Is Eyebrow Lifting A Lost Art? Not So, Say These!

By RONALD WATERS
Pampa News Staff Writer

In the times of long ago, people knew when they behaved as they shouldn't—the importance of a lifted eyebrow; which, of course, the people of today never do, nor know. They knew that the eyebrows could express anger, contempt, superiority, fright, and even pity. Today the art is lost, and how much has been lost in that ancient art is realized by only the few: the starving actors. Alas! We no longer convey contempt, anger, and superiority with our lifted eyebrows, but with harsh words, instead, which must bring about harsh results. And our failure to revive this dead art leads to some of our present day troubles.

The fact is that people talk too much. As much or more can be said by expression, and many times without the dreadful consequences. All of this is to explain WHY we should lift our eyebrows. But knowing WHEN is an art within-itself. We should be careful to do the right things at the right moments, and a lifted eyebrow at the wrong moment could be disastrous. The proper occasion could be when our friends are talking too much. Talking leads to hard feelings, which lead to misunderstandings, which lead to fights and battles, and even wars. But the lifted eyebrow can lead to friends, to clarity, and peace. So we should only act with the brow-movements when we are sure of the proper results, for the specific occasion.

Occasionally any occasion will do, but that is rare. So let us examine WHAT is conveyed by this contortion of the face to see WHEN the eyebrow should be lifted. Because there are so many opportune moments in which the lifting of eyebrows is permissible and possible, let us first examine the occasions in which the feat would be impractical or unthinkable. First it should be made clear that the idea of superiority—as usually conveyed by the art—is not recommended here at any time by any one, not even the Queen of Sheba. It would also be impractical—at the following opportunities: when the mother-in-law is within the same room (or seeing distance); when you are addressing a huge two-hundred-pound wrestler; when you are trying to appear as undignified; when the bill-collector makes an unexpected appearance; or when your wife shows you her new hat, dress, or coat. This should suffice to offer some suggestions.

Now, back WHEN? First of all, the lifting of ONE eyebrow is far superior to lifting both. This is due to the fact that people tend to think you an intellectual, provided you have mastered the art. If you wish to be thought intelligent, say very little to anyone, lift an eyebrow, now-and-then, to show you are discriminating, and then watch the amazing results! The lifted eyebrow expresses emotions, but it is particularly adept for the following ones: surprise or shock, consternation, fear, or anger (best use when some one else is doing all the talking, and you wish to say something . . . anything.) An eyebrow lifted at a well timed opportunity can convey: amusement, snobbishness, sarcasm, sophistication, reserve, good taste, and - or - bewilderment. It is also a very good device for showing a situation to be humorous (whether it is or not). Now that you know, supposedly, the why, the when, the what, let us examine the most important aspect: HOW to lift an eyebrow.

Stand in front of a mirror with both hands free. Select a quiet moment, free from distractions, and use your powers of concentration. Say to yourself that you are about to learn an art that will take you around some surprising corners in this old world, and it might even raise you up to undreamed-of success! Remember that exercise is healthy, as you've heard one thousand times before, and be determined to keep up the exercise until you have mastered three or four emotions with different expressions. Then start, with the utmost confidence in yourself.

Truman Asks 'Hands Off' On Ike's Foreign Policy

By KEITH MARTIN
FRENCH LICK, Ind., Aug. 27 —UP—Former President Truman called on Democrats Saturday night not to attack the Eisenhower administration's foreign policy.

He said it is proper for campaigners to tell what they plan to do in the field of international relations, but they should not criticize the opposition's program.

Huge Blast Hits Refinery In Indiana

WHITING, Ind., Aug. 27 —UP—A raging gasoline-fed fire touched off by an explosion that sent jagged chunks of steel hurtling into surrounding homes swept a refinery tank farm Saturday evening, endangering 48 blocks of homes and causing damage estimated at more than $10 million.

Mr. Truman took the hands-off foreign policy stand at a news conference preceding what was billed as a "give 'em hell" speech. A sellout crowd of 1,300 Indiana Democrats assembled to hear him. Asked a question dealing with foreign policy, the former President said he makes it "a point never to discuss foreign policy at political meetings."

The flames roared through the huge Standard Oil Company (Ind.) tank farm in a series of "whooshing" explosions, then jumped across a highway into an adjoining field housing about 30 tanks of crude oil. Firemen succeeded, however, in pushing the blaze back across the highway. Police said 48 blocks of nearby residential areas were ordered evacuated as the flames still raged out of control more than 14 hours after the first explosion. Thousands were driven from their homes. National Guard Airsted Three companies of Indiana National Guard units were sent to the area. (See BLAST, Page 2)

FIRST SETTLEMENT—San Antonio's La Villita is a quaint old Spanish village in the heart of a romantic city, one of the many scenic highlights of a historic past.

Vacation Spots of The Southwest: X

In Old San Antonio, Roses And Culture Bloom Eternally

By RONALD WATERS
Pampa News Staff Writer

To the people of Texas and all Americans in the World:

I am besieged by a thousand or more Mexicans under Santa Anna. I have sustained a continual bombardment and cannonade for 24 hours, and have not lost a man. I shall never surrender or retreat. Then I call on you, in the name of Liberty, of Patriotism and everything dear to the American character, to come to our aid with all dispatch. . . . Victory or Death.

Elouquent indeed was this death cry, the words of a famous man written on Feb. 24, 1836. The cry was not uttered by Davy Crockett, but by the commander of the Alamo, William Barrett Travis, but it brought no such response as he and his men had hoped for. Day by day they waited for reinforcements, and finally on March 7, 32 brave men from Gonzales increased the garrison to 182 men. After this, no help came.

Fall of the Alamo

For ten days and nights, Travis seemed to know that this was the lull before the last fury of the storm, that was to destroy them all. On the morning of March 6, 1836, the soldiers of the Alamo were repeatedly attacked by Santa Anna's forces, until finally no one, not even Crockett, survived. Each man had fought until he fell. Funeral pyres burned for two days cremating the heroes.

The origin of the name "Alamo" is a matter of speculation, the word is the Spanish name for cottonwood, and these trees shaded the Alamo. As we see it today, the mission is quite different from its original form. Mission de San Antonio de Valero and convent was built in an enclosure to accommodate about 1000 persons. Such a broad expanse must have been difficult to defend.

Old-World Charm

A quaint Latin atmosphere adds an indefinable charm to the delights of a sojourn in San Antonio. Down meandering side streets are tucked fascinating bits of Old Mexico. Like oases of green in the gray of city pavements are the plazas around which flows the commerce of a busy city.

San Antonio is acclaimed far and wide as one of America's truly different cities. Much of the city's romantic old-world charm has remained, after two centuries of growth to its present population of over half a million. In addition to numerous historical sites, a new buildings, you'll find quaint customs and smart shops. You'll thrill to intriguing contrasts, the colorful San Antonio river spanned by forty-two arched bridges, and numerous parks of beauty. In this balmy climate roses bloom the year 'round in the shelter of swaying palms.

La Villita

La Villita is more than a scenic block of the city's earliest homes, it is the symbol of a historical past, a center of city culture. This "ancient" settlement consists of adobe or limestone buildings. A restoration of an Indian and Spanish village, originally established as a home for soldiers and their families when the first mission (the Alamo) was founded, much of the village remains intact. The little stone and adobe buildings have witnessed the transformation of San Antonio from a wilderness outpost to a modern city. Today it provides a setting for colorful fiestas as well as a home for native arts and craft.

Brilliant entertainment is afforded at the unique Arneson River Theater built on a sloping bank that leads to the winding San Antonio River. On one side of the river is the patio-type stage, where performers entertain the audience, who is seated across the river. Theater-in-the-round productions are given at the picturesque La Casita restaurant. Other buildings of interest are: the Cos House, Casitas House, and Bolivar Building, which houses a library of Texas history.

Much early Texas history was formed in the old Spanish Governor's Palace where early Viceroys of the King of Spain held court. The rooms are furnished in the colonial manner. In the rear of the building is the patio where stately courtships were conducted in all formality. Tales of treasures buried in the patio abound and there are those who will tell you of a ghost that counts coins there in the moonlight.

Spanish Missions

In no other city of the nation is the evidence of Spain's colonial effort so well preserved. Four age-old missions are within less than eight miles of the downtown area. Conception was established in 1721 with its fracones of stone dyes, and is the best preserved of all Texas missions. At Mission San Francisco de la Espada is part of an original fort. At Mission San Juan Capistrano may be seen the plan of a typical mission establishment. Mission San Jose, "Queen of the Missions", established in 1720, is world renowned for its beauty of form and its wealth of sculpture. Here are ancient Indian dwellings, the old mill, and granary.

City of Parks

Over 2,000 acres of parks in the city are devoted to sports and entertainment. In 1720 when the King of Spain directed that a settlement be laid out, he specifically provided for two plazas for recreation. This policy became traditional and, as the city grew, so did recreational areas.

Brackenridge Park, 320 acres of natural woodland, offers varied recreation facilities and much to be seen. Witte Museum offers foreign and historical exhibits, contemporary art, and a collection of four old Texas houses on the grounds. The fifth largest zoo in the country features barless pits and Monkey Island. The Chinese

Phillips Well Is Completed

PERRYTON (Special)— Highlights of the oil activity in Ochiltree county this week included the completion of the Phillips Bernice well and the drilling of a new Fulton well.

Phillips brought in the first Marmathon oil well in the field when the No. 1 Bernice in Sec. 136, Blk. 4-T, T&NO Survey, was gauged for 136 barrels of oil. The pay was from 6,430-82 and the oil was 36.5 gravity. This well is located south of Farnsworth.

R. H. Fulton is drilling the No. 1 Fulton-Besse in Sec. 55, Blk. 4, GH&H Survey, five miles west of Farnsworth and six miles east of Fulton's big oil well in Hansford County. This well is drilling below 2,000 feet.

The Magnolia Petroleum Co. No. 1 George-Mounts, located a few miles northwest of Perryton, was losing circulation at 5,818 feet.

The Union Oil of California No. 1 Russell, south of Farnsworth, took a drill stem test at 7,945-54 feet and recovered 100 feet of oil cut mud.

In Beaver county the Union Oil Co. of California has applied for 640-acre spacing for gas production from the Morrow sand in sections 1, 2, 3, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, and 15-2N-23E-CM, surrounding its recent gas discovery just north of Elmwood.

The No. 1 Parker in C N W SE of 11-2N-23E-CM was completed earlier this month for 28,252,000 cubic feet of gas-per day through open 2 1/2 inch tubing from perforations at 7,096-7,110 feet. Discovery previously tested 4,400,000 cubic feet of gas and 75 barrels of distillate a day through a 22-54 inch choke.

"Masters of the Drama" by John Gassner, in the third revised and enlarged edition, now at Lovett Memorial Library, is a comprehensive and critical study of the drama from primitive times to the half-way mark of the present century.

A tremendous book in size and importance (890-pages) it represents a vast project and a vivid chronicle of the history of theatre. John Gassner, a well-known critic, author, and anthologist, has published some 15 books on the theatre, films, and general literature. He is considered as one of the ablest drama critics in the country.

Surveying the entire field, the book provides a detailed account of the work of virtually every important dramatist, and considers the philosophy contained in his plays. The drama of every period and of nearly every nation is examined. Each trend and dramatic movement is explained and analyzed. Among the many types studied are classic tragedy, oriental romance, medieval religious drama, Elizabethan romanticism, and expressionism.

An important aspect of a book of this nature is that most of the chapters can be read separately by anyone who is interested in an individual writer rather than in the movement of which he was a part. Among new and recent playwrights whose works are discussed are: Arthur Miller, Christopher Fry, Tennessee Williams, T. S. Eliot, Jean Giraudoux, and several others.

Disneyland Critics Must Be Nuts; Public Likes It

By ALINE MOSBY
HOLLYWOOD — UP — Walt Disney answers the critics to his Disneyland project: "The public likes it, it's a success" and "the critics must be crazy."
It's been a month and a half since the cartoon king's amusement park opened at nearby Anaheim at what most reporters and critics called one of the worst fiascos in Hollywood history.
Visitors to the park on preview day were bogged down in a traffic jam. There were long lines for the rides and not enough drinking fountains. The entire project was dubbed "too commercial" and "too expensive."
Since that premiere, Disney revealed, he's been hanging around the park and conducting "my own poll" of the customers.
Although many first-nighters in working order, "I still think the park is expensive. Disney originally insisted the average person would spend 25 or less. But most visitors wind up paying about $4 apiece — not counting lunch or souvenirs."

"We have to charge what we do because this park cost a lot to build and maintain. I have no government subsidy — the public is my subsidy," Disney said.
"I mortgaged everything I own and put it in jeopardy for this park."
"And as to those remarks that the park is commercial, how have I stayed in business all my life? The critics know a newspaper exists by advertising — why, they're crazy!"
"We have a lot of free things in the park. No other place has as high a quality. I stand here in the park and talk to people who came along. It's the most gratifying thing — all I've gotten from the public is thank yous."

Broadway Hit Showing Here

The sensational Broadway comedy hit, "Mister Roberts" has been brought to the screen starring Henry Fonda, James Cagney, William Powell and Jack Lemmon. Produced by Leland Hayward for Warner Bros., "Mister Roberts" has been filmed in CinemaScope and WarnerColor. John Ford and Mervyn LeRoy directed. The highly heralded comedy is currently showing at the LaNora Theatre. "Mister Roberts" takes place aboard a navy cargo ship, the USS Reluctant, which has been given the nickname of "The Bucket" by the crew. Lieutenant Roberts, second in command, yearns for more active sea duty and in his efforts to transfer into combat duty has incurred the displeasure of the captain, tyrannically portrayed by James Cagney. The captain, eager for promotions and honors, such as the potted palm tree presented him as a sign of achievement in loading and unloading cargo, refuses to relinquish his hold on Mister Roberts despite the combined efforts of the crew and the other officers to persuade him otherwise. Roberts' eventual transfer and the rise of Ensign Pulver, Jack Lemmon, from passive to active participation in the affairs of the ship comprises the main plot of the comedy. Some laugh highlights are the crew's first shore leave, Pulver's romantic encounter with a sextet of nurses and "Doc's" homebrewed Scotch whiskey.

In the title role of the film is Henry Fonda who created the role on Broadway in the play written by Thomas Heggen and Joshua Logan. Fonda "enlisted" into the stage hit soon after his discharge from actual naval service in the same rank as that of the fictional "Mister Roberts." He helped establish the show as the biggest hit of the season, which enjoyed a run of more than 1000 performances on Broadway.

James Cagney, in his role of the captain, reportedly turns in a laugh-provoking performance as he belays and struts in his portrayal of the captain with the pet potted palm tree. Returning to Warner Bros. for the first time since his award-winning performance in "Life With Father" is William Powell as the benign "Doc."

As ensign Pulver, Jack Lemmon reportedly climbs the comedy heights promised in his previous roles opposite Judy Holliday in "It Should Happen to You," and "Pillow Talk." In "Mister Roberts" Lemmon is the hapless junior officer whose "plots" against the captain provide many of the laughs aboard "The Bucket."

"Mister Roberts" was written for the screen by Frank Nugent and Joshua Logan. The music for the film was composed and conducted by Franz Waxman.

TWO IN A SHUCK

J. P. Stephens, a former corn farmer from Alabama, found this agricultural freak in his garden, 324 N. Roberta. The corn here shows two ears of corn in one shuck. The lower one, immature, has an ear growing out of it which is fully developed. Stephens says his corn compares favorably with the Alabama corn.

Something New Is Ag. Dept. Routine

By GAYLORD P. GODWIN WASHINGTON, Aug. 27—UP—"Something new" is old hat at the Department of Agriculture. Thanks to the agriculture research service and its branches, something new is being developed nearly all the time. They cover a wide range. For example, there is the Charleston gray watermelon that graced the menu at the recent lunch provided by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson for the visiting Russian farm experts. It was developed at the vegetable breeding laboratory at Charleston, S. C. It is a melon with black seeds, sweat red meat, and a thin rind. It ships well and is in commercial production at premium prices on the eastern market. The automatic cotton lint sampler was developed at the Stoneville, Miss., cotton laboratory. It extracts, accumulates, presses, and packages a consecutive series of portions of lint cotton taken from the lint flue during the ginning of a bale. With this there is no necessity for slashing into a bale to get a sample. Also the method is cleaner, faster, and cheaper.

Retarding the rancidity in butter helped expand the market for dairy products, specially in the field of butter-based candies. The tough old corn cob has been turned into a small industrial giant doing $10 million worth of jobs these days. They are used in making nylon, among other products. The screw worm, a cattle scourge, was defeated after scientists took advantage of his romantic tendencies and killed him off on the island of Curacao. The scientists saturated the wild, natural population of screw worm flies with laboratory-reared males that had been made sterile from gamma ray treatment. The polygamous sterile males proved too much competition for the natural, normal males. Peas and lima beans have been subjected to deep-fat frying and turned out to be tasty snack items for food nibblers. The forest products laboratory has come up with a cheap wood fiber building board that filters poison gases, disease-laden particles, and radioactive fallout of atomic explosions.

U.S., Canada Rigs Up 15

The principle of radioactivity has been applied to measuring accurately the amount of plant nutrient in soils. The department has developed easy and low-cost methods of destroying mosquitoes before they threaten to destroy human beings. The aerosol bomb was developed as a method of applying sprays deadly to insects. The department advises fly swatter wielders in a Louisiana sugarcane area to go easy; an inadvertent swat might knock off a cannibalistic insect which is aiding the sugarcane crop. The cannibals operate on a larva-eat-larva basis, killing off the sugarcane borer. Announcement of six multi-purpose rose dusts developed by the research service gladdened the hearts of growers of outdoor roses.

DALLAS — A total of 2947 rigs were active in oilfields of the United States and Canada for the week of August 22, 1955, according to a report to American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors by Hughes Tool Company. This compares with 2952 reported a week ago, 2910 a month ago, and with 2534 in the comparable week of 1954. A comparison by principal areas for the past two weeks shows: Pacific Coast, 138, down 2; Oklahoma, 337, up 12; Kansas, 187, up 2; Rocky Mountains, 296, down 19; Canada, 204, down 13; Ark-La-Tex, 162, up 2; West Texas & New

WEEKLY GRAIN ROUNDUP

FORT WORTH —UP— USDA— Weekly grain: Major developments spotted by the Agricultural Marketing Service in Southwest cash grain markets this week concerned milo and new crop Texas corn. Reversing its recent trend, milo advanced 12c per 100 pounds, closing Friday at $2.10 to $2.15, the highest in about a month. Prices are still 67c lower than a year ago. A lull in milo harvesting was the major force behind this 12c advance. Central and North Texas crops are about harvested, so there will be little movement until the West Texas crop is ready to harvest in about a month. Although there is little demand for milo, farmers placed large holdings under loan. This helped to strengthen prices. The Texas corn crop is moving freely now. However, buyers are limiting sales, expecting prices to work lower. White corn lost 4 to 6c a bushel and closed at $1.53 to $1.58, about 47c lower than a year ago. Yellow corn declined 5c a bushel and stood Friday at $1.50 to $1.55, about 35c lower than a year ago. No. 1 hard wheat slipped 1-1/2c a bushel to bring $2.27 1-2 to $2.37-1-2. Barley and oats held steady. All these prices are based on wholesale carlots, Texas common freight rate points. At Oklahoma elevators, No. 1 wheat was down about a penny from last Friday. Prices ranged from $1.88 at Guymon and Hooker to $2.01 at Hennessey and Hobart. Wheat brought $1.99 at Blackwell and Medford and $2.00 at Enid and Oklahoma City.

Mexico, 536, down 6; Gulf Coast, 619, up 24; Illinois, 149, up 7; North Texas, 339, up 8. Agriculture officials say about 350 plant diseases do extensive damage to farm crops each year. Added to this are 700 insect types that prey on farm crops. The Flemish language is spoken more than French in Bruges, Belgium, though both are official tongues. Most Flemings speak French as well as Flemish, but few French-speaking Walloons have a command of Flemish.

Cartoon titled 'They'll Do It Every Time' by Jimmy Hatlo. It depicts a scene in a restaurant where a man and a woman are talking. The man says, 'At home the jereboams hardly utter a word for hours on end...'. The woman replies, 'But as soon as they enter a theatre, something happens—they talk more than Francis the mule...'. The man asks, 'Uncle Jimson called me today—Aunt Irith has the sunnies—did you send my green suit to the cleaners?'. The woman replies, 'This is where I...'. The man asks, 'Did you hear about the popovers' dog? He bit the mailman again... and Mrs. Popover said it was the mailman's fault for kicking his bone...'. The cartoon is signed 'HATLO' and '© 1955'.

THE QUESTION HAS BEEN RAISED several times "what would have to happen for the Oilers not to finish in the first division?" Well, by the Oilers winning the first two games at Abilene, the locals are just about "in."

In other words, if the Oilers win only four of their remaining 11 games (counting last night's game), Abilene would have to win 10 of its remaining 12 to catch the Oilers.

Abilene, of course, isn't concentrating on catching the Oilers. Its main objective is to win the battle for fourth place with Plainview and Clovis.

Clovis is almost out of the picture for making the playoffs as she was four games out of the first division going into last night's game. It will be difficult to overcome a four-game deficit in less than two weeks time.

Oilers Drop 10-Inning Thriller To B-Sox

Locals Here Today Meet B-Sox At 2:30

Abilene Snaps Attendance Mark in WTNM

ABILENE, Tex., Aug. 27 — To hard-pressed club owners over America, this city of 80,000 must look like the dream town of minor league baseball.

While their teams are wallowing in financial troughs, Abilene's Class B Blue Sox have passed the 120,000 mark in attendance, setting a new league record and bettering what many clubs of Class A and AA caliber will entice through the gates any year.

And yet the Blue Sox for most of the season were battling to reach fourth place and only a week ago moved into the coveted first division.

The Oilers, in the meantime, have their sights aimed at first place. At this writing, the locals were three games out and with a three-game series coming up with league leading Amarillo this week, the locals will have a good chance to overtake the Gold Sox for the top rung.

As for the first division, I believe it's safe for all Oiler fans to begin making plans for the playoffs by reserving your box seats. Your money, of course, will be refunded if something drastic should happen that the Oilers didn't make the playoffs but I don't believe you have much to worry about.

The box seat reservations may be made at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Aussies Win Davis Cup For 12th Time

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Aug. 27 — Australia won the cherished Davis Cup Saturday when Lew Hoad and Rex Hartwig flattened Tony Trabert and Vic Seixas, 12-14, 6-4, 6-3, 7-5 to recapture from the United States the big silver trophy emblematic of world tennis supremacy.

The doubles triumph, on the heels of two stunning singles victories, gave the Aussies an insurmountable 3 to 0 lead and reduced Sunday's two final singles matches to the status of exhibitions.

Thus, the hammering whiz zids from down under once again ruled the tennis world. And it was their 13th Davis Cup triumph as well as their 10th challenge round victory over the United States in 20 meetings.

Hoad, a 30-year-old blond bomber, was the big man as the youngsters from down under nailed down the silverware. Ken Rosewall had opened the matches with an expected win over the off-form Seixas. But it was Hoad who gave the Aussies their big surge when he flattened Trabert, the Wimbledon king, in Friday's other singles match.

Then, to put the icing on the cake, he teamed with the 25-year-old Hartwig Saturday before 10,000 cheering fans banked in the huge concrete stadium at Forest Hills to wind it up to all intents and purposes.

It was a long, tensely-fought doubles match and the embattled Americans started strong as they won the opening set, 14-12. It was the second longest set in Davis Cup history.

40 Harvesters Open Drills; Doug Simmons Is Sidelined

The second casualty has hit the Fighting Harvester football camp as the Green and Golders completed their second day of drills Saturday.

The Oilers, in the meantime, have their sights aimed at first place. At this writing, the locals were three games out and with a three-game series coming up with league leading Amarillo this week, the locals will have a good chance to overtake the Gold Sox for the top rung.

Pegboard Is Help With Washing Tags

By KAY SHERWOOD NEA Staff Writer

Tagging the textiles that enter our homes is about the only way manufacturers can keep us hep to the fibers in the fabrics and tell us how to take care of them.

But what do you do with the tags when you take them off the fabric? If you drop them in the wastebasket, how are you going to remember whether that little wool skirt is really part nylon? Or do you wash it by machine or hand? Does it drip dry or can it be wrung?

I asked Mrs. Jessie Cartwright, director of the Norge Home Institute, just how important she thinks it is for homemakers to save all the data thrust upon them.

If there's a laundry instruction tag on the garment, by all means keep it handy, says Mrs. C. There are so many blends of natural and synthetic fibers—dacron with cotton, orlon with silk, dacron with nylon and so on—that unless you have a guide you just can't remember what to do with each. Nor can you tell by touch which fabric is which.

Add to the list the special finishes used on cottons, wool flannels that are washable, plus the special instructions accompanying curtains and blankets, and you can see why you can't trust to memory.

Mrs. Cartwright also reminded me that the instruction booklet that comes with the washer should be kept for handy reference. Furthermore, she said, the water temperature should be right for the laundry job to be done. Pay attention to the manufacturer's tips. Some dyes used on synthetics, for instance, will not stand high water temperature.

Little Fur Capes Make Comeback

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The fur cape, the little jacket for daytime and evening, the new fur colors, the predominance of small furs everywhere are the fur facts that tell a whole fall fashion story.

The return of the fur cape, whether short or long, is a natural fashion development stemming from the slim lines of autumn's ready-to-wear. Good for all dresses with lean lines and equally fine for the new tunic suits and suits with long jackets.

Little jackets, for both daytime and evening, mean more to every woman this year. Not every woman can afford a little jacket in mink but she can afford a little jacket in some fur for daytime or evening wear or for both. Styling of these jackets is imaginative and they, too, are designed for slim clothes though many look equally well with full skirts.

The little furs are not only good for many occasions, they're season-spanners, too. Most will travel readily. Waist-length and 26-inch jackets are replacing stoles this year.

Furs have the colors of fabric this year, with the charcoal grays leading off a big color splash. The beige are prominent and include caramel, rosy beige and cafe au lait.

Youthfully Yours!

Add a delicate touch to your Fall wardrobe with any one of these three flattering hats crocheted from navy, black or the darker shades of ribbon. Easy to make and so nice to wear.

"Our son, Prentice, who is now three, was stricken with polio in 1953, and for several months was on a diet which included lots of lean meat. Our food freezer really came in handy during that time."

"My husband, Herb, and I enjoy outdoor cooking during the summer months, and our freezer is just right for keeping the cuts of meat we enjoy." We almost

"The children enjoy the frozen desserts and between meal snacks which our freezer keeps ready for them at a moment's notice."
