Eden Stands Firm On The Frogman Mystery

Prime Minister's Decision Ends Labor Party Offensive

By NORMAN RUNNION
LONDON—UP—Prime Minister Anthony Eden's unyielding stand on the case of the frogman and the Soviet ships appeared Tuesday to have broken the back of a Labor party political offensive against the Conservative leader.

Eden, who turned the incident into one of the great unsolved mysteries of the cold war by stating flatly "I have not one more word to say," gained political stature for his handling of his case. Newspapers switched their attacks to Labor Leader Hugh Gaitskell.

Gaitskell forced a vote Monday night on the issue, but lost it 316 to 229. This increased Eden's regular majority in the House of Commons from the usual 60 to 87 and brought resounding cheers first cheers in months.

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express (independent) switched its attack from Eden to Gaitskell. I commented that Gaitskell's speech attacking Eden's stand on the frogman was a "half-hearted piece of party pleading" and added that "he is never going to become premier."

From the first Eden had shown a strong reluctance to discuss the case of Cmdr. Lionel (Buster) Crab who disappeared while carrying out a frogman's mission beneath the Soviet cruiser which brought the Russian leaders to Britain recently.

He handled the case without unduly embarrassing Britain or its allies and without producing any sharp cleavage with the Soviet Union itself. His firm stand made it clear Gaitskell was walking on dangerous ground—and Gaitskell lost prestige.

The City Commission will advertise for bids to be received by June 5 on a new police car for Chief of Police Jim Conner it was decided this morning. The group also discussed hiring an additional clerk in the Police station.

City Engineer James Cowan was authorized to draw up a set of plans and specifications for an extension of the present culvert on N. Duncan. The culvert, located north of Alameda Park, was extended on the east side about 20 feet several years ago. An extension is now proposed on the west side for an additional 20 feet, at an estimated cost of $2,000. With the culvert extension, drainage on the north side of town would be improved.

With the removal of Corporation Court this week to the new court room, located in the basement of the city hall, the Commissioners decided that an additional clerk would be needed in the Police Department. A clerk will be on duty full time in Corporation Court, Fred Brook, city manager, will work out details for the project with Conner.

The second reading of an ordinance concerning the zoning of the North Crest Addition, swimming pool area, and the S. Hart area, was approved.

Complaints from property owners regarding the probable death of about 20 trees due to street repairs and improvements, were considered. The trees are in the process of dying, it is believed, because of the use of salt water in hardening the base of streets. The Commission discussed replacing the trees this fall.

An estimate from Roberts, Meriman and Bowden, consulting engineers, in the amount of $2,000.77, was approved for water and sewer survey work. Library bills, in the amount of $544.94, were also approved. An estimate by J. L. Colville for curb and gutter work for $565 was approved.

Fred Brook was authorized to investigate taxi-cab rates, within the city.

Capitol Hill Roundup

WASHINGTON, UP—The House Post Office committee Tuesday appeared about ready to approve some postal rate increases.

The administration has sought to increase the price of stamps for three years. Congress has refused. And many observers doubted Congress would reverse itself in an election year.

But Chairman Tom Murray (D-Tenn.) of the post office committee predicted the committee will approve postal rate increases this week.

He indicated the committee will go along generally with the increases proposed by the administration of first class mail from three cents an ounce to four.

Other developments:
FARM
The House Banking committee prepared to push through a bill boosting the farm price support fund to a record $14 billion. The administration contends the old $12 billion fund is too small to finance 1956 price support operations and the proposed soil bank.

AGRICULTURE
The House passed and sent to the Senate a record $1,985,000,000 appropriation for the Agriculture Department. The bill includes $1.2 billion to make up for losses in the price support and surplus disposal program.

NIAGARA
The Senate debated the Niagara power bill for the second day. The bill would permit New York state to build a hydroelectric project at Niagara Falls. Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) predicted passage.

DEFENSE
The Senate Military Appropriations subcommittee resumed Air Force Secretary Donald A. Quarles and Gen. Nathan F. Twining, Air Force chief of staff. They previously testified the Air Force budget is adequate. Sen. Edward J. Thye (R-Minn.), a subcommittee member, agreed.

SCHOOLS
The House Education subcommittee tentatively approved an aid program for school districts that abolish segregation. Rep. Stewart L. Udall (D-Ariz.), sponsor of the bill, called the surprise vote a victory for the "middleway" to school integration.

Harriman Gets Boost

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON—UP—New York Gov. Averell Harriman has picked up his first sizeable bloc of delegates outside his own state in his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The Wyoming state Democratic convention, which Harriman addressed Monday, elected a slate of 28 delegates of which 12 are Harriman supporters, though not officially pledged.

Harriman's campaign in Wyoming and other northwestern states and Tuesday's presidential preference vote in Nebraska highlighted political developments on the National scene.

In the Nebraska primary, Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) is unopposed on the Democratic ticket and President Eisenhower is unopposed on the Republican ticket. Write-in votes are permitted, however.

The contest in staunchly Republican Nebraska will have little significance unless normally GOP voters in rural areas cross over to the Democrats to protest Eisenhower administration farm policies.

Voters in farm areas and towns of less than 7,000 are not required to register by party and may ask for either ballot.

Delegates being named in Tuesday's Nebraska voting are not bound by the outcome of the presidential preference balloting. Nebraska delegates will have 18 votes at the GOP convention and 12 at the Democratic convention.

GOP Holds Edge
In the 1952 and 1954 Nebraska primaries, about two-thirds of the vote was cast on the Republican side. Sixty-nine per cent of the Nebraska vote went to Mr. Eisenhower in the 1952 election.

The delegation which will cast Wyoming's 14 votes at the Democratic convention technically is unopposed. But 12 of the 28 delegates named Monday have indicated a preference for Harriman. No more than five were considered backers of Kefauver.

Harriman put himself directly into the Democratic race Monday when he told the Wyoming convention his name will be entered at the convention "not as a favorite son but as a candidate."

West German Arms Gift Is Delivered

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
BREMERHAVEN, Germany—UP—The first large scale shipment of an outright $1 billion U.S. arms gift for West Germany arrived here Tuesday to provide a major boost for this country's rearmament.

It was handed over to West German officials in a dockside ceremony in which both Bonn government representatives and U.S. embassy officials took part.

The initial $1 billion worth of arms and equipment has been given by the United States for the new 12 division, 500,000-man Bundeswehr this country has promised to raise for western defense by 1959.

The Bundeswehr's present strength is only a little more than 10,000 men, but the arms deliveries will be made only as fast as the Germans are ready to take them over and use them. But the end of this year its strength will top 95,000 and the cadres of the first six divisions will have been formed.

Officials stressed that shipment of arms will keep pace with expansion of the Bundeswehr itself and that there never will be more arms delivered than the German forces can absorb and use at once.

The first shipment included light tanks, self-propelled artillery and tank recovery vehicles. A U.S. embassy spokesman in Bonn said it was all of the most modern type and similar to that currently used by the United States and other NATO countries.

H-Bomb Is Reduced In Size
WASHINGTON—UP—Gen. Nathan F. Twining, Air Force chief of staff, disclosed Tuesday that H-bombs have been reduced in size that they can be carried by light bombers.

Twining told the United Press that the new B-56 light bomber, for instance, is capable of carrying the H-bomb.

Twining's statement was one of the first official indications that the H-bomb can be carried by planes other than huge heavy bombers such as the B-36 and the B-52.

A reporter commented to Twining that if the B-56 can carry the H-bomb, "you must be getting the bomb pretty small."

"They are not too big," Twining answered with a smile.

Twining supported the assertion by Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, naval chief of operations that carrier-based planes are capable of carrying the H-bomb. Burke made the statement last week in an interview with the United Press.

Burke indicated that the A-3D attack plane, which has not yet gone into operation use, is the navy's H-bomber. The B-56 is the Air Force's version of the navy-developed A-3D.

It was reported that Hill had received serious head injuries and fractures to the right thigh and left ankle.

The condition of Wendell Seitz also of Mobettie, who also received injuries in the collision, was reported to be satisfactory this morning. He received multiple fractures to the jaw and a fracture of the right foot.

The annual Texas Tech Day picnic, to be celebrated all over the state, will be held locally at the W. D. Price ranch next Sunday, May 20. All Texas Tech grads in this area are invited to attend.

The group will meet at the home of Dale Tully, 2118 Russell, at 1:30 p.m. Sunday and proceed in a group. Hamburgers will be served.

Teenage Boys On Murder Rampage

By UNITED PRESS
Three teen-age boys attacked their mothers with knife, axe, and rifle. One said he killed out of pity, another because he wanted the family car.

The two murders and attempted murder came to light Monday night. A step-father was also killed in the outbreak of juvenile violence.

At Galt, Calif., 17-year-old Francis Oscar Ritter told how he hacked his mother to death with an axe to "put her out of her misery" and shot his step-father to death.

In Chicago, John (Buck) McKernan, 15, stabbed his mother to death with a bread knife so he could steal the family car and run away from home.

Jimmy Roy Knight, 16, hit his step-mother in the head with a hammer, shot her with a .22 caliber rifle, and then killed himself at Jarrell, Tex.

Hacked Mother to Death
Then he went to the house and hacked his 45-year-old mother to death as she slept, Francis told police. He said he thought she was suffering from cancer and wanted to "put her out of her misery."

In Chicago, John McKernan had been getting into trouble because he had been playing hooky from school.

He went home Monday and packed his clothes. When his mother came and scolded him about his truancy, he demanded the keys to the family car.

She refused and he stabbed her with a bread knife he had already wrapped in a towel. His mother, Mrs. Johnnie Louise McKernan, 39, screamed "no, no, Buck" before she died.

The boy drove off in the car, leaving his mother with the knife buried in her chest. He was captured a short time later and gave a verbal confession to police.

Boy's Condition Called Serious
Bobby Hill of Mobettie who received injuries as a result of Saturday night's head-on collision near Lakeford was reported to still be in serious condition and had not regained consciousness this morning, according to the attending physician.

It was reported that Hill had received serious head injuries and fractures to the right thigh and left ankle.

The condition of Wendell Seitz also of Mobettie, who also received injuries in the collision, was reported to be satisfactory this morning. He received multiple fractures to the jaw and a fracture of the right foot.

Adlai Makes Comeback After Defeat In Minnesota

By LYLE C. WILSON
WASHINGTON—UP—It is nearly two months now since Sen. Estes Kefauver met Adlai E. Stevenson in Minnesota's Democratic presidential primary and belted him clear out of the ring.

Eye-witness reports varied, some claiming that Stevenson landed heavily on his head and shortly expired of political shock. Subsequent events suggest that whereas Stevenson may not have landed on his feet, he certainly did not land on his head but in some other posture less dangerous to life and limb.

The man from Illinois is back in the Democratic presidential contest in good style after being counted nearly out in Minnesota. Kefauver went on from there to make some gains, but so did Stevenson, notably in New Jersey. He has been favored, moreover, by getting his full share or better of the political breaks, such as last Sunday's when Georgia's Herman E. Talmadge said Stevenson would do. Texas voters earlier had licked an anti-Stevenson bolt.

Attack from Williams
It was in early January that Gov. G. Mennen Williams, junior partner in Michigan's powerful political alliance, opened the left-center Democratic attack on Stevenson. Williams objected to Stevenson's publicly expressed idea that 1956 was a time for moderation in the approach to national issues.

Williams said he could not support Stevenson on the basis of his approach to national issues. Back of Williams stood the senior partner in Michigan's Democratic alliance, Vice President Walter P. Reuther of the combined AFL-CIO.

Gov. Averell Harriman of New York promptly lined up with Williams, asserting there was no place in the Democratic party for the word "moderate." Stevenson shortly was compounding his troubles by proposing specifically moderation in the party's approach to the issue of racial segregation.

Swings Under Pressure
Under pressures, perhaps Stevenson has swung a bit away from his overall moderate position, but certainly not on the issue of racial relations. On that one, Harriman and Kefauver seem to have moved a bit toward Stevenson's moderate stand. However that may be, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt campaigned a bit for Stevenson in the recent District of Columbia presidential primary in which he was opposed by Kefauver. She was able to hold the district's decisive Negro vote for Stevenson, despite Kefauver's more vigorous race integration record. The district is not important of itself, but the Negro vote here suggested that Mrs. Roosevelt will be able to hold it for Stevenson, at least in the Democratic National Convention.

The Minnesota reverse had its effect on Stevenson's campaign strategy. He still isn't much of a baby kisser, but when last seen in the public prints he was astride a horse, dressed like a Hollywood cowboy and leading a California parade. He's taken to handshaking, too, and folksy milling with the job.

If not a new Stevenson, he's almost new. The biggest payoff came over the weekend when Americans for Democratic Action in convention here certified Stevenson for left-center voters. ADA is the hard core of what is left of the Roosevelt-Truman New and Fair Deals. Williams and Harriman gave left wingers a good lead to shun Stevenson on charges of being too moderate, but it did not take.

Mixed Emotions Greet Report Reds Will Cut Army Manpower

By K. C. Thaler
LONDON—UP—Western powers Tuesday greeted with mixed welcome and skepticism the Soviet announcement that Russian armies will be trimmed by 1.2 million men within a year.

The British foreign office and other European foreign ministries withheld official comment while they consulted on how to evaluate the Moscow announcement.

Unofficial sources pointed out, however, that:
1. There is no way to check on Russian demobilization;
2. The announcement might be only propaganda coinciding with French Premier Guy Mollet's visit to Moscow and the Italian election campaign;
3. Russia is only now making arms cuts that correspond in size to earlier reductions by the western powers;
4. A conventional arms cut has only relative value as long as nuclear weapons are not controlled;
5. Russia would still have some 3 million men in service, compared to America's 2.9 million and Britain's 500,000.

British political sources said one immediate result of the Kremlin move is expected to be step-up of labor party pressure on Prime Minister Anthony Eden's government to reduce length of service for British draftees.

The two-year service period is longer than in any other allied country.

Sources close to West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said he considered it "just another bouquet of propaganda moves to woo the west."

French official circles said France expected the move and welcomed it as a help in reducing international tension. "Since this is the goal of the French government, it can only be glad of the move," French officials said.

'No Cut' In Air Strength Warranted

By JOHN W. FINNEY
WASHINGTON—UP—Air Force leaders insisted Tuesday that no cut in the Air Force budget is warranted despite Russia's announced plans to reduce its armed forces by 1.2 million men.

Air Force Secretary Donald A. Quarles warned that there is no indication Russia will "materially weaken" its air atomic power in cutting back the size of its armed manpower.

Gen. Nathan F. Twining, Air Force chief of staff, noted that the Soviet air force would be reduced by only 30,000 men under the announced plan. And he said there was no indication of a reduction in plane production "or anything of that nature."

The Soviet announcement came up at a Senate Military Appropriations subcommittee hearing on the Air Force's $16.9 billion budget for the coming fiscal year. Subcommittee Chairman Dennis Chavez (D-N.M.) asked Twining if he thinks the Air Force's budget figures "still stand" in light of the announcement.

"Yes, I do," the general replied emphatically.

Twining described the Air Force budget as "an austere one" but said he goes along with it. He said it still will provide 137 wings on board as advertised, "although facilities for handling the wings will be short."

Both Quarles and Twining urged caution in interpreting the Soviet manpower cut. They said the Air Force budget is still the correct one despite the Russian cutback.

Fire Truck To Arrive Tomorrow

The newest addition to the equipment of the Pampa Fire Department is expected to arrive Wednesday afternoon.

Fire Chief Ernest Winborne left this morning for Oklahoma City to pick up the new Boardman 750-gallon pumper which the city has purchased. He will drive it back to Pampa tomorrow.

On Thursday the truck will be taken to Amarillo to undergo an acceptance test. The truck will be put into service Friday, replacing the '26 American LaFrance pumper, if it passes the test, according to Winborne.

The old pumper will remain in Pampa until its new owner arrives. Anyone desiring a final look at the fire departments "trade-mark" is urged to do so in the next few days, Winborne stated.

Air Force Basic Is Shorter

T-Sgt Bill Neal, Local Air Force Recruiter announced this week that basic training for new enlistees has been reduced from eleven weeks to four weeks in cases where the enlistee is selected for a Technical Training School with a duration of 16 weeks or more. The reason for the change in the Basic Training policy resulted from a trial study conducted by the Technical Training Air Force during the past few months.

The new plan calls for four-weeks training at the indoctrination center and additional training that will be phased in with the technical training course.

Persons desiring more information on the program should contact T-Sgt Neal at his office in the Post Office basement.

BEGINNING NEW LIVES ON FORMOSA—Evacuees from the Tachen Islands, which the Chinese Communists took from the Nationalists a year ago, move into new homes built for them at Suao, Formosa. The evacuees have been without permanent homes since their arrival on the main Nationalist Chinese island stronghold.

Red Cross To Sponsor Nine Schools

The American Red Cross will sponsor nine aquatic and small craft schools to be held throughout the Midwest this summer to develop new leaders for camp and community recreation programs, it was announced today by John Bradley, Water Safety chairman for the Pampa chapter of the Red Cross.

Students will get instruction from experts in the fields of first aid, swimming, life saving, boating, canoeing, and sailing. The schools will start May 30 and continue through June with other classes being held in August.

Men and women, 18 years or older, interested in making application to attend one of the nine aquatic schools should contact the Pampa Red Cross chapter. The cost of each school is $50, which includes board, lodging, and materials used in the courses. This training is available to representatives of organizations, or individuals may attend at their own expense.

The nearest school for local residents will be held at Lake Murray, Ardmore, Okla., June 13th, Bradley said. However, those interested can choose to attend the 10-day courses at any one of nine schools. Bradley also pointed out that not only do the students learn skills in water safety, but they can prepare themselves to become instructors for camp, recreation and park departments, youth groups, clubs, and other community agencies in some of the most scenic water spots in the Midwest.

The demand for trained instructors is now at an all time high. Because of the great number of swimming and boating facilities now being built and developed, there is a greater need today for more emphasis on the safe way to enjoy the water and water sports. Bradley said that more and more people are now turning to the Red Cross for instruction.

The specialty school in small craft leadership training will be held from June 13 through 23 at the Northwestern Military and Naval Academy, Lake Geneva, Wis. Training will include skilled use of canoes, boats, and small sailing craft. It will also feature principles and methods of teaching and programming for camps, clubs, and recreation departments.

Complete details regarding these aquatic and small craft schools are available at the Pampa Red Cross Chapter located in the basement of City Hall.

Group Sets 2nd Play Thursday

"Fun With Shakespeare," the second workshop production of Pampa Little Theater, is scheduled to be presented before the group and the general public Thursday night at 7:30 in Lovett Memorial Library auditorium.

A business meeting of the board of governors will follow the presentation of two short scenes.

The first scene, featuring one of the witches' scenes from Shakespeare's "Macbeth," will entail some weird lighting and staging effects. Playing the three witches will be Carol Cooper, Mrs. Gladys Howard and Pauline Smyth.

The second scene, entitled "The Most Tragic, Lamentable and Strange Tale of Pyramus and Thisby," will be adopted from a short scene in "Mid - Summer Night's Dream." The short farce will star Cleo Worley, assistant director and Ronald Waters, director, in the title roles. Wynn Veale will enact the part of the wall that separated the two lovers. The vicious lion will be played by Mrs. Marie Herring, moonshine will be enacted by Shirley Landgraf, and prologue will be given by Mrs. Wayne Frizell. All characters will appear in costume.

The public is invited to attend the production and no admission charge will be made.

225 Trash Loads Hauled

A total of 225 loads of trash were hauled to the city dump grounds by city trucks during the annual clean-up campaign, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and the city, which ended Saturday.

L. B. Haggard, sanitation superintendent, headed the biggest clean up, in Ward 1 where 66 loads of trash were hauled away in three days.

A total of 49 loads were picked up in Ward 2, and 42 loads in Ward 3. Ward 4 yielded 58 loads.

QUOTES IN THE NEWS

By UNITED PRESS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld, on the continuing violence in Palestine:

"A cease-fire and what happens weeks or months after a cease-fire is a little like stopping a motor. You know that immediately after stopping a motor, its temperature rises."

WASHINGTON — White House press secretary James C. Hagerly on why President Eisenhower rejected a proposed U. S. visit by Russian leaders:

"Right from the start we have been interested... in deeds, not words, from the leaders of the Soviet Union. We haven't got those deeds yet."

HOLLYWOOD — Actor Michael Wilding, on how fellow actor Montgomery Clift must have had his near-fatal accident on leaving a party at the Wilding home:

"We live on a very narrow, winding road and either Monty wasn't able to make the turn or something went wrong with his steering mechanism."

DENVER — New York Gov. Averell Harriman, on whether the Democrats will have a strong civil-rights plank in its 1956 platform:

"We might as well all go fishing this November if the Democratic party deviates from the stand it took on civil rights in 1948 and 1952."

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTREX, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTREX at any drug counter.

Work On Highway Progresses

Work on the Borger Highway, west of town, has been progressing for over two weeks, and a detour has been set up about eight miles west of town as construction proceeds.

Motorists detour from the main road for about four miles and then turn back to the main highway. They are urged to proceed with caution and to drive carefully.

Contractors are grading the road, extending the culvert, widening, strip. Plans call for completion of the road by the end of the year over the McConnell Lake area presently.

At the present time the contractors, Gilvin and Terrill of Amarillo, are working on a 10-mile strip. Plans call for completion of the highway to the county line by Oct. 1.

IN THE SPRING A YOUNG MAN'S FANCY turns to love, but in the summer, at any age, a man's first need is a pair of cool, comfortable shoes. And this year new developments in leather have provided such a multitude of new lightweight styles and types that any man is bound to find something to tempt him to change his buying habits for the better.

BIGGEST NEWS is the new Tropical Leather that's cut the overall weight of shoes by a third. The new leather is being used in a slew of new styles which will appeal to the most conservative male, as well as his more dashing brethren.

Perforations and woven leather in shoes that are meant for city streets as well as country and lounging are high on the list; any man is bound to like that idea.

AS for the continental styling that's more in evidence than ever, well, he can go all-out in a shoe that swoops down at the instep and has only one eyelet, or he can compromise with a style that curves slightly under the ankle and has three eyelets. The tongue and front closing of the uppers may follow the old familiar lines or be cut in any one of a score of more dashing manners.

Tropical Leather comes in all colors from good old black and brown to the new ivory, an olive brown. Many styles combine smooth and suede tropical leathers. Also, black and white and brown and white are making a comeback for street as well as sports this season.

For sports and casual wear, a man will find slip-on moccasins, or shoes laced with one, two or three eyelets. In any case, the possibilities in colors and combinations of colors from the pale colors such as bamboo, pale smoke or maple to the richer tones of rocky tan, desert copper and butternut, will tempt him to team them with some of the more adventurous styles in shirts, socks, ties and socks.

And for summer lounging there's a choice in slippers between the soft, soled type that use the same

Officers Installed By Hopkins' PTA

The installation of officers highlighted the meeting of Hopkins' Parent-Teacher Association in the Community Hall. Mrs. Jack P. Fyfe conducted the ceremony, using a key as a symbol. Installed were Mrs. Jimmy Cox, president; Mrs. Ray Shepherson vice-president; Mrs. W. L. Barnes, secretary; Mrs. Clifton Shirley, treasurer; and Mrs. Howard Brown, parliamentarian. Mrs. Brown led the business session, and Mrs. Paul Keim, historian, gave a report of the year's activities. A gift was presented to Mrs. Brown, outgoing president. A play with a May Day theme was presented by first grade students, who also won the attendance award for having the most parents present. Following the meeting, refreshments of punch, coffee and doughnuts were served, with mothers of seventh-grade pupils acting as hostesses.

Club Presidents Will Be Honored During Reception

The annual presidents' reception of the Council of Clubs will be held at 8 p.m. today in the City Club Room. The event will honor the incoming presidents of clubs in the Council, and new Council officers will be installed. In the receiving line will be Mrs. Julian Key, outgoing president; Mrs. N. G. Kadingo, incoming president; and incoming presidents of member clubs. The installation ceremony will be conducted by Mrs. J. B. Veale Jr. To be installed are Mrs. Kadingo; Mrs. N. Dudley Steele, vice-president; Mrs. Gene Fatheree, secretary; Mrs. Bob Spert, treasurer; Mrs. Jess Clay, parliamentarian; and Mrs. Tom Rose, reporter. Arrangements for the reception are under the direction of Mrs. Bert Arney of Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority. She is being assisted by Mrs. Bob McCoy of El Progresso Club; Mrs. M. M. Moyer of Civic Culture Club; Mrs. Samuel Irwin of Delta Kappa Gamma, and Mrs. Clarence Lutes of Dale Carnegie Club. The reception will be informal. Mrs. Arney has announced, and the women are requested to wear something "cottonish" in keeping with the May Day theme. No corsages are to be sent to the presidents, and members of clubs in the Council are urged to support their president by their attendance.

Girl Scout Activities

Mrs. Marian Osborne, council assistant, and Mrs. Fern Dawson, office secretary, have been busy this week registering girls for Day Camp, to begin May 30. They reported registering over 300 scouts in two days. Deadline for registering has been extended until noon Saturday.

Brownie Troop 46 met in Lamar School cafeteria for its last meeting until fall. The girls finished their Mother's Day gifts. During the business session, they discussed Day Camp. They closed the meeting with the Brownie Promise and song. During the previous meeting, they made cups for Day Camp and planned a week's camping trip, to take place after the close of school. Mrs. A. E. Kahler and Mrs. James School are leaders.

New patrol and patrol leaders were chosen by Intermediate Troop 42. Patrol leaders are Saly Padon, Golden Wings patrol: Pat Stewart, Red Rose; Linda Gray, Busy Bees; and Phyllis Taylor, The Helpers. The girls met in the Little House and cooked stew outdoors in preparation for Day Camp. Leader is Mrs. L. L. Millren.

Eight Brownies from Troop 28 of Woodrow Wilson School attended the Brownie Holiday at Camp Mel Davis. They were Linda Day, Georgiann Grayson, Patsy Hart, Mary Frances Hawthorne, Cindy Hearn, Sandra Isabell, Jeanette McLean and Reda Jean Turner. They were accompanied by Mrs. George Grayson and Mrs. J. A. McLain.

"WAKE UP AND LIVE"

In one of the McGuffey readers a mother bird sang this charming little song to her babe in the nest:

Wake up little darling,
The birds are out,
And here you are still in the nest.

The laziest birdies are happy about.
You ought to be up with the rest.

Wake up little darling,
wake up.
Wake up little darling,
The morning has dawned
With its dew drops and beautiful sky.

Oh! I cannot sing half what you lose in my song,
And yet not a chirp in reply,
Wake up little darling,
wake up.

How often do arise in time to see the beauty of the sunrise and see dew drops on the roses or hear the songs of birds at daybreak offering up their own thanksgiving in song?
Wake up and live.

Are you observant? Do you see the buds unfold or watch the creatures of nature gather their food or exercise in the sunshine? Have you ever observed how life evolves, how insects develop, how plants gather moisture and nourishment? Wake up and live.

Do you have a sense of humor? Do you laugh at the things? Do you watch the developments of of children with wonder and amazement? Do you see the ridiculous side of things and learn lessons from mistake, Wake up and live.

Had you ever observed the way in which nature has designed your body for activity and protection? The skeletal framework gives it form and leverage, the arrangement of muscles gives beauty, strength and activity, the skin affords protection, ears provide hearing, eyes seeing. Besides this this glands are for secretion, the lungs to take in the breath of life, the heart pumps blood to carry nourishment throughout the body and to gather poisons and waste material for elimi-

THE SHOW MUST GO ON—Some real estate men never miss a trick. That appears to be the case with this wrecked auto which, like the sign says, is really open for inspection. Realtor Richard Allen, of Columbus, Ohio, normally uses the sign for selling homes. It just happened to come into its unusual vantage point when Allen's car was struck by another auto here.

Backstairs Scenes At White House

By MERRIMAN SMITH
WASHINGTON (UP)—Backstairs at the White House: President Eisenhower's weekend medical report may put a certain amount of pressure on the man who wins the Democratic presidential nomination.

The Republicans' reason this way: The Democratic nominee virtually will be forced, to tell as much about his own physical condition as Mr. Eisenhower has done.

There probably will be another Eisenhower checkup shortly before the Republican nominating convention—or at least, before the campaign hits full swing.

Wisconsin sources say scouts are still looking over four or five likely presidential vacation sites for this summer.

No decision has been reached. Nor has it been decided whether Mr. Eisenhower will operate a campaign headquarters outside of Washington.

But it looks more and more like an extended stay in Denver is out this year.

Seems odd, but Mrs. John S. Doud, Mrs. Eisenhower's mother, is only 12 years older than the President. Mrs. Doud was 77 Sunday. The President was 65 last October. Mrs. Eisenhower is 59.

16 Horses May Start Preakness

BALTIMORE, Md. (UP)—Sixteen horses were regarded Monday as possible starters in this Saturday's Preakness, despite the surprise withdrawal of all three C. V. Whitney entries.

Whitney withdrew Career Boy, Head Man, and Born Mighty from the Preakness for various reasons. Career Boy, however, will run in the $100,000 Belmont Stakes on June 16, the "third jewel" of the turf's triple crown.

Five Preakness eligibles were included in a field of six horses entered in Monday's $8,000 Preakness prep.

Only two of these eligibles are now figured as possible Preakness starters—Christiana Stable's Ricci Tavi and Dr. Jose F. Siccardi's Invicto. The other three, who must earn consideration for a starting berth by a good showing Monday, are assorted, quarter deck, and Roman Battle. Also entered is non-Preakness eligible Helicopter.

Poland Leading Satellites In Retreat From 'Stalinism'

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Foreign Analyst
Poland is leading the retreat of the Communist satellite countries from "Stalinism."

In no other satellite has the impact of the demolition of Stalin from Red sainthood been so great.

There has even been a slight stirring of political freedom.

Poland is the largest of the six Communist countries upon which Khrushchev's communism still imposes its rule.

To the Kremlin, it is by far the most important because it lies as a buffer between Russia and Germany.

Things started happening in Poland one month ago when a cabinet minister, who had once been minister for state security, and two chief prosecutors were dismissed.

Since then many other high officials have gone. Some have been arrested and face trial for their oppressive actions.

Deputy Premier Jakub Berman, one of the country's most powerful men, has been let out as vice-premier and member of the ruling politbureau of the Communist party—official called the United Workers party.

Things like that have happened in other satellite countries and in Russia itself.

In Poland they have gone much further.

For instance, the other day five members of parliament voted against a government bill. It was a minor measure, on regulation of abortion. But in Poland, where for years votes had been unanimous, it was sensational.

It happened that these members are Roman Catholics. Since then the Roman Catholic delegation in parliament has demanded the formation of an independent Roman Catholic youth organization. These men, who call themselves progressive Catholics, accepted Communist rule. But their demand certainly seems to indicate a radical change in the political situation.

White Deer Wins Honors At Austin

WHITE DEER (Special)—White Deer students brought back more honors from the state Inter-scholastic League meet in Austin last week than ever before.

The one-act play took top honors for the third time, and all the members of the cast received individual honors. Lyda Spears was named best actress; Dean Foote, best actor; and James E. Smith, all-star cast.

In journalism Judy Rhodes, who won first place in the regional meet at Lubbock, placed fifth in Class B in over-all scores, having won third place in copyreading and fourth in editorial writing.

On material which had been printed in the school paper and sent in for judging, A. C. Malone won first place in news writing; Wilma Dunivan, second in news writing; and Lyda Spears, third in feature writing.

"The Bucks' Tale," school paper, with four other papers, was placed in the highest bracket and received the Award of Distinguished Merit.

Purpose Of Psychiatry

We must admit that we have a peculiar admiration for General G. B. Chisholm, the eminent Canadian psychiatrist.

There are a great many people who secretly believe that there is no such thing as either absolute good or absolute evil. Most of these persons find refuge in the pragmatism of Dewey, or in the metaphysical nonsense that "nothing is either good or bad, but thinking makes it so."

At least Chisholm has the merit of stating what he believes honestly and fearlessly. He says flatly that morality is wrong. He goes further. He establishes that wars are fought because of this illogical and emotional nonsense that there is a difference between right and wrong.

He finds, in a speech which is kept on the shelves of the World Health Organization of the United Nations, that a belief in right and wrong is at the base of neurotic tendencies on the part of a great many people. In one sense he is perfectly correct. It is certainly the belief that some things are right and some wrong which leads to war. If people do not believe that a particular act of aggression is wrong, it is certain that they will not rise up to stop or punish the aggressor. Let us take a few quotations from this speech, to see what the general is driving at. He says:

"Even self defense may involve a neurotic reaction when it means defending one's own excessive material wealth from others who are in great need."

By this we can conclude that the general would have to oppose any steps taken by the United States to defend itself in the event of attack. Certainly, we are the wealthiest nation in the world. That we have earned that wealth by the sweat of our own brows and in the face of governmental regimentation and taxation is not questioned by this shockingly frank psychologist. But since the standards of other people are lower than ours it must follow that if we defend ourselves against aggression that we have a national neurosis which, and again we quote: "... is short sighted, ineffective and inevitably leads to more wars."

But the general goes on: "The people who definitely do not want to fight any more wars must promise annihilation to any nation which starts to fight and must be prepared immediately and ruthlessly to carry out that promise without parley or negotiation. This involves the continual upkeep of widely dispersed atomic rocket stations covering the whole world and a continual high pressure research program to discover ever more efficient methods of killing to keep ahead of any possible competition."

The general says he abhors war. This, in itself, is astonishing in a man who professes to believe that there is nothing that is either good or bad. If that is true, we fail to discover why the general should be concerned with ending war. War can be neither good nor bad by the general's own evaluation. Therefore we are amazed at his preoccupation with wanting to end wars. Certainly, this establishes a basic neurosis in his own personality. Of course his recommendation, which is bloody and total, is certainly lacking in all morality, which fits this thesis. But it does not explain or relieve his basic contradiction.

Perhaps the general ought to be a subject for his own psychiatric couch. Most astonishing of his statements, however, relate to his beliefs concerning the practice and purpose of psychiatry.

"The re-interpretation and eventual eradication of the concept of right and wrong which has been the basis of child training, the substitution of intelligent and rational thinking for faith in the certainties of the old people, these are the belated objectives of practically all effective psychotherapy. . . . The fact is that most psychiatrists and psychologists and many other respectable people have escaped from these moral chains. . . . With the other human sciences, psychiatry must now decide what is to be the immediate future of the human race. No one else can. And this is the prime responsibility of psychiatry."

We must confess that we have never been psychoanalyzed. But, with these few quotations, together with the rest of the general's speech, we now understand the purpose of psychiatry. It is to remove guilt.

If a person has committed a murder, a grand theft, has embezzled, committed rape, or done some other abhorrent and reprehensible act, he should hire himself to the nearest psychiatrist who will, in the process of "treating," remove any sense of guilt from that person's mind.

Since there is neither right nor wrong, then it doesn't matter WHAT a person says or does. . . . he must be innocent. It is only his erroneous and superstitious clinging to morality which causes him to have a sense of guilt or fear. Remove this superstition and he can again become a "respectable" member of society.

General Chisholm, one-time head of the United Nations World Health Organization, and his beliefs, are receiving considerable credence in important circles.

The speech which contains the above quotations was delivered in October, 1945, at the auditorium of the Interior Department Building in Washington, D. C. In attendance were Henry A. Wallace then Secretary of Commerce, Watson B. Miller, then Federal Security Administrator, and Anthony Hyde, deputy director, Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion. These gentlemen, following the address by General Chisholm, did not find any particular basis of disagreement with his remarks.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

What is My Intention?

I have a letter from John Timmerman, Lima, Ohio that takes me to task for an article I had under the heading "Some Facts I Not Only Believe, But Know." I am always glad to get letters from parties who are convinced that I am in error in what I have written and that I am advocating some form of lawlessness. Here is what Mr. Timmerman writes:

"Mr. R. C. Hoiles, Editor, Better Jobs. Dear Mr. Hoiles: I have no idea how many persons will take the time to read your 'Better Jobs' column of last evening, May 1, 1956, or further, how many will take the time they should to respond (as you undoubtedly are urging them to do) to your 'challenging facts' about what you 'not only believe, but know.'"

"To borrow a phrase, 'I know that I am not smart enough or wise enough to properly refute these challenging facts about your self asserted ignorance and stupidity concerning some of the fundamental theses of modern social organization.'"

"But, after reading such a display of contradiction and ignorance (or most maliciously perverted knowledge) it is startling to think of the affect of 'Better Jobs' on those who will read it only superficially and who might as a result, for instance, decide they were not smart enough to delegate a sheriff to maintain law (if you want laws) and order (if you want order instead of anarchy) and therefore would abstain from voting as they saw fit."

"I hope someone else read that column and was as disturbed by it as I was. Mr. Hoiles, you certainly are going to foster social disorganization if that is your intention."

"By the way, what IS your intention? John Timmerman." Evidently I did not make myself clear to Mr. Timmerman. It is a little difficult for me to try to clarify when he, it seems to me, doesn't point out any contradictions or fallacious statements.

The last five paragraphs of the "Better Jobs" Mr. Timmerman refers to read as follows: "I know that I have no ethical, moral or just right to attempt to make any man an agent to do things that would be immoral, unethical and unjust and wicked if done by myself."

"I know that if it is wicked and unjust and unethical for one man to do a thing, that it is still unethical, unjust and wicked no matter whether the majority or how many people do the same thing."

"I also know that I am not smart enough or wise enough to select or delegate anybody to do the things that I am not smart enough or wise enough to do myself."

"These are some of the facts I know. . . . Does anybody challenge these facts? If there are, I would be glad to hear from them."

You will note that I said that I had no ethical or just right to make any man an agent to do things that would be unethical, unjust, immoral and wicked if done by myself. Now Mr. Timmerman accuses me of perverting knowledge and being not smart enough to delegate a sheriff to maintain law and order.

I cannot imagine how he got the idea that I did not believe I had a right to appoint an agent to do the things I have a right to do myself. And I know I have a right to protect my life and my property; to kill in self-defense. I also know that I never have a right to initiate force against another person; to rob or to murder.

I therefore have a right to delegate a man to do things that I have an ethical right to do myself, but I have no right to delegate a man to do things that I have no right to do myself, such as make others pay for something they do not want.

It seems to me that when we attempt to make a government officer an agent to do things that no individual has a moral right to do himself, that we are not maintaining law and order but are establishing chaos. We are denying that there are any principles that apply to individuals and to groups or to agents of a group. We are promoting social disorganization by having a multiple standard of right and wrong — one for the individual and one for the agent of the group or the majority.

My intention was to try to get people to believe they must never, under any circumstances, start a fight, initiate force, use aggressive force or get things on an involuntary basis.

My intention was to try to get people to believe, as the Declaration of Independence said, that governments derive their just power from the consent of the governed, and that no man has a moral right to even give his consent to any man as an agent to do things that would be immoral and unethical and unjust and wicked if he did it as an individual.

A question for Mr. Timmerman, Mr. Timmerman, do you believe that you have an ethical right to appoint an agent to attempt to do things that you would regard as unethical and unjust if you did the same act as an individual? My column is open to you for an answer.

I am convinced that the best way to promote peace and goodwill and prosperity is a free and open discussion. And if anyone can ask me a question about what I am advocating that embarrasses me or makes me contradict myself or makes me evade the question, I'll admit that I am in error. Any further questions?

It seems unfair to say that man responded directly from the ape, without giving some credit to the parrot.

Farm Surplus Has Been Helping Reds

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The existence of booming farm surpluses in the United States is largely responsible for Russia's recent diplomatic successes throughout the world, especially in Asia, South America and the Scandinavian countries. They strip us of effective economic weapons in the new phase of the cold war. It is amazing that Administration spokesmen did not emphasize this factor in debate over the 1956 Agricultural Act.

Although Burma is the most spectacular example of the operation of this surplus handicap, it is only one of many countries now slipping into the Soviet orbit because of our refusal to buy their main money crops. But the same imbalance applies to Denmark and Sweden (dairy products); to Cuba (sugar); to Argentina (meat and wheat); and to coffee and fruit-growing lands in the Western Hemisphere.

Burma, for instance is an extremely important sector, despite its small size, for its flanks India and Indo-China. A historically friendly country, it has become a Communist economic vassal and a showcase for Russia's China industry. We have such a surplus of rice, which is Burma's only cash export commodity, that we cannot accept it in payment for goods we ship there. Food scarcities in Russia, China and the satellites provide a rich market for this crop.

The results have been disastrous. A year ago, Burma's trade with the Reds amounted to only 3 per cent of its foreign commerce. Now, it is 25 per cent, and growing each month. Since replacements for farm, industrial and mining equipment, for railroads, tractors and building materials, must come from the Communists, they are obtaining a stranglehold in Burma.

In recent elections, the Communists tripled their membership in the Burmese Parliament, which was a shock to Premier U Nu's pro-Western regime, to Washington and London. The gain was due partially to the fact that the Communists have contracted to take in barter almost all of Burma's rice surplus.

In contrast, Secretary Dulles negotiated for the purchase of about $1,000,000 worth, as again the Soviet's acceptance of shipments totaling $100,000,000. But Secretary Benson blocked States transaction, even though it was only a gesture.

Egypt's exchange of cotton for Czechoslovakian arms may be terminated, if Russia acts sincerely to prevent actual hostilities in the Middle East. But it is understood that the Nasser Government and the Arabian Allies will continue to rely on the Reds for the industrialization of their backward countries, taking capital goods instead of weapons. Here again, we suffer because we cannot buy Egyptian cotton.

Many South American countries, which provided a haven for Hitler agents before and during World War II, have engaged in increasing commerce with the Communists, especially the East Germans. In return for their farm and orchard produce, they are taking the heavy stuff which we used to sell them. But our high prices and our inability to import their chief commodities has oriented them toward Moscow.

Since there is no private enterprise within the Communist conclave, every salesman, engineer, technician and farm expert is an agent for his government. He makes friends and contacts, and hers up information on the resources of the anti-Communist world. Moreover, like Bulgarian and Khrushchev on their recent missions, they set out to make themselves agreeable, and to destroy the concept of Russia as an economic or military threat.

They also show smart psychology in engaging to build showy projects overseas. In Burma, they are putting up a great technological school, a hotel, a hospital, an exhibit hall and a sports center. As our diplomats report, their purpose seems to be to capture the admiration and loyalties of the younger generation.

As of today, and largely because of those surpluses, Washington has not been able to devise a counter-offensive against this kind of aggression.

Fair Enough

Details Of Union's Nature Not Familiar To Public

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The despotic nature of all unions of the American union racket is familiar to the public in a general way but not in detail.

Persons who sincerely believe that workers have a duty to join such unions seem to have neglected their own education in this dangerous political activity. Otherwise they could hardly justify themselves as moral men in demanding that a worker submit to union control as a moral duty to his fellow men. The only remedy for this ignorance is to study many union constitutions and the unstated but implicit meaning of subtle provisions designed for coercion and oppression. It is fair to say that there is not one good union in the whole racket although there are many "clean" locals which are captive provinces of the "internationals."

These "internationals" without exception are bad. To get away from these generalities, which may sound abusive but really are quite temperate, let us consider some articles of the constitution of the teamsters' union, which has 1,300,000 members, many of them unwilling subjects of a sinister, ruthless gang of politicians called the General Executive Board.

This union and, generally speaking, all others, hold national conventions at stated periods of years. The period in the case of the teamsters is five years. Some avoid conventions by a trick of the executives and thus may go without an election for 8, 10 or even, as in the case of the hodcarriers' union, 30 years. To do this, the General Executive Board invites locals around the country to signify whether they desire a convention at the appointed time or prefer a postponement. The national bosses control the local bosses and the telephone is a reliable means of indicating that the grand officers want a postponement.

The committee on credentials decides which delegates from locals shall be seated on the floor, with the right to vote on national officers and on resolutions and constitutional amendments. The teamsters' constitution says the president, now Dave Beck, formerly Dan Tobin, shall appoint the committee on credentials having seven members from the locals and the national president and the secretary-treasurer as permanent members. Mr. Beck would be unlikely to appoint to the committee on credentials delegates who would vote against him and his executive board. Thus in AFL unions, the ruling body always re-elects itself. There are no revolutions in such conventions and rebels who try to revolt are thrown out by the sergeants; then they are subject to prosecution and "criminal" punishment by those whom they have tried to depose.

The same constitution says: "The convention shall be in charge of a committee on rules appointed by the president" and "elections shall be by roll call where there is more than one candidate for any office." Most states in such conventions are Hitlerian documents with only one nominee listed for each office. The teamsters' constitution is bashful about the procedure when there is only one candidate. However, Beck gets it overwhelmingly by vote of the locals crying "aye" in union. Beck also has authority to call out impudent resolutions in advance of the convention. The constitution provides that proposals to amend the constitution and lesser resolutions may be sent to Beck 30 days before the convention. He need not report them to the convention.

The delegates still have a right to propose amendments and resolutions from the floor if they can catch the presiding officer's eye and he will recognize them. But it is always wise for a delegate to remember Article XVIII, which says "violation of the oath of loyalty to the local or international" is a triable crime. Intemperate cracks about Beck's sale of his own home to the international at a great profit with the privilege of continuing to occupy it might tend to dishonor the international. Another provision says that when a member takes a case to the public courts even after he has exhausted all "remedies" within the union, he had better win because if he loses he will have to pay all costs and expenses and that these shall be regarded not as remuneration but as a fine or punishment.

So it is not hard to understand why there is no protest within the union in the matter of the purchase of Beck's mansion, with swimming pool and rumpus room, by Beck's union for Beck's use. Because Beck got in at a meeting of the executive board which appropriated $100,000 to build a house for Dan Tobin with provision for furniture, gardens, maintenance, household provisions and all conceivable costs of operating a mansion.

These are only samples from a book of glowing threats, a typical American union constitution in which the workers are constantly reminded that they are second-rate citizens under totalitarian rule. This is not the worst of them all. There are others just as bad, but there is none worse.

If I were asked to name the field in which the greatest progress has been made since I was a youngster, I'd answer without hesitation, "In packing and moving a family's possessions from one town to another."

That's on the level. I'd name it in preference to anything done in medicine, electronics, frozen foods, aviation, animal husbandry, or textiles.

The miracle of modern-day packing and moving was revealed to me the other day when I was stopped by to visit my sister-in-law, just a day before she was scheduled to move clear across the continent.

We wouldn't have stopped at all, if I had had my way about it. Remembering our moves in my youth, I told Mary that everything at Kati's would be upside down and in a terrible mess, and that there wouldn't be anything for us to sit on, sleep on, or eat off.

"Things have changed," Mary said. "They aren't what they were when you were a boy."

"Changed" isn't quite a strong enough word. With only one day to go before moving time, we walked into the house and found it just as it always was.

"You've decided not to move," I said. "Good."

"Sure we're moving," Kati said. "But not until tomorrow when the packers and trucks get here."

My thoughts went back to Georgia, when I was about fourteen. Papa was a preacher, and we moved a lot, and not even the day the cyclone struck is as clear in my memory as the days that led up to "moving time."

If I took weeks to get everything ready to be hauled down to the depot and loaded in boxes, if I have wrapped it around ten thousand, if I have poked one soup plate into a barrel of excelsior, half suffocating and sneezing all the while, I have poked a million. There aren't enough zeros to write the number of books I have jammed into wooden boxes, or the mar-

Mac Says Moving Shows Greatest Progress

By HENRY McLEMORE

It was a hand-to-mouth existence toward the end, I'm telling you. And there was no telling whether or not you'd reach the new town before or after the furniture got there. Or what time of night it would arrive, and be unloaded in the yard and on the front and back porches.

Now there is nothing for the family to do. We were at Kati's house when the advance guard of the packers arrived. He was dressed like Anthony Eden on the way to a conference. "You must be a packing consultant," I said jokingly.

The man pulled out a card. It read, "Richard E. Moore, Packaging Consultant." He studied the house, made notes, and in came the real packers.

No wooden bars, but handsome containers. No shredded paper or stifling excelsior. Every item was wrapped individually in corrugated paper and neatly stapled. Clothes were hung in special wardrobe chests. It was as neat, precise, and tidy as a surgical operation.

Everything was loaded in a mammoth truck, the driver waved a cheery goodbye; the packaging consultant picked up his briefcase, put on his Humburg, and departed. Kati and her family stepped out the front door, turned the key, got in their car, and started a leisurely drive across country, knowing that when they got there everything would be in place in their new home.

I only hope my mother doesn't read this. It will make her very unhappy to recall those moving days of yesteryear.

Meyer's Slogan Pays Off

By ED FITZ
FORT WORTH — UP—L. R. (Dutch) Meyer, who has operated under a "blood and battle" slogan for three decades at Texas Christian University, has made it pay off again.

The venerable little Dutchman, first became attached to TCU as a boy of eight when the school was Ad-Ran College and located at Waco. He became the team workboy.

Now, 60 years and many playing and coaching days later, he still has the gleam of youth in his eye after coming out of semi-retirement to lead a TCU baseball team to its second Southwest Conference championship.

The sticky Meyer coached them both, but they came 23 years apart and the current edition is as much a credit to Meyer's blood-and-battle slogan as anything else.

He finished dead last a year ago with virtually the same personnel under another coach.

Meyer first came to TCU in 1918 as a skinny, 160 pounder who loved baseball more than any other sport. He won 11 letters in baseball, football and basketball before joining the Cleveland Indians in 1922. A shoulder injury cut his baseball career short before it ever got started.

So, he returned to TCU as an assistant coach in football and head coach in baseball. He won the school's first diamond title in 1933 then for 19 years served as head football coach until stepping up stairs as athletic director in 1953.

He had a highly-respected career that included national rules committee membership, presidency of the National Football Coaches Association, Hall of Fame membership and had seven bowl teams.

As athletic director, he was so mired down with detail that he seldom visited the practice fields. But, when the baseball coaching job fell vacant last fall, he jumped at the chance to get his fingers back in the coaching pie.

He made a few personnel shifts and drilled his team hard, but most observers agree that spirit played the key role in an 18-5 season and an NCAA playoff berth against Arizona.

With a twinkle in his eye, Meyer virtually agrees.

"Why you're not really fighting 'til you bleed a little," he said. "You have got to want to win real hard before you can. That's what this team has—the old desire."

Al Smith Homers To Defeat Yankees, 3-2, Despite Injury

By UNITED PRESS
The first-place Cleveland Indians have no kick coming with Al Smith even though he's playing with a lame leg.

Bad leg and all, Smith smashed his fifth homer of the season in the ninth inning against the Yankees Monday night to give the Indians a 3-2 victory and possession of the American League lead by 10 percentage points.

Until game time, Manager Al Lopez wasn't sure whether he would play Smith because of the leg which he originally injured in spring training.

Lopez held Smith hitless in his first three times up but he led off the ninth by slamming one of Johnny Kuksa's pitches over the left field fence to earn veteran slinker-ball ace Bob Lemon his fifth straight victory.

Lopez had equal praise for Smith who was held hitless in his first three times up but he led off the ninth by slamming one of Johnny Kuksa's pitches over the left field fence to earn veteran slinker-ball ace Bob Lemon his fifth straight victory.

Smith and Lemon after the game. "Both of 'em have been terrific for us," he said. "They've helped put us in first place but we've still got a long way to go. I just hope we can hold on to the lead now that we have it."

In beating the Yankees for the second time this season, Lemon yielded only three hits and made his lifetime record 35-25 over New York. The 35-year-old Lemon now has pitched five complete games to equal the number he turned in last year.

Two Hits Homers
Two of the three hits off Lemon were back-to-back home runs by Gil McDougald and Mickey Mantle in the fourth inning which gave the Yankees a 3-2 triumph over the Yankees.

Sonny Meyers Wins Match Over 'Terror'

A full slate of exciting wrestling greeted fans at the Top of Texas Sportsman's Club last night.

In the main event, a two-out-of-three fall time limit match, it was the Golden Terror versus Sonny Meyers. In the first fall, Sonny took it very fast over the Golden Terror. He won the fall in one minute and seventeen seconds. The Golden Terror disagreed over the whole thing. It didn't look like he was so much after Sonny as he was after the referee. The Golden Terror knocked the referee out of the ring, cutting his left eye. Meyers then won the match by disqualification.

The second event of the evening featured Red McIntyre against Mitsu of Tokyo, Japan. In the first fall, Mitsu conquered Red in 25 minutes and 35 seconds official time. Red came back in the second round to win the fall in six minutes and 22 seconds. The clock ran out in the third round, and the match was judged a draw.

Andre Drapp showed some fast and furious action in downing Tony Bajon in the first event, a one-fall match with a 20 minute time limit. At the end of ten minutes, it looked as if Drapp was getting the best of Tony. At the end of 15 minutes, Tony was on top of Drapp, but Drapp recuperated to win the match in 19 minutes and 30 seconds flat.

Hobbs Sports Take Oilers, 8-6, In An 11 Inning Affair

By FRED M. PARKER
Pampa News Staff Writer
The Oilers fell to the Hobbs Sports last night in an 11 inning affair by a score of 8 to 6.

The Oilers made the first tallies of the game in the second when Martin and Tucker both tagged the ball over the fence for the only two home runs of the game.

The Sports came back in the fourth with a run scored by Alvarez and again in the sixth when Alvarez crossed the plate again on a hit by Pasqual to tie up the ball game.

The Oilers forged ahead in the bottom half of the sixth on a single by Yanchura which allowed Tucker to score from third. Tucker had moved to third on a balk by the Sports' pitcher, Kearns.

Hobbs came back in the eighth with three runs to forge ahead by a five to three score. Runners crossing the plate for Hobbs were Alvarez, Dobek, and Pasqual.

The starting pitcher for the Oilers, Audie Malone, was pulled in the eighth with one out and "Red" Dial was sent in to pitch the remainder of the game.

Malone was pitching his first game with the Oilers since coming here from Amarillo.

Pampa put one runner across the plate in the bottom half of the eighth to move within one run of the Sports.

The Sports scored one run in the top of the ninth and the Oilers came back in the bottom half with two runs on four walks and a single by Tucker to tie up the game at 6 to 6.

Neither team was able to score in the tenth inning but the Sports came back in the eleventh and put two men across the plate. The Oilers were unable to score and the game ended after the eleventh inning with the Sports winning by a score of 8 to 6.

Grim relieved Kearns as pitcher for the Sports in the ninth after Kearns allowed the two Pampa scores. Grim was credited with the win and Dial was charged with the loss.

Southwestern League baseball was a study in contrasts Monday night as Midland held onto its half-game lead over Plainview.

The games ran the gamut from Plainview's 21-16 slugging of Roswell to El Paso's 1-0 verdict over Ballinger. Sandwiched in between were Midland's 4-3 decision over Carlsbad, Hobbs' 8-6 defeat of Pampa and Clovis' 14-13 defeat of San Angelo.

Plainview and Roswell splintered 37 base hits all over the place with the winning Pofias getting 21 off starter Julio Ramos and four successors.

El Paso's Jim Ackers held Ballinger to five hits for his shutout, while John Stadtycki scattered nine safeties in beating Carlsbad.

The same clubs go at it again Tuesday night with Roswell at Plainview, Hobbs at Pampa, Midland at Carlsbad, Ballinger at El Paso and San Angelo at Clovis.

What's New Around Nation's Capitol

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON — UP—

What's set when I have to locate North Dakota geographically for those who've never heard of it, or what is even worse, to hear about the Indians? The North Dakota red man, she said, is docile and neighborly.

The help around Capitol Hill, like many an aproned housewife, is busy feather dusting and getting the premises prettied up for summer and visitors. But most of our ladies in simple living don't have the problem of dismantling chandeliers. All of the dangling bobbles on the bill have to be unhooked, scrubbed and put back. It's quite a chore.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ellis have as their guests their grandchildren, Roxie and Patti Ellis of Dallas. Marilyn Reitz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Reitz has been awarded a scholarship to attend West Texas State College during the 1956-57 school session.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Krahl of Oklahoma City visited last week end in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hall. Other guests in the Hall home were Mrs. Hall's mother, Mrs. Pearl Collingsworth of Duncan, Okla., and a sister, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Branch also of Duncan.

Pf. Richard Blackmore visited this week in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Blackmore, and family. He was on a five day leave from his army assignment in Chicago.

Special services were held at the People's Chapel on Mother's Day. Guest speakers were Floyd and Linda Tolby of Iowa.

Mrs. Naomi Koerner and daughter of San Diego, Calif., have been guests in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cagle, and were present for Cable's last birthday celebration.

Mrs. Ray Thomas returned home last week, after having spent a month in the home of her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Walt Whitaker and son of Tuscaloosa, Ala.

The State Department wants Austrians now living in the United States to know about a new Austrian social security law. Those who have claims can file them at a number of places, the first of which is:

Pensionsversicherungsanstalt der Angestellten (employees retirement fund) Wien V, Blechturmgaass 11, Austria.

Candidate Slate Full In Perryton

PERRYTON — (Special) — Democratic chairman Harold Hudson has announced that there are opponents in each of the four Ochiltree County political races.

Lonnie McGarraugh has entered Precinct 1 and will oppose Ivan Day, who is running for re-election. Jack M. Allen, running for County Attorney, is opposed by Robert D. Lemon. Ray Phagan, the present sheriff, is opposed by Vernon Reynolds. John King, incumbent commissioner of Precinct 3, is opposed by J. T. Webb.

There are two other addresses, but they are too hard to spell. The postal news services bulletin reports that carrier Harold Miller of Rochester, Indiana, who had no trouble at all delivering letter addressed simply: "Milo, Thelma, Jean Joan, two blocks south on thumb hand side."

Miller got it there on time, even though the sender didn't say which thumb.

Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson hired a new hand the other day. Asked if the man had enough authority, the secretary replied: "He has not enough authority to do the wrong thing and keep it up very long."

LOOSE GOOSE GETS CANNED—This goose isn't cooked, but he's mighty uncomfortable. Minneapolis policeman Arnold Kunde found the bird wandering about the city streets during the night. The Municipal Park Board disclaimed ownership of the bird, saying "No Minneapolis goose would be out that late."

Perryton Personals

By SUE WILLIAMS
Pampa News Correspondent

Mrs. Bill Trayler went to Oklahoma City Monday with Mrs. Troy Bolderjack to take her son, Stewart, for medical care and examination.

Mr. and Mrs. John Blurton of Perryton are the parents of a daughter, Vera Rose, born May 9. Burial services were held in the Ochiltree cemetery Friday afternoon for Mrs. Ida Louise Smith, mother of Claude Smith of Perryton.

Mrs. Jane Scott, of the Simplicity Pattern Co., conducted a school of home sewing in the Perryton High School Auditorium Monday.

Mrs. Mabel Lawrence, Mrs. Joe Foster, and Mrs. Marie Wade left Thursday for Mineral Wells to attend the Business and Professional Womens Club Convention. While there, Mrs. Lawrence will also visit her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Campbell.

At the regular meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary Monday night, Mrs. E. W. Thomas was elected president. Other officers elected were Mrs. J. C. May, first vice president; Mrs. C. B. Rogers, second vice president; Mrs. F. L. Garrett, historian; Mrs. Roy Hogeland, parliamentarian; Mrs. Marge Black sergeant-at-arms; and Mrs. Robert Barlow, secretary treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Correll are visiting this week in the home of their daughter and family, Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Eisenberg and children of Dallas. While there Mrs. Correll will attend the convention of Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.

Proudly Joins in Celebrating the Dedication of the GENERAL MOTORS TECHNICAL CENTER

The 1956 Cadillac Coupe de Ville in the dramatically beautiful lobby of the new Styling Section at the General Motors Technical Center

The opening of the fabulous new General Motors Technical Center in suburban Detroit heralds a new era of automotive advancement and development. No ordinary manufacturer's laboratory, the new Technical Center is the world's largest establishment devoted to research in the industrial arts and sciences. More than ten years in the building, it occupies over 330 acres and employs four thousand engineers, scientists, researchers and stylists.

We cordially invite you to visit our showroom this week to celebrate the formal opening of this great institution—and to see and drive the magnificent 1956 Cadillac.

We hope that you will visit our showroom to help us celebrate this historic opening . . . and to see, inspect and drive one of the most brilliant examples of General Motors progress in styling and engineering—the 1956 Cadillac.

In beauty . . . in luxury . . . in performance . . . in everything that makes a motor car a joy to own and to utilize . . . this latest Cadillac creation stands uniquely alone. It is unmistakably the "car of cars."

We will be happy to see you at any time—to give you the keys for a personal demonstration drive—and to acquaint you with some news about cost and delivery that we think you will find difficult to resist.

We'll be looking forward to seeing you!
