Mrs. B. Kirk Rites Are Set

Funeral services for Mrs. Beatie Madge Kirk, 34, a former Pampan will be held Monday at 2 p.m. in the First Pentecostal Holiness Church in Oklahoma City, Okla.

Mrs. Kirk died late Monday at her home in Oklahoma City, following an illness of about 10 months.

Born in Pampa, Sept. 23, 1921, she came to Oklahoma City about 16 years ago. Mrs. Kirk was a graduate of Pampa High School in the class of 1939 and a graduate of Draughton Business College in Oklahoma City.

She was a member of the First Christian Church of Pampa and a Girl Scout leader for several years.

Survivors include her husband, daughter, Barbara Jean, 12, of Oklahoma City; her mother, Mrs. Mamie Bell of Pampa; two brothers, Ben Bell, of Dallas, and Max Bell, of Long Beach, Calif.; two sisters, Mrs. Doris Joy of Dallas and Mrs. Edith Keeney of Lanesberg, Germany.

Oilers Host Pioneers In Exhibitions

The Pampa Oilers will host the Clovis, N.M., Pioneers in a pair of games this week-end. They will travel at 2:30 Saturday afternoon and again at the same time Sunday.

Red Dial and Buddy Woods will be starting the pitching duties. Field manager, Grover Seitz, has selected Buddy Wood for the Saturday contest and Dial for Sunday.

Joe Fortin, Oiler first baseman, will be batting in the fourth spot or cleanup. He has already hit four homers this season.

Frank Kempa, Allan Cross and a newly arrived shortstop, Johnny Yanchura, will be doing the infield honors. Carl Pickett will be catching.

Bob Flores, recently obtained from Albuquerque, N.M., will be starting, along with Dick Hairston and Lamar Cagle, in the outfield spots.

Pampa's Oilers will go into the contest with a 2-1 record. They have played two games with Southwestern State Teachers College, Weatherford, Okla., and two with the Pioneers. They split the series with the Collegians and won one and tied one with Clovis. The tie game was called in the eighth inning because of the dust and wind.

Several clubs have agreed to help the Oilers in the player-department this season and these boys are expected to start arriving shortly. John Laliberte is expected to report any day.

Pampan Hurt In Accident At McLean

McLean — J. R. Johnson, 511 N. Yeager, Pampa, was slightly injured yesterday when his truck was involved in a collision with an automobile driven by Mrs. Kate Everett of McLean.

Johnson, driving a Goldsmith's Dairy delivery truck, was going south about six blocks north of the business district when the collision occurred. The truck overturned against a fire hydrant following the collision.

Johnson received head injuries, however, it was reported by Goldsmith's Dairy that he was back at work this morning. Mrs. Everett was not injured in the collision which caused her car to skid onto the front lawn of a residence.

At about 12:20 p.m., an hour after the collision occurred, Caroline Stoker, 14, a student at McLean High School, was knocked down by a rim which blew from the right rear tire of the truck while the intersection was being cleared. Examination by a physician revealed that she was not badly injured.

The milk truck contained about $60 worth of dairy products which were destroyed. Damages to the truck were estimated at $400 and damages to the Everett car were estimated to be about $150.

Government's Fraud

"Social Security is an insurance system run by the government which guarantees most American families against loss of income by reason of the old age or death of their breadwinners. The covered workers pay for this insurance with premiums held out of their wages or paid by employers on their account. Through these contributions the workers build up rights to benefits for themselves and their families. The amount of the benefits depends on the worker's earnings, and thus on the premiums he pays."

"Social Security is backed up by a huge reserve fund. All premiums are paid into this fund, where they draw interest. As they fall due the promised benefits will be paid out of the reserve fund, just as they are being paid now to seven million persons who contributed during the last 19 years. These benefits are no relief. The people pay for what they get and they get what they pay for. (No) means test nor showing of need (is) required. Social Security is an insurance system."

Is the above, in general, your concept of the Social Security program?

Dillard Stokes, a veteran Washington news man and author of a new book, "Social Security: Fact and Fancy" (H. Regnery, $4.00), says that's the way most Americans understand the program, based on the Government's own information releases and pamphlets issued for two decades.

But, according to Mr. Stokes, every statement in the two quoted paragraphs is untrue. In his very readable, often shocking book, the author proves they are untrue, with painstaking documentation.

One of the most common misconceptions of Social Security is that "you can't lose what you put into it." Another is that the program, like private annuity plans, has been worked out on actuarial lines.

The reason for these particular misconceptions is that when Social Security first went into effect in 1937, the Act provided that if a covered worker died before the retirement age of 65, his heirs would be refunded what he put in, with interest; and the Act expressly stated that the program was to be conducted "in accordance with accepted actuarial principles."

However, the Act also contained an "escape clause" which gave Congress the right to change the Act any time it felt like it, and Congress did so — eliminating the money-back guarantee and the requirement of actuarial soundness — in 1939.

Congress had made many other changes in Social Security, and can continue to do so. There is no guarantee that what Social Security promises today, it will deliver tomorrow. It is not insurance: there is no policy, no contract, no rights, no relation between the so-called premiums, which are actually taxes, and the benefits.

In the years to come, as more and more people covered by the program reach retirement age, there will not be sufficient revenue from Social Security taxes alone to pay the promised benefits, even though payroll taxes are destined to increase eight per cent.

What will happen then? Mr. Stokes asks. We are making promises to ourselves, based on our grandchildren's willingness to make good. Will they accept the burden like good little kids, or will their Congress, in some future year, exercise its prerogative to repudiate the whole program?

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR P. JORDAN, M. D.

A great many children develop ear infections some of which lead to chronic difficulty such as running ears, impaired hearing in later life, or to rupture of the drum membrane.

This condition, which is known in medical circles as otitis media, is worth knowing about.

Acute otitis often accompanies or follows the common cold or such diseases as measles. Prompt action by the use of the germ-killing drugs or by early drainage by making a cut into the ear drum may prevent a great deal of difficulty later on.

THE SEAT of the trouble is in the portion of the ear called the middle ear, which is a sort of closed cavity shut off from the external ear canal by an ear drum or membrane.

This cavity is connected to the nose by a passageway called the eustachian tube. It is by passage through this tube that many germs originating in the nose pass to the middle ear.

The discharge from a running ear consists of germs, dead cells and pus. Usually the discharge is whitish or yellowish in color but the color and consistency vary with the germs which are responsible for the infection.

When dangerous germs get into the middle ear they cause inflammation of the delicate mucous membranes. Blockage of the eustachian tube is common. WHEN DOCTORS look into the ear of a person with a painful earache they can usually tell whether the trouble is in the middle ear by the appearance of the drum membrane. This will usually bulge in acute ear infections and can be cut, allowing the pus to escape through the external canal.

If the process goes on and the drum membrane is not cut, and pressure generally builds up and the material escapes by itself. From then on, however, the membrane is weaker than normal.

Treatment of chronic otitis is difficult. Cleanliness is important and includes the removal of crusts and anything which interferes with drainage. Washing with various solutions is of great help in accomplishing this purpose.

SOME DOCTORS have used sulfa drugs in powder form to blow into the middle ear. Also, suction is helpful in cleaning out the pus and mucus.

Because a chronic condition is so troublesome and interferes so much with perfect health, it is highly important that such infections be treated as early as possible.

Babies usually have a good deal of fever with acute otitis, put the ear on a pillow, hold the hand against the ear, shake their heads or otherwise find ways of showing the watchful parent what is wrong. Infants who are too young to talk need our special attention.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

The Rights Of Property—
A Refutation Of Communism And Socialism

XXIV.

On rereading Adolphe Thiers' book, "A Refutation of Communism and Socialism," written and printed more than 100 years ago, I have evidence of how history repeats itself.

With various political influences demanding that the government step in and restrict competition in many branches of farming, with labor unions getting laws passed that restrict competition in labor, one sees how we are doing over again what they did in France 100 years ago.

Under the chapter of "On The Suppression of Competition," Thiers relates how the associations of those days, which would be labor unions and farm groups and business men and manufacturers, petitioned the government and society to relieve them of competition. This is the way the association of those days complained about competition.

"Competition, it is said, is an abominable principle, by which nothing can prosper, association no more than any other system of labour; it turns industry into a struggle of life and death, and makes the discovery of a new machine a means of destruction; for, no sooner invented, the owner, producing a better commodity, and producing more rapidly, uses it to destroy whole populations of workmen and employers. Look, indeed, at the ravages committed by the genius of discoveries during the last fifty years! The inventor of the machine for spinning cotton has ruined India, which affects us but slightly, but it has likewise starved thousands of Europeans. The machine for spinning flax, a boon for which Napoleon had promised to give a million francs, is at length conceived, taken over to the Continent, and has reduced to famine a portion of the Belgian people; it has done the same in Flanders and in Britain, Railroads, that wonderful means of communication, ruin the boatmen of the canals and rivers, and already affects the shamen employed in the coasting trade. Lighting by gas, that wonderful means of replacing the light of day in our streets at night, has ruined one of the principal agricultural products. Steam, that great boon of Providence, has hurried on to death, through distress, an incalculable mass of workmen. Indeed, not a single blessing is introduced into the world without committing frightful ravages, because man seizes upon the blessing in order to convert it into a weapon of defense, owing to that abominable Competition which has driven every kind of industry, as it were, into an enclosure. For this, fraternity must be substituted, that is to say, Association."

Would The Working Man Be Better Off Without The Factory? Here, as before, to the same sophism I shall oppose the same answer. Respecting Cicero's theatre, I had said, "Would you prefer that the theatre or factory did not exist? I will say: Would you prefer that the discovery of fire did not exist? Without competition no one would have thought of making it? You will perceive that this reply still holds good, and that if repeated, it is because the sophism is also repeated. Indeed it is again the same, — the stifling man's faculties in order not to suffer through them."

"For my part, I cannot understand how two men, side by side, can work at the same article, without competition at once showing itself, that is to say, without one of them doing more, or not so well as the other, and consequently earning more or not so much. Will you stop the one that works the best or the quickest and say to him: 'Friend, contain yourself, for fear of surpassing your neighbor?' Such a speech as that would be ridiculous enough, but you would have to make it, it must also be attended to, otherwise the laboring competitor will go on, and commit the crime of successful rivalry. The principle, therefore, would be, to confine men's energy to a certain limit; and, moreover, to find but one limit, and to make it compulsory. But there being a fear of producing too much, it would have to be fixed, not according to the faculties of the strongest, but according to that of the weakest: suppress every extra amount of labor which the industrious or skillful artisan undertakes, and mankind would be addressed as follows: 'Brethren, do not surpass one another, restrain your rash and fatal ardor. And so, produce not too much wheat, too much wine, too much wearing apparel, and too many houses, &c.'"

Then he continues to cite one instance after another where men have been blessed because of the genius of men of those days. If he was writing in the present day, he would relate how the big producers, like Edison and McCormick and Ford and the big industrialists of the present century, have benefited all mankind. Then he ends the paragraph in this manner:

"Very well; but in curing this restlessness of mankind (the fear of competition) would you not fear to throw it into the sleep of death?"

The fire department was called to a hotel to put out a blazing bed. The woman sleeping in the room was very much incensed. "Taking him to the police station after putting out the fire, they started to have him booked for arson, but at this point the man, straightening himself up, announced that he was the one thing he couldn't be arrested for."

Officer: "Why not?"
Drunk: "Because that bed was on fire and I got in it."

Nixon's Nomination Virtually Assured

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Richard M. Nixon's nomination as Vice President was virtually assured by the ominous decline in the Republican vote in the Minnesota primary, even though the Californian was not a direct participant in that contest.

GOP analysts figure that the fall in the Republican total, as measured by the heavy Democratic turnout and their poor showing, knocked out Harold E. Stassen as a potential Nixon rival. And the White House adviser on disarmament is the only member of Ike's political family who has not said flatly that he would not be happy to take second place on the ticket.

In view of his silence, and recalling that Ike listed him as a possible V.P. choice in 1952, top politicians have always mentioned him as in the running for second spot.

In fact, the Minnesota outcome may have marked the end of the political train for the ambitious Stassen, save for retention in his present post in event of an Eisenhower victory.

Although Stassen has insisted on retaining an absentee leadership of the Minnesota organization, he is no longer popular with the active politicians and the new generation of voters. He has not lived there for many years, although he makes periodical trips there to give orders.

Moreover, he showed no interest in building up a strong organization even when he was Governor many years ago; he always had his eyes on the White House. The results of his indifference have been the transformation of once rock-ribbed Minnesota into a doubtful state.

It is true that the Republicans had no bitter fight like the Stevenson-Kefauver brawl on the Democratic side. Resentment over farm difficulties also may have led an estimated 150,000 Republicans to shift over. But it is also a fact that Stassen had made a special effort to turn out a big demonstration for Ike for its psychological effect on November voting.

Now, GOP leaders are so concerned over Minnesota that they have sent men out there to find out why and where they fell down — in short, to mend fences which Stassen failed to keep in repair.

Another gain for Nixon is that Thomas E. Dewey cannot run on the same ticket with Ike. It would be extremely unwise, geographically and politically, to smother the rest of the country, especially the Middle and Far West, by nominating a man from Pennsylvania and one from New York. The farmers never did like Dewey, as they showed in 1948.

Thus, the number of Nixon's important rivals dwindles day by day. The success of Senator Kefauver's pedestrian and handshaking tactics has caused Republican concern over President Eisenhower's plan to restrict his campaigning to a few major speeches, mostly on television, and to the White House rose garden.

Stevenson, for instance, had a far better known name and a more appealing personality than the lanky, slow-speaking Tennesseean. He had the organization behind him. He had greater financial underwriting, and he appeared on television more often.

But Kefauver climbed down

According to a recent news item from New York City: "Three bandits in Coney Island got away yesterday afternoon with a black leather bag that looked just right for a payroll. Instead, it contained a collection of soap samples."

Without implying that anyone concerned is a bandit, I should like to point out that the great American public has made a similar mistake during the past quarter century by grabbing for what it thought to be financial security via governmental paternalism only to find that what it has actually acquired is a lot of soap — soft soap, to be exact.

The cajolery of demagogues, instead of being "money in the bag," has materialized as higher and higher taxes, greater and greater spending, more and more bureaucrats, and less and less liberty.

Never have a naive people, moved by cupidity, made a more mortifying mistake than when they grabbed for the New Deal and got "the old run-around."

BID FOR A SMILE

Young Fulmore Pepp was quite a lad in his life everything he had. His town, named Pleasant Park, was small; which Fulmore didn't like at all. Said Pepp: "A one-horse can be a Waterloo for guys like me. I need a big town's rush and roar to spur ambition more and more. I need some competition, keen to make me use the good old bean. For I can write a red-hot song, which I am sure would 'ring the bells.' But in this burg, the going's tough; no one appreciates my stuff." So Fulmore went to New York town and trod the pavement up and down. The publishers gave him the stars and told him to get elsewhere. He tried a year to sell his stuff; but found the city can be rough. And then he met exhibition's spot, and hid him home to Pleasant Park. And there he wrote (sincere and warm) a song about a small town's charm. As sweet and touching as a hymn that made the hearer's eyes grow dim. And sent it off. And—wait! you guess? That simple song was a success.—Karl Flaster.

Fair Enough

American Legion Would End UNESCO

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

There is an old grass-green monstrosity on the boulevard of President Wilson in Geneva, about three floors high with many windows disclosing desks of a great bureaucracy. It is identified by a sign on a gate-post as the headquarters of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization — in short, UNESCO of ill-repute among patriotic Americans.

The American Legion in many of its myriad voices has damned this monstrosity. The authentic voice of the Legion has tried to throw UNESCO out of the schools for advocating ultimate dissolution of nationality. This would rob Americans of the one motive outside the family and religion which is the cement in the ramparts against Communism. That quality is national loyalty or patriotism. So, for that matter, does the United Nations itself, whose banner is a strange device with a design resembling a conventionalized symbol of cancer.

The Palace of UNESCO, Geneva, is the building in which the old League of Nations held its mock trials of Benito Mussolini's Fascist Italian regime in 1936. The league was loaded against the duce because he was following a silly challenge to the lifeline of the British Empire, which, at that time, he had neither the power nor any reason to sever. Mussolini was friendly to France, and France to Fascist Italy. But Britain sent Anthony Eden to Geneva to demand "sanctions" against Italy as an aggressor against Abyssinia. Britain won the day. Italian journalists in the press gallery reared back and shrieked in idiotic fury and were thrown out like bums.

Most Americans around the press-bar and in the gallery were objective and aloof. We were not in the League of Nations, thanks to Henry Cabot Lodge's little group of wilful men in Wilson's last days, and the League could not commit our people to the bloody follies to which the United Nations of Roosevelt, Truman and Alger Hiss condemned uncomprehending kids in Korea. The press-bar afforded bottled goods, but the trade was abominable and Eden and Pierre Laval, wearing the white lawn bow of the deep South Baptist Bible-flogger, took tea and perrier, respectively. Eden wore a hankie in his sleeve and had a delicate way of flicking little crumbs of biscuit from his cornsilk moustache.

Had Britain let Mussolini conquer his pea-patch to absorb her surplus of hard-working peasants and townies, the natives would have been healed of their sores, their cattle would have been bred up and purged of their diseases, and though Britain's lifeline would have been cut, that was inevitable anyway. And it would have been cut by an enemy, however, puny.

Fifteen minutes would suffice for a complete tour by the most glibly devoted. The remainder of time would not suffice to provide the slightest excuse for the waste of all this money on this fraud. The rest of the massive, unsightly pile is occupied by private offices, countless desks and filing cabinets and hordes of bureaucrats, mostly female, than whom it would be hard to find any less appetizing among the personal adherents of La Boca Grande.

The principal exhibit of the League's palace in 1936 was a great hall of glass cases containing long scrolls to which literally countless human beings of all nations had earnestly signed their names attesting to the prayer that war should never come again. Most of them, of course, are dead, and many of their sons and daughters. The scrolls are nowhere in sight at the old palace of the League of Nations and I could find nobody who had ever heard of them.

Mac Wants Almanac From Red China

By HENRY McEMORE

In 1948, while visiting Peiping, I bought a book entitled "The Year of the Rat."

I picked it off the shelves of the little bookstore in the Wagon-Lit hotel, believing it to be a Chinese gangster story that would help pass the time on the flight back to Shanghai.

It turned out to be an almanac for 1948 which, according to Chinese belief, was the Year of the Rat. Among other things, it advised what was lucky to do, and what was unlucky to do, on each day in the year.

I decided to follow the advice of the gods, the winds, the foxes, and the spirits for the remainder of 1948. It turned out to be one of the best years of my life. Oh, a few times I had to do peculiar things, such as put up bamboo shoots, clean the chimney, salt a carp, and call on my in-laws before breakfast, but on the whole, the advice worked out all right. I was healthy, showed a degree of wisdom every once in a while, and prospered to such an extent that I was able to keep up my Christmas Club payments.

Ever since then I have tried to get a current edition of the Chinese almanac, but no dice. The Reds took over Peiping a short while after I left, and they don't seem to be shipping out any almanacs.

Not long ago it occurred to me that, since no Chinese almanac was available, it might be a good idea to turn to astrology for guidance. So I did. I would have preferred phrenology, but you can get astrological guidance out of newspapers and magazines, while phrenology requires that you take your head to a professor each day for a reading, and there just isn't a phrenologist who lives within miles of me!

Once I cast my lot with the stars, I read what they held in store for me each day. It wasn't long before I had come to the conclusion that the zodiac was peevish with me for some reason or another. Not only the zodiac, but the Milky Way, both Dippers, all the planets, all the comets, and even the shooting stars.

I remember the first day I read my horoscope.

"Don't be down-hearted because you appear to be duller than the other members of the human race," it said, "but keep your chin up and act as if you were as bright as the next fellow. This is a good day, also, to watch out for traffic accidents, falling stone ledges, scalding by steam, and ptomaine poisoning."

I figured that the horoscope was a fluke — the astrologer had gotten up on the wrong side of the bed, and just happened to take his spite out on us Sagittarius folk. "But that was a jolly one compared to some that followed!"

One Tuesday I was advised to stay in bed most of the day, to be sure to be on the look-out against going to sleep with my head under the pillow and smothered. Another day I was warned to be on the alert against being tricked and deceived by "those closest to me." This had me sneering on Mary until she just about up and left me.

Never, not once, did the stars bring me tidings of good cheer. There was no hint of finding a uranium deposit, or an inheritance from a rich uncle, or a trip to Bali with all expenses paid.

I got so I was beginning to dread getting up of a morning. I became jumpy, irritable, and developed a habit of looking over my shoulder all the time.

So I gave up the stars. They may be fine for some folk, but give me "The Year of the Rat!"

TO GRADUATES: From finger pointing to that first funny batch of fudge to learning the ins and outs of pin-curling to chem lab to cap-and-gown fitting... till now your progress has been swift, steady and according to plan.

SCON IT WILL be different. After high school, you have a thousand and one choices; probably you've narrowed them down to a half-dozen. College? There are nearly a million girls enrolled in colleges across the country now, and you may well join them. Marriage? Career? Some bundles of energy and ambition manage to combine two or even three of these things. Of this you may be sure: any one of them demands your very best. See that you have it to give.

About breakfast. Only thirty percent of the first-year college girls questioned in a recent survey had breakfasts that could be judged adequate. Ten percent of the girls had nothing at all for breakfast, or only coffee. The remaining sixty percent had some food in the morning, but not enough or not the right kinds.

Breakfast dodgers just aren't so sharp. Increased irritability, persistent fatigue, decreased alertness are a few of the danger signals warning that certain nutrients supplied by a good breakfast are in short measure.

It definitely pays to be bright about breakfast. Have a good one every morning. Chilled fruit or juice, crisp cereal with cool milk, toast or hot bread with butter, beverage—a simple breakfast that can make all the difference to your busy days ahead.

FOODS SOLD in collapsible metal tubes—already generally accepted in Europe—are arousing interest in the U.S., according to an article in Food Engineering, McCraw-Hill publication.

The containers, which look like

U.S. style toothpaste or shaving tubes are used in Europe for liver spreads, smoked ham, herring, anchovy, gravies, mustard, cheeses, evaporated milk, jellies, seasonings—and condiments prepared in a paste, liquid coffee, and others. Some foods are sold only in tubes.

Features that appeal to Europeans are the tube's small quantity and its protection against oxidation through tight enclosure with little or no headspace. These features are also important in this country, the article says.

Special reason for tube popularity in Europe is the limited amount of home refrigeration there, which restricts the market for fresh or frozen foods, as well as some canned items, and makes left-overs a problem.

For successful packaging in these tubes, foods must be specially prepared, following laboratory investigation. Consistency must insure a continuous flow through the tube's narrow outlet and a complete absence of lumps large enough to clog the opening. There must be no separation in storage, no settling, and no hardening of the product in the tube. Treatment must not affect the taste of the foods.

Adequate tube-filling machines of both foreign and domestic make are available in this country, and sterilization of tubed foods in some respects is less complicated than for canned foods, the article says. Lining tube interiors with protective coating is difficult and relatively costly, since the right coating frequently must be developed to meet the requirements of a specific food product.

Program On Germany Is Presented At Meeting Of 20th Century Allegro

Mmes. Robert Karr and J. E. Thompson presented the program on Germany, the third in the Adult Education series on World Affairs, at the Twentieth Century Allegro club meeting Tuesday in the home of Mrs. James Evans. Mrs. Clifford Braly was co-hostess.

Mrs. Karr outlined the history of Germany from its earliest time to the present day. She stated that the Germans have differed from one era to another and have differed from one another at any given time. This very lack of a strong, unifying national thread is an important characteristic common to Germans for many decades.

Mrs. Karr pointed out that geography has played a large role in preventing Germany from crystallizing and maturing its national form. Unprotected by natural frontiers, open to any outside influence or attack, the German people have tried to overcompensate their insecurity by a persistent drive for power. She explained that Germany's autocratic tradition and militant aggressiveness are caused by this same insecurity, and so is the German love for "order" and formal rules.

Mrs. Thompson said: "Germany is the key to Europe."

The Communists are concentrating on the control of Germany by trying to get the West to unite with the East to form a united Germany. Moscow will take advantage of every chink in the propaganda of every mistake in policy, of Western powers, in order to achieve this control, she advised. However, she stated, the chances of the Communists getting any substantial support West of the Elbe are practically nil.

Mrs. Thompson related that the West cannot afford to permit unification of Germany on any basis acceptable to the Soviet Union, for such a basis, might be a guarantee that certain strategic cabinet posts in a new all-German government would be held by Communists. In their eagerness for unification, she continued, the West Germans might elect to gamble on such an arrangement, even after the example of Czechoslovakia, but the Western Allies could not risk it.

A discussion period was held following the informative talks.

Mrs. G. M. Walls opened the business meeting. She announced that Mmes. Bill Davis and Jim Leaverich will be hostesses at the Story Hour Thursday. Mrs. Walls was hostess last week.

The group was told of the change of the Spring Luncheon from May 1 to May 15. Mrs. Don Cain reported on the Federation magazine.

Refreshments of lime sherbet punch and cake were served.

Those present were Mmes. Jerry Thomas, Ben Fallon, Creel Grady, John Frisby, Bill Craig, Sam Pruitt, Price Doster Jr., Braly, Davis, Duncan, Walls, Cain, Karr, Thompson and Evans.

Next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Ray Duncan with Mrs. Bill Waters as co-hostess. At that time Mmes. Davis and John Adams will present the program on Japan.

Program On Mental Illness Presented At Meeting Of 20th Century Cotillion

A program entitled, "Education change are emotional ones. Attitudes and prejudices are habits presented at the recent meeting of the Twentieth Century Cotillion in the home of Mrs. Martin Stubbe, 1718 Hamilton.

Mrs. Dale Thut spoke on the history of mental illness.

"We, today, think that mental illness is relatively new, but it is not," she stated.

She went on to tell of the cave-men associating fits with the head and sending for a medicine man when such a fit occurred. She told of strange rituals and crude operations that were performed with sharp-edged stones. Many skulls of primitive man have been found, some of them showing healing around an opening, indicating that the scalp was later closed and that the individual lived for many years after the operation, she told the women. Most of the skulls indicating such an operation belonged to women, she added.

"Either women were more subject to headaches, convulsions and insane behavior than men, or they were easier to operate on," she observed.

As scientists explore more deeply the puzzles of mental disease and emotional disturbance, they are becoming more and more impressed with the underlying chemical and biological mechanisms, she explained. But the problem still remains of how much mental illness arises from purely environmental, non-biological effects and how much from the body's misbehaving chemistry, she advised.

Mrs. R. J. Sallor Jr. presented the second part of the program, discussing problems of emotional behavior today.

"Individuals differ widely in heredity, home training, schooling, temperament and racial and cultural background," she said. "Most of our problems that demand a

Steps necessary for making changes, named by Mrs. Sallor, are recognition that a change is needed; a deep desire to change; a search for the right method; persistence; strength other than self; and praise from others for the change.

"Every individual changes, but the amount of constructive change is the basic difference between happiness and mediocre living," she concluded.

Mrs. W. D. Price gave the final portion of the program by giving case histories of a jealous child, dotting mother and a lonely neighbor. Members gave their diagnosis of each case and Mrs. Price then read the doctor's analysis with suggestions on how to improve each situation.

Welcomed as new members were Mmes. Neely Joe Ellis and Bob Price. Members attending were Mmes. Jimmy Campbell, Walter Bertinot, Thelma Gray, Charles Brauchle, John Campbell, W. W. Hopkins, J. B. Maguire Jr., Kenneth Meaders, Lee Moore Jr., Ralph McKinney, W. D. Price Jr., R. J. Sallor Jr., Martin Stubbe, Ray Thompson, Dale Thut and Bob Boyd.

Mission Advance To Be Given

The advance in Christian Missions will be presented by Rev. Arthur Wesley, a member of the Oriental Missionary Society at the Evangelical Methodist Church, on April 10-12 at 7:30 p.m.

Rev. Wesley presents an "on the spot" Formosa report. This highly strategic and controversial island off the coast of Communist China has been the scene of the missionary labors of Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Wesley. They have only recently returned from Formosa and will present the inside story of the advance of Missions on this island stronghold governed by Generalissimo Chiang-Kai Shek.

Hear the report of advance in the Oriental Missionary Society's new seminary in Taichung, Formosa. Rev. Wesley's Message will also highlight recent evangelistic developments amongst the former head-hunting tribes in the mountains. The public is cordially invited to hear Wesley's report on Formosa.

Sunday will be the last day of the revival now in progress.

Return Missionary Rev. Meredith Haines will be the speaker at the Evangelical Methodist Church, on April 10-12 at 7:30 p.m.

Rev. Haines is a return missionary from Korea and Japan. In Japan he was a member of the faculty of the Tokyo Bible Seminary and later served in the same capacity in the Seoul Theological Seminary in Korea.

Korea, the most challenging of all fields, is where Rev. Haines spent his childhood as the son of missionary parents. His later service in Korea was during the emergency days immediately following the war, at which time the Korea Seminary of 269 students was transferred to temporary refugee quarters in Pusan. In this school Rev. Haines taught and labored for Christ and shared a most gratifying ministry in the preparation of Korean Pastors and evangelists for service in the Churches South of the 38th Parallel.

Again in May of 1954, Haines returned to Korea with his wife to continue in the work of the Bible Seminary, which now has returned to Seoul. A medical emergency for Mrs. Haines made it necessary for them to return to the States, in July of 1955.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

REV. L. B. DAVIS
Progressive Baptist Church
Pampa, Texas

"BECAUSE HE ROSE"

The Lord is risen indeed, and hath appeared to Simon. (Luke 24:34.)
What is this mysterious, strange, joyous influence which seems to permeate everything at this time of year, which lingers like a sweet perfume, delicate and clean to touch us all with its magic?

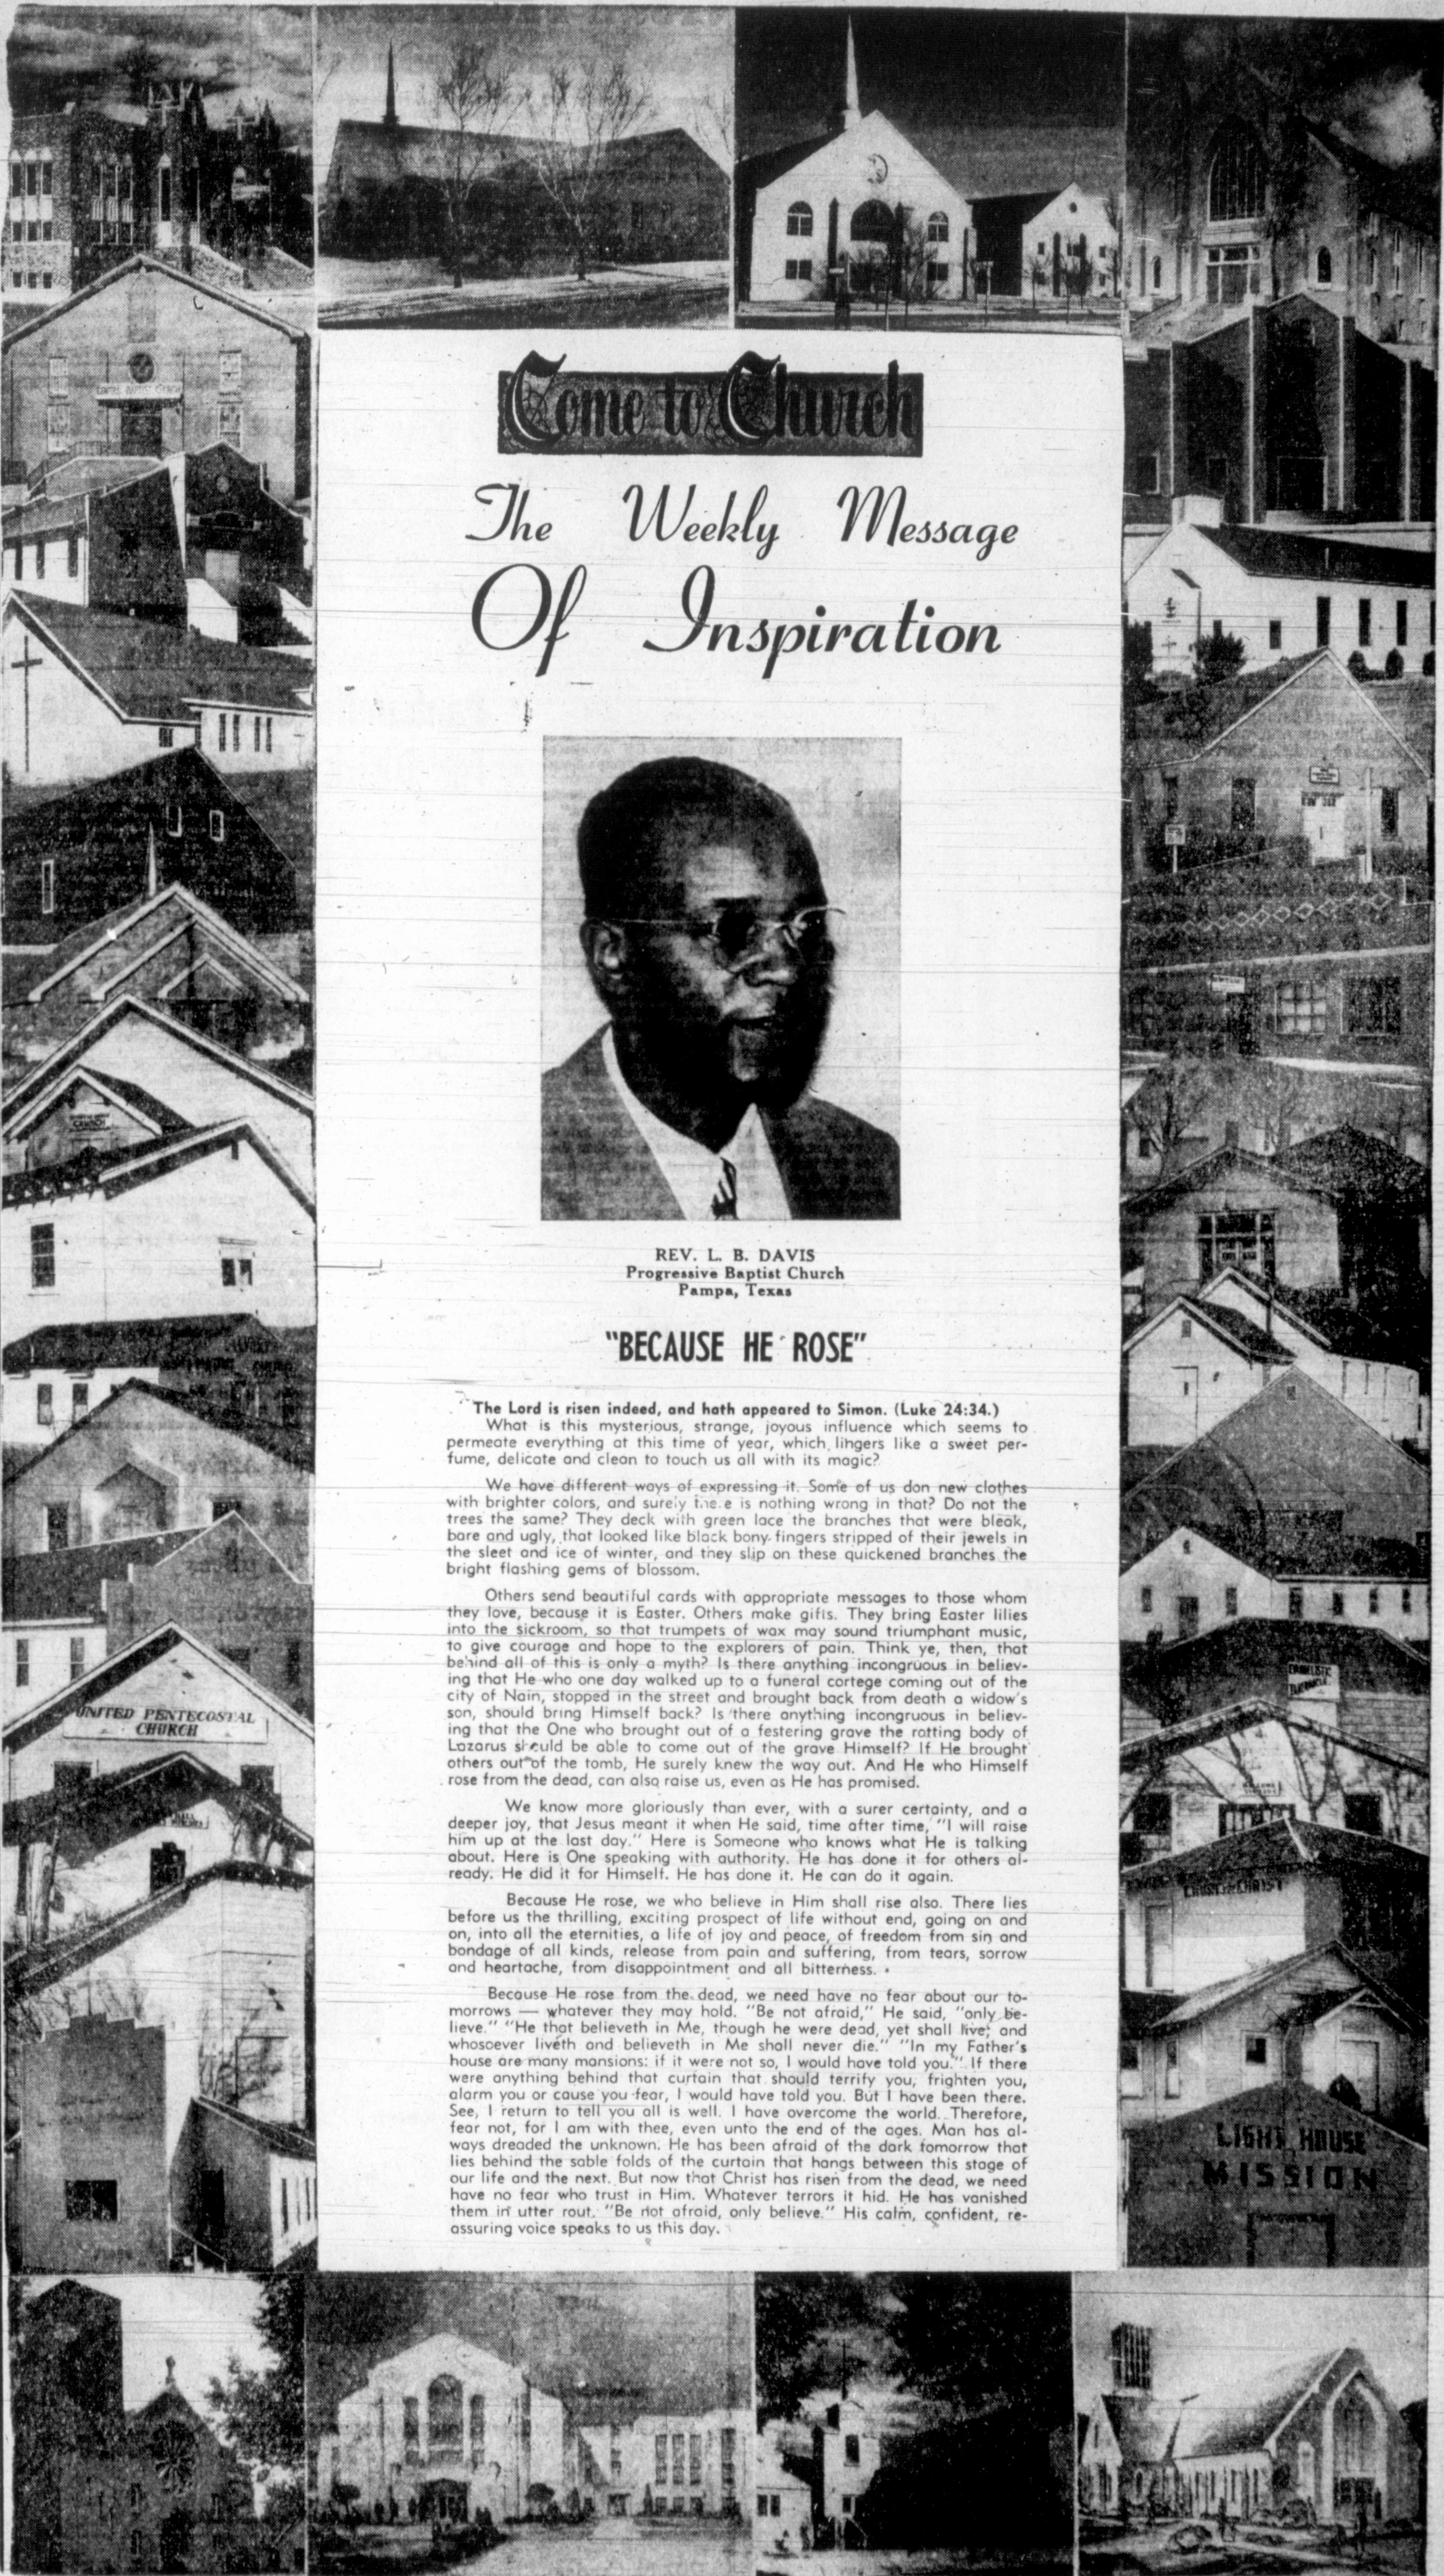

We have different ways of expressing it. Some of us don new clothes with brighter colors, and surely there is nothing wrong in that? Do not the trees the same? They deck with green lace the branches that were bleak, bare and ugly, that looked like black bony fingers stripped of their jewels in the sleet and ice of winter, and they slip on these quickened branches the bright flashing gems of blossom.

Others send beautiful cards with appropriate messages to those whom they love, because it is Easter. Others make gifts. They bring Easter lilies into the sickroom, so that trumpets of wax may sound triumphant music, to give courage and hope to the explorers of pain. Think ye, then, that behind all of this is only a myth? Is there anything incongruous in believing that He who one day walked up to a funeral cortege coming out of the city of Nain, stopped in the street and brought back from death a widow's son, should bring Himself back? Is there anything incongruous in believing that the One who brought out of a festering grave the rotting body of Lazarus should be able to come out of the grave Himself? If He brought others out of the tomb, He surely knew the way out. And He who Himself rose from the dead, can also raise us, even as He has promised.

We know more gloriously than ever, with a surer certainty, and a deeper joy, that Jesus meant it when He said, time after time, "I will raise him up at the last day." Here is Someone who knows what He is talking about. Here is One speaking with authority. He has done it for others already. He did it for Himself. He has done it. He can do it again.

Because He rose, we who believe in Him shall rise also. There lies before us the thrilling, exciting prospect of life without end, going on and on, into all the eternities, a life of joy and peace, of freedom from sin and bondage of all kinds, release from pain and suffering, from tears, sorrow and heartache, from disappointment and all bitterness.

Because He rose from the dead, we need have no fear about our tomorrows — whatever they may hold. "Be not afraid," He said, "only believe." "He that believeth in Me, though he were dead, yet shall live; and whosoever liveth and believeth in Me shall never die." "In my Father's house are many mansions: if it were not so, I would have told you." If there were anything behind that curtain that should terrify you, frighten you, alarm you or cause you fear, I would have told you. But I have been there. See, I return to tell you all is well. I have overcome the world. Therefore, fear not, for I am with thee, even unto the end of the ages. Man has always dreaded the unknown. He has been afraid of the dark tomorrow that lies behind the sable folds of the curtain that hangs between this stage of our life and the next. But now that Christ has risen from the dead, we need have no fear who trust in Him. Whatever terrors it hid. He has vanished them in utter rout. "Be not afraid, only believe." His calm, confident, reassuring voice speaks to us this day.

REFEREE'S NIGHTMARE — The referee got into hot water Wednesday night during the main event of the weekly Shrine sponsored Wrestling matches. He, Bill Parks, was taking a beating here but Bob Geigel and Tommy Martindale helped him out and won the match over the Masked Golden Terror and his manager on a disqualification. (News Photo)

Crowd Favorites Win Top Event Wednesday

Tommy Martindale and "Big" Bob Geigel took a good beating Wednesday night at the Top of Texas Sportsman's Club, but they won the main event of the weekly Shrine sponsored wrestling matches.

The Geigel - Martindale team lost the first fall to the Masked Golden Terror and his manager in less than 10 minutes as the Terror's manager pinned Martindale after a series of body punches and a body press.

The crowd's choice came back and took the second fall in less than 9 minutes. All four of the wrestlers were in the ring during most of the second fall.

The team of Geigel and Martindale won the final fall on a disqualification after the referee was flooded by a punch from the Terror. The battle raged for almost five minutes with five men going at it fast and furious before the disqualification.

Bob Geigel took the "Fights Out" match as the Terror was unable to get back in the ring following a blow to the head at ringside.

The blow was delivered by Geigel with a chair he grabbed from under some fans. The Terror took the first two falls but since it was a fight to the finish Geigel, battered and bloody, finished it.

Dr. Lee Grable took the warmup match from Mexico's Ray Duran. The match was a 20-minute one fall bout.

Despite the previous plans to discontinue the Wednesday night wrestling the Pampa Shriners have

Ted Williams To Make Full Exhibition Trip

RED SOX

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — UP — Ted Williams will play in all games during the Boston Red Sox' northward trek. Manager Mike Higgins promised Friday as the Red Sox stopped here for a game with Jacksonville of the South Atlantic League.

"Ted's got to see some game pitching," Higgins said. "It's a little different from batting practice."

Williams has been plagued by a groin injury this spring but has indicated he wants to play as many games as he can on the trip back to Boston.

The Braves gained their fourth victory in six meetings with the Dodgers 5-6 Thursday at New Orleans in a game devoid of any incidents. Milwaukee collected 10 hits and seven runs off Carl Erskine five innings but needed strong relief pitching by Red Murff to seal the victory.

Cubs Blast Orioles

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — UP — Who says Clyde McCullough is getting old?

The 38-year-old Chicago Cubs' catcher never looked better Thursday when he belted a pair of three-run homers in leading his mates to a 16-4 victory over the Baltimore Orioles at Alpine, Tex. Russ Meyer became the first Cubs' pitcher to go the route, limiting the Orioles to seven hits.

The Cubs and the Orioles continue their spring sparring here Friday.

Wertz Going Strong

HOUSTON — UP — Vic Wertz of the Cleveland Indians is continuing to amaze both his teammates and his rivals with his strong comeback.

The veteran outfielder — first baseman, who suffered a polio attack last year, hit a home run Thursday as the Indians handed the New York Giants their second straight shutout 2-0 at Corpus Christi.

All entries may be mailed to Pampa or brought to the Pampa Daily News.

A committee of judges will select a group of finalists from the entries and the boys must then campaign for votes. Only persons 18 or older are qualified to vote in this year's election.

The voting ballot will begin running in Monday's issue of The News. All votes must be in by Saturday, April 14.

The boy who gets the most votes will be the Oiler batboy and will be given a white home uniform. The runnerup will be selected as the visiting team's batboy and will receive a gray road uniform.

Other prizes are to be given the boys that win.

Yanks In South

MOBILE, Ala. — UP — The injured riddled New York Yankees stopped here Friday on their northward barnstorming trek for a game with the Philadelphia Phillies.

Mickey Mantle still is bothered by a pulled leg muscle and Andy Carey has an injured knuckle. Five other injured players, including Gil McDougald, Bob Cerv and Irv Noren, remained behind when the Yankees left their spring training headquarters at St. Petersburg, Fla., Thursday.

Bums Meet Braves

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. — UP — The Milwaukee Braves' batters will have to be on their toes Friday when they face Don Newcombe and the Brooklyn Dodgers. Panhandle Golf Teams Vie For District Honors Today

Pampa's best high school golf team teed off this morning at 9:30 in the first 1-AA District golf meet ever held at the Pampa Country Club.

The Harvester golfers are slight favorites to wrest the district crown from the tough Amarillo Sandies. Three teams, Pampa, Borger and Amarillo, are rated even but the Green and Golders are playing on familiar links.

Practice rounds were played Thursday morning to give the visiting teams, Plainview, Palo Duro, Amarillo and Borger, a chance to become familiar with the course.

Several of the teams have been defeated earlier this season by the Harvester golfers. Amarillo has fallen four times and Borger twice. The Dons of Palo Duro have been given little chance to cop honors since most of the boys are sophomores.

The Don golfers, who teed off today, were Bill England, Mike Slade, Buddy Davis and William Baty. Coach U.W. Rankin's fifth man is J. D. Shiverdaker. Sandie "A" team golfers are Phil Mathis, Robert Tennant, Russell Mathis and Ben Lane Jr. Coach R. B. Norman's second team is composed of Don Riley, Pete Wiley, Don Bannister and Bill Garrett. The Sandies also are shooting for medalist honors are Tommy Price and Gary Shores. Pampa golfers participating in

Venturi Leads Masters Meet

AUGUSTA, Ga. — UP — The Sneeds and Hogans may eventually win the coveted Masters title, but young Ken Venturi was the newest example Friday that the amateurs always have a chance in this unique event.

Two years ago it was Billy Joe Patton who came within one reckless hole of winning the tournament. Venturi, a 24-year-old California comet, played with Billy Joe Thursday and that may have had something to do with his amazing first-round performance.

But Venturi, holding a 66, the lowest round ever posted by an amateur in 200 Masters tournaments, also gave credit to his recent tutor, Byron Nelson, himself a double Masters winner.

"I owe this round to Nelson," the 24-year-old San Francisco auto salesman said. "When I came out of the Army last Oct. 27, I played several exhibitions with Nelson."

Learned Little Things
"Byron went to Palm Springs with me. He worked with me for two full, solid weeks. He showed me the different little things he learned over the years."

Venturi had only a one-stroke lead over defending champion Cary Middlecoff with three other tough competitors under 70. They were Shelley Mayfield of Westbury, N.Y., and Tommy Bolt of Chattanooga, Tenn., with 68's and the redoubtable Ben Hogan at 69.

Sam Snead, advance favorite with Hogan and Middlecoff, shot what on any other day would have been a creditable 73, but this time left him back in the pack because there also were three 70's, two 71's and six par 72's.

Helped by Rain
This unprecedented first-day scoring in the Masters was made possible by an unexpected downpour early Thursday which undid what a dry wind had done the day before to quicken the course.

Venturi, who has gobbled up West Coast amateur titles in recent years and defeated National Amateur champion Harvie Ward in the San Francisco city event, was the first to discover the vulnerability of the wide greens and he capitalized in spectacular fashion. He birdied the first four holes with single putts including a 25-footer.

Bolt and Mayfield, two consistent but seldom champion tourists, sort of slipped in with their 68's and there was a large feeling that Hogan's 69 put him in the driver's seat.

Harvesters Blank Westerners 9-0, In 1st District Contest

By TOMMIE ELLIS
Pampa News Sports Editor

Gary Herr tagged Bill Webb out between first and second bases and flipped the ball to Dale Lake at first for the only double-play of the afternoon to make the final out to give the Pampa Harvesters a 9-0 victory over the Lubbock Westerners and Cecil Reynolds a 1-hit shutout.

The victory was the first of 1-AA district play for the Pampa nine, coached by Deck Woldt. The win was considered an upset by many sports scribes throughout the district. Pampa will host the Plainview Bulldogs this afternoon at 3:30 in Oiler Park for the second district contest of the season.

Cecil Reynolds hurled the seven innings, struck out 10 Westerners and picked up a couple of RBIs to help his cause.

Bill Hogan got credit for a pair of runs batted in but picked up only one hit for four trips to the plate. Others batting in runs were Buddy Sharp and Bill Brown. Sharp and Jerold Clark were the only Harvesters to pick up stolen bases.

The Green and Golders led off in the first frame with a pair of runs. Gary Herr, leadoff man, walked and Sharp sliced a double over rightfielder Bill Dean. The double advanced Herr to third and David Marler walked to load the bases.

Cecil Reynolds got on an error but drove in Herr for the first run. Bill Hogan sacrificed and scored Sharp for the final run of the first frame.

The Green and Golders were unable to push a run across in the second frame but picked a pair in the third. Jerold Clark and John Lee hit in the inning and did the scoring on an error by Westerner catcher, Kenneth Smith. The error was an overthrow to second base which bounded off the centerfield fence.

In the fourth frame the Green and Golders drove in two more runs on two hits. All of these runs were charged to Ray Williams who was relieved after two were out and two runs were in.

Pampa's best inning came in the fifth as Bill Brown, David Marler, James Evans, and Jerold Clark each picked up another hit. Gary Herr and Buddy Sharp sacrificed to drive in three runs to end the Harvesters' scoring. Although they picked up a single hit in the sixth inning.

The Woldt charges will be meeting Plainview's Bulldogs today in their second district contest. The starting lineup for Pampa will probably be the same except the pitcher, Jim Parrish will be named.

Aggie Coach To Go On Far East Tour

COLLEGE STATION, TEX.—UP Texas A&M line coach Jim Owens has been selected to go to Japan in July as a football lecturer for the Far East command of the Army.

Yanks, Orioles Consider Trade
BALTIMORE — UP — A possible player trade between the New York Yankees and the Baltimore Orioles was brewing Friday, with second baseman Gerry Coleman and pitcher Jim Wilson reported as the main bait.

Baltimore Manager Paul Richards passed up Thursday's exhibition game between the Orioles and the Chicago Cubs at Alpine, Tex., to meet with Bill DeWitt, assistant general manager of the Yankees.

It was learned the Orioles are willing to part with Wilson in exchange for Coleman and pitchers Tom Morgan and Tom Sturdivant. However, Yankee Manager Casey Stengel previously rejected that deal on the grounds the Orioles were "asking too much."

Game to Be Free
WACO — UP — Baylor baseball fans will be admitted free to the Baylor-Rice game here April 7 in observance of National Baseball Week April 7-14. Athletic Director R. B. Sharp, Marler, Reynolds, George Sauer said Thursday.

Texas Relays Are Scheduled Today

AUSTIN — UP — A score of records appeared threatened Friday as a field of Olympics-minded athletes opened the 29th annual Texas Relays.

Almost 1,200 competitors were entered in the two-day meet, kicked off with preliminaries in 21 daytime events and 15 championship events Friday night, in the meet's first night show.

Kansas' field events entries, host Texas' sprinters and Bobby Morris, Abilene (Tex.) Christian College flash, appeared good bets to chalk up several new records.

Five national collegiate titleholders were among the top Olympic prospects in the field of 1,177 athletes competing in university, college, junior college, freshman and high school classes.

Some NCAA Champs
The NCAA champions were shutout Bill Nieder of Kansas, Australian mile runner Jim Bailey of Oregon, javelin thrower Les Blinger of Kansas, Army Lt. Ken Reiser, two-mile from Fort Lewis, Wash., and quarter-mile J. W. Mashburn of Oklahoma A&M.

Morrow also stood out among the star-studded aggregation. Named as the meet's outstanding performer last year as a freshman, Morrow will go after a second straight crown in the 100-yard dash and will run in the invitational 100-meter dash as well as anchor on favorably Abilene Christian's 440 and 880-yard relay teams.

Nieder, who has put the shot almost 60 feet this season, and Blinger, who set an NCAA meet record in the javelin throw with 244 feet, 1-inch last year, jeopardized meet records.

Kansas' Kent Floerke was favored in the hop, step and jump.

Bryant, one of three instructors chosen to conduct clinics for the armed forces.

Texas Freshmen Down Baylor
AUSTIN — UP — The Texas freshman baseball team rallied to beat the Baylor frosh 9 to 6 Tuesday.

Reiser was among favorites in the 5,000-meter run, Mashburn, in addition to the 440 stint, ran on three winning Oklahoma A&M relay teams last year.

Versatile freshman Eddie Southern of Texas also is a highly regarded Olympics prospect. He will run in the high hurdles and on three relay teams — 440-yard mile and sprint medley — shooting at national freshman marks.

Kansas Favored
Kansas was regarded as a top contender in the distance medley, four-mile relay and two-mile relay. Kansas returned with three runners from the quartet which came within one-tenth of a second of the record in the distance medley last year.

Oklahoma A&M's prospects were shaken by injuries. Scandalian ace Sture Landqvist will be unable to make the meet.

Five Olympic events are scheduled — 5,000-meter run, 100-meter hurdles, and hop, step and jump.

Orioles Buy Hunter
BALTIMORE — UP — The Baltimore Orioles have purchased Warner (Babe) Hunter, a 26-year-old right hander, from the Detroit Tigers for the $10,000 waiver price. Hunter had a 4-3 record with Detroit last season when he was used mainly as a relief pitcher.

Two Pampans Honored For Bond Work

E. L. Green, Jr., Pampa district Savings Bond chairman for district number two, and George E. Cree, Jr., Gray County Savings Bonds chairman, have received the Treasury Department's 100 per cent Club Medallion in recognition of outstanding patriotic service to the Savings Bonds program, according to Nathan Adams and Ed Gossett, state Savings Bonds Co-Chairmen. During 1955 Gray County achieved 111 per cent of its quota.

The Medallion is made of silver and was designed by a master engraver and struck at the Treasury's Philadelphia Mint. The front bears the figure of the Minute Man, the Treasury seal and the wording "U. S. Treasury Award." The reverse side carries the inscription "For Patriotic Service — U. S. Savings Bonds Program." Also engraved on it are the men's names and the year.

"The people of Gray County are to be congratulated," said Adams, "for their joint contribution to personal thrift and to a sound national economy. Where people have good thrift habits, there is a progressive community with a sound economy."

Gossett said, "The Medallion is but a small token of the Treasury Department's appreciation to these men, who have put service above self to further a program that is vital to their fellow citizens, community and nation."
