Hughes Sells Film Co. For $25 Million

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — UP — Millionaire Howard Hughes, sold RKO Radio Pictures, Inc., Monday to the General Tire and Rubber Co. for $25 million cash in a deal believed to be the largest single financial transaction in the history of the motion picture industry.

An announcement said payment is due to be made by check on July 25. The transaction was believed to be one of the largest cash sales by an individual in the history of American finance.

The contract was signed by Hughes and Thomas J. O'Neill, vice president of the rubber company and president of General Tire and Rubber, Inc., and Mutual Broadcasting System, which are subsidiaries of General Tire and Rubber.

The studio will be taken over by General Tire. The new owner also will acquire control of about 400 old films and some new ones. It was believed they would be shown on the Mutual television network.

O'Neill said no immediate personnel changes were planned as a result of the change of ownership.

The sale does not involve the former holding company, RKO Pictures Corp., the parent company of RKO Radio Pictures, Inc. Facilities which will change hands include the major motion picture producing and distributing company with extensive studio and production facilities in Hollywood and Culver City, Calif., control of studios in New York; access through part ownership of producing facilities in Mexico City; 101 domestic and foreign motion picture exchanges, the facilities of RKO-Pathé and RKO Television, Inc.

Charges Filed In Accident Which Hurt 5

CANADIAN — Facing charges of aggravated assault with a motor vehicle in connection with a pickup-truck automobile collision Saturday morning in Canadian is William Perry Wainwright, 44, who is in serious condition in the Hemphill County Hospital.

The charges were filed against him Monday afternoon by Highway Patrolman Joe Culp.

Five persons were injured in the accident, according to Culp. Clyde Weaver, 35, was admitted to Highland General Hospital Saturday and dismissed Sunday. Jerald Weaver, 14, is in serious condition with a fractured skull. Two others were released after treatment. They were R. S. Marler, 32, and Dale Melton McDivitt, 29, both of Pampa. McDivitt was driving the pickup truck in which the four Pampa men were riding.

Patrolman Culp said Wainwright was driving an automobile east on Highway 60 on the wrong side of the road when his car collided with the westbound pickup truck, about 14 miles southwest of Canadian. The accident occurred about 1 a. m. Saturday.

Lack Of Plan Seen In West's Big Four Talk

By K. C. THALER

GENEVA — UP — The United States, Britain and France went to Geneva to speak "with one voice" at the Big Four summit conference, but they showed marked differences of accent on the first day.

President Eisenhower said in his opening statement that the talks were designed "to find a basis for accommodation" that will make future concrete solutions possible.

British Prime Minister Anthony Eden offered Russia a five-power non-aggression pact with a demilitarized buffer zone between East and West.

French Premier Edgar Faure suggested a security organization to include all European countries as well as a new disarmament deal.

Absence of Plan
A first assessment of the West's peace plans led observers to conclude that these views reflected western agreement on the broad principles of a possible settlement but the absence of a joint plan, so far on how it could be achieved.

Western observers welcomed President Eisenhower's policy statement as a "sober and cogent" outline of Allied strategy for future diplomatic moves.

But they also noted its cautious and noncommittal air, which contrasted with the more firm British and French approach to the methods for a European settlement.

Vital Question of Security
Interest focused particularly on the vital question of European security which all three western government chiefs mentioned, but with a marked difference of emphasis.

Mr. Eisenhower referred to the (See PLAN, Page 2)

West Prepared To Push Eden Plan In Controversy

GENEVA — UP — The Big Four heads of government Tuesday tackled the complicated problem of German reunification in their first shirt-sleeved working session. The meeting began at 4 p. m. (9 a. m. CST).

The West went to the conference table prepared to push a new "Eden plan" for a reunited Germany as the first step toward a cold war settlement.

The Big Four foreign ministers — including Russia's Vyacheslav M. Molotov in an unusually cooperative mood — had agreed in a morning session to give the German issue top priority on a four-point agenda which also included, in this order:

European security. Disarmament. Development of East-West contacts.

Concession by Soviets
The decision to give top billing to German reunification was a concession by the Soviets, who had wanted to consider first the issue of European security. And it represented a substantial strategic victory for the western Big Three, all of whom had the German question first on their lists.

The very fact that an agenda was agreed upon in a harmonious 90-minute session of the foreign ministers was considered a good augury for the conference. Many an earlier East-West conference has collapsed in disputes over what items should be considered and in what order.

The West also appeared to have successfully closed the door at the Geneva summit talks to explosive Far Eastern issues which Russia had insisted to bring into the discussion. The West insists Far Eastern matters should not be considered here in the absence of Far Eastern delegates.

Agree on Items
The foreign ministers agreed that only the items placed on the agenda should be discussed. Any other subject can be considered only if raised by one of the heads of government and agreed to by the other three.

After the agenda was announced by press attaches of the four delegations, French Premier Edgar Faure entertained British Prime Minister Anthony Eden and Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin at lunch. President Eisenhower did not attend.

The President, being a chief of state, as well as a head of government, outranks the other members of the conference from a technical stand-point and apparently has decided not to attend some of the "social functions" given for conference delegates.

90-Minute Meeting
The foreign ministers' meeting, presided over by Faure, lasted only 90 minutes.

U. S. presidential Press Secretary James Hagerty said the shortness of the session was a "very healthy, very good indication of the way the conference was going."

He emphasized that at past conferences delegates had taken hours and even days to agree upon an agenda.

British spokesman Sir George Young said the agenda was agreed upon "after an amiable discussion."

Hagerty said the heads of government at their meeting Tuesday afternoon would "not review" the agenda, but would start work immediately on the problems listed.

The West had expected the Soviets to resist putting German reunification at the top of the program.

Nehru Urges Far East Be Talked At Meet

NEW DELHI — UP — India Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru said Tuesday the Far East is a more explosive problem than Germany and cannot be ignored by the big powers.

In an obvious reference to the Big Four meeting in Geneva, Nehru said he hoped the big powers would give some "consideration to Formosa and the Far East question, and prepare some ground for a smooth consideration of the whole problem later."

He added that the Formosa question cannot be considered without Communist China.

"At some time a conference will have to be held to discuss the Far East," the Indian statesman said, at a press conference at which he reviewed his recent trip to Russia. "But informal approaches should be made before any final discussions."

The premier, regarded as the leading exponent of East-West co-existence, sent his good wishes to the Geneva conference.

Asked to comment on President Eisenhower's proposal for consideration at the summit meeting of the future of Soviet "satellite" Nehru said each country must be treated separately. The approach should be peaceful in accordance with the people's wishes, he said.

These questions could be considered better when the cold war tensions have faded, he added.

Farmer's Death Ruled Accident

CANADIAN — Garrett C. Parnell, 59, Hemphill and Lipscomb County farmer and rancher, was found shot to death about 11 a. m. Monday in his pickup truck on a country road close to Glazier.

Justice of the Peace Joe Guy of Lipscomb County ruled the shooting an accidental death. Officers said that he had been shot in the back of the head with a .22 caliber rifle which he normally carried in his pickup.

Sheriff Tarbox indicated that he believed Parnell was driving down the road and reached behind him to pick up the rifle which was accidentally discharged. The time of the shooting was fixed at shortly after 8 a. m.

Soviet Farmers Enjoy Picnic With Iowa Folk

By ROBERT L. ROSE

DES MOINES — UP — Twelve Russian agricultural experts sat down to a neighborhood picnic Tuesday with 25 Iowa farm folk.

The picnic was held on the simple dirt farm of George Hora, six miles north of Washington, Iowa, about 100 miles southeast of here.

The menu was distinctly American. It included a dozen plump spring roosters, potatoes, gravy, potato salad, corn on the cob, hot rolls and farm-butter, strawberry jam, three kinds of pie, cake and iced tea.

"Typical Family-Owned Farm"

The occasion was another visit to a "typical family-owned farm home" by the Soviet delegation on its month-long tour of the nation's bread basket.

The Russians arrived in this county Saturday and will spend their time trying to learn how America builds up its huge food surplus while Soviet production lags.

Hours' 160-acre farm was singled out for inspection because it was the first honored by Iowa State College for master swine producing. Hora raises about 800 hogs.

Also on hand Tuesday were the 100 or so newsmen and photographers whom Vladimir Katskevich, chief of delegation and first deputy minister of Russian agriculture, said "got in the way of the cows" Monday.

Spends Hard Day
Matskevich, particularly, had a hard day Monday, although, in keeping with the good will attitude he has generated since his arrival, he smiled through it all.

In addition to his visit with the delegation to the farm of Richard L. Allman, a 25-year-old Army veteran, and his running barb at the newsmen, he made a plea for peace and explained the desperate straits of Russian agriculture.

Matskevich was far more impressed with Allman's farm near Slater, Iowa, north of here, than he was with the newsmen.

Bouncing across Allman's 160-acre farm in a tractor-drawn flatbed wagon with his companions, he said the crop layout was "very impressive."

He admitted some Russian farms were downright "lousy" and jotted down copious notes as he toured the fields.

Paving Contract Awarded By City

Commissioners today awarded the asphalt surfacing contract to Ned E. Hoffman of Fort Worth following a session in which a tax report was received showing some 94 per cent of the 1954 city taxes had been collected.

Hoffman was the low bid in a field of three. It calls for a million asphalt paving of 31,790 square yards with a maximum set at 60,000 square yards. On the minimum the bidding was as follows: Hoffman, unit price 23.5 cents per square yard, for a cost of $7,470.26; Cooper & Woodruff, Amarillo, 27 cents, local price for the minimum, $8,583.55 and Baker, Neil & Haner, Borger, 30 cents, $9,537.27.

City Manager Fred Brook said the asphalt paving will be for a minimum of 19 streets which are presently ready. The number may be augmented if additional concrete is received shortly.

City Tax Collector Aubrey Jones submitted a written report on current tax collections, showing that as of June 1, 94.7 per cent of city collections for 1954 have already been made. The total collected amounted to $563,739.28. Collections were slightly above previous years, but not only per cent-wise but also totals.

Comparisons for the two previous years were as follows: In 1953 collections stand at $340,023.64, 93.78 per cent of the total collected, whereas the previous year, 1952, collections as of June 30 stand at $318,435.20 or 93.94 per cent of the total outstanding. Paving collections for 1954 totaled $128,713.55 compared to $16,709.35 the previous year.

Delinquent tax totals are, according to the tax office's report, $12,927.48 in 1954; $5,672.36 in 1953, and $9,588.73 as of June 30th, 1954 taxes became delinquent June 1.

Commissioners also passed the second reading of zoning ordinance 434 which will make Fraser Annex Addition No. 2 residential.

A bill of $465, submitted by J. W. Thornburg, Jr., for the hauling of dirt and gravel was approved by the Commissioners.

The Pampa Chapter of the American Red Cross expressed by letter their appreciation to the commissioners for helping in "many ways to keep children happy and occupied throughout the summer months," by allowing the organization to conduct the water safety program at the city pool.

The Commission discussed with City Manager Fred Brook the possibility of allowing several 15-minute parking spaces in front of city hall for persons doing business in the water or tax offices. Action was deferred for the present.

manner, the Warner program has a few items in common with Walt Disney's TV program that pioneered the entry of major film studios into TV.

One segment of the Warner show that will begin Sept. 13 on ABC-TV, will feature handsome Clint Walker, 28, a former deputy at the Sands hotel in Las Vegas, in a western series, "Cheyenne."

Like Crockett, Walker will have a sidekick "Smitty," played by L. Q. Jones.

"But I don't wear a coonskin cap," Walker drawled.

"And I don't wear those frilly western clothes. Just simple things."

Walker's story is a true Cinderella tale. He quit high school in Alton, Ill., to enter the Merchant Marine. Later he was a laborer and an insurance salesman. He moved his wife and baby to Texas in a 265 car. They lived in a shack without running water for 15 months.

He tried working on the docks at Long Beach and finally headed for Las Vegas. Walker is 6 feet, 3-inches tall and weighs 235 pounds so he quickly won a job as bouncer.

In the Sands hotel the entertainers "kept telling me I should be in movies," Van Johnson introduced Clint to a Hollywood agent. Finally Clint quit his $300 a month job and looked up the agent. On the ex-bouncer's first job interview at Warner's, he was signed to the starring role for the TV series.

He had never acted before in his life when he faced the cameras last week for the hour-long filmed show.

"I always was scared to death of box cameras but when I got in front of the movie camera it did not bother me," the slow-talking actor said.

Broad-shouldered, handsome Clint looks as if he ought to be a movie star. Though he's never been seen on the screen, three children asked him for autographs while he sat in the Brown Derby restaurant.

Ranger Dies In Highway Accident

MERTZON, Tex. — UP — Texas Ranger Clarence Nordyke was killed instantly Monday when his car smashed into a culvert during a blinding rainstorm about four miles east of Mertzon.

The 54-year-old Nordyke, who had been with the Rangers for about 10 years, was by himself at the time.

He was reported on his way to Ozona, where he is stationed in Crockett county.

Reports said the automobile, which was badly smashed up, hit the right hand side of the culvert approach and then ricocheted into the left side.

Nordyke was stationed in San Angelo as a Ranger before being sent to Ozona. He also served as a Ranger at Brownwood. Before joining the Rangers, he was a sheriff in Calhoun county.

The highway patrol said Nordyke's car apparently skidded on slick pavement just as it approached the culvert, and smashed into the side.

"legitimate security interests of all concerned." He also expressed readiness to take account of "legitimate security interests of the Soviet Union."

The British plan called for a "practical start" and advanced the idea of a security pact between the United States, Britain, France, Russia and Germany, binding each country to go to the aid of a victim of aggression.

France has its own ideas. France had its own ideas. France suggested that the western powers sign mutual security guarantees with the Soviet under which any nation attacking Russia would lose the aid of other western European union or NATO countries.

Moreover, France envisions a security organization to include all European nations willing to join it, with additional defensive guarantees.

This would approach the Soviet concept of an all-European security pact. But the essential French provision is that the West's regional defense organizations — the WEU and NATO — would remain intact along with the Soviet bloc's "eastern NATO" formed under the Warsaw pact.

Three Bears On Mountain Move Serious Reporters

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
KEMANO, B. C.—UP—We were at the 2,600-foot level of the mountain here, looking at nothing in particular but the snow on top of, when along came a lady bear. She was followed by her next of kin, two of the cutest teddies you ever did see. This was the cruel North Country. The concrete-pounding reporters on the trip had come to look at the new Kilmat smelter development, which one day will be the biggest of its kind in the world. Eventually 550,000 tons of aluminum will be processed here annually. So what do they see but three black bears. The newsmen, financial writers mostly, and therefore on the serious or fact-wise side, were, on this day, in a holiday mood. Every last one, except this character who forgot his Brownie, carried a camera. Most eager of the group was a bright scribe from the New York Times named Jack Ryan. Jack was trying a new color movie camera on for size. Well, the bear looked a little hungry, so an unnamed member of the group produced a candy bar and pitched it in the direction of the lady bear. She was interested, and right away started to play Hollywood. She came up real close and our eager colleague, Jack, got the closest of the close and started grinding away. The bear, whom we named Tebiatha, in honor of the late aunt of one of our crowd, did a few tricks. She stood on her hind legs. She turned and put her hinder to the wind and all the while there was a blinking of still black and white cameras from the likes of Nat S. Finney of the Washington bureau of the Buffalo Evening News, and others. Also the movie fellows. Tebiatha stood up, guiped the last of her sweets and headed for the woods, followed by her family. I asked Jack what a lady bear looked like, close up. He looked a little miffed. "How do I know?" he said, "but I'll fill you in when I develop these films. But let me tell you something—I know a little about bears." Jack opened his brand new movie box to re-load his film and let out a howl. He hadn't loaded in the first place, and all the while he had risked life and limb to record something which he never can prove. "What'll my wife say?" he said. "She'll never believe that me, a fine amateur photographer, got so close to a lady bear without bringing back some evidence via film. I feel like a ruined bruin, myself."

Heiress Sues 'Confidential' For $3 Million

SANTA MONICA, Calif.—UP—Millionaire Doris Duke, through her attorney, Jerry Giesler, Monday filed suit in Santa Monica Superior Court against "Confidential Magazine" for $3 million but claimed she didn't really want the money. Giesler said the purpose of Mrs. Duke's suit is "to defend her good name" and to "discourage this magazine and others of its ilk from making similar unfounded attacks against innocent people." Any amount collected from the court, he said, "will be given to worthy charities." It was the second suit filed in this court against the magazine, which has developed a whopping circulation through "exposes" of well-known persons. Screen Star Robert Mitchum filed suit against the magazine for $1 million after it published an article alleging he disrobed at a Hollywood party. Mrs. Duke's suit claims the magazine published a "malicious, false, libelous and degrading article accompanied with photographs" in a May issue this year. The suit asserts the story depicts her as "carrying on a relationship with a brown-skinned individual in a manner of intimate relationship that would imply an intimacy between the parties" and "indecent conduct." The suit also names Robert Harrison, publisher, Howard Rushmore, editor, and Grant Peters, purported author, and others.

Air Academy Building Plans Altered

WASHINGTON—UP—The Air Force Monday disclosed revised plans for its new academy buildings. They showed smaller expanses of glass. Gone was the controversial chapel that some persons said looked like an accordion. The proposed architecture for the academy at Colorado Springs, Colo., still follows a modernistic trend, with straight, severe lines. Air Secretary Harold E. Talbott indicated one main reason for the modernistic design was economy. He said the cost of the academy would about double if a more traditional architecture, such as Gothic, were followed.

Talbott, accompanied by a platoon of Air Force officials and architects, unveiled the revised plans before a crowded meeting of the Senate Military Appropriations subcommittee. The previous plans, with their emphasis on large expanses of glass in the buildings, had run into a storm of protest. The House Appropriations committee cut off funds for the academy construction until the Air Force could come up with more definite plans approved by the commission on fine arts. Talbott asked the subcommittee to restore $79 million in appropriations so the Air Force can start construction. The stop order by the House was a "deply discouraging blow" right after the first class entered the academy at the temporary location at Lowery Air Force Base in Denver, he said. Talbott said the previous designs that ran into criticism were "only studies."

Extradition Facing Ex-Con With $87,000

LAS VEGAS, Nev.—UP—Raymond Wilson, 33, one of two convicts who recently flashed $87,000 at this gambling resort, Tuesday faced an Aug. 8 extradition hearing in the $150,000 robbery slaying of wealthy Philadelphia widow, Mrs. Lulubel Rossman, 70. Wilson's extradition hearing was set Monday when he was arraigned on a Pennsylvania fugitive warrant charging him with murder. Justice of the peace John Mendoza set bond at $30,000. Wilson's ex-convict pal, Frank Ellsworth, 36, was taken into custody in Memphis, Tenn., on similar murder charge last week and now is awaiting extradition to Pennsylvania. Pennsylvania authorities claim they have a witness placing Wilson and Ellsworth in Philadelphia at the time of Mrs. Rossman's death. They also claim there was a similarity in the serial numbers of bills stolen from the victim and those found in the possession of the two men.

Boy Dies In Frogman Mask

CROCKETT, Tex.—UP—An 11-year old Houston boy, Robert Edward Cummings, donned a "frogman" mask to explore the depths of Ratcliff Lake here Sunday, and was autocoated. The boy, son of Mrs. Vivian Vaughn of Houston, was visiting his grandparents at Elkhart and was on a swimming party. He put on the mask to "see under the water," and floated face down on an auto tire inner tube. That was the way he was found after he was missing from the party too long and a search was started. Dr. Bernard Hyman of Lufkin, who tried vainly for two hours to revive the boy, said he apparently had kept his head under the water too long and had fainted with the mask cutting off the air. Raw rubber is a white, milky fluid.

Graham Gives Impression Of Historic Conferences

In the following special dispatch, written for United Press, American evangelist Billy Graham tells his private meditations and hopes for success of the Big Four Summit party.

By BILLY GRAHAM
Written for United Press

GENEVA—UP—Today a little boy stood out in front of our hotel watching the people come and go. Then I noticed he glanced up at the four flags hanging in front of the American, British, French and Russian.

His eyes seemed to be filled with wonderment, excitement and a certain amount of bewilderment. To me he seemed to symbolize future generations whose destiny hangs in the balance during the next few days.

Thousands Attend U.S. Prayer Rites

Thousands of Americans attend church services Monday in response to President Eisenhower's request that they ask God to be the greatest power at the Big Four Summit meeting in Geneva.

They followed the example of others who gathered to worship Sunday at special conference eye services in cathedrals, on warships at sea, at Army posts and even in a drive-in movie theatre.

Before Mr. Eisenhower left for Geneva for the conferences aimed at ending the cold war, he expressed the hope that all Americans would go to church and pray for peace.

The President, far from home and from the people who elected him, sought the guidance of God in an American church at Geneva.

In Houston, Tex., and in surrounding Harris county, hundreds of church bells began ringing at 9:30 a. m. Sunday and will continue being rung as long as the Geneva meeting is in session.

In Des Moines, Iowa, where 12 Russian agricultural experts began a tour of Midwest farms, the city's church council sponsored a special dawn service Sunday at Des Moines' largest drive-in theatre. Hundreds of families attended in cars and prayed.

40 Girls Expected In Contest

Forty cowgirls are expected to be entered in the Sponsored Cowgirl Contest at the Top O' Texas Rodeo, Aug 3 - 6, with last year's winner, Daythene Vineyard of Kress setting the pattern for the 1955 show.

A beautiful hand-stamped saddle will be given the winner. Second prize will be a silver buckle and third prize will be a pair of shod-made boots, given by Pursley Motor Co.

Each cowgirl, according to Mrs. Iris Ragsdale, office manager of the association, must be sponsored by a town, community or ranch. Not more than one girl may be sponsored by an organization, with the Pampa entry not being eligible for a prize. All girls entering will ride in two reining contests.

Among those entered at the present time and their sponsors are: Wartie Cordell, Childress, sponsored by the Childress Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. Doris Waldrop, Amarillo, San Jacinto Lions Club; Helen Harrison, Woodward, Okla., T H D Ranch; Mrs. Jackie Kirk Plainview, Hale County Sheriff's Office; Phillip Ferguson, Woodward, Ferguson Ranch, and Carol Sue Wilson, Pampa, Hayhook Ranch.

Mrs. Thelma Hopkins of Pampa is chairman of the contest.

Expectant Mother Found Murdered

GOLDEN, Colo., UP—Fingerprints from the body of a pregnant young red-haired woman found Saturday in a gulch near here were sent to FBI headquarters in Washington Monday in an attempt to establish her identity.

Jefferson County Sheriff Carl Enlow said that all other "efforts to identify her have failed."

"We have checked on several missing women in the area," he said. "But none fits the description of the murdered woman."

Authorities first believed she was a rape victim. But an autopsy revealed she was six months pregnant and caused them to consider another motive. They said the assailant may have bludgeoned her to death with a rock because of her condition.

Jet Hits Power Line, Pilot Okay

DALLAS—UP—A jet plane buffeted by wind gusts up to 46 miles an hour crashed through a power line north of Dallas' Love Field Sunday night, causing an electrical explosion. The pilot managed to land safely, however, although the ship was damaged.

The men in the T-33 jet training plane refused to give their names. The pilot later was identified only as an Air Force lieutenant named Andrews.

The pilot told police that he had flown from Berry Field in Nashville, Tenn., and was scheduled to make a refueling stop in Dallas. The craft was caught in wind gusts that preceded a storm which swept over the area.

Knocked Hole in Wing
Firemen said the plane received a hole in the right wing tank, a damaged fuselage near the front wheels, and a damaged landing light.

Mrs. P. R. Hunsucker said the plane was "bucking just like a horse" minutes before it hit the power line. Another resident, C.R. King, said the pilot came "screaming in low and hit one wire" between some steel towers.

The wire fell across two others and short circuited two 13,000-volt lines on nearby poles. King said there was a brilliant flash and an explosion after the wire touched the other two.

Avoided Crash
King said it looked for a second as if the plane were going to crash after hitting the power line. Then, he said, the pilot gave it full power and roared on.

The accident knocked out power in the neighborhood for nearly an hour.

One unidentified woman had just left her car and shut the door when one of the "hot" lines fell across it. A power company lineman said she was lucky she wasn't killed.

Government Questions Are Too Many

WASHINGTON—UP—A Hoover Commission task force said Monday the country could save millions of dollars and a vast amount of wear and tear time if Uncle Sam would stop asking businessmen and farmers so many questions.

As of now the government makes 4,700 reporting demands on industry. Cut out or simplify just 25 of them, the task force told Congress, and savings would amount to $100 million a year for industry and government.

Mountains of information demanded by the government never is used for anything, the task force reported, and some of the questions—such as how many chickens will you sell next year?—just can't be answered.

Nearly 1 million reports are sent to the government every year reporting, the task force said, that the reporter has nothing to report.

Besides saving everybody's money, the report added, a drastic slash in the "wilderness of reports, forms, and questionnaires" would be a welcome relief to the persons who have to cope with them.

The same task force, headed by Emmett J. Leahy, reported last February on the millions that could be saved by cutting down paperwork passing only from one government agency to another. Leahy is president of the New York management consultant firm of Leahy & Co.

In carrying out its second assignment the group set up 29 committees—representing various industries to make studies of reports and forms that had to be filed in. They concentrated on only 328 of the 4,700 reporting requirements.

In a mere 26 cases where the government agencies agreed on eliminating or simplification, the task force said, industry savings will amount to $10,183,000 a year and government savings to $5,091,800.

The United States and Argentina are the principal corn-exporting countries of the world.

Partners

BAKER, Ore.—UP—An elderly prospector has gone into a gold mining partnership with this eastern Oregon city. City council members approved an unidentified prospector's plea to be allowed to work the 100-year-old Nelson Placer Mine six miles west of here, which is on land owned by the city. The miner promised the city 15 per cent of the poke he hopes to acquire through hand mining methods.

Read Lamentations 4:17-22

Spiritual disease has disastrous effects. The human spirit, like the human body, was designed for efficiency, but maladjustments appear as a result of various causes with consequent loss of confidence and accompanying spiritual distress. Just as the liver gets sluggish and lowers the tempo of all our physical activity, so the conscience may become insensitive and get off balance. Whatever the nature of our spiritual disease, at least three effects can always be identified in the sufferer:

1. The spiritual is enslaved to the physical. Corrosive habits assume mastery over the body and take our spirits captive. Because we are no longer free our doubts begin to sap our energies. We trust nothing but our own strength and never venture beyond the reach of our arm or our mind. We believe and settle down in the cage with our ignorance and our fears.
2. There is a marked absence of the sense of power. We fail in the face of the possible; we go down under the blows of life; we rise every morning to walk in the
3. The spirit of man becomes dwarfed and deformed. Regal emotions are no longer experienced. We walk unmoved among the glories of God. Great experiences leave us uninspired and contemptuous of ourselves. We brush shoulders with saints who see great visions and we esteem them queer. We thrust noble impulses back and down, declaring "this world leaves no room for dreams. Meanwhile we live in terror."

I do not know what tomorrow may bring forth, but I will not lose courage. I did not know yesterday what today might produce, and here I am unscathed. Tomorrow may be no worse than today. Therefore I will trust tomorrow for it too is in thy hands, O God. Amen.

What has been your experience with a spiritual disease, such as worry? Has it made you happy? Has it enabled you to meet your day? Has it sharpened your wits, or made your mind fallow? Has it produced any power or peace? Is it not a total loss?

The Untold Story

One of the great problems accompanying the publication of a newspaper is the task of getting the facts, the REAL facts before the reading public. Reporters, being members of what has been called for want of a better term, the "fourth estate," are prone to seek news where it is most likely to be plentiful. They have a positive penchant for hanging around bureaucrats, the nation's capitol, city halls, jails, taverns and other spots where low life congregates. They know, sometimes almost instinctively, that it is in these places where the strange, the bizarre, the cruel, the unjust actions of man against man are apt to occur. Since they are usually fighting dead-lines, no one can blame them too much. They have to play the odds, and it is more expedient for them to look where the unusual "man bites dog" event is apt to occur.

All of which is why we are so exceedingly happy whenever some friend of ours on whom we can rely brings us a non-reportorial-account-of what conditions are like in the places where reporters scarcely ever bother to look.

Recently, one of our acquaintances flew to the British Isles. Consequently we have been getting a series of reports which we consider of real value since they have originated in places other than Number Ten Downing Street, Buckingham Palace and the Lord Mayor's Office.

Speaking of the recent rail strike, we are now reliably informed that the dreadful tie-up which will in the end cost American taxpayers dearly, since we are subsidizing the "American way of life" for Britain, occurred only because of a jurisdictional squabble between labor bosses. This was, so far as we know, not revealed in the American press, although plenty was said in British papers. It seems the workers themselves went out under duress from their labor organizers; that they wanted to go back to work; that they were kept out because of the socialist demands of their masters. The loss to the railroads must have been colossal. The strike was carefully timed to coincide with the vacation rush of office workers to beaches and resorts for their vacations. Our friend rode in a train on the very day they went back into service. The train was less than half full, since those who would customarily use the rails had made other arrangements.

The dock strike, conducted simultaneously and in sympathy, is now falling apart, we are informed. This is due largely to the fact that the workers on the Queens (Mary and Elizabeth) refused to be bound by the picket lines. Despite the dockers, the ships sailed on schedule. Thus the dock strike is splitting open at the seams.

The effects of American subsidies to Britain are widely apparent. Markets and stores are crammed with merchandise. Food shops are especially well stocked with articles not grown in Britain. Fruit is common and cheap. Oranges, grapefruit, grapes and melons, all imported, are retailed at prices less than we have to pay here in the United States where they are grown. Large black Concord grapes are priced at 36c a pound. Oranges are about 4c each for choice navels and valencias.

Numbers of automobiles on the highways have increased more than 100 per cent since 1939.

A curious phenomenon of the times is the socialized medicine operation of Britain. In this connection, a few American taxpayers are getting a little of their own back. We understand that a number of traveling U.S.ers are stopping off in British hospitals for operations, teeth extractions, and other repairs to their physiological equipment, all at government expense. We are not condoning this. We are merely chuckling over the inevitable results of entrenched socialism. Of course, in the end, this raises the cost of government-supported medicine in Britain, which then is passed on to American taxpayers at home.

Another example of the American subsidy at work is the heavily underwritten British agriculture. Our correspondent reports that farmers are now equipped with all manner of gadgets which they couldn't possibly afford, so that the meager British produce can be grown and distributed via the controlled market to the greatly overpopulated island.

Since the kindness and generosity of American politicians have now made life more enjoyable and more comfortable for our British cousins, it is fair to inquire when their spirit of joyful giving will be reflected at home by tax reduction. Since it is so easy for bureaucrats to be generous with other people's money, we are wondering when the British members of parliament will decide to tax Britons to help us with our staggering debt so that high prices and poverty in this country can be overcome.

We continue to hear a lot of talk about promoting world peace. Too much of it boils down to the following program:

1. Giving away our military secrets without safeguards.
2. Recognizing Red China and admitting her to the UN.
3. Supplying the Communists through "peaceful trade" with the war materials that will kill our sons.
4. Agreeing to a "status quo" that will leave enslaved people enslaved forever.
5. Ending the investigation and exposure of Communist spies and subversives in our country.
6. Relaxing our vigilance to protect our own freedom and national sovereignty, which is the instrument of that freedom.

This is the route to peace—the peace of surrender, the peace of slavery, the peace of death.

Fears Of Founding Fathers On Treaty Powers

I want to quote further from the new book "Treaties Versus the Constitution" by Roger Lea McBride. It is published by Caxton Printers, Ltd., Caldwell, Idaho, and the price is $3.00.

McBride goes into the comments made by the Founding Fathers showing their fears and beliefs as to how far the treaty power given in the Constitution extended.

He quotes Madison as saying that it would be impractical to list all the cases in which Congress could exercise treaty power. Then he quotes Madison as saying:

"I do not conceive that (the treaty) power is given to the President and Senate to dismember the empire, or to alienate any great, essential right. I do not think the whole legislative authority have this power."

Then he quotes John C. Calhoun as making this analysis:

"Although the treaty-making power is exclusively vested and without enumeration or specification, in the Government of the United States, it is nevertheless, subject to several important limitations. It is, in the first place, strictly limited to questions inter alia; that is, to questions between us and foreign powers which require negotiation to adjust them. But to extend it beyond these, the pretext what it may, would be to extend it beyond the allotted sphere, and thus a palpable violation of the Constitution. It is, in the next place, limited by all the provisions of the Constitution which inhibit certain acts from being done by the Government or any of its departments; of which description there are many. It is also limited by such provisions of the Constitution as direct certain acts to be done in a particular way, and which prohibit the contrary."

"It can enter into no stipulation calculated to change the character of the Government; or to do that which can only be done by the Constitution-making power; or which is inconsistent with the nature and structure of the Government or the objects for which it was formed."

Then McBride writes: "Patrick Henry, in the debates at the Virginia ratifying convention, insisted with his famous vigor and clarity of expression that there was no limit upon the power: '...if I could see the same checks in that paper which I see in the British government, I would consent to it.'"

McBride quotes what George Nicholas replied at the same Virginia convention: "They can, by this (Sixth Article), make no treaty which shall be repugnant to the spirit of the Constitution, or inconsistent with the delegated powers. The treaties they make must be under the authority of the United States, to be within their province. It is sufficiently secured, because it declares that, in pursuance of the powers given, they shall be the supreme law of the land, notwithstanding anything in the constitution or laws of the particular states."

Then McBride writes: "Countering Nicholas, again at the Virginia convention, was Geo. Mason, a member of the Federal Convention. 'The President and Senate can make any treaty whatsoever. We wish not to refuse, but to guard this power, as it is done in England...We wish an express and explicit declaration, in that paper, that the power which can make treaties cannot, without the consent of the national Parliament—the national legislature—dismember the empire.'"

Chancellor Kent had this to say about treaty power: "The department of the government that is intrusted by the Constitution with the treaty-making power is competent to bind the national faith in its discretion, for the power to make treaties of peace must be co-extensive with all the exigencies of the Nation, and necessarily involves in it that portion of the national sovereignty which has the exclusive direction of diplomatic negotiations and contracts with foreign powers. All treaties made by that power become of absolute efficacy, because they are the supreme law of the land. There can be no doubt that the power competent to bind the nation by treaty may alienate the public domain and property by treaty."

Then McBride quotes Thomas Jefferson as follows: "To what subject this (treaty) power extends, has not been defined in detail by the Constitution, nor are we entirely agreed among ourselves. 1. It is admitted that it must concern the foreign nation, party to the contract, or it would be a mere nullity res inter alios (sic) acta. 2. By the general power to make treaties, the Constitution must have intended to comprehend only those objects which are usually regulated by treaty, and cannot be otherwise regarded. 3. It must have meant to except out of those rights reserved to the states; for surely the President and Senate cannot do by treaty what the whole government is interdicted from doing in any way. 4. And also to except those subjects of legislation in which it gave a participation to the House of Representatives. This last exception is denied by some, on the ground that it would leave very little matter for the treaty power to work on. The less the better, say others."

Then McBride says: "The constitutional ambiguity on the standing of treaties vis-a-vis constitutional clauses was responsible for this variety of opinion. Inasmuch as the records of the convention itself leave no more than hints as to the intentions of the Founding Fathers, it cannot be asserted with certainty that one view or the other or a middle ground is the 'true' construction."

Big Business Considers Humphrey Traitor To Class

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Certain prominent Republican industrialists are beginning to change their mind about George M. Humphrey, Secretary of the Treasury. They consider the erstwhile steel-and-coal magnate to be as great a "traitor" to his class as Franklin D. Roosevelt was held to be by the "economic royalists" when he sprang.

Humphrey's demand for derailing or curtailing a multi-billion "grave train" for the nation's largest corporations furnishes an ironic answer to Capitol Hill "liberals" charge that the Eisenhower regime is a "Big Business Administration." For the former Hanna executive, even more so than Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, former General Motors chief, has been pilloried as the arch-capitalist at Washington.

Instead, Humphrey is bucking such great cooperations as United States Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Boeing and Douglas aircraft companies, Shell Oil, Phillips Petroleum, Boston Edison and many other interests seeking tax favors at the expense of the United States Treasury.

Secretary Humphrey's current offense is his suggestion for termination or curtailment of the fast tax write-off procedure enacted after the Korean War outbreak as a defense measure. It has cost Uncle Sam at least $3 billion — almost enough to balance the budget — and it still nicks the Treasury for about $1 billion a year.

In order to stimulate production of steel, aluminum, petroleum, machine tools and munitions, the 1950 law permits corporations to amortize new plants and facilities in five years. It means huge savings in taxes, to wit:

A $100,000 plant, for instance, can deduct from taxes approximately $20,000 a year under the five-year amortization plan. Normally, the deduction would be spread over 20 years, possibly more, with heavier tax payments to the government.

Since the law's enactment late in 1950, about 20,000 write-off certificates have been granted, involving expansion totaling about $30 billion. Almost 700 requests are now pending on reports costing $4 billion. The mere report that the loophole may be plugged has brought forward many new applicants, including the great corporations listed above.

The tax write-off program is administered by the Office of Defense Mobilization, which is headed by Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, A veteran New Deal official, Dr. Flemming has permitted "abuses" constitutional clauses was responsible for this variety of opinion. Inasmuch as the records of the convention itself leave no more than hints as to the intentions of the Founding Fathers, it cannot be asserted with certainty that one view or the other or a middle ground is the "true" construction.

FOR REFLECTION

One of the basic fallacies that haunts those who see a danger of adoption by industry of automation is the notion that there is only so much work to be done in the world and, hence, that anything that takes some of this work out of human hands — or off human shoulders — thereby "throws people out of employment."

Nothing could be further from the truth. There is, in fact, so much work to be done in this world that there is virtually no end to it. We have not even begun to "catch up" with it.

To take only the more obvious tasks that await doing, think of the hundreds of thousands of miles of road to be constructed, the tens of thousands of schoolrooms to be built (and teachers' desks to be manned), the huge amount of obsolete housing and business structures to be replaced, and the thousand and one conveniences and luxuries to be supplied those who are now living without them.

As usual, the military experts have become involved in this controversy. And the members of the Office of Defense Mobilization, which has been debating the question, include Defense Secretary Wilson. The others are top officials of Treasury, State, Interior, Commerce and Labor.

Pentagon spokesmen contend that the "emergency" has not ended, and will not end until the "cold war" with Russia and Communist China is resolved one way or the other. Overnight expansion may be required any time, they warn, and the law should be retained in some form. Final decision may not be made until after returns are in from the Geneva Conference.

The Miracle Of Flight Prompts Pegler Column

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

PARIS — The miracle of flight across the Atlantic between dusk and dawn in a machine weighing fifty tons by itself alone, and manned by a crew of ten, seems to make little impression on most of the passengers. Some undoubtedly are excited, but appear to be unconcerned. Those who, on the d sleepers, peel down after the ship departs, about half-past eleven, and crawl into pullman bunks, are not showing bravado. They do go to sleep and they seem to curl a lofty lip at a thrilling experience, for it certainly is not natural for man to fly three or four miles above the world.

By the dawn's early light, Leonie Shattuck, the wife of Harold, who runs the Schraft chain of restaurants and confectionery stores in New York, came down the aisle of our constellation, blinking her brown eyes and flexing her dimples, draped in a wrap with toothbrush and make-up and a jumble of stuff in both hands and arms.

"Did you sleep well?" "I was dead to the word," Leonie said. "But I can't find my eyebrow pencil and a girl can't land in Paris, France, Europe, without eyebrow pencil."

The night before, which was only five hours before because, meanwhile, we had been dashing toward this dawn, Captain Howard Hall, of TWA, who lives in Kansas City and commutes to his work in New York, had come down the aisle visiting the passengers. He had taken the ship up at Idlewild at 5:30 of a hot afternoon. At 9,000 feet, he had turned her over to Berg Bradford, the relief pilot, and the robot, on a course just outside Cape Cod, for Gander, a flight of four and one-half hours. The pursers, Robert Maisch and John Taylor and Miss Donna Crist, the hostess, had been serving splits of champagne on the house and the mood of some of the passengers was slightly effervescent.

Captain Hall is a little gray. He flew the mails before passenger traffic was organized. He has been with TWA 27 years, he flew warplanes to London as a ferry pilot before we got in and he does not know how many times he has flown the North Atlantic. Nevertheless, his respect for his task is undiminished, for flight is still unnatural to man and these enormous masses of machinery with thousands of interdependent working parts are capable of the most trying crochets.

One tiny gear giving way may project its failure to a whole engine. A tube no bigger than a soda straw, cracking under pressure, may disable all the rest of an engine, which then must be silenced, adding that much weight to the burden of the other three. Emergencies are rare. There are statistics on their rarity, compiled to reassure passengers. But a captain cannot switch on a statistic to take up the job of an idle engine and Captain Hall's deeper meaning was just about that when he said, somewhere over Maine, existing record of what the gale was when they came down the ganquail of the Mayflower. But the gals of today do care, and their curiosity is largely due to the work of fashion editors.

As a male fashion editor I would be off to all parts of the world, sending in such sample dispatches as these:

Bavaria — Leather shorts minus the familiar hip pocket were unveiled today at Henri Edelweiss' Fall showing. Replacing the pocket was a gathered pouch of soft chambray in which the Bavarian man-about-town can carry his ibex call, extra feathers for his hatband, and a spare cologne.

Kenya Colony — The long-nosed Mau-Mau walking shorts have given way to the White Hunter running pants in Kenya. Tailors are working overtime to turn them out for the men who want to be aviate in the veldt.

Calcutta — India's cafe society set gentlemen are wearing their bedsheets differently this season. Huckyay of Delhi started the fashion when at his Spring showing his models allowed only two inches to drape the ground.

Hong Kow — Look for men to wear seaweed cummerbunds with their dinner jackets next year. Wane Wo Ho unveiled them today in his salon at the Peak, and they are tremendously effective.

Majorca — There was no men's fashion showing here today, your editor felt in need of a good read and so will take it easy here for a week or two before hopping off for Rome for a glimpse at Old's showing of new fashions in ear muffs, long drawers, and bowties. Don't tell me it wouldn't be a good job, that of male fashion editors were dressing. There is no,

Hank Would Be Male Fashion Editor If He Started Over

By HENRY McLEMORE

If I were about 100 years young and just starting my career as a newspaperman, I believe I'd change my approach.

Instead of starting as copy boy, and advancing at none too rapid stages from there on, I'd spring full-blown as a fashion editor — men's fashion editor.

There is a terrific need for such an editor. As a matter of truth, I don't know of any newspaper which has full coverage on what men are wearing, are going to wear, and should wear.

Heaven knows how many women's fashion editors there are! Every newspaper with a circulation that extends more than two miles in any direction from the linotype machines has at least one. And what a beautiful job these women fashion editors have! It was good enough when they only went to Paris for the openings of the dress collection, but now that Italy, Spain, Ireland, Israel, the Isle of Man, Cyprus, India and Madagascar have become prominent in the world of style, they travel as much as Secretary Dulles — and without his problems.

Jane Talk

By JANE KADINGO Pampa News Women's Editor

FALL FASHIONS are coming into the fore again, although it's hard to think about them seriously during the warm weather. However, it is time. To go along with the fall fashions are the new lines in jewelry. For a glimpse at what to expect, here is a description of one fall line.

FASHION HIGHLIGHTS The jewel, and jewelry makes the fashion. In fall 1955, the silhouette is slim. The clothes were designed for jewelry, and the entire fashion picture demands the coordinating touch of jewelry as it never has before. A slim, unadorned sheath cannot achieve elegance without a necklace to set off the neckline, be it low or the covered up look, earrings to create more top interest, multiple bracelets, since the longer length in sleeves look unfinished without their complementary touch and frequently, a pin to emphasize the low hip line or call attention to the interesting narrow waist. This urban look means the return to elegant, beautifully designed "jeweler's jewelry" and the epitome of precious looking, elegant jewelry is Trifari.

THE RENEWAL of elegance brings about a renaissance of jeweler's jewelry at its loveliest. Prized pearl and gold, gold and rhinestone, pseudo emerald, a sapphire, ruby, and especially the elegance of pure white rhinestones, are the dressy picture from cocktail clothes to the most formal ball gown. Particularly noteworthy is Jewel Embers, textured pseudo-golden twigs tipped in rhinestones or made subtly new and interesting with multicolor cabochon tips of ruby, sapphire and emerald colored stones combined to create tiny tantalizing glowing embers of light.

Trifari has always been famous for their exquisite design and workmanship, and Park Avenue is the essence of the art that is Trifari. Delicate golden threads curl upward and outward to terminate in a rhinestone tip that forms part of a completely precious looking cluster. The Park Avenue pins are particularly noteworthy when your torso sheath demands a pin at the neckline. Mix and match these pins with the ever present necklaces.

Hipline accouters, too, are enormous rhinestone 3D leaf and their triple Royal Plume of sparkling rhinestones that is truly a masterpiece. For full evening, rhinestones are having a banner year, and the leader of all the lovely rhinestone pieces is Command Performance. This highly elegant jewelry was a command performance, since the new clothes demand its precious look, and it is an especially intriguing design since it looks different depending upon the angle from which you see it, for it is composed of two-way paved ridges featuring all baguette stones on one ridge and paved round stones on the opposite ridge. Command Performance is regal in white and the depth and fire of the pseudo-emeralds, sapphires and rubies in which it may also be had, make it a veritable blaze of brilliance.

STARTING THURSDAY NIGHT when the Oilers return home to open a five-day homestand, the Pampa Optimist Club will initiate a "Knot Hole Club" at Oiler park.

The Knot Holes will be in effect for the remainder of the season.

The Oiler management has bought a Knot Hole Club for Oiler home games but has had difficulty finding a sponsor for the organization.

The Optimist Club recently voted to sponsor the Knot Holes and they are now complete to get things started Thursday night.

Members of the Knot Hole Club must sit in this section. At least two members of the Optimist Club will be present each night to watch over the Knot Hole section.

A Knot Hole Club can do a lot for the Oilers. When placed in one section, these kids can really make the noise in rooting for the Oilers.

The Knot Hole Club has a good psychological effect on the home club. When the home players see a section full of youngsters yelling their lungs out for them it just makes them play a little harder.

Well, there you have it, kids. Why not go down the first thing in the morning and pick up your Knot Hole T shirt?

REPORTS ON THE automobile drive for under way by the Oilers reveal that things are going pretty good.

Lennon Sparks AA All-Star Balloting

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—UP—Final tabulation of voting for the American Association All-Star game showed Monday that both teams will be all-star rank when Minneapolis Millers play host to the game July 21.

The fans around the loop voted seven of the Millers onto the All-Star squad, as outfielder Bob Lemon led the entire league with a record-breaking 37,621 votes.

The Minneapolis players named to the squad will play for their own club and will be replaced on the All-Star team by those next in line in the balloting. Minneapolis won the honor of meeting the All-Stars by a coin flip after they wound up in a first-place tie with Toledo, July 1.

Behind Lennon in the total votes department were catcher Darrell Johnson of Denver with 36,717 and outfielder Jim Dyck of Indianapolis with 35,208.

Giants Nip Braves To Split Series

By UNITED PRESS

Manager Charlie Grimm thinks well of his Milwaukee Braves chances of overtaking the Brooklyn Dodgers in National League pennant race.

"I managed the Chicago Cubs in 1935 when they won 21 straight games to close out the season," Grimm said after the Braves' disheartening 6-5 loss to the New York Giants Monday night. "That's the only way I can figure it now — you're only out when they count '10' over you."

Grimm, who was under fire himself for this third coaching in Monday night's sloppy scramble of so-called contenders, pondered a moment and then added: "If we were right, we'd have swept the series with the Giants."

Manager, Leo Durocher of the Giants, almost as discouraged as Grimm, guffawed when Charlie's comment was relayed to him.

"They should have won four straight!" he said. "We should have won four straight!"

As it was, the split of the four-game series left both managers without a reasonable argument or believing they could catch the Dodgers — who, incidentally, bowed to the Cincinnati Reds 9-5 Monday night.

To make matters even more rosy for the Dodgers, the even-odds "Cubs" losing streak mounted to eight straight games when they were defeated 8-6 and 2-1 by the Philadelphia Phillies. The first game was the completion of which the Cubs led 5-4 in the sixth while the second was a regularly scheduled contest in which Herman Wehrmeister out-dueled Warren Hacker 2-1.

The double defeat dropped the Cubs, early-season contenders, 17 1/2 games behind Brooklyn and closer to last place than first. The Braves trail the Dodgers by 12 1/2 games and the Giants trail by 15 1/2.

Center-fielder Bill Bruton's miss of Willie Mays' 410-foot fly with two out in the seventh inning permitted Alvin Dark and Whitey Eckman to score with two unearned runs that gave the Giants the victory.

Grimm, Milwaukee's third-base coach, was under fire for failing to send Leo Crandall, who had tripped, in to the plate in the top of the seventh when Spain filed to Mays for the first out. Grimm held up Crandall and Mays' throw was far off the plate although very strong.

Bruton followed with a shorter fly to Mays and Willie cut down Crandall at the plate with a one-bounce throw to catcher Wes Vestrum.

While couldn't have thrown out Crandall in a million years on Spain's fly, one Giant commiserated. "But he had at least a 50-50 shot on Bruton's."

Pinch-hitter Glen Gorbous' three-run homer enabled the Phillies to rally to five runs and win their suspended game with the Cubs and Ray Smalley's two-run fifth-inning homer against his former teammates provided all the runs required in the other.

NL outfielder Jim Wilson turned in his fourth shutout of the season — a two-hitter — as the Baltimore Orioles snapped the Chicago White Sox's seven-game winning streak with a 7-0 decision. Wilson now has a 7-0 record for the Orioles.

Roy Sievers' 13th and 14th batters of the season paced the Washington Senators to a 6-3 triumph over the Kansas City Athletics in the only other major league game played. Ted Abernathy was the winner and Cloyd Boyer the loser.

Monday's Star
Jim Wilson of the Orioles, who beat the Athletics, 7-0, for his fourth shutout and seventh victory of the year.

Texans Even Series With 5-4 Victory

EL PASO, July 19—The Pampa Oilers will wind up their extended road jaunt here Tuesday night when they take on the El Paso Texans in the "rubber" game of a three-game series.

El Paso drew even in the series Monday night with a 5-4 decision, the same score the Oilers had beaten the Texans in the series opener Sunday.

After Tuesday's games, the Oilers will start their trek back home to open a five-day homestand Thursday night.

Three of the Oilers, along with Manager Grover Seitz, however, will stop off at Plainview enroute home to take part in the West Texas-New Mexico League All-Star game Wednesday night.

The three players chosen to play in the all-star game are first baseman Joe Fortin, shortstop Raci Slider and pitcher Tom Pollet.

Seitz will co-manage the North All-Stars with Eddie Bockman of Albuquerque.

Dukes, Clovis, Ponies Win WT-NM Tilts

Another night last Monday night could put the Albuquerque Dukes atop the West Texas-New Mexico League standings.

Albuquerque shaded third place Amarillo 5 to 4 while last place El Paso nipped leading Pampa by the same score to put the Dukes only a half-game out of first.

Clovis moved into fifth place by pounding Lubbock 26 to 11 and Plainview gained fourth by defeating Abilene 8 to 2.

Tuesday night Amarillo is at Albuquerque, Pampa at El Paso, Lubbock at Clovis and Abilene at Plainview in the final games of the series.

At Albuquerque the Dukes staged a three-run rally in the ninth to win. Gene Howard's line single was the big blow. Bud Bauhofer was the winner.

Tight relief pitching by Frank Ramsey subdued a Pampa rally in the ninth and allowed El Paso to pick up their win over the league leader. Jerry Dale got the win.

John Warren got five hits and six runs batted in in the Clovis slaughter of Lubbock. The 22-hit attack also included a grand slam homer by Paul Flores and other round-trippers by Pete Trabucco and Hank Paskevich.

Bob Swanson hurled a six-hitter as Plainview beat Abilene. Don Stokes hit two homers and I.B. Palmer and Joe Dellamonica one each for the Ponies.

Jablonski Optioned To Diego

CINCINNATI —UP— A disillusioned Ray Jablonski was San Diego-bound Tuesday, sadly aware that in baseball they pay off on this year's performance, not last year's.

The 28-year-old Jablonski, optioned to the Pacific Coast League by Cincinnati "to restore his self-confidence," was one of the National League's foremost sluggers during the past two seasons. He drove in 112 runs in 1953 and 104 runs last year.

Traded to the Redlegs last December along with pitcher Gerry Smith for relief pitcher Frank Stanley, Jablonski never was able to get started with Cincinnati, showing a sub-par .230 batting average and only 25 runs batted in.

Gabe Paul, Cincinnati general manager, insisted the Redlegs "haven't given up" on Jablonski and explained he is "being sent down so he can rehabilitate himself and restore his self-confidence."

White Sox In Crucial Test

CHICAGO —UP— It's "do or die week" for the Chicago White Sox and upwards of 40,000 fans will fill Comiskey Park Tuesday night for the first of a three-game series with the New York Yankees.

Pennant fever should be spreading over Chicagoland as the White Sox have swept seven of their last eight games to climb within two games of the slumping Yankees, who have lost nine of their last 13 games.

But there is no pennant talk yet except in whispers. And the reason for the pessimism is Casey Stengel and his Bronx bombers.

Every time the Yanks and Sox have met when the blue chips were down over the past four years, the Yanks have nipped all Sox championship dreams in the bud.

But Paul Richards thinks this is the year for the White Sox. "The Sox can win it — and I hope they know it," Richards said as the White Sox took three out of four games from his last-place Orioles.

Should the White Sox do the "impossible" and win two or three games against the Yankees, there will be no resting on any laurels with the Boston Red Sox following the Yankees in a four-game series.

It looks like a "feast or famine" week for the Sox, and most Chicagoans are going to wait after next Sunday's doubleheader with Boston before making any pennant predictions.

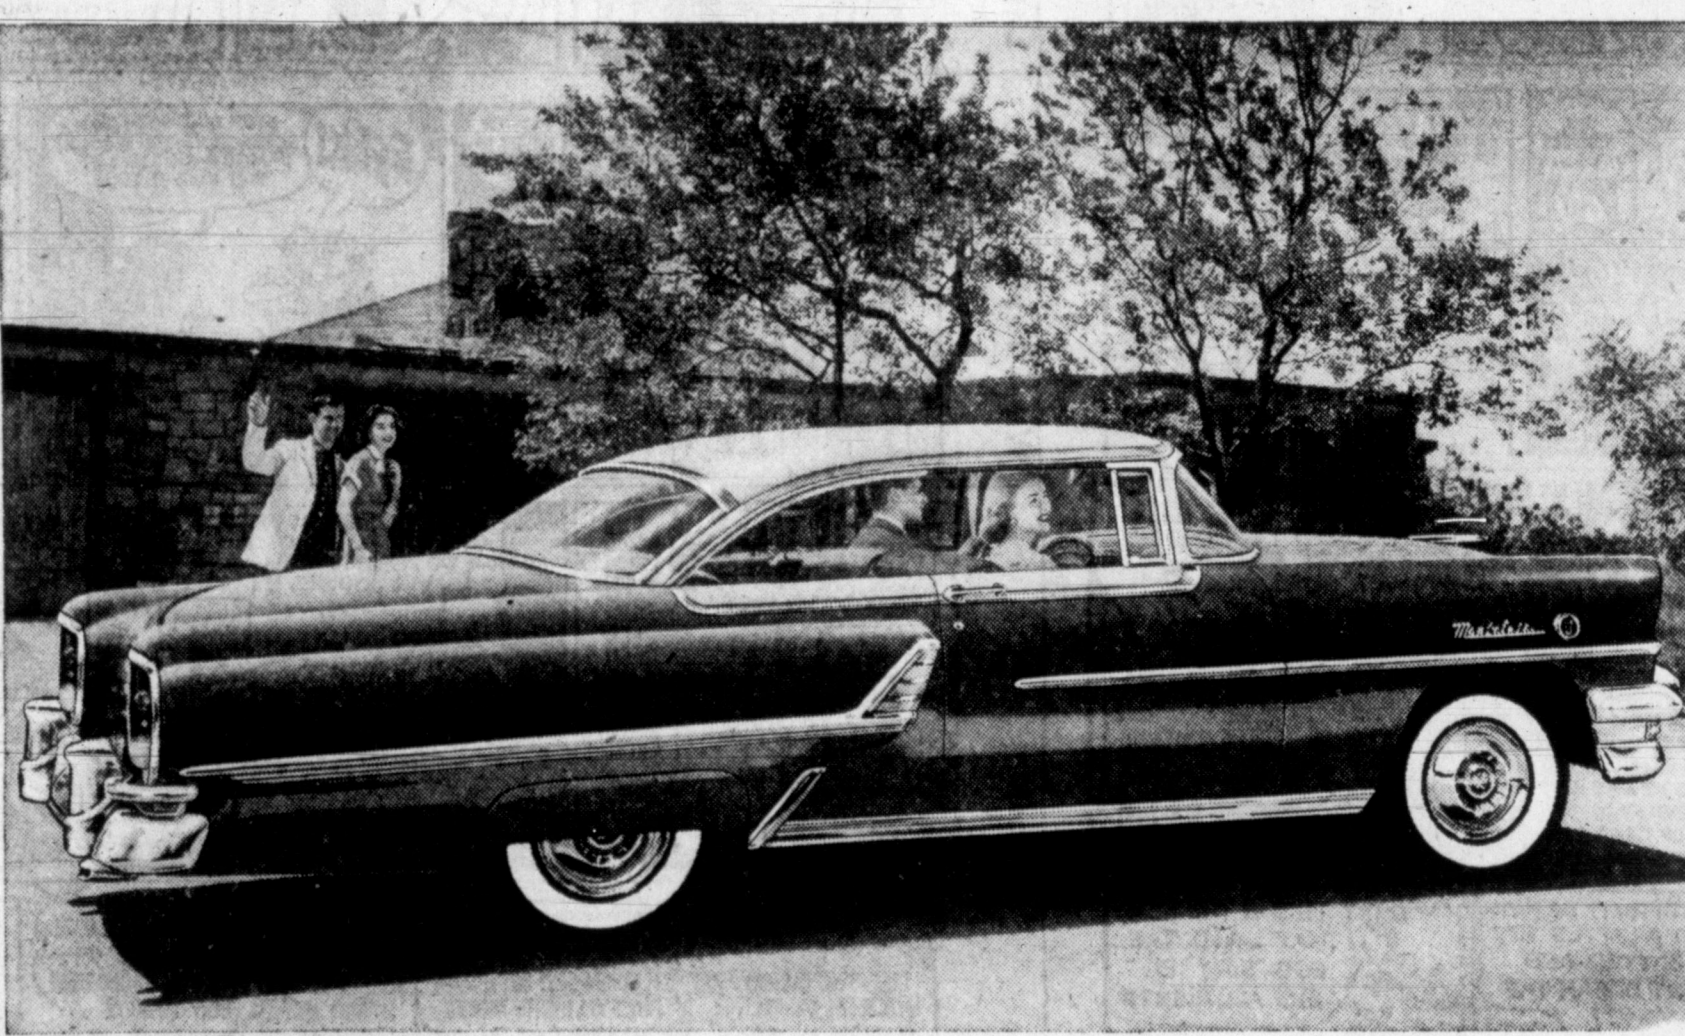

Winter League Ball Discussed
NEW YORK —UP— Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick held "exploratory" talks Monday with officials of the Caribbean Baseball Federation, which has threatened to bar its winter leagues to all but Latin American born players unless restrictions on the number of major leaguers permitted to play are lifted. Frick will discuss the subject at the major league meeting in Chicago Aug. 1, and meet with Caribbean officials here again Aug. 22.

Yet you can own a big super-powered Mercury for less than 13 models of the low-price 3*

The neighbors will think that you got a raise—when actually you'll be saving money!

For example, on first cost. You can buy a big 188-horsepower Mercury Custom 6-passenger Sedan for less than 13 models in the so-called low-price field.* And that's only the beginning of what you save...

Record sales let us give you a top allowance for your present car. Mercury is one of the year's hottest cars. Our quick turnover, high volume, lets us give you more for your present car.

You get back more of your investment with Mercury's top resale value. Mercury consistently leads its field for resale value according to independent market reports of used-car prices.

Remember, too, that Mercury's famous economy and stamina keep operating costs low—help make Mercury one of the lowest-cost cars in its class to own.

In Mercury's lowest-cost Custom series you've got 4 models to choose from. For a few dollars more you have a choice of 7 more models in the Monterey and 198-horsepower Montclair series. (The smart, low-silhouette Montclair hardtop coupe is shown above.)

We invite you to stop in at our showroom to see and try the model that fits your needs and budget.

- NO OTHER CAR OFFERS YOU BIGGER REASONS FOR BUYING IT
- Exclusive styling shared by no other car
 - New SUPER-TORQUE V-8 engines on every model (188 or 198 horsepower) —backed by Mercury's record of producing V-8 engines exclusively
 - 4-barrel vacuum carburetor on every model at no extra cost
 - Dual exhausts at no extra cost on all Montclairs and Monterays
 - Ball-joint front suspension for easier handling
 - Unique anti-fouling high-compression spark plugs
 - Consistently highest resale value in its field

JIM CRACKS

By JIM DEAN

Joe Tooley, the little druggist who is such a big man in benevolent work in Pampa is currently interested in an idea to make Pampa a flag-conscious community.

Tooley is toying with the idea of having some organization, possibly the Elks Lodge in which he is so active, sponsor the sale of flags to merchants and encourage the display of such flags on special occasions.

I suppose his plan would include the sale of flags of the United States and also Texas.

It seems from here that the plan would be a tremendous boost for our community.

SOMEHOW, over the years Americans have become lax in the outward show of patriotism. Somehow, we have gotten into the habit of taking our blessings for granted, or maybe we have reached that stage of development (or deterioration) where we look upon old-fashioned patriotism as "kid stuff."

Most of us can recall when the Fourth of July was something more than a day to stage a rat-race on the nation's highways.

I remember when every house displayed an American flag on THE holiday, and merchants always had the colors unfurled in front of the shop, though they were taking the day off.

No question about it, it's "old fashioned," but it's hard to beat even in the Atomic age.

There are other advantages to a colorful flag display besides the element of patriotism.

MOST APPARENT of these is the atmosphere of fiesta which flags help to create.

Two Airmen Die In Crash

AUSTIN—UP—Two Bergstrom Air Force Base airmen were killed and another airman and a University of Texas student seriously injured Sunday in a head-on collision just inside the Austin city limits on the Bastrop highway.

Bergstrom officials identified the dead airmen as Martin J. Jones, 18, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Don L. Jensen, 20, of Davenport, Iowa.

Arthur M. Edwald Jr., 18, of Bergstrom, and Emory Thomas, 21, a University of Texas student, were seriously injured in the smashup which occurred during pre-dawn hours.

Police Officer Richard G. Cross by said one car was driven by Thomas, and he was apparently alone in the vehicle. The three airmen were riding in the other car.

Jensen's body will be sent to Davenport, Iowa, and Jones' body will be shipped to Pittsburgh, Pa.

Fuel Oils Price Up

NEW YORK—UP—Esso Standard Oil Co., big marketing subsidiary of Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, has jacked up prices for heavy fuel oils at Gulf Coast points.

Esso said No. 8 fuel oil was raised 15 cents a barrel and No. 5 oil 12 cents a barrel.

The increases are similar to those put into effect by Esso along the Atlantic seaboard last week.

A company spokesman said the increases reflect a tightening supply-demand situation brought about by heavy industrial demand in the face of curtailed imports of foreign residual oil.

Crackdown Planned On Promoters

WASHINGTON—UP—The government is cracking down on fraudulent promoters who issue penny-ante uranium and oil stock to raise money for new, unproven ventures in this country and Canada.

The Securities and Exchange Commission Sunday announced proposals for tightening up its regulations governing "small stock issues" for such purposes. It allowed 45 days for comment on the proposals.

Among other things, the new rules would require promoters to provide stock purchasers with more information regarding their plans and lay them open to possible suit if they failed to carry through.

But there were signs the SEC might try to head off legislation to repeal completely an exemption now granted small stock issues. SEC officials said legitimate new companies need the exemption.

The SEC exempts stock issues of less than $500,000 from its requirements for full disclosure of all pertinent financial data to the SEC and to prospective stock buyers.

One of the new restrictions requires a promotional company using the exemption to give all stock buyers their money back if 85 percent of the stock issue is not sold and paid for within six months.

With the Top o' Texas Rodeo coming up soon, the display of American and Texas flags at every merchant's shop would add considerably to the color of the week-long celebration.

The rodeo association, of course, has a big stock of flags and banners which are displayed, but it seems the individual has been neglecting his share in the process.

That's the way things go, however. Folks have reached the point where they depend almost entirely on some kind of organization to "take care of the details."

We throw our fees into the pot and hire an "expert" to do all the work.

Life by proxy.

Well, good luck, Joe Tooley, it's a worthy project.

THE PAMPA Lions Club has initiated a ceremony which makes it worthwhile for members to know each other, at least by sight.

The Lions' Tail Twister tabs a "sucker" and then picks out four other members of the club.

The "sucker" must identify each of the others picked and tell what business he is in. The "sucker" is fined for each man he can't name. Understand Price Doster's pocket is a bit lighter after last week's session.

IF THE SUMMER heat, which finally arrived last week is bothering folks, you will find at least one Pampa man who won't complain.

That would be Evert Carman who was considerably upset because the cool weather kept hanging on for so long.

Evert was finding it difficult to interest people in air conditioning units.

After last week, he should be getting no arguments at all.

THE POET'S NOOK

The nook is having an extremely difficult time securing locally composed poetry, and the same luck with having the "mystery" poetry identified.

Last week's puzzler was from Percy Bysshe Shelley's "Music When Soft Voices Die," a real thought-provoking creation.

OLD SPORTS man Warren Hasse who seems to be trying to show less and less hair these days confessed the other day that he's quite a lover of poetry.

He has a drawer filled with clippings from The Chicago Tribune (some small newspaper in the Midwest) in which poetry is the main item. Warren wouldn't confess that he writes poetry at any time, and maybe the short haircut is an effort to escape any stigma.

However, on wall of his KPDN office, the old sportscaster has an illustrated version of the old baseball classic:

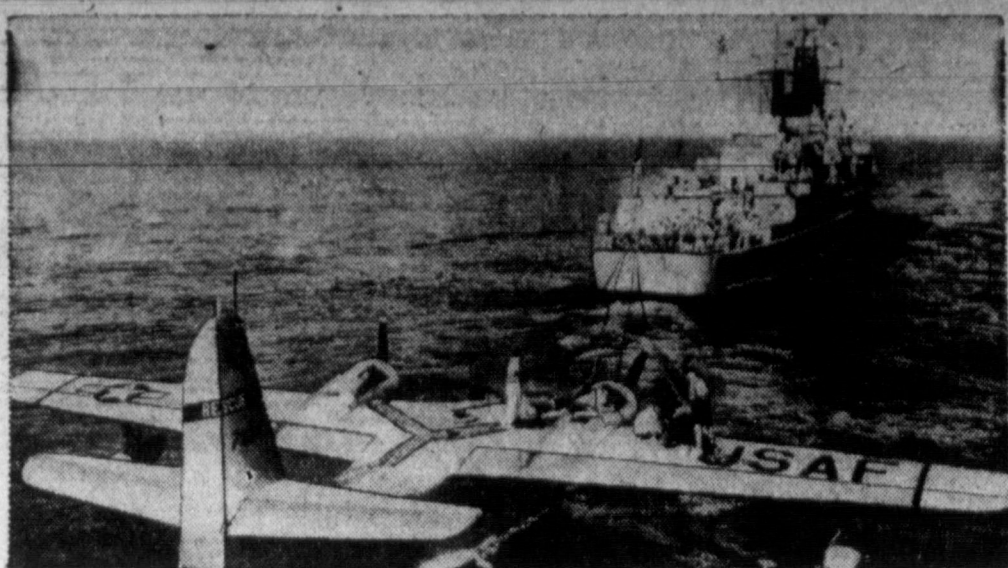

"Casey At The Bat."

Here's this week's poetry puzzle and it should prove rather easy to identify... still have that old ticket if anyone is interested in winning it, you can do so by phoning or writing in to identify title and author of the following:

"It sits looking over harbor and city on silent haunches and then moves on."

Husbands! Wives! Get Pep, Vim; Feel Younger

Thousands of couples are weak, worn-out, exhausted just because both lack iron. For new younger feeling after 40, try Oxy-Tone Tablets. Contain iron for pep, supplement diet with vitamins B₁ and B₆. Costs little. "Get acquainted" size only 50¢. At all druggists.

WOULD-BE RESCUER RESCUED

A U.S. Air Force rescue plane, flaps down in embarrassment, is towed toward Malta by the British frigate HMS Wakeful. The amphibian had flown into Mediterranean waters to rescue a critically ill seaman from a merchant ship. While landing beside the ship, the plane was damaged. The Wakeful was dispatched to tow the damaged aircraft to port.

Farmer Killed Driving Cattle

DEVINE, Tex.—UP—A farmer driving a small herd of cattle across the road three miles west of Devine was struck and killed by an automobile late Sunday night.

Highway patrol officers identified him as Ezra Spencer Girrin, 79. The driver of the car was listed as Gordon Lewis Braden, 20, of Hondo.
