57 Million To Get Shots In Record Time

Berserk Patient Hits Nurse Here

A Negro patient at Highland General Hospital, suffering from pneumonia and under the influence of medical drugs went berserk last night and struck an attending nurse, it was learned this morning.

Pampa officers were called to the hospital to investigate the case this morning. Police Chief Jim Conner would release no details of the affair.

However it was learned from Mrs. Doris Finney, head nurse at the hospital, that the patient was put in a strait jacket.

The nurse, Mrs. Marjorie Magee, this morning was undergoing 21 days to determine the exact nature of her injuries. She is known to be suffering from an injured left

MRS. HOBBY SIGNS OK FOR VACCINE

WASHINGTON — UP — With the stroke of a pen, Oveta Culp Hobby put the government's approval on the new Salk polio vaccine.

Her signature gave the go-ahead to release of long-awaited vaccine to the general public.

Mrs. Hobby, secretary of health, education and welfare, licensed six drug firms to make and sell the vaccine through regular commercial channels. She signed the licenses at 4:15 p. m. (CST) Tuesday, about eight hours after scientists reported at Ann Arbor, Mich., that the vaccine works.

"It's a great day. It's a history-making day," Mrs. Hobby declared.

First Vaccinations May Be Given Sometime Today

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — UP — The 57 million Americans most susceptible to polio will receive shots of Dr. Jonas Salk's miracle vaccine in record time — perhaps before mid-summer, it was predicted Wednesday.

The polio killing serum was rushed from manufacturers and pharmaceutical houses to beat the hot weather epidemic season. It appeared possible the first vaccinations would be given Wednesday, within 30 hours of announcement of the success of the vaccine.

Ike OKs Sharing Of Atom

Plan Would Not Share A-Weapons

AUGUSTA, Ga. — UP — President Eisenhower Wednesday approved a proposal for sharing American atomic secrets — but not actual weapons or production know-how — with the 13 countries of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The plan must be ratified by each of the NATO nations before going into effect.

The plan provides basically for the United States to make available to NATO atomic information which this country believes will assist:

1. The development of defense plans.
2. The training of personnel in the employment of atomic weapons.
3. The evaluation of the capabilities of potential enemies in the employment of atomic weapons.

The information taken from the "restricted" class of atomic energy secrets would be made available to NATO through channels now provided for exchanging classified military information.

The plan is in the form of a draft agreement which was approved March 2 by the NATO council, but not made public until the White House acted Wednesday. The news was released simultaneously in the other 13 NATO countries.

The agreement provides specifically that under its terms there will be no transfer of atomic weapons or special nuclear material.

Philippines Get Third Earthquake

MANILA — UP — The third earthquake in 12 days hit Mindanao island Tuesday night, causing panic among residents and cutting off recently restored power service.

No casualties or new damage was reported from the latest quake which rocked Ozamis, a port of 35,000 population. The quake was felt over a large area of the southernmost island of the Philippines.

Government geologists said the severe shocks Tuesday were "the normal aftermath of the major April 1 quake" which killed more than 400 persons and made 100,000 homeless.

US Denies Red Charge Of Sabotage On Plane

LONDON — UP — The United States denied Wednesday an "unsubstantiated" Communist China charge it ordered the sabotage of an Air India plane that crashed while carrying Peiping representatives to the Afro-Asian conference in Indonesia.

But Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru said the crash in the South China Sea "has some very unusual features" and called it "peculiarly painful and distressing" because the plane was carrying eight Red Chinese delegates to Bandung. All eight were presumed killed.

The Air India Constellation Kashmir Princess crashed Monday into the South China Sea near Borneo with 18 persons aboard. Conflicting reports said three or six persons were rescued. Three were known to be Indian crew members.

Red Charges Broadcast

The Communist charges were broadcast by Peiping Radio first and rebroadcast Wednesday by Moscow. They were picked up in Communist papers throughout the world in a major effort to discredit the United States and win sympathy for the Peiping regime.

Red China also accused the United States of plotting to overthrow the Indonesian government.

The British foreign office confirmed that its charge d'affaires in Peiping, Humphrey Trevelyan, received an oral warning from the Reds that there might be trouble and that he transmitted the warning immediately and directly to Hong Kong authorities.

Senate OKs Canadian Dam Bill

AUSTIN — The Texas Senate yesterday passed legislation opening the way for possible federal financing of the Canadian River dam-and-reservoir project near Skiford, north and west of Borden. The vote was 23-4.

Rep. Grady Hazlewood, Amarillo, sponsored the measure and there was no opposition when it came to the floor. He gave a brief explanation of the bill before the vote was taken.

The bill would amend the state law which created the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority two years ago, and result in the removal of its conflict with federal authorization of the $48,000,000 project.

It was this matter that was uppermost in the minds of authority directors at their last meeting in Skiford. At that time, it was decided that little could be done until the Texas Legislature took definite action, one way or the other. The directors voted unanimously for the measure.

The Senate-passed bill now goes to the House. A companion measure, sponsored by Rep. Bill Anshin, Amarillo, has already been approved by a House committee.

If the bill is passed by the House and signed by the governor, the law would still require that the local district have title to the dam once any federal loan was repaid. But it provides an alternative to permit federal financing if the district were granted control of the release of waters from the dam.

The authority, of course, is still committed to pursue possibilities of private financing of the project to supply water to 11 Panhandle-South Plains communities. The amendment would allow federal financing if private resources fail.

Brooklyn Newspaper Up For Sale

NEW YORK — UP — The Brooklyn Eagle, which suspended publication because of a strike by the American Newspaper Guild last Jan. 28, was up for sale Wednesday to a buyer who would serve the interests of Brooklyn.

Frank D. Schroth, president and publisher of the newspaper, set May 2 as the deadline for sale of the Eagle as a complete unit.

Schroth said he reserved the right to sell the 113-year-old newspaper which has never missed an edition since its founding to a bidder other than the highest "if I feel that such a buyer would best serve the interests of Brooklyn and its people."

In a statement Tuesday, Schroth said, "after nearly two decades of close association with this community it is my earnest desire that the Eagle be perpetuated so that Brooklyn will not lack for an excellent public-spirited spokesman. I sincerely hope that someone or some group alert to the welfare of the borough will want to keep the Eagle alive. This is my first concern in disposing of the paper."

Schroth had announced on March 16 that the Eagle did "not over intend to resume publication."

Psychiatrist Testifies In Wilbanks Case

SPEARMAN — (Special) — The murder trial of Carl Ed Wilbanks, charged with the ice-pick murder of his father the night of Feb. 19, went into its third day today, following testimony by Dr. Henry Snyderman, Plainview psychiatrist, that Wilbanks is "suffering from alcoholic delusions and hallucinations."

Testimony this morning in the 84th District Court indicated that Wilbanks had tried, at times, to borrow money to buy liquor, to get druggists to sell him bay rum after hours and to walk into homes and ask for a drink, shaving lotion or bay rum.

District Judge Jack Allen, who is presiding, indicated today that the testimony might be concluded today and the case sent to the jury.

Dr. Snyderman, who pointed out that Wilbanks had been a patient in the Plainview Hospital for three days, testified that Wilbanks was "definitely insane" at the time of the murder. The doctor told the jury that there was basically something good in the boy and that, with proper corrective treatment, he could probably be rehabilitated and returned to society.

In all the testimony thus far, there has been none to show that Wilbanks had any quality of violence.

Allies Plan Protest On Blockade

BERLIN — UP — The three western allies prepared a sharp protest Wednesday to the Soviets against Berlin's "little blockade," but the Communists hinted at drastic "security measures" to isolate this cold war outpost.

Diplomatic sources said officials of the three western high commissions were "getting tired" of Soviet and Communist stalling over the economic squeeze on West Berlin and were writing an even stronger protest than the earlier one Russia so far has ignored.

An allied note of April 1 protested the crippling tax slapped down by Soviet zone authorities. Russia did not answer, but the Communist press indicated the Russian reply, if and when it came, would assert that East Germany is a "sovereign state" and that Russia cannot interfere.

The latest Communist threat came in charges that West Berlin had become a center of Allied espionage and terror organizations and that it would be necessary to impose "special difficulties" on free Berlin. New repressive measures were feared in addition to the present effort to disrupt food supplies with the highway tax.

The conservative West Berlin newspaper Der Tag said the Communists, through new accusations, "wish to justify their terror while at the same time they start new assaults against the western powers and free Berlin."

The Berlin Nachi Despeche predicted "further measures to cut off West Berlin" but allied observers did not expect the drastic action of 1948 when the Soviets cut off land and water routes to the free part of the city and an airlift became necessary.

Vote Check Shows Parr Man Beaten

BENAVIDES, Tex. — UP — Results originally announced in the April 2 Duval county school election were changed Wednesday by an official canvass that showed a candidate backed by political boss George Parr was defeated for the first time in many years.

First results of the controversial school election were that Parr's brother, Altee Parr, and running mate Jesus Salinas won by narrow margins over two other candidates for the two school board positions at stake.

But the official canvass made Tuesday showed that Altee Parr and Joe Vaello, an anti-Parr candidate, won.

Benavides school district officials said absentee ballots, which were 5-to-1 in favor of Parr candidates, were thrown out in the official canvass.

Duval county political observers said they could not recall the last time a Parr-backed candidate was defeated in an election, although Parr lost votes in the recent four-county 7th Judicial District that includes Duval county.

The Benavides school district votes were impounded after the election and were released for canvass Monday by Judge C. Woodrow Laughlin.

Snowdrifts Clog Dalhart Highways

By UNITED PRESS

Snowdrifts eight feet high clogged roads in the northwestern corner of the Texas Panhandle and in adjoining sectors of Colorado, New Mexico, and Oklahoma Wednesday, stranding motorists, cutting highways and breaking communications.

State police in Amarillo, who maintained radio contact with Dalhart, Tex., after other communications with that city were lost in the blizzard, reported no injuries. Roads to the north and west were blocked.

Hundreds of travelers, unable to go on, put up in Dalhart hotels. A dispatch from Clayton, N. M., to the west, said a "number of motorists" were stranded to the west on the State Highway 58 and U. S. Highways 84 and 87 to the East.

The snow was welcomed by farmers, plagued for years by drought. The Dallas Weather Bureau reported it lost contact with Dalhart at 10:30 p. m. Tuesday night and southwestern Bell Telephone Co. operators said Wednesday all lines to the high plains city of 6,000 population were down.

Meanwhile, Amarillo, 80 miles to the south, was buffeted by 43 mile-an-hour winds Tuesday night and newsmen Bill Cox reported, "We got dust, then we got rain and then we got more dust."

Swirling clouds of dust closed in many towns in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico. Big Spring, Tex., reported visibility as low as one-eighth mile.

Tornadoes hit Frankston and Latexo, Tex., causing injuries and damage Tuesday.

More Gray Students To Take Shots

B. F. Nuckles, County Schools Superintendent, reported this morning that several additional first and second graders in the county have brought in their parental requests for polio vaccine inoculation.

The figure stands this morning at 1208 requesting the shots out of a possible 1316 enrolled in county schools.

According to Harold Miller, president of Gray County Polio Board, who called Austin this morning to inquire about the vaccine, it had not yet arrived there from one of the six pharmaceutical firms making it. As a result, the inoculation of the children will have to be postponed until early next week.

He reported that 2700 units will be made available to Gray County when it arrives in order to supply the first two shots of three necessary to all the children requesting the immunity inoculation.

County Health Officer, Dr. Joe Gates, reports that unless unforeseen difficulties arise the shots will be given as planned with tentative arrangements calling for the beginning of inoculations on Tuesday. Gates said that a Cabot plane is standing by to fly the vaccine from Austin to Pampa as soon as it is available.

Red Attack Expected At Quemoy

QUEMOY ISLAND — UP — A spokesman for the Quemoy commander, said Wednesday there were indications of an impending Communist attack against this Nationalist-held island.

Col. Tien Shou-Sin said the Communists had massed 200,000 troops which could be hurled against Quemoy and that the Reds had built up gun emplacements and assembled 2,000 junk.

Lt. Gen. Liu Yu-Chan, the Quemoy commander, was inspecting the defenses of nearby little Quemoy Wednesday when correspondents flew here from Taipei.

There was intermittent shell fire, both outgoing and incoming, during the day, but no shells landed near correspondents taken on a tour of the island.

Tien said the Communists had not made any recent landing attempts but that the Nationalists had steadily increased their defenses and had brought in tanks to aid in the island's defense.

Senate Committee Rushes Probe Of Vet Land Deals

AUSTIN — UP — A special Senate committee investigating the scandalized $100 million veterans' land program rushed through testimony Wednesday in an attempt to conclude its probe by Friday, required by resolution.

Sen. Dorsey Hardeman of San Angelo, who heads the committee, said the group would attempt to finish its work by Friday. But, he added that he would seek an extension of time if the need arose.

In testimony Tuesday two Dallas attorneys, Ross Bohannon and Dan Gibbs, said a Chicago insurance company helped finance the purchase of Texas land for later resale to the state under the veterans' land program.

Sen. Jimmy Phillips of Angleton, a member of the committee, questioned the pair for two hours.

Gibbs testified that the Bankers Life and Casualty Co. of Chicago financed purchase of land in both Zavala and Milam counties through loans made from its employees' health and welfare fund.

He said the Zavala county deal was completed, but the Milam county transaction was withdrawn after the Veterans Land Board announced in December it was withholding approval on all block proposals.

Gibbs said two of his brothers and 20 other friends, all veterans, were involved in the Milam county transaction. He said they had intended to purchase the property themselves.

If the transaction had been completed, the Chicago insurance company would have made an apparent profit of about $64,000. But, Gibbs said the company, whom he had represented as an attorney, told him any profit would be turned back to the veterans for "development of the land."

Bohannon also with Firm Bohannon also represented the Chicago firm as an attorney. He said he was well acquainted with former Land Commissioner Bascom Giles and E. R. Sheffield, a Brady, Tex., land promoter, who were named in a joint indictment, returned by a Travis county grand jury. The indictment alleged they plotted to steal $83,000 from the state under the veterans land program.

Bohannon said he had also represented Sheffield as an attorney and that he had been engaged in several business transactions with Giles. But, he said none of them were in connection with the Veterans Land Board or General Land Office operations.

Bohannon said as an attorney he has represented Sheffield and "over a period of 15 years he has been one of my best clients..."

3 Indicted In Murder For Money

FORT WORTH — UP — Murder indictments against three former convicts in the "murder for fee" of oilman William P. Clark were returned Tuesday by the Tarrant county grand jury.

The indictments named Harry Huggins, LeRoy (Tincy) Eggleston and Cecil Green in the 1953 slaying of the millionaire oilman in his home.

The indictments cancelled a habeas corpus hearing set for 3 p.m. Tuesday at which Huggins had planned to seek his release on bond.

The indictments were handed Criminal District Judge Willis McGregor who ordered the three men held without bond. Clyde Weed, foreman of the grand jury presented the special report.

The three underworld figures were charged with murder after Huggins told police Mrs. Mary Clark, 46, widow of the slain man, offered Eggleston $10,000 to kill her husband.

The operation undertaken after drilling tests showed widespread subsurface ore deposits, will involve moving more than 1.8 million cubic yards of earth.

Gidwitz said ore was found in thicknesses from a few inches to 32 feet in grade up to 2 per cent underlying almost the entire area.

Ore with a content of .1 per cent is considered to be of commercial grade.

Retail sales in Norway last year were seven per cent greater than in 1953.

Churchill Off For Vacation

LONDON — UP — Sir Winston Churchill shed his last official cares and flew off to Sicily Tuesday with the queen's wish of Godspeed for his first vacation in 15 years as a private citizen.

The British European Airways set aside its no cigar smoking rule for the occasion and laid in a supply of brandy for the trip.

The former prime minister received a personal message from Queen Elizabeth II just before he departed for Catania, Sicily, at 10:40 a. m. (4:45 a. m. est).

He waved his hat to well-wishers, smiled merrily and then boarded the special flight. With him went Lady Churchill, her left arm supported in a sling due to a recurrence of neuritis, and a party of 10 others.

Salk Vaccine Arrives In Dallas

DALLAS — UP — A shipment of 300 pounds of Salk polio vaccine arrived in Dallas Wednesday for use by physicians in private practice inoculations.

The cherry-red serum arrived by an American Airlines flight from the Cutter Laboratories of Berkeley, Calif., a major producer of the vaccine. Cutter Laboratories said Tuesday night it was shipping about two tons of the product to all points of the compass in the United States.

Millard J. Heath, secretary of the Dallas County Medical Society, said the first serum to arrive in Dallas "undoubtedly will be distributed routinely."

He said it "is obviously coming to be made available to physicians and will, in effect, be rationed out to doctors from whom the pharmaceutical house probably already has orders."

Vaccine for use in free public inoculations to some 600,000 or more persons—mostly school children—will be sent directly to the State Health Department in Austin. State Health Officer Henry Hulse has said local health authorities must go to Austin to pick up their share of the material.

Drug manufacturers have been stockpiling millions of containers of the precious vaccine for perhaps a year, awaiting on Tuesday's licensing by the government for sale of the drug.

Heath said almost all drug firms already have set up their own systems of "rationing" or distributing vaccine to doctors for use in private-practice inoculations.

Preventable Suicides Occur, According To World Expert

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK — UP — A world authority on why people kill themselves knows one thing for sure—"preventable suicides do occur."

"They occur," continued I. R. C. Batcher, "because either the doctor of the relatives or both feel sure that, knowing the patient to have been a decent and trustworthy person, a suicidal attempt was not to be expected.

"But suicide is no respecter of persons. Almost any nervous or mental illness, at any age, may lead to a suicide attempt." And he added, "at least one-third of those who attempt suicide have threatened suicide."

Threats of suicide not only should be a warning to doctors and relatives; these threats may be "cries for help." The threat may need treatment to solve the mental troubles inside his mind.

Depression is a forerunner.

The usual forerunners of suicide are depression and insomnia. All depressions — even those for which there are obvious reasons — "carry a suicide risk."

"Particularly dangerous are those who blame themselves, who express feelings of intense shame and guilt and failure, and who say that their continued existence would be burdensome for those they love," he said.

"The obviously very depressed individual who denies having had thoughts of suicide should on principle be disbelieved. He may be determined to be unhindered. Those who say that they are too cowardly to carry out the act may do it successfully."

Despite all the signs a suicide attempt is made, no matter if it seemed much more a gesture than an attempt, it should be taken very seriously.

"Malpractice" Charged

The physician who discharges a would-be suicide from observation as soon as he has recovered physically, is guilty of "malpractice," Batcher asserted.

"Sometimes the patient is asked first to promise that he will not attempt suicide again. This promise, if given, is usually valueless. It may reassure the doctor but it does nothing to safeguard the patient, who can no more control his self-destructive impulses than the sufferer from an acute appendicitis his pain."

Batcher is deputy physician superintendent of the Royal Edinburgh Hospital for Mental and Nervous Disorders. He was lecturing general practitioners in the British Medical Journal.

Firm Plans Strip Mining For Uranium

CHICAGO — UP — Continental Uranium, Inc., Tuesday announced it will soon start an extensive strip mining program to uncover an estimated 60,000 tons of uranium ore valued at more than $2 million.

The operation will take place in a new 140,000 square foot area immediately north of present continuous strip mine operations at Rattlesnake mine near Moab, Utah.

More than $150,000 worth of ore has already been taken from present mining locations at the Rattlesnake site, according to Board Chairman Gerald Gidwitz.

The operation undertaken after drilling tests showed widespread subsurface ore deposits, will involve moving more than 1.8 million cubic yards of earth.

Gidwitz said ore was found in thicknesses from a few inches to 32 feet in grade up to 2 per cent underlying almost the entire area.

Ore with a content of .1 per cent is considered to be of commercial grade.

Tulsa Girl Believed Salk Fatality

TULSA — UP — A Tulsa physician said Wednesday he had one patient, an eight-year-old child, who died last year after she had received two injections of the new vaccine developed by Dr. Jonas Salk, a Pittsburgh scientist.

Dr. David Hudson identified the child as Patricia Rodick, daughter of Carl Rodick of Tulsa.

Hudson said the girl received two injections of the Salk vaccine, but contracted bulbar polio and died May 20, 1954, some 18 days after her second injection.

Hudson said the most deadly of the polio types.

Hudson said he believed after the girl's death that she had contracted a type of polio which is not fatal.

Hudson said he had seen the girl's mother and had seen the girl's body.

Priest Upheld In Not Telling Thief's Name

DENVER—UP—U. S. Attorney Donald E. Kelley said a Roman Catholic priest who was given $8,850 presumably by a bank robber at "confession" Tuesday is "not obligated to reveal" the identity of the person who gave him the money.

The money was described by the man as part of $7,780 taken in a daring daylight holdup at the Colorado State Bank here on Feb. 17.

Kelley said the priest was not able to disclose "where, when or with whom" the confession took place, as it would be a violation of vows the priest took.

The district attorney said the money was "given in restitution" for part of the loot taken by a man who threatened to blow up the bank with a vial he said contained nitroglycerine.

The priest surrendered the money to federal authorities in $100 and $500 bills. The money taken from the bank was in smaller denominations but Kelley said the robber apparently exchanged the original bills during the almost three months he had possession of it.

Kelley said that "even though the federal law does not recognize" the withholding of information, the priest "was obligated not to reveal anything" about the confession.

The purpose of the test alert, Guard spokesmen said today, is to provide an opportunity to test the speed and efficiency with which the Pampa Guard can be mobilized in event of an emergency. A secondary purpose, they pointed out, is to give Pampans a chance to see how the Guard trains and the potential value of the training to the community.

Tons Of Vaccine Shipped Over US

By UNITED PRESS — Virginia, and New Mexico the deadline was Friday, San Diego, Calif., planned to start Saturday, and Rock Island, Ill., children will roll up their sleeves for the first of their shots Sunday.

To Begin Monday Millions of children in other parts of the nation will accompany their grateful, happy parents to distribution centers Monday. Other states planned to start a little later and space the shots through the spring.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which ordered the mass inoculations, hoped that 37 million children would receive free vaccinations with their parents' consent before the end of summer.

The blitz attack against the crippling disease may be speeded up by Dr. Jonas Salk's announcement that two shots, backed up by a booster seven months later, would be sufficient.

The polio foundation and health authorities throughout the nation had based their plans on three shots, spaced a week apart.

Many Plans Three Shots Most health officials said they would go ahead with plans for the three-shot program unless they get a change in orders from the polio foundation.

But Pennsylvania officials said their entire planning would be revised on the basis of the Salk statement. Authorities in Pennsylvania, Texas, and Oklahoma said a two-shot program would boost the number of children eligible for immediate inoculations by the hundreds of thousands.

Pharmaceutical houses began shipping out tons of the vaccine within hours after it was pronounced a success Tuesday.

50 Attend Elks Lodge Installation

Some 50 Elks from Pampa, Amarillo, and Oklahoma gathered Tuesday night for the installation of Robert E. Lea as Exalted Ruler of the Pampa Lodge. He succeeded Quentin Williams.

Following the banquet D. Earl McCroskey, of Ada, Okla., immediate past president of the Oklahoma Elks Association, installed Lea and 19 other officers in a closed service. Lea's father, V. E. Lea, of Denver, former exalted ruler in Fairbury, Neb., handed his son the symbols of office.

Installed in addition to Lea were: Leroy McBride, Leading Knight; P. V. Davis, Loyal Knight; Kenneth Huey, Lecturing Knight; A. B. McAfee, secretary; Joe Tooley, treasurer; E. J. Pafford, trustee; Jim Dean, Esquire; Bill McComas, Inner Guard; Johnny White, Chaplain, and Coy Plamer, organist.

Assisting in the installation were 10 members of the Amarillo Elks Lodge.

The banquet, prepared by Elk John Gikas, was served by the following wives of Elks Club members: Mrs. Robert E. Lea, Mrs. Jim Dean, Mrs. Johnny White, Mrs. J. M. Foster, and Mrs. Leroy McBride.

Members of the press and radio attending were Jim Terrell of KPAT, Henry Gordon of KPDN and Bill Kerr of The Pampa Daily News.

Seven per cent of the fatal accident in 1953 in which a driver violated of the law was involved were due to one or more drivers failing to yield the right of way.

Patrolman Addresses Safety Group

Sgt. Jack Higginbotham, Amarillo, of the Texas Highway Patrol, told the Pampa Citizens Safety Council today that traffic accidents could be cut by 90 per cent if all traffic rules were obeyed.

The council met at 7 a.m. today in Johnson's Cafe for the special program.

There were 2,400 traffic deaths in Texas in 1954, Higginbotham pointed out. And he figured there would have only been 200-plus if the rules had been followed.

The lower courts — the traffic courts — in Texas are completely antiquated, Higginbotham continued. They go back to the "horse and buggy days".

Another problem, the sergeant said, is the shortage of patrolmen in the state. There is only one for every 200 miles of paved road.

Most accidents are unnecessary, he concluded. And the way to keep them down to a minimum is to have enforceable laws passed by the legislature.

Mrs. Finis Jordan, council vice president, gave a detailed report on how Lubbock handles an annual award dinner for traffic patrolmen and said she thought something along that line might be worked up for Pampa.

Joe Cantrell, council president, next meeting of the council would be held in about three months.

Phone Strike Violence Is Heavy

ATLANTA—UP—In the 30 days since 50,000 telephone workers walked out in nine states served by Southern Bell Telephone Co., several hundred incidents of telephone violence have occurred and there have been scores of incidents involving violence or threatened violence on picket lines or elsewhere.

In some instances, exchanges in small towns have had to close, and all or all but emergency service has been suspended, at least for a while. By and large, however, the cable cuttings and picket line incidents have not basically affected telephone service in the nine southern states. The company is maintaining service with supervisory and non-striking personnel.

Most cut cables are repaired quickly and the company says service is normal nearly everywhere.

The question of who did so much damage to phone company property in this strike has no easy answer. Officially, the company has never accused the striking union, the Communications Workers of America (CIO) of the property damage. The official union position is that it neither initiates nor condones deliberate violence.

But some union members and officials have been arrested for acts of property damage and some have admitted performing them. On the other hand, a few local union officials have charged that the company has "provoked" vandalism and hired people to cut cables.

Like Messages Catholics ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—UP—President Eisenhower called for more teachers and more schools "without federal domination," in a special message to the 52nd annual convention of the National Catholic Educational Association Tuesday. 8 Concerns Get Contracts

The Pampa City Commission yesterday awarded contracts to eight of the 23 concerns bidding on a host of items ranging from pipe to hydro rings.

Mr. Fred Brook today said the winning bidders were Vile Supply Co., McMorris Co., M. E. McKee, Texas Vitrified Pipe Co., American Supply Co., Pampa Brick Works, Hope Brick Works and Cyclone Fence Co.

It was a marathon session of the city commission, beginning at 9 a.m. and not ending till shortly before 8 p.m.

The bids were on 70 different items needed by the city department of public works.

Brook said the total cost to the city for the purchase of the items would not be known till late today or early tomorrow, when detailed specifications are complete.

The report was simple. Some of the experts told the writer that they were only beginning to grasp the full implications Tuesday night, after they had read it over several times and had devoted hours to studying the tables and graphs of statistics. The sum of the report, they revealed, by close study, was that the vaccine used in the heavy testing was not all properly tested and not entirely properly tested.

Ex-Communist Budenz Still A Collectivist

I recently listened to ex-Communist Louis Budenz attempt to explain the Communist conspiracy in the United States. He related how the communist ambassador in each country is really an underground agent for the communist revolution. He discussed the Karl Marx claim that eventually the use of force and aggression would wither away and there would be peace and a classless society. He pointed out that at one time he believed in this philosophy. Later, after he had joined the Communist Party, he commenced to see and realize that he was only a figure head and a tool of the communist leaders.

Doesn't Understand Americanism

While Budenz has severed his connection with the Communist Party, he still believes in a different form of tyranny — a form of collectivism. He believes in labor unions and collective bargaining and the right to strike, he has to deny the ideologies in the Declaration of Independence that "all men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." He seems to still believe that men get their liberty and their right to pursue happiness from the state or the majority. That is exactly what they do when they are members of a labor union. No labor union will permit the individual to use his conscience or his judgment or make an individual binding contract for his services. The aim of all labor unions is to take away from an individual his individual right to choose, and that is the essence of collectivism or any form of dictatorship.

Budenz has just transferred his loyalty from the communist bunch of tyrants to the labor union bunch of tyrants. He is so ill-informed that he still thinks that labor unions create wealth. He doesn't seem to understand that it is the individuals who create wealth, not the unions. He doesn't realize that the unions by their feather-bedding, their seniority, their strikes, have prevented billions of dollars of wealth from being created.

He even contends that during the war organized labor helped win the war. How can any man be so blind as to think that stopping production and giving the labor boss the right to select which man for a job can increase production? It is the individual who produces, not the labor boss. It is the individual who produces, not the labor boss. It is the individual who produces, not the labor boss. It is the individual who produces, not the labor boss.

Old Age Pension Idea Shows People Are Suckers

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

This is the proposition of all those who believe that the employer, including the national and lower government, should provide old-age pension accommodations for employees: I am entitled to special privilege. I am not content to put aside a portion of my earnings as savings for my own security. I lack the will power to deny myself luxuries and other extravagance.

When "the people" have saved a little money by self-denial and invest it in shares of big corporations, they are actually paying for the privilege of providing corporation executives and wage employees with an income when they fall sick or retire. No matter how badly the stock depreciates the employee's pension continues.

But the gall is found in the fact that practically the entire stock of public employees and the corporation pension beneficiaries look down on "the people" as suckers. The hell of it is that "the people" are, in fact, the suckers.

Day Of Futility

The cry of the Labor Boss for generations has been "full employment." Yet, sometimes, the Labor Bosses seem to confuse "employment" with manufactured and unnecessary labor. Such "made-work" or "featherbedding" as it is sometimes called, is a device which can solidify a man in a job for which there is no demand whatsoever. Truthfully, such a person is merely gainfully unemployed.

THE ABILITIES OF WOMEN, outside the home, are being recognized more and more, which pleases most of us. Here is an article I ran across by Alicia Hart of the NEA on this subject. It's a report on the view of a top member of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

CIVIC-MINDED WOMEN are becoming more and more recognized outside the home, which pleases most of us. Here is an article I ran across by Alicia Hart of the NEA on this subject. It's a report on the view of a top member of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

They are also anxious to do more than attend card parties, sit in on cultural programs or listen to scholarly men deliver book reviews. That is the opinion of a top member of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

"If women are the ones who have to go out and raise money," says Judge Libby E. Sachar, "they ought to have more say as to how it is spent."

Mrs. Sachar is judge of the juvenile and domestic relations court of Union County, New Jersey, and chairman of the National Federation's Finance Committee.

"We want to make ourselves known in policy matters," she explains. "Women should not be left with in terms of sex but judged on the basis of their ability."

Agreeing with that is Miss Marjorie Rawlitt, president of the PWC and an attorney for the Internal Revenue Service. She notes that a recently approved history of the organization advises members who cooperate in outside civic activities to make sure they are properly recognized at the policy level.

"Women have plenty of opportunities to keep records and collect money," she says, "but there are very few of them serving as members of a board of directors."

It's the women who are holding themselves back, she adds. They could break the ice and assert themselves — "gently but firmly."

The National Federation has a membership of between 100,000 and 150,000. Able to join in any state, it is employed and accepted by the local club. It was organized back in 1919, but now operates completely on its own.

MAJORITY of those who belong to the BPWC are married, but this was not the case 20 years ago. Officers of the National Federation, both married and single, agree that the change indicates women of today can manage a job at home at the same time.

One high-ranking member, who has several children, puts it this way: "It hasn't hurt my family a bit because I work, and, in fact, I think it has done us all some good. Too many women give up their time on their hands. Running around doing nothing but window-shopping can make for a group of neurotics."

Nineteen million women are employed in the U.S., according to Miss Rawlitt. Over half of them are married and nearly half have children over 15 years.

Mrs. Clyde Yoes Of Amarillo Speaks On Home Decorating At Varietas Tea

Mrs. Clyde Yoes, a home furnishing expert from Amarillo, was featured speaker at the guest-day tea Tuesday afternoon of the Varietas Study Club in the City Club Room.

Mrs. Otis Nace, vice-president, introduced Mrs. Yoes, pointing out that she is a graduate of Pampa High School and of West Texas State College and was a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lovett.

"Today we are thinking more and more of decorating," Mrs. Yoes explained. We are spending more time in our homes . . . we are entertaining more at home. We are going in for the informal type of thing."

She pointed out that the trend today was toward different types of furniture. Seven years ago nearly everyone had mahogany furniture, but today people are using French Provincial, Early American, other periods and modern.

The is a good time for modern furniture, she told the women. It has been stabilized now, while a few years ago this was not so. It now has good lines, she stated, and is "too comfortable and practical to go out."

"Today is the day of specialization," she advised. "We are learning to spend more time in planning. We consult an architect to work out bugs in our plans. We consult a builder we know is good, and we consult a decorator to help with colors, carpeting and furniture selection."

"One of the joys in decorating is getting to know people," she explained. "Your house should reflect your personality. It should look like you."

Mrs. Yoes pointed out that home decorating color trends always seem to go hand in hand with fashion trends. The latest trend in colors this spring is putting blues and greens together.

Wood fiber blinds date back to Ancient Egypt, she explained, but today they have been improved and their uses varied. In addition to being decorative, they diffuse the light.

Mrs. Yoes showed examples of different types of fabrics and explained their uses. She pointed out that rayon has been perfected to a point where it is difficult to tell it from cotton and linen. She showed different types of casement cloths, which are becoming more and more popular, from plain sheer cloths to bright prints to heavier cloths in matching tones.

"Drapery linings are news today," she explained, adding that the only ones used to be used to "lay a protective coating" has been added to the underside to shut out the light. Linings are now coming in different colors, which can be used to blend with the outside of the house, she explained. Chromespun is also being used now, as it doesn't wrinkle like the sateen.

In speaking of carpeting, she stated that tweed, in wool or cotton carpeting, is very popular. Cotton carpeting she stated is good for a family with children as spots can be washed up easily without leaving a ring. She added that cotton carpeting also comes in brighter colors than wool.

Rayon carpeting has come to the front in the past few years. Mrs. Yoes pointed out. However, most rayon carpeting is 10 per cent or more nylon to make it wear better. It comes in bright colors, but is not so good for this part of the country because of its static qualities, she advised.

Mrs. Yoes showed examples of hemp floor coverings, which go well with a modern decor. She explained that hemp carpeting may be washed by placing it on a clothes line and running a hose on it.

A new-type rug is made from sisal, a fiber like hemp.

Following her speech, Mrs. Yoes showed slides illustrating the

Old-Fashioned Rhubarb Pie Fool-Proof With Tapioca

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

My Cousin Fannie was old-fashioned. So were her rhubarb pies. They grew up in a little town in upper New York state called Nunan and learned a lot there about making real American pies. Every spring she'd say, "Now soon we'll have pie plant." To her, rhubarb was "pie plant."

We've taken her basic recipe and made it fool-proof by using quick tapioca.

Rhubarb Pie
Three tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, 1 1/2 cups sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 4 cups fresh rhubarb, cut in 1/4-inch pieces, pastry for two-crust 9-inch pie, 1 tablespoon butter.

Combine quick-cooking tapioca, sugar, salt and water in saucepan. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a boil. Add lemon juice. Remove from heat. Cool 15 minutes; stir. Serve warm on ice cream, pudding or omelet.

dot with butter. Moisten edge of bottom crust with water.
Adjust pastry strips in lattice across top of pie and press onto bottom crust. flute rim with fingers. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 45 minutes, or until syrup boils with heavy bubbles that do not burst.

Note — If desired, add 1 teaspoon grated orange rind to rhubarb mixture.

Here's another sign of spring:
Fresh Rhubarb Sauce
(Makes 3 1/2 cups sauce)
One and one-half tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, 3 cups sliced fresh rhubarb (1/4-inch pieces), 1/4 cup sugar, dash of salt, 1 1/2 cups water, 2 teaspoons lemon juice.
Combine quick-cooking tapioca, rhubarb, sugar, salt and water in saucepan. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a boil. Add lemon juice. Remove from heat. Cool 15 minutes; stir. Serve warm on ice cream, pudding or omelet.

Matching Billfolds Make Ideal Gift

The mania for matching boy-girl socks, sweaters, jackets, etc. now shows up in pocket and purse accessories for all-occasion giving. In some instances, manufacturers have packaged a pair of billfolds for him and her, while similar styles and colors are available for separate buying. And the idea isn't limited to teenagers, retailers say — husband and wife matching billfolds have become popular too.

A golden-color saddle leather or cowhide combination is one good idea; his can be a pocket secretary complete with memo pad and space for letters, hers a french purse with gold metal trim. A smart, sophisticated choice is one of the new antique white leather billfolds for her handbag, with an inky-black cowhide evening wallet for his pocket. Red leather is always ideal for a gift — even alligator in ruby shades is now used for pocket accessories guaranteed to last many years.

Former Child Actress Now Playing Tender Love Scenes

By ALNE MOSSBY
HOLLYWOOD — UP— Natalie Wood, the one-time child actress in pigtails, has graduated to grown-up movie roles—an overnight transformation "because I'm slender."
Only last year Natalie played a 12-year-old in "The Silver Chalice" and other sub-subjects in TV films. But now, at 17, she's portraying a pretty, curvaceous high-school girl who has tender love scenes with new star James Dean in "Rebel Without a Cause."
"Physically I'm slight and small," she explained. "I've been able to work right along because I never went through that awkward plump growing-up stage with braces and the whole bit."
"When I was too young to play grown-up parts, I still could play a 12-year-old. Now I'm old enough to change to older roles."
"Some child actresses have trouble making the switch," she added. "Margaret O'Brien had to wear braces on her teeth."
Natalie performed her "overnight" transformation with some tricks. The wardrobe department helped her disguise her slender figure. In a teen-age hair-do and make-up she looks like what she is—a senior in high school (she still goes to Van Nuys high school between pictures).
"But to do the 12-year-old roles last year, I made my voice higher and thinner," she said.
"Another reason I think I'll work toward truly mature roles is my name. How can an actress grow up with a name like Terry or Debbie? My name fits mature roles, too."
Natalie nosed out Debbie Reynolds, Pat Crowley, Kathryn Grant and other young players for the plum role opposite Dean. She thinks the part is the beginning "of a new career for me—I'm getting a lot of chances to play older girls on television."
"The young roles were good for the experience and training," she said.

But I hope I don't have to do any more. I've had my fill of those."
Natalie appears to be straining at the bit to be grown-up in real life, too. She said she'll be overjoyed when she graduates from high school this year. She then can do without her tutor on her movie sets and also without her mother as a chaperone.
As a real-life high school senior, Natalie thinks most TV series and movies about teen-agers are "phony."
"They have those silly girls, giggling, and squealing 'oh, daddy,'" she said. "Kids resent it. There's no phoiness in our movie. It shows that teen-agers have problems."
The watch went through the usual channels of the time. It settled at one time in what was the counterpart of a modern official museum.
At length, the watch came into the hands of a man named Carl Marfeldt, considered the greatest collector of antique and famous watches who ever lived.
At the age of 80 he began looking around for buyers for his collection. A man by the name of Willard H. Wheeler, a rich Brooklynite and head of the Brooklyn Museum, bought the timepiece.
It was supposed to forever remain a part of a recognized collection—not the private piece of an individual.
U.S. Time heard about the collection, valued at upwards of $750,000, and bought it.

Napoleon, Like Modern Man, Spent Time In The Dog House

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON — UP— Napoleon Bonaparte was no different from mere man of any era. He spent a good bit of his time in the doghouse.
History doesn't make it clear just why the little corporal and his bride, Josephine, quarreled. But apparently they did. Perhaps it was because he ate French peas with his knife. Anyhow, he was forever showering the lovely Josephine with gifts, which is indicative enough.
One gift was a priceless watch, which is on exhibit now at the Department of Commerce building by American watch and clock makers.
It's a little big as watches go today. About the size of a mashed-down pear. It is heart-shaped with a case set with 1,741 pearls and 158 turquoises. The official value is $10,000, but one will get you a C-note you couldn't buy it off its present owners, U.S. Time Collectors, for money or love.

The time-piece is a key-winder, but no key has touched it for who knows how long. Maybe it would still work.
Josephine like as not carried it in her purse when it wasn't in a locked jewel box. The weight of the thing surely would have put the pretty lady to listing to one side.
Five years were said to have been spent in gathering "matched" pearls for the case (actually they do not match, but at this late date who cares?). Officially, the watch is known as the "court vanity watch."
According to the time people it was made by a group of French watch makers and artists and jewelers on direct order of the small corporal. This was shortly after he revealed his ambitions, cast aside his pretense of a "regency," and had himself proclaimed emperor of France.
Napoleon, as you know, divorced Josephine. Not a rally she took along the watch when she walked out. Josephine died before he did, but when the corporal himself passed away the watch was found in his possession, so his late former wife must have left it to him.

Memorial Rites Held For FDR
HYDE PARK, N. Y. — UP— Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt attended memorial services here Tuesday on the 10th anniversary of the former President's death. She said that the announcement of a successful polio vaccine "should be a tremendous comfort to parents everywhere."
Mrs. Roosevelt heard the news that Dr. Jonas Salk's vaccine had been proven 80 to 90 per cent effective shortly after she and Gov. Averell Harriman placed wreaths on her husband's grave in brief family services at 10:30 a.m.
"I am very glad to hear the vaccine is so successful," Mrs. Roosevelt said. "I hope it will be even more so as the research progresses. It should be a tremendous comfort to parents everywhere to know this is working out successfully."
The former first lady was accompanied by her sons, John and Franklin Jr., on her overnight visit to their home here. At noon Tuesday the Rev. Gordon L. Kidd conducted memorial services at the grave, and Mrs. Roosevelt left immediately afterward to drive back to New York city.

Like's Atom Plan Battering Reds

WASHINGTON — UP— President Eisenhower's atom-for-peace plan is a potent cold war weapon which has the Soviet Union spinning and gathering back and forth in its propaganda, congressional, news agency and radio broadcasts.
The atom-for-peace plan was made by top officials of the U.S. Information Agency in testimony published Tuesday in a House committee report. The report says that the Soviet Union has been quick to attack the plan and to spread the word.

Woman Gets 2 Years In Robbery Case

SPEARMAN — (Special) — In 84th District Court, Hansford County, Pauline Brown, 24, of Dallas, was given two-year sentences on two counts of robbery, with the sentences to run concurrently.

She and her husband, who is now serving a federal sentence for a bank robbery, were charged with looting the house of Howard Brillhart, six miles north of Spearman, March 8, 1952. Included in the stolen goods were a $600 watch, three rifles, $1,500 in bonds, $200 cash, a Remington typewriter, a diamond ring, and an alligator briefcase.

The two were also charged with looting the Allen Pierce place on Nov. 7, 1953, while the family was in town. Two Masonic rings, three $20 travelers checks, three watches, a prize heirloom watch chain, and several insurance policies were taken in the robbery.

Some of the loot was found four days later by Sheriff Cook stuffed in a culvert four miles north east of the Pierce place.

Sheriff Cook traced a pawn ticket signed by Pauline Brown in Oklahoma City to her home in Dallas where he arrested her for the robberies. She confessed being an accomplice in the two robberies and also in seven others in adjoining counties and Oklahoma. She told the sheriff where most of the stolen goods could be found and returned to Hansford County with him to help locate the buried loot. A watch and two rifles had been given to a brother-in-law. She pleaded guilty and was sentenced with no trial by Judge Jack Allen, T. D. Sansing was her attorney.

Dr. Jones Salk

Polio's Master Is Hard Worker

PITTSBURGH — UP — Dr. Jonas E. Salk, who says development of his polio vaccine came as "no surprise," is a painstaking, seemingly untiring worker with extreme confidence in his results.

His own children were among the first to receive inoculations soon after he started his first tests on human beings.

In May, 1952, when leading scientists still were fearful that the vaccine might cause polio instead of preventing it, Salk injected the fluid, filled with "killed" virus, into the veins of his three sons, the youngest then only three.

"He said he wanted to give us the vaccine before he went out to give it to others," the youthful scientist's wife, Donna, recalled. "Until that time, the vaccine had been administered only to persons who had had polio and acquired an immunity."

The slender, 40-year-old doctor's confidence in the work of his virus laboratory at the University of Pittsburgh was demonstrated again several days before the results of the nationwide tests of the polio vaccine were disclosed.

When someone speculated on the possibility the report might be adverse, Salk's deep brown eyes snapped behind his rimless spectacles.

"If this vaccine is a failure, then theoretically we still do not have a vaccine against diphtheria either," he said.

The Manhattan-born polio expert regards his accomplishments in the battle against virus diseases with great modesty. Development of the polio vaccine, he said, was merely "just another job to be done in a field in which I was interested."

Salk became devoted to research early in life. Upon his graduation from City College of New York, he entered New York University College of Medicine. But after his first term he took a year out for research in protein chemistry.

Upon completing his internship in 1942, he passed up the practice of medicine to plunge into influenza research at the University of Michigan. There, with Dr. Thomas Francis Jr., one of his former professors at NYU, he helped develop several of the flu vaccines now marketed commercially.

In 1947, Pitt asked Salk to head its virus laboratory and open an all-out drive against the virus diseases, since the antibiotics such as penicillin had largely brought the bacterial sickness under control.

Salk continued to work on the flu vaccines but also expanded his research to include polio because "everybody else was fooling around with the polio thing and I thought I'd play around with it, too, to gain some experience."

His laboratory, together with those of three other universities, participated in the tests which determined there are three types of polio virus. As he worked in his laboratory, often from before dawn until after dusk, he conceived the idea of developing a vaccine containing "killed" virus of all three types, which would cause a person's blood to build up immunity - giving antibodies without infecting him with the disease.

After months of experimenting with monkeys - 15,000 were used in the project - Salk decided in June, 1952, that the time had come to test the vaccine on human beings. Forty volunteers, all of whom had recovered from polio, were inoculated with the pink, crystal-clear fluid.

In the days of waiting for the results, Salk said, his chief feelings were "interest and curiosity as to what was coming out." Then, blood tests showed the hoped-for antibodies building up in the recipients' blood.

"It didn't come as a surprise," the scientist said. "This was well-founded theoretically."

Then began the long series of test in which about a million school children took part.

Texas Wheat Crop Slim

AUSTIN — UP — Lack of moisture and surplus-reading controls were blamed Tuesday for cutting this year's Texas wheat crop to 12,924,000 bushels, compared with 20,894,000 bushels harvested last year.

The United States Department of Agriculture said the 1955 crop will be far below the 10-year average of 35,404,000 bushels, but about one-third less acreage was seeded in wheat than the 10-year average. However, the year's acreage is about the same as last year, 4,840,000 acres in 1954 and an estimated 4,508,000 in 1955.

This is the second year wheat has been grown under the federal acreage controls designed to reduce surpluses.

A lack of moisture took the greatest toll on the Texas crop, the USDA report said. The estimates were based on April 1 conditions.

Estimates of the Texas wheat crop indicate an average per-acre average yield of 6.4 bushels an acre.

Chiang Sees Homeland After 5 Years

TAPEI — (UP) — Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek visited shell-torn Quemoy Island four miles from the Communist-held mainland Tuesday for his first sight of China since he fled to Formosa more than five years ago.

On his first visit to the off-shore island, Chiang was closer to the mainland than at any time since the Chinese Communists overran China. He spent more than six hours there although Nationalist sources said the Communists shelled Quemoy Tuesday for the third consecutive day.

Chiang was accompanied by Minie Chiang, and his personal chief of staff, Gen. Sun Li-Jen. The official Central News Agency in a dispatch from Quemoy said Chiang wore a military uniform for his inspection of the defenses on the island which the Reds have vowed to capture "on the road to liberate" Formosa.

Chiang toured several outposts within range of the Communist cannon, the dispatch said. He also was brief by the commander of the Quemoy garrison.

Jefferson's Birthday Is No Holiday

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., — UP — Wednesday is Thomas Jefferson's birthday. The banks will be open, the kids will go to school. One reason the birthday of the man who wrote the Declaration of Independence is not a holiday is that Jefferson didn't want it to be.

He even kept his birthday a secret so no one would get any ideas.

Douglas Adair, managing editor of the William and Mary Quarterly and a Jeffersonian scholar, told Tuesday how Jefferson went out of his way to keep himself from becoming a national hero.

Jefferson, who was born at Shadwell, Va., on April 13, 1743, believed the celebration of birthdays of national leaders smacked of royalty and had no place in a republic. He scorned the birthday balls and feasts given on Feb. 22 to honor George Washington.

"I have declined letting my birthday be known," he wrote in 1803, "and have engaged my family not to communicate it."

Actually, Adair pointed out, Jefferson ceased to be a hero

after the Civil War when the Democratic party went into a decline of power. He was pretty much a forgotten man until the Democrats came into power in the 1890's.

"The Democrats re-established him as a hero, mainly to combat the hero-worship of Lincoln, I think. They put up a monument to him in Washington to match the Lincoln Memorial. They pushed an Indian's head off the nickel and put Jefferson's on instead.

"They also put out a three-cent stamp in his honor, but the Eisenhower administration has since demoted him to a two-cent stamp."

Adair believes the Jefferson-Jackson Day dinners, started by the Democratic party during the Franklin D. Roosevelt administrations, are the closest thing there has ever been to a wide observance of Jefferson's birthday. But these dinners are not necessarily held on April 13.

Jefferson once said he believed the most important birthday for Americans to celebrate was the birthday of their independence, July 4.

"They have always celebrated it. But when Jefferson didn't know it that independence day would also, in a way, be a memorial to himself."

He died July 4, 1826, just 50 years after the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

GAW Talks On At Ford Motors

DETROIT — UP — CIO United Auto Workers negotiators planned a strategy of "divide and conquer" as they opened negotiations with Ford Motor Co., for a guaranteed annual wage.

A second team of negotiators met with Ford officials for the first of a series of full-scale talks on the controversial proposal. The negotiations will decide whether the five years of labor peace in the auto industry is to continue.

Another union team continued negotiations begun with General Motors officials last week.

Convict Number At New High

WASHINGTON — UP — The number of convicts in federal institutions has increased to an all-time high of nearly 20,000 despite steps taken to "relieve the situation," an official of the Bureau of Prisons said Tuesday.

Gus Moeller, classifications director for the bureau, said that on March 3 of this year federal prison population was 19,832, nearly 400 more than the previous peak of 19,447 on March 3, 1954.

Clovis Pioneers Good On Paper

By BUD STEPHENS
Sports Editor
CLOVIS, April 13 — If past records can be taken as a half-way forecast of things to come, the Clovis Pioneers should be able to give a good account at the plate this year.

As the team headed into its spring exhibition schedule late last week, the eight regulars boasted a composite batting average of .326 during their last seasons in the West Texas-New Mexico League.

And the six who played full seasons looked back on a total of 198 home runs (an average of 33 per player) and 810 runs batted in (just over 130 per man).

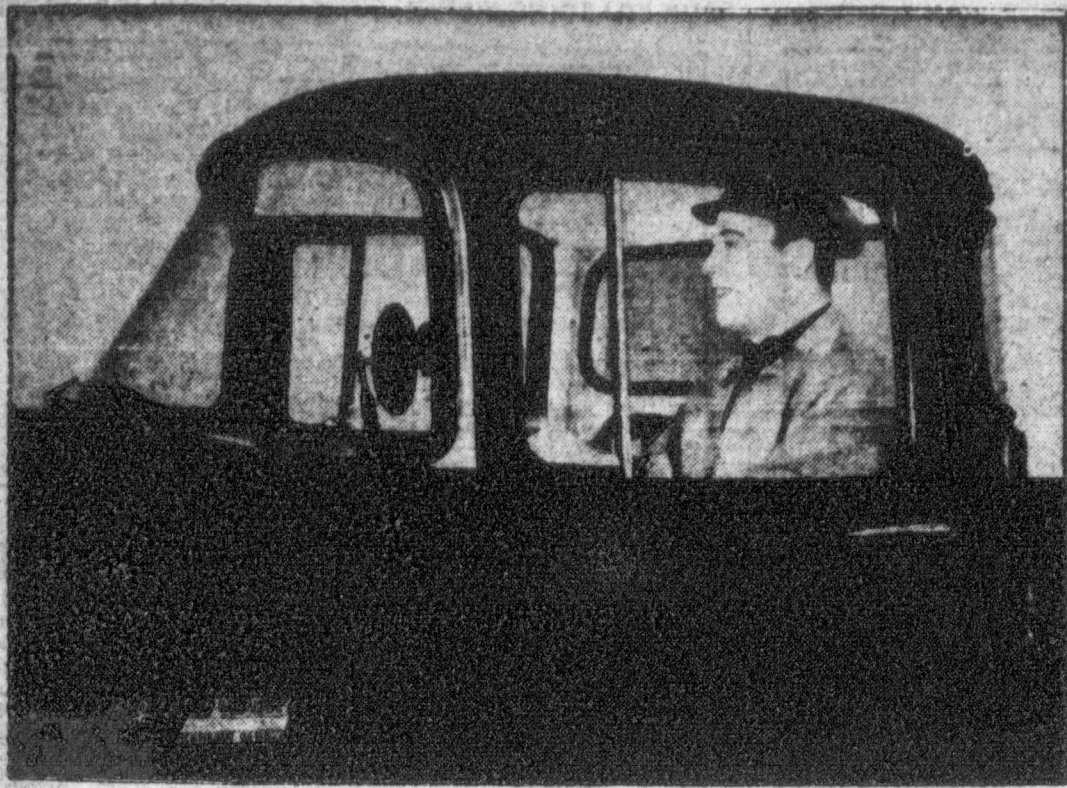

That's pretty fair slugging, even in a league famous for its higher-than-average figures at the plate. Prospects are bright, too, in the field. Nine of the candidates are returnees from the 1954 squad which finished on top of the heap in league fielding averages (.951).

These include Hank Paskiewicz, whose .963 average at third base set a league record; Pete Trabucco, whose .962 mark topped outfielders; and playing manager Frank Benites, who topped league catchers with a .961 performance.

For the first exhibition game, Benites judges his batting order this way:
Jim Lewis, 5B
Hank Paskiewicz, CF
Pete Trabucco, OF
Lincoln Boyd, RF
Paul Flores, 3B
Rudy Tanner, LF
John Warren, 1B
Frank Benites, C

Benites pitching staff lined up as Bill Hair, Jim Waugh and Harold Burns, veterans; Tom G. C. Lewis, a speedster on the bench, was a .339 hitter last year, a record which included 19 homers and 75 runs batted in. He set a league record for errors (61), but he showed great improvement in the late stages of the season.

Dulles Tells Why Corsi Was Fired

WASHINGTON — UP— Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said Tuesday that Edward J. Corsi was ousted as his special adviser on refugee matters principally because he was not qualified to press forward with administration of the Refugee Relief Act. But Dulles said the 90-day rule was a general government rule applying on sensitive positions and he thought it was generally known. He said maybe Corsi himself was culpable for not knowing about that. Declined New Job Corsi was hired Jan. 10 as Dulles' special assistant on migration and refugee problems. He was told only last week that he could continue in the post only until last Sunday because of the 90-day rule. Dulles said Corsi was separated because the refugee job now is mainly an administrative one. Under the law, he said, the administration is the responsibility of the head of his Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs, now McLeod. He said that Corsi was unwilling to accept administrative work in the bureau and had indicated he was unwilling to do administrative work. NATO Powers to Meet WASHINGTON — UP— The United States and its North Atlantic Treaty allies plan a historic meeting in Paris about May 11 to welcome Western Germany as the 15th member of the defense pact, diplomatic officials said Monday.

Actress Gets Welcome At Legislature

AUSTIN — UP—Actress Greer Garson won the hearts of Texas lawmakers Tuesday when she spoke before the House of Representatives and called Texans "the most glamorous people in the world." "Why have any false modesty about it," the red-haired, British-born actress said in a brief speech to the legislators. Miss Garson received ringing applause from the lawmakers. The wife of Dallas oilman E. E. (Buddy) Fogelson, she called herself an "adopted daughter of this great and sovereign state." "Friends in this state like to call me Ma Fogelson," Miss Garson told the legislators. "I can't claim that I came from Texas but I certainly can claim that I came to Texas," she said. Miss Garson was in Austin for the premiere of "Strange Lady in Town," a Warner Brothers film. Austin will turn into a miniature Hollywood Tuesday night for the premiere of the movie, starring Miss Garson and Dana Andrews. HOLLYWOOD TODAY! MOVIES - TV - RADIO by Erskine Johnson

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA)—Close-ups and Long shots: America's Rue de La PAY—the fabulous Strip in Las Vegas — will bust its own salary meter in April with $100,000 to Mario Lanza for two weeks in the New Frontier hotel's supper club. Starting April 20, Liberace, brother George and candle lighters will collect $50,000 for a one-week appearance at the new Riviera. How high can Las Vegas salaries go even with the loot from the gambling casinos? That's a big question in Las Vegas, too. Danny Thomas' $15,000 a week lifted eyebrows when the Sands Hotel opened in 1952. In 1953, the Sahara paid Marlene Dietrich $25,000 a week. The Sands retaliated with $30,000 for Tallulah Bankhead and the Sahara came right back with $35,000 to Dietrich for a return engagement. Now it's $100 a minute for Lanza.

Main Street with designer Moss Mayberry to pick up some tips on her shady lady role in "The Big Knife." A lesser known movie actress was attacked in the same area last year. Contrary to printed reports, musician Dick Stabile landed a raise, not a salary cut, when Dear Martin and Jerry Lewis signed their new Paramount contract. In the Script: Humphrey Bogart advising young John Beahr how to act on his first date in "We're No Angels." "Let her do the talking. Just say yes darling once in a while and nod your head the rest of the time." "But what if she stops talking?" asks John. Replies Bogart: "Kiss her." LOTS OF TOP MOVIE queens are nudging their studios about the son due "Laurette," biography of the late Laurette Taylor by her daughter, Marguerite Cooper. Like Lillian Roth's "I Tomorrow," the book tells Laurette's long bout with alcoholism and her starchy comeback on Broadway in "Outward Bound" and the "Glass Menagerie" in the last years of her life. George Gobel's movie debut in July in a remake of "The Lady Eve" will cancel out his Las Vegas night-club loot. But as a partner with Paramount in the movie, he'll make twice as much, and no dice tables. Rhonda Fleming's acting in "Smeramis," an Italian Biblical film, almost turned out to be a career. She was hired for 10 weeks but filming went on for five months, and she collected a weekly salary. Every time I see Rhonda I'm reminded of her film debut when her name was Marilyn Lewis. A big executive at Fox, where Marilyn Monroe later wiggled her way to fame, renamed her Rhonda because, he said, "Marilyn had a sexy name for a girl." JayCees Hear Preacher Laud Work

"All the worthwhile things in life do not turn out — they have to be dug up." Dr. P. D. O'Brien, Big Spring, visiting revivalist at the First Baptist Church, yesterday noon spoke to the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce and pointed out, too, that "there is no substitute for work." "Work is essential," Dr. O'Brien said. "You don't fall into success; it is an achievement." The preacher said he thought the chief cause of juvenile delinquency, "and for all delinquency," is idleness. He had words of caution against those people in the world who just follow and do not strike out on their own, those who don't create, who never improve. Dr. O'Brien drew a parallel between the Holy Lands, where they are doing things today the same way they did 2,000 years ago, and the United States, which has gone from ox carts to sleek automobiles. "You should learn to do the old things in a new way," he declared. "Don't be satisfied. There are frontiers today which have never been entered or opened." And he concluded by discussing atomic power — "there is not any way of imagining what it will be able to do in the future." It may cure cancer, heart disease and polio. Joe Whitten, who came to Pampa two months ago from Lubbock, sang a church number before Dr. O'Brien spoke. Guests at the JayCee luncheon were Jim Rush, Gene Emery and Bill Smith.

Citadel Cadets Hear Ike Call For World Understanding

CHARLESTON, S. C. — UP— President Eisenhower stood on the sultry parade ground of one of America's oldest military schools Tuesday and admonished cadets of The Citadel to prepare themselves as "the principal apostles of peace." Calling for "a magnificent growth of understanding" as the surest way to secure world peace, the chief executive offered as an answer to war, a broader knowledge of each other and among nations. He stopped here at The Citadel to accept an honorary doctor of laws degree from his old comrade in arms, Gen. Mark W. Clark, head of the school. Mr. Eisenhower then continued on his aerial way to Augusta, Ga., where he plans a going holiday of about a week. The Citadel cadet regiment of 1,350 young men, 85 per cent of whom are expected to go into the armed services either on active regular duty or as reserves, swung in smart review across the field for the President. The chief executive, who went to the U.S. Military Academy at West Point two years ahead of Clark, was openly nostalgic for his days in the cadet corps 40 years ago. Looking out on the parade field lined with cadets in their crisp white trousers and gray tunics with high collars and brass buttons, the President remembered that in his own cadet days, he resented the presence of occasional dignitaries who made it necessary to him to participate in a dress review. But, he added, he wanted to talk briefly about the preparation of a military man. For one thing, he said: "You must know something of economics; and of course your profession will make you know something of law and engineering and many of the sciences, but above all we come back to it: You must try to understand people. How else, I ask you, are we to achieve peace in this world, unless there be a magnificent growth of understanding. Mere knowledge is not enough." ANN ARBOR, Mich., The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which spent $10 million collected from the American people for development and testing of Salk vaccine, will not go out of business. Basil O'Connor, president of the foundation, said the group's activities would be switched to some other field. The new field may be mental health, he said, but it has not been definitely decided. AF Identifies Crash Victim

DURANT, Okla. — UP— Air Force authorities Wednesday identified the student pilot killed when a T-33 jet trainer crashed and exploded near Durant as Lt. Stanley John Sopa, 24, of Florida, N. Y. A second occupant of the plane from Perrin Air Force Base, Sherman, Tex., parachuted to safety. He was Lt. Dennis P. Kelley, 24, an instructor pilot from Sherman. Sopa was on temporary duty at Perrin. His body was found in his ejection seat a few hundred yards from the plane's wreckage. The Air Force spokesman said Sopa apparently tried to parachute but was unable to free himself from the ejection seat. His parachute was not opened. Wreckage of the single-engine jet was scattered over a quarter-mile, authorities said.

U.S. To Be Represented At Asia-Africa Conference

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Foreign Analyst

The United States and its allies will be pretty well represented at the Asia-Africa Conference which opens next Monday in Indonesia. Undoubtedly the meeting will be made a sounding-board for a lot of anti-western propaganda.

Chou En-Lai of Communist China and Ho Chi Minh of Communist Northern Viet Nam are hardly likely to pass up the opportunity to denounce Western "imperialism" and "war mongering."

Jawaharlal Nehru of India and his fellow "Neutralists" may urge that Red China be admitted at once to the United Nations.

Further, nearly all the countries which will attend the conference have a background of opposition to "Colonialism" — the exploitation of Asian and African territories by western powers.

No Trouble Foreseen
But there need be little fear that the conference will result in any action which could cause serious trouble for the West.

The chief reason is that the Western allies will have four valuable friends at the Bandung Conference.

They are Brig. Gen. Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines, Prince Wan Waihayakon of Thailand,

U. S. Relations Ideal
BUENOS AIRES — UP The relations between the United States and the Vatican were cited Tuesday as an ideal example for Argentina to follow in revising its present ties with the Roman Catholic Church. Democrazia, leading organ of the Argentine government, cited the example in an editorial Tuesday.

Mohammed Ali of Pakistan and Acan Menderes of Turkey.

Not only are their countries allied to the West by alliances but the Philippines, Thailand and Turkey contributed troops in the Korean War and thus are still technically at war with Red China. Romulo, Wan, Ali and Menderes are all good men, able to hold their own in any conference. Any one of them would be a safe spokesman for the free world in its defense against Communist aggression.

Romulo Good Friend

Romulo is as good a friend as the United States has in all the world. Publicist, diplomat, statesman and soldier, Romulo is a veteran in world affairs.

Romulo is 55. He is a graduate of Columbia University in New York City. A leading Manila newspaper editor before World War II, he was also a Philippines Army reservist. He became aide to Gen. Douglas MacArthur in Bataan, on Corregidor and in Australia. He is a former president of the United Nations General Assembly and is now President Ramon Magsaysay's special envoy to the United States.

Prince Wan, 63, is Thailand's foreign minister. He has served as ambassador in Washington and as his country's chief UN delegate. He is handsome and well-liked. He is thoroughly alert to the Communist danger in southeast Asia.

All Is Pro-Western

Mohammed Ali, Pakistan foreign minister, is 46. He is strongly pro-western and anti-Communist. He has served as Pakistan's ambassador to the United States and to Canada.

The Philippines, Thailand and Pakistan are all members of the new Southeast Asia Treaty Organization against Communist aggression.

Menderes is 56. He is Turkish prime minister. He and President Celal Bayar brought Turkey into the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance. Turkey is also allied with Pakistan and has just dealt a big blow to Arab "Neutrality" by signing a treaty with Iraq.

Railroad Negotiators Meet

WASHINGTON — UP — Top company and union negotiators in the 30-day-old Louisville & Nashville Railroad strike met Tuesday without the presence of federal mediators. There was no indication, however, of any immediate break in the deadlocked dispute. It centers on the demand of the 25,000 non-operating employees for a health and welfare fund paid by the company.
