THE RAINS CAME — Rains came to the Top O' Texas area last week and Floyd McLaughlin of Laketon is shown surveying a field on his farm where water was standing late Saturday following five inches of rain which soaked the Laketon area Friday and Saturday as more rain was falling from a cloud darkened sky. The rains, though too late for most wheat, were a boon to other crops in the area. (News Photo)

Top O' Texas Area Gets More Rain; Tornado Is Sighted

A tornado was sighted in Cary County Saturday afternoon as thunderstorm activity blanketed the Top O' Texas for the second straight day. Rains fell intermittently both days in Pampa, flooding some of the downtown streets, and tornado warnings for the area were issued until 10 p.m. Saturday. Reports came in from areas of flash floods, high winds, road and home damage. Approximately .36 of an inch of rain was measured in Pampa over the last three-day period. About .15 of an inch fell Friday night and Saturday morning. Laketon reported rains Friday afternoon of four and one half inches with an additional half inch falling Saturday, making a total of five inches by Saturday afternoon. The lower ends of some fields were washed out but the rain generally helped crop conditions in the area. McLean reported that the home of Fred Browning, located north of the North Fork of Red River, east of Lefors, was washed off its foundation and a deep freeze was lost in the flood. No estimate of damage was available. High winds blew over some out-houses near the Holloway Station, nine miles north of McLean. About two inches of rain and half fell at McLean about 8 p.m. Saturday. Strong winds accompanying the moisture blew down the screen at a drive-in theatre. Radio Station KEYE of Perryton reported a flash flood in the Wolf Creek area, as water rose as high as 10 feet to wash out some greens and bridges at the Country Club golf course. A total amount of 1.32 inches of rain fell in Perryton during the three-day period, although no rain was reported Saturday. The forecast, however, called for thunder showers in the area. A total of 2.80 inches of rain fell Friday night six miles south of Perryton, and four inches were reported 15 miles northwest. Friday night saw recorded .77 of an inch in Perryton. Wheeler reported one and one-half inches of rain since 4 p.m. Friday with rains varying in the area. No hail or wind damage was indicated. The majority of Wheeler's farmers have not started planting cotton or grain crops due to the lack of moisture. The rain has helped a few crops just now coming up, however. Farmers are now planning to start planting crops in the area. White Deer reported four light rains Saturday and a shower falling at 4:40 p.m. About two inches of rain fell there in the last three days. According to one report, traffic was being routed around one section of the Wheeler Highway Saturday afternoon, due to rains washing out sections of construction. Traffic was routed over to the Canadian highway, about 13 miles south of Canadian, and then back over to Highway 152. Construction work on the Borger highway was reported unhampered by the rains in this area. No damages were reported. The grade which is now being built across Lake McConnell is expected to be completed this week, although a detour will remain in use for some time. The latest forecast, according to Radio Station KPDN, official weather station, calls for partly cloudy weather today with thunder cloud activity in the area. It is to clear up Monday and not much change in temperature is indicated. The high today is forecast for 88 degrees and the low tonight at 58. Saturday's low was 51 degrees and the high was reported at 80 degrees.

City Commission Sets Open Bond Issue Meeting Tuesday

The City Commissioners will hold an open meeting Tuesday at 10 a.m. in the City Commission Room to explain the proposed $2,810,000 bond issue planned by the city. Mayor Lynn Boyd said that the meeting was being held to explain the purpose of the bonds and to feel out public opinion on the matter. City Manager Fred Brook indicated that the meeting is open to everyone and that if the room should be over-crowded for the session, the group would move over to the Court House. W. Lee O'Daniel, former governor and U. S. senator, now seeking the Democratic nomination for governor, and his Hill Billy Band will come to Pampa Wednesday night for an appearance on the Court House square. In addition to his Hill Billy boys, his son, Pat, who has accompanied his father on all his campaigning tours with the exception of one which found him in training camp. O'Daniel will launch his Panhandle tour Monday at Decatur with stops at Bowie and Henrietta and a night rally at Wichita Falls. Meetings were scheduled for Electra, Vernon, Chillicothe and Quanah Tuesday. He comes to Pampa after a day's campaigning at Childress, Memphis, Clarendon and brief stops along the route.

W. Lee O' Daniel Sets Pampa Visit

The city is planning to put the bond issue to a vote in the near future and will likely set a date for the forthcoming election Tuesday, provided public reaction is favorable. Included in the issue is a sum of $280,000 to be allocated for the Hobart St. underpass. A total of $170,000 is proposed for a fire station building and equipment, and $250,000 is to be allocated for street improvements. Street work will include bridges to be located on Cook, Cuyler and Duncan. Also included in the issue is $50,000 for a swimming pool to be located south of Carver school and park improvements. About $250,000 is to be set aside for water and sewer development. The total general obligation (tax) bond will be in the amount of $1,000,000, the amount of the bond to be voted on this year if the election is called. An additional $2,060,000 will be revenue bearing for water and sewer improvements, including $447,000 to be used for refunding outstanding revenue bonds. A survey of overall water usage in Pampa will be made beginning Monday morning by the city water department in preparation for the bond issue planned by the city. City Manager Fred Brook said that the survey would determine the average monthly usage by individuals and business firms. Results of the survey will be a factor in arriving at an adjusted water rate to service the intended bonded indebtedness of the city if the bond issue passes.

Mail Carriers Participate In Drive Here

Pampa letter carriers are taking part in the 1956 Cancer Crusade in the Postmen's March on Cancer, which is underway until the end of the month. Originated in Pampa several years ago, the idea has spread to several other cities in Texas and it is expected the project someday may be a national event. To participate in the Postmen's March, Pampans wishing to contribute to the Cancer Crusade may place their donation in an envelope addressed to "Postmen's March on Cancer, Pampa, Texas." put a three-cent stamp on it and put it in their mailbox. In previous years, the Postmen's March has netted as much as $600. The Gray County goal this year is $4,000 of which $2,300 has been raised. Arrangements for the March were made by Mrs. H. H. Hicks, with Carl Moore, head of the Pampa Letter Carrier's Association. If it comes from a Hardware Store, we have it Lewis Hardware (Adv.)

Reds' Jet Steals Show

By PERT SPENCER ZURICH, Switzerland, May 26 —UP—Russia's new TU-104 twin-jet civilian airliner stole the thunder from the latest American and British jet fighters Saturday at the international air show at Kloten airport. Russians at the show were high in their praise for Britain's gleaming Hawker Hunter jet fighter. And they peered closely at the new U.S. Air Force F-100 Super-sabre, descendant of the planes that downed Russian-made MIGs in the Korean war. But the crowds went for the Russian airliner which was first revealed to the West at London last month. "It is a very beautiful plane," commented M. N. Kostuk, "crew organizer" of the TU-104 airliner. The Russians would not comment on the Super-sabre. Another match failed to materialize when the British announced that they would not pit the Hunter against the Super-sabre in test flights Sunday. giving details of the plane and its capacity. Russia killed off chances of an aerial match between their latest MIG-17 jets and the Super-sabre, much to the disgust of the American pilots present. A Soviet official said MIGs definitely will not take part in the flying display which will be featured at the show Sunday. The Russians themselves seemed most interested in the Hawker Hunter Mark VI, never shown publicly before and reported to be one of the fastest jets in the world. The British kept it in an isolated hangar under guard. "Very Beautiful Plane" "It is a very beautiful plane," commented M. N. Kostuk, "crew organizer" of the TU-104 airliner. The Russians would not comment on the Super-sabre. Another match failed to materialize when the British announced that they would not pit the Hunter against the Super-sabre in test flights Sunday.

U. S. Cold-Shoulders Red Diplomatic Bid

By DONALD J. GONZALES WASHINGTON, May 26 —UP—The United States has rebuffed Communist Bulgaria's bid to re-establish diplomatic relations angrily broken off in 1950, it was disclosed Saturday. Administration officials said American diplomats in Paris recently informed Bulgarian diplomats that this nation does not even want to talk about resuming relations. The Bulgarians were told, it was added, that this government is not prepared to continue even informal talks on the matter. The rebuff followed "several Bulgarian approaches" in Paris, in New York, and at other places. The first approaches were made last February. The United States recalled its diplomatic staff from Sofia and ousted Bulgarian diplomats here on Feb. 20, 1950. This was after the Communist regime ousted U.S. Minister Donald Heath for alleged "spy-traffic" contacts inside Bulgaria. The United States vigorously rejected the Red charges against Heath as "wholly unfounded." It accused the Communists of subjecting American diplomats "to a series of indignities and restrictions" and of murdering Bulgarian employees of the U.S. legation. The State Department remembers the treatment dished out to this country in 1949 and 1950 following establishment of diplomatic relations in 1947. There also is some feeling that restoration of relations would have a discouraging effect on hopes for freedom of persons living behind the Iron Curtain. United States-Bulgarian problems have been handled by Switzerland.

The play selection committee of Pampa Little Theater chose "The Male Animal," a three-act comedy by George Nugent and James Thurber, as the first major production of the group Friday night. The comedy is concerned with a college professor and his academic and home life. The cast calls for 13 characters, including parts for eight men. He will appoint about six committees to work on the production at a later date. Bob Mitchell is presently chairman of the scenery and sets committee. The next meeting of the group will be held on Thursday, June 7, at 7:30 p.m. in Lovett Memorial Library. A workshop production, directed by Mrs. John Willis, will be presented at the time.

Panhandle Demo Rally To Be Held In Pampa In July

A group of Gray County Democrats met in the County Court House at 11 a.m. Saturday to hear reports of events at the state convention. Arrangements to have several noted speakers appear here for the rally were discussed. Byron Skelton, national committeeman-elect of the state, from Temple, was selected as one of the principal speakers for the occasion. Skelton has accepted the invitation. Chairmen of various committees were named in the session. Selbert Worley of Shamrock was selected to serve as chairman of the speakers committee to arrange for speakers. Other committee members will be chosen from Gray, Hutchinson and Potter Counties. J. W. "Bill" Graham is chairman of the foods committee, Ott Shewmaker is chairman of the tickets committee, R. L. Hurry Back Home, Chief!

SANTA MARIA, Calif. —UP—The firehouse burned down here Friday while Fire Chief Frank Crakes attended a fire safety meeting in nearby Santa Barbara, Calif.

Pampan Dies After Fire Here

Joe M. Gray, 46, died at 12:30 a.m. Saturday in Worley Hospital as a result of burns received when fire destroyed his trailer house at 317 S. Houston about midnight Friday. The trailer house was engulfed by flames when the local fire department arrived at 11:39 p.m. and Mr. Gray was still inside, according to the report of firm who answered the alarm. The cause of the fire was undetermined late Saturday night. Firemen braved the flames, removed Mr. Gray from the burning trailer and he was taken to the hospital in a city police car. He was pronounced dead shortly after arrival at the hospital. The body of Mr. Gray was sent by Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home late Saturday to Waltham, S. C., where the funeral services and burial will take place. Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Jesse M. Gray of Waltham, S. C.; one brother, Robert L. Gray of Beaufort, N. C.; two sisters, Mrs. J. N. Carroll of Westminster, S. C., and Mrs. Ruby Kuehling of Washington, D. C.

Congressman's Need For Funds Also Revealed

WASHINGTON — UP — The State Department Saturday published captured German documents showing a "Republican Congressman" worked in "close collaboration" with Nazi propagandists in 1940 in an effort to build up isolationist influence at the GOP presidential nominating convention. The long-secret documents referred also to a need for funds — $3,000 in one case and $30,000 to $40,000 in another — to help finance the unnamed congressman's activities. But they did not directly allege the German embassy actually supplied any money. One message from the German embassy in Washington to the Nazi foreign ministry in Berlin referred to the Republican congressman as sponsor of a "Keep America out of war" newspaper advertisement. A footnote by State Department historians said, "such advertisement appeared in the New York Times for June 25, 1940." The advertisement appeared over the signature of a "Keep America Out of War" committee headed by Hamilton Fish, then a Republican congressman from New York and a leader of an isolationist movement. Fish, now living in retirement here, told the United Press he recalled the advertisement but emphatically denied he ever "collaborated with the German Embassy offices." He said he never received "one cent" of financial support from "German sources." Fish also told the United Press, "I wish we could have raised a million dollars from American sources to publish such advertisements, I still believe it was a terrible mistake for us to go to war against Germany."

Stevenson And Kefauver In Florida Primary Showdown

By UNITED PRESS
Adlai E. Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver headed toward a showdown Saturday in their hard-fought battle for Florida's 28 Democratic presidential votes.

Florida Democrats will choose between the two hopefuls Tuesday in the next to last presidential primary before the national convention in August. The outcome could be crucial to either candidate.

The Florida primary will top a week of heavy political activity. On Monday the Missouri Democratic convention is expected to endorse Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) as a favorite son candidate and on Tuesday Kentucky Democrats will decide a bitter senatorial scrap.

Stiff Opposition
North Carolina Democrats voted Saturday to nominate a senator, a governor and six members of the House of Representatives. Interest centered on three of the House races where incumbent congressmen who refused to sign the "southern manifesto" against the Supreme Court's anti-segregation ruling faced stiff opposition.

The three are Reps. Harold D. Cooley, chairman of the House agriculture committee, Thurmond D. Chatham and Charles B. Deane. Gov. Luther H. Hodges and Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. were expected to win renomination with little difficulty.

In Milwaukee, the Wisconsin Republican convention met Saturday to give the party's official blessings to a senatorial candidate for the seat now held by Sen. Alexander Wiley.

Wiley Seeks Endorsement
Wiley, who has been at odds with the state party leadership, was seeking endorsement for a fourth term. But he was opposed by four challengers. Convention endorsement carries with it the party's financial support in the September primary.

In Kentucky's Democratic primary Tuesday, Sen. Earle C. Clements is opposed for renomination by former Rep. Joe Bates in a fight that has split party ranks. Bates has the backing of Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler.

The primary winner will face formidable GOP opposition in November. Republicans will also choose their candidate in Tuesday's primary from a field that includes former Rep. Thurston B. Morton. He resigned as an assistant secretary of state to make the race.

In presidential politics, the expected endorsement of Symington as a favorite son by Missouri Democrats Monday will boost his stock as a "dark horse" contender.

No opposition was seen to the move to endorse Symington. The action will give him Missouri's 28 convention votes.

Saudo Arabia And Yemen Giving Arms To Natives

By JOE MORRIS
BEIHAN, Aden Protectorate, May 26 —UP.—Saudi Arabia and Yemen are offering arms to the wild tribesmen in the Moon Mountains to stir up trouble for the British, officials charged Saturday.

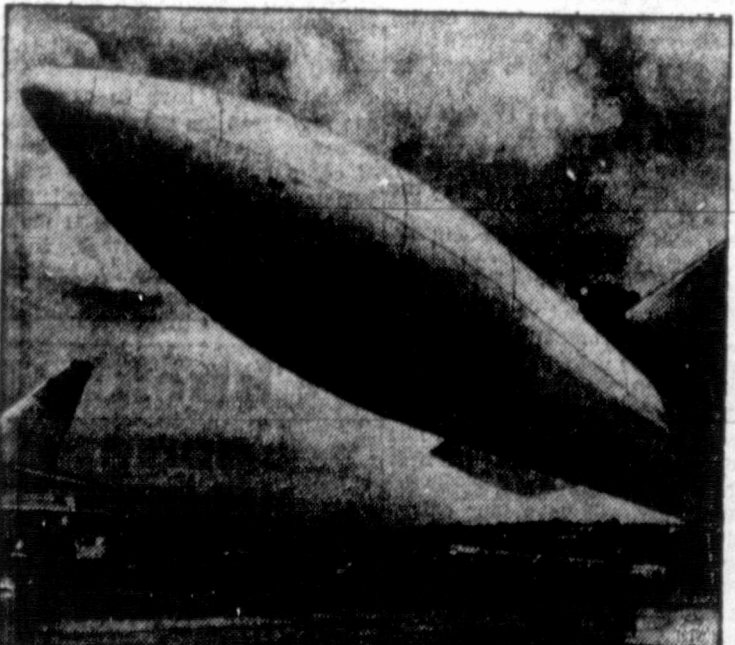

British authorities in this protectorate said thousands of Aden nomads are camped at Najran just across the ill-defined border in Saudi Arabia, waiting for the next free distribution of Arab guns and ammunition.

The border area, which separates Saudi Arabia, Yemen and the protectorate on the heel of the Arabian boot, has been the scene of frequent border clashes. The two Arab countries have claimed some of the border area, which the British operate as a series of Arab sheikhdoms. In addition, the British are pressed by demands of Aden nationalists that the territory be given self government. The British last week refused to relinquish their grip on the strategic territory. And the offer of arms to the nomads has given rise to fears that Saudi Arabia may try to capitalize on the overall situation to encourage lawlessness among the primitive tribesmen.

So far, the Saudis have distributed arms only on a small scale, but have given Yemen more weapons for equipping Adenese tribes, the officials said. Ironically, the arms are British, probably gathered in Egypt.

The officials said they are particularly concerned over the fact that as many as 3,000 tribesmen are camped at Najran waiting for arms.

Navy Aviation Official Pours Fuel On Service Controversy

By CHARLES W. CORDREY
WASHINGTON, May 26 —UP.—The Navy's top aviation official poured fuel on the flaming interservice dispute Saturday by claiming carrier-based bombers can "hit any target on earth" with H-bombs or other weapons.

In a speech to naval air reserve units at Akron, Ohio, James H. Smith Jr., assistant Navy secretary for air, asserted that carrier forces "are the essential counter to thermonuclear war."

The text of Smith's speech was released here. Defense Department quarters said it amounted to a new and bold blow in the running armed services quarrel over war roles and weapons.

Primary Strategic Mission
Only last Monday Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson reaffirmed that the "Air Force has the primary strategic (bombing) mission" and the Navy a "secondary" responsibility in that realm.

Also, in commenting on air chief of staff Gen. Nathan F. Twining's claim to Congress that the Navy could make only a "small" strategic air contribution, Wilson had said earlier that the Navy capability was "not of the same order" as the Air Force's but "not insignificant."

Smith said Saturday that naval striking forces could attack "an aggressor's heart land" and deliver a "mortal blow."

When a reporter asked Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, at Wilson's news conference last Monday, about the use of Navy planes to attack the Russian "heart land," the chief of naval operations replied that it was a "very loaded question." He explained that the Navy's striking forces did not work that way. Then he described the Navy's strategic role as "collateral" to the Air Force's.

Some of Smith's statements surprised even a number of naval officers who were asked about them. They said Smith seemed to be answering Air Force claims against aircraft carriers as set forth in a document that was leaked to the press last weekend.

Ag Department Trying To Find Out Where Money Goes

By GAYLORD P. GODWIN
WASHINGTON, May 26—UP—The Agriculture Department is hammering away at the story of who gets the money spent for a one-pound loaf of white bread.

Involved are the farmer, the miller, the baker, the salesman, the laborer, the advertiser, the handler, the retailer, and profit. No one segment gets much. In 1955, the total added up to an average of 17.7 cent a loaf.

The department retells the story of marketing margins in the marketing service's publication, "Marketing Activities." It's part of the department's effort to show why retail prices haven't fallen in proportion to farm income.

Here's how the 17.7 cents paid for each loaf of bread is shared.

Farmer	3.1 cents
Milling and handling	2.0 cents
Baker	2.9 cents
Retailer	2.9 cents
Total	17.7 cents

Most of these returns were subject to further division. Of the farmer's 3.1 cents, 2.7 cents went for wheat. The remaining four-tenths of a cent paid for such other farm-produced ingredients as shortening, dry milk, yeast, salt, and sugar.

The "milling and handling" charges covered storage, insurance, transportation, milling, and other processing.

The baker's share suffered the heaviest division. His 9.7 cents per loaf went for wrappings, 0.81 cent; production labor, 1.70 cents; payments to driver - salesmen, 1.73 cents, other selling expenses which includes vehicles, advertising, overhead, and loss from stale bread, 2.11 cents; administrative and miscellaneous expense, including purchased goods, 2.52 cents; and profit before taxes, 0.83 cents.

The retail grocer receives about 2.9 cents a loaf on an average. A national survey indicates regional variation in the margin.

The department has said many times that farm prices for wheat and other bread ingredients don't govern bread prices. In fact, even if the farmer donated his wheat, white bread still would cost consumers about 14 cents a loaf.

sumers about 14 cents a loaf. A department survey of sales and profits of six major baking companies for 1946-54 showed sales up, profits down.

Other farm front developments: Cigaretts—U.S. smokers spent an estimated record $4,675,000,000 for their favorite brands in 1955. The volume of 382 billion cigarettes was below the 1952 peak of 394 billion. Higher prices per pack set the money record. Also, there was a sizable shift in demand to filter-tip and king-size which are higher in price.

Weekly Grain

FORT WORTH —UP— USDA — Weekly grain:

Corn edged forward as other cash grains declined this week at Southwest markets. Prices recorded by the Agricultural Marketing Service showed a gain of 1 1/4¢ a bu. on yellow corn and 1-4¢ on white.

Wheat broke 7¢ a bushel and milled a nickel per cwt. Barley slipped 3¢ a bushel and oats 1¢ to 1 1/4¢. These are net price changes from May 18 through 25, based on wholesale carlots, points.

New crop wheat harvesting was in full swing this week in West Texas and Oklahoma, the main reason for the 7¢ break in prices. This left No. 1 hard offerings, ordinary protein content, at $2.34 to $2.40, about 25 to 30¢ a bushel less than a year ago.

Milo closed at $2.35 to $2.40 — the lowest since mid-April. Demand was very poor and buying on a hand-to-mouth basis since a big crop is expected to move soon in the Texas Coastal Bend.

There was very little trading in corn, oats and barley. Offerings of corn were plentiful. Prices reflected the strength in some northern markets. No. 2 white corn brought $1.93 1/4 to $1.95 1/4 and No. 2 yellow $1.82 1/4 to $1.84 1/4.

Oats are about ready to harvest, but the crop is small. No. 2 offerings closed the week at $7 1/4 to $8 1/4 a bushel. Barley was quoted at $1.37 to $1.39.

In Oklahoma, new cash wheat dropped 4 to 12¢ lower than old crop, ranging from $1.87 at Vidoc to $1.92 at Frederick, Guymon and Hooker. Here are other prices posted Friday: $1.88 Blackwell and Medford; $1.89 Alva, Clinton, Enid and Kingfisher; $1.90, El Reno, Hobart, Oklahoma City and Yukon. $1.91 at Bison and Hennessey.

Oklahoma registered 3 to 10¢ higher milo prices than a week ago. Here are the prices reported: $1.75, Frederick; $1.80, Hobart; $2.15 at Enid; $2.10 at Oklahoma City and $2.25 at Ada.

Decca Of London Is Old Lady Of Hi-Fi

By PRESTON MOGRAW United Press Staff Correspondent

The old lady of high fidelity is Decca Corp. of London. Decca of London got into high fidelity in 1938, a good 15 years before advertising copywriters started taking the term in vain.

So Decca of London has never taken official notice of the words "high fidelity," except as to advertising blurb in either its records (London) or its full frequency range reproducing equipment (London Gramophone).

London records calls all its recordings "FFRR," or full frequency range recordings, about 30,000 CPS. It prefers that term to FFRR, contending that when you get right down to it, (high fidelity) doesn't mean much these days.

Most high fidelity rig compensators have an FFRR setting on them. But London is busy converting its whole catalogue over to the RIAA curve, which the record industry is trying to make standard in the United States.

First Ones Cost $1.50 Peter Noel of Dallas, London's distributor for Texas and Louisiana, remembers when the first London FFRR recordings and phonograph showed up in Washington.

The phonograph sold for more than $1,000. That was in the midst of the depression and though the phonograph and records sounded better than anything on the market at the time, the phonograph remained in a show window as a sort of curiosity.

On American reproducing equipment available at the time, the FFRR's sounded no better than American records. As a result, the first London assault on the American market was a washout. London tried again in 1947, at the end of World War II. Television, at the time, was breaking the six-inch picture tube barrier, and it drained away a lot of interest that normally would have gone into high fidelity.

So London stopped competing in the reproducing equipment market in the United States and concentrated on records. Noel says the FFRR classical catalogue is the third best seller in the United States.

Observing Special Month London is observing in May "Mantovani Month," its most valuable recording asset. Mantovani, though somewhat less than a classicalist, is FFRR's best seller in Canada and the United States.

In a way, he is a child of high fidelity, because the trademark of his 60-piece orchestra is an extraordinarily large string section that plays in a high, sweeping style. Much of the effect is lost in poor reproducing equipment.

There is a remarkable consistency about the quality of London's classical and semi-classical recordings. Noel attributes this both to London's experience and technique.

London uses only one microphone in making a recording. This is a telefunken microphone. Noel says that after various tests, engineers put it where a listener, at the performance in person, would sit to hear the performance best.

Most of London's records — and the classical and semi-classical are all 12-inch, 33 1/3 RPMs — are all pressed in England and shipped to this country.

"Mr. Wizard" goes to film next fall. Bob Crosby is the first choice for Arthur Godfrey's sit-in on "Talent Scouts" this summer. Godfrey expects to spend at least six weeks away from the CBS-TV show.

"Going Places," a show that'll originate from Miami, will replace "Super Circus" on ABC-TV this summer. Jack Gregson, who does the TV fights on the network, will host.

Albert McCleery, executive producer of NBC-TV's "Matinee," will make his TV debut in a sketch with Margaret Truman on the George Gobel show June 2.

Sport Figures Give Their Accounts Of Income Take

TODAY'S SPORT PARADE
By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK — UP — Fearless Fraley's facts and figures: Babe Ruth's record of 60 home runs per season he will be in line for a $100,000 contract — and probably will pick up more than that before the 1957 campaign rolls around.

Those who handle his outside activities already are greasing the wheels of anticipation and plan to ask $1,500 for each television spot, with plenty of takers. There are numerous personal appearance gimmicks being readied, too, and all they hope is that Mickey develops a bit more poise and savoir faire.

Up to now, Mantle hasn't been exactly a Demosthenes. While flying casting at a sportsman's show, at $9,000 a week, he was asked whether he enjoyed his role. "Nope," said Mantle. "I'd rather be home cat-fishing."

Rocky Marciano keeps insisting that he will not make a comeback for a big money gate when a new heavyweight champion is crowned but apparently he hasn't convinced those connected with the promotional international boxing club.

"Floyd Patterson will lick Tommy Jackson on June 8 and then whip Archie Moore for the title," writes IBC publicist Harry Mendel from Patterson's training camp in Monticello, N. Y. "Then next June he'll knock out Marciano. Paste this on the wall."

Happy birthday: Sunday, Sam Snead 44 and Teddy Moore 44; Monday, Bob Kusava 33; Tuesday, Tony Zale 42, Dick Motz 48, Ferris Fain 34, George McQuinn 45 and Buddy Brothers 47; Friday, Beattie Feathers 44.

Ed Bush, a golf pro and husband of women's tournament star Betty Bush, claims that Marlene Bauer Hage of the female golf brigade "unquestionably is the finest putter in the world, and that includes the men professionals." Mickey Walker has had a total of nine restaurants in his post-punching career but seems to do better with oils than with oil. Ed Ed Robinson, the Yankee first baseman, reverse the twist. His Baltimore february is a smashing success and he is decorating it with other people's paintings of sporting events.

Al Schacht, another of the sporting restaurateurs, claims there were three big reasons why he never became a great pitcher. "First," says Al "there was the lively ball. Then it always seemed that every time I pitched, the wind was blowing toward the out field. And last, the league was crowded with anti-semitic hitters."

Fulmer Wins Over Humez

NEW YORK — UP — Bravmy Gene Fulmer, inspired by his bloody victory over European champion Charles Humez, offered $100,000 Saturday for a shot at the world middleweight crown.

Fulmer of West Jordan, Utah, said a millionaire friend would underwrite a $100,000 guarantee to Sugar Ray Robinson if necessary to entice the 35-year-old champion into the ring.

The 24-year-old mining welder stood out as an unquestioned challenger Saturday because of the power and durability he displayed in Friday night's nationally televised and broadcast 10-rounder with blood-smeared Humez of France at Madison Square Garden.

Plunging in and out against the persistently advancing French veteran, Fulmer not only won a lop-sided decision but he staggered him three times and appeared a certain kayo victor had the bout been slated for 15 rounds.

Gene's fourth straight victory of 1956 was achieved against the champion of Europe, the world's top-rated contender and the 13-10 favorite at ringside. Fulmer had been ranked second to the Frenchman among contenders. Moreover, 29-year-old Humez had a slight pull in the weights. He scaled 159 3-4 pounds to Gene's 158.

It was a good fight despite the Utah slugger's margin of victory. There were no knockdowns but Humez fell heavily backwards to the canvas in the second round while pulling away from a punch. Promoter Jim Norris will confer Monday with Robinson about a possible defense against Fulmer at New York, Los Angeles or Salt Lake City.

Referee Mark Conn favored Fulmer on a rounds basis 7-3; Judge Leo Birnbaum agreed 6-4, and Judge Artie Aldala 7-2-1. The United Press did likewise 7-2-1.

It was Humez' sixth defeat in 91 bouts, and Fulmer's 36th victory in 39.

Winter Teams Have Major Club Trouble

DETROIT — UP — Latin American baseball winter leagues Saturday had notice that if they don't sign agreements with organized baseball they'll get no more major league players.

The notice came from baseball commissioner Ford Frick Friday after the quarterly meeting of major league club owners and executives here.

Frick said the majors have an agreement with the Caribbean Baseball Federation governing play of major league players in the winter season.

But he said new leagues have been organized in the Dominican Republic, Mexico, Columbia and Venezuela since the agreement was signed in 1947.

Frick said a meeting with representatives of the new leagues would be called for late July or early August.

Frick said the major league executives also discussed major-league agreements with an aim to aiding the minors. Frick said these "changes" would be "radical and present quite a different approach to the problem."

But he said it will be December, before the revisions will be acted on. One of the changes will make it easier for the minors to buy better players and sell them ready for the jump.

One Of Baseball Greatest Al Simmons Died Saturday

By RAY W. DOHERTY

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 26 — UP — Al Simmons, one of baseball's great hitters in the Ruth, Gehrig, Foxx era, died Saturday four days after his 54th birthday.

Simmons collapsed of an apparent heart attack in front of the Milwaukee Athletic Club where he was staying. He died before an ambulance could get him to a hospital.

Born Aloysius Szymanski in the poorer section of Milwaukee, Simmons became a major leaguer at the tender age of 20 in 1924 when he joined the Philadelphia Athletics.

Twenty years later when he retired, Simmons' right-handed power had set batting records that earned him membership in Baseball's Hall of Fame in 1953.

Lifetime Average .334. He wound up with a lifetime batting average of .334, batting better than .300 for 11 straight seasons. His highest marks were .390 in 1931 and .381 in 1930, both good enough to win the American League batting championship.

Simmons' attack was unexpected. Friends said he had been in good health.

In 1929, Simmons was voted the most valuable player in the American League after he helped the Athletics beat the Yankees for the pennant and hit two homers and batted .300 against the Chicago Cubs in the World Series.

The outfielder, who was nicknamed "Foot-in-the-Bucket Al" because he stepped away from the ball just before starting his swing, teamed with the Athletics' Jimmy Foxx to give the team a 1-2 slugging punch that rivaled the Yankees' Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig.

'Plague' to Pitchers
Yankee pitching Ace Charlie Ruffing, now retired, once said of Foxx and Simmons:

"With men on bases, Foxx can be a pain, but Simmons is a plague."

Simmons remained with the A's until Sept. 23, 1932, when the late manager of the Athletics, Connie Mack, sent Simmons, third baseman Jimmy Dykes and outfielder George (Mule) Haas to the Chicago White Sox for $150,000, a staggering sum in those days.

After leaving the Athletics, Simmons batted over .300 for the White Sox in 1933 and 1934, then slumped somewhat and drifted to Detroit in 1934. Later, he played briefly with the Senators, Braves and Reds.

But his first baseball love was the Athletics and when he had a chance to rejoin the club in 1940, he jumped at it and became a coach for Mack. He stayed with the A's until 1944 and then was out of baseball until Cleveland hired him as a coach in 1950. Illness forced him to quit after one year there.

Think of this next time you're in heavy traffic —
No other transmission is so smooth as Dynaflo[®]

You know how it is.

Anyone who drives a car these days must sometimes drive in crawling, slow-moving traffic where it's stop-and-go or spurt-and-slow.

And if you're used to a car that handles such traffic with a continuous series of upshifts and downshifts—even automatically—then maybe you think that's the best you can have.

But it isn't. You can have Dynaflo smoothness in a new Buick—and you won't believe the difference until you try stop-and-go traffic.

For here you have absolute smoothness when you accelerate.

Here you have absolute smoothness when you decelerate.

Here you have absolute smoothness under every road condition and traffic pace—with no lags or bumps to mark upshifts and downshifts—because no gears ever shift in Dynaflo.

It's the only transmission on the American scene today where flowing oil does the work of gears every step of the way—and where smoothness is constant, absolute and infinite.

So maybe you ought to sample a new Buick with Variable Pitch Dynaflo—and try the new thrills that go with this smoothness—

The flash-fast new getaway response—and new stepped-up gas mileage—when you press the pedal barely an inch—

The instant new full-power acceleration

when you floor the pedal and switch the pitch for a needed safety-surge—

The walloping new might of the big new 322-cubic-inch V8 engine that puts the ginger to it all—

And the new ride, the new handling ease, the new interiors, the new bold look of racy sweep-ahead styling.

Drop in on us this week—today if you can—and see for yourself what straightforward truth we tell you here—and what great-buy prices are keeping Buick more firmly than ever in the top 3 of America's best sellers.

Rocket Ship To Be Tested At Randolph

SAN ANTONIO, May 26 —UP— A low-altitude rocket ship in which Air Force men will lose every ounce of their weight as they hurtle through space will be tested soon at Randolph Air Force Base, scientists disclosed Saturday.

The ship, an F-94C jet interceptor, will be flown at fast speeds so the effect that "weightlessness" or "zero gravity" has on pilots can be studied.

It's the natural result of high circular speeds balanced by the pull of gravity. Any object that isn't tied down begins to float free in the aircraft.

Dr. Siegfried J. Gerathwohl, a German-born psychologist now living in nearby New Braunfels, will monitor the experiments for Randolph's School of Aviation Medicine.

His chief interest in the experiments is to study pilot reaction during the 600-mile-per-hour speed that the F-94C Starliner can attain. At that speed, the "free-floating" period will last about 45 seconds, the doctor predicts.

Dr. Gerathwohl, a former major in the Luftwaffe during World War II, has already begun a "feelers" experiment working with Maj. Herbert Stallings Jr., 35, who flew the first set of experiments on "weightlessness" in a T-33 jet trainer.

But these experiments were unsatisfactory, the doctor said. The zero gravity period only lasted about 20 seconds, and the fuel became "weightless." Stallings said that he didn't know when the engine would cut out, and that he was afraid if it did he might not be able to start it again before he plowed into the ground.

The F-94C has none of these comebacks, they report. The "free-floating" period is longer and gives more time for pilot-reaction observation. The fuel line is pressurized and does away with possible engine flame-out.

With a normal 3-2 break in clubs South would have experienced little trouble with his contract. The bad break and careful defense were enough to give South a bad time.

West opened a spade, and South ruffed the second round. Declarer led a trump, West put up the

Administration Has Troubles Predicting Home Building

By ROBERT F. MORISON
WASHINGTON, May 26 —UP— There are growing indications that the administration is about to lower its prediction on the number of new homes to be started this year.

The administration's official forecast has been about 1.5 million new starts. That would be nearly the same as 1955 — the second biggest home building year on record.

However, a shortage of mortgage money, which first hit about mid-1955, persists. The overall credit situation is further complicated by record demands for funds from industry to expand. This has been so heavy that federal reserve banks moved to slow down the borrowing by raising interest rates five times in a year.

Taking Another Look
Although this move by the federal reserve system does not directly affect home building, it does indirectly hit the mortgage market.

Informed sources told United Press that another look at the homebuilding outlook is underway now that figures for April are available.

Officials won't admit they are disappointed that construction was begun on 108,000 new homes and apartments in April. This was about 20 per cent below the volume of the top years — 1955 and 1950. If continued for a full year, this pace would mean about 1.1 million new units — some 200,000 below current administration expectations.

The National Association of Homebuilders last week dropped its 1.2 million forecast to about 1.1 million.

In dodging the question of whether the volume of April starts was disappointing informed sources admitted they were "lower than you'd want at this time" to reach 1.3 million for the full year.

Points to Money Problem
May normally is the pace setter for the year. Officials are reported waiting until mid-June to see what happens this month. If May does not show a sizeable increase, then the 1.3 million starts forecast thus far, has pointed out Housing Chief Albert M. Cole, is sticking with his 1.3 million forecast thus far, has pointed out consistently to a shortage of mortgage money as a possibly upsetting factor. This still holds true, although officials don't discount entirely the possibility of material and labor shortages.

Cole, whose forecast has been more optimistic than those of builders and lenders, foresees a pickup in the latter part of this year. The rising number of Veterans' Administration appraisal requests — considered a good barometer of future construction — has been cited.

The Aiming Stake
By K. L. FANCHER
Tomorrow night will be a free one for the members of Headquarters Battery, 474th Field Artillery Battalion. There will be no regular meeting after last week's Command Inspection by General Thompson. There will be some activity at the Armory however, as all of the Battery Commanders and the Battalion Staff meet Monday night with the Battalion Commander for more pre-camp planning.

Brigadier General John R. Thompson Jr., along with Major Sidney Laventhal of his staff and Colonel F. J. Murphy and Lt. Col. Carl E. Kopischke of the Fourth Army were all in Pampa last Thursday for the Annual Command Inspection. They inspected all three units here on Thursday and moved on to inspect Battery "C" in Shamrock on Friday. Previously they had inspected both Battery "A" at Dumas and Battery "B" in Dalhart.

The General seemed pleased with what he saw in all units and said that he was happy with the "marked improvement" evident in all units.

An invitation for bidders has been posted, requesting that bids be submitted to Austin for fencing and black topping the area around the National Guard Armory here in Pampa. Plans and specifications are available to interested bidders simply by writing to the Office of the U.S.P. & F.O. for Texas, in Austin. Bids and specifications will be forwarded and bids must be submitted before June 22nd. Plans call for over 4,000 cubic yards of black topping and over 800 feet of metal link-type fencing around the Armory area. It will certainly be a wonderful addition to the facilities already there.

This coming Sunday, members of Headquarters Battery will journey to Canyon to fire small arms. According to Battery Commander Jerry D. Farley, the unit will leave the Pampa Armory at five o'clock Sunday morning for the trip to Canyon, and all of the men who need to will fire familiarization and qualification that day.

We would like to extend that invitation once again to all interested men to visit the National Guard

Armory, east of Pampa on Highway 80, and take a look at the things that are being done there. As we have said many times before, the National Guard offers young men an excellent opportunity to retire at least a part of their military obligation, or maybe all of it. You can find out all the details by dropping in at the Armory any time during the day or on Monday or Thursday nights, and talking to the men that are there. Find out how you can help "Keep Your Guard Up."

ROCK-BOUND SHIP GATHERS NO ROLL — Take an Italian freighter floundering off the shore of Scituate, Mass., mix thoroughly in a wintry blizzard, and you have the recipe for turning a staid shore town into a king-sized headache. Good And Bad Of Week's News

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Foreign Analyst
The week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet:

GOOD NEWS

1. The United States dropped an H-bomb from a B-52 intercontinental bomber plane over Hiti Island in the western Pacific. The test was completely successful. It teamed the terrible destructive power of the H-bomb to the world's fastest giant bomber. Thus there was added to the American arsenal a new weapon which could destroy any city, anywhere in the world, in answer to an attack on the United States. It was reported that in further tests, next month, the United States might set off another new weapon — possibly an H-bomb warhead attached to a pilotless missile.

2. President Eisenhower had some comforting words for Americans who fear that the free world is losing ground to the Communists in the cold war. He said that troublesome new problems were rising in West-East competition, economic as well as military. Things are far from perfect, he said in a Washington press conference. But, he held: "I think there is too much pessimism . . . we are making progress, although it is slow and tortuous and, at times, disappointing."

3. The visit of President Sukarno of Indonesia, a leading Asian "neutralist," to the United States promised to bring good results. In his speeches, Sukarno criticized the American military aid program. But he also had many friendly things to say. He showed a warm, appealing personality which won him friends. There seemed reason to hope that he would return home with a more favorable view of American policy.

BAD NEWS

1. The increasing friendliness of President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt to the Communists caused serious misgivings in Washington. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles expressed regret at Nasser's recognition of Communist China. President Eisenhower, at his press conference, said he thought Nasser was making a mistake. Nasser, the next day, announced that he had accepted an invitation to visit Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai. It was announced also that Nasser would send a military mission to Peiping, the Red Capital, led by his defense minister.

2. France seemed heading toward another of its many cabinet crises. Pierre Mendes-France, co-leader of the government coalition, resigned from his post as vice premier because of disagreements over Algerian and other issues. Mollat announced that he would demand a vote of confidence in a debate next week on North African policy. He was expected to win it. But his shaky government appeared to be getting steadily weaker.

3. The Cyprus situation got increasingly explosive. In London, special guards were given cabinet ministers and the Duke of Edinburgh, husband of Queen Elizabeth, in fear of assassination attempts by Greek Cypriots who want the island handed to Greece. Turkish Cypriots, enraged by the murder of a Turkish policeman in Cyprus, stoned Green shops. British troops intervened to prevent new outbreaks. The Cypriot extremists called on school children, including girls six years old, to insult and stone British soldiers.

Adenauer's Visits Dramatic Evidence Of 'German Miracle'

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of three dispatches on the astonishing comeback of West Germany.
By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
BONN, Germany.—UP—Early next month a ramrod-stiff old German of 80 will board an airliner bearing the blue griffin emblem of the reborn German Luftwaffe and wing his way across the Atlantic.
Chancellor Konrad Adenauer will be on his way to confer with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. Adenauer's trip to Washington—and his recent visits to London, Paris and other world capitals—are dramatic evidence of the "German miracle," the rebirth of a nation utterly devastated by war and just 11 years later again one of the great powers.
Hardly a major international get-together is held these days without Adenauer or his chain-smoking Foreign Minister Dr. In for consultation. Von Brentano is the man pinpointed by Adenauer as his own successor some day.

lory building, the Schaumburg palace where Adenauer's own office looks out across the Rhine to the fabled seven hills, have come in the past year the ministers of many nations. Among them were the United States, Britain, France, Italy, Ireland, Belgium, Denmark, Greece, Yugoslavia, Turkey, Egypt, Ceylon, Iran, Thailand, Liberia and even little Iceland.
To all Adenauer and Brentano put these points:
1. Come what may, West Germany will remain a firm and loyal ally of the West.
2. German reunification must be in the forefront of any East-West cold war settlement.
Adenauer never tires of telling his callers that these are two principles from which West German foreign policy never will deviate. He also never tires of insisting that Germany is a reliable ally and that there is no danger of a rebirth of Nazism or of her turning around and making a deal with the Russians.

However, he warned in a recent United Press interview that West Germans always will have to keep their guards up to defend their democracy against either leftist or rightist extremists.
Western diplomats here share Adenauer's optimism that there is no serious danger from either former Nazis or Communists. The supreme court outlawed the only neo-Nazi movement that made so much as a ripple on German politics. And the tiny Communist party failed to win even a single seat in the parliament in the last election.
West Germany's parliamentary democracy, though barely seven years old, has provided this country with the most stable government of any European nation in post-war years.

Small Portion Of Unemployed To Receive Guaranteed Wage

A Decade of Change
Almost 10 years to the day after Nazi Germany capitulated, Adenauer's Bonn republic was admitted to NATO as its 16th member.
West Germany also is a member of the Organization for European Economic Cooperation, the Strasbourg Council of Europe, the European coal-and-steel community, the European Payments Union, and UNESCO—to name a few.
It would be a member of the United Nations if its entry were not blocked by the Soviets.
Last year an immense new foreign office building, costing several million deutschmarks, was completed in Bonn, overlooking the swift-flowing Rhine River. It houses the 1,200 officials mastering the bustling diplomacy of the nation that again has become a major factor in world politics.

By LEE LINDBERG
DETROIT, May 26—UP—Only a small portion of today's nearly 160,000 unemployed auto workers will cash in on the industry's first guaranteed wage benefits which become available next month.
And those who are in on the initial payoff will get far less than they probably counted on.
Most of the 160,000 were laid off before May 2. Only workers idled after that date are eligible for the payments.
The May 2 date was agreed upon after the industry's guaranteed wage contracts were negotiated with the United Auto Workers Union a year ago. It was believed auto employment at that date would, as usual, be at or near its peak.
But production cutbacks caused by lagging new car sales have swelled unemployment rolls past even most of the pessimistic predictions. Most of those idled were laid off before May 2, and the only way they can collect payments is to be called back to work and then let go again.
Won't Get Jackpot
Newly laid off workers won't hit a jackpot either.
The reason is that the current three-year contracts have not been in effect long enough to permit company-financed pools to reach their maximum levels. It means idled workers will receive the supplemental payments for a far shorter period than specified in the contracts.
The agreement was that workers are guaranteed up to 65 per cent of their normal take-home pay during 26 weeks of layoff. This includes company money on top of state unemployment compensation.

During the past year, each company has been paying 5 cents per worker per hour into its trust fund.
Payments Won't Last Long
The UAW says that during the past year Chrysler payments have brought its fund up to only 19 per cent of maximum. General Motors and Ford, which started payments several months ahead of Chrysler, now have funds at 23 per cent of maximum.
With these funds far from their peaks, the average idle worker can't hope to draw anywhere near the 65 per cent of his pay for half-year.
Take the case of a married Chrysler worker with less than 10 years seniority who earns $85 a week or takehome pay of $71 after taxes.
His total benefits will be $46 a week—$33 from the state of Michigan and $13 from Chrysler. That is 65 per cent of his take home pay.
But with the Chrysler trust fund only 19 per cent, his benefits will last only a little more than two weeks. From then on he receives only the $33 state unemployment payments until he is called back to work.

A PEEK INTO THE GARDENS around town will show many and varied flowers in bloom . . . a really pretty sight and well worth while . . . makes you stop to think of the many hours someone has spent in watering and caring for them . . . and reminds Peg of this poem . . .

MY NEIGHBOR'S ROSES

The roses red upon my neighbor's vine
Are owned by him, but they are also mine.
His was the cost, and his the labor, too,
But mine as well as his the joy, their loveliness to view.

They bloom for me and are for me as fair
As for the man who gives them all his care.
Thus I am rich, because a good man grew
A rose-clad vine for all his neighbors' view.

I know from this that others plant for me,
And what they own, my joy may also be.
So why be selfish, when so much that's fine
Is grown for you, upon your neighbor's vine.

DR. AND MRS. T. J. WORRELL came back from a trip to Lake City, Colo. . . . where they went for the opening of the fishing season . . . seems they really had wonderful luck . . . and came home with quite a catch . . . Mrs. Worrell was breathless with excitement in telling about it . . . of course, some of that excitement may be due to the coming marriage of her daughter, Patsy . . . won't be long now . . . believe the big day is Saturday . . . Well, to get back to their fishing trip . . . seems Mrs. Worrell found an appropriate poem . . . or prayer . . . for all fishermen . . . it goes something like this . . . "Lord, suffer me to catch a fish so big that even I, when telling of it, shd'r I never have to lie." . . . You anglers might take note of that!

It is the hardest thing in the world to be a good thinker without being a good self-examiner. (Shaftesbury)

Peg's been waiting for Bob Olson to sprout out again this year in his Bermuda shorts . . . the dressy kind, with which you wear shirt, tie, sports coat and knee socks . . . League Of Women Voters Hear Talk By Mayor Boyd On Plans For Pampa

Mayor Lynn Boyd spoke on future plans for Pampa at the general meeting and coffee of the League of Women Voters in Lovett Library.

Mayor Boyd explained to the women that the city employs a city engineer to find out what improvements are needed in Pampa and employs fiscal agents to advise in financing of the needed improvements.

The city has to engineer (a project for civic improvement), convince the people it's needed, prove the city's credit is good (before getting the money for it), and then convince the people they will get their money's worth, he advised.

He went on to point out the growth of Pampa since 1930. He stated in 1948, the city engineer forecast there would be 23,000 people in Pampa in 1955 and 49,000 in 1960. A separate Chamber of Commerce survey at that time brought a prediction of 23,000 people in 1955, and 48,000 in 1960.

Among the improvements or projects nearly underway is the Hobart Street underpass, Mayor Boyd told the women, adding that it "is in the mill."

"The state has accepted it and is working on it," he said. "However, it may be six months before contracts are let."

The city's cost for the underpass is $395,000 for right of way, property damage and utility relocation, the mayor explained, adding that the big problem is drainage. The total cost will be $1,016,000, he stated.

"We are deficient in fire-fighting equipment and fire stations," he told the women.

He said that a commission in Austin grades the cities on these and has found Pampa deficient in a million gallons of overhead water storage and two fire stations, one in the north and one in the south parts of the city. Correcting the deficiency will be an estimated cost of $170,000 for two substations, more equipment and a drill tower; and $200,000 for the overhead storage.

Today, because so many of us fear its exposure of ugly and disgraceful things in us, nobody dares say, "There is nothing sacred in these mechanical oracles." So psychological tests wield over us the tyrant's power of life and death.

If they call us "unadjusted," uncooperative, suggestible or some other psychologically evil thing, our employers can fire us and our teachers affix the fatal label "isolate" on us. Because the test's judgment of us is mechanical it is inflexible — and from it there is no more appeal than from the old god Moloch.

For this reason, they offer wonderfully convenient outs to authorities who possess neither the humility nor the courage to extend themselves in honest human judgment of us.

The employer who's too scared to tell me he thinks I'm uncooperative gets his psychological test to tell me for him. The teacher who lacks the patience and self-trust to rely on her own intuition for a child's loneliness gets her sociogram to declare him an isolate for her. They're not so fortunate as they imagine. Their influence upon mechanical insight can end with interest in the human kind.

This week Dr. Ruth Cunningham, professor of education at Teachers College, Columbia University, gave me her interesting opinion of psychological tests.

Said she: "Their goodness depends entirely on the humility and respect of the tester. It is devastating to both teacher and child to use tests to label the child. By labeling him, you evade the obligation of patience and growth with him."

age tank which may take a year for delivery, he explained.

BRIDGE AND STREET
Bridge and street improvements needed will cost an estimated $250,000 the Mayor continued. This included the city's part of paving.

He said the needed improvements include the replacing of the Cook Avenue bridge, the replacing of the Cuyler Street bridge near City Park, and the widening of the Duncan Street bridge.

The city parks need improving, he stated, adding that a swimming pool is needed for the Negroes as well as playground equipment for the Negro park.

WATER AND SEWER
Two 16-inch water loops have been proposed and the replacing of some lines to improve the water situation, Mayor Boyd pointed out. He said that the sewer system is inadequate and another line is needed to the disposal plant.

BOND ISSUE
In concluding, the Mayor explained that the city plans to call a proposed vote on a proposed million dollar "general obligation" bond issue possibly June 26, to take care of the needed improvements in the parks, fire equipment and stations and part of those on water and sewer.

The proposed bond issue would raise taxes about 15 cents, or about 8 per cent, he pointed out, and would be an "obligation" for a period of eight years, after which taxes might be reduced. He added that the tax raise might not have to be as high as 15 cents this year.

For the water and sewer improvements, revenue bonds have been proposed in the amount of $1,810,000. Water rates would increase "perhaps 25 per cent," the Mayor told the women. He said there has been no water-rate increase since 1951.

Mayor Boyd explained that the city now has enough water rights to last for four or five years, but will propose $200,000 to buy water rights "to be safe for 25 or 30 years."

A question-and-answer period followed.

Mayor Boyd was introduced by Mrs. Willis White, program chairman, who arranged for the program. Guests were welcomed by Mrs. Jess Clay, president.

Following the mayor's talk, a film on the early days of the League was shown.

During the coffee, refreshments of coffee, sweet rolls, doughnuts and fresh fruit were served. Mrs. H. O. Darby was hostess chairman, and Mrs. D. A. Finkelstein presided at the silver coffee service. About 22 women attended the event.

Auxiliary Of VFW Plans Observance Of Memorial Day

The Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars met in the City Club Room for a business session.

It was decided to place flags on graves of veterans for Memorial Day, and to place pot plants on the graves of four former Auxiliary members. Plans were made also to provide tray favors for patients in Highland General Hospital for Memorial Day.

The women voted to hold one meeting a month during the summer. Next session will be a covered-dish supper at 7:30 p.m. June 5, with Mrs. Larry Parsley, 609 Doucette.

During the social period, a gift was presented to Mrs. Doyle Hopper, who will move to Amarillo with her family soon. Refreshments of angel food cake and punch were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Jones Seitz and Mrs. Frank Yates.

Training Program Planned By PCCW

The advisory board of Holy Souls' Parish Council of Catholic Women met in the home of Mrs. Raymond Laycock, president. Father Myles P. Moynihan, opened and closed the meeting with prayer.

The group voted to set up a leadership training program for the committee chairmen of the Council. Mrs. W. B. Herr was appointed the chairman. Leaders' training classes will be given this summer and workshops will be held in the fall.

All 13 parishes in the Pampa District will be invited to send their committee chairmen, or a representative, to the September workshop, it was decided.

Coffee and rolls were served. Present were Mrs. Bill Braly, Walter Pung, Victor Jamieson, Francis Schwind, Ben Wood, H. W. Waddell, Joe Gayden, V. W. Neumeier, E. J. Lewis, Jr., Lynn Boyd, William Herr, Wayne Howell, James W. Archer and J. E. Hilton.

MRS. EDDIE L. SPIVEY

Ann Claudette Ray And Eddie L. Spivey Are Married In Candlelight Ceremony

Miss Ann Claudette Ray, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Carroll B. Ray, 511 E. Browning, and Eddie L. Spivey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Verner Spivey of Houston, were united in marriage in a candlelight service at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, in the First Baptist Church of Somerville, Rev. Ray, father of the bride, assisted by Rev. T. F. Collier, the church pastor, officiated for the double-ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of lace and tulle over satin. The moulded bodice of Alencon lace was styled with a wing collar and long sleeves that came to points over her hands. The bouffant, floor-length skirt of gathered tulle was accented with a lace panther. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion fell from a tiara accented with bridal jewels, and she carried a bouquet of white orchids and feathered carnations.

Miss Marilyn McCain of Shreveport, La., was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Mrs. Fred Burnett of Waco and Mrs. Neal Carey of Ft. Worth. All were attired in identical waltz-length gowns of cotton blue tulle over iridescent taffeta. They wore matching headbands, and carried arm bouquets of pink carnations.

Miller F. Robinson of Gateville served as best man, and groomsmen were Gene Welch of Somerville and Neal Carey of Fort Worth. Buddy Ray and Dickey Ray, brothers of the bride, and Sherman Spivey and Jerry Spivey, brothers of the bridegroom, were ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Ray wore a dress of pink lace with matching accessories, and the bridegroom's mother was attired in a green crystal dress with green and white accessories.

The couple was married before a setting of greenery and candles. Miss Joyce Roemfeldt of Pampa was organist, and Miss Marion Dorbritz of Brenham, vocalist, sang "I Love Thee." "Through the Years" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor. Assisting were Misses Nancy Sue Sisson, Fay Lynn Cruise, Bobby Jean Lovell, Marion Dorbritz and Mrs. Clifford Payne.

For the wedding trip to Austin, the bride wore a blue silk suit with black and white accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid.

The bride was graduated from Baylor University with a major in elementary education. The bridegroom, also a graduate of Baylor, is now attending Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth.

Bad Manners Are Inexcusable Fault In Mature Woman

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor
A grown woman ought to know better.

Bad manners in her daughter or granddaughter may be forgiven on the grounds that they haven't been taught or that they're simply ignorant of common courtesy.

But a woman in her middle years has had plenty of time to soak up knowledge of the little courtesies that make the wheels of daily duty turn more easily.

A grown woman ought not to help her husband make his manners try on a dress in a shop without being sure her lipsick won't come off on the dress. A salesperson is it perfectly entitled to protect her merchandise by reminding anyone who forgets this matter.

A woman of mature judgment should not leave a cigarette burning on the edge of furniture, a public washing machine or a restaurant table.

It is ungrateful for a woman to remove all of her lipstick on a cotton machine-rolled towel in a public rest room. Certainly, it is commercially washed. But a woman with any self-pride will refrain.

Combining one's hair over a washbasin when other space is available is unpleasant for the next woman in line and remarkably unsavory for the attendant.

Trying on hats over dirty hair is unkind. If one thinks about it one would realize what one expects from the woman who tried on the hats last.

And that's the sum total — what does a mature woman expect from others whom she meets?

RUTH MILLETT

It was mighty generous of a certain Los Angeles bridegroom-to-be to go to court and change his last name to that of his fiancée so that when they married her name would remain the same.

The gentleman's reason for giving up his own name in favor of his future bride's was that she had made hers well-known as a top-ranking officer in the Army Nurse Corps.

But it isn't likely this modern switch will catch on. And for a very good and sound reason.

When a man and woman marry it doesn't matter who she was as a Miss. As a Mrs. her job is to help her husband make his name stand for something.

If she is willing to take his name it is because she is proud to wear it — and because she believes that it is a name she will be even more proud to wear as the years go by.

In fact, this taking a man's name is so important in the feminine mind that most girls, as young as they get interested in a young man, start writing "Mrs." in front of his name just to see how it looks.

Of course, a girl may have tried out a lot of names on paper before she actually changes her name — but that only goes to show how romantic she finds the idea of some day changing her name at the altar.

It's fine for a man to be so proud of his bride-to-be and so generous that he is willing to change his name to hers.

But probably most girls will always like the time-honored system best. For most girls look forward to the time when a man will ask them to take his name for life.

BABY

If a baby suddenly develops blotches, survey his menu for the last day or so. Some babies will break out from tomato juice, others from eggs, still others from some fruit. Take out the newest food you've added and see what happens.

Instructions to the baby sitter about how to call for help or where to locate you are important. But also important are your usual procedures when Baby wakes up in the middle of the night. The, above all, he wants familiar treatment.

Inventory of one Baby's toy box discloses: one sieve, one typewriter ribbon reel, three cardboard milk cartons, one stuffed animal, one tennis ball, 16 clothes pins, pages from a cardboard book and half of a pull toy. Take on away and he tries to break the neighbors' eardrums. He loves 'em.

RUTH MILLET

Men, here's a tip for you. In a recent YWCA poll in which 15,230 girls and women were questioned about what they would most like to do, more than 15,000 of them put travel at the head of the list.

And when it came to listing their favorite fun activity, the majority were strongly in favor of putting on their dancing shoes and stepping out for an evening of rug cutting.

How does this consensus affect you men? It's simple. If you want the girls you are planning to marry in June or have already married to enjoy life, don't forget a woman's love of travel and dancing.

Your idea of fun may be quiet evenings at home and your idea of a vacation may be fishing or hunting.

But don't forget that if the girl you marry is companionable enough to let you have your evenings at home, if she'll even go along with you on your camping trips, you might do your part to see that she gets to do some of the things that come first with her.

Every now and then she may want to get dressed up and go dancing. And as a change of pace now and then she might like to do a little traveling instead of going back year after year to where the fish are supposed to be biting.

You might even conduct a little private poll of your own with two questions:

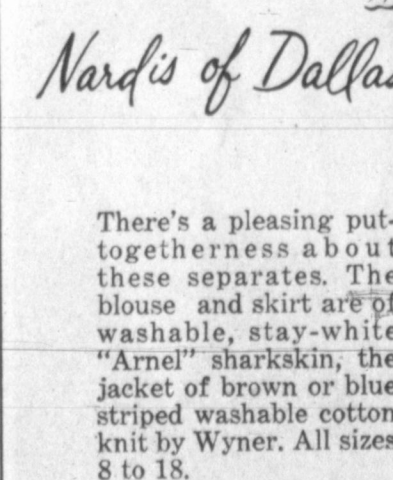

"Honey, if you could go vacation, where would it be?"

And "What would you really like to do next Saturday night? You name it and we'll do it."

But if you get her to wishing, be sure you are prepared to try to gratify the wish.

A new way to prepare chicken—in fact two new ways —

SWISS CHICKEN IN CHEESE SAUCE (6-8 servings)

Two packages (1-pound size) frozen chicken thighs, breasts, drumsticks, or wings, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon marjoram, 1/2 teaspoon black pepper, 1/4 cup butter, 1/4 cup sherry or 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 cup light cream, 2 egg yolks, dash nutmeg, 1/4 cup shredded Swiss or Gruyere cheese, 1/4 cup buttered bread crumbs.

Thaw chicken as directed on package. Rub chicken with mixture of salt, marjoram and pepper; brown in butter. Cover; cook slowly about 45 minutes or until chicken is tender. Place chicken in shallow baking dish. Add sherry or lemon juice to chicken droppings in skillet; cook until sherry or lemon juice is almost evaporated. Add cream and egg yolks, stirring constantly until sauce is thickened; season with nutmeg. Pour sauce over chicken; sprinkle with cheese and bread crumbs. Broil until cheese is melted and crumbs are browned.

CHICKEN WITH HERBS, FLAMBE (6-8 servings)

Two packages (1-pound size) frozen chicken thighs, breasts, drumsticks or wings, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon tarragon, 1/2 teaspoon thyme, 1 small bay leaf, 1 whole clove, dash black pepper, 2 small carrots, thinly sliced; 1 whole onion, thinly sliced, 1 small clove garlic, mashed; 1/4 cup chicken broth 1/2 cup sauterne, 2 tablespoons brandy or lemon extract.

Thaw chicken as directed on package. Brown chicken well in butter or margarine; add remaining ingredients except brandy. Cover and simmer about 45 minutes.

Phyllis A. Barron, Robert Lee Smith Vows Solemnized

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Barron of Lefors announce the marriage of their daughter, Phyllis Ann, to Robert Lee Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Smith, also of Lefors. Vows were exchanged in the First Baptist Church, Hollis, Okla., with Rev. Robert S. Jackson officiating.

The bride was attired in a navy blue dress of nylon and cotton, accented by white accessories.

ADAN Smith, now serving in the Navy, is a 1955 graduate of Lefors High School.

The bride has completed her studies in Lefors High School and plans to join her husband in Corpus Christi where he is stationed at Cabanis Field.

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace Friend I am writing in to you to see if you can give me any assistance with a pressing need.

I am the wife of a serviceman who has been sent overseas, leaving me with four children to care for and so many debts that the payments call for almost $100 a month more than my income.

We had just bought a brand new home with three bedrooms and two baths and I have been wondering if there might be another service man's family, the husband overseas and the wife needing to stretch her monthly allotment, who would be willing to move into my home, occupy the bedroom with private bath and pay me what she would be paying for an apartment and dividing the housework and groceries according to the members of our respective families. Agreeing that if she had employment I would baby sit for her while she worked and vice versa.

Other things I would require would be that there would be no male callers other than relatives and absolutely no drinking. Other than this we could arrive at a mutually satisfactory agreement in all things upon meeting.

Since this is a matter of real urgency to me, I sincerely hope it will be possible for you to publish this letter.

Mrs. L. M.

Dear Mrs. L. M.

I hope that there will be someone willing to share your home and thus help you meet your bills. However, I would like to suggest that you improve your financial position by disposing of some of the articles for which you are making monthly payments.

Try to limit your purchases to one or two at a time and then pay for them before buying something else. You may want everything at once and, of course, it is nice to have everything at once but not at the price you are paying.

Think over the list of things you are buying and decide which are the most necessary and which can be gotten along without. Then dispose of those you can wait for until such time as your finances are in better shape.

FREE INVESTIGATION Dear Miss Friend If E. O., who wrote you about being hurt while working, will write to the California Industrial Accident Commission, State Building, Los Angeles California, they will investigate her case and advise her free of charge.

I suggest she do this before she takes the case up with a lawyer.

rics, cotton, is in better condition than ever to serve a woman's summer lingerie needs. It's washable, naturally, doesn't cling or get electrical, it's opaque and coolly absorbent.

But, in addition to cotton please and seersucker, specially-treated smooth cottons now have "no iron" qualities.

These are cotton and dacron blends, nylon-cotton-dacron blends and the rinsized cottons. They come pretty or plain, with lace insets, embroidery or color.

These can be washed and worn with no ironing at all if they're shaped by hand after washing. Fluff out the ruffles, smooth lace or embroidery, finger press the beading and finger iron it.

If these wonder cottons are washed in lots of suds, as soon as they're slightly soiled, and hung out with care without wringing, they are as carefree as the synthetics.

Installed were Mrs. Alvis Burke, president; Mrs. Jim Hathaway, vice-president; Mrs. H. J. Ridgway, treasurer; and Mrs. Billy Morgan, recording secretary.

The question used to be, 'which would you rather be, chic or pretty?' In 1956, fashions and make-up allow you to be both.

When nylon stockings first came back into good supply after the Second World War, many women past 40 remarked that they'd forego this precious luxury if they could just have good old silk stockings back again.

Most of these women have either changed their minds or found their silk stockings by now. But the fact remains that many mature women cling with stubbornness, and some wisdom, to the fibers they have known for years.

The furious rush to nylon lingerie has now been tempered with the knowledge that pure nylon is pretty warm going in the summer. And the women who found this out first were the mature ones.

So they're entitled to know that one of their favorite lingerie fab-

The heart-shaped diamond is the newest diamond cut for this year's bride. It is a true heart-shape. Diamonds called heart-shape in the past were actually pear or triangular-shaped. It takes both a plump diamond and expert cutting to achieve the heart-shape. But the result combines sentiment with quality.

Long Hair Needs Special Attention

By ALICIA HART Many teen-agers like to wear their hair in long, full bobs that sweep the shoulders or are even longer.

Certainly, if a woman likes to wear long hair, the teens are the time to do it, since a woman is considered "too old" for long hair at an increasingly young age.

Well-tended, youthful long hair can be very beautiful. But there are several perils that a gal should avoid if she wants to have her hair long.

Long hair does not mean no haircuts. A gal with a short hairstyle naturally has to have her hair cut every three weeks or so. The gal with the long hair tends to think that any cutting or trimming will reduce the beauty of her mane. The contrary is true. Hair of any length that isn't trimmed regularly will develop split ends, which are unsightly and make the hair hard to handle.

Split ends develop with rapidity in hair that's put up, wet, every night. Hair should be kept under close watch and the ends should be trimmed and shaped regularly. Many of the wearers of long hair have naturally thick, lustrous hair. But too thick hair produces an unruly mop. Hair should be thinned, if it shows signs of needing it at all.

Gals with long hair also tend to avoid washing it, since it's a long process. Since long hair is highly conspicuous, it should be kept extra-clean at all times. A gal shouldn't go to bed with her hair soaking and set. It will soon lose its luster this way.

Liquid Foundation For Longer Wear

By ALICIA HART NEA Beauty Editor

Those women who wear foundation and powder will want to take a look at a new product on the cosmetics market. This is a liquid foundation, designed to stay fresh-looking for a long period of time. The manufacturer states that even four or five touch-ups of face powder used over it will not disturb this new formula.

The product is designed to give a moist, youthful look rather than the matte finish.

Six brand-new colors were formulated by the well-known manufacturer for this new make-up.

They are based on pink or ivory, to give a delicate look, and are designed to cut down on color defects in the skin. The colors are beige, which subdues a ruddy complexion; blush, which is aimed at those with a sallow skin; fair, which brings out pinks in a delicate skin; ivory, which should give the porcelain look; rosy beige, for olive skins; and bronze, to give the outdoors look.

This liquid foundation is applied with long strokes of the fingertips, after the skin has been thoroughly cleaned. Just a little is supposed to cover the whole face and keep it that way for a day. It comes in a one-ounce size and a half-ounce travel size.

Avoid telling Baby, even if he's just a little fellow, that medicine is "candy." Medicine is medicine. Most medications, including aspirin and antibiotics, are flavored to taste good to him. He'll take them. But he should not get the idea that they're candy.

It's naive to assume that anything in the house is going to remain "out of Baby's reach" forever. He'll climb up somehow. This means putting dangerous instruments, poisons and matches under lock until Baby understands about them.

Two-year-old Babies aren't too young to be a help. Some of them have learned how to fetch mommy's house shoes or slippers, how to empty ash trays in a metal container and how to put plastic cups in the sink when they've had juice.

If you're a devotee of the two-piece swimsuit, you're in luck this year. There are a number of them around.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
When Kenneth was two, his mother caught a cold. So she tied gauze over her nose and mouth whenever she was near Kenneth. She put the gauze shield between them to avoid transferring her physical infection to him.

Now, because she's had to move to a strange town away from her family and friends, her moral resistance is low — and she's been infected by fear of loneliness. But shield between this infection's germs and Kenneth, she breathes them upon him nearly every time she opens her mouth.

Every afternoon when he comes home from school, she pounces on him anxiously with questions like these: "Didn't anyone walk home with you? Did you have to eat lunch alone again today? Didn't any child as kyow where you live? Wasn't anyone nice to you at all?"

Her fear's continual suggestion that he will remain friendless is making him as anxious about loneliness as she is. It has told him so often that acquiring friendships is supremely important; that the neighborhood children who can grant or deny them have assumed terrifying power in Kenneth's eyes.

As a result, he is so nervous and uncertain with them that he makes other children uncomfortable. Thus, infection by his mother's fear of aloneness is bringing that very state about.

"Most nervous children," writes Dr. Lawson G. Lowrey, one of our wisest child psychiatrists, "are the product of the management given them. Nervous parents expect and so cause nervous children."

"They do some of all of the following things: telling the child about their own nervousness to get his sympathy; constantly reminding him of how nervous he is; discussing his nervousness with other people in his hearing; worrying over his health and habits — and worrying him with their worries over him."

Personally, I think that worrying children with our worries over them is particularly damaging.

For it's always a hidden bid for their help with the worries. In her questions to Kenneth, his mother has typical hidden admission of her own helplessness and demand that he rescue her from it.

His conviction that he has failed his mother is Kenneth's real problem.

Cotton takes on like silk or worsted this spring and turns up in suits and coats that are carefully tailored and lined.

First the home economists went out and bought five styles of cotton dresses most commonly sold to women in moderate income families. Then they tried making these same dresses themselves just as a housewife would do it.

"In order to duplicate the ready-to-wear dresses, an extra set of each style was purchased to provide patterns for the house dresses to be made in the laboratory," says Miss Brew.

"The dresses were ripped apart and patterns were made from the pieces using standard pattern paper and entering markings similar to those found in a commercial pattern."

The torn-up dresses weren't a total loss, however, if you're thinking of firing off a letter about waste to Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson.

The material was given a complete laboratory analysis for shrinkage, color fastness and strength. Then similar fabrics were purchased for the homemade dresses.

In some cases, patterns were

Home Sewing Saves Housewife Money
Say Agriculture Department Specialists

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Correspondent
BELTSVILLE, Md. — (NEA) — This is where Uncle Sam has been ripping apart new dresses lately. And it's all for the sake of you do-it-yourself seamstresses.

Now you'll be glad to know that those dresses you've worked on have saved you money.

Home economists here at the Agriculture Department's Household Management Section have proved it, buttons to bows.

"We have established that homemakers can save money by sewing at home," says Miss Margaret L. Brew, head of the section.

She points out, however, that it's still up to the homemaker to decide whether the sewing savings are big enough to make it worth time lost from other activities.

The experiments carried out here were confined to cotton dresses for street and house wear, which surveys indicate are often home produced. Here's how it was done:

When the last stitch was completed and the results computed, it was found that direct savings for the street dresses came to about $5 each. This figure is the difference between the cost of the ready-to-wear dresses and the sum the homemaker would spend for fabrics, trimmings, belts, fasteners, thread, pattern and power to run the sewing machine and iron.

For the house dresses, savings were not as great. It took a little less time to make them compared to the street dresses, however.

"The money savings from home sewing of clothing were substantial in relation to the time spent, under the circumstances of this experiment," concludes Miss Brew. "But the homemaker has to decide for herself how to spend her leisure hours most profitably. What we've worked out here will help give her a yardstick to go by."

Beauty Not Possible Without Good Sleep

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Rest is so vital to beauty that it seems silly to have to point this fact out again and again.

Yet recently several women have mentioned they know they looked sallow, yet simply couldn't understand why, when they had custom-mixed cosmetics. Two others were at a loss to understand brand-new wrinkles under their eyes.

Cheating on sleep can never be compensated for by cosmetics, foods, drugs, coffee or ice packs. Sleep is like air — there isn't anything else that will do.

Sleeping may run in cycles. A woman may need more in the winter than in the summer. Or she may sleep less soundly in the summer and find she is fatigued. A woman may be more tired just before her menstrual period, or during it. A woman definitely needs more when she's pregnant or just after she's had the baby.

It is possible to sleep one's self into a state of stupor, when one never gets up and tends to business. But a decent allowance of sleep, whatever one needs, is the basis for any beauty development.

Aside from the women who feel they "can't" sleep, there are many potentially beautiful women who cheat themselves by skimping on sleep or doing just one more task before falling into bed at one a.m.

Lesson For Bride On Cooking Pork

A bride's first cooking lesson could very well be the preparation of pork. To enjoy the best flavor and goodness of pork, the new homemaker should know a few simple pork cookery rules.

First, pork must be thoroughly cooked before serving. Whether braising, roasting, or stewing, in order to guarantee complete doneness, prepare pork with long, slow cooking. The high, quick temperatures of frying or broiling dry this meat, so cuts such as chops, steaks, and tenderloin slices should be braised. Brown the meat in a little hot fat, then cook it in a small amount of liquid in a covered pan.

COOK'S NOOK

Greet Memorial Day Holiday
With Properly-Made Iced Tea

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor
Over the Memorial Day many families will stay home and friends and neighbors will drop in. That is when pitchers of strong, clear iced tea will be welcome.

To make iced tea an easy way, pre-measure 1-3 cup loose tea (or remove tags from 15 teabags). Bring 1 quart of freshly drawn cold water to a full rolling boil in a saucepan. Remove from heat and while water is still bubbling, add all the tea at one time. Stir. Brew 5 minutes, uncovered. Stir and strain into pitcher holding an additional quart of freshly drawn cold water. (Do not refrigerate). Serve in ice-filled glasses. Many people enjoy freshly sliced lemon in their iced tea, sugar, too. Often, fresh mint is served with it. Sometimes fresh fruit is used as garnish.

Clouding in iced tea is caused by precipitation which occurs when iced tea reaches a certain degree of coldness. It does not impair the flavor or quality of iced tea.

Clouding can be removed by adding enough boiling water to restore its crystal clearness. Note: Iced tea should not be refrigerated. It will hold its flavor and quality 2 to 4 hours after preparation.

CREAM CHEESE AND FRESH
VEGETABLE TEA SANDWICHES
(Yield: Approximately 36 sandwiches)

Cut firm, day-old bread into any desired small shapes (finger-length strips, circles, hearts, bells, diamonds, etc.) Stack neatly on a tray and cover with a lightly dampened cloth and set aside. Mix 4 packages (3-ounce each) cream cheese with 1/2 teaspoon garlic salt (optional), 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon ground white pepper, 4 teaspoons milk, and 4 teaspoons fresh lemon juice. Spread lightly over bread cut for this purpose. Put remaining cheese through the decorator's tube and pipe a little edge around each sandwich. Gaily decorate them to resemble flowers with fresh vegetable. Make stems and leaves with slivers of green pepper, flowers with shredded carrots and beets, tomatoes, cucumbers and radishes.

A father who doesn't care for being a horse and having Baby ride on his back while he's on hands and knees should certainly tell any visiting uncle so, before uncle takes over the task. Babies love it and will demand it very violently, once they learn how.

Office Appearance
Aided By Jewelry

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor
The question of jewelry in the office appears often on personnel evaluation sheets, employer's interview records and the complaints of men who have secretaries.

It's curious that women who know exactly how to dress for office work often forget that jewelry is part of an office appearance. Prime offender is the charm bracelet. This, of course, does not mean the "grandmother" bracelet with its small round discs. This refers to the big, bunched bracelets with a handful of jingly, snag-prone gadgets, some of which burst out into the American flag if the owner isn't careful.

These are fine souvenirs to have and many women have collections of many years' standing. But they should not be worn in an office. They look immature, they catch on clothing and paper and they make what can often seem like a fearful racket.

Next offender is the necklace or bead arrangement. A man feels pretty silly when his secretary bends over the desk and a long chain settles on his blotter.

Tremendous pins with your name on them aren't suitable for the secretary of a businessman. This doesn't refer to the nameplates many women have to wear as part of their uniform. They indicate who is serving the patron. But a private secretary shouldn't wear anything top eye-catching or distracting.

Letters, Snapshots
Link With Children

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor
As a woman grows older and her children marry and move away, much of her personality and charm must be conveyed to persons who love her by letters and snapshots.

Though a woman's children may unconsciously remember her just as she was when they were very young, in reality they know she is no longer that way. They want to see snapshots and read letters that tell them she is healthy and pretty, even though different each year.

"I am getting so gray," is not a suitable comment for a letter. It tells the reader that the writer dislikes the development and is distressed. A pretty snapshot may tell the real story, that a woman is aging gracefully and that gray hair is far from unbecoming.

A woman is likely to put on weight gradually as she grows older. Telling the children by mail that "your old mother looks like the fat lady in the circus" is not reassuring. Nor is it particularly humorous. It is unkind both to one's self and to the children, who vaguely feel they ought to be able to do something.

A new dress bought, a new hair style, an old favorite dress that's finally given up, a coat restyled—these are pleasant trivia worthy of mention in letters and of documentation in snapshots. They tell children that their mother retains her beauty and charm.

Men will never understand why a colored lining in a shoe (or a colored shoe sole) is delightful. But women revel in such unexpected flashes of color.

Lady Skin-Diver Sets All-Wet Record

By NEA Service
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — (NEA) — It's nice to achieve notice in some special way, whether it be cooking, sewing or performing the latest dance step. Mrs. Barbara Jacobs of Indianapolis has gone off to the deep end for her recognition. She is an unofficial champion "skin-diver."

An attractive, bespectacled brunette of 33, Mrs. Jacobs and her husband discovered the sport of skin-diving on a vacation in Florida one winter. Since then, Barbara has set a world's record for women by descending to 270 feet, 81 better than the old mark.

Ed Townsend, her tutor, started her off slowly, and by the end of her first diving year, had her accustomed to depths of 80 feet. When she was ready to try for the record, Townsend went with her to verify it.

After being transported out into the waters off Hollywood Beach, Fla., Mrs. Jacobs and teacher started down. In skin-diving, you don't dive or jump — you fall in. Loaded down with a 40-pound tank on your back, you just sit on the edge of the boat and fall — splash. Once in, the divers followed the launch's anchor rope to the bottom. The rope was so arranged that it provided no slope, thereby giving maximum accuracy of the measurement of the dive.

Once safely past the old mark, Mrs. Jacobs signed her name to a slate on her belt, and fastened it to the rope. When the rope was pulled up and measured, her record-breaking descent was verified.

The total time consumed for Mrs. Jacobs' household - jarring trip was just nine minutes, shorter than the time required to broil a sirloin.

Barbara won't get any competition for women's record from within the family, for all the other members are male — husband, Art, and sons Don and Burt, aged four and seven, respectively.

Mrs. Jacobs plans to retire from the record-seeking end of skin-diving. She explains, "Perhaps if someone breaks my record, I might try to regain it, but otherwise there isn't much point to it."

News In Fashions

The five-and-dime yields lots of things helpful to wardrobe upkeep. Those little sewing kits, for instance, with thread in every color of the rainbow. Handy for home or travel. And toe rubbers that can go into a handbag in their little plastic carryalls.

Most women who wear white gloves are aware that they must be a fresh white in order to look well. But the same is true of pale beige or any other light color. So have your gloves cleaned (or wash them yourself) often.

The woman who wears glasses must be careful about veiling, too much sparkly jewelry, too much glitter on her hat. If she isn't, she'll look frumpy and overdressed.

Sandals are not for the woman with plump legs and feet. She looks her trim best in simple, neat pumps.

Learning to dress to your own particular style takes practice and experience. Some women achieve it later than others. So don't worry overmuch about your fashion mistakes; just try not to make the same ones twice.

Even when you're traveling to the tropics, don't leave a sweater out of your suitcase. And drape a light coat over your arm. Both will come in handy.

We've had lots of separates purporting to look like one-piece dresses. Now we have the two-tone dress with calf belt passing itself off as shirt and skirt. Shirt is in a light tone; skirt is darker. It's a good idea for the working girl and it eliminates that blouse bulge at the waistline.

Correct Method Told For Freezing Beef

When stopping by the meat counter these days, you'll find a beautiful array of cuts of high quality beef. This is the time of year when the heavy beef is marketed in large quantities and is sold at such attractive prices.

If you own a home freezer, or rent a locker, you can buy several of these economical cuts at once—four or five luscious pot roasts, some steaks, a couple of rib roasts, several packages of freshly ground beef — and freeze them for use later.

Beef put in the freezer today can be used anytime within the next 6 or 8 months and still have the same wonderful fresh meat flavor. (Use ground beef within 3 or 4 months.) To keep the good condition of the meat while frozen, wrap the meat carefully with a regular freezer paper, pressing the paper as close to the meat as possible to exclude the air. Seal the package tightly and then label with the cut and the amount of beef, and the date. Freeze the meat immediately and keep it stored at 0 degrees F. or lower.

This year's slim sheath line is marred by lumpy hips. So go after those lumps with diet, exercise and massage, electric or otherwise.

The engagement ring which Prince Rainier gave to actress Grace Kelly is a twelve-carat emerald cut oblong diamond much like the one shown above. With it, the model wears a sixty-carat bracelet made up of marquise, round and baguette diamonds.

One of the most popular diamond cuts is the round or brilliant cut which we show here in eleven carat size. This is a jager blue diamond, distinguished by an exquisite light blue coloring. Round diamonds are the most brilliant of all cuts.

Here's a main dish that's very different — a combination of mashed potatoes, leftover meat, green onions and coconut. Serve as patties on broiled pineapple rings.

* PINEAPPLE RINGS

Makes 8 patties, or 4 servings) Two-thirds cup thin flakes of coconut, 2 cups mashed potatoes, 1/2 cup finely chopped green onion, 1 teaspoon salt, dash pepper, 1 egg, 1/4 cup beaten, 1-4 to 3-4 cup ground pork or other meat, bread crumbs (about 1/2 cup), 3 canned pineapple slices, 1/2 cup brown sugar (about).

Mix coconut, potatoes, onions, salt, pepper, egg and meat. Shape into patties — and dip — in bread crumbs. Brown in hot greased skillet about 2 to 3 minutes on each side. While patties are cooking, drain pineapple juice and spread over the pineapple slices.

Dot with butter or margarine. Place in broiler and broil until patties are bubbly. When patties are cooked, place on top of broiled pineapple slices.

Here's an easy and tempting recipe for chicken livers.

CHICKEN LIVERS IN ONION SAUCE (Makes 4 servings)

One pound chicken livers, 1-3 cup flour, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 can (1 1/2 cups) condensed onion soup.

Dot chicken livers with flour; brown well in butter in a skillet. Stir in the onion soup; simmer about 5 minutes or until livers are cooked done and sauce is slightly thickened.

Note: Attractive way to serve the livers is in a ring of fluffy buttered rice (cook a 5-ounce package of precooked rice for 4 servings with the livers).

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace Friend

Some advise please! A few evenings ago I attended a miscellaneous shower for a bride-to-be. Inasmuch as my gift was in the kitchen category I took it in what I considered an appropriate wrapping which was gay. It was "Solo." Everything else was in white. It stood out like a sore thumb. Naturally, I didn't go behind the door and cry, but I did feel pretty uncomfortable.

I understand, of course, that a wedding gift should be in the traditional white wrapping, but can't you deviate on the shower gifts and be correct? Such reputable companies as Hallmark put out such "yummy" colors as pink, blue and green and the wrappings are plainly inscribed "for your wedding shower."

If I erred I don't want to repeat but am in a dither to know. I'll be anxiously awaiting your reply. Thanks in advance. Your column is so much help.

E. T.

Dear E. T.

Anything truly original stands out "like a sore thumb."

You should be pleased that your gift was different, that you spent some time in planning a gay and colorful wrapping for your package. There's no rule that I know which demands that gifts for a shower must be wrapped in white. They can be as attractive and colorful as you wish to make them.

Have you ever thought that if, instead of being original, the early innovators had decided to remain like everyone else that we would still be living in caves, if we ever had learned to get into them?

GRATEFUL

Dear Grace
Sometime ago I wrote to you asking help with discarded clothing for children. Thanks to your column we had a nice response and many of these children and their mothers have much needed shoes and clothing. We are grateful to the many people who contributed and helped in other ways and, of course, last but not least our thanks to you.

What you have done for the least of Christ's children you have done for Him also. He will bless you all.

In closing I would like to ask your readers to advise me on the method and things required to combine a number of soap scraps into usable form. I have a jar full of soap scraps too small to handle. Would someone know how to render these?

Jeweler Becomes A Girl's Best Friend When She's Selecting A Diamond Ring

By GAILE DUGAS

NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Sense belongs with sentiment when it's time to buy an engagement ring. This is the purchase of a lifetime and before you leap, take a good look.

Next to your fiance, your jeweler is the most important man in your life at this point. The best jeweler is not necessarily the most expensive. If you're uncertain, pick a ring from one of the trademarked brands that are nationally advertised.

Now, you ask, how much should a diamond cost? The answer is found in many things but mostly in the diamond itself. A small stone may cost more than a big blazy gem. Here are the reasons why:

Carat: This is the unit of weight for diamonds. Today the standard weight for a carat the world over is 200 milligrams. Each carat is divided into 100 points. So if your jeweler says that a diamond is a 25-point stone, this means that it's a quarter of a carat.

Cut: This means the shape of the stone and arrangement of facets. Facets are the tiny planes that catch light and make the diamond sparkle. A popular cut is the round, called a brilliant. The marquise is boat-shaped. The emerald cut is oblong or square. Its facets are polished straight along the sides and diagonally across the corners. No one cut costs more than another but quality of workmanship affects both brilliance and price.

Color: Traditionally, the bridal diamond is clear and colorless. But it picks up and reflects color. More than two hundred shades of white have been found in diamonds. The whiter a diamond is, the more it costs.

Clarity: This refers to an absence of flaws such as carbon spots or fissures. The absolutely perfect diamond is priced accordingly. But a diamond may have flaws you can never see and still be beautiful.

Best buy: The solitaire, or single-stone ring, is the best buy for your money.

Metal: A diamond looks better in platinum or palladium. However, many people like yellow gold because it matches the traditionally plain gold wedding band.

Lingerie Look Is Graduation Style

By GAILE DUGAS

NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The lingerie look typifies this year's white graduation dress.

The white dress is the big dress for summer on all fashion levels. It is sophisticated or sleek or frilly.

For the gal who's graduating from high school, it's the ideal way to pad her wardrobe without denting the family budget.

If she likes the lingerie look, she'll find lots of frilly dresses: tiny lace ruffles, ribbon beading, fluffy petticoats and sheer fabrics with organdie a favorite. The full-skirted sheer cotton organdie dress often gets pastel embroidery both in hemline bands and all-over patterns. Most of these dresses have high or shallow scooped necklines and little sleeves.

The girl who likes her dresses sleek and bordering on the sophisticated can pick the white sheath in pique, probably with a sheer overskirt that is removable. She may favor the long torso line, also in pique, in a dress devoid of frills and dependent on cut for its effect.

Because there is so much to choose from in graduation fashions this year, most gals will have no difficulty in picking dresses they like that also conform to school regulations.

And when the big day is over, there's an extra dress in the closet for dressy wear all summer long.

"Cooking Electrically, I can depend on good results everytime!"

says MRS. LANDON DONNELL,
224 N. E. ALPINE DRIVE, PLAINVIEW, TEXAS

Electric cooking — and only electric cooking — with its pre-set, perfectly controlled temperature can guarantee the good results every time demanded by outstanding homemakers like Mrs. Donnell.

And only electric cooking combines perfect results with perfect styling. As Mrs. Donnell says: "Convenience and space-saving features, plus contemporary styling, led us to choose a built-in electric range when we redecorated our kitchen." Mrs. Donnell, incidentally, has used an electric range for several years. Her new built-ins are just modernizing the modern for her, so to speak.

Mrs. Donnell's new electric surface units fold into the wall when not in use — providing extra counter space. Only super-safe electric cooking could offer this fold-away feature.

Accurate, modern, space-saving and safe. These tests or any other that you might choose can be met best when they're met by an electric range. Try one and see.

Budgeting Housekeeping Time Results In Greater Achievement, Less Fatigue

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

Do you budget your housekeeping time as carefully as you do your household finances? Right now, especially, as seasonal cleaning and home care tasks are added to the usual routine, planning your time helps to complete jobs in an orderly, efficient and less fatiguing way.

In a very real sense, time is money to the homemaker who hires outside help. If you know about how many windows you can wash in an hour's time, you've got a much clearer idea of what it will cost you to hire someone to do it for you. You'll be better able to assign tasks to make the most of the time for which you're paying.

In an effort to bring more order into our own household routine, I've been boning up on studies made by home economics professors. And I've been interviewing consultants. My house-keeping requirements are different from yours and yours aren't the same as your neighbors'. But here are general tips that are serving as useful guides to me:

First, analyze the jobs to be done. Think of them in terms of light, moderately light and heavy cleaning. Light housekeeping tasks, according to the specialists, include: polishing silver, brass, chrome, cleaning cooking utensils and oven, delicate bric-a-brac, lampshades, clocks.

Moderately light tasks are: polishing furniture, vacuuming, dusting, laundering of clothes and ironing, polishing major appliances and kitchen cabinets.

Heavy cleaning involves washing walls, floors, windows; heavy washing such as drapes, slip covers, upstairs closets and cleaning in unused areas of the house.

Second, set up a planning board or chart for your time. One graphic way to do this is to use a bulletin board on which to post strips of paper, each representing two hours of time. White slips for light cleaning, gray for moderate and black for heavier and harder work.

Third, work out a tentative schedule for the week, pinning the slips under a schedule for each day. You may notice, as most of us do, that you have a tendency to schedule all light or all heavy jobs at one time.

A better plan is to provide a variation in the jobs you do each day. If you spend two hours in the morning washing walls, change over to polishing silver in the afternoon.

If you want to keep two afternoons a week open for social or community work, rearrange your housework schedule. Don't worry about taking longer to complete the seasonal tasks.

Try to stick to the allotted time. Use your timer on the kitchen clock as a reminder. For example, if I'm going to wash windows from 9-11 a.m., I assemble materials at 9 and start in. I set the timer for one hour, then at 10 I set it to buzz me at 10:45 to remind me to stop, clean up supplies and put them away.

There are always many inter-

A light film of lubricating oil will protect power and hand tools against rust during the warm weather months when the lure of the outdoors may keep you out of the workshop. A rust-preventive household lubricating oil now comes in a pressurized container that makes it easy to spray an even film of the oil over metal surfaces.

To prevent rot from developing in a crack in a porch column or other outdoors woodwork, fill the crack with Plastic Wood, a little more than full. If crack is wide, build in from the sides with layers of the Plastic Wood, allowing each to dry before the next is applied. Sand flush and smooth after 24 hours. Touch up with paint to match. (ANS)

MATURE PARENT

That morning, Ronald had several reasons for exploding anger.

The previous evening, because Baby Sister had a sniffle, Mommy had wheeled the crib into her room leaving Ronald abandoned down the hall. At breakfast, she denied chocolate milk. Finally, when it began to rain, she made Ronald stay indoors instead of continuing the game he was playing under the grape arbor.

So, when she grabbed his fire truck because he'd left it in the kitchen doorway, he defied this frustration as the straw that broke endurance.

He made two wild jumps at the shelf that held his truck; and unable to reach it, turned on Mommy with a badly-aimed kick. Then crying with rage, he flung himself to the floor which he began to batter with clenched fists as he wished to batter Mommy.

He was still sobbing spasmodically when a neighbor telephoned. Answering, Mommy said, "You just ought to see what state he's in! I never saw such temper in my life! He gets it from his father's Day—not my side. Why, if I'd carried on like this at his age, I'd have been spanked so hard I couldn't sit down for a week. He's just getting too much for me, that's all."

Listening, her little boy felt exactly as you and I do when some scientist tells us what terrible things atomic power can do to us. He felt fear, desolation and despair.

He felt these painful emotions so sharply he couldn't stand them. So he did exactly what we do with our terror of atomic extinction; he put them out of his head. Instead of fear of his temper, he began to feel a mounting vengeance toward the parent who had made him feel it—and bitter resentment at his mother's helplessness.

He'll make her pay for scaring him with her fear of his temper. The more she promotes it as terrible, the harder will be her punishment.

For each time she suggests his temper is more powerful than she his vengeful need to punish her is, Ronald's suppressed fear of his temper grows—and with it, his big and better display of it.

Dr. Lawson G. Lowrey is a psychiatrist who knows as much about children as any specialist in this land. In a published discussion of tantrums, he asks us to ask ourselves this question:

"Do I cause my child to have temper tantrums by impressing on him what a fearful temper he has?"

RUTH MILLET

We have said we want it back. Are we going to get it? What?

Why, the old-fashioned parlor. The room that was a haven of peace and quiet for adults. The room that was always ready for company—grown-up company. The room where muddy shoes, children's toys, pillow fights and the neighborhood small fry did NOT belong.

At the recent Washington conference at which housewives from all corners of the country gave their ideas of what makes a house livable the old-fashioned parlor was mentioned again and again.

Nobody wants to give up the "family room" where there is a place for the activities of all—a room sturdy enough to shelter teen-age parties, Club Scout meetings, Saturday night neighborhood suppers and other activities.

But the family room isn't enough. Sometimes the grownups want peace and quiet for reading. They want to get away from rock-and-roll records or the TV set. They want a peaceful spot where their own friends can talk undisturbed while the kids hold forth in the family room.

That is why they want the old-fashioned parlor back—a room with dignity, quiet and peace.

For years we have been building our homes around the needs of our children and teen-agers. That's fine up to a point.

But the point has been reached

Manners

Make Friends

For the woman marrying for the second time a large wedding with several attendants is not correct. She may have one attendant or none. And the wedding should be a simple one with only close friends and relatives of the bride and groom invited.

"Keep it simple" is the rule for a woman's second marriage.

When mom and pop find they have no place for themselves and their friends.

What parents need is a parlor. The housewives have spoken, now, where it may do some good—to Albert M. Cole, head of the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency.

He asked for ideas. He got at least one mighty good one—BRING BACK THE PARLOR.

220 PHS Students To Graduate Tomorrow

By HELEN STRICKLAND

Approximately 220 Pampa High School students will receive diplomas at the annual commencement services on May 28 at 8 p.m.

The services are to be held in Harvester Field House with Ed Gosset of Dallas as speaker.

Knox Kinard, superintendent of schools, will award the diplomas which certify the completion of four years of satisfactory scholastic achievement. He will be assisted by L. J. Edmondson, principal of P.H.S., and Cameron Marsh, assistant principal.

On Sunday, May 27, seniors will attend vespers services in the school auditorium. Rev. Ronald Hubbard will deliver the address. The school A Cappella chorus will sing at this affair.

Immediately after vespers, the traditional tea honoring graduates and their parents will be held in the cafeteria. Mothers of seniors sponsor the tea.

With these programs, the 220 seniors end school days at Pampa High — school days that began the day they walked bewilderedly through the big doors as sophomores and ended May 23 when final examinations were completed.

During those years, everyone of them has made a collection of memories that will remain long after school days are over.

Their sophomore year, they remember cheering madly for the Harvester basketball team as they defeated everybody to win the state championship in 1954. That year's team boasted only one member of the class of '56, Buddy Sharp. However, Jimmy Enloe, Melvin Romine and Gene Brown were on the traveling squad that went to Austin to "bring home the bacon."

An outstanding football game that year was played in Harvester Stadium against the Amarillo Sandies. The Harvesters defeated the Sandies 20-14 as the students watched with beating hearts.

In March of that year, two of the class, Lee Ledrick and Shelia Chisholm, traveled with the delegates to the State Association of Student Councils Convention and helped to elect Pampa president of the organization.

"Wilbur's Honey Bee" was presented by the class that year in assembly. No one will ever forget Duggan Smith's portrayal of "Hercules."

Officers of the class as sophomores were Melvin Romine, president; Carol Henry, vice-president; and Sharon Cook, secretary. Class favorites were Don Babcock and Joan Robertson.

Anita Wedgworth was selected Spanish Club Queen, and Shirley Keel was runner-up for pin-up.

At the Junior Class Ambition cheered another Green and Gold basketball team on to bi-district championship. Anita Wedgworth was attendant to the basketball queen.

Johnny Claunch was awarded the Fighting Heart Award for football that year. Peggy Olivolo was attendant to the football queen.

At the Junior Class Ambition Party, the group dressed up to portray their hopes for the future. Prize winners were Cecil Reynolds, a baseball player; Mary Ann Becker, a scrub woman; and John Jones and Sharon Cook, a doctor and nurse.

The Junior class play that year was "Remember the Day." Dixie Rhodes, Dan Teed and Lee Ledrick played the leading roles. Others to be remembered were Duggan Smith, Nickie Lewler, Carol Henry, Nancy Coley and Roger McWaters. These five, along with Dixie Rhodes and Dan Teed, were admitted to the National Thespian Society.

Jerome Humphrey — Texas Tech.

Shirley Harmon — plans to be married.

Janna Hrvy — Texas Tech, nurse's training.

Pauline Haymes — now employed, business administration.

Gene James — plans to join Air Force.

Ten members of the class were admitted to the National Honor Society. They were Mike Price, Ted Swindle, Russell Barnard, Carolyn Miller, Betty Hogsett, Barbara Goodnight, Martha Skelly, Carol Henry, Katherine Eslick and Shelia Chisholm.

To PHS's other honor society were admitted six members of the class: Mary Phippen, Sandra Cooper, Russell Barnard, Ted Swindle, Mike Price and Helen Steward were admitted to Quill and Scroll Society.

Don Babcock was class president; Lee Ledrick was vice-president; Bill Fullenwider and Cynthia Cantrell were class favorites.

Barbara Goodnight and Ted Swindle were elected most studious students. Skipper Bogard and Ramona Hudgins were most talented; Lee Ledrick and Sandra Cooper were most versatile.

In the spring, Carol Henry was elected head cheerleader for the coming year. Lee Ledrick was vice-president. Bill Fullenwider and Cynthia Cantrell were class favorites.

Barbara Goodnight and Ted Swindle were elected most studious students. Skipper Bogard and Ramona Hudgins were most talented; Lee Ledrick and Sandra Cooper were most versatile.

In the spring, Carol Henry was elected head cheerleader for the coming year. Lee Ledrick was vice-president. Bill Fullenwider and Cynthia Cantrell were class favorites.

Members of the class held office in every school club. Mike Price was president of the National Honor Society; Helen Steward, Quill and Scroll and Debate Club; Carolyn Miller, Tri-Hi-Y; Duggan Smith, Hi-Y and Thespians; David Gantz, Slide Rule Club; Wayne Smith, Future Teachers; Skipper Bogard, Harvester band; Jack Edwards, A Cappella Choir; and Carole Miller, girls chorus.

Carolyn Miller was Spanish Queen; Donnie Southard and Jackie Becker were F.H.A. Sweetheart and Best; their attendants were Treva Dean, Barbara McNeill, Janice Spencer and Ted Swindle; Carol Carnes was F.F.A. Sweetheart; Dixie Rhodes was best Thespian; Mary Phippen headed the Little Harvester staff; Mike Price was Harvester editor.

Mary Kennedy, who was a twister, was hand sweetheart; Leon Wood and Betty Hogsett were A Cappella king and queen; Best citizens were Shelia Chisholm and Mike Price. Carol Henry and Peggy Olivolo tied for senior class favorite. Dickie Ray was the boy favorite.

Cheerleaders of the class were John Jones and Cynthia Cantrell. Some activities the class enjoyed were the trip to Canyon in October when it rained in torrents on them as they watched West Texas play football, Kid Day with its pigtails, water guns and teddy bears; the class picnic at Palo Duro Canyon and how everyone got thrown in the creek, and the Duro Canyon and how everyone banquets given by local churches in honor of the seniors.

They will remember the Junior-Senior Banquet with its candyland theme and the All-School prom.

Some of the things the class achieved, with the cooperation of the rest of the school, were the establishing of daily devotionals, and mealtime benedictions. At the close of their senior year, a talent show was staged in the field house as a benefit for the youth center.

Seniors will remember the transfer of Jack Nichols, assistant principal to Junior High School. Cameron Marsh took his place as the man behind the desk who excuses absences and does everything that needs to be done. Bankers tops among their memories is one of Jack Edmondson. "Mr. Ed" was principal for the class from the sixth grade on, with the exception of the ninth grade.

There are memories, too, of Truett S. Ross and Mrs. Leah Lamb, two teachers that were true companions to their students.

With graduation, school days with their joys, worries, triumphs and failures will be closed, but

IT'S A FIRING JOB

NEW METHOD—After an 18-month seasoning stage, billets of northern white ash are examined before being turned into baseball bats in Dolgeville, N. Y., upper left. Then they're subjected to a flame treatment, right. After this comes a weighing process, lower left, to insure that weight and balance are standard. Then they're all set for some hard use, right.

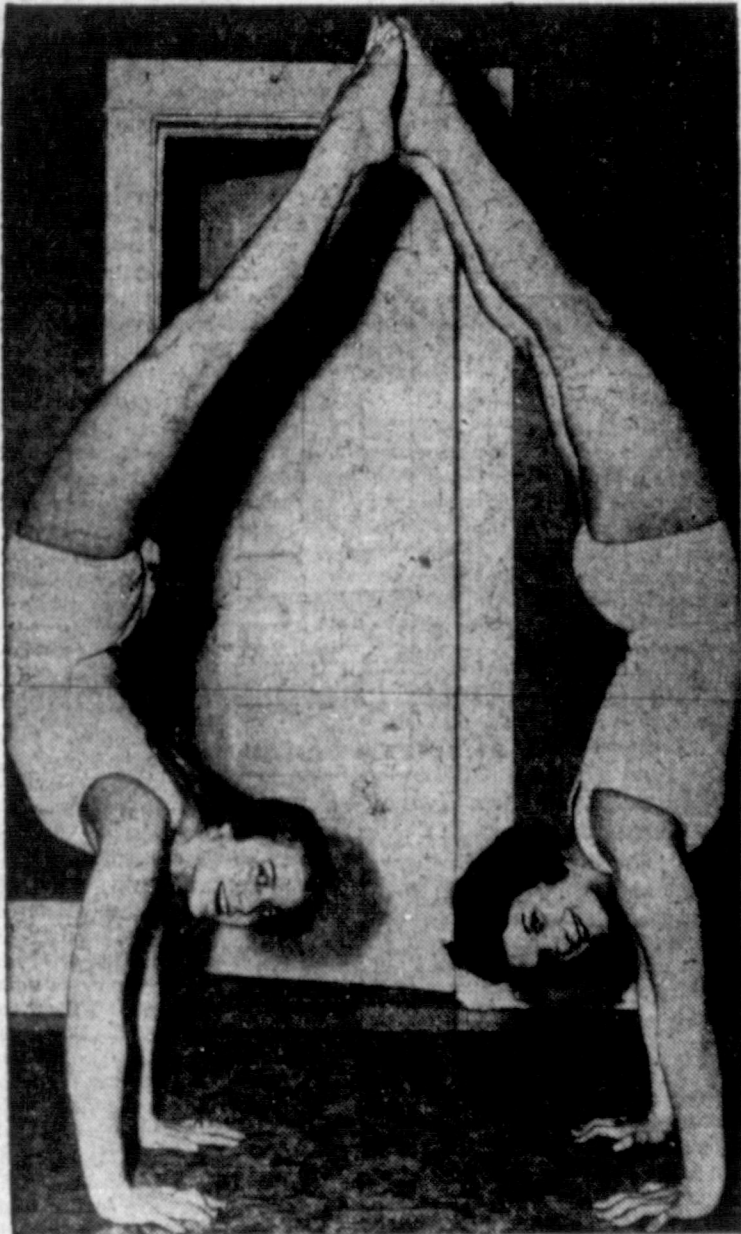

BASERUNNER, BEWARE—Baltimore's Chuck Diering is getting out of the way as the ball thrown by Gil McDougald speeds past his head on its way to first to complete a double play during the Yanks-Orioles double-header in New York. Diering was the runner on first when Bob Hale bounced into a double play from Billy Martin to McDougald, on to Joe Collins at first. The Yanks hammered out 13 hits to beat the Orioles 11-2 in first game.

RAPIDS TRANSIT—The swollen rapids of the White River, near West Hartford, Vt., is the favorite spot for members of a canoe club from Dartmouth College. Dunkings are frequent but rescue crews are on hand to pull the canoeists out of the rough waters.

PICTURE SPORTS NEWS AROUND THE WORLD

NICE GOING—As pretty a pair of parentheses as you'll ever see is formed by two Chicago gymnasts, Jackie Klein, left, 18, and Joyce Racek, 17. They're indulging in some stuntwork while practicing up for the Olympics. Jackie, a Northwestern University coed, and Joyce, a high school senior, will leave shortly to join the five other members of the U. S. Women's Gymnastic Team in Los Angeles. They'll train there before leaving for the games in Melbourne, Australia.

BEACH FUN — Movie actress Bella Darvi is trying her luck at netting some shrimp along the beach at Cannes, France, but seems—at this moment—to be trying in vain. It's mighty discouraging to dip a net into the surf for some shrimp, then bring it out and find that it is more full of small rocks than anything edible.

HE'S GOT SOMETHING THERE—Giant bluefin tuna fish lie on the weigh-in dock at the end of a day's fishing at Cat Cay Island, Bahamas. This will be the site of the annual International Tuna Tournament. Proudly displaying his catch is Charles Johnson.

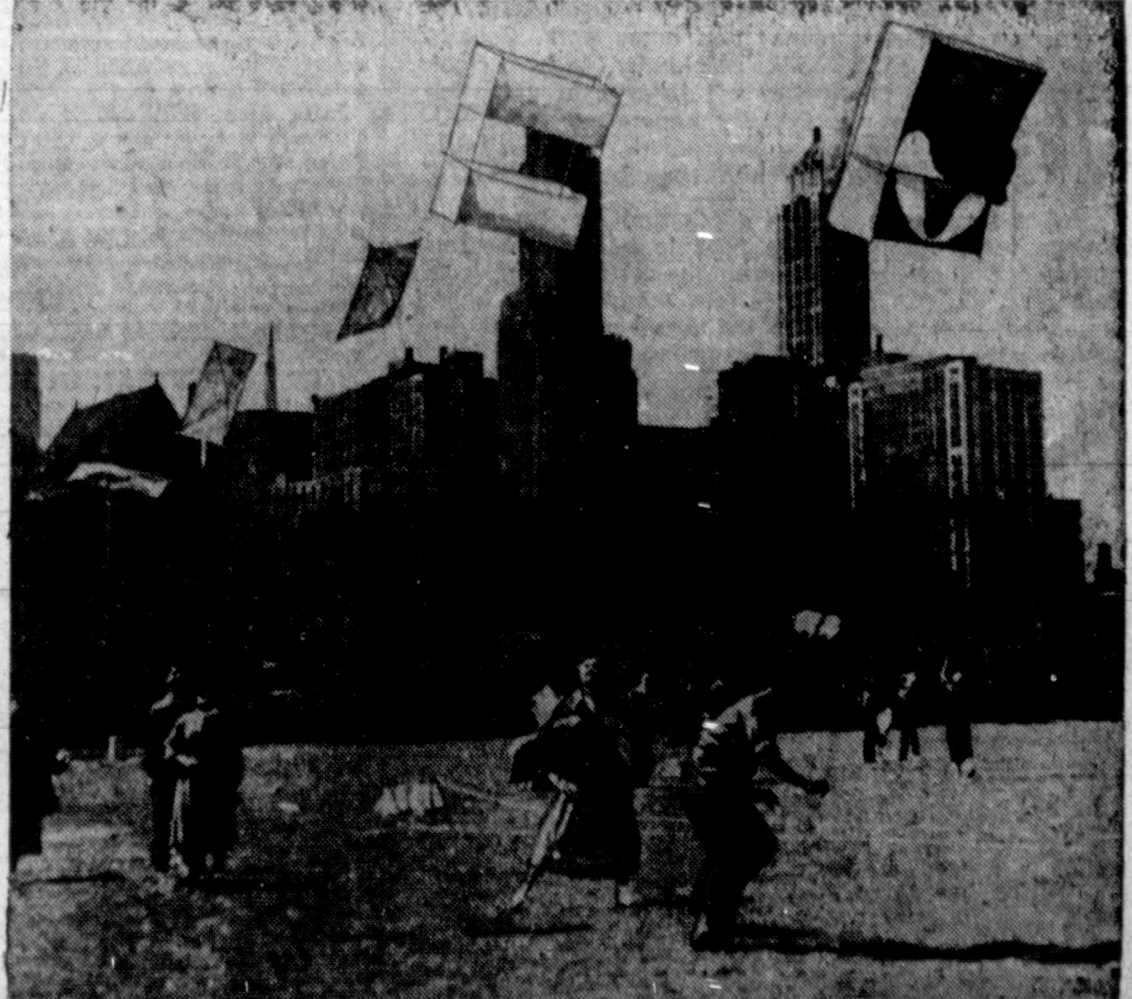

CUSTER'S FIRST STAND—Bathing beauty Lynn Custer has her hands full after deciding to stand up to a scary crustacean she's trying to rout from the seashore at Palm Beach, Fla. Lynn is also one of the finalists in the Boynton Beach Fishing Queen contest which ends this month.

HITTING IT UP—The gondolas in Venice usually travel at a more leisurely pace than they're going during this annual race for the "Marciano" trophy. Still in a group, they're leaving the Grand Canal in this photo. Gondoliers challenge each other to the derby every St. Mark's Day, which honors the patron of the Lagoon City.

ON HAND — Douglas Sanders, of Cedartown, Ga., is shown after he scored a 66 on the golf links at Pinehurst, N. C. Sanders broke the record for the new number two course with his score. He's come up fast in the golf world.

KITES AHOY—Taking advantage of the Windy City's well-advertised atmospheric conditions, Chicago Art Institute students test the kites they designed. It's a field day for the students, but some of the designs on the kites may add a new chapter to the flying saucer stories when they are spotted by unsuspecting sky watchers.

Wide, Wide World TV Show To View Oil Crews Today

Television is making an offshore crew of oil field drillers into a bunch of ham actors as flutters as a new chairman at the neighborhood garden club. Viewers will be able to see the result this afternoon when NBC television cameras attempt the first live telecast from an offshore "wildcat" well.

The "Wide, Wide World - A Promise for America" program will carry it, beginning at 2:00 p.m., CST.

Back in early April things were going very well at Rig 52, a Magnolia Petroleum Company drilling barge, which was hammering down a hole cut in the Gulf of Mexico, just east of the Mississippi River's mouth, 60 miles southeast of New Orleans. Drilling foreman Johnny Farrell of Hammond, Louisiana, who has seen about everything in the oil drilling game, stepped to a radio set and answered a call. When he put the microphone down, he swung around to Driller Tony Matthews and said:

"Get set, some television people are coming aboard."

A few hours later, two speedboats jockeyed up to the barge and dumped a score of writers, technical and production personnel from NBC television in New York and from Station WDSU-TV in New Orleans.

Farrell, talking about the experience later, said, "Those folks spread over that rig like flies. Some sighted through their fingers. Some took the boys in to a back room and asked them three-hours worth of questions. Some checked our electrical equipment. Some pulled out watches and timed us running a stand of pipe. And there was..." Farrell pauses at this point, "a woman along too."

Women show up on oil companies' offshore rigs about as frequently as polar bears, which is to say that Miss Jay Hoops of NBC's production department was among the first ever to do it.

Out of that first look-over came the decision to include a sequence from Rig 52 in NBC's far-ranging "Wide, Wide World - A Promise for America" telecast, sponsored by General Motors.

One of those who helped plan the show was W. H. Newman of Houston, a white-haired veteran of the oil fields both on land and at sea, who superintends Magnolia's drilling operations along a vast span of the Gulf Coast. Newman, whose draw is about as long as his territory, grins over NBC's desire to show the crew putting on a new stand of pipe - a team-pipe operation which the men normally can run through in about two minutes. When the first time check was made on it, however, the crew were all thumbs and used up nearly four minutes.

IPA Is Supporting Early Increase In Crude Oil Price

The last general crude increase - and the only major one in eight years - was an average 25 cents a barrel in 1953 after government price controls were dropped. This was translated into general increases to the consuming public.

The IPAA's president, Robert L. Wood, and general counsel Russell B. Brown are citing "facts and figures" to show why an increase is urgently needed. For example: Since June, 1953, industry wages have gone up more than 15 per cent; construction costs 11.8 per cent; wholesale finished steel increases in the offering.

"No Alternative"

In a recent speech at Los Angeles, Brown said: "Despite rising costs there has been no adjustment in overall crude prices in almost three years. All factors leave no alternative to an early correction."

At that same meeting, Wood said "an upward adjustment of 50 cents" would finance 5,000 more producing wells and help to offset more than $260 million a year domestic producers are losing to foreign oil competition.

In a speech May 17 at Abilene, Tex., Wood said "it is apparent that a price increase must be forthcoming within the immediate future." He quoted top officials of a number of companies, some with large refineries, as asserting an increase is needed.

Brown also said the need for price adjustments "has been recognized by other industry associations and companies" and called attention to regional adjustments in California, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

"There is no sound reason for doubting a general increase should and will be made at an early date," Brown added.

RED CROSS NEWS

By RONALD WATERS
Public Information Chairman

Pampa's Chapter of the American Red Cross is in a buzz planning for their water safety program this summer. The swimming program will be held in cooperation with the summer recreation program under the direction of Coach McNeely.

Registration for both programs will be as follows: all children north of the Santa Fe tracks will register at the High School Field House on June 1 and all children living south of the Santa Fe tracks will register June 2 at the Baker School.

There will be a charge of $1 this year for pool admittance and for maintenance of the pool and for child. This will entitle one person to the swim program and to free Red Cross instruction for two weeks including a free swim each day from 10:40 to 11:30 through the summer recreation program. Red Cross instructors will be Collette Dow, Frances Hofes, Marilyn McDaniels, Barbara King, Marion Osborne, and Mary Hills.

The water safety or life saving and aides training classes will be held Monday, June 4, at the city pool and continue for two weeks. Class time will be from 10 to 11:30 a.m.

Red Cross instructors urge all mothers that would like to assist in this program to call the Red Cross office. Prerequisite for the aides program is a junior or senior Life Saving Certificate, but the instructors will need some mothers that are not good swimmers to work with beginners under their direction.

Yorel Harris, Boy Scout Executive, is a water safety instructor who will teach swimming instruction to the Boy Scouts that attend Camp Ki-O-Wah. This will give many other boys an opportunity to learn swimming this summer.

Red Cross office is proud of a used electric box donated by Paul Crossman. Thanks Paul, for this nice gesture. The Home Nursing room is gradually taking shape and a better course can be taught to the community by instructors now.

Jackie and Judy will join JRC members from Amarillo, Herford, Perryton, and Borger at a Training Camp to be held at Morrilton, Ark., June 6-16. The delegates will all go by train from Amarillo to Morrilton, Ark. This training for young people is invaluable for them.

This has been a busy week in the Red Cross office. Besides routine work, the executive secretary has sent four wires for parents and wives asking about the health and welfare of men overseas.

The replies have been rapid and comforting to the families, when they are worried about the servicemen.

There have been applications through the Veterans Administration for compassionate transfers and hardship discharges. These papers are gathered by the serviceman and submitted to the military, who makes all of the decisions. Red Cross simply assists and counsels with the servicemen and families.

Northern Natural Gas at Skellytown and Lefors, are planning First Aid Classes in their plants this summer.

Card of Thanks
Where has he gone since yesterday—And left us lonely here?
Tonight he seems so far away
Who yesterday was near.
We miss our dear one so
His journeyings may trace
He only knows he's reached his home
And seen his father's face.

And oh! He knows since yesterday,
The mist of earth are cleared away.
The bonds of time and sense and space
That irked his eager will
Were dropped like shackles from the soul
In that first upward flight.
The weary body rests no more
The spirit, freed and light.

O dear, familiar yesterday!
O sad and strange to-day!
Yet who would call the dead soul back
To rouse the resting clay?
Or who would wish that he might share
Our sorrow's toll and strife.
Who, loosed from Death and all its pains
Has entered into Life?

L. J. Seitz
We wish to express our most humble appreciation to all who in any way assisted us at the time of our sorrow in the loss of our beloved one. To our friends and neighbors and Brother A. G. Roberts of Kelton Baptist Church and Brother Albert Cooper of the Methodist Church of Mohrsville for their comforting words, notes, and to those who furnished music. For the meals prepared and served in our home and for the beautiful floral offerings we are indeed grateful. We wish to thank Duenskel-Carmichael Funeral Home for the impressive last rites. May God bless each of you.
Mr. & Mrs. Monroe Seitz and family.
