Convair Gels Contract For Atomic Plane

FORT WORTH — UP — Convair, which did pioneering research on the first atomic-powered plane, has been awarded a contract to develop an airframe for such a craft.

The Air Force announced Monday contract awards to two companies for development of an airframe for an atomic-powered airplane. The firms were Convair division of the General Dynamics Corp. and Lockheed Aircraft Corp. The amount of the contracts was not disclosed.

Convair will work on its contract at its plant here where it had been conducting tests under an Air Force study contract awarded in 1951. Test flights were made for many months with a B-36 intercontinental bomber equipped with a Convair-built atomic reactor.

The reactor does not power the B-36 but it is activated in flight. The purpose was to study problems of shielding the crew and equipment against radiation, the effect of radiation on materials, the aircraft and its system, and to develop airborne nuclear instrumentation.

41 Area Persons In Scout Meet

A total of 41 area persons attended the Region 9 meeting of the Boy Scouts of America held in Dallas last week end.

Development of the scouting program for better training of leaders and it was discussed at the session. Future plans were outlined for the kick-off of the four year program, "Onward for God and My Country."

Operating committee sessions and commissioner meetings were held, along with a get-together of the 36 council presidents in Region 9. Operation and administrative problems were discussed.

FIVE

No trace of the 11th man had been found by early Tuesday, although rescue crews searched the disaster area Monday and throughout most of the night.

Daniel told the United Press the men in the platoon on the death march were in columns of two when they entered the stream at an oblique angle.

He said he heard no command sending the platoon into the water. "We were in formation and I just followed the man in front of me," he said.

"We weren't but about waist deep (in water) at first but then it got deeper and some of the men had trouble. I heard Sgt. McKee ask several times if everybody was all right."

He said some of the men formed a chain to help those who were bogged down in the mud bottom of the swamp.

Highway Work To Start In May

Work on Highway 182 to Borge will begin about May 1, G. K. Reading, resident engineer of the Texas Highway Department, announced yesterday.

Reading stated that he had received the official work order from the Highway Department yesterday.

The project will consist of widening the pavement to 24 feet with paved shoulders on each side, of 10 feet, from the west city limits of Pampa to the Hutchinson county line. The roadway across McConnell lake will be raised several feet to eliminate the possibility of water covering the pavement.

Gilvin and Terrell of Amarillo will be contractors on the construction work and, according to Reading, they will move in their equipment about May 1 and start the construction of the new roadway. They stated that they would bring in enough equipment to complete the job before cold weather this fall, Reading said.

PRIMARY

The primary provided no popular contest between Mr. Eisenhower and Stevenson, however, because voters were not allowed to cross party lines.

Delegates selected in each party's primary are pledged as to presidential candidates and are not bound by the presidential preference results. Illinois delegates have 64 votes at the Democratic national convention and 60 at the Republican.

To Fly to Florida

Stevenson was scheduled to fly to Florida late Tuesday for a five-day camping in preparation for that state's May 29 primary. Florida will provide the next direct test between Stevenson and Kefauver.

Kefauver campaigned Tuesday in New Jersey and makes an address in New York Tuesday night. He has a slate of delegates entered in New Jersey's April 17 primary against an organization slate headed by Gov. Robert Meyner which technically is overwhelmingly pro-Stevenson.

In a Cumberland, Md., speech Monday night, Kefauver said the Republicans are "in trouble" on the farm issue and will have Mr. Eisenhower making a whistle stop campaign by October despite his assertions that he will campaign largely by television.

Destructive Storm Dwindles Into Rain, Snow Over Plains

By UNITED PRESS

A destructive April storm dwindled into rains and wet snows over the nation's midsection Tuesday, leaving at least 2 million acres of eroded land in Texas.

Skies cleared over Texas and other Southwest states Tuesday after "black dusts" tore away tons of topsoil.

A dollars-and-cents estimate of the damage was still impossible. But the Texas State Soil Conservation office estimated that 2 million acres of land had been eroded by dust storms during the last week.

At least three deaths were blamed in seven years on the dust, the worst in the northeast counted six dead in another wintry outbreak.

New England and other Eastern Seaboard residents were busy cleaning up from the latest of a series of snow storms which have swept the area.

They were heartened by official assurances that a flood threat has passed. It was feared earlier that melting snows would send streams over their banks. But Brig. Gen. Robert Fleming Jr., chief of the

Optimists See Cancer Film

A film on cancer entitled "146,000 Could Live" was shown at the dinner meeting of the Pampa Optimist Club Monday night in Poole's Steak House. Following the film, Dr. Carl Lang discussed the film and various aspects of cancer.

The program was arranged by Dr. N. G. Kadingo, men's organization chairman of the Gray County unit of the American Cancer Society.

The business session was led by John Schoolfield, president.

New England Army Engineers division said Tuesday there is "little chance" of major floods on coastal streams in the region.

The Plains States still had weather troubles, with four to six inches of snow in Kansas. At least 11 small towns in the Dodge City area were isolated from outside telephone communication when ice knocked out 200 long distance circuits Monday.

The storm was centered in the lower Mississippi valley early Tuesday. Thunderstorms hit Texas and the Gulf States, dousing Baton Rouge, La., with 1.73 inches of rain.

Ten Enroll In Economic Study Class

Party-Mad Liner Carries Kelly To Her Prince

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY

ABOARD SS CONSTITUTION — UP — The bride meets the ROCK Tuesday.

This party-mad liner bearing Grace Kelly to Prince Ranier III of Monaco scheduled its first European stop Tuesday at Algieria, Spain, across the bay from the towering Rock of Gibraltar.

If all goes according to plan, the Constitution will then rendezvous with the Monaco royal yacht on Thursday and the blonde American movie actress will step into her prince's arms.

Miss Kelly appeared upset Monday night for the first time since the Constitution left New York. She bristled when someone told her that her father had told reporters they had had a 10-minute heart-to-heart talk.

"What my father and I said is strictly between us," she said. Apparently she had asked members of the wedding party, including her family, not to talk with reporters on shipboard. She was disturbed that stories had appeared in print quoting members of her family.

Her father, John H. Kelly Sr., said he only told her "what any father would say" and was sorry his remarks to reporters upset her.

"I guess she's a lot smarter than all of us," he said.

Miss Kelly displayed to the envious shipboard crowd still another outfit for a party in the suite of the Constitution's captain, Ernest H. Nelson.

She had on a long black evening dress with a white mink stole. She has not worn the same thing twice yet.

After dinner in the main dining room Miss Kelly and 12 members of the wedding party went to the captain's suite at 7 p. m. Everybody wore pink hats but the guest of honor. She appeared somewhat subdued.

Mrs. Hodges fell on March 31 and injured her back. She had been in the hospital since that time.

She is a member of the Harvester-Mary Ellen Church of Christ.

Bomb Rocks Home Of Labor Leader

KANSAS CITY — UP — The explosion of a bomb rocked the home of a labor leader here Monday night who has been actively working for a merger of the two international unions on a state level.

J. O. Mack, president of the Building and Construction Trades Council, was away from his home at the time of the blast about 10:30 p.m.

The bomb exploded against a garage attached to the home, shattering windows and a picture window and splintering wooden panels in the garage door.

The force of the explosion also broke out windows in the homes of neighbors within a block of Mack's home.

Mack has been opposing teamsters leaders, who have attempted to block the merger of the Missouri State Federation of Labor and the Missouri State Industrial Union Council. However, the action was approved in separate meetings of the state AFL-CIO groups here Monday.

At the time of the explosion, Mack and his wife were attending a dinner of the two state groups.

Mack said he had not been threatened but told officers "there seems to be a continuing thing of this sort in the labor movement."

Railroad Police Have A Good Record For Convictions

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
 WASHINGTON — UP — And there stood the nude lady—looking her blonde head off in the aisle of the Pullman car.
 There was, she cried, a mouse in her compartment.
 The conductor looked into the matter while the porter supplied a towel to cover her embarrassment.
 Sure enough a mouse was aboard.
 This sort of thing happened to the same lady so many times on so many railroads that the railroad police got tired of paying the blonde a nuisance fee. Turned out it was a racket and the "lady" carried her own mouse in a shoe box.

Happens All the Time
 According to my friend H. S. Dewhurst, who used to be with the protection section of the railroad police working with the American Association of Railroads, this sort of thing goes on all of the time.
 H. S. (nickname Steve) doesn't recommend the performance.
 The gumshoes of the railroads are on their toes.
 "Sooner or later," is the way Steve put it across a table loaded with club sandwiches and iced tea, "we catch 'em."
 Steve knows whereof he speaks on account of he once authorized a book called "The Railroad Police." It was very revealing.
Top Conviction Record
 About 60,000 folks are arrested by railroad police each year for law violations. They run a gamut from felonies to misdemeanors. And if you have a mind to violate the rules consider this: The police of the rails hold an exceptional record of getting convictions in 98 per cent of the cases tried.
 The files of the rail police show some interesting cases.

What's New In Washington

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
 WASHINGTON — UP — What's new in Washington?
 It hasn't been settled yet, but the capital may yet remain the only place in the country where you can get a drink on election day. Normally - voteless Washington residents will cast ballots on May 1 in a "primary" to name delegates to the national political conventions. The bars around town haven't had word yet whether they can open for business at 8 a.m. as usual.
 The copyright section of the Library of Congress sometimes gets requests to copyright song titles early, some late. The folks out there were a little startled when two claims came in at the same time, none related. One was a song titled "Spring Is Here." The other, "Santa Claus Is Here."
 The FBI reports that during the Easter tide and blossom time, something like 6,000 visitors a day-tromped through their exhibits. Looking at guns once fired by the unholly likes of John Dillinger, Ma Barker and her boys, Alvin "Creepy" Karpis, and "Baby Face" Nelson. Not one gun was missing after the mobs dwindled. The FBI is on the job, as always.
 Rep. Leslie C. Arends, the Republican from Illinois, has sent his congressional friends a poem to soothe the soul during election year. It reads:
 "Among life's dying embers
 "These are my regrets:
 "When I'm right no one remembers
 "When I'm wrong, no one forgets."
 Delta Airlines got this letter, which was sent to its Atlanta office: Verbatim, it said:
 "Dear sir or madam:
 "Did you fill out a plane ticket for a man black headed about bald, five feet nine in. tall and all of his teeth out which was go-

Premium Action at the Price of Regular!

Yes Sir! Here's a new gasoline at the price of regular, powered with higher than ever octane and new gas saving MC4 that will give smooth, knock-free power and even more miles per gallon.

We say "premium-action" because its octane has been raised to that of premium grade of only a few years ago.

MC4, in New Mobilgas R, is the most effective combination of chemical additives ever put in any gasoline.

Here's how MC4 boosts engine power, efficiency and saves gas—

- Controls harmful preignition
- Extends spark plug life—corrects spark plug misfiring
- Cleans carburetors—keeps them clean
- Reduces stalling

SAVE THE DIFFERENCE

Seven out of ten cars on the road today can now use Mobilgas R with MC4. Try Mobilgas in your car!

DRIVING A NEW SUPER COMPRESSION CAR?

You need the highest octane gasoline to prevent harmful engine knock. We make another grade of Mobilgas—a new super compression Mobilgas Special. It's specially refined to meet the peak power demands of all 1956, '55 and '54 super compression V8 cars. Further improved with new, gas-saving MC4 to give you even more power, even more miles per gallon!

Liberace Waving Farewell To His Television Show Series

By ALINE MOSBY
HOLLYWOOD —UP— Liberace fans may not recover from this, but the pretty-toothed pianist is waving farewell to his television series that made him a living-room idol.
The gracious musician has played his last "Blue Danube" by that candelabra for his guild firm series that brought sighs from fans and cries of anguish from music critics back in 1952.
He also is temporarily out of movies because "I didn't make enough money to keep me in candles" from his first movie, "Sincerely Yours."
But Liberace has grander plans: A lavish Las Vegas night club act, a dramatic show and "spectaculars" on television, a Mozart concerto in the Hollywood Bowl — 67 pages of music (memorized) and a foreign tour.

"Everything I do from now on will be important," the new Liberace told me over lunch at the Brown Derby. For the benefit of you style-conscious men, he was wearing a grey silk suit and a polka dot shirt with matching tie.
"My agreement was to make 117 TV films and I have made them so the series is completed," he explained. "We just filmed the last 39 that will run next season."
"When I started the series I always planned to do something different after it was completed. My TV series was an important chapter in my life — but just a chapter."
He's Fired With Ambition
"I've had a taste of so many wonderful things and I'm fired with ambition to do more. I never allow myself to get self-satisfied."
Liberace's new act, opening April 24 at the Riviera in Las Vegas, will feature Vampira, a local TV glamour ghoul. Liberace will be

Home Building Seasonal Rise Is Considered As Uncertain

By ROBERT F. MORISON
WASHINGTON, April 7—UP— Home building across the country has turned upward but how high it will go is uncertain.
As in 1955 one of the big uncertainties is a nagging shortage of mortgage money. There are signs the situation has improved but the entire economy is running at a high level with nearly all quarters in need of loan funds.
Government officials say the record anticipated spending for new plant and equipment by business is bound to strain the funds available.

in the same months of 1955. Thus the net additions to lending funds at savings and loan institutions, which claim to finance more than 40 per cent of all new houses built, was 3.2 per cent less than in 1955.
More Savings Accounts Needed
It is estimated that it takes eight savings accounts to finance the purchase of a home. With most other forms of lending — to consumers and business — running at levels as high as in 1955, it appears that savings must pick up sharply if a real loosening up of the home mortgage money market is to come about.

The pace of new construction in February turned up for the first time since last July. New starts of privately-financed housing units were put at 76,800, some 3,800 better than January although 11,100 under February, 1955.
The rise was described as "seasonal."
The National Association of Real Estate Boards recently reported that mortgage money is "increasingly" available in smaller communities. It is in the more remote areas where the hardest pinch occurs.
The federal home loan bank board, through which member savings and loan companies obtain credit to help finance home mortgage lending over and above their savings deposits resources, this week reported on the movement of savings in January and February.
It was found that while total savings continued to rise, withdrawals also were up. In January new savings were estimated at $2,010 billion and withdrawals at $1,588 billion, leaving a net gain of $422 billion. New savings in February were $1,080 billion and withdrawals $740 billion, leaving a net of $340 billion. The so-called "withdrawal ratio" was 75.3 per cent, compared with 69.5 per cent

Experts describe the present money market as "nervous" and seemingly uncertain of the immediate future.
The bank board also reported that in February mortgage lending activity moved ahead of February, 1955.
February's volume for new construction was $273 million, about 3 per cent better than February 1955. Loans made during January and February for new construction amounted to 38 per cent of the total, compared with some 34 per cent a year before. Loans made for buying existing homes were off in volume but amounted to about the same proportion of the dollar total in both periods — 44 per cent.
AGUACALIENTE, Mexico —UP— The odds on Nadies, winner of the Flamingo and Florida Derby, went up from 8 to 5 to 2 to 1 Monday in the Caliente future book on the Kentucky Derby. However, Needles remains the favorite. Career Boy is next at 4 to 1, while Head Man is rated third at 5 to 1.

regressed a la Bridey Murphy to portray Johann Strauss and a court jester.
"I hope to do TV spectaculars of the Las Vegas show and also of 'The Great Waltz,'" he said. "I want to act in a live dramatic show. And I'd like a TV show where I would be host, like Perry Como."
Schedules Tour
Liberace, his candles and flashy suits take off on a nationwide tour May 18. Next October European music lovers will get their first look in person at the controversial pianist when he opens in London.
"I will use more classical music," he said. "In the Hollywood Bowl I will give them the most ambitious dose of it — 67 pages of Mozart."
"Memorized, of course," he added.
Victorious at Nice
NICE, France —UP— Christine Marvellis of Belgium defeated Brazil's Ingrid Metzner, 6-0, 7-5, Sunday to win the women's singles title in the Nice International tennis tournament.

Horse Called 'Elijah' Befriended By Mayor

GUNNISON, Colo. — UP — A horse called "Elijah" probably will be kicking up his heels every time he spots a plane if he survives the snow and cold of Colorado's Collegiate mountain range.

Gordon Warren, operator of Western State Aviation Service here, and one of his pilots, Wallace Powell, have been awaiting Elijah since Powell spotted him last month trapped between 14,399-foot Mt. Tarvard and 14,172-foot Mt. Yale.

The operation is being financed by Mayor Ben Jorgenson, who said the twice-a-week flights to feed the trapped horse would continue as long as the animal is unable to make its way to safety. That will be when the snow melts in the higher mountains, which may take until June.

Warren said Elijah, named after the Biblical prophet who was fed by ravens in the wilderness, is always waiting for them to drop the hay.

Kicks Up Heels

"When we make a pass to drop the first half-bale he runs around and kicks up his heels. By the time we make the second pass he's eating and doesn't even look up," Warren said.

The 13-year-old Gunnison May-

No one seems to know just how Elijah and the other steed became trapped in the high mountain country, but it's a good bet Elijah will make it to a more suitable habitat if the haylift continues.

IT'S THE LAW IN TEXAS

April 1 was the deadline for most Texans to render their property to certain taxing agencies. State laws require all real and personal property to be rendered for taxes on or before prescribed dates. Those who fail to comply can blame only themselves for the money loss they may consequently suffer.

Some Texas cities set their own tax deadlines. These are the cities of more than 5,000 population which have incorporated under the "Home Rule" provisions of our statutes. All other cities are governed by the general laws of Texas.

In towns operating under the general laws property must be rendered for taxes between January 1 and April 1 each year. A number of home rule cities set up the same requirements in their ordinances; while others prescribe different periods.

For state and county tax purposes, property must be rendered to the County Tax Assessor by April 30, and homestead exemptions must be claimed by the same time.

In some localities a third taxing unit is involved — the independent school district. In other places school taxes are collected by the city or county. In addition, some localities have water, irrigation, or levee districts which assess and collect taxes. Make inquiry as to where these various taxes are assessed, and as to applicable deadlines for rendition.

What property must be rendered for taxes? If Texas laws were strictly enforced, we would be required to render to all taxing units nearly every piece of real and personal property which we own, down to the very clothing on our backs. An exception is the constitutional exemption of $250 worth of household furniture. However, no taxing unit carries their requirements this far, and it will be necessary to inquire of each tax assessor when rendering your property whether specific types of property are ordinarily rendered in that locality. Some cities and counties collect ad valorem taxes on automobiles, television sets and other personal items, while others ignore practically all personal property. Business and professional men are generally required to render all merchandise, furnishings, fixtures, business automobiles and equipment.

If property is not rendered by the tax payer, it may then be placed upon the unrendered tax roll, and the taxing agency places such valuation thereon as it considers fair. One advantage of rendering your property is that you can set your own valuation. Then, if the county or city decides a higher valuation is in order, you will be given an opportunity to appear before a board to explain why the higher figure should not be used in computing your taxes.

Thereafter, an appeal to the courts is possible in some instances. Generally speaking, however, the courts are unable to strike out a valuation unless the agency or board has acted arbitrarily and placed on the property a valuation higher than that placed on comparable property owned by others. If you do not render, the valuation set by the taxing agency is final. Remember these facts: You may need to render your property at three or more different tax offices. Ask each tax assessor if in doubt concerning the deadline or the rendering of specific personal items.

(This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts because the facts may change the application of the law.)

A Lot To Learn

Primarily these remarks are addressed to those youngsters, male and female, who have entered upon their teen years and have not yet passed their early twenties. Its theme might be: "You have been put upon and you'd better start protecting yourself in the clinches."

It's extremely doubtful if these youngsters of the Panhandle or anywhere else are going to get this information in the class room or even from their parents. The western world in which they are growing up could have been the most wonderful atmosphere in the historic march of Man but it has been living upon its moral fat for a long time and is now approaching a point of spiritual debility. Our society has abandoned its endowment of moral capital and in self-defense against its guilt has adopted the philosophy that natural laws as applied to morals are only "myths."

As a point of reference we want to suggest that each youngster take the time to read three readily available Yardsticks of Morality: the Ten Commandments in the Old Testament of the Bible, the Sermon on the Mount in the New Testament and the Declaration of Independence which may be found in the World Almanac. In the first two he will find the obligations placed upon men and in the third a delineation of natural rights. To round out this research, to pin-point specific political factors, the original American Constitution and the Bill of Rights should be read carefully.

Now we come to conditions and attitudes under which these youngsters are growing into adulthood.

Atop this list is the propaganda of the vicious illusion that there are many things in this world that are free. Let us put it to the youngsters that this is simply a semantic twist of words. If a thing is free it calls for no compensation. But this is untrue even of the air we breathe for which Nature takes in return carbon dioxide expelled from the lungs for its own purposes and even in the Grace of God Who requires in return for what He gives liberally love, obedience to His commands and sacrifice. Beyond these simple things which are "freely" available if not devoid of compensatory requirements, the "quid pro quo" in all matters is all too obvious, despite the fact that the exchange is not always in kind.

What we would emphasize is the non-existence of economic and political freedom under existing conditions imposed upon the younger generation without their having any voice in the development. And what we would like to have them understand is that these shackles on their economic and political lives are being forged while they are persuaded to the illusion that they are not in chains at all.

Perhaps, we should put it more bluntly, to wit: that they are subject to greater claims upon their efforts and greater regulation than were their fathers or grandfathers.

These conditions speak for themselves:

1. The American youth is legally obligated to serve a fixed period of his life in military training. (This obligation falls only upon the males under existing law but only political expedience prevents it from being extended to females.) Under the American system, no peacetime draft for the armed forces existed as shortly ago as 17 years.

2. The American youth is legally subject to a levy upon his income to a minimum requirement that rarely falls below 20 percent and can rise to a maximum of 92 percent. Without holding a single brief for the vicious income tax laws which through constitutional endorsement less than 50 years ago laid the cornerstone for perversion of the American Republic into a socialist state, it is still a fixed fact that the subtraction of personal earning power and wealth was not general as shortly ago as 20 years.

3. The American youth is born with a debt on his shoulders of approximately $1800, a debt contracted in all likelihood before he was born for a military program for which he may have no sympathy but toward which he will have to pay in an exact ratio to his inability to pass it along to the next generation as his elders have passed it on to him. There was no such debt 20 years ago.

4. The American youth is subjected to a greater or less degree depending upon individual circumstances to a government within a government in his economic life. There is a steadily increasing probability that he may have to join a labor union losing the right of free bargaining for wages with an employer or that he will have to deal with a labor union to obtain workers losing most of his control over whom he may hire or fire. And should he escape direct dealing with the labor hierarchy he will still be affected by them in the prices he pays for goods he buys boosted in cost by artificial impediments upon production. This enfranchisement of organized labor unions as a subsidiary government over work and production is a development of the past 25 years.

5. The American youth is growing up in a world where he is forced by law to share the profits of his own ingenuity and energy. He may live in Texas and pay a subsidy for electric power in the deep South or for crops grown in the Mid-west or for an army in Israel. This national and international dissipation of his resources is a development of the past 20 years.

6. The American youth is living in a world where his political servants have become the governors of his morals. It is only within the last few decades that acceptance has been granted to the thesis that a political agency can determine with whom a man or woman must associate, where and how he can build his house, what he can plant and harvest, whether he can travel.

We could extend the list much further but it would add redundancy to redundancy to point out that the American youth is growing up in an age in which security is more important than liberty to his elders who have been conditioned by crisis after crisis to surrender of personal independence.

The one great fear of the majority of these elders is the fear of freedom itself. They have lost their confidence in their ability to handle it and they have fallen into a trap against which old Ben Franklin warned when he said: "They that can give up essential liberty to obtain a little temporary safety deserve neither liberty nor safety." And in truth they act neither. But worse than the alienation of their ability of assuming the responsibilities of freedom is the fact that their sins are visited upon

The Rights Of Property— A Refutation Of Communism and Socialism XXVII.

In Adolphe Thiers' book, "A Refutation of Communism and Socialism," his chapter "On the Suppression of Competition," from which we quoted the last few articles, shows that the American people have been rapidly succumbing to the belief that competition should be eliminated by certain groups such as the farmers and the labor unions and the manufacturers by having the government arbitrarily set prices and restrict competition. This is the way he ends this chapter:

"And so, industrial associations, endowed by the State, would come to an agreement not to produce too much, or to produce at one price instead of another; they would thus secure to themselves the means of realizing a sufficient profit, not ruin the capitalists who would have lent their money, and give wages to the people, working leisurely under their own benevolent superintendence, working only ten hours, nine hours, even less, and compensated for the equality of wages by dividends! Here, I see some proof of practical genius, and I grant at once, that under this convenient system, the capital of associations would not be compromised, their internal disorderly condition, their idleness, would be compensated for; that there would be a sure remuneration for capital, an infallible dividend for the workmen, whether they worked well or not; this I grant without hesitation. Take ten manufacturers, one hundred, it matters not what number, let them come to an understanding as to the amount of produce, in so much that they may not increase it at will. Then, indeed, they may name their own prices, for prices are only lowered by a glut in the market; they may be as unskilful, as idle as they please; they may go into the country, leave a clerk in their counting-houses, and for all that they will realize great fortunes; for profit depends upon prices, and prices on the quantity produced. If such be the discovery, I humbly bow to the genius of its authors. This, in effect, is the first among all those of the day which presents us with an imaginable result. Yes, on these conditions, the associations for workmen will succeed, and I should no longer feel any anxiety as to the fate of their capital, or the form of their government! But is this what they want?"

"It will be said that I exaggerate, in order to make the philosophers, my contemporaries, appear ridiculous. This I deny, for such a manner of arguing would be unworthy the seriousness of the circumstances. But I ask what would be done in order to act otherwise than I have just been describing? What, indeed, is complained of? That every one, left to himself, by a vast competition, causes a reduction in prices. Is this the case; — yes or no? How then to remedy it? Will every one be allowed to produce as much as he pleases, as formerly? But then the evil would be exactly the same. It will not have been remedied in the least."

"Such then is the society which you would wish to establish, an immense monopoly in a republic, after the fall of several monarchies, which were upset for the crime of monopoly; — monopoly in elections, monopoly in publicity, monopoly in taxation! Such would be the upshot of the new fraternity!"

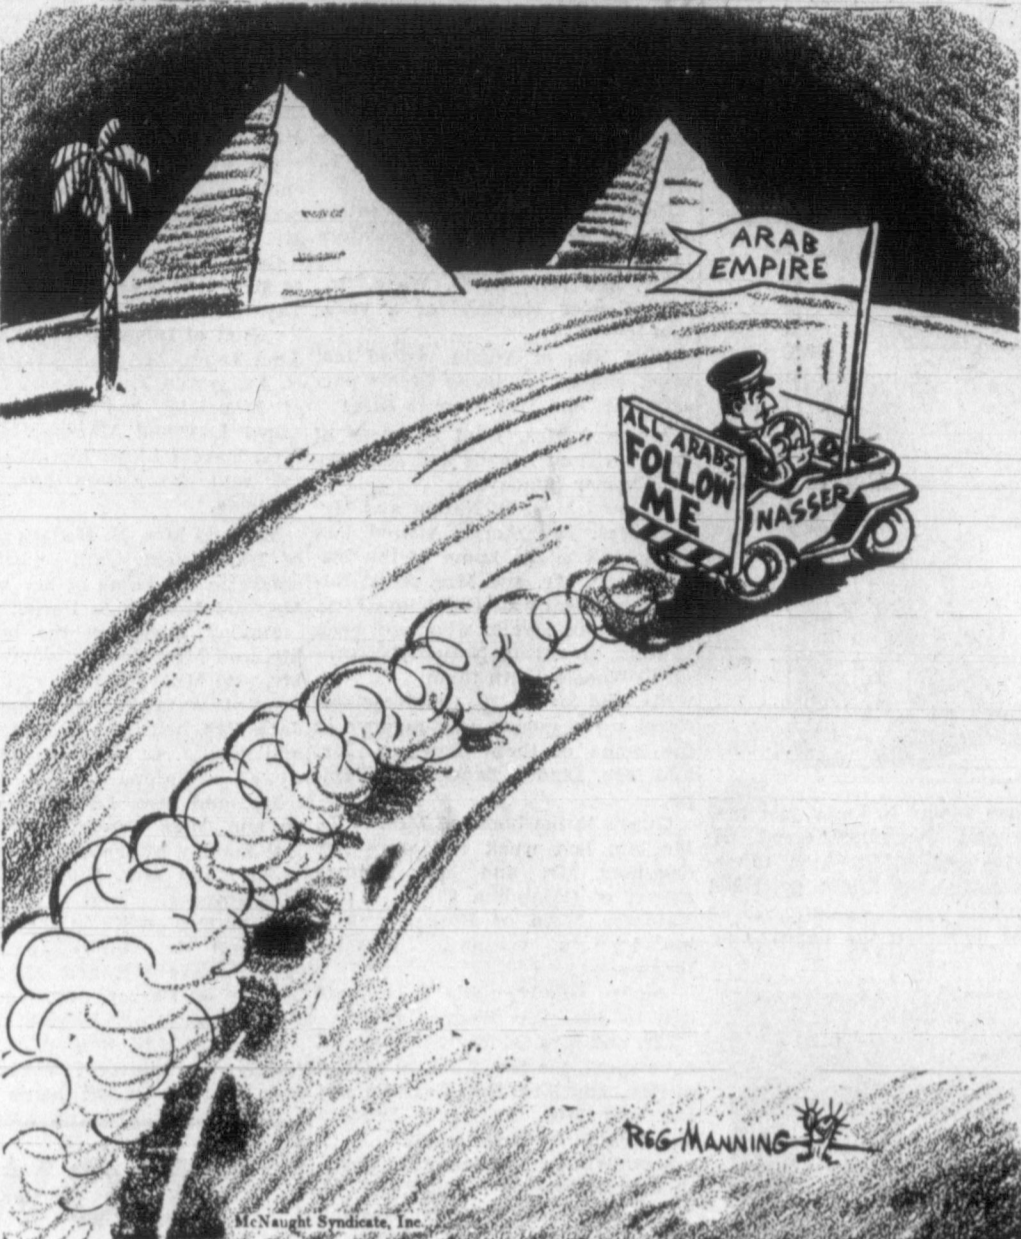

"But the unfortunate peasantry, which would be unable to enter the system of association, the workmen of all kinds who labour either individually or three or four together, and who would not enjoy the benefit of monopoly, what would become of them? They would supply bread, meat, furniture, dwellings, at competition prices, retained for them alone, and a few of the workmen in towns, taking advantage of the power of agglomeration, which had opened to them the gates of the Luxembourg for a few days, would make the former pay for all manufactured articles - cottons, cloth, ploughshares - at a price fixed by themselves; and you would call that justice, the love of the people!"

"The inventors of association cannot escape from the alternative in which I have here placed them: either the capital which the associated workmen would have received, and which they could only receive from the State, would be compromised, lost by the principle inherent to collective undertakings; or, they might limit the quantity, fix the price, and thus save the capital and secure the profits, by condemning nine-tenths of the population to pay all manufactured produce at an arbitrary price. Either an absurd speculation, the capital of which (for what reason is not known) would be supplied by the mass of contributors; or a safe speculation, the exaggerated profits of which would be paid by the mass of tax-payers."

"Thus, in the presence of the peasantry, whose life is ever a hard one; of a great portion of the population of towns, living on wages fixed by competition, — the well-being of the people (you say) would be provided for, by constituting the monopoly of a few large establishments, where the workmen have the advantage of being collected 1,000 or 2,000 together? A new aristocracy, having for its principal title the agglomeration of hands."

"I deny then to the inventors of association the title of Friends of the People. Far from being their true friends, they are the flatterers of a few classes of workmen, whom they made use of to intimidate the government, and to oppress the Republic if they succeeded. Such is the exact truth. Declaim as much as you like, it will remain such as I have exhibited it."

Economic Struggle Blamed For Legislative Stalemate

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The basic reason for the legislative stalemate in Congress, which has drawn charges that the 84th session is a "do-nothing" body, lies in the fact that rural and urban blocs are locked in a bitter economic struggle. Their rivalries smash Party lines, split conservatives and liberals, and block effective or constructive action. They are responsible for President Eisenhower's "disappointment" over the lack of accomplishment.

The two groups, dubbed "city folks" and "country folks" in the colloquialism of Congressional corridors, have been squabbling for years as each faction sought advantages for its clientele. But never before have they clashed so fiercely and in such a head-on manner as at the current session. Sectionalism dominates Capitol Hill proceedings utterly.

Although the feud does not recognize Party affiliations or allegiances, since it is an every-man-for-himself affair, Eisenhower Republicans have generally sided with the urban or consumers' group although the GOP's historic strength is supposed to lie outside the great cities. It is a peculiar shifting of political values.

The Democrats, whose votes in five victorious Presidential contests were piled up through F.D.R.'s appeal to tenement dwellers, have become the champions of the voters on the farms and in the hinterland.

The Natural Gas Bill, for instance, was sponsored by Southwestern Democrats from the producing areas. It was fought mainly, and every kind of industrial improvement sacrificed to monopoly; — such is the true system of association!

"Thus, in the presence of the peasantry, whose life is ever a hard one; of a great portion of the population of towns, living on wages fixed by competition, — the well-being of the people (you say) would be provided for, by constituting the monopoly of a few large establishments, where the workmen have the advantage of being collected 1,000 or 2,000 together? A new aristocracy, having for its principal title the agglomeration of hands."

their children for generations to come. If the youth of America wants to return to the path of liberty, it will have to fight its way back. It cannot surrender to despair and succumb to the same inertia that grips the older generation in the philosophy: "This is the way things are; we'll have to make the best of them." If they do they'll be making the best of a bad bargain. Each generation has within itself the power to illuminate the pages of history and the youth of today can become the same giants in the eyes of tomorrow as the Founding Fathers of this Republic in a yesteryear. We don't know whether they'll do it; we can't blueprint the way they ought to do it. But the essential ingredients of success are personal integrity and a dependence upon their own resources.

Fair Enough

Income Tax Worse Than Prohibition

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The income tax is a much worse imposition on the American people than prohibition was. After all, though denial of alcohol was a discomfort and even a hardship to a few, the Eighteenth did not limit or impair our manhood. Nevertheless, though it became technically effective seven years after the income tax, the people revolted instinctively and immediately and carried on a spectacular rebellion, including a wave of crime that swept the whole nation, until repeal came in 1933. The Government's effort to enforce prohibition was attended by frightful corruption in public office and was frankly brutal even to the extent of homicidal intent in the deliberate contamination of alcohol with deadly poisons when it was clearly understood by administration and whole people that some of this lethal booze would be drunk by unsuspecting victims and would kill them.

The Harding, Coolidge and Hoover administrations were stuck with this amendment and its attendant federal enforcement acts, a heritage from the Woodrow Wilson regime, which also initiated the income tax, though not as a Democratic partisan invention. However, Wilson put through the military draft under a false pretense of national peril. Harding was a booser himself and, had he lived, might have struck a few blows for freedom out of a fellow-feeling for others like him. Coolidge was personally apathetic about liquor and enforcement was in his view a normal function of the Government.

Hoover was widely regarded as a personal dry and I shared his opinion and the popular detestation of the man, himself, until shortly after repeal when the late Deak Aylesworth, the advertising fellow, hooked him arm through mine in the Waldorf lobby and said, "come on, I want you to have a drink with a good friend of mine." A few minutes later I found myself in Mr. Hoover's suite with a glass in my hand pleasantly charged with bonded goods. It is my impression that Mr. Hoover took only charged water, explaining that he had a business engagement. However, on another occasion he certainly did serve liquor and wine and I was obliged to abandon, though not entirely, a grudge which I had cherished for a long time. I say not entirely because Hoover never did atone for his unashamed refusal to condemn a law which he knew to be had in principle and harmful in its effects in all directions. Moreover, he had implied that he would abide by a survey which was duly made by his obstinate failure to comply was breach of political faith and probably a contributing cause of considerable death and crime in the latter days of the Eighteenth. The Country believes Roosevelt was responsible for repeal, but he had nothing to do with it beyond his melodious declaration in his acceptance speech in 1932 that thenceforth prohibition was "doomed." He had never taken a stand against prohibition and his wife was a dry. She was the daughter of a bootlegger so depraved that he was banished on remittance to the hills of Western Virginia and she grew up more or less in the company of a couple of uncles who were spectacular rumrunners.

At Smith and John Rankin were the principal political fighters for repeal, but it should not be forgotten that most of the population of the period, starting at the age of say, 18, drank faithfully in a grand rebellion. Thousands of them sacrificed their lives in the cause.

It is a strange fact that although editorial opinion was almost unananimous against prohibition and endorsement and constantly gave aid, comfort and even counsel to the scoundrel, a word that won a cash prize from the dregs, no such campaign ever has been waged against the income tax. Governor Bracken Lee of Utah, has had no encouragement from the press in his long refusal to pay the tax because some of his money would be used for gifts to foreign nations. Viven Kelmens was ridiculed rather than supported. And the plaintive and thus far futile Constitutional Amendment, as was done in the case of prohibition and repeal, have been ignored. Even millions of people who pay the taxes, many of us working at least half our time in the service of the Government without pay, have never taken the spark as almost all of us did against prohibition.

The Sixteenth is basically an absolute repeal of all our rights retained for us under the Constitution. It says Congress may levy a tax on our incomes from whatever source and fails to limit the portion so that, actually, this amendment gives Congress the power to take it all. That means that we may retain for ourselves only as much as Congress says we may and that, of course, means that Congress has the power to pass a law throwing us absolutely into the service of the Government, a civilian peacetime draft of all the labor and all the income of all the American people.

This undenied fact has never disturbed the people of the United States and current efforts to limit the tax for reasons of economy but without concern for our liberty, will fail as all others have before.

Jap Drama Group Returns Favor Of N. Y. Yankees

By HENRY McLEMORE

In courteous repayment, perhaps, for the visit of the New York Yankees to their homeland last Fall, a Japanese drama group is in this country to perform Kabuki plays.

On the other hand, the arrival of the Kabuki troupe could very well be an act of revenge. Having endured Casey Stengel's magnificent unintelligible, the Japanese might figure it is our turn to be bewitched, bothered, and bewildered.

I don't use the word "revenge" lightly — I mean just that, I have seen a Kabuki play on its home grounds, Tokyo, and it was an experience which I am sure exceeded my growth, reduced the resale value of my ears, and left me in a rundown condition, badly in need of a tonic.

The type of play known as Kabuki originated in China, I believe, and was borrowed by the Japanese. Since borrowing it some 300 years ago, the Japanese have refined it until it is an exquisite torture, worthy to rank alongside the pouring of water, drop by drop, on a victim's head, and the tickling of the soles of his feet for hours on end.

If the Kabuki group plays your city, don't attend without making adequate preparations. When you present your ticket, be sure that your stomach is filled to capacity, because a Kabuki play runs anywhere from seven to nine hours. The one I saw — "Yoshi Tsumi Sembon Zakura" — ran nine hours, and I made the mistake of going to see it with only a steak dinner under my belt. A box lunch, is my advice.

I must admit that the nine hours won't seem like nine hours, because you are certain to sleep a good deal of the time. I know I did, even though the star of the play was Kikugoro, one of the most celebrated actors of them all. I would have slept even more soundly had it not been for the music, which issued from two houses, one in each wing. From these oversized chicken coops came some of the weirdest music ever to strike my ears. I never saw the musicians or their instruments, but I still would like to know what the fellows were playing to produce such bizarre sounds.

If you go to see a Kabuki play, and happen to draw the same play I did in Tokyo, don't waste your time trying to figure out what it is about. I tried to, and so did the friends who were with me, and we all came up with different solutions.

During a major portion of the play the star sat cross-legged on the floor in the center of a bare stage and moaned and groaned, occasionally changing expression on his chalk-white face. He was sad about something, that was certain, but about what? Once in a while visitors would drop by the center of the stage and say words to him, but none could stop his moaning.

It was like a forerunner of our TV play "Medic," only the doctors never got around to curing this fellow's stomach-ache, misplaced disc, or whatever it was he had. They just left him in the reception room and forgot all about him.

One of my friends figured that the play was a documentary on the unfolding of a century plant, but the action seemed a bit slow, even for the telling of that story.

But the Japanese around us loved it. They sat on the edges of their seats, enthralled. Or was that just to guarantee they'd be in the best position to make a quick exit when the final curtain fell?

I'll never know, because I wasn't there when it did!

THE ORIENTAL LOOK continues in high fashion and Trifari sought inspiration there for some of their loveliest spring jewels. Baghdad is as spectacular as the city for which it is named. Lustrous necklaces of fresh water pearl-pearls have a variety of center motifs of delicate gold-tone filigree, set with simulated cabochon sapphires, emeralds and rubies that create an effect of barbaric splendor, streamlined for the American woman by Trifari's imaginative designers. The Baghdad earrings range from mammoth chandeliers to large buttons and the bracelets are wrist-circlers of fresh water pearls embellished by the oriental medallions. Baghdad has a wonderful group of pins that include a long, gleaming Persian leaf, a slim half-circle terminating in golden carved dragon heads, and an enchanting elephant, turtle, bird and peacock with bodies made of a single enormous cabochon of the glowing jewel colors.

MIRAGE, also of oriental inspiration, is a series of necklaces, bracelets, earrings and pins that is exciting in a multi-color combination of milk tone, pale sapphire and light amethyst or may be had in any of these colors alone. The stones seem to merge with the metal of the settings and produce a mirror-like, unusual effect — truly a mirage.

Trifari's Treasure Island collection is given an oriental flavor by its lavish use of pearl pearls in combination with gold tones. This ever fashionable combination comes in a variety of beautiful styles among which Catalina and Coronado are especially interesting because of their use of the softly glowing fresh water pearl.

Trifari's Conversation Pieces are unquestionably French in inspiration. New confirmation of Trifari's reputation for unerring taste and originality as well as superb craftsmanship, is manifested in an enchanting pseudo-gold flower cart heaped with exquisite miniature jeweled flowers, that is so French in feeling that it fairly shrieks "Paris in the Spring." Love seat, a golden park bench with a bouquet of jeweled flowers and rhinestone heart sitting on it, is the ideal valentine. An adorable poodle puppy cradled in a scarf, a bird watching over its nest, a cat in a basket, a touring car of the vintage of the model T with He and She sitting in it, she wearing a hat with a rhinestone plume waving in the breeze, and to further enchant you, fat, pseudo-gold tires that actually turn, are all the essence of French elegance and whimsy magically combined by Trifari.

From France too, comes the fashion right feather-weight jewelry specially created in France for Trifari and so successfully launched by them in the United States. As French as the wines for which they are named, in both France's and our own red, white and blue are jewels called Cognac, Bordeaux, Sauterne and Champagne. A feather weight white necklace and bracelet is embellished by gold cross links. White beads twisted with a chain of gold and blue links, or gold and red links, creates a new effect. Mammoth balls and disks in white and gold, white and blue and white and red, form necklaces, bracelets and earrings that make this strictly French collection a winner.

AS AMERICAN as the world series are Trifari's Jeweled Treasures. A collection of necklaces, bracelets, earrings and pins which combines gold or platinum-tone Trifanium with rhinestones or colored stones in spring or cold-weather, jonquil, rose or light amethyst.

Pretty pastels add to the light look for spring though fiery colors are also fashion right. The outstanding Jeweled Treasure is Crusade, an enormous round pin of textured gold, crisscrossed with rhinestones or simulated sapphires, rubies or emeralds. Highly elegant are the Crusade earrings, outside matching disks similarly crisscrossed.

High style indeed is Lily leaf, a slim, elegant pin of ridged pretend-gold with its upper edge outlined by baguettes. The chic curve of the slim pin makes it smartest when worn at an angle and three worn together look even better than a pair.

American in inspiration too, is Golden Treasures which manages to give the tailored look of unadorned gold an alirer mood in keeping with spring. Noteworthy in Golden Treasures is Golden Script which looks for all the world like an exercise for elegant penmanship translated into a beautiful golden set of jewelry.

Mrs. A. D. Hills Honored Sunday As Pampa's "Woman Of The Year"

Mrs. A. D. Hills was honored as Pampa's Woman of the Year by Beta Sigma Phi during a tea Sunday in the City Club Room.

Guest speaker was Rev. Ronald Hubbard of the First Presbyterian Church who presented Mrs. Hills her certificate of recognition at the close of his talk.

"I would say that it is up to Christian women to carry on the work of a community," he stated during his speech. "Except that a person walk with Christ, they walk for themselves. I think it is for Christian women to be interested — not less, but more — in the things of their community."

He lauded the sorority for honoring those who give "selfless service to their community."

Background piano selections were played by Miss Elsa Plants, and several vocal solos were presented by L. F. Stone, Sheriff Rufe Jordan presented the invocation.

The welcome to the guests and introduction of past women of the year were made by Mrs. Bob Fugate. A bouquet of yellow roses, the sorority's flower, was presented to Mrs. Hills by Mrs. Raymond Harrah Sr., last year's woman of the year. Mrs. Hills made a short speech accepting the honor and thanking BSP and others who helped her. The benediction was presented by Rev. Hubbard.

Guests were greeted by Meses. Bill Bridges, Earl Luther and Clifton McNeely, presidents of the three BSP chapters; Mrs. Harrah; and Mrs. Hills. Programs were distributed by Mrs. Thelma Bray and Mrs. Dwayne Lyon.

The serving table was covered with an ecru cloth accented with a gold design. The centerpiece was an arrangement of pink carnations in a wicker bird cage decorated with blue bows. Refreshments of tea sandwiches, cookies, nuts and coffee were served. Mrs. Jack P. Foster and Mrs. Rufe Jordan, past recipients of the woman-of-the-year award, presided at the two silver coffee services.

Parent Education Club Ends Study

Mrs. Tom Rose gave a summary of the year's adult education study, "Parenthood in a Free Society," at the recent meeting of the Parent Education Study Club in the home of Mrs. George Snell.

"Freedom is the ability to do and think as we please, as long as we do not infringe upon the rights of others," she stated. "Someone in this club has made this statement during the year: 'True freedom is acquired step by step from within.' So it seems to me that we will be good parents if we lead our children spiritually, mentally and physically in the right direction."

She went on to explain that the study brought out six characteristics essential to a mature, responsible citizen. The six characteristics, used as topics of the study, are feeling of security and adequacy, understanding self and others, democratic values and goals, problem-solving attitudes, self-discipline, responsibility and freedom, and construction attitudes toward change.

Physical Fitness Authority Describes Exercises For "Unfit" Housewives

EDITOR'S NOTE: Are American women misshapen, misshaped? Studies have shown that despite girdles and other contrivances, many are. And few know what to do about it. One who does know is Bonnie Prudden, a physical fitness authority who has made international studies to find out how American youngsters rank with others in basic physical fitness. Miss Prudden, director of the Institute for Physical Fitness at White Plains, N.Y., is author of a book soon to be published called "Is Your Child Really Fit?" The following columns, first in a series of five, answers questions on how to become more physically fit — and more attractive.

By BONNIE PRUDDEN
NEW YORK — UP — Housework never gave a woman a beautiful body. And it does not help her keep one.

Every woman needs to be attractive. But washing, scrubbing, cooking, dusting, chasing the baby — none of these flattens an abdomen or tightens a slack seat. Sewing, polishing, washing dishes — none of these will raise a bosom up where it belongs, or keep it there.

Posture patterns are formed as quickly in doing housework as they are at a desk. Shoulders round, abdomens go slack and protrude. Waist thickens; fat appears on the upper arms. The thighs go flabby and rolls form.

Even worse, the victim feels low, in a rut and just plain tired. The picture is neither pleasant nor necessary. Nobody has to look or feel like that. Yet most do.

Why Women Get Fat
In America, where physical work is mechanized and easy, the habit of exercise and activity is not formed when we are children. And off we go into adulthood, soft, poorly built, and often on the weighty side.

Our lives get impossibly complicated, however, by too many activities. We keep house; we are wives; we are cooks, shoppers, handymen, chauffeurs, problem solvers, baby tenders, PTA presidents, collectors for charity and Girl Scout leaders. Something for everyone — nothing for ourselves.

Running around like crazy will not produce the body you want. Actually that defeats it by adding tension. Diet alone won't do it either. Diet may take off pounds; it never adds tone. And tone is what is needed to give spring to your step and youth to your body.

Tone is achieved by exercise, faithfully performed in spite of aches in the first days and perhaps some boredom later.

Five Exercises for You
The following exercises are designed to start you on your way to reclaiming the body you once had or should have had:

1. To flatten and tighten the abdominal muscles: Get on your hands and knees, and permit the abdomen to go slack. Then pull it far in and hold it for a count of five. (If the pull is sufficiently hard, you will notice a growing sensation of strain in the back.) Relax for five counts. Repeat the exercise five times.
2. To bring the guttae (the seat) under control: Lie face down. Tighten the seat (pinch the buttock muscles together). Hold for three or four seconds and relax. As soon as this becomes easy, add the next step: While the seat muscles are held tight pull in the abdomen. Hold for five seconds and relax. Repeat the exercises five times.
3. To take the unsightly sway out of the back: Lie on your back, put your feet apart and bend your knees. Press the spine down to the floor and hold it there. Tighten the abdominala. Tighten the guttae. Repeat five times.
4. For Abdominal Area: To tighten the whole abdominal area, begin work on the legs: Lie on your back and, with knees on the floor, pull the knees up to the chest. Press the spine down on the floor, as in Exercise 3. On the counts of 1 and 2, stretch the legs straight up and point the toes. On 3 and 4, return to the knee-chest position. Stretch the legs a second time, but hold them at an angle six inches lower than before. Return to the knee-chest position. Keep stretching the legs up lower and lower until you reach the point where the spine can no longer be held down on the floor. At this point start all over. Repeat the series three times. Eventually, you will be able to stretch the legs out about an inch off the floor while still keeping the spine down.
5. To give tone to the seat and upper back and stretch the pectorals, which support the bosom: Lie face down with arms stretched out in front. Keeping the body straight, raise the left arm as high as possible. Replace the left arm on the floor and raise the right arm. (The action should take place in the arms and shoulders. Do not let the body twist from side to side.) Then raise the left leg as high as possible; replace and raise the right leg. Now raise both arms and legs together. Repeat the series 10 times.

US Swimmers Show Promise In Olympics

World record-breaking performances during the weekend in both the men's and women's national AAU swimming championships indicated Monday the United States once can be figured on to pick up points in swimming in the coming Olympics.

Altogether, two new world marks were set by the men and four by the women. In addition, many new champions were crowned, thus indicating that the nation's supply of new swimming talent is well stocked.

George Ereen of Cortland State Teachers College (N.Y.) got the weekend rolling with a new world mark of 19 minutes, 40.4 seconds in the mile event and the North Carolina Athletic Club, representing stars from North Carolina and North Carolina State, wound it up with a world record-busting 3:46 in the 400-yard medley relay.

Not to be outdone, a whole new crop of young women swimmers at practically rewrote the record book at Daytona Beach, Fla. of the 12 swimming events, only two records were left standing after the three-day meet ended.

Sixteen-year-old Dougie Gray of the Walter Reed Swim Club of Washington, D.C., shaved four full seconds off the American record for the 200-yard free style and set a possible world mark by churning the pool in 2:45.4. Then Miss Gray set another possible world mark by winning the 500-yard free-style in 5:58.8.

Shelley Mann, also of the Walter Reed team, who held the old mark for the 250-yard free-style, set what may be a world mark in the 100-yard butterfly in which she was timed in 1:04.1.

The Lafayette, Ind., Swim Club, composed of Purdue co-eds Lucy Crocker, Barbara Love, Helen Hughes and Jean Rosazza, set the fourth possible world mark by clocking 3:56.8 in the 400-yard free-style relay.

The men's competition, held at Yale University's Payne Whitney Gymnasium, saw the dethroning of eight old champions, including Yoshi Oyakawa, Ford Konno and Gerry Harrison. They've been replaced by Breen, Al Higgins, Ohio State's new butterfly champion; North Carolina State's Dick Faden, who with William Somner, Jack Nelson and David McIntyre set the 400-yard medley relay mark; Army's Don Kutyna, a breaststroke champion along with Faden, and Frank McKinney, 17-year-old backstroke king from Indiana.

Harvesters To Enter 7th Amarillo Relays

The Pampa Harvester baseball team will be going after its third district win today when it goes to Borger to meet the Bulldogs. Coach Woldt's boys have defeated Lubbock's Westerners and Plainview's Bulldogs in their two starts. Pampa blasted the Lubbock nine, 9-0, in the opener and trounced the Plainview baseballers, 7-1, for the second victory.

Two of the strongest teams of the district, Palo Duro and Amarillo, open district play today. The Dons, Palo Duro, will be in Lubbock in a game with the Westerners and Amarillo's Sandies will be in Plainview with the Bulldogs.

These two games should give an indication of the power of the two Amarillo clubs as compared to the Harvesters.

The Sandies boast a 5-5 record for the season while the Dons will go into the Lubbock game with a 6-4 mark.

Pampa boasts a 6-4 season record going into the Borger contest. Cecil Reynolds, who blanked the Westerners, is not expected to see action today unless the Harvesters get into serious trouble. Jim Parrish of Ray Stephenson is likely to start for the Green and Golders.

The two teams, Pampa and Borger, have split the season's two contests with Pampa defeating Borger in Borger, 9-6, and Borger edging the Harvesters in Oiler Park, 4-3, in nine innings.

Don Locke, Bulldog ace hurler, is expected to start on the mound while his battery mate will probably be Robert Brown.

John Lee is the likely starter behind the plate for the Harvesters with Jerald Clark at first, Gary Hery at second, Billy Brown at short and Buddy Sharp at third. Outfielders for the Harvesters will probably be James Evans, David Marler and Bill Hogan.

Simpson, Miller, Langen and Temple are expected to start in the Borger infield while Dyke, Robertson and Jackson will fill the outfield posts.

Other games this week:

Friday
Pampa at Monterey
Amarillo at Borger
Plainview at Palo Duro

Saturday
Memphis at Pampa (non-conference double header)
Amarillo at Monterey
Borger at Palo Duro

Texas Man Is Big Golf Promoter

TODAY'S SPORTRAIT
By ED FITZ

DALLAS — UP—Jim Ling, who parlayed $3,600 into a healthy electrical contracting combine, is out to give George S. May of Tam O'Shanter fame run for his money in golf promotions.

He's off to a much faster start than the Chicago millionaire who now backs up some $125,000 in prize money for his All-American and World championship tournaments at Tam O'Shanter.

When May first launched his tournament, the prize money was $11,000.

Ling and his cohorts, who are backing the Dallas Centennial and Texas International Opens here next month, are starting out at practically rewrote the record books for the Centennial and $70,000 for the International division on successive weekends.

And if this first attempt goes over, Ling says, "it'll get bigger and bigger."

If their starting goal is any criterion on what to expect in the future, May's reign as king of the tournament sponsors may well be in jeopardy.

Ling, the key man behind this ambitious undertaking, once wanted to be a priest.

He studied a couple of years for the Jesuit order at a Shreveport school, but gave up the idea and did a little bit of nothing until Sam took over for four years and directed him into construction work as a Navy seaman in the Pacific in World War II.

He saved some $3,600, during this tour of duty and came to Dallas in 1948 with an idea of becoming an electrical contractor. In eight years, his firm has mushroomed via mergers into a highly solvent outfit.

Ling and some of his friends at Preston Hollow Country Club decided Dallas should get back onto the professional golf tour, but when they propositioned the PGA for dates with just ordinary $20,000 prize money they were told all dates were filled.

Ling knew that money talks, so he came back home, rounded up some of his wealthy friends and convinced them of the idea of underwriting $100,000 in prize money.

'The Babe' Resting Well In Hospital

George Zaharias, the Babe's husband, said she developed a new pain Sunday which begins in her left shoulder and goes down her left side.

New tests and X-rays have been made of the affected area, but no results have been announced yet, Zaharias said.

Mrs. Zaharias, who is fighting for her life in a battle with cancer, has had major surgery for the disease twice in the past two years. She never completely recovered from her last bout with the disease.

The new pleurisy forced postponement of a testimonial dinner for the Babe scheduled at Beaumont Wednesday night.

The city of Beaumont, where Mrs. Zaharias was reared, planned a big celebration in her honor last week.

The main street in the city's largest park will be named in her honor Thursday and the fourth annual Babe Zaharias Women's open golf tournament gets under way Friday at the Beaumont Country Club.

The $5,000 golf tourney is expected to attract all the touring women pros, but the Babe's husband said she will be unable to attend because of the new complications.

INDIANAPOLIS — UP—Wall Faulkner and Johnny Thomson, two veterans of the 500-mile Indianapolis speedway auto race, Tuesday entered the field for the 1956 renewal of the event.

Phillies Pride Turns In Best Performance So Far

By UNITED PRESS

Robin Roberts is ready and rarin' to go for his seventh straight 20-game season.

The pale, 29-year-old pride of the Phillies, who has been hampered like an ordinary Humpty during past exhibition seasons but certainly not this one, turned in his best performance of the spring in stopping the hard-hitting Red Sox 2-1 at Montgomery, Ala., Monday.

Games it washed out were the Yankees vs Houston; the White Sox vs the Cardinals at Oklahoma City; Kansas City vs Pittsburgh at Wichita, Kan., and the Orioles vs the Cubs at Beaumont.

Roberts, who is aiming at "only" 20 victories this year but is quite likely to overshoot that mark, ticked off three noteworthy accomplishments in limiting Boston to six hits.

First, he became the first Phillies' pitcher to go nine innings this spring, which figured. Second, he didn't walk a single batter, which is more or less par for him. And third, he hung the "collar" on Ted Williams in four trips, which is something of a trick for any pitcher.

Rookie Does Well

Rookie Pat Scanlebury, who may turn out to be Birdie Tebbets' fourth regular starting pitcher, and Joe Black limited Washington to four scattered hits in leading Cincinnati to a 7-1 triumph at Chattanooga, Tenn.

A two-base wild-throw by Scanlebury in the fourth inning helped the Senators score their only run. Wally Post paced the Redjags' attack with a pair of triples and a single while rookie Frank Robinson, who has been under contract to Nashville all spring, celebrated Cincinnati's purchase of him with a towering home run that snapped a 1-all tie in the sixth.

Ned Garver, on and off the trading block all spring, yielded only one hit in the six innings he worked as Detroit defeated New Orleans of the Southern Association 10-0 at New Orleans. Reno Bertoia, a hard-working model type youngster who is making an all-out bid for Detroit's second base job, slammed a home run with the bases full.

Dej Crandall lashed out four hits and Hank Aaron three in leading Milwaukee to an 8-4 triumph over the world champion Dodgers at Louisville. Bob Buhl pitched the first seven innings for the Braves and held the Dodgers to three hits and one run before two hits and a walk sent him to the showers in the eighth.

Young Herb Score and veteran Bob Feller teamed up to pitch Cleveland to a 6-4 decision over the Giants at Shreveport. The victory gave the Indians a 10-7 edge in the spring series between the two teams with two more games to go.

Hoot Evers and Jim Hegan hit homers for the Indians while Gail Harris and Hank Thompson each connected for the Giants. The homer by Harris was the first one hit off Score this spring.

Rain cut heavily into the rest of the exhibition schedule. The Phillies' pitcher to go nine innings this spring, which figured. Second, he didn't walk a single batter, which is more or less par for him. And third, he hung the "collar" on Ted Williams in four trips, which is something of a trick for any pitcher.

After five seasons with the professional Syracuse Nationals, King is bowing out as a player to become head coach at his alma mater here, Morris Harvey College.

At 6-1, King was once considered too small for the pro game. When he graduated from Morris Harvey in 1950 after setting two national scoring records, he joined the Phillips Oilers of the National Industrial League at Bartlesville.

"I was just too far away from those hills," King admitted. He then joined the Dayton air gems, also of the national industrial league, to be a little nearer his home here.

Then Syracuse, which had been keeping tabs on his performance in the Industrial League, offered him a contract. Syracuse was never sorry. But King soon found that a little man takes a beating in the professional ranks.

King finished the 1954-55 season with his wrist in a cast plus an assortment of sprains and bruises. He said after that season he was through, but he went back.

Last year, King sank a free throw with 12 seconds remaining to break a 91-91 tie and give Syracuse the pro championship over Fort Wayne. To top up the game, he stole the ball-off Andy Phillips as he dribbled down court for one last shot for the Pistons.

After that season King said he was through. But again he was lured back to Syracuse.

He was the hero in the playoffs, but this time Syracuse bowed out in the Eastern final although King had averaged 15 points a game during the series.

George King To Coach At Syracuse

CHARLESTON, W. Va. — UP—George King, a basketball nomad who gets loneness for the hills of West Virginia, has finally made it home by way of Bartlesville, Okla., Dayton, Ohio and Syracuse, N. Y.

Tom Brewer and gave the Phils a 2-1 win over the Red Sox at Montgomery, Ala., Monday. Roberts, who pitched a six-hitter, became the first Phillies' hurler to go nine innings this spring.

LAFAYETTE, La. — UP—Veteran right-hander Bob Rush will be the Chicago Cubs' opening day pitcher against the Milwaukee Braves, April 17. Manager Stan Hack of the Cubs has announced.

The scheduled game between the Cubs and Baltimore Orioles at Beaumont was rained out Monday but both clubs were scheduled to try again here Tuesday.

WHILEY FORD, who suffered a sprained ankle while shagging flies last week and was supposed to miss a pitching turn, asked for and received permission to pitch Tuesday's game against Dallas.

Monday's scheduled game with Houston at Houston was rained out. It was the first Yankee game rained out this spring.

WICHITA, Kan. — UP—Manager Freddie Hutchinson Tuesday expressed satisfaction with the general condition of the St. Louis Cardinals' squad.

The scheduled game between the Cards and White Sox was cancelled because of rain at Oklahoma City Monday but the clubs will resume their series Tuesday and then move on to Denver.

LOUISVILLE — UP—Catcher Ray Katt of the Giants, who was hospitalized in Dallas after being hit by a pitch in a game against the Indians, was scheduled to rejoin the club here Tuesday.

The Giants and Indians originally were scheduled to meet in Meridian, Miss., Tuesday but side-tracked the city and decided to come here and take a day off instead.

Grapefruit League Gab

NEW ORLEANS — UP—Young Reno Bertoia may be the man the Detroit Tigers have been searching for to play second base.

Bertoia, a bonus player who had been ticketed for more minor league seasoning, continued his fine play and slammed a homer with the bases loaded Monday to help the Tigers defeat New Orleans of the Southern Association 10-0.

The Italian-born Bertoia normally plays third base or short but if he continues to perform like he has been around second base, Manager Bucky Harris has said he could win the job.

EVANSVILLE, Ind. — UP—The Brooklyn Dodgers Tuesday optioned five players to their Fort Worth farm club in the Texas League.

The players optioned were catchers Mike Napoli and Herb Olson; infielders Dick Gray and Jasper Spears; and first baseman Jim Gentile.

Brooklyn bowed to Milwaukee 8-4 at Louisville, Ky., Monday and the two clubs will continue their spring series here Tuesday.

REDFLEGS

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — UP—The Cincinnati Redlegs obtained first baseman George Crowe from the Milwaukee Braves Tuesday in exchange for outfielder Bob Hazle and a minor league player to be designated later.

Crowe, acquired for added strength, batted .281 for the Braves last season.

The Redlegs also purchased the contract of outfielder Frank Robinson from Nashville of the Southern Association.

Robinson, who has hit .271 for the Redlegs this spring, homered Monday night to help Cincinnati beat Washington 7-1 at Chattanooga.

PHILLIES

GREENVILLE, S. C. — UP—Richie Ashburn, generally regarded as strictly a "singles" hitter, is suddenly providing the long ball for the Philadelphia Phillies.

Ashburn's sixth inning homer with one on decided a pitchers' duel between Robin Roberts and

Patterson Diet Works

By CHARLES NETHAWA

KANSAS CITY — UP — Floyd Patterson's "unrestricted diet" had just about removed him as a light heavyweight contender Tuesday as he awaited the bell for a 10-round bout with tough Alvin (Chief) Williams.

Patterson expected to weigh in at 183 or 184 pounds, or some eight pounds heavier than his Caddo Indian rival. It figured to be Patterson's last bout with a light heavyweight.

"We're not sure how many pounds Patterson will add," said his manager, Custer D'Amato. "He's on what I call an unrestricted diet, and there's no telling where he'll stop."

Out of Bracket

Patterson, an Olympic champion in 1952, is 21 and D'Amato said his big frame "can take on a lot of additional weight." D'Amato conceded "you might say we are out of the light heavyweight picture."

Patterson's sights are set on Rocky Marciano's world heavyweight crown, but D'Amato is in no rush.

"We don't think Marciano will meet an fighter who has not faced Patterson," D'Amato said.

Patterson's seventh round knock out of Jimmy Slade in December rated as his most impressive recent victory. He has won 28 of his 29 professional fights and scored 19 knockouts. His only loss was by unpopular decision to Joey Maxim.

D'Amato said a bout with Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson was in the works, but a barrier was encountered when he "disagreed violently" with the International Boxing Club over money matters.

Doesn't Know About Floyd

Patterson will not fight Archie Moore in a non-title match, D'Amato said. He didn't doubt that light heavyweight champion Moore could pare down to 175 from his present 190, but "I don't know whether Floyd could make the weight."

Archie Tries Willie Bean Tonight

RICHMOND, Calif. — UP — Archie Moore wings into his fifth non-title bout since Marciano knocked him out last September when he meets Willie Bean of Los Angeles Tuesday night in a 10-round contest at the local auditorium.

Moore, trying to lose several rolls of fat before he defends his world light heavyweight championship against Yolande Pompey in London next June, probably will weigh 191 for this one to Bean's 210.

Bean not only is the heaviest fighter Moore has fought in his tuneup series but also the hardest hitting. Although his record indicates he is over the hill, Bean still has a hard right hand punch. He also has been around since 1946.

A large crowd is expected to watch the highly-favored Moore square off with Bean. Those who are upset minded recall that Moore was similarly favored in this area eight years ago and ran into a one round knockout by Leonard Morrow.

This is Moore's last fight in California. His next bouts are scheduled for Seattle and then Salt Lake as he heads for the dock.

Victims Like Rory's Improvement

NEW YORK — UP—Undeclared middleweight York Calhoun is improving so fast that even his victims are singing his praise.

After blasting his way to a unanimous 10-round decision over Jackie Labua of East Meadow, N. Y., Monday night at St. Nicholas Arena, the hard-punching but soft-spoken kid from Atlanta, Ga., conceded only "it was a tough fight."

But Labua was much more talkative.

"I've been in with some pretty tough fighters but none ever hurt me like that Calhoun," said the handsome New Yorker, who has traded punches with such renowned battlers as Gil Turner, Willie Pastore and Johnny Sullivan.

"He's strong as a bull," Labua added, "and once he learns to shorten his punches he's going to be even a better fighter."

Calhoun, who weighed 161 pounds to Labua's 158 3/4, won his 20th straight fight with sheer punching power. He looked awkward at times and still is a little "right-hand crazy," but he never was in trouble against the more-

Pampa Meets Borger; Try For 3rd I-AA Win

Pampa's tracksters, who placed second in the district I-AA meet in Canyon Saturday, will vie for honors again this week in the Amarillo Relays.

The meet, which was formerly Sandie Relays, will be the seventh meet held in Amarillo. Many of the schools in the area are entered with more than 50 teams bidding for the 15 trophies which will be presented in the track, golf and tennis divisions.

Formerly the meet was open to all schools and only one division was held. This season both I-AA and I-A divisions will be on the program.

Abilene took the team title last year but the Eagles are not expected to defend their title this season, thus the Amarillo Sandies will be favored in I-AA division while district winner, Dumas, is expected to win the I-A crown.

Individual trophies will be given to the top boy in each of the two divisions while team trophies will be given to the schools that win the team title, second place, mile relay and 440-yard relay. The outstanding hurdler will also be given a trophy.

Interscholastic league rules will control the meet as the regular events will be run off. The 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, 440-yard relay, mile relay, mile run, 880-yard run, 120-yard high hurdles, 180-yard low hurdles, broad jump, discus, pole vault, shot put and high jump are sanctioned events to take place.

Winners Lose Money

ALBANY, N. Y. — UP—Some horse bettors are so used to losing they don't know what to do when they win. The New York state tax commission said Tuesday fans failed to cash pari-mutuel tickets worth $263,835 on winners at flat and harness tracks in New York last year. The money now goes into the state's general fund. Holders of the uncashed tickets had until April 31 to collect.

Backstairs Scenes At White House

By MERRIMAN SMITH
WASHINGTON —UP— Backstairs at the White House:

This is the boom season for visitors at the White House. Tourists are going through the public rooms each morning at a rate of about 4,000 an hour (the executive mansion is open to the public for two hours each day).

One morning last week, three nuns escorted a group of out-of-town parochial school children through the executive mansion. As they left and walked out into the balmy spring sunshine, one of the sisters turned to her charges and said, "I told you we should have brought our bathing suits."

Robert Montgomery, President Eisenhower's television and radio coach, is back on the scene after three weeks of skiing with his family in Switzerland. He's probably consulting on campaign plans.

Another recent White House returnee: Chief speech writer Kevin McCam, back from a long visit to Ohio where he is president-on-leave of Defiance College.

Last Tuesday, the President, in a speech to the Advertising Council, said, "Government officials are busy. They are constantly putting out 'fires' (on Capitol Hill)."

The President didn't know it, but at the very moment he was speaking, Secret Service agents and police were trying to track down a woman mental patient who was busily setting fires in the executive offices.

Normally the White House staff mess on the lower floor of the west wing offices is strictly a male proposition. Female guests are rare in the small dining room.

An enthusiastic exception was made last week, however, for Lt. Col. Eddy P. Turner, the chief nurse from Fitzsimons Army hospital in Denver where the President was a patient for seven weeks last year.

She and Col. Inez Haynes, chief of the Army Nurse Corps, lunched with Sherman Adams, the assistant to the President; Maj. Gen. Howard Snyder, the White House physician, and other ranking members of Mr. Eisenhower's official family.

There may be tentative discussions of a possible presidential vacation in Wisconsin this summer, but the folks out in Colorado won't listen to such talk.

A report from Pat Patterson of the Arapaho ranch at Fraser, Colo., says he has it from the horse's mouth that the President's return to the western slope of the Rockies "is already planned." And Pat has a lot of horses to hear from.

The President put in some long hours at his desk last week, working later than 7 p.m. several days. One of the girls on the staff, wearily closing up her desk a little before 8 o'clock, observed: "The Democrats call him a part-time President. Heck, it's time and a half."

SHE'S COVERED—Seated in a basket full of Mexican pesos, Linda Cristal, comely Argentine star, illustrates the fact (?) that her producer insured her for that amount in Mexico. Occasion was her American film debut in "Comanche."

America's New Railroad

$102,000,000<sup>00</sup> for Progress

Santa Fe is building for the great future growth in America's industry and population

America's New Railroad has set aside $102 million to make itself even newer in 1956.

That's the largest sum Santa Fe has ever budgeted for capital improvements in a single year.

It figures out to over $279,000.00 per day for 1956.

This is an important amount of money—but still more important is what's going to be done with it. We'd like to tell you a few of the details.

5,210 New Freight Cars

The biggest chunk is for 5,210 additions to our fleet of freight cars.

We've ordered flatcars, boxcars, gondolas, refrigerators, covered hoppers, dump cars, cross hoppers, DF loaders and "piggy-back" cars.

Among them are many specialty cars—such as the 200 new mechanical refrigerators that can keep 127,500 pounds of frozen food at a steady temperature of 5° below zero or colder on a trip across the continent . . .

And the 50 new air-slide cars that can carry 50 tons of loose flour from the mill and dump it right into the baker's hopper.

Many of these cars will not only benefit Santa Fe shippers, but also other shippers as well—because they will enable Santa Fe to keep its contribution to the nation's car pool at a peak level. And that helps to ease the freight car shortage for everyone.

New Hi-Level El Capitan

Santa Fe will put six new El Capitan trains consisting of entirely new-type passenger cars into service this summer

—the first trains of their kind. They will be made up entirely of Hi-Level cars—unique, two-story units that carry baggage on the first floor and let passengers do their living upstairs.

All passengers on our new El Capitan (all-coach streamliner between Chicago and Los Angeles) will ride at dome-car height—well above the clackety-clack of the rails—where they'll get a smoother ride and a more sweeping view of the historic Santa Fe country.

Roadway and Other Improvements

We're laying 300 miles of new track—most of it continuous welded rail that assures quieter, smoother riding.

We are planning to expand freight yard facilities all along our line, provide increased grade protection for motorists, and install more radio-phones between cabooses and locomotive on our transcontinental freight trains in 1956.

We're modernizing 1,000 boxcars, putting new insulation in older refrigerators, laying new steel floors in gondolas, and improving existing equipment so it can serve our shippers better.

New Diesels Ordered

And we've ordered 80 new Diesel units for 1956 delivery—to make Santa Fe America's largest completely Dieselized railroad.

All this progress comes from Santa Fe dollars—earned dollars—not a single penny comes from taxes you pay.

You'll be noticing lots of activity on the Santa Fe this year!

For over 100 years, people have been discovering something "new" in old Kentucky . . . a different bourbon, remarkably free of bite.

It has the best features of sweet and sour-mash bourbon. It's a step better—mellow-mash, the exclusive Yellowstone way of achieving full-bourbon flavor with light body.

Katt Rejoins Giants

SHREVEPORT, La. — UP — Catcher Ray Katt, who was hit on the head by a pitch at Dallas Sunday, was expected to rejoin the Giants shortly after X-rays revealed no serious injury had resulted.
Katt, who hit a homer in the Giants' 10 to 3 victory over Cleveland, was hit by a ball thrown by Art Houtteman in the seventh inning. Willie Mays and Jim Mangon also homered in the Giants' victory.
The two teams meet here again Monday.
Before Sunday's game, the Giants returned first baseman Bill White to Minneapolis of the American Association and optioned Eddie Breausod, a shortstop, and pitcher Pete Burnside to the same club.

Precipitation until mid-April is expected to exceed normal in the lower Mississippi and Ohio valleys and also in the Central Plateau region.

He's shown, left, already started on the project with sugar models of the prince's palace. The 200-pound cake will be elaborately decorated with royal monograms, flags and coats of arms, plus a generous sprinkling of lovebirds. ### History Repeats: Joan Takes Expensive Bath

By ALINE MOSBY
HOLLYWOOD — UP— History repeated itself Monday: Joan Collins slipped into a transparent tub to re-create that famous bath scene from "The Women"—only this remake cost four times as much.

Back in 1939 another Joan—the glamorous Crawford—established a precedent for fancy bathtub scenes in that famous movie about fighting females.

Miss Crawford soaked in a black tub with a huge swan at the prow. Cost of movie set and soap bubbles: $2,500.

But in these inflated times even bubbles cost more. Director David Miller pegged his bathtub scene for the remake, now called "The Opposite Sex," at $10,000—including $22 worth of soap.

she was proper in a strapless pink rubber suit.

"And I'm sitting on a rubber mat because this plastic tub is so slippery," she added. "The rubber cuts and it hurts." (She didn't say where.)

IT'S AN IDEA—Patty McCormack, teen-teen TV star, offers a new thought on the subject of income taxes. She feels "loafers" who don't work should be taxed and that toilers on the home-screen circuits should be allowed to keep their money. One of the youngest performers required to file an income tax return, she's starting her task in Hollywood.

Pop's Side Of Wedding

ABOARD THE S. S. CONSTITUTION — UP— John B. Kelly, the father of the bride, doubts whether many other men will find themselves in a spot like his but, if they do, he has a word of advice: "Stay out of the way and do exactly as you're told."

Millionaire Kelly, a handsome, gregarious man with a keen sense of humor, is practicing what he preaches aboard this liner carrying his daughter and the wedding party to Monte Carlo. He spends much of his time off in a corner playing gin rummy with three other overshadowed men.

The 66-year-old former Olympic rowing champ detached himself for a few minutes to give some comments about the uproar over the marriage of his daughter, Grace, to Monaco's Prince Rainier.

"Well, as a matter of fact," he said, "I don't like weddings. I don't know exactly why, but I just don't like funerals or weddings."

"And," he said, with a grin, "this is certainly no ordinary wedding."

Kelly already has walked down the aisle with his two other daughters, Peggy and Liz Ann, and he said he had worked out a formula. "I just tell them, 'Look, I'll give you this kind of wedding,' and then I let them make all the plans from there. But I must admit I don't think anybody could be in training for a wedding like this one."

Kelly likes his son-in-law to be and believes the marriage will be a happy one.

"There's one thing you can say about Grace," he said proudly. "When she makes friends, she keeps them. I've only given her one bit of fatherly advice on her future as a princess. I just tell her to be herself."

The oldest known specimen of a flowering plant has recently been found in the San Juan mountains of Colorado. It was a palm-like growth that flourished 165 million years ago, the National Geographic Society reports.

Country Music Ain't What It Used To Be

By WILLIAM EWALD
NEW YORK — UP — Country music, like the oil 'n' gray mare, ain't what it used to be.

Once as comfortably square as the fig newton, it has lost its twang and gone citified. What's more, it figures to become even more cool, crazy, hip or what-have-you, cousin.

For that, you have the word of Red Foley, a performer who has been singing country music almost as long as we've had a country. According to Red (his square handle is Clyde) it's getting hard to tell the difference between pop, rock-and-roll and country music nowadays.

Eats City Breakfast

"The lines between the different types of music are beginning to overlap," said Red as he nudged his way through a city-type breakfast in a fancy-type hotel here.

"You know, we used to think of country music, or I did anyway, as music that told a true story. But you can't say that anymore."

Red, currently holding down the wheel horse position on ABC-TV's "Oscar Jubilee," pointed out that in the sweet long ago his public would demand such songs as "The Wreck of the Old 97," "The Death of Floyd Collins" and "A Letter Edged in Black."

Titanic Forgotten

"We used to sing songs about things that were happening," said Red, "about the sinking of the Titanic or the disaster of the Shenandoah. But nobody is buying that kind of music anymore."

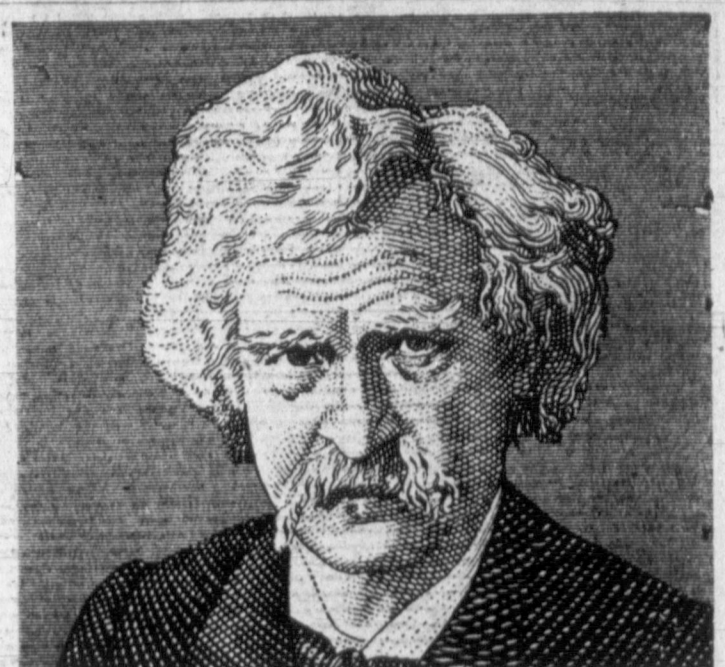

"Even the way we sing has changed. You know, juke boxes make the hits and kids pour the money into juke boxes. They want to dance and they want music with a beat. So where once the country singer would be backed by fiddles and guitars, we now find the bass and even drums added."

"You take two young comers in our field like Elvis Presley and Carl Perkins, why, they're basically more rock-and-roll than country. But they're making the kind of records the juke boxes want."

By UNITED PRESS
WASHINGTON — Chairman Alben J. Ellender (R-La.) of the Senate Agriculture committee on the farm problem:

"If we can get the soil bank to work as it should, the price support level can be lowered within two or three years."

Three Days in Tub

I was on hand for this historic moment on the first of Miss Collins' three days of splashing in the bathtub (the longest bathtub scene on record). Hollywood likes to make a fuss over these things, and the set was populated with photographers, visitors and producers.

But the shapely Miss Collins frankly wasn't impressed.

"Really, everybody takes a bath at home," the English actress said with a yawn. "This is so overrated. People make such a fuss about bathtub scenes—probably because there are very few of them."

"They say these bathtub scenes have sex appeal on the screen. That's crazy!"

Shelley Wrapped Up in Part

Underneath the bubbles, she confessed, it's strictly unglamorous, anyway. She was wedged among a network of pipes that pump bubbles into the tub.

When Shelley Winters did this scene in the television version of "The Women," she claimed she wore nothing. But Joan admitted
