The Aiming Stake

By K. L. FANCHER

It's that time again! Each week we try to put down on paper a few news notes about what is going on out at the National Guard Armory.

Preparations for summer camp are still under way at all of the Armories throughout the 474th Field Artillery Battalion, but right now something just a little closer is taking most of the attention of the six units which comprise the Battalion.

Communists the United States would not attack China when the Chinese Reds intervened in the Korean war.

There was no such direct information in Petrov's affidavit.

Both Britons had been stationed for a time in Washington. Petrov said his assistant in the Russian secret police in Australia was Philipp Vasilievich Kisilitsyn, who had formerly worked in the Soviet embassy in London.

Saw Neither Man He said Kisilitsyn told him of handling material which Burgess furnished to the Russians by the briefcase full, though Kisilitsyn never saw either Burgess or MacLean in London.

Later, said Petrov, Kisilitsyn headed "a special one-man section of the top secret archives" in Moscow, set up solely to handle "the great quantity of material supplied by MacLean & Burgess."

He said Kisilitsyn told him Burgess and MacLean discovered they were under security investigation and the Russians helped them escape.

Later Kisilitsyn often visited the pair in Moscow, where they lived in a comfortable house. Petrov related, and were supplied with "the best of everything."

"At that time they were acting as advisers to the Soviet ministry of foreign affairs on Anglo-American matters," he said.

May 24, 1956 and the other units of the battalion that same week. This includes Battery A in Dalhart, Battery B in Dumas and Battery C in Shamrock. Here in Pampa, the Thursday night inspection will include Headquarters and Headquarters Battery, Service Battery and the Medical Detachment.

This coming Saturday, May 19, 1956 has been designated Armed Forces Day here in the United States, and all over the country there will be observances of that event by various military organizations. Many of the military bases throughout the nation will hold open house and everyone who can will get a chance to take a look at the military might of the nation as it works.

There will be an observance of Armed Forces Day here in Pampa, also by the National Guard, component of the Armed Forces that is becoming increasingly important as the months roll by.

The local units are planning an Open House on Saturday, and would like to invite any and all to drive on out to the Armory, and take a look at the work and the material that is a part of these units and this Artillery Battalion. There will be plenty of equipment of display, including the 155mm Howitzer, and there will be men on duty all day to explain the workings of the various things you'll see at that time.

You'll be seeing and hearing more about Armed Forces Day throughout the week, and we want you to be sure to visit some military installation that day if you possibly can, but we especially National Guard Armory here in want to invite you to visit the Pampa and see how the men of the 474th Field Artillery Battalion, "Help Keep the Guard Up."

If you have any questions about the Guard, that would be a good time to ask them and get a good answer. The men who actually do the jobs and handle the equipment you see will be there, and you'll get a good insight into what goes on each week during National Guard Drill nights and also during summer camp.

Cerebral Palsy Gifts Are Asked

Cerebral Palsy convalescers, distributed in many places of business in town are sponsored by the V. F. W. Ladies Auxiliary.

May has been set aside as the campaign month for the Cerebral Palsy Foundation.

Anyone interested in making a contribution, other than through the convalescers, may contact Mrs. Bill J. Abernathy, local V.F.W. auxiliary unit president of Mrs. Vernon Stuckey, treasurer.

The fire department distributed the convalescers for the auxiliary and will pick them up the last week of May.

Solon Says Foreign Aid Needs Survey

WASHINGTON, May 12—UP—Sen. Allen J. Ellender proposed Saturday that the foreign aid program continue temporarily without new funds until it can be studied completely.

The Louisiana Democrat, a persistent critic of foreign aid spending, said in his weekly radio broadcast from a Louisiana station that the program has more than $6 billion in unspent funds.

"This should tide them over for a few more months," he added. "I feel sure that a thorough study of any new foreign aid program, in the light of the present world situation, will result in our assisting our friends by loans, rather than grants."

Allies Should Assume Burden He said "it certainly should result in our European allies assuming some of the burdens as well as the benefits of what our planners call a mutual security program."

House and Senate committees are holding hearings on the administration's request for $4.9 billion in additional aid funds for the new fiscal year. The amount—$2.2 billion above funds voted for the current year—has run into criticism from some key members of both Houses.

"Before spending another nickel on foreign aid, we should take a breathing spell and look up what we have already accomplished, what we need to accomplish in the future, and how best to do so," Ellender said.

Has Final Say So Ellender, a member of the Senate appropriations committee which will have a final say-so on actual money for the program.

Meanwhile, Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.), a high-ranking GOP member of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, said in a speech at Atlantic City that economic aid should be geared to a "more human objective" than merely halting the spread of communism.

Smith said non-military aid should be beamed at helping millions in under-developed countries achieve freedom and a higher standard of living.

Cypriots Ask For Death Of Governor

NICOSIA, Cyprus, May 12—UP—The Cyprus underground marked British Gov. Sir John Harding for death Saturday.

Leaflets tacked on Nicosia walls declared "the man who shoots Harding will have his name written on a golden scroll."

The leaflets were similar to those which Friday announced that the underground had hanged two British soldier hostages in revenge for the British execution of two Cypriot gunmen.

British authorities fought back in the pamphlet war. Police scattered notices through the streets urging Cyprus citizens to disown the "pseudo-patriots" and "fanatical terrorists."

The underground added action to its warnings. While bells tolled for the two executed Cypriots Friday night, six masked raiders seized two auxiliary policemen near the government's Nicosia experimental farm.

In Athens on the mainland, the American embassy announced Saturday that the U.S. Sixth Fleet has called off a "good will" visit to the port of Crete in Crete because of strong Greek feelings about the Cyprus situation.

Leaflets distributed by Nicosia police said, "you Cypriots who feel for our beloved island show your courage and free spirit..."

YOUTH

Our project is not an "overnight" or by night" endeavor. It is one for the benefit of all of Pampa. These plans have been in the making for many years. With the help of the entire citizenship, we see definite accomplishment.

As an arm of the community, we realize that this program cannot be a success without the assistance of every organization, in town, including both the men and the women's organizations. All of our people must help so that in the end this program and the building will be something of which Pampa can be proud.

We, the undersigned, constituting the Board of Directors, are simply attempting to perform the task of bringing about that which you as citizens have placed in our hands.

From time to time, we expect to report to you, through the press and the radio, the progress of our efforts.

Respectfully submitted, Aaron Sturgeon, Frank Fata, John F. Campbell, Inez Carter, Floyd Watson, Fred Neslage, Bill W. Waters, Rufe Jordan, Joe Donaldson, Leora Rose, Richard W. Crews.

Fire Destroys Home Here

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John Shannon and family, at the corner of Crawford and Barrett, was burned to the ground Saturday morning, making the second fire in two years the family has encountered.

A fire of undetermined origin brought firemen to the scene at 2:30 a.m. Saturday, and they fought the blazes until 4:10 a.m. A booster and pumper were sent out by the local fire department.

The home was considered a total loss. At the present time, the Shannons and children are staying with neighbors.

About two years ago, an earlier home, located on the same lot, was also damaged by fire.

World's most popular POWER STEERING?

Right this way!

EVERY YEAR, more and more of the new cars sold are equipped with Power Steering. Many a man has bought it "for the wife"—then wondered how he ever got along without it.

And if you have in mind a new car with this increasingly popular feature, you ought to consider this fact:

Since the beginning of last year, Buick has sold far more new cars equipped with Power Steering* than any other car—over 20,000 more in 1955 alone.

That's the record—and the reasons for it are just as impressive.

Buick brings you In-Line Safety Power Steering. In addition to the one-finger ease of turning common to all such systems in varying degree, it has several distinct advantages.

It gives you surer, steadier, safer control at highway speeds—because it retains that good natural "feel" of the road. (That's something you really should compare.)

On the other hand, it gives you more power assist when you need it most—at crawl speeds and at full stop. For parking and other tight maneuvering, Buick's Power Steering makes wheel turning nearly twice as easy as other types of systems. (And that's by engineering computation.)

Add another plus: this Buick feature works through the new Buick front end—where a unique new geometry and steering linkage bring a sweet new response and a wonderfully easy handling and a surer "sense of direction" even to new Buicks not equipped with the power system.

So there you are—and here we are, waiting to prove it all to you.

Waiting, also, to let you try the new thrills to be had in Buick's advanced new Variable Pitch Dynaflo—where getaway response and gas mileage both step up even before you switch the pitch.

And waiting to show you how the highest power yet, the sweetest ride yet and the boldest styling yet—all help to make this bright new beauty the Best Buick Yet.

Today is fine with us. How about you?

*Buick's In-Line Safety Power Steering is standard on Roadmaster and Super, optional at moderate extra cost on other Series. New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

New Coach Named to me means the glorious companionship of my family.

It means the standing together out on the fields of our farm, watching a sunset or, after a storm, looking at a rainbow.

It means the prayers that have been said at my knees by my little children; our signing together and the sharing of our joys and sorrows.

It means "being together" is the fulfillment of part of God's plan.

I believe each of us is divinely called for a chosen work. That has always been my belief. I believe that this plan is wrapped in the folds of our being, even as the oak is wrapped in the acorn and the rose is wrapped in the bud.

Sent Mothers to Help

It has been said that God could not be everywhere and so he sent us mothers. My prayer has always been, "Please God, help me to be a better mother."

We are told that the world starts from our own doorsteps. So if I can keep peace in my own little world, I am helping to keep peace in the whole wide world. Adeline Bullock, a writer and a mother, expressed it so well when she said:

"We mother's must recognize and accept a large portion of the responsibility of forming tomorrow's world. Let us plant so deeply in the hearts of our youth the seeds of tolerance and respect, the seeds of honor and integrity that a better world will come, not from fear of an atomic destruction, but as a natural harvest of a thoughtful planting."

I have a precious little verse written in the form of a letter. It is framed and has hung on the wall of our home for 30 years to guide the lives of our girls. It is something they have all learned. It is entitled, "To Our Girls," and was written by Robert B. Rogers.

Those Loved Who Stand Test

It goes like this: "I am writing these lines, my girls, for you. I daily died to keep you true. So keep them ever in your mind and good in them I trust you'll find. And then remember the whole world loves her best who stands the 18 carat test. She must prove herself as pure as gold, must not be forward, rude or bold, must be ladylike in every way, lighthearted while at work or play. Be kind to others and never frown on her who wears a plain gown.

"When you're in doubt what is best to do, ask God and he will answer you. He will guide you through life's doubtful ways and keep you happy all your days. As you enter paths of womanhood, may sunshine fill your soul with good. As you lay your girlish trails aside, may your older ways be glorified. And may God his blessings shower on thee—a wish, to you girls, direct from me."

This expresses so well my Mother's Day wish for all girls everywhere.

WAR AND THE HCL—We all know that in wartime prices go sky-high. But what isn't generally realized is that only in World War II did they zoom to record levels and stay thereabouts for a decade after the war. Newschart above, adapted from one in U.S. Steel's annual report, shows prices skyrocketing during each of our major wars. But immediately after peace came, they dropped radically, except in the case of World War I, when high living costs continued for a couple of years, then plummeted. ROMANCE REAWAKENED

Guy Madison represents all that is good, secure and conservative in the life of "Hilda Crane," an intimate story of a woman's lonely struggle to satisfy the mixed emotions of her complex nature. Jean Simmons stars in the title role of the Deluxe color CinemaScope drama, opening today at the LaNora Theatre. The film was produced by Herbert Bayard Swope Jr. and is based on the Broadway play by Samson Raphaelson.

Award-Winning Director Bid For 'Hilda Crane' Movie

The CinemaScope production, "Hilda Crane," currently at the LaNora Theatre, starring Jean Simmons, Guy Madison and Jean Pierre Aumont, symbolizes another major move in the interchange of talent between film studios and TV workshops. Although there has been a considerable amount of "swapping" between the two industries, this Twentieth Century-Fox Technicolor film represents the first occasion where an executive with purely television experience has been brought into the motion picture industry on a long term basis. He is the film's producer, Herbert Bayard Swope, Jr.

Tony Bennett Warming Up For Television

By WILLIAM EWALD NEW YORK (AP)—Tony Bennett, a baritone who'll lean in for Perry Como part of this summer, began warming up his pipes for TV Saturday. Bennett, a performer of earnest manner and trembling vocal delivery, will help salute George Gershwin this weekend in a spectacular that features such other talent as Ethel Merman and Alfred Drake. A dark-haired protégé of dark-bearded Mitch Miller, Bennett will tackle three Gershwin tunes during the 90-minute special show—"Our Love is Here to Stay," "That Certain Feeling" and "They Can't Take That Away From Me." "He's the most," says Bennett of the late composer. "I picked the tunes myself but I've felt like changing them five times, he wrote so many good ones." Bennett's enthusiasm for Gershwin is unbounded, but his affections for Como also know no limitations. Bennett will replace Como this summer for four weeks on NBC-TV. Two other pop vocalists of some note, Patti Page and Julius Larosa, will fill in the rest of the summer gap. "I've known Como for about four years now," said Bennett, "and he's kind of responsible for my getting the show, you know. He went to bat for me. "I'm very conscious of the fact I'm taking the place of a very great gentleman and I want to maintain the dignity of the show and the good feeling that he creates. "But I don't want to do the show quite like Como. What we probably will do is try to get a more dramatic approach into the songs—it's my style. The way I understand it, Patti Page, Larosa, and myself all will have different formats. "TV is so much easier than working in clubs," pointed out Bennett. "In a club, there's a terrific challenge every night—the audience varies so much and you have to control the chatter. On TV, the audience is oriented if they're in the studio and they know what's expected of them."

Reserve Billets Are Named

The local Marine Corps Reserve has announced available billets for three sergeants, seven corporals, privates first class with previous service, and five recruits between the ages of 17 and 18 1/2. There is a billet for one naval corpsman. It was especially emphasized that reservists recently separated from the service investigate joining a local unit since those enlisted since the Korean campaign have a total of eight years military obligation to fulfill. After separation, then balance of the obligation will be spent in Reserve if the reservist remains on an inactive status. By joining an active reserve unit, a reservist may be transferred at a later date to Standby Reserve. Enlistment in an active unit in no way affects the susceptibility to recall into active duty since the distinction is between those in ready reserve, and standby reserve, rather than active or inactive status. Captain A. C. Muse of the local unit pointed out that other advantages of membership are that the reservist's name would be returned to the promotion list and that he would receive one day's pay for each two-hour drill attendance. He invited all marines in the area to visit the local unit at its weekly drill period from 8 to 10 p.m. each Tuesday at the National Guard Armory. Further information can be obtained by calling Capt. Muse at 4-3000. During the first six months since the activation of the local unit, personnel changes are referred to Class III status; six men transferred to the Regular Component of the Marine Corps; and one received a medical discharge.

Love That Will Not Let Me Go. Rom. 5:8

Man bases his hope of salvation on the fact that God stoops down in love to lift men out of their sins. If we have to wait until we are perfect, or anywhere near it, before we can enjoy God's love, we will never know it. But we do not have to wait. "God commendeth his love towards us in that while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." That is the gospel. God loved us not because we deserve his love, but because it is his nature to love. If we had to wait until we deserved God's forgiveness and love, we would never know it. God sent Jesus to us while we were sinners to tell us God loved us and wanted our love in return.

We then, are witness to a double quest. Man does not seek God. The Bible encourages that quest. But if it were a one-way quest it would end in frustration and disappointment. "Canst thou by searching find God?" But we do find God because he first sought us - because in Christ he came down to reveal himself to us. "Herein is love," said John, "Not that we loved God, but that He loved us and sent his Son to be the propitiation for our sins." Jesus reaches down his nail-scarred hands, and lifts man back to safety, saying meanwhile, "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly."

Jesus is the shepherd who went out into the wilderness to find his lost sheep. He is like the woman that swept her house in search of the lost coin. He is like the father who, when he saw his prodigal son, "had compassion, and ran, and fell on his neck and kissed him."

Someone has said, "He who takes one step toward God will find God advancing a mile toward him."

Youngster Pulls Ahead In Carling Open Tourney

ST. LOUIS, May 12—UP—Dow Finsterwald blazed to his third consecutive sub-par round Saturday to pull ahead of the field in the $25,000 Carling Open golf tournament.

The Bedford Heights, Ohio, fireball carded a 69 to go with previous rounds of 65 and 71 for a 205 total, entering the finale Sunday.

The poised young performer has broken par for every nine holes so far in the 72-hole event. Par for the Sunset country club course is 72.

The knowledge the 83 pros and amateurs picked up in previous rounds showed Saturday as par was shattered—as much as six strokes—by a host of players.

Billy Casper Jr., Chula Vista, Calif., held onto second place by carding eight birdies for around of 68 and a 206 total.

Stan Leonard, 40-year-old Canadian Cup player who started the day on even terms with Finster-wald, broke par by a stroke but fell back into a tie for third at 207. Billy Maxwell, one-time National Amateur champion, fired a 68 to climb onto even terms with Leonard.

Ed Furgol, the local hope who skyrocketed from 36th to third place Friday, slipped back to a tie for fourth, although he stroked the course for a 69. The 1954 National Open champs' card totaled 208.

Also dropping to fourth from a tie with Casper was a fellow Californian, Bud Holscher. The Apple Valley swinger took 70 strokes to cover Sunset, also bringing his total to 208.

Robinson Olson Are Anxious

By JACK CUDDY
LOS ANGELES, May 12—UP—Sugar Ray Robinson and Carl (Bobo) Olson were anxiously trying to keep their premature fighting "edges" Saturday for Friday night's return middleweight title bout probably California's richest boxing show.

Each reached his training peak to soon for the interesting 15-rounder at Wrigley Field, where 35-year-old Robinson will try to prove that his December title knockout over 27-year-old Olson was no fluke.

Matchmaker Jackie Leonard of promoting the match, said Saturday, "I'm nearly certain we'll have a record California gate of more than $200,000. We have $115,000 in cash and $40,000 in reservations, which must be picked up by Wednesday."

With tickets ranging from $5 to $25, a $200,000 gate would require 15,000 paid attendance for the battle which will be televised and broadcast nationally over NBC networks at 8 p. m. (est). The TV-radio rights brought $100,000.

Because the fight was scheduled originally for April 20 and postponed by Robinson's virus condition, both champion and challenger have been training with but little interruption since early March. Accordingly, they reached their "edges" more than a week ago and have been trying to maintain them without going stale. Each is limiting his sparring sessions to two or three rounds.

Sugar Ray, training at San Jacinto, Calif., about 80 miles southeast of Los Angeles, is scheduled for only two more boxing sessions, Sunday and Tuesday. Olson, at nearby Santa Monica, is slated for action only Sunday, although Manager Sid Flaherty may order another light session Tuesday. Neither expects any difficulty making the 160-pound limit.

Baseball Deals In The Works

By MILTON RICHMAN
NEW YORK, May 12—UP—Two major baseball deals were in the works Saturday, with the Yankees dickering to land Dick Donovan of the White Sox, and the Cardinals on the verge of following up their five-man deal with the Phillies.

Last-minute trade developments in the face of the rapidly approaching May 17 cutdown date were these:

1. The Yankees have asked the White Sox which players they want in return for Donovan, and Chicago has named third baseman Andy Carey and pitchers Johnny Kucks and Ralph Terry. Terry currently is with Denver of the American Association.

2. The Cardinals are reported ready to send infielder Solly Hemus to the Phillies for infielder Bobby Morgan as a "shirt tail" to the deal made between the two clubs Friday.

In that transaction, St. Louis sent pitchers Harvey Haddix, Ben Flowers and Stu Miller to Philadelphia in return for pitchers Herman Wehmeier and Murry Dickson.

The 32-year-old Hemus, who has been the Cards' No. 1 utility man for the past two seasons, became expendable this spring when youngsters Don Blasingame and Dick Schofield each made a fine impression on Manager Freddie Hutchinson. Hemus batted .243 in 96 games for St. Louis last season.

Morgan, 29, is a former Dodger who has played second base, third and shortstop for the Phils. He appeared in 136 games for Philadelphia last season, batting .232.

In the negotiation between New York and Chicago, the Yankees have made no secret of their desire for another frontline pitcher. Their need became more pronounced because of the disappointing showing thus far of right-hander Bob Turley and southpaw Mickey McDermott, acquired from the Senators last winter.

Harvesters End Season With Two Victories Over Memphis

By RONALD WATERS
Pampa News Staff Writer
The Pampa Harvesters took both games in a double header in Memphis Saturday to end the season with a non-conference game. They chalked up a record of nine wins and three losses in the 1-AA Conference for the year.

The Amarillo Sandies ended the season in first place.

The fighting Harvesters downed Memphis' Cyclones by a count of 21 to 5 in the first game and came back in the second game to win by a score of 8 to 3 in a four-inning game that was called off due to dust.

Scoring 18 hits in the first show, the Harvesters' winning pitcher, Cecil Reynolds, gave up five hits and five runs, striking out 12 men. Mike Conway was the hitting star of the game, with four hits for four times at bat. The entire team got at least one hit. Two errors were committed.

Gary Herr, second base, scored two runs and got one hit in five times up. James Evans, center fielder, was up five times, scored three runs and got three hits. Bill Hogan, left fielder, was up three times, scored four runs and got two hits. Cecil Reynolds, five times up, made one hit and scored one run. Jimmy Parrish, short stop, scored two runs and got three hits. Jerald Clark, first baseman, got one hit and scored one run in three times at bat. Tommy Richardson, right fielder, made one run and got one hit. Don Babcock, right fielder, made one run and got no hits.

Mike Conway, catcher, scored five runs and got our hits. Bill Conway, third base, made one run and got two hits.

The pitcher for the second game was Otis White. He and Gary Herr had two hits for two times at bat.

The Harvesters racked up 10 hits with two errors to down Memphis 8 to 3 at the end of the fourth inning. Reynolds caught in place of Mike Conway and Parrish scored in every inning.

The game made the 15th win out of 22 games for the season, winding up the Harvester's baseball season this year.

Speedster Betters Record

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., May 12—UP—Speedy Bobby Whilden of Texas bettered the world record in the 100-yard dash at the 41st Southwest Conference track and field meet here Saturday and equaled the conference mark in the 220 in leading the Longhorns to their 24th league victory.

Whilden's spectacular performance in the century dash and in 200 sprint were the only record performances of the day.

His time in the 20-0-30.4—equaled the standard chucked up by Charlie Thomas of Texas in 1952.

His 100-yard dash timing, although it's a new SWC record, won't effect either world or national records of 9.3 because the Texas speedster was running with a nine and half mile wind. In order to be certified for national or world classification the wind must not be more than 4.473 miles per hour.

Whilden captured high point honors in the varsity division with 22 points — five points for each of his two victories, and two more for participating on the second place 440-yard relay team.

Texas won six first places and tied for another in the pole vault with Texas A&M. Behind the Longhorns were the Aggies with 53.3-4, Baylor 52.3-4, Rice 30.3-4, Southern Methodist University 24, Texas Christian and host Arkansas with 10.3-4.

As expected the Texas yearlings won the frosh division — which came close to hogging spectator appeal from the varsity competitors.

and three losses in the 1-AA Conference for the year.

Dodgers' Carl Erskine Twirls No-Hitter Against N. Y. Giants

BROOKLYN, May 12—UP—Carl Erskine, the Brooklyn Dodgers' scrappy little right-hander fighting to overcome an arm ailment, slow-balled his way to the second no-hit, no-run game of his career Saturday in beating the New York Giants, 3-0.

The 29-year-old veteran from Anderson, Ind., used a blazing fast ball to no-hit the Chicago Cubs back on June 19, 1952. His speed was gone Saturday, but his guile and courage carried him through. A crowd of 17,395 at old Ebbets Field watched in tense silence as Erskine muffed the Giants' baselining after inning with his tantalizing slow curves. Five balls were hard-hit against him, but two were foul and brilliant fielding by Jackie Robinson, Carl Furillo and Pee Wee Reese prevented the others from becoming hits.

Rookie Bill White of the Giants and veteran Whitey Lockman each walloped a ball over the right field fence but each was foul by a few feet. Robinson speared a four-inning line drive by Willie Mays to prevent one hit; Furillo grabbed a long drive by Darrell

Spencer in the same frame to forestall another, and Reese colored an eighth inning line drive by pinch-hitter Don Mueller.

By coincidence, the major leagues' last previous no-hitter was pitched exactly one year ago on this date, by Sam (Toothpick) Jones of the Chicago Cubs against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Tigers Lose

DETROIT, May 12—UP—The Chicago White Sox unloaded a 17-hit attack Saturday but needed a two-inning hitless relief job by Sandy Consuegra to eke out a 7-6 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Chicago jumped into a three-run lead in the first inning and did all of its scoring in the first five innings at the expense of Detroit starter Billy Hoelt, who went down to his first defeat against two victories.

Braves Dumped

CINCINNATI, May 12—UP—Cincinnati scored seven runs in the first inning Saturday for its biggest scoring spree of the season and went on to beat Milwaukee, 10-4, even though the Braves counter-attacked with some power hitting of their own.

Rookie Takes Win

NEW YORK, May 12—UP—Don Ferrarese, a 26-year-old rookie southpaw signed personally by Casey Stengel 10 years ago, pitched a two-hitter and drove in the only run Saturday to give the Baltimore Orioles a 1-0 victory over the New York Yankees.

Ferrarese, in the second start of his brief major league career, held the Yankees hitless until Andy Carey beat out a high infield bouncer to lead off the ninth inning.

Cubs Take Cards

CHICAGO, May 12—UP—The Chicago Cubs lashed out five homers and six doubles Saturday to whip the St. Louis Cardinals, 14-10. The triumph hoisted the slumping Cubs out of last place and prevented the Cards from moving into first.

Roberts Loses

PITTSBURGH, May 12—UP—The Pittsburgh Pirates splurged on extra-base power Saturday to knock Robin Roberts out of the box and hand the Philadelphia Phillies their ninth straight defeat, 6-5. Nelson King saved the victory for Bob Friend by squelching a rally in the ninth when Philadelphia scored two runs.

Nats Take Red Sox

WASHINGTON, May 12—UP—The Washington Senators broke loose for eight runs in the second inning Saturday night which was more than enough for them to coast to a 12-9 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

A total of 15 runs whizzed over the plate in the first two innings in which Boston at one time had a 5-2 lead and looked to be well on the road to victory. It took an hour and 45 minutes to play the game's first three frames.

Texas Tech Makes Southwest Loop

By BRYCE MILLER

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., May 12—UP—The Southwest Conference Saturday invited Texas Tech to become its eighth member and commuted Texas A&M's two-year probation sentence for violating recruiting laws.

While both schools were pleased by the actions, their elation was dulled somewhat by the technicalities involved.

Texas Tech, a robust 31-year institution which has been flexing its athletic muscles for several years, cannot hope to become a full-fledged member until 1961, although it may participate in some sports as early as the 1956-57 school year.

The commutation of Texas A&M's probation will be worthless unless the National Collegiate Association takes similar action in regard to a probation slap on the school May 1. The conferees of the NCAA take such steps.

The news of Tech's admission was greeted at Lubbock with a pealing of bells, a victory march by many of the 7,100 students in the downtown area for a rally at which President E. N. Jones pledged that Tech was "determined to be an asset to the Southwest Conference."

Actually, Texas Tech—which has been campaigning for membership for 30 years—was invited to form a committee to work out the details under which the Lubbock, Tex., school "may become a member" of the conference.

But, for all intents and purposes, Saturday's action culminated successfully a long, heart-breaking decade of trying to get the necessary five votes for admittance.

Saturday, the vote was unanimous on the part of all seven members—Texas, Texas A&M, Rice, Baylor, Texas Christian, Southern Methodist and Arkansas—after Texas proposed Texas Tech's name.

A similar motion from Baylor proposing the University of Houston died for lack of a second.

The machinery to integrate Texas Tech into the conference will start working Sunday, May 20, in Dallas when committees from Tech and the conference hold an exploratory meeting.

"We'll try to find out what our problems are, rather than try to solve them at Dallas," Conference Secretary Howard Grubbs said.

Grubbs said it would be impossible for Tech to get a round-robin conference football schedule until at least 1961 and there was "no certainty" it could be done by then due to schedule commitments by some schools.

"It is not impossible," Grubbs said, "but I cannot say at this time whether Texas Tech will be participating in the conference (spring sports) next school year."

Ed Oliver Leads In Greenbrier

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., May 12—UP—Ed (Porky) Oliver, without a major tournament victory in three years, fired a crackling six-under-par 64 Saturday to grab a two-stroke lead at the three-quarter mark of the Greenbrier Open golf tourney.

That gave him a 10-under-par score of 200 after 54 holes.

Oliver, veteran pro from Boston, finished in a blaze with birdies on the last three holes, including a 15-foot put for a birdie two on his own "nightmare 18th," to overhaul host pro Sam Snead, who had finished earlier with a 66 for a 202 total.

The halfway co-leaders, Mike Fetchick of Yonkers, N.Y., and Jack Isaacs of Hampton, Va., couldn't stand prosperity. Fetchick shot even par 70 to tie old timer Vic Ghezzi of Inwood, N.Y., for third with 203. Ghezzi came in with a 67.

Isaacs blew a four-over-par 74 and was fifth at 207.

Oliver, who missed at least a tie for top money of $2,300 in this $10,000 tourney last year by fiveing the 18th, fired in five straight threes to start his sterling round, four of them for birdies.

"I knew I was off and running then," he said. "I was beginning to think of a 54 at that rate."

Oliver barely missed two eagles in that sizzling start missing the cup by two and eight inches at the fourth and fifth holes. He played out the rest of the front nine in par figures for a tally of 30, four under par.

Mike Souchak, the ex-Duke footballer from Durham, N.C., shot a 66 to move into a tie at 208 for sixth place with Jim Ferree, Winston-Salem, N.C., who had a 69. Mike Horna of Rye, N.Y., posted a sterling 66 to tie Bill Frombley, Dallas, and Al Beaslink, Grossinger, N.Y., at 209.

El Paso Trims Oilers Here, 11-10

The Pampa Oilers lost a 12 inning affair to the El Paso Texans, 11-10, Saturday night, in a Southwestern League tilt.

The Texans took a 2-1 lead in the first inning. Pampa came back to trail the Oilers 4-2, with El Paso's tally, coming in the third.

The Oilers scored seven runs in the fifth, sixth and seventh innings to go ahead 10-9, holding the Texans to five runs.

Indians Scalp A's

CLEVELAND, May 12—UP—The Cleveland Indians fired all of their ammunition in the fourth inning for five runs Saturday and defeated Kansas City, 5-3, for their fourth straight victory.

Early Wynn went all the way for the Indians, who moved up to within one game of first place and won his fourth decision of the year on a six-hitter. It was Cleveland's 13th complete game by a starter. Young Troy Herriage was the loser.

Tonsberg is Norway's oldest town. A whaling center, it celebrated its first 1,000 years in 1871.

There is no specific age at which an item becomes an antique.

El Paso scored one lone tally in the eighth to tie the score where it stood till the first of the 12th inning when the Texans tallied that important score. Joe Fortin got the only home run for the Oilers while El Paso's Hunter and Warren each connected for one.

Hi-Fi Records Have Many Sound Types

By PRESTON MCGRAW
United Press Staff Correspondent

One of the marginal advantages of high fidelity is that a land-locked person, yearning for the sound of the sea, can go to a record store and buy a recording with marine sound upon it realistic enough to make a delicate stomach pitch and roll.

There is a "Summer Thunderstorm" recording, a "Burlesque Uncensored" recording, a "Rail-Dynamics" recording and an "Out of This World," recording with the sounds of earthquakes on one side and the greatly amplified sounds of outer space on the other.

The master of these "documentaries in sound" is Emory Cook, a 43-year-old engineer who owns Cook Laboratories, Inc., in Stamford, Conn. Most high fidelity enthusiasts, and particularly those who think that high fidelity is a means to the end of reproducing fine music, will find that the point of diminishing return sets in quickly in the documentaries.

Great at First Hearing

For instance, "Voice of the Sea" with sounds of the surf recorded in a dozen places, on one side of the record, and the sounds of the Queen Mary leaving New York for Southampton on the other, is great on first playing.

Notwithstanding the technical perfection of the recording, it becomes somewhat less great on second playing, and so on. The same thing is true of Cook's other documentaries, which he calls, "Sounds of Our Times."

"Sounds of Our Times," however, are far from the end of Cook's catalogue, and he has some records that stand a lot of playing without losing one decibel of attraction. One of these is "Clambake on Bourbon Street," that was recorded in the Parisian room on Royal Street, in New Orleans.

Revived Dixieland There

If a two-beat enthusiast had to pick out one place where the Dixieland revival of the late 1940s started, it probably would be the Parisian room, a dancehall on the second floor of a place on Royal in the first block off Canal.

There such veterans of the every-man-for-himself style as Sharkey Bonnano, Santo Pecora and Buglin' Sam DeKemel used to gather Sunday afternoons and knock out the old tunes for the Dixieland lovers, who sat around drinking beer and bourbon-and-water.

The coustics in the Parisian room, which smells faintly like the inside of a beer keg, were something and Sharkey Bonnano's trumpet could almost deafen a person sitting at a back table. Cook took his tape recorder to the Parisian room and recorded one of these Sunday clambakes.

Next to Being There

Bonnano and Pecora were gone at the time, having gone out with their own outfits. But Sam DeKemel, who plays an old Army bugle, Lizzie Miles, one of the great, classical blues singers alive, and Tony Almerico, who plays a trumpet like Bonnano, were there.

What Almerico and the others played was not quite what Buddy Bolden taught Louis Armstrong, but it was something.

Cook captured on vinyl both the music and the feel of the Parisian room that to listen to it is the next thing to being there.

Peg O' Pampa

OH, THESE PANHANDLE BREEZES! . . . Peg's managed to look like a wild man from Borneo every time she's stepped out of the house this week . . . and those nice full skirts in style now, just weren't designed for this country . . . But then, let's be optimistic . . . Guess a few winds must blow in everyone's life . . . and it makes drying clothes a pleasure . . . a short, sweet job . . . Just love the nice, fresh smell of clothes hung outside, don't you? . . . despite all the modern, electrical drying devices, which definitely have their places, too . . . let's hippy-hop on to something more enlightening.

Kindness gives birth to kindness. (Sophocles)

TWENTIETH CENTURY FORUM had the nicest installation this week . . . had real "atmosphere" . . . all the hostesses were decked out in feathers and headbands . . . and they had the cutest Indian head as the centerpiece . . . eyes and nose etc. on a glass pitcher over which was draped an Indian headdress . . . but the cutest thing of all was the poem Mary Ellis composed to Zenobia Holloway . . . called "Song of Zee No Bi' A" . . . pretty clever, eh? . . . everyone had a lot of fun!

Kindness in women, not their beautiful looks, shall win my love. (Shakespeare)

POTPOURRI . . . not to get off the subjects of Indians . . . Frances Hofess has most gorgeous red squaw dress . . . really compliments her blonde hair . . . pretty soon, though, Frances will be donning her bathing suit for the swimming classes she helps teach . . . sure is a nice way to spend the summer . . . getting all that sunshine and fresh air! . . . Did you see all those heads turning this week as the teenage set appeared around town in Bermuda shorts? . . . those girls are at the age when they can really wear them . . . it was all part of publicizing the Sub Deb Bermuda shorts dance held Saturday . . . pretty Mary Kennedy, who does something to anything she wears, was cute as a button in them . . . Peg thinks it's such a clever idea the adults might do well to copy it . . . it certainly would make a party a lot of fun! . . . spied Peg Hasse looking like a little doll in a crisp cotton dress with a big white collar . . . Peg (this Peg) really goes into raptures over that huge lamp in the City Club Room . . . it's really got the "ohic" . . . don't see how they keep it from disappearing . . . of course, it would dwarf Peg's living room . . . but it sure is "the most" . . . speaking of the City Club Room . . . it should be buzzing Tuesday night for the Council of Clubs presidents' reception . . . the new officers will be installed . . . and the presidents of all the clubs will be honored . . . one of Pampa's nicest events of the year!

Kindness in ourselves is the honey that blunts the sting of unkindness in another. (Landon)

WE MUST NOT FORGET TO MENTION that this is Mother's Day . . . that very special day of the year just for us . . . Peg always gets choked up over the surprises and little remembrances Mr. Peg and the children cook up . . . and I think they enjoy it as much as I do . . . Peg got a letter this week from Mrs. D. M. Covey . . . one of Pampa's poets . . . she enclosed a poem she had written for her mother, who passed away a year ago . . . Mrs. Covey has dedicated the poem to the memory of all mothers . . . and since this is Mother's Day . . . Peg thought she'd print it.

MOTHER

If God hadn't given us mothers,
There would not have been you and me.
He gave us to each other,
And we owe Him our life, you see.

We have had joys and sorrows together,
Given our flowers to the other each day,
And I thank you for each sweet memory, Mother —
Nothing can ever take them away.

God grant that I walk in your footsteps,
With the patience and courage you've shown,
Your life has been an inspiration to others
That will live long after you're gone.

And if He should choose to call you first,
I will always think of you with a smile,
The sweet memories we have had — I could never be sad —
For I know God walks with you that last mile.
— by Mrs. D. M. Covey

HERE AND THERE . . . understand Phyllis Curtis has been busy at her golf, lately . . . played in the Panhandle Women's Golf Association tournament last week . . . the John B. Andrewes have been excited over the visit of their daughter and grandson from St. Paul, Minn. . . . bet they like our nice warm weather here . . . heard the O. M. Prigmore were in Austin last week . . . saw Lile Harrah the other day in a cute little sailor hat . . . and Mrs. Lee Harrah is all excited over the forthcoming arrival of a grandbaby . . . heard she was taking a trip down to Dallas or Fort Worth . . . or somewhere in that area . . . soon in expectation of the big event . . . saw Dorothy Sinise trying to get across the street the other day during the rush hour . . . our "big-city traffic" . . . and believe me, at times it really is . . . can make walking or driving difficult at times!

WITH THIS PARTING THOUGHT . . . Peg will be off and on her way . . . until time for her return next week . . . "We cannot be just unless we are kindhearted" . . . By Vauvargues . . . (you pronounce it!)

Tribal Symbols Given To New Officers During 20th Century Club's Installation

An Indian theme was featured Mrs. Thompson, secretary; and at Twentieth Century Club's installation luncheon and final meeting of the year in the Pampa Country Club. Mrs. Stowers, treasurer, received a string of beads. "The exchange of money in all Indian languages," Mrs. Massa as parliamentarian was presented two feathers and charged it was "her duty to advise the tribe at all times." As critic, Mrs. Neslage received an arrow and was charged that her "judgement be straight and true at all times;" and Mrs. Locke as reporter was given a drum, "the controlling factor in bringing messages." Mrs. High, Federation councillor, was given moccasins and charged "to read the Great Stowers, treasurer; Mrs. J. B. Massa, parliamentarian; Mrs. Lorene Locke, reporter; Mrs. Fred Neslage, critic; Mrs. E. L. Campbell, Council of Clubs representative; and Mrs. C. E. High, Federation councillor." The symbols Mrs. Campbell presented to each officer included an Indian headdress to Mrs. Jamieson "as chief of the tribe," and a peace pipe "to keep harmony and peace in the tribe." Mrs. Foster, "little chief," received a bow to indicate the "continuation of the tribe's progress." A scroll "to keep clear records" was presented to

Orchestra And Instruments Is Theme Of 20th Century Culture Installation

Mrs. E. E. Shelhamer, 2101 Charles, was hostess for the installation luncheon of Twentieth Century Culture Club. Mrs. Shelhamer, a past president, also conducted the installation service.

"In order for the work of any organization to function effectively, there must be harmony among the officers," Mrs. Shelhamer stated. "If the harmony is as delightful as it should be, the work of each officer must be thoroughly synchronized with the work of all other officers. This being true, the group of officers . . . for the coming year may be likened to an orchestra."

As she gave the charge of officer to each woman, Mrs. Shelhamer presented her with a musical symbol of her office.

Installed were Mrs. Michael Wilson, president; Mrs. J. W. Edminister, vice-president; Mrs. E. L. Henderson, secretary; Mrs. Warren Hasse, treasurer; Mrs. Jeff Bearden, Federation councillor; Mrs. N. Dudley Steele, Council of Clubs representative; Mrs. J. R. Strobe, parliamentarian and critic, and Mrs. Ed Eaton, reporter.

To Mrs. Wilson to whom she handed a baton symbol, she stated: "As president of this organization . . . you bear the same relation to it that the director bears to an orchestra. It should not be necessary for the director to play any one of the instruments in the orchestra, but it is very necessary for him to know how each should be played and to be able to take over any instrument and show the musician how difficult passages in a score should be played. . . . Not a single sound is heard which is personally produced by the director, but at each movement of his baton, strains of melody flow forth as each musician, in perfect harmony and in perfect time, follows the director's leadership."

To Mrs. Edminister, vice-president, she gave a piano symbol, stating: "The pianist sets the tempo of the other instruments and carries the complete theme of the number. If for some reason the director finds it necessary to step aside, the piano proceeds to lead the orchestra to a finished performance."

Mrs. Henderson's symbol as secretary was a drum, "the rhythm instrument in the orchestra," which is "busy when the movement of the music is accelerated."

Mrs. Steele as Council of Clubs representative was given a bass horn, "always there, ready to harmonize . . . through the association with others." A sheet of music was the symbol of Mrs. Hasse's office, treasurer, which Mrs. Shelhamer said "may be likened to a musical score or orchestra" without which a club or organization "cannot carry on its harmony and work."

"The flute is not played often in most orchestras, but when its notes come forth, they must be steady, clear and distinct," Mrs. Shelhamer told Mrs. Strobe, critic and parliamentarian. And to Mrs. Eaton, reporter, she gave a trumpet, explaining it is her duty "to trumpet the news of the organization."

Those present were Mmes. Jeff Bearden, J. L. Chase, J. R. Donaldson, E. R. Eaton, J. W. Edminister, H. H. Hahn, L. H. Hart, Warren Hasse, E. L. Henderson, V. L. Hobbs, Rufe Jordan, Jack D. Merchant, Myles Morgan, Doyle Osborne, E. E. Shelhamer, N. Dudley Steele, J. R. Strobe, Michael Wilson and L. J. Zachry.

Twentieth Century Forum Club Uses Indian Theme For Service, Luncheon

The spring installation luncheon of Twentieth Century Forum Club was held in the home of Mrs. C. V. Wilkinson, 815 N. Somerville. Co-hostesses were Mmes. Frank Kelley, Bob Curry and W. L. Ellis.

Decorations followed an Indian theme. The serving table was covered with a cloth accented with an Indian design. The centerpiece was an Indian headdress on a mock Indian head, and an Indian drum. Food was served in pottery dishes and wicker baskets. Each hostess wore an Indian headdress and feather, and place cards were miniature Indian squaws.

For the program, Mrs. W. L. Ellis reported the year's activities in an original poem which she dedicated to the out-going president, Mrs. J. R. Holloway.

Theme for the installation service was "The Song of Zee No Bi' A," the title of the Mrs. Ellis' poem, and the ceremony took place around a mock Indian campfire. Mrs. J. R. Holloway, installing officer, presented each officer with an Indian symbol representing the duties of her office.

Installed were Mrs. M. McDaniel, president; Mrs. J. R. Holloway, vice-president; Mrs. F. J. Vendrell, secretary; Mrs. Frank Kelley, treasurer; Mrs. Aubrey Steele, parliamentarian; and Mrs. William L. Ellis, reporter.

Miss Twila Holland, winner of the club scholarship, and Miss Katherine Kalk, alternate, were presented gifts from the members. Miss Evelyn Milam, high school counselor, was a special guest.

During the short business session, led by Mrs. J. R. Holloway, out-going president, the club's activities for the year were reviewed and a report was given on the programs planned for next year.

Mrs. Sherman White Leads Installation Ceremony For Varietas Club Officers

The installation service for the Varietas Study Club was under the direction of Mrs. Sherman White and took place at a luncheon meeting in the home of Mrs. J. R. Spearman, 1707 Mary Ellen.

The ceremony, written by Mrs. White, was in the form of a key basket presentation to the new officers. Mrs. White, carrying a large May basket filled with spring flowers, outlined the history of the giving of May baskets and told of their significance.

Following her talk, Mrs. White presented each officer with a nosegay as a token of the office she was to assume. A red nosegay was given to Mrs. J. R. Spearman, incoming president, with the flowers representing courage. Each succeeding officer received a flower of a different color representing a quality necessary for her office.

Other officers installed were Mrs. J. A. Hopkins, vice president; Mrs. W. A. Wagoner, secretary; Mrs. Cecil Dalton, treasurer; Mrs. J. C. Vollmert, parliamentarian; Mrs. W. C. Hutchinson, librarian; and Mrs. Otis Nace, reporter and Council of Clubs representative.

Prior to the installation, Mrs. Nace, out-going president, led the business session, during which Mrs. J. R. Spearman, convention delegate, gave a report of the district meeting of federated clubs, held in Plainview in March.

Following the ceremony, Mrs. Nace was presented a gift of an antique vase in appreciation of her work during the year. Mrs. Spearman closed the meeting.

For the luncheon, the serving table and individual tables were decorated with arrangements of spring flowers, following a white, pink and silver theme. A two-course luncheon was served. The social committee members for the event were Mmes. H. P. Doster, Luther Piezon and J. A. Hopkins.

Cheerful colors and light that's not glaring are helpful to a sick person. The colors keep the room pleasant, lack of glare prevents eyestrain. The small lamp on a sewing machine gives good concentration of light around the machine needle and presser foot, but causes undesirable shadows when used alone.

BSP Chapter Has Business Session

Members and pledges of the Rho Eta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held their final business meeting of the club year in the home of Mrs. Jack Lockett, 2222 Russell.

After signing of a petition for a charter by the charter members of the 25th Anniversary chapter, reports were given by several committees.

A style show and luncheon were planned to be held when the chapter resumes its activities in the fall.

The "Chapter Yardstick" was prepared for the international office. This "yardstick" is made to show the chapter's progress for the year. Included in the report were points for pledges, social and community activities, cultural programs and City Council work. If enough points are earned by the chapter they will be rated as a two-star or three-star chapter.

A buffet supper was planned for May 22, to be held in the home of Mrs. Ken Huey. After the supper the pledge ritual will be held for new members, and officers will be installed.

After the business meeting, Mrs. Charlie Neal Young gave a talk on her trip to Mexico, Miss., and showed colored slides of many homes and landmarks in the city. The program was under the direction of Mrs. Betty Chadwick.

Members attending were Mmes. Chadwick, Lockett, Ken Huey, Dwaine Lyon, Jack Tabor, Jim Terrell, Vernon Bell, Earl Luther, Charles Duengel Jr.; Mrs. Thelma Bray, director; Mrs. Jack P. Foster, chapter sponsor; and Miss Betty Tom Riddle.

Pledges attending were Mmes. Iwen Marlin, Bob Armstrong, Jack Seals, Jack Florence, Jack Hood, Ray Jones, Bill Gabelmann, Lloyd Walker, Fred Colston, Kenneth Hobbs, and Floyd Lassiter.

Flameless, fumeless, matchless — for safety, electric water heating has no equal. Whether you're planning a vacation — or an evening out — you can plan to be free of worry while you're away when your water heater is electric. There's no equal to the modern electric water heater's speed, either. You can stay in hot water all day — even if you wash a load of clothes every hour. Want worry-free water heating that's fast, too? Then you want electric water heating.

INSTALL YOUR ELECTRIC WATER HEATER ANYWHERE

The electric water heater — table-top or round — fits where you want it because it needs no flues, no vents, no special "out-of-the-way" position. Just set it and forget it.

Rev. Asks, We Answer

We are happy to print a letter in the Clearing House from Reverend Carroll B. Ray attempting to challenge our editorial position that Prohibition is "immoral, unethical and un-Christian."

Like most individuals who advocate collective aggression through government, he refuses to answer direct questions and instead endeavors to put us on defensive by asking a series of discursive questions.

Reverend Ray says we posed the question: "Do I have a moral right to go into the home of my peaceful neighbor, stick a gun to his head and tell him that he cannot drink a bottle of beer or a cocktail?"

This is not a question we asked but rather an inarticulate rephrasing. We assume, of the question: "Would you, as an individual, have a moral right to use violence, or the threat of same, against your neighbor to keep him from indulging in liquor as long as he was not initiating force against you?"

It never occurred to us that any of our potential answers were quite so illogical as to put a gun to a man's head just to "tell him" he could not do a certain thing. Rather, we were concerned with the using of violence, or threat of violence, to "keep him" from doing a certain act. To "tell" and to "keep" (restrain) certainly connote different meanings.

The Reverend points out that the position we take "that Prohibition is immoral, unethical and un-Christian," is a new approach and one that I have not heretofore encountered.

We assumed this was the case and that if the Reverend and his associates could not harmonize their stand with the teachings of Jesus, they would recognize the inconsistency of their position. Such, seemingly, is not the case for the Reverend makes no attempt to directly answer the questions we put forward in previous editorials. Though his questions show he is still evading the issue, we are pleased to answer them.

REV. RAY: "Do you have a moral right to go into the home of my peaceful neighbor, stick a gun to his head and tell him that he cannot allow his dog to play in his front yard and on the sidewalk without a leash?"

ANSWER: The government or an individual has no business telling a person what he can do with his property as long as he is using it peacefully and a dog playing in a front yard, without a leash, is the business of the real property and dog owner. The owners of the streets and sidewalks (jointly every property owner in town) can justly, by majority vote, decide whether or not dogs should be permitted on the sidewalks or in the streets, with or without a leash.

Ownership, in the last analysis, is control and since the individual should possess the full ownership of his property, he has the moral right to maintain a dog in any manner he sees fit as long as the dog doesn't violate a neighbor's peace and property. Should the neighbor's peace be violated, the neighbor has moral right to call on the agency for maintaining peace (police, courts, etc.) to intervene on the basis of his individual rights.

The fact that the dog MIGHT run off and bite some person is a specious justification for enforcing leash laws on private property in that there is no way to eliminate all the possibilities of aggression and in the case of the biting dog, the owner should be held fully responsible with an announced punishment severe enough to make the dog owner concerned about the liability of such an act.

REV. RAY: "If you do not have that right as an individual, why did you not run to your typewriter and run off a scorching editorial against our city dads when they passed such an ordinance the other day?"

ANSWER: As for editorial comment, when this ordinance was passed, we, like the Reverend, were more concerned with the press of other things, viz., the attempt of Prohibitionists to put a "leash" around their neighbor's neck to keep him from peacefully directing his life.

REV. RAY: "Do you have a moral right as an individual to go into your neighbor's peaceful home, stick a gun to his head and tell him he cannot raise chickens, or hogs, or cows or horses in his back yard which adjoins yours?"

ANSWER: No, as long as the neighbor does not aggress the ownership and use of your property by creating a nuisance, one certainly doesn't have a right to prohibit the possession of such animals either as an individual or as a part of a group. Only when and if a nuisance is Editor: The campaign has been a hot one and the issue is now being settled at the polls. So at this stage, so I will not be boastful because of victory, nor bitter because of defeat, I want to write you once more. I can take time now to give attention to a question you have asked several times in your editorials.

The question is: "Do I have a moral right to go into the home of my peaceful neighbor, stick a gun to his head and tell him that he cannot drink a bottle of beer or a cocktail?" And you have said that prohibition is immoral, unethical and un-Christian. That, at least, is a new approach and one that I have not heretofore encountered. And I was so sure in my own mind, and I gathered from a few remarks I heard, that it would have no effect in influencing any voter that I just did not take time from the multitude of other things I was doing to answer it. But—for what it is worth—here is my answer:

Do you have a moral right to go into the home of your peaceful and law-abiding neighbor, stick a gun to his head and tell him that he cannot allow his dog to play in his front yard and on the sidewalk without a leash? If you do not have that right as an individual, why did you not run to your typewriter and run off a scorching editorial against our city dads when they passed such an ordinance the other day? (Parenthetically let it be said that I am in favor of the ordinance; but for every child who is hurt by an un-leashed dog this year 100 will be hurt by legal liquor.)

Do you have a moral right as an individual to go into your neighbor's peaceful home, stick a gun to his head and tell him he cannot raise chickens, or hogs, or cows or horses in his back yard which adjoins yours? If you do not have such a right as an individual, how can you quietly acquiesce to the action of city officials in passing such an ordinance?

ANSWER: Government aggresses the individual in many, many ways and the extent to which we protest is limited by energy capacity. Thus we attack the more flagrant forms of aggression in an effort to illustrate their error so the individual can in turn apply a yardstick to all human action.

REV. RAY: "Do you have the moral right as an individual to go into your peaceful neighbor's home, stick a gun to his head and tell him he cannot drive his automobile, which he purchased with his own money, down the highway on the left side of the road at 85 miles an hour?"

ANSWER: The highways consist of rights-of-way granted by adjoining property owners and ownership is held in common by the users through the payment of automobile license fees, gasoline taxes, etc. Technically, the highways should be paid for on a use basis with the majority of users deciding the rules and regulations concerning their use. This, broadly, is the present case.

Should the rules applying to the use of the highways stipulate a speed limit of less than 95 miles per hour and direct normal driving to the right side of the road, the agent of the majority would have a right to use whatever force is necessary to stop and punish a violator. An individual would only have a legal and moral right to intervene if there was delegated by the majority, the right of citizens' arrest to individuals who encroach upon highway law violations.

By the same token, if an individual constructs a highway on his own property and decides to drive at any speed and on whichever side of the road suits his fancy, no individual or collective force would have a moral right to interfere.

REV. RAY: "Do you have the moral right to go into your peaceful neighbor's home, stick a gun to his head, and tell him he cannot build and operate a beer joint, honky-tonk or liquor store next door to your nice home?"

ANSWER: No, the individual has no right to dictate his neighbor's land use, individually or as part of the collective organization of government. There are instances where government has endeavored to keep, for example, churches from being built through zoning regulations and it is as improper to say that a church cannot be built on a given piece of property as it is to say a liquor store or newspaper plant cannot be built. Ownership, as stated before, is control and when land use becomes the whim of a government bureau, a principle is established which makes it not too difficult to dictate the individual's total use of energy.

Houston, as an example, has no zoning ordinances and, hard as it is for the government planners to admit, every "nice home" does not have a "beer joint" next door. Yes, amazing as it might seem, every block does not have the planners' proverbial "glue factory." Here is an example as evidence that it is not necessary for the government to dictate land use in order for a city to be generally appealing and to grow rapidly.

REV. RAY: "If you do not have this right as an individual do you have the right to vote to let him build next to the home of someone else—who might not have as much influence as you? Incidentally—how many of the members of the 'Legal Control Council' would allow a beer joint or liquor store to be built next door to their nice homes? If they don't want them there, why should they plague their less prominent neighbors with them?"

ANSWER: The individual has no moral right to vote to force the operator of a "beer joint" to establish himself next to the home of someone else, "influence" or no "influence."

Do you have the moral right as an individual to go into your peaceful neighbor's home, stick a gun to his head and tell him he cannot drive his automobile, which he purchased with his own money, down the highway on the left side of the road at 85 miles an hour? Do you have the moral right to go into your peaceful neighbor's home, stick a gun to his head, and tell him he can't build and operate a beer joint, honky-tonk or liquor store next door to your nice home? If you do not have this right as an individual do you have the right to vote to let him build it next to the home of someone else who might not have as much influence as you? Incidentally how many of the members of the "Legal Control Council" would allow a beer joint or liquor store to be built next door to their nice homes? If they don't want them there, why should they plague their less prominent neighbors with them?

Of course the answer to all these questions is obvious: Organized society has the moral right—and obligation—to pass such laws, in orderly fashion, as may be needed to protect itself against any plague, threat or nuisance. And you will doubtless agree with me in regard to the matters I have suggested—but not in regard to the matter of intoxicating beverages. Let's be consistent!

From the standpoint of the Local Option election, this letter can have no effect of course. But if you should choose to print it in your paper—where it can not easily be overlooked—at least some of your readers might know that I did take time to answer your question, irrelevant though it was, after the press of other things was lifted.

I think you will concede that the "drys" have been at a considerable disadvantage in this campaign. We did not have the funds for waging a campaign which the opposition had; and the hundreds of column inches of editorial space which you freely gave them was turned against us. But the contest has been a helpful one in every way, I feel. Gray county will have a demonstration that there are many of its finest citizens who believe that something ought to be done about the liquor problem in our society.

Respectfully yours, Carroll B. Ray

This campaign. We did not have the funds for waging a campaign which the opposition had; and the hundreds of column inches of editorial space which you freely gave them was turned against us.

ANSWER: The allusion that the NEWS "gave" the "opposition" hundreds of column inches of editorial space might be misinterpreted so we would like to state that in general news coverage, the "drys" had considerably more space on their activities than their opposition (because they MADE more news) and also, that the space used for editorial opinion was not in support of alcoholic beverages, per se, but rather in support of the individual's right to choose his own destiny, free from the aggression of government.

In conclusion, we would again like to pose some questions. In addition to those presented above for Reverend Ray's acknowledgment, Do you think, Reverend Ray, that the teachings of Jesus are such that they would justify you as an individual, entering your peaceful neighbor's home and implementing whatever violence would be necessary to wrest from him the ownership of a bottle of liquor? If you think the teachings of Jesus would justify such action, where do you find these teachings? If you do not think the teachings of Jesus would be in harmony with such action, how can you find justification for the fact that you would join the majority to delegate to the government the right you deny yourself?

The answer to all our foregoing questions, we beg, should not in turn be circuitous questions such as "Reverend, would you like to see the Reverend today? We know the Reverend to be a sincere man and we think that this discussion can be useful to him, our readers and the publishers of the NEWS."

Before The Dishes Down South

By BETTY KNOWLES HUNT HOMEWORK AND ME

A "Mother's Homework" is never done! Housework, for the average wife and mother with no outside help, is a steady, daily routine which never ends because it is a ring-around-the-rosy track with no finish line anywhere. No single chore is particularly oppressive. It's just the time-consuming total, and the monotonous repetition that can get you down.

Many modern women, especially college-educated ones, have been rebelling against this routine treadmill, claiming that the dishes-dust-detergent-circuit is not only deadly dull, but a total waste of brains and imagination. A few bold opponents have counter-attacked with the age-old argument that "woman's place is in the home", and she should not only be content with her natural lot, but should glory in it.

Both arguments are true as far as they go, but both adopt too narrow a viewpoint to cover so complex a subject, and who should deny that today's woman is complex! In a comparatively brief span of time, she has emerged from a semi-slavery in a man's world, to a co-equal partner of man. She has won the legal right to do almost anything a man can do, without altering in any way her natural and inevitable assignment as wife and mother.

Some women have leaped into this complex whirlpool with more gusto than thought, and tried to do and be everything at the same time, with disastrous results both to themselves and to those around them. Others have tried to solve it by deliberately selecting one world or the other exclusively, such as choosing a career and rejecting marriage and motherhood, or choosing marriage and motherhood and slamming the door tight against any intellectual, cultural or civic life.

It is probably safe to say that none of these solutions is a happy or desirable one for a majority of American women today, and there lies their dilemma. They desire and deserve a share in both worlds, the old and the new. Their minds have been stimulated by intellectual excursions into literature, art, philosophy, science and politics. Most of them plunge eagerly into a competitive male world as soon as they get their degrees, and are both happy and successful in this realm. But sooner or later, biology catches up with them, and they plunge just as eagerly into their age-old role of marriage and motherhood. Once they've realized this female goal, most of them wouldn't forfeit it for any male career on earth. They are as proud of their families and homes as their mothers, or grandmothers, or great-grandmothers ever were.

But as the months lengthen into years, and the domestic routine continues to devour day after day, many of them become bored and rebellious, and perhaps most of them become vaguely dissatisfied. The outside world begins to look more and more exciting in retrospect, and their own never-ending domestic treadmill increasingly dull and unimaginative. They resent being so tied down, and they both envy men and feel guilty for envying them! Some try to escape via bridge and cocktail parties, making a pathetic effort to be "exceedingly gay, chic and witty" in adult company. Others seek a sense of social importance and worthiness through frenzied activity in PTA's or League of Women's Clubs, or Church groups. All of these may help a little, or seem to—for a while.

But sooner or later, young Mrs. America is faced with the unavoidable necessity of sitting down quietly with herself alone, and figuring out a basic purpose and a basic goal for her life as a whole. Chances are, she will then accept the fact that the young children—years are domestically weighted and inevitably so, but that they don't last very long. Having recognized both their inevitability and their brevity, she will cease to fight them, and concentrate on using her imagination to add variety and spice to them. She will invite the world's innumerable pleasures into her tired, dull life. An FM radio is a wonderful background for dishes and dusting. Many a poem has been conceived at the ironing board, and many an idea about a mending pile. She will find a relaxing mutual hobby for herself and her husband to explore together evenings, like photography, or reading good books aloud to each other, or dabbling in oils or water-colors. She will dream up a surprise or two a week, maybe one for the kids, and one for herself and Dad. She'll fight monotony like the plague, and reduce it to its inevitable minimum, and no matter how tied down she is physically, she'll roam the world like a carefree vagabond in her mind and imagination, thinking of the freer days ahead, planning for them, deciding what she wants to do with them.

And when they come—she'll be ready. That's what a college education is for!

Friendship Quotations

I want to continue to quote from an old book containing gems on friendship. Before I do, however, I want to quote from Henry D. Thoreau's book, "Friendship," to show the difference between friendship and acquaintance or associate. Thoreau wrote in his book, "To say that a man is your friend, means commonly no more than this, that he is not your enemy. Most contemplate only what would be the accidental and trifling advantages of Friendship, as that the friend can assist in time of need, by his substance, or his influence, or his counsel; but he who foresees such advantages in this relation proves himself blind to its real advantage, or indeed wholly inexperienced in the relation itself. Such services are particular and menial, compared with the perpetual and all-embracing service which it is. Even the utmost good-will and harmony and practical kindness are not sufficient for Friendship, for Friends do not live in harmony—merely, as some say, but in melody. We do not wish for Friends to feed and clothe our bodies, — neighbors are kind enough for that, — but to do the like office to our spirits. For this few are rich enough, however well dressed they may be.

"Think of the importance of Friendship in the education of men. It will make a man honest; it will make him a hero; it will make him a saint. It is the spirit of the just dealing with the just, the magnanimous with the magnanimous, the sincere with the sincere, man with man."

"Why love among the virtues is not known. Is that love is them all contract in one."

"All the abuses which are the object of reform with the philanthropist, the statesman, and the housekeeper, are unconsciously amended in the intercourse of Friends. A Friend is one who incessantly pays us the compliment of expecting from us all the virtues, and who can appreciate them in us. It takes two to speak the truth, — one to speak, and another to hear." — "The State does not demand justice of its members, but thinks that it succeeds very well with the least degree of it, hardly more than rogues practice; and so do the family and the neighborhood. What is commonly called Friendship even is only a little more honor among rogues."

"Now back to the old collection of quotations on friendship: "What is the secret of your life?" asked Mrs. Browning of Charles Kingsley; "tell me, that I may make mine beautiful too." He replied, "I had a friend."

"The only road without thorns is friendship." — Mlle. de Scudery. "Time draweth wrinkles in a fair face, but addeth fresh colors to a fast friend, which neither heat, nor cold, nor misery, nor place, nor destiny, can alter or diminish. O friendship, of all things the most rare, and therefore most rare because most excellent; whose comfort in misery is always sweet, and whose counsel in prosperity are ever fortunate!" — John Lyly.

"Life hath no blessing like an earnest friend; that (changed wealth) — Mlle. de Scudery. "The power of monarchs, and the people's loud applause." — Euripides. "A friend is dearer than the light of heaven, for it would be better for us that the sun were extinguished than that we should be without friends." — St. Chrysostom.

"We inherit our relatives and our features, and may not escape them; but we can select our clothing and our friends, and let us be careful that both fit us." — Volney Streamer. "Perhaps the most delightful friendships are those in which there is much agreement, much dispute, and yet more personal liking." — George Eliot.

"Let the soul be assured that somewhere in the universe it should rejoin its friend, and it would be content and cheerful alone for a thousand years." — Emerson.

"No distance of place or lapse of time can lessen the friendship of those who are thoroughly persuaded of each other's worth." — Southey.

"It is a good and safe rule to sojourn in every place as if you meant to spend your life there, never omitting an opportunity of doing a kindness or speaking a true word or making a friend." — John Ruskin.

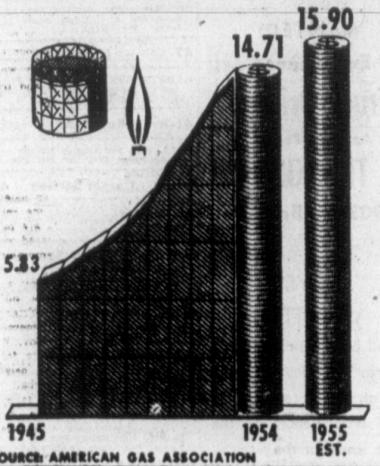

"No man or woman of the humblest sort can really be strong, gentle, pure and good without the world being better for it, without somebody being helped and comforted by the very existence of that goodness." — Phillips Brooks. "A true friend embraces our objects as his own. We feel another mind bent on the same end, enjoying it, reflecting it, and delighting in our devotion to it."

"Friendship heightens all our affections. We receive all the ardor of our friend in addition to our own. The communication of minds gives to each the fervor of each." — William Ellery Channing. "A friend is he who sets his heart upon us, is happy in us, and delights in us; does for us what we want, is willing and fully engaged to do all he can for us, on whom we can rely in all cases." — William Ellery Channing. "A beloved friend does not fill one part of the soul, but, penetrating the whole, becomes connected with all feeling." — William Ellery Channing.

GROWTH OF GAS UTILITY INDUSTRY (TOTAL ASSETS IN BILLIONS OF DOLLARS)

The gas utility industry, one of the largest industries in the United States, is continuing its rapid growth. Its assets have almost tripled in the past decade. Its plant is expanding by more than a billion dollars annually. Last year, more than 4 million new customers were added, making a grand total of more than 29 million utility customers using gas.

U. S. To Open Oil And Gas Exploration In Gulf Tuesday

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE
WASHINGTON, May 12 — UP—The government will open up to oil and gas exploration Tuesday another big slice of its under-ocean domain in the Gulf of Mexico.

On that day, at New Orleans, the Interior Department's Bureau of Land Management will announce the high bidders on 311,728 submerged acres in 161 tracts in the outer-continental shelf off Louisiana and Texas.

The acres are part of a vast sub-sea formation estimated to conceal 12 billion barrels of oil and untold quantities of gas and sulphur.

Three companies — Shell, Gulf and Phillips Petroleum, successful bidders at previous offerings, already have tapped rich oil reservoirs and are profiting handsomely.

May Aid Taxpayers
The government also is showing a profit which may some day benefit the taxpayers. To date it has collected more than $260 million in bonus bids and rentals. This will be increased appreciably by the pending leases and still others to be awarded in the future.

In addition, it collects a 16 2/3 per cent royalty on all oil produced. This has been estimated, on a long-range basis, in the "billions of dollars."

The highest bidders usually receive the awards. But the government requires a 30-day lapse, after the bids are opened, to review the qualifications of the bidders.

The lands up for lease Tuesday are among 794,500 acres chosen by petroleum interests last Feb. 10 as most likely to contain oil and gas. All but nine of the tracts are off Louisiana. The latter is currently embroiled with the government in a submerged lands boundary dispute which the Supreme Court must settle.

The nine tracts off Texas total 23,940 acres.

Water Depth Varied
Tract sizes range from 1.40 to 2,000 acres. Depth of water over the land ranges from 20 to 140 feet but this is no deterrent to some of the bidders. Gulf drilled its first successful well — 6,190 feet down — in water 55 feet deep. It flowed 595 barrels of 29-degree gravity oil per day.

Phillips drilled in 50-foot deep water to a depth of 12,945 feet to bring in a 876-barrel-a-day high gravity well. Shell has made four strikes, the last at a depth of 12,358 feet.

About 20 companies already hold leases but few have started drilling. Those failing to drill within five years from the time their bids were accepted forfeit their leases and the 3-per-cent rental they must pay during the life-time of the lease.

Costs have slowed drilling considerably. An under-ocean well costs eight to 10 times more than a dry-land hole which costs $50 thousand and up — mostly up.

The government's submerged lands total 32,500 acres. It hopes ultimately to lease the entire area.

Texas Railroad Commission Reports Two Deep Intents

Sixteen intentions to drill were filed with the Texas Railroad Commission this week and two deep intentions were reported. One is a wildcat and the other has a potential depth of 9700 feet.

A total of 29 off well completions were made and nine gas wells were reported completed. Eight wells were plugged. Gray County filed two intentions to drill out of the 16 filed, Ochiltree County reported two intentions to drill out of the 16 filed, Ochiltree County reported two intentions, and Hutchinson County filed five intents.

Employees at Cactus Plant have previously completed several safety records of one and two million man-hours, and since Phillips took over operation of the plant in 1948 have worked 1,100,000 man-hours with an unusually low accident frequency rate of only 1.1 disabling injuries per million hours worked with the overall industrial ad. This record compares favorably with the frequency rate of 7.1 and the chemical industry frequency rate of 4.2, as reported by the National Safety Council.

WACO — UP — Ronnie Honeycutt led Baylor to a 4-2 victory over Texas Christian Tuesday in the final Southwest Conference match of the season.

Honeycutt edged Mills Eldredge, one-up in the No. 1 singles play for a 5-1 record in singles play for the season.

Firm Completes Safety Record

Employees of Phillips Chemical Company's Cactus Plant near Dumas, have completed 8,000,000 man-hours of work without a disabling injury. The record safety achievement started October 29, 1953, and was completed Saturday, May 5, 1956.

It is the first such accomplishment at Cactus Plant and the second in the history of Phillips Chemical Company, a wholly owned subsidiary of Phillips Petroleum Company.

Buckwheat grows in a wider variety of soil types than any other grain crop.

Weekly Grain

FORT WORTH—UP—USDA—

Weekly grain: Cash grain prices followed a mixed trend at Southeast markets this week, the Agricultural Marketing Service reported Saturday.

Wheat advanced 3c per bu. and oats 1-4 to 1-1-4c. Barley held steady at $1.40 to $1.42. Milo lost 2c per 100 lbs. Also, yellow corn declined 1-4 to 3-3-4c a bu. and white corn 1-3-4 to 3-1-4c.

Trading was generally light. The price changes are based on wholesale carlots, Texas common freight rate points, from Ft. Worth.

Wheat prices advanced after the crop report came out with an estimate 5 per cent less than the April crop report and 3 per cent below the 1955 crop of 705 million bushels.

No. 2 white oats from the North closed at 88 1-2 to 90c a bu. the upward trend reflecting short supplies as the old marketing season draws to a close.

Corn went down in sympathy with declines at northern markets. No. 2 yellow was quoted at $1.83 1-2 to $1.85 and No. 2 white at $1.95 to $1.98.

Milo brought $2.43 to $2.48 per 100 lbs. In Oklahoma, milo went up 3 to offerings. No. 2 grade brought $1.75 at Frederick, $1.85 at Lawton, $1.90 at Hobart, $2.05 at Enid, $2.10 at Oklahoma City and $2.23 at Ada.

Cash wheat was up 4c in Oklahoma, ranging from $1.97 at Clayton and Hoker to $2.05 at Bion and Hennessey. Price was $2.03 at Clinton, El Reno, Enid, Kingfisher, Oklahoma City and Yukon.

GRAY COUNTY Soil Conservation District News

By JACK DOUGLAS Work Unit Conservationist Fishing in Gray County Soil Conservation District is not too plentiful but a fishpond is a delightful part of a farm or ranch.

Where a good site exists for a pond, it makes good use of the land and gives added water for livestock. The impounded water often has other uses, too. It adds beauty to the farm and provides recreation for the farmers, ranchers, and their friends.

Fishponds are profitable when they are managed well. To produce the most income and home use, they must afford good fishing year after year. Most disappointments result from mistakes in management.

Assuming you have a pond that has a year-round supply of water from 8 to 10 feet deep, and is protected from siltation and excessive run-off from the land above it, what are some of the things you can do to insure you and your neighbors a good place to fish?

First, a fish pond must be stocked correctly with the right kinds of fish, if it is to provide good fishing quickly and continuously. A combination of large-mouth bass and bluegills is dependable for ponds larger than one-fourth acre.

Bluegills spawn frequently all summer. The bass feed largely on little fish, including their own young. Thus they help prevent overpopulation in the pond. Large-mouth bass do not grow satisfactorily unless they have small fish such as bluegills to feed upon.

Many pond owners want catfish, crappie, and other kinds of fish in their farm fish ponds. Many experiments have been conducted with various combinations of species, and these experiments showed that the bass-bluegill combination produces the best fishing and the most pounds of fish per acre with the least trouble.

A good stocking rate for bass and bluegill ponds is 1,000 to 1,500 bluegills and 100 to 150 large-mouth bass per surface acre for well fertilized ponds, or 800 bluegills and 50 bass for ponds of average fertility. With these stocking rates, you should produce about 4 pounds of bluegills to each pound of bass. Bluegills should weigh from 3 to 6 ounces each and bass from 12 ounces to 1 pound when you begin fishing 12 to 18 months after stocking.

The usual practice is to stock bluegills anytime from August to January, preferably as early as possible. Stock bass the next March, April, May or June.

Be sure to destroy all native or wild fish before your hatchery fish arrive. If this is not done, chances are, your pond will be highly overpopulated. High fertility of pond water increases fish production.

The Board of Supervisors of the District have a contact where they can secure bass and bluegill, if you are interested see your Supervisor or Soil Conservation Service, 3rd floor of the courthouse, as they will soon prepare an order for fish.

Last Conference Track Meet Friday

ABILENE, Tex.—UP—Howard Payne is favored to take top honors Friday in what may be the last Texas Conference track and field meet.

The other two members of the little three-member circuit are McMurry and Eastern New Mexico. However, officially the conference was still in existence after a business meeting Thursday night that led to an announcement that athletic competition in the conference is "suspended indefinitely, effective May 12."

Payne and McMurry decided to retain the loop's name, record and constitution.

Water, Soil Conservation Needs Study

COLLEGE STATION, Work will begin immediately on a national inventory of soil and water conservation needs. The inventory, according to Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson, is intended to equip the Department for more efficient planning and carrying out of its work involving soil and water.

Each county in the United States will be inventoried. Plans call for completing the initial work in three years, with periodic revisions thereafter to keep the information and figures up to date.

Benson said, "With the inventory the various conservation measures of the magnitude and urgency of we can make reasonable estimates needed to maintain and improve the country's productive capacity for all the people."

The secretary has directed the Soil Conservation Service to carry out the study with the help of the Agricultural Conservation Program Service, Agricultural Research Service, Commodity Stabilization Service, Federal Extension Service, Farmers Home Administration and Forest Service.

Representatives of these agencies will make up a national Soil Committee which will develop and Water Conservation Needs studies and guide the program. States and territories will be named Comparable committees in the to carry out the work at that level.

In addition, cooperation of state and local agencies, organizations and groups concerned with soil, water, forest, range, and wildlife conservation will be actively solicited. These include the land-grant colleges, soil conservation districts, state forestry and conservation departments, water agencies and similar groups.
