Nixon Rules Out Committee Appearance

AT SWITZERLAND MEETING Western Bankers Seek Stabilization In Markets

By United Press International
 Governors of Western central banks met in Basel, Switzerland, Sunday and Monday to seek ways for stabilizing widely fluctuating currency markets that now threaten the British pound as well as the American dollar.

There were unconfirmed reports in London that Gordon Richardson, governor of the Bank of England, would advise the bankers of plans to devalue the pound sterling.

In Cairo, economic ministers from eight of the wealthiest Arab nations met Saturday to draw up what the Middle East News Agency called a plan for protecting Arab deposits in foreign banks against monetary fluctuations.

The Western bankers were expected to mount pressure against the United States to finally intervene and support the sinking dollar, according to West European financial leaders.

The bankers' monthly meeting could turn into a crisis conference with the dollar hitting all-time lows at the weekend and dragging down the British pound as well.

"When will the United States finally react to the debacle over its currency?" asked Fritz Leutwiler, director-general of the Swiss National Bank, at a separate bankers' meeting in Berne Saturday. "How long is America going to see its money go down without any economic reason...?"

Other Swiss bankers, talking privately, said that Washington is incorrect if it believes it can increase exports by allowing the dollar to sink ever lower.

The central bankers, from the Western European countries and the United States, Canada and Japan, were to meet privately Sunday at the Bank for International Settlements (BIS). Bank officials said it is not known whether there will be a statement following the session.

The bankers rarely issue any declaration at their monthly meeting. They have done so only twice in the past 20 years —when there was international support for the pound and during the gold crisis of three years ago.

Taking part in the conference were representatives of Egypt, Iraq, Algeria, Qatar, Kuwait, Libya, Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates (UAE).

Hot Air Covers Vicinity

Hot air continued to bake the Pampa vicinity as temperatures hovered around the 100 degree mark on the thermometers.

And no immediate relief was in sight according to Saturday night forecasts.

High today under fair skies is expected to rise towards the 100 mark again, with hot afternoons also predicted for Monday.

Overnight low will be around 70, providing another mild night for area residents.

But while the Panhandle continued to sizzle under the drying heat, other parts of the state faced too much moisture.

Towering thunderstorms dumped fresh deluge across South Texas and caused at least a pair of tornado scares Saturday.

One funnel cloud dipped into marshland near Port Arthur during the morning and another was sighted over the thickly populated Baytown sector east of Houston at mid-afternoon. But, neither caused any damage or injuries.

The heaviest storms were concentrated near the upper Texas coast, but another band of moderate to heavy thunderstorms stretched from Corsicana to Kilgore. Late in the day, heavy showers backed into North Central Texas.

Meanwhile, the west and northwest sections of the state suffered through another hot, dry day with numerous 100-degree plus readings.

The mercury had climbed to 102 degrees by 4 p.m. at Amarillo and Childress, hit 101 at Wichita Falls and 100 at El Paso and Big Spring. Readings dropped into the low and middle 70s in the rain areas, but generally were in the middle to upper 90s elsewhere.

Downtown Houston had received two inches of rain by 3 p.m. and heavier amounts were reported from adjacent counties.

The heavy rains caused flash flooding of streets and underpasses in several areas, but particularly around Harris County.

The National Weather Service reported 4.14 inches of rain fell on Concord in East Texas and locally heavy rains were reported near Lake Sam Rayburn and in Northeast Texas near Kilgore and Texarkana.

WITH PROPOSALS Bourguiba Upsets Jordanian Heads

By United Press International
 Angered by a Tunisian suggestion that Arab Jordan be made into a Palestinian state, the Amman government Saturday complained sharply to the Tunis regime and demanded an official explanation, official sources said.

The idea was presented by Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba in an interview with the Beirut newspaper Al Nahar on Friday. Bourguiba suggested that King Hussein give up his kingdom and make it into a Palestinian state.

Jordanian Prime Minister Zeid Rifai summoned the Tunisian Charge, Mohammed Farid Cherif, in Amman and asked him to secure an official explanation from his government.

At the same time, 1,600 miles away, the Jordanian Foreign Ministry representative in Tunis was asked to seek clarification of Bourguiba's statements.

Jordan's state-controlled radio station Friday night said that in making his proposal, Bourguiba had aligned himself with Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan.

"Bourguiba's call is the same call made by Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan. On several recent occasions Dayan has referred to the future of the (Israeli occupied) West Bank by saying that Amman is the capital of the Palestinians," the radio said.

In Cairo Saturday, President Anwar Sadat and Libyan leader Col. Muammar Khadafi held more talks on the proposed merger of the two countries by next September, political sources said.

Khadafi has been in Cairo since June 22, attempting to convince Egypt's political and intellectual leaders of the necessity of an immediate and full merger of the two countries.

Several Egyptian leaders, however, have advocated a stage-by-stage approach to unity.

The meeting contradicted a report in the semi-official Al Aham newspaper that said the Sadat-Khadafi talks had ended and that the Libyan leader would return to Tripoli within the next two days.

The Israeli military command said Saturday unidentified snipers fired several shots at an Israeli border police patrol Friday near the Jordan River frontier about 10 miles south of the Sea of Galilee. A spokesman said the "fire was returned."

Priest, Others Arrested In White House Protest

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Roman Catholic priest and three other men were arrested inside the White House Saturday when they knelt to pray for an end to the Cambodian bombing, the second such protest in two days.

"We look upon the White House as our house," the four men, all of them from Baltimore, said in a statement that was circulated by their supporters. "We are one with those who die under our bombs, with those who barely eke out an existence because of the American culture, American wealth."

"Because of our common humanity we are also one with Brother Nixon and his floodgate administration."

The men were charged with unlawful entry after they jumped the ropes on a public tour of the White House and knelt to pray outside the State Dining Room. They were identified as Fr. Jim LaCroce, Tom Ireland, Lee Randol and Brendan Walsh.

In their statement, they expressed solidarity with four nuns who were arrested in the White House Friday after they also slipped from the tourist line and knelt to pray and sing to protest the Cambodian bombing. President Nixon has been vacationing in San Clemente, Calif., for the past two weeks.

The nuns, who claimed they had been fasting since June 25, said they were "...praying in the White House as a form of civil disobedience."

A similar incident occurred inside the White House last April 28 when two anti-poverty workers from a Washington soup kitchen left the public tour and splattered what they said was human blood on the walls, furniture and carpet of the State Dining Room. They were found guilty in U.S. District Court Friday of damaging property.

All three of the demonstrations have been nonviolent and all of the protestors are associated with the politically radical wing of the Catholic church whose most prominent activists have been the Revs. Daniel and Philip Berrigan.

ALMOST THAT HOT — With hot weather baking the area for the past few weeks, the streets and pavements have been accumulating a lot of heat. But even with the thermometer showing around 100 degrees Saturday afternoon, Beverly Bradford, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LaDon Bradford, 2337 Dogwood, still couldn't get an egg to fry on the black pavement near her home. A candy thermometer registered 140 degrees for the pavement.

'Not Withholding Any Information'

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon said emphatically Saturday he would not testify before the Senate Watergate committee "under any circumstances," nor would he provide it with any documents prepared by him or his top aides during his entire tenure in the White House.

In a letter to the committee chairman, Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., Nixon said he made the decision because of his "constitutional obligation to preserve intact the powers and prerogatives of the presidency." He said he was not trying to withhold any information about the scandal.

Reached at his home in Morganton, N.C., Ervin said the President is "hurting himself, the presidency and the country a lot more than he's hurting the committee."

Noting that President Abraham Lincoln twice testified before congressional committees, Ervin added that "When a person doesn't disclose the evidence in their power, the presumption is the evidence would be adverse to them if it were disclosed."

But Sen. Howard H. Baker, the committee's ranking Republican, said in an interview at his home in Tennessee that the letter does not rule out a possible private meeting between the President and the committee members. "I would still hope for an opportunity for the committee to have a conversation with the president," he said.

The letter, Nixon's first direct communication with the committee since its public hearings began in early May, promised that "at an appropriate time" during the hearings he would "address publicly the subjects you are considering."

"In the meantime," the President wrote, "...I consider it my constitutional responsibility to decline to appear personally under any circumstances before your committee, or to grant access to presidential files."

Nixon has never been asked formally to testify before the committee, but a few of its seven members — including Ervin — have indicated they would like to interrogate the President.

Sam Dash, the committee's chief counsel, has been negotiating with the White House to obtain numerous documents, including logs of telephone conversations and memoranda between Nixon and his top aides.

"No President could function if the private papers of his office, prepared by his personal staff, were open to public scrutiny," Nixon said.

"Formulation of sound public policy requires that the President and his personal staff be able to communicate among themselves in complete candor and that their tentative judgments, their explorations of alternatives and their frank comments on issues and personalities at home and abroad remain confidential," he added.

Although the President has consistently rejected the idea of formal or informal testimony before the committee, his decision against furnishing documents on appeared to be a reversal of policy. The White House already has furnished some materials to the committee, including logs of 30 to 40 meetings between Nixon and former White House counsel John W. Dean III in the first four months of this year.

Dean's successor, Leonard Garment, had implicitly agreed to grant the committee access to substantial additional documents which Senate investigators are seeking to examine and photocopy.

Bahamas Awaiting Freedom

NASSAU, Bahamas (UPI) — At one minute past noon Tuesday the Bahamas will become the 33rd independent member of the British Commonwealth.

Prince Charles, heir to the British throne, and dignitaries from more than 40 other countries will be among those in attendance July 10, when the flag of the new nation flutters to the top of a mast, signaling independence.

This Atlantic archipelago of 3,000 isles, small cays and rocks, with an estimated population of 160,000 scattered over the 700 habitable islands The Bahamas, start about 50 miles off the Florida coast and dribble southeasterly for 500 miles toward the island of Hispaniola, which is shared by Haiti and the Dominican Republic.

The new flag—a black triangle along the mast superimposed over horizontal bars of aquamarine, gold and aquamarine again — ushers in independence in an air of uncertainty.

After 300 years of colonial rule, going it alone as an underdeveloped state in a fast changing presents problems.

A loss of confidence by investors and a tourism decline, both triggered in part by black militancy; a construction standstill, an unemployment rate of 10 per cent and rising, a deficit budget and a national debt of $90 million present Prime Minister Lynden Pindling a serious economic challenge.

He is counting upon oil refining and trans-shipment to help overcome some of his problems.

Only a handful remain of the 170 or so offshore mutual funds which set up shop here a decade ago. Many moved to the Cayman Islands, fleeing Pindling's "Bahamianization" policy which required elevation of Bahamians to key executive posts.

Tourism also suffered in the surge of black nationalism inspired by the 43-year old Pindling.

A white minority in the Abacos island group, many of them descendants of British loyalists who fled the fledgling United States in the 1780's, attempted half-heartedly to secede to keep their islands' colonial status.

AROUND WATERGATE Former Aide Complains About Wall Of Silence

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former White House aide Charles W. Colson said in an interview published Saturday that he tried unsuccessfully to penetrate a "wall of silence and of conspiracy" last winter to find out the truth about Watergate and tell President Nixon.

The Christian Science Monitor quoted Colson, a former special counsel to the President, as saying it was in December that he got the first inkling of possible White House involvement in the bugging incident.

"Those of us who saw little signs here and there, and who began to get apprehensive about what we saw—we probably did not act as aggressively as we should have," said Colson, who resigned in March to return to private law practice.

"I wish now that the first time

I had any indication of any White House involvement I had jumped in with both feet." Colson said in an interview with Monitor correspondent Godfrey Sperling Jr.

But the newspaper quoted Colson as saying there was a "wall of silence and of conspiracy" that he could not break through. He said he told Nixon in January that "I was concerned that people higher up in the campaign organization were involved. But I had nothing but hearsay to go on."

President Nixon meanwhile wrote the Senate Watergate committee that, under the doctrine of separation of powers, he would not permit it to see presidential papers nor would he appear personally before the committee "under any circumstances."

White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said in San

Clemente, Calif., that Nixon's decision means that no documents prepared by the President or his aides during his presidency would be made available to the committee.

Nixon's letter was released by the Western White House as it was being delivered to Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., the committee chairman, in Washington. The committee resumes its hearings Tuesday to take testimony from John N. Mitchell, former attorney general and Nixon campaign director who is the closest Nixon associate yet to appear as a witness.

Colson, who was known as Nixon's political "hatchet man" at the White House, did not mention names in his interview with the Monitor, nor did he specify how he tried to penetrate the "wall of silence" surrounding the facts about Watergate.

Vice Authorities Crack Down On Pornography

By DONALD E. MULLEN
 United Press International
 Vice authorities across the country, with an eye on the "community standards" guideline in the recent Supreme Court ruling on obscenity, are cracking down on blue movies, dirty books and skin shows, a survey showed Saturday.

From New York City, where vice squad detectives raided a dirty film factory and confiscated thousands of prints of hardcore movies, to Idaho where a new state law against obscene publications went into effect July 1, the message to sex merchants was clear: the heat's on.

In many communities, authorities were still pondering the best way to make the new court ruling stick. Some passed new ordinances and others were considering them. In other communities, the guidelines were a green light against blue merchandise.

In its ruling last month, the Supreme Court left it up to the states to decide what should be banned as obscene. The ruling, which dropped the older court rule-of-thumb that material ruled obscene must be "utterly without redeeming social value," is also based on "average persons applying community standards."

A few states, such as Texas and Colorado, have state laws that reflect the older "social value" ruling, and so are hampered in any new crack-down until the laws are changed.

The "community standards" ruling is a sticky one, most legal experts agreed. Many authorities, while not hesitating to crack down on obviously obscene or pornographic items, were chary about moving against the borderline cases.

In Los Angeles, reputed to be the U.S. pornography capital, police have their hands full just going after the patently outrageous. City officials were reported privately debating a survey to find out just what it takes to offend the people of Los Angeles in order to set up local guidelines.

Chicago police kept up their steady pressure on hard-core pornography, but Cook County state's attorney Bernard Carey cautioned area police chiefs that the recent court decisions was "not the signal for hasty or ill-considered prosecutorial or police action."

"We must be mindful that there are inherent dangers in undertaking to regulate any form of expression," he added.

In Boston, the federal government and local authorities announced the beginning of a coordinated drive against "hard core pornography in the Boston area."

In Philadelphia, which abounds with adult bookstores, peepshow houses and hard-core movie theaters, vice squad officials complained there is no law against adult pornography in Pennsylvania.

"You can't do anything if you don't have the laws," Morals Unit Inspector Thomas Roselli said.

Other communities, however, were moving fast against local sex entrepreneurs.

In New Orleans three obscenity cases were tried Friday, resulting in the closing of two adult movie theaters and an agreement by an adult bookstore to stop peddling allegedly prurient material.

IKN Phoenix, Ariz., police raided four theaters, and in Passaic, N.J., police raided three theaters and seized three

X-rated films. They arrested five persons, including Georgina Spelvin, the star of "The Devil in Miss Jones," and charged them with "uttering or exposing to the view of others obscene or indecent pictures."

In Morgantown, W. Va., police arrested a bookstore owner on charges of selling hard-core pornography, and in Salt Lake City, Judge Paul H. Grant Friday ordered 13 films confiscated from a suburban adult bookstore for possible future evidence against the owner.

Albemarle County, Va., Sheriff George Bailey has given bookstore owners until July 9 to remove Playboy and Penthouse magazines from their shelves.

County Gets Another Check

Gray County received its 1973 second quarter revenue check Saturday in the amount of $51,573.

County Judge Don Cain said the April 1 through June 30 check was in the same amount as the first quarter of 1973.

The judge stated the latest check brings Gray County's total of revenue sharing money received so far to $277,000.

Revenue sharing funds spent by the county up through June 30 was approximately $227,000, Judge Cain said.

Deadline for filing a report with the Treasury Department's Office of Revenue Sharing on how the money was used and publication of the report in the newspaper is Sept. 1, according to the county judge.

City Manager Mack Wofford said Saturday the city's second quarter revenue sharing check had not yet been received.

Pioneer Gas
 To Acquire Drilling Firm

AMARILLO — The managements of Pioneer Natural Gas Company and Sharp Drilling Co., Inc. of Midland have announced an agreement in principle for Pioneer to acquire the drilling company.

K. Bert (Tex) Watson, president of Pioneer, said the proposed terms call for an exchange of Pioneer stock for the outstanding stock of Sharp Drilling Co., Inc. which would then become a wholly owned subsidiary of Pioneer Natural Gas Company.

The amount of Pioneer stock involved would depend on the earnings performance of Sharp during the next five years. Plans call for the transaction to be consummated by Oct. 1 of this year, subject to arriving at a definitive agreement and the verification of certain assets of the drilling company.

Sharp Drilling Co., Inc. operates 17 drilling rigs. Ten of these rigs are equipped for drilling to 25,000 foot depths. The rigs are currently operating in the Delaware Basin and southeast New Mexico.

Watson said no personnel changes in the Sharp organization are contemplated and the existing management had agreed to remain in the employment of Sharp.

City To Make
 6 Appointments

Appointment of five members to the City Traffic Commission and one member to represent Pampa on the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority Board will be among agenda items when the City Commission meets Tuesday in City Hall.

Three ordinances will come up for second and final passage. They will include one to establish speed limits on Kentucky between N. Hobart and the west city limits, legislation adding an area for mobile homes, and an ordinance to update the city's electrical code.

A public hearing will be held on proposed demolition of abandoned buildings at 1008 Gordon and 314 E. Francis. Commissioners will be asked to approve a fire protection contract with the City of Lefors.

Two or three other routine matters will complete the agenda for the semi-monthly meeting set for 8:30 a.m.

Wheeler, Gray Counties
 Water Supply Described

AUSTIN — Underground water supplies in Wheeler County and that part of Gray County below the High Plains escarpment are described in a new report issued by the Texas Water Development Board.

Mainly ranching country, but with a steady trend of increasing irrigation farming, this arid region has obtained almost all of its water supplies from underground, according to Report 170, "Ground-Water Resources of Wheeler and Eastern Gray Counties, Texas."

Total water use is stated to have increased three-fold from 1955 to 1966 when 6,900 acre-feet was pumped for irrigating crops, 1,800 acre-feet for industrial uses, and 1,500 acre-feet for municipal supplies.

Despite dependency on underground sources and increasing water consumption, the water outlook for Wheeler and eastern Gray Counties is presented as optimistic.

About 15,000 acre-feet of water annually (13 million gallons per day) could be pumped continuously from the principal aquifer, the Ogallala Formation, without causing depletion. This much is replenished by rainfall and by underground flow from other areas.

Tremendous amounts of additional water could also be pumped for a limited time, as some 8.5 million acre-feet of underground water is available. However, faster pumpage than the 15,000 acre-feet per year would be a "mining" operation tending eventually to empty the principal aquifer.

These conclusions of the report are based on geological evaluations and the records of over 600 water wells and springs which are included. Chemical analyses of 185 water samples show the suitability of the water for various uses.

The Ogallala Formation provides all of the irrigation water in Gray County and about half of that used in Wheeler County. Of excellent quality, the water is characteristically hard or very hard with less than 500 milligrams per liter (mg-1) of dissolved minerals.

In parts of southeast Wheeler County the only major sources of underground water are the Blaine Formation and the Whitehorse Group. Water in these aquifers is very hard and more saline, the dissolved minerals ranging from about 400 to over 2,000 mg-1 in the Whitehorse and from 2,000 to 7,000 mg-1 in the Blaine.

Although most of this water is unsuitable for drinking due to high sulfate content and high total salinity, it has been used successfully for irrigation for many years.

The study found no serious declines in the water table or decrease in the amount of water contained in the aquifers. Mild declines during particularly dry years have been followed by rises in water levels during years of exceptionally heavy rainfall.

Report 170 was written by M. L. Maderak of the U.S. Geological Survey and copies of the report are available without charge from the Water Development Board, P.O. Box 13087, Austin, Texas 78711.

 Veronica Lake

BURLINGTON, Vt. (UPI)—Actress Veronica Lake, the sultry peek-a-boo blonde of the figure who flashed to movie stardom during World War II then fell into seamy oblivion when her box office magic vanished, died Saturday at the age of 51.

Skellytown Lions Officers Installed

The Skellytown Lions Club conducted its annual installation of new officers recently in the Skellytown School Building.

White Deer Lion Felix Ryals was the installing officer.

Peter M. Cousins Sr., took office as Boss Lion, succeeded Melvin Neill.

Other officers installed were Tommie Thornburg, first vice president; W.M. Brame, second vice president; Neal McBroom, secretary; Jack Cornwell, treasurer; F.C. Horner, Lion Tamer; Clyde Horner, Tail Twister.

Roy McKissick, board member (2 years); John Anderson, board member (2 years); E.E. Crawford member (1 year); Thomas Shipley board member (1 year); and Renee Allen, sweetheart.

Preceding the installation the members of the Lions Club and their guests were served a supper prepared by Mrs. R.S. Marlar.

June 26. Her death was attributed to acute hepatitis.

But in the days of her Hollywood glory, her picture hung in GI dugouts from Europe to Asia and vied in popularity with that of Betty Grable who died earlier this week of cancer.

Miss Lake was catapulted from bit parts to overnight stardom in the early 40s, but vanished into obscurity less than 10 years later. At one point she worked in a factory pasting cloth flowers on lingerie hangers, then became a waitress in a New York bar and grill.

Her peek-a-boo hair style was her trademark and set a fashion for women in the war years. Silky and naturally blonde, her tresses fell in waves over her right eye.

She was born Constance Ockleman in Brooklyn, the daughter of a merchant sailor. Some references give her birthdate as Nov. 14, 1919; but she insisted and a spokesman said her birth date was 1922. The discrepancy was attributed to the fact that studios wanted to hide the fact that a teenager was playing adult roles.

Her first few appearances were in bit parts as a college girl. Directors made her comb back her hair from her eyes—or curl it—to fit the ingenuite roles.

She drew so much public attention she was given the female lead in "I Wanted Wings" as a sexy night club singer.

Gunmen Strike In Belfast

BELFAST (UPI) — Gunmen riding in an automobile sprayed a Belfast street with machine gun fire Saturday, killing one man and wounding another in an incident police attributed to "psychopathic killers."

Police identified the victim as Patrick Bracken, 28. His death raised to 842 the number of those killed in four years of strife among Northern Ireland's majority Protestants, minority Catholics and British security forces.

Police said Bracken was killed and Harry Magill, 27, wounded as they left a restaurant in the Falls Road area, a Roman Catholic district of the capital.

"It looks like a random shooting spree by psychopathic killers," a police spokesman said. "They didn't care who they hit. They were just looking for a victim and he (Bracken) was in the wrong place."

Bracken, the 50th victim of assassination in Northern Ireland this year, was killed two days after a Protestant extremist group, the Ulster Freedom Fighters (UFF), killed the Catholic owner of a trucking firm and threatened to slay more Catholics.

Police Study Break-In At Local Lounge

Pampa police are investigating a break-in at Red Keys Lounge, 1101 Alcock, which occurred sometime Friday night, according to a report given officers by the manager.

Manager Margaret Richardson told a patrolling officer she discovered the door had been opened when she arrived at the location Saturday forenoon.

Investigation revealed a money bag containing cash and checks totaling $368 had been removed from the premises. Two trash containers as well as several bottles of wine were also taken, according to police reports.

Police reports said $157.37 in the cash register, $30 in another money bag and an open container holding $3.80 were not disturbed.

The manager told officers she had locked the door about midnight Friday.

Artist Planning Exhibit

Virgil Romack, a local artist, has earned a number of awards for his paintings in recent months.

He has scheduled a one-man show for his works July 15 at The Gallery in Amarillo.

At a recent art show in Memphis for Panhandle artists, Romack won awards with six of his paintings, including three first places, two second and a third. This was the greatest number of awards received by anyone in the show.

He recently received a letter from an internationally known artist, Merlin Enabnit, Phoenix, Ariz., congratulating him on his many awards and expressing admiration for Romack's works.

Romack and his wife, Frances, reside at 2428 Christine. Their two children, Ray and Janet, are students at Texas Tech University in Lubbock.

He plans to continue with his art, declaring, "I am working as a professional now, not just an amateur."

Waukegan: Nixon is still the main man

By CHARLES SELLE

Only in America could that code word for political chicanery, Watergate, still be alive and kicking a year after beginning its dilatory rise. Elections would have already been held in, say, Britain, Canada or West Germany had these revelations been disclosed there. Public outcry would have demanded the resignations of those in power.

While liberal East Coast elitists expectantly await future developments, Watergate is already past history in Waukegan. The consensus is that Watergate has gone the route of other momentary fads: it's passe. One big yawn.

Of course, Watergate is still a popular topic of conversation — running neck and neck with the weather — with the diversity of opinion one would expect, but it's slowly being overtaken by growing fears that Johnny Cash just isn't doling out some of his good 'ole boy jive when he an-went farther. However, they'll continue to spend, continue to buy and continue to send their kids off to college.

For many in Waukegan, Watergate is a paradox. Yes, something happened, but pressed to explain why it happened is tougher than building a crackerjack football team at the high school (usually a hot topic in autumn months).

What happened and why Watergate took place is dismissed by comments like, "It's politics, it happens all the time; they got caught," or "no one got hurt, did they?" These same parents who were heard to lament more than once, "Where did we go wrong? How did we fail?" when their children rejected older values, now ask the same dead-end question about their government.

A few will admit they have come to expect espionage, bugging and secret campaign funds as part of what they term politics, but what they aren't ready to accept is the scurrying of those so far convicted or indicted, ready to tell all in trade for immunity from prosecution and the quaking of a government nearing its 200th birthday.

(Last in a series)

What talk there is of impeaching the President is emphatically negative in this mainly Republican stronghold. They like Richard Nixon — he's their main man, now more than ever. They said that through their bumper stickers and votes in November and they still say it. What they like about the man will certainly overshadow any forthcoming Watergate surprises. They point to the fact he's ended the Vietnam War, albeit four years later than his rhetoric of 1968 indicated, he's made overtures for debate with Communist superpowers, but more importantly to them, through his term and nearly a half, he has slowed the country down and they like it. Courses charted by Presidents Kennedy and Johnson in the 1950s are hard acts to follow. Give the American people a breather, a return to normalcy after the last frenzied decade. For an encore, status quo!

Texas Rangers II

McCulloch Led Avenging Group Against Mexicans

In April, 1846, the United States declared war on Mexico — and the Texas Rangers were delighted.

At last they had an excuse to eliminate Mexico as a threat to their liberties, to heap death and destruction upon the homelands of their former rulers. For even after ten years "Remember the Alamo! Remember Goliad!" was still a pulsating, inspirational rallying cry, a bitter memory, a stark reminder of Mexican tyranny and treachery.

So quickly Hays and his officers recruited the "best men," those who were most efficient in dealing with death, and traveled across the chaparral-studded South Texas desert wastes to the Rio Grande.

And they were none too soon. Since the end of April, Gen. Zachary "Old Rough and Ready" Taylor had been harassed, the Mexicans at Matamoros outnumbering him two or three to one.

Fortunately Capt. Samuel Walker and his company of 75 Rangers, although almost being completely overrun in a skirmish, had kept him well enough informed of enemy movements to help facilitate American victories at Palo Alto and Resaca de la Palma on May 8 and 9.

But now, with the invasion of Mexico imminent, Taylor needed men who were familiar with the terrain and who knew the habits and peculiarities of Mexicans. During the latter part of May he therefore welcomed two regiments of the Texas Mounted Volunteers, one commanded by Col. George T. Wood with men from East Texas, and the other by Col. Jack Hays with his experienced captains — Ben McCulloch, "Big Foot" Wallace, Sam Walker, Ad Gillespie, and John T. Price.

Apparently Taylor considered them to be his best "shock troops," relying on them increasingly in critical situations. And no wonder. Superbly mounted and well-armed, obviously at home in such wild surroundings, the Rangers became the eyes and ears of the American army.

Waited impatiently
For more than three weeks

McCulloch led the Rangers waited impatiently for instructions. Then on June 12, Taylor ordered Capt. Ben McCulloch, a proven frontiersman completely colorblind to fear, to find the most practical route to Monterrey.

What an excellent choice. Selecting 30 men, McCulloch moved across the Rio Grande, through Matamoros, and out into a desolate, arid countryside. With each mile, with each day, he gained both in stature and respect.

Obviously a skilled scout, a master at deception, at understanding the Mexican mind, he continued to amaze his company with unusual cunning and strategy. To prevent enemy spies from discovering his purpose he would circle a settlement or rancho, approaching it from the west to give the impression the Rangers were moving toward Matamoros from Monterrey.

Upon deciding to attack, he would "strike like a bullet, suddenly and with little warning." And in the ensuing encounter he and his men, convinced that the army policy of conciliating the populace was "absurd," were brutal and unrelenting, seldom taking anyone alive.

Of course, McCulloch easily justified such actions in his own mind. After all, in ranging swiftly over enemy territory, he could ill afford the luxury of taking prisoners who would hamper his activities, hence his effectiveness.

On June 22, after ten days of arduous scouting across 250 miles of enemy territory, the Rangers found the most "practicable" route for the American army. In so doing they had acquitted themselves admirably, so well in fact that they were already becoming legends.

The Mexicans were not the only ones awed by them; for as they rode into the small village of Reynosa, George Kendall of the New Orleans Picayune remarked: "I have seen a goodly number of volunteers in my time, but Capt. McCulloch's men are choice specimens."

Remained idle
For the next five weeks the Rangers remained idle while the American army caught up with them: yet they found outlets for their explosive energies and rugged talents.

On several occasions they relieved their monotony by volunteering for patrols, once trying to capture Mexican bandits, another time tracking marauding Comanches for five days.

But their principal concern was the attitude of the Reynosa inhabitants who were derisive, even hostile; therefore, the Rangers employed their own unique methods of correcting what they considered a "bad situation."

In regard to stories that Gen. Antonio Canales, the brutal "Chaparral Fox," and Col. Juan Seguin, a former Texas patriot, were going to attack on night soon and slit their throats, they were quite contemptuous, openly welcoming to any confrontation. To justify this attitude they demonstrated whenever possible their superior physical prowess and expert horsemanship.

Oftentimes they played the Mexican game called "chicken race" whereby a Ranger, riding full speed, would hang from his saddle, grab a chicken in the road, and invariably outdistance all local adversaries to an appointed goal.

They marked for special attention, however, those "greasers" — as they called the enemy — who remained unconvinced and who foolishly stirred up the populace against them. Of course, they followed military orders which explicitly forbade the molesting of unarmed citizens; but even so, Ranger Sam Reid noted, some of the more vocal trouble-makers "were found shot or hung up in the chaparral."

And what was the Rangers' explanation?

Most probably those villains, "tortured by conscience for the many evil deeds they had committed, had recklessly laid violent hands upon their own lives! Quien sabe?"

Moved Out
At last on Aug. 1 the waiting ended; orders arrived for the Rangers to move out. And once again Taylor chose McCulloch to point the way, to find the best route for the American army.

He was not disappointed. For three days the Rangers reconnoitered the countryside leading to the small village of China which proved to be unsuitable and inhospitable. Then, after trying unsuccessfully to capture Col. Seguin, they returned to Reynosa.

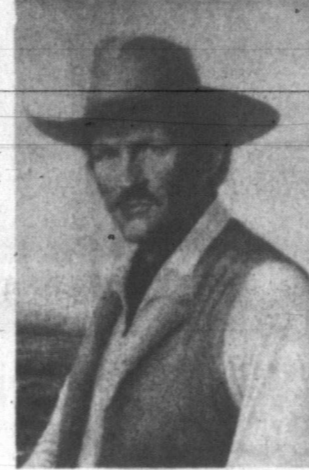

By Aug. 12 they were again on reconnaissance, this time investigating the road to Mier. After five days McCulloch reported to Taylor that this route was by far the best.

So immediately the American advance commenced; now the cry was "on to Monterrey." Slowly, cautiously, methodically — that was the Taylor technique — the army moved deeper into Mexico, thereby hoping to precipitate a large-scale battle.

Each day evidence that a direct confrontation would soon take place became increasingly apparent. Sleepy, isolated villages, inhabited by a phlegmatic populace and hundreds of yelping dogs, were now ominously silent.

Along the route Mexican merchants who in the past would have been overjoyed by the prospects of enormous profits, were morose and unapproachable, probably because Gen. Pedro de Ampudia had issued a proclamation threatening death to anyone giving comfort to the invaders.

CAPT. BEN McCULLOCH

Rangers had drawn first blood.

Near the small village of Ramos they encountered both infantry and lancers, 200 strong, well-fortified and ready for a stand. Unslung their rifles while dismounting, they poured a withering fire into the enemy ranks.

Then as the Mexicans, demoralized by such devastating marksmanship, broke and ran, McCulloch ordered his company of 40 men to charge, to pursue and give no quarter. After a running fight six miles he finally discontinued the attack and retired, fully satisfied with the day's results.

During the next few days the Rangers were "like boys at play." Luther Giddings of the First Ohio Volunteers marveled, riding recklessly beneath the outer walls of Monterrey, daring the Mexicans to shoot, and deriding them for missing.

Yet despite such antics and horseplay Taylor ordered Hays and Gillespie and McCulloch to lead the way when he mounted an attack on Sept. 19. For no matter what else might be said about him, "Old Rough and Ready" knew his men and what they could do.

The Rangers were his shock troops; they would devastate the enemy.

Consequently the taking of Monterrey was never in doubt, because the Rangers set the temp and style of battle. In one cavalry assault McCulloch and his men cut 40 pieces a large force of Mexican lancers, forcing them to flee unceremoniously and leave behind 150 dead.

Then for three days Hays' 1st Regiment of Texas Mounted Volunteers performed incredibly, storming every enemy stronghold, overcoming every obstacle.

Federation Hill and Fort Soldado! Independence Hill and the Bishop's Palace! All succumbed to their onslaught, although Hays lost a number of valuable men like Ad Gillespie.

Begs for Suspension
Then the fighting degenerated to house-to-house combat, and the Rangers, if possible, were even more effective. Indian style, they swept through the city until on Sept. 24 Gen. Ampudia begged for a suspension of hostilities.

For the next six months the Rangers continued to be extremely effective, especially as Taylor moved deeper into Mexico. But in March, 1847, the theatre of war shifted.

Because Gen. Taylor, who was a Whig, was becoming a national hero, the Democrats in Washington rightfully feared that they were promoting an opponent for the next presidential election. They therefore decided to send an invasion force into the heart of Mexico which would win quick glory for its commander as well as compel the Mexicans to submit.

After failing to appoint aging Democratic Sen. Thomas Hart Benton of Missouri as major general of the expedition, they finally had to be satisfied with a less colorful Whig, Gen. Winfield Scott.

Landing at Vera Cruz in March, Scott and his American army quickly muscled their way into the interior and on Sept. 17 forced the enemy to surrender Mexico City.

But this war was far from over, at least as far as Mexican guerrillas were concerned. In fact, even as Scott was moving into the Valley of Mexico, they came dangerously close to severing his supply lines.

In April they captured ten wagons heavily loaded with supplies; in June they prevented at least one-fourth of both men and equipment from surviving the journey; and in July they slew almost 1,300 American soldiers, some of whom were lassoed and dragged through cactus and then cruelly lanced.

So bad did the situation become that only large wagon trains dared attempt such a hazardous run — and even these were sometimes lucky to get through.

Needed Rangers
Thus once again the American army needed the particular talents of the Texas Rangers. And fortunately for Scott the intrepid Samuel Walker was available with two companies of mounted riflemen.

Having faced Indian raiders and Mexican partisans many times in the past, he knew what strategy would be effective and what fighting techniques would succeed.

As far as he was concerned, the only language understood by the Mexican guerrillas was that of strength and fear. In other words they must come to realize what terrible consequences their actions would trigger.

In keeping with this philosophy, Walker and his Rangers implemented their plans. Day after day they went into the countryside "Mexican hunting," daring the guerrillas to attack, "bearding the lions in their dens," brutally personifying the expression, "take no prisoners."

Nor did such cold-blooded methods bother the Rangers. For a fact, they were returning Mexican hospitality — for the massacres of the Alamo and Goliad, the cruelties to the prisoners of the Mier and Santa Fe expeditions, and the invasions of Texas, for ten years of undressed wrongs.

Besides, they had seen what fate awaited them if captured by the guerrillas; too often they had found American stragglers and prisoners with their throats cut. In these bloody encounters both sides therefore recognized that there would be no quarter asked or given.

Consequently the Rangers perfected their fighting techniques to such an extent that they earned the title from the Mexican populace of "Los Diablos Tejanos" — the Texas Devils.

Did Work Well
For five months Walker and his men did their work well, continually "scouring the guerrillas" and keeping the army supply route open. But in October, 1847, they had a chance for bigger game — and they took it.

Through a spy they learned that Santa Anna, the "Napoleon of the West" who had dealt Texans so much grief and misery, was nearby at the small village of Huamantla.

When Gen. Joseph "Jo" Lane suggested they might capture him, it did not matter that their inveterate foe had 4,000 men and six artillery pieces, that he was intrenched and fortified; they eagerly volunteered to lead the way.

On Oct. 9, upon approaching Huamantla, the Rangers with Walker in front formed in columns of four, drew their gleaming sabers; and, yelling wildly, charged their mounts through the open streets toward the enemy.

For 45 minutes they assaulted the Mexicans, taking revenge in hand-to-hand combat and, after overrunning their cannon, forcing them to flee.

No doubt about it, even though Santa Anna escaped, the Rangers had achieved a brilliant victory. That is, still smiling Sam Walker dealt with bullets in the chest and head.

To replace the courageous Walker would have been extremely difficult if Col. Jack Hays had not arrived at Vera Cruz within the week. But with several companies of Rangers, all heavily armed with at least four pistols, a rifle, and other assorted instruments of death, he was able to continue Walker's policies without any appreciable difference in efficiency.

In fact, if anything, he stepped up Ranger activities against the enemy. In conjunction with Gen. Lane he and his men raised the siege on Puebla, then while en route to Matamoros killed 60 Mexicans, released 21 American prisoners, and captured huge amounts of supplies.

In the mountains they were equally effective, seemingly at home in any situation. And against the guerrillas they more than sustained their reputations, although on one occasion shocking Corp. J.J. Oswald of Pennsylvania by actually bringing in prisoners.

Made Impression
On arrival in Mexico City, however, the Rangers made even more of an impression, one that the populace would never forget.

"The Mexicans are terribly afraid of them," Gen. Ethan Allen Hitchcock recorded.

And no wonder! After a "sneak thief" foolishly tried to steal a Ranger handkerchief, possibly as a souvenir, he got a bullet for his trouble. When young patriots hurled rocks at a Ranger troop, almost immediately six were slain.

And when Mexicans in the tough area of the city called "Cuthroat" made the mistake of killing Ranger Adam Alsens, Hays and his men swarmed into the district, Ranger John S. "Rip" Ford recollected, bent upon redress and vengeance.

In one bloody night they slaughtered over 80 inhabitants, leaving their like grotesque litter in the streets and alleys. So for the Rangers, whom the Mexicans now called los Tejanos Sangrientos — the bloody Texans — another tradition, that of quickly avenging a slain comrade was begun.

To prevent further wholesale massacres Gen. Scott hastily sent Hays on Missions outside the capital. But soon he would need no such subterfuge.

On Feb. 2, 1848, a Mexican government agreed to the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo; the war was over. Once again the Rangers returned home, triumphant in victory; and basking in their reputation as fighting men of unmatched courage and ferocity.

ON TOUR OF FINLAND

Pampam Has Opportunity To Develop Friendliness

By CARLA COMBS
Everyone realizes that Texans are noted for their friendliness, and recently a group of men from our area had the opportunity of displaying their friendliness in Finland.

He left May 25 for Finland, where he stayed with different families in such places as Pori, Turku, Marihamn, Tampere and Rauma in Finland, Stockholm in Sweden, and a short tour to the Arctic Ocean via Norway.

The Lutheran denomination predominate in Finland, but most people do not attend church, he noted. Saltzman recalled that many people in Finland have two homes. One in town and one in the country. During his stay, he vacationed with some of the families at their country home where, he mentioned they spend a lot of time.

interest as industry, family life and business. They visited factories, copper hills, saw mills, hospitals and schools.

One part about Finland that he will always remember, he said, is the beauty of the country. Known as the "land of a thousand lakes," Finland is a beautiful country.

The goal of the trip was to create a better understanding among the people of Finland and the people of Texas so that all can live in the same world peacefully and with better relationships.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Rev. Isaacs has a splendid idea. And it paid rich dividends. For his Sunday School attendance zoomed. And it was easier to get ushers, as well as special musical numbers, when their names appeared in print. Newspaper strategy helps churches!

CASE X-554: Rev. Isaacs, aged 28, is an enthusiastic pastor. "Dr. Crane," he began, "we want to put out a monthly mimeographed Newsletter to all members and friends.

PRINT PSYCHOLOGY

Here are a few rules that will enhance the readership greatly:

- (1) Your Newsletter will look more professional (like a newspaper) if your typist cuts the stencils so the right margin is even.
(2) Name as many parishioners as can conveniently be worked into your Newsletter.

Remember, anybody who sees his name mentioned will think your Newsletter is great!

- (3) Don't use the Newsletter to recapitulate the sermon or include other "essay" material.
(4) Instead, run the names of the sick and hospitalized parishioners, plus those at summer church camp.

Historical Group Attends Meeting

Ten members of the Gray County Historical Survey Committee attended an area meeting Friday in Panhandle with the Carson County committee as host.

Included in the local group were Darrell Carey and Diana McCain, docents at the White Deer Land Museum, which made Gray County the only county represented by junior historians.

The program faculty was made up of members of the state historical committee: Truett Latimer, executive director of TSHSC, who outlined new legislation affecting committee work; Bob Watson, director of programs for TSHSC, who spoke on the state marking program, and Dr. Tom Charlton, director of the Oral History program at Baylor University, who discussed various methods of preserving history by tape.

The meeting was held in the First National Bank in Panhandle, with a luncheon at the Panhandle Country Club.

Others attending from Gray County were Mrs. Mona Blanton, Joe Shelton, John Haynes, Mrs. Edna Vincent, Mrs. Alma Seitz, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Thut, and committee chairman, Mrs. Fred Thompson.

U.S. Hit By Inflation Elsewhere

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA)—One insurmountable problem President Nixon faces in controlling prices today is this: Our economy, in a sense, has become a world economy. What goes on in Western Europe, Asia, the Middle East and Latin America can have overpowering effects on demand, shortages, surpluses and prices in the United States.

Mr. Nixon cannot control inflation or supply and demand worldwide; neither can any known international organization in the foreseeable future — however much it may dabble at the edges.

The problem exists because we have become heavily dependent on foreign supplies economically and in part it is because the world, because of famine or rising consumer expectations, now depends heavily on American products, including grains and soybeans.

In part it is because there is today a very large accumulation of dollars and gold overseas. In some countries, as in the Middle East, there are more dollars than the governments or peoples use in normal expansion.

In part it is because a significant proportion of important fields is handled by multinational corporations. The problem here is not simply that the internal operations of these companies

IT MUST be made crystal clear there is no irreverent intent in connection with what is about to be written here.

But, the author of this column thought perhaps readers might like to know what "close connections" he enjoys.

With that comment, the purpose is to let the most recent in a series of letters received through the years speak for itself.

The letter follows:
"Dear Mr. DeWeese:
"As Almighty God, I greet you.
"These past 15 years, My Heart has known contentment in these Letters which I have dictated through My Son, Personally, to you.
"Each and every Letter, dictated by Me, your Living God, has a Living, Loving message to its intended, graceful personage. Those who believe in Me, shall be rewarded in Heaven — after their long sojourn on earth has ended. No need to say a word to those who disbelieve — they will try to find solace, peace and contentment in hell, but alas, to no avail!
"But Love is for the living who will not relinquish their self-esteemed right to Love Me, their Loving Creator. I am not Alive to be put aside in some dusty, old, antique, I am Alive to fill contentment in every living, blessed heart here on earth.

even the Rearview Mirror department doesn't seem to be able to do anything about it, either. Certainly we would have to veto the suggestion that the alley be paved with nails, tacks and broken bottles.

IT WAS restful to have that ten-day long July Fourth holiday surcease from the Senate Watergate hearings. After listening to practically all of John Dean's testimony, we got the feeling he was telling the truth. Most people with whom we have talked had the same impression.

However, these same people seem to think Dean will be the target for an unremitting witness attack by higher-ups still to be called before the committee.

Probably the most indelible shock to come out of the hearings so far, is Dean's testimony is true, is the modus operandi used in Washington circles to "take care" of the "opposition." The way Dean told it, Big Brother can "get you" if he wants to — through one agency or another.

When the testimony gets to that point, right then is when you begin honing the witness isn't telling the truth. It's a bit frightening.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Duward V. Hayter, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L.L. Winkle, both of Borger.

THE CEREMONY

The church was decorated with a bouquet arrangement of white gladioli and pink carnations flanked by candelabra.

THE BRIDE

The bride was given in marriage by her father, with the "her mother and I" avowal. She was attired in a formal gown of angelmist peau de soie and Chantilly lace over bridal taffeta designed with a high neckline, bib front, empire waistline, long Camelot sleeves, and soft semi-full skirt. The sleeves and bodice were styled with Chantilly lace, enhanced with tiny seed pearls. Her mantilla of imported illusion, edged with Chantilly lace, fell from a lace coil and ended in a sweeping chapel length train. She carried a bouquet of white gardenias and pink stephanotis with white ribbon and greenery.

Miss Susan Van Schuyver, Tahlequah, Okla., was maid of honor, and bridesmaid was Miss Charlotte Beadie of Borger. They wore identical floor-length gowns of pale pink myrsshair styled with an empire waistline and trimmed in rose. Bridematron's were Mrs. Lonnie Jones of Austin, and Mrs. Kent Kirkpatrick of Dumas. They wore identical floor-length gowns of pale pink, rose, green and white floral print. Each attendant wore pale pink garden hats with matching waist-length ribbon streamers, and carried a nosegay of pink carnations surrounding a single gardenia and pink streamers.

Misty Clark, cousin of the bridegroom, was flowergirl. She was dressed identically to the maid of honor. D'Chance Clark, cousin of the bridegroom, of Allen, Tex., was ringbearer. Candlelighters were Mrs. Lonnie Jones and Mrs. Kent Kirkpatrick.

Bob Johns of Borger, was best man, and groomsmen were Danny Winkle and Darrell Winkle, both of Borger and brothers of the bridegroom, and Owen Blackman, Reese Air Force Base, Lubbock. Serving as ushers were John Hayter, brother of the bride, Borger, and Owen Blackman, Reese AFB, Lubbock.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Garden Room of the church. The serving table held the bridal attendant's bouquets and the wedding cake, decorated with pink rose heart-shaped flowers and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

Mrs. Owen Blackman of Lubbock, assisted at the punch service, and serving cake was Miss Tandy Gay of Borger. Registering wedding guests was Mrs. Darrell Winkle, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, and registering guests at the reception was Mrs. Larry Tye of Amarillo.

For the wedding trip, the bride wore a halter dress in pastel colors, featuring ruffles at the neckline and hemline. The couple will report to New Orleans for Coast Guard duty orders.

AFFILIATIONS

The bride is a graduate of Borger High School, and Frank Phillips College, and is presently a nursing student. The bridegroom is also a graduate of BHS, attended FPC, and will be a graduate of Storekeeper's School, USCG Tracen, Petaluma, Calif. in

BETTY CANARY
Wipe Your Nose
And Buy a Sofa

By BETTY CANARY

Each of us can afford only so many human frailties. Therefore, some time ago I gave up going to auctions.

And let me state here that I do not agree with those who accuse auctioneers of taking advantage of buyers. We've all heard stories of how a person wiped his nose and bought a set of horsehide parlor furniture with the gesture. Buyers are not lambs being led to slaughter. We bound and leap and beg for the hammer to fall.

We have formed a sort of Auctions Anonymous and have enjoyed a period of true bliss in our home. Actually, it is a tremendous relief to have a home again, one I can walk about in and call my own. There was a time when every nook and cranny was filled with the quaint, the curious and the unrepaid. Adorable rocking chairs with the rungs gone lined my hallway. Cracked crockery vied for space with darling little chests that only needed a bit of fixing in order to be good enough to give to Good Will.

I have, from time to time, fallen off the wagon and, like a not-so-reformed drinker, attended an auction in order to prove to myself that I could take them or leave them.

Not long ago, my friend Inez (another charter member of AA) attended an auction with me. It was a test of will power and sales resistance. A test we failed.

Inez held my hands while I saw a perfectly fine Franklin stove go for $35. I held her hands while a sterling silver bowl (only slightly dented) went for 50 cents. We both wept.

In a daze, we saw a man with a fast right arm take a set of Waterford glasses for $3.50. We started bidding. With our usual luck.

Inez snapped up a broken pump organ (the moving man charged $45 to bring it to her back door). And I acquired a beautiful "very old" Victorian loveseat—Sears & Roebuck, circa 1959.

Save a pie top!

Once in a great while a collection is found that outshines the usual accumulation of related objects.

The collection assembled by Mrs. R. R. Melton, Marion, Kan., is not made up of antiques or collectibles. But her "treasures" are as much a part of family tradition as the quilt top or the crewel embroidery from past generations.

Mrs. Melton collects pie crust designs. Her hobby started nearly two decades ago and encompasses about 300 designs, each as distinctive as a signature.

Remember the steam vents cut into your mother's pie top? Chances are she used her creative abilities by cutting the vents in a pretty design.

"Many women mark their pie crusts exactly as their mothers marked theirs," Mrs. Melton said. Thus, pie top designs become almost family traditions.

This unusual collection started and grew with the help of the U.S. mail. Mrs. Melton prepared postal cards which she sends to friends, acquaintances and well-known personalities. With the card is a letter, explaining her hobby and requesting a drawing of the design to add to her collection.

Wife of a Marion, Kan., physician and mother of three grown children, Mrs. Melton has preserved a tiny bit of Americana by combining her ingenuity and imagination with her interests as a homemaker.

It isn't unusual then that her second hobby would be pie baking—but with a difference.

Her pie tops are works of art—painted with food coloring with a water color brush before baking. If it's a cherry pie the top will be colorful with a sprig of green leaves and clusters of cherries. Shamrocks pattern her St. Patrick's Day pie and red hearts pattern her Valentine's Day offering.

Her pies are well-known in the small community and are to be found at church suppers, club meetings and bake sales. She also likes to bake for friends and shut-ins.

Mrs. Melton cuts the steam vents in her pie tops with special cutters she has shaped from coffee can strips, bottle tops or almost anything that can be formed to meet a need.

Her inventiveness is proof positive that collecting does not require a lot of money, a special display room or a tremendous amount of time. Her collection has brought her many happy hours and brought the outside world to her home.

An interesting and fine collection can be assembled on almost any subject. To make it an outstanding collection, personalize it with your own individuality.

Dear Abby

Lawyer may cure her of sick spouse

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 40-year-old woman. People tell me I look 25, and I'm not bragging. I've been married for 23 years to a man who must be crazy. We had three daughters who all left home the day they turned 18 and I can't blame them. Their father used to threaten to kill their pets while they were in school just to upset them.

One of the girls had the lead in the senior class play, and she wanted to get there early so she could relax, so my husband drove 15 miles an hour all the way there on purpose and she was nearly late. She was so shook up she forgot her lines and burst into tears. [Her father laughed.]

This man makes $1,000 a month, but refuses to buy me a washer-dryer. He takes me to the laundromat twice a month. I don't drive and he won't let me learn. All the girls worked since they were 16. They had to buy all their own clothes.

I don't know what he does with his money, but he doesn't save it. He's taken out several large loans. I learned this accidentally. When I ask him what for, he says as long as he makes the house payments and buys the groceries, it's none of my business.

He also calls me vile names and doesn't even trust me with my own father [he is 80] or my brothers.

Do I have grounds for divorce? He says as long as he's never laid a hand on me, I haven't. My daughters are happily married and are begging me to leave him and come and live with them. What should I do? PRISONER

DEAR PRISONER: Your husband is either a very sick man or a very cruel one. If he doesn't see a doctor, you should see a lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 and for the last two years I have been in love with the boy who lives two houses down from me. He is 18, and living so close I see him coming and going, and it just tears me up.

Last week he lost control of his car and hit a tree on our property. [He wasn't hurt.] I ran outside, thinking now maybe he will realize how much I love him, but he just looked at me and asked if I thought maybe my dad would pull him to his house with our truck! It was like somebody turned a knife in my heart.

How can I let him know how I feel about him, Abby? He told a friend of mine [whom she asked him what he thought of me] that I was a "good kid."

Please help me get the word to him. "GOOD KID"
DEAR KID: You'd better cool it for a year or two. In time you might have a chance with him but if you chase him, you'll only chase him away.

DEAR ABBY: How does one handle the problem of a guest who always brings an additional guest or two along? [Not occasionally, but ALWAYS!]

About an hour before she is expected, she calls and says she has a "friend" she can't leave behind and may she bring him [or her] along? What can I say? There are times when I planned a sit-down dinner and adding "just one or two more" is a terrible inconvenience.

I have tried not inviting her for a long time, hoping to communicate my disapproval, but invariably she does the same thing over again. Perhaps if she reads this in your column she will see the light. FED UP DOWN SOUTH

DEAR FED: Don't count on it. Apparently you find her company sufficiently fascinating to overlook her bad manners. Perhaps YOU should see the light!

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90089. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby: Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90089.

Here is a hand from one of the side games at the Spring Nationals that was set at one table as the result of a careless play by declarer and superb brilliant defense by West.

We believe the play by declarer, but rather think West came up with the defense some time after the score had been marked down.

South ruffed the diamond lead with his deuce of trumps; cashed the ace of clubs; ruffed a club in dummy; led dummy's queen of diamonds and discarded his singleton heart.

West was in with the ace of diamonds and could find no better lead than his ace of hearts. South ruffed and started to run his high trumps. Most Wests hung onto their jack of trumps; were thrown in with it and forced to lead a red card to allow South to discard three club losers on hearts and diamonds.

One West is supposed to have played his jack and nine of trumps on South's ace and king. This made it impossible for South to throw him in and eventually East set the contract with three club tricks.

Where did the careless play by South come in? Right at trick one? He could have ruffed the diamond with his five of spades. After that play it would not have done West any good to jettison his highest spades. He would still have been thrown in with the three-spot which is one pip higher than the deuce.

What do you do now?

A - Bid six hearts. This indicates both good hearts and a possible diamond loser. With ace-king of diamonds you would have bid six diamonds.

Selecting Cantaloupe

Many consumers find selecting a cantaloupe difficult or confusing. Just keep the word "HAND" in mind and you can pick out a reasonably good sweet melon, says Miss Jimmie Lou Waincott, county Extension agent. Each letter in "hand" represents an important selection factor. H—for heavy. Look for a melon heavy for its size. A—for aroma. Check for a fragrant aroma. N—for netting. Select well netted melons. Netting is a normal growth characteristic for most varieties. D—for depression. Choose a melon with a depression at the stem end. This depressed scar — where the melon joined the vine — means it was left on the vine until practically mature. Softness at the blossom end doesn't necessarily indicate ripeness or sweetness — several other customers may have tried this "technique" before you and bruised it, the agent added. HOOKER NAMED AUSTIN (UPI) — Dr. Richard Hooker, director of the Texas Association of School Boards, was named special assistant for educational research and planning by Gov. Dolph Briscoe Friday. Briscoe said Hooker would join his staff July 16.

Jaycee-Ettes Hear Program By Reader

The Pampa Jaycee-ettes held their regular monthly meeting recently at the Southwestern Public Service Redd Room.

President, Sharen Peoples, called the meeting to order and gave the invocation and Margaret Milam led the Jaycee-ette creed.

Program chairman, Kerrick Horton, introduced the guest speaker, Bill Reader, founder of the Masters Home for children in Pampa. Reader showed slides and explained the purpose of the home. After the presentation, the Jaycee-ettes presented a gift of cleaning supplies to Reader for use in the home.

The Jaycee-ette activities for the month of June included aiding the Jaycees at their sno-cone booth at the Band Boosters' Carnival, Lynne McDougall chairman, aiding the Jaycees at their bike races on the third of June; Dottie Kimbley, chairman, aiding the Jaycees at their fourth of July concession stand at the Rodeo grounds, with Linda Sitterly chairman.

Jaycee-Ettes Kerrick Horton, chairman, and Linda Sitterly served sandwiches, cookies and coffee to the Senior Citizens June 21.

The Jaycee-Ettes have done a great deal of traveling during the month of June. Three girls traveled to Happy for a tea to honor their outstanding Jaycee-Ettes and two girls traveled to Plainview for a tea to honor the new Area Vice President, Clemi Blackburn, Childress. Four attended the Area Council Meeting in Amarillo, four attended the Sit-In-Hen in Friona and one attended Perryton's work forum.

The Jaycee-Ettes and Jaycees recent socials include ladies night at Furr's Cafeteria and a swimming party at the Black Gold Motel with Linda Sitterly chairman. One guest, Karen Shepherd also attended the swimming party.

The current ways and means project for the club is the selling of candy with Margaret Milam, chairman. The candy has been sold at First National Bank, Citizens Bank, at the Jaycee concession and will be sold some door-to-door on Tuesday, July 10.

During the business meeting the Jaycee-Ettes voted to take some clothes to the orphans' home in Panhandle with Margaret Milam chairman and several other civic projects were discussed and approved. The new Jaycee-Ette Year Book in the form of a green and gold Jaycee-Ette vest was presented to each girl along with the You and the Jaycee-Ette State Book.

At the end of the meeting, Kerrick Horton had her "Say" on Enthusiasm.

Margaret Milam and Sharen Peoples, hostesses, served homemade ice cream and Linda Sitterly won the door prize.

Those who attended the meeting were Sharen Peoples, Treacia Saltzman, Linda Sitterly, Margaret Milam, and Kerrick Horton.

Families On 'Inflation Alert'

COLLEGE STATION — Families on "inflation alert" may avoid financial crises, according to a home management specialist.

Lynn Bourland with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University, cited the rising cost of living as "one of several situations that could create a financial crisis in almost any household."

To ease such a crisis and protect the family in the future, she advised taking a realistic look at the financial situation and putting the family on "inflation alert" — her term for budgeting with inflation in mind.

"In looking at the financial situation, family discussions help everyone face the fact that things are shaky for the whole family — and that everyone can do his part to solve the problem."

"To identify problems that created the crisis, make a list of assets — everything owned that has cash value — and liabilities. Accuracy is very important," she stressed.

"To pin down major and regular expenses, review the past year's receipts and cancelled checks."

"Also have everyone keep a record of cash spending for a few weeks — out-of-pocket spending adds up."

"Re-examine the family budget to see if money for taxes was figured in with estimated cost of purchases."

"Be sure interest charges were included in cost estimates for credit purchases."

"Examine last year's credit purchases to see how much extra was paid. Plan future purchases realistically."

"Review purchases made in the past few months. Consider how many of them aren't used — or didn't bring the satisfaction expected."

"Turning to "inflation alert," Miss Bourland said it means

"not trying to spread dollars thinner than they can cover."

"All money dealings — large and small, all planning and spending must be weighed carefully with inflation in mind," she stressed.

"Trim down spending — eliminate as much financial fat from the present spending pattern as the situation requires."

"This must be a family effort."

"What snacks can you do without? What less expensive sources of nutrition can you plan meals around? What services can you perform yourself, and what free sources of entertainment can you rediscover?"

"Answers to these and similar questions not only help the family reduce spending, but they also stop meaningless spending."

"Families won't be lowering living standards — they'll be making sure that spending supports their standards," she emphasized.

Texas Gets Grant

AUSTIN (UPI) — Texas will receive a $326,000 grant from the U. S. Civil Service Commission to support 12 projects designed to improve personnel management in state agencies. Gov. Dolph Briscoe said Friday.

WHAT—NO WATERMELONS?

CORDELE, GA. (UPI) — The annual Watermelon Festival in this south Georgia city has run into sticky difficulties.

There are no watermelons. Heavy rains in March held up planting in Cordele, which likes to call itself the Watermelon capital of the world, and later showers hurt pollination. The festival will go ahead as scheduled but this year, they'll be no free watermelon slices and no contest to see who grew the largest melon.

Kitchen Carpets

COLLEGE STATION — Kitchen carpets promise convenience in return for careful selection and a little extra daily care, according to Patricia A. Bradshaw.

"Daily care means removing spots and spills quickly, then sponging carpet — along with frequent vacuuming," the housing and home furnishings specialist, Texas A&M University, said.

She brought up several points for selecting kitchen carpeting.

"For practical use, multicolors or tweeds show soil less than solid colors.

"Medium to fairly dark colors tend to stay 'fresh' longer — deep dark shades show lint and surface dust more readily, and light areas show spots.

"Good quality kitchen carpeting should consist entirely of man-made fibers because they aren't subject to mildew or rot. The face should be a non-absorbent, easy-to-clean fiber such as nylon, acrylic or olefin. Olefins are the most stain-resistant.

"The carpet should have a water-resistant barrier to help prevent liquids from soaking through and causing mildew or rot.

"I should have a short, dense, loop pile that will suspend crumbs and spilled substances on top of the surface for easy cleaning.

"Test samples for absorbency by pouring a little water on each one.

"Water should bead on the surface and be easy to wipe up. Although olefins may permit moisture to flow through the pile more quickly than other synthetics, they can be blotted easily."

The specialist cautioned against using carpet with woven jute backings in the kitchen, because liquids can mildew and rot it — or even cause shrinkage. Most kitchen carpets have sponge or high-density foam backing — some have a layer of woven or solid plastic between carpeting and backing as an extra barrier.

Turning to advantages of a carpeted kitchen, she cited the comfort and warmth it provides, along with a more luxurious appearance. Also, installation may be made over a floor in rather poor condition.

"Kitchen carpet requires less scrubbing and no waxing, absorbs much kitchen noise, and lessens the danger of breakage," she added.

Add minced chives to eggs that are going to be scrambled; then just before the eggs are ready, fold in cottage cheese. Delicious for a weekend brunch.

Perfect Steaks

With steaks special treats nowadays, outdoor chefs want each one to be the best possible.

"Getting good results when grilling outdoors involves several crucial do's and don'ts," points out Miss Jimmie Lou Waincott, county Extension Agent.

She recommended and discussed several essential procedures which affect the finished product.

—Slash fat edges of a steak before cooking. This keeps it from curling during grilling.

—Turn meat only once. Broil until brown on one side, turn it and continue cooking on other side.

—Use tongs to turn steak. Jabbing with a fork causes a loss in juices — thus a loss in flavor, too.

—Salt steak only after grilling — as each side is completed. If applied before grilling, the seasoning draws flavorful juices to the surface and slows browning.

—Test for doneness. Use a sharp knife to cut a slit near the bone — if there is one. If it's red inside, the steak is rare; pink is medium; and brown well done.

—Shorter cooking times result in more tender meat. Broil a one-inch steak a total of 10-25 minutes, turning it about halfway through the cooking period.

—Slice meat across the grain. Carving in this manner gives uniform slices and easier-to-eat meat.

—Select steaks with marbling. These flecks add juiciness and flavor — and prevent the steak from drying out so much. A thin layer of fat around inside edges aids in retaining shape, cuts down on shrinkage and adds to the appearance.

—Thick steaks are preferred to small ones. For grilling purposes, one large thick steak is better than two thin ones.

—Steak should be at least six inches from charcoal briquets. Burn coals until they have uniform flame and white appearance before putting steaks on to broil.

—Add a few green hickory nuts, green twigs, or oak or hickory chips for a different, desirable flavor.

—Don't keep a good steak waiting.

A thought for the day: In the U. S. Declaration of Independence, signed July 4, 1776, Thomas Jefferson said, "...We hold these truths to be self-evident; that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Donna Kay Stanton, John Graves Exchange Vows In Lefors

Miss Donna Kay Stanton of Canyon, became the bride of John Wallace Graves at 4 p.m. Sunday, June 24 in the First United Methodist Church in Lefors.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Clark Stanton of Lefors, and Mr. and Mrs. W.C. Graves of Sunray are the parents of the bridegroom.

THE CEREMONY

The Rev. Charles Graff,

pastor, officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Mrs. Carole Watson, organist, presented traditional wedding selections and played the theme from "Romeo and Juliet."

The altar of the church was decorated with yellow gladioli and greenery. Pews were marked with yellow ribbon bows.

THE BRIDE

The bride was attired in a floor-length gown of white dotted Swiss, designed with an empire waistline, and a low neckline accented by a ruffle. Long sheer full sleeves ending in wide cuffs, accented with pearl buttons enhanced the bodice of the gown. She wore a white garden hat and carried a cascade of yellow carnations atop a yellow lace covered Bible.

Mrs. Harlen Belt, Lefors, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a floor-length floral embroidered batise dress, and carried a nosegay of white carnations.

Serving his brother as best man, was Ray Graves of Dumas.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Lefors Civic Center. The serving table was covered with a white cloth overlaid with yellow lace. A pair of doves topped the two-tiered wedding cake. Each tier was decorated with yellow roses and rosebuds. Marcy Houghton served the cake and Mrs. Donna Haire, sister of the bridegroom, served punch.

For the wedding trip, the bride wore a white knit dress with white accessories. They will make their home at 214 W. 12th St., Dumas.

AFFILIATIONS

The bride attends West Texas State University where she is a senior student majoring in elementary education. The bridegroom attended Texas Tech University in Lubbock and is presently employed in Dumas.

ENOUGH IS TOO MUCH

SLOUGH, England (UPI) — At first the police thought it was a great gag. But enough is enough.

Someone stole a red snooker ball from the Slough police recreation room and replaced it with an imitation plastic one that wobbles all over the table.

The problem is that no store sells one ball alone.

"You have to buy a set and that costs $70," chief inspector Charles Cramer said. "We'd like our ball back please."

Former Pampan Retires From KKI Presidency

The National Kappa Kappa Iota Teachers Sorority held its 23rd annual convention in Topeka, Kan. recently.

The oldest of all women educator's organizations in the United States was founded in Stillwater, Okla. in 1921 by Mary C. Brogdon. It became a national organization in 1949 and now has a membership of 18,250 with 26 states represented.

400 members attended the meeting which was chaired by the National President, Mrs. Kenneth Cable, a former Pampa teacher who now teaches sixth grade in Odessa.

Many educational tours were offered the visitors including the Eisenhower Center in Abilene and the Truman Library and Museum in Independence, Mo.

A tour of the City of Topeka included the Governor's Mansion, where a tea was hosted by Gov. and Mrs. Dockins, the State Capitol and Menninger's Foundation. Dr. Menninger said, "Of the 9,000 patients we see yearly, 75 per cent are under 25 years of age. This breakdown is caused by automation, no wood to cut, no cows to milk, no dishes to wash, etc. These youngsters must have some way to release their energy. A normal life consists of four essentials, work, creativity, education and play."

During the business session many large contributions were given to complete the refurbishing of house and landscaping of grounds of the National Headquarters in Tulsa, Okla.

Six scholarships were given, one going to Mrs. Donnell Biggers, of Odessa.

Highlight of the occasion was the reception for the president, hosted by the 30 member Texas delegation led by the State President, Mrs. L.B. Penick, of Pampa.

Presiding at the table were Past State Presidents, Mrs. B.G. Gordon, Mrs. Hazel

Standler, Lubbock, and Mrs. Penick. Mrs. Grace Willingham, Dallas, and Mrs. Cable, Odessa, were in the receiving line.

At the formal banquet, the following 1973-74 officers were installed by Rosalie Chaney, Shreveport, La.: Mrs. Corena Mitchell, Guntersville, Ala., president; Josephine Koogler, Astex, N.M., president-elect; Nannie Whitten, Clarksville, Miss., first vice-president; Mammie Hoyt, recording secretary; Mrs. Iva Duggan, Tulsa, executive secretary; Mrs. Agnes Schellstede, Tulsa, financial secretary and treasurer.

Attending from Pampa were Mrs. L.B. Penick and Mrs. B.G. Gordon, Gamma Conclave, accompanied by L.B. Penick, and Miss Norma Lantz, Beta Chi Conclave of Lefors, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. John Lantz.

The 1974 Convention will be held in Miami Beach, Fla.

RULES REMAIN FIRM
WIESBADEN, West Germany (UPI) — The temperature hit the 86 degree mark inside the parliamentary assembly room, but for President Georg Buch, there was no relaxing of the rules of etiquette.

Heat wave or not, deputies were told, turn up properly dressed for Wednesday's session.

When shirt-sleeved Social Democrat deputy Udo Schroeder rushed in, Buch stopped proceedings.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he said, "apparently through some terrible mistake, Mr. Schroeder left his jacket and tie at home. I hope you will all forgive his carelessness."

Divorce, French Style, Is Increasing

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

PARIS — (NEA) — One of the many changes in the pattern of living of the French is the rise in divorce rates.

The generally held view that divorce is less frequent and harder to obtain than in other Western European countries, if only because the "family" has withstood the onslaught of the permissive society, is disproved by official figures.

According to a recent study, out of 10,000 couples, 33 end in divorce in France.

Statistics also indicate a sharp increase not only in the over-all rate of divorce here—40,000 decrees granted in 1970 compared with 36,000 in 1968—but show an even sharper increase in the number of divorces above a certain age. Since 1960, 32 per cent more couples are divorcing in the 40-to-49 age group and 63 per cent in the over 60s.

According to Simone Corne, a well-known divorce lawyer in Paris, the past 20 years have seen an increasing number of middle-aged and even older men wishing to divorce. Most frequent reason given was that the wives were unable to keep up with a husband's social ascent. The real motive, she underlined with a whimsical smile, was just as often the chance meeting with a younger woman and the increasing conviction of middle-aged men that they were still young enough to start another life.

Infidelity was responsible for two-thirds of all divorces. Alcoholism for one quarter. Madame Corne stressed the fact that the hypocrisy and resignation which once kept ill-assorted couples together had now all but disappeared.

Another important angle is that divorced couples no longer are ostracized socially and even in hidebound, conservative circles divorce no longer is looked upon as a blot on the family escutcheon. Financial considerations have almost no deterrent effect any more. Alimony, as a matter of fact, except in cases of wealthy couples, was often based on a judge's estimation of each case. French judges anyway were reputed to underestimate the compensation owing to a wife whose husband had asked for the divorce.

The old joke about love being the favorite indoor sport of the French still stands. A recent survey showed that French couples spend an average 25 minutes three times a week on this "sport." Yet a poll conducted by the IFOP (Institut Francais d'Opinion Publique) revealed that there were still 71 per cent French women under 30 who claimed to be virgins on their wedding days.

Frenchmen, according to Madame Corne, are increasingly losing their sense of responsibility. They do not know how to adjust to old age, not to mention earlier retirement age.

Wives, however, according to her experience, had more often than not their share of responsibility in the breakup of a longstanding marriage. The reason? Demands for equality. They insist on the same rights as men but do not know how to live up to them.

In every country the situation is tragic for the woman in her late 40s or 50s who is left behind. She might have held a secretarial job before marriage but gave it up to take care of her children and her home. Yet when the separation comes, she does not have any specific qualifications to ensure her a standard of living to which she has become accustomed.

Obtaining legal proof that a husband is able to pay adequate maintenance has always been difficult in France. Even when children were involved a judge was inclined to assess a "living allowance", as alimony is known in France, at a ridiculously low rate, especially as compared with the United States.

Actions for nonpayment of alimony were apt to be sidetracked and prove too costly for the more modest applicants. No ex-husband ran the risk of going to jail for nonpayment of alimony, as in England.

A law passed a year ago seeks to close this glaring legal loophole, protecting women such as one known to Madame Corne whose ex-husband's income was the equivalent of some $25,000 but who had to go to work as a charwoman in a department store. In the past, all too many divorced Frenchwomen have been in similar predicaments.

SUNDAY, JULY 8
Your birthday today: Optimism promises to boost you all year. Material welfare improves as you build momentum. Apart from some unusually high outlays, this promises to be a prosperous year. Relationships of all sorts require your consistent devotion. Today's natives are deeply interested in human nature and its oddities.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Grant others the love you loved ones in particular, the right to be out of sorts. Money is a bit hard to spend effectively, all too easy to waste.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Be on your way early to carry your full share of the community's expression of faith. It's better to be calm.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: There's no such thing as keeping up with neighbors today. Be yourself and proud of what you've achieved.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Endless rounds of talk needn't touch you, but if they do, disregard them. Be moderate in your work and your pastimes.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Squabbles lead readily into lasting dissension—if you let them. You may as well spend the day keeping everybody peaceful.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Your basic tendency to having inflexible plans must be countered in the haste of this noisy Sunday.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Bring current projects to perfection, then check the external conditions before springing your ideas on the world.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: You now enter a phase of being in position to collect, to pick up the pieces from upset ventures.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Believe none of today's impulsive promises, nor make any. Moderate health habits are suggested.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Even though you start exceptionally early, you won't complete your day's round before it's quite late.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: By pursuing theoretical or academic systems at the expense of others' time and convenience, you are being selfish.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Get extra rest by doing no more than the minimum. Let comment or criticism pass you by—it may not apply to you anyway.

Existing relations thrive despite distractions. Today's natives must make prompt and vigorous use of their opportunities.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Declutter your schedule, select feasible projects, postpone others. Put your accounts in order.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Personal cares get in the way of business, may be worth it. New dimensions in relations are discovered.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: As you plunge into the general effort, make sure others are pulling their weight. Leave personal issues alone.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Today you can sell almost any reasonable idea. Travel could bring extra results if well planned.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Tactfully bring together conflicting factions at work. Expect interruptions, use any information you gain.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Progress begins in increased efficiency, perhaps higher earnings. Be open to potentials of new acquaintances. Accept social invitations.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Collect what is coming to you. Today is taken up with preparations, tomorrow's a good launching date.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Begin bright and early. Bring existing projects to final stages, instead of opening new ones.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Money gets away from you with little to show for it. Economy models are unlikely to meet your needs. Forget your cares, gather friends for conversation.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Younger people are all about; some to take up your time, some to compete, and others to escape your reach. Your quiet mood is subject to misunderstanding.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Events move quickly, but generally in your favor. What happens now is a prelude to change.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Your workweek opening comes as a chance to correct a number of minor problems. Get your schedule set and into action.

POLLY'S POINTERS
Lingerie Sizes Vary,
She Wants Uniformity

By POLLY CRAMER

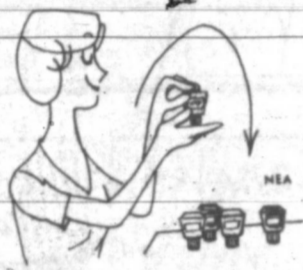

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the manufacturers of ladies' lingerie who so often label things as petite, small, large, X-large, etc., but without any sort of size gauge. Some large sizes fit me, some X-large — but there are times when X-large is not big enough. Marking size gauges such as a medium girdle, say 24-26 waist, would be a great help to shoppers. — MRS. R. K.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — The white satin high-heel pumps I wore for my wedding two years ago now need cleaning. I hope someone can tell me how to do this. — MRS. D. V.

DEAR POLLY — I do want to pass on to Mrs. J. P. R. some ways I deal with allergy to dust. Storm windows and doors are a help in keeping dust out and make the air conditioning (suggested by the doctor) less expensive. Draperies, slip covers and throw pillows are frequently washed or cleaned at a coin-operated cleaner. Always choose those items that take to frequent washing or cleaning and are easy to take off and put on. Plastic covers under the decorative covers on pillows and furniture keep dust from collecting where it is hard to remove. Unnecessary objects collect unnecessary dust but color can add interest without adding dust. Grouping of books of the same height makes vacuuming easier. Arrange everything so it is easy to get to with the vacuum. Leave plenty of room. Select easy-to-clean wall and floor coverings. Washing light fixture reflector bowls and heating vents improves the appearance of the room while eliminating dust. — MARY B.

DEAR POLLY and Mrs. J. P. R. — My son, too, has been allergic to dust for five years. It is impossible for me to wet-dust the house three times a day as our doctor suggested. I have other children, too, but I did work out a schedule that has been quite a help. One day a week after my other housework is finished I take everything off the walls and wet-dust the pictures, ceramics, plastic flowers, etc. The next day I check the curtains and, if they are clean, I just take them down and outdoors to blow in the air for awhile so all dust is removed. The thing that has really helped the most was buying a special allergy pillow from a well-known mail order house. If he uses another pillow by mistake, he gets sick. Once you get started in a certain routine it is not too bad and I know it is worthwhile because our son has not been sick for five blessed months. — DIXIE

DEAR POLLY — After a bottle of nail polish is opened it thickens so quickly. I turn the bottle upside down after each use and am amazed at the saving, plus the fact that it does not have to be mixed around each time I am going to use it. — EVELYN

Vacation Footwear

COLLEGE STATION — Foot comfort can "make" or "break" vacation fun.

"Vacationing usually involves additional 'foot activity,' so comfortable shoes are a must," points out Marilyn Brown, consumer education clothing and textiles specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University.

"Get your feet in good seeing condition — carefully select footwear ahead of time and break them in before leaving," she emphasized.

"Also match shoes with activities undertaken — active sports and hiking demand sturdy yet comfortable footwear."

Miss Brown offered several additional suggestions for ultimate foot comfort.

—Select shoes with flexible soles, medium heels and well-rounded toes.

—Make sure they fit. Wear the proper shape and correct size in length and width.

"It is important that the arches of the shoes fit the curves of your own arches, since the arches support your body weight."

—Choose shoes right for the occasion — to support feet in action.

—Wear socks or hosiery one-half inch longer than your longest toe to avoid pressure.

—Change shoes, socks or hosiery at least once a day.

—Never wear the same shoes two days in succession. Don't forget that uncomfortable feet will affect your vacation attitude, pleasure and even your health."

21-gun Salute

The President is honored with a 21-gun salute. It is claimed that the 21-gun salute commemorates the year 1776, and for that reason salutes are often fired thus: one-seven-seven-six.

Make-up can't change the shape of the face, but properly applied, it can make one look more beautiful. Good points can be enhanced and poor points subdued. Take into consideration the shape of your face before any make-up is used. Remember, the right shade of make-up is important.

Rouge is a critical item for, when properly applied, it can do much to minimize the less attractive features and bring out the better ones. But rouge applied too heavily or not placed correctly will make one look old or tired, so be sure that you study the contours of your face. Rouge properly applied can take off years and add to the sparkle of your eyes. Experiment with your make-up and seek counsel from your favorite operator regarding its proper application.

SOUR DOUGH STARTER

In a large crock, at least 3 quarts, soften 1 package active dry yeast in 1 quart lukewarm water. Add 2 tablespoons sugar and 4 cups sifted flour; beat to mix. Let rise until light and slightly aged (24 to 48 hours). Starter may be kept in refrigerator 7 to 10 days without attention. Then it should be stirred and equal amounts of flour and water added. To keep starter, pour off amount needed for recipe, then add flour and water to remainder. Amount will depend on amount of starter left.

SOURDOUGH BISCUITS

2 cups all purpose flour
1 T. sugar
1 T. baking powder
3/4 t. salt
2 cups sourdough starter
2 to 3 T. softened shortening, butter or oleo

Sift flour, sugar baking powder, and salt into large bowl; pour in Starter. Mix to make a firm dough. Grease a 12 inch iron skillet with shortening. Pinch off balls of dough the size of walnuts and place in skillet. Set biscuits in warm place 10-15 minutes. Bake in 400 degrees oven for 25-30 minutes.

SOURDOUGH BREAD

1 cup milk
One-third cup sugar
One-third cup shortening
1 t. salt
1 1/2 cup sourdough starter
5 cups all-purpose flour
1 package active dry yeast or 1 cake compressed yeast
2 T. lukewarm water

Scald milk; add sugar, shortening and salt. Stir to melt sugar and shortening; cook to lukewarm. Dissolve yeast in warm water. Beat together cooled milk mixture, yeast, Starter, and 2 cups flour. Add remaining flour to make a stiff dough. Turn onto floured surface, knead 5-10 minutes; add only enough flour to keep from sticking. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease surface. Let rise until double, about 1 1/2 hours. Punch down, let rise again, about 1/2 hour; divide into 2 balls, cover with towel and let rest 10 minutes. Shape into 2 loaves and put each in a greased 9x5x3 inch pan. Let rise until double, about 1 hour. Bake in 400 degrees oven for 40 minutes. Turn out and cool.

Farmcast A Weekly Report Of Agri-Business News

National and International Leader... Poultry Declines Noted... Vaccinate Horses Now.

Texas, already recognized as a giant in agricultural production in the nation, will become a major factor in international agriculture in the years ahead.

Texas has excellent port facilities along the Gulf Coast. The Port of Houston was utilized in shipping the 400,000,000 bushels of wheat to Russia.

The pens are already in use in Houston, Del Rio and Eagle Pass. Additional pens are to be built soon at Brownsville, El Paso, and Laredo.

The pens have specially designed loading and inspection chutes, concrete floors throughout, offices and laboratory space, a new hydraulic-type multi-vat for dipping animals as well as other accessories which exceed federal regulations. The pens are also covered.

"Through use of these pens, you can be assured Texas will be a leader in the world in international agriculture affairs," Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said.

The Texas Department of Agriculture is responsible for operating the pens. Texas livestock export business this year is expected to exceed $40,000,000.

Throughout the nation, Texas continues to be the number one livestock state. Texas has more than twice as many cattle and calves than the second place state.

The cattle and calf production population for Texas as of Jan. 1 this year is 15,350,000 head; this is an increase of about 2,500,000 head from 1972.

Beef cows—the factory of the livestock business—numbered 6,320,000 in Texas; this compared with second place Oklahoma's 2,283,000 head.

Texas is also first in the nation in cattle on feed and first in the nation in numbers of sheep and lambs.

THE MAY hatch of egg-type chickens in Texas is down nine per cent from a month ago. The May hatch of broiler chicks is down two per cent from a month ago.

Egg production in Texas during May was seven per cent below a year ago, but four per cent above a month ago.

Nationwide, egg production during May was three per cent below a year ago. Layers on hand declined four per cent from May, a year ago and one per cent below April.

VACCINATE your horse now for the three types of equine encephalitis. The types are Eastern and Western equine encephalitis (EE and WEE) as well as Venezuelan (VEE) which ravaged horses in Texas in 1971.

The three diseases are caused by different viruses that are carried by mosquitoes, and can be transmitted to humans. Effective vaccines are available for all three.

Outward signs of "the three" diseases include depression, lack of appetite, and drowsiness. Animals may frequently grind their teeth and stagger when moving. Death is common.

If there were any doubts about it at all, a report from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service will dispel them regarding cotton and Texas.

During 1972, Texas produced about a third of the nation's cotton crop. Normally, the report on Texas cotton would have been completed much earlier, but the 1972 crop harvest wasn't completed until March of 1973.

The crop for 1972 totaled 4,246,000 bales compared with only 2,679,000 bales produced during 1971. Yield per harvested acre averaged 498 pounds compared with 293 pounds in 1971.

The 1972 upland cotton crop is valued at $446,000,000, compared with $320,000,000 in 1971. Nationwide, a total of 13,702,100 bales was produced, which is 31 per cent above the 1971 crop.

WHEAT harvest continues in Texas amid reports of fuel shortages. As of the first of June, harvest was only five per cent complete compared with 25 per cent in 1971.

Fuel shortage reports continue heaviest in the wheat harvest areas. Custom combine operators apparently are having the most trouble in locating fuel supplies.

Farmers who run short or out of fuel should report that fact to their county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office or the Texas Department of Agriculture.

PEACH production based on June 1 prospects for Texas is forecast at 271,000 bushels, which is less than half of the 604,000 bushels produced in 1972.

RANGE and non-irrigated pasture conditions are six per cent better now than a month ago. Conditions are, generally good to excellent throughout the northern half of the state with some exceptions.

TEXAS continues its honor as the number one cattle feeding state in the nation. As of June 1, cattle on feed in Texas totaled 2,252,000. This is 10 per cent above a year ago, and four per cent above a month ago.

Number of cattle on feed in the seven major cattle feeding states—Texas, Iowa, Arizona, California, Colorado, Nebraska and Kansas—totalled 9,455,000. This is a one per cent increase from a month ago and four per cent more than a year ago at this time.

Placements into Texas feedlots during May total 492,000 head. These placements are 12 per cent below May this year but 91 per cent above the previous month.

Marketings of fat cattle during May totaled 403,000 head, which is 12 per cent above a year ago and 14 per cent above marketings for April.

Cattle producers are continuing to expand production, contrary to some claims by some consumer groups that the cattleman is purposely holding back production in order to keep his price high.

Conservation Conversation...

Reduced air pollution, lower farming costs—these are two goals of a new farming technique being used by Texas Conservation farmers.

Called minimum tillage, the system limits cultural operations to only those essential to crop production.

Mickey Black, District Conservationist for the U.S. Soil Conservation Service at Pampa, said with minimum tillage farming, crops are planted directly into a mulch left undisturbed from the previous crop.

"This system leaves a year-long cover on the soil surface," Black pointed out. "Cover from dead stalks and leaves is one of the best known methods of reducing wind and water erosion."

Black said farmers using the system in the Pampa area report eliminating three to five tractor trips across a field per crop. This not only saves time but it also reduces production costs.

Some of these savings, however, are offset by herbicide costs. Black listed these other major advantages of minimum tillage:

1. Conserves moisture. The protective mulch of crop residues keeps the soil cooler in the summer and warmer in the winter; this effectively reduces evaporation.

2. Better seedling survival. Surface residues protect young seedlings from wind damage or from being covered by soil dislodged during heavy rains.

3. Increased wildlife food and cover. Stalks, leaves, and scattered seed left on the surface greatly benefit quail, pheasant, and other wildlife.

To begin a minimum tillage farming system, Black said farmers should either start with high residue producing crops such as grain sorghum, or plant the first crop into a thick layer of crop residues.

He also said SCS has a booklet available which explains minimum tillage in detail. To get a free copy, contact the SCS office, located at the Courthouse Annex, Pampa, or write the Soil Conservation Service, 919 W. Harvester, (field office), Pampa, Texas.

Brush Is Big Concern

LUBBOCK — Brush covers more than 80 per cent of Texas' rangelands making brush control and methods of managing brush areas a matter of major concern throughout the state.

Brush control and range management research plays a major role in the agricultural program at Texas Tech University, said Dr. Donald F. Burzloff, chairman of the Department of Range and Wildlife Management.

"Our primary function remains teaching and keeping our curriculum dynamic and relevant," said Dr. Burzloff.

Our research goal is to find ways to make the most efficient use of all the renewable resources of rangelands that are beneficial to the citizens of the state.

The professor said, "To do promise and need to be explored in depth, he said. Field research is being continued in soil temperature and herbicidal effectiveness relationships.

Early studies have shown that certain B vitamins added to herbicides can compensate for effectiveness lost in application at low soil temperatures.

Further studies will determine how this works and why and explore further applications in herbicidal practice, he said.

Studies are also being conducted to see if insect populations can be controlled and manipulated to be significantly effective, he said.

Converting mesquite wood to a high protein livestock food supplement by cellulose degrading bacteria is one of the methods of utilizing removed brush now under study.

Further research depends on producing the food product in sufficient quantities for livestock feeding trials, said Burzloff.

"There is some evidence that there is an increase in water yield in areas where deep-rooted plants have been removed. The department has submitted a proposal to study water yield in controlled areas," he said.

The professor explained a water yield study in controlled areas is a long and involved process. He said water quality must be determined and studied throughout the research project.

"Short-term results might not be as promising as long-term results in a project like this. Water quality should change after brush is removed and then improve as grasses replace the brush and become established in a controlled area.

The study is long and not inexpensive. It could take ten years or longer to complete," the professor explained.

"We have begun to accumulate information which indicates it may be undesirable to eliminate all brush on a range. Brush control programs are carefully studied for their impact on wildlife."

"We may one day have ranches of brushland where wildlife is raised in controlled habitats. Wildlife does not do well in brushland and brush control programs are being studied to see if they can be managed in a way that will allow wildlife to be raised in brushland."

"The United States is the world's major supplier of beef and lamb. The United States has the largest number of ranches and the largest number of ranching families in the world."

Sorghum Hybrids Are High Quality Forages

LUBBOCK — Sorghum sudangrass hybrids provide an excellent source of high quality forage during the summer months. But they also can be a prolific source of weedy pests which may take several years to eliminate if they are not utilized properly.

So says Dr. James R. Supak, area agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Lubbock.

"A seed company representative recently described the sorghum sudangrass hybrids as the farmer-stockman's ace-in-the-hole," Supak recalls. "He has a good point. No other forage plant will produce as much digestible forage in the same time period as the sorghum sudangrass hybrids."

Supak emphasizes that by allowing the forage sorghum to reach maturity, the producer actually is losing out in two ways. First, the protein levels and total digestible nutrients of the forage hybrids decline rapidly after they reach the bloom stage. Second, these hybrids are frequently ready for grazing within 25-30 days after planting and often produce 35-40 tons of green matter per acre.

Supak points out that a sorghum hybrid which is planted at different ways such as green chop, hay or silage. In contrast to these features, the sorghum sudangrass hybrids are contributing to, if not creating, some serious weed problems in many areas.

The hybrids are generally planted on cultivated land and utilized as summer pasture or harvested for hay. The following year this land is generally planted to a row crop. If these forage type hybrids were not utilized properly that is, if they were allowed to mature a grain crop, the seed produced will probably constitute a serious volunteer problem the following year.

ALL YOU GOT TO DO IS ASK

The tipoff:

A West Coast professional basketball player in the super star class should know he has been under surveillance for drug involvement. A narcotics detective in the city where he plays and lives has admitted police have been keeping tabs on him.

Q — I got a tough one for you. A Chinese home run, a Texas Leaguer and a Baltimore chop — I know the meaning of these hits, but can you tell me their origin? — Harry Campano, Hamden, Conn.

A — What's so tough? After verifying with Seymour Swiff, Mr. Sports Trivia, these are the answers: Chinese homers originated in the old Polo Grounds, where the outfield walls slanted out abruptly from very short foul lines (slanted, got it?), the Texas Leaguers derived from the hot dry summer air where baseballs didn't carry and apparently produced a lot of blisters over the infield, the Baltimore choppers dated back to the John McGraw era when he managed the old Orioles and ordered his players to hit down on the ball, pro-

Q — Why should there be so much racial tension produced by Henry Aaron's almost sure bet to break Babe Ruth's career record of 714 home runs? Seems to me I've heard insinuations about Aaron's race. It's true that Aaron is a Negro. It's also true that Babe Ruth was a white. The fact that Aaron is a Negro and Babe Ruth was a white is not the cause of the racial tension. The cause of the racial tension is the fact that Aaron is a Negro and Babe Ruth was a white and that Aaron is almost sure to break Babe Ruth's career record of 714 home runs. This is a very big deal. It's a deal that has caused a lot of racial tension. It's a deal that has caused a lot of people to wonder why there should be so much racial tension produced by Henry Aaron's almost sure bet to break Babe Ruth's career record of 714 home runs. Seems to me I've heard insinuations about Aaron's race.

Burfeindt, Crocker Lead Tournament

GRAND ISLAND, N.Y. (UPI) — Braving a stiff 30-mile per hour wind, Betty Burfeindt of Canaan, N.Y., shot a four-under-par 69 and Mary Lou Crocker came in with a 70 Saturday as they tied at 142 for the second round of the $35,000 LPGA Marc Equity Classic.

First day leader Amie Amizich of Honolulu, who fired a strong 66 in the opening round, slid to a 77 to tie for third place with Carol Mann of Baltimore, Md., and first round runner-up Pam Higgins of Columbus, Miss.

Miss Burfeindt, who had a par-73 during the opening round, had six birdies and two bogeys in the second leg of the 54-hole tourney.

Mrs. Crocker, of Louisville, Ky., had to come back from a double bogey on the third hole to gain her share of the lead. She hit a water hazard on the 512-yard, par-five, third and took a penalty stroke.

"The wind was straight in our face out there," she said. "It was treacherous out there today with the wind."

"The wind got to me and I really didn't hit well on the back nine," Miss Burfeindt agreed. She said her worst shots were three wedge shots on the par-five holes.

"I never hit one of them the way I wanted to...those three shots really cost me," the co-leader said.

Miss Amizich, who bogeyed five holes and birdied only one, said, "It was at least a five-stroke wind out there today."

"I'm a terrible wind player," she added. "If the wind dies down tomorrow, I still have hopes."

Two strokes off the pace, tied for sixth, were Judy Rankin of Midland, Tex., Clifford Ann Creed of Alexandria, La., and Marie D'Arcy of Nashville.

KERRVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — The Oilers dropped to 2-17 in the league last season. They were the only team in the league to lose more than 10 games.

The Oilers will open camp in Kerrville, Tex., on Monday. They will be coached by Tom Donahoe. The Oilers have a roster of 30 players.

2 Ahead Of Goalby Dave Stockton Maintains Greater Milwaukee Lead

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Dave Stockton, shooting toward his second Greater Milwaukee Open golf title, maintained his lead in this year's $130,000 tournament with a one-under-par 71 Saturday but first round leader Bob Goalby closed the gap to two strokes after the third round, firing a 69.

Stockton, who won the first G.M.O. in 1968, went into the round with a three-stroke lead over Larry Ziegler and was four ahead of Goalby.

Ziegler dropped by the wayside with a three-over 75 but Goalby took advantage of the hot day.

Stockton's four bogeys to move into second, two strokes off the pace, and make it a two-man race for the $26,000 top prize.

After 54 holes Stockton was a 209, 13 strokes under par on the 7,010 yard Tuckaway Country Club course. Goalby was at 205, 11 strokes under.

Hubie Green, Roy Pace, Terry Small and Homero Blancas followed at 209 and Buddy Allin and Ziegler checked in at 210, six strokes under par.

Par 72 took a beating by 64 players Thursday and by 44 on Friday but it stood up well during the third round. High winds and temperatures in the 90s took their toll Saturday.

Stockton, San Bernardino, Calif., has won $49,727 this year but hasn't finished better than third. His last title came in 1971.

"I was happy with what I shot in that wind—it was rough today," he said. "I'm going out now to work some more on my driver."

Stockton encountered trouble early with a bogey on the first hole. He missed the fairway, missed the green and missed a 15-foot putt.

He managed five birdies but they were offset by four bogeys, leaving him with his 71.

Goalby bogeyed the third hole—the same one he double-bogeyed a day earlier—but then scored four birdies the rest of the way for his 69. One of the birds came on the par-three, 197-yard eighth hole on a 40-foot putt.

"I could have gotten another one on 16 after hitting a long drive, but I blew it with three putts. I was disappointed with that one but otherwise I was satisfied with the round."

"That's the difference between us and guys like (Jack) Nicklaus," he said. "They capitalize on their good shots."

Asked how he liked playing in the same threesome with Stockton, Goalby said, "You've got to kind of forget everyone else and play your own game."

Donohue Best
GAINESVILLE, Ga. (UPI) — Racing only the clock, Mark Donohue effortlessly outdistanced the field in the first heat Saturday of the Carling Can-Am with an average speed of 118.42 miles an hour.

George Folmer, who briefly held the lead and finished second, will start in the same lap with Donohue ahead of the other 18 racers in Sunday's second heat at Road Atlanta.

Donohue, a soft-spoken Pennsylvania, said his Sunoco Porsche, owned by Roger Penske, was "so fantastic, it's beyond words."

Sox Move Up

CHICAGO (UPI) — The red-hot Boston Red Sox, on the strength of southpaw John Curtis' nine hit Saturday, surged to within two games of the Eastern Division lead by routing the Chicago White Sox 7-3 for their 14th triumph in their last 19 contests.

Although the Red Sox managed only nine hits the White Sox made it easy with four errors and some bad mental lapses.

Chicago's errors were costly. They allowed the Sox to score runs in the first, second and fifth innings.

Angels 3, Indians 1

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Mike Epstein's two-run homer in the sixth inning brought Nolan Ryan his 10th victory of the year Saturday and gave the California Angels a 3-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Epstein's homer, his fourth of the season, came after a single by Frank Robinson off Gaylor Perry and tagged the Cleveland righthander with his 12th loss in 20 decisions.

Stockton's four bogeys to move into second, two strokes off the pace, and make it a two-man race for the $26,000 top prize.

Loudd may be NFL's first black owner

ORLANDO, Fla. — (NEA) — Rommie Loudd was flat on his back in a hospital bed with an iron pipe in his left leg, holding his shattered femur together when the idea came to him.

Put together his own professional football team. Bold, improbable. Even for football, because Loudd didn't have any money.

Bowie Kuhn does not lead league in style

By Ira Berkow

NEW YORK — (NEA) — If Bowie Kuhn were a carpenter he would always have a swollen thumb. Even when he hits the nail on the head he runs into trouble.

For example, Baseball Commissioner Kuhn justifiably believes spitballs to be nasty. But when Bobby Murcer, the Yankee slugger, agrees, Kuhn fines him. Well, Murcer did add that Kuhn was "gutless" in not stopping the Indians' Gaylord Perry from heaving such-wet missiles. But did Kuhn first say, well maybe Bobby had a point and let's find out if Perry is in fact a soggy culprit? No.

Kuhn's most notorious case recently may be called "The Grooving of Henry Aaron." Kuhn says he will suspend any pitcher if he lays one on to bad Henry for his 715th career homer, the one that would break Babe Ruth's record.

Kuhn says he wants nothing "to tarnish the achievements of a truly great player such as Henry Aaron."

The sentiments are admirable. But the style, to use Kuhn's own phrase about another matter, is deplorable.

Kuhn is all starch and grav and hair spray and has a smile that can be zipped and unzipped at a moment's notice and a voice made of stained glass.

Because of his solemn humorlessness, he has made a cathedral out of a molehill.

Pitchers such as Juan Marichal, Larry Dierker and Tug McGraw, among seven quoted in an Associated Press story, said they would groove one to Aaron for various reasons ranging from making more money as the dubious accessory to the record, to Marichal's "it would be a trophy."

Later, when they felt Kuhn's heat, they said they were only kidding. They probably were, since the instincts and training of ballplayers is to win games and keep their earned run averages comely. It is unlikely that a skyscraper man would appreciate or comprehend a locker-room gag.

Yet there is a threat, and a legitimate one, to the integrity of the game. Once Denny McLain admitted to me that he grooved a pitch to Mickey Mantle, his boyhood idol, when Mantle was facing him for the last time before retiring. When McLain was later questioned by the league office, he said he was "joking."

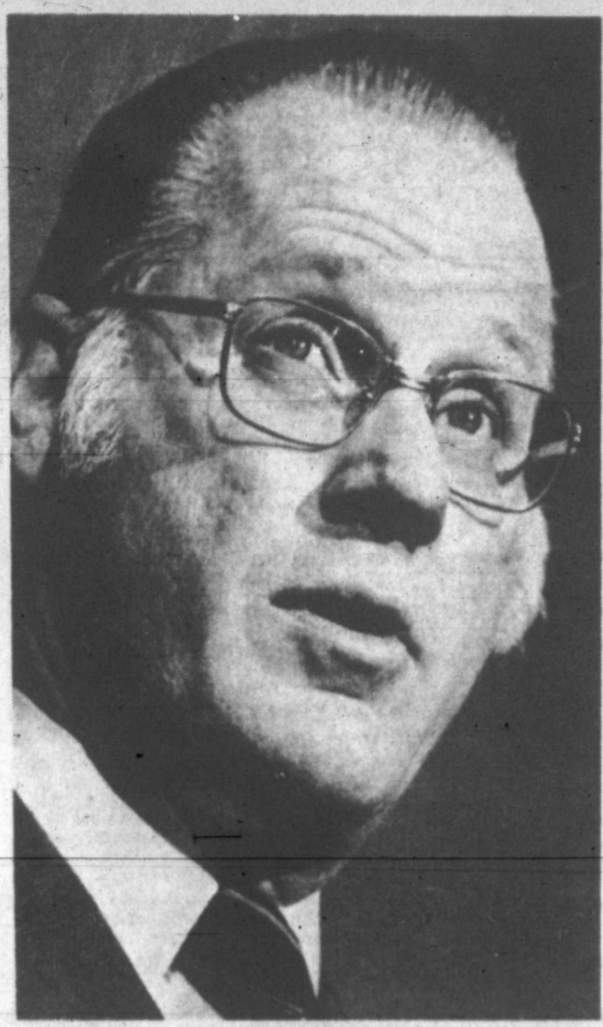

So Kuhn rightfully wants to establish that the game and Aaron's record will not be tarnished. He could have accomplished this by issuing a brief statement reminding ball players of Major League rule 21, about every player always giving his best. Punishment is implicit. It was not necessary to emphasize suspension, thus further taking the spotlight away from Aaron's achievements.

"I get the feeling now," said Reggie Cleveland of the Cardinals, "that the guy who gives up number 715 will be suspended for life."

Kuhn had been set up by the owners as commissioner in 1969. A commissioner is a necessary evil for baseball owners since they would just as soon run the game — which they feel is their business — without the costliness of a stuffed puppet. But tradition, that at once burdensome yet exploitable commodity, is essential to baseball. And the ghost of Judge Landis, who saved baseball with his stern honesty after the Black Sox scandal, survives, as does the ghost of Babe Ruth.

Kuhn's primary job is to uphold the integrity of the game and to follow the owner's carrot. Since he also masquerades as the ballplayer's commissioner, even though he is in constant and heated battle with the Players' Association, it is understandable how his own image is tarnished.

Some other of his actions haven't helped his reputation, either.

Bowie Kuhn

For example, he most recently found the wife-swapping of Fritz Peterson and Mike Kekich "deplorable," and felt a need to speak out and, in some small way, help preserve the integrity of the game. One wasn't sure how the two elements jibed. Most embarrassing to baseball, though, was that as New York writer Maury Allen said, Kuhn raised the issue three weeks after it was forgotten.

And unforgettably, Kuhn suspended Denny McLain in 1970 for three months because of minor gambling peccadilloes, such as actually working out of the Tigers' locker room as a bookmaker.

Why such a light suspension? Kuhn said, with impeccable logic, that McLain never made any money bookmaking or did the owners persuade Kuhn that McLain, then a star, was needed back in the game as a gate attraction?

It is also noteworthy that Kuhn has never uttered a remonstrance about the racist letters Aaron has been receiving. Nor has he so much as wagged a naughty finger at the businessmen who shift baseball franchises around as they were playing with "Marvin Gardens" and "Vermont Avenue" instead of Seattle and Milwaukee. Isn't there a responsibility to baseball integrity of the field, too?

It must also be recalled that Jim Bouton, author of the racy baseball book "Ball Four," credits Kuhn with making him a best-selling author after Kuhn publicly reprimanded him.

This uncanny gift for boomerang publicity has moved Kuhn to hire an agent for $40,000 a year to improve his image.

It will take a big inning to turn that game around.

Pampa Drops 8-5 Decision To Dumas

The Pampa Rebels dropped an 8-5 decision to Dumas in American Legion baseball play Friday at Optimist Park. Pampa is now 3-4 in District 18's north zone having lost twice to both Dumas and Borger. Dumas leads the league with a 9-0 mark.

Pampa went ahead 2-0 in the bottom of the first and maintained the lead until Dumas got four runs in the fifth. A. J. Brewer led off for the Rebels in the first with a single and advanced to second with a steal. Toddy Black singled Brewer across the plate, stole second and advanced to third on Sammy Hipp's ground ball.

Black then scored Pampa's second run of the inning on Ricky Bigham's ground ball to third. Dumas scored its go-ahead runs in the fifth on a three-base error and a wild pitch. The Rebels went back ahead in the bottom of the sixth frame on three runs.

Rick Musgrave led off, walked and then stole second. After the next batter for Pampa was put out, Ricky Bigham singled to score Musgrave and took second on the throw home.

The next batter up, Terry Moore, then singled to score Bigham. Roy Morris got on with an infield single next and Gary Davis was put out to make it two away.

Kory Gambin, in his first district start, punched a curve ball to right to score Moore.

Dumas scored two runs in the seventh inning and one in both the eighth and ninth to close out the scoring.

Pampa coach Dan Hood said that three errors by Rebel players who do not ordinarily make bobbles made the difference in the game.

The Rebels play Groom today at 3 p.m. in Groom.

Milwaukee Rambles, 17-2

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Don Money drove in five runs with a home run and a double while Bob Coluccio hit his first grand slam home run Saturday to lead the Milwaukee Brewers to a 17-2 romp over the Texas Rangers as Eduardo Rodriguez pitched a six-hitter for his first major league win.

John Briggs had walked, Ellie Rodriguez reached base on an error and Pedro Garcia walked before Coluccio's seventh homer of the season in a seven-run seventh inning. Don Money cracked his fifth homer after George Scott and Ollie Brown had singled, also in the seventh.

In the sixth inning, Money keyed a five-run sixth inning outburst with a two-run bases-loaded double.

George Scott had four hits to pace a 18-hit attack while Dave May added three.

Rodriguez, 1-0, gave up single runs in the third and fourth and retired 13 of the last 16 batters he faced.

David Clyde allowed eight hits, three walks, hit one batter and committed a balk in the 4-2-3 innings he worked to even his record at 1-1.

Seeman Signs With Houston

HOUSTON (UPI) — Norwegian professional soccer player Finn Seemann has signed a contract to play for the Houston Oilers of the National Football League. Oiler owner Bud Adams announced.

Seemann, 28, a native of Oslo, Norway, will join the Oilers at their Kerrville, Tex., summer training camp July 16 as a placekicker.

Seemann was named to the Norway National All-Star soccer team 15 times, an honor awarded to the top 11 players in Norway. Adams first contacted Seemann during tryouts he conducted in seven European cities.

Twins 9, Yanks 1

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Bert Blyleven, a winner in nine of his last 11 decisions, stopped New York on eight hits while Bobby Darwin and Jim Holt slammed two-run homers Saturday as the Minnesota Twins beat the Yankees, 9-1, in the first game of a daynight doubleheader.

Blyleven, 11-8, braked a four-game Twins' losing streak as the Dutch-born righthander struck out seven and walked two in the nationally-televised game.

West Texas To Open Season Ticket Drive

CANYON — West Texas State University will open its football season ticket sales push July 17, in Perryton.

The Buffalo coaching staff will tour to seven Panhandle area towns as a group to sell season tickets for the tough six-game home schedule in 1973.

Other towns and dates are Borger, July 18; Dumas, July 19, Amarillo, July 20; Tulsa, July 24; Pampa, July 26; and Amarillo, July 27. The coaching staff will also sell tickets in Hereford one day, but that date has not yet been set.

In addition to the first group of towns, smaller groups of the West Texas State athletic staff will sell tickets in Friona, Dimmitt, Plainview, Panhandle, White Deer, Stratford and Dalhart.

The season ticket sales reached 4,100 in 1972 and over 2,500 of those ticket holders have renewed their tickets.

The Buffaloes tied for the Missouri Valley Conference football title last fall with Drake and Louisville. They open and close their home schedule this year with those two opponents.

Drake is the foe for the season opener Sept. 8 and Louisville closes the year Nov. 24.

In between the two conference contests, the Buffaloes face Northern Illinois Sept. 29, Utah State Oct. 20, Tampa Nov. 10 and Southern Mississippi Nov. 17.

The game with Utah State's Aggies will be the homecoming clash. The Louisville game, which starts at 1:30 p.m., is the only afternoon contest. All other games start at 7:30 p.m. in Frank Kimbrough Memorial Stadium.

The 1973 home slate could be the toughest test of all time for the Buffaloes at home.

Louisville, in addition to earning a tie for the conference title last fall, had a 9-1 season record.

Utah State and Tampa both rolled up 9-2 season marks. Drake and Northern Illinois compiled 7-4 marks. Tampa is new to the Buffalo schedule and Utah State hasn't been played since 1968.

Coach Gene Mayfield's Buffaloes will test five rivals on the road, including games with four MVC opponents. The Buffaloes play Lamar University Oct. 6 in Beaumont in the lone game against a team which is not a conference member.

Conference games on the road are Tulsa Sept. 15, North Texas State Sept. 22, Wichita State Sept. 27 and New Mexico State

TEE-OFF TID-BITS

By Hart Warren

Even though temperatures sizzled to record highs this week, the flood of golfers continued unabated. But some of them have begun playing in the early morning to avoid the heat of the day.

Some of our golfers have left the course on fire with their scorching scores. Dr. Joe Donaldson treated a few of his opponents for heat stroke after his hot round of 71.

Dr. Vic Trammell left the "Big Group" in a trail of smoke with a smooth 66. Someone had better pour some water on him and cool his putter off.

After a lesson from yours truly, David Fatheree had his season low round of 74.

Craig Winborn, the son of Bill and brother of Coyle (and ex-Harvester all-state roundballer), slipped into town and carded a 72 in showing how the game is played in Houston.

M. L. Hall (known to most as "the Indian"), went on the warpath this week and scalped a few palefaces with his "Ugh" — that's Navajo for 70.

Myron Marx got tired of making threes and not getting any skins so he just holed it out for a two on number 14 last weekend.

Paulette Reed put the front and back together for a life-time low round of 63. She and Jan Elston, our two traveling tournament players, went to Panhandle last week to take top first flight honors at the Panhandle Country Club's first annual Ladies Partnership.

My cook Ava played in top form Thursday in Ladies' Day play, shooting a one-over-par 36.

All you golfers planning to play in the Top O' Texas Sept. 1-3, might keep in mind that all entries must be paid by Aug. 1. You also had better hurry and sign up. The 206-man field is already half full.

Another thing. Anyone having a spare bedroom for use by contestants in the Tri-State Seniors Tournament, July 23-27, contact Mrs. Mark Heath at 669-2141 or call the Chamber of Commerce office, 669-3241. The rooms may be complimentary or a reasonable charge may be made.

A GOOD RULE TO KNOW: Identifying your ball. Except in a hazard, the player may lift his ball for purposes of identification and replace it on the spot from which it was lifted, provided this is done in the presence of his opponent in match play or his marker in stroke play.

See you in the rough!

WATCH YOURSELF AT TENNIS

3. Hitting the Forehand

The forehand stroke is one of the most important strokes in tennis. It is a powerful stroke that can be broken down into four components.

The Backswing: The player always starts from the ready position. The right shoulder and arms pivot while the head of the racket is brought slightly up and back. It remains perpendicular to the ground all the way and describes an arc until it points behind you.

The Approach: The left foot is placed forward toward the point of impact, and the left shoulder faces the net. The knees remain slightly bent and the weight rests mostly on the right foot.

The Hit: Now the weight is shifted slowly from the right foot to the left foot, moving the right shoulder toward the net. This shift weight continues through the moment of impact. The ball is hit when it is a little closer to the net than the left foot.

The Follow-through: The body weight is carried further until it rests on the left foot. The right foot serves for balance. The right shoulder follows forward toward the net with the weight of the body until the arm and racket point toward the top of the opponent's backstop.

Billie Jean King, Kodes Win Wimbledon Crowns

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Billie Jean King trounced Chris Evert to win the all-American women's singles for the fifth time at the 87th Wimbledon tennis championships Saturday and, in a situation created by a professional boycott, Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia defeated Alex Metreveli of Russia for the men's title.

Billie Jean, 29, disposed of Miss Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 6-0, 7-5 in 56 minutes while Kodes, the second seed, defeated Metreveli, the fourth seed and first Russian to appear in the final, 6-1, 9-8, 6-3.

Billie Jean said she wanted to take the lead "right off the bat. When Chris gets ahead she just plays better and better." Billie said of her opponent who has been runnerup in the French and Italian championships as well but has yet to win her first major title.

Mrs. King went after Miss Evert with a vengeance, perhaps recalling that once, in Fort Lauderdale, Chris had handed her a shocking 6-0, 6-1 defeat on clay.

Chris tried valiantly throughout, and averted a total second set disaster, coming back from a fatal double fault at the outset to pull even and then lead momentarily at 4-3. The crowd was very much for the 18-year-old who had burst upon the tennis scene two years ago in Wightman Cup play and at Forest Hills, where she lost in the semis to Billie Jean.

Billie Jean won $7,500 in achieving her ambition to become the first woman in half a century to win five Wimbledon singles titles. Miss Evert receives $5,000.

The first American women's final since 1957 brought championship tennis to the All-England center court but the first East-European final in the tournament's 96-year history was only there courtesy of the fact that 73 of the world's top professionals did not compete.

Kodes is a wiry, fast blond with a blond mustache. Metreveli is taller and is often mistaken for an Italian. They both play textbook serve and volley tennis with the margin going to the Czech because he is faster on his feet and his forehand has more pace.

The match was a letdown after the brilliant women's final and there was a mass exodus to the tea rooms for strawberries and cream before the final set.

Neither Kodes nor Metreveli will personally receive their prize money—$12,500 to the champion and $7,500 to the runnerup. But their national associations will probably give them a share of it.

Total prize money was $148,000.

Kodes took the first set in 17 minutes running to 3-0, then breaking to 5-1 when Metreveli doublefaulted at game point.

Metreveli began to get the range in the second set and his kicking game bothered the first Czech titleholder since Jaroslav Drobný in 1954: The Russian had a set point at 5-4 but hammered a service return into the net.

Larry Mahan Gets $$ Lead

DENVER, Colo. — Larry Mahan of Dallas, Texas, took the lead for world champion all around cowboy this week with $28,513, the Rodeo Cowboys Association said.

The five-times world champion all around cowboy now leads Bob Ragsdale by $685. Ragsdale of Chowchilla, Calif., on the injured list, was unable to compete in the rich Fourth of July rodeo run, while Mahan moved ahead with a couple of small wins, including $554 in saddle bronc and bareback riding money at the St. Paul, Ore., rodeo, which ended Wednesday night.

Cowboys pushed themselves to the limit this week competing in 34 association-sanctioned rodeos across the country.

More than $145,000 was won at the week's top eight rodeos, including the Greeley, Colo., Independence Stampede, where prize money was nearly $40,000. But the competition was stiff, spreading the money out. Only 19 cowboys won more than $1,000 each.

Biggest winner was Bob Marshall of St. Martin, Calif., who collected $2,131 in steer wrestling at Cody, Wyo., and Livingston, Mont.

Joe Alexander of Cora, Wyo., was the second largest winner, stretching his lead in bareback riding by picking up $1,842 at St. Paul. Cody and Red Lodge, Mont. Alexander leads his event with $16,568.

Cowboys completed competition Thursday at another major rodeo, Belle Fourche, S. Dak. They were also scheduled to compete in, among others, the Frontier Days rodeo in Prescott, Ariz., which ends today, and the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede rodeo, which ends July 14.

Joe Don Looney Suffers A Setback

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Joe Don Looney, who ran into trouble in his NFL career about as often as he ran with a football,

Mets Lose 9-8

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ralph Garr scored the winning run on a force out in the ninth inning Saturday as the Atlanta Braves rallied for three runs in the ninth to beat the New York Mets who not only lost the game, 9-8, but also the services of outfielders George Theodore and Don Hahn who collided violently while chasing Garr's inside-the-park homer in the seventh.

Garr's homer, his seventh of the season, was a high fly ball to deep left-center field on which both Theodore and Hahn gave chase. They rammed into each other and Theodore was slammed into the outfield wall. Hahn retrieved the ball, threw it into the infield and then fell down again.

After Theodore and Hahn were carried off on stretchers into the clubhouse it was discovered that Theodore suffered a probable dislocated right hip and a possible fracture of the hip. Theodore was sent to Roosevelt Hospital and it was feared the rookie outfielder, who has performed so well, might be lost for the remainder of the season.

Hahn, while badly shaken up, was found to have suffered a bruised left side and bruised ribs but it was not necessary for him to be hospitalized.

Looney suffered a federal appeals court setback in efforts to elude firearms violation charges.

The U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals Friday said a World War II machine gun confiscated at Looney's Diana, Tex., ranch can be used as evidence by the government in prosecuting the firearms charges.

The gun was found by federal agents in a search of Looney's ranch home in April, 1972. U.S. District Judge William Steger ruled last October the weapon was seized during an illegal search by agents who had no warrant.

Looney was arrested with Ronald Frick, an accused cocaine dealer. Frick was accused of trying to make a deal with undercover agents to sell smuggled cocaine.

More importantly, the court said, "he (Frick) had agreed to pay them (the agents) $5,000 to assassinate Federal Chief Judge (Ben C.) Connally to keep him from sentencing Frick's girlfriend for possession of cocaine."

Connally is chief judge for the U.S. District Court for South Texas.

Looney was also charged with possession of marijuana after the raid.

"Looney said there was some grass in the back bedroom and for agents to help themselves," the court said.

Looney played college football at Texas Christian, Cameron (Okla.) Junior College and the University of Oklahoma.

OCAW Holds Skelly Council

The 18th annual meeting of the Skelly Oil Company Wide Council was held at the Holiday Inn in Liberal Kan., in June. Newly elected officers of the council are Jim Hays, president, El Dorado, Kan.; Jerry Brittain, executive vice president, Pampa; Benny Wood, vice president, Eunice, N.M.; Jim Phillips, vice president, El Dorado; and William Ledford, secretary-treasurer, El Dorado.

The council is composed of delegates from Skelly's manufacturing, production, and pipeline divisions. Each delegate is represented by the Oil Chemical & Atomic Workers International Union in his respective area.

The Council plays a role in keeping the Union members informed about developments and changes in company policy which affect the hourly employee within the different divisions.

The company's widespread, diverse operations necessitated the forming of the council to insure better communication between these groups of men in Kansas, Texas and New Mexico.

Delegates from this area were Darwin Allen and Charles McGahen, exploration and production department, and Charles Adkison and Jerry Brittain, manufacturing.

Guests of the council included a three-man delegation from Skelly's Velma, Okla., area and Harold Hartage, District 4 area representative for the OCAW.

TOO MUCH LONDON (UPI) —

The owners of a dress shop in the North London will think twice before offering another close-out sale.

When they opened their store with blouses offered at 5 cents and slacks at $1.25, hundreds of women tried to crowd into the store.

In desperation, owners Michael Wimborne and his father locked the doors to halt the flow. But the women shoppers smashed the shop's three plate glass windows to get back inside.
