Vast Killer Storm Moves Into Atlantic

The Heart-Breaking Job Of Reconstruction Left Behind

By UNITED PRESS
The remnants of a vast killer storm moved out into the Atlantic Ocean Thursday, leaving a heart-breaking job of reconstruction behind.

Chinese Reds In Anti-Stalin Movement

TOKYO — UP — Communist China belatedly followed its Kremlin leaders Friday and denounced Josef Stalin's one-man rule as "putrid."
The denunciation, broadcast by Peiping radio, did not mention Mao Tse-Tung, a long-time admirer of Stalin and heretofore the unchallenged leader of Communist China.

Peiping radio, quoting the official Communist Peoples Daily in Peking, broadcast the anti-Stalin blast a few days before First Deputy Soviet Premier Anastas Mikoyan arrives there as top salesman for the new Soviet line. Mikoyan was reported in Hanoi selling the new line to the Viet Nam Communists.

The broadcast followed by a few days the return to Red China of Gen. Chu Teh, Chinese Communist army commander-in-chief, and deputy chairman. He attended the Communist party's 20th congress in Moscow when the first anti-Stalin attacks began.

Peiping warned western "reactionaries" not to think that the attacks on Stalin meant any weakening of the Communist front. It said communism would emerge stronger than ever.

Peiping praised the Moscow attack on Stalin's "cult of the individual" and lashed out at the West for using the new Moscow line to criticize communism.

The statement acknowledged Stalin's early work in world communism but said later he "indulged in inordinate inflation of his own role and posed his individual authority against collective leadership."

Now going on will make it possible to issue tornado warnings with real pinpoint accuracy.

Now the system makes two kinds of forecasts: (1) Area predictions of tornado conditions, and (2) tornado path warnings based on actual sightings.

The first is too general, the second often too late.

A lot of persons are engaged in tornado research. If it leads to better forecasts it will be rewarding. From 1916 through 1954 this country had 8,897 tornadoes which killed 8,778 persons and destroyed $794 million worth of property. The average has been 178 a year. (See HISTORY, Page 4)

Polio Vaccine No Priority For South

By MICHAEL J. O'NEILL
WASHINGTON — UP — The U.S. Public Health Service Thursday officially rejected the idea of giving the South priority on current shipments of Salk polio vaccine because the season strikes there earlier.

It declared "the national interest can best be served" by continuing the present nationwide distribution system in which all states get their vaccine at about the same time.

"Each state," it said, "needs its full share of vaccine in order to protect as large a portion of its population as possible."

In another development, informed sources disclosed that the government has decided to submit the National Polio Advisory committee into session in the next couple of weeks to make a full-scale review of the distribution program on the eve of the 1956 polio season.

The committee, which hasn't met since last June, will consider such things as broadening the present national age priorities, formally urging postponement of third shots to extend supplies, and determining how far the vaccine will go this year.

The decision of the Health Service against giving the South priority on current Salk shipments was disclosed in a letter to Sen. George A. Smathers (D-Fla.). A copy of the letter was made available to the United Press.

Smathers had proposed in a letter to Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele that Florida's share of the nation's vaccine supply be increased now on the grounds that polio hits there "earlier each year than in any other state, and other states are not even using their full allocation."

Later on, he said, Florida's allocations could be cut so that over the year it would get no more vaccine than any other area.

In reply, the health service said, "our concern in this program is to prevent the largest possible number of cases of polio this year." The earlier season in the South, it said, "must be weighed against regional variations in poliomyelitis attack rates."

What's The Idea, Officer?

BALTIMORE — UP — Police arrested Bonita Schapiro, 25, on a disorderly conduct charge Wednesday night after they found her running down a street clad only in a string of pearls and a pair of shoes.

"Every time I try to have a little fun I get in trouble," the young woman lamented.

Clean-Up Campaign Is Slated

The fire prevention committee of the Chamber of Commerce made plans this morning for the organization and promotion of the Clean-Up Week campaign slated here for April 30 to May 12.

Pick-up dates for the 1956 clean-up campaign were announced as follows: Ward 4, April 30-May 2; Ward 3, May 3-5; Ward 2, May 7-9; Ward 1, May 10-12.

The city of Pampa will pick up all trash and debris on these dates if it is placed in the alley. L. B. "Bush" Haggard, city sanitation superintendent, said that anything would be picked up in the project except large slabs of concrete, household and material that can not be man-handled.

Oil Shewmaker, chairman, who presided over the session, said that such a project would keep down fire insurance rates for the city. He later outlined a program for covered trash containers, suggesting that a resolution be presented to the City Commission urging them to investigate the matter.

He stressed closed trash barrels are advantageous from the standpoint of fire prevention, cleanliness and health.

A resolution was adopted by the committee, consisting of 22 members present, that a recommendation be made to the City Commission that they give study to the feasibility of covered trash containers in Pampa.

The clean-up project will entail radio forums to be conducted at both radio stations between April 25-27, announcements to be made at all elementary and parochial schools, and at the junior and senior high schools. Announcements will also be made at all civic clubs.

Sound crews, from four civic clubs in town, will be in charge of running sound cars in each ward. The Kiwanis Club, under the direction of Rev. William West, will run a sound car from 5 to 7 p.m. on April 30-May 2. The Rotary Club, headed by Joe Cree, who is chairman of the project, will run a truck on May 3-5 in Ward 3. The Optimist Club, headed by Johnny Campbell, will run the sound car on May 7-9 in Ward 2, and the Jaycees are scheduled for May 6-7 in Ward 1, under the direction of Ray Duncan.

More details on the clean-up campaign will be announced at a later time.

Solon Predicts Farm Vote To Swing Back To G.O.P.

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON — UP — Sen. Edward J. Thye (R-Minn.) conceded Thursday the Minnesota and Wisconsin primaries showed the farm vote swinging away from the Republicans but said he believes it will swing back by fall.

His forecast that Midwestern farmers will return to the GOP after the November election was based on the belief that President Eisenhower would accept the farm bill now in its final stages in Congress.

The committee planned to complete its work Friday. The House is scheduled to vote on the compromise first, probably next Wednesday.

Supporters of the Democratic "catch-all" compromise were encouraged in their belief that Mr. Eisenhower will sign the bill by his news conference comments.

Although he sharply criticized the committee bill, the President told newsmen he never had believed in holding up "good things in order to attain perfection." But he emphasized he wouldn't decide about signing or vetoing the measure until he had studied it as a whole in the form finally approved by Congress.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.) told reporters that he was sure Mr. Eisenhower would sign the measure if it is "explained to him by someone who is not biased and prejudiced." Ellender, chairman of the Senate Agriculture committee and the conference committee, will be notified this week and the hour and place of the convention will be posted on the County Court-house bulletin board by April 24.

The county executive committee will be notified this week and the hour and place of the convention will be posted on the County Court-house bulletin board by April 24.

In Fist Fight Head Injury Was Cause Of Death

The death of Don Flaherty, who died Tuesday night following a fist-fight, was caused as a result of a brain hemorrhage, an autopsy performed by county health officer, Dr. Joe Gates, showed yesterday.

The report of the autopsy stated that it was Dr. Gates' opinion that the man died as a result of a brain hemorrhage caused by some injury to the back of the head.

Flaherty died at Worley Hospital following a fight near the post office Tuesday night with Harmon Eugene Russell. According to a statement Russell gave, the fight started in Russell's car when Flaherty struck Russell. Russell got out of the car and hit Flaherty one time on the side of the face, knocking Flaherty backwards over a hedge onto the lawn.

Flaherty regained his feet, stumbled across the sidewalk, and slumped down near a recruiting sign. When he tried to regain his feet a second time, he fell into the street, the statement says.

District Attorney Bill Waters stated this morning that no charges have been filed against Russell at this time, however, the results of the investigation will be referred to the Grand Jury when it convenes April 13.

Waters also stated that he had talked to one disinterested witness and the attempts are being made to locate other witnesses to the fight.

Russell is being held in county jail pending the completion of the investigation.

Flaherty was 30 years of age, in good health and was previously reported.

Funeral services for Flaherty will be held at 3 p.m. Friday in the Duenkel - Carmichael Funeral Home Chapel, with Father Miles Moyhan officiating.

Funeral services will be: Oscar Johnson, Homer Hall, H. L. Meers, M. Roberts, Dave Parker, and W. E. Ellis.

Group Starts Final Touches On Farm Bill

WASHINGTON — UP — House-Senate conferees began putting final touches Thursday on a controversial farm bill designed to increase farmers' income about $1 billion this year.

Supporters of the bill said they believed, on the basis of President Eisenhower's news conference remarks Wednesday, that he is relaxing his opposition to it and will sign it.

The conference committee struck a new blow at the administration Wednesday by tentative approving hefty increases in price supports for four feed grains and for so-called non-commercial corn grown outside the main corn belt. This was the last major point at issue before the committee, which has been compromising differences between House and Senate versions of a new farm program.

The committee planned to complete its work Friday. The House is scheduled to vote on the compromise first, probably next Wednesday.

Supporters of the Democratic "catch-all" compromise were encouraged in their belief that Mr. Eisenhower will sign the bill by his news conference comments.

Tax Without Representation Ordered Paid

WASHINGTON — UP — Internal Revenue officials said Thursday representation or no representation, residents of Alaska, Hawaii and District of Columbia still must pay their taxes.

A Fairbanks, Alaska, jury this week acquitted former Internal Revenue Collector Jack Marler on a charge of willfully failing to file an income tax return. Marler pleaded "taxation without representation."

Alaskan officials were quoted as seeing a possible precedent in the case for tax dodging in Alaska, Hawaii and District of Columbia. None have voting representation in Congress.

But revenue officials here denied it.

"There is a law that the have to file returns," a spokesman told the United Press. "And there is a law that they have to pay."

The spokesman contended that Marler had won acquittal only from criminal charges.

"That does not mean that he does not have to pay his taxes," he said. "We are going to move in on him and collect that money immediately through civil action, even if it means liens on his property."

"The only thing that case decided was that we failed to prove that he willfully neglected to file his returns. That word willful is the key."

"We have had other cases similar to this in the states and lost them. But the acquitted person had to pay his taxes anyway."

Weather Bureau Issues Warning

The warning said: "Severe thunderstorms and hail expected from now until late afternoon in an area bounded by Cross Plains to Gainesville to Corsicana to Lampasas back to Cross Plains."

Drama On How To See Grace Kelly Off To Monaco

By H. D. QUIGG
NEW YORK — UP — How to see Grace Kelly off—a drama of ship-board reporting.

Scene: The "pool cafe" of the S.S. Constitution.

Time: Shortly before Miss Kelly sailed Wednesday for her story-book wedding of movie queen and prince charming in Monaco.

Cast: Miss Kelly, Al Graham, America Export Lines publicist; Morgan Hudgins, MGM publicist; guards from McRoberts Private Police Agency, 250 reporters, photographers, and interlopers in press conference.

(As the scene opens in the jammed café, rain drips into wet wooden deck and green tiled swimming pool in background outside and beyond that, in Hudson River, ships ghost through heavy fog, horns blating.)

Photographer (standing on isles): "Waita minute! I been here for halfa hour. You ain't gonna stand in fronta me."

Second photog: "Here she comes! Will you fellas duck down here? Down in front! Hey Grace! Looks me! Over here!"

(Miss Kelly, escorted by Hudgins, is shoved to corner, sits down, speaks softly into public address system which seems to make all her remarks sound like "hub, bubble, bup.")

Hudgins voice rising above pandemonium: "Miss Kelly will answer questions one at a time..."

Voices (hollering): "Close that door over there...toin dat light down...hey, George, get away from dat camera..."

Graham (standing on chair): "Gentlemen, if this crush doesn't stop, this press conference will end—now! Move back and give this lady air. The photographers are supposed to stay back. This is a press conference, not a riot."

Hudgins: "Miss Kelly will answer questions directed at me...the first question is, will Miss Kelly have a crown. The answer is no. The question is, if they have any children will they be American citizens. Do you know the answer, Miss Kelly?"

Miss Kelly: "Blub burble-ur-ble."

Hudgins: "How does Miss Kelly feel now that she's leaving America?"

Miss Kelly: "Well, at first I'd like to say that I blub-blub-ur-ble."

Answers: Blub Argle Urble.

Hudgins: "Does Miss Kelly know what her official duties will be?"

Miss Kelly: "Not yet, I blub argle urble..."

(Guards move her to one side for photographing, then to battery of TV, radio, and newsreel microphones—and another mob.)

Voices: "Hey, Gabe, pull that head in...hey, Jinx, move over, willya?"

Miss Kelly (poised, smiling): "Very big step for any girl...very excited...I'm very happy...looks like a silent movie, lips moving but no words penetrating the room noise; then in mementary lull..."

Interviewer (reading prepared question): "Do you feel that your cup runneth over?"

Miss Kelly (sweetly, accenting final word): "Yes I do."

Guards (ton signal): "Let's go!" (they elbow her out of room.)

(Scene fades to open deck at ship's bow, where Grace and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Kelly, stand waving goodbye. Like other passengers, Grace waves a red paper tasseled pom-pom which looks like a kitchen mop in color.)

Smart people limit the speed of their cars. Others speed the limit!

Numerous cities have put a ban on hitchhiking, but there still are lots of ways of giving folks a lift.

It's funny how people will sit through 10 rounds of a TV fight just so they can complain about a rank decision.

Folks would buy more Easter seals if they only knew what wonderful tricks they can do.

Inventor Files For Patent To Eliminate Jitters In TV

By HARMON W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON — UP— City folks look at a bunch of channels and find no quarrel with TV. The folks in the woods buy a set and find themselves between channels. One channel fighting the other. Stuff like washboards bumping other washboards, a Yuloo Elizard, and something that resembles rolling venetian blinds. It's enough to make a man mad enough to turn in his set for a second hand lawn-mower. A friend of mine, one S. D. Wooten, an inventor man from Memphis, thinks he has all of this business solved. He has dreamed up a gimmick which will eliminate the jitters in your set if you happen to live in betwixt and between — out here in the hills. Wooten has invented a little box. For which a patent has been filed, which he says will clean up the fuzz. The box has three buttons but Wooten won't tell how they work. Things like that are an inventor's secret. A trial run was made on the invention. Wooten says it worked fine. "Take Memphis, where my brother Hoyt Wooten runs WRCC-AM-TV," he said. "It is 190 miles from Jackson, Miss. Memphis has Channel 3, which is CBS. Jackson has Channel 3, also, but it is NBC. In the country between, a lot of the time all the folks are getting is a bunch of shutters going up and down between the two networks." He said both networks are getting fan mail. Wooten, who flunked out in engineering, is no stranger at the patent office here. Already he has on the market many little gadgets. One is something called "Musikom" — a wired-in, do-it-all conglomeration of AM-FM communications for the home. Or to pipe music all over the house. It can be rigged so, when baby cries, a bell will ring in the master bedroom to wake up the old folks, or in the living room where the baby sitter is watching TV or curled up with a book. And if mama is taking a bath, well - supplied with brushes, she can tell the salesman at the door to just go away without even stepping out of the tub.

Two Persons Fined Here

One person pleaded guilty to charges of swindling with a worthless check in County Court Tuesday and another to charges of driving while intoxicated, Wednesday. Mrs. Donald Gryder, 515 S. Somerville, pleaded guilty to charges of swindling with a worthless check and was fined $1 and made restitution for the check. She was fined on by the Pampa News Stand for a check in the amount of $6 dated March 8, 1956. Donald Eugene Rodgers, 632 Reid, pleaded guilty to charges of driving while intoxicated and was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to three days in jail by the court this morning. He was arrested by city police in the 800 block of Octavius at approximately 12:55 this morning.

Theater Group To Meet

The Pampa Little Theater is calling an open meeting tonight at 7:30 in the Chamber of Commerce conference room to report on the progress made to date and to explain the constitution to be set up. All persons interested in joining the group are invited to attend this meeting. Deadline for becoming a charter member has been set at June 1. Annual dues were set, in a previous meeting of the directors, at $1 entrance fee plus $2 a year.

Flexible committees set up include the play selection committee, the properties committee, sets, make-up, house committee, publicity, costumes, and light committee. Jim Terrell, president, will preside at the session. Plans are under derway to start the season as soon as possible with a good comedy. Farmers to Get Refund WASHINGTON — UP— The Internal Revenue Service said Wednesday farmers have until Oct. 1 to apply for refunds on the 2-cent federal tax on gasoline, diesel oil and special motor fuels used in farming. The refunds are provided for in a law signed Monday by President Eisenhower. They cover the period from January through next June 30.

Polio Vaccine Production Up

Editor's Note: Polio vaccine production is picking up but there won't be enough to protect everyone during the coming polio season. Here is a report on prospects for the months ahead.

By MICHAEL J. O'NEILL
WASHINGTON — UP — There should be enough polio vaccine by mid-summer to finish giving two shots to children under 15.

Before the polio season hits its peak late in the summer, there may be enough vaccine to start inoculating older children. And there is just a chance some vaccine may also be available for adults by the end of the year. Pregnant women already are eligible.

This is the considered judgment of Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. It is based on a study of official industry estimates.

The U. S. Public Health Service, which has stubbed its toe on supply predictions before, is somewhat less optimistic than O'Connor. But it too, privately, looks for a major upswing in production in the next few months.

Biggest reason for optimism is the booming production of the Eli Lilly Co. in Indianapolis. This firm has turned out nearly 70 per cent of all the vaccine produced so far—more than double the combined output of five other manufacturers.

Output to Hit 60 Million
By June 30, Lilly says its 1956 output will hit a record 60 million shots—enough to give two doses to 30 million children. In the last six months of the year, it plans to turn out another 40 million shots.

Figuring vaccine output is an uncertain business at best. But if the industry estimates hold up, the outlook for 1956 is a possible number of vaccinations (2 shots each) totaling 83 million.

There are 48 million children under age 15. O'Connor estimated that 10 million in the 0-through-14 age group already have received two shots. He believes another five million have received only one. That leaves roughly 33 million children in the top priority ages who still need two shots and five million who need only the second shot. A maximum of 71 million shots.

However, experience has shown that about 25 per cent of the children eligible for shots fail to get them because of parental neglect, opposition to the vaccine or something else. Because of this, it presumably will take only 45 to 50 million shots to wind up the 0-through-14 age group. On the basis of the industry estimates, there should be enough vaccine this summer to do the job.

Started Slowly
Vaccine has been released relatively slowly in the first three months this year. But a sharp upswing is expected in the second quarter—especially June—when Lilly expects tests on a huge backlog to be compared and Parke Davis' production should pick up. In December, the government reported 45 per cent of the vaccine was not being used as quickly as it was released. But demand is zooming again now with the approach of the polio season.

The Health Service said about 80 per cent of the vaccine now is being used almost immediately. There are shortages in most areas. Pediatricians in northern Ohio, for example, recently telegraphed Washington urgently requesting additional shots. Idaho and Massachusetts, holdouts against the vaccine for months, now are getting their programs going again. Some states are buying up all the vaccine allocated to them and making it available free of charge. Some are letting most of their allotments go into regular commercial channels. All in all, about 60 per cent of all the vaccine is purchased by public funds and made available free.

Aid From Federal Government
The federal government is making more than $30 million available to the states to buy free vaccine. Some states and local communities also are putting up some of their own money.

So there are infinite variations in the availability of vaccine in any given area at any given time. Where there are large-scale inoculation programs, the vaccine is used up quickly. The reason: The children are, in a sense, a captive audience. Where most of the vaccine goes into regular commercial channels, the shots move more slowly.

The national foundation for infantile paralysis has completed its free school vaccination program in all but a few isolated areas. This was only for children in lower grades of school.

Government investigators have checked nearly 10,000 druggists, physicians, hospitals, health departments and private citizens for possible chiseling or waste.

They report they have found a few cases, but by and large there seem to be no problems of black marketing, price gouging, or illegal distribution.

BUDDY'S SUPER MARKET

THEY'VE SEEN A LOT OF HISTORY—From George Washington's presidency to the Atomic Age—that's the amazing period claimed to have been spanned by the lives of a single father-son combination. Oscar Cornelius Jones of Pittsburg, Kan., above, is 82 years old. He was born, he says, when his father, whose picture he is holding, was a surprisingly robust 78-year-old plantation owner in Tennessee. That's 160 years of U.S. history accounted for right there. The senior Jones, Sam Clemens, was born Sept. 15, 1795, when Washington was president. He died Jan. 7, 1887, at the age of 91. Oscar Jones is now a retired carpenter. According to the War Department, he is the only surviving son of a soldier who fought in the War of 1812.

Lumber Firm Has New Trademark

The story of Pampa Lumber Company's advertising trademark, BILL DING, was told to student representatives of sixty leading universities on April 2, in New York City, as part of national Inside Advertising Week there. It was announced today. Inside Advertising Week is a five-day program wherein nationally known business organizations are invited to show honor advertising students from across the nation how advertising helps the economy of the country by increasing sales of goods and services. Local Trademarks, Inc., the Pampa Lumber Company's advertising agency, has been selected to tell the story of local advertising. Executives of that firm will show the visiting students how BILL DING newspaper advertisements increase sales of lumber and building supply products, and will show how typical BILL DING ads can be used to spur home and community improvement projects. Other organizations participating in Inside Advertising Week are Esso Standard Oil Company, Time, The Weekly Newsmagazine, Look Magazine, The National Broadcasting Company, The Crusade for Freedom, The Direct Mail Advertising Association, and The American Association of Newspaper Representatives. Inside Advertising Week is conducted under the auspices of The Association of Advertising Men and Women of New York City.

Alcoholics Want Pleasure, Escape

BOSTON — UP — Most victims of alcoholism are enmeshed in a hopeless search for pleasure, happiness and escape from loneliness, according to a New York physician.

"The episode of acute intoxication in many victims of alcoholism is a search for blended pleasures of body and mind," Dr. Giorgio Lolli said at the first annual meeting of the Professional Association on Alcoholism here Wednesday night. Lolli is director of the Salk Memorial Service at the Knickerbocker hospital in New York and a staff member of the Yale University center on alcohol studies.

Police Chief Gives Warning On Parking

"All persons are urged to refrain from angle parking on the corners near churches," Chief of Police Jim Conner stated this morning. According to Conner, several cars have been parked in the parking zone at the corners near churches and blocking the crosswalks and also blocking the view of drivers at the intersections. Conner also stated that it was against the law to park within 10 feet of a fire hydrant and that recently cars have parked so close to the hydrants that it would have been impossible for the fire department to have attached lines to them if there had been a fire.

In speaking about the parking at the baseball games at Oiler Park, Conner requested that all persons refrain from parking in the roadway on the east side of the ballpark. This is a private road belonging to Halliburton Oil Well Cementing Company. Halliburton does not mind the people parking on either side of the road but they do request that the roadway be left clear so they may get their trucks through. Conner also requested that cars not be parked in driveways or in front of the businesses near the ballpark. He also stated that double parking of automobiles on Brown street would not be allowed. Anyone parking in violation will be given tickets, Conner stated.

Rotarians Have Quiz On History

The Pampa Rotary club yesterday featured a program by the Borger club which was a parody on the Groucho Marx show with questions in the form of a quiz on Rotary's history. Participants answering questions were Pampa club members. John Dial, junior Rotarian for the month of March, introduced his successor, Duggan Smith, who will serve in the same capacity for April. Yorel Harris, Boy Scout executive succeeding Paul Beisenherz, was inducted into the club after being introduced by Fred Neslage. Guests for the day were: Ed Kinney, H. L. Powell, Ralph O'Neil, Irv Glasgow and George Sims.

STORM

(Continued From Page One) said the air was so clear Wednesday night they could see 20 miles in any direction. This was twice the normal distance and a sharp contrast to the night before, when the air was so clogged with dust pilots had to operate by instruments. The twisters' final toll in terms of lives and millions of dollars probably will not be known for weeks. Long after a tornado had passed, the fatality count went up in Tennessee with the death of an infant hospitalized victim.

State Death Count State by state, the death count was Michigan 17, Wisconsin 8, Tennessee 5, Oklahoma 5, Texas 3, Kansas 2, Mississippi 1, Minnesota 1, and Kentucky 1.

Twisters and storms also spread havoc through parts of Indiana, Iowa, Illinois, Nebraska and Arkansas. The worst-hit states called upon their full resources to clean up the wreckage. Michigan's Gov. G. Mennen Williams summoned representatives of three federal agencies to a special meeting to discuss relief programs in the stricken Grand Rapids area. He also asked President Eisenhower to make the region a federal disaster area. Damage was estimated at $11 million around Grand Rapids, with 69 buildings destroyed and 186 others damaged or destroyed. National Guardsmen and other authorities sealed off the entire disaster area.

DEADLY "INNOCENCE" — Communist Hungary has just admitted that former Foreign Minister Laszlo Rajk was "innocently tried and executed" for treason in 1949, in one of the last of the Stalin era purges. Rajk was chief of Hungary's dread secret police until his appointment as foreign minister in 1948. His "rehabilitation" (Communist for restoration of one's good name) is the latest flip-flop on the international Red tightrope.

HISTORY

(Continued From Page One) nades a year and a toll of 225 persons killed and $20 million worth of property destroyed. Three-Way Research The Army Signal Corps has a three-way research program going: 1. Basic studies of tornado mechanics. In a tank at Fort Monmouth, N.J., scientists create miniature twisters to see precisely how they are formed. 2. Investigation of tornado lightning patterns. Oklahoma A&M for years has been studying the frequency of lightning flashes to see if they provide clues to developing twisters. The Army also is looking for lightning "fingerprints" that might tip off incipient twisters. 3. Use of aluminum "confetti" to help radar tracking of windstorms. Later this spring and in early summer the Signal Corps will sow aluminum confetti in the air on a 30-mile front near Oklahoma City to get data on atmospheric currents and turbulence. The sprinkled bits of metal foil, borne by the wind, show up on the radar screen.

"CYCLONE IN A BOX"—About to depart from the Chrysler Building in New York, George J. Huebner, Jr., Chrysler research engineer, points to route he'll follow in a cross-country test of a standard 1956 Plymouth powered by a "cyclone in a box." The "cyclone" is a revolutionary gas turbine engine that may bring a new era in auto travel. Some 200 pounds lighter than a conventional piston engine, it has two thirds fewer parts. It uses cheap fuels—like kerosene—and eliminates radiators, cooling systems, carburetors, and distributors.

Howie Morris Says TV Ended Bootstrap Days

NEW YORK —UP— The wonderful world of TV has put an end to the days when a man of humble origin could raise himself only by his bootstraps. Now, according to Howie Morris of the Sid Caesar show, it can be done with the lapels. What's more, you can let someone else do the lifting. Morris has worked with the muscular Caesar for eight years. He landed his job originally because Caesar could pick him up. "I met Sid for the first time back in 1948," recalled Morris Monday. "That was when TV was nothing. Sid was doing his old Admiral show then and I heard he needed a little guy for one show that he could pick up by the lapels. I was out of a job at the time so it was all right by me. "I remember we met in a girls' locker room because there wasn't any other place to go in the rehearsal hall. There was a big dance number going on in one

Area Towns In JayCee Road-e-o Here

Teen-agers from five area towns will participate in the JayCees Teen-Age Road-e-o next Sunday noon. Final plans and arrangements were announced yesterday.

Dick Stowers, co-chairman of the judging committee, announced the judges for the four obstacle-type driving exercises. Sheriff Rufe Jordan will judge the serpentine course; Richard Brock, of the drivers license bureau, will officiate at the parallel parking contest; Jim Conner, chief of police, will judge the stops; and Royce Logan, highway patrolman, will judge straight line driving.

A total of 98 students took the preliminary written tests and 48 qualified as entries. Twenty-five Canadian students and 24 Pampa teen-agers will participate in the event, along with 21 students from Miami. All eligible participants made a grade of 84 or over on the tests. Other entries will be from McLean, Alabreed, and White Deer.

Frey Myers and Horton Russell, co-chairmen of the equipment committee, have arranged for the obstacle course to be set up between Starkweather and Hallard Sts. on E. Atchison. Street blocks will be furnished by the city and automobiles will be loaned by Pursley Motor Co.

The Road-e-o is sponsored nationally by the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Liberty Mutual Insurance Co., the American Trucking Association, Inc., and Chrysler Corporation.

CoC To Set Up Class Here

The legislative and national affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce will set up a class on the American economic system, with emphasis on the fundamentals of free enterprise, as decided in a meeting of the group Friday afternoon.

Arthur Teed, chairman, presided over the meeting held to discuss the possibility of organizing an economics group in Pampa. He said that a date and place for the 17 weekly classes has not been determined at this time.

Materials are being supplied by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce for the course. Other classes, on similar subjects, will be set up at a later time as interest warrants.

The class will be limited to 20 business and professional men.

Good Dough Vital To Filled Cookies

To have really good filled cookies, you first must have a good cookie dough, for a filling should complement the cookie's good flavor — not disguise the lack of it. Rich and sweet enough to be good by itself is this cookie dough newly flavored and textured with whole wheat flakes, which is perfectly complemented by a date filling. The dough requires just a brief chilling before being cut into cookie shapes and filled.

- 1 1/2 cups cut dates
 - 1/2 cup sugar
 - 1/4 cup orange juice
 - 1 tablespoon grated orange rind
 - 1 cup butter or margarine
 - 1 cup brown sugar
 - 3 1/2 cups sifted flour
 - 2 teaspoons baking powder
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 cup water
 - 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
 - 2 cups Pep (whole wheat flakes)
- Combine dates, sugar, orange juice and orange rind; cook to a soft paste. Blend butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt; add alternately to butter mixture with water and vanilla; mix well. Stir in Pep. Chill. Roll chilled dough out on lightly floured board to about 1/8 inch in thickness. Cut half the dough with 2 1/2-inch cookie cutter and half with 2 1/2-inch doughnut cutter. Put teaspoonsful of date filling on plain rounds, top with doughnut rounds, pressing outside edges carefully together with tines or fork. Place on greased baking sheets. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) about 12 minutes. Yields about 3 dozen cookies.

Often a picture will look better if hung off-center and balanced with some other accessory.

Vanilla ice cream balls rolled in toasted coconut and topped with butter-scootch make a tantalizing dessert. Rolling such small articles as dollies, dresser scarves and table mats on cardboard tin prevents creases and utilizes deep, narrow shelf space.

Picture-Pretty Molded Spring Salads

Piquant Apple Surprise in individual molds is a salad to dress up any early Spring table. It's so inviting in appearance, so refreshing and tangy to the taste.

Apple Surprise starts with jellied apple juice given a rich creamy tone with mayonnaise and cheddar cheese. Each little mold is thick with crunchy-celery, cucumbers, onion and scarlet pimiento pieces. All these, together with the apple flavor of the apple juice, result in a bright, sharp, piquant taste.

When not doing duty as a salad, Apple Surprise can be a zesty relish with meat. For this you might jell it in one large mold to be cut down in slices.

And it's fun to make. The apple juice, of course, is available in any grocery store in a range of sizes from tiny 6-oz. cans up to gallon jars.

And the other ingredients are just as familiar and just as easy to come by. This is what you do:

- PIQUANT APPLE SURPRISE SALAD
- 1 envelope unflavored gelatine
 - 2 cups apple juice
 - 1/2 cup mayonnaise
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 cup diced cucumber
 - 1/2 cup diced celery
 - 1 cup grated American cheddar cheese
 - 1/2 cup shredded cabbage
 - 2 tablespoons diced canned pimiento
- Soften gelatine in 1/4 cup apple juice for 5 minutes. Heat 1 1/4 cups apple juice; add gelatine; stir until dissolved. Beat in mayonnaise. Cool slightly; add salt, cucumber, celery, cheese, onion, cabbage and pimiento. Pour into individual molds or 1 quart mold which has been rinsed in cold water. Chill until firm. Unmold on water-cream. If desired, garnish molds with diamond-shaped pieces of pimiento. Yields 4 servings.

Fish Sticks Hawaiian Have Glamour Touch

Spring is the time of year when fish recipes are especially popular and welcome. Here's a quick way to glamorize the popular frozen fish sticks with Dole Pineapple Spears. It's an easy supper trick, and you'll like the flavor combination.

- FISH STICKS, HAWAIIAN
- 1 package frozen fish sticks
 - Dole Pineapple Spears

Separate frozen fish sticks and arrange in pairs on a baking sheet with a pineapple spear between each two. Bake at 425 degrees for 15 or 20 minutes, or until browned and heated through. Serve garnished with parsley and lemon slices, if desired. Makes 5 servings.

Family That Eats Bountiful Breakfast Avoids "Mid-Morning Slump," Fatigue

Around 10:30 each morning might this be the description of your family? Teen-age son at school feels tired and finds it difficult to concentrate on his algebra. Dad in his office hat that "let-down" feeling. Your working daughter is irritable. You have those mid-morning blues.

If this is your family, then take a long, objective look at the breakfast pattern in your home. Is yours a "hobbled" or a "none at all" breakfast? If so, then no wonder that mid-morning slump is encountered by every member of your family. But this is a situation easily corrected. With a bountiful breakfast, not only dispositions will be better during critical afternoon hours, but your family will have increased mental alertness, less muscular fatigue, adding-up to greater maximum work output.

According to food expert Reba Staggs, today we're not advising the return to the heavy pie and potatoes breakfast of great grandpa's day. Rather, today's basic breakfast, supplying approximately one-third of the day's food needs, can be prepared with little time and effort. Here is the basic breakfast list — fruit or fruit juice, meat or eggs, bread or cereal and milk.

High quality protein as found in meat is important for growth and muscle repair. It is difficult without an adequate breakfast to meet the daily protein, as well as mineral and vitamin, requirements. A breakfast built around meat helps to prevent fatigue and that let-down feeling in the middle of the day.

With Mom and Dad ready and dressed at the breakfast table it's easier for the bountiful breakfast habit to be established. Make breakfast fun. Cheerful pottery, cut-garden flowers or simply a shiny green plant in the center of the table add a spark. But most important of all, keep your menu varied. Here are some menu patterns designed to interest the family.

- PORK STEAKS WITH APPLE STUFFING
- 4 pork shoulder steaks
 - 2 slices bacon
 - 1/2 cup chopped celery
 - 1/2 cup chopped onion
 - 3 tart apples, chopped
 - 1/3 cup sugar
 - 2 cups packaged bread stuffing
 - 1/4 cup chopped parsley
 - 1/4 cup milk
- Brown steaks on both sides in a little hot fat and season with salt and pepper. Meanwhile, dice bacon and pan-fry until crisp. Remove bacon and drain on absorbent paper. Cook celery and onion in remaining fat 3 minutes. Add apples to celery-mixture and sprinkle with sugar. Cover and cook slowly until tender. Add crumbled bacon, stuffing, parsley, and milk, and mix well. Place steaks on top of dressing, cover dish, and bake in a 350 degree F. oven 1 hour or until steaks are tender, 4 servings.

Sharp knives not only make food preparation easier, but they are also less dangerous.

A chocolate doughnut sundae is nice for the kids. To make it, split a doughnut in half horizontally. Place 1-3 cup peppermint stick ice cream between the halves and top each doughnut with chocolate sauce.

 - Cut frankfurters in 1/2 inch pieces and mix with beans, juice, and onion. Place in rectangular baking dish. New Global Gimmick

We are indebted to Alice Widener and her splendid weekly "U. S. A." for a new revelation concerning the global gimmick on the East River we refer to as the U. N. In her bulletin of February 24, Miss Widener reveals that the United Nations through its ubiquitous agency UNESCO has embarked upon the risky sea of providing an international currency. The currency takes the form of coupons which are exchanged for books, magazines, travel, and, of all things, "scientific materials."

These coupons are handed in an extremely free and easy manner. They can be sent by mail or handed any other way which avoids the normal hazards of international exchange. And we might be tempted to chortle delightedly at this act were it not for the depressing information that all of these UNESCO coupons are backed with American dollars.

According to "U.S.A." the plan was initiated in 1948 with a $2.50 book transaction. The New York Herald Tribune was able to report in January of 1951 that in two years time the book coupon scheme had grown into a $1,000,000 business. By January 1, 1955, it had become a $6,500,000 affair and it is just beginning its growth.

When this new type of folding money was brought to the attention of an official in the United States Immigration Bureau, he said: "This brings up very serious problems. It enables nationals to evade their own laws concerning currency. It enables travelers to evade many phases of scrutiny. UNESCO's attitude toward loyalty of the United States is well known. This presents a very complicated problem, especially with government representatives from countries which might not otherwise be able to get dollars."

Now UNESCO is a totally un-American operation. Its executive office is in Paris. In that office the executive board has on occasion approved a transfer of funds up to $25,000 for a single item. The possibilities of the use of American funds for these questionable, under-the-table operations has great "potentialities" according to a U. N. representative of the New York headquarters.

Henry Cabot Lodge has insisted repeatedly that it costs 10 cents a year for each of the persons in the United States to pay their share of U. N. costs. But here is a multi-million dollar cartel backed by American taxpayers' money exclusively which we'll wager has never even been figured.

There is no mystery about the U. N. Its aim and purpose is to establish a world order to the permanent impairment of the freedom and liberty of the American people. There is certainly no mystery about UNESCO and its new coupon service. It is the propaganda arm for the World Order movement and will utilize American money for this purpose.

The only mystery is in the attitude of the American people. How long are they going to tolerate this hundred-headed hydra in their midst?

THE NATION'S PRESS

IN THE CRUTE?

(London Times)

Parliament, we are told from all sides, was at its best on Thursday. The House of Commons showed the gravity and sincerity it can bring to the discussion of a serious issue, and this was a matter of individual life and death. But the life and death of a nation is also a serious issue.

"Those whom the gods wish to destroy they first make mad. Since the end of the war a kind of madness has infected British politics where financial and economic matters have been concerned. It is easy to blame Labour's conduct of the duties of Opposition now, but the Conservative Party was no better when it was on the other side of the House. With the nation facing desperate straits it showed little loftiness of aim or higher purpose. The Government was embarrassed, the Government should be more embarrassed; it should be worn out or worried out."

"The real lack is courage. Diagnosis is not so difficult. Time and again Ministers have been expected at least to take measures to cut to the root of the cancer that is slowly but inexorably eating away what national wealth we have left. Time and again the story has been the same — half measures; too little too late. Every Government, it is true, being collective, has to proceed partly by compromise. There are the realists and there are the politicians. But there are occasions when the politicians should not have the last word. They have had it too often in Cabinets over the past ten years. A result half measures have failed time and again — or have delayed by their ephemeral success. We have now reached the pass where not even three-quarter measures will do any lasting good. Mr. Macmillan has made a boldier cast than any yet. It may do the trick. There would have been less doubt if it had been bolder still."

(The foregoing refers to the recent increase in the Bank of England's discount rate from 4 1/2 to 5 1/2 percent.)

"It is easy for the rest of the nation to deplore a lack of political courage. The truth is that it is only part of a whole. There is a lack of national courage as well. There is a lack of courage in the boards and committees which have been set up to avoid trouble, and who are always turning upwards with six, even, eight, or even ten per cent wage increases in the dishonest and futile hope that "it's really will be the last time." There is a lack of courage in the trade union leaders who tolerate such a festering folly as the Cammell Laird strike; or who know perfectly well we are heading for the abyss and are yet willing to seize any crumb of excuse in the form of even the mildest disciplinary measures to allow their followers yet more vigorously to push them from behind. There is a lack of courage in the management which bid up and up to the point of bribery for scarce labour till some total earnings have reached fantastic levels. There is a lack of courage in the individual who sees triviality rise, a whole false set of values at both ends of the community, and who yet refuses to discountenance, denounce, or do anything about it. We are fast approaching a state of society in which only the Communist will be unafraid. Safe in the knowledge of our civil liberties, safer still in the apathy of those he calls his fellows, he can go on lying and disaffection sapping and undermining, taking advantage of every weakness and cashing in on every triumph. Again, we would not have his rights otherwise. That is the way to lose our free society. The only way to preserve it is for us to be ready to be as selfless, as tireless, as single-minded, and his fearless in the struggle.

"To state the issues in these terms is not to exaggerate. Our democracy is safe only so long as we are active to preserve it. It is not safe, just because its forms are still there, if we drift along, another day enough to bring about a reversal in the decline of our fortunes, nor caring enough to bring about a reversal in the decline of our moral values. The two things, moreover, are bound up together. Inflation is demoralization. Look at what has happened to effective democracy in other countries — France, Germany, Italy — in the past half-century. We are as yet nowhere near the heights they have known. But we have gone a long way. A pound worth 20s. in 1928 was worth 11s. 10d. in 1946; was worth 8s. 6d. in 1952; and is worth well under 2s. to-day. Something of the same kind has happened to many of our social and other standards."

"All our past may proclaim our future, but it is as well to leave out some aspects of the last ten years. ..."

A mild man walked into an income-tax inspector's office, sat down and handed an envelope to the inspector. "What does it do for you?" "Little Man — Nothing, thank you. I just wanted to meet the people I'm looking for."

The Rights Of Property— A Refutation Of Communism And Socialism XXII.

Adolphe Thiers has a very interesting chapter in his book, "A Refutation of Communism and Socialism" on how management is to be selected under that form of Socialism known as an association operating where the capital is secured by way of taxation. He points out that there is often chaos in government but when there is chaos in manufacturing or mercantile operation, success is impossible. He puts it this way: "Can you imagine the head of the works elected by the workmen, by turns deposed by the idle or placed by them over the management of the works? Can you imagine this president of an industrial republic, supported by such influences, equitably assigning the tasks to each man, regulating wages according to their assiduity or skill, inspiring capitalists with confidence, obtaining credit, and, above all, effecting economies? Can you imagine this chimerical being replacing the unity, the perseverance, the intelligence of personal interest in the management of an industrial enterprise? In a State we can imagine all persons mingling in public affairs, for they are the affairs of all. But in a manufactory can you imagine some hundreds of workmen deliberating on the contracts to be made, on the bills, to be drawn, accepted, or refused, or the credits to be opened, or the extension to be given to production, or on the probable chances of national or European commerce?"

"No doubt we sometimes see shareholders deliberating, but it is only once a year, on the general progress of their affairs, grounding their pleasure or displeasure on the greater or less amount of the dividends, casting a rapid glance at the management in general, and then abdicating their authority in favour of some director, whom they judge by the result, that is, by the proceeds obtained, and not meeting until the following year. Such a system of administration is only practicable in great operations, where the interference of the shareholders is very discreet and rare, and is terminated by their abdication in favour of the manager or director they may have appointed. But can you picture to yourself a director of the works, elected by the workmen to whom he will have to give orders? Qualities Of Management "When we observe the greater part of our industrial establishments, we are struck with one thing, — those which have succeeded, and they are very few in number, are indebted for their success to the superiority of the director, not only to his intellectual superiority, but that intellect often makes daring speculators, only men doomed to ruin themselves and others; but to a happy combination of intelligence, enough character to a rare union of talent, prudence, and application. If this manager does not to his inventive faculties add moderation and consistency in his ideas, he fails, even with all his eminent qualities, and is obliged to lend his inventive genius to another, endowed with less daring but with more wisdom and love of labour. When these managers possess every desirable quality, it is still necessary that they should have had long experience, be acquainted with foreign markets, have an extensive connection, respect, esteem, and credit; in a word, they must combine the advantages they have received from nature with those which are only to be acquired by time."

Lack Of Humility The he relates how even management that seems to be successful for some time, later on fails. But these failures are quite often "because they are wanting in a very humble quality, that of moderation in their desires; or because the vanity of taking part in public affairs having seized upon their own private affairs, or, lastly, because it had pleased the nation to which they belonged to overthrow a government. "I have seen them lose their fortunes and fall into the depths of misery."

Then Thiers goes on to contend that he will not believe that managers selected by employees rather than by those who furnish the capital, will succeed. He puts it this way: "Further, how will these associated workmen organize their administration? Would they deliberate in person on the affairs of the society, on the wages, regulations, production, purchases, sales, and contracts to be taken? It would be very hard to deprive them of such a prerogative, and it would not be worth their while to place all their savings in an undertaking, to raise loans at their own risk and peril, to receive from the State a present of some few millions of francs in advance, and then to abandon to one of their number the solution of all those questions which interest them to so high a degree. And of the other hand, it would be very dangerous, very foolish, to leave to them the task of solving these questions?"

He sums it up by pointing out the personal interest of management and of those furnishing the capital is better fitted for private industry than the principle of general interest, which is applicable to the administration of States. (To be continued)

G. O. P. Leaders Warn Of Demo Victories

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Almost every Republican National Committee and State Chairman between the Appalachian Mountains and the Great Divide — the bread basket of the nation — have warned the White House and GOP Headquarters here that all those states could easily vote Democratic next November over the farm problem. Even if President Eisenhower should squeak through by narrow margins because of his personal popularity, the resentment against falling prices and steadily dwindling incomes guarantees enough upsets to give the Democrats even safer majorities in House and Senate.

The Republicans may lose at least three Senate and 20 House seats, according to National Committee to National Chairman "Lain" Hall and "Sherm" Adams, White House Chief of Staff. The most alarming note in these communications is that the farmers are now beginning to blame like, not Secretary Ezra Tamm, for their difficulties. Several recent incidents not connected with their personal problems convince them that the Secretary of Agriculture is simply carrying out White House orders in opposing 90 per cent price supports.

Principal reason for blaming Ike was the behavior of Marion B. Folsom, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, in testifying on proposed enlargement of the Social Security System. When he served as a private citizen on an advisory committee several years ago, he advocated lowering to 62 the age for Federal payments to women. But when he appeared as an Administration witness, he blandly and flatly opposed any change.

Military experts' contradictory statements on national defense have helped to deprive Ike of the immunity from criticism he has enjoyed hitherto. As good soldiers, they defend the Administration's curtailed program in official appearances on Capitol Hill. But in speeches and newspaper interviews, they express fear that "Russia is forging ahead of us in quantity and quality of new weapons on land, on sea and in the air."

This combination of circumstances — the spreading farm revolt and the new tendency to hold President Eisenhower directly responsible for their plight — represents the most disturbing development since the Republicans recaptured the White House. It shakes the complacent attitude that Ike could walk to victory with a television-front porch campaign on the seemingly safe issue of "peace and prosperity."

These warnings from the Party's ordained agents in the field poured in on Hall and Adams before the primary proof of the existence of agricultural discontent manifested itself in the Kefauver-Stevenson contest in Minnesota, and before North Dakota's Nonpartisan League shifted allegiance to the Democrats. But they failed to worry Hall, Adams or Benson. Now, the letters are of an "I told you so" nature, and nobody around the White House dares to discount them. To aggravate matters, it is not only the farmers who are sore at Ike. Their depressed state, and their loss of purchasing power afflict

FOR REFLECTION

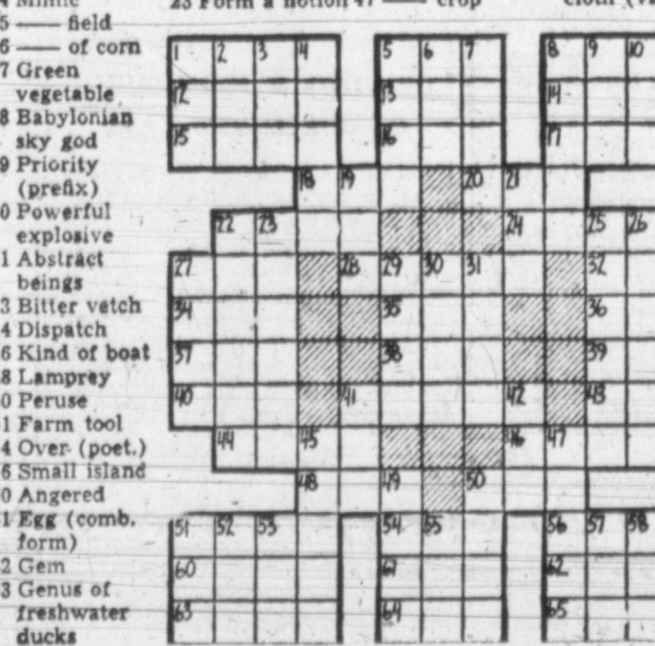

...with JAMES C. INGERSOLL, President, Spiritual Mobilization "One expression that always makes me shudder is the one that says, in effect, 'Let's not stir up the ants.'"

"I say, 'Stir up the ants.' That way you may also stir up problems but you will find the buried keys that unlock the solutions to those problems." Robert E. Anderson, vice-president of the advertising firm of Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn, Inc., reportedly made the above statements in a recent address before 508 sales executives in Los Angeles. As a libertarian, I should like to voice a hearty "Amen." Today's so-called liberals often accuse us libertarians of being what they call reactionaries — old sticks-in-the-mud, so to speak. But I deny the accusation. Most libertarians with whom I am acquainted stand on the biblical injunction, "Prove all things; hold fast to that which is good."

The "liberals," it seems to me, reject both parts of that admonition. Not only do they not favor holding onto that which is good from the past — they do not want to prove all things either. They are so sure that collectivism is the road to Utopia that they even try to keep the road called libertarianism from appearing on the road map. It is they — not we libertarians — who don't want to "stir up the ants."

A preacher was stopped by a woman just as he was going into the church. Her conscience was bothering her. She told the preacher she had looked at "him" in the mirror that morning, felt pleased at what she saw, and feared she was becoming vain. Preacher — Calm yourself, it's not a sin to make a mistake.

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR F. JORDAN, M. D.

"Does glaucoma always lead to blindness?" asks M. B. "Is there any cure for it?"

These questions again bring up the extreme importance of the early diagnosis of this eye disease. Mrs. B's first question can be answered by saying that glaucoma does not always lead to blindness but that it may if not recognized early and given proper treatment. The second question is less easy to answer but perhaps the following discussion will throw some light on it.

First of all, it should be said that glaucoma is one of the most serious diseases of the eyes, and is believed to be responsible for the blindness of at least 20,000 people in the United States alone, and the loss of vision in one eye, or perhaps 150,000 more.

SOME DOCTORS like to divide glaucoma (except those types coming from injury or disease elsewhere in the body) into four varieties: the acute inflammatory, the chronic inflammatory, the "absolute," and the chronic simple type. The acute inflammatory type of glaucoma is largely restricted to people between the ages of 35 and 70, and is somewhat more common among women than men.

Eye specialists also recognize secondary glaucomas which are not caused directly by blockage of the fluid drainage, but come from some other disease process either in another part of the eye

Mac Wonders: What Is Adult TV Western

By HENRY McLEMORE

One of the numerous drawbacks in having a tiny mind is that a tiny mind, being very light on its feet, is extremely active and constant jumping from one inconsequential problem to another. Right now my mind, one of the smallest, bounciest in the continental United States, is absorbed with this queuing: Just what is an adult TV Western?

Quite a few TV programs are advertised in this fashion, and I have been studying them to see just where they differ from juvenile Westerns, and if, their difference is worth the bother. I have discovered quite a few differences—with the major one being that the heroines in the adult type are bigger pests than those in the plain, garden variety Westerns. This may be hard to believe, but it's true.

The adult-type heroines are dead set against any shooting, and work every feminine wile they know to keep the six-shooters in their holsters. The hero no more than gets that glint in his eye which indicates he is getting ready to do a little fanning, than the heroine blocks his way and starts giving a lecture on the evils of violence, and how she will be left all alone in Dodge City if he happens to get plugged.

Even when it is obvious that the hero either has to shoot or get shot himself, the heroine won't let up. With tears in her eyes she begs him to become a clay pigeon. Fortunately, she doesn't always succeed, and the hero often blazes away. But her pleas do affect his aim. Instead of nailing the hired killer with the fatal shot he so well deserves, the hero gets him in the shoulder or arm, leaving him on the ground but planning to resume his trigger work as soon as he is patched up.

In ordinary Westerns the heroine usually is a crack shot herself, and often rides out with her man to assist in bagging the outlaw. This makes for more shooting, and what is a Western without shooting? Nothing more than a dog and pony show out-of-doors.

Another major difference between the adult Western and the plain Western is that the former does not, as a general rule, feature a freckle-faced, hard-riding, strategic genius of a boy of eight, nine or ten. The hero gets in and out of his troubles without the assistance of a youngster who should be in school, and not riding a mile a minute with the hard-bitten forces of justice. I rate this as an improvement. After all, there is no historical proof that the West owes its law and order to bare-footed boys still lacking their permanent teeth.

Still another difference is the manner in which the hero and the bad man behave when, near the close of the program, they finally face one another in a deserted street. In the ordinary Western they approach one another silently, walking slowly and stiff-leggedly. They walk the same way in the adult versions, but they talk as they approach one another. Talk is not a strong enough word — they positively chatter. The hero sounds off as though he were on a soap box in a park, and the bad man answers back as if he were speaking from a hired hall. Often they are so long-winded that the viewer finds himself hoping that both parties are equally adept on the draw, and that silence will soon reign at both ends of the street.

There is much more kissing between the hero and heroine in the adult Westerns. Not very good kissing, but it's better than none at all.

Indian Missionaries Present Program For Presbyterian Women's Association

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis McElhoney, missionaries to the Indians, presented a program on Indian art and life to the Presbyterian Women's Association Wednesday afternoon in the church. Mrs. McElhoney is a member of the Kiowa tribe and her husband is part Cherokee. "We are no longer Indian-Americans," Mrs. McElhoney stated concerning Indian and non-Indian relations. "We are no longer a divided group. We are all Christians." Mrs. McElhoney, who spoke on the background of the Kiowa tribe, explained her dress, made of deer-skin and decorated with elk's teeth, belongs to her sister. In payment for having such a dress made by another member of the tribe, the family gives the dressmaker a dinner or some gift, she pointed out. "This is a different day," she said. "Dresses like this are rare. The Kiowa tribe belongs to the Plains group, she went on. She showed a miniature cradle like those used by the women of the tribe for their babies. It was so constructed that it protected the baby in any way the cradle was dropped or thrown. The women set the cradle in the teepee or outside as they worked, carried it on the saddle or on their backs when on horseback, or on their backs while walking. She explained members of her tribe lived in teepees, with the doors always facing the East, or rising sun. She said one reason might be that they didn't have alarm clocks as we are awakened in that way by the rising sun. She pointed out that Indian meals were prepared and served in such a way that the women never moved from the time of preparation until the dishes had been cleaned. "Today, our people are much like anyone else," Mrs. McElhoney stated. "They wear the same kind of shoes, in some cases go to the same schools and are taught the same lessons as your children."

She told of missionaries first coming to her tribe, explaining the Indians "could see the difference in them" from others. She spoke of an older warrior who was converted and composed the first Indian hymn, which she sang. "I do know all denominations are doing wonderful work for my people," she stated. "We are grateful for missions. I stand before you as a product of these missions. I think it is a privilege to live for the Lord." Her husband, Lewis McElhoney, spoke on the work of the churches in their area. He explained some of the tribes in that area came down from the north and have been closely associated with each other ever since; although they "don't do anything alike." "Don't let anyone tell you Indians are lazy," he cautioned. "There is not a lazy bone in their bodies." He explained the Indians love their traditional home sites and their families. He told of their work with young people, which he said is the "most promising" part of their work. He spoke on termination legislation, saying he doesn't feel "the time is right" at the present. He pointed out the Indians don't have the guidance and incentive instilled in them at home for education and religion, as the older Indians fear it will destroy their old culture. "The Indians are discriminated against in our field," he explained. "Our missions are justified. Somehow in the transition from one culture to another, the Indians were left with nothing. The non-Indian citizenry has to be re-educated. Their attitude is to let the government care for the Indian." "Before we can have total termination legislation and complete integration, we must be able to accept an Indian on the basis of merit, not on color lines," he continued. "When people are willing to accept them, when the Indians are qualified to get and hold a job, when they are able to join a church on equal footing, then we missionaries and the government can step out."

Presbyterian Women Presented Talk On Indian Art By Mrs. Fred Sloan

Mrs. Fred Sloan presented a program on Indian art during a meeting of the Presbyterian Women's Association Wednesday morning in the educational building. Mrs. Sloan introduced her sister, Mrs. Hubert Lively of Oklahoma City, Okla., who, she explained, was wearing an Apache dress made by an Indian in Anadarko, Okla. She pointed out the Indians copied the dress of the early settlers and adapted it to their own use. Mrs. Sloan added that she was wearing a genuine Navajo patchwork skirt which was fashioned from more than 300 pieces of material and her jewelry was of the Plains Indians type. "For years I have had association with persons that are specialists on Indians," she explained. "Indians art of the United States is extremely inexhaustive subject. I have one whole book on the geology of the Rain Bird. For centuries the white man art of a people includes everything from pots and pans and buckles to bridges. "If they incorporate the laws of design, they are modern art," she advised. "With our machines we are creating an art as the world has ever known." Mrs. Sloan pointed out the graphic development of the Indian happy over some small art find as it shows the people of that age were capable of aesthetic feeling and had the ability to weave their feelings into something for everyday use. It shows they were capable of creativity and sensitivity, indicating they were not "savages." Living traditional Indian art is what the Indians are doing now, she told the women. She said many are working in cities designing pottery and jewelry, although most of the crafts are being done in the Southwest where the Indian arts have been "less molested by the white man's culture" and where the Indians have "lived in the same rhythm for centuries." She said peculiarities of Indian art include being truly original and absolutely unique. She explained every tribe has its own traditional forms evolving from its type of life and customs. And the expression of Indian art is shaped by the tribe's environment, illustrated by the eight categories of the tribes, such as hunters, seed-gatherers, plainsmen and fishermen. At the close of her talk, Mrs. Lively showed slides of Indian arts, which Mrs. Sloan explained. Mrs. Sloan was introduced by Mrs. R. H. Nestle, secretary of missionary education, who arranged for both morning and afternoon programs. A luncheon was served at noon for Association members, with decorations and food following an Indian theme.

Susie Fillman Feted With Birthday Party

Susie Fillman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Fillman, 233 N. Nelson, celebrated her tenth birthday recently with a theater party, followed by dinner in the Pampa Hotel dining room. The table was centered with a Johnlyn Mitchell and Loretta Henry birthday cake decorated with yellow roses and holding 10 candles. Plate favors were miniature Easter bunnies of blue and yellow. Guests were Jan Adams, Sara Nan Delshaw, Joan McCracken, Johnlyn Mitchell and Loretta Henry.

Mrs. Ervin Pursley, 1801 Christiane, was hostess to the recent meeting of the Pampa Art Club. Mrs. O. W. A Little Vacation In Every Day!

What's it like to take the wheel of a 1956 Cadillac? If you don't already know, then we hope you'll come with us now on a little imaginary journey in the "car of cars". Suppose, if you will, that you're in the driver's seat. How wonderful you feel. Those deep, luxurious cushions hold you in perfect comfort—your hands rest naturally on the slender wheel—and all about you are vision... and beauty... and luxury. It's an inspiration just to watch the miles go by. And how quiet and restful it is! The car is so smooth and silent that your only sense of motion comes from the sound of the wind and from the passing landscape. Driving? Well, what could be more relaxing! Starting... stopping... turning—all are regulated with the lightest touch of toe and hand. You simply lean back and enjoy the ride... and the car does all the rest. We've heard it said that a drive in a new Cadillac isn't really a drive at all, in the normal sense of the word. It's a time for rest and pleasure and relaxation. As one of our friends put it—"It's like having a little vacation every day!" Better come in for a visit some day soon. If you should decide to move up to a Cadillac, it will be our purpose to make you as pleased with your relationship with us, as your dealer, as you are certain to be with the car itself. The Cadillac name has long been a symbol of automotive integrity and honesty of purpose—and we make every effort to have our own business reflect the same ideals in our dealings with owners.

New Global Gimmick

We are indebted to Alice Widener and her splendid weekly "U. S. A." for a new revelation concerning that global gimmick on the East River we refer to as the U. N. In her bulletin of February 24, Miss Widener reveals that the United Nations through its ubiquitous agency UNESCO has embarked upon the risky sea of providing an international currency. The currency takes the form of coupons which are exchanged for books, magazines, travel, and, of all things, "scientific materials."

These coupons are handled in an extremely free and easy manner. They can be sent by mail or handled any other way which avoids the normal hazards of international exchange. And we might be tempted to chortle delightedly at this act were it not for the depressing information that all of these UNESCO coupons are backed with American dollars.

According to "U.S.A." the plan was initiated in 1948 with a $2.50 book transaction. The New York Herald Tribune was able to report in January of 1951 that in two years time the book coupon scheme had grown into a $1,000,000 business. By January 1, 1955, it had become a $6,500,000 affair and it is just beginning its growth.

When this new type of folding money was brought to the attention of an official in the United States Immigration Bureau, he said: "This brings up very serious problems. It enables nationals to evade their own laws concerning currency. It enables travelers to evade many phases of scrutiny. UNESCO's attitude toward loyalty of the United States is well known. This presents a very complicated problem, especially with government representatives from countries which might not otherwise be able to get dollars."

Now UNESCO is a totally un-American operation. Its executive office is in Paris. In that office the executive board has on occasion approved a transfer of funds up to $25,000 for a single item. The possibilities of the use of American funds for these questionable, under-the-table operations has great "potentialities" according to a U. N. representative at the New York headquarters.

Henry Cabot Lodge has insisted repeatedly that it costs 10 cents a year for each of the persons in the United States to pay their share of U. N. costs. But here is a multi-million dollar cartel backed by American taxpayers' money exclusively which will wogor has never been figured.

There is no mystery about the U. N. Its aim and purpose is to establish a world order to the permanent impairment of the freedom and liberty of the American people. There is certainly no mystery about UNESCO and its new coupon service. It is the prooganda arm for the World Order movement and will utilize American money for this purpose.

The only mystery is in the attitude of the American people. How long are they going to tolerate this hundred-headed hydro in their midst?

THE NATION'S PRESS

IN THE CRUZE:

(London Times)

Parliament, we are told from all sides, was at its best on Thursday. The House of Commons showed the gravity and sincerity it can bring to the discussion of a serious issue, and this was a matter of individual life and death. But the life and death of a nation is also a serious issue.

"Those whom the gods wish to destroy they first made mad. Since the end of the war a kind of madness has infected British politics where financial and economic matters have been concerned. It is easy to blame Labour's conduct of the duties of Opposition now, but the Conservative Party was no better when it was on the other side of the House. With the nation facing desperate straits it showed little loftiness of aim or higher purpose. The Government was embarrassed; the Government should be more embarrassed; it should be worn out or worried out."

"The real lack of courage. Diagnosis is not so difficult. Time and again Ministers have been expected at least to take measures to cut to the root of the cancer that is slowly but inexorably eating away what national wealth we have left. Time and again the story has been the same — half measures; too little too late. Every Government, it is true, being collective, has to proceed partly by compromise. There are the realists and there are the politicians. But there are occasions when the politicians should not have the last word. They have had it too often in Cabinets over the past ten years. As a result half measures have failed time and again — or have delayed by their ephemeral success. We have now reached the pass where not even three-quarter measures will do any lasting good. Mr. Macmillan has made a bolder cast than any yet. It may do the trick. There would have been less doubt if it had been bolder still."

(The foregoing refers to the recent increase in The Bank of England's discount rate from 4 1/2 to 5 1/2 percent.)

"It is easy for the rest of the world to deplore a lack of political courage. The truth is that it is only part of a whole. There is a lack of national courage as well. There is a lack of courage in the hearts who acquiesce in inefficiency in order to avoid trouble, and who are too afraid to stand up to the vicious turn upwards with six

The Rights Of Property — A Refutation Of Communism And Socialism XXII.

Adolphe Thiers has a very interesting chapter in his book, "A Refutation of Communism and Socialism" on how management is to be selected under that form of Socialism known as an association operating where the capital is secured by way of taxation. He points out that there is often chaos in government but when there is chaos in manufacturing or mercantile operation, success is impossible. He puts it this way: "Can you imagine the head of the works elected by the workmen, by turns deposed by the idle or placed by them over the management of the works? Can you imagine this president of an industrial republic, supported by such influences, equitably assigning the tasks to each man, regulating wages according to their assiduity or skill, inspiring capitalists with confidence, obtaining credit, and, above all, effecting economies? Can you imagine this chimerical being replacing the unity, the persistence, the intelligence of personal interest in the management of an industrial enterprise? In a State we can imagine all persons mingling in public affairs, for they are the affairs of all. But in a manufactory can you imagine some hundreds of workmen deliberating on the contracts to be made, on the bills, to be drawn, accepted, or refused, or the credits to be opened, or the extension to be given to production, or on the probable chances of national or European commerce?"

"No doubt we sometimes see shareholders deliberating, but it is only once a year, on the general progress of their affairs, grounding their pleasure or displeasure on the greater or less amount of the dividends, casting a rapid glance at the management generally, and then abdicating their authority in favour of some director, whom they judge by the result, that is, by the proceeds obtained, and not meeting until the following year. Such a system of administration is only practicable in great operations, where the interference of the shareholders is very discreet and rare, and is terminated by their abdicating in favour of the manager or director, they may have appointed. But can you picture to yourself a director of the works, elected by the workmen, to whom he will have to give orders?"

Qualities Of Management "When we observe the greater part of our industrial establishments, we are struck with one thing, — those which have succeeded, and they are very few in number, are indebted for their success to the superiority of the director, not only to his intellectual endowments, but to his personal magnetism, for that intellect often makes daring speculators, only men doomed to ruin themselves and others, but to a happy combination of intelligence and character, to a rare union of talent, prudence, and application. If this manager does not to his inventive faculties add moderation and consistency in his ideas, he fails, even with all his eminent qualities, and is obliged to lend his inventive genius to another, endowed with less daring but with more wisdom and love of labour. When these managers possess every desirable quality, it is still necessary that they should have had long experience, be acquainted with foreign markets, have an extensive connection, respect, esteem, and credit; in a word, they must combine the advantages they have received from nature with those which are only to be acquired by time."

Lack Of Humility The he relates how even management that seems to be successful for some time, later on fails. But these failures are quite often "because they are wanting in a very humble quality, that of moderation in their desires; or because the vanity of taking part in public affairs having seized upon them too early, diverted them from their own private affairs; or, lastly, because it had pleased the nation to which they belonged to overthrow a government, — I have seen them lose their fortunes and fall into the depths of misery."

Then Thiers goes on to contend that he will not believe that managers selected by employees rather than by those who furnish the capital, will succeed. He puts it this way: "Further, how will these associated workmen organize their administration? Would they deliberate in person on the affairs of the society, on the wages, regulations, production, purchases, sales, and contracts to be taken? It would be very hard to deprive them of such a prerogative, and it would not be worth their while to place all their savings in an undertaking, to raise loans at their own risk and peril, to receive from the State a present of some few millions of francs in advance, and then to abandon to one of their number the solution of all of those questions which interest them to so high a degree, and, on the other hand, it would be very dangerous, very foolish, to leave to them the task of solving these questions."

He sums it up by pointing out that personal interest of management and of those furnishing the capital is better fitted for private industry than the principle of general interest which is applicable to the administration of States.

National Whirligig G. O. P. Leaders Warn Of Demo Victories

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Almost every Republican National Committee and State Chairman between the Appalachian Mountains and the Great Divide — the bread basket of the nation — have warned the White House and GOP Headquarters here that all those states could easily vote Democratic next November over the farm problem. Even if President Eisenhower should squeak through by narrow margins because of his personal popularity, the resentment against falling prices and steadily dwindling incomes guarantees enough upsets to give the Democrats even safer majorities in House and Senate.

The Republicans may lose at least three Senate and 20 House seats, according to these field reports to National Chairman "Len" Hall and "Sherm" Adams, White House Chief of Staff.

The most alarming note in these communications is that the farmers are now beginning to blame Ike, not Secretary Ezra Taft Benson, for their difficulties. Several recent incidents not connected with their personal problems convince them that the Secretary of Agriculture is simply carrying out White House orders in opposing 90 per cent price supports.

Principal reason for blaming Ike was the behavior of Marion B. Folsom, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, in testifying on proposed enlargement of the Social Security System. When he served as a private citizen on an advisory committee several years ago, he advocated lowering to 62 the age for Federal payments to women. But when he appeared as an Administration witness, he blandly and flatly opposed any change.

Military experts' contradictory statements on national defense have helped to deprive Ike of the immunity from criticism he has enjoyed hitherto. As good soldiers, they defend the Administration's curtailed program in official appearances on Capitol Hill. But in speeches and newspaper interviews, they express fear that "Russia is forging ahead of us in quantity and quality of new weapons on land, on sea and in the air."

This combination of circumstances — the spreading farm revolt and the new tendency to hold President Eisenhower directly responsible for their plight — represents the most disturbing development since the Republicans recaptured the White House. It shakes the complacent attitude that Ike could walk to victory with a television-front porch campaign on the seemingly safe issue of "peace and prosperity."

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR F. JORDAN, M. D.

"Does glaucoma always lead to blindness?" asks M. B. "Is there any cure for it?" These questions again bring up the extreme importance of the early diagnosis of this eye disease. Mrs. B's first question can be answered by saying that glaucoma does not always lead to blindness but that it may if not recognized early and given proper treatment. The second question is less easy to answer but perhaps the following discussion will throw some light on it.

First of all, it should be said that glaucoma is one of the most serious diseases of the eyes, and is believed to be responsible for the blindness of at least 20,000 people in the United States alone, and the loss of vision in one eye, or perhaps 150,000 more.

SOME DOCTORS like to divide glaucoma (except those types coming from injury or disease elsewhere in the body) into four varieties: the acute inflammatory, the "absolute," and the chronic simple type. The acute inflammatory type of glaucoma is largely restricted to people between the ages of 35 and 70, and is somewhat more common among women than men.

Eye specialists also recognize secondary glaucomas which are not caused directly by blockage of the fluid drainage, but come from some other disease process either in another part of the eye or else where in the body.

IT WAS POINTED OUT in a letter published in the Journal of the American Medical Association not long ago that the early diagnosis of glaucoma which is so important depends on a high index of suspicion. This suspicion should exist, the writer said when the following conditions are present: the patient is over 40 years old (two of every one hundred people over 40 have chronic glaucoma); a family history of glaucoma exists; there is unexplained acing of or about the eyes.

There are other suspicious signs but these depend mostly on what the eye specialist finds when he examines the eyes and are not things which the non-medically trained person can do much about.

THE IMPORTANT THING about glaucoma is that it carries great danger to sight and therefore early diagnosis must be made and appropriate treatment begun promptly.

In many instances the medicines which are available are quite effective, especially in acute glaucoma. While they may have to be taken for a long time this is considerably better than losing the sight. Sometimes an operation is necessary and there are several types. All of them have the aim of making new paths for the drainage of the excess eye fluids which are present in glaucoma.

Indian Missionaries Present Program For Presbyterian Women's Association

Workshop is Held By Pampa Art Club

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis McElhane, Geary, Okla., both missionaries to Indians, were guest speakers at the meeting of the Presbyterian Women's Association Wednesday afternoon in the church. Mrs. McElhane is a member of the Kiowa tribe and her husband is part Cherokee. "We are no longer Indian Americans," Mrs. McElhane stated concerning Indian and non-Indian relations. "We are no longer a divided group. We are all Christians." Mrs. McElhane, who spoke on the background of the Kiowa tribe, explained her dress, made of deer-skin and decorated with elk's teeth, belongs to her sister. In payment for having such a dress made by another member of the tribe, the family gives the dressmaker a dinner or some gift, she pointed out. "This is a different day," she said. "Dresses like this are rare. The Kiowa tribe belongs to the Plains group, she went on. She showed a miniature cradle like those used by the women of the tribe for their babies. It was so constructed that it protected the baby in any way the cradle was dropped or thrown. The women set the cradle in the teepee or outside as they worked, carried it on the saddle or on their backs when on horseback, or on their backs while walking.

She explained members of her tribe lived in teepees, with the doors always facing the East, or rising sun. She said one reason might be that they didn't have alarm clocks a — awakened in that way by — sun. She pointed out that — Indian meals were prepared and served in such a way that the women never moved from the time of preparation until the dishes had been cleaned. "Today, our people are much like anyone else," Mrs. McElhane stated. "They wear the same kind of shoes, in some cases go to the same schools and are taught the same lessons as your children." She told of missionaries first coming to her tribe, explaining the Indians "could see the difference in them" from others. She spoke of an older warrior who was converted and composed the first Indian hymn, which she sang. "I do know all denominations are doing wonderful work for my people," she stated. "We are grateful for missions, I stand before you as a product of these missions. I think it is a privilege to live for the Lord." Her husband, Lewis McElhane, spoke on the work of the churches in their area. He explained some of the tribes in that area came down from the north and have been closely associated with each other ever since, although they "don't do anything alike." "Don't let anyone tell you Indians are lazy," he cautioned. "There is not a lazy bone in their bodies." He explained the Indians "love their traditional home sites and their families. He told of their work with young people, which he said is the "most promising" part of their work. He spoke on termination legislation, saying he doesn't feel "the time is right" at the present. He pointed out the Indians don't have the guidance and incentive instilled in them at home for education and religion, as the older Indians fear it will destroy their old culture. "The Indians are discriminated against in our field," he explained. "Our missions are justified. Somehow in the transition from one culture to another, the Indians were left with nothing. The non-Indian citizenry has to be re-educated. Their attitude is to let the government care for the Indian. "Before we can have total ter-

Presbyterian Women Presented Talk On Indian Art By Mrs. Fred Sloan

Mrs. Fred Sloan presented a program on Indian art during a meeting of the Presbyterian Women's Association Wednesday morning in the educational building. Mrs. Sloan introduced her sister, Mrs. Hubert Lively of Oklahoma City, Okla., who she explained, was wearing an Apache dress made by an Indian in Anadarko, Okla. She pointed out the Indians copied the dress of the early settlers and adapted it to their own use. Mrs. Sloan added that she was wearing a genuine Navajo patchwork skirt which was fashioned from more than 200 pieces of material and her jewelry was of the Plains Indians type. "For years I have had associations with persons that are specialists in Indians," she explained. "Indians art of the United States is extremely inexhaustive subject. I have one whole book on the genealogy of the Rain Bird. "For centuries the white man has been willing to take anything from the Indian that is practical," she continued. "Now we realize we have plundered and despoiled the very fine culture of a very fine people." Mrs. Sloan pointed out the graphic development of the Indian culture is in his art. The Reorganization Act of 1934 rehabilitated the artistic and culture values of the Indian, she told the women. Adding that the act was aided by the efforts of artists, scientists and ministers. She stated that the art of the American Indian has long been valued by persons in the world before Americans thought much of it. France, Italy, Germany and even India have had exhibits of American Indian art for many years. "Indian art north of the Rio Grande never reached the high development of that of Mexico or some places in South America," she told the women. "It is superior, though, in many ways. Experts say it is just as aesthetic and excels in freshness and power. The Indian craftsman had an instinctive feeling for the concise arrangement of the elements of art." Mrs. Sloan explained that the art of a people includes everything from pots and pans and buckles to bridges. "If they incorporate the laws of design, they are modern art," she advised. "With our machines we are creating as great an art as the world has ever known." She said that archaeologists are

Pampa Hosts Lubbock Today In District Go

Pampa's Harvesters Baseballers will host the Lubbock Westerners this afternoon in Oiler Park in the first District 1-AA game of the season. Both teams are playing their first "for real" contest.

Pampa has defeated the Frank Phillips Collegians, Berger Bulldogs, Clinton Oklahoma nine and have fallen to the three teams also. They also fell to the tough Lawton Oklahoma Wolverines. The score of that game was 3-0. Lawton upset the Sandies earlier by a 10-0 score.

Coach Deck Woldt will probably start Cecil Reynolds on the mound today with John Lee or Robert Langford behind the plate.

Gary Herr or Mike Conway will be playing second base with Jerold Clark starting at first. Billy Brown will probably start at the shortstop post with Bennie Sparks in reserve. Sparks will probably get into the contest.

Buddy Sharp or Buster Baird will play third. Sharp will start but Baird will likely get into the action. Outfielders for the game will probably be Bill Hogan at right, James Evans at left and David Marlar in center.

The Green and Golders will host the Plainview Bulldogs Friday in Oiler Park and the Sayre Oklahoma nine Saturday. The Sayre-Pampa game was cancelled earlier in the season.

They go into today's game with a 4-3 record.

REDLEGS

CAMP GORDON, Ga. — UP — Brooks Lawrence continued his splendid comeback Thursday as the Cincinnati Redlegs and Washington Senators resumed their series.

Lawrence, a sophomore flop with the St. Louis Cardinals after winning 15 games as a rookie in 1954, collaborated with Bill Kennedy and Hershel Freeman in a five-hitter Wednesday to give the Redlegs a 5-9 victory over the Senators.

Oriole Pitcher to Seattle

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — UP —The Baltimore Orioles sold Art Schalllock, a left-hander who had a 3-5 record with them last year, to Seattle of the Pacific Coast League Tuesday for an undisclosed amount of cash. Baltimore got Schalllock from the New York Yankees last May for the $10,000 waiver price.

Oilers Take First Home Contest 6-5

By TOMMIE ELLIS
Pampa News Sports Editor

The Pampa Oilers edged out the Weatherford, Okla., Bulldogs of Southwestern State Teachers college yesterday in the first home game for the Pampanans this season. The affair went 10 innings after the Oilers tied it up in the last of the seventh at 5-5. The Oilers then held the Bulldogs scoreless through the remaining three innings and picked up a single run in the final frame when Carl Pickett hit a ball to the shortstop which was fumbled. The only error of the Bulldogs cost them the game as Lamar Cagle came home with the winning run.

Bob Flores looked good in action yesterday as he drove one out his first time at bat. It was the only run for the Oilers until the sixth-inning when they ran in four on four hits.

Flores scored two of the runs while Cagle got credit for a pair of runs batted in. Others scoring for the Pampanans were Cagle, Landrum, Rouse and Hair.

Red Dial — Bill Hair and Jack Venable did the pitching for the Oilers while the Collegians used three also. Coffey led off for the Oilers and hurled three frames. Goss then came in and tossed the next three and Dryden, the losing pitcher, hurled the final four.

Pampa led off in the first frame with two hits and it looked like they would have an easy job with the boys from Oklahoma. Then Bob Flores drove one out on his first time at bat and the few fans attending applauded.

The game was scoreless then until the first of the fifth when Buddy Hubbard, with the bases loaded, hit the only homer of the day for the Oklahomans. It looked bad for the Oilers.

He drove in Haney, Jones and Jackson ahead of him for the grand slam. Pampa then threatened to score in the bottom of the fifth but didn't manage to push another run across until the last of the sixth.

The two teams threatened to score each inning then until the Oiler half of the 10th when Cagle hit a high fly back of third baseman which fell in for a single. Allan Cross then sacrificed him to second and Dick Hairston singled. Bob Flores struckout but Carl Pickett drove a line drive to the shortstop which he fumbled. Cagle came home with the winning run on the only error of the day for the Collegians.

Yanks Want Another Hurler To Start League Campaign

YANKEES

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — UP — General Manager George Weiss said Thursday the New York Yankees are attempting to acquire another pitcher before the start of the American League campaign.

Weiss did not identify the hurlers the Yankees are dickering for but it is believed they include Ned Garver of the Detroit Tigers, Bill Wright of the Baltimore Orioles and Art Ditmar of the Kansas City Athletics. It is believed Manager Casey Stengel wants another hurler because of Bob Turley's poor showing in the grapefruit league.

The Yankees prepared to break camp Thursday following a 4-3 loss to the Philadelphia Phillies in which the winners rallied for three runs in the eighth inning.

DODGERS

NEW ORLEANS — UP — The Brooklyn Dodgers waited Thursday for X-rays which would determine the extent of injury suffered by Jim Hughes when the pitcher was struck by a liner off Roy Campanella's bat.

The accident occurred before Wednesday's game with the Milwaukee Braves in Mobile, Ala., while Hughes was pitching batting practice.

Hughes tried to continue pitching but could not and was taken for X-rays.

CARDINALS

ALBANY, Ga. — UP — Rival Managers Fred Hutchinson and Marty Marion said Thursday they were satisfied with their teams as the St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago White Sox met for the third game of their 11-game spring series.

"I'm impressed by our speed and hope to play a running game," said Hutchinson. "At 35, Stan Musial still can go and Red Schoendienst has good base-running judgement."

The Cardinals lead the grapefruit league with a 16-8 record while the White Sox head north with an 11-11 slate.

13 Harvesters Ready For District Go Saturday

The Harvester Tracksters got their final workouts this week in preparation for the 1-AA district track meet to be held in Canyon Saturday.

The Green and Golders will probably take all their men to the all important district meet.

Teams from the five schools, Pampa, Amarillo, Borger, Palo Duro and Plainview will be trying to cop the crown which the Amarillo Sandies have held since the district track meet began.

Amarillo, the defending champions, have excelled in the track and field events in the first 12 meets and are favored to repeat again this year.

Pampa is expected to place in several of the events and are rated second to Amarillo.

The Green and Golders will probably take all of the following named boys for the meet. Don Allen, Dick Barrett, Don Bigham, Joe Cook, Joe Conner, Earl Cooper, Gary Dearen, Jim Enloe, Jim Fischer, Richie Gardner, Glen Howell, Don Jonas, Kenneth Keith, Bill Kirbie, Walter Heil, Dicky Mauldin, Gary Peterson, Gary Pinson, Tommy Rhoten, Clyde Smith,

Santee Determined To Fight AAU Ban To Final Finish

NEW YORK—UP—If the state Supreme Court decision on his case against the AAU goes against him, track star W. Santee will appeal through "every court in the land, even if it costs thousands of dollars."

Santee, Marine lieutenant from Kansas now under lifetime suspension by the AAU on charges of accepting excessive expense money, stated his position that way Wednesday at a luncheon of the Sports Broadcasters Association.

The Supreme Court decision by Justice Walter A. Lynch is expected soon. Court hearings have been completed on Santee's appeal for a permanent injunction against his suspension.

Phillips Oilers Win Olympic Go

By LYLE SCHWILLING
KANSAS CITY—UP—United States Olympics Committee Thursday named Bill Russell of San Francisco, 6'10" and Chuck Darling, the 6-9 former Iowa flash as the men to oppose Russia's seven-foot, five-inch man in the Olympics at Melbourne this November.

The two big men headed the 12-man group selected to represent the United States after the Phillips Oilers of Bartlesville, Okla., won the Olympic trials 79-75 over the College All-Stars Wednesday night.

Also on the 12-man squad picked in efforts to continue U.S. superiority in Olympic basketball were: Burdy Halderson and Bob Jean-gard, both formerly of Colorado; Bill Houglund, Kansas; Jim Walsh, Stanford; Carl Cain, Iowa; K. C. Jones, San Francisco; Bill Evans, Kentucky; Gib Ford, Texas; Ron Tomasic, Stanford and Dick Boushka, San Louis.

Plus Six Alternates
The six alternates selected in case one or more of the 12 main players turn professional, get injured or otherwise are not available, were: Joe Dean, Louisiana State; Hal Lear, Temple; Willie Nauls, UCLA; Ray Warren, Texas Christian; Charles Koon and Terry Rand, Marquette.

Coch Gerald Tucker of Phillips won the right to be head coach of the Olympics squad. Bucky O'Connell of Iowa, who handled the College All-Stars, was named assistant.

In case one or the other coach cannot make the trip, Bruce Drake, the former Oklahoma coach who handled the Armed Forces team, was named first alternate and Frank Fidler, of the Seattle Buchan Bakers, national AAU champion, was named second alternate.

Both Phillips and the college team ended with 2-1 records in the three-night round-robin Olympics trials, but since Phillips

Texas Relays Scheduled For Friday

AUSTIN—UP—Kansas, long a power in field events, appears all set to throw its weight around in the 29th annual Texas Relays which begin Friday afternoon. Kansas will bring along the holders of the national collegiate shot put and javelin throw records in hopes of a sweep in the weight events. No school has accomplished that feat in the 28 previous meets.

Meanwhile, a team of speedsters from Abilene Christian College, led by flashy Bobby Morrow, may crack the University of Texas' sprint superiority. The Longhorns will challenge Morrow in two dashes—the 100-meter and 100-yard races—and try to outdo Abilene Christian, college class favorites, in relay times. Texas holds all the sprint records in its classification in the Texas Relays.

Both clocked at 40.8. Both Texas and ACC have been clocked at 40.8 seconds in the 400-yard relay, while Abilene this season has bettered Texas in the half-mile relay, 1:25.2 to 1:25.4. Entries for the relays Thursday totaled 1,210 athletes. High schools topped the list with 585 contestants. The university class had 278 participants, the college class 359, junior college and freshman teams entered 170 contestants and 18 entries were unattached.

Kansas stars Bill Nieder and Les Bitner are national collegiate champions in the shot and javelin, respectively, as well as record holders in those events. Nieder won the Texas Relays title last year with a toss of 53 feet 10 inches, while Bitner placed fourth in the javelin throw with 190 feet, 9 3/4 inches. Those marks are considerably lower than their best efforts, however. Nieder recently tossed the shot 59 feet, 9 1/4 inches, the greatest distance ever achieved by a collegian. Bitner won the NCAA javelin crown last year with a meet record of 248 feet, 1 inch.

BOWLING SCORES

When: Wednesday night. Where: Pampa Bowl. League: Industrial. Team result: Cabot Shop 4, Cabot Fire Shop 0; Tom Rose 3, Rig Fuel 1; Panhandle Insurance Agency 3, Schlumberger 1; Northern Natural Gas 2, Northern Natural Pipeline 2. Northern Natural Gas bowlers took the honors as they had a high team score of 848 and a high team series score of 2,254. Lewis Collins, bowling for Northern Natural Gas, took the individual honors with a high game of 233 and a high series of 549.

downed the All-Stars, the Oilers won the championship.

A complicated international Olympics style of scoring would have been used in case of a three-team tie, but Seattle ruled that out by winning the last game of the trials 82-79 over the Armed Forces.

Three members of the U.S. Olympics squad are Negroes, Russell, Jones and Cain. Two of the alternates are Negroes, Lear and Nauls.

Russell Leads Way
Russell, the great All-America, was both leading scorer and rebounder of the trials. He hit 72 points in three games and snagged 39 rebounds. Tomasic was second scorer with 68. Boushka was third with 55 and Darling fourth with 44.

Boushka was second in rebounding, 32, followed by Nauls at 28 and Walsh at 23.

Phillips led all the way to down the college team although Russell and Jones had the gap closed to only two points at five different times late in the game. The Seattle Armed Forces game was close all the way after the early minutes. It was tied 42-all at the half and 64-all with 10 minutes left.

Masters Tournery Begins

AUGUSTA, Ga.—UP—Ben Hogan felt good, Cary Middlecott felt better, and Sam Snead had a brace of sub-par practice rounds to belie his aches and pains Thursday when they teed off for the golden Masters golf crown.

The strongly favored threesome were among a record 81 golfers, old and new, starting the first round over the Augusta national course which began as an idea in Bobby Jones' mind and has blossomed to one of the premier events of American sport.

Starting as two old gentlemen stepped out of the past to renew a fiery acquaintance as playing partners, the Masters paraded golf's glittering figures before a gallery drawn from all points.

Of an Eon Ago
The oldsters were Fred McLeod and Jack Hutchison, American and British Open champions of an eon ago.

Cracking heat and strong winds had whipped the course into the kind of shape the Masters arrangers wanted. After toiling Wednesday night and into the morning, they figured it wouldn't be the same course that bowed to 68's and 70's the past few days. Masters veterans agreed.

"When that man gets through with that hose, roller and that mower tonight, you won't know those greens and we'll be back where we started every year lugging par, summed up Jimmy Demaret, three-time Masters winner who is making a comeback in tournament play.

Old Masters Ready
Tournament eve found Hogan, the accomplished little Texan who scored the all-time Masters low of 274 in 1953 after fighting back from a near-fatal highway smash-up, sitting quietly by himself in the locker room in a wing of the Augusta clubhouse. He had just finished 14 holes and said his game was good and he felt good; his bad leg hadn't bothered him a bit.

Middlecott, 1955 champion and strong favorite to become the Masters' first repeater, said he had overcome his weariness from trudging the National's hills and dales and had his putter working. Snead, only three time winner beside Demaret, fussed and fretted but was eight-under-par the last two days of practice.

Downs Own Punt

COLUMBIA, S. C. -- UP -- Pull-back Bobby Barrett of South Carolina had the dubious honor of punting his own punt in the team's intra-squad game last weekend. He kicked into a 25-to-30 mile an hour wind and the result was a four-yarder which probably would have been a minus-yardage boot if Bobby hadn't downed it.

New Star Is Four-Legged Hooper With Built-In Fur

By ALINE MOSBY
HOLLYWOOD—UP—Universal International Studio has unveiled its newest dancing sensation who will co-star with Van Johnson in a musical—only this hooper has four feet and a built-in fur coat.
 The freckle-faced Johnson admits he has drawn one of his toughest assignments—to be the partner of a dancing dog in "Kelly and Me."
 The story is about a vaudeville act who teams up with a dog, a big white German shepherd. But the pooch overshadows him and becomes a hit on nightclub circuit. Lobo not only dances on his hind legs but responds to commands that some two-footed actors can't master. In the movie Lobo politely closes the door behind Piper Laurie when she gets out of her car. He wolfishly pats her leg. He can count to 10 by barking to whatever number you name.
 In the dancing scenes Kelly the dog imitates Johnson's steps. Then they do a shuffle-off-to-Buffalo closing a la Jimmy Durante and Eddie Jackson.
 "For our night club act I taught Lobo to stand on his hind legs and salute," explained trainer Ernie Smith. "He does that at the end of the dance act and it looks like a goodbye wave."

 Smith started training the dogs when they were a year old. They played volleys in one western movie and then took off for five years on the night club circuit. In clubs they did imitations of elephants and other animals.
 Lasso's trainer, Ruld Weatherwax, recommended that U-I sign the German Shepherd and Lobo. "Lobo," for "Kelly and Me." Another trainer, Bob Williams is "choreographer" for the dancing Lobo in this canine musical.
 "He's a magnificent dog," Williams said as he put Lobo through his paces. "There has never been a role so demanding on a dog. Audiences will be amazed."
 U-I is giving star build-up to the dog dancer with the idea of starring him in a series. This week Lobo celebrated his sixth birthday and tossed a party for other cinema canines, with the help of the studio publicity department. In attendance were Daisey, Red, Dust, Cleo and Lassie. Groucho beef and plenty of photographers' shots were served.
