIs?" "We always expect our pitching to be good, and our defense has been better than we thought. But," now he

Al Bumbry Gets 5 Hits For Baltimore

By United Press International Al Bumbry thinks he is a .330 hitter and the fastest runner in baseball. He showed both his skills Monday night when he had five hits, including a triple and four singles, and scored the winning run after beating out a hit to shortstop Tim Johnson as the Orioles defeated the Milwaukee Brewers, 4-3. "First," said Bumbry, "I think I can hit .330 in the majors. And, second, infielders can't hesitate like Johnson was all night before making his run when I'm running. They can do it on other players but they can't do it on me."

The Cleveland Indians defeated the New York Yankees, 4-2; the California Angels beat the Kansas City Royals, 5-2; the Boston Red Sox shaded the Detroit Tigers, 2-1; the Chicago White Sox topped the Minnesota Twins, 3-2; and the Texas Rangers downed the Oakland

A's, 4-2, in other American League games. National League scores were Pittsburgh over Montreal, 8-6 and 3-1; Chicago 3 New York 2; Philadelphia 7 St. Louis 6; Houston 13 Cincinnati 2; and Los Angeles 3 San Diego 2. Bumbry beat out a single to shortstop Johnson as the Orioles defeated the Milwaukee Brewers, 4-3. Coggins' sacrifice, advanced to third on a wild pitch by Frank Linzy and scored on Willie Davis' infield out. Mike Cuellar went the full 12 innings for the Orioles, allowing nine hits and striking out nine for his fourth win. The Indians snapped the Yankees' eight-game winning streak when Chris Chambliss drove in two runs with a bases-filled single and Gaylord Perry pitched a nine-hitter for his eighth win. Chambliss delivered the key hit off Mel Stottlemyre in the sixth inning. Thurman Munson homered for the Yankees in the ninth. Nolan Ryan hurled a five-hitter and struck out nine to raise his record to 9-8 for the Angels. Vada Pinson supported Ryan's pitching with a triple and a single which drove in three runs and handed Kansas City's Ken Wright his second defeat. Carlton Fisk homered over the left field wall in Fenway Park at precisely the moment when a taped recording of an interview with him was explaining why it was difficult to hit in the Boston park, to give the Red Sox their win over the Tigers in

Larry Lewis Will Be Guest

HOUSTON (UPI) — Larry Lewis, who celebrated his 106th birthday Monday, will be a special guest at the Houston Astros' super senior citizen night July 16, it was announced today. Lewis of San Francisco runs 6.7 miles daily and has been clocked in 37 minutes for the distance. He joined the P. T. Bernum Circus in 1882 at the age of 15 as an aerialist and has traveled around the world 14 times as an entertainer. His diet includes only 12 ounces of meat a week, organically grown vegetables and three gallons of water daily.

TAGGING THE BASE — Craig Samples of Ford's Body Shop goes into third in Babe Ruth playoff action last night at Optimist Park. Craig later scored Ford's first run as his team beat Ideal, 3-0. Ford's will meet First National Bank to determine who will represent the league in post-season play.

Astros, Reds Have Chance

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Cincinnati Reds and the Houston Astros have the best chance of overtaking the streaking Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League West but only if the Dodgers don't have more than an eight game lead by the All-Star game, according to Reds manager Sparky Anderson. Anderson said the San Francisco Giants won't be a threat unless their pitching comes around. In a talk Tuesday to the Houston Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association, Anderson said the Dodgers' strength is in their pitching — both starters and in the bullpen — and their speed. "The Dodgers have something the rest of us don't have — five starters and a fine bullpen," Anderson said. "When the doubleheaders start piling up in the last two months, that's what you need. The teams that have a fourman rotation are going to have more trouble."

"They have the best speed in the league, them and the Giants. The Dodgers have the best explosive speed. They got six men who can fly. They got double speed. (Dave) Lopes is going all the time."

Golf Tips from the Old Masters

By The Editors of Golf Digest

RE-GRIPPING IS COSTLIEST ERROR IN GOLF SWING

The most costly error in the golf swing is probably re-gripping the club on the downswing. It is also one of the hardest things for a golfer to recognize because it is largely an instinctive act. Julius Boros offers this advice for golfers who have this problem: "This is usually caused by letting the grip slip with the left hand as it nears the top of the swing. When this happens, the golfer must re-grip early in the downswing. This forces the wrists to uncork early, which forces the club to the outside. This results in a loss of clubhead speed and a glancing blow at the ball. "To cure this, swing more slowly as you reach the top of the swing. This will enable you to make a freer turn and give you time to concentrate on keeping your left hand grip firm as the swing changes direction," Boros advises.

"I think the Dodgers will run into some trouble. But if somebody doesn't do something to them soon and they go into the All-Star game with a seven or eight game lead, then the rest of us are going to be in trouble."

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Newsmen and Professors

Newspapermen are not exactly in the egghead class with college professors, but the two callings to have a couple of things in common.

Both vocations are dominated by liberal thinkers.

Both are intensely concerned about their respective freedom to operate.

And therein lies a conflict. For it is precisely the liberal tenets of each that will eventually devour the freedom of both.

Right now, members of both professions are honestly trying to resolve the freedom crisis that lies ahead.

Professors are saying to one another, "We have a right to teach what we want to. We have a right to pursue the truth wherever it leads. But we don't know how to deal with the type of professor who introduces perverted and obscene ideas into the classroom. Perversion and obscenity are realities, too. Yet if we don't tone the odd types down, if we can't mute the public image that they create for all of us, then we are likely to lose our appropriation."

Newspaper people, generally speaking, are not quite that clear sighted. They sense the strong arm of government coming down upon them and they are crying out to other segments of society. "When the news media are suppressed, your right to know will be gone. Rise up for freedom and press and freedom of speech!" Yet some of these same newspapers, in the very same pages that they proclaim their own freedom, will call for government suppression of other elements of the community.

A notorious example of this "hurray for me to hell with you" posture is the newspaper that campaigns continually for the suppression of billboards. But few newspapers escape guilt along this line. How often have you read a newspaper article or editorial that gives backing for some additional government regulation upon enterprises other than themselves? The demand for political intervention may come on the pretext of ecology or energy conservation, but the net effect — if implemented — is less freedom for the other guy. Precious good that possession of a press will do for newspaper owners if other businesses are so choked with regulations that they cannot afford to advertise!

No newspaper worth reading will submit to the dictates of an advertiser. But no newspaper will long be financially sound unless advertisers are free to transact business. Both the press and other types of enterprises require freedom. But much of the press operates as though other enterprises don't even exist.

The same principle that should awaken newsmen to the concerns of businessmen generally can help college professors as they draw up guidelines to curb destructive colleagues without violating their academic prerogative. Namely, the teaching profession can give some attention to the right of the student. The most direct way we can think of is to abandon those indirect coercions that virtually force a student into a class and, secondly, phase faculty pay toward a market-place basis so that no student is forced to buy something that he doesn't want.

In short, liberalism — whether in the press or on the campus — starts out with the idea that some people need help. From there it moves to the proposition that the government should compel that help be given. And the inevitable result is government compulsion, the same compulsion that liberals on the campus and liberals in the press resent when it comes down on them. When they plant weeds in their neighbor's field, they should understand that the seeds will blow into their own. We don't ask anybody to be less selfish, we do point out the benefits of considering one's own long-term self-interest.

Maneuvering the Public

We will all be riding bicycles to work by 1977 if the nuts in the Federal Environmental Protection Agency achieve their professed objective.

Correction: We may not have any job to ride to, nor any bicycle to pedal in the near future. For the EPA has proposed measures that could bring on a ban on all cars in the street within four years, according to a UPI report.

Having observed bureaucracy in action for several decades we believe the EPA announcement was made deliberately extreme in order to provoke some compromise that would be less than a total ban but which would be restrictive of free travel. The net effect would be a substantial loss of the individual's freedom and a substantial increase of the bureaucracy's power.

By such tactics does the bureaucracy together with its outside agitators maneuver people into situations in which they believe that a decision has to be made, a decision that is adverse in greater or lesser degree to their own interest.

It's a heads, I win; tails, you lose, type of strategy. And it works wonderfully well.

Good is not good, where better is expected.

Blacks' Help Needed In Crime Fight

By DON OAKLEY
NEA Staff Writer

Georgia legislator Julian Bond is emerging as something like a black Ralph Nader.

Not only do both men share youth, looks, brains and national prominence as courageous reformers, but both are given to making slightly outrageous statements.

Addressing students at Cuyahoga Community College in Cleveland the other day, Bond said that while blacks can point to many improved conditions in America, there are as many others that are worse.

"We seem to be climbing a molasses mountain dressed in snowshoes while the rest of the country rides an easy ski lift to the top," he said.

Bond has climbed rather high on that mountain through his own efforts, having had to go to court to win the right to sit in the Georgia House of Representatives as a duly elected member. But at a time when many poverty-level white Americans would be glad just to have a serviceable pair of snowshoes, Bond is no longer exceptional.

In his field of politics, Los Angeles councilman Tom Bradley, a black, won a landslide victory over incumbent Sam Yorty, a white, as mayor of that predominantly white city. It was Bradley's second try against Yorty.

Also in California, in Oakland, two black candidates were in the running this year for the mayor's seat against two whites, including the white incumbent. In the run-off, Black Panther, Bobby Seal lost to Mayor John H. Reading by almost a 2-1 margin, but what is significant is not that he lost but that he did so in a city close to 50 per cent black.

In Camden, N.J., another city close to half black, five black candidates and one Puerto Rican ran for mayor and were overwhelmed by the white Democratic candidate, one of three whites in the race.

These examples suggest that in politics, at least, if whites are riding "an easy ski lift to the top," a lot of minority people must be pulling for them. Conversely, white losers like Sam Yorty may have cause to mutter about sliding down a "molasses mountain."

On another subject that affects all Americans but blacks especially, the president of the St. Louis Board of Police Commissioners recently made some pertinent and much-needed comments.

"The crime reports I see from day to day show that 75 per cent of crimes in St. Louis are committed by black criminals and that 80 per cent of their victims are also black," said Theodore D. McNeal.

While agreeing that there is some truth to the charge that racism is one of the factors in the increase in crime, McNeal added that "I am convinced that there are not and never will be enough police to reduce and control crime in our cities until and unless the black community becomes actually and actively involved in the overall war against crime."

"We cannot curb crime as long as large numbers of black citizens act as if they were deaf, dumb and blind when a crime is committed in their presence."

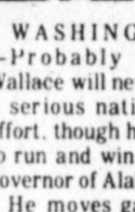

In other words, if white America were to disappear overnight, that "molasses mountain" of Julian Bond's would still be there and black Americans would still have the problem of climbing it.

BRUCE BLOSSAT George Wallace 'out' nationally

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Probably Gov. George Wallace will never again mount a serious national campaign effort, though he is a strong bet to run and win re-election as governor of Alabama in 1974.

He moves gamely about the country from time to time since a would-be assassin's bullets struck him 13 months ago, paralyzing him from the waist down and leaving him with several other body wounds.

For awhile he can get the adrenalin up for a nationally televised panel show or a big press conference, as he did at the national governors conference in early June at Lake Tahoe. But the limits upon him are severe.

In more casual conversation, his voice consistently betrays pain. He keeps remarkable command of himself while in any sort of public view, but he tires fairly quickly. His old zestful jousting with newsmen, which they enjoyed as much as he, is wholly absent. Those who have covered governorship and presidential campaigns with him for years sadly conclude that he just doesn't have it in him.

U.N. Finger Points In Wrong Direction

There is a steady stream of orchestrated propaganda coming out of the Communist-Socialist controlled United Nations excoriating South Africa and Rhodesia. A close look discloses that things aren't all as bad as the U.N. claims.

For example, there are many thousands of blacks from backward African nations who have migrated to South Africa and Rhodesia for improved pay and living conditions. Is it possible that all this uproar by the ineffective U.N. is only a smoke screen so the Russians can grab the chrome, gold, uranium and diamond mines of South Africa and Rhodesia? Let's investigate further!

Until the U.N. does something about condemning the cruel rulers of the slave nations Russia and China for not granting Human Rights and Civil Rights to their, captive enslaved people, the U.N.'s actions regarding South Africa and Rhodesia are suspect.

Your Health

Detection of Cancer Easier

Dear Dr. Lamb — Thank you so much for writing about the Gravlee-Jet Washer technique in detecting cancer in women. I think this test should be made as frequent as the Pap smear for cervical cancer. Many women are confused about the Pap smear and feel that when they have it done, and the test is negative, that they are safe from cancer. They don't understand that the Pap smear is commonly done for cancer of the cervix and cannot detect anything about what's going on inside the womb.

My trouble started about a year ago with bleeding between periods and I fitted the description you gave of the high risk candidate. I was over 40 and still menstruating past 45 and also childless. Some of my friends, when I told them about bleeding between periods, said it was just the change and to forget it, but I went to my gynecologist as soon as I could for an appointment. He did a Pap smear and it was negative, and then he put me in the hospital for a D & C. That too was negative, and the bleeding stopped for almost a year.

Then it started again, and once more I had a Pap smear which was also negative, but my doctor told me that this time instead of doing a D & C he was going to do the Gravlee-Jet Washer test in his office. This is the first time I'd ever heard of it. It was done in the office at a fraction of the expense of the D & C. There was no pain killer or anesthetic used, and I went right home and was able to go about my routine work the same day. There is some pain to the test, but it isn't bad at all.

I had almost forgotten about the whole affair until my doctor called two days later to say that the test showed pre-cancer cells high in the lining of the womb and recommended a total hysterectomy. One week later I entered the hospital and had the surgery. There were no other signs of cancer. How different the outcome of this could have been, first, if I had not gone at once to my doctor, thinking it was the change of life or some problem of that sort, and second if my doctor hadn't done the Gravlee-Jet Washer test. I am sure it saved my life since the cells were too high for them to have ever been detected with the routine Pap smear test.

Let me urge any woman who has any unusual bleeding, to run, don't walk, to her doctor. Most of the time the tests are negative but don't wait, there's too much at stake. Going to the doctor at the first sign of trouble and the Gravlee-Jet Washer could save her life, like it did mine.

Dear Reader — Thank you for your letter of your personal experience. The Pap smear has been a wonderful addition to the early detection and elimination of cervical cancer. It has markedly decreased the death rate from cervical cancer in the United States.

Until the Gravlee-Jet Washer came along it was almost impossible to detect cancers inside the womb early, without doing the dilatation and curettage (D & C) that you spoke of, and it is a hospital procedure.

Unwanted Watergate Issue; New Life for OEO and CAA

By Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — Ironically, one big winner in the clanging Watergate imbroglio is apparently going to be the most scandal-smeared and bedraggled agency in the federal government — the melodorous Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) and its even more infamous Community Action Agencies (CAA).

Stated by the White House to be shut down June 30, end of this fiscal year, it looks as if OEO and CAA will get a further lease on life — at least temporarily.

Democratic congressional leaders, under insistent pressure by a high-powered lobby, financed by government-paid OEO and CAA employes, are aiming to circumvent the administration's scuttling plans and vote more money for OEO and CAA.

That will be attempted in the form of a "continuing resolution" which would fund the two deeply besmirched agencies at the same level as the current fiscal year.

That's $700 million for OEO; $328 million for Community Action.

Since being initiated by President Johnson in 1964, the widely controversial and befouled so-called "anti-poverty program" has cost taxpayers more than $16 billion.

End of this gross waste and notorious misadministration appeared in sight until ensnared by three developments:

(1) Intense White House absorption in Watergate, and installation of an entirely new top staff largely unfamiliar with the OEO and CAA problems and the decision to junk them. As a result of this executive immobilization, the once-determined drive against them has virtually subsided.

OEO administrator Howard Phillips, forcefully leading the housecleaning, doesn't know whether he is coming or going.

(2) Decision by Federal District Judge William B. Jones barring dismantling of OEO on the ground only Congress has that authority. This edict struck directly at Phillips' power to close 10 regional OEO offices and shift programs to other agencies.

(3) Immediate effect of this sweeping judicial decree was threefold: tied Phillips' crusading hands, immeasurably bolstered the impact and operations of the OEO and CAA lobby, and prompted Democratic congressional leaders to decide to provide more hundreds of millions of dollars for OEO and CAA by parliamentary device of a "continuing resolution."

Such a measure is subject to presidential veto. Whether President Nixon will wield that ax under prevailing circumstances, nobody knows.

Heavily beleaguered by Watergate, it's a very conjunctural question.

Self-Serving Lobby
Spearheading the OEO-CAA lobby is a former congressman — William (Bill) Anderson, D-Tenn., who served four terms.

He is being paid $27,669 in monthly installments of $6,800.

The money is being raised by the Coalition for the War on Poverty, organized by the national council of OEO locals and state CAA directors' associations. In turn, they are putting the bite on OEO and CAA employes.

That is bluntly charged by Rep. LaMar Baker, R-Tenn., decorated World War II Air veteran.

He asserts these government-paid employes are being pressured to contribute to this lobby at the rate of "$3 per grade spread over three pay periods or $1 per grade per pay period" on the ground that this is necessary to save their jobs.

As evidence, the legislator cites the following from a leaflet soliciting these contributions:

"This is not too much to ask, considering that you will be the beneficiary and that every pay check you get from OEO from now on is due to the lawsuit filed by your union and supported financially by you. If you are willing to reap the rewards, you should be willing to pay the price. We are working to insure that you have a job for next year. Three dollars per grade is a small price to pay for that assurance."

As Baker indignantly points out, "This 'OEO Defense Fund' more accurately should be called a 'save our jobs fund.'"

"This is a plain case of in-house lobbying," says Baker, "to perpetuate a program not so much for the beneficiaries as for the employes. Their jobs are more important than delivering services and assistance to the disadvantaged. This confirms a widespread complaint against this program. So much is spent on personnel and administration that precious little is left for those who need help."

More Smelly Scandals

Amazing aspect of this fantastic situation is that the reeking record of OEO and CAA continues to steadily expand and putrify.

It literally gorges fouler by the day.

Dismally illustrative are the following cited by authoritative members of Congress:

Rep. Earl Landgrebe, R-Ind., member of the Education and Labor Committee which has jurisdiction over these programs, who charges flatly that 85 per cent of Community Action funds go for salaries and overhead. Also, that since establishment of CAA in 1965, it has cost taxpayers $10.8 billion.

Graphically revealing how some of that money was spent, he pointed to the record of the CAA in Oakland, Calif., which got $14 million in a two-year period, 1970-71, which was used to hire 190 employes, spend $1,000 for radio advertising, $3,000 to organize a so-called citizens' committee in a local election, $15,000 for a self-serving brochure, $10,000 for a movie, and when finally notified it was being junked, went on a "spending spree" during which $635,000 was dissipated.

"When the executive director was asked to explain what became of that $635,000," says Landgrebe, "he declared the agency had been defunded and he did not have the staff to check on it, so the hell with it. And there the matter rests."

Rep. Steven Symms, R-Idaho, who cited a number of instances of embezzlement and fraud, among them a Kentucky OEO official who embezzled $18,168, a Boise, Idaho, CAA bookkeeper who got away with checks totaling $1,450 more than her salary as well as cashing other OEO checks not made out to her, and the Wichita, Kan., CAA which allocated $7,000 for "summer projects" of which $3,500 was paid the owner of an auto body shop, and another $1,000 went as a kickback to the head of the program.

Rep. C.W. Bill Young, R-Fla., member of the Armed Services Committee and Army veteran, who pointed out the following — the Salt Lake City, Utah, CAA, which hired as an "accounting supervisor" as a prison parolee subsequently charged with grand larceny while still an employe of the program, an official of the greater Wilmington, Del., CAA, in whose home police found three carbines, several handguns, maces and hundreds of rounds of ammunition. A "summer youth worker" of the same agency was arrested for carrying a revolver, and police found a large cache of guns and ammunition in his room.

Also two brothers on the payroll of the Richmond, Va., CAA who went into the "wholesale business" and were tried and convicted of shipping stolen firearms. They appealed and "during the entire period of their arrest, trial, conviction and appeal, these men remained on the CAA payroll."

Rep. H.R. Gross, R-Iowa, leading economy crusader and long-time critic of the anti-poverty program, who cited the following astounding case of downright swindling.

"In Chicago, the director and board of directors of an OEO-financed program, set up to allegedly help minority medical students, decided to take a trip to the People's Republic of China. Since the trip was supposed to be private, the director billed OEO $3,270 for a conference in Los Angeles. The money was actually used for airline tickets to California as the first stage of the trip to China. A total of $1,050 in telephone bills was run up on calls to China and from Honolulu in connection with this junket.

"Finally, the director deposited $210,000 in OEO funds in a Chicago bank on the excuse he wanted to give business to a deserving minority bank. The bank is not minority owned, and does not normally make loans to minority or other students. Perhaps it is simply coincidence that no checks have been written on this account, and the bank has made two unsecured loans to the director since the account was opened."

This account of fraud, corruption, mismanagement, embezzlement, conflict of interest, waste and various other misdeeds and outrages could go on and on and on.

The infamous record encompasses every state and hundreds of communities. It's the most pervasive and odorous characteristic of OEO and CAA.

"Force is of brutes, but honor is of man."

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

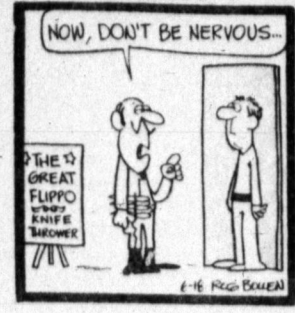

Dog days is a name given to the hottest period of summer, approximately July 3 to August 11. The World Almanac says the name is derived from ancient times when observers in the Mediterranean countries reckoned the hottest season of the year from 20 days before to 20 days after the conjunction of Sirius, the Dog Star, and the sun.

FUNNY BUSINESS

By Roger Bollen

ASKED WRONG GUY

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 17-year-old boy asked a man wearing Bermuda shorts to hold open a fence for him so he could steal one of several watchdogs at a car lot, police said.

Officers said the youth, who had made friends with five German shepherds on duty, dragged out a caged Siberian huskie and walked off. He was soon arrested, however. The man in the shorts was a plainclothes cop.

HE'S IMPOLITE TOO

BRIGHTON, England (UPI) — When bricklayer Stephen Harisch's neighbors played their record player too loud, he knocked on their door, politely said "good evening," then smashed the offending machine.

Harisch told the judge his neighbors were impolite to play the phonograph so loudly. The judge said he was impolite for smashing it and fined him $40.

PHILOSOPHICAL ADVICE
BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Bored? Try fleas.

That's the advice of philosopher Andrew Bowman, who gave up teaching for the wilds of nature near Carmel, Calif.

He told a meeting of physicians and health professionals at the University of California the main reason for boredom is America is that the nation is too comfortable.

He said the bored should "get a harder mattress, turn down the thermostat a bit. Boredom will vanish, I think, whenever the conditions of daily life become strenuous enough—cold enough, uncomfortable enough, perhaps even flea-bitten enough

The Lighter Side

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When former White House counsel John Dean III testifies at the Watergate hearings this week, perhaps he will explain something that has me mildly apprehensive.

Published versions of secret testimony recently given by Dean have him intimating that the Nixon administration last year was considering some sort of post-election reprisal against critical newsmen.

I hope that in his public testimony Dean will make clear what measures may have been contemplated.

We know that some reporters have had their telephones

Charges Filed Against POWs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Navy said Monday it had received misconduct charges filed by a former POW against two of the highest-ranking prisoners of war released by North Vietnam.

The charges were mailed to the Navy secretary's office last week by Rear Adm. James B. Stockdale, 49, of Coronado, Calif. They arrived at the Pentagon Monday.

"The charges have been received and the people charged now have to be notified," said a spokesman for Navy Secretary John Warner.

He refused to provide any more information until notification had been made.

Defense Department sources reported Friday, however, that the men charged were Marine Lt. Col. Edison Wainwright Miller, 41, of Tustin, Calif. and Navy Capt. Walter E. Wilber, 43, of Columbia Cross Roads, Pa.

Wilber and Miller were fighter pilots held by the North Vietnamese with Stockdale in the Hanoi Hilton prison camp.

Both men charged held antiwar views in prison, and Wilber has acknowledged making antiwar statements to the North Vietnamese without being tortured.

Sources said before the charges against the two men are made public, they will have to be examined to determine whether they are in legally acceptable form.

tapped and some have been clapped in the hoosegoin' in connection with news-gathering activities.

But these are mild forms of harassment compared to press intimidation in certain other countries. For example, Israel.

According to recent dispatches from Tel Aviv, foreign correspondents covering the Israeli army are being required to pass physical fitness tests.

Reporters, it was explained, tend to be short of breath, overweight and incapacitated by hangovers.

Israeli commanders didn't want to take a chance on being delayed by red-faced, hard-puffing journalists who were unable to keep up with the troops.

So press accreditation now depends on a reporter being in reasonably good physical condition.

As a press card-carrying member of the local corps of correspondents, I find this sort of restriction on press freedom reprehensible.

I like to think "it can't happen here"—that no U.S. President would tolerate such abuse of the First Amendment.

But the potential for punitive retaliation against the press is so great, I'll feel better if I hear Dean say the White House had something else in mind.

Suppose, for example, that Press Secretary Ron Ziegler suddenly announced that reporters attending a presidential news conference would be compelled to do 25 push-ups.

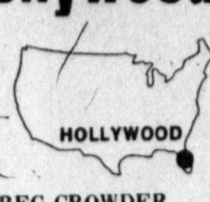

The blood drains from my face just thinking of my colleagues in the White House press room meeting with such a cruel fate.

In my mind I can hear their piteous moans as they struggle to lift their prostrate bodies from the floor. The imagined wheezes, grunts, gasps and gurgles of their exertions sear the brain and wrench the heart.

Congress presently is considering legislation that would give newsmen immunity from having to reveal their sources to courts and government agencies.

I pray it would never be needed, but just to be on the safe side I would like to see a law granting us immunity from exercise as well.

Hollywood: Local problems can't be ignored

By REG CROWDER

A balding man sipped his drink and peered out the window of McGowan's Lounge at the lights of an oil barge passing in the darkened Atlantic.

Some middle-aged couples at a corner table argued the merits of Lee Marvin as an actor, in voices louder than they must have realized.

Just a few lights burned in the highrise condominiums to the south, silent testimony that the winter season was over.

It is a curious place, this strip of ocean front along the eastern edge of what is either Greater Hollywood or South Broward County, depending upon whose chamber of commerce is talking.

Reg Crowder is a reporter for the Hollywood Sun-Tattler.

Hollywood, Florida (pop. 106,873), lies midway between Fort Lauderdale and Miami on Florida's Gold Coast. It is both a resort and residential city with a deepwater harbor and facilities for golf, fishing and swimming.

It is a place where owners of $60,000 condominium units don't know what city they're in. A few think it's Miami Beach.

The largest contingent is from New York state and it brings its business worries, political gossip and hometown newspapers along with its sport shirts and fishing gear. Studies show the typical metamorphosis is from tourist, to winter visitor to retiree.

The change in state of mind, interests and concerns is even more gradual than the physical relocation.

The refugees from the north become incorporated in the local scene by local problems.

When the roof on the multimillion-dollar condominium springs a leak, the parking lot floods and the promised marina never gets built, it is quickly discovered that local officials are the folks to see.

The common problems of water pollution, trash pickup, traffic and crime are shared with the more numerous locals. And the invisible barrier slowly dissolves.

(Second in a series)

The cost of food seems to have hit those away from the beach more, although not exclusively. The beef boycott drew enough housewife support to form rival factions among boycotters.

When a congressional committee held hearings in Miami on the state's environmental problems, area activists went down to roast federal agencies for being lax in their enforcement of environmental laws.

The Watergate hearings are received in much the same way as the TV soap operas they briefly replaced. "Did ya hear what Nixon did?" an elderly man chuckles to a buddy at the donut shop.

Local problems get first place because they can't be ignored. National problems often can't be separated, though, as with inflation. At a time when big government seems more isolated than ever citizens appear to be discovering that they can change the direction of the planning and zoning board.
