Mainly About People

The Pampa branch of the American Association of University Women will meet at 7:30 p.m. today in the City Club Room. The program will be a film on cancer. Special guest will be Dr. Doris Vendrell, who will answer questions following the showing of the film.

Guests of Mrs. G. D. Holmes, 637 N. Hobart, are her sisters, Mrs. J. M. Jones of Meadow and Mrs. D. M. Walter of Artesia, N. M. The women visited a brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Jones, in Oklahoma City over the week end, and an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bell in Davis, Okla.

A joint meeting of Brownie, Intermediate and Senior Girl Scout leaders will be held at 9:30 a.m. Thursday in Little House. Committee mothers are also asked to attend.

Dog Tag Deadline Is May 1

May 1 is the deadline for the purchase of dog tags in Pampa. Dogs must be vaccinated in order to get a tag, according to Police Chief Jim Conner. Both veterinarians in the city will issue a vaccination tag which must be presented at the city tax assessor's office in the city hall in order to get a license.

Conner pointed out that the warm weather increases the incidence of rabies. Borger recently had a rash of bitings.

"If a dog should happen to bite anyone," Conner said, "don't kill the animal. The animal should be penned up at least 10 days so that any visible signs of the disease may be detected."

Saliva from a contaminated animal is infectious five days prior to any visible signs of rabies. Death of the animal generally follows within nine to 21 days after the symptoms appear, according to Dr. T. J. Worrell.

The disease in individuals is generally ushered in by a feeling of anxiety and mental depression, according to Dr. Worrell, with a sense of dryness and constriction in the throat which makes swallowing difficult. Any slight convulsion as the swallowing of water will cause convulsions. A person's eyes will get red, and the individual will have a staring glare.

Conner said Carl Blue, dog warden, will pick up any stray dogs or those unlicensed after May 1. "Anyone with strays around the house," Conner commented, "if they will call us, we will gladly pick them up."

Tags are one dollar for males and spayed females. For females the license fee is three dollars.

Stone's From Feet

"Do you think this is democracy in action," Pool shouted. "Do you think the action taken here, denying the right to debate, is true democracy in action? Do you think this is true democracy?"

Lindsey, gavel banging, ordered Sergeant-at-Arms Doyle Curington and his assistants to seal the hall, seat-pounding, shouting members.

Ray, Orestis Ford Jr., of Corpus Christi, seeking to make a motion, stayed on his feet.

"I'm going to make this motion," he (Lindsey) throws me in the jail house," he said. Lindsey threatened him.

"I'm elected by my people and I'm going to represent them. Let's adjourn," Lindsey shouted.

Shouting Minority

Who-to-do vote by which the bill was given tentative approval was shouting an instance of a shout-to-do vote.

The bill was read when Lindsey shouted a motion, about 10 minutes after midnight, that the House adjourn until 11 a.m. in honor of Charles McQueen, Austin, a former member of the House from Colorado county, who died Sunday.

they wanted to build a three-story extension of the hospital directly on to the west end and extending west. They are to contact the interested property owners and report back to the commission.

The commission gave a quick verbal okay to Fraser's plan on his new proposed addition. Part of the Fraser holdings lie north of Fairview Cemetery and extend north to the Overton Heights Addition. The remainder is north of 2nd Street, between Duncan and the Perryton highway. It includes some 150 acres.

The proposed zoning of the two additions in the northwest part of the city will be residential except for the line of blocks along Commercial. At first the northernmost block which will be semi-commercial, but they, too, will be semi-commercial.

The commission passed a combination deal on parking meter installation and meter "leave-outs." Twelve new meters will be put in and nine others will be taken out. New meters will go into the area in front of the Crown Theater and in the spaces originally used by city bus line which folded some time ago. Two each will go in each of the bus stops along Cuyler Street and two will be in front of the theater. Meters to be taken out are those at intersections on Cuyler, Foster and Kingsmill which areas — when they contain cars — put out into established parking lanes.

The commission, without its mayor, declined to name a new city tax equalization board. On the tax advisory board, the unofficial body which precedes tax equalization board, have been C. P. Pursley, H. E. Schwartz, A. C. Troop, Gene Lewis and George Scott. The commission next week will probably name three of the men to the tax equalization board.

City Mgr. Fred Brook and Gordon gave a brief explanation of what the proposed Social Security system for city employees is, but the commission declined to take it up without the mayor being present.

Washington's Law Givers Form Sizeable Art Group

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON — UP — What's new in Washington? Bet you didn't know we have some artists in Washington's official family of law-givers, cabinet members and the cousins who make up the ambassador group. The congressional club is holding an art show on May 1 to show what these folks have put on canvas.

The sporting goods people dearly love our leader, Mr. Eisenhower, account of he plays golf. Pros around the Washington area say that people who never sliced or hooked before are doing so now. That means more people are taking lessons, and more people are buying clubs and golf balls and joining clubs and paying green fees.

The other day, a nice old couple from out of town started to get on the subway which runs under the Capitol. The old gent reached in his pocket and wanted to know what the fare was. The operator of the subway said that since the congress was not in session, the ride was "on the house." Fact is, there never is any charge for congressmen, or for visitors either.

Music Is Good For Minds And Bodies

By DELOS SMITH
UP Science Editor

NEW YORK — UP — The Scientists devoted to making and keeping people well agree that music does powerful things to minds and, perhaps, even to bodies. What they haven't figured out as yet is what those powerful things are and how they work.

Music is a medical weapon, all right, just like an aspirin tablet or a tonic. But the trouble with this weapon is that no scientist is given of when to apply it to a given patient or sure that he can control the weapon once he starts using it.

Many medical scientists are trying to figure out what music does and how to use it to help the ill, especially the mentally ill. Dr. Jules H. Masserman, of the Northwestern University medical school, came to this alarming conclusion:

"Playing a song of childhood to the nostalgic or a love refrain to the lovesick can deepen melancholy and precipitate suicide—or perhaps, in extreme cases, justifiable homicide."

On the other hand, a classical experiment with music was that of the Army Medical Services. To an audience of soldier-patients ill with mental depression, the doctors played such music as "Home on the Range," "I Dream of Jeanie with the Light Brown Hair," Debussy's "Clair de Lune," and Schubert's "Ave Maria."

Many of the soldiers wept. After the music ended, many of them were relaxed, and opened up for the benefit of psychiatrists trying to get at the roots of their mental troubles. But there never was any final conclusion on whether the men had been helped permanently.

On the other hand, there is definite evidence that people "go under" in response to anesthetic drugs more readily when soft, relaxing music is audible to their ears.

Music has been used in the clinics of the University of Chicago for seven years, and the doctors are impressed that the doses of anesthetics are much lighter than they used to be.

But another scientist had the funeral march from Chopin's B Flat Minor Piano Sonata played to 19 persons and then asked each one what it meant to him. He got 13 different answers. In another Ballade meant a love scene to one person, a picture of monastery life to a second, and a murder to a third.

And there music as a relaxing and healing weapon for the use of healers must rest until science finds out just what the weapon is and how it should be used in order to get the same results almost every time. The whole subject is currently reviewed in the "Pizer Spectrum" section of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Arkansas Has 3 Train Wrecks

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 18 — UP — At least 42 freight cars were derailed and one person injured in three widely-separated and apparently unrelated railroad accidents in Arkansas Saturday.

The largest involved a Kansas City Southern freight, in which 23 cars were derailed 12 miles north of Texarkana, in southwest Arkansas.

Shortly afterward, 15 cars of a Frisco line freight were tossed into a shallow gully when a wheel cracked, sending the cars hurtling through a small bridge.

Late Saturday, about four cars of a Rock Island lines train were derailed near Camden, in south-central Arkansas. The smallest crackup, it caused the only known injury when T. G. French, 28, was pinned beneath two overturned cars.

Radiators should not be painted with dark or metallic paints. Use light-colored wall paint to get more heat from them.

Shivers Asks Money For Land Probers

AUSTIN — UP — Gov. Allan Shivers Monday called upon the legislature for emergency appropriations to agencies investigating the scandal-ridden veterans land program.

"Such legislation is required in view of the fact that these agencies have undertaken a large amount of work in this connection in addition to their work load," Shivers said.

At the same time, members of the Senate Constitutional Amendments committee approved legislation aimed at continuing the program by means of a new $100 million bond issue.

Sponsored by Moffett

The proposal, sponsored by Sen. George Moffett, of Chillicothe, is similar to one previously approved by a House committee and authored by Rep. T. W. (Buckshot) Lane of Wharton. Both measures provide that two citizens, named by the governor with consent of the Senate, replace the governor and attorney general as ex-officio members of the three-man agency.

The general land commissioner would continue as chairman of the Veterans Land Board.

Before either proposal could take effect, voters would have to approve an amendment to the constitution at the November, 1956, general election.

The governor called for reappropriation to the attorney general's office of $20,000 left as a balance from its appropriation, $20,000 for the state auditors' office, and $10,000 to the internal security division of the Department of Public Safety.

Necessary Appropriations

"It is essential that the legislature make the necessary appropriations to provide for the personnel and expenses to continue this investigation," the governor said in a special message to lawmakers.

Shivers said the amounts requested were "minimum requirements to enable them to fully and completely investigate the veterans land program."

The governor also asked that an additional appropriation of $28,100 a year be made to the Veterans Land Board, to be made available "immediately."

"This money is for the purpose of taking care of necessary expenses arising out of the civil suits which are presently being filed in order to recover the money fraudulently taken from the state," Shivers added.

MAKING A GO OF LIFE

By ROY L. SMITH
THE MIRACLE CALLED MAN
Read Psalm 8; Ezekiel 2:1
Life begins with self-respect. The psalmist has described a very common spiritual experience. As he meditated upon the greatness of God, he was overwhelmed with a profound sense of awe, as happens in the case of any person who gives the matter careful and reverent thought. Then he turned to think about man, and a deep sense of humility came over him, for he was keenly sensitive to the vast difference existing between the Creator and the creature. But as he continued to think, even the greatness of God could not blind him to the fact that man is also magnificent; and as he came to the climax of his song, he exclaimed: "Thou hast made him a little lower than the angels, and hast crowned him with glory and honour."
To make a go of life, then, we must first of all respect ourselves. The individual who cannot maintain a good opinion of himself finds life unbearable. Those things which undermine self-respect corrupt life; those which contribute to self-respect enrich us.
It is precisely at this point that good religion demonstrates its value: it increases the individual's appreciation of life and enlarges his confidence in his ability to cope with it. One of the most heartening things about the Bible is the fact that it assures us that God believes in us. Once any man becomes convinced of that, it is inevitable that his own sense of worth is enlarged. Ezekiel's experience when he was commanded to stand upon his feet like a man is an illustration. God who made man in his own image takes no delight in a creature that grovels and cringes, but in souls who believe in their own dignity and divinity.

Accept my thanks, O God, for the fact that I was created with the capacity for going wrong, for that means that I was also created with the capacity for going right. Because thou art found by such, I am coming to thee with all my heart, Amen.
Consider the spiritual capacities with which you are endowed, and which are shared by no other creatures except other human beings: love of beauty, the instinct to worship, impulses to strive after worthy ideals, loyalty to convictions. Then think.

Rogers Concerned Over Segregation Decision

In his weekly newsletter to the people of the 18th Congressional District, Congressman Walter Rogers spoke of his concern about the recent Supreme Court decision to abolish racial segregation in schools. He said, "In a newsletter sometime ago I pointed out in some detail the reasons why a democratic government did not just happen, but was the result of long and tireless effort and planning in the establishment of basic principles, the violation of which could destroy the very thing sought to be attained. One of the basic principles upon which a democratic government must rest is the separation of powers between the three branches of government, to wit, the legislative, the executive and the judicial. These three branches form the tripod upon which a government by the people must depend in its continued existence. If at any time the people permit two of these legs of the tripod to become joined together, the balance provided by the tripod is lost. Once that balance is lost, the democratic form of government has fallen. This can happen without violence and without the people even realizing the transition that takes place until there has been a complete change. The awakening is then very sad, because it comes in the form of a realization by the people that their voice in governmental affairs, if heard, is not heeded. I call this to your attention because of the alarm with which I view the legal gymnastics of the Supreme Court in the segregation cases now being considered. You will recall that the Supreme Court formerly held that laws providing for separate educational facilities for Negroes and whites were unconstitutional, but withheld any formal declaration in the form of a judgment until arguments could be heard on behalf of a plan of integration to be announced by the Supreme Court. The procedure that has been followed by the Supreme Court in this instance is a classic example of the fusing of two legs of the government tripod and the probability of fusing these two with the third. This would mean that the separation of powers and the independence of the three branches of government became a myth and the Supreme Court stepped in as an all-powerful tribunal. Whether you believe in segregation or integration is not the question. The question is democratic government. If laws under consideration by the Supreme Court were unconstitutional when written, they were unconstitutional when the Supreme Court so declared them, and are for all purposes null and void. I disagree with the Supreme Court as to the constitutionality of these laws, but I do not have the same power of enforcement of these laws as does the Supreme Court. When the Supreme Court stated in effect that these unconstitutional laws will be held in abeyance until a social program could be worked out for integration, in my opinion they committed an act as unconstitutional as they declared the segregation law to be. They invaded the legislafive branch of the government, and if they continue to follow this procedure, must of necessity violate the powers of the executive branch. They also invaded the rights of the states in the same manner. As one southern senator so ably put it, "they discarded their judicial robes and donned the robes of social engineers." This generation will have the choice of whether or not we re-establish a democratic form of government and rededicate ourselves to the basic principles upon which it stands, or capitulate to the demands of those who want something for nothing and who are willing to base their arguments on appeals to the emotions rather than to common sense."

Rogers also seems concerned about the gas hearings which are being carried out in Washington. He said, "The gas hearings continue, and I continue to be more amazed each day at the testimony of groups who have screamed "fire" and "entrapment" from the housetops and condemned federal controls and branded everyone a socialist who didn't agree with them. Many of these groups are testifying that gas should be put under federal control, that solemn contract obligations should be wiped out and the price at which gas is sold should be fixed by the Federal Power Commission. This is advocating centralized government in the worst degree and if such a philosophy was followed, it would be the beginning of the end of states' rights and a new era of centralized federal control of the lives of every individual in this country. In my opinion it is another attempt to take a natural resource away from the Southwest without paying a fair price therefor. As an example, the testimony shows that gas purchased for seven cents per MCF in Texas is being sold today in New York for $2.88 per MCF — over 40 times the price of the gas at the wellhead. Yet the consumers in the metropolitan areas are being told that gas producers in Texas are robbing them. What do you think?"

"Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kendrick of Stratford, and Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Boyd of Dumas are in Washington this week, and we have enjoyed some nice visits with them. Lt. Max Osborn of Pampa also came by the office. He is stationed at Wilmington, Delaware."
