Nixon Signs Bombing Funds Legislation

FLEEING THE HEAT — As the temperature soared to 100 degrees again for the second time in a week, crowds flocked to the local swimming pools Sunday afternoon in an effort to escape from the heat. The high temperatures are expected to linger through at least Tuesday, with good possibilities for a hot Fourth of July.

Warns He May Request Extension For Authority

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon signed legislation Sunday cutting off funds for U.S. military involvement in Indochina Aug. 15 but warned he will ask for authority to continue the American war effort after that date if he believes it necessary.

Nixon placed his signature on a package of bills that also provided for raising Social Security benefits next year and continued government spending and borrowing authority.

The legislation was passed Saturday by Congress and flown to the Western White House for Nixon's signature. The compromise measures had averted a stalemate that had threatened to leave government agencies without operating funds when the 1973 fiscal year ended at midnight Saturday.

Last week, Nixon vetoed a bill that would have cut off funds for the U.S. bombing campaign in Cambodia immediately. The compromise measure allows him to continue the raids for another six weeks.

The President said in a message Sunday the sudden bombing halt would "not have brought us the lasting peace that we all desire." He said a "responsible settlement" in Indochina remained a matter of "the greatest urgency."

He said the last remaining element in forging a Southeast Asian settlement was "a stable Cambodian settlement." Nixon then warned he might have to ask Congress for bombing authority beyond the Aug. 15 date.

"I will continue to take the responsible actions necessary to win that peace," Nixon said. "Should further actions be required to that end later this year, I shall request the Congress to help us achieve our objectives."

The measures Nixon signed also provided for a 5.6 per cent increase in Social Security benefits for 30 million elderly Americans starting July 3, 1974. Payroll taxes will be increased $35.10 for workers with annual incomes of $12,600 or more in 1974.

Extended the $465 billion ceiling on the national debt through Nov. 30, maintaining the government's authority to borrow money.

The Social Security measure will result in an increase from $161 to $170 a month for individuals qualifying for maximum benefits, and from $277 to $293 for couples. The bill also boosts federal welfare guarantees for the aged, blind and disabled from $130 to $140 a month for single persons and from $195 to $210 for couples.

HUMPHREY SAYS

President Needs To Come Clean

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey believes President Nixon should "come clean with the American people" by telling what he knows about the Watergate scandal.

The Minnesota Democrat, Nixon's opponent in the 1968 presidential election, said Sunday he believed there was historical precedent for the President to make an "appropriate appearance" in the "appropriate forum."

He said the forum might be the Watergate grand jury or the Senate Watergate Committee. Humphrey's suggestion that the President explain himself echoed those of leaders of the Senate committee.

The committee is in recess this week for Congress' observance of the Independence Day holiday. Last week the committee spent five days hearing the testimony of John W. Dean III, the former White House counsel, who charged that Nixon was aware of the cover-up of the Watergate affair.

Grand Jury Investigation Continues

The grand jury probe into allegations of a "payoff" involving the district attorney's office entered its third day at 9 a.m. with no estimate of the duration of the hearings.

County Attorney John Warner, acting instead of the district attorney, said that while he did not think the panel would need the entire 90-day term extension granted Friday, he did not foresee an immediate conclusion to the deliberations.

District Judge Grainger McElhenny granted the extension in open court Friday when it became apparent the grand jury could not conclude its work before its term expired Saturday.

Every law enforcement officer in Gray County received a subpoena to appear before the panel. These were taken one at a time into the sequestered chambers where hearings were being held, causing the drawn-out hours of procedure.

Since the extension was granted and due to the fact that Judge McElhenny has court commitments in other parts of the district, findings of the grand jury will not be made known until after the judge has received the report July 13, the first date he will be available for that formality.

County Okays Projects Bids

Members of the Gray County Commissioners court approved bids on two items totaling almost $35,000, considered final stages of the Red Deer Creek project and went into executive session to consider a committee appointment.

Ted Simmons Chevrolet Co., McLean, was the low bidder on a pickup truck with trade-in for Precinct Four. The price accepted as the successful bid by the court was $2,455.

Pam-Tex, Inc., was the successful bidder on a proposed building in Precinct One. Only two bids were in at deadline. The Pam-Tex figure was $32,273. A third bid from a Borger firm arrived after the deadline set for opening bids.

Final action was delayed on the Red Deer Creek project, a control system of 20 dams to be executed in conjunction with the soil conservation service, until some right-of-way details could be worked out. This is necessary before final cost to the county can be fixed.

Total cost for the project is estimated at $2.6 million. Following routine consideration of salaries, bills, insurance and other administrative matters, the panel went into executive session to consider an appointment to the Mental Health and Mental Retardation Regional Committee.

FOR SECOND TIME

Thermometer Hits 100-Degree Mark

The firecracker month of July, usually noted for hot weather, came into Pampa with a short fuse Sunday, pushing the official thermometer to 100 degrees, the second time in less than a week. Last Tuesday also saw 100 degrees.

Humidity about 32 per cent higher than the average made every one of those degrees of heat felt as Pampans went about their weekend activities.

Official weather observers predict this month will be a far cry from July, 1972, when the thermometer plummeted to 50 degrees in Pampa with leaden skies looking more like snow than a summer storm.

While in Pampans June ushered in "instant summer," the National Weather Service reported today that average temperatures for June were almost two degrees below the average. Along with that report was the notation that rainfall was two inches below the normal for June, too.

After a low last night of 73, the forecast is for fair skies and continued hot afternoons through Tuesday with night time readings in the seventies. No moisture possibility is in sight for the next 48 hours, according to weather observers.

With the wheat harvest nearing conclusion, most area residents are beginning incantations for rain for lawns, flowers, shrubs and just plain old earth parched by the hot winds.

And they were joined by most of the state.

Scattered rainshowers fell along the coast Sunday but most of the state was hot and dry, and, in spite of the heavy rains which have doused the state this year, many sections of the state need rain badly.

Although rains have drenched North and South Central Texas and the Gulf Coast, sections of the state like the High Plains

NO LEADS IN DEATH

Assailant Shoots Israeli Deputy Military Attache

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Reacting to the slaying of an Israeli attache, President Nixon ordered security tightened around all members of the Washington diplomatic community. But police declared today they had no leads in the killing.

The FBI said it has been unable to determine whether Col. Yosef Alon, deputy military attache of the Israeli Embassy, was the victim of a crime or whether guerrilla terrorists were responsible for his shooting early Sunday.

Alon, 44, father of three girls, was shot five times in the chest as he returned from a private party with his wife. Police theorized the assailant had hidden in the garage of the Alon home on a tree-shaded street in the fashionable Washington suburb of Chevy Chase.

Alon's body was returned to Israel today on a military Boeing 707 provided by Nixon. When the plane carrying coffin and his grief-stricken family arrived in Tel Aviv, Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan pledged that his nation would continue to strike against Arab terrorists wherever we can hit them.

Dayan told newsmen at Lod International Airport that "there is no exact proof yet from Washington, but I suppose that one of the Arab guerrilla organizations did this. I see no motive for any other people."

As an Air Force chaplain chanted the Jewish prayer for the dead, Alon's youngest daughter, Rachel, 5, cried out "father." Alon's coffin, draped in the blue and white Israeli flag bearing the Star of David, was driven from the airfield on an army jeep.

Israeli newspapers blamed Arab guerrillas for the attack, but said there was not adequate security on the part of the U.S. government and Israeli security forces.

Nixon Sunday personally ordered the Executive Protection Service "to increase the protection activities of the diplomatic community in Washington." He conveyed condolences from the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif., to the Israeli Embassy in Washington.

An Arab newspaper with close contacts in the Palesti-an guerrilla movement said Alon's death was the handwork of Arab guerrillas. In Beirut, the newspaper Al Moharrer said Alon's death was proof the guerrilla war against Israel would not end.

During a 20-minute plane side eulogy at Andrews Air Force Base Sunday night, Ambassador Simcha Dinitz told mourners in Hebrew: "The frontiers of Israel are everywhere. The hands of those who tried to kill him in the air, reached him here."

As Dinitz spoke, Alon's two older daughters, Dahlia, 18 and Yael, 14, sobbed softly. His third daughter, Rachel, 5, stood quietly.

In Jerusalem, Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir's office released a condolence telegram from Nixon saying "our law enforcement agencies have been instructed to devote all existing resources to investigation of this brutal act."

Nixon Says Food Prices Will Drop

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon said Sunday that food prices will drop this autumn under the impact of the biggest wheat crop ever and a harvest swollen by 40 million acres of additional farm land.

In a 13-minute nationwide radio address, Nixon promised to keep the across-the-board price freeze, which has antagonized some businessmen, "as short as possible."

He said his advisers are currently consulting with consumer, business and labor groups on Phase Four. The new policy, which will apparently involve stronger controls than those of Phase Three, will be "comprehensive and realistic," he said.

Nixon said he was "pleased to be able to report that Americans generally are cooperating in making the freeze a success. Prices are being held. We are determined that prices will continue to be held. The wheat crop this year is expected to be the biggest ever. Many measures we have taken to increase the supply of farm commodities, including the release of more than 40 million additional acres for farm production—will eventually bring more farm products to the market, and will provide relief against high food prices. But meanwhile, we are paying in higher food prices for the combination of limited supply and greater worldwide demand.

He predicted the greater supply of farm products would also ease the ban on exports of food, which has upset some of this nation's foreign buyers.

In the long run, the one thing—and the only thing—that will keep prices down is sufficient supply to meet the demand, coupled with responsible fiscal and monetary policies," he added.

Since his arrival here nine days ago, Nixon has remained on the grounds of the California White House, tending to official business. He was to preside at 12:30 p.m. CDT today at the swearing in of James R. Schlesinger as secretary of defense, and confer with him on Pentagon matters.

The President was spending some time relaxing with his wife and two daughters who flew here for a vacation.

Nixon has not been in touch with H.R. Haldeman, his ousted chief of staff, who is staying in a $750,000 borrowed home some 30 miles from here, his aides said.

Dear Abby

Unwilling to tie knot for couple 'in trouble'

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A high school girl wrote that she was pregnant and she and her boy friend wanted to be married by a clergyman in a church, but neither one of them belonged to a church and they were having difficulty finding a clergyman to marry them.

You replied, "I am sure I can find a clergyman who will perform the ceremony."

Abby, the old "accommodating" view is diminishing. If a church wedding is desired, one or both parties must be active members in the church. People who refuse to support or help maintain a church should not expect to use it for a "show." A Christian wedding ceremony is an act of worship which is based on faith.

The attitude of more and more people is to call on the clergy and use the church facilities for "hatch, match, and dispatch" [baptism, marriage, and funerals]—but the clergy and lay leaderships of our churches are not going to play games with nonmembers, nonbelievers and inactive members. After all, there are other places where people can marry, and other persons who are qualified under the law to perform marriage ceremonies.

WILLIAM W. J. ENNIS, Pastor St. Mark's Lutheran Church Bethlehem, Penn.

DEAR ABBY: A high school senior is pregnant, and can't find a minister to marry her, she is very much in love with the baby's father and would like a church wedding.

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormons) takes a very strong stand against premarital sex, but we try to remember the words of the Saviour. "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone" and, "Neither do I condemn thee: go, and sin no more."

We believe that the proper thing to do under the above circumstances is to get married so that child can have a name, and I am sure any L.D.S. Bishop would be very happy to perform the ceremony and give them a lovely wedding and his blessings. LEONARD R. TOLMAN, Barstow, Cal.

DEAR ABBY: I feel that I must write to defend those three ministers who refused to marry that pregnant high school girl.

After nearly 40 years as a minister's wife I know something about people who don't want to contribute anything to a church, but they expect the minister and church to help them out when they need something.

Of course, the church does not belong to the minister; neither does it belong to these two immature individuals to use for their own selfish reasons. WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA

DEAR ABBY: My heart aches for those youngsters who wanted to be married by a minister but couldn't find one who would marry them because they didn't belong to his church.

With so many of our young people turning away from religion, you would think a minister would jump at the chance to bring them into the fold.

If they can't find a minister to marry them, they should consider a judge. At least it would be legal. Also, a sea captain has the authority to legalize a union. Have they considered that? LOVES CHILDREN

DEAR LOVES: After having been told to go jump in the lake by so many ministers, they might indeed find a sea captain the ideal one to tie the knot.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69706, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please. For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69706, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Credit Billing Errors

COLLEGE STATION — With so many people using credit today, the possibility of billing errors increases greatly.

1. When an error occurs, a consumer may have difficulty locating the cause of error and the right person to correct it. Mrs. Doris Myers, home management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University.

2. Should an error occur, the specialist offered the following steps to correct it.

1. Notify the store immediately, informing them of the error.

2. Obtain the name of the person contacted, making a note of it and date contacted. This information is helpful in case of necessary future contacts.

3. If contact is made in writing, don't send it with the bill — and don't write on the bill itself. Keep a copy of any letters sent for future reference.

4. Send a registered letter to the credit manager or company president if you experience difficulty obtaining adjustments on legitimate complaints.

In the letter, explain complaint in complete detail and give facts in a courteous manner. Also request that the post office furnish the signature of the person receiving the letter.

5. If still unable to settle a complaint, write the local Credit Bureau and Better Business Bureau. Provide details and copies of bills; receipts, cancelled checks or other evidence that prove your point. Also send a carbon copy of this contact to the merchant involved.

"Usually with accurate records and a business-like manner, consumers can correct billing errors," the specialist continued.

"Legitimate businesses are anxious to retain the consumer's good will — and keep him as a customer."

Mrs. Myers also listed several things consumers can do to help prevent billing errors in the first place.

—Use a credit card when charging merchandise.

—Examine sales slips to insure all spaces are correctly filled in and no unnecessary marks included.

—Before signing a bill, make sure the total is correct and in the right place.

—Save duplicate sales slips and check bills against them.

—Know when billing dates are made or mail payments in time to arrive before deadlines.

—Return the correct portion of a bill with remittance.

—Check bills for errors as soon as they're received.

Microwave Oven Limitations

Working homemakers and families with irregular eating schedules may find microwave ovens helpful.

However, these modern appliances have limitations — and unless they're considered, disappointments may follow, warns Miss Jimmie Lou Wainscott, county Extension agent.

First, the oven doesn't cut time spent preparing foods — it simply reduces cooking time. Also, microwave cooking methods and timing techniques differ from those of a conventional oven. Unless the homemaker is willing to learn these new methods — and to use the oven regularly — it becomes an expensive bacon fryer.

Microwave cooking time is critical. Even a few extra seconds can ruin a meal. Consequently, the homemaker must watch the clock closely — or use a timer — and remain nearby to remove the dish at the right time.

Certain foods cooked in a microwave oven appear different from those cooked in a conventional one. To help alleviate this, study the manufacturer's directions — and refer to them frequently. The agent also recommended attending a demonstration of the appliance to observe cooking techniques and appearance of different foods.

Before buying a microwave oven, make sure you can adjust to its required methods and techniques, she concluded.

You are invited ... to good times, good food

... in your own backyard with an outdoor gas grill and gas light. You can cook up a party at a moment's notice, because a gas grill is ready to cook in minutes. And it's so easy to cook on because you can control the heat. With a gas grill there's no charcoal mess, and you still get that delicious, outdoor char-broiled flavor that comes from the smoke of meat juices dripping on permanent ceramic briquets.

Besides the good times you'll have cooking out, you enjoy the convenience of having a gas grill. You'll probably find yourself cooking on it just because you wanted to get out of the kitchen or didn't want to mess up the broiler of your kitchen range.

'CREATES FOOD SHORTAGE' Ideal Stores Manager Disturbed By Controls

LIBERAL, Kan. — Steve Phillips, vice president and general manager of Ideal Food Stores, a Kansas-based supermarket chain, with three stores in Pampa, issued the following statement:

"We in the supermarket business recognize that President Nixon is trying to do what he can about the serious problem of inflation in America today. We will comply with his new orders, but we continue to be puzzled by his increasing controls over retail prices in supermarkets while refusing to firmly grasp the actual roots of the problem.

"The simple fact is that there is a world shortage of meat and other vital food supplies which is contributing to inflation throughout the world.

Natchez: An old city bubbles with new optimism

Natchez, Miss. (pop. 19,704) has been ruled by five nations — the Natchez Indians, the French, the Spanish, the English and the Americans. The first bank in the state was established here and cotton was the leading industry. After the Civil War, Natchez slumped into idleness that lasted until the discovery of oil and the coming of industry.

By BRUCE G. MORRISON
In Natchez, the mood of the community is one of optimism, perhaps the brightest picture since before the Civil War.

The economy of this Deep South city is booming, new chain stores and restaurants are opening like flowers in the spring, money is flowing, jobs are more plentiful, racial problems are almost nonexistent.

Watergate? The reaction ranges from appalling to hohum. Generally, many people feel there's simply too much politics involved in the Watergate scandal. It's happened before, they feel, only this time someone got caught.

Bruce G. Morrison is general manager of the Natchez Democrat.

Sure Watergate is a scandal but most people don't feel President Nixon is involved. Besides, what's wrong with a bit of political chicanery when the war in Vietnam has wound

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crape, Ph.D., M.D.

Lou Kepler is a superb Women's Editor who cites some of the irate criticisms of the wives who read this "Worry Clinic" daily. They think I never pick on men but always attack women. So act as the jury in this red-hot debate!

CASE X-549: Lou Kepler is the Women's Editor of the Journal at Lorain, Ohio.

"Dr. Crane," she said, "maybe you can make the Lorain women happy by telling the men what their wives would like."

"For I devoted a recent Sunday column to their protests."

"And here are some of their 'beefs' about husbands:"

HUSBAND, BEWARE!

(1) "Dr. Crane says I'm to get myself all dolled up in a see-through nightie. For what?"
"To go to bed with a hairy ape and have my cheeks rubbed raw by a face with a 2-day old stubble!"

(2) "Tell husbands to use breath mints!"

"It's bad enough to inhale a secondhand hangover, without having it mixed up with bad teeth and stale cigar smoke!"

(3) "Why don't husbands get the hint about their B.O., for I counted during a recent TV ball game, and there were 10 commercials about deodorants?"

"But he didn't take the hint at all!"

"And even when I buy some for him, he refuses to use it, saying that's sissy stuff!"

(4) "Dr. Crane seems to think if a woman puts on an extra ounce of fat, it's a transgression against her husband."

"But what about all those huzzies with pot bellies?"

"He can stuff at the table while I am supposed to diet!"

"No wonder there are so many Women's Libbers."

(5) "Why don't husbands pay us a compliment occasionally?"

"When I dress up in a new outfit, instead of telling me how nice I look, he just yells, 'How much did THAT cost?'"

Lou Kepler wisely mentioned that this selfishness and laziness of husbands often goes right back to women again — their mothers!

And I have often told you wives who complain about the fact your mates don't cooperate, that you are often rearing sons to do the very same thing!

Bad husbands go right back to women who used Dr. Spool's "permissive" child rearing principles and thus allowed their sons to impose on their mothers, as well as their sisters!

"But what about the fathers of those lazy husbands?"
"Women's Libbers may inquire. Well, women are the major educators of children in the home, so it is chiefly the duty of you mothers (including you complaining wives) to see that your children of BOTH sexes make their own beds, clean the bath tub after using it; hang up their clothes on hangers and put the soiled laundry in the appropriate laundry basket."

Alas, the very women who gripe the most about lazy, thoughtless husbands are often guilty of rearing sons in that very same manner.

So they are subjecting the young brides of the next generation to the same uncooperative mates!

Why don't you wives tutor your children via my "Compliment Club" and also use my "Behavior Tests for Teen-Agers" so they learn to clean up their rooms, brush their teeth, use breath mints, deodorants, etc.?"

And if you think I don't pick on men, send for my 200-point "Test for Husbands and Wives," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

For men are sluggish writers so they also rely on you wives for such secretarial duties!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Worry Clinic, Hopkins Bldg., Medical Indiana 47525. Enclose a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

BRENDA REED AND HER DAUGHTER, LISA

Pampa Mother Joins U.S. Air Force

Brenda Reed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cleo W. Beck, 845 E. Kingsmill, enlisted June 28 in the United States Air Force, according to Sgt. Ken Fortenberry, local Air Force recruiter.

Choosing the longer six-year enlistment, she is considering making the Air Force her career.

Airman Reed is the first woman from Gray County with a child to enlist in the Air Force. She plans to leave 8-year-old Lisa with her parents while she completes basic military training at Lackland AFB, San Antonio.

Lisa plans to join her mother at Keesler AFB, Biloxi, Miss., while she completes technical training.

Enlisting under the Air Forces guaranteed job program for training as a Morse System operator. Airman Reed will receive 21 weeks of training.

Airman Reed stated, "I joined the Air Force because it can offer me schooling and training and most important, I can take my daughter wherever I go."

She graduated from Erick, Okla., and has lived and worked in Pampa for the past six years.

Pampan's Daughter Receives Award

1st Lt. Carol Ann Maxcey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Peoples, 1706 Grape, Pampa, was recently presented an award for "most outstanding junior officer" at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio for the last half of 1972.

The award was presented by Brigadier General Paul W. Myers at an officers meeting on the base.

Lt. Maxcey graduated from Pampa High School in 1964 with honors. She was elected to the National Honor Society and was a member of the Harvester band.

She attended college at West Texas State University at Canyon and the University of Houston.

She graduated from the Lilly Jolly School of Nursing with a Registered Nursing degree.

She married Bob Maxcey of Houston, a medical student, in 1968 and worked at Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children Burns Institute at Galveston.

She joined the U.S. Air Force in 1971 as a Second Lieutenant and was assigned to Lackland Air Force Base as a Registered Nurse. She now resides at the base with her husband, Capt. Bob Maxcey, who is now a resident doctor at Brooks Medical Center in San Antonio.

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Monday, July 2, the 183rd day of 1973 with 182 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury and Venus.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Cancer.

King Olav V of Norway was born July 2, 1903.

On this day in history:

In 1776, the Continental Congress formally approved a resolution which became the Declaration of Independence from Britain. It was signed two days later.

In 1881, President James Garfield was shot by Charles Giteau in Washington, D.C. Garfield died Sept. 19 of that year.

In 1937, American aviator

Amelia Earhart and co-pilot Frederick Noonan were reported lost over the Pacific Ocean. They were never found.

In 1964, President Lyndon Johnson signed a new civil rights bill.

A thought for the day: American educator Horace Mann said, "Be ashamed to die until you have won some victory for humanity."

If an old refrigerator or freezer is left in the yard or garage, remove its door completely. This takes only a moment using a screwdriver and may save a child's life, emphasizes Lillian Cochran, home management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University.

Isn't there something you should be saving for?

"We don't owe a dime on our new den 'cause we saved for it."

What a wonderful feeling of accomplishment — when you save for a goal, and see it come true! Sure — it takes money to remodel and to furnish a new den, but that's something worth saving for.

And that's what serious money is all about. Let us help — adding high earnings, keeping money insured safe and always easy to get — ready when you are. Having money set aside is a great feeling!

The place for serious money.

More Porno Challenges

If prostitution is the world's oldest profession, pornography must be the world's oldest literary and art form.

Every society with a complexity beyond the primitive hunting level has had to deal with either or both, and history records varying degrees of success or lack of it. Approaches have run the gamut from complete acceptance to mere toleration to outright suppression. That both problems are still with us says much about human nature.

Now once again, after 15 years, the United States Supreme Court has laid down rules to govern, or attempt to govern, pornography.

We seemed, by virtue of previous decisions of the court, to have been moving toward some sort of grudging accommodation with a phenomenon that simply will not go away. According to some critics, this latest attempt to formulate guidelines represents a step backward (depending upon how one defines regression or progress in this matter).

Certainly it is not the court's decision will not be the last word on pornography. The fact that it was such a close decision — five justices to four — virtually guarantees this.

By returning to local communities the right to handle the problem as they see fit, the court may only have prepared the way for another series of legal challenges such as we witnessed during the days of the "Warren Court."

In writing the majority opinion, Chief Justice Burger stated that "to equate the free

Our Spending Anomaly

Builders are howling about a cut-back in federal subsidies for low-income housing.

Farmers are worried about a hold on federal disaster aid loans, especially those in the Midwest who are only now bringing in a harvest delayed by 1972's wet weather.

Congressmen are fuming at President Nixon's announced intention to spend only as much money as he thinks should be spent, no matter how much Congress appropriates, in his effort to curtail inflation.

Yet no certain connection can be found between spending or deficits and the Consumer Price Index, which we take as the measure of inflation," contends Robert K. Pepper, a Florida newspaper editor and iconoclastic student of economics.

In the 43-year period from 1930 through 1972, he says, government outlays increased by a ratio of 72 to 1, the public debt by 27 to 1 but prices by only about 2 1/2 to 1.

At the same time, the national income is now 22 times as high as during the worst Depression year of 1933.

The federal budget was never offered as a cause or reason for seeking increases before the now-abolished Price Commission, says Pepper. Every instance reflects higher costs of production, which are mainly unavoidable. Agricultural products tend to reflect the supply situation, as well as rising expenses in production and distribution.

Other economists, of course, will argue that all these rising expenses are ultimately attributable to federal fiscal policy.

But Pepper does seem to have a point when he adds that it is curious that the administration seems to show little concern over the tens of billions spent on warfare and defense.

In this connection, the word "inflation" is never mentioned.

Watergate Ado Puzzles Japanese

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Sitting with a small group of reporters, Yoshizane Iwasa, influential chairman of Japan's big Fuji bank, was asked about his country's view of the Watergate scandals. He replied: "The Japanese don't understand why all this fuss exists about a little bit of eavesdropping." His reference, of course, was to the 1972 break-in and bugging of the Democrats' national committee headquarters.

Iwasa said Japanese newspapers carry regular accounts of the Watergate affair, which long since has fanned out to embrace, at least by allegation, high Nixon officials. But he added that his people don't really grasp it.

Still, he indicated that Japanese business and political leaders see the issue in different light. They understand that it may have weakened the President's hand with Congress, and perhaps reduced his ability therefore to deal with problems of prime interest to them.

Yet, if Iwasa's response is any cue, Japan's leadership does not really view Watergate as a serious threat to Mr. Nixon and his high office. With a shrug suggesting he was distinctly unpersuaded, Iwasa said: "If you Americans say Watergate is important, then it is important."

Japan's evident relative unconcern over Watergate appears to contrast strongly with attitudes in Europe, where a "crisis of confidence" in the American government is said to be a consequence of Watergate and a cause of the ominous flutterings of the U.S. dollar in key markets.

The plain fact is that Japan doesn't want the United States to be in crisis. It still feels an enormous dependence upon this country for its economic well-being, and expressions of that attitude are just as common and candid today as I found on a visit to Japan in late 1971. Said Iwasa:

"We are not a super-power. We are going to remain third (behind the U.S. and Russia) in economic status."

Two years ago Japan's catapulting growth had some economists predicting it would surpass the Soviet Union in economic strength by the 1980s. One or two bold souls even predicted it would ultimately surpass America and become No. 1.

Much has since happened. Increasingly, the Japanese see their future industrial expansion limited by world competition for evidently dwindling resources, and the need to accommodate growth to grave environmental consequences.

Japan not only has its own internal inflation problems (especially with the booming cost of precious land), but as an importer of nearly all its basic resource needs is at the mercy of everybody else's inflation.

The rocketing cost of U.S. farm products, which it uses heavily, hits the island nation hard. Right now, as I noted in a prior report, the Japanese are in dread that the President may get the export control powers he seeks and lay them on Japan's U.S. farm purchases particularly. They want him to get his trade reform bill fast, to clear the air, but they fear he might make Japan a key target of his requested authority to raise barriers against imports.

Japanese are happy, not sad, that our trade deficit with them may in 1973 be cut to half its staggering 1972 total. They want us happy.

RAY CROMLEY Subordinates sit in Laird, Richardson set planning goal

WASHINGTON (NEA) — One major activity of Elliott Richardson, the new Attorney General, and Melyin Laird, President Nixon's adviser on domestic affairs, will never make the headlines. Yet it perhaps will be the most important single contribution these dissimilar men make to government over the next few years.

When Richardson lets his hair down, insofar as this careful, precise man can, he says his objective in government is to bring more of the people working for him into the planning of what his agency does (a feed-in from the bottom up) and to help them work with an understanding of how their decisions and their actions affect the whole of the department (and the government). Laird is known to hold the same view.

Superficially, all this does not sound very dramatic. But in watching Washington these past 30 years this reporter is convinced that the great and most serious longtime problem of the federal government is that planning, more often than not, comes from the top down — and the middle and bottom are ignored.

H. L. Hunt Writes

LOOK OUT! Prices are shooting up astronomically and, according to left-slanted politician and opinion-molders, restrictions on producers are needed yesterday to solve the problem. Farmers and ranchers have lost their clout at the ballot box. Being the most efficient food producers in the world, they have grown so much with so little manpower that they no longer have the numbers to swing very many election precincts in this nation.

This intermittent battling has resulted in vast mismanagement over the years of multibillion-dollar programs in welfare, health, education, defense, veterans aid, foreign assistance and trade. And sometimes even a needless breakdown or deterioration in our relationships with other nations.

But all too often a new administration, whether Democratic or Republican, will come into office so suspicious of the bureaucracy that a war then begins between the President's appointees and the career civil servants, a conflict which only ends when a new administration comes in — at which time a new battle begins.

This intermittent battling has resulted in vast mismanagement over the years of multibillion-dollar programs in welfare, health, education, defense, veterans aid, foreign assistance and trade. And sometimes even a needless breakdown or deterioration in our relationships with other nations.

More than 574 million acres of forest land are protected under the Federal-State Cooperative Forest Fire Control Program.

Presidential Impeachment? Consider Justice Douglas
By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Those leftist and ultra-liberal Congressmen unctuously clamoring for impeachment proceedings are heading for a big and jarring surprise. They'll get a lot more than they are bargaining for. They are going to be hoisted by their own petard.

Ready and waiting backstage is a bipartisan resolution for a sweeping investigation of Justice William O. Douglas, long controversial radical who openly advocates revolution.

The moment the impeachment agitators formally move against the President, similar action will be launched against Douglas.

Basis of this strategy is simple: If there is reason to start impeachment proceedings against the President, then there is more than ample justification for doing the same thing regarding Douglas.

In other words, what is sauce for the Republican President is sauce for the leftist Justice.

The resolution on Douglas spells out that sauce in lengthy detail.

It lists numerous charges covering a wide range of monetary and other operations over a period of years and involving "possible dealings with known criminals, gamblers and gangsters."

If this contemplated crackdown on Douglas materializes, it will be the fourth time in as many years that an independent investigation of his private affairs and associations has been sought.

One probe was made, but it was patently a protective maneuver.

It was bluntly denounced as a "diversionary white-wash" by, among others, a member of the committee that conducted the phony inquiry.

How It Was Done That inquiry was suddenly sprung by former Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., 82-year-old chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, just as the House was on the verge of ordering an exhaustive examination of the 74-year-old, four-times-married Justice's personal affairs by a special six-member bipartisan committee.

More than 100 Congressmen had signed a petition demanding that examination when Celler, long-time personal and political friend of Douglas, abruptly named a special Judiciary subcommittee to make a probe. Installing himself as chairman, Celler handpicked several fellow liberal Democrats to ensure his control of the panel — and high-handedly exercised it thereafter without making any bones about it.

The inquiry was a blatant sham. No subpoenas were served, no witnesses were questioned under oath, there were no hearings, and no interrogation of Douglas.

The so-called "majority report" blandly alibied and exonerated him of impropriety or wrongdoing, was an out-and-out whitewash. It was flatly branded as such by Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich., member of the panel, in a scathing dissent.

Whom He Fronted For Most sensational of the long list of charges in the backstage Douglas resolution are:

(1) That he was the well-paid president and chairman of the financial committee of the Albert Parvin Foundation at a time when it forked over some $200,000 to recently convicted

How Much Food Becomes Waste
By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — If a person eats two pounds of food, how much of this food turns into energy, and how much of this food becomes waste? Also what is the best natural food a person can take for relief of constipation?

Dear Reader — It's not possible to answer your first question exactly because of the enormous variation in the amount of calories in different types of food. Two pounds of lettuce don't contain very many calories, but two pounds of lard contain over 7,000 calories. Two pounds of lean round steak muscle with all of the external visible fat removed contain about 1,200 calories. It's more than 70 per cent water. Lard contains no water and is all fat.

The calories in a food depends upon its water content, the amount of undigestible fibers of the cellulose and, finally, the amount of protein, fat and carbohydrate present. There are nine calories per gram of fat and only four calories per gram of carbohydrate and protein (these are approximations). Because these combined variables can influence the number of calories in a pound of food, there isn't any substitute for learning the calories in a given weight or portion of the different common foods.

As far as residue (waste) is concerned, this too depends on the kind of food. Ordinary table sugar has no fiber, cellulose or other such material. In a healthy person it should be completely absorbed, leaving no food residue. Vegetables with a lot of cellulose material in them will leave residue. The same is true of cereal fiber.

Regarding foods for the relief of constipation, the total problem of constipation, irritable or spastic bowel needs to be carefully reviewed by a doctor before you can make any recommendation in a given case. Most often, when the total problem is resolved, for maintenance purposes, the best diet is one that includes quite a bit of bulk. This means whole grain cereals; vegetables, including the leafy vegetable variety, which have residue. Various raw fruits and fruit juices often help to improve function as well.

Dear Dr. Lamb — What is Cheyne-Stokes? I know it is used in connection with a dying person.

Dear Reader — It's a change in the rhythm and rate of respiration. In recurring cycles, the respiratory rate gradually increases in depth and rate and then it gradually slows and becomes very shallow. The respiration may stop momentarily before there is again a gradual increase in rate and depth of breathing. This gradual waxing and waning in the depth and rate of respiration is most often seen in individuals in coma which may lead to death. Sometimes a form of it is observed in normal infants and even in healthy older persons. It has also been observed in healthy individuals at high altitude and from certain drugs.

Our respiration is controlled by respiratory centers within the brain. They respond to lack of oxygen and accumulation of carbon dioxide. With the build-up of carbon dioxide and decrease in oxygen in the bloodstream, the chemical stimulus to the centers may be great enough to reinitiate respiration.

mobster Meyer Lansky; (2) that Douglas took money from a litigant who had a case pending before the Supreme Court.

Much of the Parvin Foundation's funds came from gambling interests in Las Vegas. As head of the organization from 1960-69, the jurist was paid "at least $85,000." During that time, the foundation was investigated by the Internal Revenue Service.

The resolution charges that Douglas, although a member of the Supreme Court, "did in fact give the foundation tax advice with particular reference to matters known by him to be under investigation by the IRS."

The litigant with a case before the Supreme Court was Ralph Ginzburg, convicted of sending obscene literature through the mails. Douglas was paid for an article in Avant Garde, published by Ginzburg, at a time when the latter was appealing his conviction on charges of malicious libel. Asserts the resolution: "Douglas, as a sitting member of the Supreme Court, knowing full well his own financial relationship with this litigant before the court, sat in judgment on the Ginzburg appeal, all in clear violation of and in conflict with his oath of office, the canons of judicial ethics, and federal law."

In another instance of lucrative moonlighting, the resolution charges Douglas served for pay as a director of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, Santa Barbara, Calif., receiving more than $6,000. Denouncing this, the resolution holds: "Paid activity of this type by a sitting Justice of the Supreme Court is contrary to his oath of office, violative of the canons of ethics of the American Bar Association and is believed to constitute misdemeanors of the most fundamental type, as well as failing to constitute 'good behavior' as that term appears in the Constitution."

Expensive Hot Air Ring leaders of the presidential impeachment agitation are two of the most radical and vociferous members of the House — Reps. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., and Ronald Dellums, D-Calif.

They organized and staged the three hours of haranguing last week by a small clique of fellow extremists demanding an investigation preparatory to initiating impeachment proceedings. All House leaders were prominently absent, and only a handful of Congressmen were on hand — some known to be there to guard against any "funny business."

Significantly, prominent Democrats are going out of their way to denounce the radicals' impeachment clutter.

These men are not the type to readily accept the idea they need help.
