EDITORS NOTE: United Press-Movietone cameraman Al Waldron has come out of Buenos Aires with the first uncensored account of conditions inside Argentina since the revolution.

By AL WALDRON

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay —UP— Argentine Navy leaders aboard battleships and cruisers in the River Platte off Buenos Aires Thursday were reported insisting on the complete elimination of President Juan D. Peron from the Argentine government.

A three-man military council was reported negotiating with the navy men when I left Buenos Aires at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The army men, according to widespread reports, are exercising the inside power in the government and want to keep Peron in and work out a change gradually. Here, I believe, is the first uncensored account of conditions inside Argentina to come out since last week's revolution.

News Withheld
The news of Peron's excommunication by the Roman Catholic Church has not been printed in Buenos Aires nor has it been broadcast over the Argentine radio.

However, many have heard it on the broadcast from Uruguay and the church has been seeing that it was well circulated by word of mouth.

Chief blame for the revolution may be placed on Vice Admiral Benjamin Gargiulo. Gargiulo shot himself with his pistol in the ministry of navy building last Thursday afternoon when the army won out.

If Gargiulo's part were proved, it would pave the way for forgiveness of 800 rebels now being held. In any event, it was not believed they would be shot as could be ordered under the military code.

Mild Panic on Bomb Report
There was mild panic Tuesday afternoon when reports spread all over town that the navy was going to bombard the port zone of Buenos Aires. Offices in that area dismissed help at 4 p.m. because the rumored broadsides were supposed to start at 6 p.m.

However, nothing happened. One of the first steps of the new look in government was to cut out all the big photographs of a smiling Peron doing this or that on almost every page of the official press. The official radio stopped talking about "Eva Peron passing into immortality" at 8:25 p.m. as it has done nightly since her death at that hour three years ago.

When the foreign correspondents noticed the omission they sent long stories about it through the Argentine censorship. The next day one small picture of Peron was ordered printed in each official paper and the reference to Eva's immortality was put back on the air.

That was thought by some to be an indication of the army's desire to keep surface indications unchanged.

Further Pentagon Shakeup Reported

By CHARLES CORDRY
WASHINGTON —UP— Reports of a further shakeup in the Pentagon's civilian high command circulated Thursday following the long-expected resignation of Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens.

These reports, unconfirmed, had it that Deputy Defense Secretary Robert B. Anderson might soon return to private life. Anderson is an Eisenhower Democrat from Texas who served the administration as Navy secretary before succeeding Roger Kyes as Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson's deputy and "alter ego."

President Eisenhower quickly accepted Stevens' resignation "with deep regret" Wednesday. And within an hour chose Defense Department general counsel Wilbur M. Brucker for the top Army post. Brucker, World War I veteran, has long been active in Republican politics and was Michigan governor from 1931 to 1933.

Stevens said in his resignation letter to Mr. Eisenhower that he expected to finish work still outstanding and leave before the end of July. The man who tangled with Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) in last year's televised Senate hearings said he resigned with "real regret."

The change in the Army's top civilian post will come shortly after a change in the chief of staff, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor arrived Thursday from Japan, where he was U.S. Far East commander, and will succeed Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway in the chief of staff post on July 1.

Brucker told reporters he expected an easy transition in Army leadership and praised Taylor by comparing him with Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, supreme commander in Europe.

Support Of Vaccine To Continue

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON —UP— A panel of top polio scientists endorsed a 3 Thursday and recommended that the nationwide inoculation program continue.

By MICHAEL J. O'NEILL
WASHINGTON —UP— Officials indicated Thursday the government will continue its support of the nationwide polio inoculation program despite the plea of three top polio experts that it be halted until Salk shots are made "safer."

The recommendation of the three scientists late Wednesday whipped up new clouds of confusion just as the program seemed headed for clear sailing after two months of uncertainty and stop and go decisions.

But government officials said the Public Health Service is now considering a change in its basic position that vaccine released under rigid new federal standards is safe for public use.

The service has known for some time about the doubts of some experts. But it has felt the "great preponderance" of scientific opinion supports the decision to go ahead with the program.

Support Expected
The size of this support was expected to be revealed Thursday as the House Commerce subcommittee swung into the second round of its unique "round table" hearings on the vaccine's safety and effectiveness.

Fifteen of America's leading polio authorities are serving as an informal advisory panel for the congressmen. A few spoke their mind on the safety issue at an explosive session Wednesday afternoon.

Others Take Same View
Two other scientists — the great Harvard virologist, Dr. John F. Enders, and Dr. William Hammon of the University of Pittsburgh — took the same view.

But Dr. Thomas M. Rivers, chairman of the vaccine advisory committee for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, said it would be tragic to halt inoculations. And Dr. Joseph E. Smedley, Army virologist and one of the government's chief vaccine advisers, declared flatly that he considers the vaccine safe. He recommended that injections continue.

Pinay Pledge Is Answer To Red 'Peace Offensive'

SAN FRANCISCO — UP — French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay answered a Russian "peace offensive" Thursday with a pledge that France will remain a member in good standing of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Pinay gave this pledge in a speech prepared for delivery at the United Nations. His appearance was awaited with eager interest by a world wondering how the Big Four planned to cope with Russia's latest diplomatic maneuver. Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov launched the Russian peace offensive Wednesday on schedule. In a 48-minute speech, he scolded the West for building up arms, establishing military bases in foreign lands and taking other "belligerent" moves.

Molotov Challenges West
He challenged the West to "make the next move" in ending the arms race and urged adoption of Soviet disarmament proposals made in London last month.

Pinay said immediately after hearing Molotov's speech, "I have heard the same speech at least times. It is always the same thing. We are the bad ones and they are the good ones. We want war and Russia wants peace."

Thursday, he was more diplomatic. He said in essence that regional security arrangements, such as NATO, were vitally necessary as a defense against aggression in a world that has not disarmed.

"In the present world, as long as a general and controlled disarmament has not become a reality, genuine security can be ensured only in the framework of regional agreements as provided for in the (UN) charter," he said.

Collective Reaction
"To be efficient, such agreement must include, in times of peace, machinery for military cooperation designed to bring about a collective reaction, should an aggression occur."

He said all collective security arrangements — the League of Nations — failed between 1919 and 1939 because military cooperation was lacking.

Red Korea Air Chief Was Fired
SEOUL —UP— Red North Korea's air force chief lost his job because one of his pilots flew a Russian-built MIG here for a $100,000 reward in 1953, it was learned Thursday.

The Communist replaced him with a Russian citizen.

The United Press learned from highly reliable South Korean air force sources that these facts were revealed to American Intelligence officers by Capt. Lee Woon Young, one of two North Korean pilots who flew to freedom here Tuesday in their Russian-built YAK-18.

The sources said Capt. Lee disclosed that Wang Yun, former head of the north Korean air force, was demoted to major general and vice commander after Noh Keun Suk piloted his MIG to Kimpo Air Base Sept. 21, 1953. (Noh collected $100,000 from the United States as the reward Gen. Mark Clark offered to any Red pilot who delivered a MIG to the United Nations command. The United States wanted the Russian plane for study.)

Lee revealed that the new head of the North Korean air force is Lt. Gen. Han Il Moo, former high-ranking officer in the North Korean navy and a citizen of Soviet Russia.

Fulbright Says Joe Is Further 'Condemned'

By HERBERT FOSTER
WASHINGTON —UP— Sen. J. W. Fulbright (D-Ark.) said Thursday the Senate's overwhelming rejection of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's Big Four resolution was "further confirmation" of its vote last December to condemn McCarthy's conduct.

Fulbright compared the 67-to-23 vote against McCarthy last Dec. 2 with the 77-to-4 margin by which the Senate slapped down his latest foreign policy move Wednesday.

"He's down to four votes," said Fulbright, a perennial McCarthy foe.

The issue which lined the Senate almost solidly against McCarthy was a resolution which would have required the administration to get a promise that the Russians would discuss their satellite nations before President Eisenhower could attend the Big Four meeting in Geneva July 18.

The Senate beat down all attempts by McCarthy and Sen. William E. Jenner (R-Ind.) to make the proposal more palatable, or to withdraw it in the face of certain defeat. Then under unified leadership of both party chieftains, it rejected the McCarthy plan on a roll-call vote.

County Judge Bruce Parker selected the commission yesterday as the last jury cases for the June term were scheduled to be tried today.

Crops Damaged As Storms Hit Northeast Texas Area

By UNITED PRESS
Heavy thunderstorms hit sections of northeast Texas late Wednesday, damaging crops and some buildings in the Paris area and dumping up to an unofficial

3.7 inches of rain in one storm that lasted 40 minutes. More widely scattered thunderstorms were predicted for Thursday.

A severe thunderstorm hit the community of Minter, 19 miles southeast of Paris, late Wednesday afternoon, dumping the unofficial 3.7 inches of rain.

The Minter storm was accompanied by high winds and hail. Cloudy skies are forecast for this afternoon and tonight, according to KFDX weather station but no rainfall is predicted.

High today will be 82, the low tonight at 60, the low this morning was 62. The high yesterday was 92. A total of 1.36 inches of rain has fallen this month. Only a trace was recorded Wednesday.

Considerable damage was inflicted to crops and gardens in the area. Several large trees were uprooted and several buildings were damaged.

Thomas Warns Of 'Hoppers'
Grasshoppers may cause serious damage to crops in Gray County if not controlled, according to County Agent Ralph Thomas.

He pointed out that most of the hoppers are in the fence rows and in pastures surrounding fields, at the present time, but they will be moving in on cultivated crops when grass and weeds begin to get tough. Emphasizing the need to act immediately, Thomas said, "It will take a lot less poison to control them before they get into the crops, so spraying should start as soon as possible."

Thomas said that aldrin applied at the rate of two ounces per acre will give good kills if applied with a boom sprayer. That would be one-half pint of 25 per cent aldrin per acre. Where a hand nozzle is used, mix 1 1/2 pints of 25 per cent aldrin with 100 gallons of water. For small amounts of spray mix one teaspoon of 25 per cent with one gallon of water.

Thomas said where proper ratio of aldrin are used cattle need not be taken of the pastures.

If it comes from a Hardware store, we have it. Lewis Hardware.

blown off and a large barn on the John Brown farm was blown away. Rockston, another community three miles southwest of Paris, received 1.1 inches of rain.

The thunderstorms were along a belt that also dumped two inches of rain at Gainesville and 1.13 inches at Trenton, north of Dallas.

They were caused by an unstable condition — a mixture of hot and cool air. A forecaster at Fort Worth said conditions still were right Thursday for more of the same type of weather.

.37 Inch at Midland
Other rainfall amounts reported during the 24-hour period ending at 6:30 a.m. Thursday included Midland .35 of an inch, College Station .34, Fort Worth .12, Lubbock .06 and Presidio .02.

Big Spring and Wink both reported early morning showers. Overnight temperatures ranged from 55 degrees at Dalhart to 75 at Galveston.

Other lows included Amarillo .60, Lubbock and Midland .61, Houston .67, Abilene, Dallas, Fort Worth, Wichita Falls and Beaumont .68, San Antonio and San Angelo .69, El Paso, Brownsville and Austin .70, Waco .71, Del Rio .72, and Laredo .74.

The forecast through Friday called for "pop" storms throughout the state mainly in the afternoons and at night with little change in temperatures.

Bulganin Asks Surrender Of Formosa

By KENNETH BRODNEY
MOSCOW —UP— Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru called Thursday for the surrender of Formosa to the Chinese Communists and the admission of Communist China to the United Nations.

Nehru then flew to Warsaw after declaring in a farewell statement "part of my heart" remains in Russia.

The two premiers, in a declaration of solidarity issued at the end of Nehru's history-making 15-day visit to Russia, proposed a ban on the manufacture of atomic and hydrogen bombs and an end to experiments with the bombs and called for world disarmament.

They reaffirmed the friendship between the two nations under Nehru's five principles of peaceful co-existence which included non-interference in the internal affairs of other nations and outlined a program of further co-operation between the two nations.

Taylor Promises Study On Size Of Army Needed

WASHINGTON —UP— Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor said Thursday that when he becomes Army chief of staff next month he will make a "very close" study of how big the Army ought to be.

The four-star former U.S. Far East commander will succeed Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway as Army staff chief July 1. He flew here Thursday from the Far East by way of Europe.

He told reporters at the airport that his chief concern will be "the proper role and contribution of the Army to national defense."

Three Cases Delayed In County Court

Three of four jury cases scheduled for county court were continued to the September term this morning. One was settled out of court.

A motion of continuance was sustained by Judge Parker in the Ben Ogden, et al. vs. H. A. Gilliland case when a sickness affidavit was presented by Gilliland's attorney. A physician certified the sickness of Mrs. Gilliland, a witness.

The case of G. S. Witt, et al. vs. Panhandle Lumber Company was continued to the September term because of the illness of Tom Wade's father. Wade is an attorney for the defendant. The motion of continuance was made by Bill Waters of the firm Smith, Teed, Wade, and Waters in the absence of Wade.

The case of the National Cash Register Company vs. L. K. Tomlin was settled out of court.

A plea of privilege was filed by the defendant's attorney in the case of Luther Coleman vs. Earl Edward McKnight. The case will be delayed until a hearing for the plea can be held.

Red Students Menace U.S. Lensman

SINGAPORE —UP— Chinese students from Indonesia threatened National Broadcasting Company correspondent Jim Robinson Thursday when he shot some pictures of them aboard the Dutch vessel Tjiwangi.

"We very nearly had another Gene Symonds case," Robinson told the United Press in relating his experience.

Symonds, United Press manager for southeast Asia, was fatally beaten by mobs while covering recent riots in Singapore.

Robinson said the student leader did not protest when he shot pictures on the upper deck. But when he went down to the lower deck he encountered more students who became hostile immediately.

While many of them screamed at Robinson and his companion, a public relations official, one of the students drew a knife and menaced the correspondent.

Robinson said he could not understand what the knife-wielder was muttering, but he realized the crowd "meant business." He said he left the ship quickly.

Maritime Strike Ends

HOUSTON —UP— The way was cleared for some 300 East and Gulf Coast tankers to return to sea Thursday with the settlement of a six-day strike by the CIO National Maritime Union and three officer unions.

Pickets were thrown up at four refining companies along the Texas Gulf Coast Wednesday before a contract settlement was reached in New York.

Pickets appeared at plants of the Sinclair Refining Co., at near-by LaPorte; the Pan American Refinery Corp., at Texas City; and the Port Arthur plants of Gulf Oil Corp. and the Texas Company.

The last tanker operator to come to terms in New York was the Texas Company. The agreement provides an unemployment benefit plan similar to that agreed to after a brief work stoppage with dry cargo and passenger ship operators.

Solon Predicts Better Farmer, Labor Terms

WASHINGTON -UP- Rep. W. R. Poage (D-Tex.) has predicted "better relations" between farmers and organized labor but denied any deal between the two groups to support each other's legislative programs.

With 15 other Senate and House farm leaders of both parties, Poage met Tuesday with members of the National Association of Television and Radio Farm Directors.

Reps. Carl Albert (D-Okla.) and August H. Andresen (R-Minn.) joined Poage in denying there has been any deal between farm block leaders and organized labor.

CIO spokesmen collaborated with the farm bloc in urging northern "big city" Democrats to back a bill restoring high, rigid price supports on five "basic" crops. The bill passed the House, but no Senate action is expected until early next year.

A broadcaster asked the legislators if farm bloc members were bound in return to support higher minimum wages for labor.

Poage, Albert and Andresen said vigorously there had been no "deal." But Poage added "it is only natural" the result of the farm bloc vote will be better relations with labor and other groups."

Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-SC) urged the broadcasters to help persuade wheat growers to vote in favor of continued government production control in a referendum June 25.

Fifteen of the 16 lawmakers at the meeting, including strong backers of the administration's flexible price support program, raised their hands when asked if they advocated continuing wheat controls. Only Rep. Carl C. King (R-Pa.) said he would advise farmers to drop the production control system.

TEC Lists Jobs Open

Bind Weed Chemical Arrives

A carload of sodium chlorate, vital in the local bind weed control program - all 65,000 pounds of it - arrived at the Santa Fe freight depot this morning. Farmers who have ordered the compound may pick it up Friday from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. and Monday from 8 a. m. to 2 p. m., according to County Agent Ralph Thomas.

Farmers are asked to cooperate with the pick-up schedule so as to keep down railroad demurrage charges. The shipment arrived from the Oldbury Electro-Chemical Co., Niagara Falls, N. Y. The chlorate was ordered by the Gray County Soil Conservation District.

Farmers with purchase orders from the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office pay two cents a pound when picked up at the freight site. The ASC office pays the additional nine cents per pound.

Some 42,000 pounds are for the use of local ranchers and farmers, 13,000 pounds for use on county roads, and 10,000 pounds are for use in Armstrong County.

Thomas said farmers and ranchers may still put in orders for the chlorate. An additional half carload is expected.

Two Chlorate spreaders ordered by the Soil Conservation District arrived here today. Ralph Thomas said both spreaders may be rented from the district Machinery manager Allen Hoover at Mater Machinery at a cost of a dollar a day.

Shivers Signs 34 New Laws

AUSTIN -UP- Gov. Allan Shivers signed into law Thursday 34 bills passed by the 51st Legislature, including one banning payment of unemployment compensation benefits to workers idled by work stoppages, whether in Texas or not.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. George Parkhouse of Dallas, will become effective in September. It has been dubbed the "Ford bill," in reference to a 1949 strike at Ford Motor Co.'s River Rouge plant in Michigan, which idled workers at Dallas where the flow of parts stopped.

Other measures signed by the governor included:

A constitutional amendment calling for extending the scandal-ridden veterans land program, and doubling the amount of bonds under the program to $200 million.

Reducing the number of state officers serving on the Texas Youth Development Council from eight to three.

Setting a legal speed limit for commercial vehicles used as high-way post offices of 55 miles-per-hour in locations other than business or residence districts.

Civil Defense System Set

An efficient system of communications has been set up for use in case of a disaster by Gray County Civil Defense Coordinator Rufe Jordan.

Jordan reported that several portable short-wave radios are available for use if the telephone lines were knocked out in a sudden blow by bomb, flood or wind storm.

Police cars, the Sheriff's department cars, and various "ham" operators have made their cars and radios available when needed.

Jordan also reported that the county court house has been designated as the county field headquarters when a disaster arises. The new National Guard Armory is to be the alternate headquarters for use in the event something happens to the court house.

The group held an organizational meeting recently which saw all the organizations whose cooperation would be needed in the event of disaster present and available for duty.

Telephone committees have been set up to notify such organizations as the Red Cross, Salvation Army, and peace officers, nurses, doctors, "ham" operators, and others most important in any effort to stem the tide of destruction, when it comes.

"We want the people to know what to do in case of disaster," Jordan said. "Pampa is only about eight hours from a Russian jet base and a flood, tornado, or a number of other things could happen without warning. We want to be ready, so I urge everyone who possibly can to be at the next civil defense meeting - July 8 at 8:30 p. m. in the basement of the City Hall."

Nehru And Soviet Russia In Mutual Admiration Pact

By CHARLES M. McCANN
The Soviet Russian government and Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru India have just staged a most interesting diplomatic exhibition.

Reports of Nehru's 15-day visit to the Soviet Union, which ends Thursday, read like the minutes of a meeting of a mutual admiration society.

Nehru found nothing wrong with the workings of the Communist dictatorship or with Russia's foreign policy.

In fact, he said in one speech that Russia must be given the credit for a relaxation in world tension during the last few months. The man who used to complain so bitterly of British oppression during the slave labor camps.

Nor any Conspiracy
He did not see the Kremlin as the center of a vast conspiracy which in Europe has deprived the peoples of nine nations - in addition to Russia itself - of their liberty.

The Russians, in turn, saw Nehru as a great peace maker. Just what the political results of Nehru's visit will be remain to be seen.

Nehru is a "neutralist." Unfortunately, his neutralism tends toward the view that Communist Russia and Communist China are peace-loving, and that the United States and its Allies are imperialists.

If Nehru's neutralism does not include more to the left as the results of his visit to Russia, it will be because he has a high degree of sales resistance. His reception on his arrival in

Bond Petitions Nearing Finish

The circulation of petitions for the bond election for the Highland General Hospital addition is making good headway, according to Paul Crossman, county Chairman of the committee.

Crossman stated that he expects to have enough names turned in by committee workers at the end of this week to call the $300,000 election.

R. L. Edmondson, 1101 Christine, turned in the names of 150 signers Wednesday afternoon.

Situation In Indo-China Worse Since Truce Signed

EDITOR'S NOTE: The situation in French Indo-China is not good. Since the truce was signed in Geneva last July 21, the position of Communist-ruled North Viet Nam has become stronger.

SAIGON, Indo-China —UP—It has been nearly a year since the Geneva cease-fire ended the eight-year-long "dirty war" which France fought and lost in Indo-China.

It will be only another year before, under the Geneva agreement, elections will be held to determine whether the entire state of Viet Nam shall come under Communist rule or shall remain free.

At Geneva, the state of Viet Nam was split at the 17th Parallel of latitude.

The northern part went under the domination of Communist rebel chieftain Ho Chi Minh. The southern half remained free.

Ho Consolidated Rule In the months that have passed since the truce was signed, silent, mysterious, wispy-bearded Ho has consolidated his rule. He has strengthened his army in men and material and stamped out all opposition.

He has sent his agents across the 17th Parallel to intimate to the southern Viet Namese that they will be smart if they vote for him in next year's election. Ho is ready for an election at any time.

But "free" southern Viet Nam is a country divided against itself. The last months have seen only squabbles among conflicting interests, a minor civil war and a steady disintegration of the administrative structure.

Most dangerous threat to the survival of southern Viet Nam is the profound disagreement between France and the United States on what policy to pursue.

Controversy Around Diem Controversy has centered around Premier Ngo Dinh Diem, a conscientious anti-Communist but a stubborn man to whom absentee Emperor Bao Dai gave his job just before the end of the civil war. The Americans have backed Diem to the hilt, believing that his sincere nationalism and honesty make him the best bet for building a strong government. Besides, he was the only good man in sight. The French have opposed him because of his anti-French attitude and because of the narrow basis of the political support he can command. Many of Diem's political enemies are considered friends of France.

With American support, Diem has maintained his position and has gradually extended his control over southern Viet Nam. But he has done it at the cost of continual strife which has left him little time for his main job. That job is to save south Viet Nam from the Communists.

Diem Gains Control Diem first gained control of the French-trained army of 300,000 men by expelling Gen. Nguyen Van Hinh, whom he suspected of plotting against him. Then he turned to political problems.

Many political elements opposed Diem because he is a Roman Catholic and a northerner. Most of his support came from the Catholic regions of the north — which now, under the truce, are under the Reds.

Ranked against Diem were the merchant middle class of Saigon and three powerful sects, the Cao Dai, the Hoa Hao and the Binh Xuyen. These sects, which have private armed forces, always had been held in control by France through subsidies.

But they are run by war lords who have extracted taxes for their private treasures and kept their standing armies for their own uses. The war lords have vacillated between an uneasy alliance with Diem and outright hostility.

General Chase Will Retire WASHINGTON —UP— Maj. Gen. William C. Chase, chief of the U.S. military assistance group on Formosa, will retire from the Army July 13. Maj. Gen. George W. Smythe, who recently became chief of the Army section of the assistance group, will succeed him in Formosa.

On an average day some half a million tons of silt ride the Colorado River down to Lake Mead, the huge reservoir created by Hoover Dam.

This Is My Dish

Date-Filled Cookies Are Mrs. Radtke's Specialty

By JANE KADINGO
Pampa News Women's Editor

Mrs. Don Radtke, 837 E. Kingsmill, has a recipe for a different type of cookie, called Date Whirls. One of the nice things about it is that the dough keeps well in the refrigerator for several days. You can make the dough ahead of time and just bake them the day of a party, or you can just bake part of the cookies at a time, as needed.

Pampans for about 2 1/2 years, the Radtke's hometown is Austin. They have one daughter, Janet, 4 years old. Mr. Radtke is a petroleum engineer for Magnolia Company.

Mrs. Radtke, who likes to cook, learned after she was married. Most of her outside-the-home activities center around the First Presbyterian Church. She is a member of the Presbyterian Women's Association, Circle IV, and the adult couples' class.

"My home is my hobby," she answered when asked if she had one. However, she added that she and her husband have a common hobby — photography.

DATE WHIRLS
4 cups flour
1 tsp. soda
1 cup salt
1 cup butter
2 cups brown sugar
2 eggs
1 tsp. vanilla

1 Tbsp. lemon or orange juice
Sift the flour three times with the soda and salt. Cream butter, adding sugar gradually. Add eggs, one at a time, beating after each addition. Add lemon juice and vanilla. Gradually add dry ingredients. Divide dough in two portions. Roll each portion to the thickness of about 1/4 inch. Spread with date filling. Roll like jelly roll. Place in refrigerator for several hours or until ready to bake. When ready, cut into thin slices and bake in hot oven, about 400 degrees, until golden brown.

DATE FILLING
1/4 cups dates (about one 8 oz. package)
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup sugar
1 Tbsp. lemon juice
1/4 cup chopped nuts
Cook chopped dates, water and sugar slowly until dates are soft. Remove from heat. Beat until smooth. Add lemon juice and nuts.

Vegetable Dish For Meatless Meal

If you like to collect meatless main dish recipes that are really unusual, here's one for you to try. It's a medley of vegetables, glamorized with broiled mushrooms and peppered with sharp cheese.

CUCUMBER-CHEESE CASSEROLE
1 1/2 cups milk
1 1/2 cup Cream of Rice, quick-cooking rice cereal
1 quart diced cucumber, unpeeled
1/4 cup finely diced green pepper
1/4 cup finely diced celery
1/4 cup finely diced onion
3-ounce can chopped broiled mushrooms
8 ounces sharp process American cheese
2 tablespoons melted butter
1/2 teaspoon salt
1-16 teaspoon pepper
Scald milk in top of double boiler over boiling water. Add Cream of Rice and stir until smooth. Cover and allow to cook for 10 minutes. Meanwhile cook cucumber, green pepper, celery and onion in tightly closed saucepan until just tender, about 10 minutes, using broth from mushrooms for liquid. Drain broth from cooked vegetables into cooked rice, there should be about 1/2 cup. Stir in cheese, which has been cut into half-inch cubes. Add butter, salt and pepper. Place vegetables and mushrooms in lightly oiled baking dish, about 10 x 6 inches, and top with cooked rice. Mix together lightly. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees F., until golden brown, about 25 to 30 minutes. Serve immediately. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

Take in the mail as soon as convenient after its delivered. Filled mailboxes are tempting invitations to larceny on the part of light-fingered itinerants.

Never throw containers which have held spray on products in the incinerator or trash fire. Remains of the gas propellant will expand enormously; can cause potentially dangerous explosions.

Recipes Are Given For Cake Desserts

Now at the homemaker's fingertips are tricks galore for desserts for "doings" — big or little. These recipes will help save kitchen time and take the guesswork out of one-time temperamental desserts.

JELLY ROLL TORTE
1 1/2 cups pineapple juice
1 1/2 tablespoons unflavored gelatin
3 tablespoons cold water
3-4 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup crushed pineapple
1 1/2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 1/2 cups heavy cream, whipped
1 (12-ounce) bakers' jelly roll
Heat pineapple juice. Soften gelatin in cold water, then add to hot juice. Add sugar, salt, pineapple and lemon juice. Refrigerate until mixture begins to thicken, then beat with rotary beater. Whip cream until stiff and fold it into gelatin mixture. Cut jelly roll into 1/2-inch slices. Arrange 4 slices on the bottom of an ungreased tube pan, place remaining slices around sides of pan. Pour pineapple mixture over slices of jelly roll. Chill until firm. Turn out on serving plate and cut into wedges. Yields 12 servings.

ICE CREAM CAKE
1 (8-ounce) bakers' angel food sponge or chiffon cake
1/2 pint strawberry ice cream
1/2 pint heavy cream, whipped
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
Enlarge center hole by cutting away one-half inch of the inner rim of the angel food cake. Fill center of the cake with ice cream. Add vanilla extract to whipped cream. Spread over the top and sides of cake and ice cream. Refrigerate until ready to serve. Yields 8 servings.

Note: Do not prepare more than one hour in advance of serving time unless cake is stored at freezing temperature. Cutaway cake can be crumbled and toasted, then sprinkled on top of cake, if desired.

Fried Chicken Rates As A Picnic Favorite

Fried chicken is a favorite picnic treat for persons of all ages. And it saves having to make all sorts of sandwiches or having to find an outdoor cooking spot.

FRIED CHICKEN
Fat for frying
1/2 cup flour
2 1/2 teaspoons salt
Few grains pepper
1 1/2 cups evaporated milk
2 1/2-3-lb. frying chicken, cut into pieces

Put 1/2 inch of fat in skillet to heat. Mix together flour, salt and pepper. Put milk into a bowl. Dip chicken pieces into milk; then roll in flour mixture. Add to hot fat, a few pieces at a time. Brown on all sides. Turn heat very low and continue cooking slowly 25-30 minutes, or until drumstick is tender when pierced with a fork.

If the "little people" get underfoot in the kitchen when they come visiting, prepare for the invasion. Stock one cupboard or shelf near floor level with old pots and pans, and let them know its their very own preserve. Noisy, but effective.

Barbecued Chicken — Savory, Succulent!

For healthy appetites, sharpened by whiffs of tantalizing aroma, comes Spry's "Outdoor Barbecued Chicken," sizzling from glowing coals, dripping with deliciously-spiced barbecue sauce.

This succulent fare is just one of the many suggestions for informal outdoor eating included in a new recipe leaflet, "Easy Barbecues for Easy Summer Living," developed by home economists in the Lever Test Kitchens.

Outdoor Barbecued Chicken
To barbecue chicken on a grill over charcoal, brush two 2-1/2 lb. broiler-fryers, cut in half, liberally with melted Spry. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. To keep birds flat during grilling, break the hip, knee, and wing joints. When coals are glowing, arrange chickens, with skin sides up, on the grill. Grill slowly about 45 min., or until tender, turning often and brushing with Barbecue Basting Sauce. Makes 4 servings.

To barbecue chickens in range broiler, prepare broiler-fryers as for Outdoor Barbecued Chicken, then arrange on preheated broiler rack.

Broiler can be covered with aluminum foil to catch drippings. Broil slowly 45 min., or until tender, turning often and brushing with Barbecue Basting Sauce.

Barbecue Basting Sauce
(For chicken, lamb, chops, etc.)
1/4 cup Spry
1-1/2 cups tomato juice
1/4 cup catsup
1-3/4 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
1/16 teaspoon cayenne

Combine all ingredients in saucepan and boil gently 15 minutes, or until slightly thickened. Makes about 1-1/2 cups.

Nut Covered Vanilla Dessert Balls and Chocolate Sauce

Do you need a real easy, inexpensive dessert...fancy enough for guests? These chilly vanilla dessert balls are just the ticket! They're rolled in chopped, toasted pecans and served with hot chocolate sauce. Vanilla dessert balls are very inexpensive because they're made of low cost rice cooked in nutritious milk.

Broiled Chicken
Whipped Potatoes
Parsley Butter
Broccoli with Egg Sauce
Lettuce and Tomato Salad
Hot Biscuits
NUT COVERED VANILLA DESSERT BALLS
CHOCOLATE SAUCE

INGREDIENTS:
2 1/4 cups milk
1/2 cup uncooked white rice
1/3 cup beet or cane sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
2/3 cup chopped, toasted pecans
Chocolate sauce

METHOD: Put the milk and rice in a 2-quart saucepan. Stir well. Put over a medium heat. When bubbles appear around the edge of the saucepan, turn the heat as low as possible. Stir well. Cover and leave over this low heat 45 minutes, or until the milk cooks into the rice and the mixture is quite firm. Stir several times during the cooking. Remove from heat.

Stir the sugar and vanilla into the cooked rice. Divide into 6 equal portions using a 1/3 cup measure. Wet inside of cup before measuring each portion. Place on a greased or waxed paper covered plate or pan. When cool enough to handle, roll into balls. Dip hands in water before rolling balls. Roll each ball in the chopped pecans. Cover well and store in the refrigerator until time to serve.

To serve, heat the chocolate sauce until very hot. Pour sauce over and around the dessert balls. If desired, top each ball with sweetened whipped cream. This dessert should be served the same day made.

This recipe makes 6 servings.

Easy Recipes Given For Summer Eating

GARDEN WALK HERB LOAF
Snip those bright green herbs — parsley, chives or green onions — growing along the garden walk or available in markets. Make a herb butter for French bread by adding to one-third cup of soft butter, one-half cup finely chopped parsley and one tablespoon chopped chives or green onions and one crushed clove of garlic. Slice French bread, diagonally, not cutting quite through the lower crust. Spread slices with herb butter. Wrap loaf in metal foil and heat in a (400 degree F.) hot oven for 15 minutes. Serve piping hot.

CAMEMBERT-RADISH SANDWICH
Sandwiches can match moods and seasons. For the merry month of June, spread Camembert cheese over buttered bread. Cover with ruby-ringed circles of crisp radishes. Top with a second buttered bread slice.

PEPPERMINT PUDDING SAUCE ON ANGEL FOOD CAKE
Put two and two together for this menu magic. Make an instant vanilla pudding from one package of pudding mix, but use only one and one-fourth cup milk. Fold in one cup of whipped cream, and crushed peppermint candy. Spoon the peppermint pudding sauce over generous slices of angel food cake.

BANANA SHORTCAKE
— Use fully ripe bananas... yellow peel flecked with brown. Split homemade or baker's gin gerbread, cake, cupcake or biscuits into layers. Place whipped cream and sliced ripe bananas between layers and on top. Garnish with a cherry, if desired. Just before serving, peel and slice additional bananas and arrange them around the base of the Banana Shortcake, if desired.

Lamb Pie Gives Special Left-over

Are you, like the rest of us, often puzzled over the use of left-overs? If so, this recipe may be just what you have been looking for. Finish out the menu with a tossed salad and a fruit dessert.

LAMB LUNCHEON PIE
1/4 cup salad oil
1/4 cup minced onion
1-4 cup minced green pepper
1/4 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 1/4 cups water
2 tablespoons tomato catsup
3 oz. can chopped broiled mushrooms
2 cups ground leftover roast lamb, 12 ounces

TOPPING
1-3 cup Cream of Rice, quick cooking rice cereal
2-3 cup hot milk
1 egg, beaten
1 tablespoon oil
1 cup sifted flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
1 tablespoon minced parsley

Place oil in saucepan over moderate heat. Add onion and green pepper and let cook until tender, but not brown, about 5 minutes. Stir in flour, salt and pepper. Add water, tomato catsup and contents of can of mushrooms. Cook, stirring constantly until sauce comes to boil. Remove from heat and add ground lamb, mixing thoroughly. Pour into lightly oiled 8-inch square baking dish. Place Cream of Rice and hot milk in mixing bowl and let stand 15 minutes. Add beaten egg and the oil. Sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar together over rice mixture. Add parsley and mix until just barely smooth. Drop mixture evenly over top of filling. Bake in moderately hot oven, 375 degrees F., until topping is lightly browned and done, about 25 minutes. Serve immediately. Makes 6 servings.

Two North Koreans Fly Red Plane To Freedom

SEOUL CITY AIRPORT, Korea —UP— Two North Korean airmen, one of whom said he had received MIG fighter plane training in Russia, flew a Soviet-built Communist air force plane through Red and United Nations defenses to freedom here Tuesday.

A U.S. Air Force spokesman said he could not explain how the plane, with huge red stars on the fuselage, could fly across the demilitarized zone and nearly 30 miles into South Korea in daylight without being detected.

The North Koreans landed the Russian-made YAK-18 training plane at this South Korean air force headquarters base shortly after 1 p.m. and surrendered to U.S. and South Korean officers.

Lt. Gen. Roger M. Ramey, 5th Air Force commander, happened to be at the field and he and his intelligence officers questioned the North Koreans for more than an hour.

Following the interrogation, Ramey left the field, telling reporters he would say "absolutely nothing" about the incident. He did say he would report to higher headquarters.

The two fliers landed and climbed from the cockpit, waving their hands overhead. They immediately surrendered their side arms.

They identified themselves as Capt. Le Woon Yong and 1st Lt. Lee Eun Sung, both 24, of the North Korean air force.

They said they took off two hours earlier from the North Korean air force headquarters at Munauri in Pyongyang, capital of Red Korea. Both wore uniforms similar to those worn by American Air Force pilots.

The North Korean airmen told ROK officers they flew across the truce line at low altitude to avoid detection by UN radar posts.

ROK air force sources said the captain told interrogators he was a MIG fighter pilot trained in Russia. He said he returned to North Korea from the Soviet Union six months ago.

The lieutenant, who said he has a sister living in South Korea, said he was a bomber navigator.

Shortly after the Korean War, a North Korean pilot defected to the United Nations in a Soviet-built MIG and collected a $100,000 "reward" from the United States. The pilot, No Kum Suk, now is studying in the U.S.

Pope Urges Movies Lead Men Nobly

VATICAN CITY —UP— Pope Pius XII Tuesday urged motion picture producers to use the "almighty magical power" of films to lead man "to the realm of light, or the noble and the beautiful."

The pope spoke from his golden throne in St. Peter's basilica to 10,000 pilgrims and Italian movie producers and stars crowded into the central nave and apse of the cathedral.

The 79-year-old pontiff urged the movie producers not to make themselves "accomplices of the lower instincts and passions of man."

"Respect for mankind," male or female, adult or child and "loving understanding" are basic elements in the ideal picture, the pope said. Such a film should show the viewer "reality, but a reality seen through the eyes of one who knows more than he."

Such a film need not be boring or "an empty show of moralizing," but can be "at once light and profound, imaginative and real," the pope said.

He said that censorship of films was needed, but it would be more desirable if the censorship came directly from the people themselves.

SHEEP IN DUCK CLOTHES

An estimated 50,000 New Mexico sheep will be wearing 10-ounce duck jackets on the range next winter. They are the idea of J. R. Stauder, sheep and wool specialist of New Mexico A&M College at State College, N. M., shown demonstrating the garment, above. Last winter he conducted tests on the Victor Perez ranch near Encino, N. M. Results showed that the fleeces from the jacket-wearing animals contained an average of four pounds each less dirt than the "bare" sheep. Elimination of dirt results in lower shipping charges because freight rates are based on gross weight; lower shearing charges because crews demand bonuses for shearing excessively dirty sheep.

Vivian Blaine Leads Guys Troupe For Las Vegas Show

By ALINE MOSBY
HOLLYWOOD — UP — Vivian Blaine, the original doll of "Guys and Dolls," winds up the movie version of her Broadway hit in two weeks, but she's not giving up that Brooklyn accent yet.
 The brassy "Adelaide" of the musical will launch a "first" in the theater world when she re-assembles the original cast for a run in a Las Vegas hotel beginning in August.
 "Vivian, Robert Alda, Sam Levene and even some of the "mugs" from the Broadway opening night will present a trimmed version of "Guys and Dolls" at the Royal Nevada hotel. The only difference from a stage-run will be the audience devouring steaks and the roulette tables clicking outside.
 "My husband, Manny Frank, and I tied up the rights and cut the show to an hour and a half," the blonde singer explained. "We'll duplicate the costumes and sets of the New York run. I think it will start a trend of musicals playing in Las Vegas. 'Fajama Game' would be wonderful there."

Army Selling Danish Butter

WASHINGTON — UP — Rep. Walter Norblad protested Tuesday that although the government has 200 million pounds of surplus butter in storage, the Army is selling Danish butter at its post exchange in Okinawa.
 The Oregon Republican suggested in a letter to Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens that the Army and the Agriculture Department could "well get together" on a plan to have the Army sell some of the U.S. surplus.

Norblad said he learned recently that the post exchange at Okinawa is selling the Danish product to both military and civilian personnel on the island.
 He said if the same situation exists at other post exchanges around the world "I would certainly suggest that it should also be corrected."

Scientist Is Producing Cancers With Plastics

By DELOS SMITH
NEW YORK—UP— Because plastics are "rather" inert chemically and won't dissolve in "watery systems" (animal bodies are such systems), it is very hard for Dr. B. S. Oppenheimer to understand how in the world they cause cancers.

Yet in his laboratories at the college of physicians and surgeons, Columbia University, he and his associates have been producing cancers in scores of rats by imbedding plastic films in their bodies.

Before reading any further, the reader must understand that there isn't even a scientific suspicion that plastics cause cancer in human beings. Human-beings handle plastics and even wear plastics (in the form of textiles) constantly but don't have them imbedded in their bodies.

It shouldn't be. But Dr. Oppenheimer's rats are objects of intense scientific curiosity. What happened to them, shouldn't have. There's a good chance that he's going to find out how it happens, and then there will be light on the now obscure chemical beginnings of cancers. That would be no small triumph for scientific research, and a triumph sparking with promise for human welfare.

In his newest report to fellow scientists in the technical journal, Cancer Research, Dr. Oppenheimer revealed that he has now experienced with films of just about all the polymer plastics (including those used to make textiles) and found that all of them induced cancers when imbedded in rats.

There was a very long "latent period," amounting to half and more than half the normal life span of the animal. Naturally, he and his colleagues first suspected that irritation alone might be the cancer-causer.

So they imbedded all sorts of non-plastic materials into rats, such as wood, mica, paraffin, cotton, glass cloth, and metal foils.

These produced no cancers. The scientists also suspected impurities or incidental substances in the plastics, but this suspicion also checked out with blanks.

Molecular Weight Changes
By "tagging" polymer molecules with radioactive isotopes, they demonstrated that inert plastics after a very long period (for the rat) began to break down from high molecular weights to low molecular weights and the "degraded" chemical substances then were able to take part in the chemical interchanges and transformations which are the unceasing and complicated goings-on inside any animal body.

Dr. Oppenheimer thought this was "very important." These degradation products while harmless in themselves, may be cancer-causing through inter-actions with normal chemical products of body metabolism. Or degradation may set up "reactive centers" within the plastic films which then give off substances that influence the metabolism of neighboring body cells.

He and his associates now are working on the question of just what in the way of degradation products and just how they react and inter-act. There-in is the high hope for some meaningful cancer answer.

Airmen Get Short Pants
WASHINGTON—UP—The "new look" in the Air Force will soon include airmen in short pants. The service reported Monday that it has adopted a new "silver-tan" summer uniform which provides short trousers and knee-length stockings for optional wear.

Russian Settlement
First Russian settlement in the United States was at Cazadero, 18 miles north of Bodega Bay on the Russian River, California, in 1812. The party consisted of 90 Russians and 80 Aleut hunters from Sitka and the settlement was evacuated in 1841.

MAKING A GO OF LIFE

By ROY L. SMITH
Read Genesis 1:1; 26-31
A force outside us operates in our physical lives. In spite of all our studies of the human body, and with due acknowledgment of the vast achievements of medical science in searching for its secrets, the physical house in which we live remains a great mystery with scores of basic processes entirely without explanation. Thousands of students have dissected the body with infinite care; they have laid bare every bone, tissue, nerve, and muscle, but the secret of life by which it operates continues to elude us.

Between the living and the lifeless there is a great gulf fixed. Life covers the earth in myriad forms—the animate and the inanimate—yet no man knows the process by which it first came into existence. A few scientists claim to have developed it inside a test tube, but no such claims are widely accepted in the scientific world. Even if they could be established as being true, it would still remain a fact that "only life produces life," for the scientists would still be necessary to the experiment.

No scientist has ever yet produced a human sperm by the laboratory method. Certainly no one has ever tried to construct a human body and make it "work" as a person. The humblest individual lives inside a body that is maintained by an uncounted number of intricate processes which have defied all efforts to explain them. Even the most inconspicuous personality is played upon by strange secretions from ductless glands which are only fractionally understood. The wisest scientist is finally compelled to admit that the human body cannot be explained except in terms of a force from the outside.

O God, I am dependent upon thee in so many ways. Indeed, there is no aspect of my life in which I am not dependent upon thy power and solitude. I propose therefore to live worthy of thy care, and sensitive always to thy preferences, for in that way I will find health. Amen.

cesses going on in your body at this moment for which you are not responsible, and over which you have no actual control. Does this not impress you with the fact that God is constantly keeping watch over your body?

The dollar value of U. S. farm exports was up 15 per cent in the first eight months of the current fiscal year, compared with a year earlier.

Batchelor Seeks Release Other Comedians Making Fun At TV Star Pinky Lee

SAN ANTONIO—UP—The attorney for Army Cpl. Claude J. Batchelor has petitioned the Defense Department for his release from a 20-year prison sentence for collaborating with the Communists while a prisoner in Korea.

Attorney Joel Westbrook of San Antonio, who represented the 23-year-old Kermit, Tex., GI at his court martial here last fall, wired his request to Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson yesterday.

He said he eased the request on Wilson's statement that recently released American flyers would not be prosecuted unless they admitted making false confessions of germ warfare to the Communists.

Westbrook pointed out that "Cpl. Batchelor was prosecuted even though he elected to return home more than a year and a half ago, in response to our government's pleas, and gave us admittedly valuable evidence about Communists."

HOLLYWOOD—UP—Pinky Lee slipped an indignant blow to other TV comedians Thursday: "He's 'hurt' because they're making fun of him."

Pinky is the ex-Burlesque comedian who, as he says, "plodded along gradually, underpaid and underestimated," until he suddenly became a star of an NBC-TV children's program.

On this show Pinky does a fast dance in the opener, lips to the kiddies and has their mamas playing games such as breaking balloons.

By now Pinky has a high rating and a new house on a high mountain, and his success has brought forth a rash of "Pinky Lee" jokes from his former colleagues of vaudeville and smoke-filled night clubs.

either me or Pinky Lee." "Now that's cruel. It hurt me. Jackie Gleason had a joke about Pinky Lee singing a Cole Porter album, but that was cute. Jack Benny has been cute, too. Not Red Skelton.

"I don't care if they kid me," he added firmly, "as long as they aren't malicious."

Pinky sat in the Brown Derby and beamed while autograph hounds, head waiters and well wishers surged around him.

"A lot of actors and critics don't accept me because I'm from the old school of comedy," he lipged. "My lip isn't put on—it's an impediment. Some comics resent me because I've saved my money and raised a family, too."

Happy Is The Day When Backache Goes Away . . .

Nagging backache, headache, or muscular aches and pains may come on with over-excitement, emotional upsets or day to day stress and strain. And folks who eat and drink unwisely sometimes suffer mild bladder irritation . . . with that restless, uncomfortable feeling. If you are miserable and worn out because of these discomforts, Doan's Pills often help by their pain relieving action, by their soothing effect to ease bladder irritation, and by their mild diuretic action through the kidneys—tending to increase the output of the 1 1/2 miles of kidney tubes.

So if nagging backache makes you feel dragged-out, miserable, . . . with restless, sleepless nights . . . don't wait . . . try Doan's Pills . . . get the same happy relief millions have enjoyed for over 60 years. Get Doan's Pills today!

"I lost 15 pounds in two days. I wanted to die, I DID. Oh, I walked the streets all night. One day I saw Red Buttons and he said 'I saw your show and do you know what I think?' I said 'What?' "Red said, 'you stink,' and he walked away. Gee, I cried. "I've always been second fiddle, the little comedian said. "That makes the prize much sweeter. I earned it the hard way."

OPTIMISTIC WINNIE

Former Prime Minister of Great Britain, Winston Churchill, inspects honor guard on arrival at Guildhall in London for unveiling of bronze statue of himself. IT'S THE LAW IN TEXAS

The outlook wasn't very bright for the home team with the score tied, two opposing players on base and only one out. "Spec" Tator, a rabid fan, leaned forward on his seat in the left field bleachers. The pitcher got his signal, the ball sped toward the plate. Then came two sharp cracks. The first was the bat on the ball. The second was the ball on Spec's head. Spec was seriously injured. To recover damages for his injuries and medical bills, Spec filed suit against the baseball club. He charged it with negligence in failing to put a wire screen in front of the bleachers where he sat and in failing to warn him that batted balls might come into those bleachers and injure him.

But the court said, "No" to Spec. He had chosen to sit in the unscreened bleachers in preference to sitting behind a screen where the tickets cost more. Therefore, he had "assumed the risk" of being hit by a batted or thrown ball during the playing of the game. No recovery was allowed. In such cases, the courts say that the spectator is an invitee to whom the invitor (the ball club) owes the duty to exercise ordinary care to render the premises reasonably safe for him.

"But," say the courts, "the invitor is not an insurer of the safety of the invitee; neither is the invitee protected against all hazard, nor relieved of all duty to himself for his own safety. And to the extent that the duty of self-protection rests upon the invitee, the duty of the invitor to protect is reduced." The same rules as to "assumption of risk" are applied to most places of amusement and amusement devices. A swimmer must anticipate that a diving board will be wet and slippery. A person who rides an amusement device and sees flying sparks takes the chance that a flying spark may strike his eye. And one who goes upon a revolving floor device for the purpose of being thrown from it, accepts the dangers inherent in the sport so far as they are obvious. On the other hand, if the danger is not apparent or obvious, the operator of the device has a duty to warn the rider or spectator. It is the ordinary risk that is assumed, not the unusual. Where, for example, a device was operated on a particular occasion at an especially fast speed so that it jerked and jolted violently, a rider who was injured by these unusual conditions was permitted to recover. A patron of a place of amusement is entitled to be protected from hidden dangers, but he cannot go into a place of danger which he appreciates and understands, and then recover damages if he is injured.

Sees Breach Healed
WASHINGTON — UP — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Min.) said Sunday he believes "the breach has been healed" between the northern and southern wings of the Democratic party. He predicted on the ABC-TV "Celebrity Parade" program that President Eisenhower, if a candidate for re-election next year, will be unable to carry any southern states.

Ex-Chief's Trial Due End Today

AUSTIN — UP — The second income tax evasion trial of former Galveston Police Chief Fred M. Ford was expected to go to the jury in federal court Thursday. The government rested its case Wednesday, and 30 minutes later the defense rested after presenting two witnesses. Arguments by opposing counsel were scheduled Thursday before Judge Ben H. Rice Jr.

Ford was indicted on charges of evading more than $8,000 in income taxes for the years 1945, 1946 and 1947. A previous conviction, in 1953, carrying a four-year sentence, was reversed and a new trial ordered. A defense witness, O. E. Casey, former police commissioner at Galveston, testified Wednesday Ford's reputation was "good."

But Galveston Mayor George Roy Clough, a government witness, testified that Ford's reputation was "bad." "It was not too good—it was considered bad," Clough told the court. Clough testified he first knew Ford about 20 years ago when Clough started service as a radio engineer for the Galveston police force. The Galveston mayor denied, under questioning by defense attorney Douglas McGregor, that he was "fired" as police radio engineer, after "disputes" with Ford when he was police chief. "That is not true," Clough said. McGregor asked whether Clough served as a campaign manager for Walter Johnston, police commissioner at Galveston since 1947. "You are definitely 100 per cent incorrect," Clough replied. "You have just finished running for mayor of Galveston, haven't you?" McGregor asked. "I have just been elected mayor," answered Clough, owner of Galveston radio station KLUF. Case disputed testimony of Clough, who said he "resigned" as police radio technician. "We fired him. That's rather a harsh word, but he was taken off the payroll. That's the equivalent," Casey said. "His services were unsatisfactory."

Like To Tour New England For 6 Days

WASHINGTON — UP — President Eisenhower left by plane Wednesday for a six-day speech-making and fishing trip to New England immediately after making a switch in the Army's civilian high command.

The President left at 9:20 a. m. est. aboard his old plane, the Columbine II — the same plane on which he flew to Korea after his election in 1952. He used the older plane because it is 18 feet shorter than the new Columbine II and better suited for the shorter runways in New England. His first stop is Rutland, V.

He plans to visit elsewhere in Vermont and in New Hampshire and Maine before returning to the White House late Monday night. He will make eight speeches and hopes to get in a weekend of fishing on the trip, which was made after a series of instant invitations.

Just before he left the White House for the airport, Mr. Eisenhower accepted the resignation of Robert T. Stevens as Army secretary and named Wilber M. Brucker to succeed him. Stevens, Brucker and Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson rode to the airport with the President. This was the President's second

52 Tourists To Europe

NEW YORK — UP — A party of 52 tourists, most of them from Texas, will leave here by plane Thursday to tour 15 European countries.

The tourists, under direction of Dr. Joseph S. Werlin, a sociology professor at the University of Houston, and his wife, Rosalia, had been scheduled to sail from Montreal, Canada, Tuesday on the Cunard liner Saxonia. Notified that the sailing had been cancelled because of the British seamen's strike, the Werlins, who for the last 11 years have been operating a travel agency called International Cultural Tours, chartered a KLM Dutch Airlines plane to take the party to Prestwick, Scotland, to begin the tour. Most of the tourists are students and teachers. The trip will include attendance at lectures at Oxford University and the Sorbonne, in Paris. Green leaves on the outside of head lettuce contain more vitamins than the inner, lighter leaves.

The cow is an index of prosperity for residents of the small town of Bethania in southeastern East Pakistan. The villagers keep cows, but not for meat, drink or hides. The animals impart respectability to a family, perhaps because the residents lived so long near Hindus who worship cows.

PIG TALE

Little Billy Harris of Muncie, Ind., bottle feeds one of two pigs he got for a penny. The low price was possible because of an old country tale that gift pigs will die. Temple Plans Celebration

TEMPLE, Tex. —UP— Temple will celebrate its 75th birthday anniversary of the Santa Fe Railway in the Central Texas city. Col. Walter Williams, the 112-year-old Texas veteran of the Confederate Army, has been invited to attend the daylong events. The Central Texas Pioneers will hold their annual meeting; a horse show sponsored by the Longhorn Riding Club is on the program.

GM Plants Return To Normal Output

DETROIT —UP— General Motors Corp. plants throughout the nation returned to normal production Wednesday with the ending of the last of a series of wildcat strikes against the company. A company spokesman said full production would be resumed at all plants which had been closed down because of the strikes which crippled production for nearly three weeks. The last of the strikes, a walkout by 2,000 workers at GM's Fisher Body plant in suburban Livonia, ended Tuesday when the workers voted unanimously to accept a company offer covering local working conditions.

Although the company had reached a national agreement with the CIO United Auto Workers June 13, the Livonia plant and others throughout the country staged scattered walkouts over local issues which had to be worked out between the company and local unions representing the workers. The national UAW council voted early Wednesday to recommend ratification of the national agreement. The union listed the net worth of the GM national package agreement at 21 cents an hour, compared with a similar agreement with Ford Motor Co, which union officials estimated netted Ford workers 19 1/2 cents an hour. Ford workers currently are voting on their new contract at various points throughout the country.

THE MARQUEE BY DICK KLEINER

Former child star Bobby Driscoll is going to try a switch that Jackie Cooper couldn't pull off. Jackie once felt maturity gaining on him, and tried to become "Jack Cooper" — only to find that nobody knew him by that name. Bobby has officially become Robert Driscoll, and, on the CBS-TV Front Row Center production of "Ah, Wilderness," he is billed that way for the first time. Welcome, old-timers! Incidentally, that play includes another innovation in its credits. Instead of just reading "Adaptation by William Ekren," it will say "Version for viewing by William Ekren." Ain't we got class!

As a TV viewer who would rather watch the test pattern than boxing, I've finally found a boxing show I should like. It comes on and features Henry Youngman and Rocky Graziano. They don't fight; they talk. Youngman is an old-time sock-em-and-sock-em-again comedian; Graziano an old-time sock-em-and-get-socked fighter, now a comedian and author of the fascinating "Somebody Up There Must Like Me". Together, they just sit around and talk. They were sitting around Lindy's, just talking about what they were going to do on the show. The dialog ran along these lines: Henry: We'll just talk about things, Rocky will talk about the fight, technically, and maybe we'll have some guests on, Mostly, though, we'll talk. Rocky: Like I'll say, "I went down to the old neighborhood last night." Henry: Yeah they had a celebration for him. Staged a hold-up. Rocky: A hold-up, get it? Henry: You see, the idea is, that's what they did for him in the old neighborhood — staged a hold-up. Rocky: Hey, look at this ring, Henry. What do you think of it? Henry: That's a nice ring. Where do you keep the batteries? Rocky: We'll do things like that. Just talk, I'll say. "I can use big words. Don't be afraid." Hey, that's an idea, Henry — you feed me some big words. Henry: I don't know any. Rocky: I went down to the old neighborhood. The same guys was there as was there when I lived there. Same guys standing on the corner, hollering up to some guy upstairs. "Hey, Joey, come on down."

Henry: Same in my old section, Bay Ridge in Brooklyn. I went back there. Same guys what were there years ago. Funny. Rocky: See, that's what we'll do. Just talk. Henry: It's called 'Henry and Rocky.' I wanted to call it 'A rock and a Yock' but nobody would buy that. It's better than the fights. Ed Begley, who plays the "William Jennings Bryan" part in the exciting play, "Inherit the Wind," is slightly embarrassed these days. Everyone comes up and says, "Why did you and Martha, separate?" They are confusing him with Martha Raye's husband, Ed Begley, a dancer, actor Ed is still happily married. He's never even met dancer Ed. Here's the answer to a heady TV problem. What, exactly, does Dave Garroway mean by his sign-off trademark, "Peace?" "Here's what Dave himself says about it in "Better Living": "Peace is a malleable force. To many people it means freedom from war, while to others it represents a peaceful atmosphere. I'm trying to be a peace-bringing 'friend in the house' — that's what hundreds of my fans have called me in their letters, and I think it's the highest compliment they can give me." Now you know.

One of show business' most versatile entertainers is Arthur Lee Simpkins. This singer discovered, incidentally, by the late Grantland Rice) sings everything from operatic arias like "Veste Le Giuba" to "Davy Crockett," with stops in-between for "Eli, Eli" in Hebrew and "Ave Maria" in Latin. He sings "Davy Crockett" in the original language, too. Dick's Quickie: Margaret Firth, of "It's Fun to Reduce," says that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach — not yours.

Galbraith Sanity Trial Is Delayed

MCALISTER, Okla. —UP— A fight over admission of Dr. Ben Galbraith's personal medical records as evidence delayed his sanity trial Tuesday. County Attorney James P. Whyte attempted to block efforts of lawyers for the physician to introduce records from the Kennedy veterans hospital, Memphis, Tenn. The records, Galbraith's attorneys indicated, would support claims he suffered from mental disturbances several years before he murdered his wife and three children here March 17. Whyte contended, the hospital records were based on hearsay. Mrs. J. L. Galbraith, of Henderson, Tenn., mother of the accused, testified earlier she had found her son, Tenn., mother of the accused, in a visit in August, 1954 — eight months before the sensational slayings. George F. McCoy, psychologist at Eastern State hospital, Vinita, described the physician as "living in a fantasy of daydreams" and "definitely insane."

Dr. G. L. Boyd, a psychiatrist from the state institution, said Galbraith is schizophrenic. "He was restless, tense, couldn't sleep, confused," Boyd said. The county attorney, however, is prepared to put three other psychiatrists on the witness stand to testify they found Galbraith to be sane in examinations over his past weekend. Galbraith has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to charges filed after he dished his wife with a wine bottle, injected morphine and insecticide into his children, and set fire to his home. The sanity hearing began Monday with 12 men selected to determine whether he should face regular trial.

Las Vegas Gambling Under Fire

LAS VEGAS, Nev. —UP— County authorities Tuesday dug into gambling operations on Las Vegas' famous strip and one official said the investigation might lead to a shutdown of some gaming tables. The investigation was touched off Monday when a pair of shaved dice was discovered in the luggage of a gambling casino employee. Sheriff W. E. Leybold said he learned of the crooked dice on a tip from the Los Angeles police department. A measuring device showed they were at least six-thousandths of an inch off on two sides. Tax commission agent Keith Campbell said the inaccuracy would give the player a decided advantage if they were used in any game. The dice were found in the luggage of Joe Shapiro, crap table supervisor at the New Frontier Hotel. Shapiro told police the dice were considerably smaller and a different color than those used in any Las Vegas casino. He was not arrested.

The Clark county licensing board ordered an immediate investigation. Can't Confirm Report SAN FRANCISCO —UP— Renzo Sawada, Japan's permanent observer to the United Nations, said Tuesday he had heard nothing to indicate Russia would agree to the admission of Japan to the UN under certain circumstances. Asked if he had talked to any of the other delegates who had heard such a report, Sawada said, "I have heard nothing."

Warrens Land in Sweden STOCKHOLM, Sweden —UP— Chief Justice Earl Warren landed here Tuesday with his wife on a three-week Scandinavian goodwill tour.

PREPARE FOR STYLE SHOW

Watching are, left to right, Jerry Shelton, Marilyn Moore, Shirley Epps and Sue Parker. Mrs. F. W. Shotwell, Red Cross executive secretary, will speak of the luncheon and show a film on water safety. Preparation for the style show is under the direction of Mrs. George Hofess.

Wilted Dishes Made From Fresh Greens

This is the time of year when almost every homemaker, who has even a small flower bed, can boast of some home-grown vegetables. For what is so easy to grow as garden lettuce, shallots and radishes? All you have to do is plant them and pick them. If the recent dust storms have left a heavy residue of fine sand on your greens, put some table salt in the water before you wash them. The salt helps to remove the grit. Fresh from the garden, lettuce, radishes and onions are good with nothing more to flavor them than a little salt. However, there's an old-fashioned way to prepare these vegetables that has always had wide appeal in the South. Your grandmother called the dish wilted lettuce. Here's how you prepare it. For about four servings, use a pound of garden lettuce, 1 tablespoon of bacon drippings, 1/4 cup vinegar and several shallots. Shred or tear the leaves, and chop up the onions. Heat the meat drippings in a skillet, cooking the onion until it's soft.

Memorial Rites Set By Skelly Rebekahs

Most Adults Are "Starved For Milk" According To Recent USDA Survey

Are you getting enough milk? Most adults are starved for milk and they don't know it. Surveys show that you begin to neglect milk as soon as you leave your teens. From then on, there seems to be no special effort to keep enough milk in the diet. Could it be that you hear so much about milk when you're a child that you tend to associate the need for milk only with children? But you never outgrow your need for milk! Research conducted by the U.S. Department of Agriculture shows that you need at least a pint of milk a day regardless of your age. Here's why. Milk furnishes about a hundred different nutrients — a long list of vitamins, minerals, fats, sugars and high-quality proteins. True, you can get these nutrients from other foods, but this is what counts. The nutrients in milk are in such favorable proportions that they can readily join into effective work teams for the body's nutrition. This is the way that nutrients must combine to do many important tasks for your growth if you are young, and for continuous repair at all ages. Also, milk contains large amounts of three nutrients deficient in most diets. These are the mineral, calcium; the vitamin, riboflavin; and protein. Three-fourths of the calcium and nearly one-half of the riboflavin in our country's food supply come from milk. You can hardly get enough of calcium or riboflavin to meet your nutritional needs unless you use the equivalent to a pint of milk a day.

Uses Are Named For Honey Dabs

Here's how to use that teaspoon of honey that lines the jar you have just finished. Pour honey over a serving of ice cream for an ice cream sundae. Put honey in the peanut butter jar and cream the peanut butter and honey. Add honey to a glass of milk, cocoa, or a cup of hot tea or coffee. Pour honey into the center of a half grapefruit and broil for a few minutes. Add honey to the white of an egg and beat it for meringue. Spread honey on bread, toast, or graham crackers for an afternoon treat. Put honey on top of a yogurt-cracker sandwich. Sweeten your breakfast cereal with honey. Add honey to the sandwich filling you fix for your midnight snack. Soften cream cheese with honey for a delicious fruit salad dressing. Combine honey with a teaspoon of lemon juice to soothe a cough. Drop honey into the center of a canned pear or peach for a dessert. Pour honey over the vegetable you are cooking for dinner for an even glaze. Combine honey with a teaspoon of butter for a honey-butter sandwich. Or simply eat honey plain, right out of the teaspoon.

Jane Talk

By JANE KADINGO
Pampa News Women's Editor

THROUGH OUR PAMPA GIRL SCOUT organization, many girls are learning some wonderful cooking methods. Although practiced out-of-doors, they are easily adaptable to indoor cooking. This seems especially fine to someone like me, who, even yet, has not really learned to cook.

ONE OF THE DISHES the girls cook for breakfast is straw biscuits, and sounds delicious. I got the recipe from them and mean to try it, using my oven instead of an out-door reflector oven.

STRAW BISCUITS
10 shredded wheat biscuits
1 cup chopped nuts
1/4 lb. butter
1 cup honey

Moisten shredded wheat biscuits with water. Open the biscuits and fill with chopped nuts and sprinkle with cinnamon. Place these in a well-buttered pan. Pour melted butter over the biscuits and place in a reflector oven (or your gas or electric stove's oven) until crisp. Pour honey over biscuits and serve while hot.

Sounds good, doesn't it? The girls really make some exotic dishes and do some real cooking during their camp-outs. They bake beans in a hole in the ground and cook roasts, bake potatoes, make casseroles with pork chops, or hamburger meat or steaks, and vegetables. And they even make pineapple upside down cake. The list could go on and on. I'll repeat — I think it is wonderful training for the girls.

JUST A FROZEN can of pears can produce some tempting and refreshing desserts and salad. It's especially nice for summer and so easy to do. You put a No. 2 or No. 2 1/2 can of Bartlett pears in your food freezer or ice cube compartment for 12 hours or longer until frozen. When ready to serve, run hot water over the outside of the can. Open both ends. With one of the discs from the can, push the frozen pears from the can. Slice across, so you have discs of frozen pears. It's called Pearadise Ice Cap.

That's the basic ingredient. Variations for dessert include: Foid peppermint stick candy, crushed, into whipped cream and top slices of Ice Cap. Foid chipped chocolate mints into whipped cream for topping. Top with vanilla ice cream and strawberry sundae sauce.

Serve atop slice of jelly roll. Top with whipped cream and chopped nuts.

Make sandwich of 2 large ginger cookies with a slice of Ice Cap. Open can and put in maraschino cherries before freezing. Top with bit of whipped cream.

If you want to use it for a salad, here are some suggestions. Place Ice Cap on salad green. Top slices with cottage cheese and mayonnaise and maraschino cherry.

Top with mayonnaise, shredded carrot and salted peanuts.

Top with cream cheese balls rolled in nuts and mayonnaise.

Put Ice Cap on pineapple slice. Top with whipped cream dressing and pimiento garnish.

Top Ice Cap with combination fruit salad or Waldorf salad.

Crumble blue cheese into mayonnaise and serve with Ice Cap.

RUTH MILLET Spearman Couple Has Open House For Anniversary

"If you have a great ambition take as big a step as possible in the direction of fulfilling it, but if the step is only a tiny one, don't worry if it is the largest one now possible."

A woman said that Mildred McAfee. And it is something every housewife should remember. For a housewife's life from day to day seems to be made up of countless small steps — cooking breakfast, washing dishes, watching over children, washing clothes, scrubbing floors, going to market — and so on and on.

If a woman, taking these small steps over and over again, loses sight of the great and worthwhile ambitions the steps are leading up to, then her work is drudgery of the worst kind.

She is frustrated and bored and tired and unhappy. She has forgotten why all the small steps are necessary — and where they are supposed to lead.

She must keep in her mind the vision of a happy home, children who are getting the kind of home life and character training that will fit them to become fine men and women, a husband who enjoys his family, loves his wife and feels she is a help to him and a picture of herself as the kind of woman she wants to be. She can't fall then, to see that the steps are necessary ones, leading to worthwhile goals.

This is a difficult thing for a woman to do. Marriages sometimes falter, children progress and then slip back and the wife and mother, herself, never quite seems to be measuring up to what she wants to be.

But difficult as it is, it is necessary to a woman's happiness. No human being can get to feeling that all his efforts are leading nowhere without being miserably unhappy.

So hang onto the vision of the goals you are striving to reach — and you will know that all those endless steps and responsibilities are leading you where you want to go.

The program on youth, "Stop, Look and Listen," was presented by Mrs. Charles Nixon. Roll call was answered with "needs of the youth of America."

Present were Mmes. C. A. Dyart, E. E. Johnston, J. L. Flanagan, Doyle Grimes, Willard Godwin, Caldwell and Mixon.

Youth Trouble in Red Paradise II

Child Beggars Belie 'New Man' In Texas

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK — (NEA) — Even in the Red "paradise," rising juvenile delinquency is as baffling a problem as it is in the "capitalist" United States.

Especially widespread is begging by children on the streets of the "Socialist Fatherland" — and quite frequently in the very shadow of the well-policed Kremlin.

Youthful waywardness — as the Soviet rulers see it — is not as serious a threat to their dictatorship as the current religious revival among Russia's youth. However, the muzzled Red press can no longer ignore it as merely a "capitalist" vice.

Writes Moscow Komsomolez, newspaper of the Moscow Communist Youth Organization: It is not unusual in the Soviet Union for children to approach people in the streets and beg: "Auntie, Uncle, give me some kopeks, give us a piece of bread."

In Moscow's suburb of Babushkin, one "morally depraved" couple made their four children professional beggars.

Although according to Moscow Komsomolez — the mother was a healthy woman, she used to go into Moscow every day with the children and put them on a street where they would ask passersby for "bread."

In the evening the mother would hire a taxi and the "unhappy" family, their pockets bulging with money, would return home where parents and children would hold a drinking bout.

Children of 12 are legally subject to the death penalty in the Red "paradise." No special provisions thus exist in Russia — unlike in "capitalist" America — for treating juvenile crime. Young criminals receive the same punishment as their elders. They are even lodged in common police stations with drunkards, brawlers and common criminals.

Juvenile crime — though now again on the increase — is nothing new in Soviet Russia. It has been rampant since the beginning of the revolution when gangs of children — who roamed the country like packs of hungry wolves — became the terror of Russian cities.

The first scene I witnessed during my first visit to the Red "paradise" in 1933 was five husky Russians beating a little pick-pocket who tried to snatch a purse from a woman. He couldn't have been more than eight. He was bleeding badly and seemed like a frightened little beast. I still remember vividly the Soviet wail, dressed in rags, as he was being taken to the police station where another beating awaited him.

Yet so tight was Soviet censorship that it was only years later, reading Nicholas Voinov's fascinating story, that I learned that the millions of wails, Russia's orphaned children, were not all the victims of war and famine.

Many were kids deliberately deprived of their parents by the Red regime.

Voinov himself was a motherless child of six when his father, a successful engineer, fell victim to one of the many blood purges in Russia, and the boy lost home and family forever to become a "ward of the state."

From a happy home life little Voinov was thrown into Russia's grim jungle where, in order to survive, the wails were forced into a career of juvenile delinquency.

Stealing and killing, they defended themselves ferociously against a government that robbed them of their parents — their very place in life. They developed their own code of morals and — paradoxically enough — represented the strongest element of freedom and disobedience in the tightly regimented Red "paradise."

There are still thousands of homeless children roaming the cities of Russia — though their number is now somewhat reduced.

In addition to the regime's cruelty, in the Soviet Union — just as in "capitalist" America — a monotonous existence, sheer boredom and an unhappy family life are

High Court Upholds Death Sentence

AUSTIN — UP — A death sentence assessed Merle Wayne Ellis for the slaying of a highway patrolman was upheld Wednesday by the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Ellis was convicted of the Nov. 27, 1954 murder of Patrolman Robert James Crosby as the officer attempted to apprehend him for speeding at the eastern edge of Houston.

The court said testimony showed that a short time before the fatal shooting, Harris County Deputy Sheriff L. J. Scarborough attempted to stop Ellis for reckless driving.

Ellis fired several shots, hitting Scarborough in the shoulder, and then drove away at high speed, Scarborough testified. As Ellis stopped at a signal light, a highway patrol car driven by Crosby stopped behind him. An officer got out of the car, and Ellis opened fire with a shotgun. Crosby was killed as he sat in the car.

The high court said testimony and a portion of a confession made by Ellis—who had shortly before been released from prison — showed that about two days before the slaying Ellis had burglarized a tourist court, and stolen guns used in the killing. Ellis said, "We think that the evidence relating to the burglary was admissible on the issue of the appellant's intent at the time he shot Crosby," the appeals court said in an opinion written by Judge W. A. Morrison.

Judge Lloyd W. Davidson dissented on the ground that Scarborough's testimony should not have been admitted, or if it was the charge should have been reduced to murder without malice.

Summer Crops Show Progress In Texas

AUSTIN — UP — Summer crops are making "excellent progress" in the eastern half of Texas as a result of beneficial rains, the U.S. Department of Agriculture reported Wednesday.

However, the USDA said considerable replanting of cotton and sorghums, particularly in the low rolling plains, was forced by hail and washing rains in that area.

Moisture was reported short in much of the southern high plains, and drought continued to plague South Texas. Cotton insects were building up as rains washed off poison.

Field work was very active in south central, coastal, eastern and southern high plains counties, but recurring rains held field work at a standstill in the low rolling plains, cross timbers and blacklands.

Small grain harvest neared completion, except for high plains wheat. Combining was started in southern high plains counties. But cool weather delayed maturity of the short northern high plains crop.

The USDA reported an "exceptionally good" corn crop has reached the roasting ear stage in blackland and East Texas counties.

Farmers were reported having difficulty in getting and maintaining a stand of cotton in eastern cross timbers, northern-plateau and many plains counties. Beating rains and hail during the week made replanting of additional acreage necessary, some for the third time.

Development of most commercial vegetables was favorable, though East Texas tomato yields through August were expected to be improved in low-rolling plains, cross timbers and blacklands as frequent light to heavy rains maintained moisture.

some of the reasons that drive many young Russian boys and girls to become juvenile delinquents.

Obviously to bolster morale — to revive faith in the vanishing Communist ideal — the Red press is now devoting much space to praising the "new" Soviet man — while condemning juvenile crime in the "capitalist" U.S.

Writes Pravda: "The Soviet man, liberated from the chains of capitalist slavery, is real master in his country—the active builder of a new Communist life."

This is typical Red double-talk. It is designed to disguise the fact that youth behind the Iron Curtain shows increasing signs of passivity — if not yet active — resistance to the dictators.

Next: Youth rediscovers religion.

Triplets Born To Texas Woman

SHERMAN, Tex. — UP — Mrs. Edwin C. Harrison, a clerk-typist at Perrin Air Force Base, worked as usual Tuesday, then went to the base hospital and gave birth to triplets.

The triplet boys, first ever born at the base hospital, have been named Keith, Dale and Tommy.

Maj. George R. Steinkamp, hospital commander, said the three babies were born at 7 p.m. Mrs. Harrison, a slight brunette, had worked until 4:15 p.m.

Both mother and children were reported Wednesday to be doing well.

The triplets are the first children for Staff Sgt. Harrison and his wife.

CERTAINLY HOPE THE CROWDS at the remaining two games of the series with Abilene will better the total turnout that was on hand for last night's doubleheader.

A disappointing crowd of 884 paid customers clicked the turnstiles last night.

Once again, though, we had threatening weather and probably scared a lot of fans away.

Then too, the Archie Moore-Bobo Olson fight may also have contributed to the meager turnout.

Many fans were reported to have stayed home to watch the fight on television only to be disappointed. The fight was televised but it wasn't carried over either of the Amarillo TV stations.

Indians Get Paid For Cox

NEW YORK —UP— The Cleveland Indians may have a hard time fitting a "satisfactory sum" into their infield, but that was what they settled for Thursday from the Baltimore Orioles instead of Billy Cox.

The Indians, counting heavily upon Cox to shore up their porous infield, gave up outfielders Dave Pope and Wally Westlake plus cash before the trading deadline last week and received Cox and outfielder Gene Woodling in return.

When Cox went home to Newport, Pa., and retired from baseball, General Manager Hank Greenberg of Cleveland, laid the matter before Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick.

Wednesday Frick settled the issue in a conference here. It involved a cash settlement to Cleveland believed to be about $15,000.

Cabot, Kist Win In Kid Baseball Play

Cabot and Kist chalked up victories in the kid baseball ranks yesterday.

Cabot, the first half champ in the Eastern Little League, started its second half schedule yesterday with a 12-8 win over Hoffman Oil.

Kist opened its second half slate in the Pony League with a 10-0 win over Elmer's Super Market.

The third game scheduled yesterday, Spokesman vs. Utility Oil in the Western Little League, was called in the second inning because of rain.

Cabot won its Eastern LL game with a seven-run rally in the fifth inning.

Larry Stroud got the only homer for the winners with a roundtripper in the first inning.

Stroud went the route for Cabot to gain credit for the win.

Kippy Williams hurried the shut-out for Kist's Bottlers.

The Bottlers jumped into a quick 3-0 lead in the first inning and then added to their lead remainder of the game.

News, Tankers In 3-3 Draw

League leading Atlas Tank and the Pampa News battled to a 3-3 draw in the Pampa Teen Age League yesterday.

The game was called in the sixth inning because of darkness.

Bill Conway of the Tankers and Dickie Mauldin of the News hooked up in a brilliant mound duel.

Each allowed five hits.

The News threatened seriously to win the game in the sixth inning when Mauldin attempted to steal home. The News pitcher, however, was out on a close play.

Yesterday's game will go into the record books as a tie game.

The line score:

Pampa won the first game on a four-hitter by Red Dial. Abilene came back in the second game to score two runs in the eighth inning to tie the score and then went ahead with three runs in the ninth. Maurice Owen was the winner.

El Paso had to choke off a Plainview rally in the ninth inning to win. The Ponies got a total of 24 hits. El Paso used three hurlers with Kenney Yoke getting the win. Milton Ardrey was the loser.

Home runs by Vic Napolitano, Red McQuillen and Manager Mike Curman gave the Lubbock Hubbers their win over Amarillo.

Eddie Bockman got his 11th home run of the season to spark Albuquerque's win over Clovis.

Series Continues Tonight At 8:15

By BUCK FRANCIS
Pampa News Sports Editor
The Oilers picked up 10 runs in each game of their doubleheader with the Abilene Blue Sox last night at Oiler Park but the locals could manage only a split, winning the first game 10-1 behind Red Dial but dropping the nightcap, 13-10.

Despite the split, the Oilers retained their slim hold on first place in the West Texas-New Mexico League standings. Second place Plainview bowed to cellar-dwelling El Paso last night, 12-11, and thus dropped one-half game and nine percentage points behind the Oilers.

The two teams will meet in the seventh game of their "eight game series" tonight at Oiler Park. The Oilers and Blue Sox, who started the current series in Abilene, are all even in the first six games of the series, 3-3.

Buddy Woods, 5-4, will go for the Oilers in tonight's game. For Abilene it is expected to be either Ed Kapp or Dick Wisenhunt.

Red Dial rung up victory number eight for the Oilers in the opening of last night's twinned. Dial gave up only four hits, two coming in the seventh and final frame.

First baseman Bob Pascal deprived Dial of his second shutout of the season by slamming a two-out homer over the right field wall to account for the lone Blue Sox marker.

The Oilers pounded out four homers in the opener, one each by Dick Hairston, Curtis Hardaway, Dial and Pete Carmona.

Carmona hit.

Carmona was the leading hitter of the night for both clubs. The fancy-fielding second baseman had a perfect night for both games, six hits in six official at bats (3 for 3 in each game).

Carmona drove in what proved to be the tying and winning runs in the opener. Hairston and Dial singled in succession to start the Oiler second inning rally and after both moved up on a balk by Abilene pitcher Oran Stoker, Carmona drove a single to center to send Hairston and Dial across, giving the Oilers a 2-1 lead.

Carmona then scored the third run of the inning on Rach Slider's second straight hit.

The Oilers made it 4-1 in the third on Hairston's roundtripper that sailed over straightaway centerfield fence.

The locals turned the opener into a rout in the fourth with a four-run uprising. Successive singles by Carmona, Newt Secrest, and Rach Slider produced the first run of the inning as then Hardaway slammed his homer for the final three, boosting the Oiler lead to 8-1.

Solo homers by Dial and Carmona completed the scoring in the fifth inning.

Dial walked only one and struck out three in going the route for the 12th time this season. Besides Pascal's solo blast in the first, the Blue Sox never got a runner past first base with exception of the sixth when Bobby Westfall and Ozzie Walker singled to put runners on first and third with one away.

The rally died when Chet Morgan bounded into a double-play. Carmona to Slider to Fortin.

Abilene started and finished strong to win the second game. The visiting Blue Sox opened up with a five-run barrage in the first inning that drove starter Tom Pollet to the showers. The Sox then added three runs in the second to move ahead, 8-1.

Oilers Take Lead

The Oilers, however, began whittling away at the lead at the outset and finally overtook the Sox in the seventh with a three-run rally to go ahead, 9-8.

Dean Higgins, who had replaced Pollet, hurled shutout ball through the middle innings, third through the seventh, but he ran out of gas in the eighth and the Sox regained the lead and held on to the finish.

After the Sox had gone ahead 8-1, the Oilers scored once in their portion of the second on a sacrifice fly by Slider; twice in the third on doubles by Hardaway and Hairston and a single by Carmona.

Lockman Is Giant Handyman

CHICAGO —UP— Handyman Whitley Lockman of the New York Giants took over the lead Wednesday as the fans' choice for the left field berth on the National League all-star baseball team.

The first baseman-outfielder replaced Bob Speake of the Chicago Cubs by 11,654 votes in the latest tabulation in the annual poll. Lockman had 181,886 votes compared to Speake's 140,232.

Speake, even though he has been sitting on the bench in recent weeks, had taken over the lead earlier on the strength of his early-season showing.

The Cubs, however, still have three of the eight leading positions — second baseman Gene Baker, third baseman Randy Jackson and shortstop Ernie Banks.

The voting, to select the starting teams for the All-Star game at Milwaukee July 12, will end July 1.

STRATFORD, Conn. —UP— John C. Dalton Jr. of Chevy Chase, Md., won the all-bore individual title in the Great Eastern skeet shoot Sunday. The senior crown went to W. H. Keeney of East Paterson, N. J., while the women's title was won by Mrs. Chris Green-wich.

Bums Roll On, Hike Lead To 13 Games In Win Off Cubs

By UNITED PRESS
Shoot off a premature firecracker for those booming Brooklyn Dodgers because they now are certain to be in first place on the Fourth of July, the date which means an eventual pennant according to tradition.
Tradition isn't even in the Dodger starting lineup, but it has a pretty high batting average on teams winning the pennant after being on top July 4, so that should be of some significance to Dodger fans who may still have doubts about their heroes.
Since 1909 teams in first place on July 4 in the National League have gone on to win the pennant 35 times and lost out 20 times. But could there be one bad omen? The last time a July 4 leader failed to win the pennant was in 1951 when the Dodgers blew the flag to the Giants in the playoffs.
Can't Fall by Then
The Dodgers assured themselves of the lead on the holiday Wednesday when they again defeated the second-place Cubs 3-2 to go 13 games in front. The Cubs have 12 games to play before July 4 and if they won all and Brooklyn lost all of the 11 it has before that date, the Dodgers still would be in front.

Any of five American League teams conceivably could lead the pack by July 4, but the Yankees, as of now, still were in command by two games after another victory 6-1 over the Athletics. If the Yankees hold their margin they will be an even better bet to win the flag on past performance because in the junior circuit the July 4 leader has gone on to finish on top 38 times as against 17 failures.
Whitey Ford scattered nine hits for his eighth victory and Mickey Mantle hit another long homer in the Yankee triumph, but runner-up Chicago and third place Cleveland kept pace with shutout wins.
Chicago topped Washington 3-0 on a four-hitter by Dick Donovan. Cleveland defeated Baltimore 5-0 and Early Wynn's six-hitter in which he also accounted for two tallies with a double.
In other games, the Red Sox beat Detroit 12-7, the Giants edged Cincinnati 4-3, Milwaukee shutout Pittsburgh 6-0 and Philadelphia won 4-0 over the Cardinals.
Red Sox Near Top Division
The Red Sox moved to within a game of fourth place with a triumph over Detroit in which Ted Williams smacked three doubles and Norm Zaucha hit a three-run homer. Jim Piersall and Sammy White also hit Boston homers and Al Kaline hit two for Detroit while Ray Boone got one.
The Dodgers picked up an unearned run in the eighth to defeat the Cubs and hand Hal Jeffcoat his second straight defeat as a reliever after he had won six in a row. It was Jeffcoat's throwing error that set up Brooklyn's winning run.
Warren Spahn pitched a six-hit shutout for his fifth victory to give Milwaukee its 6-0 decision over Pittsburgh. It was Milwaukee's sixth straight win and Spahn and catcher Del Crandall contributed homers. Spahn drove in three runs.

Favorites Fall In NCAA Golf Tourney

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—UP—The NCAA golf championships, went into second round match play Thursday with at least a dozen favorites already eliminated, including defending champion Hillman Robbins of Memphis State and medalist John Pott of Louisiana State.
The only "name" player remaining in the tournament, which opened Monday, was Earl Moeller, 1953 champion from Oklahoma A&M. Moeller, who defeated Ray Ferguson of North Texas State, 1-up, Wednesday, met John Gerring of Wake Forest in his second-round match.
Robbins, who won the Sumnerhanna Invitational earlier this month, was eliminated by Chuck Briggs of Seattle, 1-up on the 20th hole. And the 19-year-old Pott went down, 2-up, at the hands of Bob Goetz, 22-year-old ex-serviceman from Oklahoma A&M.
The first round victories included:
John Garrett, Rice, over Larry Harper, Ohio State, 1-up, 20 holes.
Earl Moeller, Oklahoma A&M, over Ray Ferguson, North Texas State, 1-up.
Max Wilkinson, North Texas State, over Bob Travis, Mississippi, 5-4.
Joe Correll, North Carolina, over Stewart Carrell, SMU, 2-1.
Tom Reed, North Texas State, over Davis Love, Texas, 1-up.
Wayne Etherton, Purdue, over Tommy Cruise, Houston, 2-1.
George Clark, North Texas State, over Kirby Atwell, Texas, 7-5.
Bob Briggs, Texas A&M, over Buddy Manderson, Alabama, 1-up, 19 holes.
Ronnie Wenzler, Memphis State, over A. Triggs, North Texas State, 1-up, 20 holes.
Marcellino Moreno, Texas A&M, over James Russell, Ohio, 5-4.
Deny Bolster, Duke, over Jim Powell, North Texas State, 2-1.
Sonny Holt, Alabama, over Pete Hessemer, Houston, 1-up, 21 holes.

Moore Predicts He Will KO Rocky, Too

By JACK CUDDY
NEW YORK—UP—Light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore, slated at Wednesday night's quick defense of his crown, said Thursday, "I believe I'll knock out Rocky Marciano when we fight in September."
The 38-year-old Negro from San Diego, who belted out middleweight champion Carl (Bobo) Olson in the third round at the Polo Grounds Wednesday night, added, "I know it sounds as if I'm talking big. But I've got a lot of dynamite left I didn't use last night."
That the veteran with the little mustache and goatee would challenge for Marciano's title at Yankee Stadium, Sept. 22, seemed nearly certain because everyone concerned apparently wanted the fight.
Charley Johnson, Moore's manager, said he had been invited to confer Thursday with promoter Jim Norris about the probable September fight.
Impressed with Prowess
At Brockton, Mass., heavyweight champion Marciano said, "I'll be glad to defend against Moore any time. Arrangements for the fight are up to my manager, Al Weill."
Rocky saw the Moore-Olson fight on television and said he was impressed with ancient Archie's prowess.
Moore, top heavyweight contender as well as king of the 175-pounders, has been yelling on Marciano's heels more than a year for a title fight.
Archie floored 26-year-old Olson with a final left hook for the full 10 count at 2:19 of the third round.

Norris estimated that the September match would draw about $750,000. But Moore's pilot, Johnston, declared, "It will go more than a million."
Moore's fourth defense of the 175-pound crown against Olson, ruler of the 160 pound division, drew only 27,435 fans and $206,784 because of Wednesday's showers and threatening weather.
Right At Limit
Archie, scaling exactly 175 pounds to Bobo's 170 1/4, went into the ring favored at 14-5.
Speedy, 26-year-old Bobo forced the fight in the first round and landed more leather than the stalling Archie. All three ring officials gave Olson the first round, and Referee Ruby Goldstein also gave him the second.
But it was in the second that the smart, hard-hitting light-heavy champ took command. He shook Bobo with left jabs and left hooks to the head and landed three hard right smashes to the body.
In the third round, the stalking Moore knocked Olson off balance with a left-right-left. Then he staggered him with two hard straight rights to the head, hit him with a left hook that started him backwards and landed a dead terrific left hook to the face that dropped Bobo on his back in Moore's corner. Bobo rolled over onto his stomach and tried to lift himself up, he almost made it at "nine" but failed.
Although the gate was a disappointment, both fighters drew the largest purses of their careers. Moore's purse was estimated at $74,500; Olson's at $70,025.

Guaranteed Wage

The date — June 6, 1955 — may be a landmark for scholastic brooding when the researchers of the future ponder the rise and fall of Western Civilization. It unquestionably marks the opening of a new chapter in labor-management relations since the contract reached between the United Auto Workers and the Ford Motor Co. contains the concession by a major employer that it is obligated to pay employees when there is no work for them to do.

Just what immediate value the new contract with its key clause, the so-called Guaranteed Annual Wage, will have to the rank and file of the UAW is open to debate. The contract is a compromise in that in regard to the "guaranteed wage" it commits the employer to provide 60 per cent of normal take-home pay for a period of 26 weeks to each employee laid off after he has established a "tenure" to his job.

The compromise itself should be satisfactory to the labor bosses who can report to their union memberships that when new contract negotiations come up they can work for increasing the percentage of pay for no work done and the time in which the employer will be obliged for the dole.

But there are gimmicks in the wage "guarantee" provision that are not too well publicized. The "guarantee" does not go into effect until June 1, 1956, a year hence, and there is a proviso that it will not be instituted at all until the laws of home states in which two-thirds of Ford workers are employed are so interpreted that the supplementary compensation does not endanger the state-dispersed unemployment insurance.

State laws in California, Connecticut, Kansas, Minnesota, Mississippi, Illinois and Ohio appear to ban payments of state unemployment insurance except for periods when workers are in a position roughly described as "performing no services and receiving no wages."

You can look for quite an effort on the part of Walter Reuther and his minions in the political arena to "adjust" these conditions.

Management of Ford has acceded to the plan but a great number of economists — possibly all those not in the hire of organized unions — have contended that the scheme of the UAW is not financially practical. This factor cannot be tested in such materially prosperous times as these. The crisis will come in a recession or a depression and if this principle of wage guarantee spreads to the whole auto industry and to other heavy industry the spectre of bankruptcy will be more sharply outlined for not only fringe operators but for the most solid of companies.

If the plan cannot be instituted or if it does not work at all, there will be no benefit for the workers. In this connection the Wall Street Journal makes pointed comment. It stated editorially: "It (the wage guarantee) is clearly dubious for management in an industry which depends on variable demand. . . . But even if it does work as it is supposed to, there is plenty of reason to doubt that it is the best deal the workers could have got had the negotiations been open-minded."

"Suppose the workers had won the equivalent of GAW's cost in straight wage increases. Would they have been financially worse off? Or suppose the settlement had been on the basis of the company's proposal, which among other benefits would have enabled the workers to buy bonds and Ford stock with the company contributing to the purchases. Is it better for a man to be paid up to 65 per cent of his normal take-home pay for not working or be able to accumulate a reserve of securities? Is a company-paid dole preferable to ownership in the company?"

We agree with the Journal that the answers to the questions are obvious. A worker given a choice between the wherewithal to provide his own security and a guarantee of charity is a devil of a lot more his own man when he takes the road of independence.

But we don't think the rank and file of UAW members were given a real choice. We don't think they were allowed by their union rulers to think at all upon the choices offered. And we believe they were suckered into a deal designed not to benefit the workers but designed rather in the long pull to regiment management and labor into industrial socialism.

If and when Guaranteed Annual Wage is imposed upon the economy of the United States we are going to have less and less of material things because they are going to be more and more expensive.

The equivalent of every penny that Ford and other companies have to contribute to its employees will be added to the price of each and every car that is sold in the United States. Furthermore, the giant corporations are not going to pay out any more doles than they have to and more and more of the labor involved will be concentrated in the giant manufacturers which will reduce nation-wide the opportunities for employment.

Mr. Reuther and his union probably never gave a tinker's dam about Guaranteed Annual Wage. What they sought was the principle of employer-paid compensation for unemployment which forces upon the national economy the obligation of guaranteed employment.

In the long history of man the only way this has ever been achieved for any large number of workers for any substantial period of time has been through an ancient custom which goes by the name of slavery. That is the ultimate result of the Reuther plan.

Surest Road to Peace Is To Abolish Conscription

Those people who have studied history are convinced that there is not much chance to have peace as long as nations conscript the youth of the land. If the United States would propose to the rest of the nations that we have treaties agreeing not to conscript soldiers, we would be on the road to peace. And why should not the United States be willing to agree with other nations not to conscript soldiers? Russia and China, and India have a great many more men than the United States and its reputed allies have.

Advantage Of Method It would be much easier to ascertain whether the other nations were violating this agreement than it would be to ascertain whether they are producing atomic weapons. No nation could conscript without other nations knowing it. Not so with an agreement to refrain from producing atomic weapons.

Moral Issue Peace is the result of people believing in moral laws and conscription violates the inalienable rights of the individual.

United States Should Set An Example Even if the rest of the world would not agree to abolish conscription, the United States should set the example. It is indeed strange that the United States, which was largely settled by men who left the old world to get away from conscription, should now be conscripting soldiers in peace time.

This country was not founded by conscripting soldiers. The Revolutionary War and the War of 1812 were fought without conscription. Ever since we have abandoned moral principals and adopted conscription we have been in trouble. The only way to abolish conscription is to get men and more people in the United States to realize that it is the practical and surest way to secure peace and the best way to do this is to constantly explain the terrible results of conscription. In short, the best way is to educate the voters to come to understand that they will be safer, have more peace of mind, have a better character and be more prosperous if the United States abolishes conscription. With this idea in mind, I am going to reproduce several days a great article written by Dean Russell under the heading of "The Conscription Idea" and published in the May issue of "Ideas on Liberty." It is published by the Foundation for Economic Education. It is one of the best thought-producing articles I have ever run across on the great harm that comes from the conscription idea. If the reader really wants to help promote peace, the best way he can do it is to inform himself, and I know of no better way than to read "The Conscription Idea," which will be published in serial form beginning with this issue.

The Conscription Idea Dean Russell "The principle of voluntarism should not be compromised." That policy on civilian manpower was recommended to the National Security Council in a May, 1954, report from the Office of Defense Mobilization.

The report suggests an extensive program of voluntary incentives as the best method to secure the most effective use of civilian manpower in time of war. Would not the principle of voluntarism work just as well for soldiers as for civilians? Would not present-day Americans volunteer to defend their country as our ancestors did in the earlier history of our nation? An increasing number of influential persons, including men who have devoted their lives to military affairs, are again beginning to think so.

Among them is Liddell Hart, the distinguished British military authority and military advisor to Encyclopaedia Britannica, who says: "Twenty-five years spent in the study of war . . . changed my earlier and conventional belief in the value of conscription. It brought me to see that the compulsory principle was fundamentally inefficient."

While the present Administration is now taking long-overdue steps to make military service more attractive to volunteers, it still depends on conscription to supply the bulk of its troops. In fact, the President has recommended to Congress a system of universal military training which is based squarely on the old German, Russian, and French tradition of compulsory military training for all young men as a matter of routine.

BID FOR A SMILE

When M. Cambon was French ambassador to the United States he visited Chicago and was shown the sights of the city by the mayor. The ambassador expressed his thanks for the mayor's kindness.

"Well, Hank I suppose you noticed in the paper yesterday where I had been named Secretary of State."

"That was not enough of a comment," Mr. Knox retorted further. "Well, what are the folks saying about it?"

Labor Man Warns Of Dictatorship By Labor

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — A solemn warning against an attempted economic or political dictatorship by organized labor was delivered recently by one of the movement's veteran and most respected members — Guy L. Brown, Grand Chief Engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

His remarks were inspired by the proposed merger of the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations. They were directed in particular toward Walter P. Reuther, CIO head and author of the so-called "guaranteed wage plan," and George L. Meany, AFL president.

Reuther and Meany are expected to be the No. 1 and No. 2 officers in the forthcoming merged labor organization, which will have a membership of between 15,000,000 and 20,000,000 workers. Even before the formation of the AFL-CIO merger, Reuther has just demonstrated his power by wresting unusually favorable contracts from the Ford Motor Company and General Motors.

Neither firm felt that they could resist his economic threat to close them down in a period of profitable production and sales. Addressing a recent convention Brown announced that he would not join the new combination. Neither his objections nor the reasons motivating him received serious notice in the so-called "labor press," for considerations that will become clear.

Brown declared that "shorter hours and more pay," while a worthy objective, is not "labor's most important business today."

"Survival in an atomic age," he enjoined them, "is the nation's business. It is labor's business, and survival is now being defended on the skilled manpower front."

Adenauer Visit Symbolizes Berlin's Long, Hard Journey

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — During the short visit of German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer to Washington, two American officials who played a major role in helping to rebuild the new Germany had an occasion to reminisce a little about the last five years.

They were John J. McCloy, first U.S. high commissioner to Germany and Dr. James Bryant Conant, now the first American ambassador to Bonn.

It gave them a chance, too, to pay tribute to Dr. Adenauer as the real elder statesman of Europe — now that Churchill has retired — and the head of Europe's most stable postwar government.

This marks an amazing transition in 10 years from the completely defeated and unconditionally surrendered Germany of Adolf Hitler to the reborn Germany of today. Though the years seemed long and difficult while they lasted, in retrospect they have been short.

McCloy succeeded Gen. Lucius Clay, the military governor of the American zone in occupied Germany. This marked the first step toward return to civilian control. McCloy recalled the first time he met Dr. Adenauer. It was in the vast directors' room of the I. G. Farben trust in Frankfurt. The German had already served for more than 20 years as mayor of Cologne, and had earned retirement. Yet he came back to lead his people out of their ruins.

"There was a lot of lumber between us," McCloy commented concerning the huge directors' table. But across this board, and later in the oil castles on the Rhine hills above Bonn, the recovery of Germany was hammered out.

Sometimes — as on currency reform and other big issues — we would work all night," McCloy recalled. "We would watch the sun come up and still not have finished. But the freshest man there would always be Dr. Adenauer. He has vigor and he had integrity. He had a great understanding of the United States and its problems."

McCloy continued, "He had clarity of perception that has made him a world leader who can meet any blandishments the Kremlin may offer."

FDR Trucked With Economic Royalists Whom He "Hated"

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Although Franklin D. Roosevelt preferred to hate the rich, he had much traffic with them both in his youth and in the time of his presidency. He called them, with the bitter malice of "economic royalists" as his wife's uncle Theodore had called them "malefactors of great wealth."

Possibly Franklin did not invent the phrase "economic royalists" — because he was a shameless plagiarist as shown in his cribbing of a very good article about the old Mauretania. But Theodore did have a knack for imagery and abusive combination of words.

Driven by curiosity and a desire to fill in another chunk in history, I ventured to ask Vincent Astor some questions about F. D. Roosevelt's use of Astor's yacht, "Nourmahal," one of the most luxurious private cruising vessels in the world. The Astors had been economic royalists in a much more literal sense than most of the new rich Americans of the period.

They had run with royalty in Britain for many decades. They were some cases, married Britons little below the rank of royalty, and had shown a preference for English aristocracy. As to Vincent, personally, this preference was less marked and his "Americanism" had been above reproach. Nevertheless, up to the time of Roosevelt's first term, he had been regarded as a member of the republican element in our economic and social life.

In I wrote Mr. Astor to ask a number of questions about Roosevelt's use of "Nourmahal" and I have had an answer, which belongs, I think, among the footnotes of history.

I do not want to impede the progress of any legitimate inquiry for purposes of journalism," said he. "However, I am sure you realize that some of the questions you ask verge on the personal. You are known as a zealous defender of the rights of individuals to resist scrutiny of any kind. Therefore, I say that some of your questions, particularly as to motives and politics, do not seem a subject for legitimate inquiry. Your question as to whether any compensation was received in connection with the President's visit to 'Nourmahal' falls in a different category. I am glad to tell you that of course no compensation ever was received from Mr. Roosevelt or from the government."

It also may be helpful to you to know that some of the questions you raise deal with matters of public knowledge. Mr. Roosevelt's half-brother was my uncle and we were neighbors in Dutchess County. I knew Mr. Roosevelt from my earliest boyhood days and until his death, regarded him as a close and loyal friend. I was always glad when my old friend was able to cruise aboard "Nourmahal" as guest. He was treated in the same manner as was any other guest, except for certain precautionary measures imposed by his high office. Naturally I was proud to have the "Nourmahal" fly the standard of the commander-in-chief in the same sense that I was proud, during the war, to have the privilege of wearing the uniform of the United States Navy.

With appropriate respect, I have to disagree with some points in this letter. I am not a defender of "the rights of individuals to resist scrutiny of any kind." I hold the conduct of a president of the United States, before, during, and after his presidency, deserves scrutiny. It follows, then, I submit, that if a very rich man of republican aspect confers favors of substantial cash value on a democratic president who is notoriously light-fisted and is gunning for "economic royalists," it is permissible to inquire whether the rich man had any interests which might have been jeopardized by the ill-will of that president. The many examples of companies which tried to propitiate Roosevelt by financial favors to members of his family.

Meaning no insinuation, therefore, I do insist that it is fair to inquire whether Mr. Astor had any hidden motive. However, without knowledge of any questionable situation, we simply must accept his decision to say nothing.

I would like to know what the payroll of this ship was and the cost of "finding" her when Roosevelt was flying his flag aboard her. Did Astor ever lend the whole layout to anyone else? Numerous questions flow from this line of curiosity which I deem reasonable.

I have read in a book called "The Astors," by Harvey O'Connor, who is known to me, that the intimacy between Astor and FDR ended when Roosevelt sent his "Soak the Rich" message to Congress in 1935 deploring "the disturbing effects on our national life that come from great inheritances of wealth and power."

Roosevelt said "the transmission of great fortunes by inheritance is not consistent with the ideals of the American people." O'Connor says that was the end of a beautiful friendship, but how he knows I don't know.

Astor and Averell Harriman, of all people, founded a weekly political review called "Today" which did not catch on with the public. Ray Moley, the chief of Roosevelt's brain trust, was the original editor. The change in policy coincided, roughly, with Moley's decision to quit and oppose most of the new deal.

Astor and Harriman founded "Today" and acquired "Newsweek," a civilized version of Henry Luce's "Time." Moley still carries on at Newsweek and I believe Astor is the owner, but as to Harriman in that respect I have no information.

As to the question of whether the change in policy coincided with Moley's decision to quit and oppose most of the new deal, I have no information.

The CRACKER BARREL

The Soviet Union is a slave state and every so often the slaves get restless. And when the slaves get restless, they begin to hope that the people menaced by their Kremlin bosses will get tough enough to make a new revolution, inside Russia, possible. But this never happens. Because, when the Kremlin bosses find themselves in trouble, abroad and internally they begin to coo like doves. And America always falls for it. When the Five Year Plans started flopping, they talked soft to Nazi Germany. When Hitler attacked them, they talked soft to the West. President Eisenhower's Republican victory (won on a platform promising "an end to the negative, futile, and immoral policy of containment") scared them again for they thought he "really meant it" when he talked of a "rollback" of the Iron Curtain and the liberation of captive peoples in Europe and Asia. So they talked soft and we fell for it by concluding a Korean peace that left North Korea in slavery and forbade Chiang Kai-shek to attempt the liberation of China. In short, whenever Russia talks soft, we get soft and that gives the Communist bosses a breathing spell in which to get tough again. How long are we going to fall for it? JONATHAN YANK

OVER THE SEAS—Seven yachts that set sail for Sweden from Newport, R. I., expect to take a month or more to reach that country. Headed for Marstrand in the first race of this kind from an American port in 20 years, the field included two entries from the U.S. There are four from West Germany and one from Norway. Grand prize is the King of Sweden Cup.

UP IN THE AIR—Three soccer players are leaping in contention for the ball during a match between Irish and German teams at Hamburg. The suspended trio are, left to right: O'Neill and Donovan, of Ireland, and Waldner, of Germany. The Germans won, 2-1, before a gathering of 60,000 fans.

WILD WEST IN EAST—Texas boots line the edge of a pool in Miami Beach as students from the Lone Star State take a dip. They're high school graduates from Nixon whooping it up.

PICTURE SPORTS NEWS AROUND THE WORLD

PLAYING PRINCE—With his eyes on the ball, Japan's Crown Prince Akihito draws his racket back for a forward smash. This took place during a semi-annual tennis tournament between guards of the Crown Prince's Palace and the Imperial Palace in Tokyo. A large crowd saw the Prince win, 6-4.

HE MADE IT!—Randy Jackson of the Chicago Cubs slides home safely as the ball arrives too late for catcher Roy Campanella of the Brooklyn Dodgers at Ebbets Field. Ernie Banks hit a fly ball to Duke Snider who threw to Campanella. Umpire Frank Dascoli calls the play.

GREETING COMMITTEE—Giant pitcher Johnny Antonelli is being congratulated by teammates—Bill Taylor (27) and Gail Harris, at right—upon crossing the plate at the Polo Grounds with his homer in the fourth inning of the opener against St. Louis. Taylor and Harris scored ahead of the southpaw. The bat boy is shown in foreground. Antonelli won his own game, as Giants beat Cardinals with a final 8-3.

CYCLE SERVICE—Room service on bicycles is an unusual feature of the Jasper Park Lodge in the Canadian Rockies. Waiters use bikes to speed orders from a central building to guest cottages spread out over the surrounding area, so they have to be athletic.

ONE'S A PHONY—Union Jack, right, is a bit skeptical about that look-alike in Richmond, England. Fact is, the "horse" at the left is a dummy, used to show the latest in horsemanship. Union Jack's owner, Rachel Malby, was exhibiting her chestnut gelding at the Richmond Royal Horse Show when she introduced him to the clothes-horse.

HOT WEATHER SPORT—Though it may not seem so, these members of a group of about 100 are right in the swim of summer sports at Mount Washington, N. H. There's plenty of summer skiing on the mountain, and the snow is expected to last well into the hot weather usually encountered in July.

TWO KINDS OF RACERS—Noreen Fairweather and Olive White, who hail from London, England, did their best to keep sunny smiles despite stormy weather in New York as they prepared to begin a motorcycle jaunt from the City Hall, left. They expect to cycle all the way to Los Angeles and back in about three months. At the beginning of another race in France, two fair fans were on hand to cheer the participants on, right. They obviously had much better weather than the gals in New York.

NEW HOBBY—Archery isn't a new sport, but it's the latest hobby sweeping West Berlin. This man is shown practicing his art in the Wansee park and lake district at the city's outskirts where other archers take their bows and arrows.

BUN RUN—A group of Sumo wrestlers are trying to bite off more than they can chew during a track-and-field day in Tokyo. They chomp away, trying to snare buns that swing on strings. Object is to snare a bun without using the hands, then run 50 yards with the prize intact.

Trouble At Home Puts Reds On Defensive With West

By W. A. RYSER
Written for United Press
LONDON — UP — Russia needs time in order to deal with some pressing problems of its own. This fact emerges after an extensive survey of recent internal developments in the Soviet Union by experts here.

These experts believe that the current switch in Soviet foreign policy is due as much to difficulties at home as to the firmness of the West.
Internal Problems
Soviet government leaders seem to be confronted by a series of formidable internal problems which they need time to settle.

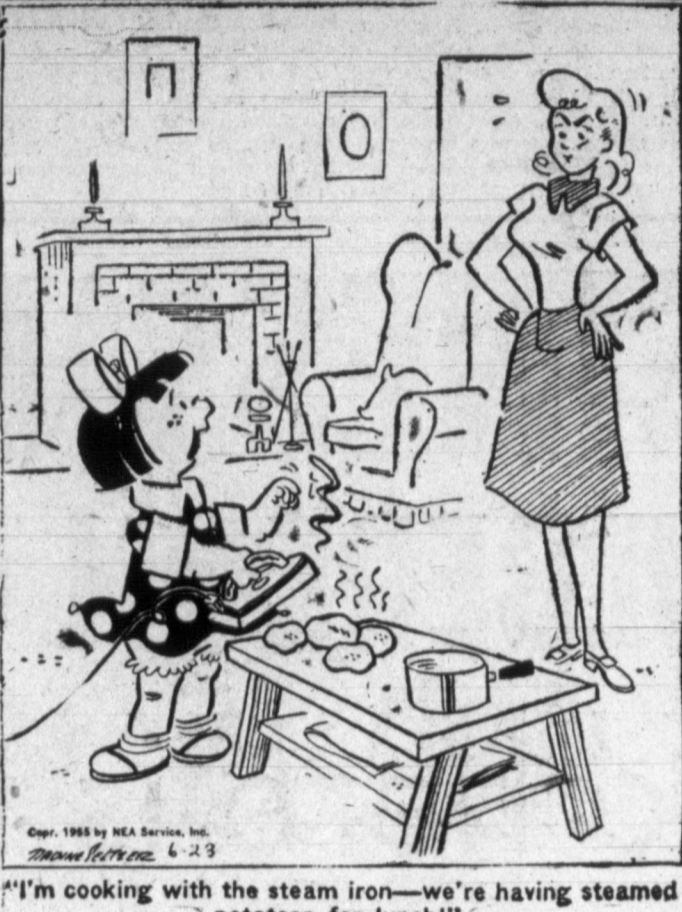

1. The unresolved struggle for power. The main thing about the Russian Communist party is that it has remained unpurged after the downfall of Premier Georgi M. Malenkov. This is attributed to the moderating influence of the army, which is now more powerful than ever before, and in the future of who the man to win supremacy.

2. Agricultural crisis. Russia's difficulties in producing enough food, publicly admitted by Communist party First Secretary Nikita S. Khrushchev, have not been overcome. Grandiose schemes involving vast land reclamation projects have failed to bring victory in the fight for more grain and more cattle.

3. The industrial lag. The recent conferences which industrial bosses have held in Moscow have shown that Russia is falling behind in new techniques and scientific invention. Productivity in industry remains low. Low productivity is becoming a major national problem because of the shortage of labor. As the result of the conferences, Lazar M. Kaganovich has been named labor and wages boss and Vyacheslav Malyshev has been named head of a committee on new industrial techniques.

4. The co-ordination of economic plans and help for Red China. There are indications that the Kremlin plans to integrate its own and satellite economic systems in such a way as to give maximum aid to Red China in its industrialization campaign.

5. Power Struggle First
The most immediate of the four problems is the struggle for power within the communist party. This struggle may be resolved before the next meeting of the all-Soviet Union Communist party, due sometime next year.
The agricultural problem is a long-term one. As for the industrialization of Communist China, the needs of that country are limitless.

Rayburn Says Ike's Needed For Gas Bill

WASHINGTON — UP — Speaker Sam Rayburn Wednesday challenged President Eisenhower to direct natural gas producers from federal price control.

The veteran Texas Democrat told reporters it will take "the endorsement and power of the administration," including the President himself, to get the legislation passed.

A presidential committee has recommended the action, and the House Interstate Commerce committee has approved a bill to effect it. But the President so far has not taken a stand on the issue.

Rayburn said continued federal control of gas prices at the well-head — as ordered by the Supreme Court in the so-called Phillips decision — will mean in his opinion higher rather than lower prices to the consumer.

This has been a matter of hot controversy, with some big city interests contending the opposite side.

Carney Says Red Sea Power Is Growing

LOS ANGELES —UP— Adm. Robert B. Carney, chief of naval operations, said Tuesday that growth of Communist sea power in the Pacific has reduced the allied margin of supremacy in that area "to some extent."

In a speech prepared for the local advertising club Carney said "we must be alert to the fact that Allied supremacy is again being challenged in the Pacific." He said the fact signals a threat to the free world's Pacific alliances.

Carney said the Russian fleet is growing in numbers of modern cruisers, destroyers, submarines, and airplanes and is "exerting an ever-increasing influence in the ocean areas" where it operates.

It is developing, Carney said, "a real capability for restricting allied maritime movement."

He added that Red China is forming "an embryo navy" with surface craft, submarines, and aviation.

Communist power "has not yet destroyed Allied supremacy over the vast reaches of the Pacific," Carney said, but it has "to some extent reduced the margin of allied supremacy and cannot be ignored."

2 Americans Wounded In Gun Battle

TIJUANA, Mex. —UP— Two U.S. citizens were critically wounded Wednesday in a running gun battle with state police. Two officers also were wounded.

Police Chief Alberto Peraza said the Americans, Patrick Lee Malone, of Compton, Calif., and Robert Allen Fang, of Long Beach, Calif., approached a taxi driver on the main street of Tijuana and attempted to sell him some smuggled guns.

Peraza said the driver, Miguel Valdesquez Gonzalez, halted two passing state policemen, Sgt. Guadalupe Pena Lara and office Jesus Flores Miranda.

As the Americans approached, the Americans pulled guns and began firing. Both officers fell. Pena was shot in the chest and Flores Miranda with a bullet in the shoulder.

The officers drew their guns and returned the fire from the street.

As the Americans ran down the main street other officers joined the chase. Witnesses estimated a total of 40 shots were exchanged.

Fang and Malone were taken to Aleman hospital where their condition was listed as critical. Each was hit by several bullets.

Police searched the car the Americans were driving and found 17 guns of .38 and .32 caliber, plus 20 boxes of shells. They also found 31 auto keys.

GAW Fight Moves To Texas Coast

HOUSTON — Labor's guaranteed annual wage battle spread to the Texas Gulf Coast Wednesday with striking seamen picketing four major tanker-operating oil companies reportedly gave in almost immediately.

The surprise maneuver, picketing of dry-land industries by seamen of both CIO and AFL maritime unions, was almost unprecedented. Seamen last struck against dry-land gulf coast industries back in 1938.

Joseph Dunn, National Maritime Union (CIO) port agent here, said the action was "forced."

Several Plants Picketed

"The companies had us over a barrel," Dunn said. "They were running their tankers into small ports and swamps and were laughing at us. We had to show them that we meant business."

Pickets appeared at plants of the Sinclair Refining Co., at nearby La Porte; the Pan American Refinery Corp., Texas City, and the Port Arthur plants of Gulf Oil Corp., and the Texas Company. However, the pickets were removed from the Sinclair plant shortly before midnight Tuesday night when Sinclair and NMU officials reached agreement in New York.

Dunn ordered pickets withdrawn from Pan American at Texas City and Gulf at Port Arthur at 10 a. m. He said agreements had been reached also with those companies in New York Wednesday. Pickets remained at the Texas

Lamesa Short On Water

LAMESA, Tex. —UP— Lamesa faced a serious water shortage Thursday and city officials asked residents not to water lawns, wash cars or use excessive water in any manner.

W. E. Sealy, superintendent of the water department, said the city's wells were falling more than usual. The West Texas town of 13,000 faced a similar crisis several years ago, but extra wells were drilled then and the city had no more trouble until recently.

A new well, supplying 125-gallons-per-minute, was drilled last week and was tied in with the city lines Wednesday night. Sealy said he hoped this would supplement the supply so the water restrictions may be taken off.

The city council has been trying to buy several sections of land near Lamesa to drill more wells. Lamesa draws all its water from about 34 wells. There are no surface reservoirs in the area and although rains this spring eased the drought situation somewhat, they did little toward helping the water supply.

The water table in the area has been dropping steadily, due principally to widespread irrigation of crops.

The vehicular tunnel under the Detroit River connecting Detroit, Mich., and Windsor, Ont., is the only international tunnel in the world.
